Marwadi (Marwari), Step by Step, Sign by Sign

A gentle writing-first curriculum, one usable greeting at a time

How to use this starter edition

Begin with no assumed Marwadi and no assumed Devanagari. Each section lasts at most five minutes. The first section gives the hand one sign to copy; later sections move through guided copy, delayed copy, and independent recall. The writing ramp never waits for an alphabet chapter and never asks for a sign that has not already been isolated.

The name in the title is deliberately double. Official and linguistic sources often use Marwari; many speakers and learners use Marwadi. This book uses Marwadi as its short name and keeps Marwari visible for discoverability.

Chapter 1 makes one narrow promise: you will be able to read, say, and write the respectful greeting राम-राम सा, and answer it. Chapter 2 adds one formal gratitude response, आभार, through two new signs. Chapter 3 isolates two more signs before adding respectful affirmative हां सा. Chapter 4 first teaches pāṇī, "water," by ear, then isolates each new sign before the learner reads and writes पाणी. Chapter 5 builds the name answer म्हारो नाम राम है; Chapter 6 adds the question थारो नाम कांई है?. Chapter 7 asks आप कैसो हो? entirely with known signs. Chapter 8 answers हूं ठीक हूं, adding only two new signs after meaning and sound are secure. These are real pre-A1 steps, not a claim that the level is complete.

Chapter 1

Ram-Ram Sa: A Greeting the Hand Can Make

Modes: 🚗 voice (2) ↙ pen (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: none of the 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, read, say, copy, and write the respectful Marwadi greeting राम-राम सा, and answer it with the same greeting.
> A two-line authentic greeting exchange followed by independent written recall, using only signs and language taught in the chapter.

1.1 र — one sign, and the beginning of a greeting

> You do not need an alphabet first. Today your eye and hand need one sign.

Script — notice the sign

> र — ra

Devanagari consonants carry a short a by default, so this is ra, not a bare r. The r is a quick tongue-tip tap.

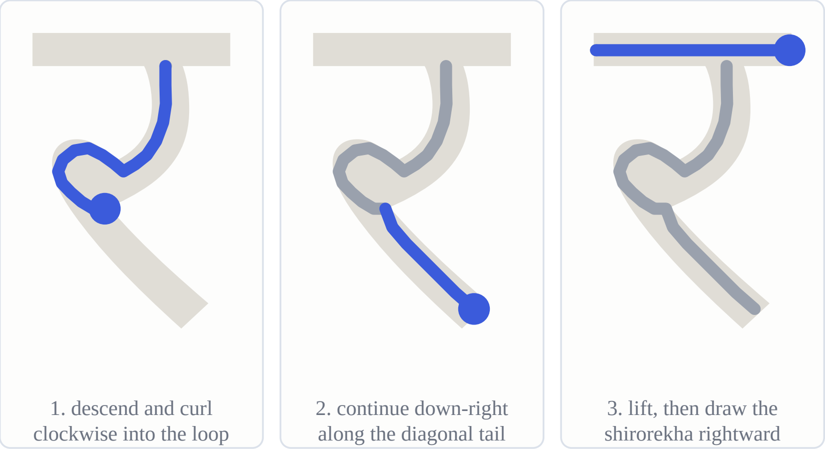
Writing — guided copy

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 3 movements



1. descend and curl clockwise into the loop

2. continue down-right along the diagonal tail

3. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after Opiaterein, ‘Deva-र-order.gif’, strokes 1–3, Wikimedia Commons, 10 May 2009
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How र is written, stroke by stroke

Put a finger over र and follow the printed shape. Then copy it three times, large and slow. Say ra each time your pen stops.

The strip shows one attested stroke order for र, with its source beneath it. It is not one universal order: school traditions differ.

Before you move on

Cover the model. Point to the one you copied most clearly and say its sound.

1.2 ा — make ra into rā

Read र. (ra.) Copy it once.

Script — add one mark

The mark ा sits on the right of a consonant and lengthens its vowel:

र ra + ा ā = रा rā

Hold ā steady; do not turn it into English ray.

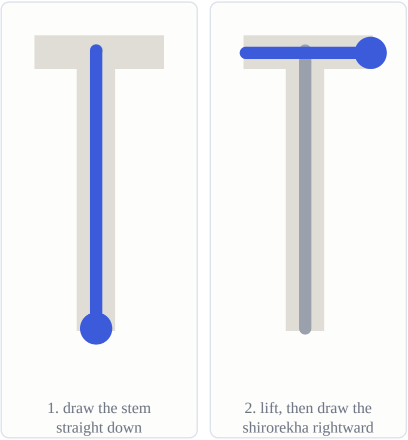
Writing — guided copy

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 2 movements



1. draw the stem straight down

2. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after HP Labs India, Lipi Toolkit, Lipi Indic Character Recognizers 4.0, Devanagari recognizer, class 47 (ा, aa sign): stored online-handwriting prototypes from native writers (MIT licence, 2012)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ा is written, stroke by stroke

- copy र
- add ा on its right
- read the result: रा rā

Do that three times. On the last copy, wait five seconds after looking at the model before you write.

Before you move on

Which is ra: र or रा? Which is rā?

1.3 राम — your first whole written word

Write रा after looking away from the model. Check it, then begin.

Script — add म

म — ma

Join it to the piece you know:

रा rā + म ma = राम rām

At the end of this word, the built-in vowel of म is not pronounced in ordinary speech. Read the whole word rām. राम is the name Ram. The Marwadi greeting you are building will repeat this name. Today you only need the one word राम; the complete greeting still comes later.

Writing — from copy to memory

1. copy म twice
2. copy राम once while looking
3. hide the model for ten seconds
4. write राम from memory, then compare

If the memory copy stalls, return only to the missing sign.

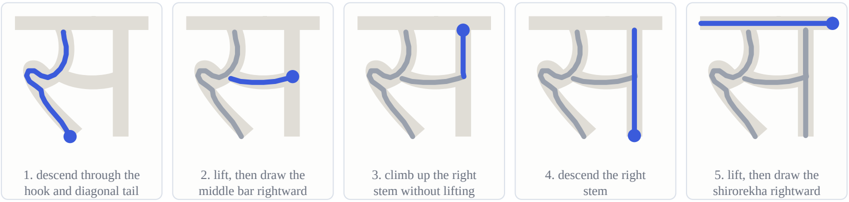
Before you move on

Read राम without using the romanization, say that it is the name Ram, then write it once more.

1.4 स — a second consonant

Read राम, say what it means, then write it from memory. Check that your last sign is म.

Script — notice and copy



1. descend through the hook and diagonal tail
2. lift, then draw the middle bar rightward
3. climb up the right stem without lifting
4. descend the right stem
5. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

How it is written — 3 strokes · 2 pen lifts · 5 movements

Stroke order after JackPotte, ‘Devanagari s स.gif’, strokes 1–4, Wikimedia Commons, 29 March 2009
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How स is written, stroke by stroke

स — sa

Like र, this consonant carries a short a. Do not confuse the two:

र ra · स sa

Finger-trace स, then copy it three times. Say sa as each copy finishes.

Before you move on

Cover the large model and write स once from the copy you remember.

1.5 सा — reuse a mark instead of learning a new rule

What did ा do to र? Apply the same change to स.

Script — assemble

स sa + ा ā = सा sā

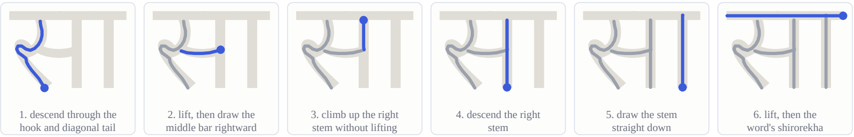
The writing rule is old; only the combination is new. In the greeting you are building, सा is a respectful form of address.

Writing — delayed copy

How it is written — 4 strokes · 3 pen lifts · 6 movements



1. descend through the hook and diagonal tail
2. lift, then draw the middle bar rightward
3. climb up the right stem without lifting
4. descend the right stem
5. draw the stem straight down
6. lift, then the word's shirorekha

Stroke order after letter 1: JackPotte, 'Devanagari s स.gif', strokes 1–4, Wikimedia Commons, 29 March 2009; sign 2: HP Labs India, Lipi Toolkit, Lipi Indic Character Recognizers 4.0, Devanagari recognizer, class 47 (ा, aa sign): stored online-handwriting prototypes from native writers (MIT licence, 2012); the place of sign 2, after its consonant's body: Saurmandal, 'Devanagari स stroke order.svg', frames 1–5, Wikimedia Commons, 5 August 2023; the shared headline, drawn last: HP Labs India, Lipi Toolkit, Lipi Indic Character Recognizers 4.0, Devanagari recognizer: native writers' stored prototypes of the 33 consonants draw the headline as the last stroke in 82% of 2,706 and as the first in about 5% (MIT licence, 2012)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How सा is written, letter by letter, then one headline, stroke by stroke

Copy सा once. Look away for ten seconds, say sā, and write it again. Then retrieve the two known pieces separately rather than using them as a phrase before the next lesson teaches the greeting:

राम

सा

Before you move on

Read राम, then सा. Circle the copy of ा in each separate word.

1.6 राम-राम सा — your first complete Marwadi greeting

Read it: राम and सा separately

You already own every sign in today's line.

The exchange — meet the greeting

राम-राम सा। — Rām-rām sā. — a respectful greeting

Repeat राम, then add respectful सा. Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi's Jāgtī Jot prints this exchange:

A: राम-राम सा।

B: राम-राम सा, राम-राम।

That attestation is why this track begins here rather than substituting a Hindi greeting merely because the scripts are shared.

Your turn — use and write it

- Hear: rām-rām sā
- Answer: राम-राम सा
- Read it: राम-राम सा
- Say it: the line without romanization
- Copy: राम-राम सा once, keeping the hyphen and space

Before you move on

Cover: the line
Say the greeting once. Write it: as much of it as you can remember
Source: Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtī Jot, August–September 2018.

1.7 Practice — hear it, answer it, write it

Write it: राम and सा separately, with the page covered — check only after both are down

The exchange

A: राम-राम सा।

B: राम-राम सा, राम-राम।

Run both voices once. Cover: B
Then answer A aloud. Switch roles.

Your turn — four-skill checkpoint

1. Listen: ask someone or a screen reader to say rām-rām sā without showing the text; identify it as a greeting.
2. Speak: give the greeting without reading.
3. Read it: राम-राम सा without romanization
4. Write it: राम-राम सा from memory, after fifteen seconds with the book closed — check the repeated word, hyphen, space, and final सा

Writing counts only if the model was hidden. Copying was the ramp; this is recall.

Before you move on

If one sign stalled, note which one and repeat only its short lesson tomorrow.

Chapter 2

Aabhaar: Formal Thanks, Two New Signs

Modes: 🚗 voice (1) ↙ pen (3) 🚗 Hands-free start: none of the 4 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, hear, say, copy, and independently write आभार as a short formal gratitude response.
> A source-attested formal gratitude word built from two new signs and two signs already taught, followed by independent four-skill retrieval.

2.1 आ — long ā at the beginning

> With the page covered, write राम and give the greeting reply you learnt in Chapter 1. Uncover. Point to the vowel mark in रा: you know ◌ा when long ā follows a consonant.

Script — one new sign

When long ā begins a word, it stands by itself:

> आ — ā

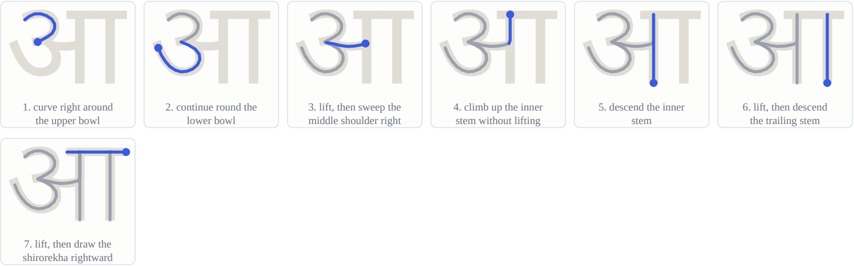
Notice the upright line at the right. Say one steady ā while your finger follows the sign.

Writing — observe, trace, copy

How it is written — 4 strokes · 3 pen lifts · 7 movements



1. curve right around the upper bowl

2. continue round the lower bowl

3. lift, then sweep the middle shoulder right

4. climb up the inner stem without lifting

5. descend the inner stem

6. lift, then descend the trailing stem

7. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after Saurmandal, ‘Devanagari आ stroke order.svg’, frames 1–5, Wikimedia Commons, 5 August 2023
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How आ is written, stroke by stroke

1. look at आ for three seconds
2. finger-trace it once
3. copy it twice
4. compare only the upright line and the top bar

Do not add a word yet. This session belongs to one sign.

Before you move on

Cover the models. Write आ once, then uncover and compare.

2.2 भ — bha, with a small breath

Write स, then आ, from memory. Check both before moving on.

Script — one new sign and sound

भ — bha

Begin like English b, then let a small puff of air follow. Hold a hand near your mouth: bha. The breath is part of the sound.

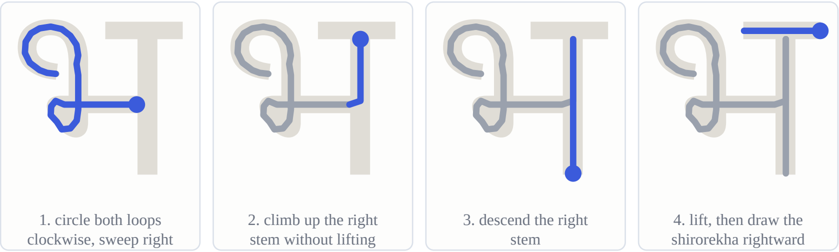
Writing — observe, trace, copy

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 4 movements



1. circle both loops clockwise, sweep right

2. climb up the right stem without lifting

3. descend the right stem

4. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after JackPotte, ‘Devanagari bʰ भ.gif’, strokes 1–3, Wikimedia Commons, 29 March 2009
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How भ is written, stroke by stroke

1. look at भ
2. finger-trace its lower shape, then the upright line
3. copy भ twice
4. say bha after each copy

Stop there. The next lesson will join this sign to signs already in your hand.

Before you move on

Cover the model for five seconds. Write भ, uncover, and compare.

2.3 आभार — formal thanks, built from known signs

Write सा from memory. Then read these four pieces: आ · भ · ा · र.

Script — build the word

Join only signs you already know:

आ + भ + ा + र = आभार

ābhār — formal thanks; gratitude

Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi's Jāgtī Jot uses आभार when expressing gratitude in Rajasthani prose. It is a formal, Sanskrit-derived word. This lesson keeps that register visible rather than pretending every kind of thanks sounds the same.

Writing — from guided to delayed copy

1. copy आभार once while looking
2. point to भा and say bhā
3. hide the word for ten seconds
4. write आभार from memory
5. compare one sign at a time

If one sign stalls, practise only that sign before trying the word again.

Before you move on

Read आभार, say its meaning, then write it once with the model covered.
Source: Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtī Jot, April 2004.

2.4 Practice — receive a kindness, offer formal thanks

Give the respectful Chapter 1 greeting from memory. Write it: आ, then भ, with the new word covered — then uncover it and check

The exchange — one courtesy move

Someone helps you or gives you something. Offer formal thanks:

आभार। — Ābhār. — Thank you. / My gratitude.

Use it here as a complete short response. A later chapter can add a more casual Marwadi gratitude form; do not make this one word carry every register.

Your turn — four tiny skills

1. Listen: ask someone or a screen reader to say ābhār; identify it as formal gratitude.
2. Speak: imagine receiving help and say आभार without reading.
3. Read it: राम · आभार · सा, then choose the thanks word
4. Write it: आभार from memory, after fifteen seconds with the book closed

The written response counts only with the model hidden.

Before you move on

If आ or भ stalled, return to that sign's two-minute practice before repeating the whole word.

Chapter 3

Haan Sa: A Respectful Yes, Sign by Sign

Modes: 🚗 voice (2) ✎ pen (3) 🚗 Hands-free start: none of the 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, hear, say, copy, and independently write हां सा as a respectful affirmative answer.
> A source-attested polite affirmative built from two tiny script steps and the already-known respect word सा, followed by independently scored four-skill retrieval.

3.1 ह — ha, one new sign

> Give the Chapter 1 greeting reply from memory. Then, with आभार covered, say it as formal thanks and write it once. Uncover only long enough to check each sign.

Script — one sign and one sound

> ह — ha

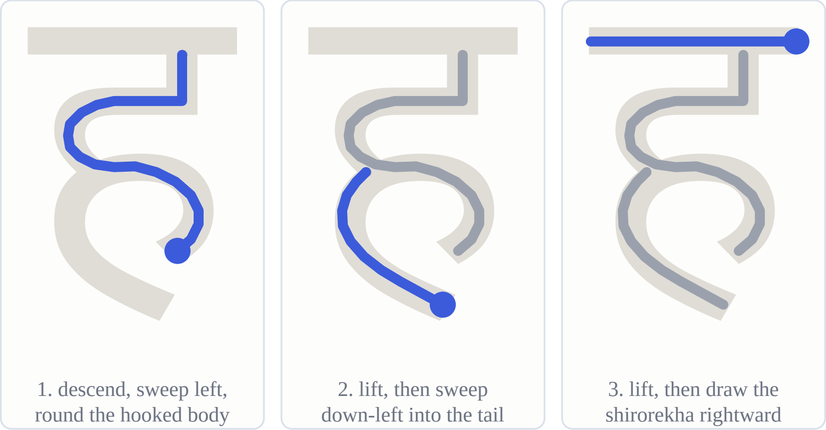
Let the air pass freely as you say ha. Do not add the rest of the coming word yet; today the eye, ear, voice, and hand meet only ह.

Writing — observe, trace, copy

How it is written — 3 strokes · 2 pen lifts · 3 movements



1. descend, sweep left, round the hooked body

2. lift, then sweep down-left into the tail

3. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after Opiaterein, ‘Deva-0939-order.gif’, strokes 1–3, Wikimedia Commons, 9 May 2009

This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ह is written, stroke by stroke

1. look at ह for three seconds
2. finger-trace its lower curve and upright line
3. copy ह twice
4. say ha after each copy

Before you move on

Cover the model for five seconds. Write ह, uncover, and compare.

3.2 ◌ं — a small dot for the nasal ending

Write ह, then भ, from memory. Add the familiar long-ā mark to ह: हा. Read it once.

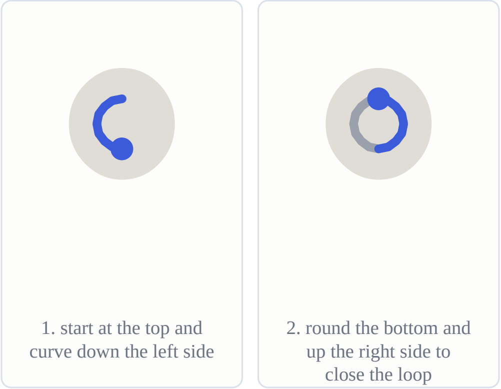
Script — one small new mark

◌ं — a dot above

In the source spelling हां, this dot cues the nasal ending. Say hā(n) slowly: the vowel is long and the ending resonates through the nose. Speakers vary, so listen for the whole word rather than forcing one exaggerated sound.

Writing — add only the mark

How it is written — one unbroken stroke · 2 movements



1. start at the top and curve down the left side

2. round the bottom and up the right side to close the loop

Stroke order after HP Labs India, Lipi Toolkit, Lipi Indic Character Recognizers 4.0, Devanagari recognizer, class 57 (ं anusvara): stored online-handwriting prototypes from native writers (MIT licence, 2012)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ◌ं is written, stroke by stroke

1. copy हा once
2. look at हां
3. add ◌ं above the end of your copy
4. compare the dot's position, then say hā(n)

Before you move on

Hide हां for five seconds. Write it once, then uncover and compare.

3.3 हां सा — a respectful yes

Say the Chapter 1 greeting from memory. Write हां, then सा, as two separate known pieces.

The exchange — join the two pieces

हां सा। — Hā(n) sā. — Yes, respectfully.

The first word answers yes. Familiar सा keeps the answer respectful. A scholarly Marwari text edition identifies hā(n)-sā as the polite affirmative, and a Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi dialogue writes हां सा in context.

Writing — guided, then delayed

1. copy हां सा once while looking
2. point to the space between the answer and the respect word
3. hide the phrase for ten seconds
4. write हां सा from memory
5. compare हां, the space, and सा separately

Before you move on

Say हां सा once without looking, then write it once with the model covered.
Sources: Hess, Texts and Translations and Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtī Jot, April–May 2019.

3.4 Listen and answer — yes without the page

Write it: the first sign of आभार, then the first sign of हां सा

Say which belongs to formal thanks and which begins a yes answer.

You'll want to know: answer by ear

Have someone or a screen reader say these in either order: ābhār and hā(n) sā. Without looking, answer formal thanks or respectful yes for each. Then say हां सा as the answer to a question you accept.

Your turn — four tiny skills

1. Listen: identify hā(n) sā without seeing it.
2. Speak: answer yes respectfully without reading.
3. Read it: आभार · हां सा · राम, then choose हां सा
4. Write it: only हां, with all models covered

Say हां सा. Write it: हां from memory

3.5 Practice — hear a yes, give a yes

Write it: भ, then हां, with the page covered

Say आभार for formal thanks; say हां सा for a respectful yes.

Your turn — independent four-skill check

1. Listen: hear hā(n) sā and identify an affirmative answer, without text.
2. Speak: hear “Will you come?” and answer yes respectfully, without notes.
3. Cover: the English, then explain हां सा
4. Write it: the complete phrase, fifteen seconds after hearing hā(n) sā

Score each line separately. A missed line is the one to repeat; three stronger skills do not erase a writing or listening miss.

What you’ve built — and what remains

You can now give one respectful affirmative. You have not yet learnt the Marwadi responses for no or okay, and you have not completed a yes/no exchange. Those remain separate tiny steps.

Before you move on

If the dot or ह stalled, return only to its two-minute sign lesson before trying the complete dictation again.

Chapter 4

Paani: Hear Water, Then Write It Sign by Sign

Modes: voice (2) pen (4) Hands-free start: the first of 6 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, hear, say, read, and independently write पाणी as the Marwadi word for water.

A source-attested everyday noun secured by ear before three new signs are isolated, assembled, and retrieved independently in all four skills.

4.1 Hear pāṇī — meaning before spelling

Give the Chapter 3 four-skill response once: hear hā(n) sā and identify a respectful yes; say it. Read it: हां सा, then cover it

Write it: the phrase

Say ābhār for formal thanks. Now set writing aside: today's new word begins with the ear and voice.

You'll want to know — one useful word

pāṇī — water

Listen for two long vowels: pā-ṇī. The middle sound is made with the tongue curled back a little. Hear the whole word twice, then say it once. Do not try to spell it yet; the next three tiny lessons will give the hand one piece at a time.

Your turn — meaning without letters

Imagine two cups: one holds water, one holds tea. Hear pāṇī and say which cup it names. Change the order and do it again. Then say pāṇī while imagining water.

Say pāṇī once, then give its meaning.
Source: SIL International, Marwari–English Dictionary (2015).

4.2 प — pa, the first sign

Write हां from memory, checking the first sign and the dot. With no new spelling in view, say the Marwadi word for water. Then write the familiar long-ā mark ा once.

Script — one new consonant

प — pa

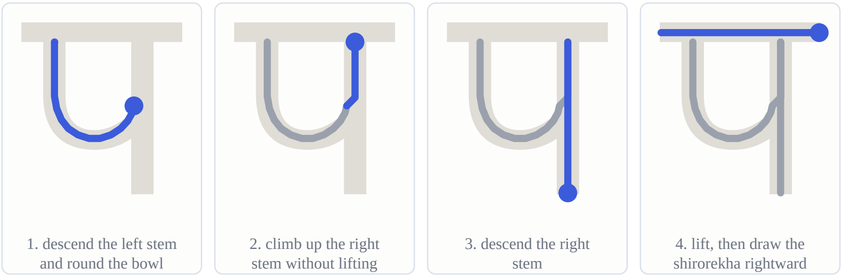
Close the lips, release them without a strong puff, and say pa. Today the hand meets only प; the complete word stays hidden.

Writing — observe, trace, copy

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 4 movements



1. descend the left stem and round the bowl
2. climb up the right stem without lifting
3. descend the right stem
4. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after Opiaterein, ‘Deva-092A-order.gif’, strokes 1–3, Wikimedia Commons, 10 May 2009
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How प is written, stroke by stroke

1. look at प for three seconds
2. finger-trace its left stem, bowl, and headline
3. copy प twice
4. say pa after each copy

> Before you move on
> Hide the model for five seconds. Write प, then add ा to make पा.

4.3 ण — curled-back ṇa

Write हां as one complete known word. Say pāṇī without looking at its spelling, then write पा from memory.

Script — one new consonant

ण — ṇa

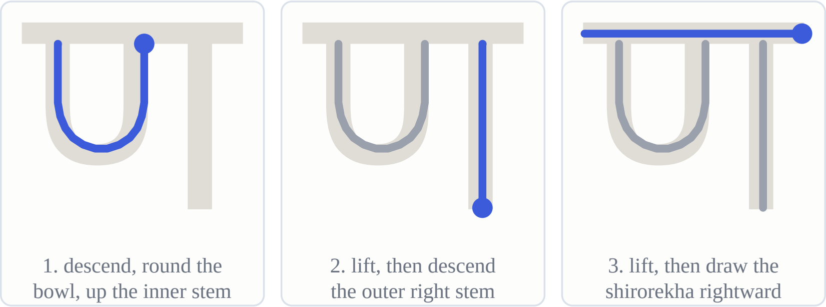
Curl the tongue tip slightly back for ṇ. Do not replace it with the dental n heard in the Hindi cognate. The Marwadi dictionary spelling in this chapter uses ण, so the eye, voice, and hand keep that contrast clear from the beginning.

Writing — observe, trace, copy

How it is written — 3 strokes · 2 pen lifts · 3 movements



1. descend, round the bowl, up the inner stem

2. lift, then descend the outer right stem

3. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after Opiaterein, ‘Deva-ण-order.gif’, strokes 1–3, Wikimedia Commons, 10 May 2009

This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ण is written, stroke by stroke

1. look at ण for three seconds
2. finger-trace the lower loop, upright, and headline
3. copy ण twice
4. say ṇa after each copy

Before you move on

Cover both models. Write प, then ण, with a clear space between them.

4.4 ी — the long-ī mark

Hear "Will you come?" and answer yes respectfully. Then say pāṇī. Write प, then ण, from memory and name the curled-back sound.

Script — one new vowel mark

ी — long ī

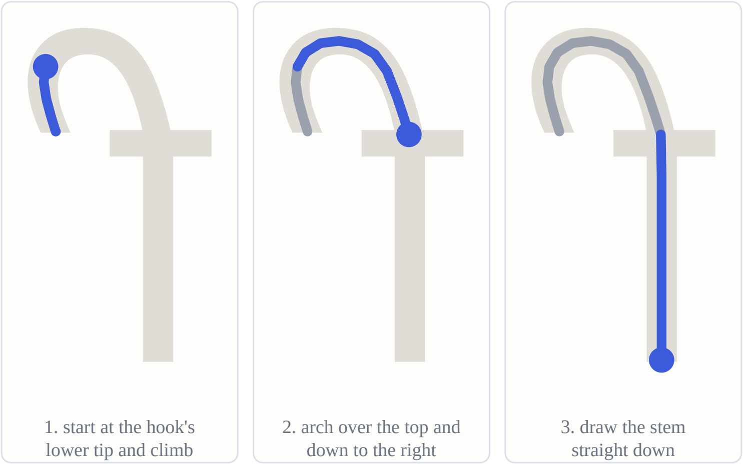
Like familiar ा, this mark cannot stand alone in a word. It attaches to a consonant. Add it to ण and read णी, ṇī.

Writing — attach only the mark

How it is written — one unbroken stroke · 3 movements



1. start at the hook's lower tip and climb

2. arch over the top and down to the right

3. draw the stem straight down

Stroke order after HP Labs India, Lipi Toolkit, Lipi Indic Character Recognizers 4.0, Devanagari recognizer, class 49 (ी, ii sign): stored online-handwriting prototypes from native writers (MIT licence, 2012)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ◌ी is written, stroke by stroke

1. copy ण once
2. look at णी
3. add ◌ी on the right of your copy
4. compare the joined form, then say ṇī

Before you move on

Hide णी for five seconds. Write it once, then uncover and compare.

4.5 पाणी — join the word you already know by ear

Write the first sign of राम from memory. Then say the Marwadi word for water and write पा, then णी, as two separate pieces. Check each piece before going on.

The exchange — two familiar pieces

पा + णी → पाणी — pāṇī — water

Join the pieces without adding or changing a sign. Keep ण, the curled-back sound that distinguishes this source-attested Marwadi spelling from its Hindi cognate.

The word, taken apart

The word belongs to an old Indo-Aryan family. Sanskrit pānīya meant something for drinking; related regional forms travelled through Middle Indo-Aryan into modern Marwadi पाणी. The history is a memory hook, not a new spelling task.

Writing — guided, then delayed

1. copy पाणी once while saying pā-ṇī
2. point to पा, then णी
3. hide the model for ten seconds
4. write the complete word from memory
5. uncover and compare प, ◌ा, ण, and ◌ी separately

Before you move on

Say पाणी once without looking, then write it once with the model covered.
Sources: SIL International, Marwari–English Dictionary (2015) and Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages, entry 8082.

4.6 Practice — hear, say, read, and write water

Give the older respectful yes in four quick steps: hear it and name its meaning; say it. Read it: हां सा, then cover it

Write it: the phrase

Now say the three meanings in English as you hear ābhār, hā(n) sā, and pāṇī. Write it: पा, then ण and ◌ी separately from memory

Your turn — four independent checks

1. Listen: hear pāṇī and identify water, without text.
2. Speak: imagine a glass of water and say pāṇī, without notes.
3. Read it: आभार · हां · पाणी, choose पाणी, then give its meaning
4. Write it: पाणी with no model, fifteen seconds after hearing pāṇī

Score each line separately. Repeat only the missed line; strong speaking does not compensate for a missing ण or ी in writing.

What you've built — and what remains

You can retrieve one useful word in all four skills. You cannot yet request water in a complete Marwadi sentence; that needs pronouns, a request form, and register choices taught in later small steps.

Before you move on

If one sign stalled, return only to its two-minute sign lesson before repeating the complete dictation.

Chapter 5

Mharo Naam: Give One Name

Modes: 🚗 voice (6)   ✎ pen (4)   🚗 Hands-free start: the first of 10 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can hear, say, read, and independently write म्हारो नाम राम है, then substitute a chosen name in speech.
> A source-attested name statement built by ear before four new signs are isolated and the complete line is retrieved from dictation.

5.1 Hear mhāro — one small word for "my"

> Hear pāṇī, say water, and say the Marwadi word back. Write it: its first sign प, once
> Set writing aside. The next chapter begins with the ear.

What to know first

> mhāro — my, before a masculine singular noun

Listen twice: mhā-ro. Say it once. The breath after m belongs to the word; do not insert a full vowel between m and h. You do not need to spell it today.

Your turn

Say my when you hear mhāro. Say water when you hear pāṇī. Change the order and do it once more.

Before you move on

Say mhāro once, then stop.
Sources: SIL International, Marwari–English Dictionary (2015) and Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtī Jot, November 2007.

5.2 ् — stop the built-in vowel

Write known स once, then read म as ma. Hear mhāro once. Today one tiny mark lets म close onto the next consonant without a between them.

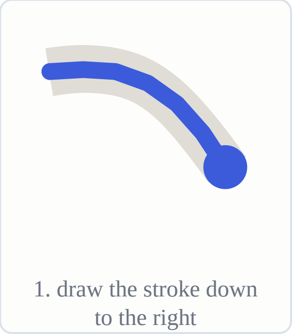
Script

How it is written — one unbroken stroke · 1 movement



Stroke order after HP Labs India, Lipi Toolkit, Lipi Indic Character Recognizers 4.0, Devanagari recognizer, class 61 (् virama): stored online-handwriting prototypes from native writers (MIT licence, 2012)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ् is written, stroke by stroke

This is the virāma. Under म, it removes the built-in a: म् is m, not ma. Keep the model visible; no joined form is required yet.

Your turn

Finger-trace ् once beneath a printed म, then trace one pencil model. Say “vowel off” as your hand stops.

Before you move on

Cover the mark and draw it once beneath म.

5.3 ो — turn ra into ro

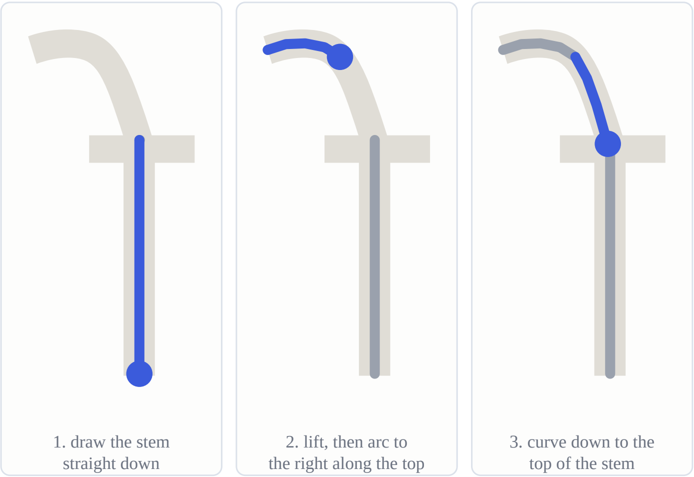
Write known सा once and point to ी in पाणी. Write र once, then draw yesterday’s vowel-off mark beneath a spare म. Today adds one sign to the right of र.

Script

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 3 movements



1. draw the stem straight down

2. lift, then arc to the right along the top

3. curve down to the top of the stem

Stroke order after HP Labs India, Lipi Toolkit, Lipi Indic Character Recognizers 4.0, Devanagari recognizer, class 55 (ो, o sign): stored online-handwriting prototypes from native writers (MIT licence, 2012)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ो is written, stroke by stroke

र + ो → रो

Attached ो replaces the built-in a. Read रो as ro. It is one sign, even though it reaches above and to the right.

Your turn

Keep रो visible and copy it once. Point to र, then ो, and read ro.

Before you move on

Cover the model, wait three seconds, and write रो once.

5.4 म्हारो — the heard word becomes readable

Say the Marwadi word for my and recall what respectful सा does.
Write it: पाणी from the heard cue pāṇī; then the vowel-off mark and रो from memory

What to know first

म् + हा + रो → म्हारो — mhāro — my

Every piece is known. The virāma removes the vowel from म so म्ह begins mh, not maha.

Your turn

Cover: म्हारो after a five-second look, then wait five seconds
Write it: the word — then uncover it, compare म्ह, ा, and रो separately, and repair only the piece that differs

Before you move on

Read it: your repaired word once without romanization
Sources: SIL International, Marwari–English Dictionary (2015) and Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtī Jot, November 2007.

5.5 Hear nām — name

Hear राम-राम सा and answer it. Retrieve पाणी once by ear and voice. Read it: पाणी

Write it: पाणी once

Then hear mhāro and say my. Read it: म्हारो once

What to know first

nām — name

Listen twice, then say it once. Marwadi nām, Sanskrit nāman, and English name are distant members of the same old word family. That history is a memory hook; today's task is only sound and meaning.

Your turn

Say name when you hear nām. Say my when you hear mhāro. Change the order once.

Before you move on

Say mhāro nām and give the two-word meaning: my name. Sources: SIL International, Marwari–English Dictionary (2015) and Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

5.6 न — a front-of-the-mouth n

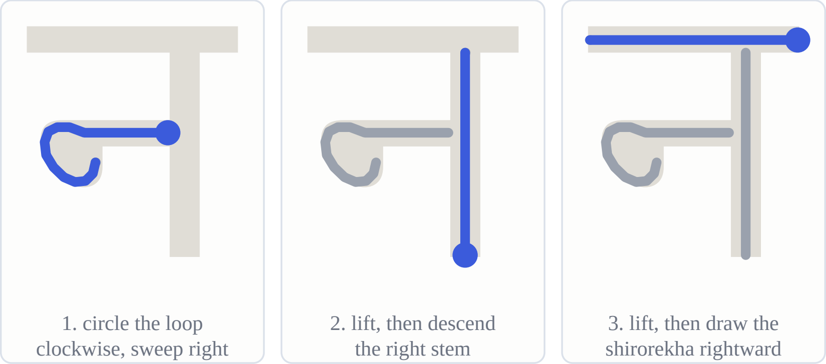
Write independent आ once. Say nām and its meaning. Read known ण with the tongue curled back. Today the tongue moves forward.

Script

How it is written — 3 strokes · 2 pen lifts · 3 movements



1. circle the loop clockwise, sweep right

2. lift, then descend the right stem

3. lift, then draw the shiroreka rightward

Stroke order after Opiaterein, ‘Deva-न-order.gif’, strokes 1–3, Wikimedia Commons, 11 May 2009
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How न is written, stroke by stroke

न

Read न as na, with the tongue near the teeth. Do not replace it with retroflex ण from पाणी.

Your turn

Keep न visible. Finger-trace it once, then trace one pencil model. Point to न when you hear na and ण when you hear retroflex ṇa.

Before you move on

Cover the model and write न once.

5.7 नाम — name, with no new sign

Write it: known भ and the vowel-off mark ◌्, once each

Say nām and its meaning. Write it: न once

What to know first

न + ा + म → नाम — nām — name

Nothing new is hiding here: dental न, known long ा, and known म.

Your turn

Cover: नाम after a five-second look, then wait five seconds

Write it: the word once — then uncover it, compare one piece at a time, and repair only a differing piece

Before you move on

Read it: म्हारो नाम, then say my name

5.8 Hear hai — the small closing word

Read it: आभार once

Write it: आभार once

Hear mhāro and nām in either order, then give each meaning.

What to know first

hai — is

Listen twice, then say it once. This tiny copula closes the name statement. Do not spell it yet; one vowel sign is still missing from your hand.

Your turn

Hear mhāro nām rām hai. Count four beats aloud: my | name | Ram | is. English changes the order in translation: My name is Ram.

Before you move on

Say the four-beat line once from sound: mhāro nām rām hai.
Sources: Ek Bharat Shreshtha Bharat language report and Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtī Jot, November 2007.

5.9 ◌ै — turn ha into hai

Say आभार for formal thanks. Say the closing word hai, then write known ह once.

Script

ह + ◌ै → है

Attached ◌ै replaces the built-in a. Read the whole word है as hai. Do not confuse ◌ै with the taller ◌ो in रो.

Your turn

Keep है visible and copy it once. Point to ह, then ◌ै, and read hai.

Before you move on

Cover the model, wait three seconds, and write है once.

5.10 म्हारो नाम राम है। — say one name

Hear mhāro, nām, rām, hai in mixed order. Give each meaning.

What to know first

म्हारो | नाम | राम | है।

mhāro nām rām hai — My name is Ram.

The written line adds no new sign. है is known ह plus ◌ै. Replace राम with your chosen name when speaking; keep Ram for the first writing attempt because every sign is already yours.

Your turn

1. hear the line and say the name the speaker gives
2. say the line once with rām
3. Read it: the four groups without romanization

Before you move on

Cover: every written model
Hear the line once. Write it: the line — then uncover the model and repair one group, not the whole sentence
Sources: Ek Bharat Shreshtha Bharat language report and Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtī Jot, November 2007.

Chapter 6

Tharo Naam: Ask One Name

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ↙ pen (3) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first of 8 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can ask थारो नाम कांई है and answer with a chosen name in four separately scored skills.
> The question half of the name exchange, built by ear before three new signs are isolated and joined to the already-secure answer.

6.1 Hear thāro — turn from my to your

Say mhāro nām rām hai once. Write it: न, then है, from memory

Say my on mhāro.

What to know first

thāro — your, before a masculine singular noun

Listen twice: thā-ro. Let a small breath follow t. Say your when you hear it. Spelling waits for the next lesson.

Your turn

Hear mhāro and say my. Hear thāro and say your. Change the order twice.

Before you move on

Say the pair once: mhāro — my; thāro — your.
Sources: SIL International, Marwari–English Dictionary (2015) and Ek Bharat Shreshtha Bharat language report.

6.2 थ — one breathed consonant

Read हां, say yes, then hear thāro, point away, and say your.

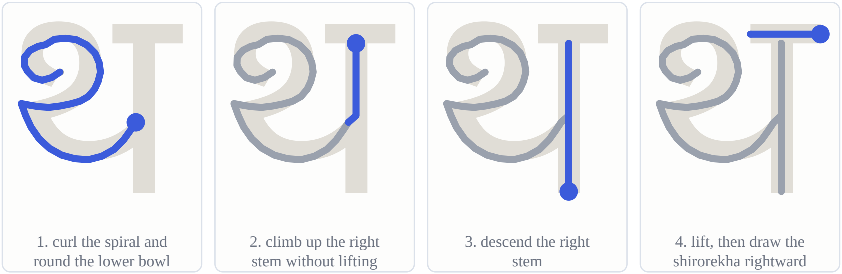
Script

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 4 movements



1. curl the spiral and round the lower bowl

2. climb up the right stem without lifting

3. descend the right stem

4. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after Opiaterein, ‘Deva-थ-order.gif’, strokes 1–3, Wikimedia Commons, 10 May 2009
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How थ is written, stroke by stroke

थ

Read थ as tha: the tongue begins near the teeth and a small breath follows. It is one new shape. The remaining signs in thāro are already known.

Your turn

Keep थ visible. Finger-trace it once, then trace one printed model once. Say tha after your hand stops.

Before you move on

Cover the model and write थ once.

6.3 थारो — your

Say thāro and its meaning. Read it: म्हारो, then give the opposite direction — my

What to know first

थ + ा + रो → थारो — thāro — your

Only थ was new. The rest comes from राम and म्हारो.

Your turn

Cover: थारो after a five-second look, then wait five seconds

Write it: the word — then uncover it and compare थ, ा, and रो separately

Before you move on

Read it: the two words once without romanization

6.4 Hear kāī̃ — what

Retrieve हां सा once by ear and voice. Read it: हां सा

Write it: हां सा once

Point to: ै in है

Read it: थारो

Then hear thāro nām, and give its meaning: your name.

What to know first

kāī̃ — what

Listen for one long, lightly nasal middle and a final long ī. Say the whole word once rather than exaggerating the nasal sound. Its old interrogative root belongs to the same deep family as Sanskrit kim and English what.

Your turn

Hear thāro nām kāī̃ hai? Point to: the question mark

Then say What is your name? No spelling yet.

Before you move on

Say the four-beat question once from sound.
Sources: SIL International, Marwari–English Dictionary (2015), Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages, and Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtī Jot, September 1999.

6.5 क — the first sign in kāĩ

Hear kāĩ and say what.

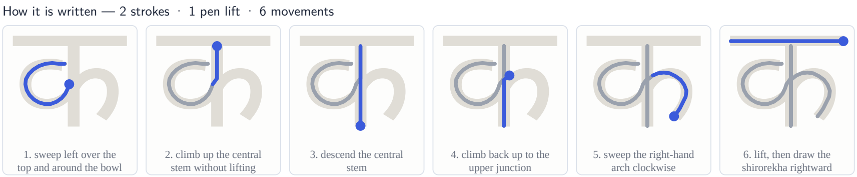
Script



How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 6 movements
1. sweep left over the top and around the bowl
2. climb up the central stem without lifting
3. descend the central stem
4. climb back up to the upper junction
5. sweep the right-hand arch clockwise
6. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after Opiaterein, 'Deva-क-order.gif', strokes 1–4, Wikimedia Commons, 8 May 2009
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How क is written, stroke by stroke

क

Read क as ka. Keep the sound short and unaspirated. Only this one shape is new today.

Your turn

Keep क visible. Finger-trace it once, then trace one printed model once. Say ka after your hand stops.

Before you move on

Cover the model and write क once.

6.6 ई — long ī standing alone

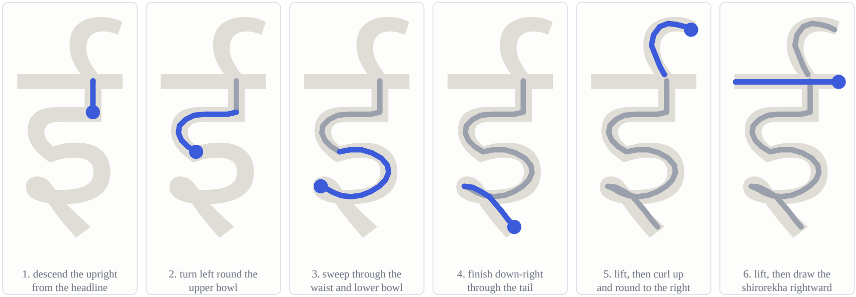
Write प, then क, once each. Point to attached ी in पाणी and say its long vowel.

Script

How it is written — 3 strokes · 2 pen lifts · 6 movements



1. descend the upright from the headline
2. turn left round the upper bowl
3. sweep through the waist and lower bowl
4. finish down-right through the tail
5. lift, then curl up and round to the right
6. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after Saurmandal, ‘Devanagari ▯ stroke order.svg’, panels 1–3, Wikimedia Commons, 5 August 2023
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ई is written, stroke by stroke

ई

Read ई as long ī. Use this independent form when the vowel stands on its own. Attached ी still belongs after a consonant.

Your turn

Keep ई visible and copy it once. Then point: ई stands alone; ी attaches.

Before you move on

Cover the model, wait three seconds, and write ई once.

6.7 कांई — what, with no new sign

Write it: known ण and new थ, once each

Say kā̃ī and its meaning. Write it: क and independent ई

Point to: the known nasal dot in हां

What to know first

क + ा + ं + ई → कांई — kā̃ī — what

No shape is new. Read it: the whole word smoothly — the dot lightly nasalizes the long middle rather than creating an extra beat

Your turn

Cover: कांई after a five-second look, then wait five seconds

Write it: the word — then uncover it and compare क, ा, ं, and ई separately

Before you move on

Read it: थारो नाम कांई है? once without romanization

6.8 Practice — ask one name and give one name

Say the four older meanings as you hear rām-rām sā, ābhār, hā(n) sā, and pāṇī. Write it: only पाणी, from the last cue

What to know first

थारो नाम कांई है?

म्हारो नाम राम है।

The question asks What is your name? The answer says My name is Ram. In speech, replace rām with the name the speaker chooses. This book teaches one documented central-Marwari form; regional speakers may use another possessive or copula, and that variation is not an error.

Your turn

1. Listen: hear one of the two lines and identify question or answer.
2. Speak: hear the question and answer with a chosen name, without notes.
3. Read it: the printed question, then match it to the printed answer
4. Write it: the question with no model, ten seconds after hearing it

Score each line separately. Speaking cannot cover a missing word in writing; reading cannot cover an unanswered spoken question.

Before you move on

Stop after one complete exchange. Accuracy comes before speed. Sources: Ek Bharat Shreshtha Bharat language report, SIL International, Marwari–English Dictionary (2015), and Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtī Jot, September 1999.

Chapter 7

Kaiso Ho: Ask How Someone Is

Modes: voice (1) eyes (1) Hands-free start: the first of 2 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, say, read, and write the polite wellbeing question आप कैसो हो?.
> A source-attested formal wellbeing question heard first and then written entirely with signs from earlier chapters.

7.1 Hear āp kaiso ho? — ask about someone, politely

Write it: पाणी

Ask the name question once, and answer it once. Recall that kā̃ī asks what. Cover: the page

The next question has a different social job.

What to know first

āp kaiso ho? — How are you?, polite/formal

Hear three groups: āp / kai-so / ho? The first addresses the other person respectfully; kaiso asks how; rising ho? keeps the line a question. Listen twice, then say the three groups once. Do not spell them yet.

Your turn

Choose the right situation: asking a respected person how they are, or asking their name. Say āp kaiso ho? only for the first situation.

Before you move on

Say the three sound groups once, then stop.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 2.

7.2 आप कैसो हो? — the question your hand already knows

Write पाणी from memory, then write क. Hear āp kaiso ho?, give its meaning, and say the three groups back.

Script — three known groups

आप | कैसो | हो?

No new sign appears. Read slowly: आ + प, then क + ै + स + ो, then ह + ो. The question mark preserves the rising social cue you heard first.

Your turn

Read the line once. Cover it for ten seconds, then write the three groups. Open the model and repair only the group that changed.

Before you move on

Read what you wrote once. Stop before learning the answer.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 2.

Chapter 8

Thik Hoon: Answer in Two New Signs

Modes: 🚗 voice (2) 👁 eyes (1) ✎ pen (2) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first of 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can answer हूं ठीक हूं, then complete a polite wellbeing exchange in separately scored listening, speaking, reading, and writing tasks.
> A source-attested wellbeing answer whose only new written shapes are isolated before the complete four-skill exchange.

8.1 Hear hū̃ ṭhīk hū̃ — I am fine

> Write it: independent ई
> Say that mhāro means my, then ask āp kaiso ho? once from memory. Keep the page closed.

What to know first

> hū̃ ṭhīk hū̃ — I am fine

Hear three groups: hū̃ / ṭhīk / hū̃. The first and last groups match. Hold the ū and let the ending nasal colour it; do not add a separate final syllable. The middle begins with a curled-back, breathed ṭh. Say the line once. Its two unfamiliar written shapes come later.

Your turn

Hear the question, then answer hū̃ ṭhīk hū̃. Switch roles once. Keep this an ear-and-voice exercise.

Before you move on

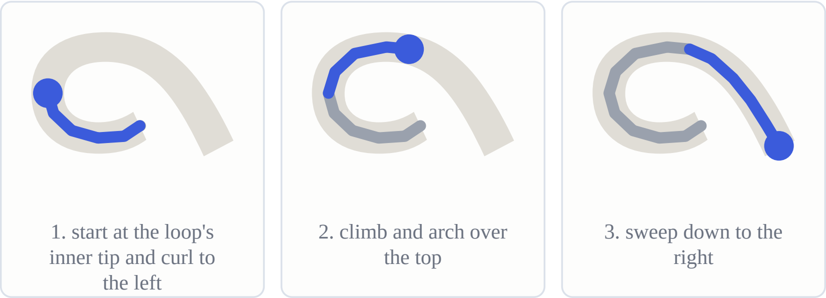
Say the answer once without looking at any spelling.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 2.

8.2 ◌ू — hold the vowel below a known sign

Write कांई, then write म्हारो and point to the virāma. Say hū̃ ṭhīk hū̃, then write known ह once.

Script — one vowel mark

How it is written — one unbroken stroke · 3 movements



1. start at the loop's inner tip and curl to the left

2. climb and arch over the top

3. sweep down to the right

How ◌ू is written, stroke by stroke

This is the dependent long-ū sign. It hangs below and to the right of a consonant. Add it to known ह: ह + ◌ू = हू. Hold the vowel for one beat longer than a short u.

Your turn

Keep ◌ू visible. Finger-trace the mark once, copy it once, then add it to ह twice. Say hū after the hand stops.

Before you move on

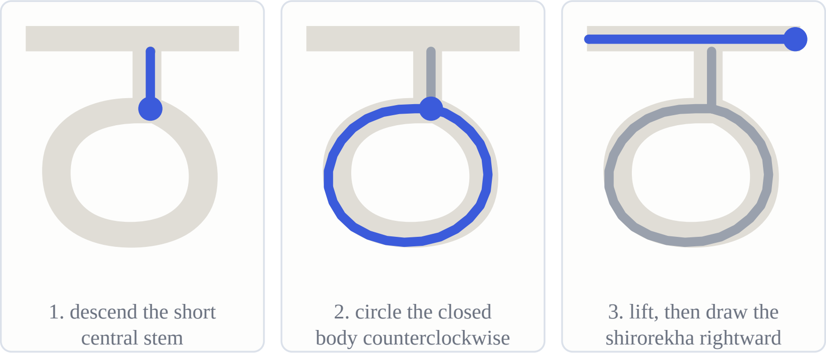
Cover the model and write हू once.
Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

8.3 ठ — curl back, then release breath

Write रो and point to ◌ो. Write हू, then say the middle sound group ṭhīk without spelling it.

Script — one consonant

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 3 movements



1. descend the short central stem

2. circle the closed body counterclockwise

3. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after Opiaterein, ‘Deva-ठ-order.gif’, strokes 1–3, Wikimedia Commons, 10 May 2009
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ठ is written, stroke by stroke

ठ

Read ठ as ṭha. Curl the tongue tip back, release it, and let a small breath follow. Keep it distinct from dental थ, which your hand already knows.

Your turn

Keep ठ visible. Finger-trace once, copy once, then alternate ठ | थ while saying ṭha / tha.

Before you move on

Cover the model and write ठ once.
Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

8.4 हूं ठीक हूं. — two new signs complete the answer

Write म्हारो from memory. Say hū̃ ṭhīk hū̃, write ू, and write ठ.

Script — build three heard groups

हूं | ठीक | हूं.

Build हूं as ह + ू + ं. Build ठीक as ठ + ी + क. Every sign except the two from the last lessons was already secure. The repeated first and last group make the line easier to hold in memory.

Your turn

1. Read हूं | ठीक | हूं once.
2. Cover it for ten seconds.
3. Write all three groups, then say the answer.

Before you move on

Read the answer once from your own handwriting.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 2.

8.5 Practice — ask how someone is and answer

Ask and answer one name. Then change the topic: ask how the other person is.

The exchange

आप कैसो हो?

हूं ठीक हूं.

The first line is polite/formal. The reply reports being fine. Other regions and relationships may choose another pronoun or question form; this chapter assesses the source-attested pair it has taught.

Your turn

1. Listen: hear one line and identify question or answer.
2. Speak: hear the question and answer without notes.
3. Read it: the printed question, then match it to its answer
4. Write it: the answer with no model, ten seconds after hearing it

Score all four separately. A correct reading does not replace missing writing; a correct written line does not replace the spoken reply.

Before you move on

Stop after one accurate exchange. Speed can wait.

Chapter 9

Pachhe Milsu: See You Later

Modes: 🚗 voice (2) ↙ pen (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first of 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can hear and say pāchhe milsū, write its four new units, and distinguish it from the common farewell राम राम सा in all four skills.
> A source-attested see-you-later line taught sound-first, written through four isolated units, and scored separately in all four skills.

9.1 Hear pāchhe milsū — see you later

> Ask how someone is, answer hū̃ ṭhīk hū̃, then say राम राम सा once.
> Cover: the text
> Then the new parting line begins.

What to know first

> pāchhe milsū — see you later

Hear two groups: pā-chhe / mil-sū. The first points later/back; the second carries meeting again. Listen twice, say the two groups apart, then say them once together. Do not spell the line yet.

Your turn

Choose the cue that promises another meeting, not the cue that starts a conversation. Answer it with pāchhe milsū.

Before you move on

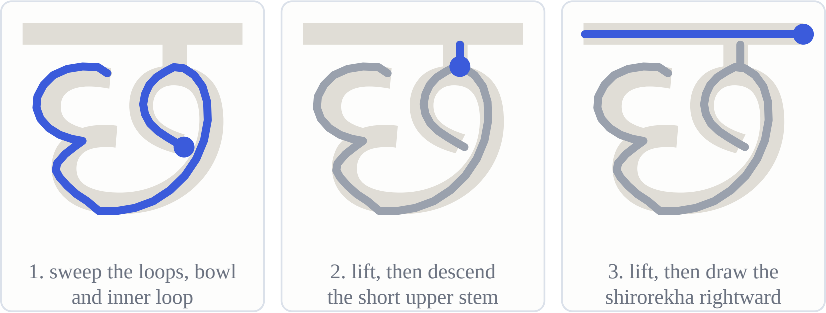
Say the two sound groups once, then stop.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 2.

9.2 छ — one aspirated consonant

Write नाम, say pāchhe once, then write known ठ. The new sign carries a different consonant and keeps the released breath.

Script — one sign

How it is written — 3 strokes · 2 pen lifts · 3 movements



1. sweep the loops, bowl and inner loop

2. lift, then descend the short upper stem

3. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after Opiaterein, 'Deva-छ-order.gif', strokes 1–3, Wikimedia Commons, 10 May 2009

How छ is written, stroke by stroke

छ — chha

Keep the sign visible. Finger-trace the main body first and add the headline last. Say chha with a small breath after the consonant.

Your turn

Trace छ once, copy it once, then cover the model and write it once.

Before you move on

Write छ once from memory.
Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

9.3 ◌े — attach e to a consonant

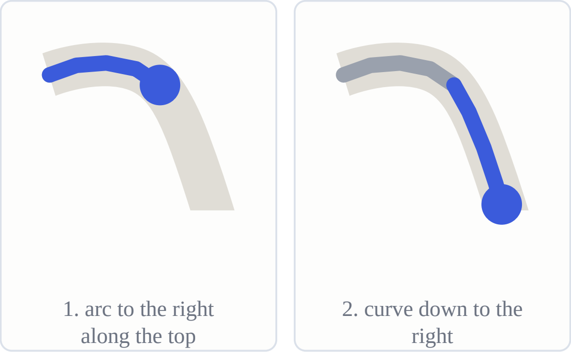
Complete mhāro nām Rām hai, write छ, then write known ◌ृ. Today's mark attaches above a consonant instead.

Script — one vowel mark

How it is written — one unbroken stroke · 2 movements



Stroke order after HP Labs India, Lipi Toolkit, Lipi Indic Character Recognizers 4.0, Devanagari recognizer, class 53 (े e sign): stored online-handwriting prototypes from native writers (MIT licence, 2012)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ◌े is written, stroke by stroke

◌े — dependent e

छ + ◌े = छे — chhe

The mark cannot stand as the word's consonant. Add it above and to the right of छ; read the result chhe.

Your turn

Copy छे twice. Point to the consonant, then to the vowel mark.

Before you move on

Cover the model and write छे once.
Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

9.4 ि — written before, heard after

Write है, then known म and the long-ī mark from णी. The new mark is short i and has a placement rule worth noticing.

Script — one vowel mark

ि — dependent short i

म + ि = मि — mi

The visible mark sits to the left of म, but the sound follows the consonant: read मि as mi, never im.

Your turn

Build मि twice. Each time, point left-to-right on the page, then say the sounds in their spoken order: m-i.

Before you move on

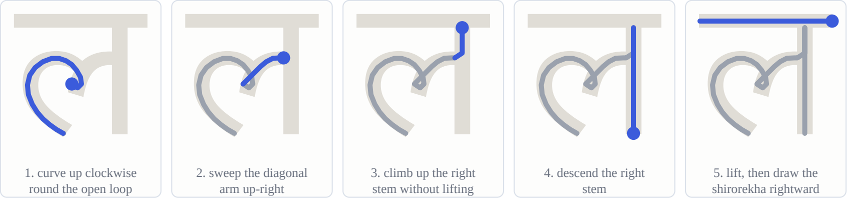
Write मि once from memory.
Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

9.5 ल — the last new consonant

Write the full my-name statement, then ask and answer wellbeing once. Write मि and known न. Today adds only ल.

Script — one sign

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 5 movements



1. curve up clockwise round the open loop
2. sweep the diagonal arm up-right
3. climb up the right stem without lifting
4. descend the right stem
5. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after Opiaterein, ‘Deva-ल-order.gif’, strokes 1–4, Wikimedia Commons, 11 May 2009
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ल is written, stroke by stroke

ल — la

Keep the sign visible. Trace the open lower body before adding the headline. Say la once the hand stops.

Your turn

Copy ल once beside the model. Cover it, wait five seconds, and write it once.

Before you move on

Read ल once, then stop.
Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

9.6 पाछे मिलसू — assemble the two sound groups

Say thāro, then write हूं ठीक हूं and circle ठ. Say pāchhe / milsū, then write छे, मि, and ल separately.

Script — join only known units

पा | छे मि | ल | सू

पाछे मिलसू

Nothing new hides in the join. Read the two groups, then write them with one space between.

Your turn

Cover the romanization. Read पाछे मिलसू, cover the line, wait ten seconds, and write it once.

Before you move on

Point to the short-i mark and say why it appears before म on the page.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 2.

9.7 Practice — goodbye, with or without "later"

Write it: थ

Then say राम राम सा once as the common farewell.

What to know first

राम राम सा. — goodbye / farewell

पाछे मिलसू. — see you later

The second line explicitly points to meeting later. Other regions and relationships may choose another parting line; this payoff scores only the two source-attested choices it taught.

Your turn

1. Listen: hear one line and identify common farewell or see-you-later.
2. Speak: answer a later-meeting cue with pāchhe milsū.
3. Read it: both printed lines, then match them to their meanings
4. Write it: the line without a model, ten seconds after hearing pāchhe milsū

Score all four separately. A spoken line does not replace missing writing.

Before you move on

Stop after one accurate four-skill pass.

Chapter 10

Four Family Words: Meaning First, One New Sign

Modes: 🚗 voice (7) 👁 eyes (2) ↙ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first of 10 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, say, read, and independently write four source-attested close-family labels after learning only one new Devanagari sign.
> Four close-family labels secured by ear before writing, with only ब added and every skill scored separately.

10.1 Hear mā̃ — mother

> Say the line that promises another meeting and give its two meaning parts. Write it: ◌े and the known word थारो, once

What to know first

> mā̃ — mother

Listen twice. The vowel is long and the ending is nasal. Say the whole word once; do not spell it yet. Families and the names people use for relatives vary, so this lesson teaches one source-attested everyday label, not one family model.

Your turn

Say mother when you hear mā̃, then say the word once from the meaning alone.

Before you move on

Say mā̃ once, then stop.
Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4 and Society for Endangered Languages, Marwari Swadesh list.

10.2 मां — a new word from known signs

Say mā̃ from its meaning. Write म, ◌ा, and ◌ं; then write ◌ि and say the known question word kāĩ.

What to know first

म + ◌ा + ◌ं → मां — mā̃ — mother

Nothing on the page is new. Join three earned units and read the complete word.

Your turn

Look at मां for five seconds. Cover it, wait five seconds, then write the word once. Uncover and compare the long-vowel sign and nasal mark separately.

Before you move on

Read and write मां once without romanization.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

10.3 Hear bāp — father

Say mother. Write it: the word for mother

Then say water. Write it: familiar ल and क, once each

What to know first

bāp — father

Hear one long middle vowel: bāp. Say the word once without looking for its spelling. A respectful form such as bāpūjī can come later; this step keeps one meaning and one sound small.

Your turn

Hear mā̃ and bāp in either order. Say mother or father, then say only the word you heard.

Before you move on

Say mā̃ and bāp once each, then stop.
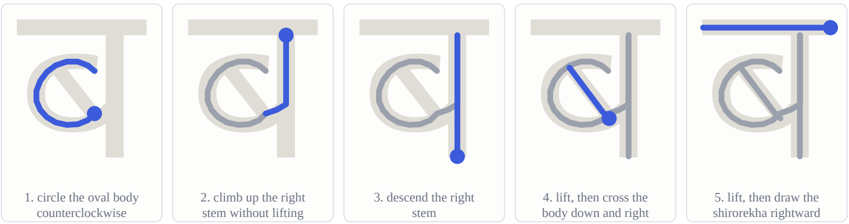
Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4 and SIL International, Marwari–English Dictionary archive.

10.4 ब — one new consonant

Say father and mother from meaning cues. Write पाछे मिलसू once, then familiar प; today's voiced sound gets a different sign.

Script — one sign

How it is written — 3 strokes · 2 pen lifts · 5 movements



1. circle the oval body counterclockwise
2. climb up the right stem without lifting
3. descend the right stem
4. lift, then cross the body down and right
5. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after JackPotte, 'Devanagari b ब.gif', strokes 1–4, Wikimedia Commons, 29 March 2009
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ब is written, stroke by stroke

ब — ba

Keep the model visible. Trace the lower turn, rise to the upright, and add the headline. Say ba after the hand stops.

Your turn

Copy ब once. Cover it, wait five seconds, and write it once. Then say the family word bāp that this sign will begin.

Before you move on

Read ब once, then stop.
Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

10.5 बाप — father on the page

Write it: ब, ◌ा, and प separately

Say mother and father. Write it: कांई

Then give the earlier see-you-later four-skill response once.

What to know first

ब + ◌ा + प → बाप — bāp — father

Only the first sign is newly learned. Read it: the whole word without romanization

Your turn

Cover: बाप after a five-second look, then wait five seconds
Write it: the word — check that ब did not turn into प

Before you move on

Read it: मां — बाप once, then stop
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

10.6 Hear bhāī — brother

Say mother. Write it: the word for father

Ask and answer the known name exchange, then recall the formal gratitude word that begins with breathy bh.

What to know first

bhāī — brother

Hear two long vowel parts: bhā-ī. Say them smoothly once. The first consonant matches the familiar start of ābhār; spelling waits for the next step.

Your turn

Distinguish bāp from bhāī by meaning and by the breath after bh. Answer a brother cue with bhāī once.

> Before you move on
> Say bhāī once, then stop.
> Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

10.7 भाई — brother from familiar units

Write भ, ा, and independent ई. Say mother, then ask the known polite wellbeing question with āp and kaiso.

What to know first

भ + ा + ई → भाई — bhāī — brother

The written pieces are old; only their family meaning is new.

Your turn

Look at भाई, cover it, wait five seconds, and write it once. Read the word without romanization and give its meaning.

> Before you move on
> Read भाई once, then stop.
> Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

10.8 Hear bahan — sister

Say father and brother. Write it: the known wellbeing question once, then ब

Keep the next new word oral for now.

What to know first

bahan — sister

Hear two small parts: ba-han. Say the whole word once. A familiar alternative such as dīdī may be used in some relationships; this lesson scores only the source form bahan.

Your turn

Hear bhāī or bahan. Say brother or sister, then repeat the heard word.

Before you move on

Say bhāī — bahan once, then stop.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

10.9 बहन — sister on the page

Write it: ब, ह, and न separately

Say brother, then give the heard wellbeing answer with hū̃ and ṭhīk.

What to know first

ब + ह + न → बहन — bahan — sister

All three signs are earned. Read it: the word as two sound groups — ba-han

Your turn

Hear bahan and wait five seconds. Write it: बहन without a visible model — check the middle ह rather than guessing from the meaning

Before you move on

Read it: बहन — भाई once, then stop
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

10.10 Checkpoint — four close-family words

Write it: ◌ू once

Say its long vowel. Cover: the earlier page

What to know first

मां — बाप — भाई — बहन

The four labels name relationships; they do not prescribe one family structure.

Your turn

1. Listen: identify all four heard labels.
2. Speak: produce two different labels from meanings.
3. Read it: all four printed words and match them
4. Write it: two heard labels without a model

Score each skill separately.

Before you move on

Stop after one independently accurate pass.

Chapter 11

Grandparents and Family: Two New Signs

Modes: 🚗 voice (8) 👁 eyes (2) ↙ pen (2) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first of 12 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can add paternal grandfather, paternal grandmother, and family to the earlier four-word map while keeping regional and household variation explicit.
> Three more family labels secured by ear before writing, with only द and व added one sign at a time before the seven-word map.

11.1 Hear dādā — paternal grandfather

> Recall the four-word family checkpoint and say the known word for name. Write it: familiar ठ once

What to know first

> dādā — paternal grandfather

Hear the same long beat twice: dā-dā. Say it once. This chapter follows the source's dādā form; other documented Marwari materials also record dādo. That variation is real and is not an error to erase. Writing waits one step.

Your turn

Choose among brother, sister, and paternal grandfather from three heard words. Repeat only dādā.

Before you move on

Say dā-dā once, then stop.
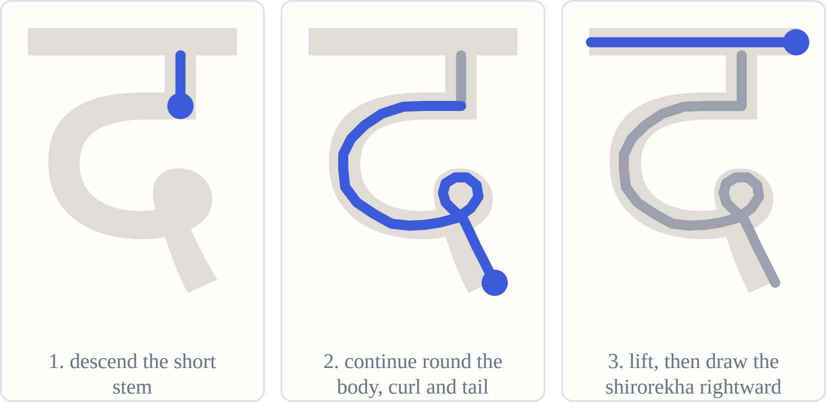
Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4 and Marwari Pathshala, D glossary.

11.2 द — one sign for both beats

Write brother, then the known wellbeing answer. Say paternal grandfather and sister; keep dādā oral until the new sign appears.

Script — one sign

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 3 movements



1. descend the short stem

2. continue round the body, curl and tail

3. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after Opiaterein, ‘Deva-द-order.gif’, strokes 1–3, Wikimedia Commons, 8 May 2009
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How द is written, stroke by stroke

द — da

Keep the model visible. Trace the curved lower body, return to the upright, and add the headline. Say da after the pen stops.

Your turn

Copy द once. Cover it, wait five seconds, and write it twice with a small space: द द. Say dā-dā without assembling the word yet.

> Before you move on
> Read द once, then stop.

11.3 दादा — the repeated word

Ask and answer wellbeing once. Write द and familiar ा, then say sister from memory.

What to know first

दा + दा → दादा — dādā — paternal grandfather

The spelling repeats exactly what the ear heard: two matching long beats.

Your turn

Look at दादा, cover it, wait five seconds, and write it once. Point to both copies of ा before reading the whole word.

> Before you move on
> Read दादा once, then stop.
> Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4 and Marwari Pathshala, D glossary.

11.4 Hear dādī — paternal grandmother

Say paternal grandfather and sister. Write it: both words

Then give the known see-you-later line and its two meaning parts.

What to know first

dādī — paternal grandmother

The first beat matches dādā. The last vowel changes: dā-dī. Hear the pair dādā — dādī, then say only dādī.

Your turn

Hear either dādā or dādī. Identify paternal grandfather or paternal grandmother before repeating the word.

Before you move on

Say dādā — dādī once, then stop.
Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4 and Marwari Pathshala, D glossary.

11.5 दादी — change the final vowel

Recall the four-word family checkpoint. Write it: छ, then दा and दी

Say sister once.

What to know first

दा + दी → दादी — dādī — paternal grandmother

Compare दादा and दादी. Only the final vowel sign changes.

Your turn

Hear dādā or dādī. Write it: the matching word without a model, then check the final vowel sign

Before you move on

Read it: दादा — दादी once, then stop
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

11.6 Hear parivār — family

Say paternal grandfather and sister. Write it: the word for paternal grandmother, then ◌े once

What to know first

parivār — family

Hear three small groups: pa-ri-vār. Say them smoothly once. The word names a family group; it does not require every family to have the same members.

Your turn

Hear one group word and two relation words. Identify parivār as family, then say it once from the meaning alone.

Before you move on

Say parivār once, then stop.
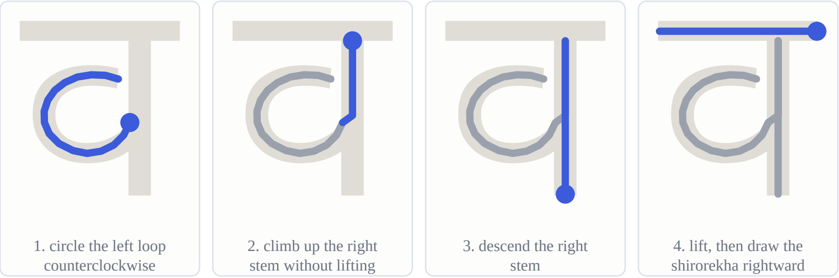
Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4 and SIL International, Marwari–English Dictionary archive.

11.7 व — the middle of family

Say family and paternal grandmother. Write द and ◌ि once.

Script — one sign

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 4 movements



1. circle the left loop counterclockwise

2. climb up the right stem without lifting

3. descend the right stem

4. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after JackPotte, ‘Devanagari v व.gif’, strokes 1–3, Wikimedia Commons, 29 March 2009
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How व is written, stroke by stroke

व — va

Keep the model visible. Trace the rounded lower body, rise to the upright, and finish with the headline. Say va after the hand stops.

Your turn

Copy व once. Cover it, wait five seconds, and write it once. Say the middle sound group vār from parivār.

Before you move on

Read व once, then stop.
Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

11.8 परिवार — family on the page

Write प, रि, व, and ार as four small units. Write paternal grandfather and ल, then say paternal grandmother.

What to know first

प + रि + वा + र → परिवार — parivār — family

Remember that ि is written before र but read after it: ri.

Your turn

Look at परिवार, cover it, wait eight seconds, and write the four chunks. Uncover and check रि and व separately.

Before you move on

Read परिवार once without romanization.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

11.9 Retrieve three family words

Say family. Write it: the word for family, then ब and the known पाछे मिलसू once

Your turn

1. Listen: identify mā̃, bāp, or dādī from sound alone.
2. Speak: say the word from one relation cue.
3. Read it: मां, बाप, and दादी, then match them to their meanings
4. Write it: one heard word without a model

Before you move on

Stop after one accurate pass.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

11.10 Build the seven-word family map

Say paternal grandmother. Write it: the word for paternal grandmother

Then complete the earlier four-skill see-you-later response once.

Your turn

Read it: four cards, placing each under its cue — भाई, बहन, दादा, and परिवार
Read it: each card again, then turn it over
Write it: only the one named aloud

Before you move on

Stop after one accurate map.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

11.11 Payoff — seven family labels in four skills

Read it: the seven-word line once

Cover: the line before the scored pass

What to know first

मां — बाप — भाई — बहन — दादा — दादी — परिवार

These are labels for understanding and describing relationships, not a required family structure. Regional and household choices remain valid when documented.

Your turn

1. Listen: identify four randomly heard labels.
2. Speak: produce four different labels from relation cues.
3. Read it: all seven printed words and match them to meanings
4. Write it: three heard labels without a model

Score all four skills separately. A perfect spoken map does not replace missing reading or writing.

Before you move on

Stop after one independently accurate pass.
Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4, Marwari Pathshala, D glossary, and SIL International, Marwari–English Dictionary archive.

11.12 Close the chapter — three new signs

Name the family group. Write it: मां

Recall one successful part of the four-skill family check.

Your turn

Write it: ब, द, and व from spoken sign names — circle only the sign that stalled, reopen its one-sign lesson, then try that sign once more

Before you move on

Stop after the three signs are accurate.

Chapter 12

Maternal Grandparents and Husband: One New Sign

Modes: 🚗 voice (7) ✎ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 5 of 8 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can add maternal grandfather, maternal grandmother, and husband to the family map after learning only one new Devanagari sign.
> Three source-attested relationship labels begin by ear, reuse the established script except for त, and finish in four separately scored skills.

12.1 Hear nānā — maternal grandfather

> Say the paternal-grandfather word. Write it: परिवार
> Then recall the seven-word family map. Today one matching two-beat word changes only the family side.

What to know first

> nā-nā — maternal grandfather

Listen twice. Say it once. Keep dādā and nānā tied to their meanings before writing enters.

Before you move on

Say nānā once without seeing its spelling.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

12.2 नाना — one known unit twice

Say nānā. Write it: familiar न and ा

What to know first

ना + ना → नाना — nānā — maternal grandfather

Your turn

Cover: the word after a five-second look
Write it: the word
Then label दादा and नाना orally without ranking either side of the family.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

12.3 Hear nānī — maternal grandmother

Say nānā. Write it: बाप

Then say the known paternal-grandmother word. Listen for the final long ī in the new word.

What to know first

nānī — maternal grandmother

Before you move on

Say nānī once. Writing waits for the next step.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

12.4 नानी — change only the final vowel

Write it: नाना, then familiar ी separately

Then recall the seven-label four-skill payoff.

What to know first

ना + नी → नानी — nānī — maternal grandmother

Your turn

Cover: नानी, then wait five seconds

Write it: the word, and circle only the final ी

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

12.5 Hear pati — husband

Say the two maternal-grandparent labels. Write it: नानी, then familiar र and भाई from sound cues

What to know first

pati — husband

This is a relationship label, not a required household pattern. Say the two short beats. The spelling waits until its new consonant has its own lesson.

Before you move on

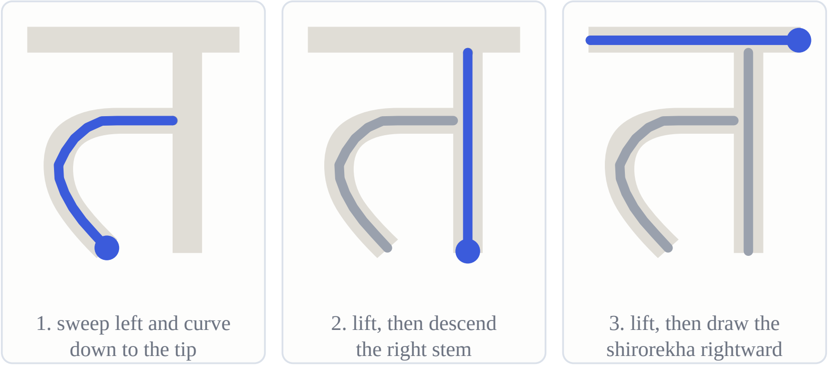
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

12.6 त — a quiet dental stop

Say pati. Write known ठ and थ once; today's unaspirated dental sound gets its own sign.

Script — one sign

How it is written — 3 strokes · 2 pen lifts · 3 movements



1. sweep left and curve down to the tip

2. lift, then descend the right stem

3. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

12.7 पति — husband on the page

Say husband and maternal grandfather. Write it: प, त, ि, राम, and बहन — point to म inside राम

What to know first

प + ति → पति — pati — husband

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds

Write it: पति — check that ि appears before त on the page but is read after it

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

12.8 Checkpoint — three more relationship labels

Say mother and father. Write it: both words, then स

Recall the earlier four-label payoff before extending the map.

Your turn

1. Hear and identify all three labels.
2. Produce each from a meaning cue.
3. Read it: नाना — नानी — पति
4. Cover: the line
5. Write it: all three

Before you move on

Modes: voice (7) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 3 of 8 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can add wife and child to a twelve-label family map while recognizing that the source records an alternative wife label.
> Wife and child begin by ear, add only च*, and join the earlier labels in a non-compensatory four-skill payoff.*

13.1 Hear patnī — wife

Say husband and maternal grandmother. Write it: सा

Then recall the last three-word four-skill checkpoint.

What to know first

patnī — wife

The same source also gives bāī sā. That documented alternative is not an error; this step secures one form at a time. Writing still waits.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

13.2 पत्नी — known signs, one careful join

Say patnī. Write it: पति, ◌्, न, and ◌ी separately; then नानी
Then say the respectful राम राम सा greeting.

What to know first

प + त् + नी → पत्नी — patnī — wife

Your turn

Write it: one copy of पत्नी; then cover it, wait five seconds, and write it again — check the virama join before checking the final long-ī sign

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

13.3 Hear bachchā — child

Say wife, husband, and maternal grandfather, and complete the familiar greeting exchange. Write it: दादा

What to know first

bachchā — child

Hear the held middle consonant. The label does not specify a child's gender; writing waits until the new consonant has a separate, small step.

Before you move on

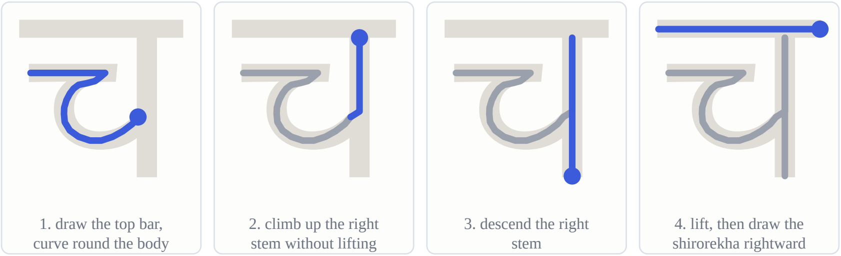
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

13.4 च — unaspirated beside familiar छ

Say child and wife. Write familiar छ and independent आ; today's sound has no following breath.

Script — one sign

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 4 movements



1. draw the top bar, curve round the body

2. climb up the right stem without lifting

3. descend the right stem

4. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How च is written, stroke by stroke

च — cha

Your turn

Trace once, copy once, cover the model, and write it once from sound.

Before you move on

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

13.5 बच्चा — child on the page

Say child and wife. Write it: ब, च, ◌्, ◌ा, familiar भ, then पत्नी and दादी from memory

What to know first

ब + च् + चा → बच्चा — bachchā — child

Your turn

Write it: one copy of बच्चा; then cover it, wait five seconds, and write it again — check the doubled middle before checking the final vowel mark

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

13.6 Retrieve the five new relationship labels

Write it: त, च, and आभार

Give the gratitude meaning, then recall the earlier three-word payoff.

Your turn

Hear all five in a mixed order, and say each from meaning. Read it: the five cards

Write it: the two cards named aloud

Repair only a missed word.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

13.7 Payoff — a twelve-label family map

Recall the seven-label and three-label checkpoints, then give the formal gratitude response. These are vocabulary options, not a prescribed family structure.

Your turn

1. Listen: identify six randomly heard labels.
2. Speak: produce six different labels from relationship cues.
3. Read it: all twelve printed labels and match them to meanings
4. Write it: four heard labels without a model

Score each skill separately. A strong spoken score cannot compensate for a missed reading or writing score.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

13.8 Close the chapter — two signs, two words

Write it: earlier द, व, ह, and परिवार

Then name the four skills in the twelve-label payoff.

Your turn

Write it: त, च, पत्नी, and बच्चा, from sound alone — check each new sign before checking the complete word

Before you move on

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

Chapter 14

Three Useful Places: Two New Signs

Modes: 🚗 voice (7) ✎ pen (2) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first of 9 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, say, read, and write market, home, and temple after learning only ज and घ.
> Three source-attested destinations begin by ear, add two signs separately, and finish in four scored skills without pretending the location question is taught.

14.1 Hear bājār — market

Recall the twelve-label payoff and say family once.

What to know first

bājār — market

Hear the two long vowels and say the destination. Its new middle consonant stays off the page until the next lesson.

Before you move on

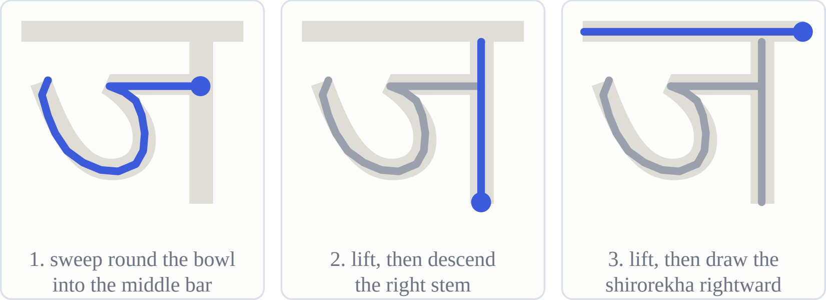
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

14.2 ज — the middle of market

Say market and polite yes, write हां, बच्चा, and familiar च once.

Script — one sign

How it is written — 3 strokes · 2 pen lifts · 3 movements



1. sweep round the bowl into the middle bar

2. lift, then descend the right stem

3. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

ज — ja

Your turn

Trace once, copy once, cover the model, and write ज from sound.

Before you move on

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

14.3 बाजार — market on the page

Say market and child. Give polite yes and recall the seven-label payoff. Write it: ब, ज, ा, and र

What to know first

बा + जार → बाजार — bājār — market

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds

Write it: the word — check both long-vowel marks

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

14.4 Hear ghar — home

Say market. Write it: the word for market

Then recall the polite-yes and twelve-label four-skill payoffs.

What to know first

ghar — home; house

Say the single beat with breath after the first sound. Writing waits one step.

Before you move on

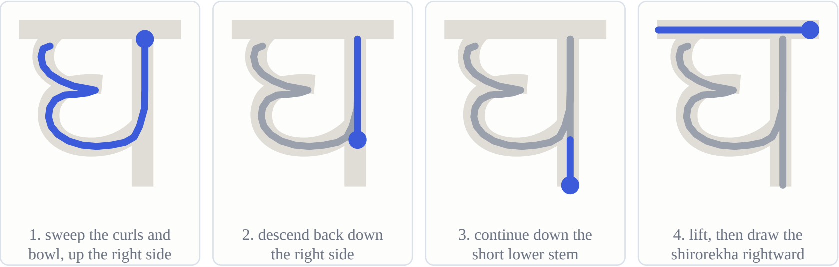
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

14.5 घ — home begins here

Say home, water, and maternal grandfather, then write familiar ह and new-earlier ज.

Script — one sign

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 4 movements



1. sweep the curls and bowl, up the right side

2. descend back down the right side

3. continue down the short lower stem

4. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after Opiaterein, ‘Deva-घ-order.gif’, strokes 1–3, Wikimedia Commons, 9 May 2009

This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How घ is written, stroke by stroke

घ — gha

Your turn

Trace once, copy once, cover the model, and write घ from sound.

Before you move on

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

14.6 घर — home on the page

Say home and market. Write it: घ, र, बाजार, and नाना

What to know first

घ + र → घर — ghar — home; house

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds
Write it: the one-beat word

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

14.7 Hear mandir — temple

Say home, market, and maternal grandmother. Write it: ज and retroflex ण

What to know first

mandir — temple

Say the three short sound groups. The complete spelling uses only earned signs, but meaning stays first.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

14.8 मंदिर — a new place from known signs

Say temple. Write it: म, ◌ं, द, ◌ि, र, ◌ी, then घर and नानी

What to know first

मं + दि + र → मंदिर — mandir — temple

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds

Write it: the word — check the nasal mark and the short-i position separately

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

14.9 Checkpoint — three useful places

Say wife, child, and husband. Write it: पाणी, before changing domains

Your turn

Hear and identify all three places, and say each from a cue. Read it: the three cards, then cover them

Write it: all three

Score each skill separately.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

Chapter 15

Hand and Money: No New Signs

Modes: 🚗 voice (7) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can add hand and money to the three-place map in listening, speaking, reading, and writing without learning another sign.
> Hand and money arrive by ear, reuse the complete script inventory, and join the three places in a non-compensatory four-skill payoff.

15.1 Hear hāth — hand

Recall the three-place and water four-skill payoffs, then say home.

What to know first

hāth — hand

The source uses this word in right-hand and left-hand direction cues. Say the one long beat. Writing waits even though every sign is familiar.

> Before you move on
> Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

15.2 हाथ — hand on the page

Say hand and my. Write it: ह, ◌ा, थ, घर, and पति

What to know first

हा + थ → हाथ — hāth — hand

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds
Write it: the word

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

15.3 Hear paisā — money

Say hand and market. Write it: virama ◌्

Then recall the ten-label four-skill checkpoint.

What to know first

paisā — money

The source uses this word when asking travel cost. Hear the opening pai and say the whole word. Writing waits until the next step.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

15.4 पैसा — money on the page

Say money, hand, and wife. Write it: प, ◌ै, स, ◌ा, ◌ो, then हाथ

What to know first

पै + सा → पैसा — paisā — money

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds
Write it: the word — check ै before ा

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

15.5 Retrieve five direction and travel words

Write it: ज, घ, म्हारो, and पत्नी

Then recall the three-place payoff.

Your turn

Hear all five in mixed order, and say each from meaning. Read it: the five cards
Write it: the two named aloud

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

15.6 Payoff — five travel words in four skills

Recall the three-place checkpoint, then say name and child before adding hand and money.

Your turn

1. Identify five heard words.
2. Produce five words from meaning cues.
3. Read it: five printed cards and match them to meanings
4. Write it: three heard words without a model

Pass each skill separately.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

15.7 Close the chapter — two new signs

Write it: earlier त, च, न, and हाथ

Then name the four scored skills.

Your turn

Chapter 16

Wind, Cloud, and Rain: No New Signs

Modes: 🚗 voice (9) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 9 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, say, read, and write wind, cloud, and rain using only signs already secured in earlier chapters.
> Three source-attested weather nouns begin by ear, reuse the established script inventory, and finish in four separately scored skills without claiming a weather conversation is complete.

16.1 Hear havā — wind

> Recall the five-word travel payoff and say home. Write it: नाम, पत्नी, and बाजार

What to know first

> havā — wind

Listen once, then say the two light beats. Keep the meaning in your ear; the spelling waits for the next lesson even though every sign is already familiar.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

16.2 हवा — wind on the page

Say wind and money. Write it: घर, then form ह, व, and ा once

What to know first

ह + वा → हवा — havā — wind

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds
Write it: हवा
No new sign has been added.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

16.3 Hear bādal — cloud

Say wind. Write it: the word for wind

Then recall temple, hand, maternal grandmother, and the ै mark in है.

What to know first

bādal — cloud; clouds

Hear the long first vowel. Say the sky word once without looking at any script.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

16.4 बादल — cloud on the page

Say cloud, wind, and market. Write it: नाना and the known my-name line ending in है

Then recall ब, ा, द, and ल.

What to know first

बा + दल → बादल — bādal — cloud

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds
Write it: the two chunks — check that only the first syllable carries ा

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

16.5 Hear barsāt — rain

Say cloud and wind. Write it: both words

Contrast thāro with mhāro, then recall husband. Write it: the word for money

What to know first

barsāt — rain; rainfall

Listen for the long final vowel. Say the weather word once from a rain cue.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

16.6 बरसात — rain on the page

Say rain and wind, and recall the travel payoff. Write it: थ, then form ब, र, स, ा, and त

What to know first

बर + सात → बरसात — barsāt — rain

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds
Write it: बरसात — check that ा sits only in the final chunk

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

16.7 Retrieve wind, cloud, and rain

Write it: घ, ज, बच्चा, and थारो

Then say wife.

Your turn

Hear the three words in mixed order and say each from its meaning. Read it: three printed cards and match them
Write it: all three from sound

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

16.8 Payoff — three weather words in four skills

Say market and home. Write it: both words

Recall the twelve-label family payoff, then give the meanings of kāĩ and hai from the known name exchange.

Your turn

1. Identify three heard words.
2. Produce three words from meaning cues.
3. Read it: three printed cards and match them to meanings
4. Write it: all three heard words without a model

Pass each skill separately.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

16.9 Close the weather loop

Write it: घ, ज, थ, and क

Then name the four weather-payoff skills you just passed.

Your turn

Write it: all three from meaning cues

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

Chapter 17

Weather, Heat, and Cold: Three New Signs

Modes: voice (10) pen (3) Hands-free start: the first of 13 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can add weather, heat, and cold to the earlier wind-cloud-rain map after learning only the au mark, ग, and ड.
> Three more source-attested weather words begin by ear, add three signs one at a time, and join the earlier map in four separately scored skills without claiming a complete weather exchange.

17.1 Hear mausam — weather

> Recall wind, cloud, and rain in four skills. Write it: ई, कांई, and घर

What to know first

> mausam — weather

Listen for the au sound. Say the general word once; its new vowel mark stays off the page until the next lesson.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

17.2 ौ — the au mark in weather

Say weather and temple, write म, बरसात, and कांई, then contrast familiar ै and ो.

Script — one sign

ौ — au after a consonant

Your turn

Trace ौ on म once, copy मौ once, cover it, and write मौ from sound.

> Before you move on
> Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

17.3 मौसम — weather on the page

Ask and answer the known name exchange, and say weather and wind. Write it: मंदिर, बादल, and थारो, then form मौ and स

What to know first

मौ + सम → मौसम — mausam — weather

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds
Write it: मौसम — check the first-syllable vowel mark

> Before you move on
>
> Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

17.4 Hear garmī — heat

Say weather. Write it: the word for weather

Recall rain and the three-place payoff, and ask āp kaiso ho? Write it: the है ending from the known name line

What to know first

garmī — heat; hot weather

The source also groups this word with summer. Keep the narrow heat meaning for now; the season contrast comes later.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

17.5 ग — the start of heat

Say heat, weather, and hand; write आप कैसो हो?, घ, मौ, and म्हारो.

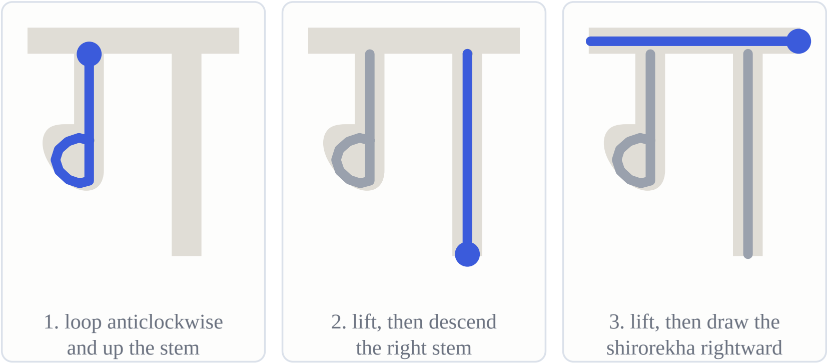
Script — one sign

How it is written — 3 strokes · 2 pen lifts · 3 movements



1. loop anticlockwise and up the stem

2. lift, then descend the right stem

3. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Write it: सस्ता — check the middle consonant join and final long ◌ा

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

19.3 Hear sāmān — goods

Say cheap and shop. Write it: both words

Recall item and price. Write it: the words for home and sister, then गर्मी

What to know first

sāmān — goods; merchandise

Hear the two long-vowel beats and say the word once from a group-of-items cue.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

19.4 सामान — goods on the page

Say goods and cheap. Write it: सस्ता, दुकान, वस्तु, मौसम, and नाम

Retrieve the four-word family payoff. Write it: ◌ा once

What to know first

सा + मान → सामान — sāmān — goods

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds
Write it: सामान — check both long ◌ा marks and the final न

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

19.5 Retrieve cheap and goods

Recall the three-word shopping payoff. Write it: ◌ु, ◌ौ, ग, and ड

Then say paternal grandfather and cold.

Your turn

Hear the two words in both orders and give each meaning. Read it: two cards
Write it: both from sound

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Unicode Devanagari chart.

19.6 Payoff — five shopping words in four skills

Recall the earlier shopping and weather payoffs and say money.
Write it: द and ड

Your turn

1. Identify five heard words.
2. Produce five words from meaning cues.
3. Read it: five printed cards and match them to meanings

4. Write it: all five heard words without a model

Pass each skill separately; a strong word cannot compensate for a missed one.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

19.7 Close the five-word shopping loop

Write it: short ◌ु

Then ask and answer the known name and wellbeing exchanges.
Write it: दादा and ठंडी

Your turn

Without a model, hear two words and say two from meaning cues. Read it: the fifth
Write it: all five, in a fresh mixed order

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Unicode Devanagari chart.

Chapter 20

Clothes and Expensive: One Dot Below

Modes: voice (7) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first of 8 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can add clothes and expensive to the shopping map after learning only the nukta that changes ड to ड़.
> Two source-attested shopping words begin by ear, add one dotted consonant, and join the earlier five words in four separately scored skills.

20.1 Hear kapṛā — clothes

Recall the five-word shopping map.

What to know first

kapṛā — clothes; cloth

Listen for the quick curled sound in the middle. Say the word once from a clothes cue. Keep the written form covered for now.

Before you move on

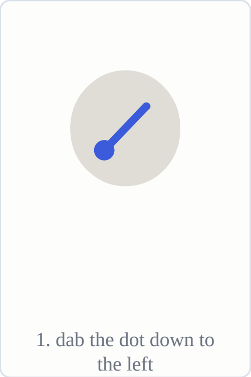
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

20.2 ड़ — one dot under familiar ड

Say clothes, then write familiar ड, paternal grandmother, and goods.

Script — one mark

How it is written — one unbroken stroke · 1 movement



Stroke order after HP Labs India, Lipi Toolkit, Lipi Indic Character Recognizers 4.0, Devanagari recognizer, class 62 (़, nukta): stored online-handwriting prototypes from native writers (MIT licence, 2012)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ◌़ is written, stroke by stroke

ड + ◌़ → ड़

The dot below is called a nukta. Here it marks the quick curled sound in kapṛā.

Your turn

Trace ड़ once. Copy it once. Cover it, wait five seconds, and write ड़ from the sound cue.

Before you move on

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

20.3 कपड़ा — clothes on the page

Say clothes and family. Write it: ड़

What to know first

कप + ड़ा → कपड़ा — kapṛā — clothes

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds
Write it: कपड़ा — check the dot below ड

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

20.4 Hear mahaṅgo — expensive

Say cheap and clothes. Write it: व

What to know first

mahaṅgo — expensive

Hear the price contrast: sastā is cheap; mahaṅgo is expensive. Say only the word that matches a high-price cue.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

20.5 महंगो — expensive on the page

Say expensive. Write it: the words for cheap and family, then short ◌ु

What to know first

महं + गो → महंगो — mahaṅgo — expensive

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds
Write it: महंगो — check ◌ं above and ◌ो around the final ग

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

20.6 Retrieve clothes and expensive

Recall the six-word weather payoff. Write it: the word for shop, then ड़

Your turn

Hear both words in both orders and give each meaning. Read it: two cards
Write it: both from sound

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

20.7 Payoff — seven shopping words in four skills

Recall the earlier five-word shopping payoff. Write it: the nukta

Your turn

1. Identify seven heard words.
2. Produce seven words from meaning cues.
3. Read it: seven printed cards and match them to meanings
4. Write it: all seven heard words without a model

Pass each skill separately. This is a vocabulary map, not yet a bargaining conversation.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

20.8 Close the seven-word shopping loop

> Recall the seven-label family payoff. Write it: the word for item, then ड़

Your turn

With every model hidden, retrieve the seven meanings by ear and say them from meaning cues. Read it: a shuffled set

Write it: all seven from dictation

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

Chapter 21

Bus, Vehicle, and Cart: No New Signs

Modes: 🚗 voice (9) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 9 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, say, read, and write bus, vehicle, and cart using only signs already secured in earlier chapters.
> Three source-attested transport words begin by ear, reuse the established script inventory, and finish in four separately scored skills without claiming a ticket or timetable exchange.

21.1 Hear bas — bus

> Recall the seven-word shopping payoff, then say expensive and price.

What to know first

> bas — bus

Hear it twice, picture a bus, and say it once. Keep the spelling covered until the sound and meaning are easy.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

21.2 बस — bus on the page

Say bus and maternal grandfather. Write it: the words for expensive and price

What to know first

बस + स → बस — bas — bus

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds
Write it: बस

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

21.3 Hear gāṛī — vehicle

Say bus and clothes. Write it: the words for bus and maternal grandfather, then ड़

What to know first

gāṛī — vehicle

Use vehicle as the broad meaning here. Hear the curled middle sound, then say the word once from a vehicle picture.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

21.4 गाड़ी — vehicle on the page

Say vehicle and maternal grandmother. Write it: the word for clothes

Then recall the three-word shopping payoff.

What to know first

गा + ड़ी → गाड़ी — gāṛī — vehicle

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds
Write it: गाड़ी — keep the dot below ड and the long-ī mark after it

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

21.5 Hear ṭhelā — cart

Say vehicle and bus. Write it: ठ and the word for maternal grandmother

What to know first

ṭhelā — cart; handcart

Hear the strong first sound, picture a handcart, and say the word once.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

21.6 ठेला — cart on the page

Say cart, husband, and cheap. Write it: the word for vehicle

What to know first

ठे + ला → ठेला — ṭhelā — cart

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds
Write it: ठेला

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

21.7 Retrieve three transport words

Recall the seven-word shopping payoff. Write it: त, the word for cheap, and ड़

Your turn

Hear the three words in a mixed order and give each meaning. Read it: three shuffled cards

Write it: all three from sound

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

21.8 Payoff — three transport words in four skills

Write it: the word for husband

Then say goods.

Your turn

1. Identify three heard words.
2. Produce three words from meaning cues.
3. Read it: three printed cards and match them to meanings
4. Write it: all three heard words without a model

Pass each skill separately. Timetables, tickets, and location phrases remain later work.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

21.9 Close the first transport loop

Recall the ten-label family payoff. Write it: the word for goods

Your turn

With every model hidden, identify and say बस, गाड़ी, and ठेला in a shuffled order. Read it: all three, shuffled

Write it: all three, in a shuffled order

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

Chapter 22

Rickshaw and Horse: One New Consonant

Modes: voice (7) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first of 8 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can add rickshaw and horse to the transport map after learning only श and reusing the dotted consonant from clothes.
> Two more source-attested transport words begin by ear, add only श, and join the earlier three in a non-compensatory four-skill payoff.

22.1 Hear rikśā — rickshaw

> Recall the three-word transport payoff and say wife. Write it: the word for goods

What to know first

> rikśā — rickshaw

Hear the three beats, picture a rickshaw, and say the word once. Keep the written cluster covered for now.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

22.2 श — the sh in rickshaw

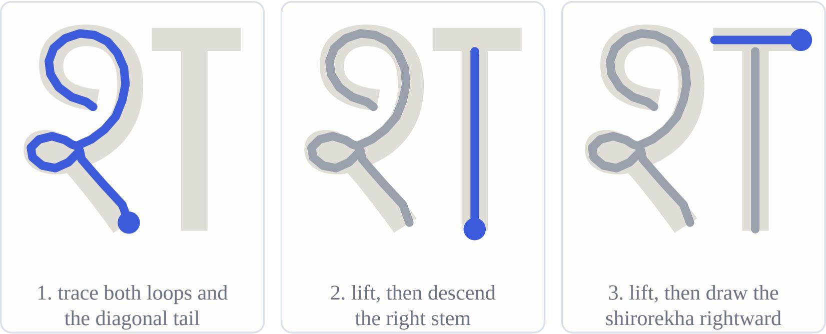
Recall the five-word shopping payoff, say rickshaw, then write wife and familiar स.

Script — one sign

How it is written — 3 strokes · 2 pen lifts · 3 movements



1. trace both loops and the diagonal tail

2. lift, then descend the right stem

3. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after Opiaterein, ‘Deva-श-order.gif’, strokes 1–3, Wikimedia Commons, 10 May 2009

This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How श is written, stroke by stroke

श — sha

Notice the vertical stem and the looped left side. Keep it distinct from familiar स.

Your turn

Trace श once. Copy it once. Cover it, wait five seconds, and write it from the sh sound cue.

Before you move on

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

22.3 रिक्शा — rickshaw on the page

Say rickshaw and child. Write it: श and ◌्

What to know first

रि + क् + शा → रिक्शा — rikśā — rickshaw

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds

Write it: रिक्शा — check that ि appears before र but is read after it, and that ् joins क to श

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

22.4 Hear ghoṛo — horse

Say rickshaw, vehicle, and clothes. Write it: च and ड़

What to know first

ghoṛo — horse

Hear the breathy first sound and curled middle sound. Picture a horse and say the word once.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

22.5 घोड़ो — horse on the page

Say horse. Write it: the words for vehicle and child

What to know first

घो + ड़ो → घोड़ो — ghoṛo — horse

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds

Write it: घोड़ो — check both long-o marks and the dot below ड

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

22.6 Retrieve rickshaw and horse

Write it: श and ड़ from sound

Your turn

Hear both words in both orders and give each meaning. Read it: two cards
Write it: both from sound

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

22.7 Payoff — five transport words in four skills

Recall the earlier three-word transport payoff and the twelve-label family payoff, then say expensive.

Your turn

1. Identify five heard words.
2. Produce five words from meaning cues.
3. Read it: five printed cards and match them to meanings
4. Write it: all five heard words without a model

Pass each skill separately. This vocabulary foundation does not yet claim a ticket purchase, timetable question, or problem report.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

22.8 Close the writing loop for ड़ and श

> Recall the five-word transport payoff. Write it: the word for expensive

Your turn

Write it: ड़ and श from sound cues, without a model; then कपड़ा, गाड़ी, रिक्शा, and घोड़ो from dictation — repair only the missed unit and repeat that word once

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10; Unicode Devanagari chart.

Chapter 23

First Food Words: No New Signs

Modes: 🚗 voice (9) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 9 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can retrieve lentils, clarified butter, and vegetables in listening, speaking, reading, and writing using only previously taught Devanagari signs.
> Three source-attested food words begin by ear, add no new sign at all, and close in a non-compensatory four-skill payoff.

23.1 Hear dāl — lentils

Recall the five-word transport payoff, then say horse and market.

What to know first

dāl — lentils

Two beats, and the second one is long. Hear it twice, picture a bowl of cooked lentils, and say it once. The spelling stays covered until the sound and the meaning are comfortable.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

23.2 दाल — lentils on the page

Say lentils. Write it: the word for horse, then ज

What to know first

दा + ल → दाल — dāl — lentils

Three units, all of them met before: द, the long ा, and ल.

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds

Write it: दाल — check that the ा sits after द and not after ल

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

23.3 Hear ghī — clarified butter

Recall the seven-word shopping payoff. Write it: the words for lentils and market

What to know first

ghī — clarified butter

One beat, opening with the same breathy sound heard at the start of ghar and ghoṛo. Hear it twice and say it once.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

23.4 घी — clarified butter on the page

Say clarified butter, recall the five-word transport payoff, then say bus.

What to know first

घ + ी → घी — ghī — clarified butter

The same घ that opens घर and घोड़ो, carrying the long ी met in पाणी.

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds

Write it: घी — keep the ◌ी stroke tall enough to reach the headline

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

23.5 Hear sabjī — vegetables

Write it: the words for clarified butter and bus, then घ

What to know first

sabjī — vegetables

Three beats, ending long. Hear it twice, picture a vegetable dish, and say it once.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

23.6 सबजी — vegetables on the page

Say vegetables and vehicle. Write it: the word for home

What to know first

स + ब + जी → सबजी — sabjī — vegetables

Four units, every one of them already in the hand. The source spells it with a full ब between स and जी; other Rajasthani writing prints a clustered spelling for the same word, so treat this form as the one attested here rather than as the only one anybody uses.

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds

Write it: सबजी — check that ब keeps its own short vowel and carries no vowel-killer

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

23.7 Retrieve three food words

Write it: the word for vehicle

Then say temple and home.

Your turn

Hear the three words in a mixed order and give each meaning. Read it: three shuffled cards

Write it: all three from sound

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

23.8 Payoff — three food words in four skills

Say cart. Write it: the word for temple

Your turn

1. Identify three heard words.
2. Produce three words from meaning cues.
3. Read it: three printed cards and match them to meanings
4. Write it: all three heard words without a model

Pass each skill separately. Three food names are a vocabulary foundation, not an order placed in a kitchen or a shop.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

23.9 Close the first food loop

Recall the three-place payoff. Write it: the word for cart

Your turn

With every model hidden, identify and say दाल, घी, and सबजी in a shuffled order. Read it: all three, shuffled

Write it: all three, in a shuffled order

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

Chapter 24

Bread and Rolls: One New Consonant

Modes: 🚗 voice (7) ↙ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first of 8 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can add flatbread and hard wheat rolls to the food map after learning only ट and reusing every other sign.
> Two more source-attested food words begin by ear, add only ट, and join the earlier three in a non-compensatory four-skill payoff.

24.1 Hear roṭī — flatbread

Recall the three-word food payoff, then say hand and lentils.

What to know first

roṭī — flatbread

The middle consonant is made with the tongue tip curled back, further back than the d of dāl. Hear it twice and say it once. The spelling waits for the next lesson, because one sign in it has not been taught yet.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

24.2 ट — the curled t in flatbread

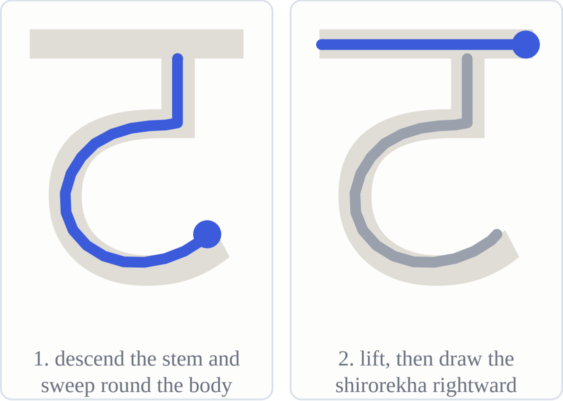
Say flatbread, recall the three-word transport payoff, then write hand.

Script — one sign

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 2 movements



1. descend the stem and sweep round the body

2. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after Opiaterein, ‘Deva-ट-order.gif’, strokes 1–2, Wikimedia Commons, 10 May 2009
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ट is written, stroke by stroke

ट — ṭa

A single closed loop hanging under the headline. Set it beside the ठ of ठेला: ठ carries a second inner ring and a puff of breath, ट has neither.

Your turn

Trace ट once. Copy it once. Write ठ beside it and say which one has the extra ring. Cover both, wait five seconds, and write ट from the curled sound cue.

Before you move on

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

24.3 रोटी — flatbread on the page

Say flatbread and money. Write it: ट

What to know first

रो + टी → रोटी — roṭī — flatbread

The ◌ो on र and the ◌ी on ट are both long vowels met earlier.

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds
Write it: रोटी — check that the second consonant has no inner ring

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

24.4 Hear bāṭī — hard wheat rolls

Write it: the words for flatbread and money

Then say rickshaw.

What to know first

bāṭī — hard wheat rolls

Two beats, both long, with the same curled middle consonant heard in roṭī. These are baked hard rather than soft, which is why they take a different name from ordinary flatbread. Hear it twice and say it once.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

24.5 बाटी — hard wheat rolls on the page

Say hard wheat rolls. Write it: the word for flatbread, then श

What to know first

बा + टी → बाटी — bāṭī — hard wheat rolls

Compare रोटी and बाटी on one line: the last two units are identical and only the opening syllable differs.

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds

Write it: बाटी, then रोटी beneath it — check that only the first syllable changed

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

24.6 Retrieve flatbread and hard wheat rolls

Recall the five-word travel payoff. Write it: ट, and the word for rickshaw

Your turn

Hear both words in both orders and give each meaning. Read it: two cards

Write it: both from sound

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

24.7 Payoff — five food words in four skills

Recall the earlier three-word food payoff, then say horse.

Your turn

1. Identify five heard words.
2. Produce five words from meaning cues.
3. Read it: five printed cards and match them to meanings
4. Write it: all five heard words without a model

Pass each skill separately. This vocabulary foundation does not yet claim an order in a kitchen, a request at a table, or a description of a meal.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

24.8 Close the writing loop for ट

> Recall the five-word food payoff and say wind. Write it: the word for horse

Your turn

Write it: ट and ठ from sound cues, without a model; then रोटी, बाटी, and ठेला from dictation — repair only the missed unit and repeat that word once

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6; Unicode Devanagari chart.

Chapter 25

The Sweet and the Tea: One New Consonant

Modes: 🚗 voice (7) ✎ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 3 of 8 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can add the sweet crumbled wheat dessert and tea to the food map after learning only य.
> The last two source-attested food words begin by ear, add only य*, and complete a seven-word non-compensatory four-skill payoff.*

25.1 Hear chūrmā — sweet crumbled wheat

Recall the five-word food payoff and say hard wheat rolls. Write it: the word for wind

What to know first

chūrmā — sweet crumbled wheat dessert

Three beats, the middle one long. Hear it twice and say it once. The source names it beside dāl and bāṭī; the three are often served together, and this lesson teaches the word rather than the custom.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

25.2 चूरमा — the sweet on the page

Recall the five-word transport payoff, then say the sweet crumbled wheat dessert and cloud.

What to know first

चू + र + मा → चूरमा — chūrmā — sweet crumbled wheat dessert

The ◌ू under च is the long ū met in मिलसू, and मा closes with the long ◌ा used since the first greeting.

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds

Write it: चूरमा — check that the ◌ू hangs below च and not below र

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

25.3 Hear chāy — tea

Say lentils. Write it: the words for the sweet crumbled wheat dessert and cloud

What to know first

chāy — tea

One long beat closing on a glide. It opens with the same consonant as chūrmā. Hear it twice and say it once. The spelling waits one lesson, because its final consonant has not been taught yet.

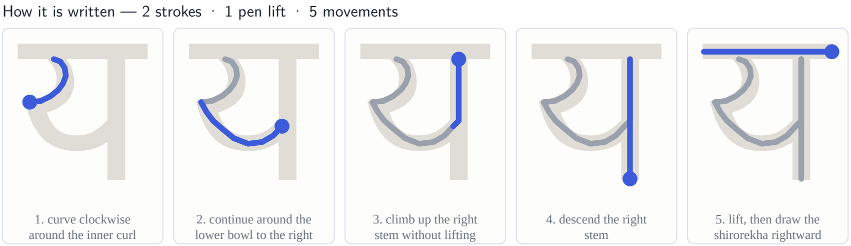
Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

25.4 य — the glide at the end of tea

Say tea and rain, then write hard wheat rolls.

Script — one sign



How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 5 movements

1. curve clockwise around the inner curl
2. continue around the lower bowl to the right
3. climb up the right stem without lifting
4. descend the right stem
5. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after Opiaterein, ‘Deva-य-order.gif’, strokes 1–4, Wikimedia Commons, 10 May 2009
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How य is written, stroke by stroke

य — ya

A left loop, a short arm, and a vertical stem on the right. Set it beside भ of भाई: भ opens its left side into a hook that reaches the stem, while य closes its left side into a loop.

Your turn

Trace य once. Copy it once. Write भ beside it and say which one closes its left side. Cover both, wait five seconds, and write य from the glide sound cue.

Before you move on

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

25.5 चाय — tea on the page

Say tea. Write it: य, then the word for rain

What to know first

चा + य → चाय — chāy — tea

The य carries no vowel mark of its own here and closes the word.

Your turn

Cover: the model after one look, then wait five seconds

Write it: चाय — check that the ा sits after च and that य ends the word bare

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

25.6 Retrieve the sweet and the tea

Write it: य

Then say rain. Write it: the word for rain

Your turn

Hear both words in both orders and give each meaning. Read it: two cards

Write it: both from sound

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

25.7 Payoff — seven food words in four skills

Recall the earlier five-word food payoff and the three-word weather payoff.

Your turn

1. Identify seven heard words.
2. Produce seven words from meaning cues.
3. Read it: seven printed cards and match them to meanings
4. Write it: all seven heard words without a model

Pass each skill separately. Seven food names are a vocabulary map; offering food, accepting it, asking for more, and refusing politely are all still untaught.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

25.8 Close the writing loop for य

Recall the seven-word food payoff, then say vegetables and tea.

Your turn

Write it: य and ट from sound cues, without a model; then चाय, रोटी, बाटी, चूरमा, and सबजी from dictation — repair only the missed unit and repeat that word once

Before you move on

Chapter 26

Show It To Me: The First Transaction

Modes: voice (8) eyes (1) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first of 10 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can point at one thing and ask a shopkeeper, a food seller, or a driver to show it to me, after learning only ख.
> A pointing word and an asking word join one already-taught noun, and the resulting request is then run unchanged over a shopping word, a food word, and a transport word in four separately scored skills.

26.1 Hear ye — this one

> Recall the seven-word food payoff. Write it: य
> Then say tea and clothes.

What to know first

> ye — this

One beat. It points at the single thing in front of you and at nothing else. The source prints it in front of an ordinary noun, exactly the way the next chapters will use it: ye vastu, this item.

Every word this book has taught so far names a thing. ye does not name anything. It is the first Marwadi word here whose whole job is to pick one out.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

26.2 ये — this, on the page

Say this, then write tea.

What to know first

य + े → ये — ye — this

In चाय the glide य closed a word and carried no vowel mark. Here the same sign opens a word and carries े above the headstroke. One sign, two jobs, and nothing new to learn.

Your turn

Look at ये, cover it, wait five seconds, and write it. Check that े sits on top of the headstroke and not beside the stem.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

26.3 Hear dikhāvo — show it

Write it: ये

Then say shop and item. Write it: the word for shop

What to know first

dikhāvo — show it

Three beats: di-khā-vo, the middle one long. The middle beat carries a breath after the k that the k of kapṛā does not have. Hear both, then say both: ka — khā.

The source prints this form twice, once for a menu and once for another colour. It is the asking form used to one person across a counter, not a command shouted at anyone, and this lesson teaches the printed form rather than the whole system of asking forms behind it.

Before you move on

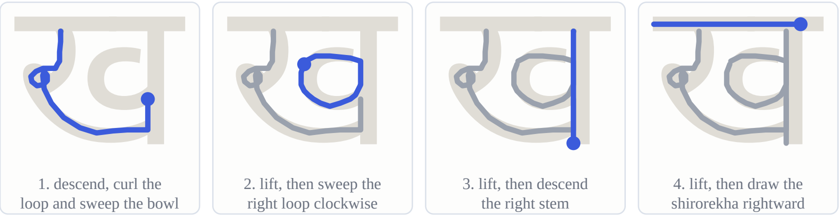
Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

26.4 ख — the breathed partner of क

Say show it, then write कपड़ा and point to its dotted ड़.

Script — one sign

How it is written — 4 strokes · 3 pen lifts · 4 movements



1. descend, curl the loop and sweep the bowl
2. lift, then sweep the right loop clockwise
3. lift, then descend the right stem
4. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after Opiaterein, 'Deva-ख-order.gif', strokes 1–4, Wikimedia Commons, 9 May 2009
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ख is written, stroke by stroke

ख — kha

The sound first, because it is the part a reader can check without a model. Say क of कपड़ा, then say it again with a puff of breath released on the release: that puff is the whole difference, and it is the difference ख records.

The sign is built under the headstroke like every sign so far, with two parts side by side and the vertical stem closing it on the right.

Your turn

Trace ख once and copy it once. Write क beside it. Say the pair aloud with a hand in front of your mouth: the breath moves your hand on ख and not on क. Cover both, wait five seconds, and write ख from that breath cue.

Before you move on

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

26.5 दिखावो — the asking word on the page

Say show it. Write it: ख, then the word for wind

What to know first

दि + खा + वो → दिखावो — dikhāvo — show it

Three groups, one for each beat you already hear. ि is written before द and read after it, the order you first met in मंदिर. वो is the व of हवा with the ो of घोड़ो.

Your turn

Read it: the three groups once

Cover: the word, then wait five seconds

Write it: the word — check the ि stands to the left of द and that ख carries ा

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

26.6 Retrieve this and show it

Recall the seven-word food payoff. Write it: the word for tea, and य

Your turn

Hear both words in both orders and give each meaning. Read it: two cards

Write it: both from sound, then circle the one sign in them that is new this chapter

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

26.7 Hear ye kapṛā dikhāvo — show me this cloth

Say clothes and goods. Write it: both words

What to know first

ye kapṛā dikhāvo — show me this cloth

Three words, and you already own all three. The pointing word first, the thing second, the ask last: that order does not change when the noun changes.

Hear the line twice. Say it once as if the cloth were on the counter in front of you.

The source prints dikhāvo with its own objects. Here it takes a noun this book has already taught, so nothing in the line is unfamiliar except the joining.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

26.8 ये कपड़ा दिखावो। — a whole line, no new sign

Say show me this cloth. Write it: the word for expensive

What to know first

ये | कपड़ा | दिखावो।

Three written words, each one already written on its own in an earlier lesson. The full stop is the । you first met in पाछे मिलसू. Nothing here is new but the joining, which is the point of the chapter.

Your turn

Read it: the line once, then cover it for ten seconds

Write it: all three words — then open the model, repair only the word that changed, and rewrite that word alone

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

26.9 Payoff — one request, three counters

Recall the seven-word shopping payoff, the five-word transport payoff, and the seven-word food payoff.

Your turn

The middle word is the only one that changes.

1. Identify which of the three lines you heard.
2. Produce all three from meaning cues alone.
3. Read it: three printed lines, then say which counter each belongs at
4. Write it: all three from dictation, without a model

Pass each skill separately. Asking to see something is one move; asking what it costs, saying it is too dear, and settling on a price are still untaught.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

26.10 Close the writing loop for ख

Recall the three-counter request payoff, then say rickshaw and flatbread.

Your turn

Write it: four single signs from sound cues, without a model — ख, य, श, ट

Three of those four have been on the page for chapters without being asked for on their own, which is why they are here.

Write it: दिखावो, ये, रिक्शा, रोटी, and चाय from dictation — repair only the missed unit and rewrite its word once

Before you move on

Chapter 27

How Much Is This? No New Signs

Modes: 🚗 voice (8) 👁 eyes (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first of 9 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can ask the price of one named thing and ask for the total at the end, at a shop counter, a food stall, or a rickshaw, using no Devanagari sign I have not already written.
> The asking word arrives by ear, joins two source-printed price questions that add no new sign, and the first of them is then run unchanged over a shopping word, a food word, and a transport word in four separately scored skills.

27.1 Hear kitṇo — how much

> Recall the three-counter request payoff. Say price and weather.
> Write it: both words, and point to the ◌ौ inside one of them

What to know first

> kitṇo — how much

Three beats: ki-tṇo, said as two in ordinary speech. The ṇ is the retroflex n already heard inside pāṇī, made with the tongue curled back.

You have known bhāv, price, since Chapter 18. kitṇo is what you say when you want somebody to tell you one.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

27.2 कितणो — the question word on the page

Say how much, write ग, then write heat.

What to know first

कि + त + णो → कितणो — kitṇo — how much

Every unit is old. The ण is the same retroflex sign that sits in the middle of पाणी, and it is what makes this word Marwadi rather than the Hindi form a reader may expect. Write पाणी and कितणो one under the other and check that the ण is drawn the same way in both.

Your turn

Look at कितणो, cover it, wait five seconds, and write it. Check the ◌ि sits before क and that the last sign carries ◌ो.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

27.3 Hear ye kitṇe kū hai? — how much is this?

Say item and cold. Write it: both words, then ड and है on their own

What to know first

ye kitṇe kū hai? — how much is this?

Four words, three of which you own: ye points, kitṇe is the asking word from the last lesson, and hai is the is you have said since Chapter 5. Between them sits kū, one short beat that does the work English does with for.

The asking word arrives as kitṇe, not kitṇo. Marwadi bends the ending of that word before kū, exactly as the source prints it; learn the whole line as one heard shape now and the bending will be taught on its own later.

Hear it twice. Say it once as if the thing you are asking about were in front of you.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

27.4 ये कितणे कू है? — the price question on the page

Say how much is this. Write it: the word for shop, then ◌ु on its own

What to know first

ये | कितणे | कू | है?

Four written words. ये and है you have written before; कितणे is last lesson's कितणो with ◌े where ◌ो stood; कू is क carrying the long ◌ू you first drew for मिलसू.

Your turn

Read it: the line once, then cover it for ten seconds

Write it: all four words — then open the model, repair only the word that changed, and rewrite that word alone

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

27.5 Retrieve the asking word and its question

Recall the three-word food payoff. Write it: ट, then the word for hard wheat rolls

Your turn

Hear the word alone and the whole question, in both orders, and give each meaning. Read it: two cards

Write it: both from sound

Then say the request from the last chapter and this question one after the other, in that order, as they would actually fall at a counter.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

27.6 Hear ye kitṇo huā? — how much altogether?

Recall the five-word shopping payoff, then say money and goods.
Write it: both words

What to know first

ye kitṇo huā? — how much is that altogether?

The same three-word shape, with huā where kū hai stood. The asking word keeps its own ending here: kitṇo, not kitṇe.

The two questions do different jobs. ye kitṇe kū hai? asks the price of one thing while you are still deciding. ye kitṇo huā? asks for the total once you have stopped choosing. Hear both, one after the other, and say which one comes last.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

27.7 ये कितणो हुआ? — the total question on the page

Write it: आ on its own, then the word for formal thanks, then the price question from the last lesson

What to know first

ये | कितणो | हुआ?

Three written words, all made of old parts. हुआ is ह carrying the short ु of दुकान, followed by the standing आ you wrote for आभार. This is the first word in the track where a full independent vowel stands inside a word rather than starting one.

Your turn

Read it: the line once, then cover it for ten seconds

Write it: the three words — check that हुआ keeps its ◌ु below the first sign and its आ at full height

> Before you move on
> Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

27.8 Payoff — one price question, three counters

Recall the three-word shopping payoff, the three-word transport payoff, and the five-word food payoff.

Your turn

Only the second word changes.

1. Identify which of the three counters you heard the question asked at.
2. Produce all three from meaning cues alone.
3. Read it: three printed lines, then match each to its counter
4. Write it: all three from dictation, then the total question once

Pass each skill separately. You can now ask to see a thing and ask what it costs. Understanding the answer, saying it is too dear, and settling on a price are still untaught.

> Before you move on
> Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

27.9 Close the writing loop for ◌ू, ण and आ

Recall the three-counter price payoff and say water. Write it: ख

Your turn

Write it: four single signs from sound cues, without a model — ◌ू, ण, आ, ई

This chapter added no sign of its own, so the four it borrowed most are the four it has to prove.

Write it: कितणो, पाणी, पाछे मिलसू, and both price questions from dictation — repair only the missed unit and rewrite its word once

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Unicode Devanagari chart.

Chapter 28

Too Dear: The Answer and the Counter

Modes: 🚗 voice (11) 👁 eyes (3) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first of 14 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say that something is very expensive and ask for it a little cheaper, completing a three-turn bargaining exchange without learning a single new Devanagari sign.
> A strengthener, a softener, and a second asking word each arrive by ear before their spelling, join two source-printed lines, and close as a three-turn exchange scored separately in listening, speaking, reading, and writing.

28.1 Hear ghaṇo — very

Recall the price payoff, the request payoff, and the six-word weather payoff, then say expensive and cheap.

What to know first

ghaṇo — very

Two beats. The first carries the breathed gh of ghar; the second carries the same retroflex ṇ as kitṇo and pāṇī.

The source prints it in front of a description, where English puts very: the food is ghaṇo tasty. Put it in front of mahaṅgo and you have said more than that a thing costs money: you have said it costs too much, which is the whole reason a bargain begins.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

28.2 घणो — very, on the page

Say very, then write home and clarified butter.

What to know first

घ + णो → घणो — ghaṇo — very

Three signs, none of them new. Write घर, घी, and घणो one under the other: the same घ opens all three. Then write कितणो beside घणो and check the णो at the end is drawn the same way in both.

Your turn

Look at घणो, cover it, wait five seconds, and write it from the sound.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

28.3 Hear ye ghaṇo mahaṅgo hai — this is very expensive

Say the price question. Write it: the words for very and expensive

Then say the sweet crumbled wheat dessert. Write it: that word too

What to know first

ye ghaṇo mahaṅgo hai — this is very expensive

Four words, every one of them already yours. ye points, ghaṇo strengthens, mahaṅgo describes, hai closes. The order is fixed: the strengthener always comes before the word it strengthens.

Say it once flat, as a fact, and once slowly, the way you would actually say it across a counter when you mean to keep talking. The words do not change; the pace does, and the pace is what tells a seller a bargain has begun.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

28.4 ये घणो महंगो है। — the reply on the page

Say this is very expensive. Write it: the word for temple, then ख

What to know first

ये | घणो | महंगो | है।

Four written words, each written before. The dot above महंगो is the same ं that sits in मंदिर; it is the only mark in the line that is easy to drop, so check for it last.

Your turn

Read it: the line once, then cover it for ten seconds

Write it: all four words — then open the model, check the dot first, and repair only the word that changed

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

28.5 Retrieve the question and the reply

Recall the seven-word food payoff. Write it: य, the word for lentils, then the total question from the last chapter

Your turn

Hear the two lines in the wrong order and say which one has to come first. Give both meanings. Read it: two cards

Write it: both from sound, one under the other, and read the pair aloud as a single exchange

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

28.6 Hear thoṛu — a little

Recall the three-word transport payoff, then say cart and bus.
Write it: both words

What to know first

thoṛu — a little

Two beats. The first is the breathed th of ṭhelā; the middle carries the flapped ṛ you already say inside kapṛā and ghoṛo.

Hold it against ghaṇo, which you learned four lessons ago. ghaṇo makes a word bigger; thoṛu makes an amount smaller. A seller hears the difference at once, and it is the difference between complaining about a price and offering to meet it.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

28.7 थोड़ु — a little, on the page

Say a little, then write clothes and horse.

What to know first

थो + ड़ु → थोड़ु — thoṛu — a little

Three of this track's most easily confused marks meet in four signs. ड़ is ड with the nukta under it, exactly as in कपड़ा and घोड़ो; the short ◌ु hangs beneath it. Write कपड़ा, घोड़ो, and थोड़ु in a column and check that all three dots sit at the same height.

Your turn

Look at थोड़ु, cover it, wait five seconds, and write it. Check the dot, then the ◌ु below it.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

28.8 Hear karo — make it

Recall the seven-word shopping payoff. Write it: the words for a little and cheap

What to know first

karo — make it; do it

Two beats, and the ending is one you have already heard. Say dikhāvo and karo one after the other: both close on the same -o, because both are the same kind of asking word, said to one person across a counter.

dikhāvo asks somebody to show you a thing. karo asks them to make something so — and what they are to make it, you say in front of the word.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

28.9 करो — make it, on the page

Say make it, write राम, write ख, then write how much and very.

What to know first

क + रो → करो — karo — make it

Three signs, and the middle one is र, the very first sign this book taught. Set करो beside ख and say both: क and ख differ only by breath, and only one of them belongs in this word.

Your turn

Look at करो, cover it, wait five seconds, and write it from the sound. Check that you wrote क and not ख.

> Before you move on
> Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

28.10 Hear thoṛu sasto karo — make it a little cheaper

> Say this is very expensive, then say item and cheap. Write it: both words

What to know first

> thoṛu sasto karo — make it a little cheaper

Three words, all yours: thoṛu shrinks the amount, sasto is the sastā you learned in Chapter 19, and karo asks.

The source prints sasto here, with -o rather than the -ā the earlier lesson taught. Both forms are used; the ending shifts with what the word is describing. Learn the printed line as it stands, and treat sastā and sasto as the same word wearing two endings rather than two different words.

Say the whole exchange in order: ask the price, say it is too much, then this.

> Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

28.11 थोड़ु सस्तो करो। — the counter-offer on the page

Write it: ◌् on its own, then the words for wife and item — point to the vowel-killer in each

What to know first

थोड़ु | सस्तो | करो।

Three written words. सस्तो is the सस्ता of Chapter 19 with ◌ो where ◌ा stood; its vowel-killer between the two स does not move. The stop at the end is the । you have written since Chapter 9.

Your turn

Read it: the line once, then cover it for ten seconds

Write it: all three words — then open the model and check two marks first, the dot under ड़ and the vowel-killer inside सस्तो, and repair only the word that changed

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

28.12 Retrieve a little and make it

Recall the five-word transport payoff. Write it: the words for vehicle and very

Your turn

Hear each word alone, out of its line, and give its meaning. Read it: two cards

Write it: both from sound

Then rebuild the whole counter-offer from those two words plus the one you already had, and say it once at speaking pace.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

28.13 Payoff — ask, react, counter

Recall the price payoff and the seven-word shopping payoff. Write it: the word for clothes

Your turn

Three turns, in this order and no other.

1. Hear the three lines shuffled and put them back in order.
2. Produce all three from meaning cues, as one continuous exchange.
3. Read it: the three printed lines, then say who speaks which
4. Write it: all three from dictation, without a model

Pass each skill separately. You can now open a price, react to it, and make one counter-offer. Hearing a number in reply, agreeing a final price, and paying are still untaught.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

28.14 Close the writing loop for ◌़, ◌् and ◌ं

Recall the three-turn bargaining payoff and say expensive. Write it: ख

Your turn

Three marks change a word without adding a letter, and all three are easy to lose. Write it: each on its own from a spoken cue — the dot under a letter, the vowel-killer, the dot above the headstroke

Write it: थोड़ु, कपड़ा, पत्नी, बच्चा, and महंगो from dictation, marking which of the three you used in each; finish with both lines of this chapter — repair only the missed mark and rewrite its word once

Before you move on

Chapter 29

Take the Money: Closing the Bargain

Modes: 🚗 voice (11) 👁 eyes (3) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first of 14 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can ask for a final price and hand over the money, so that a purchase runs from asking to see a thing all the way to paying for it, without learning a new Devanagari sign.
> Take and give arrive as a one-beat pair, the word for final joins them, and the two closing lines of a purchase are scored separately in listening, speaking, reading, and writing.

29.1 Hear lo — take it

> Recall the bargaining payoff and the three-word shopping payoff.
> Write it: the words for price and make it

What to know first

> lo — take it

One beat, and the third asking word in this track. Say dikhāvo, karo, lo in a row: all three end on the same -o, and that ending is your signal that a word is asking somebody to do something.

lo is the word that closes a deal rather than opening one. It is what the person handing something over says, and what you say when you accept.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.2 लो — take it, on the page

Say take it, then write cloud and cart.

What to know first

ल + ो → लो — lo — take it

Two signs. The ल ends बादल and opens ठेला; here it stands alone with the ो you put on the end of करो.

Your turn

Look at लो, cover it, wait five seconds, and write it from the sound. Write करो beneath it and check that both end with the same mark.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.3 Hear paisā le lo — take the money

Recall the five-word shopping payoff and say the counter-offer.
Write it: the words for goods, money, and take it

What to know first

paisā le lo — take the money

paisā has been yours since Chapter 14 and has had nothing to do until now. Here it is what you are handing over, and le lo is the taking, said as two short beats that run together in ordinary speech.

Say the three turns you already have, then this one. That is a whole purchase, from asking to see a thing to paying for it, and every word in it was taught before this chapter except lo.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.4 पैसा ले लो। — the payment line on the page

Write it: ै on its own, then the words for what and this

What to know first

पैसा | ले | लो।

The same ल stands twice in a row, once with े and once with ो. Read it: the pair slowly and watch only the mark

It is the mark, not the letter, that tells the two words apart.

Your turn

Read it: the line once, then cover it for ten seconds

Write it: all three words — then open the model and check the two marks on the two ल before anything else

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.5 Retrieve take it and the payment line

Recall the three-counter request payoff. Write it: the request itself, then the words for how much and clarified butter

Your turn

Hear the word alone and the whole line, in both orders, and give each meaning. Read it: two cards

Write it: both from sound

Then say the line at speaking pace as if the money were in your hand.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.6 Hear do — give

> Recall the seven-word shopping payoff. Write it: the word for shop, then the word for take it

What to know first

> do — give

One beat, like lo, and the same -o ending as every asking word so far. The two are a pair worth holding together: lo asks somebody to take, do asks them to give.

Say them alternately, four times, picturing the matching hand each time: taking for lo, giving for do. If the picture stops matching the word, slow down until it does.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.7 दो — give, on the page

> Say give, then write lentils and paternal grandfather.

What to know first

> द + ◌ो → दो — do — give

Two signs, and the द is the one that opens दाल and दादा. Write दो and लो side by side: same mark, different letter, opposite meanings. That pair is worth keeping on one line in your notes.

Your turn

Look at the pair, cover it, wait five seconds, and write both words from their meanings rather than their sounds: first give, then take it.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.8 Hear ākhrī — final

Write it: the counter-offer, then ख and the words for horse and give

What to know first

ākhrī — final; last

Three beats. The second carries the breathed kh you first met inside dikhāvo; say both words in a row and check that the breath falls in the same place.

A counter-offer can be answered with another counter-offer forever. ākhrī is the word that says this one is the end of it, and it is why the question in the next lesson gets a different kind of answer from the first price question.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.9 आखरी — final, on the page

Say final, then write formal thanks and heat.

What to know first

आ + ख + री → आखरी — ākhrī — final

Four signs, all secure. The word opens on the standing आ of आभार, and its second sign is the ख you traced for दिखावो. Write दिखावो and आखरी one under the other and check that the ख is drawn the same way in both.

Your turn

Look at आखरी, cover it, wait five seconds, and write it from the sound. Check the standing आ is at full height and the ी reaches above the headstroke.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.10 Hear kitṇo ākhrī bhāv doge? — what final price?

Say the first price question. Write it: the words for how much, price, final, and give

What to know first

kitṇo ākhrī bhāv doge? — what final price will you give?

Four words, four of them yours in some form. kitṇo asks, ākhrī closes, bhāv is the price you have been able to name since Chapter 18, and doge is the do of the last lesson with an ending that puts it in the future: not give, but will you give.

Learn the line as one heard shape. The ending on doge is real Marwadi machinery and it gets its own lesson later; taking it whole now costs nothing, because do has already been taught on its own.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.11 कितणो आखरी भाव दोगे? — the closing question on the page

Write it: भ and ग on their own, then the word for brother

What to know first

कितणो | आखरी | भाव | दोगे?

Four written words. Three you have written alone; the fourth, दोगे, is the दो of two lessons ago with गे added. Write it: दो and दोगे one above the other, so the added part is the only difference on the page

Your turn

Read it: the line once, then cover it for ten seconds

Write it: all four words — then open the model, repair only the word that changed, and rewrite that word alone

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.12 Retrieve give and final

Recall the five-word shopping payoff. Write it: the word for cheap, then the total question

Your turn

Hear each word out of its line and give its meaning. The three cards say दो, लो, आखरी. Read it: the three cards

Write it: all three from sound

Then rebuild the closing question from them and say it once at speaking pace.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.13 Payoff — close the bargain and pay

Recall the three-turn bargaining payoff. Write it: the words for money, price, and goods

Your turn

Two turns, and they only work in this order.

1. Hear both lines and say which one the buyer says and which one ends the exchange.
2. Produce both from meaning cues, straight after the three turns of Chapter 28.

3. Read it: both printed lines, then point to the two words that mean give and take
4. Write it: both from dictation, without a model

Pass each skill separately. A five-turn purchase now runs end to end. Nothing here understands a number: the amount a seller actually names is still untaught, and so is refusing the final price and walking away.

29.14 Close the writing loop for ◌े, ◌ो and ◌ी

> Recall the closing payoff. Write it: the words for paternal grandmother, maternal grandmother, and cart

Your turn

Write it: the three marks on their own from spoken cues — above the headstroke, after the stem, and reaching above the line; then add ख from its breath cue

Write it: लो, दो, ले, आखरी, and both lines of this chapter from dictation — in this chapter a mark rather than a letter often carries the meaning, so check every mark before you check any letter

Chapter 30

Bring It Over: The Food Counter's Own Word

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) 👁 eyes (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first of 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can order any of the seven food words this book has taught, and tell the five asking words apart by the job each one does.
> The asking word a food counter needs arrives by ear, joins a food noun in the shortest complete sentence this track writes, and the five asking words taught so far are then separated by job in four separately scored skills.

30.1 Hear lāvo — bring it

> Recall the closing payoff and the three-word transport payoff.
> Write it: the words for bus and make it

What to know first

> lāvo — bring it

Two beats, and the fourth asking word in this track. Say them in the order you met them: dikhāvo, karo, lo, do, lāvo. Every one ends the same way.

lāvo is the one a food counter needs. You do not ask for tea to be shown to you; you ask for it to be brought. The source prints it with a food word, which is exactly where the next lesson puts it.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

30.2 लावो — bring it, on the page

Say bring it, then write wind and show it.

What to know first

ला + वो → लावो — lāvo — bring it

Three signs, none new. Its ending वो is the same one that closes दिखावो. Write लो and लावो one under the other: same first letter, and everything after it is what separates taking from bringing.

Your turn

Look at the pair, cover it, wait five seconds, and write both from their meanings: first take it, then bring it.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

30.3 Hear chāy lāvo — bring tea

Recall the seven-word food payoff and say the request from Chapter 26. Write it: the words for the sweet crumbled wheat dessert, tea, and bring it

What to know first

chāy lāvo — bring tea

Two words. The food comes first and the asking word last, the same order you already use in ye kapṛā dikhāvo, with the pointing word left out because you are not choosing between cups in front of you.

Any of the seven food words fits the first slot. Say the line three times, with chāy, then roṭī, then dāl, and notice that nothing else in it moves.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

30.4 चाय लावो। — the order on the page

Write it: ट, then the words for flatbread and hard wheat rolls

What to know first

चाय | लावो।

Two written words and a stop. Write it: the same line twice more, replacing चाय with रोटी and then with बाटी

Only the first word changes, and you have written all three of those words before.

Your turn

Read it: the line once, then cover it for ten seconds

Write it: the line; then the two variants from memory — check that लावो is identical in all three

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

30.5 Retrieve bring it against the other four

Write it: the words for very and a little

Then say which one makes a description stronger.

Your turn

Five asking words are now in play. Hear them shuffled and give each meaning. The five cards say दिखावो, करो, लो, दो, लावो. Read it: the five cards

Write it: all five from sound, then the tea order

Say which of the five the tea order uses.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

30.6 Payoff — five asking words, five jobs

Recall the three-counter request payoff. Write it: the request itself

Your turn

All five end in the same sound and none of them is interchangeable.

1. Hear all five shuffled and name each one's job.
2. Produce all five from their jobs alone, without the sounds.
3. Read it: five cards, then match each to one line you already know
4. Write it: all five from dictation, then the tea order, the counter-offer, and the closing question that asks for a final price

Pass each skill separately. Five ways to ask is not five ways to be understood: refusing, thanking somebody for doing it, and asking again more softly are all still untaught.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

30.7 Close the writing loop for ल, व and च

Recall the five-word asking payoff. Write it: the words for child and wind

Your turn

Write it: five single signs from sound cues, ल, व, च, छ, ख, and mark which two carry the breath

Two of those five are breathed partners of the two before them. Say all five.

Write it: लावो, लो, दिखावो, चाय लावो।, and पाछे मिलसू from dictation — repair only the missed sign and rewrite its word once

Before you move on

Chapter 31

One Exchange, Three Counters

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can run one five-turn counter exchange over the shopping, transport, and food words this book has already taught, changing nothing but the noun.
> Each of the three noun sets is run through the exchange in turn, the five least-drilled signs are retrieved alone, and the whole five-turn exchange then passes separately in listening, speaking, reading, and writing.

31.1 The shopping map, inside the exchange

> Recall all three shopping payoffs in the order they were earned: three words, five words, seven words.

Your turn

Take the seven shopping words one at a time. For each one, say its meaning, then put it into the request from Chapter 26 and the price question from Chapter 27. Two of the seven do not fit a request slot at all: name them and say why.

Write it: all seven from dictation, then the two lines you built with the word that fits them best

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

31.2 The transport map, inside the exchange

> Recall both transport payoffs and say lentils. Write it: the total question

Your turn

Take the five transport words one at a time. Say each meaning, then price it with the question from Chapter 27 and answer with the counter-offer from Chapter 28. A fare is bargained exactly like a price, which is why no new line is needed here.

Write it: all five from dictation, then the price question with the word you would actually use standing at a roadside

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

31.3 The food map, inside the ordering line

> Recall all three food payoffs in the order they were earned. Write it: ट and य

Your turn

Take the seven food words one at a time. Say each meaning, then order it with the line from Chapter 30 and price it with the question from Chapter 27. Only the first word of the order changes; the asking word never does.

Write it: all seven from dictation, then three complete orders — the one you would ask for first, the one you would ask for last, and the drink

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

31.4 Five signs, on their own

> Recall the six-word weather payoff. Write it: the words for weather, heat, and cold

Your turn

Some signs in this track have been read a hundred times inside words and asked for on their own only once. This lesson asks for them alone, which is the only way to know whether they were learned.

Write it: each from a spoken cue, with nothing else on the line — ख, ट, श, ड़, ◌ौ, ग, ड, ◌ु, ई

Write it: one word that carries each — आखरी, रोटी, रिक्शा, थोड़ु, मौसम, गर्मी, ठंडी, दुकान, घी; repair only the missed sign and rewrite its word once

Before you move on

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

31.5 Payoff — one exchange, three counters

> Recall the five payoffs of this slice in order. Write it: the word for clarified butter

Your turn

Five turns, and the only thing that changes between counters is the noun.

1. Hear the five turns shuffled and put them in order, twice: once with a shopping noun, once with a transport noun.
2. Produce the whole exchange from meaning cues at a food stall, using the ordering line in place of the first turn.
3. Read it: all five printed turns, then say who speaks each
4. Write it: the whole exchange from dictation, without a model

Pass each skill separately. This is one function taught once and reused over three noun sets, not three exchanges learned three times. It still stops where numbers begin: no amount a seller names can yet be understood, and refusing the final price and leaving is untaught.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

31.6 Close the writing loop for ख

> Recall the five-turn exchange payoff. Write it: the words for vegetables and clarified butter

Your turn

Write it: ख and क from breath cues alone, with nothing else on the line

Write it: four words from dictation, marking which of the two each one uses — दिखावो, आखरी, करो, कितणो

Two take the breath and two do not.

Write it: every word this slice added, from meaning cues rather than sounds — ये, लो, दो, लावो, घणो, थोड़ु, and the five turns of the exchange; repair only what was missed and rewrite that alone

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Unicode Devanagari chart.

Chapter 32

Counting To Five, And The One New Sign

Modes: 🚗 voice (9) 👁 eyes (4) ✒ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: none of the 14 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can hear, say, read, and write the numbers one to five, after learning only ए.
> One new letter is isolated, then five numbers are built on signs the hand already had, and all five pass separately in listening, speaking, reading, and writing.

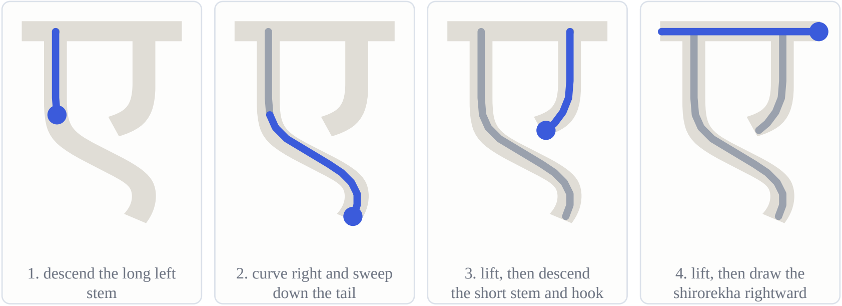
32.1 ए — the mark, standing on its own

Write vegetables, then final, then पाछे मिलसू. Point at the stroke above the head-line in each one.

Script — the standing vowel

How it is written — 3 strokes · 2 pen lifts · 4 movements



1. descend the long left stem

2. curve right and sweep down the tail

3. lift, then descend the short stem and hook

4. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after Saurmandal, 'Devanagari ए stroke order.svg', panels 1–3, Wikimedia Commons, 5 August 2023
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ए is written, stroke by stroke

Since chapter 7 the hand has made ◌े — a short stroke hung above the head-line, riding on a consonant. It never stands by itself, because a mark is what a vowel looks like when a consonant is already carrying it.

ए — e — the same vowel with no consonant under it

A vowel that begins a word has nobody to ride on, so Devanagari gives it a letter of its own. Chapter 2 isolated आ for आभार and chapter 6 isolated ई for the same reason. ए is the third standing vowel this book has needed, and the first number is what needs it.

Your turn

Trace ए three times, then write ◌े beside it and say which of the two needs a consonant. Finish with क, which the next lesson puts to the right of ए.

Before you move on

This is the only sign the whole run of numbers adds.
Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Unicode Devanagari chart.

32.2 Hear ek — one

Say final, say the final-price question, say bring it. Write it: the letter from the last lesson

What to know first

ek — one

One beat, and the vowel is the one whose letter the hand made a moment ago.

A seller has been naming amounts since chapter 27 and this book has been unable to hear a single one of them. That stops here. ek is the first of twelve number words this slice teaches.

ek also does work inside numbers far larger than itself. Marwari counts down to a round number as readily as up from one: the dictionary records ekuṇcālīs for thirty-nine — one short of forty. Learn ek and a piece of thirty-nine comes with it.

> Before you move on
> Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

32.3 एक — one on the page

Recall the three-word food payoff, write the word for final, and write ए.

What to know first

ए + क → एक — ek — one

Nothing joins and nothing changes shape. The standing vowel keeps its own head -line stroke, क keeps its, and the two run together under one line.

Your turn

Look at एक, cover it, wait five seconds, write it. Check that the vowel letter, not the mark, is standing on the left.

> Before you move on
> Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

32.4 Hear do — two

Run the five-turn counter exchange in your head, say the final-price payoff, then say one.

What to know first

do — two

Chapter 29 taught do as an asking word: hand it over. This is the same sound and it will be the same two signs, with a second job.

Nothing marks which one is meant except where it stands. Before a thing, do counts it. After a thing, in a request, do asks for it. A learner who has met both hears the difference from the shape of the sentence, not from the word.

Rajasthani also prints बे (be) for two, alongside do. Both are in use; this book counts with do and names be so a printed page holding it is not a surprise.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

32.5 दो — two on the page

Say flatbread, say the bring request, then say two.

What to know first

द + ो → दो — do — two

The hand made this word in chapter 29. What is new is on the meaning side only: one written form, two jobs.

That is worth stating plainly, because it is why a page of Marwari can look as though it contains no numbers at all. A reader counting occurrences of दो across this book finds seventeen of them, and every one is the asking word. The number had never been taught.

Your turn

Write it: एक and दो one under the other; then पाणी दो। underneath, and mark which दो counts

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

32.6 Hear tīn — three

Recall the five-word asking payoff, say water, then count as far as this book has taken you.

What to know first

tīn — three

The vowel is long, and it is the same long vowel the ear learned in pāṇī in chapter 4. Hold it. A short one turns the number into something else.

Count aloud: ek, do, tīn. Three words in, and two of them arrived with no new sign for the hand at all.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

32.7 तीन — three on the page

Say the final-price question. Write flatbread and put a finger on its retroflex ट. Then write one and two.

What to know first

त + ी + न → तीन — tīn — three

The त here is the dental one, made with the tongue against the teeth — not the ट of रोटी, which is made further back. The two look different on the page and sound different in the mouth, and three uses the front one.

Your turn

Look at तीन, cover it, wait five seconds, write it. Then write ट beside त and say which one three needs.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

32.8 Hear chār — four

Say the hard wheat roll, say child, then count to three.

What to know first

chār — four

Say it and listen for the breath. There is no puff of air on the opening consonant. That plain ch is the one बच्चा doubles.

Hold on to that, because the next chapter opens six with the same consonant carrying a puff. In Marwari, four and six begin a breath apart.

Count: ek, do, tīn, chār.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

32.9 चार — four on the page

Write the hard wheat roll, write the final-price question, then write three.

What to know first

च + ◌ा + र → चार — chār — four

र was the first sign this book ever asked the hand to make, in chapter 1, on the way to राम. Thirty-one chapters later it closes the fourth number. Every sign in चार is older than the market this number is for.

Your turn

Look at चार, cover it, wait five seconds, write it. Then write एक, दो, तीन, चार as a column and read the column back upward.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

32.10 Hear pāṅch — five

> Recall the five-word food payoff and the four-skill final-price payoff, answer yes respectfully, then say four.

What to know first

pāṅch — five

The vowel is nasal: the air goes out through the nose as well as the mouth. The ear met that in हां सा in chapter 3, and five is the first number to use it.

Four and five also close and open on the same consonant. chār begins with the plain ch; pāṅch ends with it. Say them back to back and hear the sound move from the front of one word to the back of the other.

Count the whole set: ek, do, tīn, chār, pāṅch.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

32.11 पांच — five on the page

> Write the respectful yes, write four, say the bring-it word, and recall the five-word food payoff.

What to know first

प + ◌ा + ◌ं + च → पांच — pāṅch — five

The dot above the head-line is the anusvara from chapter 3. It sits over हां and it sits over पां for the same reason: the vowel under it is nasal.

That is the whole cost of the first five numbers — one letter, ए, and one mark the hand had already been making since the third chapter.

Your turn

Look at पांच, cover it, wait five seconds, write it. Check the dot. Then write चार beneath it and mark the च in both.

> Before you move on
> Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

32.12 The five, taken apart

> Run the five-turn counter exchange and ask the price question aloud. Write it: the bring-it word, then ए

Your turn

A run learned forwards is not yet a set of five words. Break it:

1. Hear one number on its own and say what it is. Then another, out of order.
2. Count backwards from five.
3. Read it: the five printed shuffled, then say each
4. Write it: तीन, पांच, एक, चार, दो from dictation, in that order

Write it: once more, only the one that missed

> Before you move on
> Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

32.13 Payoff — counting to five

> Say the crumbled wheat sweet, and say the bring request. Write it: the one letter this chapter added

Your turn

Four skills, scored separately.

1. Listening. Hear five numbers named singly and out of order. Write it: which was said each time, in figures of your own language
2. Speaking. Count one to five, then five to one, without a model.
3. Read it: the five printed in Devanagari, shuffled, then say each
4. Writing. Write it: all five from dictation, shuffled, with no model in view

Pass each one separately. A learner who can recite forwards and fails the shuffle has learned a rhyme, not five words.

This is the first amount the book can hear a seller name. What it still cannot do is hear anything above five, and a Rajasthani market prices very little at five or under.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

32.14 Close the writing loop for ए, क and च

> Recall the counting payoff and the five-word asking payoff. Write it: the word for the crumbled wheat sweet

Your turn

Write it: three single signs from sound cues — ए, क, च; then the mark ◌े beside ए

Say which of the two can stand at the front of a word.

Write it: एक, दो, तीन, चार, पांच from dictation, shuffled — repair only the missed sign and rewrite its word once

Before you move on

Chapter 33

Six To Ten

Modes: 🚗 voice (9) 👁 eyes (4) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 3 of 13 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can hear, say, read, and write every number from one to ten, in any order.
> Five more numbers arrive with no new sign at all, and the whole run of ten is then scored shuffled in each of the four skills.

33.1 Hear chha — six

Recall the counting payoff, say tea, then say four.

- Recall: chār from the last chapter, and its plain ch, the one with no puff of air

What to know first

chha — six

Listen for the breath again. chār moves nothing. chha pushes a puff of air out with the consonant.

That single difference is the whole of it. The tongue does the same thing in both words; the lungs do not. Marwari keeps that contrast everywhere, and here it separates two numbers that sit next to each other on a price ticket.

The same number is also printed chhe, with a vowel mark after the consonant. Both are in use; count with the bare form for now and read the other when a page prints it.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

33.2 छ — six on the page

Write it: य, then ए, then the word for four

What to know first

छ — chha — six

One sign, made in chapter 9, and nothing added to it.

The other printed spelling is छे, and it is worth a moment. That is छ with the mark of the letter chapter 32 taught — the same vowel, riding on a consonant instead of standing alone. It is also, exactly, the second syllable of पाछे. A chunk the hand has been writing since chapter 9 turns out to be a number.

Your turn

Write it: छ, then छे beneath it, then ए beside both

Say which of the three stands alone and which two need something under them.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Unicode Devanagari chart.

33.3 Hear sāt — seven

Give the greeting this book opened with, then say six and three.

- Recall: tīn and its long vowel, two chapters back

What to know first

sāt — seven

The first syllable is sā. That is the respect particle at the end of राम-राम सा, the first thing this book ever taught. The sound has been in the ear since page one; only its job here is new.

Seven closes on the dental t of tīn, not the retroflex one. Front of the mouth at both ends.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

33.4 सात — seven on the page

Write tea, then write six.

What to know first

सा + त → सात — sāt — seven

सा was the second word-piece this book asked the hand to build, in chapter

1. Seven is that piece with a dental त after it, and nothing else.

Your turn

Look at सात, cover it, wait five seconds, write it. Then write तीन under it and mark the त in both.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

33.5 Hear āṭh — eight

Recall the seven-word food payoff, offer formal thanks, then say seven.

- Recall: chār and pāñch, and which of the two carries a nasal

What to know first

āṭh — eight

It opens on the long ā of आभार, standing on its own with no consonant in front of it. Of the ten numbers this slice teaches, eight is the only one that does that.

The closing consonant is retroflex: the tongue curls back, as in ठंडी. Do not close it at the teeth, or seven and eight begin to sound alike.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

33.6 आठ — eight on the page

Write formal thanks, then write seven.

What to know first

आ + ठ → आठ — āṭh — eight

Two letters, both of them years old in this book's own timeline: आ from chapter 2 and ठ from chapter 17. Nothing is joined, nothing is marked.

Compare सात and आठ side by side. Seven takes the vowel as a mark on a consonant; eight takes the same vowel as a letter, because there is no consonant for it to sit on.

Your turn

Look at आठ, cover it, wait five seconds, write it. Then write सात above it and circle the long ā in each.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

33.7 Hear no — nine

Say this one, say very, then say eight.

- Recall: ek and the letter ए you had to learn to write it

What to know first

no — nine

One consonant, one long vowel, and it rhymes with do. Two and nine are the only numbers in this run that short.

This is not the English word no. Marwadi has not yet given this book any word for refusing at all, which is a real gap and not a spelling accident: a learner who mishears no as a refusal will walk away from a fair price.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

33.8 नो — nine on the page

Write this one, then write eight.

What to know first

न + ो → नो — no — nine

Write दो and नो one under the other. The mark on the right is the same in both. Only the letter carrying it changes, and with it the number.

Your turn

Look at नो, cover it, wait five seconds, write it. Then write दो beside it and read the pair aloud without looking.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

33.9 Hear das — ten

Say show it to me, say five, then say nine.

- Recall: chha and the puff of air that separates it from chār

What to know first

das — ten

Short vowel this time, closed off at once by s. Nothing is held.

das is the first number in this book that a Rajasthani market is likely to say out loud. Almost nothing on a stall is priced under ten, which is why a course that stopped at five could ask the price four different ways and still not understand the answer.

The comparative dictionary of the Indo-Aryan languages lists this form for Marwari by name, under the Sanskrit word for ten.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

33.10 दस — ten on the page

Write ख, then write nine.

What to know first

द + स → दस — das — ten

Bare consonants. No mark rides above the line and none hangs below it, because the vowel between them is the short a that every Devanagari consonant carries without being told.

The द is two's; the स is seven's. Ten is written out of pieces the hand already made for other numbers.

Your turn

Look at दस, cover it, wait five seconds, write it. Then write दो beside it and say what the mark on the second one does to the vowel.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

33.11 Ten words, shuffled

Write it: the show-request word

Recall the counting payoff from the last chapter. Write it: ए

Your turn

Two runs of five are still two runs until they are mixed.

1. Hear ten numbers named singly, drawn from across the whole set, and say each.
2. Count backwards from ten to one.
3. Read it: आठ, तीन, दस, छ, एक, नो printed in that order, then say each
4. Write it: सात, पांच, नो, दो, दस from dictation

Then say which pairs share a sign: two and nine, seven and ten, four and five.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

33.12 Payoff — counting to ten

Recall the five-number payoff. Write it: the letter that made it possible

Your turn

Four skills, scored separately.

1. Listening. Hear ten numbers named singly and out of order. Write it: each in figures of your own language

2. Speaking. Count one to ten, then ten to one, with no model.
3. Read it: all ten printed in Devanagari, shuffled, then say each
4. Writing. Write it: all ten from dictation, shuffled, with no model in view

Pass each one separately.

Look back at what the hand had to learn for this: one letter, ए. Every other sign in all ten words was already in the book. A reader who felt the numbers were going to be a wall of new writing has the evidence in front of them that they were not.

33.13 Close the writing loop for छ, ठ and स

Recall the ten-number payoff and say the show request. Write it: the word for market

Your turn

Write it: three single signs from sound cues — छ, ठ, स; then च beside छ, and mark which of the two carries the breath

Write it: छ, सात, आठ, नो, दस from dictation — repair only the missed sign and rewrite its word once

Chapter 34

Twenty, A Hundred, And A Price With A Figure In It

Modes: voice (7) eyes (4) Hands-free start: the first of 11 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can understand the amount a seller names and answer it with a figure of my own.
> The round amounts a stall names are taught, the price question of chapter 27 finally gets an answer, and an old verb takes a figure to become a counter-offer.

34.1 Hear bīs — twenty

Recall the ten-number payoff. Write it: the show request

Then say ten.

- Recall: chār and pāṅch, two chapters back, and the च they share

What to know first

bīs — twenty

Long ī, then the same closing s as das. Marwari marks its tens with that s: das, bīs.

Twenty arrives before the numbers between ten and twenty, and that is not an accident of ordering. Marwari builds nineteen by subtraction — ughaṇīs, one short of twenty — the same way the dictionary records ekuṇcālīs, one short of forty, for thirty-nine. A language that counts down to its round numbers has to be taught the round number first. Teaching the teens before twenty would print twenty in bold in a lesson that had not taught it.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

34.2 बीस — twenty on the page

Recall the four-skill show payoff, then write ten.

What to know first

ब + ी + स → बीस — bīs — twenty

Every piece is second-hand. ब came in with बस, the bus. ी came in with पाणी. स closes दस as well.

Write दस and बीस one under the other and look at the last sign of each.

Your turn

Look at बीस, cover it, wait five seconds, write it. Then write दस and तीन beneath and mark the long ी where it appears.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

34.3 Hear so — a hundred

Say how much, say twenty, then say nine.

- Recall: chha and sāt, two chapters back, and where each closes

What to know first

so — a hundred

One consonant and one long vowel. The largest number this book teaches is the shortest word in it.

Say do, no, so. Two, nine, a hundred: all three are one consonant plus the same long o, and nothing but that consonant tells them apart. At a noisy counter this is where a price gets misheard, so it is worth drilling the three together rather than in the order they were taught.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

34.4 सो — a hundred on the page

Say how much, then write twenty.

What to know first

स + ◌ो → सो — so — a hundred

Now write the three short ones in a column: दो, नो, सो. The mark on the right never changes. The letter on the left is the entire difference between two, nine and a hundred.

That column is worth keeping. It is the one place in this book where a single mistaken stroke changes a price by a factor of fifty.

Your turn

Write दो, नो, सो from dictation, given out of order, three times over. Then read your own column back and say each amount.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

34.5 Hear the answer — bīs.

Write it: the words for how much

Then say a hundred and twenty.

- Recall: āṭh and no, two chapters back, and which of the two opens on a standing vowel

What to know first

ye kitṇe kū hai? — how much is this?

bīs. — twenty.

Chapter 27 taught the question. The answer had no words in it, so a learner who asked got a sound back and nothing else.

The answer turn is one word long. A seller names the figure and stops; there is no verb, no unit, no sentence. That is what makes it hearable — the whole of it is a number, and this book now has twelve of them.

Hear the same question answered das, bīs, so in turn and say which is dearest.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

34.6 ये कितणे कू है? — बीस।

Say the price question. Write it: the words for ten and a hundred

What to know first

ये कितणे कू है? — बीस।

The question was writable in chapter 27. The answer became writable two lessons ago. Putting them on one line adds no sign at all.

Note the danda after the answer. A price is a complete turn even at one word long, and Devanagari closes it the same way it closes a sentence.

Your turn

Write it: the question and answer as two lines; then the answer line three more times, with दस, बीस and सो in turn, and read each pair aloud

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

34.7 Hear das karo — make it ten

Write it: the price question

Say make it, then say five.

- Recall: das, and the two bare consonants it is written with

What to know first

das karo. — make it ten.

Chapter 28 taught thoṛu sasto karo — make it a bit cheaper. That is a wish. It names no figure, so the seller decides what a bit means.

Put a number where thoṛu sasto stood and the same verb becomes an offer. The buyer names the price now.

Hear the pair run end to end: the seller says bīs, the buyer says das karo. This is the first exchange in the book where both sides have said an amount.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

34.8 दस करो। — make it ten

Write it: the price answer, then the word for twenty on its own

What to know first

दस + करो। → दस करो। — das karo. — make it ten

Nothing new for the hand. करो came in with the bargaining request, दस came in two chapters ago, and the number goes in front.

Swap the figure and the offer changes: पांच करो।, बीस करो।. The verb never moves.

Your turn

Write it: दस करो। from a cover; then the same line twice more with पांच and बीस in the number slot, and read all three aloud as offers against a seller's सो।

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

34.9 The three round amounts

Ask how much altogether, hear twenty, and offer ten.

Your turn

1. Hear दस, बीस, सो in any order and say each.
2. Say which two share a closing sign, and which two share a vowel mark.
3. Write the three-way column दो, नो, सो and read it back.
4. Write दस, बीस, सो from dictation, given out of order.

Then run four counter-offers: hear a price, halve it, and say the offer.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

34.10 Payoff — a price, understood and answered

Write it: the total question and the make-it word

Then recall the ten-number payoff.

Your turn

Three turns, scored in four skills.

1. Listening. Hear the price question answered with a figure, ten times over with different figures. Write it: each amount
2. Speaking. Ask the price, hear a figure, and answer with a counter-offer that names a lower one.
3. Read it: six printed exchanges, then say, for each, what the seller asked and what the buyer offered
4. Writing. Write it: a whole three-turn exchange from dictation, with no model

Pass each separately.

This is what the numbers were for. Chapters 26 to 31 built a five-turn counter exchange in which the buyer could ask a price four different ways and understand no answer to any of them. The turn that was missing was one word long.

Still untaught: any figure between ten and twenty, and any way of refusing an offer and walking away.

34.11 Close the writing loop for ब, स and ो

> Recall the numbered-price payoff, then recall the four-skill price payoff from chapter 27 and say what the second one could not do.

Your turn

Write two single signs and one mark from sound cues: ब, स, ो.

Then write दो, नो, सो as a column, given out of order, and finish with बीस and दस करो। from dictation. Repair only the missed sign and rewrite its word once.

Chapter 35

The Ten Digit Signs

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) ↙ pen (4) 🚗 Hands-free start: none of the 10 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can read a price written in Devanagari figures and write one from dictation.
> Ten digit signs arrive three at a time, each set cashed against the words it writes, and the four that a Latin eye reads wrongly are drilled apart from the six that it guesses correctly.

35.1 ० १ २ — the first three digits

> Recall the numbered-price payoff, then write ten, twenty and a hundred in words.

Script — the first three figures

Everything this chapter has written so far has been a number in words. A Rajasthani stall does not label anything in words. It writes figures, and Devanagari has its own ten.

> ० — zero १ — one २ — two

Look at where the ink sits. Each of these hangs from a stroke along the top, the same head-line that carries क and न and every other letter in this book. That is the quickest way to tell a Devanagari digit from a Latin one on a mixed sign.

Your turn

Trace ०, १, २ three times each. Say the Marwadi word for the second and third as you write them.

> Before you move on
> Sources: Unicode Devanagari chart; Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

35.2 १० — reading ten off a ticket

Say very. Write it: the price question with its answer

- Recall: bīs, and why twenty had to be taught before the numbers under it

Your turn

१० — das — ten

The three signs from the last lesson already spell three amounts this book knows.

1. Read it: १, २ and १० aloud as ek, do and das
2. Write it: each of the three in words, underneath its figure
3. Cover: the figures
4. Write it: the figures again, from the words
5. Hear das. Point to: १० rather than दस

Reading a figure and reading a word are two different skills, and a stall gives the learner the figure.

> Before you move on
> Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Unicode Devanagari chart.

35.3 ३ ४ ५ — three digits, two of them traps

Write very, write three in words, then write the digit for one.

Script — three more figures

३ — three ४ — four ५ — five

Take them one at a time and set each beside the Latin figure a reader of this book already knows.

३ gives little trouble. ४ and ५ give a great deal: a reader who glances at ४ sees an eight, and a reader who glances at ५ sees a four. Neither guess is right, and both are wrong in the direction that matters at a counter.

Read them slowly for now. Speed on these two is worth nothing.

Your turn

Trace ३, ४, ५ three times each, saying tīn, chār, pāṅch as you go. Then write ४ and ५ side by side and say aloud which is which without looking at this page.

Before you move on

Sources: Unicode Devanagari chart; Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

35.4 ३ ४ ५ against their words

Say the too-expensive answer, and say an offer of five aloud. Write it: an offer of ten

- Recall: so, and the two other words that rhyme with it

Your turn

Run each digit in both directions. Reading only one way is how a lookalike survives practice.

1. Read it: ३, ५, ४, १, १० aloud, in that order
2. Write it: the word under each figure — तीन, पांच, चार, एक, दस

3. Now go the other way: hear chār and pāñch. Write it: the FIGURE, not the word
4. Write it: ४ and ५ from dictation, five times, given out of order

> Before you move on
> Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Unicode Devanagari chart.

35.5 ६ ७ ८ — the last two traps

Write the too-expensive answer, then write the digits for four and five.

Script — the last three of the traps

६ — six ७ — seven ८ — eight

६ is close enough to its Latin cousin that a reader guesses it correctly. The other two are not.

७ carries a hook that pulls the eye towards a nine. ८ is closed and round and looks more like a letter than a figure. Both stand next to ६ here on purpose: a trap is easiest to learn beside something safe.

Your turn

Trace ६, ७, ८ three times each, saying chha, sāt, āṭh as you go. Then cover the models and write ७ and ८ from the words alone.

> Before you move on
> Sources: Unicode Devanagari chart; Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

35.6 ८ and १० — one figure, then two

Write it: the price question with its answer, then the digits for six and seven

- Recall: the danda that closes a one-word price, two chapters back

Your turn

८ — āṭh — eight

२० — bīs — twenty

२० is not a two and a zero read one after the other. It is one amount, and its name is a word with no two and no ten inside it.

1. Read it: ६, ७, ८ aloud, then १० and २०
2. Write it: the word under each of the five
3. Hear sāt, chha, bīs. Write it: the FIGURE each time
4. Write it: २० and ८ from dictation, given out of order

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Unicode Devanagari chart.

35.7 ९ — the tenth digit

Say a little, then write the digits for seven and eight.

Script — the tenth figure

९ — nine — no

Like ३ and ६, this one a Latin eye can very nearly guess, and unlike ७ the guess is right.

With ९ the set is closed. Ten digit signs, taught across four lessons, and the eye can now read any figure a stall prints as far as the words go.

Write ९ and नो side by side. The figure and the word for nine share nothing at all — which is the whole reason the figures had to be taught separately.

Your turn

Trace ९ three times. Then write the whole run ० १ २ ३ ४ ५ ६ ७ ८ ९ once, slowly, saying the Marwadi word for each from one onward.

Before you move on

Sources: Unicode Devanagari chart; Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

35.8 ९, २०, १०० — one figure, two, three

Write it: the word for a little, then an offer of five

- Recall: ४ and ५, and which Latin figures each is mistaken for

Your turn

९ — no २० — bīs १०० — so

Three tickets, one to three figures long, and the words behind them run the other way: the longest ticket carries the shortest word.

1. Read it: the three aloud, then read them again shuffled
2. Write it: each amount in words, beneath its figures
3. Hear so, no, bīs. Write it: the FIGURES each time
4. Read it: six mixed tickets — ५, १००, ७, २०, ३, ९ — then say each amount without pausing on the trap digits

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Unicode Devanagari chart.

35.9 Payoff — the printed price

Recall the numbered-price payoff, then say the make-it word.

Your turn

Four skills, scored separately.

1. Listening. Hear twelve amounts named. Write it: each as a Devanagari figure
2. Reading aloud. Read it: twelve printed tickets aloud as Marwadi words, including every one of ४, ५, ७ and ८
3. Read it: the labels on a stall of six goods, then say which is dearest and which is cheapest
4. Writing. Write it: all ten digits from dictation, out of order, then १०, २० and १००

Pass each separately. A learner who reads the safe digits fluently and stalls on the four traps has not passed; those four are the ones a ticket will punish.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Unicode Devanagari chart.

35.10 Close the writing loop for ४, ५, ७ and ८

> Recall the ticket payoff. Write it: the make-it word and an offer of twenty

Your turn

Write it: four single figures from spoken cues, given out of order, twice through — ४, ५, ७, ८

Write it: the word beside each — चार, पांच, सात, आठ; repair only the missed figure and write its pair once more

Before you move on

Chapter 36

One Exchange, Two Figures

Modes: 🚗 voice (7) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can run a six-turn counter exchange in which both sides name an amount, at a shop, a food stall, and a rickshaw.
> The twelve numbers and ten figures are retrieved at a distance, run over the shopping, food, and transport words in turn, and the five-turn exchange of chapter 31 is then re-run with the seller's figure and the buyer's offer in it.

36.1 The whole count, at a distance

Say the bargaining request, and recall the five-number payoff from four chapters back. Write it: ५

- Recall: ७ and ८, and which Latin figure each is mistaken for

Your turn

Everything, shuffled, with no chapter to give the answer away.

1. Hear twelve amounts named singly and out of order; say each back.
2. Read it: twelve printed figures, then say each as a word
3. Write it: six amounts from dictation in words and six in figures, the choice named only as you write

4. Say the three that rhyme, the two that end in the tens स, and the four figures a Latin eye reads wrongly.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

36.2 The shopping map, with prices on it

Write it: the bargaining request

Then recall the seven-word shopping payoff.

Your turn

Take the seven shopping words one at a time. For each one:

1. Ask its price with the question from chapter 27.
2. Hear a figure back and say the amount aloud.
3. Offer a lower figure with करो।
4. Write it: the seller's amount as a Devanagari figure, and your own as a word

The word भाव has meant price since chapter 18 and could not be answered until now. Say what changed.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

36.3 The food map, ordered and paid for

Recall the seven-word food payoff. Write it: the bring request and the word that carries it

- Recall: दस करो।, and the chapter-28 request it replaced

Your turn

Take the seven food words one at a time.

1. Order it with लावो।
2. Ask what it costs and hear a figure between ek and das.
3. Say the amount, then hand over the money with the chapter-30 turn.
4. Write it: the amount twice, once as a word and once as a figure

A stall prices tea at pāṅch and a plate at das. This is where the first five numbers stop being a recitation.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

36.4 The transport map, with a fare on it

Recall the five-word transport payoff and the four-skill bargaining payoff. Write it: the word for bus

- Recall: १०० and सो, and which of the two is longer

Your turn

Take the five transport words one at a time.

1. Ask the fare with the price question.
2. Hear a figure — a rickshaw across a town centre asks bīs rather than pāṅch.
3. Offer a lower one with करो।, and say the amount aloud twice so the driver hears the same figure you meant.
4. Write it: both figures, the asked and the offered

Say why this exchange has to be finished before the journey and not after it.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

36.5 The five least-drilled signs

> Write it: the price question and the word for very
> Then recall the ticket payoff.

Your turn

Write it: five signs, alone, from spoken cues and with no word around them — ए, ४, ५, ७, ८

Then put each back to work once. ए opens एक and its mark rides over the second spelling of six; the four figures write four of this slice's twelve amounts. Write it: those six things — check each sign against the model only after writing it

Before you move on

Sources: Unicode Devanagari chart; Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

36.6 Payoff — one exchange, with an amount in it

> Run the five-turn counter exchange from chapter 31, and say the take-it word. Write it: the paying turn, then ए

Your turn

Six turns now, and two of them are numbers.

1. ये कपड़ा दिखावो। — show me this cloth
2. ये कितणे कू है? — how much is this?
3. बीस। — twenty
4. ये घणो महंगो है। — this is very expensive

5. दस करो। — make it ten
6. पैसा ले लो। — take the money

Run it in four separately scored skills, over the shopping words, the food words and the transport words in turn, changing nothing but the noun and the two figures.

Turn 3 is what chapter 31 could not hear and turn 5 is what it could not say. Everything else on this list has been in the book since chapter 30.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

36.7 Close the numeral slice

> Recall the six-turn payoff. Write it: the take-it word, and the bargaining request it now shares a chapter with

Your turn

Write it: everything this slice added, from dictation, with no model in view — then repair only what missed

1. The letter: ए, and the mark े beside it.
2. The twelve words, shuffled, from एक to सो.
3. The ten figures, shuffled, from ० to ९.
4. The two turns: बीस। and दस करो।

Say what the whole slice cost the hand: one letter and ten figures, against twelve numbers and a bargaining turn that finally has a figure in it.

Chapter 37

Eleven to Fifteen

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) 👁 eyes (5) ↙ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: none of the 12 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say and write eleven to fifteen in Marwadi, and name the one of them that does not rhyme with the rest.
> The five teens heard singly out of order, read printed, written from dictation, and sorted by the ending that four of them share.

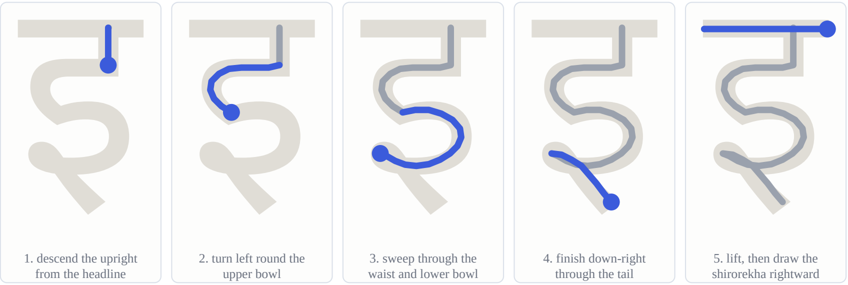
37.1 इ — the fourth standing vowel

Say the line that closes a bargain — paisā le lo — and write the ि mark on any consonant you like.

Script — the mark, standing on its own

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 5 movements



1. descend the upright from the headline

2. turn left round the upper bowl

3. sweep through the waist and lower bowl

4. finish down-right through the tail

5. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after Saurmandal, 'Devanagari इ stroke order.svg', panels 1–2, Wikimedia Commons, 5 August 2023
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How इ is written, stroke by stroke

इ — i — the vowel with no consonant under it

Since chapter 7 the hand has made ि, the hook that leans in front of the consonant it is read after. A vowel that opens a word has nothing to lean on, so Devanagari gives it a letter that stands on the line by itself.

आ was isolated in chapter 2, ई in chapter 6, ए in chapter 32 for the first number. इ is the fourth, and eleven is what needs it.

Your turn

Trace इ three times. Write ि beside it and say which of the two can begin a word on its own. Then look at ई and mark the one stroke that separates the two standing letters.

Before you move on

This is the first of the four signs the teens will ask for.
Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Unicode Devanagari chart.

37.2 Hear igyārā — eleven

- Write it: इ from memory, the letter the last lesson stood up — R1
- Recall: run the numbered price exchange once, seller's figure and all — R3
- Write it: पैसा ले लो from memory — R4

What to know first

igyārā — eleven

The count so far stopped at das, ten, and jumped to bīs, twenty. This is the first of the nine words that fill the gap.

Say it in three beats: i-gyā-rā. The middle beat carries a gy cluster that has to stay one sound, not two — the tongue is already at the palate for the y while the g is still closing.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

37.3 इग्यारा — eleven on the page

- Recall: say igyārā aloud before you look at it — R1

What to know first

इ + ग्या + रा → इग्यारा — igyārā — eleven

Three pieces, and only the first is new. ग्या is ग with its upright stem cut away and या joined on behind it — the same virama ◌् you have been writing since chapter 4, doing the job it exists for: two consonants, one breath, no vowel between them.

रा is chapter 1's र with the ◌ा you have written more often than any other mark in this book.

Your turn

Copy इग्यारा once while looking. Then write the three pieces apart — इ, ग्या, रा — and point at the stem that ग gave up.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Unicode Devanagari chart.

37.4 Hear bārā — twelve

- Write it: इग्यारा from memory — R1
- Write it: the figures ०, १ and २ from memory — R3
- Recall: say do, “give”, and say which of its two jobs this is — R4

What to know first

bārā — twelve

Two is do. Twelve is bārā, and there is no do in it — the b is what is left of an older word for two that Marwari kept only inside the teens. English does the same thing with two and twelve, where the tw- survives and the rest does not.

The ending -ārā is the one igyārā had. From here to nineteen you will hear it again and again: the teens are a set that rhymes.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

37.5 बारा — twelve on the page

- Recall: say bārā before you look at it — R1
- Recall: write दो — R4

What to know first

बा + रा → बारा — bārā — twelve

Two pieces, no new sign, and both halves take the same ा. ब came in with bīs; र has been in the hand since the first greeting.

Written beside दो, the point the ear made is visible: twelve and two share one letter and nothing else.

Your turn

Look at बारा, cover it, wait five seconds, write it. Then write इग्यारा under it and ring the रा that ends both.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

37.6 Hear terā — thirteen

- Write it: बारा from memory — R1
- Write it: इ from memory, five lessons back — R2
- Recall: run the six-turn numbered exchange once — R2
- Write it: the figures ३, ४ and ५ from memory — R3
- Recall: say ākhrī — R4

What to know first

terā — thirteen

Three is tīn. Thirteen is terā: the t stays, the long ī flattens to e, and the teens ending arrives. Two beats, both short of effort — te-rā.

You have now heard the pattern three times, and it is the pattern rather than the words that is worth holding: a consonant off the small number, then -ārā or -erā.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

37.7 तेरा — thirteen on the page

- Recall: say terā before you look at it — R1
- Recall: say igyārā, five lessons back — R2
- Recall: write आखरी — R4

What to know first

ते + रा → तेरा — terā — thirteen

The ◌े above त is the mark chapter 7 taught and chapter 32 stood up as the letter ए. Here it is doing its ordinary job again, riding on a consonant.

Your turn

Write तेरा from memory after five seconds covered. Then write बारा and इग्यारा beneath it and read the three down the page, ending in रा each time.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

37.8 Hear caudā — fourteen

- Write it: तेरा from memory — R1
- Write it: इग्यारा from memory, five lessons back — R2
- Write it: the figures ६, ७ and ८ from memory — R3
- Recall: ask kitṇo ākhrī bhāv doge? — R4

What to know first

caudā — fourteen

Four is chār. Fourteen keeps the ch and then does something none of the others do: it ends -dā, not -rā.

That is worth marking rather than smoothing over. Three teens in a row have rhymed and the fourth breaks the rhyme, so this is the one in the set most likely to be misremembered as chaurā. It is not.

The au is the diphthong of mausam, the weather word from chapter 16 — the mouth already knows it.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

37.9 चौदा — fourteen on the page

- Recall: say caudā before you look at it — R1
- Recall: say bārā, five lessons back — R2
- Recall: write कितणो आखरी भाव दोगे? — R4

What to know first

चौ + दा → चौदा — caudā — fourteen

The ◌ौ is the mark मौसम taught, and द has been in the hand since do. Nothing here is new; what is new is the pairing.

Your turn

Write चौदा from memory after five seconds. Then write तेरा beside it and ring the two different last letters — र and द — so the eye records the break the ear heard.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

37.10 Hear pandarā — fifteen

Write these out:

- चौदा from memory — R1
- तेरा from memory, five lessons back — R2
- the figure १ from memory — R3
- बारा from memory — R2

What to know first

pandarā — fifteen

Five is pāṅch. Fifteen keeps the p and the nasal, and the -arā rhyme is back after fourteen broke it.

Three beats: pan-da-rā. The nasal in the middle is the same one already in pāṅch — the sound the anusvara writes.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

37.11 पंदरा — fifteen on the page

- Recall: say pandarā before you look at it — R1
- Recall: write चौदा, five lessons back — R2
- Recall: run the final-price exchange once, all four turns — R4
- Recall: say terā — R2

What to know first

पं + द + रा → पंदरा — pandarā — fifteen

The dot over प is the anusvara from chapter 3, the one हां needed. There it nasalised a vowel; here it stands for a full n before द. Same mark, and the letter after it decides what it sounds like.

Your turn

Write पंदरा from memory after five seconds. Then write हां beside it and say what the same dot is doing in each.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

37.12 Eleven to fifteen, heard and written

- Write it: पंदरा from memory — R1
- Write it: इ from memory, the letter five lessons back stood up — R2
- Read it: a printed ticket, then say the figure on it aloud — R3

Your turn

Five words, shuffled, with the chapter no longer giving the answer away.

1. Hear the five named singly and out of order; say each back.
2. Read it: the five printed, then say each aloud
3. Write it: three of them from dictation, the choice named only as you write
4. Say the four that end -रा and the one that does not, and say what its last letter is instead.

Before you move on

Chapter 38

Sixteen to Nineteen, Counting Down

Modes: voice (5) eyes (4) pen (3) Hands-free start: none of the 12 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say and write sixteen to nineteen in Marwadi, count one to twenty straight through, and say why nineteen is built on twenty rather than on nine.
> One to twenty run four ways, with the four new signs written against the numbers that needed them, and the subtractive nineteen named and explained.

38.1 ळ — the letter Hindi does not have

- Recall: say igyārā, five lessons back — R2
- Recall: say lāvo, the bring-request verb — R4
- Recall: say caudā — R2

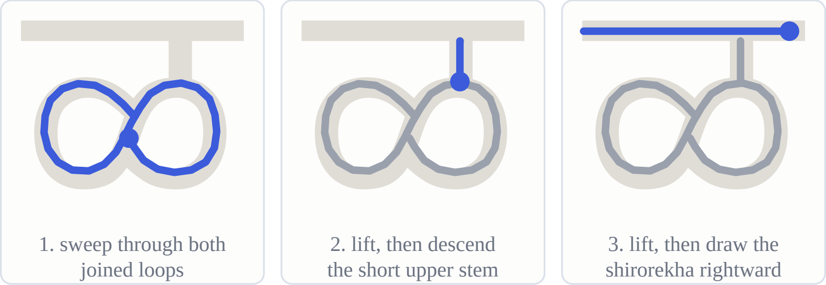
Script — a second l

How it is written — 3 strokes · 2 pen lifts · 3 movements



1. sweep through both joined loops

2. lift, then descend the short upper stem

3. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

How ळ is written, stroke by stroke

ळ — ḷa — the retroflex l

ल has been in the hand since chapter 7. ळ is a second l made with the tongue curled back to the roof of the mouth, and it is a real difference in Marwari, not a spelling variant.

It is worth knowing whose letter this is. Standard Hindi has no ळ; Marwari, Marathi, Gujarati, Rajasthani more widely and the southern languages all do. A page with ळ on it is announcing that it is not Hindi.

Sixteen is the number that needs it.

Your turn

Trace ळ three times. Write ल beside it and say which one curls the tongue back. Say both aloud twice, listening for the difference rather than looking for it.

Before you move on

The second of the four signs the teens ask for.

38.2 Hear soḷā — sixteen

- Write it: ळ from memory — R1
- Recall: say terā, five lessons back — R2
- Write it: लावो from memory — R4
- Write it: चौदा from memory — R2

What to know first

soḷā — sixteen

Six is chha. Sixteen is soḷā, and the two share nothing you can hear — the teens have worn their small numbers down further here than anywhere else in the set.

What they do share is the retroflex ḷ you have just written. Curl the tongue back for it: so-ḷā, not so-lā. This is where the new letter earns its lesson.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

38.3 सोळा — sixteen on the page

- Recall: say soḷā before you look at it — R1
- Recall: write चौदा, five lessons back — R2
- Recall: say chāy lāvo — R4
- Recall: say pandarā — R2

What to know first

सो + ळा → सोळा — soḷā — sixteen

सो is already a word in this book: a hundred. Sixteen is that syllable with ळा after it — which is why the retroflex letter had to come first.

Write सो and सोळा one above the other. Two signs apart, a hundred and sixteen.

Your turn

Copy सोळा once while looking. Write सो above it and ळ below it, then say which of the three lines is the hundred and which letter is the one Hindi does not have.

38.4 अ — the vowel that has no mark

- Recall: write सोळा — R1

How अ is written, stroke by stroke

अ — a — the short vowel every bare consonant already says

Every other vowel in this book arrived twice: as a mark and as a standing letter. अ is different, and the difference is the point of the lesson. Its mark is nothing at all — a consonant written plain, क, is already read ka. That is why you have written this vowel a thousand times without ever seeing it.

When a word begins on that sound there is no consonant to hide inside, so the letter has to appear. आ, isolated in chapter 2, is its long partner: the same shape with one upright added.

Eighteen is what needs it.

Your turn

Trace अ three times. Write आ beside it and mark the one stroke that makes the vowel long. Then write क and say what vowel is already in it.

Before you move on

The third of the four signs.
Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Unicode Devanagari chart.

38.5 Hear satarā — seventeen

- Write it: अ from memory — R1
- Recall: say pandarā, five lessons back — R2
- Recall: run the five requests in a row — R4

What to know first

satarā — seventeen

Seven is sāt. Seventeen is satarā, and this is the clearest one in the whole set: सात is still visible inside it, with only its long vowel shortened before the -arā ending arrives.

If you have been listening for the shape rather than learning the words, this is the one that proves the shape works.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

38.6 सतरा — seventeen on the page

- Recall: say satarā before you look at it — R1
- Recall: write ळ — R2
- Recall: run the exchange dikhāvo — karo — lo — do — lāvo once — R4

What to know first

स + त + रा → सतरा — satarā — seventeen

Write सात and then सतरा underneath it. The difference is one mark: the ा of seven is gone, and रा is added.

That is the whole spelling, and it is the tidiest evidence in the set that the teens are built rather than learned.

Your turn

Write सात, then cover it and write सतरा from memory. Compare them letter by letter and name the single mark that differs. Then write सोळा above both and read the three down the page.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

38.7 Hear aṭhārā — eighteen

- Write it: सतरा from memory — R1
- Recall: say soḷā, five lessons back — R2
- Recall: run the six-turn numbered exchange once — R3

What to know first

aṭhārā — eighteen

Eight is āṭh. Eighteen is aṭhārā: the same two sounds, with the length moved from the front of the word to the middle of it.

Say them back to back — āṭh, aṭhārā — and hear the long vowel change places. Eighteen is the second of the two teens that begin on a vowel, which is why the letter came before it.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

38.8 अठारा — eighteen on the page

- Recall: say aṭhārā before you look at it — R1
- Recall: write अ, four lessons back — R2
- Recall: write सोळा — R2

What to know first

अ + ठा + रा → अठारा — aṭhārā — eighteen

Here is the standing अ doing the one thing it exists for. Write आठ and अठारा one above the other:

- आठ opens on the long आ;
- अठारा opens on the short अ, and moves the length onto ठा.

Two letters that differ by one stroke, at the front of two numbers ten apart. This is the pair most worth writing twice.

Your turn

Write आठ, cover it, write अठारा from memory, then uncover and compare the first letter of each. Say which is long and which is short.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

38.9 उ — the last standing vowel

- Recall: write अठारा — R1
- Recall: write ळ, and say which language does not have it — R2
- Recall: write अ — R2
- Recall: write इ — R3

Script — the fifth standing vowel

How उ is written, stroke by stroke

उ — u — the vowel that hangs under a consonant, standing up

Since chapter 13 the hand has hooked ◌ु beneath a letter, and since chapter 6 the longer ◌ू. Neither can begin a word.

उ is the fifth vowel this book has had to stand up — after आ, ई, ए and अ — and it is the last one the numbers ask for. Nineteen needs it, and nineteen is the last of the teens.

Your turn

Trace उ three times. Write ◌ु under a consonant beside it and say which of the two can open a word. Then write the five standing vowels in a row — अ आ इ ई and उ — and say each aloud.

Before you move on

The fourth and last of the signs the teens ask for.
Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Unicode Devanagari chart.

38.10 Hear ughaṇīs — nineteen

- Write it: उ from memory — R1
- Recall: say satarā, five lessons back — R2
- Recall: say igyārā — R3

What to know first

ughaṇīs — nineteen

Every other teen has been the small number plus an ending. This one is not.

Nine is no, and there is no no in ughaṇīs. What is in it is -ṇīs, which is bīs, twenty, worn down — and ugha-, which means one short of. So nineteen in Marwari is not "nine-and-ten". It is one less than twenty, and it is built on the number above it.

That is why twenty was taught before the teens rather than after them. A course that counted straight up would have printed bīs inside nineteen before it had taught bīs. The language counts down here, so the book did too.

Turner records the same habit further up: ekuṇcālīs, one short of forty, for thirty-nine.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

38.11 उघणीस — nineteen on the page

- Recall: say ughaṇīs before you look at it — R1
- Recall: say aṭhārā, four lessons back — R2
- Recall: write सतरा — R2
- Recall: write इग्यारा — R3

What to know first

उ + घ + णी + स → उघणीस — ughaṇīs — nineteen

Four pieces and no new sign: उ from the last lesson, घ from chapter 10, the retroflex ण from chapter 4, and स from the first page of the book.

Write बीस under it. The ीस at the end of nineteen is the ीस of twenty, with a retroflex ण in front of it instead of ब. What the ear was told, the page shows.

Your turn

Copy उघणीस once while looking, then write बीस beneath it and ring the ीस in both. Finish by writing अठारा above the pair, so eighteen, nineteen and twenty stand in a column.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani.

38.12 One to twenty, and the number that counts backwards

- Write it: उघणीस from memory — R1
- Write it: अठारा from memory, four lessons back — R2
- Recall: run the five-turn counter exchange, with no figures in it — R4

Your turn

The count is complete for the first time. Run it four ways.

1. Say one to twenty straight through, out loud, once slowly and once fast.
2. Hear six of the twenty named out of order; say each back and say the one above it.
3. Write it: four of the nine teens from dictation
4. Write it: the four signs this run of numbers added — इ, ळ, अ, उ — and beside each, the number that needed it

Then answer aloud: which of the twenty is not built on a smaller number, and what is it built on instead?

Before you move on

Chapter 39

Saying No

Modes: voice (5) eyes (1) Hands-free start: the first of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can refuse an offer in Marwadi and leave a bargain open, which the market chapters could not do.
> The refusal and the walk-away run in all four skills, against the counter-offer the market chapters had no answer to.

39.1 Hear konī — no

- Recall: say हां सा, the respectful yes — the answer this book has had since chapter 3 and never given a partner
- Write it: अठारा from memory — R2
- Write it: बारा from memory — R3

What to know first

konī — no, not

Chapter 3 taught हां सा and stopped there. Every chapter since — the market, the food stall, the rickshaw — has given you ways to ask, to offer and to agree, and no way at all to decline. A course that can name a price and cannot refuse one has only half a bargain in it.

Konī is the word. Two beats, both light: ko-nī.

It is worth knowing that this word is one of the things that makes Marwari Marwari. Hindi says nahī̃; a Swadesh word list collected for Marwari gives konī for “not”. Say konī in Rajasthan and you are not speaking Hindi with an accent.

Keep your pencil down: the spelling is the next lesson’s, and it needs no sign you have not already made.

Before you move on

Sources: SEL India, Swadesh Word List — Marwari Language, entry 16; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

39.2 कोनी — no, on the page

- Recall: say konī before you look at it — R1
- Recall: write ए, the letter the first number needed — R4
- Recall: write उ — R2
- Recall: say terā — R3

What to know first

को + नी → कोनी — konī — no

Two pieces, four signs, and not one of them is new. क and ो you have written since chapter 5; न since chapter 5; ी since chapter 4.

That is worth saying plainly, because it means this word cost the hand nothing and was missing anyway. The gap was never a writing problem.

Your turn

Copy कोनी once while looking. Then write हां सा above it and कोनी below, so the yes and the no sit one over the other on the page for the first time in this book.

Before you move on

Sources: SEL India, Swadesh Word List — Marwari Language, entry 16; Unicode Devanagari chart.

39.3 दस करो। — कोनी।

- Write it: कोनी from memory — R1
- Recall: say ughaṇīs, five lessons back, and say what it is built on — R2
- Write it: तेरा from memory — R3
- Recall: say ek — R4

Your turn

Until now the counter-offer had no answer but agreement. Now it has two.

> — ये कितणे कू है? — Ye kitṇe kū hai? — How much is this? — बीस। — Bīs. — Twenty. — दस करो। — Das karo. — Make it ten. — कोनी। — Konī. — No.

Run it three times, changing only the two numbers, and use the teens you have just learned for at least one of them: satarā, pandarā, ughaṇīs.

Then run it with the roles swapped, so you are the one who says कोनी.

Before you move on

Sources: SEL India, Swadesh Word List — Marwari Language, entry 16; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

39.4 Refuse, and leave

- Write it: उघणीस from memory, five lessons back — R2
- Write it: एक from memory, the first number this book taught — R4
- Recall: say caudā — R3

What to know first

A refusal in a bazaar is rarely the last word. It is followed by leaving — and the leaving line is one this book taught in chapter 7 and has not needed until now:

> — दस करो। — Das karo. — Make it ten. — कोनी। — Konī. — No. — पाछे मिलसू। — Pāchhe milsū. — We'll meet later.

Pāchhe milsū was learned as a goodbye. In a market it is also a move: it says the bargain is not over, only paused, and it is what leaves the door open for the seller to call you back with a better number.

Your turn

Four skills, one exchange.

1. Listen. Hear a seller name a figure and an offer refused; say what the two numbers were.
2. Speak. Run the exchange twice, once refusing and once agreeing, so the two branches sit side by side.
3. Read it: the three-turn refusal printed, then say the walk-away line aloud without looking
4. Write it: कोनी। and पाछे मिलसू। as two lines, and above them the figure you were offered, in words

Before you move on

Sources: SEL India, Swadesh Word List — Marwari Language, entry 16; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

39.5 Close the writing loop for इ, ळ, अ and उ

- Recall: run the refusal and the walk-away once, from the lesson just before this — R1
- Recall: say do, two, and say which of its two meanings this is — R4
- Recall: say konī
- Write it: कोनी from memory — R1
- Write it: चौदा from memory — R3

Your turn

Four signs arrived in the last three chapters, each riding behind one number. None of them is closed until it can be written with no chapter to prompt it.

1. Write it: इ, ळ, अ and उ in a row from dictation, shuffled
2. Write it: beside each, the number that needed it — and only that number
3. Write it: कोनी and पाछे मिलसू, which needed no new sign at all
4. Say which of the four signs is not a vowel, and which language does not have it.

Before you move on

Sources: Omniglot, Numbers in Rajasthani; Unicode Devanagari chart.

39.6 Refuse and leave, from cold

- Recall: say the one-word refusal, with nothing on the page
- Recall: say the line you leave on, the one that was a goodbye first

You'll want to know: the walk-away is the move, not the exit

The three-turn shape you built has not changed. What changes is the number, and a bargain you can only run at one price is not one you can run:

> — पंदरा करो। — Pandrā karo. — Make it fifteen. — कोनी। — Konī. — No. — पाछे मिलसू। — Pāchhe milsū. — We'll meet later.

पाछे मिलसू is doing the same work it did the first time: it says the bargain is paused rather than finished, and it is what lets the seller call you back. Said as a real goodbye it ends the conversation; said here it keeps it alive. One line, two jobs, and the market decides which.

Your turn

The same four skills, on a figure you have not rehearsed.

1. Listen. Hear an offer and a refusal; say the figure that was named.
2. Speak. Run the three turns with your own number in the first line.

3. Read it: the refusal printed above, then say the walk-away without looking
4. Write it: कोनी। and पाछे मिलसू। from the sound alone, with the page covered

Before you move on

Which of the two lines refuses, and which leaves? (कोनी। refuses; पाछे मिलसू। leaves.) What does the leaving line do that merely walking off does not? (It keeps the bargain open — the seller can still call you back.) And where did you first meet it? (As a goodbye, long before any bargaining.)

Chapter 40

Reading — Signs, a Counter, and the Whole Bargain

Modes: 👁 eyes (3) 🚗 Hands-free start: none of the 3 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can read Marwadi off a signboard and off a counter, and follow a whole bargain on the page without translating it word by word.
> The market exchange the track has practised out loud since chapter 13, read in order on the page for the first time, with no new word in it.

40.1 (reading) — six words off a signboard

You have written all six of these. Not one is new.

What is new is that nobody is going to say them first.

Read this

चाय रोटी कपड़ा रिक्शा पैसा भाव

Read down the list once. Do not sound out each sign — look at the whole word and let it arrive.
Again. Notice which came at once and which you had to assemble.
Both are fine; the difference is what practice removes.

What to know first

Every one of these is a word you would actually meet painted on something — a stall, a cart, a board above a counter.

Writing a word and reading it are not the same skill. Writing gives you all the time you want and the letters in order. A signboard gives you one look, and the word has to arrive whole.

That is why six is enough for one sitting.

Your turn

- Say it: the six words down the list, once, without stopping

Twice through:

Before you move on

How many of the six were new? (None.)
What was new? (Nobody said them first. You read them.)

40.2 (reading) — six lines off a counter

The last lesson gave you single words. These give each word something to stand on.

Still nothing new — the market lines you already say, on the page.

Read this

ये कितणे कू है? ये घणो महंगो है। दस करो। कोनी। पैसा ले लो। पाछे मिलसू।

Read it: the six notices down once, without stopping
Read it: the six notices again, and this time hear whose line each one is
Three belong to you and three to the person behind the counter.

What to know first

कोनी। One word, and it is a whole turn in the conversation. A notice does not have to be long to be complete.

Read in order, these six are not six notices at all — they are one bargain, from the first question to the walk-away. You have practised every one of them out loud; this is the first time you have seen them written down in the order they actually happen.

That order is the thing to carry away. A market exchange has a shape, and knowing the shape is most of reading it.

Your turn

- Say it: the six lines, once, in order, without stopping

Twice through:

Before you move on

How many of the six lines were new? (None.)
What did reading them in order show you? (They are one bargain, not six notices.)

40.3 (reading) — the whole bargain

Six words, then six lines. Now the whole thing, start to finish.

It is longer than anything you have read. Nothing in it is new.

Read this

ये कपड़ा दिखावो। ये कितणे कू है? बीस। ये घणो महंगो है। दस करो।
कोनी। पंदरा करो। ठीक। पैसा ले लो। पाछे मिलसू।

Read it: the passage through once without stopping; do not translate as you go
Read it: the passage again, and watch the number move
It moves बीस, दस, पंदरा. That is the whole negotiation, and it is carried by three words you learned as counting.

What to know first

कोनी is the hinge. Before it, the price is falling because you pushed. After it, the price settles because they pushed back.

Notice what the passage never says. Nobody explains that पंदरा is between दस and बीस — the bargain assumes you know, and you do.

This is the first time the book has asked you to hold a whole exchange at once, and the reason it can is that every line was paid for, one chapter at a time.

Your turn

- Say it: the whole exchange aloud, once, without stopping

Twice through:

Before you move on

How many words in that exchange were new? (None.)
Which word turned it around? (कोनी.)

Chapter 41

Writing — My Own Line

Modes: pen (1) Hands-free start: none (1 lesson).

> By the end of this chapter: I can write one line about myself from a closed supply of known words, with nothing to copy, drawing the top line across the whole word.
> Complete MW-W02-mharo-khud-ro-line: one line chosen rather than copied, with the head-line checked before anything else.

41.1 My own line — the first writing with no model

You have read signs and notices. Now write one.

Everything you have written so far had something to reach for. This does not.

Writing — controlled composition

Write one line about yourself, choosing the words yourself from a supply that is closed: only what this book has taught you.

One thing to decide deliberately before you start. The letters hang from a line drawn across the top, and that line belongs to the word, not to each letter. Draw the bodies first and the top line last, running it across the whole word.

Write the line. Then read it back and check that top line before you check anything else — one long stroke, not a row of short ones.

Before you move on

Does the top line belong to a letter or to a word? (To the word.) And what did you have to choose here that the earlier lessons chose for you? (The words.)

Chapter 42

Writing — With A Clock

Modes: pen (1) Hands-free start: none (1 lesson).

> By the end of this chapter: I can complete the A1 writing paper's two tasks inside its published twenty minutes, filling every form field and keeping the message between thirty and forty words.
> Complete MW-W03-ghadi-saathe: seven minutes for the form and thirteen for the message, then count the words and check the form for blanks before mistakes.

42.1 The same writing, with a clock

You wrote your own line with as long as you liked.

A task you can only do untimed is not yet a task you can do.

Writing — timed production

What this track's contract publishes. The A1 writing paper runs 20 minutes and holds two tasks:

- a practical form asking for six to eight completed fields, worth 40 of the paper's 100 points;
- a message for a named reader and a stated purpose, 30 to 40 words, worth the other 60.

Those numbers are read out of `task-shapes/a1.json`, the file the assessment contract points at. They are not invented here.

Read the split before you write a word: the message is worth more than the form and is the shorter of the two. Time spent perfecting a field is time taken from the part that scores.

Seven minutes for the form, starting now. Fill every field. A blank field scores nothing and cannot be argued with.

Now the message: thirteen minutes, thirty to forty words.

Stop when the time is up, even mid-word. An unfinished paper is information; an untimed one is not.

Before you move on

Count the words in your message. Under thirty and the task is half done; well past forty and you spent time the paper did not give you.

Then check the form for blanks before mistakes. A field with a wrong answer can still earn something; a field left empty cannot.

Chapter 43

The Letter That Ends Ram

Modes: 👁 eyes (2) ✎ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: none of the 3 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can write the letter ma, and find it at the end of the first word of this book.
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 43: I can write the letter ma, and find it at the end of the first word of this book.

43.1 म (ma) — the letter that ends राम

> Before the new one: write अ and उ once each, and name them.
> Now say राम (rām), "Ram". You have read it for a long time. This lesson takes one letter out of it and puts it in your hand.

Script you'll notice: म

म — ma, the sound m.

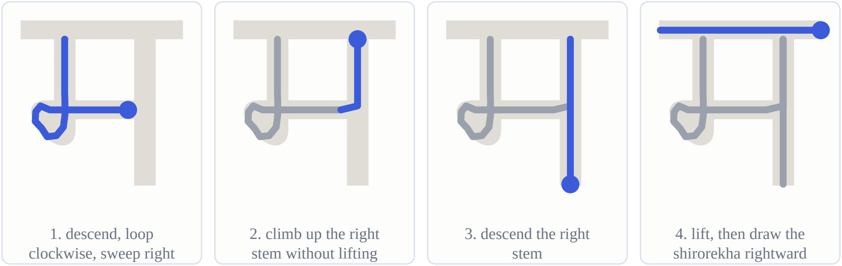
It ends राम (rām), the name in the greeting राम-राम सा, the first words in this book. The first chapter built राम from र, ◌ा and म, and gave र and ◌ा lessons of their own. म gets its own lesson now.

Writing: म

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 4 movements



1. descend, loop clockwise, sweep right

2. climb up the right stem without lifting

3. descend the right stem

4. lift, then draw the shirorekha rightward

Stroke order after JackPotte, ‘Devanagari m म.gif’, strokes 1–3, Wikimedia Commons, 29 March 2009
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How म is written, stroke by stroke

- 1. start here: descend the left stem, curl left and clockwise around the lower loop, and continue right through the crossbar without lifting
- 2. without lifting, climb up the right stem to the headline
- 3. descend the right stem top-to-bottom
- 4. lift, then draw the shirorekha left-to-right — and only now lift

Pen lifts: 1.

The source shows three movements; most native writers draw म in two strokes (80% of HP Labs India’s native-writer samples). This path keeps every movement in order and direction, and lifts only before the headline.

Stroke order is one attested teaching order; hands and teachers vary. Source: JackPotte, ‘Devanagari m म.gif’, strokes 1–3, Wikimedia Commons, 29 March 2009.

Your turn

- Look: at राम and point at म inside it
- Trace it: म three times, saying m as you finish each one
- Write it: उ, then म, from memory
- Read it: राम aloud once more

Before you move on

Which letter is this — म? (ma, m.) Which word did it come from? (राम, rām, “Ram”.)

43.2 (one letter) — From the letter to the word — a first pass

Say राम (rām), then write the letter it gave you.

Your turn

letter	name	the word it came from
म	ma	राम rām

- Write it: each letter in the table from memory, then check it
- Say it: the word each one came from
- Read it: each word in the table aloud, and point at its letter

Before you move on

Which word did each letter come from? (म from राम.)

43.3 (one letter) — From the word back to the letter — a second pass

Write म without looking, then say the word it came from.

Your turn

letter	name	the word it came from
म	ma	राम rām

- Say it: each word in the table, then write the letter it gave you without looking
- Write it: each letter once more, slowly, larger than it is printed

Before you move on

Say each word in the table once more, and name the letter you took from it.

Chapter 150

A connected A2 message

Modes: ✎ pen (1) 🚘 Hands-free start: none (1 lesson).

> By the end of this chapter: I can plan and write a connected 70–90 word Marwari message in Devanagari for a named reader and practical purpose.
> Complete chapter 150 by writing a model-free 70–90 word connected Marwari message for a named reader and practical purpose.

150.1 A connected message about your day

A connected message is not a pile of vocabulary and not one long sentence. It is a short route for one reader. Before writing, draw eight empty boxes and give them these jobs:

1. reader and greeting;
2. reason for writing;
3. where or when your day begins;
4. two familiar actions;
5. what comes next;
6. one preference and one reason;
7. one direct question for the reader;
8. a close.

Write only one or two English cue words in each box. Do not draft Marwari yet.

Writing — connected composition

There is no model, sentence bank, or copyable answer on this page.

Reader: your friend Kiran. Purpose: help Kiran understand your usual day and choose a good time to call you tomorrow.

Write 70–90 words in Marwari using Devanagari. Use every planning box. Include at least four familiar actions, two time anchors, one preference, one reason, and one direct question for Kiran. Make every detail help with the call. The instructions give content, not sentences: choose only words and forms this book has taught, and connect them yourself. If you cannot form a line honestly, make it simpler; do not borrow a Hindi form to fill the gap.

This first connected attempt is untimed. Put away romanization, dictionaries, translators, generative assistants, and spell-checkers. Do not copy from an earlier lesson. Ordinary legible Devanagari handwriting is enough.

When the whole message exists, count its words once. If it is short, add one useful taught detail to a planning box. If it is long, remove a detail that does not help Kiran. Do not replace the message with a memorised model.

Before you move on

Review the same attempt in four separate passes:

1. Task fulfilment and relevant content — Kiran, the usual day, tomorrow's call, and every requested content point are present.
2. Comprehensibility and organisation — the eight jobs form a route rather than a list of unrelated words or lines.
3. Marwari vocabulary and grammar — every form comes from the taught Marwari track; a familiar shorter line is better than an invented form.
4. Orthographic control — Devanagari letters, vowel signs, top lines, word boundaries, and punctuation remain readable.

Mark one strength and one next step. Repair only the next step; keep the original attempt so the next 70–90 word message can show real growth.

Pronunciation & Writing Reference

This is a lookup page, never a prerequisite gate.

The sounds in Chapter 1

- r in rām is a brief tongue-tip tap, not the English bunched or retroflex r. Say a quick Spanish-style single r if that is familiar.
- ā is a steady open vowel held longer than short a. The macron in transliteration marks length; Devanagari writes it with ा after a consonant.
- m and s are close to English m and s.

The writing rule you need first

Devanagari consonants carry a built-in short a. Thus र is ra and स is sa. The right-side mark ा changes that vowel to long ā: रा rā, सा sā. The chapter teaches only those signs and combines them as राम-राम सा.

The lessons ask learners to copy visible forms before they claim a stroke order. Handwriting conventions vary across schools, so a directional stroke sequence will be added only with a specific source. For Marwari-specific Devanagari history and characters, see the Unicode proposal on Devanagari letters for Marwari.

Sources for this starter edition

The opening exchange is attested in Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi's Jāgtī Jot, August–September 2018. Its April 2004 issue uses आभार while expressing gratitude in Rajasthani prose. Rajasthan Foundation's official language page places Marwari among the major forms of Rajasthani. The lesson files carry the direct links. Chapters 1 and 2 are generated from those canonical files. Chapter 3 adds a scholarly Marwari text edition that identifies hā(n)-sā as the polite affirmative and an April–May 2019 Jāgtī Jot dialogue that uses हां सा in context. Chapter 4 uses SIL International's 2015 Marwari–English Dictionary for पाणी, "water," and Turner's comparative dictionary for its Indo-Aryan history. Chapters 5 and 6 use the Ek Bharat Shreshtha Bharat language report for the exact name-question and name-answer pair, cross-checked against SIL's dictionary and Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi prose for the component forms. Chapters 7 and 8 use Marwari Pathshala's explicitly polite/formal wellbeing question and its documented reply, with SIL's dictionary archive as the variety and orthography reference. Chapters 10–13 use Marwari Pathshala Lesson 4 for the family and relationship labels, while retaining the source's documented alternatives instead of presenting one household vocabulary as universal. Chapters 14–15 use Marwari Pathshala Lesson 5 for the direction and travel vocabulary; they teach words only and leave the still-untaught location question explicit in the planning ledger. Chapter 16 uses Marwari Pathshala Lesson 7 for three weather nouns. It reuses the established script inventory and does not claim that a weather question or complete weather exchange has been taught. Chapter 17 uses the same source for weather, heat, and cold. It isolates the au mark, ग, and ड before independent decoding, while retaining the source's broad heat/summer and cold/winter glosses as labelled scope notes. Chapters 18–19 use Marwari Pathshala Lesson 9 for shop, item, price, cheap, and goods. They isolate short ◌ु before the two words that need it and leave the source's longer price questions and bargaining phrases for later chapters. Chapter 20 uses the same source for clothes and expensive. It isolates the nukta before कपड़ा and reuses familiar signs for महंगो. Chapters 21–22 use Marwari Pathshala Lesson 10 for bus, vehicle, cart, rickshaw, and horse. They isolate only श, reuse ड़, and leave ticket, timetable, location, and transport problem-report exchanges for later work.
