Before the new one: last lesson’s word, and the pattern it opens.

- Recall: say shǒuxiān, first of all — R1, one lesson back
- Read it: 先 … 然后 … 最后, aloud — xiān … ránhòu … zuìhòu

You’ll want to know: jiēzhe jiēzhe — “next; straight after that”.

> wǒ xiān xǐ yīfu, jiēzhe zuòfàn — First I wash the clothes, and straight after that I cook.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiēzhe is built from jiē ’to join on’ and a light ending, zhe. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese tsjep (Guangyun, in Baxter’s transcription), glossed ’to join’ and ’to hold’. The second is written with a character the dictionary lists under five readings, drjo, trjoX, trjoH, trjak and drjak, and it glosses none of them as this ending, so the history of that part is not settled.

What you’ve built

ránhòu leaves a little room between the steps; jiēzhe says the next one follows on at once.
Like 然后, it opens its clause: wǒ xiān xǐ yīfu, jiēzhe zuòfàn.

Your turn

- Say it: jiēzhe

- Say it: jiēzhe, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiān xǐ yīfu, jiēzhe zuòfàn — First I wash the clothes, and straight after that I cook.
- Say it: wǒ xiān chī zǎofàn, jiēzhe qù xuéxiào — I have breakfast first, then go straight to school.
- Recall: say ránhòu, then jiēzhe: then, and straight after

Before you move on

What does jiēzhe mean? ("Next; straight after that".) Where does it go? (At the front of its clause, as 然后 does.)

278.7 吃了饭以后 — after doing something

Two things you have, put together in a new way.

- Recall: say jiēzhe, straight after — R1, one lesson back
- Recall: say shǒuxiān, first of all — R2
- Recall: say 以后 — yǐhòu, after; later — R3, durable
- Recall: say 我看了书 — wǒ kàn le shū — R3

Grammar Lens: 了 ... 以后, after doing something

To say one thing comes after another is done, put 了 after the first verb and 以后 at the end of its clause; the next thing follows.

吃了饭以后 我们去买东西 chī le fàn yǐhòu, wǒmen qù mǎi dōngxi — After we've eaten, we'll go shopping. 下了课以后 他去打工 xià le kè yǐhòu, tā qù dǎgōng — After class he goes to his part-time job.

了 here is the 了 of a finished action, the one in 我看了书: the first event is complete before the second starts. It works for what happened and for what is planned; the rest of the sentence tells you which. 下课 opens up to take 了 in the middle: 下了课.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- 吃了饭以后 我们去买东西 — chī le fàn yǐhòu, wǒmen qù mǎi dōngxi — After we've eaten, we'll go shopping.
- 下了课以后 他去打工 — xià le kè yǐhòu, tā qù dǎgōng — After class he goes to his part-time job.
- 回了家以后 我想看书 — huí le jiā yǐhòu, wǒ xiǎng kàn shū — Once I'm home, I want to read.
- what you do after you have eaten tonight

Before you move on

Where does 了 go? (After the first verb.) And 以后? (At the end of the first clause.) Is the first thing done before the second starts? (Yes: that is what 了 says.)

278.8 先洗手 然后吃早饭

The chapter closes here, with one person's day told in order.

- Read it: 吃了饭以后, aloud — chī le fàn yǐhòu
- Recall: say jiēzhe, straight after — R2
- Recall: say shǒuxiān, first of all — R2

The exchange

A: 你早上做什么

nǐ zǎoshang zuò shénme — What do you do in the morning?

B: 我先洗手 然后吃早饭

wǒ xiān xǐ shǒu, ránhòu chī zǎofàn — I wash my hands first, then have breakfast.

A: 吃了早饭以后呢

chī le zǎofàn yǐhòu ne — And after breakfast?

B: jiēzhe qù xuéxiào — Straight off to school.

A: 下了课以后呢

xià le kè yǐhòu ne — And after class?

B: 先去打工 最后回家

xiān qù dǎgōng, zuìhòu huí jiā — First my part-time job, and last home.

The order of the clauses is the order of the day. B never says 我 after the first line: the person is clear, so Mandarin leaves it out.

Read this

Read it: the exchange through once without stopping, then answer the question below

What you've built — telling it in order

Five ways to keep a story in order, all at the front of a clause or right before the verb:

- 先 xiān — first, before the verb.
- shǒuxiān — first of all, at the very front.
- 然后 ránhòu and jiēzhe — then, and straight after.
- 最后 zuìhòu — last.
- 吃了饭以后 chī le fàn yǐhòu — after doing something.

Listen. Nǐ zuótiān xiān zuò le shénme?
Speak. Tell your morning in four steps: 先, 然后, jiēzhe, 最后.
Write it: 最后 — 日 first, then the six strokes, then the piece from the left of 对

Your turn

- Say it: 我先洗手 然后吃早饭 最后去学校 — wǒ xiān xǐ shǒu, ránhòu chī zǎofàn, zuìhòu qù xuéxiào — I wash my hands, then have breakfast, and last go to school.

- Say it: 吃了早饭以后 我去学校 — chī le zǎofàn yǐhòu, wǒ qù xuéxiào — After breakfast I go to school.
- Say it: the whole exchange, both parts
- Write it: 先吃饭 然后看书

Before you move on

Say you wash your hands first, then eat. (我先洗手 然后吃饭.) Say after class. (下了课以后.) Which word opens the last step? (最后.)

Chapter 279

The Next Day

Modes: voice (5) eyes (1) pen (2) Hands-free start: the first of 8 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say what was going on when something happened, and follow a short story.
>
> Saying what was going on when something happened with …的时候 and 正在, suddenly, all at once and the next day, and reading a story of thirteen lines, built on two new written characters: 第 and 突.

279.1 第二天 (dì'èr tiān) — the next day

A new chapter, and it opens on the morning after.

- Recall: say 先洗手 然后吃早饭 — xiān xǐ shǒu, ránhòu chī zǎofàn — R1, the chapter you have finished
- Recall: say jiēzhe, straight after — R2
- Recall: say dìyī, first — R3, durable
- Recall: say 明天 — míngtiān, tomorrow — R3

You'll want to know: 第二天

第二天 — dì'èr tiān — "the next day; the following day".

> 第二天我们去了山上 dì'èr tiān wǒmen qù le shān shàng — The next day we went up the mountain.

In a story, 第二天 is the day after the one you are telling; 明天 counts from today.

山上 is 山 with 上, the short form of shàngbian: up on the mountain.

The next lesson puts the first character in your hand. It is the dì of dìyī, first.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 第二天 (dì'èr tiān) is built from 第, which puts a number in order, 二 'two' and 天 'day'. All three are inherited from Middle Chinese, dejH, nyijH and then (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the dictionary glosses the first 'order, sequence'. 'The next day' for the whole is the phrase's own sense: the second day of a story.

What you've built

第 before a number makes it an ordinal: dìyī, first, is one you say already, and 第二 is second.
第二天 counts from the day the story is on, so it can follow a day in the past: 第二天天气很好 dì'èr tiān tiānqì hěn hǎo.

Your turn

- Say it: dì'èr tiān
- Say it: dì'èr tiān, once more
- Say it: 第二天我们去了山上 — dì'èr tiān wǒmen qù le shān shàng — The next day we went up the mountain.
- Say it: 第二天天气很好 — dì'èr tiān tiānqì hěn hǎo — The next day the weather was fine.
- Recall: say dìyī, then 第二天

Before you move on

What does 第二天 mean? ("The next day".) How is it different from 明天? (明天 counts from today; 第二天 from the day in the story.)

279.2 第 — the bamboo piece of 笑, then a five-stroke body

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say dì'èr tiān — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  笑 号

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — xiào, hào

Script — the bamboo piece of 笑, then a five-stroke body

How 第 is written, stroke by stroke

第

Two pieces, and you write the first already.

The bamboo piece, six strokes, as on top of 笑: on the left a left-falling stroke, a short horizontal from it and a dot; then the same three on the right.

The body, five strokes: a horizontal that turns down at its right end; a horizontal under it; a stroke that goes down, right, down again and hooks to the left, folding the way the foot of 号 does; the vertical down the middle; and last a left-falling stroke to the lower left.

6 + 5 = eleven. The left-falling stroke comes after the vertical, last of all.

Your turn

- Write it: 第, all eleven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 第? (Eleven.) Where have you written its top? (On 笑.) Which stroke comes last? (The left-falling stroke, after the vertical.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 第, pinned stroke paths and medians.

279.3 ...的时候 — when, and what was going on

A word for when, and a word for in the middle of.

- Read it: 第二天, aloud — dì'èr tiān
- Recall: say 时候 — shíhou, time; when — R3, durable
- Recall: say 我正在吃饭 — wǒ zhèngzài chī fàn — R3

Grammar Lens: ...的时候 and 正在, for what was going on

...的时候 after a clause says when; 正在 in the other clause says what was already going on at that moment.

他来的时候 我正在吃饭 tā lái de shíhou, wǒ zhèngzài chī fàn — When he came, I was eating. 我回家的时候 妈妈正在做饭 wǒ huí jiā de shíhou, māma zhèngzài zuòfàn — When I got home, Mum was cooking.

The clause before 的时候 names the moment, and a bare verb is enough: 他来的时候. The other clause is the scene that was already running, with the 正在 of 我正在吃饭.
正在 has no tense of its own: the story around it puts the scene in the past.
All three characters of 的时候 are ones you write, so it prints whole for the first time.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- 他来的时候 我正在吃饭 — tā lái de shíhou, wǒ zhèngzài chī fàn — When he came, I was eating.
- 我回家的时候 妈妈正在做饭 — wǒ huí jiā de shíhou, māma zhèngzài zuòfàn — When I got home, Mum was cooking.
- 我看书的时候 他来了 — wǒ kàn shū de shíhou, tā lái le — He came while I was reading.
- what you were doing when somebody phoned you last

Before you move on

What does …的时候 give you? (The moment: when.) Which word gives the scene that was already going on? (正在.)

279.4 突然 (tūrán) — suddenly

Before the new one: a moment, and then something breaking into it.

- Read it: 他来的时候 我正在吃饭, aloud — tā lái de shíhou, wǒ zhèngzài chī fàn
- Read it: 然后, aloud — ránhòu
- Recall: say 下雨 — xiàyǔ, to rain — R3, durable

You'll want to know: 突然

突然 — tūrán — "suddenly; all of a sudden".

突然下雨了 tūrán xiàyǔ le — Suddenly it started to rain.

他突然来了 tā tūrán lái le — He turned up out of the blue.

The next lesson puts the first character in your hand. The second is the 然 of 然后.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 突然 (tūrán) is built from 突 and 然, both inherited from Middle Chinese. The Guangyun lists 突 under two readings: thwot, glossed 'the look of coming out', and dwot, glossed 'to butt' and 'to deceive'; tū is the regular modern sound of thwot. 然 is nyen, glossed as a particle and 'so, like this' (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). 'Suddenly' for the pair is the word's own sense, which neither gloss gives.

What you've built

突然 goes before the verb, or at the front of the clause: 突然下雨了, 他突然来了.
With …的时候 it breaks into a scene: 我看书的时候 他突然来了 wǒ kàn shū de shíhou, tā tūrán lái le.

Your turn

- Say it: tūrán
- Say it: tūrán, once more
- Say it: 突然下雨了 — tūrán xiàyǔ le — Suddenly it started to rain.
- Say it: 我看书的时候 他突然来了 — wǒ kàn shū de shíhou, tā tūrán lái le — I was reading when he suddenly came.
- Recall: say 然后, then 突然: the same 然, two words

Before you move on

What does 突然 mean? ("Suddenly".) Where does it go? (Before the verb, or at the front of its clause.)

279.5 突 — the roof of 家, 八, then 大 with a dot

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say tūrán — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

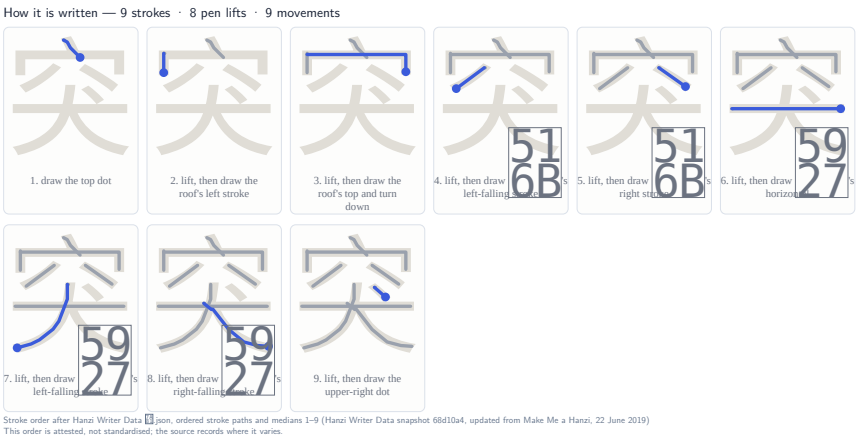
家 八 然

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — jiā, bā, rán

Script — the roof of 家, 八, then 大 with a dot



How 突 is written, stroke by stroke

突

Three pieces, and you write every one of them already.

The roof, three strokes, as on top of 家: the dot, a short left stroke, then a horizontal that hooks down at its right end.

八, two strokes, under the roof: a left-falling stroke, then a dot falling to the right.

大 with a dot, four strokes, at the foot, as on the right of 然: the bar, the left-falling stroke, the right-falling stroke, and the dot at its upper right last.

3 + 2 + 4 = nine.

Your turn

- Write it: 突, all nine, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 突? (Nine.) Which character you write has the same roof? (家.) Where have you met the piece at the foot?

(On the right of 然.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 突, pinned stroke paths and medians.

279.6 一下子 (yíxiàzi) — all at once

Before the new one: last lesson's word, then 一 with its rising tone.

- Read it: 突然, aloud — tūrán
- Recall: say 一个 — yí ge, with 一 rising — R3, durable
- Recall: say 冷 — lěng, cold — R3

You'll want to know: 一下子

一下子 — yíxiàzi — "all at once; in no time".

天气一下子冷了 tiānqì yíxiàzi lěng le — All at once the weather turned cold.

一 rises before the fall of xià: yíxiàzi, as in yí ge.
Every character in it is one you write.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 一下子 (yíxiàzi) is built from 一 'one', 下, here a single go, and the ending 子. All three are inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jit, haeX and tsiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary lists 下 under two readings, haeX and haeH, and glosses the first 'below' and 'to go down'; neither 'a go' nor 'all at once' is given there, so both are the modern word's own senses.

What you've built

突然 says it came without warning; 一下子 says the change took no time at all.
Both go before the verb: 天气一下子冷了 tiānqì yíxiàzi lěng le. The 了 at the end is the 了 of a change.

Your turn

- Say it: yíxiàzi
- Say it: yíxiàzi, once more
- Say it: 天气一下子冷了 — tiānqì yíxiàzi lěng le — All at once the weather turned cold.
- Say it: 我一下子明白了 — wǒ yíxiàzi míngbai le — All at once I understood.
- Recall: say 突然, then 一下子

Before you move on

What does 一下子 mean? ("All at once".) How does 一 sound in it? (Rising: *yí.)

279.7 (reading) — a day on the mountain

Thirteen short lines: a day that went wrong, then right.

- Recall: say 一下子 — yíxiàzi, all at once — R1, one lesson back

山上 山下

Read it: both aloud — shān shàng, shān xià

Read this

上个星期六 我和两个同学去山上 我们先开车 然后下车看花 中午我们在山上吃饭 吃了饭以后 突然下雨了 雨很大 我们
都没有雨衣 我们正在找车的时候 一个老人来了 他说 去我
家 他家在山下 我们在他家喝了茶 第二天 天气很好 我们先 去看了山上的花 然后回家了 最后 我们给他打了电话 说谢 谢 那天是我最开心的一天

Read it: the story through once without stopping; do not translate as you go

Read this

- shàng ge xīngqīliù, wǒ hé liǎng ge tóngxué qù shān shàng — Last Saturday two classmates and I went up the mountain.
- wǒmen xiān kāichē, ránhòu xiàchē kàn huā — First we drove, then we got out to look at the flowers.
- zhōngwǔ wǒmen zài shān shàng chī fàn — At noon we ate on the mountain.
- chī le fàn yǐhòu, tūrán xiàyǔ le — After we had eaten, it suddenly started to rain.
- yǔ hěn dà, wǒmen dōu méiyǒu yǔyī — The rain was heavy, and none of us had a raincoat.
- wǒmen zhèngzài zhǎo chē de shíhou, yí ge lǎorén lái le — While we were looking for the car, an old man came along.
- tā shuō, qù wǒ jiā — He said: come to my house.
- tā jiā zài shān xià — His house was at the foot of the mountain.
- wǒmen zài tā jiā hē le chá — We had tea at his house.
- dì'èr tiān, tiānqì hěn hǎo — The next day the weather was fine.
- wǒmen xiān qù kàn le shān shàng de huā, ránhòu huí jiā le — First we went to see the flowers on the mountain, then we went home.
- zuìhòu, wǒmen gěi tā dǎ le diànhuà, shuō xièxie — Last of all, we phoned him to say thank you.
- nà tiān shì wǒ zuì kāixīn de yì tiān — That was my happiest day.

Read this

Read it: the story a second time, the pinyin covered

Your turn

- Put these in order: the tea, the rain, the drive, the phone call. (The drive, the rain, the tea, the phone call.)

- The next day? (先去看了山上的花 然后回家了.)
- How did they thank him? (给他打了电话.)

Before you move on

Who came while they looked for the car? (一个老人.)

279.8 他突然来了

The chapter closes here: the story you read, told aloud as your own.

- Read it: 第二天 天气很好, aloud — dì'èr tiān, tiānqì hěn hǎo
- Recall: say 一下子 — yíxiàzi — R2
- Recall: say 我回家的时候 妈妈正在做饭 — wǒ huí jiā de shíhou, māma zhèngzài zuòfàn — R2

The exchange

A: 上个星期六你做什么了

shàng ge xīngqīliù nǐ zuò shénme le — What did you do last Saturday?

B: 我和两个同学去山上了

wǒ hé liǎng ge tóngxué qù shān shàng le — Two classmates and I went up the mountain.

A: 天气好吗

tiānqì hǎo ma — Was the weather good?

B: 吃了饭以后 突然下雨了

chī le fàn yǐhòu, tūrán xiàyǔ le — After we'd eaten, it suddenly rained.

A: 你们有雨衣吗

nǐmen yǒu yǔyī ma — Did you have raincoats?

B: 没有 我们找车的时候 一个老人来了 méiyǒu, wǒmen zhǎo chē de shíhou, yí ge lǎorén lái le — No. While we were looking for the car, an old man came.

A: 第二天呢

dì'èr tiān ne — And the next day?

B: 天气一下子好了 我们看了花 然后回家了

tiānqì yíxiàzi hǎo le, wǒmen kàn le huā, ránhòu huí jiā le — The weather was fine in no time. We looked at the flowers, then went home.

B tells the story from the inside: 我们, not they. The time words still lead each turn.

Read this

Read it: the exchange through once without stopping, then answer the question below

What you've built — telling a day

A story needs a moment, a scene, a turn and a next day:

- 他来的时候 我正在看书 tā lái de shíhou, wǒ zhèngzài kàn shū — the moment and the scene.
- 突然下雨了 tūrán xiàyǔ le — the turn.
- 天气一下子冷了 tiānqì yíxiàzi lěng le — a change that took no time.
- 第二天 dì'èr tiān — the day after, inside the story.

Listen. Nà tiān nǐ zuò shénme le?
Speak. Tell a day of your own in six lines: a time, what you were doing, what happened, the next day.
Write it: 第二天 and 突然

Your turn

- Say it: 那天我正在看书的时候 他突然来了 — nà tiān wǒ zhèngzài kàn shū de shíhou, tā tūrán lái le — That day, while I was reading, he suddenly came.
- Say it: 第二天天气很好 — dì'èr tiān tiānqì hěn hǎo — The next day the weather was fine.
- Say it: the whole exchange, both parts
- Write it: 突然下雨了

Before you move on

Say suddenly it rained. (突然下雨了.) Say when he came, I was eating. (他来的时候 我正在吃饭.) Say the next day. (第二天.)

Chapter 280

What I Think

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say what I think, and ask what you think.
>
> Saying what you think with 我觉得 and a whole sentence, a suggestion or an objection, as if, and so much, built on one new written character: 意.

280.1 意见 (yìjiàn) — a suggestion; an objection

A new chapter, and it opens on what people put forward when they disagree.

- Recall: say 他突然来了 — tā tūrán lái le — R1, the chapter you have finished
- Recall: say kànfǎ, a view — R3, durable
- Recall: say yǒuyìsi, interesting — R3

You'll want to know: 意见

意见 — yìjiàn — "a suggestion; an objection".

> 你有什么意见 nǐ yǒu shénme yìjiàn — What do you suggest? Or: what's your objection?

> 我没有意见 wǒ méiyǒu yìjiàn — I've no objection; fine by me.

The next lesson puts the first character in your hand. It is the yì of yǒuyìsi.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 意见 (yìjiàn) is built from 意 'intention' and 见 'to see', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'iH and kenH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'will, intention' and the second 'to look'; 'a suggestion' or 'an objection' for the pair is the modern word's own sense.

What you've built

kànfǎ is your view of a matter; 意见 is what you put forward about it, and often it is a point against.
It is a noun: you have one, 有意见, or you have none, 没有意见.

Your turn

- Say it: yìjiàn
- Say it: yìjiàn, once more
- Say it: 你有什么意见 — nǐ yǒu shénme yìjiàn — What do you suggest?
- Say it: 我没有意见 — wǒ méiyǒu yìjiàn — I've no objection.
- Recall: say kànfǎ, then 意见: a view, then a point you put forward

Before you move on

What does 意见 mean? ("A suggestion; an objection".) How do you say you have no objection? (我没有意见.)

280.2 意 — the left of 站 on top, then 日 and 心

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say yìjiàn — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

站 日 心

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — zhàn, rì, xīn

Script — the left of 站 on top, then 日 and 心

How 意 is written, stroke by stroke

意

Three pieces, and you write every one of them already.

The left of 站, five strokes, here on top and wider: the dot, the bar, a dot on the left, a left-falling stroke on the right, and a long horizontal. In 站 that last stroke rises; here it lies flat and runs the whole width.

日, four strokes, in the middle.

心, four strokes, at the foot: the left dot, the curve along the foot that hooks up, the middle dot, the right dot.

5 + 4 + 4 = thirteen.

Your turn

- Write it: 意, all thirteen, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 意? (Thirteen.) Which character you write has the same top? (站, where it stands on the left.) What is at the foot? (心.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 意, pinned stroke paths and medians.

280.3 我觉得... — I think

A word you have said for a long time, printed for the first time.

- Read it: 意见, aloud — yìjiàn
- Recall: say juéde, to find; to think — R3, durable
- Recall: say rènwéi, to hold a view — R3

Grammar Lens: 我觉得 and a whole sentence

我觉得 and then a whole sentence gives your opinion: the sentence after it is what you think.

我觉得他说得对 wǒ juéde tā shuō de duì — I think he's right. 我觉得今天太冷了 wǒ juéde jīntiān tài lěng le — I find it too cold today.

Both characters of juéde, 觉 and 得, are ones you write, so 我觉得 prints in characters now.
To ask, put 你觉得 in front: nǐ juéde zěnmeyàng?, what do you think? rènwéi says the same more formally, a view you hold and would defend; 我觉得 is the everyday one.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- 我觉得他说得对 — wǒ juéde tā shuō de duì — I think he's right.
- 我觉得今天太冷了 — wǒ juéde jīntiān tài lěng le — I find it too cold today.
- nǐ juéde zěnmeyàng — What do you think?

- what you think of today's weather, with 我觉得

Before you move on

What comes after 我觉得? (A whole sentence: what you think.) How do you ask what someone thinks? (nǐ juéde zěnmeyàng.)

280.4 hǎoxiàng — as if; to look like

Before the new one: last lesson's opinion, and a word that sounds like this one's end.

- Read it: 我觉得今天太冷了, aloud — wǒ juéde jīntiān tài lěng le
- Recall: say xiàng, to be like — R3, durable
- Recall: say 看来 — kànlai, it seems — R3

You'll want to know: hǎoxiàng hǎoxiàng — "as if; to look like", a guess.

tā hǎoxiàng bìng le — He looks as if he's ill.

jīntiān hǎoxiàng yào xiàyǔ — It looks like rain today.

Its second character comes later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of hǎoxiàng is built from 好 and xiàng 'to be like', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xawX and zjangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'good, fine' and the second 'to be like'; 'as if' for the pair is the word's own sense.

What you've built

我觉得 is your opinion. 看来 draws a conclusion from what you see. hǎoxiàng is softer still: a guess about how things look.
It goes before the verb, after the person: tā hǎoxiàng bìng le.

Your turn

- Say it: hǎoxiàng
- Say it: hǎoxiàng, once more
- Say it: tā hǎoxiàng bìng le — He looks as if he's ill.
- Say it: jīntiān hǎoxiàng yào xiàyǔ — It looks like rain today.
- Recall: say xiàng, then hǎoxiàng

Before you move on

What does hǎoxiàng mean? ("As if; to look like".) Is it sure? (No: it is a guess.)

280.5 这么 (zhème) — so; like this

Before the new one: last lesson's guess, and a word that points the other way.

- Recall: say hǎoxiàng, as if — R1, one lesson back
- Read it: 那么, aloud — nàme

You'll want to know: 这么

这么 — zhème — "so; this much; like this".

今天这么冷 jīntiān zhème lěng — It's so cold today!

今天天气这么好 jīntiān tiānqì zhème hǎo — The weather's so good today!

Both characters are ones you write.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 这么 (zhème) is built from 这 'this' and the ending 么 of 什么. No dictionary we use records an older form of 这 in this sense, or of the ending, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

那么 points at something over there, as in 他没有你那么高. 这么 points at what is here and now: 今天这么冷.
Both go before an adjective: 这么冷, 这么好.

Your turn

- Say it: zhème
- Say it: zhème, once more
- Say it: 今天这么冷 — jīntiān zhème lěng — It's so cold today!
- Say it: 今天天气这么好 — jīntiān tiānqì zhème hǎo — The weather's so good today!
- Recall: say 那么, then 这么: there, then here

Before you move on

What does 这么 mean? ("So; this much".) And 那么? (So, of something over there.)

280.6 我觉得这个意见很好

The chapter closes here, with a plan and two people deciding on it.

- Read it: 今天这么冷, aloud — jīntiān zhème lěng
- Recall: say hǎoxiàng, as if — R2
- Recall: say 我没有意见 — wǒ méiyǒu yìjiàn — R2

The exchange

A: 明天我们去山上 好不好

míngtiān wǒmen qù shān shàng, hǎo bu hǎo — Shall we go up the mountain tomorrow?

B: 我觉得这个意见很好

wǒ juéde zhège yìjiàn hěn hǎo — I think that's a good suggestion.

A: 你们有意见吗

nǐmen yǒu yìjiàn ma — Any objections?

B: wǒ méiyǒu yìjiàn, tā hǎoxiàng bù xiǎng qù — None from me. He looks as if he doesn't want to go.

A: 为什么

wèishénme — Why?

B: wǒ juéde tā tài lèi le — I think he's too tired.

A: 今天这么冷 明天会冷吗

jīntiān zhème lěng, míngtiān huì lěng ma — It's so cold today. Will it be cold tomorrow?

B: 我觉得不会

wǒ juéde bú huì — I don't think so.

我觉得 answers on its own too: 我觉得不会, I don't think it will. The 不 goes after 我觉得, with the verb it denies.

Read this

Read it: the exchange through once without stopping, then answer the question below

What you've built — giving an opinion

Four ways to say how you see it, from sure to unsure:

- 我觉得他说得对 wǒ juéde tā shuō de duì — your opinion.
- 我没有意见 wǒ méiyǒu yìjiàn — no objection.
- tā hǎoxiàng bìng le — a guess.
- 今天这么冷 jīntiān zhème lěng — so cold, here and now.

Listen. Nǐ juéde míngtiān huì xiàyǔ ma?

Speak. Give your opinion of a plan for the weekend, and one objection.
Write it: 意见 — the left of 站 on top, then 日, then 心

Your turn

- Say it: 我觉得这个意见很好 — wǒ juéde zhège yìjiàn hěn hǎo — I think that's a good suggestion.
- Say it: nǐ juéde zěnmeyàng — What do you think?
- Say it: the whole exchange, both parts
- Write it: 我觉得今天这么冷

Before you move on

Say you think he's right. (我觉得他说得对.) Say you have no objection. (我没有意见.) Say he looks ill. (tā hǎoxiàng bìng le.)

Chapter 281

For Example

Modes: voice (5) pen (3) Hands-free start: the first of 8 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can give a reason and an example.
>
> Giving a reason with 因为 … 所以 … in one sentence, for instance, for this reason and an example, and writing one line of your own with a reason in it, built on two new written characters: 如 and 所*.*

281.1 比如 (bǐrú) — for instance

A new chapter, and it opens on the word that brings in an example.

- Recall: say 我觉得这个意见很好 — wǒ juéde zhège yìjiàn hěn hǎo — R1, the chapter you have finished
- Recall: say 这么 — zhème, so — R1
- Recall: say 比 — bǐ, than — R3, durable

You'll want to know: 比如

比如 — bǐrú — "for instance; such as".

> 我喜欢中国菜 比如包子 wǒ xǐhuan Zhōngguó cài, bǐrú bāozi — I like Chinese food, steamed buns for instance.

> 我喜欢喝茶 比如中国茶 wǒ xǐhuan hē chá, bǐrú Zhōngguó chá — I like tea, Chinese tea for instance.

The next lesson puts the second character in your hand. The first is the 比 you write.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 比如 (bǐrú) is built from 比 'to compare' and 如 'like', both inherited from Middle Chinese. The Guangyun lists 比 under five readings, of which pjijX is glossed 'to compare', and 如 under two, nyo and nyoH; it glosses nyo with several words, among them 'to resemble' (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). 'For instance' for the pair is the word's own sense.

What you've built

比如 comes after the general point and before the example: 中国菜, then 比如包子.
It is the 比 of comparing, 比 as in 我比他大, with an example set beside the point.

Your turn

- Say it: bǐrú
- Say it: bǐrú, once more
- Say it: 我喜欢中国菜 比如包子 — wǒ xǐhuan Zhōngguó cài, bǐrú bāozi — I like Chinese food, steamed buns for instance.
- Say it: 我喜欢喝茶 比如中国茶 — wǒ xǐhuan hē chá, bǐrú Zhōngguó chá — I like tea, Chinese tea for instance.
- Recall: say 比, then 比如

Before you move on

What does 比如 mean? ("For instance; such as".) Where does it go? (After the general point, before the example.)

281.2 如 — 女, then 口

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say bǐrú — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  好 妈 口

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — hǎo, mā, kǒu

Script — 女, then 口

How 如 is written, stroke by stroke

如

Two pieces, and you write both already.

女, three strokes, narrow, on the left, as in 好 and 妈: down to the left and turning down to the right without lifting; a left-falling stroke from the upper right; and a horizontal that rises as it crosses.

口, three strokes, on the right: the left side, the top that turns down the right side, the bottom bar.

3 + 3 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 如, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 如? (Six.) Which piece comes first? (女, on the left.) Where else does 女 stand on the left? (In 好 and 妈.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 如, pinned stroke paths and medians.

281.3 因为...所以... — because, so

Two words you have had for a long time, joined into one frame.

- Read it: 比如, aloud — bǐrú
- Recall: say 因为 — yīnwèi, because — R3, durable
- Recall: say suǒyǐ, so — R3
- Recall: say 为什么 — wèishénme, why — R3

Grammar Lens: 因为 ... 所以 ..., a reason and what follows

因为 opens the reason, 所以 opens what follows from it, and together they make one sentence.

因为下雨了 所以我们没去 yīnwèi xiàyǔ le, suǒyǐ wǒmen méi qù — Because it rained, we didn't go. 因为他病了 所以没来上课 yīnwèi tā bìng le, suǒyǐ méi lái shàngkè — He was ill, so he didn't come to class.

You have had 因为 and suǒyǐ as separate words; now they frame one sentence, and the next lesson puts 所 in your hand so the frame prints whole.
English keeps one of the two words; Mandarin is happy with both.
To answer 为什么, 因为 alone is enough: 为什么没去 — 因为下雨了 wèishénme méi qù — yīnwèi xiàyǔ le.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- 因为下雨了 所以我们没去 — yīnwèi xiàyǔ le, suǒyǐ wǒmen méi qù — Because it rained, we didn't go.
- 因为他病了 所以没来上课 — yīnwèi tā bìng le, suǒyǐ méi lái shàngkè — He was ill, so he didn't come to class.
- 为什么没去 — 因为下雨了 — wèishénme méi qù — yīnwèi xiàyǔ le — Why didn't you go? Because it rained.
- why you are tired today, with 因为 … 所以 …

Before you move on

Which word opens the reason? (因为.) Which opens what follows? (所以.) How do you answer 为什么 with a reason alone? (因为, and the reason.)

281.4 所 — two four-stroke sides

The sentence first, then the character it was waiting for.

- Recall: say 因为下雨了 所以我们没去 — yīnwèi xiàyǔ le, suǒyǐ wǒmen méi qù — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

房 以

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — fáng, yǐ

Script — two four-stroke sides

How 所 is written, stroke by stroke

所

Two sides of four strokes each, and both are new in this shape.

The left side, four strokes: a short, flat left-falling stroke at the top; a long left-falling stroke down the left side; a horizontal that turns down at its right end; and a horizontal under it. It looks like the top of 房, but 房 opens with a dot, and this opens with a short left-falling stroke.

The right side, four strokes: a flat left-falling stroke at the top; a long left-falling stroke that drops down and then curves to the lower left; a horizontal across it; and a long vertical down to the foot.

4 + 4 = eight.

Your turn

- Write it: 所, all eight, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 所? (Eight.) How does the left side begin? (With a short left-falling stroke, not the dot of 房.) Which stroke comes last? (The long vertical on the right.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 所, pinned stroke paths and medians.

281.5 yīncǐ — for this reason

Before the new one: the character you wrote last, and the word it sits in.

- Read it: 所以, aloud — suǒyǐ
- Recall: say 因为下雨了 所以我们没去 — yīnwèi xiàyǔ le, suǒyǐ wǒmen méi qù — R1, two lessons back

You'll want to know: yīncǐ yīncǐ — "for this reason; and so".

tiānqì bù hǎo, yīncǐ wǒmen méi qù — The weather was bad, and so we didn't go.

Its second character comes later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

yīncǐ is built from 因 and cǐ 'this', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jin and tshjeX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'to rely on' and 'a cause', and the second 'to stop'; 'this' is not given there, and 'for this reason' for the pair is the word's own sense.

What you've built

suǒyǐ is the everyday so. yīncǐ belongs to writing and careful speech, and it usually stands on its own, with no 因为 in front.
It opens the result, after the reason: tiānqì bù hǎo, yīncǐ wǒmen méi qù.

Your turn

- Say it: yīncǐ
- Say it: yīncǐ, once more
- Say it: tiānqì bù hǎo, yīncǐ wǒmen méi qù — The weather was bad, and so we didn't go.
- Recall: say suǒyǐ, then yīncǐ: the everyday so, then the careful one

Before you move on

What does yīncǐ mean? ("For this reason".) Where does it belong? (In writing and careful speech.)

281.6 lìzi — an example

Before the new one: last lesson's word, and the word that brings an example in.

- Recall: say yīncǐ, for this reason — R1, one lesson back
- Read it: 比如, aloud — bǐrú

You'll want to know: lìzi

lìzi — "an example".

qǐng shuō yí ge lìzi — Please give an example.

Its first character comes later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of lìzi is built from lì 'a precedent' and the ending 子, both inherited from Middle Chinese, ljejH and tsiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'to compare' and 'all'; 'an example' is the modern word's own sense.

What you've built

比如 brings an example in; lìzi is the example itself, a noun you can count: yí ge lìzi.
So a teacher asks qǐng shuō yí ge lìzi, and you answer with 比如 ….

Your turn

- Say it: lìzi
- Say it: lìzi, once more
- Say it: qǐng shuō yí ge lìzi — Please give an example.
- Say it: 比如包子 — bǐrú bāozi — Steamed buns, for instance.
- Recall: say 比如, then lìzi: bringing one in, then the example itself

Before you move on

What does lìzi mean? ("An example".) How do you ask for one? (qǐng shuō yí ge lìzi.)

281.7 One reason — a line of your own with 因为 and 所以

Someone asks you a question you have surely been asked before: 你为什么学汉语?

This lesson answers it, in one line of your own.

- Recall: say lìzi, an example

Writing — controlled composition

Write one line that answers 你为什么学汉语. Use the frame: 因为 and your reason, then 所以 and 我学汉语. If you want to add an example, 比如 brings it in at the end.

A word whose characters you have not written goes in pinyin, inside the line, with its tone marks: 中国菜 is all characters you write, but kěyǐ has one you do not write yet, so it goes in pinyin. Every character comes from the ones you have learned, each in the order you learned it, each in the same size of square.

No Chinese commas or full stops: leave a space between the two halves, as this book prints them.

Write the line. Then read it back: is 因为 in front of the reason, and 所以 in front of what follows?

Before you move on

Which half of your line could stand alone as the answer to 为什么? (The half with 因为.)
Which character did you write for the first time this chapter, inside your line? (所, in 所以.)

281.8 因为我喜欢中国 所以学汉语

The chapter closes here, with the question your own line answered.

- Recall: say lìzi, an example — R2
- Recall: say yīncǐ, for this reason — R2
- Read it: 如, aloud — rú, the second half of 比如

The exchange

A: 你为什么学汉语

nǐ wèishénme xué Hànyǔ — Why are you learning Chinese?

B: 因为我喜欢中国 所以学汉语

yīnwèi wǒ xǐhuan Zhōngguó, suǒyǐ xué Hànyǔ — I like China, so I'm learning Chinese.

A: 你喜欢中国的什么

nǐ xǐhuan Zhōngguó de shénme — What do you like about China?

B: 中国菜 中国茶

Zhōngguó cài, Zhōngguó chá — Chinese food, Chinese tea.

A: nǐ néng shuō yí ge lìzi ma — Can you give an example?

B: 比如包子 我很喜欢

bǐrú bāozi, wǒ hěn xǐhuan — Steamed buns, for one. I love them.

A: wǒ yě shì, yīncǐ wǒ xiǎng qù Zhōngguó — Me too, and so I want to go to China.

因为 … 所以 … gives the reason and the result in one breath; 比如 then backs it up. The line with yīncǐ sounds a little careful, as that word does.

Read this

Read it: the exchange through once without stopping, then answer the question below

What you've built — a reason and an example

A reason, what follows from it, and something to show it:

- 因为下雨了 所以我们没去 yīnwèi xiàyǔ le, suǒyǐ wǒmen méi qù — the reason and the result.
- tiānqì bù hǎo, yīncǐ wǒmen méi qù — the careful version.
- 中国菜 比如包子 Zhōngguó cài, bǐrú bāozi — an example brought in.
- qǐng shuō yí ge lìzi — asking for one.

Listen. Nǐ wèishénme xué Hànyǔ?

Speak. Give two reasons for something you do every week, each with 因为 … 所以 ….
Write it: 所以 and 比如

Your turn

- Say it: 因为我病了 所以我今天不去上课 — yīnwèi wǒ bìng le, suǒyǐ wǒ jīntiān bú qù shàngkè — I'm ill, so I'm not going to class today.
- Say it: 为什么 — 因为我喜欢中国 — wèishénme — yīnwèi wǒ xǐhuan Zhōngguó — Why? Because I like China.
- Say it: the whole exchange, both parts
- Write it: 因为我病了 所以没去

Before you move on

Say because it rained, we didn't go. (因为下雨了 所以我们没去.)
Say steamed buns, for instance. (比如包子.) Ask for an example. (qǐng shuō yí ge lìzi.)

Chapter 282

You Should Rest

Modes: voice (6) pen (2) Hands-free start: the first of 8 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say what someone should or had better do.
>
> Giving advice with 应该 and 不应该*, saying it is time with* 该*, what is wise with* 最好 and what cannot be helped with děi, built on two new written characters: 该 and 应*.*

282.1 该 (gāi) — it's time to

A new chapter, and it opens on the moment when something has to happen.

- Recall: say 因为我喜欢中国 所以学汉语 — yīnwèi wǒ xǐhuan Zhōngguó, suǒyǐ xué Hànyǔ — R1, the chapter you have finished
- Recall: say lìzi, an example — R1
- Recall: say xiūxi, to rest — R3, durable

You'll want to know: 该

该 — gāi — "it's time to; should (by now)".

> 我该回家了 wǒ gāi huí jiā le — It's time I went home.
>
> 该你了 gāi nǐ le — Your turn.

The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 该 (gāi) is inherited from Middle Chinese koj (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'complete' and 'all'. 'Should' and 'it's time to' are not given there, so how the word came by them is not settled.

What you've built

With 了 at the end, 该 says the moment has come: 我该回家了, 该你了.
It sits before the verb, after the person, where 要 and 想 sit.

Your turn

- Say it: gāi
- Say it: gāi, once more
- Say it: 我该回家了 — wǒ gāi huí jiā le — It's time I went home.
- Say it: 该你了 — gāi nǐ le — Your turn.
- Recall: say xiūxi, then wǒ gāi xiūxi le: time I rested

Before you move on

What does 该 mean? ("It's time to; should".) What closes 我该回家了? (了: the moment has come.)

282.2 该 — the left of 说, then the right of 孩

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say gāi — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  说 孩

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — shuō, hái

Script — the left of 说, then the right of 孩

How 该 is written, stroke by stroke

该

Two pieces, and you write both already.

The left of 说, two strokes: a dot, then a short horizontal that turns down and flicks up to the right.

The right of 孩, six strokes: a dot at the top; a horizontal under it; a stroke that falls to the lower left and turns up to the right; a long left-falling stroke; a shorter left-falling stroke under it; and a dot at the lower right.

2 + 6 = eight.

Your turn

- Write it: 该, all eight, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 该? (Eight.) Where have you written its left side? (On 说.) And its right side? (On 孩.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 该, pinned stroke paths and medians.

282.3 应该 (yīnggāi) — should; ought to

Before the new one: the character you wrote last, in the sentence it belongs to.

- Read it: 我该回家了, aloud — wǒ gāi huí jiā le
- Recall: say 医生 — yīshēng, a doctor — R3, durable

You'll want to know: 应该

应该 — yīnggāi — "should; ought to".

你应该去看医生 nǐ yīnggāi qù kàn yīshēng — You should see a doctor.

The next lesson puts the first character in your hand. The second is the 该 you wrote last.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 应该 (yīnggāi) is built from 应 and 该, both inherited from Middle Chinese. The Guangyun lists 应 under two readings: 'ing, glossed with a word that can mean 'ought to', and 'ingH, glossed 'things answering each other'; yīng is the first. 该 is koj, glossed 'complete' (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

该 says the moment has come; 应该 gives advice, or says what is right. Both sit before the verb: 你应该去看医生 nǐ yīnggāi qù kàn yīshēng. 看医生 is to see a doctor.

Your turn

- Say it: yīnggāi
- Say it: yīnggāi, once more
- Say it: 你应该去看医生 — nǐ yīnggāi qù kàn yīshēng — You should see a doctor.
- Recall: say 该, then 应该: it's time, then you should

Before you move on

What does 应该 mean? ("Should; ought to".) How is it different from 该? (该 says it's time; 应该 gives advice.)

282.4 应 — the roof of 店, two dots, a falling stroke and a base

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say yīnggāi — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

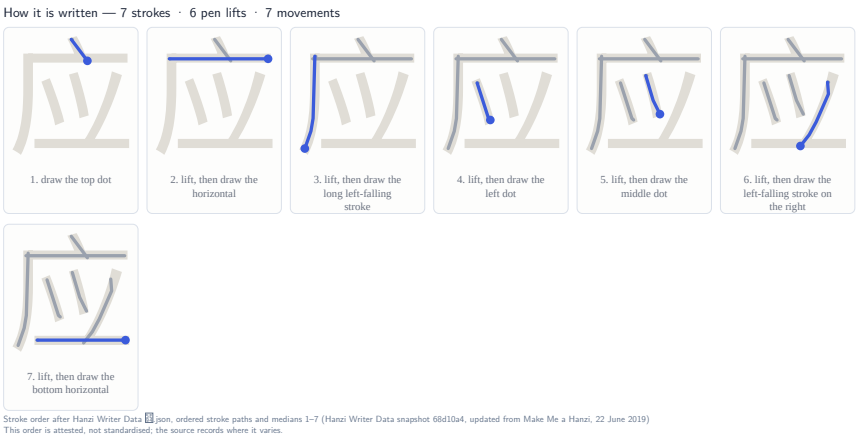
  店 点

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — diàn, diǎn

Script — the roof of 店, two dots, a falling stroke and a base



How 应 is written, stroke by stroke

应

Two pieces, and you write the first already.
The roof of 店, three strokes: the dot on top, the bar, and a long left-falling stroke down the left side.

Under it, four strokes: a dot on the left, a dot in the middle, a left-falling stroke on the right, and last a long horizontal along the foot.

3 + 4 = seven.

Your turn

- Write it: 应, all seven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 应? (Seven.) Which character you write has the same roof? (店.) Which stroke comes last? (The long horizontal along the foot.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 应, pinned stroke paths and medians.

282.5 你应该... — you should

A word you have, and the advice it gives.

- Read it: 应该, aloud — yīnggāi
- Recall: say 我该回家了 — wǒ gāi huí jiā le — R2
- Recall: say zěnme bàn, what should I do — R3, durable

Grammar Lens: 应该 and 不应该, advice and what is right

应该 before a verb gives advice, or says what is right; 不应该 says what is not.

你应该去看医生 nǐ yīnggāi qù kàn yīshēng — You should see a doctor. 你不应该这么晚回家 nǐ bù yīnggāi zhème wǎn huí jiā — You shouldn't come home so late.

不 goes in front of 应该, and stays bù before the level yīng. 晚 here is late, the 晚 of 晚上.
To ask for advice: wǒ yīnggāi zěnme bàn?, what should I do?
该 says the time has come; 应该 says what is right, whatever the time.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- 你应该去看医生 — nǐ yīnggāi qù kàn yīshēng — You should see a doctor.
- 你不应该这么晚回家 — nǐ bù yīnggāi zhème wǎn huí jiā — You shouldn't come home so late.
- wǒ yīnggāi zěnme bàn — What should I do?
- one piece of advice for a friend who is ill

Before you move on

Where does 应该 go? (Before the verb.) How do you say someone shouldn't? (不应该, said bù yīnggāi.)

282.6 最好 (zuìhǎo) — had better

Before the new one: advice, and the character it starts with.

Read these aloud:

- 你不应该这么晚回家, aloud — nǐ bù yīnggāi zhème wǎn huí jiā
- 最后, aloud — zuìhòu

You'll want to know: 最好

最好 — zuìhǎo — "had better; it would be best to".

> 你最好早点儿回家 nǐ zuìhǎo zǎo diǎnr huí jiā — You'd better go home early.
>
> nǐ zuìhǎo bié qù — You'd better not go.

Every character in it is one you write.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 最好 (zuìhǎo) is built from 最 'most' and 好 'good', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tswajH and xawX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'utmost' and 'good'. 'Best' is the plain sum of the two; 'had better' is the word's own use.

What you've built

应该 says what is right; 最好 says what is wise, the best of the choices. It goes where 应该 goes, before the verb: 你最好早点儿回家 nǐ zuìhǎo zǎo diǎnr huí jiā.

Your turn

- Say it: zuìhǎo
- Say it: zuìhǎo, once more
- Say it: 你最好早点儿回家 — nǐ zuìhǎo zǎo diǎnr huí jiā — You'd better go home early.
- Say it: nǐ zuìhǎo bié qù — You'd better not go.
- Recall: say 最后, then 最好: the same 最, two words

Before you move on

What does 最好 mean? ("Had better".) Where does it go? (Before the verb, where 应该 goes.)

282.7 děi — to have to

Before the new one: last lesson's word, and a character you know in another job.

- Recall: say 最好 — zuìhǎo, had better — R1, one lesson back
- Read it: 你说得很好, aloud — nǐ shuō de hěn hǎo

You'll want to know: děi děi — "to have to; must".

> 我得回家了 wǒ děi huí jiā le — I have to go home now.
>
> 明天我得去上课 míngtiān wǒ děi qù shàngkè — I have to go to class tomorrow.

It is written 得, the character of 说得好, but it is a different word with its own sound, děi.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

děi is written with 得, which is inherited from Middle Chinese tok (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to get'. děi is not the regular modern sound of tok, and 'to have to' is not given there; how the character came to write this word is not settled.

What you've built

应该 is advice, 最好 is what is wise, and děi leaves no choice: 我得回家了.
So 得 in a sentence has two sounds: de after a verb, as in 说得好, and děi before one, as here.

Your turn

- Say it: děi
- Say it: děi, once more
- Say it: 我得回家了 — wǒ děi huí jiā le — I have to go home now.
- Say it: 明天我得去上课 — míngtiān wǒ děi qù shàngkè — I have to go to class tomorrow.
- Recall: say 你说得很好, then 我得回家了: de, then děi

Before you move on

What does děi mean? ("To have to".) How is 得 said in 说得好? (de, light.) And in 我得回家了? (děi.)

282.8 你病了 应该去看医生

The chapter closes here, with a friend who is not well and wants to go to class.

- Recall: say 我得回家了 — wǒ děi huí jiā le — R1, one lesson back
- Recall: say 最好 — zuìhǎo — R2
- Recall: say hǎoxiàng, as if — R3

The exchange

A: wǒ hǎoxiàng bìng le — I think I'm ill.

B: 你应该去看医生

nǐ yīnggāi qù kàn yīshēng — You should see a doctor.

A: 我得去上课

wǒ děi qù shàngkè — I have to go to class.

B: 你病了 不应该去上课

nǐ bìng le, bù yīnggāi qù shàngkè — You're ill. You shouldn't go to class.

A: 那我该做什么

nà wǒ gāi zuò shénme — Then what should I do?

B: 你最好在家

nǐ zuìhǎo zài jiā — You'd better stay at home.

A: 好 我该回家了

hǎo, wǒ gāi huí jiā le — All right. Time I went home.

Four words of advice and duty, in rising order of force: 最好 is wise, 应该 is right, 该 says the time has come, děi allows no choice.

Read this

Read it: the exchange through once without stopping, then answer the question below

What you've built — advice and duty

Four words before the verb, each with its own force:

- 你应该去看医生 nǐ yīnggāi qù kàn yīshēng — what is right.
- 你最好在家 nǐ zuìhǎo zài jiā — what is wise.
- 我该回家了 wǒ gāi huí jiā le — the time has come.
- 我得去上课 wǒ děi qù shàngkè — no choice.

Listen. Nǐ juéde wǒ yīnggāi qù ma?
Speak. Give a friend two pieces of advice about the weekend, one with 应该 and one with 最好.
Write it: 应该 — the roof of 店 first, then the right of 孩 after the left of 说

Your turn

- Say it: 你病了 应该在家 — nǐ bìng le, yīnggāi zài jiā — You're ill; you should stay at home.
- Say it: 你最好早点儿回家 — nǐ zuìhǎo zǎo diǎnr huí jiā — You'd better go home early.
- Say it: the whole exchange, both parts
- Write it: 你应该去看医生

Before you move on

Say you should see a doctor. (你应该去看医生.) Say you'd better stay at home. (你最好在家.) Say it's time you went home. (我该回家了.)

Chapter 283

Which Way?

Modes: voice (6) pen (2) Hands-free start: the first of 8 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can ask the way and follow simple directions.
>
> Asking the way with 去 … 怎么走*, following directions with wǎng, saying again with* 再 and passing by on the way, built on two new written characters: 怎 and 走*.*

283.1 怎么 (zěnme) — how

A new chapter, and it opens on the word you ask a stranger with.

- Recall: say 你应该去看医生 — nǐ yīnggāi qù kàn yīshēng — R1, the chapter you have finished
- Recall: say zěnmeyàng, how is it — R3, durable
- Recall: say zěnme bàn, what should I do — R3

You'll want to know: 怎么

怎么 — zěnme — "how; in what way".

> 这个字怎么写 zhège zì zěnme xiě — How do you write this character?
>
> 汉语怎么说 Hànyǔ zěnme shuō — How do you say it in Chinese?

You have said it inside zěnmeyàng and zěnme bàn; here it stands alone, before a verb. The next lesson puts the first character in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 怎么 (zěnme) is built from 怎 'how' and the ending 么 of 什么. No dictionary we use records an older form of either, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

怎么 goes right before the verb it asks about: 怎么写, 怎么说.
The answer shows the way, or gives it: 这么写, written like this.

Your turn

- Say it: zěnme
- Say it: zěnme, once more
- Say it: 这个字怎么写 — zhège zì zěnme xiě — How do you write this character?
- Say it: 汉语怎么说 — Hànyǔ zěnme shuō — How do you say it in Chinese?
- Recall: say zěnmeyàng, then 怎么: how is it, then how

Before you move on

What does 怎么 mean? ("How".) Where does it go? (Right before the verb.)

283.2 怎 — the right of 作, then 心

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say zěnme — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

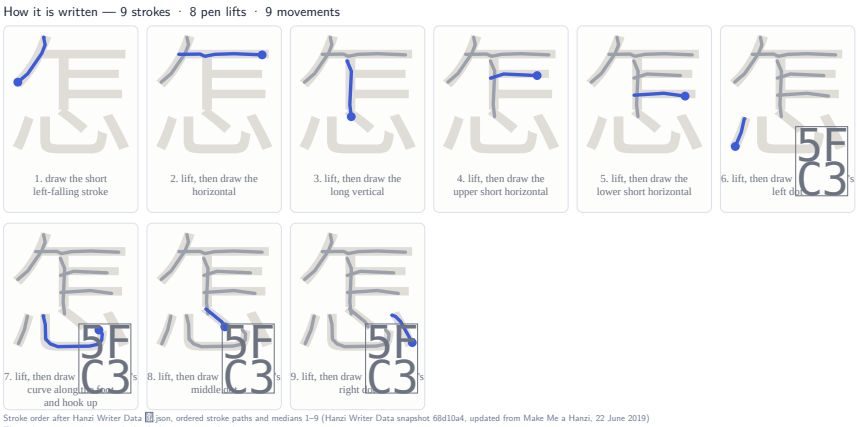
作 心

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — zuò, xīn

Script — the right of 作, then 心



How 怎 is written, stroke by stroke

怎

Two pieces, and you write both already.

The right of 作, five strokes, here on top: a short left-falling stroke; a horizontal from it to the right; a long vertical down from the horizontal; then two short horizontals to its right, the upper one first.

心, four strokes, at the foot: the left dot, the curve along the foot that hooks up, the middle dot, the right dot.

5 + 4 = nine.

Your turn

- Write it: 怎, all nine, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 怎? (Nine.) Where have you written its top? (On the right of 作.) What is at the foot? (心.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 怎, pinned stroke paths and medians.

283.3 去...怎么走 — how do I get there?

The word you wrote last, and a verb you have said for a long time.

- Read it: 怎么, aloud — zěnme
- Recall: say zǒu, to walk — R3, durable
- Recall: say 火车站 — huǒchēzhàn, the station — R3

Grammar Lens: 去 ... 怎么走, asking the way

去, the place, then 怎么走 asks the way there.

去火车站怎么走 qù huǒchēzhàn zěnme zǒu — How do I get to the station? 请问 去书店怎么走 qǐngwèn, qù shūdiàn zěnme zǒu — Excuse me, how do I get to the bookshop?

走 is the zǒu you know, to walk; the next lesson puts it in your hand.
请问 in front makes the question polite.
The answer shows the way: yìzhí zǒu, straight on; dào lùkǒu zuǒ guǎi, turn left at the crossing. zuǒ is the zuǒ of zuǒbian; yòu, the yòu of yòubian, turns you right.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- 去火车站怎么走 — qù huǒchēzhàn zěnme zǒu — How do I get to the station?
- 请问 去书店怎么走 — qǐngwèn, qù shūdiàn zěnme zǒu — Excuse me, how do I get to the bookshop?
- yìzhí zǒu, dào lùkǒu yòu guǎi — Straight on, and turn right at the crossing.
- ask the way to a place in your own town

Before you move on

How do you ask the way to the station? (去火车站怎么走.) What does yìzhí zǒu tell you? (Straight on.)

283.4 走 — 土, then four strokes along the foot

The question first, then the character it was waiting for.

- Recall: say 去火车站怎么走 — qù huǒchēzhàn zěnme zǒu — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  在 正

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — zài, zhèng

Script — 土, then four strokes along the foot

How 走 is written, stroke by stroke

走

Two pieces, and you write the first already.
土, three strokes, on top, as at the lower right of 在: a short horizontal, a vertical down through it, and a longer horizontal.

The lower piece, four strokes: a short vertical; a short horizontal to its right, the way the lower part of 正 begins; a left-falling stroke to the lower left; and last the long sweep along the foot to the right.

3 + 4 = seven.

Your turn

- Write it: 走, all seven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 走? (Seven.) Where have you written its top? (At the lower right of 在.) Which stroke comes last? (The long sweep along the foot.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 走, pinned stroke paths and medians.

283.5 wǎng — towards

Before the new one: the question, and the two sides of the street.

- Read it: 去火车站怎么走, aloud — qù huǒchēzhàn zěnme zǒu
- Recall: say zuǒbian, the left — R3, durable
- Recall: say yòubian, the right — R3

You'll want to know: wǎng wǎng — "towards; in the direction of".

wǎng qián zǒu — Go straight ahead.

dào lùkǒu wǎng zuǒ guǎi — At the crossing, turn left.

Its character comes later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

wǎng is inherited from Middle Chinese hjwangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to go' and 'to go to'; its use as 'towards' is not given there.

What you've built

wǎng comes before a direction, and the verb follows: wǎng qián zǒu, wǎng zuǒ guǎi, wǎng yòu guǎi.
qián is the 前 of 前边: ahead.

Your turn

- Say it: wǎng
- Say it: wǎng, once more
- Say it: wǎng qián zǒu — Go straight ahead.
- Say it: dào lùkǒu wǎng zuǒ guǎi — At the crossing, turn left.
- Recall: say wǎng yòu guǎi: turn right

Before you move on

What does wǎng mean? ("Towards".) What comes after it? (A direction, then the verb.)

283.6 再 (zài) — again

Before the new one: last lesson's word, and a goodbye you have said from the first chapters.

- Recall: say wǎng qián zǒu, straight ahead — R1, one lesson back
- Recall: say 再见 — zàijiàn, goodbye — R3, durable

You'll want to know: 再

再 — zài — "again; once more", for what is still to come.

我明天再来 wǒ míngtiān zài lái — I'll come again tomorrow.

qǐng zài shuō yí cì — Please say it once more.

It is the 再 of 再见: see you again.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 再 (zài) is inherited from Middle Chinese tsojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'twice; a second time'.

What you've built

再 goes before the verb, after the person, and it looks forward: the again has not happened yet.
It is not the 在 of 我在家: the same sound, a different word, a different character.

Your turn

- Say it: zài
- Say it: zài, once more
- Say it: 我明天再来 — wǒ míngtiān zài lái — I'll come again tomorrow.
- Say it: qǐng zài shuō yí cì — Please say it once more.
- Recall: say 再见, then 我明天再来

Before you move on

What does 再 mean? ("Again", still to come.) Which 在 is it not? (The 在 of place, 我在家.)

283.7 路过 (lùguò) — to pass by

Before the new one: last lesson's word, then two characters you write.

- Read it: 我明天再来, aloud — wǒ míngtiān zài lái

  路 过

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — lù, guò

You'll want to know: 路过

路过 — lùguò — "to pass by", on the way somewhere else.

我每天路过学校 wǒ měitiān lùguò xuéxiào — I go past the school every day.

我路过你家 wǒ lùguò nǐ jiā — I'm going past your house.

Both characters are ones you write.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 路过 (lùguò) is built from 路 'road' and 过 'to pass', both inherited from Middle Chinese, luH and kwaH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a road' and the second, among other senses, 'to go beyond'.

What you've built

路过 is passing a place on your way somewhere else: you do not stop there. 去 is going there.
It is a verb, and the place follows it: 路过学校.

Your turn

- Say it: lùguò
- Say it: lùguò, once more
- Say it: 我每天路过学校 — wǒ měitiān lùguò xuéxiào — I go past the school every day.

- Say it: 我路过你家 — wǒ lùguò nǐ jiā — I'm going past your house.
- Recall: say 路, then 过, then 路过

Before you move on

What does 路过 mean? ("To pass by".) Do you stop at the place? (No: it is on the way.)

283.8 去书店怎么走

The chapter closes here, with a stranger asking the way.

- Recall: say 路过 — lùguò — R1, one lesson back
- Recall: say 再 — zài, again — R2
- Recall: say wǎng, towards — R2

The exchange

A: 请问 去书店怎么走

qǐngwèn, qù shūdiàn zěnme zǒu — Excuse me, how do I get to the bookshop?

B: wǎng qián zǒu — Go straight ahead.

B: dào lùkǒu wǎng yòu guǎi — Turn right at the crossing.

A: duìbuqǐ, qǐng zài shuō yí cì — Sorry, could you say that again?

B: wǎng qián zǒu, dào lùkǒu wǎng yòu guǎi — Straight ahead, then right at the crossing.

A: yuǎn ma — Is it far?

B: bù yuǎn, wǒ měitiān lùguò — Not far. I go past it every day.

A: 谢谢 再见

xièxie, zàijiàn — Thank you. Goodbye.

Directions run in the order you walk them, and the person is left out: wǎng qián zǒu, then dào lùkǒu wǎng yòu guǎi. Asking again is qǐng zài shuō yí cì.

Read this

Read it: the exchange through once without stopping, then answer the question below

What you've built — asking the way, and following it

A question, three answers, and a way to hear them twice:

- 去火车站怎么走 qù huǒchēzhàn zěnme zǒu — the question.
- wǎng qián zǒu — straight ahead.
- dào lùkǒu wǎng zuǒ guǎi — left at the crossing.
- 我每天路过 wǒ měitiān lùguò — I pass it every day.
- qǐng zài shuō yí cì — once more, please.

Listen. Qù xuéxiào zěnme zǒu?
Speak. Give the way from your door to the nearest shop, in three steps.
Write it: 怎么走

Your turn

- Say it: 去书店怎么走 — qù shūdiàn zěnme zǒu — How do I get to the bookshop?
- Say it: wǎng qián zǒu, dào lùkǒu wǎng yòu guǎi — Straight ahead, then right at the crossing.
- Say it: the whole exchange, both parts
- Write it: 去火车站怎么走

Before you move on

Ask the way to the bookshop. (去书店怎么走.) Say go straight ahead. (wǎng qián zǒu.) Ask someone to say it again. (qǐng zài shuō yí cì.)

Chapter 284

Two Tickets

Modes: voice (8) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 9 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can buy a ticket and say how I am travelling.
>
> Saying how you travel with 坐 … 去*, buying and returning tickets, platforms, one-way tickets and seats,* 在 after a verb for where something lands, and 家 for counting shops, built on one new written character: 坐*.*

284.1 zhàntái — a platform

A new chapter, and it opens at the station, where the trains stand.

- Recall: say 去书店怎么走 — qù shūdiàn zěnme zǒu — R1, the chapter you have finished
- Recall: say 路过 — lùguò, to pass by — R2
- Recall: say 火车 — huǒchē, a train — R3, durable
- Recall: say 火车站 — huǒchēzhàn, a station — R3

You'll want to know: zhàntái zhàntái — "a platform", at a station.

> huǒchē zài èr hào zhàntái — The train is at platform two.

Its second character comes later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

zhàntái is built from 站 and tái 'a raised platform'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese treamH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which the dictionary gives as the everyday word for standing alone. tái is written with a character whose traditional form is doj, glossed as a raised square of earth; the simplified character is also an old one in its own right, with the readings yi and thoj and other senses.

What you've built

zhàntái holds the 站 of 火车站: the station, and the platform you stand on in it.
A number comes before 号: èr hào zhàntái, platform two.

Your turn

- Say it: zhàntái
- Say it: zhàntái, once more
- Say it: huǒchē zài èr hào zhàntái — The train is at platform two.
- Recall: say 火车站, then zhàntái

Before you move on

What does zhàntái mean? ("A platform".) How do you say platform two? (èr hào zhàntái.)

284.2 坐火车去 — going by train

A verb you have said since the early chapters, and the ticket that goes with it.

- Recall: say zhàntái, a platform — R1, one lesson back
- Recall: say zuò, to sit; to travel by — R3, durable
- Recall: say 票 — piào, a ticket — R3
- Recall: say zhāng, the measure word for flat things — R3

Grammar Lens: 坐 and a vehicle, then 去

坐 and a vehicle, then 去 or 来: that is how you travel.

我们坐火车去 wǒmen zuò huǒchē qù — We're going by train. 我们坐八点的火车 wǒmen zuò bā diǎn de huǒchē — We're taking the eight o'clock train.

坐 is the zuò you know, to sit and to travel by; the next lesson puts it in your hand. The vehicle comes between 坐 and the verb of going. Tickets are counted with zhāng, as flat things are: mǎi liǎng zhāng qù Běijīng de piào, two tickets to Beijing.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- 我们坐火车去 — wǒmen zuò huǒchē qù — We're going by train.
- 我们坐八点的火车 — wǒmen zuò bā diǎn de huǒchē — We're taking the eight o'clock train.
- mǎi liǎng zhāng qù Běijīng de piào — Two tickets to Beijing, please.
- how you get to work or school, with 坐 … 去

Before you move on

Where does the vehicle go? (Between 坐 and 去.) What counts tickets? (zhāng, as for flat things.)

284.3 坐 — 人 twice, then 土

The sentence first, then the character it was waiting for.

- Recall: say 我们坐火车去 — wǒmen zuò huǒchē qù — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

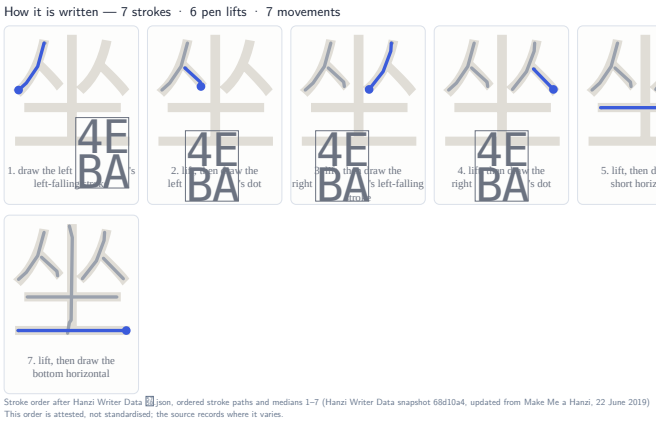
  人 从 在

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — rén, cóng, zài

Script — 人 twice, then 土



How 坐 is written, stroke by stroke

坐

Three pieces, and you write all of them already.

人, twice, side by side, the left one first. Each is a left-falling stroke and then a dot: neither has the long right-falling stroke of 人 standing alone.

土, three strokes, under them, as at the lower right of 在: the short horizontal; then the vertical, from the top between the two 人, down through it; then the long horizontal along the foot.

2 + 2 + 3 = seven.

Your turn

- Write it: 坐, all seven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 坐? (Seven.) What shrinks to a dot in each 人? (The second stroke.) Where does the vertical of 土 start? (At the top, between the two 人.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 坐, pinned stroke paths and medians.

284.4 dānchéng — one way

Before the new one: the train you are taking, and how you count its tickets.

- Read it: 我们坐八点的火车, aloud — wǒmen zuò bā diǎn de huǒchē
- Recall: say mǎi liǎng zhāng piào, two tickets — R2

You'll want to know: dānchéng dānchéng — "one way", of a ticket or a trip.

yì zhāng dānchéng piào — a one-way ticket

dānchéng háishi wǎngfǎn — One way or return?

wǎngfǎn, there and back, is the other choice. Its characters come later; for now dānchéng is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dānchéng is built from dān 'single' and chéng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, tan and drjeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'single, not double' and the second 'a term; a limit'; 'one way' for the pair, a single stage of a journey, is the word's own sense.

What you've built

At the window you are asked dānchéng háishi wǎngfǎn?, one way or return. 还是 is the or of a question.
Answer with the word alone: dānchéng.

Your turn

- Say it: dānchéng
- Say it: dānchéng, once more
- Say it: yì zhāng dānchéng piào — a one-way ticket
- Say it: dānchéng háishi wǎngfǎn — One way or return?
- Recall: answer the question: dānchéng

Before you move on

What does dānchéng mean? ("One way".) What is the other choice? (wǎngfǎn, there and back.)

284.5 zuòwèi — a seat

Before the new one: last lesson's word, and the character you wrote this chapter.

- Recall: say dānchéng, one way — R1, one lesson back

  坐

Read it: it aloud, with nothing said first — zuò

You'll want to know: zuòwèi

zuòwèi — "a seat".

zhèr yǒu zuòwèi ma — Is there a seat here?

Its characters come later. The first is not the 坐 you write but one that shares its sound and holds it under a roof.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zuòwèi is built from zuò 'a seat' and wèi 'a place', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzwaH and hwijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'the stand of a bed' and 'a position; a rank'.

What you've built

坐 is the verb, to sit; zuòwèi is the noun, the seat itself: wǒ de zuòwèi zài nǎr?, where's my seat?

Your turn

- Say it: zuòwèi
- Say it: zuòwèi, once more

- Say it: zhèr yǒu zuòwèi ma — Is there a seat here?
- Say it: wǒ de zuòwèi zài nǎr — Where's my seat?
- Recall: say 坐, then zuòwèi: to sit, then the seat

Before you move on

What does zuòwèi mean? ("A seat".) Is its first character the 坐 you write? (No: the same sound, another character.)

284.6 tuìpiào — to return a ticket

Before the new one: last lesson's word, and one you use at a hotel desk.

- Recall: say zuòwèi, a seat — R1, one lesson back
- Recall: say tuìfáng, to check out — R3, durable

  票

Read it: it aloud, with nothing said first — piào

You'll want to know: tuìpiào tuìpiào — "to return a ticket", for your money back.

wǒ xiǎng tuìpiào — I'd like to return my ticket.

Its first character comes later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tuìpiào is built from tuì 'to give back' and 票 'a ticket'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese thwojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to draw back'; the dictionary has no entry for 票, so that part's history is not settled.

What you've built

You know tuìfáng, to give back a hotel room; tuìpiào gives back a ticket the same way.

It is a verb on its own, with the ticket inside it: wǒ xiǎng tuìpiào.

Your turn

- Say it: tuìpiào
- Say it: tuìpiào, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiǎng tuìpiào — I'd like to return my ticket.
- Recall: say tuìfáng, then tuìpiào

Before you move on

What does tuìpiào mean? ("To return a ticket".) Which word gives back a hotel room? (tuìfáng.)

284.7 坐在这儿 — 在 after the verb

A word you have used since the first chapters, in a new place in the sentence.

- Recall: say tuìpiào, to return a ticket — R1, one lesson back
- Recall: say 我在家 — wǒ zài jiā, I'm at home — R3, durable
- Recall: say zhù, to live — R3
- Recall: say fàng, to put — R3

Grammar Lens: 在 after the verb, for where the action lands

在 after a verb says where the action lands, or where it stays.

你坐在这儿 nǐ zuò zài zhèr — You sit here. tā zhù zài xuéxiào lǐ — He lives at the school.

Keep it apart from 在 before the verb: 我在家吃饭 says where the eating happens. After the verb, 在 marks where you end up sitting, living or putting something: fàng zài zhèr, put it here.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- 你坐在这儿 — nǐ zuò zài zhèr — You sit here.
- tā zhù zài xuéxiào lǐ — He lives at the school.
- fàng zài zhèr — Put it here.
- where you live, with zhù zài

Before you move on

Where does 在 go in 你坐在这儿? (After the verb.) What does it say there? (Where the sitting lands.)

284.8 一家书店 — counting shops with 家

A word you wrote in the first chapters, doing a new job.

- Read it: 你坐在这儿, aloud — nǐ zuò zài zhèr
- Recall: say 书店 — shūdiàn, a bookshop — R3, durable
- Recall: say bīnguǎn, a hotel — R3

Grammar Lens: 家 for counting shops

家 after a number, or after 这 or 那, counts shops, hotels and restaurants.

这家书店很好 zhè jiā shūdiàn hěn hǎo — This bookshop is very good. 那家饭店的菜很好吃 nà jiā fàndiàn de cài hěn hǎochī — The food at that restaurant is delicious.

一家书店, a bookshop; liǎng jiā bīnguǎn, two hotels. It is the 家 of home, now counting places that do business: 家, not 个, is the measure word to use for them.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- 这家书店很好 — zhè jiā shūdiàn hěn hǎo — This bookshop is very good.
- 那家饭店的菜很好吃 — nà jiā fàndiàn de cài hěn hǎochī — The food at that restaurant is delicious.
- liǎng jiā bīnguǎn — two hotels
- the name of a shop you like, with 这家

Before you move on

What does 家 count? (Shops, hotels and restaurants.) Which measure word do you use for a bookshop, 家 or 个? (家.)

284.9 我们坐八点的火车

The chapter closes here, at the ticket window.

- Read it: 这家书店很好, aloud — zhè jiā shūdiàn hěn hǎo
- Recall: say tuìpiào, to return a ticket — R2
- Recall: say zuòwèi, a seat — R2

The exchange

A: wǒ yào liǎng zhāng qù Běijīng de piào — Two tickets to Beijing, please.

B: dānchéng háishi wǎngfǎn — One way or return?

A: dānchéng, wǒmen zuò bā diǎn de huǒchē — One way. We're taking the eight o'clock train.

B: bā diǎn de huǒchē zài èr hào zhàntái — The eight o'clock is at platform two.

A: yǒu zuòwèi ma — Are there seats?

B: 有

yǒu — There are.

A: 车站里有一家书店吗

chēzhàn lǐ yǒu yì jiā shūdiàn ma — Is there a bookshop in the station?

B: yǒu, zài zhàntái qiánbian — There is, in front of the platform.

The answers are short: dānchéng, 有. The station's bookshop is counted with 家, and the platform has a number before 号.

Read this

Read it: the exchange through once without stopping, then answer the question below

What you've built — getting on a train

Everything you need between the window and your seat:

- 我们坐火车去 wǒmen zuò huǒchē qù — how you travel.
- mǎi liǎng zhāng piào, dānchéng, tuìpiào — buying, and giving back.
- èr hào zhàntái, zuòwèi — where to go, and where to sit.
- 你坐在这儿 nǐ zuò zài zhèr — where you land.
- 一家书店 yì jiā shūdiàn — a shop, counted.

Listen. Nǐmen zuò jǐ diǎn de huǒchē?
Speak. Buy a ticket for a trip you would like to take: where, how many, one way or return.
Write it: 坐火车 — 人 twice, then the foot of 在

Your turn

- Say it: 我们坐八点的火车 — wǒmen zuò bā diǎn de huǒchē — We're taking the eight o'clock train.

- Say it: wǒ yào liǎng zhāng qù Běijīng de piào — Two tickets to Beijing, please.
- Say it: the whole exchange, both parts
- Write it: 我们坐火车去

Before you move on

Say you're going by train. (我们坐火车去.) Ask for one-way. (dānchéng.) Tell someone to sit here. (你坐在这儿.)

Chapter 285

Lost on the Way

Modes: 🚗 voice (7) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 6 of 8 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can report a lost thing and write a short note about it.
>
> Reporting a problem with …不见了, saying you can't find it with 找不到*, papers, reporting a loss and getting in touch, and writing four connected lines to a hotel desk.*

285.1 找回 (zhǎohuí) — to get back

A new chapter, and it opens on the happy end of a bad day.

- Recall: say 我们坐八点的火车 — wǒmen zuò bā diǎn de huǒchē — R1, the chapter you have finished
- Recall: say 找 — zhǎo, to look for — R3, durable
- Recall: say 找到 — zhǎodào, to find — R3
- Recall: say 回 — huí, to go back — R3

You'll want to know: 找回

找回 — zhǎohuí — "to get back", something you had lost.

> 我找回了我的手机 wǒ zhǎohuí le wǒ de shǒujī — I got my phone back.

Both characters are ones you write.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 找回 (zhǎohuí) is built from 找 'to look for' and 回 'to go back'. The second is inherited from Middle Chinese hwoj (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to turn round'; the dictionary has no entry for 找, so the history of that part is not settled.

What you've built

找 is to look for, 找到 is to find, and 找回 is to find what you had lost and have it again.
了 after it says it is done: 我找回了我的手机.

Your turn

- Say it: zhǎohuí
- Say it: zhǎohuí, once more
- Say it: 我找回了我的手机 — wǒ zhǎohuí le wǒ de shǒujī — I got my phone back.
- Recall: say 找, then 找到, then 找回

Before you move on

What does 找回 mean? ("To get back".) And 找到? (To find.)

285.2 我的手机不见了 — it's gone

Every word in it is one you have; together they report a problem.

- Read it: 找回, aloud — zhǎohuí
- Recall: say diū, to lose — R3, durable
- Recall: say 手机 — shǒujī, a phone — R3

Grammar Lens: ...不见了, it has gone missing

Name the thing, then say 不见了: it has gone missing.

我的手机不见了 wǒ de shǒujī bú jiàn le — My phone's gone missing. 我的车票不见了 你看到了吗 wǒ de chēpiào bú jiàn le, nǐ kàndào le ma — My ticket's disappeared. Have you seen it?

不见 is 'not seen', and 了 says that is new: it was there, and now it is not. 不 before the fall of jiàn is bú.
diū le says you lost it yourself: wǒ de qiánbāo diū le. huài le says it broke. qǐng bāng wǒ, please help me, asks for help.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- 我的手机不见了 — wǒ de shǒujī bú jiàn le — My phone's gone missing.
- 我的车票不见了 你看到了吗 — wǒ de chēpiào bú jiàn le, nǐ kàndào le ma — My ticket's disappeared. Have you seen it?
- qǐng bāng wǒ — Please help me.
- something of yours that went missing once, with 不见了

Before you move on

What comes after the thing? (不见了.) How is 不 said there? (bú, before the fall of jiàn.)

285.3 zhèngjiàn — papers; an identity document

Before the new one: last lesson's problem, and two things you hope never to lose.

- Read it: 我的手机不见了, aloud — wǒ de shǒujī bú jiàn le
- Recall: say hùzhào, a passport — R3, durable
- Recall: say shēnfènzhèng, an identity card — R3

You'll want to know: zhèngjiàn

zhèngjiàn — "papers; an identity document".

wǒ de zhèngjiàn bú jiàn le — My papers have gone missing.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhèngjiàn is built from zhèng 'proof' and jiàn 'an item', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyingH and gjenX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, under its traditional form, 'to verify' and the second 'a portion'.

What you've built

hùzhào and shēnfènzhèng are both zhèngjiàn: it is the word for any of them, the one a desk asks to see.

Your turn

- Say it: zhèngjiàn
- Say it: zhèngjiàn, once more
- Say it: wǒ de zhèngjiàn bú jiàn le — My papers have gone missing.
- Recall: say hùzhào, then zhèngjiàn: one of them, then any of them

Before you move on

What does zhèngjiàn mean? ("Papers; an identity document".) Is a passport one? (Yes.)

285.4 guàshī — to report a loss

Before the new one: last lesson's word, and two words that share its sounds.

- Recall: say zhèngjiàn, papers — R1, one lesson back
- Recall: say guà, to hang — R3, durable
- Recall: say shīwàng, disappointed — R3

You'll want to know: guàshī guàshī — "to report the loss of" a card or a document.

> wǒ yào guàshī wǒ de xìnyòngkǎ — I need to report my credit card lost.
>
> wǒ děi qù guàshī — I have to go and report it lost.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of guàshī is built from guà 'to hang' and shī 'to lose', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kweaH and syit (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to hang' and the second 'to let slip'. 'To report a loss' for the pair is its own sense, which neither gloss gives.

What you've built

guàshī is what you do at a bank or a police desk once a card or a passport is gone, so nobody else can use it.
The thing follows it: guàshī wǒ de xìnyòngkǎ.

Your turn

- Say it: guàshī
- Say it: guàshī, once more
- Say it: wǒ yào guàshī wǒ de xìnyòngkǎ — I need to report my credit card lost.
- Say it: wǒ děi qù guàshī — I have to go and report it lost.
- Recall: say guà, then guàshī

Before you move on

What does guàshī mean? ("To report a loss".) What follows it? (The thing that was lost.)

285.5 liánxì — to get in touch

Before the new one: last lesson's word, and how you reach people now.

- Recall: say guàshī, to report a loss — R1, one lesson back
- Recall: say 打电话 — dǎ diànhuà, to phone — R3, durable
- Recall: say hàomǎ, a number — R3

You'll want to know: liánxì liánxì — "to get in touch with; to contact".

wǒ zěnme liánxì nǐ — How can I get in touch with you?

qǐng gēn wǒ liánxì — Please get in touch with me.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of liánxì is built from lián 'to join' and xì 'to tie'. The Guangyun has no entry for the first under the traditional forms we look it up by, so the history of that part is not settled; the second is written with a character that stands for two traditional ones. The Guangyun reads one kejH, glossed 'joined together', and lists the other under two readings, kejH, glossed 'to tie up', and hejH, given only as the name of a part of the Book of Changes (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The senses sit with kejH, but xì is not its regular modern sound, which would be jì: the change of sound is irregular.

What you've built

打电话 is one way to liánxì; a message is another. The person you reach follows it, or comes before it with gēn: qǐng gēn wǒ liánxì.

Your turn

- Say it: liánxì
- Say it: liánxì, once more

- Say it: wǒ zěnme liánxì nǐ — How can I get in touch with you?
- Say it: qǐng gēn wǒ liánxì — Please get in touch with me.
- Recall: say 打电话, then liánxì: one way, then any way

Before you move on

What does liánxì mean? ("To get in touch".) How do you ask how to reach someone? (wǒ zěnme liánxì nǐ.)

285.6 找不到 — can't find it

Verbs with a result after them, which you have; and a way to say the result is out of reach.

- Recall: say liánxì, to get in touch — R1, one lesson back
- Recall: say 找到 — zhǎodào, to find — R3, durable
- Recall: say tīngdǒng, to understand what you hear — R3
- Recall: say 看到 — kàndào, to see — R3

Grammar Lens: 找不到 and 找得到, can't and can 不 between a verb and its result says you can't manage it; 得 there says you can.

我找不到我的手机 wǒ zhǎo bu dào wǒ de shǒujī — I can't find my phone. wǒ tīng bu dǒng — I can't understand what's being said.

找到, 看到, tīngdǒng: you know verbs with a result after them. Put 不 in the middle, said light, and the result is out of reach: 找不到. Put 得 there, also light, and it is within reach: 你找得到吗 nǐ zhǎo de dào ma? Keep to the results dào, dǒng and wán for now: zuò bu wán, more than you can finish.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- 我找不到我的手机 — wǒ zhǎo bu dào wǒ de shǒujī — I can't find my phone.
- wǒ tīng bu dǒng — I can't understand what's being said.
- 你找得到吗 — nǐ zhǎo de dào ma — Can you find it?
- something you can't find today, with 找不到

Before you move on

What does 不 do in 找不到? (Puts the result out of reach: can't find.) And 得 in 找得到? (Puts it within reach: can find.)

285.7 A note to the desk, four lines that lean on each other

You are staying at a hotel, and something of yours has gone missing. The front desk, qiántái, can help, if you tell them clearly.

This lesson writes to them.

- Recall: say liánxì, to get in touch — R2
- Recall: say qiántái, the front desk — R3, durable

What to know first

A note is connected when each line leans on the one before. Four short lines can hang together; four long ones can fall apart.

Three things do the leaning, and you own all three. The time words lead: 早上, 回来的时候, 明天. The subject is said once: 我 in the first line, and the lines after it start on the time or the verb. Each line answers the question the last one raised: gone, when, what now, how to reach you.

Your reader is the desk. Your purpose is to get the thing back.

Writing — connected composition

Write four lines to the front desk. No name at the top: begin as you would at the desk.

- Line 1 says what is gone, with 不见了.
- Line 2 says when you last had it, with 的时候.
- Line 3 says what you need, with 请, or what you think you should do, with 我应该.
- Line 4 says how to reach you: liánxì, and a time or a room number.

A word whose characters you have not written goes in pinyin, inside the line, with its tone marks: liánxì, qiántái, hùzhào. Every character comes from the ones you have learned, each in the order you learned it, each in the same size of square.

No Chinese commas or full stops: leave a space between clauses, as this book prints them.

Write the note. Then read it once as the desk would, top to bottom: could they act on it?

Before you move on

Read your second line on its own. Does it stand up without the first? (It should not quite: it says when, and the first says what.) Count the lines that start with 我. If every one does, you wrote a list, not a note.

285.8 我的车票不见了

The chapter closes here, on a train, with two things missing.

- Recall: say guàshī, to report a loss — R2
- Recall: say zhèngjiàn, papers — R2
- Recall: say 我找回了我的手机 — wǒ zhǎohuí le wǒ de shǒujī — R2

The exchange

A: 我的车票不见了

wǒ de chēpiào bú jiàn le — My ticket's gone.

B: 你找了吗

nǐ zhǎo le ma — Have you looked for it?

A: 找了 我找不到

zhǎo le, wǒ zhǎo bu dào — I have. I can't find it.

B: 你上车的时候有吗

nǐ shàngchē de shíhou yǒu ma — Did you have it when you got on?

A: 有 我坐在这儿的时候还有

yǒu, wǒ zuò zài zhèr de shíhou hái yǒu — Yes. I still had it when I sat down here.

B: nǐ yīnggāi liánxì chēzhàn — You should get in touch with the station.

A: wǒ de zhèngjiàn yě bú jiàn le — My papers are gone too.

B: nà nǐ děi măshàng guàshī — Then you'll have to report them lost straight away.

A answers with the verb alone, 找了, and B leads with the moment, 你上车的时候. 还有 says A still had it then.

Read this

Read it: the exchange through once without stopping, then answer the question below

What you've built — when something goes missing

What to say, from the bad news to the end of it:

- 我的车票不见了 wǒ de chēpiào bú jiàn le — it's gone.
- 我找不到 wǒ zhǎo bu dào — I can't find it.
- guàshī, liánxì — report it, and leave a way to reach you.
- 我找回了我的手机 wǒ zhǎohuí le wǒ de shǒujī — and, with luck, it comes back.

Listen. Nǐ de shénme bú jiàn le?
Speak. Report something missing at a desk, in four sentences: what, when, what you need, how to reach you.
Write it: 不见了 and 找不到

Your turn

- Say it: 我的车票不见了 你看到了吗 — wǒ de chēpiào bú jiàn le, nǐ kàndào le ma — My ticket's disappeared. Have you seen it?
- Say it: 我找不到我的手机 — wǒ zhǎo bu dào wǒ de shǒujī — I can't find my phone.
- Say it: the whole exchange, both parts
- Write it: 我的手机不见了

Before you move on

Say your ticket has gone. (我的车票不见了.) Say you can't find it. (我找不到.) Say you got your phone back. (我找回了我的手机.)

Chapter 286

How It Felt

Modes: voice (6) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first of 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say how something felt and how long it lasted.
>
> Saying how something felt with 我感觉 and a feeling, how long it lasted with the length after the verb, how long and what a pity, built on one new written character: 感.

286.1 感觉 (gǎnjué) — to feel; a feeling

A new chapter, and it opens on how things felt.

- Recall: say 我的车票不见了 — wǒ de chēpiào bú jiàn le — R1, the chapter you have finished
- Recall: say gǎndào, to feel — R3, durable
- Recall: say 开心 — kāixīn, happy — R3

You'll want to know: 感觉

感觉 — gǎnjué — "to feel", how something seems to you; "a feeling".

我感觉很好 wǒ gǎnjué hěn hǎo — I feel fine.

wǒ gǎnjué tā bù gāoxìng — I have a feeling he's not happy.

The next lesson puts the first character in your hand. The second is the 觉 of juéde.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 感觉 (gǎnjué) is built from 感 and 觉, both inherited from Middle Chinese. 感 is komX, glossed 'to move, to stir'. The Guangyun lists 觉 under two readings: kaewH, glossed as sleep, and kaewk, glossed 'to understand' and 'to wake'; jué is the regular modern sound of kaewk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). 'To feel' for the pair is the word's own sense.

What you've built

gǎndào and 感觉 both report a feeling; 感觉 is also how something seems to you: 我感觉很好.
juéde, as in 我觉得, is what you think about it.

Your turn

- Say it: gǎnjué
- Say it: gǎnjué, once more
- Say it: 我感觉很好 — wǒ gǎnjué hěn hǎo — I feel fine.
- Say it: wǒ gǎnjué tā bù gāoxìng — I have a feeling he's not happy.
- Recall: say 我觉得, then 我感觉: what I think, then how it feels

Before you move on

What does 感觉 mean? ("To feel; a feeling".) Which word gives an opinion instead? (觉得.)

286.2 感 — a frame with 口 inside, then 心

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say gǎnjué — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  我 口 心

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — wǒ, kǒu, xīn

Script — a frame with 口 inside, then 心

How 感 is written, stroke by stroke

感

Two pieces: a frame with 口 inside it, then 心.

The frame, nine strokes: a long horizontal at the top; a left-falling stroke down the left side; a short horizontal under the top; 口, three strokes, small, under that; then the long slanting hook down to the lower right, as in 我; a short left-falling stroke across it; and last the dot at the top right.

心, four strokes, at the foot: the left dot, the curve along the foot that hooks up, the middle dot, the right dot.

9 + 4 = thirteen.

Your turn

- Write it: 感, all thirteen, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 感? (Thirteen.) Where have you written the slanting hook? (In 我.) What is at the foot? (心.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 感, pinned stroke paths and medians.

286.3 我感觉... — how it felt

A word you have, and the feelings that go after it.

- Read it: 感觉, aloud — gǎnjué
- Recall: say nánguò, sad — R3, durable
- Recall: say jǐnzhāng, nervous — R3
- Recall: say shīwàng, disappointed — R3

Grammar Lens: 我感觉 and a feeling

我感觉 and a feeling word says how it felt; the feeling words are ones you know.

那天我感觉很开心 nà tiān wǒ gǎnjué hěn kāixīn — I felt really happy that day. shàngkè de shíhou wǒ gǎnjué hěn jǐnzhāng — I felt nervous in class.

The feeling takes 很, as it does after 我: 我感觉很开心. Any feeling you know fits: gāoxìng, nánguò, jǐnzhāng, jīdòng, shīwàng.
感觉 is for how it felt; 觉得 is for what you think. 我觉得他说得对 is an opinion; 我感觉很好 is a feeling.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- 那天我感觉很开心 — nà tiān wǒ gǎnjué hěn kāixīn — I felt really happy that day.
- shàngkè de shíhou wǒ gǎnjué hěn jǐnzhāng — I felt nervous in class.
- how you felt on your last birthday, with 我感觉

Before you move on

What comes after 我感觉? (A feeling, with 很.) Which word gives an opinion instead? (觉得.)

286.4 学了两年 — how long it lasted

Numbers you know, and a new place to put them.

- Read it: 那天我感觉很开心, aloud — nà tiān wǒ gǎnjué hěn kāixīn
- Recall: say 年 — nián, a year — R3, durable
- Recall: say hǎojiǔ, a long time — R3
- Recall: say 多大 — duō dà, how old — R3

Grammar Lens: the length after the verb

How long something lasted goes after the verb and its 了; with an object, the object comes after the length.

我学了两年汉语 wǒ xué le liǎng nián Hànyǔ — I studied Chinese for two years. tā zài Zhōngguó zhù le yì nián — He lived in China for a year.

When it happened goes before the verb: 上个月. How long it lasted goes after: 一个月.
To ask, put 多 before 长, as you put it before 大 in 多大: 你学了多长时间 nǐ xué le duō cháng shíjiān?

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- 我学了两年汉语 — wǒ xué le liǎng nián Hànyǔ — I studied Chinese for two years.
- tā zài Zhōngguó zhù le yì nián — He lived in China for a year.
- 你学了多长时间 — nǐ xué le duō cháng shíjiān — How long did you study?

- how long you have been learning Chinese, with 了 and the length

Before you move on

Where does the length go? (After the verb and 了.) And the object? (After the length: 两年汉语.)

286.5 duōjiǔ — how long

Before the new one: last lesson's question, and an answer you already have.

- Read it: 你学了多长时间, aloud — nǐ xué le duō cháng shíjiān
- Recall: say hǎojiǔ, a long time — R3, durable

You'll want to know: duōjiǔ duōjiǔ — "how long", of time.

nǐ xué le duōjiǔ — How long did you study?

nǐ zài Zhōngguó zhù le duōjiǔ — How long did you live in China?

Its second character comes later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of duōjiǔ is built from 多 'much' and jiǔ 'long-lasting', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ta and kjuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'many' and the second 'lasting long'.

What you've built

duōjiǔ asks what 多长时间 asks, in fewer words, and it takes the same place, after the verb.
hǎojiǔ answers it: a long time.

Your turn

- Say it: duōjiǔ
- Say it: duōjiǔ, once more
- Say it: nǐ xué le duōjiǔ — How long did you study?
- Say it: nǐ zài Zhōngguó zhù le duōjiǔ — How long did you live in China?
- Recall: say 多长时间, then duōjiǔ: the long question, then the short one

Before you move on

What does duōjiǔ mean? ("How long".) Which longer question means the same? (多长时间.)

286.6 yíhàn — a pity

Before the new one: last lesson's question, and two words for when things go wrong.

- Recall: say duōjiǔ, how long — R1, one lesson back
- Recall: say hòuhuǐ, to regret — R3, durable
- Recall: say shīwàng, disappointed — R3

You'll want to know: yíhàn yíhàn — "a pity; regrettable".

tài yíhàn le — What a pity!

wǒ méi qù, hěn yíhàn — I didn't go, which is a shame.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yíhàn is built from yí 'to leave behind' and hàn 'resentment', both inherited from Middle Chinese. The Guangyun lists the first under two readings, ywij, glossed 'to lose', 'to be gone' and 'to give', and ywijH, glossed 'to give'; the second is homH, glossed 'resentment' (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). 'A pity' for the pair is the modern word's own sense.

What you've built

hòuhuǐ is regretting what you did yourself; yíhàn is a pity, whoever was to blame.
It takes 很 or 太 … 了, as a feeling does: tài yíhàn le.

Your turn

- Say it: yíhàn
- Say it: yíhàn, once more
- Say it: tài yíhàn le — What a pity!
- Say it: wǒ méi qù, hěn yíhàn — I didn't go, which is a shame.
- Recall: say hòuhuǐ, then yíhàn: my fault, then a pity

Before you move on

What does yíhàn mean? ("A pity".) How do you say what a pity? (tài yíhàn le.)

286.7 我感觉很好

The chapter closes here, with someone back from a year away.

- Recall: say yíhàn, a pity — R1, one lesson back
- Recall: say duōjiǔ, how long — R2
- Recall: say 我学了两年汉语 — wǒ xué le liǎng nián Hànyǔ — R2

The exchange

A: 你去过中国吗

nǐ qù guo Zhōngguó ma — Have you been to China?

B: 去过 我在中国学了一年汉语

qù guo, wǒ zài Zhōngguó xué le yì nián Hànyǔ — I have. I studied Chinese there for a year.

A: nǐ gǎnjué zěnmeyàng — How did it feel?

B: 我感觉很好

wǒ gǎnjué hěn hǎo — It felt good.

A: nǐ zài Zhōngguó zhù le duōjiǔ — How long did you live there?

B: 一年

yì nián — A year.

A: 你想再去吗

nǐ xiǎng zài qù ma — Do you want to go again?

B: xiǎng, méiyǒu shíjiān, tài yíhàn le — I do, but there's no time. What a pity.

A asks with 过, then with 感觉, then with duōjiǔ; B answers each in as few words as will do: 去过, 一年.

Read this

Read it: the exchange through once without stopping, then answer the question below

What you've built — how it was

How it felt, how long it lasted, and how you feel about it now:

- 那天我感觉很开心 nà tiān wǒ gǎnjué hěn kāixīn — how it felt.

- 我学了两年汉语 wǒ xué le liǎng nián Hànyǔ — how long.
- nǐ xué le duōjiǔ? — asking how long.
- tài yíhàn le — a pity.

Listen. Nǐ zài nàr zhù le duōjiǔ?
Speak. Tell someone about a place you stayed: how long, and how it felt.
Write it: 感觉 — the frame with 口, then 心

Your turn

- Say it: 我在中国学了一年汉语 感觉很好 — wǒ zài Zhōngguó xué le yì nián Hànyǔ, gǎnjué hěn hǎo — I studied Chinese in China for a year, and it felt good.
- Say it: 你学了多长时间 — nǐ xué le duō cháng shíjiān — How long did you study?
- Say it: the whole exchange, both parts
- Write it: 我感觉很好

Before you move on

Say you feel fine. (我感觉很好.) Say you studied Chinese for two years. (我学了两年汉语.) Say what a pity. (tài yíhàn le.)

Chapter 287

What I Want to Be

Modes: voice (6) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first of 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say what I want to do or be later.
>
> Saying what you want to do or be with 以后我想 and 当*, a dream and a goal, and* 最 before 喜欢 or an adjective, built on one new written character: 当.

287.1 当 (dāng) — to work as

A new chapter, and it opens on the job you might do one day.

- Recall: say 我感觉很好 — wǒ gǎnjué hěn hǎo — R1, the chapter you have finished
- Recall: say 医生 — yīshēng, a doctor — R3, durable
- Recall: say lǎoshī, a teacher — R3
- Recall: say dāngshí, at that time — R3

You'll want to know: 当

当 — dāng — "to work as; to be", in a job or a role.

> 我想当医生 wǒ xiǎng dāng yīshēng — I want to be a doctor.
>
> tā dāng le liǎng nián lǎoshī — He worked as a teacher for two years.

The next lesson puts it in your hand. It is the dāng of dāngshí.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 当 (dāng) is inherited from Middle Chinese tang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary lists the character under two readings, tang and tangH, and glosses tang 'to match', 'to face' and 'to be in charge'; 'to work as' is not given there, so how the word came by it is not settled.

What you've built

当 takes a job or a role after it: 当医生, dāng lǎoshī.
With a length of time, it follows the pattern you have: dāng le liǎng nián lǎoshī.

Your turn

- Say it: dāng
- Say it: dāng, once more
- Say it: 我想当医生 — wǒ xiǎng dāng yīshēng — I want to be a doctor.
- Say it: tā dāng le liǎng nián lǎoshī — He worked as a teacher for two years.
- Recall: say dāngshí, then 当: the same syllable

Before you move on

What does 当 mean? ("To work as; to be".) What follows it? (A job or a role.)

287.2 当 — the top of 常, then the foot of 雪

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say dāng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

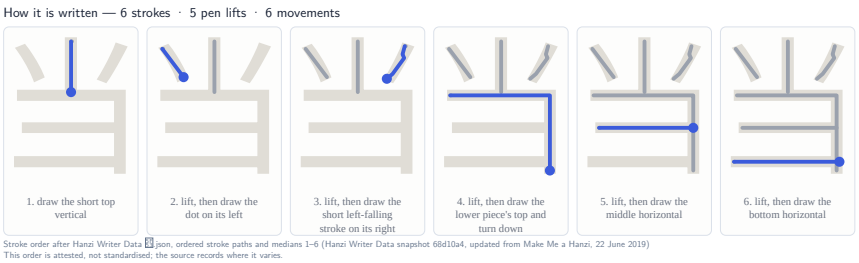
  常 雪

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — cháng, xuě

Script — the top of 常, then the foot of 雪



How 当 is written, stroke by stroke

当

Two pieces, and you write both already.

Three short strokes on top, as on top of 常: the short vertical in the middle first, then the dot to its left, then the short left-falling stroke to its right.

Three horizontals joined on the right, as at the foot of 雪: a horizontal that turns down at its right end, a horizontal across the middle, and a horizontal along the foot.

3 + 3 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 当, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 当? (Six.) Which stroke comes first? (The short vertical in the middle.) Where have you written its lower piece? (At the foot of 雪.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 当, pinned stroke paths and medians.

287.3 以后我想... — later, I want to

Words you have, put together to look ahead.

- Read it: 我想当医生, aloud — wǒ xiǎng dāng yīshēng
- Recall: say jiānglái, in the future — R3, durable
- Recall: say 以后 — yǐhòu, later — R3

Grammar Lens: 以后 and 想, looking ahead

A time word for later, then 想 or 要, says what you want to do or be.

以后我想去中国工作 yǐhòu wǒ xiǎng qù Zhōngguó gōngzuò — Later on I want to go and work in China. 以后你想当什么 yǐhòu nǐ xiǎng dāng shénme — What do you want to be later on?

以后 here is later, some time to come, at the front of the sentence. jiānglái reaches further: some day, in the future.
想 is a wish; 要 is a plan you mean to keep, as in 下个月我要去中国.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- 以后我想去中国工作 — yǐhòu wǒ xiǎng qù Zhōngguó gōngzuò — Later on I want to go and work in China.
- 以后你想当什么 — yǐhòu nǐ xiǎng dāng shénme — What do you want to be later on?
- wǒ xiǎng dāng lǎoshī — I want to be a teacher.
- what you want to do later on, with 以后 and 想

Before you move on

Where does 以后 go? (At the front.) Which says a wish, 想 or 要? (想.)

287.4 mèngxiǎng — a dream for your life

Before the new one: last lesson's plan, and a word for what happens in sleep.

- Read it: 以后我想去中国工作, aloud — yǐhòu wǒ xiǎng qù Zhōngguó gōngzuò
- Recall: say zuòmèng, to dream — R3, durable

You'll want to know: mèngxiǎng mèngxiǎng — "a dream", the one you have for your life.

wǒ de mèngxiǎng shì dāng yīshēng — My dream is to be a doctor.

Its first character comes later. The second is the 想 you write.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of mèngxiǎng is built from mèng 'a dream' and 想 'to think', both inherited from Middle Chinese. The Guangyun lists the first under two readings, mjuwng and mjuwngH, and under the second describes the spirit wandering in sleep; 想 is sjangX, glossed 'to think' (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

zuòmèng is dreaming in your sleep; mèngxiǎng is the dream you have for your life.
It is a noun, and 是 links it to the dream itself: wǒ de mèngxiǎng shì ….

Your turn

- Say it: mèngxiǎng
- Say it: mèngxiǎng, once more
- Say it: wǒ de mèngxiǎng shì dāng yīshēng — My dream is to be a doctor.
- Recall: say zuòmèng, then mèngxiǎng: asleep, then awake

Before you move on

What does mèngxiǎng mean? ("A dream for your life".) And zuòmèng? (To dream in your sleep.)

287.5 mùbiāo — a goal

Before the new one: last lesson's word, and one that shares this word's first sound.

- Recall: say mèngxiǎng, a dream for your life — R1, one lesson back
- Recall: say jiémù, a programme — R3, durable

You'll want to know: mùbiāo mùbiāo — "a goal; a target".

wǒ de mùbiāo shì shuō hǎo Hànyǔ — My goal is to speak Chinese well.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

mùbiāo is built from mù 'the eye' and biāo 'a mark', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjuwk and pjiew (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the eye' and the second 'to raise' and 'the tip of a tree'. 'A goal' for the pair is its own sense.

What you've built

mèngxiǎng is what you hope for; mùbiāo is what you aim at, and can reach step by step.

Your turn

- Say it: mùbiāo
- Say it: mùbiāo, once more
- Say it: wǒ de mùbiāo shì shuō hǎo Hànyǔ — My goal is to speak Chinese well.
- Recall: say mèngxiǎng, then mùbiāo: the hope, then the aim

Before you move on

What does mùbiāo mean? ("A goal".) How is it different from mèngxiǎng? (A goal is something you aim at and can reach.)

287.6 我最喜欢... — the one I like best

A word you have said for a long time, printed for the first time.

- Recall: say mùbiāo, a goal — R1, one lesson back
- Recall: say zuì, most — R3, durable
- Recall: say 他比我大 — tā bǐ wǒ dà — R3

Grammar Lens: 最, the most of all

最 before 喜欢 or an adjective picks out the top of the group.

我最喜欢中国菜 wǒ zuì xǐhuan Zhōngguó cài — I like Chinese food best. 这家书店最大 zhè jiā shūdiàn zuì dà — This bookshop is the biggest.

zuì you have said since the chapter on order; now it prints. 比 sets two things side by side, 我比他大; 最 needs no second thing: it is the most of all.
The story on the mountain ended on it: 那天是我最开心的一天.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- 我最喜欢中国菜 — wǒ zuì xǐhuan Zhōngguó cài — I like Chinese food best.
- 这家书店最大 — zhè jiā shūdiàn zuì dà — This bookshop is the biggest.
- 那天是我最开心的一天 — nà tiān shì wǒ zuì kāixīn de yì tiān — That was my happiest day.
- the food you like best, with 我最喜欢

Before you move on

Where does 最 go? (Before 喜欢 or an adjective.) Does it need a second thing, as 比 does? (No.)

287.7 以后我想当医生

The chapter closes here, with a question every child is asked.

- Read it: 我最喜欢中国菜, aloud — wǒ zuì xǐhuan Zhōngguó cài
- Recall: say mùbiāo, a goal — R2
- Recall: say mèngxiǎng, a dream — R2

The exchange

A: 以后你想当什么

yǐhòu nǐ xiǎng dāng shénme — What do you want to be later on?

B: 我想当医生

wǒ xiǎng dāng yīshēng — I want to be a doctor.

A: 为什么

wèishénme — Why?

B: 因为我妈妈是医生

yīnwèi wǒ māma shì yīshēng — Because my mother is a doctor.

A: nǐ de mèngxiǎng shì shénme — What's your dream?

B: wǒ de mèngxiǎng shì qù Zhōngguó gōngzuò — My dream is to work in China.

A: 你去过中国吗

nǐ qù guo Zhōngguó ma — Have you been to China?

B: 去过 我最喜欢中国菜

qù guo, wǒ zuì xǐhuan Zhōngguó cài — I have. I like Chinese food best.

当 answers 当什么; 因为 answers 为什么; and B's last line looks back with 过 before it looks forward again.

Read this

Read it: the exchange through once without stopping, then answer the question below

What you've built — looking ahead

What you want, what you dream of, what you aim at, and what you like best:

- 以后我想当医生 yǐhòu wǒ xiǎng dāng yīshēng — a wish for later.
- wǒ de mèngxiǎng shì … — a dream.
- wǒ de mùbiāo shì … — a goal.
- 我最喜欢中国菜 wǒ zuì xǐhuan Zhōngguó cài — the best of all.

Listen. Yǐhòu nǐ xiǎng zuò shénme gōngzuò?
Speak. Say what you want to be or do later, and one goal on the way.
Write it: 当 — the top of 常, then the foot of 雪

Your turn

- Say it: 我去过中国 以后我想在中国工作 — wǒ qù guo Zhōngguó, yǐhòu wǒ xiǎng zài Zhōngguó gōngzuò — I've been to China, and later on I want to work there.
- Say it: 以后你想当什么 — yǐhòu nǐ xiǎng dāng shénme — What do you want to be later on?
- Say it: the whole exchange, both parts
- Write it: 我想当医生

Before you move on

Say you want to be a doctor. (我想当医生.) Ask what someone wants to be later on. (以后你想当什么.) Say what you like best. (我最喜欢....)

Chapter 288

If It Rains

Modes: voice (6) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first of 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say what will happen if something else does.
>
> Saying what will happen if something else does with 要是 … 就 … and … 的话*, and what it depends on with* 看*, built on one new written character:* 就.

288.1 就 (jiù) — then; right away

A new chapter, and it opens on the small word that joins what comes next to what came first.

- Recall: say 以后我想当医生 — yǐhòu wǒ xiǎng dāng yīshēng — R1, the chapter you have finished
- Recall: say 我最喜欢中国菜 — wǒ zuì xǐhuan Zhōngguó cài — R2
- Recall: say jiù, old — R3, durable
- Recall: say 马上 — mǎshàng, at once — R3

You'll want to know: 就

就 — jiù — "then; right away".

我马上就来 wǒ mǎshàng jiù lái — I'll be right there.

吃了饭 我就去 chī le fàn, wǒ jiù qù — Once I've eaten, I'll go.

It sounds like jiù, old, which you know: the same sound, a different word. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 就 (jiù) is inherited from Middle Chinese dzjuwH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to accomplish', 'to go to meet' and 'to approach'. 'Then; right away' is not given there, so how the word came by it is not settled.

What you've built

就 sits after the person, right before the verb: 我马上就来. It ties what comes next to what came first: 吃了饭, 我就去.

Your turn

- Say it: jiù
- Say it: jiù, once more
- Say it: 我马上就来 — wǒ mǎshàng jiù lái — I'll be right there.
- Say it: 吃了饭 我就去 — chī le fàn, wǒ jiù qù — Once I've eaten, I'll go.
- Recall: say jiù, old, then 就, then: the same sound, two words

Before you move on

What does 就 mean? ("Then; right away".) Where does it go? (After the person, right before the verb.)

288.2 就 — a dot, a bar, 口 and 小, then a four-stroke right side

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say jiù — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  文 口 小

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — wén, kǒu, xiǎo

Script — a dot, a bar, 口 and 小, then a four-stroke right side

How 就 is written, stroke by stroke

就

Four pieces: three you write, and one new one on the right.
A dot and a horizontal, as 文 opens.
口, three strokes, under them.
小, three strokes, under 口: the hooked vertical, then the left dot, then the right dot.
The right side, four strokes: a horizontal; a long left-falling stroke; a vertical that bends right along the foot and hooks up; and last the dot at the upper right.
2 + 3 + 3 + 4 = twelve.

Your turn

- Write it: 就, all twelve, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 就? (Twelve.) Which character you write opens the same way? (文: a dot and a horizontal.) Which stroke comes last? (The dot at the upper right.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 就, pinned stroke paths and medians.

288.3 要是 (yàoshi) — if

Before the new one: the character you wrote last, and a word that sounds the same as this one.

- Read it: 我马上就来, aloud — wǒ mǎshàng jiù lái
- Recall: say yàoshi, a key — R3, durable

You'll want to know: 要是

要是 — yàoshi — "if".

> 要是明天下雨 我就不去了 yàoshi míngtiān xiàyǔ, wǒ jiù bú qù le — If it rains tomorrow, I won't go.

It sounds like yàoshi, a key: the same sound, a different word. Every character in it is one you write.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 要是 (yàoshi) is built from 要 and 是, both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jiewH and dzyeX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to bind by agreement' and 'right, as against wrong'. 'If' for the pair is the modern word's own sense.

What you've built

要是 opens the condition; 就 opens what follows, after its subject: 我就不去了 wǒ jiù bú qù le.

Your turn

- Say it: yàoshi
- Say it: yàoshi, once more
- Say it: 要是明天下雨 我就不去了 — yàoshi míngtiān xiàyǔ, wǒ jiù bú qù le — If it rains tomorrow, I won't go.

- Recall: say yàoshi, a key, then 要是, if

Before you move on

What does 要是 mean? ("If".) Which word that sounds the same do you know? (yàoshi, a key.)

288.4 要是...就... — if, then

Two words from this chapter, made into one frame.

- Read it: 要是, aloud — yàoshi
- Recall: say 我马上就来 — wǒ mǎshàng jiù lái — R2
- Recall: say 下雨 — xiàyǔ, to rain — R3, durable

Grammar Lens: 要是 ... 就 ..., if and then

要是 opens what might happen; 就 opens what follows if it does.

要是明天下雨 我就不去了 yàoshi míngtiān xiàyǔ, wǒ jiù bú qù le — If it rains tomorrow, I won't go. 要是你病了 就回家 yàoshi nǐ bìng le, jiù huí jiā — If you're ill, go home.

就 goes after the subject of the second clause, right before its verb: 我就不去了. With no subject there, 就 opens the clause: 就回家.
了 at the end of 我就不去了 says the plan has changed.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- 要是明天下雨 我就不去了 — yàoshi míngtiān xiàyǔ, wǒ jiù bú qù le — If it rains tomorrow, I won't go.
- 要是你病了 就回家 — yàoshi nǐ bìng le, jiù huí jiā — If you're ill, go home.
- what you will do tomorrow if it is cold, with 要是 … 就 …

Before you move on

Which word opens the condition? (要是.) Where does 就 go? (After the subject of the second clause, right before its verb.)

288.5 的话 (dehuà) — if, at the end

Before the new one: last lesson's frame, and a word you have had since the early chapters.

- Read it: 要是你病了 就回家, aloud — yàoshi nǐ bìng le, jiù huí jiā
- Recall: say 话 — huà, words — R3, durable

You'll want to know: 的话

的话 — dehuà — "if", closing a condition from behind.

下雨的话 我们就不去了 xiàyǔ dehuà, wǒmen jiù bú qù le — If it rains, we won't go.

要是你有时间的话 就来我家 yàoshi nǐ yǒu shíjiān dehuà, jiù lái wǒ jiā — If you've got time, come round.

Both characters are ones you write.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 的话 (dehuà) is built from 的 and 话 'words'. 话 is inherited from Middle Chinese hwaejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'speech'; the particle 的 is the one whose history is not settled. 'If' for the pair is the modern word's own sense, and its first syllable is light.

What you've built

要是 opens the condition from the front; 的话 closes it from behind. Use either, or both: 要是你有时间的话.

Your turn

- Say it: dehuà
- Say it: dehuà, once more
- Say it: 下雨的话 我们就不去了 — xiàyǔ dehuà, wǒmen jiù bú qù le — If it rains, we won't go.
- Say it: 要是你有时间的话 就来我家 — yàoshi nǐ yǒu shíjiān dehuà, jiù lái wǒ jiā — If you've got time, come round.
- Recall: say 要是, then 的话: the front of a condition, then its back

Before you move on

What does 的话 mean? ("If".) Where does it go? (At the end of the condition.)

288.6 看天气 — it depends on the weather

A verb you have used since the first chapters, doing a new job.

- Recall: say 的话 — dehuà, if — R1, one lesson back
- Recall: say 看 — kàn, to look — R3, durable
- Recall: say 天气 — tiānqì, the weather — R3

Grammar Lens: 看 and a noun, it depends on 看 and a noun can say 'it depends on': what happens turns on that.

去不去 要看天气 qù bu qù, yào kàn tiānqì — Whether we go depends on the weather. 那要看你 nà yào kàn nǐ — That's up to you.

去不去, go or not, is the open question; 要看 and the noun says what settles it.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- 去不去 要看天气 — qù bu qù, yào kàn tiānqì — Whether we go depends on the weather.
- 那要看你 — nà yào kàn nǐ — That's up to you.
- what your weekend depends on, with 要看

Before you move on

What does 要看天气 say? (It depends on the weather.) And 那要看你? (That's up to you.)

288.7 要是下雨 我就不去了

The chapter closes here, with a plan that hangs on the weather.

- Read it: 去不去 要看天气, aloud — qù bu qù, yào kàn tiānqì
- Recall: say 的话 — dehuà — R2
- Recall: say 要是 — yàoshi, if — R2

The exchange

A: 明天你去山上吗

míngtiān nǐ qù shān shàng ma — Are you going up the mountain tomorrow?

B: 要看天气

yào kàn tiānqì — It depends on the weather.

A: tiānqì yùbào shuō kěnéng huì xiàyǔ — The forecast says it might rain.

B: 要是下雨 我就不去了

yàoshi xiàyǔ, wǒ jiù bú qù le — If it rains, I won't go.

A: 不下雨的话呢

bú xiàyǔ dehuà ne — And if it doesn't?

B: 不下雨的话 我就去

bú xiàyǔ dehuà, wǒ jiù qù — If it doesn't, I'll go.

A: 要是你有时间的话 就来我家

yàoshi nǐ yǒu shíjiān dehuà, jiù lái wǒ jiā — If you've got time, come round.

B: 好 我马上就来

hǎo, wǒ mǎshàng jiù lái — All right, I'll be right over.

要是 opens one condition, 的话 closes the next, and 就 opens each result. 要看天气 answers the question before it is settled.

Read this

Read it: the exchange through once without stopping, then answer the question below

What you've built — if, and what it depends on

Three ways to put a condition, and one to say it is not settled:

- 要是下雨 我就不去了 yàoshi xiàyǔ, wǒ jiù bú qù le — 要是 at the front.
- 下雨的话 我们就不去了 xiàyǔ dehuà, wǒmen jiù bú qù le — 的话 at the back.
- 要是你有时间的话 yàoshi nǐ yǒu shíjiān dehuà — both.
- 要看天气 yào kàn tiānqì — it depends.

Listen. Yàoshi míngtiān hěn lěng, nǐ qù ma?
Speak. Say two things you will do this weekend, each depending on something.
Write it: 就 — the opening of 文, 口 and 小, then the right side

Your turn

- Say it: 要是你有时间的话 就来我家 — yàoshi nǐ yǒu shíjiān dehuà, jiù lái wǒ jiā — If you've got time, come round.
- Say it: 去不去 要看天气 — qù bu qù, yào kàn tiānqì — Whether we go depends on the weather.
- Say it: the whole exchange, both parts
- Write it: 要是下雨 我就不去了

Before you move on

Say if it rains, you won't go. (要是下雨 我就不去了.) Say it depends on the weather. (要看天气.) Say you'll be right there. (我马上就来.)

Chapter 289

If I Had the Time

Modes: voice (5) pen (2) Hands-free start: the first of 7 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say what I would do if things were different, and write six connected lines.

Complete ZH-R289-review-final-289: one dialogue across the B1 core, after saying what would happen with 如果 … 就会 …, otherwise with 不然*, and writing six connected lines to a friend about a trip that went wrong.*

289.1 如果 (rúguǒ) — if

A new chapter, and it opens on an if that fits anywhere, in speech or in writing.

- Recall: say 要是下雨 我就不去了 — yàoshi xiàyǔ, wǒ jiù bú qù le — R1, the chapter you have finished
- Recall: say 要是 — yàoshi, if — R2
- Recall: say jiéguǒ, as a result — R3, durable

You'll want to know: 如果

如果 — rúguǒ — "if; in case".

如果你有时间 就来我家 rúguǒ nǐ yǒu shíjiān, jiù lái wǒ jiā — If you have time, come round.

如果 means what 要是 means, and it fits anywhere, in speech or in writing; 要是 sounds more casual. The next lesson puts the second character in your hand; the first is the 如 of 比如, and the second is the guǒ of jiéguǒ.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 如果 (rúguǒ) is built from 如 and 果, both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyo and kwaX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first with several words, among them 'to resemble', and the second 'resolute' and 'the fruit of a tree'. Whether 'if' was already among the first's senses the gloss does not make clear; 'if' for the pair is the modern word's sense.

What you've built

如果 opens the condition as 要是 does, and 就 opens the result. 要是 belongs to easy talk; 如果 fits a chat, a note or a talk alike.

Your turn

- Say it: rúguǒ
- Say it: rúguǒ, once more
- Say it: 如果你有时间 就来我家 — rúguǒ nǐ yǒu shíjiān, jiù lái wǒ jiā — If you have time, come round.
- Recall: say 要是, then 如果: the casual if, then the one that fits anywhere

Before you move on

What does 如果 mean? ("If".) Which word means the same, more casually? (要是.)

289.2 果 — 日, with 木 running through it

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say rúguǒ — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

日 本

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — rì, běn

Script — 日, with 木 running through it

How 果 is written, stroke by stroke

果

Two pieces, and you write both already, one woven through the other.

日, four strokes, on top: the left side, the top that turns down the right side, the middle bar, the bottom bar. It is closed before anything else.

木, four strokes, as in 本: the long horizontal under 日; then the vertical, which starts at the top of 日 and runs down through it to the foot; then the left-falling stroke and the right-falling stroke.

4 + 4 = eight.

Your turn

- Write it: 果, all eight, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 果? (Eight.) Which stroke runs through 日? (The vertical of 木, the sixth.) What is closed first? (日.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 果, pinned stroke paths and medians.

289.3 如果...就... — if, then

Last chapter's frame, with this chapter's word at its front.

- Read it: 如果, aloud — rúguǒ
- Recall: say 要是你病了 就回家 — yàoshi nǐ bìng le, jiù huí jiā — R2
- Recall: say 的话 — dehuà — R2

Grammar Lens: 如果 ... 就 ..., if and then

如果 opens the condition and 就 opens the result, as 要是 ... 就 ... does, in speech or in writing.

如果明天不下雨 我们就去山上 rúguǒ míngtiān bú xiàyǔ, wǒmen jiù qù shān shàng — If it doesn't rain tomorrow, we'll go up the mountain. 如果你有时间的话 就来我家 rúguǒ nǐ yǒu shíjiān dehuà, jiù lái wǒ jiā — If you have the time, come round.

就 sits where it sat after 要是: after the subject, before the verb. 的话 can close the condition here too.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- 如果明天不下雨 我们就去山上 — rúguǒ míngtiān bú xiàyǔ, wǒmen jiù qù shān shàng — If it doesn't rain tomorrow, we'll go up the mountain.
- 如果你有时间的话 就来我家 — rúguǒ nǐ yǒu shíjiān dehuà, jiù lái wǒ jiā — If you have the time, come round.
- one plan for next week, with 如果 … 就 …

Before you move on

Which word opens the result after 如果? (就.) Where does it go? (After the subject, before the verb.)

289.4 如果...就会... — what would happen

A word from the A2 chapters on the future, after 就.

- Read it: 如果明天不下雨 我们就去山上, aloud — rúguǒ míngtiān bú xiàyǔ, wǒmen jiù qù shān shàng
- Recall: say 明天会下雨 — míngtiān huì xiàyǔ — R3, durable
- Recall: say 有钱 — yǒuqián, rich — R3

Grammar Lens: 如果 ... 就会 ..., a result you picture

会 after 就 says what would happen: 如果 ... 就会 ... for a result you picture.

如果我有钱 我就会去中国 rúguǒ wǒ yǒu qián, wǒ jiù huì qù Zhōngguó — If I had the money, I would go to China. 如果我有时间 我就会学开车 rúguǒ wǒ yǒu shíjiān, wǒ jiù huì xué kāichē — If I had the time, I would learn to drive.

There is no new form here. It is the 会 of 明天会下雨, a forecast, now forecasting a result you picture.
Nothing in the verb says whether the condition is real: 如果我有钱 can be if I have the money, or if I had it. The rest of the conversation tells you.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- 如果我有钱 我就会去中国 — rúguǒ wǒ yǒu qián, wǒ jiù huì qù Zhōngguó — If I had the money, I would go to China.
- 如果我有时间 我就会学开车 — rúguǒ wǒ yǒu shíjiān, wǒ jiù huì xué kāichē — If I had the time, I would learn to drive.

- what you would do if you had a free year, with 如果 … 就会 …

Before you move on

What does 会 add after 就? (What would happen.) Is it a new form? (No: the 会 of a forecast.)

289.5 不然 (bùrán) — otherwise

Before the new one: last lesson's picture, and a word for hurrying.

- Read it: 如果我有钱 我就会去中国, aloud — rúguǒ wǒ yǒu qián, wǒ jiù huì qù Zhōngguó
- Recall: say 快 — kuài, quick — R3, durable

You'll want to know: 不然

不然 — bùrán — "otherwise; or else".

快点儿 不然我们就晚了 kuài diǎnr, bùrán wǒmen jiù wǎn le — Hurry up, or we'll be late.

你得早点儿走 不然就晚了 nǐ děi zǎo diǎnr zǒu, bùrán jiù wǎn le — You have to leave early, or you'll be late.

不 before the rising rán stays bù. Every character in it is one you write.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 不然 (bùrán) is built from 不 'not' and 然 'so', both inherited from Middle Chinese. The Guangyun lists 不 under three readings, pjuw, pjuwX and pjut, all glossed 'not'. bù comes from pjut irregularly: other syllables of its kind changed their p to f, while 不 kept the plain lip sound, now written b. 然 is nyen, glossed 'so, like this' (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). 'Not so', and so 'otherwise', is the plain sum of the two.

What you've built

不然 comes after the advice and says what happens if it is not taken. 就 often opens that result: 不然我们就晚了.

Your turn

- Say it: bùrán
- Say it: bùrán, once more
- Say it: 快点儿 不然我们就晚了 — kuài diǎnr, bùrán wǒmen jiù wǎn le — Hurry up, or we'll be late.
- Say it: 你得早点儿走 不然就晚了 — nǐ děi zǎo diǎnr zǒu, bùrán jiù wǎn le — You have to leave early, or you'll be late.
- Recall: say 然后, then 不然: the same 然, two words

Before you move on

What does 不然 mean? ("Otherwise".) Where does it go? (After the advice, before what happens if it is not taken.)

289.6 Six lines to a friend, a story with advice at the end

A trip of yours went wrong: a train missed, a bag lost, rain where there should have been sun. A friend is about to make the same trip.

This lesson tells them what happened, and what to do.

- Recall: say 不然 — bùrán, otherwise — R1, one lesson back
- Recall: say 如果 … 就会 … — rúguǒ … jiù huì … — R2

What to know first

Six connected lines are not six sentences in a row: each leans on the one before, and the reader does not have to ask what happened next.

You own what does the leaning. Order words: 先, 然后, 突然, 最后. The time at the front: 那天, 第二天, 的时候. The subject said once: 我 in the first line, then the order word or the time. 因为 ... 所以 ... gives the reason; 如果 ... 就 ... or 应该 turns the story into advice.

Your reader is the friend. Your purpose is to save them the same trouble.

Writing — connected composition

Write six lines to your friend. Here is a frame for each; the words are yours, and there is no model to copy.

- Line 1: when and where, and what you did first, with 先 and 了.
- Line 2: what came next, with 然后.
- Line 3: what went wrong, with 突然, or with 的时候 and 正在.
- Line 4: how it ended, with 最后, or what you had never done before, with 过.
- Line 5: the reason it went wrong, with 因为 … 所以 ….
- Line 6: your advice, with 如果 … 就 … or 应该.

A word whose characters you have not written goes in pinyin, inside the line, with its tone marks. Every character comes from the 227 you have learned, each in the order you learned it, each in the same size of square.

No Chinese commas or full stops: leave a space between clauses, as this book prints them.

Write the six lines. Then read them once as your friend would, top to bottom: would they know what to do?

Before you move on

Cover lines 1 and 2, and read line 3. Does it lean on them? (It should: 突然 breaks into what was going on.)
Which line could your friend act on tomorrow? (Line 6, the advice.)

289.7 The B1 core — once more

The last lesson of the B1 core: one conversation across all of it.

- Recall: say duōjiǔ, how long — R3
- Recall: say yíhàn, a pity — R3
- Recall: say 不然 — bùrán, otherwise — R2

Your turn

A: 那天你做什么了

nà tiān nǐ zuò shénme le — What did you do that day?

B: 我先去了书店 然后坐火车回家

wǒ xiān qù le shūdiàn, ránhòu zuò huǒchē huí jiā — First the bookshop, then home by train.

B: 在火车上 我的手机突然不见了

zài huǒchē shàng, wǒ de shǒujī tūrán bú jiàn le — On the train my phone suddenly went missing.

A: 你找回了吗

nǐ zhǎohuí le ma — Did you get it back?

B: 最后找回了 我感觉很好

zuìhòu zhǎohuí le, wǒ gǎnjué hěn hǎo — In the end I did. I feel fine.

B: wǒ de zhèngjiàn yě bú jiàn le, wǒ děi mǎshàng guàshī — My papers are gone too; I must report them lost at once.

A: wǒ juéde nǐ yīnggāi xiān liánxì wǒ — I think you should have got in touch with me first.

B: yīnwèi wǒ hěn lèi, suǒyǐ wàng le — I was tired, so I forgot.

A: 以后你想当什么

yǐhòu nǐ xiǎng dāng shénme — What do you want to be later on?

B: wǒ de mèngxiǎng shì dāng yīshēng, wǒ de mùbiāo shì shuō hǎo Hànyǔ — My dream is to be a doctor; my goal is to speak good Chinese.

A: nǐ xué le duōjiǔ — How long have you studied?

B: liǎng nián, wǒ méi qù guo Zhōngguó, tài yíhàn le — Two years. I've never been to China, sadly.

A: 明天去山上吗 去山上怎么走

míngtiān qù shān shàng ma, qù shān shàng zěnme zǒu — Going up the mountain tomorrow? How do you get there?

B: 要看天气 要是下雨的话 我就不去了

yào kàn tiānqì, yàoshi xiàyǔ dehuà, wǒ jiù bú qù le — It depends on the weather. If it rains, I won't go.

A: 如果不下雨 我们就坐火车去

rúguǒ bú xiàyǔ, wǒmen jiù zuò huǒchē qù — If it doesn't rain, we'll go by train.

B: 那早点儿走 不然就晚了

nà zǎo diǎnr zǒu, bùrán jiù wǎn le — Then let's leave early, or we'll be late.

- Read it: the lines printed in characters aloud, then the rest
- Say it: the whole dialogue, both parts
- Say it: B's lines, with your own answers

Before you move on

First, then, last? (先, 然后, 最后.) Should? (应该.) Gone missing? (不见了.) How long? (duōjiǔ.) If, then? (要是 ... 就 ..., 如果 ... 就

....) Would? (就会.) Otherwise? (不然.)

Chapter 290

In the News

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the news, the radio, the host of a show and what everyone is talking about.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 290: I can talk about the news, the radio, the host of a show and what everyone is talking about.

290.1 xīnwén — the news; news on TV and radio

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for if, then the Mandarin for otherwise.

You'll want to know: xīnwén

xīnwén — "the news; news on TV and radio".

> wǒ měitiān tīng xīnwén — I listen to the news every day.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xīnwén is built from xīn 'new' and wén 'to hear', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sin and mjun (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'new, as against old' and the second 'to know by its sound': what is newly heard.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xīnwén
- Say it: xīnwén, once more
- Say it: wǒ měitiān tīng xīnwén — I listen to the news every day.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for if, then the Mandarin for otherwise, then say xīnwén again

Before you move on

What does xīnwén mean? ("The news; news on TV and radio".) Say it once more.

290.2 bàodào — to report on; a news report

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for otherwise, then the Mandarin for the news on TV.

You'll want to know: bàodào

bàodào — "to report on; a news report".

diànshì bàodào le zhège xiāoxi — The news was reported on TV.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bàodào is built from bào 'to report' and dào, both inherited from Middle Chinese, pawH and dawX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to report' and the second 'a road' and 'a principle'; its sense 'to say' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: bàodào
- Say it: bàodào, once more
- Say it: diànshì bàodào le zhège xiāoxi — The news was reported on TV.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for otherwise, then the Mandarin for the news on TV, then say bàodào again

Before you move on

What does bàodào mean? ("To report on; a news report".) Say it once more.

290.3 diàntái — radio station

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the news on TV, then the Mandarin for to report on the news.

You'll want to know: diàntái

diàntái — "radio station".

wǒ bàba zài diàntái gōngzuò guo — My dad once worked at a radio station.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of diàntái is built from 电 'electricity' and tái 'a platform', both inherited from Middle Chinese, denH and doj (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as lightning and the second 'a high, square mound of earth'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: diàntái
- Say it: diàntái, once more
- Say it: wǒ bàba zài diàntái gōngzuò guo — My dad once worked at a radio station.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the news on TV, then the Mandarin for to report on the news, then say diàntái again

Before you move on

What does diàntái mean? ("Radio station".) Say it once more.

290.4 zhǔchírén — presenter; host of a show

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to report on the news, then the Mandarin for a radio station.

You'll want to know: zhǔchírén

zhǔchírén — "presenter; host of a show".

zhège jiémù de zhǔchírén hěn yǒuyìsi — The host of this show is a lot of fun.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhǔchírén is built from zhǔ 'to be in charge', chí 'to hold' and 人 'a person', all inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyuX, dri and nyin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to be in charge of' and the second 'to hold': the person who holds the show together.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zhǔchírén
- Say it: zhǔchírén, once more
- Say it: zhège jiémù de zhǔchírén hěn yǒuyìsi — The host of this show is a lot of fun.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to report on the news, then the Mandarin for a radio station, then say zhǔchírén again

Before you move on

What does zhǔchírén mean? ("Presenter; host of a show".) Say it once more.

290.5 热点 (rèdiǎn) — hot topic; what everyone is talking about

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a radio station, then the Mandarin for the presenter of a show.

You'll want to know: 热点

热点 — rèdiǎn — "hot topic; what everyone is talking about".

这是今天的热点 zhè shì jīntiān de rèdiǎn — This is today's hot topic.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 热点 (rèdiǎn) is built from 热 'hot' and 点 'a dot', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyet and temX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'burning, as by fire' and the second 'a dot or stroke': a hot spot, the story everyone is talking about.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: rèdiǎn
- Say it: rèdiǎn, once more
- Say it: zhè shì jīntiān de rèdiǎn — This is today's hot topic.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a radio station, then the Mandarin for the presenter of a show, then say rèdiǎn again

Before you move on

What does 热点 mean? ("Hot topic; what everyone is talking about".) Say it once more.

Chapter 291

Something New

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say someone was interviewed, something was invented, an event broke out and news was announced.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 291: I can say someone was interviewed, something was invented, an event broke out and news was announced.

291.1 cǎifǎng — to interview someone for the news

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the presenter of a show, then the Mandarin for what everyone is talking about.

You'll want to know: cǎifǎng

cǎifǎng — "to interview someone for the news".

> jìzhě cǎifǎng le wǒmen — A reporter interviewed us.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: cǎi is said with a rising tone before fǎng, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of cǎifǎng is built from cǎi 'to pick' and fǎng 'to ask about', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tshojX and phjangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to take' and the second 'to consult': to gather news by asking. phjangH would regularly give fàng; the dipping tone of fǎng is irregular.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: cǎifǎng
- Say it: cǎifǎng, once more
- Say it: jìzhě cǎifǎng le wǒmen — A reporter interviewed us.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the presenter of a show, then the Mandarin for what everyone is talking about, then say cǎifǎng again

Before you move on

What does cǎifǎng mean? ("To interview someone for the news".) Say it once more.

291.2 发明 (fāmíng) — to invent; an invention

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for what everyone is talking about, then the Mandarin for to interview someone for the news.

You'll want to know: 发明

发明 — fāmíng — "to invent; an invention".

他发明了一个小东西 tā fāmíng le yí ge xiǎo dōngxi — He invented a little gadget.

The new character, in pieces: 发 — five strokes in three small groups: a short stroke that drops and turns to the right, and a long sweep down to the left from the top; then a fork of two strokes crossing below; then a dot at the top right. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 发明 (fāmíng) is built from 发 'to send out' and 明 'bright', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjot and mjaeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to start' and 'to make clear' and the second 'light' and 'clear': to bring something to light.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: fāmíng
- Say it: fāmíng, once more
- Say it: tā fāmíng le yí ge xiǎo dōngxi — He invented a little gadget.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for what everyone is talking about, then the Mandarin for to interview someone for the news, then say fāmíng again

Before you move on

What does 发明 mean? ("To invent; an invention".) Say it once more.

291.3 发 — a bent stroke, a sweep, a fork and a dot

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say fāmíng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

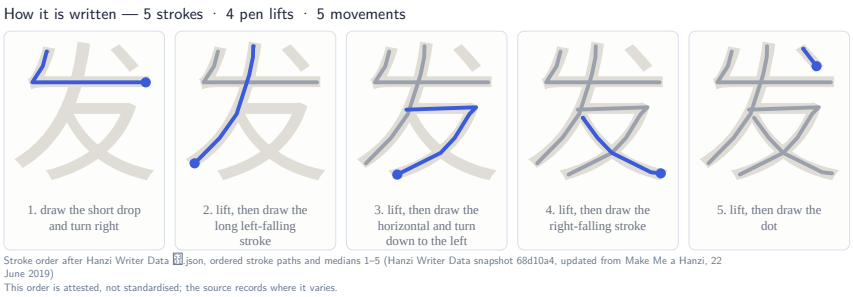
  突 明

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — tū, míng

Script — a bent stroke, a sweep, a fork and a dot



How 发 is written, stroke by stroke

发

One shape, three small groups. Count the groups, not the strokes.

The frame, two strokes. A short stroke that drops and turns to run across to the right, rising a little. Then a long sweep from the top middle, down to the lower left, crossing it.

The fork, two strokes. A bar that turns into a sweep down to the lower left. Then a long stroke falling to the right from under the bar, out to the foot.

The dot, one stroke, high on the right.

2 + 2 + 1 = five.

Your turn

- Write it: 发, all five, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 发? (Five.) Which stroke comes first? (The short one that drops and turns right.) What comes last? (The dot, high on the right.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 发, pinned stroke paths and medians.

291.4 shìjiàn — incident; event (in the news)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to interview someone for the news, then the Mandarin for to invent something.

You'll want to know: shìjiàn

shìjiàn — "incident; event (in the news)".

zhège shìjiàn fāshēng zài Běijīng — The incident happened in Beijing.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shìjiàn is built from 事 'a matter' and jiàn 'an item', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzriH and gjenX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to divide into parts'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shìjiàn
- Say it: shìjiàn, once more
- Say it: zhège shìjiàn fāshēng zài Běijīng — The incident happened in Beijing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to interview someone for the news, then the Mandarin for to invent something, then say shìjiàn again

Before you move on

What does shìjiàn mean? ("Incident; event (in the news)".) Say it once more.

291.5 突发 (tūfā) — to break out suddenly; sudden

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to invent something, then the Mandarin for an incident in the news.

You'll want to know: 突发

突发 — tūfā — "to break out suddenly; sudden".

zhè shì yí ge tūfā shìjiàn — This is a sudden, unexpected event.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 突发 (tūfā) is built from 突 'to burst out' and 发 'to start', both inherited from Middle Chinese, thwot and pjot (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the look of something coming out'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: tūfā
- Say it: tūfā, once more
- Say it: zhè shì yí ge tūfā shìjiàn — This is a sudden, unexpected event.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to invent something, then the Mandarin for an incident in the news, then say tūfā again

Before you move on

What does 突发 mean? ("To break out suddenly; sudden".) Say it once more.

291.6 xuānbù — to announce officially

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an incident in the news, then the Mandarin for to break out suddenly.

You'll want to know: xuānbù

xuānbù — "to announce officially".

> xuéxiào xuānbù míngtiān fàngjià — The school announced a day off tomorrow.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xuānbù is built from xuān 'to make known' and bù 'to spread', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sjwen and puH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to spread' and 'to make clear' and the second 'to spread everywhere'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xuānbù
- Say it: xuānbù, once more
- Say it: xuéxiào xuānbù míngtiān fàngjià — The school announced a day off tomorrow.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an incident in the news, then the Mandarin for to break out suddenly, then say xuānbù again

Before you move on

What does xuānbù mean? ("To announce officially".) Say it once more.

Chapter 292

On the Radio

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about broadcasts and live shows, viewers and listeners, and what someone published.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 292: I can talk about broadcasts and live shows, viewers and listeners, and what someone published.

292.1 guǎngbō — to broadcast; a broadcast

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to break out suddenly, then the Mandarin for to announce officially.

You'll want to know: guǎngbō

guǎngbō — "to broadcast; a broadcast".

> diàntái měitiān zǎoshang guǎngbō xīnwén — The station broadcasts the news every morning.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of guǎngbō is built from guǎng 'wide' and bō 'to scatter', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwangX and paH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'big' and 'broad' and the second 'to spread' and 'to sow': to spread far and wide. The level tone of bō is irregular for paH.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: guǎngbō
- Say it: guǎngbō, once more
- Say it: diàntái měitiān zǎoshang guǎngbō xīnwén — The station broadcasts the news every morning.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to break out suddenly, then the Mandarin for to announce officially, then say guǎngbō again

Before you move on

What does guǎngbō mean? ("To broadcast; a broadcast".) Say it once more.

292.2 guānzhòng — viewers; spectators; the people watching a show

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to announce officially, then the Mandarin for to broadcast on the radio.

You'll want to know: guānzhòng

guānzhòng — "viewers; spectators; the people watching a show".

guānzhòng dōu hěn xǐhuan zhège jiémù — The viewers all love this show.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of guānzhòng is built from guān 'to watch' and zhòng 'a crowd', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwan and tsyuwngH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to view' and the second 'many', adding that three people make a crowd.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: guānzhòng
- Say it: guānzhòng, once more
- Say it: guānzhòng dōu hěn xǐhuan zhège jiémù — The viewers all love this show.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to announce officially, then the Mandarin for to broadcast on the radio, then say guānzhòng again

Before you move on

What does guānzhòng mean? ("Viewers; spectators; the people watching a show".) Say it once more.

292.3 zhíbō — to broadcast live; a live show

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to broadcast on the radio, then the Mandarin for the people watching a show.

You'll want to know: zhíbō

zhíbō — "to broadcast live; a live show".

diànshì zhèngzài zhíbō zúqiú bǐsài — The football match is on live on TV right now.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhíbō is built from zhí 'straight' and bō 'to scatter', both inherited from Middle Chinese, drik and paH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'upright' and 'straight'. The level tone of bō is irregular for paH.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zhíbō
- Say it: zhíbō, once more
- Say it: diànshì zhèngzài zhíbō zúqiú bǐsài — The football match is on live on TV right now.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to broadcast on the radio, then the Mandarin for the people watching a show, then say zhíbō again

Before you move on

What does zhíbō mean? ("To broadcast live; a live show".) Say it once more.

292.4 tīngzhòng — listeners; the people listening to the radio

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the people watching a show, then the Mandarin for to broadcast live.

You'll want to know: tīngzhòng

tīngzhòng — "listeners; the people listening to the radio".

rúguǒ yǒu tīngzhòng dǎ diànhuà, zhǔchírén jiù huì huídá — If a listener calls in, the host will answer.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tīngzhòng is built from tīng 'to listen' and zhòng 'a crowd', both inherited from Middle Chinese, theng and tsyuwngH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to listen' and the second 'many'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: tīngzhòng
- Say it: tīngzhòng, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ yǒu tīngzhòng dǎ diànhuà, zhǔchírén jiù huì huídá — If a listener calls in, the host will answer.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the people watching a show, then the Mandarin for to broadcast live, then say tīngzhòng again

Before you move on

What does tīngzhòng mean? ("Listeners; the people listening to the radio".) Say it once more.

292.5 fābiǎo — to publish an article; to make public

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to broadcast live, then the Mandarin for the people listening to the radio.

You'll want to know: fābiǎo fābiǎo — "to publish an article; to make public".

tā fābiǎo le yì piān xiǎoshuō — He published a short story.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fābiǎo is built from 发 'to send out' and biǎo 'the outside', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjot and pjewX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to make clear' and 'a letter to the throne': to send out where all can see.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: fābiǎo
- Say it: fābiǎo, once more
- Say it: tā fābiǎo le yì piān xiǎoshuō — He published a short story.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to broadcast live, then the Mandarin for the people listening to the radio, then say fābiǎo again

Before you move on

What does fābiǎo mean? ("To publish an article; to make public".) Say it once more.

Chapter 293

Headlines

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about newspapers and magazines, the lead story and the news I follow.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 293: I can talk about newspapers and magazines, the lead story and the news I follow.

293.1 zázhì — magazine

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the people listening to the radio, then the Mandarin for to publish an article.

You'll want to know: zázhì

zázhì — "magazine".

> wǒ mǎi le liǎng běn zázhì — I bought two magazines.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

zázhì is built from zá 'mixed' and zhì 'a record', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzop and tsyiH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to gather' and 'five colours together' and the second 'to note down': a record of many things.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zázhì
- Say it: zázhì, once more
- Say it: wǒ mǎi le liǎng běn zázhì — I bought two magazines.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the people listening to the radio, then the Mandarin for to publish an article, then say zázhì again

Before you move on

What does zázhì mean? ("Magazine".) Say it once more.

293.2 报 (bào) — newspaper; the daily paper

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to publish an article, then the Mandarin for a magazine.

You'll want to know: 报

报 — bào — "newspaper; the daily paper".

我每天早上看报 wǒ měitiān zǎoshang kàn bào — I read the paper every morning.

The new character, in pieces: 报 — seven strokes in two pieces: on the left the hand piece of 打, three strokes; on the right a bar that turns down and hooks back, a long vertical down its left side, then a bar that turns into a sweep to the lower left and a long stroke falling to the right. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 报 (bào) is inherited from Middle Chinese pawH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it 'to report'; the sense 'a newspaper', the sheet that reports, is later and is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: bào
- Say it: bào, once more
- Say it: wǒ měitiān zǎoshang kàn bào — I read the paper every morning.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to publish an article, then the Mandarin for a magazine, then say bào again

Before you move on

What does 报 mean? ("Newspaper; the daily paper".) Say it once more.

293.3 报 — the hand piece, then a hook, a post and a fork

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say bào — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  打 找

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — dǎ, zhǎo

Script — the hand piece, then a hook, a post and a fork

How 报 is written, stroke by stroke

报

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, three strokes. The hand piece of 打: a bar, a vertical that hooks to the left at the foot, and a stroke rising to the right across it.

The right piece, four strokes. A bar that turns down and hooks back to the left. A long vertical down the left side of the piece. Then the fork: a bar that turns into a sweep down to the lower left, and a long stroke falling to the right.

3 + 4 = seven.

Your turn

- Write it: 报, all seven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces in 报? (Two.) What is the left piece? (The hand piece of 打, three strokes.) What closes the right piece? (A fork: a sweep to the left, then a long stroke to the right.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 报, pinned stroke paths and medians.

293.4 见报 (jiànbào) — to appear in the papers; to make the papers

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a magazine, then the Mandarin for the daily paper.

You'll want to know: 见报

见报 — jiànbào — "to appear in the papers; to make the papers".

我们学校见报了 wǒmen xuéxiào jiànbào le — Our school was in the paper.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 见报 (jiànbào) is built from 见 'to see' and 报 'a newspaper', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kenH and pawH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to view': to be seen in the paper.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jiànbào
- Say it: jiànbào, once more
- Say it: wǒmen xuéxiào jiànbào le — Our school was in the paper.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a magazine, then the Mandarin for the daily paper, then say jiànbào again

Before you move on

What does 见报 mean? ("To appear in the papers; to make the papers".) Say it once more.

293.5 tóutiáo — lead story; headline; the front-page story

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the daily paper, then the Mandarin for to make the papers.

You'll want to know: tóutiáo

tóutiáo — "lead story; headline; the front-page story".

jīntiān de tóutiáo shì shénme — What's today's lead story?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

tóutiáo is built from 头 'the head' and tiáo 'a strip', both inherited from Middle Chinese, duw and dew (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the head' and the second 'a small branch': the first strip, the story at the top.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: tóutiáo
- Say it: tóutiáo, once more
- Say it: jīntiān de tóutiáo shì shénme — What's today's lead story?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the daily paper, then the Mandarin for to make the papers, then say tóutiáo again

Before you move on

What does tóutiáo mean? ("Lead story; headline; the front-page story".) Say it once more.

293.6 guānzhù — to follow a story closely; to keep an eye on

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to make the papers, then the Mandarin for the front-page story.

You'll want to know: guānzhù

guānzhù — "to follow a story closely; to keep an eye on".

rúguǒ nǐ guānzhù xīnwén, nǐ jiù huì zhīdào — If you followed the news, you'd know.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of guānzhù is built from 关 'to shut' and zhù 'to pour', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwaen and tsyuH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the bar that holds a gate shut' and the second 'to pour into'; how the pair came to mean 'to follow closely' is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: guānzhù
- Say it: guānzhù, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ nǐ guānzhù xīnwén, nǐ jiù huì zhīdào — If you followed the news, you'd know.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to make the papers, then the Mandarin for the front-page story, then say guānzhù again

Before you move on

What does guānzhù mean? ("To follow a story closely; to keep an eye on".) Say it once more.

Chapter 294

How It Turned Out

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say how things stood, what caused something, what it changed and how it ended.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 294: I can say how things stood, what caused something, what it changed and how it ended.

294.1 qíngkuàng — situation; how things stand

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the front-page story, then the Mandarin for to follow a story closely.

You'll want to know: qíngkuàng

qíngkuàng — "situation; how things stand".

> nǐ děi gàosu wǒ qíngkuàng, bùrán wǒ huì dānxīn — You have to tell me how things are, or I'll worry.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qíngkuàng is built from qíng 'feeling' and kuàng 'to compare', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzjeng and xjwangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'what a person desires' and the second 'to compare'; how the pair came to mean 'a situation' is not settled. xjwangH would regularly give huàng; the k of kuàng is irregular.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: qíngkuàng
- Say it: qíngkuàng, once more
- Say it: nǐ děi gàosu wǒ qíngkuàng, bùrán wǒ huì dānxīn — You have to tell me how things are, or I'll worry.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the front-page story, then the Mandarin for to follow a story closely, then say qíngkuàng again

Before you move on

What does qíngkuàng mean? ("Situation; how things stand".) Say it once more.

294.2 yǐnqǐ — to give rise to; to bring about

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to follow a story closely, then the Mandarin for how things stand.

You'll want to know: yǐnqǐ

yǐnqǐ — "to give rise to; to bring about".

zhège xīnwén yǐnqǐ le dàjiā de zhùyì — The story caught everyone's attention.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: yǐn is said with a rising tone before qǐ, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

yǐnqǐ is built from yǐn 'to draw (a bow)' and 起 'to rise', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yinX and khiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'long' and 'to draw a bow' and the second 'to rise' and 'to start'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: yǐnqǐ
- Say it: yǐnqǐ, once more
- Say it: zhège xīnwén yǐnqǐ le dàjiā de zhùyì — The story caught everyone's attention.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to follow a story closely, then the Mandarin for how things stand, then say yǐnqǐ again

Before you move on

What does yǐnqǐ mean? ("To give rise to; to bring about".) Say it once more.

294.3 yǐngxiǎng — to affect; influence; to have an effect on

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for how things stand, then the Mandarin for to give rise to something.

You'll want to know: yǐngxiǎng

yǐngxiǎng — "to affect; influence; to have an effect on".

xiàyǔ yǐngxiǎng le bǐsài — The rain affected the match.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: yǐng is said with a rising tone before xiǎng, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yǐngxiǎng is built from yǐng 'a shadow' and xiǎng 'a sound', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jaengX and xjangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a shape's shadow' and the second 'a sound'. It is usually explained as what follows a thing the way a shadow follows a shape and an echo a sound.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: yǐngxiǎng
- Say it: yǐngxiǎng, once more
- Say it: xiàyǔ yǐngxiǎng le bǐsài — The rain affected the match.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for how things stand, then the Mandarin for to give rise to something, then say yǐngxiǎng again

Before you move on

What does yǐngxiǎng mean? ("To affect; influence; to have an effect on".) Say it once more.

294.4 zhōngyú — at long last

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to give rise to something, then the Mandarin for to have an effect on.

You'll want to know: zhōngyú

zhōngyú — "at long last".

děng le liǎng ge xiǎoshí, chē zhōngyú lái le — After a two-hour wait, the bus came at last.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhōngyú is built from zhōng 'the end' and yú 'at', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyuwng and 'jo (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the end' and 'to use up' and the second 'to dwell' and calls it a particle; its sense 'at' is not given there. The rising tone of yú is irregular for 'jo.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zhōngyú
- Say it: zhōngyú, once more
- Say it: děng le liǎng ge xiǎoshí, chē zhōngyú lái le — After a two-hour wait, the bus came at last.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to give rise to something, then the Mandarin for to have an effect on, then say zhōngyú again

Before you move on

What does zhōngyú mean? ("At long last".) Say it once more.

294.5 yúshì — so; and then (as a result)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to have an effect on, then the Mandarin for at long last.

You'll want to know: yúshì

yúshì — "so; and then (as a result)".

yǔ hěn dà, yúshì wǒmen huí jiā le — It was raining hard, so we went home.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yúshì is built from yú 'at' and 是, both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jo and dzyeX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which calls the first a particle, without the sense 'at', and glosses the second 'right, not wrong'; how the pair came to mean 'and so' is not settled. The rising tone of yú is irregular for 'jo.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: yúshì
- Say it: yúshì, once more
- Say it: yǔ hěn dà, yúshì wǒmen huí jiā le — It was raining hard, so we went home.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to have an effect on, then the Mandarin for at long last, then say yúshì again

Before you move on

What does yúshì mean? ("So; and then (as a result)".) Say it once more.

Chapter 295

Starting Over

Modes: voice (6) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say how something was at first, that it began again, and that it happened that same day.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 295: I can say how something was at first, that it began again, and that it happened that same day.

295.1 zuìchū — at the very start; initially

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for at long last, then the Mandarin for and so it followed.

You'll want to know: zuìchū

zuìchū — "at the very start; initially".

> zuìchū wǒ bù xǐhuan zhèr — At first I didn't like it here.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zuìchū is built from 最 'most' and chū 'the start', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tswajH and tsrhjo (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'the beginning': the very start.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zuìchū
- Say it: zuìchū, once more
- Say it: zuìchū wǒ bù xǐhuan zhèr — At first I didn't like it here.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for at long last, then the Mandarin for and so it followed, then say zuìchū again

Before you move on

What does zuìchū mean? ("At the very start; initially".) Say it once more.

295.2 重新 (chóngxīn) — anew; over again from the start

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for and so it followed, then the Mandarin for at the very start.

You'll want to know: 重新

重新 — chóngxīn — "anew; over again from the start".

你得重新写 nǐ děi chóngxīn xiě — You'll have to write it over again.

The new character, in pieces: 新 — thirteen strokes in three pieces: top left, the piece on the left of 站, five strokes; under it a bar, a vertical with a hook, a short sweep and a dot; on the right two strokes falling to the left, a bar and a long vertical. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 重新 (chóngxīn) is built from 重 'to repeat' and 新 'new', both inherited from Middle Chinese, drjowng and sin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, in this reading, 'to double' and 'to layer'; the same character read drjowngX, glossed 'much' and 'thick', is the source of zhòng 'heavy'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: chóngxīn
- Say it: chóngxīn, once more
- Say it: nǐ děi chóngxīn xiě — You'll have to write it over again.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for and so it followed, then the Mandarin for at the very start, then say chóngxīn again

Before you move on

What does 重新 mean? ("Anew; over again from the start".) Say it once more.

295.3 新 — two pieces on the left, one on the right

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say chóngxīn — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  站 机

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — zhàn, jī

Script — two pieces on the left, one on the right

How 新 is written, stroke by stroke

新

Three pieces: two stacked on the left, one on the right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

Top left, five strokes. The piece on the left of 站: a dot, a bar, a dot falling to the right and a short stroke falling to the left under it, then a bar across the foot.

Bottom left, four strokes. A bar, a vertical that hooks to the left at the foot, a short sweep to the lower left and a dot to the lower right: the tree piece of 机, with a hook.

The right piece, four strokes. A short sweep down to the left at the top. A long stroke down from under it that curves to the lower left. A bar across to the right. Then a long vertical down to the foot.

5 + 4 + 4 = thirteen.

Your turn

- Write it: 新, all thirteen, with the model in front of you

- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces in 新? (Three.) Where have you made the top left piece? (On the left of 站.) What is the last stroke? (A long vertical on the right.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 新, pinned stroke paths and medians.

295.4 当天 (dàngtiān) — that same day; on that very day

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for at the very start, then the Mandarin for over again from the start.

You'll want to know: 当天

当天 — dàngtiān — "that same day; on that very day".

他当天就回来了 tā dàngtiān jiù huílái le — He came back that same day.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 当天 (dàngtiān) is built from 当 and 天 'a day', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tangH and then (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, in this departing-tone reading, 'to be in charge'; how it came to mean 'that very (day)' is not settled. Read tang, the same character gives dāng.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: dàngtiān
- Say it: dàngtiān, once more

- Say it: tā dàngtiān jiù huílái le — He came back that same day.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for at the very start, then the Mandarin for over again from the start, then say dàngtiān again

Before you move on

What does 当天 mean? ("That same day; on that very day".) Say it once more.

295.5 事后 (shìhòu) — after the event; in hindsight

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for over again from the start, then the Mandarin for on that very day.

You'll want to know: 事后

事后 — shìhòu — "after the event; in hindsight".

事后我们都笑了 shìhòu wǒmen dōu xiào le — Afterwards we all laughed.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 事后 (shìhòu) is built from 事 'a matter' and 后 'after', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzriH and huwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'first and after'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shìhòu
- Say it: shìhòu, once more
- Say it: shìhòu wǒmen dōu xiào le — Afterwards we all laughed.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for over again from the start, then the Mandarin for on that very day, then say shìhòu again

Before you move on

What does 事后 mean? (“After the event; in hindsight”.) Say it once more.

295.6 dāngchǎng — on the spot; there and then

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for on that very day, then the Mandarin for after the event.

You’ll want to know: dāngchǎng

dāngchǎng — “on the spot; there and then”.

tā dāngchǎng jiù kū le — He burst into tears there and then.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dāngchǎng is built from 当 ’at’ and chǎng ’an open ground’, both inherited from Middle Chinese, tang and drjang (Guangyun, in Baxter’s transcription), which glosses the first ’to face’ and ’to meet’ and the second ’a place for offerings’ and ’a threshing floor’. Middle Chinese drjang would regularly give cháng; the dipping tone of chǎng is irregular.

What you’ve built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: dāngchǎng
- Say it: dāngchǎng, once more
- Say it: tā dāngchǎng jiù kū le — He burst into tears there and then.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for on that very day, then the Mandarin for after the event, then say dāngchǎng again

Before you move on

What does dāngchǎng mean? ("On the spot; there and then".) Say it once more.

295.7 Looking back: from In the News to Starting Over

Say the Mandarin for the news on TV and to report on the news.

Your turn

- Say it: the news on TV, to report on the news, a radio station, the presenter of a show, what everyone is talking about
- Say it: to interview someone for the news, to invent something, an incident in the news, to break out suddenly, to announce officially
- Say it: to broadcast on the radio, the people watching a show, to broadcast live, the people listening to the radio, to publish an article
- Say it: a magazine, the daily paper, to make the papers, the front-page story, to follow a story closely
- Say it: how things stand, to give rise to something, to have an effect on, at long last, and so it followed
- Say it: at the very start, over again from the start, on that very day, after the event, right there on the spot
- Read it: 发 报 新 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

The news on TV? (xīnwén.) To report on the news? (bàodào.) A radio station? (diàntái.) The presenter of a show? (zhǔchírén.) What everyone is talking about? (热点, rèdiǎn.) To interview someone for the news? (cǎifǎng.) To invent something? (发明, fāmíng.) An incident in the news? (shìjiàn.) To break out suddenly? (突发, tūfā.) To announce officially? (xuānbù.) To broadcast on the radio? (guǎngbō.) The people watching a show?

(guānzhòng.) To broadcast live? (zhíbō.) The people listening to the radio? (tīngzhòng.) To publish an article? (fābiǎo.) A magazine? (zázhì.) The daily paper? (报, bào.) To make the papers? (见报, jiànbào.) The front-page story? (tóutiáo.) To follow a story closely? (guānzhù.) How things stand? (qíngkuàng.) To give rise to something? (yǐnqǐ.) To have an effect on? (yǐngxiǎng.) At long last? (zhōngyú.) And so it followed? (yúshì.) At the very start? (zuìchū.) Over again from the start? (重新, chóngxīn.) On that very day? (当天, dàngtiān.) After the event? (事后, shìhòu.) Right there on the spot? (dāngchǎng.)

Chapter 296

A Crash

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a crash on the road: the brakes, a new driver and paying for the damage.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 296: I can talk about a crash on the road: the brakes, a new driver and paying for the damage.

296.1 意外 (yìwài) — mishap; something unexpected

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for after the event, then the Mandarin for right there on the spot.

You'll want to know: 意外

意外 — yìwài — "mishap; something unexpected".

> 意外发生的时候我在家 yìwài fāshēng de shíhou, wǒ zài jiā — When the accident happened, I was at home.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 意外 (yìwài) is built from 意 'an intention' and 外 'outside', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ʔiH and ngwajH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'will' and the second 'outside' and 'far': outside what anyone intended.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: yìwài
- Say it: yìwài, once more
- Say it: yìwài fāshēng de shíhou, wǒ zài jiā — When the accident happened, I was at home.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for after the event, then the Mandarin for right there on the spot, then say yìwài again

Before you move on

What does 意外 mean? ("Mishap; something unexpected".) Say it once more.

296.2 chēhuò — traffic accident; car crash

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for right there on the spot, then the Mandarin for something unexpected.

You'll want to know: chēhuò

chēhuò — "traffic accident; car crash".

tā zài chēhuò lǐ shòushāng le — He was hurt in a car crash.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chēhuò is built from 车 'a vehicle' and huò 'a disaster', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyhae and hwaX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'harm'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: chēhuò
- Say it: chēhuò, once more
- Say it: tā zài chēhuò lǐ shòushāng le — He was hurt in a car crash.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for right there on the spot, then the Mandarin for something unexpected, then say chēhuò again

Before you move on

What does chēhuò mean? ("Traffic accident; car crash".) Say it once more.

296.3 shāchē — to put on the brakes; a brake

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for something unexpected, then the Mandarin for a car crash.

You'll want to know: shāchē

shāchē — "to put on the brakes; a brake".

kuài shāchē, bùrán jiù zhuàng le — Brake, quick, or we'll hit it!

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shāchē is built from shā 'to stop' and 车 'a vehicle'. The second is inherited from Middle Chinese tsyhae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The Guangyun lists the first as tsrhaet, 'the pillar of a temple', the source of its other reading chà; the shā of 'to brake' has no source we can open, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shāchē
- Say it: shāchē, once more
- Say it: kuài shāchē, bùrán jiù zhuàng le — Brake, quick, or we'll hit it!
- Recall: say the Mandarin for something unexpected, then the Mandarin for a car crash, then say shāchē again

Before you move on

What does shāchē mean? ("To put on the brakes; a brake".) Say it once more.

296.4 新手 (xīnshǒu) — novice; beginner

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a car crash, then the Mandarin for to put on the brakes.

You'll want to know: 新手

新手 — xīnshǒu — "novice; beginner".

wǒ shì xīnshǒu, kāichē hěn màn — I'm a beginner, so I drive slowly.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 新手 (xīnshǒu) is built from 新 'new' and 手 'a hand', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sin and syuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription): a new hand, as in English.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xīnshǒu
- Say it: xīnshǒu, once more
- Say it: wǒ shì xīnshǒu, kāichē hěn màn — I'm a beginner, so I drive slowly.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a car crash, then the Mandarin for to put on the brakes, then say xīnshǒu again

Before you move on

What does 新手 mean? ("Novice; beginner".) Say it once more.

296.5 péiqián — to pay for damage

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to put on the brakes, then the Mandarin for a beginner at the wheel.

You'll want to know: péiqián

péiqián — "to pay for damage".

tā zhuàng le wǒ de chē, děi péiqián — He hit my car, so he has to pay for it.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of péiqián is built from péi 'to make good a loss' and 钱 'money'. The second is inherited from Middle Chinese dzjen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the Guangyun has no entry for the first, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: péiqián
- Say it: péiqián, once more
- Say it: tā zhuàng le wǒ de chē, děi péiqián — He hit my car, so he has to pay for it.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to put on the brakes, then the Mandarin for a beginner at the wheel, then say péiqián again

Before you move on

What does péiqián mean? ("To pay for damage".) Say it once more.

Chapter 297

Whose Fault

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say who was to blame for an accident, what came of it and who dealt with it.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 297: I can say who was to blame for an accident, what came of it and who dealt with it.

297.1 bǎoxiǎn — insurance

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a beginner at the wheel, then the Mandarin for to pay for damage.

You'll want to know: bǎoxiǎn

bǎoxiǎn — "insurance".

> wǒ de chē yǒu bǎoxiǎn — My car is insured.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: bǎo is said with a rising tone before xiǎn, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bǎoxiǎn is built from bǎo 'to guard' and xiǎn 'danger', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pawX and xjemX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to guard' and 'safe' and the second 'danger': a guard against danger.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: bǎoxiǎn
- Say it: bǎoxiǎn, once more
- Say it: wǒ de chē yǒu bǎoxiǎn — My car is insured.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a beginner at the wheel, then the Mandarin for to pay for damage, then say bǎoxiǎn again

Before you move on

What does bǎoxiǎn mean? ("Insurance".) Say it once more.

297.2 事故 (shìgù) — accident

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to pay for damage, then the Mandarin for insurance for the car.

You'll want to know: 事故

事故 — shìgù — "accident".

这个路口常常发生事故 zhège lùkǒu chángcháng fāshēng shìgù — Accidents often happen at this crossing.

The new character, in pieces: 故 — nine strokes in two pieces, the right two pieces of 做 without its person piece: on the left 十 over 口, five strokes; on the right the striking piece, four strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 事故 (shìgù) is built from 事 'a matter' and 故, both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzriH and kuH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'old' and 'a matter'; how the pair came to mean an accident is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shìgù
- Say it: shìgù, once more
- Say it: zhège lùkǒu chángcháng fāshēng shìgù — Accidents often happen at this crossing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to pay for damage, then the Mandarin for insurance for the car, then say shìgù again

Before you move on

What does 事故 mean? ("Accident".) Say it once more.

297.3 故 — 十 over 口, then the striking piece

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say shìgù — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

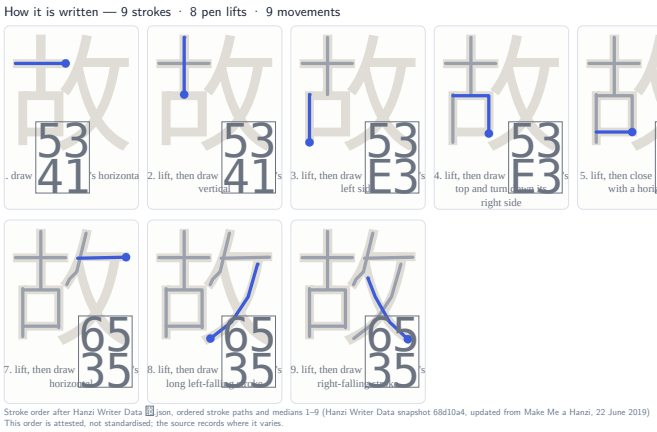
  做 十

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — zuò, shí

Script — 十 over 口, then the striking piece



How 故 is written, stroke by stroke

故

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, five strokes. 十: a bar and a vertical through it. Under it 口: a short vertical, a stroke that runs right and turns down, and the bar that closes the foot.

The right piece, four strokes. The striking piece of 做: a sweep down to the left, a bar across to the right, a long sweep down to the lower left, and a long stroke falling to the right across it.

5 + 4 = nine.

Your turn

- Write it: 故, all nine, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces in 故? (Two.) Which character has the same two pieces on its right? (做.) What is on the left? (十 over 口.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 故, pinned stroke paths and medians.

297.4 zérèn — responsibility; blame

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for insurance for the car, then the Mandarin for a serious accident.

You'll want to know: zérèn

zérèn — "responsibility; blame".

> shìgù fāshēng yǐhòu, sījī shuō shì tā de zérèn — After the accident, the driver said it was his fault.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

zérèn is built from zé 'to demand' and rèn 'to bear', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsreak and nyim (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to seek' and the second 'able to bear', and lists the second also in the departing tone, the source of rèn.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zérèn
- Say it: zérèn, once more
- Say it: shìgù fāshēng yǐhòu, sījī shuō shì tā de zérèn — After the accident, the driver said it was his fault.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for insurance for the car, then the Mandarin for a serious accident, then say zérèn again

Before you move on

What does zérèn mean? ("Responsibility; blame".) Say it once more.

297.5 后果 (hòuguǒ) — consequences; what comes of it

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a serious accident, then the Mandarin for who is to blame.

You'll want to know: 后果

后果 — hòuguǒ — "consequences; what comes of it".

kāichē tài kuài, hòuguǒ huì hěn yánzhòng — If you drive too fast, the consequences will be serious.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 后果 (hòuguǒ) is built from 后 'after' and 果 'fruit', both inherited from Middle Chinese, huwX and kwaX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'the fruit of a tree' and 'resolute': the fruit that comes after.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: hòuguǒ
- Say it: hòuguǒ, once more
- Say it: kāichē tài kuài, hòuguǒ huì hěn yánzhòng — If you drive too fast, the consequences will be serious.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a serious accident, then the Mandarin for who is to blame, then say hòuguǒ again

Before you move on

What does 后果 mean? ("Consequences; what comes of it".) Say it once more.

297.6 chǔlǐ — to deal with

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for who is to blame, then the Mandarin for what comes of it.

You'll want to know: chǔlǐ

chǔlǐ — "to deal with".

> jǐngchá lái chǔlǐ le zhège shìgù — The police came to deal with the accident.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: chǔ is said with a rising tone before lǐ, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

chǔlǐ is built from chǔ 'to settle' and lǐ 'to put in order', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyhoX and liX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to dwell' and 'to settle' and the second 'to arrange' and 'reason'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: chǔlǐ
- Say it: chǔlǐ, once more
- Say it: jǐngchá lái chǔlǐ le zhège shìgù — The police came to deal with the accident.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for who is to blame, then the Mandarin for what comes of it, then say chǔlǐ again

Before you move on

What does chǔlǐ mean? ("To deal with".) Say it once more.

Chapter 298

A Fire

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a fire, the firefighters and someone shouting for help.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 298: I can talk about a fire, the firefighters and someone shouting for help.

298.1 huǒzāi — big fire; a fire that destroys buildings

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for what comes of it, then the Mandarin for to deal with a problem.

You'll want to know: huǒzāi

huǒzāi — "big fire; a fire that destroys buildings".

> huǒzāi de yuányīn shì shénme — What caused the fire?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

huǒzāi is built from 火 'fire' and zāi 'a disaster', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xwaX and tsoj (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which lists the second as a spelling of the word for fire sent from heaven.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: huǒzāi
- Say it: huǒzāi, once more
- Say it: huǒzāi de yuányīn shì shénme — What caused the fire?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for what comes of it, then the Mandarin for to deal with a problem, then say huǒzāi again

Before you move on

What does huǒzāi mean? ("Big fire; a fire that destroys buildings".) Say it once more.

298.2 救火 (jiùhuǒ) — to fight a fire; to put out a fire

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to deal with a problem, then the Mandarin for a fire that destroys buildings.

You'll want to know: 救火

救火 — jiùhuǒ — "to fight a fire; to put out a fire".

大家都来救火了 dàjiā dōu lái jiùhuǒ le — Everyone came to fight the fire.

The new character, in pieces: 救 — eleven strokes in two pieces: on the left seven strokes, a bar, a vertical with a hook, a dot and a rising stroke on its left, a short sweep and a dot on its right, and a dot at the top right; on the right the striking piece of 故, four strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 救火 (jiùhuǒ) is built from 救 'to save' and 火 'fire', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjuwH and xwaX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to protect' and 'to stop': to stop a fire.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jiùhuǒ
- Say it: jiùhuǒ, once more
- Say it: dàjiā dōu lái jiùhuǒ le — Everyone came to fight the fire.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to deal with a problem, then the Mandarin for a fire that destroys buildings, then say jiùhuǒ again

Before you move on

What does 救火 mean? ("To fight a fire; to put out a fire".) Say it once more.

298.3 救 — a hooked post with small strokes, then the striking piece

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say jiùhuǒ — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  故 火

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — gù, huǒ

Script — a hooked post with small strokes, then the striking piece

How 救 is written, stroke by stroke

救

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, seven strokes. A bar. A vertical down through it that hooks to the left at the foot. A dot on its left, then a stroke rising to the right below the dot. A short sweep down to the left on its right, then a short stroke falling to the right under that. Last, a dot high on the right, above the end of the bar.

The right piece, four strokes. The striking piece of 故: a sweep to the left, a bar, a long sweep to the lower left and a long stroke falling to the right.

7 + 4 = eleven.

Your turn

- Write it: 救, all eleven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 救? (Eleven.) Which stroke of the left piece comes last? (The dot high on the right.) Where else have you made the right piece? (In 故 and 做.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 救, pinned stroke paths and medians.

298.4 xiāofángyuán — firefighter

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a fire that destroys buildings, then the Mandarin for to put out a fire.

You'll want to know: xiāofángyuán

xiāofángyuán — "firefighter".

xiāofángyuán hěn kuài jiù lái le — The firefighters were there in no time.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiāofángyuán is built from xiāo 'to put out', fáng 'to guard against' and yuán 'a member', all inherited from Middle Chinese, sjew, bjang and hjwen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to put out', the second 'to keep off' and the third 'a count of things': one of those who put out fires.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xiāofángyuán
- Say it: xiāofángyuán, once more
- Say it: xiāofángyuán hěn kuài jiù lái le — The firefighters were there in no time.

- Recall: say the Mandarin for a fire that destroys buildings, then the Mandarin for to put out a fire, then say xiāofángyuán again

Before you move on

What does xiāofángyuán mean? ("Firefighter".) Say it once more.

298.5 hǎn — to shout; to call out

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to put out a fire, then the Mandarin for a firefighter.

You'll want to know: hǎn

hǎn — "to shout; to call out".

wǒ tīngdào yǒu rén zài hǎn — I heard someone shouting.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

hǎn is inherited from Middle Chinese xamX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it 'a sound'; the Guangyun also lists it under two other readings, heamX and xeamX, both glossed as a sound or a cry.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: hǎn
- Say it: hǎn, once more
- Say it: wǒ tīngdào yǒu rén zài hǎn — I heard someone shouting.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to put out a fire, then the Mandarin for a firefighter, then say hǎn again

Before you move on

What does hǎn mean? (“To shout; to call out”.) Say it once more.

298.6 jiùmìng — help!; the cry for help

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a firefighter, then the Mandarin for to shout loudly.

You’ll want to know: jiùmìng

jiùmìng — “help!; the cry for help”.

tā dà hǎn jiùmìng — He shouted for help.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiùmìng is built from 救 ’to save’ and mìng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjuwH and mjaengH (Guangyun, in Baxter’s transcription), which glosses the second ’to order’ and ’to send’; its sense ’a life’ is not given there.

What you’ve built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jiùmìng
- Say it: jiùmìng, once more
- Say it: tā dà hǎn jiùmìng — He shouted for help.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a firefighter, then the Mandarin for to shout loudly, then say jiùmìng again

Before you move on

What does jiùmìng mean? (“Help!; the cry for help”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 299

Help Arrives

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say people were rescued in time, talk about first aid, and say the doctors fought to save a life.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 299: I can say people were rescued in time, talk about first aid, and say the doctors fought to save a life.

299.1 得救 (déjiù) — to be rescued; to be saved from danger

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to shout loudly, then the Mandarin for the cry for help.

You'll want to know: 得救

得救 — déjiù — "to be rescued; to be saved from danger".

> 事故发生以后大家都得救了 shìgù fāshēng yǐhòu, dàjiā dōu déjiù le — After the accident, everyone was rescued.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 得救 (déjiù) is built from 得 'to get' and 救 'to save', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tok and kjuwH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to gain': to get saved.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: déjiù
- Say it: déjiù, once more
- Say it: shìgù fāshēng yǐhòu, dàjiā dōu déjiù le — After the accident, everyone was rescued.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to shout loudly, then the Mandarin for the cry for help, then say déjiù again

Before you move on

What does 得救 mean? ("To be rescued; to be saved from danger".) Say it once more.

299.2 jíshí — in time; promptly; before it was too late

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the cry for help, then the Mandarin for to be saved from danger.

You'll want to know: jíshí

jíshí — "in time; promptly; before it was too late".

yīshēng lái de hěn jíshí — The doctor came in good time.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

jíshí is built from jí 'to reach' and 时 'time', both inherited from Middle Chinese, gip and dzyi (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to arrive' and 'to catch up with': to catch the time.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jíshí
- Say it: jíshí, once more
- Say it: yīshēng lái de hěn jíshí — The doctor came in good time.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the cry for help, then the Mandarin for to be saved from danger, then say jíshí again

Before you move on

What does jíshí mean? ("In time; promptly; before it was too late".) Say it once more.

299.3 jíjiù — first aid

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be saved from danger, then the Mandarin for before it was too late.

You'll want to know: jíjiù

jíjiù — "first aid".

wǒ xué guo jíjiù — I've done a first-aid course.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jíjiù is built from jí 'urgent' and 救 'to save', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kip and kjuwH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'hurried'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jíjiù
- Say it: jíjiù, once more
- Say it: wǒ xué guo jíjiù — I've done a first-aid course.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be saved from danger, then the Mandarin for before it was too late, then say jíjiù again

Before you move on

What does jíjiù mean? ("First aid".) Say it once more.

299.4 yūndǎo — to faint; to pass out

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for before it was too late, then the Mandarin for first aid.

You'll want to know: yūndǎo

yūndǎo — "to faint; to pass out".

tā tūrán yūndǎo le — She suddenly fainted.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yūndǎo is built from yūn 'dizzy' and dǎo 'to fall over', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hjunH and tawX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a halo round the sun or moon' and the second 'to fall flat'. The sense 'dizzy' is not given there, and the level tone of yūn is irregular for hjunH.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: yūndǎo
- Say it: yūndǎo, once more
- Say it: tā tūrán yūndǎo le — She suddenly fainted.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for before it was too late, then the Mandarin for first aid, then say yūndǎo again

Before you move on

What does yūndǎo mean? ("To faint; to pass out".) Say it once more.

299.5 qiǎngjiù — to fight to save a patient; to give emergency treatment

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for first aid, then the Mandarin for to pass out.

You'll want to know: qiǎngjiù

qiǎngjiù — "to fight to save a patient; to give emergency treatment".

yīshēng zhèngzài qiǎngjiù tā — The doctors are fighting to save him.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qiǎngjiù is built from qiǎng 'to snatch' and 救 'to save', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tshjangX and kjuwH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The Guangyun gives the first no gloss in this reading and glosses it 'to resist' and 'to dash' in the level tone; the sense 'to snatch' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: qiǎngjiù
- Say it: qiǎngjiù, once more
- Say it: yīshēng zhèngzài qiǎngjiù tā — The doctors are fighting to save him.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for first aid, then the Mandarin for to pass out, then say qiǎngjiù again

Before you move on

What does qiǎngjiù mean? ("To fight to save a patient; to give emergency treatment".) Say it once more.

Chapter 300

Life and Death

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about an earthquake and an explosion, who died, and what they died of.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 300: I can talk about an earthquake and an explosion, who died, and what they died of.

300.1 dìzhèn — earthquake

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to pass out, then the Mandarin for to fight to save a patient.

You'll want to know: dìzhèn

dìzhèn — "earthquake".

> zhèr yǐqián yǒu guo dìzhèn — There was once an earthquake here.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dìzhèn is built from 地 'the ground' and zhèn 'to shake', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dijH and tsyinH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'thunder' and 'to move': the ground shaking.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: dìzhèn
- Say it: dìzhèn, once more
- Say it: zhèr yǐqián yǒu guo dìzhèn — There was once an earthquake here.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to pass out, then the Mandarin for to fight to save a patient, then say dìzhèn again

Before you move on

What does dìzhèn mean? ("Earthquake".) Say it once more.

300.2 死 (sǐ) — to die

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to fight to save a patient, then the Mandarin for an earthquake.

You'll want to know: 死

死 — sǐ — "to die".

我的花都死了 wǒ de huā dōu sǐ le — All my flowers have died.

The new character, in pieces: 死 — six strokes: a long bar on top; under it on the left the evening piece of 外, three strokes; on the right a short sweep and a vertical that bends right along the foot and hooks up, as on the right of 比. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 死 (sǐ) is inherited from Middle Chinese sijX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which quotes an older dictionary for it: 'to be used up', what a person parts from.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: sǐ
- Say it: sǐ, once more
- Say it: wǒ de huā dōu sǐ le — All my flowers have died.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to fight to save a patient, then the Mandarin for an earthquake, then say sǐ again

Before you move on

What does 死 mean? ("To die".) Say it once more.

300.3 死 — a long bar over two small pieces

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say sǐ — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

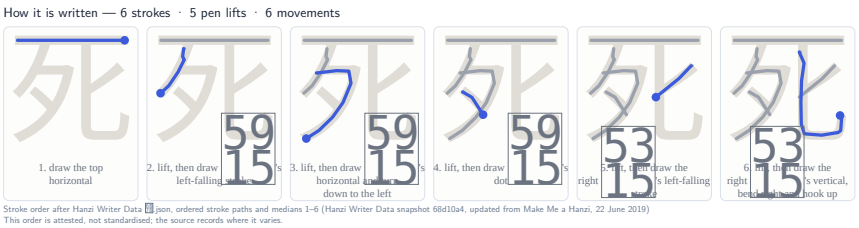
外 比 多

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — wài, bǐ, duō

Script — a long bar over two small pieces



How 死 is written, stroke by stroke

死

Three pieces: a bar on top, then two side by side under it.
The bar, one stroke, long, across the top.
Under it on the left, three strokes. The evening piece on the left of 外: a short sweep, a bar that turns into a long sweep to the lower left, and a dot.
On the right, two strokes. The right half of 比: a short sweep down to the left, then a vertical that bends right along the foot and hooks up.
1 + 3 + 2 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 死, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 死? (Six.) What comes first? (The long bar on top.) Where have you made the right piece? (On the right of 比.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 死, pinned stroke paths and medians.

300.4 shēngmìng — the life of a living thing

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an earthquake, then the Mandarin for to die.

You'll want to know: shēngmìng

shēngmìng — "the life of a living thing".

měi ge rén de shēngmìng dōu hěn zhòngyào — Every person's life matters.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shēngmìng is built from 生 'to live' and mìng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, srjaeng and mjaengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to grow' and the second 'to order'; its sense 'a life' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shēngmìng
- Say it: shēngmìng, once more
- Say it: měi ge rén de shēngmìng dōu hěn zhòngyào — Every person's life matters.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an earthquake, then the Mandarin for to die, then say shēngmìng again

Before you move on

What does shēngmìng mean? ("The life of a living thing".) Say it once more.

300.5 死因 (sǐyīn) — cause of death

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to die, then the Mandarin for the life of a living thing.

You'll want to know: 死因

死因 — sǐyīn — "cause of death".

他的死因是什么 tā de sǐyīn shì shénme — What did he die of?

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 死因 (sǐyīn) is built from 死 'to die' and 因 'a cause', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sijX and 'jin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to rely on' and 'a reason'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: sǐyīn
- Say it: sǐyīn, once more
- Say it: tā de sǐyīn shì shénme — What did he die of?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to die, then the Mandarin for the life of a living thing, then say sǐyīn again

Before you move on

What does 死因 mean? ("Cause of death".) Say it once more.

300.6 bàozhà — to explode; to blow up

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the life of a living thing, then the Mandarin for the cause of death.

You'll want to know: bàozhà

bàozhà — "to explode; to blow up".

zuótiān wǎnshang fāshēng le bàozhà — There was an explosion last night.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bàozhà is built from bào 'to burst' and zhà 'to blow apart'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese paewH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it 'fire cracking'; the Guangyun has no entry for the second, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: bàozhà
- Say it: bàozhà, once more
- Say it: zuótiān wǎnshang fāshēng le bàozhà — There was an explosion last night.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the life of a living thing, then the Mandarin for the cause of death, then say bàozhà again

Before you move on

What does bàozhà mean? ("To explode; to blow up".) Say it once more.

Chapter 301

Getting Out

Modes: voice (6) Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say people ran from danger, someone helped a person up, and it all went as expected.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 301: I can say people ran from danger, someone helped a person up, and it all went as expected.

301.1 táo — to run away; to flee

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the cause of death, then the Mandarin for to blow up.

You'll want to know: táo

táo — "to run away; to flee".

> fángzi zháohuǒ le, dàjiā kuài táo — The house is on fire, everyone run!

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

táo is inherited from Middle Chinese daw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it 'to go away', 'to avoid' and 'to flee'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: táo
- Say it: táo, once more
- Say it: fángzi zháohuǒ le, dàjiā kuài táo — The house is on fire, everyone run!
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the cause of death, then the Mandarin for to blow up, then say táo again

Before you move on

What does táo mean? ("To run away; to flee".) Say it once more.

301.2 huāng — flustered; in a panic

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to blow up, then the Mandarin for to flee from danger.

You'll want to know: huāng

huāng — "flustered; in a panic".

bié huāng, wǒmen xiān bàojǐng — Don't panic, let's call the police first.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huāng is inherited from Middle Chinese xwangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which lists it in a two-syllable word meaning 'dazed'. The level tone of huāng is irregular for xwangX.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: huāng
- Say it: huāng, once more
- Say it: bié huāng, wǒmen xiān bàojǐng — Don't panic, let's call the police first.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to blow up, then the Mandarin for to flee from danger, then say huāng again

Before you move on

What does huāng mean? ("Flustered; in a panic".) Say it once more.

301.3 fú — to help up; to hold up with a hand

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to flee from danger, then the Mandarin for in a panic.

You'll want to know: fú

fú — "to help up; to hold up with a hand".

wǒ fú tā qǐlai — I helped him up.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

fú is inherited from Middle Chinese bju (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it 'to hold up' and 'to help'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: fú
- Say it: fú, once more

- Say it: wǒ fú tā qǐlai — I helped him up.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to flee from danger, then the Mandarin for in a panic, then say fú again

Before you move on

What does fú mean? ("To help up; to hold up with a hand".) Say it once more.

301.4 gǔzhé — to break a bone

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for in a panic, then the Mandarin for to help up someone who fell.

You'll want to know: gǔzhé

gǔzhé — "to break a bone".

tā de tuǐ gǔzhé le — He broke his leg.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

gǔzhé is built from gǔ 'a bone' and zhé 'to snap', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwot and tsyet (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, quoting an older dictionary, 'the core of the flesh' and the second 'to bend and break'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: gǔzhé
- Say it: gǔzhé, once more
- Say it: tā de tuǐ gǔzhé le — He broke his leg.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for in a panic, then the Mandarin for to help up someone who fell, then say gǔzhé again

Before you move on

What does gǔzhé mean? ("To break a bone".) Say it once more.

301.5 果然 (guǒrán) — sure enough; as expected

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to help up someone who fell, then the Mandarin for to break a bone.

You'll want to know: 果然

果然 — guǒrán — "sure enough; as expected".

他说会下雨果然下雨了 tā shuō huì xiàyǔ, guǒrán xiàyǔ le — He said it would rain, and sure enough it did.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 果然 (guǒrán) is built from 果 'resolute' and 然 'so', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwaX and nyen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'resolute' and 'certain' and the second 'so, like this': so, for certain.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: guǒrán
- Say it: guǒrán, once more
- Say it: tā shuō huì xiàyǔ, guǒrán xiàyǔ le — He said it would rain, and sure enough it did.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to help up someone who fell, then the Mandarin for to break a bone, then say guǒrán again

Before you move on

What does 果然 mean? ("Sure enough; as expected".) Say it once more.

301.6 Looking back: from A Crash to Getting Out

Say the Mandarin for something unexpected and a car crash.

Your turn

- Say it: something unexpected, a car crash, to put on the brakes, a beginner at the wheel, to pay for damage
- Say it: insurance for the car, a serious accident, who is to blame, what comes of it, to deal with a problem
- Say it: a fire that destroys buildings, to put out a fire, a firefighter, to shout loudly, the cry for help
- Say it: to be saved from danger, before it was too late, first aid, to pass out, to fight to save a patient
- Say it: an earthquake, to die, the life of a living thing, the cause of death, to blow up
- Say it: to flee from danger, in a panic, to help up someone who fell, to break a bone, sure enough
- Read it: 故 救 死 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

Something unexpected? (意外, yìwài.) A car crash? (chēhuò.) To put on the brakes? (shāchē.) A beginner at the wheel? (新手, xīnshǒu.) To pay for damage? (péiqián.) Insurance for the car? (bǎoxiǎn.) A serious accident? (事故, shìgù.) Who is to blame? (zérèn.) What comes of it? (后果, hòuguǒ.) To deal with a problem? (chǔlǐ.) A fire that destroys buildings? (huǒzāi.) To put out a fire? (救火, jiùhuǒ.) A firefighter? (xiāofángyuán.) To shout loudly?

(hǎn.) The cry for help? (jiùmìng.) To be saved from danger? (得救, déjiù.) Before it was too late? (jíshí.) First aid? (jíjiù.) To pass out? (yūndǎo.) To fight to save a patient? (qiǎngjiù.) An earthquake? (dìzhèn.) To die? (死, sǐ.) The life of a living thing? (shēngmìng.) The cause of death? (死因, sǐyīn.) To blow up? (bàozhà.) To flee from danger? (táo.) In a panic? (huāng.) To help up someone who fell? (fú.) To break a bone? (gǔzhé.) Sure enough? (果然, guǒrán.)

Chapter 302

A Baby on the Way

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a pregnancy, a newborn, twins, and a life that was saved.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 302: I can talk about a pregnancy, a newborn, twins, and a life that was saved.

302.1 huáiyùn — to be pregnant; to be expecting a baby

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to break a bone, then the Mandarin for sure enough.

You'll want to know: huáiyùn

huáiyùn — "to be pregnant; to be expecting a baby".

> tā huáiyùn le — She's pregnant.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huáiyùn is built from huái 'to hold close' and yùn 'to carry a child', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hweaj and yingH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to embrace' and the second with this very word. yingH would regularly give yìng; the final of yùn is irregular.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: huáiyùn
- Say it: huáiyùn, once more
- Say it: tā huáiyùn le — She's pregnant.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to break a bone, then the Mandarin for sure enough, then say huáiyùn again

Before you move on

What does huáiyùn mean? ("To be pregnant; to be expecting a baby".) Say it once more.

302.2 活 (huó) — to live; alive

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for sure enough, then the Mandarin for to be expecting a baby.

You'll want to know: 活

活 — huó — "to live; alive".

他活了一百岁 tā huó le yìbǎi suì — He lived to a hundred.

The new character, in pieces: 活 — nine strokes in three pieces: the water piece of 洗 on the left, three strokes; then 千, three strokes; then 口 under it. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 活 (huó) is inherited from Middle Chinese hwat (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it 'not dead' and also 'the sound of flowing water'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: huó
- Say it: huó, once more
- Say it: tā huó le yìbǎi suì — He lived to a hundred.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for sure enough, then the Mandarin for to be expecting a baby, then say huó again

Before you move on

What does 活 mean? ("To live; alive".) Say it once more.

302.3 活 — the water piece, 千, then 口

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say huó — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

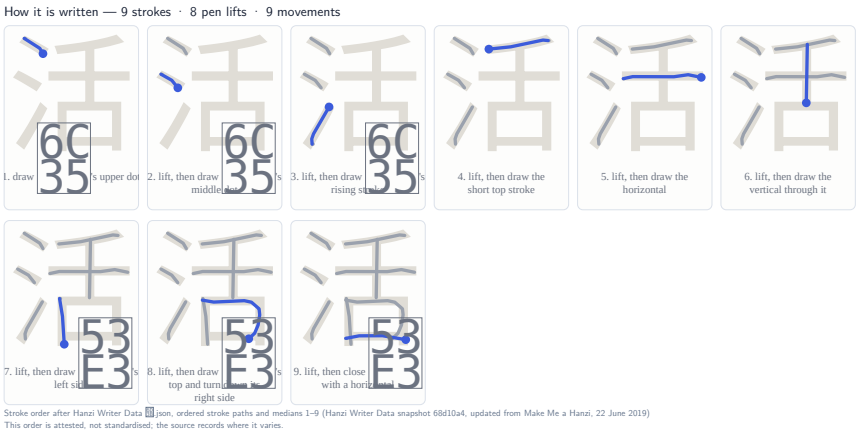
  洗 千

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — xǐ, qiān

Script — the water piece, 千, then 口



How 活 is written, stroke by stroke

活

Three pieces: the water piece on the left, then 千 over 口 on the right.

The water piece, three strokes. As on the left of 洗: two dots, then a stroke rising to the right.

千, three strokes. A short sweep down to the left, a bar across, and a vertical down through the bar.

口, three strokes, under 千: a short vertical, a stroke that runs right and turns down, and the bar that closes the foot.

3 + 3 + 3 = nine.

Your turn

- Write it: 活, all nine, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces in 活? (Three.) What is on the left? (The water piece, as in 洗.) What is under 千? (口.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 活, pinned stroke paths and medians.

302.4 yīng'ér — newborn; infant

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be expecting a baby, then the Mandarin for to stay alive.

You'll want to know: yīng'ér

yīng'ér — "newborn; infant".

zhège yīng'ér hěn kě'ài — This baby is very sweet.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yīng'ér is built from yīng and 儿 'a child', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jieng and nye (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which quotes an older word list for the pair: a baby girl is 'jieng, a baby boy nye.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: yīng'ér
- Say it: yīng'ér, once more
- Say it: zhège yīng'ér hěn kě'ài — This baby is very sweet.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be expecting a baby, then the Mandarin for to stay alive, then say yīng'ér again

Before you move on

What does yīng'ér mean? ("Newborn; infant".) Say it once more.

302.5 救活 (jiùhuó) — to bring back to life

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to stay alive, then the Mandarin for a newborn.

You'll want to know: 救活

救活 — jiùhuó — "to bring back to life".

医生救活了他 yīshēng jiùhuó le tā — The doctor brought him back to life.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 救活 (jiùhuó) is built from 救 'to save' and 活 'alive', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjuwH and hwat (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription): to save and make alive.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jiùhuó
- Say it: jiùhuó, once more
- Say it: yīshēng jiùhuó le tā — The doctor brought him back to life.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to stay alive, then the Mandarin for a newborn, then say jiùhuó again

Before you move on

What does 救活 mean? ("To bring back to life".) Say it once more.

302.6 shuāngbāotāi — twins

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a newborn, then the Mandarin for to bring back to life.

You'll want to know: shuāngbāotāi shuāngbāotāi — "twins".

> tāmen shì shuāngbāotāi — They're twins.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shuāngbāotāi is built from shuāng 'a pair', bāo 'the womb' and tāi 'an unborn child', all inherited from Middle Chinese, sraewng, paew and thoj (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'two of a kind' and the third, quoting an older dictionary, 'three months with child', and gives the second only in the pair bāotāi, so its sense 'the womb' is not spelled out there: two from one womb.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shuāngbāotāi
- Say it: shuāngbāotāi, once more
- Say it: tāmen shì shuāngbāotāi — They're twins.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a newborn, then the Mandarin for to bring back to life, then say shuāngbāotāi again

Before you move on

What does shuāngbāotāi mean? ("Twins".) Say it once more.

Chapter 303

A Name and a School

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about naming a baby, a childhood name, nursery school and the start of term.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 303: I can talk about naming a baby, a childhood name, nursery school and the start of term.

303.1 起名 (qǐmíng) — to name a baby; to give a name

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to bring back to life, then the Mandarin for a pair of twins.

You'll want to know: 起名

起名 — qǐmíng — "to name a baby; to give a name".

> gěi háizi qǐmíng bù róngyì — Choosing a name for a child isn't easy.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 起名 (qǐmíng) is built from 起 'to raise' and 名 'a name', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khiX and mjieng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to rise' and 'to start'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: qǐmíng
- Say it: qǐmíng, once more
- Say it: gěi háizi qǐmíng bù róngyì — Choosing a name for a child isn't easy.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to bring back to life, then the Mandarin for a pair of twins, then say qǐmíng again

Before you move on

What does 起名 mean? ("To name a baby; to give a name".) Say it once more.

303.2 小名 (xiǎomíng) — childhood pet name

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a pair of twins, then the Mandarin for to name a baby.

You'll want to know: 小名

小名 — xiǎomíng — "childhood pet name".

你的小名是什么 nǐ de xiǎomíng shì shénme — What was your pet name as a child?

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 小名 (xiǎomíng) is built from 小 'small' and 名 'a name', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sjewX and mjieng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription): the small name, used at home.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xiǎomíng
- Say it: xiǎomíng, once more
- Say it: nǐ de xiǎomíng shì shénme — What was your pet name as a child?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a pair of twins, then the Mandarin for to name a baby, then say xiǎomíng again

Before you move on

What does 小名 mean? ("Childhood pet name".) Say it once more.

303.3 yòu'éryuán — kindergarten; nursery school

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to name a baby, then the Mandarin for a childhood pet name.

You'll want to know: yòu'éryuán

yòu'éryuán — "kindergarten; nursery school".

háizi sān suì de shíhou kāishǐ qù yòu'éryuán — The child started kindergarten at three.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yòu'éryuán is built from yòu 'young', 儿 'a child' and yuán 'a garden', all inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jiwH, nye and hjwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'young' and the third 'a garden': a garden of young children.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: yòu'éryuán
- Say it: yòu'éryuán, once more
- Say it: háizi sān suì de shíhou kāishǐ qù yòu'éryuán — The child started kindergarten at three.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to name a baby, then the Mandarin for a childhood pet name, then say yòu'éryuán again

Before you move on

What does yòu'éryuán mean? ("Kindergarten; nursery school".) Say it once more.

303.4 开学 (kāixué) — to start the school term

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a childhood pet name, then the Mandarin for a kindergarten.

You'll want to know: 开学

开学 — kāixué — "to start the school term".

kāixué de shíhou, wǒ rènshi le tā — I got to know him when term started.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 开学 (kāixué) is built from 开 'to open' and 学 'to study', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khoj and haewk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to open up': the opening of the school year.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: kāixué
- Say it: kāixué, once more
- Say it: kāixué de shíhou, wǒ rènshi le tā — I got to know him when term started.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a childhood pet name, then the Mandarin for a kindergarten, then say kāixué again

Before you move on

What does 开学 mean? ("To start the school term".) Say it once more.

303.5 新生 (xīnshēng) — new student

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a kindergarten, then the Mandarin for to start the school term.

You'll want to know: 新生

新生 — xīnshēng — "new student".

新生下星期开学 xīnshēng xià xīngqī kāixué — The new students start next week.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 新生 (xīnshēng) is built from 新 'new' and 生, both inherited from Middle Chinese, sin and srjaeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to grow'; its sense 'a student' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xīnshēng
- Say it: xīnshēng, once more
- Say it: xīnshēng xià xīngqī kāixué — The new students start next week.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a kindergarten, then the Mandarin for to start the school term, then say xīnshēng again

Before you move on

What does 新生 mean? ("New student".) Say it once more.

Chapter 304

Starting School

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about starting school, signing in, the fees, and keeping a diary.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 304: I can talk about starting school, signing in, the fees, and keeping a diary.

304.1 rùxué — to start school

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to start the school term, then the Mandarin for a new student at school.

You'll want to know: rùxué

rùxué — "to start school".

> tā liù suì rùxué — He started school at six.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of rùxué is built from rù 'to enter' and 学 'to study', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyip and haewk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'inside' and 'to take in'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: rùxué
- Say it: rùxué, once more
- Say it: tā liù suì rùxué — He started school at six.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to start the school term, then the Mandarin for a new student at school, then say rùxué again

Before you move on

What does rùxué mean? ("To start school".) Say it once more.

304.2 日记 (rìjì) — diary

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a new student at school, then the Mandarin for to start school as a child.

You'll want to know: 日记

日记 — rìjì — "diary".

我小时候写过日记 wǒ xiǎoshíhou xiě guo rìjì — I kept a diary when I was little.

The new character, in pieces: 记 — five strokes in two pieces: the speech piece of 说 on the left, two strokes; on the right the right piece of 起, three strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 日记 (rìjì) is built from 日 'a day' and 记 'to note down', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyit and kiH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to record'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: rìjì
- Say it: rìjì, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiǎoshíhou xiě guo rìjì — I kept a diary when I was little.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a new student at school, then the Mandarin for to start school as a child, then say rìjì again

Before you move on

What does 日记 mean? ("Diary".) Say it once more.

304.3 记 — the speech piece, then the right piece of 起

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say rìjì — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

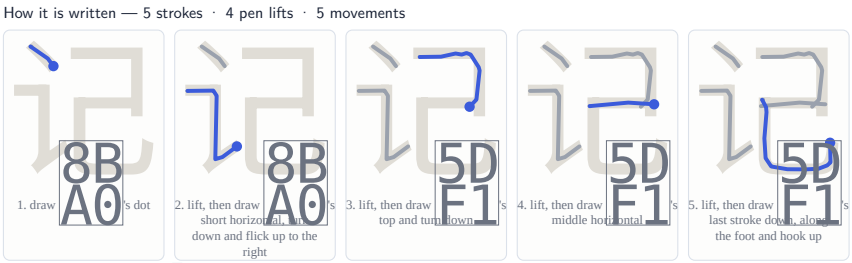
  说 起

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — shuō, qǐ

Script — the speech piece, then the right piece of 起



Stroke order after Hanzi Writer Data .json, ordered stroke paths and medians 1–5 (Hanzi Writer Data snapshot 68d10a4, updated from Make Me a Hanzi, 22 June 2019)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How 记 is written, stroke by stroke

记

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, two strokes. The speech piece of 说: a dot, then a short stroke that runs right, turns down, and rises to the right at the foot.

The right piece, three strokes, as on the right of 起: a bar that turns down, a bar across the middle, then a vertical that bends right along the foot and hooks up.

2 + 3 = five.

Your turn

- Write it: 记, all five, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces in 记? (Two.) What is the left piece? (The speech piece, as in 说.) Where have you made the right piece? (On the right of 起.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 记, pinned stroke paths and medians.

304.4 报到 (bàodào) — to report in on arrival; to sign in

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to start school as a child, then the Mandarin for a diary.

You'll want to know: 报到

报到 — bàodào — "to report in on arrival; to sign in".

新生明天来学校报到 xīnshēng míngtiān lái xuéxiào bàodào — The new students sign in at school tomorrow.

It sounds the same as bàodào 'to report the news'; this one means arriving and signing in.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 报到 (bàodào) is built from 报 'to report' and 到 'to arrive', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pawH and tawH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to reach': to report that you have arrived.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: bàodào
- Say it: bàodào, once more
- Say it: xīnshēng míngtiān lái xuéxiào bàodào — The new students sign in at school tomorrow.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to start school as a child, then the Mandarin for a diary, then say bàodào again

Before you move on

What does 报到 mean? ("To report in on arrival; to sign in".) Say it once more.

304.5 xuéfèi — tuition fees

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a diary, then the Mandarin for to report in on arrival.

You'll want to know: xuéfèi

xuéfèi — "tuition fees".

dàxué de xuéfèi hěn guì — University fees are high.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xuéfèi is built from 学 'to study' and fèi 'to spend', both inherited from Middle Chinese, haewk and phj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to use up'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xuéfèi
- Say it: xuéfèi, once more
- Say it: dàxué de xuéfèi hěn guì — University fees are high.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a diary, then the Mandarin for to report in on arrival, then say xuéfèi again

Before you move on

What does xuéfèi mean? ("Tuition fees".) Say it once more.

304.6 jìzhù — to commit to memory; to keep in mind

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to report in on arrival, then the Mandarin for school tuition fees.

You'll want to know: jìzhù

jìzhù — "to commit to memory; to keep in mind".

wǒ jìzhù le tā de diànhuà hàomǎ — I memorized his phone number.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jìzhù is built from 𠂢 'to note down' and zhù 'to stay', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kiH and drjuH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to stop': noted so that it stays.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jìzhù
- Say it: jìzhù, once more
- Say it: wǒ jìzhù le tā de diànhuà hàomǎ — I memorized his phone number.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to report in on arrival, then the Mandarin for school tuition fees, then say jìzhù again

Before you move on

What does jìzhù mean? ("To commit to memory; to keep in mind".) Say it once more.

Chapter 305

Getting Engaged

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about going out with someone, a proposal, an engagement and a happy family occasion.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 305: I can talk about going out with someone, a proposal, an engagement and a happy family occasion.

305.1 tán liàn'ài — to go out with someone; to be in a relationship

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for school tuition fees, then the Mandarin for to commit to memory.

You'll want to know: tán liàn'ài

tán liàn'ài — "to go out with someone; to be in a relationship".

> tāmen zài tán liàn'ài — They're going out together.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

tán liàn'ài is built from tán 'to talk', liàn 'to long for' and ài 'love', all inherited from Middle Chinese, dam, ljwenH and 'ojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to talk', the second 'to long for' and the third 'to cherish': to talk love.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: tán liàn'ài
- Say it: tán liàn'ài, once more
- Say it: tāmen zài tán liàn'ài — They're going out together.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for school tuition fees, then the Mandarin for to commit to memory, then say tán liàn'ài again

Before you move on

What does tán liàn'ài mean? ("To go out with someone; to be in a relationship".) Say it once more.

305.2 qiúhūn — to propose marriage

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to commit to memory, then the Mandarin for to go out with someone.

You'll want to know: qiúhūn

qiúhūn — "to propose marriage".

tā zuótiān wǎnshang qiúhūn le — He proposed last night.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qiúhūn is built from qiú 'to seek' and hūn 'marriage', both inherited from Middle Chinese, gjuw and xwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to search for' and the second 'marriage'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: qiúhūn
- Say it: qiúhūn, once more
- Say it: tā zuótiān wǎnshang qiúhūn le — He proposed last night.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to commit to memory, then the Mandarin for to go out with someone, then say qiúhūn again

Before you move on

What does qiúhūn mean? ("To propose marriage".) Say it once more.

305.3 dìnghūn — to get engaged

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to go out with someone, then the Mandarin for to propose marriage.

You'll want to know: dìnghūn

dìnghūn — "to get engaged".

tāmen shàng ge yuè dìnghūn le — They got engaged last month.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dìnghūn is built from dìng 'to agree on' and hūn 'marriage', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dengX and xwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to discuss and settle' and the second 'marriage'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: dìnghūn
- Say it: dìnghūn, once more
- Say it: tāmen shàng ge yuè dìnghūn le — They got engaged last month.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to go out with someone, then the Mandarin for to propose marriage, then say dìnghūn again

Before you move on

What does dìnghūn mean? ("To get engaged".) Say it once more.

305.4 喜事 (xǐshì) — a happy occasion; a wedding in the family

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to propose marriage, then the Mandarin for to get engaged.

You'll want to know: 喜事

喜事 — xǐshì — "a happy occasion; a wedding in the family".

我们家有喜事了 wǒmen jiā yǒu xǐshì le — There's a happy occasion in our family.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 喜事 (xǐshì) is built from 喜 'joy' and 事 'a matter', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xiX and dzriH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'joy'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xǐshì
- Say it: xǐshì, once more
- Say it: wǒmen jiā yǒu xǐshì le — There's a happy occasion in our family.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to propose marriage, then the Mandarin for to get engaged, then say xǐshì again

Before you move on

What does 喜事 mean? ("A happy occasion; a wedding in the family".) Say it once more.

305.5 xīnláng — bridegroom

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get engaged, then the Mandarin for a happy occasion.

You'll want to know: xīnláng

xīnláng — "bridegroom".

xīnláng jīntiān hěn shuài — The groom is very handsome today.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xīnláng is built from 新 'new' and láng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, sin and lang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as the title of an official; its use for a young man is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xīnláng
- Say it: xīnláng, once more
- Say it: xīnláng jīntiān hěn shuài — The groom is very handsome today.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get engaged, then the Mandarin for a happy occasion, then say xīnláng again

Before you move on

What does xīnláng mean? ("Bridegroom".) Say it once more.

Chapter 306

The Wedding

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the bride and the couple, the wedding sweets, and how the day went.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 306: I can talk about the bride and the couple, the wedding sweets, and how the day went.

306.1 xīnniáng — bride

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a happy occasion, then the Mandarin for the bridegroom.

You'll want to know: xīnniáng

xīnniáng — "bride".

> xīnniáng jīntiān tèbié piàoliang — The bride is especially beautiful today.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xīnniáng is built from 新 'new' and niáng 'a young woman', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sin and nrjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as a title for a young woman.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xīnniáng
- Say it: xīnniáng, once more
- Say it: xīnniáng jīntiān tèbié piàoliang — The bride is especially beautiful today.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a happy occasion, then the Mandarin for the bridegroom, then say xīnniáng again

Before you move on

What does xīnniáng mean? ("Bride".) Say it once more.

306.2 经过 (jīngguò) — the sequence of events; what happened

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the bridegroom, then the Mandarin for the bride.

You'll want to know: 经过

经过 — jīngguò — "the sequence of events; what happened".

他说了那天的经过 tā shuō le nà tiān de jīngguò — He told us what happened that day.

The new character, in pieces: 经 — eight strokes in three pieces: the silk piece of 给 on the left, three strokes; on the right a fork of two strokes, a bar that turns into a sweep to the lower left and a short stroke falling to the right, over 工, three strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 经过 (jīngguò) is built from 经 'to pass through' and 过 'to go past', both inherited from Middle Chinese, keng and kwaH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the warp of a cloth' and 'a path' and the second 'to cross' and 'to go beyond'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jīngguò
- Say it: jīngguò, once more
- Say it: tā shuō le nà tiān de jīngguò — He told us what happened that day.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the bridegroom, then the Mandarin for the bride, then say jīngguò again

Before you move on

What does 经过 mean? ("The sequence of events; what happened".) Say it once more.

306.3 经 — the silk piece, then a fork over 工

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say jīngguò — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

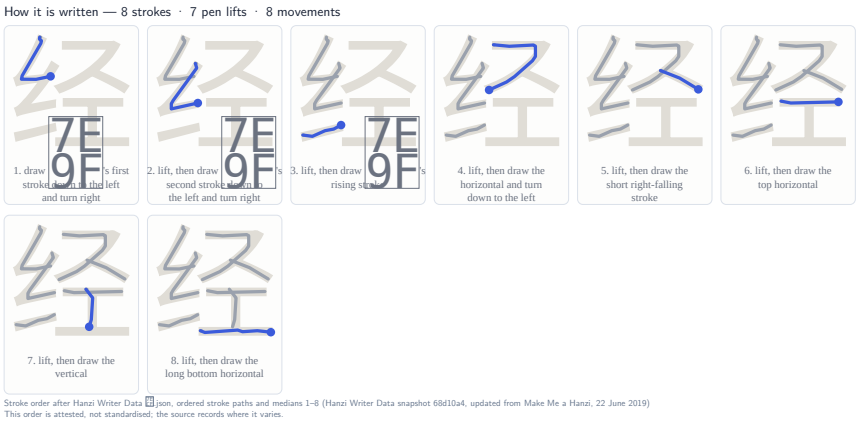
  给 工

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — gěi, gōng

Script — the silk piece, then a fork over 工



How 经 is written, stroke by stroke

经

Three pieces: the silk piece on the left; on the right a fork over 工. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The silk piece, three strokes. As on the left of 给: two strokes that each drop to the left and turn to the right, then a stroke rising to the right.

The fork, two strokes. A bar that turns into a sweep down to the lower left, then a short stroke falling to the right.

工, three strokes: a short bar, a vertical, and a long bar across the foot.

3 + 2 + 3 = eight.

Your turn

- Write it: 经, all eight, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces in 经? (Three.) Where have you made the left piece? (On the left of 给.) What sits at the foot of the right side? (工.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 经, pinned stroke paths and medians.

306.4 新人 (xīnrén) — the bride and groom

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the bride, then the Mandarin for the whole story of what happened.

You'll want to know: 新人

新人 — xīnrén — "the bride and groom".

今天的新人是我的同学 jīntiān de xīnrén shì wǒ de tóngxué — The couple getting married today were my classmates.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 新人 (xīnrén) is built from 新 'new' and 人 'a person', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sin and nyin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription): the new people, the couple who marry that day.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xīnrén
- Say it: xīnrén, once more
- Say it: jīntiān de xīnrén shì wǒ de tóngxué — The couple getting married today were my classmates.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the bride, then the Mandarin for the whole story of what happened, then say xīnrén again

Before you move on

What does 新人 mean? ("The bride and groom".) Say it once more.

306.5 jǔxíng — to hold a ceremony; to hold an event

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the whole story of what happened, then the Mandarin for the bride and groom.

You'll want to know: jǔxíng

jǔxíng — "to hold a ceremony; to hold an event".

hūnlǐ zài zhōngwǔ jǔxíng — The wedding is at noon.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jǔxíng is built from jǔ 'to raise' and xíng 'to go', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjoX and haeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to lift' and 'to set moving' and the second 'to walk': to set going.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jǔxíng
- Say it: jǔxíng, once more
- Say it: hūnlǐ zài zhōngwǔ jǔxíng — The wedding is at noon.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the whole story of what happened, then the Mandarin for the bride and groom, then say jǔxíng again

Before you move on

What does jǔxíng mean? ("To hold a ceremony; to hold an event".) Say it once more.

306.6 xǐtáng — wedding sweets

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the bride and groom, then the Mandarin for to hold a ceremony.

You'll want to know: xǐtáng

xǐtáng — "wedding sweets".

> wǒmen chī le tāmen de xǐtáng — We had sweets at their wedding.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xǐtáng is built from 喜 'joy' and táng 'sugar', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xiX and dang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a sweet syrup'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xǐtáng
- Say it: xǐtáng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen chī le tāmen de xǐtáng — We had sweets at their wedding.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the bride and groom, then the Mandarin for to hold a ceremony, then say xǐtáng again

Before you move on

What does xǐtáng mean? ("Wedding sweets".) Say it once more.

Chapter 307

Marrying and Parting

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a honeymoon, breaking up, divorce and marrying again.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 307: I can talk about a honeymoon, breaking up, divorce and marrying again.

307.1 fēnshǒu — to break up; to end a relationship

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to hold a ceremony, then the Mandarin for wedding sweets for the guests.

You'll want to know: fēnshǒu

fēnshǒu — "to break up; to end a relationship".

> tāmen fēnshǒu le, wǒ hěn nánguò — They've split up, and I'm sad.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fēnshǒu is built from fēn 'to part' and 手 'a hand', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjun and syuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to give out' and, quoting an older dictionary, 'to separate': to part hands.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: fēnshǒu
- Say it: fēnshǒu, once more
- Say it: tāmen fēnshǒu le, wǒ hěn nánguò — They've split up, and I'm sad.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to hold a ceremony, then the Mandarin for wedding sweets for the guests, then say fēnshǒu again

Before you move on

What does fēnshǒu mean? ("To break up; to end a relationship".) Say it once more.

307.2 líhūn — to divorce

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for wedding sweets for the guests, then the Mandarin for to end a relationship.

You'll want to know: líhūn

líhūn — "to divorce".

tāmen jiéhūn shí nián yǐhòu líhūn le — They divorced after ten years of marriage.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

líhūn is built from 离 'to leave' and hūn 'marriage', both inherited from Middle Chinese, lje and xwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'marriage'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: líhūn
- Say it: líhūn, once more
- Say it: tāmen jiéhūn shí nián yǐhòu líhūn le — They divorced after ten years of marriage.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for wedding sweets for the guests, then the Mandarin for to end a relationship, then say líhūn again

Before you move on

What does líhūn mean? ("To divorce".) Say it once more.

307.3 zàihūn — to remarry

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to end a relationship, then the Mandarin for to divorce.

You'll want to know: zàihūn

zàihūn — "to remarry".

tā líhūn yǐhòu, hěn kuài jiù zàihūn le — After his divorce he soon married again.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zàihūn is built from 再 'again' and hūn 'marriage', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsojH and xwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'twice'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zàihūn
- Say it: zàihūn, once more
- Say it: tā líhūn yǐhòu, hěn kuài jiù zàihūn le — After his divorce he soon married again.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to end a relationship, then the Mandarin for to divorce, then say zàihūn again

Before you move on

What does zàihūn mean? ("To remarry".) Say it once more.

307.4 mìyuè — honeymoon

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to divorce, then the Mandarin for to remarry.

You'll want to know: mìyuè

mìyuè — "honeymoon".

mìyuè de shíhou, wǒmen qù le hǎibiān — On our honeymoon we went to the seaside.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

mìyuè is built from mì 'honey' and 月 'a month', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjit and ngjwot (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as the food that bees make: the sweet month after a wedding.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: mìyuè
- Say it: mìyuè, once more
- Say it: mìyuè de shíhou, wǒmen qù le hǎibiān — On our honeymoon we went to the seaside.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to divorce, then the Mandarin for to remarry, then say mìyuè again

Before you move on

What does mìyuè mean? ("Honeymoon".) Say it once more.

307.5 hūnshā — wedding dress

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to remarry, then the Mandarin for a honeymoon.

You'll want to know: hūnshā

hūnshā — "wedding dress".

xīnniáng de hūnshā hěn piàoliang — The bride's dress is beautiful.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of hūnshā is built from hūn 'marriage' and shā 'gauze', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xwon and srae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a kind of silk'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: hūnshā
- Say it: hūnshā, once more
- Say it: xīnniáng de hūnshā hěn piàoliang — The bride's dress is beautiful.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to remarry, then the Mandarin for a honeymoon, then say hūnshā again

Before you move on

What does hūnshā mean? ("Wedding dress".) Say it once more.

307.6 Looking back: from A Baby on the Way to Marrying and Parting

Say the Mandarin for to be expecting a baby and to stay alive.

Your turn

- Say it: to be expecting a baby, to stay alive, a newborn, to bring back to life, a pair of twins
- Say it: to name a baby, a childhood pet name, a kindergarten, to start the school term, a new student at school
- Say it: to start school as a child, a diary, to report in on arrival, school tuition fees, to commit to memory
- Say it: to go out with someone, to propose marriage, to get engaged, a happy occasion, the bridegroom
- Say it: the bride, the whole story of what happened, the bride and groom, to hold a ceremony, wedding sweets for the guests
- Say it: to end a relationship, to divorce, to remarry, a honeymoon, a white wedding dress
- Read it: 活 记 经 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

To be expecting a baby? (huáiyùn.) To stay alive? (活, huó.) A newborn? (yīng'ér.) To bring back to life? (救活, jiùhuó.) A pair of twins? (shuāngbāotāi.) To name a baby? (起名, qǐmíng.) A childhood pet name? (小名, xiǎomíng.) A kindergarten? (yòu'éryuán.) To start the school term? (开学, kāixué.) A new student at school? (新生, xīnshēng.) To start school as a child? (rùxué.) A diary? (日记, rìjì.) To report in on arrival? (报到, bàodào.) School tuition fees? (xuéfèi.) To commit to memory? (jìzhù.) To go out with someone? (tán liàn'ài.) To propose marriage? (qiúhūn.) To get engaged? (dìnghūn.) A happy occasion? (喜事, xǐshì.) The bridegroom? (xīnláng.) The bride? (xīnniáng.) The whole story of what happened? (经过, jīngguò.) The bride and groom? (新人, xīnrén.) To hold a ceremony? (jǔxíng.) Wedding sweets for the guests? (xǐtáng.) To end a relationship? (fēnshǒu.) To divorce? (líhūn.) To remarry? (zàihūn.) A honeymoon? (mìyuè.) A white wedding dress? (hūnshā.)

Chapter 308

Ever Since

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say since when, where someone comes from, and that a person went missing.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 308: I can say since when, where someone comes from, and that a person went missing.

308.1 shīzōng — to go missing

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a honeymoon, then the Mandarin for a white wedding dress.

You'll want to know: shīzōng

shīzōng — "to go missing".

> nàge háizi shīzōng le — That child has gone missing.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shīzōng is built from shī 'to lose' and zōng 'a footprint', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syit and tsjowng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a mistake' and 'to let go' and the second 'tracks': the trail is lost.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shīzōng
- Say it: shīzōng, once more
- Say it: nàge háizi shīzōng le — That child has gone missing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a honeymoon, then the Mandarin for a white wedding dress, then say shīzōng again

Before you move on

What does shīzōng mean? ("To go missing".) Say it once more.

308.2 自从 (zìcóng) — since; ever since

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a white wedding dress, then the Mandarin for to go missing.

You'll want to know: 自从

自从 — zìcóng — "since; ever since".

> 自从那天以后我天天写日记 zìcóng nà tiān yǐhòu, wǒ tiāntiān xiě rìjì — Since that day, I've kept a diary every day.

The new character, in pieces: 自 — six strokes: a short sweep down to the left on top, then a tall frame: a vertical, a bar that turns down the right side, two bars inside, and the bar that closes the foot, like 日 grown taller. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 自从 (zìcóng) is built from 自 'from' and 从 'from', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzijH and dzjowng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'from' and 'by way of' and the second 'to go along with'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zìcóng
- Say it: zìcóng, once more
- Say it: zìcóng nà tiān yǐhòu, wǒ tiāntiān xiě rìjì — Since that day, I've kept a diary every day.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a white wedding dress, then the Mandarin for to go missing, then say zìcóng again

Before you move on

What does 自从 mean? ("Since; ever since".) Say it once more.

308.3 自 — a short sweep over a tall frame

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say zìcóng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

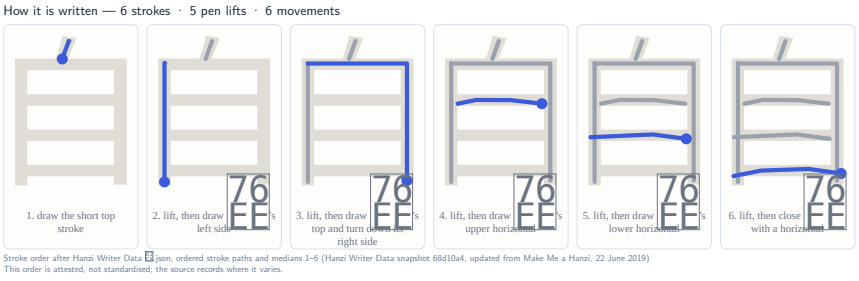
日 白

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — rì, bái

Script — a short sweep over a tall frame



How 自 is written, stroke by stroke

自

Two pieces: a short sweep on top, a tall frame under it. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The sweep, one stroke: short, down to the left, at the top middle.

The frame, five strokes, built like 日: a vertical down the left; a bar across the top that turns down the right side; two bars inside; then the bar that closes the foot.

1 + 5 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 自, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 自? (Six.) What comes first? (The short sweep on top.) How many bars inside the frame? (Two.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 自, pinned stroke paths and medians.

308.4 来自 (láizì) — to come from

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to go missing, then the Mandarin for ever since.

You'll want to know: 来自

来自 — láizì — "to come from".

来自中国的新生经常来我家 láizì Zhōngguó de xīnshēng jīngcháng lái wǒ jiā — The new students from China often come to our house.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 来自 (láizì) is built from 来 'to come' and 自 'from', both inherited from Middle Chinese, loj and dzijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to arrive'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: láizì
- Say it: láizì, once more
- Say it: láizì Zhōngguó de xīnshēng jīngcháng lái wǒ jiā — The new students from China often come to our house.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to go missing, then the Mandarin for ever since, then say láizì again

Before you move on

What does 来自 mean? ("To come from".) Say it once more.

308.5 fànzuì — to commit a crime

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for ever since, then the Mandarin for to come from a place.

You'll want to know: fànzuì

fànzuì — "to commit a crime".

tā shuō tā méiyǒu fànzuì — He says he hasn't committed any crime.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fànzuì is built from fàn 'to violate' and zuì 'a crime', both inherited from Middle Chinese, bjomX and dzwojX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to trespass' and 'to violate' and records that the second was once written with another character.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: fànzuì
- Say it: fànzuì, once more
- Say it: tā shuō tā méiyǒu fànzuì — He says he hasn't committed any crime.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for ever since, then the Mandarin for to come from a place, then say fànzuì again

Before you move on

What does fànzuì mean? ("To commit a crime".) Say it once more.

308.6 pàichūsuǒ — local police station

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to come from a place, then the Mandarin for to commit a crime.

You'll want to know: pàichūsuǒ

pàichūsuǒ — "local police station".

wǒmen qù pàichūsuǒ bàojǐng — We went to the police station to report it.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of pàichūsuǒ is built from pài, 出 'out' and 所 'a place', all inherited from Middle Chinese, pheaH, tsyhwit and srjoX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a branch of a river'; its sense 'to send' is not given there. The place that sends officers out.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: pàichūsuǒ
- Say it: pàichūsuǒ, once more
- Say it: wǒmen qù pàichūsuǒ bàojǐng — We went to the police station to report it.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to come from a place, then the Mandarin for to commit a crime, then say pàichūsuǒ again

Before you move on

What does pàichūsuǒ mean? ("Local police station".) Say it once more.

Chapter 309

A Thief

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a robbery, a thief, a con man and something done on purpose.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 309: I can talk about a robbery, a thief, a con man and something done on purpose.

309.1 qiǎngjié — to rob by force

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to commit a crime, then the Mandarin for the local police station.

You'll want to know: qiǎngjié

qiǎngjié — "to rob by force".

> yǒu rén qiǎngjié le zhè jiā yínháng — Someone robbed this bank.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qiǎngjié is built from qiǎng 'to snatch' and jié 'to plunder', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tshjangX and kjaep (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to rob by force'; the sense 'to snatch' for the first is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: qiǎngjié
- Say it: qiǎngjié, once more
- Say it: yǒu rén qiǎngjié le zhè jiā yínháng — Someone robbed this bank.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to commit a crime, then the Mandarin for the local police station, then say qiǎngjié again

Before you move on

What does qiǎngjié mean? ("To rob by force".) Say it once more.

309.2 小偷 (xiǎotōu) — thief

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the local police station, then the Mandarin for to rob by force.

You'll want to know: 小偷

小偷 — xiǎotōu — "thief".

小偷偷了我的钱包 xiǎotōu tōu le wǒ de qiánbāo — A thief stole my wallet.

The new character, in pieces: 偷 — eleven strokes in two pieces: the person piece of 你 on the left, two strokes; on the right a roof of two strokes with a short bar under it, then 月 on the left and the two strokes on the right of 到. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 小偷 (xiǎotōu) is built from 小 'small' and 偷 'to steal', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sjewX and thuw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to rob'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xiǎotōu
- Say it: xiǎotōu, once more
- Say it: xiǎotōu tōu le wǒ de qiánbāo — A thief stole my wallet.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the local police station, then the Mandarin for to rob by force, then say xiǎotōu again

Before you move on

What does 小偷 mean? ("Thief".) Say it once more.

309.3 偷 — the person piece, then a roof over 月 and two posts

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say xiǎotōu — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

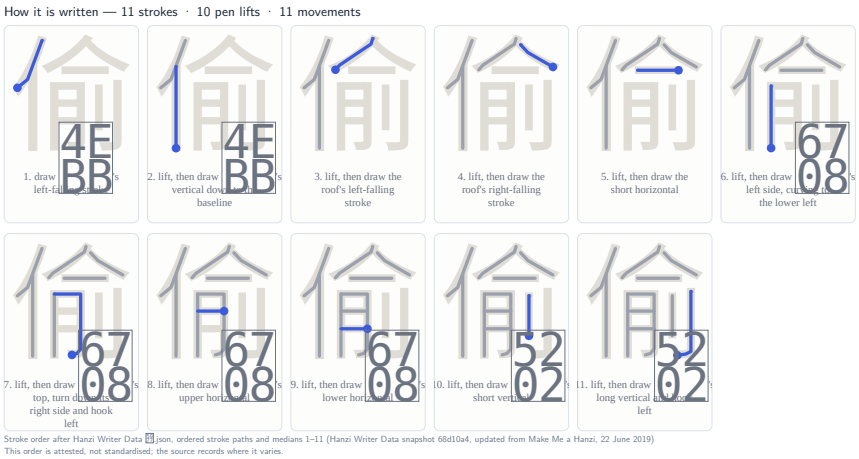
  你 到

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — nǐ, dào

Script — the person piece, then a roof over 月 and two posts



How 偷 is written, stroke by stroke

偷

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, two strokes. The person piece of 你: a short sweep down to the left, then a vertical.

The right piece, nine strokes, top to bottom. A roof: a sweep down to the left and a long stroke falling to the right. A short bar under it. Then, side by side, 月 on the left, four strokes, and on the right the two strokes on the right of 到: a short vertical and a long vertical that hooks to the left.

2 + 9 = eleven.

Your turn

- Write it: 偷, all eleven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces in 偷? (Two.) What is under the roof and the bar? (月, and the two strokes on the right of 到.) Which stroke is last? (The long vertical that hooks to the left.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 偷, pinned stroke paths and medians.

309.4 piàn — to cheat; to con

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to rob by force, then the Mandarin for a thief.

You'll want to know: piàn

piàn — "to cheat; to con".

tā piàn le wǒ de qián — He conned me out of my money.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

piàn No dictionary we use records an older form, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: piàn
- Say it: piàn, once more
- Say it: tā piàn le wǒ de qián — He conned me out of my money.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to rob by force, then the Mandarin for a thief, then say piàn again

Before you move on

What does piàn mean? ("To cheat; to con".) Say it once more.

309.5 piànzi — swindler; con man

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a thief, then the Mandarin for to con someone.

You'll want to know: piànzi

piànzi — "swindler; con man".

nàge rén shì piànzi — That man is a con man.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of piànzi is built from piàn 'to con' and the noun ending zi. The second is inherited from Middle Chinese tsiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the Guangyun has no entry for the first, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: piànzi
- Say it: piànzi, once more
- Say it: nàge rén shì piànzi — That man is a con man.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a thief, then the Mandarin for to con someone, then say piànzi again

Before you move on

What does piànzi mean? ("Swindler; con man".) Say it once more.

309.6 故意 (gùyì) — on purpose; deliberately

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to con someone, then the Mandarin for a con man.

You'll want to know: 故意

故意 — gùyì — "on purpose; deliberately".

> 他故意不说话 tā gùyì bù shuōhuà — He's keeping quiet on purpose.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 故意 (gùyì) is built from 故 and 意 'an intention', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kuH and 'iH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'old' and 'a matter' and the second 'will'; how the pair came to mean 'on purpose' is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: gùyì
- Say it: gùyì, once more
- Say it: tā gùyì bù shuōhuà — He's keeping quiet on purpose.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to con someone, then the Mandarin for a con man, then say gùyì again

Before you move on

What does 故意 mean? ("On purpose; deliberately".) Say it once more.

Chapter 310

Who Did It

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a suspect, a witness and evidence, lying and owning up.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 310: I can talk about a suspect, a witness and evidence, lying and owning up.

310.1 huáiyí — to suspect; to doubt

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a con man, then the Mandarin for on purpose.

You'll want to know: huáiyí

huáiyí — "to suspect; to doubt".

> jǐngchá huáiyí tā shì xiǎotōu — The police suspect he's the thief.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huáiyí is built from huái 'to hold close' and yí 'to doubt', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hweaj and ngi (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to embrace' and 'to think of' and the second 'unsure' and 'to suspect': to hold a doubt.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: huáiyí
- Say it: huáiyí, once more
- Say it: jǐngchá huáiyí tā shì xiǎotōu — The police suspect he's the thief.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a con man, then the Mandarin for on purpose, then say huáiyí again

Before you move on

What does huáiyí mean? ("To suspect; to doubt".) Say it once more.

310.2 zhèngrén — witness

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for on purpose, then the Mandarin for to suspect someone.

You'll want to know: zhèngrén

zhèngrén — "witness".

tā shì zhège shìgù de zhèngrén — He's a witness to the accident.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhèngrén is built from zhèng 'proof' and 人 'a person', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyingH and nyin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to verify'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zhèngrén
- Say it: zhèngrén, once more
- Say it: tā shì zhège shìgù de zhèngrén — He's a witness to the accident.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for on purpose, then the Mandarin for to suspect someone, then say zhèngrén again

Before you move on

What does zhèngrén mean? ("Witness".) Say it once more.

310.3 zhèngjù — evidence; proof

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to suspect someone, then the Mandarin for a witness to a crime.

You'll want to know: zhèngjù

zhèngjù — "evidence; proof".

jǐngchá zhǎodào le zhèngjù — The police found the evidence.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhèngjù is built from zhèng 'to verify' and jù 'to lean on', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyingH and kjoH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to rely on' and 'to hold': what a proof can lean on.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zhèngjù
- Say it: zhèngjù, once more
- Say it: jǐngchá zhǎodào le zhèngjù — The police found the evidence.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to suspect someone, then the Mandarin for a witness to a crime, then say zhèngjù again

Before you move on

What does zhèngjù mean? ("Evidence; proof".) Say it once more.

310.4 shuōhuǎng — to lie; to tell a lie

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a witness to a crime, then the Mandarin for proof of what happened.

You'll want to know: shuōhuǎng

shuōhuǎng — "to lie; to tell a lie".

wǒ juéde tā zài shuōhuǎng — I think he's lying.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shuōhuǎng is built from 说 'to say' and huǎng 'a lie'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese sywet (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the Guangyun has no entry for the second, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shuōhuǎng
- Say it: shuōhuǎng, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde tā zài shuōhuǎng — I think he's lying.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a witness to a crime, then the Mandarin for proof of what happened, then say shuōhuǎng again

Before you move on

What does shuōhuǎng mean? ("To lie; to tell a lie".) Say it once more.

310.5 chéngrèn — to admit; to own up

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for proof of what happened, then the Mandarin for to tell a lie.

You'll want to know: chéngrèn

chéngrèn — "to admit; to own up".

zuìhòu tā chéngrèn le — In the end he owned up.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chéngrèn is built from chéng 'to receive' and rèn 'to recognize', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzying and nyinH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to receive' and the second 'to know'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: chéngrèn
- Say it: chéngrèn, once more
- Say it: zuìhòu tā chéngrèn le — In the end he owned up.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for proof of what happened, then the Mandarin for to tell a lie, then say chéngrèn again

Before you move on

What does chéngrèn mean? ("To admit; to own up".) Say it once more.

Chapter 311

The Police Car

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about an investigation, a police car, a chase, an alarm and the traffic police.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 311: I can talk about an investigation, a police car, a chase, an alarm and the traffic police.

311.1 diàochá — to investigate

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to tell a lie, then the Mandarin for to own up to something.

You'll want to know: diàochá

diàochá — "to investigate".

> jǐngchá zhèngzài diàochá zhège shìgù — The police are investigating the accident.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of diàochá is built from diào 'to choose' and chá, both inherited from Middle Chinese, dewH and dzrae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to select' and the second 'wood floating in water'; how the pair came to mean 'to investigate' is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: diàochá
- Say it: diàochá, once more
- Say it: jǐngchá zhèngzài diàochá zhège shìgù — The police are investigating the accident.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to tell a lie, then the Mandarin for to own up to something, then say diàochá again

Before you move on

What does diàochá mean? ("To investigate".) Say it once more.

311.2 警车 (jǐngchē) — police car

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to own up to something, then the Mandarin for to investigate a case.

You'll want to know: 警车

警车 — jǐngchē — "police car".

小偷看到警车就走了 xiǎotōu kàndào jǐngchē, jiù zǒu le — The thief saw the police car and left.

The new character, in pieces: 警 — nineteen strokes in three pieces: top left, the grass piece of 花, then a two-stroke wrap with 口 inside; top right, the striking piece of 救; across the foot a dot, three bars and 口. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 警车 (jǐngchē) is built from 警 'to warn' and 车 'a vehicle', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjaengX and tsyhae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to wake' and 'to guard against’.

What you’ve built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jǐngchē
- Say it: jǐngchē, once more
- Say it: xiǎotōu kàndào jǐngchē, jiù zǒu le — The thief saw the police car and left.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to own up to something, then the Mandarin for to investigate a case, then say jǐngchē again

Before you move on

What does 警车 mean? (“Police car”.) Say it once more.

311.3 警 — three pieces: top left, top right and the foot

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say jǐngchē — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  花 救

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — huā, jiù

Script — three pieces: top left, top right and the foot

How 警 is written, stroke by stroke

警

Three pieces: two side by side on top, one across the foot. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

Top left, eight strokes. The grass piece of 花: a bar and two short verticals. Under it a short sweep to the left and a stroke that runs right, turns down and hooks back. Inside, 口.

Top right, four strokes. The striking piece of 救: a sweep to the left, a bar, a long sweep to the lower left and a long stroke falling to the right.

The foot, seven strokes. A dot. A long bar across, then two shorter bars. Then 口 under them.

8 + 4 + 7 = nineteen.

Your turn

- Write it: 警, all nineteen, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces in 警? (Three.) Which piece sits across the foot? (A dot, three bars and 口.) Where have you made the top right piece? (In 救 and 故.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 警, pinned stroke paths and medians.

311.4 zhuī — to chase; to run after

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to investigate a case, then the Mandarin for a police car.

You'll want to know: zhuī

zhuī — "to chase; to run after".

jǐngchá zài zhuī xiǎotōu — The police are chasing the thief.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhuī is inherited from Middle Chinese trwij (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it 'to chase' and 'to follow'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zhuī
- Say it: zhuī, once more
- Say it: jǐngchá zài zhuī xiǎotōu — The police are chasing the thief.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to investigate a case, then the Mandarin for a police car, then say zhuī again

Before you move on

What does zhuī mean? ("To chase; to run after".) Say it once more.

311.5 警报 (jǐngbào) — alarm; a warning siren

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a police car, then the Mandarin for to run after someone.

You'll want to know: 警报

警报 — jǐngbào — "alarm; a warning siren".

有警报大家快走 yǒu jǐngbào, dàjiā kuài zǒu — There's an alarm, everyone out, quick!

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 警报 (jǐngbào) is built from 警 'to warn' and 报 'to report', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjaengX and pawH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription): a warning sent out.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jǐngbào
- Say it: jǐngbào, once more
- Say it: yǒu jǐngbào, dàjiā kuài zǒu — There's an alarm, everyone out, quick!
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a police car, then the Mandarin for to run after someone, then say jǐngbào again

Before you move on

What does 警报 mean? ("Alarm; a warning siren".) Say it once more.

311.6 jiāojǐng — traffic police officer

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to run after someone, then the Mandarin for a warning siren.

You'll want to know: jiāojǐng

jiāojǐng — "traffic police officer".

> jiāojǐng shuō wǒ kāichē tài kuài — The traffic officer said I was driving too fast.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiāojǐng is built from jiāo 'to cross' and 警 'to warn', a short form of a longer name for the police of the roads; both are inherited from Middle Chinese, kaew and kjaengX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to join'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jiāojǐng
- Say it: jiāojǐng, once more
- Say it: jiāojǐng shuō wǒ kāichē tài kuài — The traffic officer said I was driving too fast.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to run after someone, then the Mandarin for a warning siren, then say jiāojǐng again

Before you move on

What does jiāojǐng mean? ("Traffic police officer".) Say it once more.

Chapter 312

Locked Up

Modes: voice (6) Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about fines, fights and prison, and say someone got what they deserved.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 312: I can talk about fines, fights and prison, and say someone got what they deserved.

312.1 jiānyù — prison

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a warning siren, then the Mandarin for a traffic police officer.

You'll want to know: jiānyù

jiānyù — "prison".

> tā zài jiānyù lǐ zhù le sān nián — He spent three years in prison.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiānyù is built from jiān 'to watch over' and yù 'a jail', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaem and ngjowk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to oversee' and explains the shape of the second as two dogs on guard.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jiānyù
- Say it: jiānyù, once more
- Say it: tā zài jiānyù lǐ zhù le sān nián — He spent three years in prison.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a warning siren, then the Mandarin for a traffic police officer, then say jiānyù again

Before you move on

What does jiānyù mean? ("Prison".) Say it once more.

312.2 fákuǎn — to impose a fine; a penalty fine

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a traffic police officer, then the Mandarin for a prison.

You'll want to know: fákuǎn

fákuǎn — "to impose a fine; a penalty fine".

kāichē tài kuài yào fákuǎn — Driving too fast gets you a fine.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fákuǎn is built from fá 'to punish' and kuǎn 'a sum', both inherited from Middle Chinese, bjot and khwanX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a punishment' and the second 'sincere'; its sense 'a sum of money' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: fákuǎn
- Say it: fákuǎn, once more
- Say it: kāichē tài kuài yào fákuǎn — Driving too fast gets you a fine.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a traffic police officer, then the Mandarin for a prison, then say fákuǎn again

Before you move on

What does fákuǎn mean? ("To impose a fine; a penalty fine".) Say it once more.

312.3 dǎjià — to fight; to get into a fistfight

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a prison, then the Mandarin for to impose a fine.

You'll want to know: dǎjià

dǎjià — "to fight; to get into a fistfight".

liǎng ge rén zhèngzài ménkǒu dǎjià — Two people were fighting at the door.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

dǎjià is built from 打 'to hit' and jià 'a frame', both inherited from Middle Chinese, taengX and kaeH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to strike' and the second 'a roof frame'; how the pair came to mean a fight is not settled, and dǎ is an irregular outcome of taengX.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: dǎjià
- Say it: dǎjià, once more
- Say it: liǎng ge rén zhèngzài ménkǒu dǎjià — Two people were fighting at the door.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a prison, then the Mandarin for to impose a fine, then say dǎjià again

Before you move on

What does dǎjià mean? ("To fight; to get into a fistfight".) Say it once more.

312.4 活该 (huógāi) — it serves them right; serves you right

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to impose a fine, then the Mandarin for to get into a fistfight.

You'll want to know: 活该

活该 — huógāi — "it serves them right; serves you right".

活该他经常偷东西 huógāi, tā jīngcháng tōu dōngxi — Serves him right, he steals all the time.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 活该 (huógāi) is built from 活 'alive' and 该 'ought', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hwat and koj (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'complete' and 'all'; how the pair came to mean 'it serves you right' is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: huógāi
- Say it: huógāi, once more
- Say it: huógāi, tā jīngcháng tōu dōngxi — Serves him right, he steals all the time.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to impose a fine, then the Mandarin for to get into a fistfight, then say huógāi again

Before you move on

What does 活该 mean? ("It serves them right; serves you right".) Say it once more.

312.5 死活 (sǐhuó) — no matter what; whatever anyone says

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get into a fistfight, then the Mandarin for it serves them right.

You'll want to know: 死活

死活 — sǐhuó — "no matter what; whatever anyone says".

他死活不去报警 tā sǐhuó bú qù bàojǐng — Whatever anyone said, he wouldn't go to the police.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 死活 (sǐhuó) is built from 死 'to die' and 活 'to live', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sijX and hwat (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription): dead or alive, whatever happens.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: sǐhuó
- Say it: sǐhuó, once more
- Say it: tā sǐhuó bú qù bàojǐng — Whatever anyone said, he wouldn't go to the police.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get into a fistfight, then the Mandarin for it serves them right, then say sǐhuó again

Before you move on

What does 死活 mean? ("No matter what; whatever anyone says".) Say it once more.

312.6 Looking back: from Ever Since to Locked Up

Say the Mandarin for to go missing and ever since.

Your turn

- Say it: to go missing, ever since, to come from a place, to commit a crime, the local police station
- Say it: to rob by force, a thief, to con someone, a con man, on purpose
- Say it: to suspect someone, a witness to a crime, proof of what happened, to tell a lie, to own up to something
- Say it: to investigate a case, a police car, to run after someone, a warning siren, a traffic police officer
- Say it: a prison, to impose a fine, to get into a fistfight, it serves them right, whatever anyone says
- Read it: 自 偷 警 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

To go missing? (shīzōng.) Ever since? (自从, zìcóng.) To come from a place? (来自, láizì.) To commit a crime? (fànzuì.) The local police station? (pàichūsuǒ.) To rob by force? (qiǎngjié.) A thief? (小偷, xiǎotōu.) To con someone? (piàn.) A con man? (piànzi.) On purpose? (故意, gùyì.) To suspect someone? (huáiyí.) A witness to a crime? (zhèngrén.) Proof of what happened? (zhèngjù.) To tell a lie? (shuōhuǎng.) To own up to something? (chéngrèn.) To investigate a case? (diàochá.) A police car? (警车, jǐngchē.) To run after someone? (zhuī.) A warning siren? (警报, jǐngbào.) A traffic police officer? (jiāojǐng.) A prison? (jiānyù.) To impose a fine? (fákuǎn.) To get into a fistfight? (dǎjià.) It serves them right? (活该, huógāi.) Whatever anyone says? (死活, sǐhuó.)

Chapter 313

Moving House

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about doing up a new home, settling down and getting used to a new place.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 313: I can talk about doing up a new home, settling down and getting used to a new place.

313.1 zhuāngxiū — to do up a home; to renovate

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for it serves them right, then the Mandarin for whatever anyone says.

You'll want to know: zhuāngxiū zhuāngxiū — "to do up a home; to renovate".

> wǒmen de xīn jiā zhèngzài zhuāngxiū — Our new home is being done up.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhuāngxiū is built from zhuāng 'to pack' and xiū 'to repair', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsrjang and sjuw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to pack for a journey' and the second 'to put in order'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zhuāngxiū
- Say it: zhuāngxiū, once more
- Say it: wǒmen de xīn jiā zhèngzài zhuāngxiū — Our new home is being done up.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for it serves them right, then the Mandarin for whatever anyone says, then say zhuāngxiū again

Before you move on

What does zhuāngxiū mean? ("To do up a home; to renovate".) Say it once more.

313.2 才 (cái) — only then; not until

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for whatever anyone says, then the Mandarin for to renovate a flat.

You'll want to know: 才

才 — cái — "only then; not until".

他十点才来 tā shí diǎn cái lái — He didn't come until ten.

The new character, in pieces: 才 — three strokes: a bar, a vertical that hooks to the left at the foot, and a long sweep down to the left across them: the hand piece of 打 with a sweep for its last stroke. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 才 (cái) is inherited from Middle Chinese dzoj (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it 'barely' under another, more complex spelling; the simple form, read the same, is a different word there, glossed 'use', 'strength' and 'talent'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: cái
- Say it: cái, once more
- Say it: tā shí diǎn cái lái — He didn't come until ten.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for whatever anyone says, then the Mandarin for to renovate a flat, then say cái again

Before you move on

What does 才 mean? ("Only then; not until".) Say it once more.

313.3 才 — a bar, a hooked post and a sweep

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say cái — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

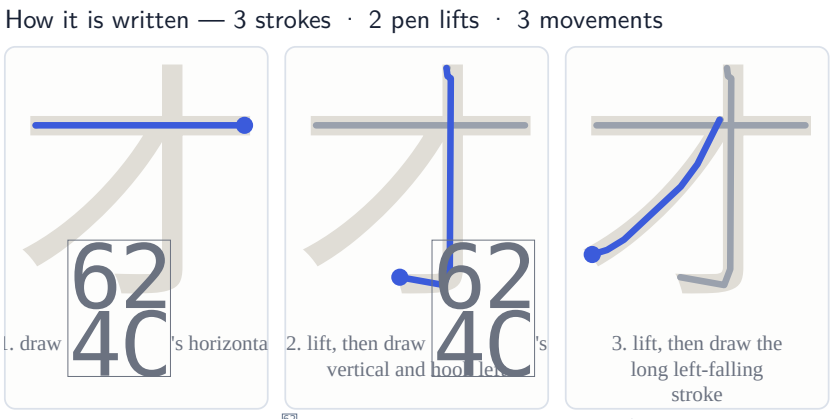
  打 十

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — dǎ, shí

Script — a bar, a hooked post and a sweep



How 才 is written, stroke by stroke

才

One piece, three strokes.
A bar across the top.
A vertical down through the bar, hooking to the left at the foot.
A long sweep from the crossing, down to the lower left, across the vertical. In 打 this stroke rises to the right; here it falls to the left.

Your turn

- Write it: 才, all three, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 才? (Three.) How is it different from the hand piece of 打? (The last stroke sweeps down to the left.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 才, pinned stroke paths and medians.

313.4 dìngjū — to settle down; to make a place your home

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to renovate a flat, then the Mandarin for not until then.

You'll want to know: dìngjū

dìngjū — "to settle down; to make a place your home".

tāmen zài Běijīng dìngjū le — They've settled in Beijing.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dìngjū is built from dìng 'calm' and jū 'to dwell', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dengH and kjo (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'at peace' and the second 'to dwell'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: dìngjū
- Say it: dìngjū, once more
- Say it: tāmen zài Běijīng dìngjū le — They've settled in Beijing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to renovate a flat, then the Mandarin for not until then, then say dìngjū again

Before you move on

What does dìngjū mean? ("To settle down; to make a place your home".) Say it once more.

313.5 shěbude — to hate to part with; to hate to leave

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for not until then, then the Mandarin for to make a place your home.

You'll want to know: shěbude

shěbude — "to hate to part with; to hate to leave".

wǒ shěbude líkāi zhèr — I hate to leave this place.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.
The tone of 不 drops away here: it is said light, without a tone, shěbude.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shěbude is built from shě 'to let go', 不 'not' and 得 'to get', all inherited from Middle Chinese, syaeX, pjut and tok (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to release': not able to let go.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shěbude
- Say it: shěbude, once more
- Say it: wǒ shěbude líkāi zhèr — I hate to leave this place.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for not until then, then the Mandarin for to make a place your home, then say shěbude again

Before you move on

What does shěbude mean? ("To hate to part with; to hate to leave".) Say it once more.

313.6 shìyìng — to adapt; to adjust to new surroundings

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to make a place your home, then the Mandarin for to hate to leave behind.

You'll want to know: shìyìng

shìyìng — "to adapt; to adjust to new surroundings".

wǒ hái bú shìyìng zhèr de shēnghuó — I'm not used to life here yet.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shìyìng is built from shì 'to go to' and 应 'to answer', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syek and 'ingH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to go to' and 'pleased' and the second 'to respond'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shìyìng
- Say it: shìyìng, once more
- Say it: wǒ hái bú shìyìng zhèr de shēnghuó — I'm not used to life here yet.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to make a place your home, then the Mandarin for to hate to leave behind, then say shìyìng again

Before you move on

What does shìyìng mean? ("To adapt; to adjust to new surroundings".) Say it once more.

Chapter 314

Saying Goodbye

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a funeral: remembering a life, comforting someone, and tears at the graveside.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 314: I can talk about a funeral: remembering a life, comforting someone, and tears at the graveside.

314.1 zànglǐ — funeral

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to hate to leave behind, then the Mandarin for to adjust to new surroundings.

You'll want to know: zànglǐ

zànglǐ — "funeral".

> dàjiā dōu cānjiā le tā de zànglǐ — Everyone came to his funeral.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zànglǐ is built from zàng 'to bury' and lǐ 'a rite', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsangH and lejX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to hide away' and the second, quoting an older dictionary, 'what is done to serve the spirits'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zànglǐ
- Say it: zànglǐ, once more
- Say it: dàjiā dōu cānjiā le tā de zànglǐ — Everyone came to his funeral.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to hate to leave behind, then the Mandarin for to adjust to new surroundings, then say zànglǐ again

Before you move on

What does zànglǐ mean? ("Funeral".) Say it once more.

314.2 生前 (shēngqián) — in someone's lifetime; while they were alive

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to adjust to new surroundings, then the Mandarin for a funeral.

You'll want to know: 生前

生前 — shēngqián — "in someone's lifetime; while they were alive".

我还记得他生前很喜欢喝茶 wǒ hái jìde tā shēngqián hěn xǐhuan hē chá — I still remember how he loved his tea.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 生前 (shēngqián) is built from 生 'life' and 前 'before', both inherited from Middle Chinese, srjaeng and dzen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription): before, in life, said of someone who has died.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shēngqián
- Say it: shēngqián, once more
- Say it: wǒ hái jìde tā shēngqián hěn xǐhuan hē chá — I still remember how he loved his tea.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to adjust to new surroundings, then the Mandarin for a funeral, then say shēngqián again

Before you move on

What does 生前 mean? ("In someone's lifetime; while they were alive".) Say it once more.

314.3 ānwèi — to comfort; to console

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a funeral, then the Mandarin for in someone's lifetime.

You'll want to know: ānwèi

ānwèi — "to comfort; to console".

wǒ qù ānwèi tā — I'm going to comfort her.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of ānwèi is built from ān 'calm' and wèi 'to soothe', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'an and 'jw+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second with this very word.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: ānwèi
- Say it: ānwèi, once more
- Say it: wǒ qù ānwèi tā — I'm going to comfort her.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a funeral, then the Mandarin for in someone's lifetime, then say ānwèi again

Before you move on

What does ānwèi mean? ("To comfort; to console".) Say it once more.

314.4 mùdì — cemetery; graveyard

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for in someone's lifetime, then the Mandarin for to comfort someone who is sad.

You'll want to know: mùdì

mùdì — "cemetery; graveyard".

mùdì lí zhèr hěn yuǎn — The cemetery is a long way from here.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

mùdì is built from mù 'a grave' and 地 'ground', both inherited from Middle Chinese, muH and dijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a grave mound'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: mùdì
- Say it: mùdì, once more
- Say it: mùdì lí zhèr hěn yuǎn — The cemetery is a long way from here.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for in someone's lifetime, then the Mandarin for to comfort someone who is sad, then say mùdì again

Before you move on

What does mùdì mean? ("Cemetery; graveyard".) Say it once more.

314.5 liúlèi — to shed tears

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to comfort someone who is sad, then the Mandarin for a cemetery.

You'll want to know: liúlèi

liúlèi — "to shed tears".

dàjiā dōu liúlèi le — Everyone was in tears.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of liúlèi is built from liú 'to flow' and lèi 'tears', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ljuw and lwijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, quoting an older dictionary, 'water moving' and the second 'tears'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: liúlèi
- Say it: liúlèi, once more
- Say it: dàjiā dōu liúlèi le — Everyone was in tears.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to comfort someone who is sad, then the Mandarin for a cemetery, then say liúlèi again

Before you move on

What does liúlèi mean? ("To shed tears".) Say it once more.

Chapter 315

Once Again

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say something happened again, that I feel at home now, and that some things are as before.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 315: I can say something happened again, that I feel at home now, and that some things are as before.

315.1 jiànjiàn — gradually; little by little

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a cemetery, then the Mandarin for to shed tears.

You'll want to know: jiànjiàn

jiànjiàn — "gradually; little by little".

> wǒ jiànjiàn xíguàn le zhèr de shēnghuó — Little by little I got used to life here.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiànjiàn is the word jiàn said twice, inherited from Middle Chinese dzjemX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it 'step by step' and 'to advance'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jiànjiàn
- Say it: jiànjiàn, once more
- Say it: wǒ jiànjiàn xíguàn le zhèr de shēnghuó — Little by little I got used to life here.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a cemetery, then the Mandarin for to shed tears, then say jiànjiàn again

Before you move on

What does jiànjiàn mean? ("Gradually; little by little".) Say it once more.

315.2 又 (yòu) — yet again; it happened again

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to shed tears, then the Mandarin for little by little.

You'll want to know: 又

又 — yòu — "yet again; it happened again".

你又来了 nǐ yòu lái le — Here you are again.

The new character, in pieces: 又 — two strokes: a bar that turns into a long sweep to the lower left, then a long stroke falling to the right across it, the fork at the foot of 报 and 发. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 又 (yòu) is inherited from Middle Chinese hjuwH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it 'further' and 'once more'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: yòu
- Say it: yòu, once more
- Say it: nǐ yòu lái le — Here you are again.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to shed tears, then the Mandarin for little by little, then say yòu again

Before you move on

What does 又 mean? ("Yet again; it happened again".) Say it once more.

315.3 又 — the fork at the foot of 报

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say yòu — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

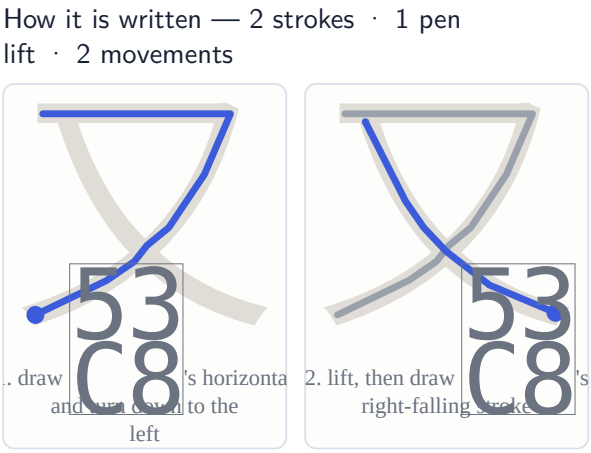
  报 发

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — bào, fā

Script — the fork at the foot of 报



Stroke order after Hanzi Writer Data 53.json, ordered stroke paths and medians 1–2 (Hanzi Writer Data snapshot 68d10a4, updated from Make Me a Hanzi, 22 June 2019)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How 又 is written, stroke by stroke

又

One piece, two strokes.

A bar that turns into a sweep: across to the right, then a long sweep down to the lower left.

A long stroke falling to the right, from under the start of the bar, across the sweep to the foot.

You have made this fork in 报, 发 and 经.

Your turn

- Write it: 又, all two, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 又? (Two.) Where have you made this shape? (At the foot of 报, and in 发 and 经.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 又, pinned stroke paths and medians.

315.4 自在 (zìzai) — at ease; free and relaxed

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for little by little, then the Mandarin for it happened again.

You'll want to know: 自在

自在 — zìzai — "at ease; free and relaxed".

我来了一年才觉得自在 wǒ lái le yì nián cái juéde zìzai — It took me a year to feel at home.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 自在 (zìzai) is built from 自 'by oneself' and 在 'to be in place', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzijH and dzojX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'from' and 'by way of'; the sense 'oneself' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zìzai
- Say it: zìzai, once more
- Say it: wǒ lái le yì nián cái juéde zìzai — It took me a year to feel at home.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for little by little, then the Mandarin for it happened again, then say zìzai again

Before you move on

What does 自在 mean? ("At ease; free and relaxed".) Say it once more.

315.5 jìngrán — to my surprise; unexpectedly

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for it happened again, then the Mandarin for at ease in a place.

You'll want to know: jìngrán

jìngrán — "to my surprise; unexpectedly".

tā jìngrán wàng le wǒ de shēngrì — He actually forgot my birthday!

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jìngrán is built from jìng 'to the end' and 然 'so', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjaengH and nyen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to use up' and 'the end'; how the pair came to mean 'to one's surprise' is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jìngrán
- Say it: jìngrán, once more
- Say it: tā jìngrán wàng le wǒ de shēngrì — He actually forgot my birthday!
- Recall: say the Mandarin for it happened again, then the Mandarin for at ease in a place, then say jìngrán again

Before you move on

What does jìngrán mean? ("To my surprise; unexpectedly".) Say it once more.

315.6 réngrán — as before; even now

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for at ease in a place, then the Mandarin for to my surprise.

You'll want to know: réngrán

réngrán — "as before; even now".

shí nián yǐhòu, tā réngrán zhù zài zhèr — Ten years later, he still lives here.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of réngrán is built from réng 'to follow on' and 然 'so', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nying and nyen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to follow', 'to repeat' and 'often'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: réngrán
- Say it: réngrán, once more
- Say it: shí nián yǐhòu, tā réngrán zhù zài zhèr — Ten years later, he still lives here.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for at ease in a place, then the Mandarin for to my surprise, then say réngrán again

Before you move on

What does réngrán mean? (“As before; even now”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 316

A New Place

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about registering in a new town, getting to know it, and life there.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 316: I can talk about registering in a new town, getting to know it, and life there.

316.1 dēngjì — to register officially

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to my surprise, then the Mandarin for the same as before.

You'll want to know: dēngjì dēngjì — "to register officially".

> wǒmen qù pàichūsuǒ dēngjì — We went to the police station to register.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dēngjì is built from dēng 'to go up' and 𠹳 'to note down', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tong and kiH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to rise' and 'to go forward': to enter in the record.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: dēngjì
- Say it: dēngjì, once more
- Say it: wǒmen qù pàichūsuǒ dēngjì — We went to the police station to register.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to my surprise, then the Mandarin for the same as before, then say dēngjì again

Before you move on

What does dēngjì mean? ("To register officially".) Say it once more.

316.2 shúxī — to know well; to be familiar with

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the same as before, then the Mandarin for to register officially.

You'll want to know: shúxī

shúxī — "to know well; to be familiar with".

wǒ duì zhèr hái bù shúxī — I don't know this place well yet.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

shúxī is built from shú 'ripe' and xī 'in full', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyuwk and sit (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'done' and the second 'in every detail'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shúxī
- Say it: shúxī, once more
- Say it: wǒ duì zhèr hái bù shúxī — I don't know this place well yet.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the same as before, then the Mandarin for to register officially, then say shúxī again

Before you move on

What does shúxī mean? ("To know well; to be familiar with".) Say it once more.

316.3 当地 (dāngdì) — of that place; in the place in question

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to register officially, then the Mandarin for to be familiar with.

You'll want to know: 当地

当地 — dāngdì — "of that place; in the place in question".

我到了当地才找到房子 wǒ dào le dāngdì cái zhǎodào fángzi — I only found somewhere to live once I got there.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 当地 (dāngdì) is built from 当 'at' and 地 'a place', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tang and dijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to face' and 'to meet': the very place.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: dāngdì
- Say it: dāngdì, once more
- Say it: wǒ dào le dāngdì cái zhǎodào fángzi — I only found somewhere to live once I got there.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to register officially, then the Mandarin for to be familiar with, then say dāngdì again

Before you move on

What does 当地 mean? ("Of that place; in the place in question".) Say it once more.

316.4 人生 (rénshēng) — a person's life; life from birth to death

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be familiar with, then the Mandarin for of that place.

You'll want to know: 人生

人生 — rénshēng — "a person's life; life from birth to death".

rénshēng hěn cháng, nǐ kěyǐ chóngxīn kāishǐ — Life is long; you can start over.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 人生 (rénshēng) is built from 人 'a person' and 生 'to live', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyin and srjaeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to grow'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: rénshēng
- Say it: rénshēng, once more
- Say it: rénshēng hěn cháng, nǐ kěyǐ chóngxīn kāishǐ — Life is long; you can start over.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be familiar with, then the Mandarin for of that place, then say rénshēng again

Before you move on

What does 人生 mean? ("A person's life; life from birth to death".) Say it once more.

316.5 自然 (zìrán) — naturally; nature

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for of that place, then the Mandarin for life from birth to death.

You'll want to know: 自然

自然 — zìrán — "naturally; nature".

又下雨了我们自然不出门 yòu xiàyǔ le, wǒmen zìrán bù chūmén — It's raining again, so naturally we're staying in.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 自然 (zìrán) is built from 自 and 然 'so', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzijH and nyen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'from' and 'by way of'; its sense 'by itself' is not given there. So of itself.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zìrán
- Say it: zìrán, once more
- Say it: yòu xiàyǔ le, wǒmen zìrán bù chūmén — It's raining again, so naturally we're staying in.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for of that place, then the Mandarin for life from birth to death, then say zìrán again

Before you move on

What does 自然 mean? ("Naturally; nature".) Say it once more.

Chapter 317

Looking Back

Modes: 🚗 voice (7) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about growing up, marriage and family, and doing things ahead of time.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 317: I can talk about growing up, marriage and family, and doing things ahead of time.

317.1 qīngnián — young people; youth

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for life from birth to death, then the Mandarin for as you would naturally expect.

You'll want to know: qīngnián

qīngnián — "young people; youth".

> tā shì yí ge hěn yǒu nénglì de qīngnián — He's a very capable young man.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qīngnián is built from qīng 'green' and 年 'years', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsheng and nen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as the colour of the east: green years.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: qīngnián
- Say it: qīngnián, once more
- Say it: tā shì yí ge hěn yǒu nénglì de qīngnián — He's a very capable young man.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for life from birth to death, then the Mandarin for as you would naturally expect, then say qīngnián again

Before you move on

What does qīngnián mean? ("Young people; youth".) Say it once more.

317.2 chéngnián — to come of age; fully grown

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for as you would naturally expect, then the Mandarin for young people.

You'll want to know: chéngnián

chéngnián — "to come of age; fully grown".

háizi chéngnián yǐhòu, jiù líkāi le jiā — Once the children were grown, they left home.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chéngnián is built from chéng 'to complete' and 年 'years', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyeng and nen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to finish' and 'to make'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: chéngnián
- Say it: chéngnián, once more
- Say it: háizi chéngnián yǐhòu, jiù líkāi le jiā — Once the children were grown, they left home.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for as you would naturally expect, then the Mandarin for young people, then say chéngnián again

Before you move on

What does chéngnián mean? ("To come of age; fully grown".) Say it once more.

317.3 hūnyīn — marriage; the bond of marriage

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for young people, then the Mandarin for to come of age.

You'll want to know: hūnyīn

hūnyīn — "marriage; the bond of marriage".

tāmen de hūnyīn yǒu wèntí — Their marriage is in trouble.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of hūnyīn is built from hūn and yīn, both inherited from Middle Chinese, xwon and 'jin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses each with the pair itself, 'marriage', and explains hūn by the evening hour of old weddings.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: hūnyīn
- Say it: hūnyīn, once more
- Say it: tāmen de hūnyīn yǒu wèntí — Their marriage is in trouble.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for young people, then the Mandarin for to come of age, then say hūnyīn again

Before you move on

What does hūnyīn mean? ("Marriage; the bond of marriage".) Say it once more.

317.4 jiātíng — household; a family unit

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to come of age, then the Mandarin for a marriage.

You'll want to know: jiātíng

jiātíng — "household; a family unit".

wǒmen shì yí ge kuàilè de jiātíng — We're a happy family.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiātíng is built from 家 'home' and tíng 'a courtyard', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kae and deng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a gate yard': the home and its yard.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jiātíng
- Say it: jiātíng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen shì yí ge kuàilè de jiātíng — We're a happy family.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to come of age, then the Mandarin for a marriage, then say jiātíng again

Before you move on

What does jiātíng mean? ("Household; a family unit".) Say it once more.

317.5 事先 (shìxiān) — beforehand; in advance

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a marriage, then the Mandarin for a household.

You'll want to know: 事先

事先 — shìxiān — "beforehand; in advance".

他又没有事先说我们都生气了 tā yòu méiyǒu shìxiān shuō, wǒmen dōu shēngqì le — Once again he didn't say so beforehand, and we were all cross.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 事先 (shìxiān) is built from 事 'a matter' and 先 'before', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzriH and sen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'first and after': before the matter.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shìxiān
- Say it: shìxiān, once more
- Say it: tā yòu méiyǒu shìxiān shuō, wǒmen dōu shēngqì le — Once again he didn't say so beforehand, and we were all cross.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a marriage, then the Mandarin for a household, then say shìxiān again

Before you move on

What does 事先 mean? ("Beforehand; in advance".) Say it once more.

317.6 Looking back: from Moving House to Looking Back

Say the Mandarin for to renovate a flat and not until then.

Your turn

- Say it: to renovate a flat, not until then, to make a place your home, to hate to leave behind, to adjust to new surroundings
- Say it: a funeral, in someone's lifetime, to comfort someone who is sad, a cemetery, to shed tears
- Say it: little by little, it happened again, at ease in a place, to my surprise, the same as before
- Say it: to register officially, to be familiar with, of that place, life from birth to death, as you would naturally expect
- Say it: young people, to come of age, a marriage, a household, in advance
- Read it: 才 又 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

To renovate a flat? (zhuāngxiū.) Not until then? (才, cái.) To make a place your home? (dìngjū.) To hate to leave behind? (shěbude.) To adjust to new surroundings? (shìyìng.) A funeral? (zànglǐ.) In someone's lifetime? (生前, shēngqián.) To comfort someone who is sad? (ānwèi.) A cemetery? (mùdì.) To shed tears? (liúlèi.) Little by little? (jiànjiàn.) It happened again? (又, yòu.) At ease in a place? (自在, zìzai.) To my surprise? (jìngrán.) The same as before? (réngrán.) To register officially? (dēngjì.) To be familiar with? (shúxī.) Of that place? (当地, dāngdì.) Life from birth to death? (人生, rénshēng.) As you would naturally expect? (自然, zìrán.) Young people? (qīngnián.) To come of age? (chéngnián.) A marriage? (hūnyīn.) A household? (jiātíng.) In advance? (事先, shìxiān.)

317.7 Looking Back — once more

Say the Mandarin for young people and to come of age.

Your turn

- Say it: young people, to come of age, a marriage, a household, in advance

Before you move on

Young people? (qīngnián.) To come of age? (chéngnián.) A marriage? (hūnyīn.) A household? (jiātíng.) In advance? (事先, shìxiān.)

Chapter 318

Letters from Far Away

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a pen pal, an envelope and a postcard, wait for a reply and pass a message on.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 318: I can talk about a pen pal, an envelope and a postcard, wait for a reply and pass a message on.

318.1 bǐyǒu — pen pal

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for household, then the Mandarin for beforehand.

You'll want to know: bǐyǒu

bǐyǒu — "pen pal".

> wǒ xiǎoshíhou yǒu yí ge bǐyǒu — When I was little I had a pen pal.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: bǐ is said with a rising tone before yǒu, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

bǐyǒu is built from bǐ 'a pen' and yǒu 'a friend', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pit and hjuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which names the first as the writing brush and glosses the second as those who share one mind.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: bǐyǒu
- Say it: bǐyǒu, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiǎoshíhou yǒu yí ge bǐyǒu — When I was little I had a pen pal.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for household, then the Mandarin for beforehand, then say bǐyǒu again

Before you move on

What does bǐyǒu mean? ("Pen pal".) Say it once more.

318.2 xìnfēng — envelope

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for beforehand, then the Mandarin for a pen pal.

You'll want to know: xìnfēng

xìnfēng — "envelope".

tā de xìnfēng lǐ yǒu yì zhāng zhàopiàn — There was a photo in his envelope.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xìnfēng is built from xìn 'a letter' and fēng 'to seal', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sinH and pjowng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'loyal and true' and the second 'great', 'a domain' and 'a rank'; the senses 'a letter' and 'to seal' are not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xìnfēng
- Say it: xìnfēng, once more
- Say it: tā de xìnfēng lǐ yǒu yì zhāng zhàopiàn — There was a photo in his envelope.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for beforehand, then the Mandarin for a pen pal, then say xìnfēng again

Before you move on

What does xìnfēng mean? ("Envelope".) Say it once more.

318.3 míngxìnpiàn — postcard

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a pen pal, then the Mandarin for an envelope.

You'll want to know: míngxìnpiàn

míngxìnpiàn — "postcard".

tā cóng Zhōngguó gěi wǒ jì le yì zhāng míngxìnpiàn — He sent me a postcard from China.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of míngxìnpiàn is built from 明 'bright, open', xìn 'a letter' and piàn 'a flat piece', all three inherited from Middle Chinese, mjaeng, sinH and phenH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'light' and the last 'half' and 'a split piece of wood'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: míngxìnpiàn
- Say it: míngxìnpiàn, once more
- Say it: tā cóng Zhōngguó gěi wǒ jì le yì zhāng míngxìnpiàn — He sent me a postcard from China.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a pen pal, then the Mandarin for an envelope, then say míngxìnpiàn again

Before you move on

What does míngxìnpiàn mean? ("Postcard".) Say it once more.

318.4 回音 (huíyīn) — reply; echo

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an envelope, then the Mandarin for a postcard.

You'll want to know: 回音

回音 — huíyīn — "reply; echo".

wǒ gěi tā xiě le xìn tā réngrán méiyǒu huíyīn — I wrote to him, and there's still no reply.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 回音 (huíyīn) is built from 回 'to turn back' and 音 'a sound', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hwoj and 'im (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to turn' and the second 'a sound'. A sound that comes back is an echo; the sense 'a reply' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: huíyīn
- Say it: huíyīn, once more
- Say it: wǒ gěi tā xiě le xìn tā réngrán méiyǒu huíyīn — I wrote to him, and there's still no reply.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an envelope, then the Mandarin for a postcard, then say huíyīn again

Before you move on

What does 回音 mean? ("Reply; echo".) Say it once more.

318.5 zhuǎngào — to pass on a message

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a postcard, then the Mandarin for a reply to a letter.

You'll want to know: zhuǎngào

zhuǎngào — "to pass on a message".

qǐng nǐ zhuǎngào tā míngtiān wǒ bú qù le — Please tell him for me that I'm not going tomorrow.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhuǎngào is built from zhuǎn 'to turn' and gào 'to tell', both inherited from Middle Chinese, trjwenX and kawH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to move' and the second 'to report'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zhuǎngào
- Say it: zhuǎngào, once more
- Say it: qǐng nǐ zhuǎngào tā míngtiān wǒ bú qù le — Please tell him for me that I'm not going tomorrow.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a postcard, then the Mandarin for a reply to a letter, then say zhuǎngào again

Before you move on

What does zhuǎngào mean? ("To pass on a message".) Say it once more.

Chapter 319

Calls and Confidence

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say I will call back, talk about calls coming in, keep in touch by letter and say I have confidence.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 319: I can say I will call back, talk about calls coming in, keep in touch by letter and say I have confidence.

319.1 回电 (huídiàn) — to call back; to return a call

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a reply to a letter, then the Mandarin for to pass on a message.

You'll want to know: 回电

回电 — huídiàn — "to call back; to return a call".

> 我在开会一会儿给你回电 wǒ zài kāihuì yíhuìr gěi nǐ huídiàn — I'm in a meeting; I'll call you back in a moment.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 回电 (huídiàn) is built from 回 'to turn back' and 电 'electricity', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hwoj and denH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'lightning'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: huídiàn
- Say it: huídiàn, once more
- Say it: wǒ zài kāihuì yíhuìr gěi nǐ huídiàn — I'm in a meeting; I'll call you back in a moment.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a reply to a letter, then the Mandarin for to pass on a message, then say huídiàn again

Before you move on

What does 回电 mean? ("To call back; to return a call".) Say it once more.

319.2 信心 (xìnxīn) — confidence; faith

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to pass on a message, then the Mandarin for to return a call.

You'll want to know: 信心

信心 — xìnxīn — "confidence; faith".

我对你有信心 wǒ duì nǐ yǒu xìnxīn — I have faith in you.

The new character, in pieces: 信 — nine strokes: the person piece 亻 on the left; on the right a dot, three bars and 口. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 信心 (xìnxīn) is built from 信 'to trust' and 心 'the heart', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sinH and sim (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'loyal and true' and 'sincere'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xìnxīn
- Say it: xìnxīn, once more
- Say it: wǒ duì nǐ yǒu xìnxīn — I have faith in you.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to pass on a message, then the Mandarin for to return a call, then say xìnxīn again

Before you move on

What does 信心 mean? ("Confidence; faith".) Say it once more.

319.3 信 — the person piece, then a dot, three bars and 口

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say xìnxīn — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

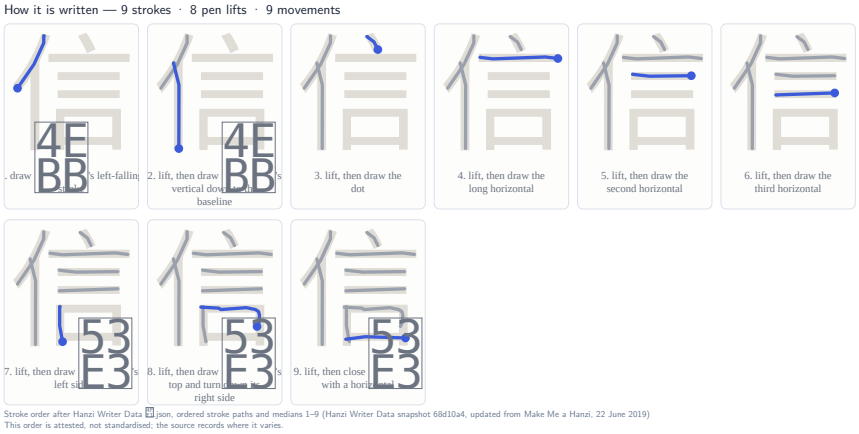
  你 说

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — nǐ, shuō

Script — the person piece, then a dot, three bars and 口



How 信 is written, stroke by stroke

信

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, 亻, two strokes. A stroke falling to the left, then a vertical down to the foot, as in 你.

The right piece, seven strokes, top to bottom. A dot. Three bars, the top one the longest. Then 口 at the foot: a short vertical, a bar that runs right and turns down, and the bar that closes it.

2 + 7 = nine.

Your turn

- Write it: 信, all nine, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 信? (Nine.) What is the left piece? (亻, the person piece.) What closes the right piece at the foot? (口.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 信, pinned stroke paths and medians.

319.4 来电 (láidiàn) — incoming call

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to return a call, then the Mandarin for confidence that it will work.

You'll want to know: 来电

来电 — láidiàn — "incoming call".

开会的时候我有三个来电 kāihuì de shíhou wǒ yǒu sān ge láidiàn — During the meeting three calls came in for me.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 来电 (láidiàn) is built from 来 'to come' and 电 'electricity', both inherited from Middle Chinese, loj and denH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to arrive' and the second 'lightning'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: láidiàn
- Say it: láidiàn, once more
- Say it: kāihuì de shíhou wǒ yǒu sān ge láidiàn — During the meeting three calls came in for me.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to return a call, then the Mandarin for confidence that it will work, then say láidiàn again

Before you move on

What does 来电 mean? ("Incoming call".) Say it once more.

319.5 tōngxìn — to write to each other; to correspond

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for confidence that it will work, then the Mandarin for an incoming call.

You'll want to know: tōngxìn

tōngxìn — "to write to each other; to correspond".

wǒ hé wǒ de bǐyǒu tōngxìn le wǔ nián — My pen pal and I wrote to each other for five years.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tōngxìn is built from tōng 'to get through' and 信 'a letter', both inherited from Middle Chinese, thuwng and sinH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to reach' and the second 'true'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: tōngxìn
- Say it: tōngxìn, once more
- Say it: wǒ hé wǒ de bǐyǒu tōngxìn le wǔ nián — My pen pal and I wrote to each other for five years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for confidence that it will work, then the Mandarin for an incoming call, then say tōngxìn again

Before you move on

What does tōngxìn mean? ("To write to each other; to correspond".) Say it once more.

319.6 huàfèi — phone charges

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an incoming call, then the Mandarin for to write to each other.

You'll want to know: huàfèi

huàfèi — "phone charges".

> zhège yuè huàfèi yìbǎi kuài — This month's phone bill is a hundred yuan.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huàfèi is built from 话 'talk' and fèi 'a cost', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hwaejH and phj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to use up'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: huàfèi
- Say it: huàfèi, once more
- Say it: zhège yuè huàfèi yìbǎi kuài — This month's phone bill is a hundred yuan.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an incoming call, then the Mandarin for to write to each other, then say huàfèi again

Before you move on

What does huàfèi mean? ("Phone charges".) Say it once more.

Chapter 320

On the Phone

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say someone hung up, dial a number, get through, bring something up and talk about a voice message.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 320: I can say someone hung up, dial a number, get through, bring something up and talk about a voice message.

320.1 guàduàn — to hang up the phone; to end a call

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to write to each other, then the Mandarin for phone charges.

You'll want to know: guàduàn

guàduàn — "to hang up the phone; to end a call".

> tā hái méi shuō wán jiù guàduàn le diànhuà — He hung up before he had finished.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of guàduàn is built from guà 'to hang' and duàn 'to cut off', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kweaH and dwanX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to suspend' and the second 'to sever'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: guàduàn
- Say it: guàduàn, once more
- Say it: tā hái méi shuō wán jiù guàduàn le diànhuà — He hung up before he had finished.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to write to each other, then the Mandarin for phone charges, then say guàduàn again

Before you move on

What does guàduàn mean? ("To hang up the phone; to end a call".) Say it once more.

320.2 bōdǎ — to dial a number

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for phone charges, then the Mandarin for to end a call.

You'll want to know: bōdǎ

bōdǎ — "to dial a number".

yǒu shì qǐng bōdǎ zhège hàomǎ — If anything comes up, please call this number.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bōdǎ is built from bō and 扌丁 'to strike', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pat and taengX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to set in order' and 'to remove' and the second 'to hit'. The sense 'to dial' is modern. Middle Chinese taengX would not regularly give dǎ.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: bōdǎ
- Say it: bōdǎ, once more
- Say it: yǒu shì qǐng bōdǎ zhège hàomǎ — If anything comes up, please call this number.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for phone charges, then the Mandarin for to end a call, then say bōdǎ again

Before you move on

What does bōdǎ mean? ("To dial a number".) Say it once more.

320.3 dǎtōng — to get through on the phone

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to end a call, then the Mandarin for to dial a number.

You'll want to know: dǎtōng dǎtōng — "to get through on the phone".

dì'èr tiān wǒ cái dǎtōng tā de diànhuà — I didn't get through to him until the next day.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dǎtōng is built from 打 'to strike' and tōng 'to reach', both inherited from Middle Chinese, taengX and thuwng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to hit' and the second 'to reach'. Middle Chinese taengX would not regularly give dǎ: the modern vowel is irregular.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: dǎtōng
- Say it: dǎtōng, once more
- Say it: dì'èr tiān wǒ cái dǎtōng tā de diànhuà — I didn't get through to him until the next day.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to end a call, then the Mandarin for to dial a number, then say dǎtōng again

Before you move on

What does dǎtōng mean? ("To get through on the phone".) Say it once more.

320.4 说起 (shuōqǐ) — to mention; to bring up a subject

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to dial a number, then the Mandarin for to get through on the phone.

You'll want to know: 说起

说起 — shuōqǐ — "to mention; to bring up a subject".

他在信里说起了你 tā zài xìn lǐ shuōqǐ le nǐ — He mentioned you in his letter.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 说起 (shuōqǐ) is built from 说 'to say' and 起 'to rise', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sywet and khiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to tell' and the second 'to rise' and 'to stand up'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shuōqǐ
- Say it: shuōqǐ, once more
- Say it: tā zài xìn lǐ shuōqǐ le nǐ — He mentioned you in his letter.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to dial a number, then the Mandarin for to get through on the phone, then say shuōqǐ again

Before you move on

What does 说起 mean? ("To mention; to bring up a subject".) Say it once more.

320.5 语音 (yǔyīn) — voice message; speech sounds

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get through on the phone, then the Mandarin for to bring up a subject.

You'll want to know: 语音

语音 — yǔyīn — "voice message; speech sounds".

wǒ tīng le māma de yǔyīn — I listened to my mum's voice message.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 语音 (yǔyīn) is built from 语 'speech' and 音 'a sound', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngjoX and 'im (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to discuss' and the second 'a sound'. A recorded message is a modern sense.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: yǔyīn
- Say it: yǔyīn, once more
- Say it: wǒ tīng le māma de yǔyīn — I listened to my mum's voice message.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get through on the phone, then the Mandarin for to bring up a subject, then say yǔyīn again

Before you move on

What does 语音 mean? ("Voice message; speech sounds".) Say it once more.

Chapter 321

People of Long Ago

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about history, the people of long ago, old books and old scripts.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 321: I can talk about history, the people of long ago, old books and old scripts.

321.1 lìshǐ — history

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to bring up a subject, then the Mandarin for a voice message.

You'll want to know: lìshǐ

lìshǐ — "history".

> wǒ zài dàxué xué guo Zhōngguó de lìshǐ — I studied Chinese history at university.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

lìshǐ is built from lì 'to pass through' and shǐ 'a record', both inherited from Middle Chinese, lek and sriX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to go through' and calls the second 'one who records events'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: lìshǐ
- Say it: lìshǐ, once more
- Say it: wǒ zài dàxué xué guo Zhōngguó de lìshǐ — I studied Chinese history at university.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to bring up a subject, then the Mandarin for a voice message, then say lìshǐ again

Before you move on

What does lìshǐ mean? ("History".) Say it once more.

321.2 古人 (gǔrén) — the ancients; people of long ago

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a voice message, then the Mandarin for the history of a country.

You'll want to know: 古人

古人 — gǔrén — "the ancients; people of long ago".

古人没有电话 gǔrén méiyǒu diànhuà — People long ago had no telephones.

The new character, in pieces: 古 — five strokes: 十 on top, and 口 under it. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 古人 (gǔrén) is built from 古 'ancient' and 人 'a person', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kuX and nyin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'former'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: gǔrén
- Say it: gǔrén, once more
- Say it: gǔrén méiyǒu diànhuà — People long ago had no telephones.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a voice message, then the Mandarin for the history of a country, then say gǔrén again

Before you move on

What does 古人 mean? ("The ancients; people of long ago".) Say it once more.

321.3 古 — 十 over 口

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say gǔrén — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

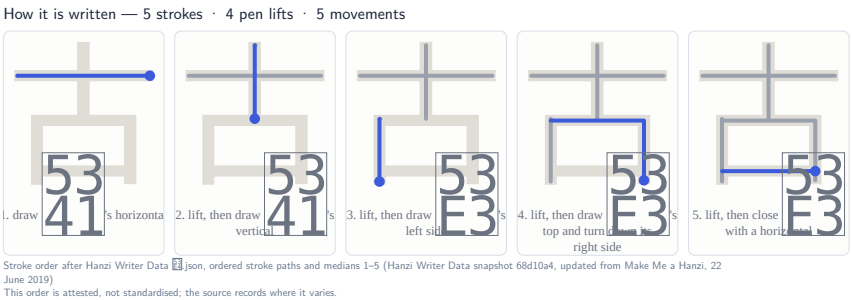
十 口

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — shí, kǒu

Script — 十 over 口



Stroke order after Hanzi Writer Data 2.1 json, ordered stroke paths and medians 1–5 (Hanzi Writer Data snapshot 68d10a4, updated from Make Me a Hanzi, 22 June 2019)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How 古 is written, stroke by stroke

古

Two pieces, top to bottom.

The top piece, 十, two strokes. A long bar from left to right, then a vertical down through its middle.

The bottom piece, 口, three strokes. A short vertical on the left; a bar that runs right and turns down; then the bar that closes the foot.

2 + 3 = five.

Your turn

- Write it: 古, all five, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 古? (Five.) What is on top? (十.) What is under it? (口.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 古, pinned stroke paths and medians.

321.4 古书 (gǔshū) — ancient book; old book

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the history of a country, then the Mandarin for the people of long ago.

You'll want to know: 古书

古书 — gǔshū — "ancient book; old book".

我在书店里看到了一本古书 wǒ zài shūdiàn lǐ kàndào le yì běn gǔshū — I came across an old book in the bookshop.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 古书 (gǔshū) is built from 古 'ancient' and 书 'a book', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kuX and syo (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'former' and says of the second that it sets things down.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: gǔshū
- Say it: gǔshū, once more
- Say it: wǒ zài shūdiàn lǐ kàndào le yì běn gǔshū — I came across an old book in the bookshop.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the history of a country, then the Mandarin for the people of long ago, then say gǔshū again

Before you move on

What does 古书 mean? ("Ancient book; old book".) Say it once more.

321.5 古老 (gǔlǎo) — ancient; age-old

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the people of long ago, then the Mandarin for an old book from long ago.

You'll want to know: 古老

古老 — gǔlǎo — "ancient; age-old".

他们家的房子很古老 tāmen jiā de fángzi hěn gǔlǎo — Their family's house is ancient.

Two third tones meet in this word: gǔ is said with a rising tone before lǎo, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 古老 (gǔlǎo) is built from 古 'ancient' and 老 'old', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kuX and lawX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'former' and the second 'aged'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: gǔlǎo
- Say it: gǔlǎo, once more
- Say it: tāmen jiā de fángzi hěn gǔlǎo — Their family's house is ancient.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the people of long ago, then the Mandarin for an old book from long ago, then say gǔlǎo again

Before you move on

What does 古老 mean? ("Ancient; age-old".) Say it once more.

321.6 文字 (wénzì) — script; written language

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an old book from long ago, then the Mandarin for age-old.

You'll want to know: 文字

文字 — wénzì — "script; written language".

汉字是很古老的文字 Hànzì shì hěn gǔlǎo de wénzì — Chinese characters are a very old script.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 文字 (wénzì) is built from 文 'writing' and 字 'a character', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjun and dziH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'writing' and 'beautiful'; for the second it gives 'an ornament' and 'to nurse', and the sense 'a written character' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: wénzì
- Say it: wénzì, once more
- Say it: Hànzì shì hěn gǔlǎo de wénzì — Chinese characters are a very old script.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an old book from long ago, then the Mandarin for age-old, then say wénzì again

Before you move on

What does 文字 mean? ("Script; written language".) Say it once more.

Chapter 322

Back Then

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about back then, someone's early and later years, a whole life and missing the past.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 322: I can talk about back then, someone's early and later years, a whole life and missing the past.

322.1 当年 (dāngnián) — back then; in those years

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for age-old, then the Mandarin for a script for a language.

You'll want to know: 当年

当年 — dāngnián — "back then; in those years".

> 当年他常常给我写信 dāngnián tā chángcháng gěi wǒ xiě xìn — Back then he often sent me letters.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 当年 (dāngnián) is built from 当 'to face, that very' and 年 'a year', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tang and nen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to face' and 'to match' and says that when the grain ripens it is called a year.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: dāngnián
- Say it: dāngnián, once more
- Say it: dāngnián tā chángcháng gěi wǒ xiě xìn — Back then he often sent me letters.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for age-old, then the Mandarin for a script for a language, then say dāngnián again

Before you move on

What does 当年 mean? ("Back then; in those years".) Say it once more.

322.2 早年 (zǎonián) — one's early years; long ago

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a script for a language, then the Mandarin for in those years long ago.

You'll want to know: 早年

早年 — zǎonián — "one's early years; long ago".

他早年在外国工作过 tā zǎonián zài wàiguó gōngzuò guo — In his early years he worked abroad.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 早年 (zǎonián) is built from 早 'early' and 年 'a year', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsawX and nen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'morning'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zǎonián
- Say it: zǎonián, once more
- Say it: tā zǎonián zài wàiguó gōngzuò guo — In his early years he worked abroad.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a script for a language, then the Mandarin for in those years long ago, then say zǎonián again

Before you move on

What does 早年 mean? ("One's early years; long ago".) Say it once more.

322.3 晚年 (wǎnnián) — one's later years; old age

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for in those years long ago, then the Mandarin for in one's early years.

You'll want to know: 晚年

晚年 — wǎnnián — "one's later years; old age".

他晚年的时候回了老家 tā wǎnnián de shíhou huí le lǎojiā — In his later years he went back to his home town.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 晚年 (wǎnnián) is built from 晚 'late' and 年 'a year', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjonX and nen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'dusk'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: wǎnnián
- Say it: wǎnnián, once more
- Say it: tā wǎnnián de shíhou huí le lǎojiā — In his later years he went back to his home town.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for in those years long ago, then the Mandarin for in one's early years, then say wǎnnián again

Before you move on

What does 晚年 mean? ("One's later years; old age".) Say it once more.

322.4 一生 (yìshēng) — all one's life; a lifetime

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for in one's early years, then the Mandarin for in one's later years.

You'll want to know: 一生

一生 — yìshēng — "all one's life; a lifetime".

他一生都在这个学校工作 tā yìshēng dōu zài zhège xuéxiào gōngzuò — He worked at this school all his life.

A tone change: 一 is said with a falling tone, yì, before the level tone of shēng.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 一生 (yìshēng) is built from 一 'one' and 生 'to live', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jit and srjaeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which calls the first the start of the numbers and glosses the second 'to grow'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: yìshēng
- Say it: yìshēng, once more
- Say it: tā yìshēng dōu zài zhège xuéxiào gōngzuò — He worked at this school all his life.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for in one's early years, then the Mandarin for in one's later years, then say yìshēng again

Before you move on

What does 一生 mean? ("All one's life; a lifetime".) Say it once more.

322.5 huáiniàn — to cherish the memory of; to look back fondly on

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for in one's later years, then the Mandarin for all one's life.

You'll want to know: huáiniàn

huáiniàn — "to cherish the memory of; to look back fondly on".

wǒ hěn huáiniàn xiǎoshíhou de shēnghuó — I really miss my childhood days.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huáiniàn is built from huái and niàn, both inherited from Middle Chinese, hweaj and nemH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to hold to the breast' and 'to think of', and the second 'to think of'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: huáiniàn
- Say it: huáiniàn, once more
- Say it: wǒ hěn huáiniàn xiǎoshíhou de shēnghuó — I really miss my childhood days.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for in one's later years, then the Mandarin for all one's life, then say huáiniàn again

Before you move on

What does huáiniàn mean? ("To cherish the memory of; to look back fondly on".) Say it once more.

Chapter 323

Decades and Eras

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 3 of 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a teenager, a period, a decade, ancient times and modern times.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 323: I can talk about a teenager, a period, a decade, ancient times and modern times.

323.1 少年 (shàonián) — teenage boy; teenager

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for all one's life, then the Mandarin for to look back fondly on.

You'll want to know: 少年

少年 — shàonián — "teenage boy; teenager".

> 他十五岁的时候是一个快乐的少年 tā shíwǔ suì de shíhou shì yí ge kuàilè de shàonián — At fifteen he was a happy teenager.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 少年 (shàonián) is built from 少 'young' and 年 'a year', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syewH and nen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, in this falling tone, 'young'; in its rising tone, syewX, it is 'few'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shàonián
- Say it: shàonián, once more
- Say it: tā shíwǔ suì de shíhou shì yí ge kuàilè de shàonián — At fifteen he was a happy teenager.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for all one's life, then the Mandarin for to look back fondly on, then say shàonián again

Before you move on

What does 少年 mean? ("Teenage boy; teenager".) Say it once more.

323.2 时期 (shíqī) — period; phase

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to look back fondly on, then the Mandarin for a teenage boy.

You'll want to know: 时期

时期 — shíqī — "period; phase".

那个时期当地的人都没有手机 nàge shíqī dāngdì de rén dōu méiyǒu shǒujī — In that period nobody there had a mobile phone.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 时期 (shíqī) is built from 时 'a time' and 期 'a set time', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyi and gi (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to meet' and 'a limit'. Middle Chinese gi would regularly give a rising tone, qí; the level tone of qī is irregular.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shíqī
- Say it: shíqī, once more
- Say it: nàge shíqī dāngdì de rén dōu méiyǒu shǒujī — In that period nobody there had a mobile phone.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to look back fondly on, then the Mandarin for a teenage boy, then say shíqī again

Before you move on

What does 时期 mean? ("Period; phase".) Say it once more.

323.3 年代 (niándài) — decade; era

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a teenage boy, then the Mandarin for a period in history.

You'll want to know: 年代

年代 — niándài — "decade; era".

> 他八十年代去过中国 tā bāshí niándài qù guo Zhōngguó — He went to China in the eighties.

The new character, in pieces: 代 — five strokes: the person piece 亻 on the left; on the right a bar rising to the right, a long stroke that slants down to the right and flicks up, and a dot. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 年代 (niándài) is built from 年 'a year' and dài 'an age', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nen and dojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to take turns' and gives this very word as its example.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: niándài
- Say it: niándài, once more
- Say it: tā bāshí niándài qù guo Zhōngguó — He went to China in the eighties.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a teenage boy, then the Mandarin for a period in history, then say niándài again

Before you move on

What does 年代 mean? ("Decade; era".) Say it once more.

323.4 代 — the person piece, then a slanting hook

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say niándài — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

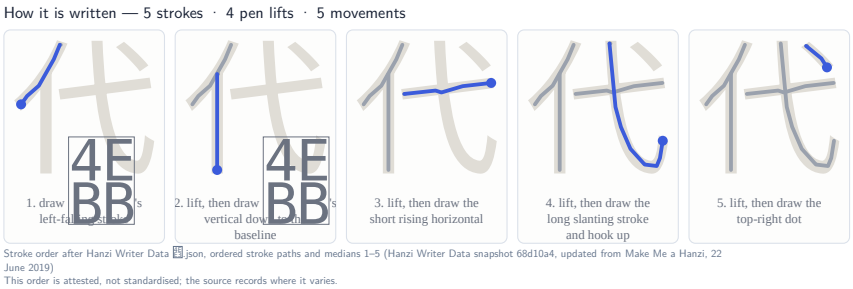
信 你

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — xìn, nǐ

Script — the person piece, then a slanting hook



How 代 is written, stroke by stroke

代

Two pieces, left before right.
The left piece, 亻, two strokes, as in 你 and 信.
The right piece, three strokes. A short bar that rises a little to the right. Then a long stroke from the top, crossing the bar and slanting down to the right, flicking up at the foot. Last, a dot at the top right.
2 + 3 = five.

Your turn

- Write it: 代, all five, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 代? (Five.) Which stroke flicks up at the foot? (The long slanting stroke, the fourth.) What comes last? (A dot at the top right.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 代, pinned stroke paths and medians.

323.5 古代 (gǔdài) — ancient times

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a period in history, then the Mandarin for a decade of a century.

You'll want to know: 古代

古代 — gǔdài — "ancient times".

我喜欢看古代的小说 wǒ xǐhuan kàn gǔdài de xiǎoshuō — I like reading novels from ancient times.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 古代 (gǔdài) is built from 古 'ancient' and 代 'an age', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kuX and dojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'former' and the second 'to take turns'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: gǔdài
- Say it: gǔdài, once more
- Say it: wǒ xǐhuan kàn gǔdài de xiǎoshuō — I like reading novels from ancient times.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a period in history, then the Mandarin for a decade of a century, then say gǔdài again

Before you move on

What does 古代 mean? ("Ancient times".) Say it once more.

323.6 现代 (xiàndài) — modern times; modern

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a decade of a century, then the Mandarin for ancient times.

You'll want to know: 现代

现代 — xiàndài — "modern times; modern".

现代的人都有手机 xiàndài de rén dōu yǒu shǒujī — Everyone has a mobile phone these days.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 现代 (xiàndài) is built from 现 'to appear, now' and 代 'an age', both inherited from Middle Chinese, henH and dojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to show'; the sense 'now' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xiàndài
- Say it: xiàndài, once more
- Say it: xiàndài de rén dōu yǒu shǒujī — Everyone has a mobile phone these days.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a decade of a century, then the Mandarin for ancient times, then say xiàndài again

Before you move on

What does 现代 mean? ("Modern times; modern".) Say it once more.

323.7 Looking back: from Letters from Far Away to Decades and Eras

Say the Mandarin for a pen pal and an envelope.

Your turn

- Say it: a pen pal, an envelope, a postcard, a reply to a letter, to pass on a message
- Say it: to return a call, confidence that it will work, an incoming call, to write to each other, phone charges
- Say it: to end a call, to dial a number, to get through on the phone, to bring up a subject, a voice message
- Say it: the history of a country, the people of long ago, an old book from long ago, age-old, a script for a language
- Say it: in those years long ago, in one's early years, in one's later years, all one's life, to look back fondly on

- Say it: a teenage boy, a period in history, a decade of a century, ancient times, modern times
- Read it: 信 古 代 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

A pen pal? (bǐyǒu.) An envelope? (xìnfēng.) A postcard? (míngxìnpiàn.) A reply to a letter? (回音, huíyīn.) To pass on a message? (zhuǎngào.) To return a call? (回电, huídiàn.) Confidence that it will work? (信心, xìnxīn.) An incoming call? (来电, láidiàn.) To write to each other? (tōngxìn.) Phone charges? (huàfèi.) To end a call? (guàduàn.) To dial a number? (bōdǎ.) To get through on the phone? (dǎtōng.) To bring up a subject? (说起, shuōqǐ.) A voice message? (语音, yǔyīn.) The history of a country? (lìshǐ.) The people of long ago? (古人, gǔrén.) An old book from long ago? (古书, gǔshū.) Age-old? (古老, gǔlǎo.) A script for a language? (文字, wénzì.) In those years long ago? (当年, dāngnián.) In one's early years? (早年, zǎonián.) In one's later years? (晚年, wǎnnián.) All one's life? (一生, yìshēng.) To look back fondly on? (huáiniàn.) A teenage boy? (少年, shàonián.) A period in history? (时期, shíqī.) A decade of a century? (年代, niándài.) Ancient times? (古代, gǔdài.) Modern times? (现代, xiàndài.)

Chapter 324

Remembering

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say something came back to me, honour someone's memory, leave something behind and talk about an era.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 324: I can say something came back to me, honour someone's memory, leave something behind and talk about an era.

324.1 想起 (xiǎngqǐ) — to think of; to call to mind

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for ancient times, then the Mandarin for modern times.

You'll want to know: 想起

想起 — xiǎngqǐ — "to think of; to call to mind".

> 我突然想起了他的信 wǒ tūrán xiǎngqǐ le tā de xìn — I suddenly remembered his letter.

Two third tones meet in this word: xiǎng is said with a rising tone before qǐ, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 想起 (xiǎngqǐ) is built from 想 'to think' and 起 'to rise', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sjangX and khiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to think' and the second 'to rise'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xiǎngqǐ
- Say it: xiǎngqǐ, once more
- Say it: wǒ tūrán xiǎngqǐ le tā de xìn — I suddenly remembered his letter.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for ancient times, then the Mandarin for modern times, then say xiǎngqǐ again

Before you move on

What does 想起 mean? ("To think of; to call to mind".) Say it once more.

324.2 jìniàn — to commemorate; to honour the memory of

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for modern times, then the Mandarin for to call to mind.

You'll want to know: jìniàn

jìniàn — "to commemorate; to honour the memory of".

měinián zhè yì tiān wǒmen dōu jìniàn tā — Every year on this day we remember him.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jìniàn is built from jì and niàn, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kiX and nemH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, among other senses, 'to note' and 'a span of twelve years', and the second 'to think of'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jìniàn
- Say it: jìniàn, once more
- Say it: měinián zhè yì tiān wǒmen dōu jìniàn tā — Every year on this day we remember him.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for modern times, then the Mandarin for to call to mind, then say jìniàn again

Before you move on

What does jìniàn mean? ("To commemorate; to honour the memory of".) Say it once more.

324.3 liúxià — to leave behind

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to call to mind, then the Mandarin for to honour the memory of.

You'll want to know: liúxià liúxià — "to leave behind".

yéye gěi wǒmen liúxià le yì běn gǔshū — Grandpa left us an old book.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of liúxià is built from liú 'to stay' and 下 'down', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ljuw and haeX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to stay' and 'to stop' and the second 'below'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: liúxià
- Say it: liúxià, once more
- Say it: yéye gěi wǒmen liúxià le yì běn gǔshū — Grandpa left us an old book.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to call to mind, then the Mandarin for to honour the memory of, then say liúxià again

Before you move on

What does liúxià mean? ("To leave behind".) Say it once more.

324.4 时代 (shídài) — era; age

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to honour the memory of, then the Mandarin for to leave behind for others.

You'll want to know: 时代

时代 — shídài — "era; age".

现在是手机的时代 xiànzài shì shǒujī de shídài — This is the age of the mobile phone.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 时代 (shídài) is built from 时 'a time' and 代 'an age', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyi and dojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first with another word for a time and the second 'to take turns'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shídài
- Say it: shídài, once more
- Say it: xiànzài shì shǒujī de shídài — This is the age of the mobile phone.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to honour the memory of, then the Mandarin for to leave behind for others, then say shídài again

Before you move on

What does 时代 mean? ("Era; age".) Say it once more.

324.5 yìnxiàng — impression

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to leave behind for others, then the Mandarin for an age in history.

You'll want to know: yìnxiàng

yìnxiàng — "impression".

wǒ duì nàge dìfang de yìnxiàng hěn hǎo — That place made a very good impression on me.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yìnxiàng is built from yìn 'a seal' and xiàng 'an image', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jinH and zjangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a seal' and describes the second as the long-nosed beast of the south. The sense 'an image' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: yìnxiàng
- Say it: yìnxiàng, once more
- Say it: wǒ duì nàge dìfang de yìnxiàng hěn hǎo — That place made a very good impression on me.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to leave behind for others, then the Mandarin for an age in history, then say yìnxiàng again

Before you move on

What does yìnxiàng mean? ("Impression".) Say it once more.

Chapter 325

Gone but Remembered

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can give an account of the past, say someone has died, and talk about descendants, generations and missing someone.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 325: I can give an account of the past, say someone has died, and talk about descendants, generations and missing someone.

325.1 jiǎngshù — to tell about; to give an account of

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an age in history, then the Mandarin for an impression left on you.

You'll want to know: jiǎngshù

jiǎngshù — "to tell about; to give an account of".

> tā gěi wǒmen jiǎngshù le nàge shíqī de shēnghuó — He told us what life was like in that period.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiǎngshù is built from jiǎng and shù, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaewngX and zywit (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to tell' and 'to discuss' and the second 'to set forth in writing'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jiǎngshù
- Say it: jiǎngshù, once more
- Say it: tā gěi wǒmen jiǎngshù le nàge shíqī de shēnghuó — He told us what life was like in that period.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an age in history, then the Mandarin for an impression left on you, then say jiǎngshù again

Before you move on

What does jiǎngshù mean? ("To tell about; to give an account of".) Say it once more.

325.2 去世 (qùshì) — to pass away

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an impression left on you, then the Mandarin for to give an account of.

You'll want to know: 去世

去世 — qùshì — "to pass away".

他的外公去年去世了 tā de wàigōng qùnián qùshì le — His grandfather died last year.

The new character, in pieces: 世 — five strokes: a long bar; two verticals through it; a short bar joining their feet; then a stroke down the left that turns right along the bottom. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 去世 (qùshì) is built from 去 'to leave' and 世 'the world', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khjoH and syejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to leave' and the second 'a generation'. The sense 'the world' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: qùshì
- Say it: qùshì, once more
- Say it: tā de wàigōng qùnián qùshì le — His grandfather died last year.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an impression left on you, then the Mandarin for to give an account of, then say qùshì again

Before you move on

What does 去世 mean? ("To pass away".) Say it once more.

325.3 世 — a long bar and two verticals

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say qùshì — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

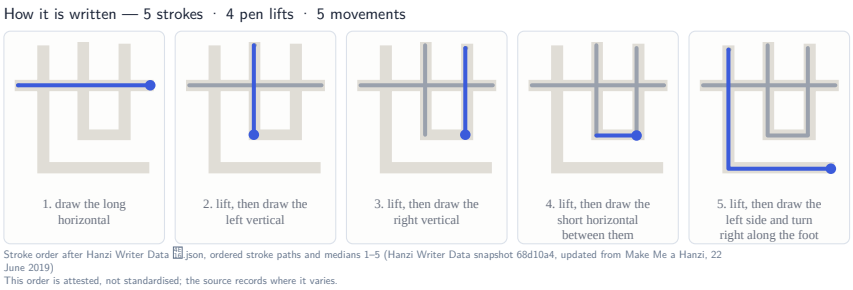
  十 去

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — shí, qù

Script — a long bar and two verticals



How 世 is written, stroke by stroke

世

One piece, five strokes.

First the long bar, from left to right.

Then two verticals through it, the left one first, each longer above the bar than below it.

Then a short bar joining the feet of the two verticals.

Last, the turning stroke: down the left side, then right along the bottom, under everything.

1 + 2 + 1 + 1 = five.

Your turn

- Write it: 世, all five, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 世? (Five.) What comes after the long bar? (Two verticals through it.) What is the last stroke? (One that runs down the left and turns right along the bottom.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 世, pinned stroke paths and medians.

325.4 后代 (hòudài) — descendants; later generations

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to give an account of, then the Mandarin for to pass away.

You'll want to know: 后代

后代 — hòudài — "descendants; later generations".

他的后代现在都在国外 tā de hòudài xiànzài dōu zài guówài — His descendants are all abroad now.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 后代 (hòudài) is built from 后 'after' and 代 'a generation', both inherited from Middle Chinese, huwX and dojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'before and after' and the second 'to take turns'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: hòudài
- Say it: hòudài, once more
- Say it: tā de hòudài xiànzài dōu zài guówài — His descendants are all abroad now.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to give an account of, then the Mandarin for to pass away, then say hòudài again

Before you move on

What does 后代 mean? ("Descendants; later generations".) Say it once more.

325.5 世代 (shìdài) — for generations

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to pass away, then the Mandarin for one's descendants.

You'll want to know: 世代

世代 — shìdài — "for generations".

他们家世代都是医生 tāmen jiā shìdài dōu shì yīshēng — Their family have been doctors for generations.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 世代 (shìdài) is built from 世 'a generation' and 代 'an age', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syejH and dojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first with the second: a generation.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shìdài
- Say it: shìdài, once more
- Say it: tāmen jiā shìdài dōu shì yīshēng — Their family have been doctors for generations.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to pass away, then the Mandarin for one's descendants, then say shìdài again

Before you move on

What does 世代 mean? ("For generations".) Say it once more.

325.6 xiǎngniàn — to miss someone

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for one's descendants, then the Mandarin for for generations on end.

You'll want to know: xiǎngniàn

xiǎngniàn — "to miss someone".

> wàigōng qùshì yǐhòu wǒ hěn xiǎngniàn tā — After my grandpa died I missed him very much.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiǎngniàn is built from 想 'to think' and niàn 'to think of', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sjangX and nemH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses both 'to think'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xiǎngniàn
- Say it: xiǎngniàn, once more
- Say it: wàigōng qùshì yǐhòu wǒ hěn xiǎngniàn tā — After my grandpa died I missed him very much.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for one's descendants, then the Mandarin for for generations on end, then say xiǎngniàn again

Before you move on

What does xiǎngniàn mean? ("To miss someone".) Say it once more.

Chapter 326

Around the World

Modes: voice (4) eyes (1) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about countries, the world, the outside world, founding something and old civilizations.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 326: I can talk about countries, the world, the outside world, founding something and old civilizations.

326.1 国家 (guójiā) — country; nation

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for for generations on end, then the Mandarin for to miss someone dearly.

You'll want to know: 国家

国家 — guójiā — "country; nation".

> 我去过三个国家 wǒ qù guo sān ge guójiā — I've been to three countries.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 国家 (guójiā) is built from 国 'a state' and 家 'a home', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwok and kae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a realm' and the second 'a dwelling'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: guójiā
- Say it: guójiā, once more
- Say it: wǒ qù guo sān ge guójiā — I've been to three countries.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for for generations on end, then the Mandarin for to miss someone dearly, then say guójiā again

Before you move on

What does 国家 mean? ("Country; nation".) Say it once more.

326.2 世界 (shìjiè) — world

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to miss someone dearly, then the Mandarin for a nation with its own government.

You'll want to know: 世界

世界 — shìjiè — "world".

我想去看世界 wǒ xiǎng qù kàn shìjiè — I want to go and see the world.

The new character, in pieces: 界 — nine strokes: on top a field, a box of five strokes cut into four; under it 人 opened wide, and under that a short stroke falling to the left and a vertical. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 世界 (shìjiè) is built from 世 'a generation' and jiè 'a boundary', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syejH and keajH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a generation' and the second 'a border' and 'an edge'. The sense 'the world' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shìjiè
- Say it: shìjiè, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiǎng qù kàn shìjiè — I want to go and see the world.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to miss someone dearly, then the Mandarin for a nation with its own government, then say shìjiè again

Before you move on

What does 世界 mean? ("World".) Say it once more.

326.3 界 — a field over 人

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say shìjiè — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

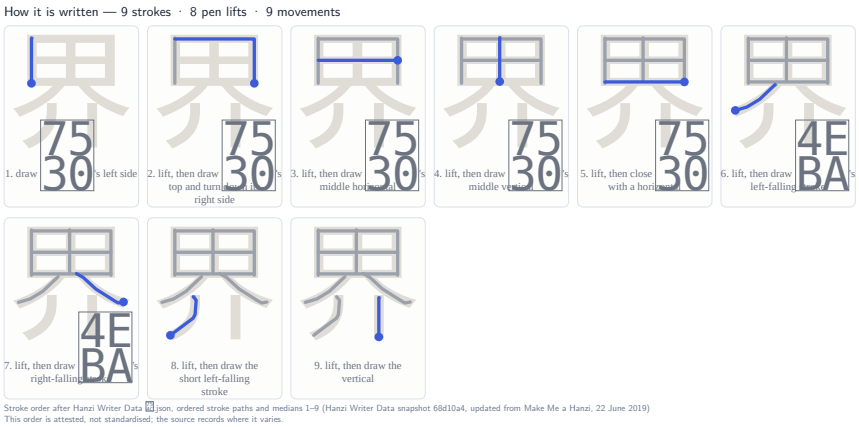
人 世

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — rén, shì

Script — a field over 人



How 界 is written, stroke by stroke

界

Two pieces, top to bottom.

The top piece, a field, five strokes. A short vertical on the left. A bar that runs right and turns down. A bar across the middle, then a vertical down the middle. Then the bar that closes the foot.

The bottom piece, four strokes. First 人, opened wide: a long stroke falling to the left, then a long stroke falling to the right. Under them, a short stroke that falls to the left, and a vertical on the right.

5 + 4 = nine.

Your turn

- Write it: 界, all nine, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 界? (Nine.) What is on top? (A field, five strokes.) What opens the bottom piece? (人.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 界, pinned stroke paths and medians.

326.4 外界 (wàijiè) — the outside world

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a nation with its own government, then the Mandarin for the whole wide world.

You'll want to know: 外界

外界 — wàijiè — "the outside world".

外界都很关心他的病 wàijiè dōu hěn guānxīn tā de bìng — People everywhere are concerned about his illness.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 外界 (wàijiè) is built from 外 'outside' and 界 'a boundary', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngwajH and keajH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'outside' and 'far' and the second 'a border'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: wàijiè
- Say it: wàijiè, once more
- Say it: wàijiè dōu hěn guānxīn tā de bìng — People everywhere are concerned about his illness.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a nation with its own government, then the Mandarin for the whole wide world, then say wàijiè again

Before you move on

What does 外界 mean? ("The outside world".) Say it once more.

326.5 jiànlì — to found; to set up

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the whole wide world, then the Mandarin for the outside world.

You'll want to know: jiànlì

jiànlì — "to found; to set up".

> tāmen yìbǎi nián qián jiànlì le zhège xuéxiào — They founded this school a hundred years ago.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiànlì is built from jiàn and lì, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjonH and lip (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to set up' and 'to plant', and the second 'to stand' and 'to complete'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jiànlì
- Say it: jiànlì, once more
- Say it: tāmen yìbǎi nián qián jiànlì le zhège xuéxiào — They founded this school a hundred years ago.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the whole wide world, then the Mandarin for the outside world, then say jiànlì again

Before you move on

What does jiànlì mean? ("To found; to set up".) Say it once more.

326.6 文明 (wénmíng) — civilization

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the outside world, then the Mandarin for to found something new.

You'll want to know: 文明

文明 — wénmíng — "civilization".

> 中国有很古老的文明 Zhōngguó yǒu hěn gǔlǎo de wénmíng — China has a very ancient civilization.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 文明 (wénmíng) is built from 文 'writing' and 明 'bright', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjun and mjaeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'writing' and 'beautiful' and the second 'light'. The sense 'civilization' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: wénmíng
- Say it: wénmíng, once more
- Say it: Zhōngguó yǒu hěn gǔlǎo de wénmíng — China has a very ancient civilization.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the outside world, then the Mandarin for to found something new, then say wénmíng again

Before you move on

What does 文明 mean? ("Civilization".) Say it once more.

Chapter 327

Heroes and Emperors

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about famous people, heroes and emperors, and say two countries went to war.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 327: I can talk about famous people, heroes and emperors, and say two countries went to war.

327.1 名人 (míngrén) — famous person; well-known figure

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to found something new, then the Mandarin for an ancient civilization.

You'll want to know: 名人

名人 — míngrén — "famous person; well-known figure".

> 他是一个世界名人 tā shì yí ge shìjiè míngrén — He's famous all over the world.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 名人 (míngrén) is built from 名 'a name' and 人 'a person', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjieng and nyin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a name'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: míngrén
- Say it: míngrén, once more
- Say it: tā shì yí ge shìjiè míngrén — He's famous all over the world.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to found something new, then the Mandarin for an ancient civilization, then say míngrén again

Before you move on

What does 名人 mean? ("Famous person; well-known figure".) Say it once more.

327.2 yīngxióng — hero

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an ancient civilization, then the Mandarin for a famous person.

You'll want to know: yīngxióng

yīngxióng — "hero".

wǒ bàba shì wǒ de yīngxióng — My dad is my hero.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yīngxióng is built from yīng and xióng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jaeng and hjuwng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a flower' and 'outstanding', and the second 'male' as against female.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: yīngxióng
- Say it: yīngxióng, once more
- Say it: wǒ bàba shì wǒ de yīngxióng — My dad is my hero.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an ancient civilization, then the Mandarin for a famous person, then say yīngxióng again

Before you move on

What does yīngxióng mean? ("Hero".) Say it once more.

327.3 huángdì — emperor

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a famous person, then the Mandarin for a hero.

You'll want to know: huángdì

huángdì — "emperor".

tā shí suì de shíhou dāng le huángdì — He became emperor when he was ten.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huángdì is built from huáng and dì, both inherited from Middle Chinese, hwang and tejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a sovereign' and 'great', and calls the second the title of one who rules all under heaven.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: huángdì
- Say it: huángdì, once more
- Say it: tā shí suì de shíhou dāng le huángdì — He became emperor when he was ten.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a famous person, then the Mandarin for a hero, then say huángdì again

Before you move on

What does huángdì mean? ("Emperor".) Say it once more.

327.4 dǎzhàng — to fight a war; to go into battle

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a hero, then the Mandarin for an emperor.

You'll want to know: dǎzhàng

dǎzhàng — "to fight a war; to go into battle".

gǔdài de shíhou zhè liǎng ge guójiā chángcháng dǎzhàng — In ancient times these two countries were often at war.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dǎzhàng is built from 打 'to strike' and zhàng 'weapons', both inherited from Middle Chinese, taengX and drjangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to hit' and the second 'arms'. Middle Chinese taengX would not regularly give dǎ.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: dǎzhàng
- Say it: dǎzhàng, once more
- Say it: gǔdài de shíhou zhè liǎng ge guójiā chángcháng dǎzhàng — In ancient times these two countries were often at war.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a hero, then the Mandarin for an emperor, then say dǎzhàng again

Before you move on

What does dǎzhàng mean? ("To fight a war; to go into battle".) Say it once more.

327.5 zhànzhēng — war

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an emperor, then the Mandarin for to go into battle.

You'll want to know: zhànzhēng

zhànzhēng — "war".

> zhànzhēng de shíhou yéye hái shì yí ge shàonián — During the war my grandpa was still a teenager.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhànzhēng is built from zhàn and zhēng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyenH and tsreang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to fear' and the second 'to compete'. The sense 'to fight' for the first is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zhànzhēng
- Say it: zhànzhēng, once more
- Say it: zhànzhēng de shíhou yéye hái shì yí ge shàonián — During the war my grandpa was still a teenager.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an emperor, then the Mandarin for to go into battle, then say zhànzhēng again

Before you move on

What does zhànzhēng mean? ("War".) Say it once more.

Chapter 328

A Legend

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about myths and legends, say a story was handed down, name a dragon and carry messages.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 328: I can talk about myths and legends, say a story was handed down, name a dragon and carry messages.

328.1 shénhuà — myth

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to go into battle, then the Mandarin for a war between countries.

You'll want to know: shénhuà

shénhuà — "myth".

> wǒ xiǎoshíhou tīng guo yí ge shénhuà — When I was little I heard a myth.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shénhuà is built from shén 'a god' and 话 'talk', both inherited from Middle Chinese, zyin and hwaejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a spirit' and the second 'talk'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shénhuà
- Say it: shénhuà, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiǎoshíhou tīng guo yí ge shénhuà — When I was little I heard a myth.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to go into battle, then the Mandarin for a war between countries, then say shénhuà again

Before you move on

What does shénhuà mean? ("Myth".) Say it once more.

328.2 传说 (chuánshuō) — legend; folk tale

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a war between countries, then the Mandarin for a myth about the gods.

You'll want to know: 传说

传说 — chuánshuō — "legend; folk tale".

zhège dìfang yǒu yí ge gǔlǎo de chuánshuō — This place has an old legend.

The new character, in pieces: 传 — six strokes: the person piece 亻 on the left; on the right two bars, a stroke that runs down, turns right and sweeps down to the left, and a dot. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 传说 (chuánshuō) is built from 传 'to pass on' and 说 'to tell', both inherited from Middle Chinese, drjwen and sywet (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to turn over, to pass along' and the second 'to tell'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: chuánshuō
- Say it: chuánshuō, once more
- Say it: zhège dìfang yǒu yí ge gǔlǎo de chuánshuō — This place has an old legend.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a war between countries, then the Mandarin for a myth about the gods, then say chuánshuō again

Before you move on

What does 传说 mean? ("Legend; folk tale".) Say it once more.

328.3 传 — the person piece, then two bars and a turning sweep

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say chuánshuō — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

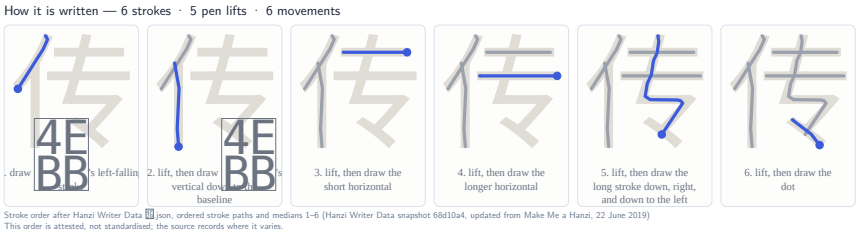
  代 说

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — dài, shuō

Script — the person piece, then two bars and a turning sweep



How 传 is written, stroke by stroke

传

Two pieces, left before right.
The left piece, 亻, two strokes, as in 代.
The right piece, four strokes. A short bar, then a longer bar under it. Then one stroke that starts above the bars, runs down through them, turns right, and sweeps down to the left. Last, a dot at the foot.
2 + 4 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 传, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 传? (Six.) What is the left piece? (亻.) What comes last? (A dot at the foot.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 传, pinned stroke paths and medians.

328.4 liúchuán — to be handed down; to spread

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a myth about the gods, then the Mandarin for an old folk tale.

You'll want to know: liúchuán

liúchuán — "to be handed down; to spread".

> zhège chuánshuō liúchuán le yìqiān nián — This legend has been handed down for a thousand years.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of liúchuán is built from liú 'to flow' and 传 'to pass on', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ljuw and drjwen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, quoting an older dictionary, 'water moving'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: liúchuán
- Say it: liúchuán, once more
- Say it: zhège chuánshuō liúchuán le yìqiān nián — This legend has been handed down for a thousand years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a myth about the gods, then the Mandarin for an old folk tale, then say liúchuán again

Before you move on

What does liúchuán mean? ("To be handed down; to spread".) Say it once more.

328.5 lóng — dragon

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an old folk tale, then the Mandarin for to be handed down over time.

You'll want to know: lóng

lóng — "dragon".

> chuánshuō lǐ lóng zhù zài shuǐ lǐ — In legends, dragons live in water.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of lóng is inherited from Middle Chinese ljowng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which calls it the chief of the scaly creatures and quotes an older book: clouds follow the dragon.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: lóng
- Say it: lóng, once more
- Say it: chuánshuō lǐ lóng zhù zài shuǐ lǐ — In legends, dragons live in water.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an old folk tale, then the Mandarin for to be handed down over time, then say lóng again

Before you move on

What does lóng mean? ("Dragon".) Say it once more.

328.6 传话 (chuánhuà) — to carry messages between people

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be handed down over time, then the Mandarin for a dragon.

You'll want to know: 传话

传话 — chuánhuà — "to carry messages between people".

> 他们两个人不说话他在中间传话 tāmen liǎng ge rén bù shuōhuà tā zài zhōngjiān chuánhuà — Those two aren't speaking, so he carries messages between them.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 传话 (chuánhuà) is built from 传 'to pass on' and 话 'words', both inherited from Middle Chinese, drjwen and hwaejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'talk'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: chuánhuà
- Say it: chuánhuà, once more
- Say it: tāmen liǎng ge rén bù shuōhuà tā zài zhōngjiān chuánhuà — Those two aren't speaking, so he carries messages between them.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be handed down over time, then the Mandarin for a dragon, then say chuánhuà again

Before you move on

What does 传话 mean? ("To carry messages between people".) Say it once more.

Chapter 329

Once upon a Time

Modes: voice (6) Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about fairy tales, a princess and a fairy, say someone vanished, and talk about how a story ends.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 329: I can talk about fairy tales, a princess and a fairy, say someone vanished, and talk about how a story ends.

329.1 tónghuà — fairy tale

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a dragon, then the Mandarin for to carry messages between people.

You'll want to know: tónghuà

tónghuà — "fairy tale".

> xiǎoshíhou māma měitiān wǎnshang gěi wǒ dú tónghuà — When I was little, my mum read me a fairy tale every evening.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tónghuà is built from tóng 'a child' and 话 'talk', both inherited from Middle Chinese, duwng and hwaejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which says of the first that it means a child not yet married.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: tónghuà
- Say it: tónghuà, once more
- Say it: xiǎoshíhou māma měitiān wǎnshang gěi wǒ dú tónghuà — When I was little, my mum read me a fairy tale every evening.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a dragon, then the Mandarin for to carry messages between people, then say tónghuà again

Before you move on

What does tónghuà mean? ("Fairy tale".) Say it once more.

329.2 gōngzhǔ — princess

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to carry messages between people, then the Mandarin for a fairy tale for children.

You'll want to know: gōngzhǔ

gōngzhǔ — "princess".

cóngqián yǒu yí ge hěn piàoliang de gōngzhǔ — Once upon a time there was a very beautiful princess.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gōngzhǔ is built from 公 and zhǔ, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kuwng and tsyuX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a father' and 'an official' and the second 'to be in charge' and 'a lord'. How the pair came to mean a princess is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: gōngzhǔ
- Say it: gōngzhǔ, once more
- Say it: cóngqián yǒu yí ge hěn piàoliang de gōngzhǔ — Once upon a time there was a very beautiful princess.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to carry messages between people, then the Mandarin for a fairy tale for children, then say gōngzhǔ again

Before you move on

What does gōngzhǔ mean? ("Princess".) Say it once more.

329.3 xiānnǚ — fairy; heavenly maiden

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a fairy tale for children, then the Mandarin for a princess in a story.

You'll want to know: xiānnǚ

xiānnǚ — "fairy; heavenly maiden".

chuánshuō lǐ yǒu qī ge xiānnǚ — In the legend there are seven fairies.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiānnǚ is built from xiān 'an immortal' and 女 'a woman', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sjen and nrjoX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which says of the first that one who grows old and does not die is called so.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xiānnǚ
- Say it: xiānnǚ, once more
- Say it: chuánshuō lǐ yǒu qī ge xiānnǚ — In the legend there are seven fairies.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a fairy tale for children, then the Mandarin for a princess in a story, then say xiānnǚ again

Before you move on

What does xiānnǚ mean? ("Fairy; heavenly maiden".) Say it once more.

329.4 xiāoshī — to disappear; to vanish

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a princess in a story, then the Mandarin for a heavenly maiden.

You'll want to know: xiāoshī

xiāoshī — "to disappear; to vanish".

dì'èr tiān zǎoshang nàge xiānnǚ tūrán xiāoshī le — The next morning the fairy suddenly vanished.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiāoshī is built from xiāo and shī, both inherited from Middle Chinese, sjew and syit (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to die out' and 'to be used up', and the second 'to err' and 'to let go'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xiāoshī
- Say it: xiāoshī, once more
- Say it: dì'èr tiān zǎoshang nàge xiānnǚ tūrán xiāoshī le — The next morning the fairy suddenly vanished.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a princess in a story, then the Mandarin for a heavenly maiden, then say xiāoshī again

Before you move on

What does xiāoshī mean? ("To disappear; to vanish".) Say it once more.

329.5 jiéjú — ending

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a heavenly maiden, then the Mandarin for to vanish without a trace.

You'll want to know: jiéjú

jiéjú — "ending".

kàn le jiéjú yǐhòu wǒ kū le — I cried after reading the ending.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiéjú is built from jié 'to tie' and jú, both inherited from Middle Chinese, ket and gjowk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to tie' and the second 'an office' and 'a portion'. How the pair came to mean an ending is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jiéjú
- Say it: jiéjú, once more
- Say it: kàn le jiéjú yǐhòu wǒ kū le — I cried after reading the ending.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a heavenly maiden, then the Mandarin for to vanish without a trace, then say jiéjú again

Before you move on

What does jiéjú mean? ("Ending".) Say it once more.

329.6 Looking back: from Remembering to Once upon a Time

Say the Mandarin for to call to mind and to honour the memory of.

Your turn

- Say it: to call to mind, to honour the memory of, to leave behind for others, an age in history, an impression left on you
- Say it: to give an account of, to pass away, one's descendants, for generations on end, to miss someone dearly
- Say it: a nation with its own government, the whole wide world, the outside world, to found something new, an ancient civilization
- Say it: a famous person, a hero, an emperor, to go into battle, a war between countries
- Say it: a myth about the gods, an old folk tale, to be handed down over time, a dragon, to carry messages between people

- Say it: a fairy tale for children, a princess in a story, a heavenly maiden, to vanish without a trace, the ending of a story
- Read it: 世 界 传 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

To call to mind? (想起, xiǎngqǐ.) To honour the memory of? (jìniàn.) To leave behind for others? (liúxià.) An age in history? (时代, shídài.) An impression left on you? (yìnxiàng.) To give an account of? (jiǎngshù.) To pass away? (去世, qùshì.) One's descendants? (后代, hòudài.) For generations on end? (世代, shìdài.) To miss someone dearly? (xiǎngniàn.) A nation with its own government? (国家, guójiā.) The whole wide world? (世界, shìjiè.) The outside world? (外界, wàijiè.) To found something new? (jiànlì.) An ancient civilization? (文明, wénmíng.) A famous person? (名人, míngrén.) A hero? (yīngxióng.) An emperor? (huángdì.) To go into battle? (dǎzhàng.) A war between countries? (zhànzhēng.) A myth about the gods? (shénhuà.) An old folk tale? (传说, chuánshuō.) To be handed down over time? (liúchuán.) A dragon? (lóng.) To carry messages between people? (传话, chuánhuà.) A fairy tale for children? (tónghuà.) A princess in a story? (gōngzhǔ.) A heavenly maiden? (xiānnǚ.) To vanish without a trace? (xiāoshī.) The ending of a story? (jiéjú.)

Chapter 330

The King's Son

Modes: voice (4) eyes (1) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a king, a queen, a prince and a kingdom, and say someone took over from a parent.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 330: I can talk about a king, a queen, a prince and a kingdom, and say someone took over from a parent.

330.1 jìchéng — to inherit; to take over (from a parent)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to vanish without a trace, then the Mandarin for the ending of a story.

You'll want to know: jìchéng

jìchéng — "to inherit; to take over (from a parent)".

> tā èrshí suì de shíhou jìchéng le tā bàba de shūdiàn — When he was twenty he took over his father's bookshop.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jìchéng is built from jì and chéng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kejH and dzying (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to carry on' and the second 'to receive'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jìchéng
- Say it: jìchéng, once more
- Say it: tā èrshí suì de shíhou jìchéng le tā bàba de shūdiàn — When he was twenty he took over his father's bookshop.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to vanish without a trace, then the Mandarin for the ending of a story, then say jìchéng again

Before you move on

What does jìchéng mean? ("To inherit; to take over (from a parent)".) Say it once more.

330.2 王子 (wángzǐ) — prince

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the ending of a story, then the Mandarin for to inherit the family business.

You'll want to know: 王子

王子 — wángzǐ — "prince".

王子一个人走了很长的路 wángzǐ yí ge rén zǒu le hěn cháng de lù — The prince walked a long way on his own.

The new character, in pieces: 王 — four strokes: three bars, the middle one the shortest and the bottom one the longest, with a vertical through the middle. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 王子 (wángzǐ) is built from 王 'a king' and 子 'a son', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hjwang and tsiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'great' and 'a ruler' and the second 'a child'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: wángzǐ
- Say it: wángzǐ, once more
- Say it: wángzǐ yí ge rén zǒu le hěn cháng de lù — The prince walked a long way on his own.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the ending of a story, then the Mandarin for to inherit the family business, then say wángzǐ again

Before you move on

What does 王子 mean? ("Prince".) Say it once more.

330.3 王 — two bars, a vertical, a long bar

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say wángzǐ — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

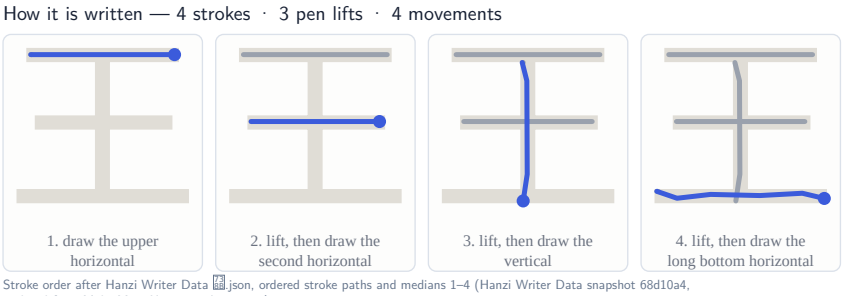
三 国

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — sān, guó

Script — two bars, a vertical, a long bar



How 王 is written, stroke by stroke

王

One piece, four strokes.

Two bars first, the top one, then a shorter one in the middle.

Then the vertical, from the top bar down through the middle one to the foot.

Last, the longest bar, along the foot, closing the vertical.

2 + 1 + 1 = four.

Your turn

- Write it: 王, all four, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 王? (Four.) Which bar is the longest? (The last, at the foot.) Does the vertical come before or after the last bar? (Before.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 王, pinned stroke paths and medians.

330.4 国王 (guówáng) — king

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to inherit the family business, then the Mandarin for a prince.

You'll want to know: 国王

国王 — guówáng — "king".

> 传说里有一个很老的国王 chuánshuō lǐ yǒu yí ge hěn lǎo de guówáng — In the legend there is a very old king.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 国王 (guówáng) is built from 国 'a state' and 王 'a ruler', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwok and hjwang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'great' and 'a ruler'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: guówáng
- Say it: guówáng, once more
- Say it: chuánshuō lǐ yǒu yí ge hěn lǎo de guówáng — In the legend there is a very old king.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to inherit the family business, then the Mandarin for a prince, then say guówáng again

Before you move on

What does 国王 mean? ("King".) Say it once more.

330.5 王后 (wánghòu) — queen (a king's wife)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a prince, then the Mandarin for a king in a story.

You'll want to know: 王后

王后 — wánghòu — "queen (a king's wife)".

> 国王和王后有一个女儿 guówáng hé wánghòu yǒu yí ge nǚ'ér — The king and queen had a daughter.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 王后 (wánghòu) is built from 王 'a king' and hòu 'a queen', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hjwang and huwH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which lists the second under both huwX and huwH, 'a sovereign', and under huwH also 'an empress'. This hòu is a different word from the 后 of 后来, whose older form the dictionary lists under huwX, 'before and after'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: wánghòu
- Say it: wánghòu, once more
- Say it: guówáng hé wánghòu yǒu yí ge nǚ'ér — The king and queen had a daughter.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a prince, then the Mandarin for a king in a story, then say wánghòu again

Before you move on

What does 王后 mean? ("Queen (a king's wife)".) Say it once more.

330.6 王国 (wángguó) — kingdom

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a king in a story, then the Mandarin for a king's wife.

You'll want to know: 王国

王国 — wángguó — "kingdom".

王子离开了他的王国去看外边的世界 wángzǐ líkāi le tā de wángguó qù kàn wàibian de shìjiè — The prince left his kingdom to go and see the world outside.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 王国 (wángguó) is built from 王 'a king' and 国 'a state', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hjwang and kwok (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a realm'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: wángguó
- Say it: wángguó, once more
- Say it: wángzǐ líkāi le tā de wángguó qù kàn wàibian de shìjiè — The prince left his kingdom to go and see the world outside.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a king in a story, then the Mandarin for a king's wife, then say wángguó again

Before you move on

What does 王国 mean? ("Kingdom".) Say it once more.

Chapter 331

Monsters and Treasure

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about monsters, immortals, magic and treasure, and say people hid.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 331: I can talk about monsters, immortals, magic and treasure, and say people hid.

331.1 yāoguài — monster; demon

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a king's wife, then the Mandarin for a kingdom ruled by a king.

You'll want to know: yāoguài

yāoguài — "monster; demon".

> chuánshuō shān lǐ yǒu yí ge yāoguài — Legend says there's a monster in the mountains.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yāoguài is built from yāo and guài 'strange', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jew and kweajH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'bewitching' and the second 'strange'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: yāoguài
- Say it: yāoguài, once more
- Say it: chuánshuō shān lǐ yǒu yí ge yāoguài — Legend says there's a monster in the mountains.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a king's wife, then the Mandarin for a kingdom ruled by a king, then say yāoguài again

Before you move on

What does yāoguài mean? ("Monster; demon".) Say it once more.

331.2 shénxiān — immortal; supernatural being

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a kingdom ruled by a king, then the Mandarin for a monster in a story.

You'll want to know: shénxiān

shénxiān — "immortal; supernatural being".

zuìhòu yí ge shénxiān bāng le tā — In the end an immortal helped him.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shénxiān is built from shén 'a god' and xiān 'an immortal', both inherited from Middle Chinese, zyin and sjen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a spirit' and says of the second that one who grows old and does not die is called so.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shénxiān
- Say it: shénxiān, once more
- Say it: zuìhòu yí ge shénxiān bāng le tā — In the end an immortal helped him.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a kingdom ruled by a king, then the Mandarin for a monster in a story, then say shénxiān again

Before you move on

What does shénxiān mean? ("Immortal; supernatural being".) Say it once more.

331.3 mófǎ — magic

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a monster in a story, then the Mandarin for a Daoist immortal.

You'll want to know: mófǎ

mófǎ — "magic".

nàge shénxiān huì mófǎ — That immortal can do magic.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

mófǎ is built from mó 'a demon' and fǎ 'a method', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ma and pjop (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a demon' and the second 'a rule' and 'a norm'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: mófǎ
- Say it: mófǎ, once more
- Say it: nàge shénxiān huì mófǎ — That immortal can do magic.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a monster in a story, then the Mandarin for a Daoist immortal, then say mófǎ again

Before you move on

What does mófǎ mean? ("Magic".) Say it once more.

331.4 bǎowù — treasure

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a Daoist immortal, then the Mandarin for magic in a fairy tale.

You'll want to know: bǎowù

bǎowù — "treasure".

tā zài shān lǐ zhǎodào le yí ge bǎowù — He found a treasure in the mountains.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

bǎowù is built from bǎo 'precious' and wù 'a thing', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pawX and mjut (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a treasure' and the second 'all things'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: bǎowù
- Say it: bǎowù, once more
- Say it: tā zài shān lǐ zhǎodào le yí ge bǎowù — He found a treasure in the mountains.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a Daoist immortal, then the Mandarin for magic in a fairy tale, then say bǎowù again

Before you move on

What does bǎowù mean? ("Treasure".) Say it once more.

331.5 cáng — to hide

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for magic in a fairy tale, then the Mandarin for a precious treasure.

You'll want to know: cáng

cáng — "to hide".

> yāoguài lái de shíhou tāmen dōu cáng zài mén hòubian — When the monster came, they all hid behind the door.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of cáng is inherited from Middle Chinese dzang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it 'to conceal' and 'to keep out of sight'. The dictionary also lists dzangH, 'a storehouse', a different word.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: cáng
- Say it: cáng, once more
- Say it: yāoguài lái de shíhou tāmen dōu cáng zài mén hòubian — When the monster came, they all hid behind the door.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for magic in a fairy tale, then the Mandarin for a precious treasure, then say cáng again

Before you move on

What does cáng mean? ("To hide".) Say it once more.

Chapter 332

Ghost Stories

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about courage, ghosts and a haunted house, curse my luck and talk about the world of the living.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 332: I can talk about courage, ghosts and a haunted house, curse my luck and talk about the world of the living.

332.1 dǎnzi — courage; nerve

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a precious treasure, then the Mandarin for to hide away.

You'll want to know: dǎnzi

dǎnzi — "courage; nerve".

> xiǎoshíhou wǒ de dǎnzi hěn xiǎo — When I was little I was very timid.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

dǎnzi is built from dǎn 'the gall' and 子, here a light noun ending, both inherited from Middle Chinese, tamX and tsiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which pairs the first with the liver.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: dǎnzi
- Say it: dǎnzi, once more
- Say it: xiǎoshíhou wǒ de dǎnzi hěn xiǎo — When I was little I was very timid.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a precious treasure, then the Mandarin for to hide away, then say dǎnzi again

Before you move on

What does dǎnzi mean? ("Courage; nerve".) Say it once more.

332.2 鬼 (guǐ) — ghost

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to hide away, then the Mandarin for the nerve to face danger.

You'll want to know: 鬼

鬼 — guǐ — "ghost".

那个房子里有鬼 nàge fángzi lǐ yǒu guǐ — There's a ghost in that house.

The new character, in pieces: 鬼 — nine strokes: a short stroke falling left over a box with a bar inside; from the box two long strokes, one falling to the left, one bending right along the foot and hooking up; and on the right a small turning stroke and a dot. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 鬼 (guǐ) is inherited from Middle Chinese kjw+jX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which explains the word by one of like sound, 'to return home'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: guǐ
- Say it: guǐ, once more
- Say it: nàge fángzi lǐ yǒu guǐ — There's a ghost in that house.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to hide away, then the Mandarin for the nerve to face danger, then say guǐ again

Before you move on

What does 鬼 mean? ("Ghost".) Say it once more.

332.3 鬼 — a box with long legs

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say guǐ — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  口 儿

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — kǒu, ér

Script — a box with long legs

How 鬼 is written, stroke by stroke

鬼

Three pieces: the box, then the legs, then the small piece on the right.

The box, five strokes. A short stroke falling to the left on top. Then a short vertical on the left, a bar that runs right and turns down, a bar across the middle, and the bar that closes the foot.

The legs, two strokes. A long stroke that starts at the top of the box, runs down through its middle and falls away to the left. Then a stroke that runs down, bends right along the foot and hooks up at the end.

The small piece, two strokes, inside the bend on the right: a short stroke that falls to the left and turns right, then a dot.

5 + 2 + 2 = nine.

Your turn

- Write it: 鬼, all nine, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 鬼? (Nine.) How many pieces? (Three: the box, the legs, the small piece.) Which stroke hooks up? (The seventh, along the foot.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 鬼, pinned stroke paths and medians.

332.4 nàoguǐ — to be haunted

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the nerve to face danger, then the Mandarin for a ghost in a story.

You'll want to know: nàoguǐ

nàoguǐ — "to be haunted".

dàjiā dōu shuō nàge fángzi nàoguǐ — Everyone says that house is haunted.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of nàoguǐ is built from nào 'to make a din' and 鬼 'a ghost', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nraewH and kjw+jX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'not quiet' and 'to disturb'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: nàoguǐ
- Say it: nàoguǐ, once more
- Say it: dàjiā dōu shuō nàge fángzi nàoguǐ — Everyone says that house is haunted.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the nerve to face danger, then the Mandarin for a ghost in a story, then say nàoguǐ again

Before you move on

What does nàoguǐ mean? ("To be haunted".) Say it once more.

332.5 见鬼 (jiànguǐ) — how absurd; curse it

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a ghost in a story, then the Mandarin for to be haunted by a ghost.

You'll want to know: 见鬼

见鬼 — jiànguǐ — "how absurd; curse it".

见鬼了我的手机不见了 jiànguǐ le wǒ de shǒujī bú jiàn le — What on earth? My phone's gone!

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 见鬼 (jiànguǐ) is built from 见 'to see' and 鬼 'a ghost', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kenH and kjw+jX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to look'. The exclamation is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jiànguǐ
- Say it: jiànguǐ, once more
- Say it: jiànguǐ le wǒ de shǒujī bú jiàn le — What on earth? My phone's gone!
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a ghost in a story, then the Mandarin for to be haunted by a ghost, then say jiànguǐ again

Before you move on

What does 见鬼 mean? ("How absurd; curse it".) Say it once more.

332.6 人间 (rénjiān) — the human world

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be haunted by a ghost, then the Mandarin for how absurd.

You'll want to know: 人间

人间 — rénjiān — "the human world".

传说七月的时候鬼会来人间 chuánshuō qīyuè de shíhou guǐ huì lái rénjiān — Legend says that in the seventh month ghosts come into the world of the living.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 人间 (rénjiān) is built from 人 'people' and 间 'between', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyin and kean (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the dictionary lists the second under an older form of the character and glosses it 'a gap'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: rénjiān
- Say it: rénjiān, once more
- Say it: chuánshuō qīyuè de shíhou guǐ huì lái rénjiān — Legend says that in the seventh month ghosts come into the world of the living.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be haunted by a ghost, then the Mandarin for how absurd, then say rénjiān again

Before you move on

What does 人间 mean? ("The human world".) Say it once more.

Chapter 333

New Year's Eve

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about New Year's Eve, the gala on TV, the reunion dinner, staying up and New Year visits.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 333: I can talk about New Year's Eve, the gala on TV, the reunion dinner, staying up and New Year visits.

333.1 春晚 (Chūnwǎn) — the Spring Festival Gala

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for how absurd, then the Mandarin for the human world below.

You'll want to know: 春晚

春晚 — Chūnwǎn — "the Spring Festival Gala".

> 每年春节我们都在家看春晚 měinián Chūnjié wǒmen dōu zài jiā kàn Chūnwǎn — Every lunar new year we have the gala on at home.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 春晚 (Chūnwǎn) is built from 春 'spring' and 晚 'evening', a short form of the longer name of the Spring Festival evening show. Both are inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyhwin and mjonX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which calls the first the first of the four seasons and glosses the second 'dusk'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: Chūnwǎn
- Say it: Chūnwǎn, once more
- Say it: měinián Chūnjié wǒmen dōu zài jiā kàn Chūnwǎn — Every lunar new year we have the gala on at home.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for how absurd, then the Mandarin for the human world below, then say Chūnwǎn again

Before you move on

What does 春晚 mean? ("The Spring Festival Gala".) Say it once more.

333.2 Chúxī — lunar New Year's Eve

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the human world below, then the Mandarin for the Spring Festival Gala on TV.

You'll want to know: Chúxī

Chúxī — "lunar New Year's Eve".

Chúxī de shíhou wǒmen dōu huí jiā — On the eve of the lunar new year we all go home.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

Chúxī is built from chú 'to clear away' and xī 'dusk', both inherited from Middle Chinese, drjo and zjek (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'steps' and 'to remove', and the second 'dusk'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: Chúxī
- Say it: Chúxī, once more
- Say it: Chúxī de shíhou wǒmen dōu huí jiā — On the eve of the lunar new year we all go home.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the human world below, then the Mandarin for the Spring Festival Gala on TV, then say Chúxī again

Before you move on

What does Chúxī mean? ("Lunar New Year's Eve".) Say it once more.

333.3 niányèfàn — New Year's Eve dinner

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the Spring Festival Gala on TV, then the Mandarin for lunar New Year's Eve.

You'll want to know: niányèfàn

niányèfàn — "New Year's Eve dinner".

Chúxī de wǎnshang wǒmen zài nǎinai jiā chī le niányèfàn — On the last night of the year we had the reunion dinner at my grandma's.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of niányèfàn is built from 年 'a year', yè 'night' and 饭 'a meal', all three inherited from Middle Chinese, nen, yaeH and bjonH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'evening' and says of the third that grain was first cooked into it.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: niányèfàn
- Say it: niányèfàn, once more
- Say it: Chúxī de wǎnshang wǒmen zài nǎinai jiā chī le niányèfàn — On the last night of the year we had the reunion dinner at my grandma's.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the Spring Festival Gala on TV, then the Mandarin for lunar New Year's Eve, then say niányèfàn again

Before you move on

What does niányèfàn mean? ("New Year's Eve dinner".) Say it once more.

333.4 shǒusuì — to keep the New Year vigil

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for lunar New Year's Eve, then the Mandarin for the New Year's Eve dinner.

You'll want to know: shǒusuì

shǒusuì — "to keep the New Year vigil".

chī le niányèfàn yǐhòu wǒmen yìqǐ shǒusuì — After the reunion dinner we stayed up together.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shǒusuì is built from shǒu 'to guard' and 岁 'a year', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syuwX and sjwejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to keep watch over'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shǒusuì
- Say it: shǒusuì, once more
- Say it: chī le niányèfàn yǐhòu wǒmen yìqǐ shǒusuì — After the reunion dinner we stayed up together.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for lunar New Year's Eve, then the Mandarin for the New Year's Eve dinner, then say shǒusuì again

Before you move on

What does shǒusuì mean? ("To keep the New Year vigil".) Say it once more.

333.5 bàinián — to pay a New Year call

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the New Year's Eve dinner, then the Mandarin for to keep the New Year vigil.

You'll want to know: bàinián

bàinián — "to pay a New Year call".

> dì'èr tiān wǒmen qù yéye jiā bàinián — The next day we went to my grandpa's to wish him a happy new year.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bàinián is built from bài 'to bow' and 年 'a year', both inherited from Middle Chinese, peajH and nen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which lists the first among the forms of a bow.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: bàinián
- Say it: bàinián, once more
- Say it: dì'èr tiān wǒmen qù yéye jiā bàinián — The next day we went to my grandpa's to wish him a happy new year.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the New Year's Eve dinner, then the Mandarin for to keep the New Year vigil, then say bàinián again

Before you move on

What does bàinián mean? ("To pay a New Year call".) Say it once more.

Chapter 334

Red Envelopes

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the first lunar month, red envelopes, couplets by the door and a business doing well.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 334: I can talk about the first lunar month, red envelopes, couplets by the door and a business doing well.

334.1 正月 (zhēngyuè) — first lunar month

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to keep the New Year vigil, then the Mandarin for to pay a New Year call.

You'll want to know: 正月

正月 — zhēngyuè — "first lunar month".

> 正月里大家都很开心 zhēngyuè lǐ dàjiā dōu hěn kāixīn — In the first month everyone is cheerful.

正 is said zhēng here, with a level tone, not the zhèng of 正在.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 正月 (zhēngyuè) is built from 正 and 月 'a month', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyeng and ngjwot (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary gives the first its level-tone reading tsyeng for the start of the calendar year, apart from tsyengH, 'upright':

so zhēng here, and zhèng in 正在.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zhēngyuè
- Say it: zhēngyuè, once more
- Say it: zhēngyuè lǐ dàjiā dōu hěn kāixīn — In the first month everyone is cheerful.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to keep the New Year vigil, then the Mandarin for to pay a New Year call, then say zhēngyuè again

Before you move on

What does 正月 mean? ("First lunar month".) Say it once more.

334.2 红包 (hóngbāo) — red envelope

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to pay a New Year call, then the Mandarin for the first lunar month.

You'll want to know: 红包

红包 — hóngbāo — "red envelope".

过年的时候外公给了我一个红包 guònián de shíhou wàigōng gěi le wǒ yí ge hóngbāo — At the new year my grandpa gave me a red envelope.

The new character, in pieces: 红 — six strokes: on the left the silk piece of 给, three strokes; on the right 工. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 红包 (hóngbāo) is built from 红 'red' and 包 'a packet', both inherited from Middle Chinese, huwng and paew (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a colour' and the second 'to wrap'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: hóngbāo
- Say it: hóngbāo, once more
- Say it: guònián de shíhou wàigōng gěi le wǒ yí ge hóngbāo — At the new year my grandpa gave me a red envelope.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to pay a New Year call, then the Mandarin for the first lunar month, then say hóngbāo again

Before you move on

What does 红包 mean? ("Red envelope".) Say it once more.

334.3 红 — the silk piece, then 工

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say hóngbāo — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

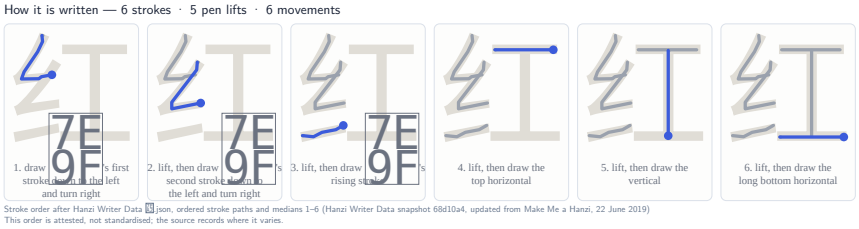
  给 工

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — gěi, gōng

Script — the silk piece, then 工



How 红 is written, stroke by stroke

红

Two pieces, left before right.

The left piece, three strokes, as on the left of 给: a stroke that falls to the left and turns right, a second one like it below, then a short stroke rising to the right.

The right piece, 工, three strokes. A short bar, a vertical down from its middle, then a longer bar along the foot.

3 + 3 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 红, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 红? (Six.) Where have you met the left piece? (On the left of 给.) What is the right piece? (工.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 红, pinned stroke paths and medians.

334.4 tiē — to stick; to paste up

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the first lunar month, then the Mandarin for a red envelope of gift money.

You'll want to know: tiē

tiē — "to stick; to paste up".

> wǒ zài ménkǒu tiē le yì zhāng hóng zhǐ — I stuck a sheet of red paper up by the door.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tiē is inherited from Middle Chinese thep (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it 'to pawn something for money'. The sense 'to stick on' is not given there, and how it came is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: tiē
- Say it: tiē, once more
- Say it: wǒ zài ménkǒu tiē le yì zhāng hóng zhǐ — I stuck a sheet of red paper up by the door.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the first lunar month, then the Mandarin for a red envelope of gift money, then say tiē again

Before you move on

What does tiē mean? ("To stick; to paste up".) Say it once more.

334.5 chūnlián — Spring Festival couplets

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a red envelope of gift money, then the Mandarin for to paste up on a door.

You'll want to know: chūnlián

chūnlián — "Spring Festival couplets".

> Chúxī de xiàwǔ wǒmen zài ménkǒu tiē le chūnlián — On the afternoon of the last day of the year we put up the couplets by the door.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chūnlián is built from 春 'spring' and lián 'to join'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese tsyhwin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), the first of the four seasons. The dictionary lists the second only under an older spelling of the character, ljen, which it glosses 'unbroken'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: chūnlián
- Say it: chūnlián, once more
- Say it: Chúxī de xiàwǔ wǒmen zài ménkǒu tiē le chūnlián — On the afternoon of the last day of the year we put up the couplets by the door.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a red envelope of gift money, then the Mandarin for to paste up on a door, then say chūnlián again

Before you move on

What does chūnlián mean? ("Spring Festival couplets".) Say it once more.

334.6 红火 (hónghuǒ) — prosperous; flourishing

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to paste up on a door, then the Mandarin for the Spring Festival couplets.

You'll want to know: 红火

红火 — hónghuǒ — "prosperous; flourishing".

> 这家饭店很红火 zhè jiā fàndiàn hěn hónghuǒ — This restaurant is doing very well.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 红火 (hónghuǒ) is built from 红 'red' and 火 'fire', both inherited from Middle Chinese, huwng and xwaX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a colour' and the second, quoting an older dictionary, 'to blaze'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: hónghuǒ
- Say it: hónghuǒ, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā fàndiàn hěn hónghuǒ — This restaurant is doing very well.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to paste up on a door, then the Mandarin for the Spring Festival couplets, then say hónghuǒ again

Before you move on

What does 红火 mean? ("Prosperous; flourishing".) Say it once more.

Chapter 335

Lanterns and Riddles

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the Lantern Festival, lanterns, riddles and firecrackers, and say I guessed.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 335: I can talk about the Lantern Festival, lanterns, riddles and firecrackers, and say I guessed.

335.1 Yuánxiāo — the Lantern Festival

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the Spring Festival couplets, then the Mandarin for flourishing in business.

You'll want to know: Yuánxiāo

Yuánxiāo — "the Lantern Festival".

> Yuánxiāo de wǎnshang wǒmen chūqù wán — On the night of the lantern festival we go out and have fun.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of Yuánxiāo is built from 元 'first' and xiāo 'night', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngjwon and sjew (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'great' and 'the beginning' and the second 'night': the first full-moon night of the year.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: Yuánxiāo
- Say it: Yuánxiāo, once more
- Say it: Yuánxiāo de wǎnshang wǒmen chūqù wán — On the night of the lantern festival we go out and have fun.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the Spring Festival couplets, then the Mandarin for flourishing in business, then say Yuánxiāo again

Before you move on

What does Yuánxiāo mean? ("The Lantern Festival".) Say it once more.

335.2 dēnglóng — lantern

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for flourishing in business, then the Mandarin for the Lantern Festival.

You'll want to know: dēnglóng

dēnglóng — "lantern".

ménkǒu yǒu liǎng ge hóng dēnglóng — There are two red lanterns at the door.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dēnglóng is built from dēng 'a lamp' and lóng 'a basket', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tong and luwng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a lamp' and quotes an older book for the second, a basket for a fire.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: dēnglóng
- Say it: dēnglóng, once more
- Say it: ménkǒu yǒu liǎng ge hóng dēnglóng — There are two red lanterns at the door.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for flourishing in business, then the Mandarin for the Lantern Festival, then say dēnglóng again

Before you move on

What does dēnglóng mean? ("Lantern".) Say it once more.

335.3 cāi — to guess

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the Lantern Festival, then the Mandarin for a paper lantern.

You'll want to know: cāi

cāi — "to guess".

wǒ cāi le sān cì dōu bú duì — I guessed three times and got it wrong each time.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of cāi is inherited from Middle Chinese tshoj (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it 'to suspect' and 'to resent'. The sense 'to guess' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: cāi
- Say it: cāi, once more
- Say it: wǒ cāi le sān cì dōu bú duì — I guessed three times and got it wrong each time.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the Lantern Festival, then the Mandarin for a paper lantern, then say cāi again

Before you move on

What does cāi mean? ("To guess".) Say it once more.

335.4 míyǔ — riddle

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a paper lantern, then the Mandarin for to guess an answer.

You'll want to know: míyǔ

míyǔ — "riddle".

Yuánxiāo de shíhou wǒmen cāi míyǔ — At the lantern festival we guess riddles.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

míyǔ is built from mí and 语 'speech', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mejH and ngjoX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'veiled words'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: míyǔ
- Say it: míyǔ, once more
- Say it: Yuánxiāo de shíhou wǒmen cāi míyǔ — At the lantern festival we guess riddles.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a paper lantern, then the Mandarin for to guess an answer, then say míyǔ again

Before you move on

What does míyǔ mean? ("Riddle".) Say it once more.

335.5 biānpào — firecrackers

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to guess an answer, then the Mandarin for a riddle.

You'll want to know: biānpào

biānpào — "firecrackers".

> Chúxī wǎnshang shí'èr diǎn wàibian de rén dōu zài fàng biānpào — At midnight on the last night of the year everyone outside is letting off firecrackers.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of biānpào is built from biān 'a whip' and pào, both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjien and phaewH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a horse whip' and the second 'the look of something scorched'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: biānpào
- Say it: biānpào, once more
- Say it: Chúxī wǎnshang shí'èr diǎn wàibian de rén dōu zài fàng biānpào — At midnight on the last night of the year everyone outside is letting off firecrackers.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to guess an answer, then the Mandarin for a riddle, then say biānpào again

Before you move on

What does biānpào mean? ("Firecrackers".) Say it once more.

335.6 Looking back: from The King's Son to Lanterns and Riddles

Say the Mandarin for to inherit the family business and a prince.

Your turn

- Say it: to inherit the family business, a prince, a king in a story, a king's wife, a kingdom ruled by a king
- Say it: a monster in a story, a Daoist immortal, magic in a fairy tale, a precious treasure, to hide away
- Say it: the nerve to face danger, a ghost in a story, to be haunted by a ghost, how absurd, the human world below
- Say it: the Spring Festival Gala on TV, lunar New Year's Eve, the New Year's Eve dinner, to keep the New Year vigil, to pay a New Year call
- Say it: the first lunar month, a red envelope of gift money, to paste up on a door, the Spring Festival couplets, flourishing in business
- Say it: the Lantern Festival, a paper lantern, to guess an answer, a riddle, a string of firecrackers
- Read it: 王 鬼 红 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

To inherit the family business? (jìchéng.) A prince? (王子, wángzǐ.) A king in a story? (国王, guówáng.) A king's wife? (王后, wánghòu.) A kingdom ruled by a king? (王国, wángguó.) A monster in a story? (yāoguài.) A Daoist immortal? (shénxiān.) Magic in a fairy tale? (mófǎ.) A precious treasure? (bǎowù.) To hide away? (cáng.) The nerve to face danger? (dǎnzi.) A ghost in a story? (鬼, guǐ.) To be haunted by a ghost? (nàoguǐ.) How absurd? (见鬼, jiànguǐ.) The human world below? (人间, rénjiān.) The Spring Festival Gala on TV? (春晚, Chūnwǎn.) Lunar New Year's Eve? (Chúxī.) The New Year's Eve dinner? (niányèfàn.) To keep the New Year vigil? (shǒusuì.) To pay a New Year call? (bàinián.) The first lunar month? (正月, zhēngyuè.) A red envelope of gift money? (红包, hóngbāo.) To paste up on a door? (tiē.) The Spring Festival couplets? (chūnlián.) Flourishing in business? (红火, hónghuǒ.) The Lantern Festival? (Yuánxiāo.) A paper lantern? (dēnglóng.) To guess an answer? (cāi.) A riddle? (míyǔ.) A string of firecrackers? (biānpào.)

Chapter 336

Seeing Friends Off

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say goodbye, give someone a send-off, see a guest to the door, give a present and shake hands.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 336: I can say goodbye, give someone a send-off, see a guest to the door, give a present and shake hands.

336.1 gàobié — to say goodbye; to take leave

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a riddle, then the Mandarin for a string of firecrackers.

You'll want to know: gàobié

gàobié — "to say goodbye; to take leave".

> tā hé dàjiā gàobié yǐhòu jiù shàng chē le — After saying goodbye to everyone he got on board.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gàobié is built from gào 'to tell' and bié 'to part', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kawH and bjet (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to report' and the second 'to differ' and 'to part'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: gàobié
- Say it: gàobié, once more
- Say it: tā hé dàjiā gàobié yǐhòu jiù shàng chē le — After saying goodbye to everyone he got on board.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a riddle, then the Mandarin for a string of firecrackers, then say gàobié again

Before you move on

What does gàobié mean? ("To say goodbye; to take leave".) Say it once more.

336.2 欢送 (huānsòng) — to give a send-off

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a string of firecrackers, then the Mandarin for to take leave of someone.

You'll want to know: 欢送

欢送 — huānsòng — "to give a send-off".

> 我们开了一个晚会欢送他 wǒmen kāi le yí ge wǎnhuì huānsòng tā — We held a party to see him off.

The new character, in pieces: 送 — nine strokes: 关 with its last stroke shrunk to a dot, inside the walking piece of 辶, which wraps it from the left and runs along the foot. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 欢送 (huānsòng) is built from 欢 'glad' and sòng 'to send', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xwan and suwngH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'joy' and the second 'to send away’.

What you’ve built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: huānsòng
- Say it: huānsòng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen kāi le yí ge wǎnhuì huānsòng tā — We held a party to see him off.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a string of firecrackers, then the Mandarin for to take leave of someone, then say huānsòng again

Before you move on

What does 欢送 mean? (“To give a send-off”.) Say it once more.

336.3 送 — 关 in the walking piece

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say huānsòng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  关 这

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — guān, zhè

Script — 关 in the walking piece

How 送 is written, stroke by stroke

送

Two pieces: the inside first, then the piece that wraps it.

The inside piece, 关, six strokes, as you wrote it: two short strokes on top, two bars, a long stroke falling to the left, and last the stroke falling to the right, which here shrinks to a dot.

The walking piece, three strokes, as in 这: a dot, a small stroke that zigzags down, then a long sweep along the foot to the right.

6 + 3 = nine.

Your turn

- Write it: 送, all nine, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 送? (Nine.) What sits inside? (关.) What is written last? (The long sweep along the foot.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 送, pinned stroke paths and medians.

336.4 送客 (sòngkè) — to see a guest out

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to take leave of someone, then the Mandarin for to give a send-off.

You'll want to know: 送客

送客 — sòngkè — "to see a guest out".

客人走的时候他去门口送客 kèrén zǒu de shíhou tā qù ménkǒu sòngkè — When the guests left, he saw them to the door.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 送客 (sòngkè) is built from 送 'to send' and 客 'a guest', both inherited from Middle Chinese, suwngH and khaek (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a guest'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: sòngkè
- Say it: sòngkè, once more
- Say it: kèrén zǒu de shíhou tā qù ménkǒu sòngkè — When the guests left, he saw them to the door.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to take leave of someone, then the Mandarin for to give a send-off, then say sòngkè again

Before you move on

What does 送客 mean? ("To see a guest out".) Say it once more.

336.5 sònglǐ — to give a present

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to give a send-off, then the Mandarin for to see a guest out.

You'll want to know: sònglǐ

sònglǐ — "to give a present".

> Chūnjié de shíhou Zhōngguó rén chángcháng sònglǐ — At the lunar new year Chinese people often give presents.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of sònglǐ is built from 送 'to send' and lǐ 'a courtesy', both inherited from Middle Chinese, suwngH and lejX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which says of the second, quoting an older dictionary, that it is how one serves the spirits and brings blessing.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: sònglǐ
- Say it: sònglǐ, once more
- Say it: Chūnjié de shíhou Zhōngguó rén chángcháng sònglǐ — At the lunar new year Chinese people often give presents.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to give a send-off, then the Mandarin for to see a guest out, then say sònglǐ again

Before you move on

What does sònglǐ mean? ("To give a present".) Say it once more.

336.6 wòshǒu — to shake hands

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to see a guest out, then the Mandarin for to give a present.

You'll want to know: wòshǒu

wòshǒu — "to shake hands".

> gàobié de shíhou wǒmen wòshǒu le — When we said goodbye, we shook hands.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of wòshǒu is built from wò 'to grasp' and 手 'a hand', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'aewk and syuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to hold'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: wòshǒu
- Say it: wòshǒu, once more
- Say it: gàobié de shíhou wǒmen wòshǒu le — When we said goodbye, we shook hands.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to see a guest out, then the Mandarin for to give a present, then say wòshǒu again

Before you move on

What does wòshǒu mean? ("To shake hands".) Say it once more.

Chapter 337

Best Wishes

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can congratulate someone, wish them well and good luck, give a token of my regard and make a wish.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 337: I can congratulate someone, wish them well and good luck, give a token of my regard and make a wish.

337.1 gōngxǐ — to congratulate

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to give a present, then the Mandarin for to shake hands with someone.

You'll want to know: gōngxǐ gōngxǐ — "to congratulate".

> gōngxǐ nǐ zhǎodào le xīn gōngzuò — Congratulations on finding a new job.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gōngxǐ is built from gōng and 喜 'joy', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjowng and xiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'respectful' and the second 'joy'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: gōngxǐ
- Say it: gōngxǐ, once more
- Say it: gōngxǐ nǐ zhǎodào le xīn gōngzuò — Congratulations on finding a new job.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to give a present, then the Mandarin for to shake hands with someone, then say gōngxǐ again

Before you move on

What does gōngxǐ mean? ("To congratulate".) Say it once more.

337.2 祝 (zhù) — to wish someone well

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to shake hands with someone, then the Mandarin for to congratulate someone.

You'll want to know: 祝

祝 — zhù — "to wish someone well".

祝你生日快乐 zhù nǐ shēngrì kuàilè — Happy birthday to you!

The new character, in pieces: 祝 — nine strokes: on the left a spirit piece of four strokes, a dot, a stroke that runs right and turns down to the left, a vertical and a dot; on the right 口 over 儿. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 祝 (zhù) is inherited from Middle Chinese tsyuwH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it, quoting an older dictionary, as the words of praise spoken by the master of a sacrifice. The dictionary also lists tsyuwk, 'one who calls on the spirits'; the falling tone of zhù matches the first.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zhù
- Say it: zhù, once more
- Say it: zhù nǐ shēngrì kuàilè — Happy birthday to you!
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to shake hands with someone, then the Mandarin for to congratulate someone, then say zhù again

Before you move on

What does 祝 mean? ("To wish someone well".) Say it once more.

337.3 祝 — the spirit piece, then 口 over 儿

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say zhù — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

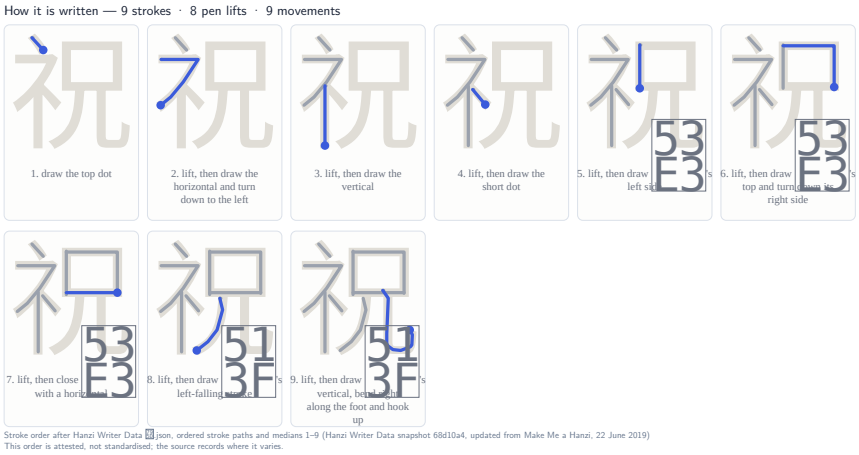
  口 儿

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — kǒu, ér

Script — the spirit piece, then 口 over 儿



How 祝 is written, stroke by stroke

祝

Two pieces, left before right.

The left piece, the spirit piece, four strokes. A dot. A bar that runs right and turns down to the left. A vertical under it. Then a short dot at its right.

The right piece, five strokes. First 口: a short vertical, a bar that turns down, the bar that closes it. Under it 儿: a stroke falling to the left, then a vertical that bends right along the foot and hooks up.

4 + 5 = nine.

Your turn

- Write it: 祝, all nine, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 祝? (Nine.) What is on the right? (口 over 儿.) How does the spirit piece end? (With a short dot.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 祝, pinned stroke paths and medians.

337.4 心意 (xīnyì) — kind thoughts; a token of regard

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to congratulate someone, then the Mandarin for to wish someone well.

You'll want to know: 心意

心意 — xīnyì — "kind thoughts; a token of regard".

> 我们送你一个红包这是我们的一点儿心意 wǒmen sòng nǐ yí ge hóngbāo zhè shì wǒmen de yìdiǎnr xīnyì — We're giving you a red envelope, a small token of our regard.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 心意 (xīnyì) is built from 心 'the heart' and 意 'intent', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sim and 'iH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'the will'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xīnyì
- Say it: xīnyì, once more
- Say it: wǒmen sòng nǐ yí ge hóngbāo zhè shì wǒmen de yìdiǎnr xīnyì — We're giving you a red envelope, a small token of our regard.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to congratulate someone, then the Mandarin for to wish someone well, then say xīnyì again

Before you move on

What does 心意 mean? ("Kind thoughts; a token of regard".) Say it once more.

337.5 hǎoyùn — good luck

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to wish someone well, then the Mandarin for a token of regard.

You'll want to know: hǎoyùn

hǎoyùn — "good luck".

zǒu yǐqián dàjiā dōu zhù wǒ hǎoyùn — Before I left, everyone wished me good luck.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of hǎoyùn is built from 好 'good' and yùn, both inherited from Middle Chinese, xawX and hjunH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to move' and 'to carry'. The sense 'luck' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: hǎoyùn
- Say it: hǎoyùn, once more
- Say it: zǒu yǐqián dàjiā dōu zhù wǒ hǎoyùn — Before I left, everyone wished me good luck.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to wish someone well, then the Mandarin for a token of regard, then say hǎoyùn again

Before you move on

What does hǎoyùn mean? ("Good luck".) Say it once more.

337.6 xǔyuàn — to make a wish

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a token of regard, then the Mandarin for good luck.

You'll want to know: xǔyuàn

xǔyuàn — "to make a wish".

shēngrì nà tiān tā xiān xǔyuàn ránhòu chī dàngāo — On his birthday he made a wish first and then ate the cake.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xǔyuàn is built from xǔ and yuàn, both inherited from Middle Chinese, xjoX and ngjwonH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to permit' and 'to grant', and the second 'to desire'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xǔyuàn
- Say it: xǔyuàn, once more
- Say it: shēngrì nà tiān tā xiān xǔyuàn ránhòu chī dàngāo — On his birthday he made a wish first and then ate the cake.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a token of regard, then the Mandarin for good luck, then say xǔyuàn again

Before you move on

What does xǔyuàn mean? ("To make a wish".) Say it once more.

Chapter 338

Festival Visits

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about spending a festival at home, paying visits, family reunions, days off and local customs.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 338: I can talk about spending a festival at home, paying visits, family reunions, days off and local customs.

338.1 过节 (guòjié) — to celebrate a festival

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for good luck, then the Mandarin for to make a wish.

You'll want to know: 过节

过节 — guòjié — "to celebrate a festival".

> 去年我们回老家过节 qùnián wǒmen huí lǎojiā guòjié — Last year we went back to our home town for the festival.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 过节 (guòjié) is built from 过 'to pass' and 节 'a festival', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwaH and tset (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to go beyond' and the second 'a joint of bamboo'. The sense 'a festival' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: guòjié
- Say it: guòjié, once more
- Say it: qùnián wǒmen huí lǎojiā guòjié — Last year we went back to our home town for the festival.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for good luck, then the Mandarin for to make a wish, then say guòjié again

Before you move on

What does 过节 mean? ("To celebrate a festival".) Say it once more.

338.2 bàifǎng — to pay a visit to

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to make a wish, then the Mandarin for to celebrate a festival.

You'll want to know: bàifǎng

bàifǎng — "to pay a visit to".

guòjié de shíhou wǒmen qù bàifǎng le lǎoshī — Over the festival we went to visit our teacher.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bàifǎng is built from bài 'to bow' and fǎng 'to call on', both inherited from Middle Chinese, peajH and phjangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to consult'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: bàifǎng
- Say it: bàifǎng, once more
- Say it: guòjié de shíhou wǒmen qù bàifǎng le lǎoshī — Over the festival we went to visit our teacher.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to make a wish, then the Mandarin for to celebrate a festival, then say bàifǎng again

Before you move on

What does bàifǎng mean? ("To pay a visit to".) Say it once more.

338.3 tuányuán — to be reunited as a family

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to celebrate a festival, then the Mandarin for to pay a visit to someone.

You'll want to know: tuányuán

tuányuán — "to be reunited as a family".

> guònián de shíhou jiārén dōu huílai tuányuán — At the new year the whole family comes back together.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tuányuán is built from tuán and yuán, both inherited from Middle Chinese, dwan and hjwen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first with this very word and the second 'the round body of the heavens'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: tuánnyuán
- Say it: tuánnyuán, once more
- Say it: guònián de shíhou jiārén dōu huílai tuánnyuán — At the new year the whole family comes back together.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to celebrate a festival, then the Mandarin for to pay a visit to someone, then say tuánnyuán again

Before you move on

What does tuánnyuán mean? ("To be reunited as a family".) Say it once more.

338.4 假日 (jiàrì) — holiday; day off

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to pay a visit to someone, then the Mandarin for to be reunited as a family.

You'll want to know: 假日

假日 — jiàrì — "holiday; day off".

祝你假日快乐 zhù nǐ jiàrì kuàilè — Have a happy holiday!

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 假日 (jiàrì) is built from 假 'leave' and 日 'a day', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaeH and nyit (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first in this falling tone 'a holiday from work'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jiàrì
- Say it: jiàrì, once more

- Say it: zhù nǐ jiàrì kuàilè — Have a happy holiday!
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to pay a visit to someone, then the Mandarin for to be reunited as a family, then say jiàrì again

Before you move on

What does 假日 mean? ("Holiday; day off".) Say it once more.

338.5 fēngsú — custom; social custom

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be reunited as a family, then the Mandarin for a day off work.

You'll want to know: fēngsú

fēngsú — "custom; social custom".

měi ge dìfang de fēngsú dōu bù yíyàng — Every place has its own customs.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fēngsú is built from 风 'wind' and sú 'usage', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjuwng and zjowk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second with this very word.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: fēngsú
- Say it: fēngsú, once more
- Say it: měi ge dìfang de fēngsú dōu bù yíyàng — Every place has its own customs.

- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be reunited as a family, then the Mandarin for a day off work, then say fēngsú again

Before you move on

What does fēngsú mean? ("Custom; social custom".) Say it once more.

Chapter 339

National Day

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a long holiday, National Day, celebrating, a festive house and fireworks.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 339: I can talk about a long holiday, National Day, celebrating, a festive house and fireworks.

339.1 长假 (chángjià) — long holiday

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a day off work, then the Mandarin for a local custom.

You'll want to know: 长假

长假 — chángjià — "long holiday".

> 十月有一个长假 shíyuè yǒu yí ge chángjià — There's a long holiday in October.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 长假 (chángjià) is built from 长 'long' and 假 'leave', both inherited from Middle Chinese, drjang and kaeH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'long' and 'far' and the second 'a holiday from work'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: chángjià
- Say it: chángjià, once more
- Say it: shíyuè yǒu yí ge chángjià — There's a long holiday in October.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a day off work, then the Mandarin for a local custom, then say chángjià again

Before you move on

What does 长假 mean? ("Long holiday".) Say it once more.

339.2 国庆 (Guóqìng) — National Day

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a local custom, then the Mandarin for a long holiday.

You'll want to know: 国庆

国庆 — Guóqìng — "National Day".

国庆的时候我们回了老家 Guóqìng de shíhou wǒmen huí le lǎojiā — Over the national holiday we went back to our home town.

The new character, in pieces: 庆 — six strokes: the roof piece of 店, a dot, a bar and a long stroke falling to the left; under it 大. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 国庆 (Guóqìng) is built from 国 'a state' and qìng 'to celebrate', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwok and khjaengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to congratulate' and 'good fortune'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: Guóqìng
- Say it: Guóqìng, once more
- Say it: Guóqìng de shíhou wǒmen huí le lǎojiā — Over the national holiday we went back to our home town.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a local custom, then the Mandarin for a long holiday, then say Guóqìng again

Before you move on

What does 国庆 mean? ("National Day".) Say it once more.

339.3 庆 — the roof piece over 大

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say Guóqìng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

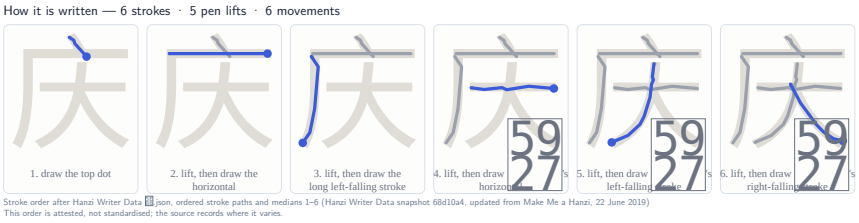
  店 大

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — diàn, dà

Script — the roof piece over 大



How 庆 is written, stroke by stroke

庆

Two pieces: the roof first, then what sits under it.

The roof piece, three strokes, as on 店: a dot, a bar, then a long stroke falling to the left down the side.

The piece under it, 大, three strokes: a bar, a stroke falling to the left through it, then a stroke falling to the right.

3 + 3 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 庆, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 庆? (Six.) What is the roof? (The roof piece of 店.) What sits under it? (大.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 庆, pinned stroke paths and medians.

339.4 庆祝 (qìngzhù) — to celebrate

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a long holiday, then the Mandarin for the National Day holiday.

You'll want to know: 庆祝

庆祝 — qìngzhù — "to celebrate".

我们一起庆祝国庆 wǒmen yìqǐ qìngzhù Guóqìng — We celebrate the national holiday together.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 庆祝 (qìngzhù) is built from 庆 'to congratulate' and 祝 'to bless', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khjaengH and tsyuwH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to congratulate'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: qìngzhù
- Say it: qìngzhù, once more
- Say it: wǒmen yìqǐ qìngzhù Guóqìng — We celebrate the national holiday together.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a long holiday, then the Mandarin for the National Day holiday, then say qìngzhù again

Before you move on

What does 庆祝 mean? ("To celebrate".) Say it once more.

339.5 喜庆 (xǐqìng) — festive; joyous

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the National Day holiday, then the Mandarin for to celebrate a happy event.

You'll want to know: 喜庆

喜庆 — xǐqìng — "festive; joyous".

过年的时候家里很喜庆 guònián de shíhou jiā lǐ hěn xǐqìng — At the new year the house is full of festive joy.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 喜庆 (xǐqìng) is built from 喜 'joy' and 庆 'good fortune', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xiX and khjaengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'joy' and the second 'good fortune'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xǐqìng
- Say it: xǐqìng, once more
- Say it: guònián de shíhou jiā lǐ hěn xǐqìng — At the new year the house is full of festive joy.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the National Day holiday, then the Mandarin for to celebrate a happy event, then say xǐqìng again

Before you move on

What does 喜庆 mean? ("Festive; joyous".) Say it once more.

339.6 yānhuā — fireworks

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to celebrate a happy event, then the Mandarin for full of festive joy.

You'll want to know: yānhuā

yānhuā — "fireworks".

Guóqìng de wǎnshang wǒmen kàn le yānhuā — On the evening of the national holiday we saw the fireworks.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yānhuā is built from yān 'smoke' and 花 'a flower', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'en and xwae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the breath of fire'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: yānhuā
- Say it: yānhuā, once more
- Say it: Guóqìng de wǎnshang wǒmen kàn le yānhuā — On the evening of the national holiday we saw the fireworks.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to celebrate a happy event, then the Mandarin for full of festive joy, then say yānhuā again

Before you move on

What does yānhuā mean? (“Fireworks”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 340

Old Ways

Modes: voice (6) Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about traditions, being particular about them, proper rules, the solar terms and tending graves.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 340: I can talk about traditions, being particular about them, proper rules, the solar terms and tending graves.

340.1 chuántǒng — tradition

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for full of festive joy, then the Mandarin for fireworks lighting up the sky.

You'll want to know: chuántǒng

chuántǒng — "tradition".

> guònián chī jiǎozi shì yí ge lǎo chuántǒng — Eating dumplings at the new year is an old tradition.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chuántǒng is built from 传 'to pass on' and tǒng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, drjwen and thowngH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to gather together' and 'the end of a thread'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: chuántǒng
- Say it: chuántǒng, once more
- Say it: guònián chī jiǎozi shì yí ge lǎo chuántǒng — Eating dumplings at the new year is an old tradition.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for full of festive joy, then the Mandarin for fireworks lighting up the sky, then say chuántǒng again

Before you move on

What does chuántǒng mean? ("Tradition".) Say it once more.

340.2 jiǎngjiu — to be particular about

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for fireworks lighting up the sky, then the Mandarin for an old tradition.

You'll want to know: jiǎngjiu

jiǎngjiu — "to be particular about".

wǒ nǎinai hěn jiǎngjiu chī — My grandma is very particular about food.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiǎngjiu is built from jiǎng and jiū, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaewngX and kjuwH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to discuss' and the second 'to go to the end' and 'deep'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jiǎngjiu
- Say it: jiǎngjiu, once more
- Say it: wǒ nǎinai hěn jiǎngjiu chī — My grandma is very particular about food.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for fireworks lighting up the sky, then the Mandarin for an old tradition, then say jiǎngjiu again

Before you move on

What does jiǎngjiu mean? ("To be particular about".) Say it once more.

340.3 guījù — rules of conduct; manners

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an old tradition, then the Mandarin for to be particular about details.

You'll want to know: guījù

guījù — "rules of conduct; manners".

> chī niányèfàn yǒu shénme guījù — What are the rules at the reunion dinner?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

guījù is built from guī 'a compass' and jǔ 'a set square', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjwie and kjuX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'round', quoting an older book that uses this very pair, and the second 'a rule'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: guījù
- Say it: guījù, once more
- Say it: chī niányèfàn yǒu shénme guījù — What are the rules at the reunion dinner?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an old tradition, then the Mandarin for to be particular about details, then say guījù again

Before you move on

What does guījù mean? ("Rules of conduct; manners".) Say it once more.

340.4 节气 (jiéqì) — solar term

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be particular about details, then the Mandarin for the rules of conduct.

You'll want to know: 节气

节气 — jiéqì — "solar term".

每年有二十四个节气 měinián yǒu èrshísì ge jiéqì — Every year has twenty-four solar terms.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 节气 (jiéqì) is built from 节 'a joint' and 气 'breath', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tset and khj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a joint of bamboo' and the second 'breath'. The calendar sense is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jiéqì
- Say it: jiéqì, once more
- Say it: měinián yǒu èrshísì ge jiéqì — Every year has twenty-four solar terms.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be particular about details, then the Mandarin for the rules of conduct, then say jiéqì again

Before you move on

What does 节气 mean? ("Solar term".) Say it once more.

340.5 sǎomù — to tend the family graves

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the rules of conduct, then the Mandarin for a solar term of the year.

You'll want to know: sǎomù

sǎomù — "to tend the family graves".

> měinián chūntiān wǒmen dōu qù sǎomù — Every spring we go to tend the family graves.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

sǎomù is built from 扫 'to sweep' and mù 'a grave', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sawX and muH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to sweep clean' and the second 'a grave mound'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: sǎomù
- Say it: sǎomù, once more
- Say it: měinián chūntiān wǒmen dōu qù sǎomù — Every spring we go to tend the family graves.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the rules of conduct, then the Mandarin for a solar term of the year, then say sǎomù again

Before you move on

What does sǎomù mean? ("To tend the family graves".) Say it once more.

340.6 Looking back: from Seeing Friends Off to Old Ways

Say the Mandarin for to take leave of someone and to give a send-off.

Your turn

- Say it: to take leave of someone, to give a send-off, to see a guest out, to give a present, to shake hands with someone
- Say it: to congratulate someone, to wish someone well, a token of regard, good luck, to make a wish
- Say it: to celebrate a festival, to pay a visit to someone, to be reunited as a family, a day off work, a local custom
- Say it: a long holiday, the National Day holiday, to celebrate a happy event, full of festive joy, fireworks lighting up the sky
- Say it: an old tradition, to be particular about details, the rules of conduct, a solar term of the year, to tend the family graves

- Read it: 送 祝 庆 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

To take leave of someone? (gàobié.) To give a send-off? (欢送, huānsòng.) To see a guest out? (送客, sòngkè.) To give a present? (sònglǐ.) To shake hands with someone? (wòshǒu.) To congratulate someone? (gōngxǐ.) To wish someone well? (祝, zhù.) A token of regard? (心意, xīnyì.) Good luck? (hǎoyùn.) To make a wish? (xǔyuàn.) To celebrate a festival? (过节, guòjié.) To pay a visit to someone? (bàifǎng.) To be reunited as a family? (tuányuán.) A day off work? (假日, jiàrì.) A local custom? (fēngsú.) A long holiday? (长假, chángjià.) The National Day holiday? (国庆, Guóqìng.) To celebrate a happy event? (庆祝, qìngzhù.) Full of festive joy? (喜庆, xǐqìng.) Fireworks lighting up the sky? (yānhuā.) An old tradition? (chuántǒng.) To be particular about details? (jiǎngjiu.) The rules of conduct? (guījù.) A solar term of the year? (节气, jiéqì.) To tend the family graves? (sǎomù.)

Chapter 341

Mooncakes

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about mooncakes, bean paste, fillings and tasting, and say business is good.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 341: I can talk about mooncakes, bean paste, fillings and tasting, and say business is good.

341.1 dòushā — sweet bean paste

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a solar term of the year, then the Mandarin for to tend the family graves.

You'll want to know: dòushā

dòushā — "sweet bean paste".

> zhège miànbāo lǐ yǒu dòushā — There's bean paste in this bun.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dòushā is built from dòu 'beans' and shā 'sand', both inherited from Middle Chinese, duwH and srae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'beans' and the second 'grit scattered by water'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: dòushā
- Say it: dòushā, once more
- Say it: zhège miànbāo lǐ yǒu dòushā — There's bean paste in this bun.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a solar term of the year, then the Mandarin for to tend the family graves, then say dòushā again

Before you move on

What does dòushā mean? ("Sweet bean paste".) Say it once more.

341.2 月饼 (yuèbǐng) — mooncake

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to tend the family graves, then the Mandarin for sweet bean paste.

You'll want to know: 月饼

月饼 — yuèbǐng — "mooncake".

我买了两个月饼 wǒ mǎi le liǎng ge yuèbǐng — I bought two mooncakes.

The new character, in pieces: 饼 — nine strokes: on the left the food piece of 饭, three strokes; on the right two short strokes, two bars, and two strokes down. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 月饼 (yuèbǐng) is built from 月 'the moon' and 饼 'a cake', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngjwot and pjiengX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which gives the second only its reading.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: yuèbǐng
- Say it: yuèbǐng, once more
- Say it: wǒ mǎi le liǎng ge yuèbǐng — I bought two mooncakes.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to tend the family graves, then the Mandarin for sweet bean paste, then say yuèbǐng again

Before you move on

What does 月饼 mean? ("Mooncake".) Say it once more.

341.3 饼 — the food piece, then two bars and two legs

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say yuèbǐng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  饭 月

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — fàn, yuè

Script — the food piece, then two bars and two legs

How 饼 is written, stroke by stroke

饼

Two pieces, left before right.

The left piece, the food piece, three strokes, as in 饭: a stroke falling to the left, a short bar that turns down to the left, then a vertical that flicks up to the right.

The right piece, six strokes. Two short strokes on top, the left one a dot, the right one falling to the left. Two bars, the lower one longer. Then a stroke down the left that falls away to the left, and a vertical down the right.

3 + 6 = nine.

Your turn

- Write it: 饼, all nine, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 饼? (Nine.) Where have you met the left piece? (On the left of 饭.) How many bars on the right? (Two.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 饼, pinned stroke paths and medians.

341.4 xiànr — filling

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for sweet bean paste, then the Mandarin for a mooncake.

You'll want to know: xiànr xiànr — "filling".

zhège yuèbǐng de xiànr shì dòushā — This mooncake has a bean-paste filling.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiànr No dictionary we use records an older form, so its history is not settled. The ending r is the 儿 of 一会儿.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xiànr
- Say it: xiànr, once more
- Say it: zhège yuèbǐng de xiànr shì dòushā — This mooncake has a bean-paste filling.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for sweet bean paste, then the Mandarin for a mooncake, then say xiànr again

Before you move on

What does xiànr mean? ("Filling".) Say it once more.

341.5 pǐncháng — to taste; to sample

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a mooncake, then the Mandarin for the filling of a dumpling.

You'll want to know: pǐncháng

pǐncháng — "to taste; to sample".

dàjiā dōu pǐncháng le wǒ zuò de yuèbǐng — Everyone tasted the mooncakes I made.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of pǐncháng is built from pǐn and cháng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, phimX and dzyang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a rank' and 'a kind', and the second 'to try' and, quoting an older dictionary, 'to taste with the mouth'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: pǐncháng
- Say it: pǐncháng, once more
- Say it: dàjiā dōu pǐncháng le wǒ zuò de yuèbǐng — Everyone tasted the mooncakes I made.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a mooncake, then the Mandarin for the filling of a dumpling, then say pǐncháng again

Before you move on

What does pǐncháng mean? ("To taste; to sample".) Say it once more.

341.6 生意 (shēngyi) — business; trade

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the filling of a dumpling, then the Mandarin for to taste food with care.

You'll want to know: 生意

生意 — shēngyi — "business; trade".

每年这个时候月饼的生意最好 měinián zhège shíhou yuèbǐng de shēngyi zuì hǎo — Every year at this time the mooncake trade is at its best.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 生意 (shēngyi) is built from 生 'life' and 意 'intent', both inherited from Middle Chinese, srjaeng and 'iH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to grow' and the second 'the will'. How the pair came to mean business is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shēngyi
- Say it: shēngyi, once more
- Say it: měinián zhège shíhou yuèbǐng de shēngyi zuì hǎo — Every year at this time the mooncake trade is at its best.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the filling of a dumpling, then the Mandarin for to taste food with care, then say shēngyi again

Before you move on

What does 生意 mean? ("Business; trade".) Say it once more.

Chapter 342

Mid-Autumn

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the Mid-Autumn Festival, enjoying the moon, the festival days, osmanthus and home.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 342: I can talk about the Mid-Autumn Festival, enjoying the moon, the festival days, osmanthus and home.

342.1 shǎngyuè — to enjoy the moon

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to taste food with care, then the Mandarin for trade in a shop.

You'll want to know: shǎngyuè

shǎngyuè — "to enjoy the moon".

> wǎnshang wǒmen yìqǐ zài wàibian shǎngyuè — In the evening we sat outside together enjoying the moon.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shǎngyuè is built from shǎng and 月 'the moon', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syangX and ngjwot (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to bestow'. The sense 'to enjoy' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: shǎngyuè
- Say it: shǎngyuè, once more
- Say it: wǎnshang wǒmen yìqǐ zài wàibian shǎngyuè — In the evening we sat outside together enjoying the moon.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to taste food with care, then the Mandarin for trade in a shop, then say shǎngyuè again

Before you move on

What does shǎngyuè mean? ("To enjoy the moon".) Say it once more.

342.2 中秋 (Zhōngqiū) — the Mid-Autumn Festival

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for trade in a shop, then the Mandarin for to enjoy the moon.

You'll want to know: 中秋

中秋 — Zhōngqiū — "the Mid-Autumn Festival".

> 中秋的时候我们都吃月饼 Zhōngqiū de shíhou wǒmen dōu chī yuèbǐng — At the moon festival we all eat mooncakes.

The new character, in pieces: 秋 — nine strokes: on the left the grain piece of 和, five strokes; on the right 火. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 中秋 (Zhōngqiū) is built from 中 'the middle' and 秋 'autumn', both inherited from Middle Chinese, trjuwng and tshjuw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, among other senses, 'half', and says of the second, quoting an older dictionary, that it is when the grain ripens.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: Zhōngqiū
- Say it: Zhōngqiū, once more
- Say it: Zhōngqiū de shíhou wǒmen dōu chī yuèbǐng — At the moon festival we all eat mooncakes.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for trade in a shop, then the Mandarin for to enjoy the moon, then say Zhōngqiū again

Before you move on

What does 中秋 mean? ("The Mid-Autumn Festival".) Say it once more.

342.3 秋 — the grain piece, then 火

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say Zhōngqiū — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

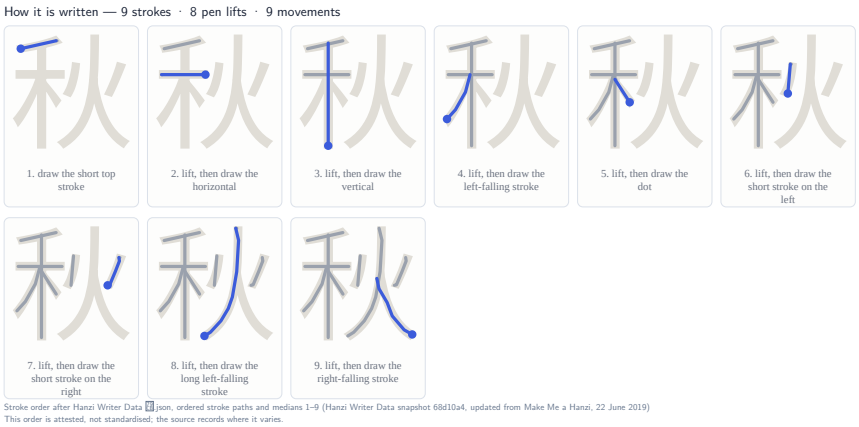
  和 火

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — hé, huǒ

Script — the grain piece, then 火



How 秋 is written, stroke by stroke

秋

Two pieces, left before right.

The left piece, the grain piece, five strokes, as on the left of 和: a short stroke falling to the left at the top, a bar, a vertical down through it, a stroke falling to the left from the crossing, and a dot to the right.

The right piece, 火, four strokes, as you wrote it: a short stroke on the left, a short stroke on the right falling to the left, then a long stroke falling to the left and a long stroke falling to the right.

5 + 4 = nine.

Your turn

- Write it: 秋, all nine, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 秋? (Nine.) Where have you met the left piece? (On the left of 和.) What is the right piece? (火.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 秋, pinned stroke paths and medians.

342.4 期间 (qījiān) — period (during which); during

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to enjoy the moon, then the Mandarin for the Mid-Autumn Festival.

You'll want to know: 期间

期间 — qījiān — "period (during which); during".

中秋期间他给家人买了月饼 Zhōngqiū qījiān tā gěi jiārén mǎi le yuèbǐng — Over the moon festival he bought mooncakes for his family.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 期间 (qījiān) is built from 期 'a set time' and 间 'between', both inherited from Middle Chinese, gi and kean (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the dictionary lists the second under an older form of the character and glosses it 'a gap'. Middle Chinese gi would regularly give qí; the level tone of qī is irregular.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: qījiān
- Say it: qījiān, once more
- Say it: Zhōngqiū qījiān tā gěi jiārén mǎi le yuèbǐng — Over the moon festival he bought mooncakes for his family.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to enjoy the moon, then the Mandarin for the Mid-Autumn Festival, then say qījiān again

Before you move on

What does 期间 mean? ("Period (during which); during".) Say it once more.

342.5 guìhuā — osmanthus flowers

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the Mid-Autumn Festival, then the Mandarin for the time during an event.

You'll want to know: guìhuā

guìhuā — "osmanthus flowers".

qiūtiān de shíhou guìhuā kāi le — In the autumn the osmanthus came into flower.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of guìhuā is built from guì and 花 'a flower', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwejH and xwae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which describes the first as a tree that grows in groves and stays green in winter and summer.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: guìhuā
- Say it: guìhuā, once more
- Say it: qiūtiān de shíhou guìhuā kāi le — In the autumn the osmanthus came into flower.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the Mid-Autumn Festival, then the Mandarin for the time during an event, then say guìhuā again

Before you move on

What does guìhuā mean? ("Osmanthus flowers".) Say it once more.

342.6 jiāxiāng — hometown; native place

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the time during an event, then the Mandarin for sweet osmanthus flowers.

You'll want to know: jiāxiāng

jiāxiāng — "hometown; native place".

Zhōngqiū de wǎnshang wǒ hěn xiǎng jiāxiāng — On the night of the moon festival I miss home very much.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiāxiāng is built from 家 'a home' and xiāng 'a village', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kae and xjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a village community'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jiāxiāng
- Say it: jiāxiāng, once more
- Say it: Zhōngqiū de wǎnshang wǒ hěn xiǎng jiāxiāng — On the night of the moon festival I miss home very much.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the time during an event, then the Mandarin for sweet osmanthus flowers, then say jiāxiāng again

Before you move on

What does jiāxiāng mean? ("Hometown; native place".) Say it once more.

Chapter 343

Far from Home

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about moonlight, years apart, what is in my heart, good wishes and sharing.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 343: I can talk about moonlight, years apart, what is in my heart, good wishes and sharing.

343.1 yuèguāng — moonlight

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for sweet osmanthus flowers, then the Mandarin for one's native place.

You'll want to know: yuèguāng

yuèguāng — "moonlight".

> jīntiān wǎnshang de yuèguāng hěn hǎo — The moonlight is lovely tonight.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yuèguāng is built from 月 'the moon' and guāng 'light', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngjwot and kwang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'bright'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: yuèguāng
- Say it: yuèguāng, once more
- Say it: jīntiān wǎnshang de yuèguāng hěn hǎo — The moonlight is lovely tonight.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for sweet osmanthus flowers, then the Mandarin for one's native place, then say yuèguāng again

Before you move on

What does yuèguāng mean? ("Moonlight".) Say it once more.

343.2 多年 (duōnián) — for many years

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for one's native place, then the Mandarin for bright moonlight.

You'll want to know: 多年

多年 — duōnián — "for many years".

我们多年没有一起过中秋了 wǒmen duōnián méiyǒu yìqǐ guò Zhōngqiū le — We haven't spent the moon festival together for years.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 多年 (duōnián) is built from 多 'many' and 年 'a year', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ta and nen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'many'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: duōnián
- Say it: duōnián, once more
- Say it: wǒmen duōnián méiyǒu yìqǐ guò Zhōngqiū le — We haven't spent the moon festival together for years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for one's native place, then the Mandarin for bright moonlight, then say duōnián again

Before you move on

What does 多年 mean? ("For many years".) Say it once more.

343.3 心中 (xīnzhōng) — in one's heart

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for bright moonlight, then the Mandarin for for many years now.

You'll want to know: 心中

心中 — xīnzhōng — "in one's heart".

在我心中这是最好的中秋 zài wǒ xīnzhōng zhè shì zuì hǎo de Zhōngqiū — To my mind, this is the best moon festival ever.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 心中 (xīnzhōng) is built from 心 'the heart' and 中 'the middle', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sim and trjuwng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xīnzhōng
- Say it: xīnzhōng, once more

- Say it: zài wǒ xīnzhōng zhè shì zuì hǎo de Zhōngqiū — To my mind, this is the best moon festival ever.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for bright moonlight, then the Mandarin for for many years now, then say xīnzhōng again

Before you move on

What does 心中 mean? ("In one's heart".) Say it once more.

343.4 zhùfú — blessing; good wishes

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for for many years now, then the Mandarin for deep in one's heart.

You'll want to know: zhùfú

zhùfú — "blessing; good wishes".

Zhōngqiū nà tiān wǒ shōudào le péngyou de zhùfú — On the day of the moon festival I got good wishes from my friends.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

zhùfú is built from 祝 'to bless' and fú 'good fortune', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyuwH and pjuwk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'virtue' and 'divine help'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: zhùfú
- Say it: zhùfú, once more
- Say it: Zhōngqiū nà tiān wǒ shōudào le péngyou de zhùfú — On the day of the moon festival I got good wishes from my friends.

- Recall: say the Mandarin for for many years now, then the Mandarin for deep in one's heart, then say zhùfú again

Before you move on

What does zhùfú mean? ("Blessing; good wishes".) Say it once more.

343.5 fēnxiǎng — to share

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for deep in one's heart, then the Mandarin for good wishes sent to someone.

You'll want to know: fēnxiǎng

fēnxiǎng — "to share".

wǒ hé tóngshì fēnxiǎng le wǒ de yuèbǐng — I shared my mooncakes with my colleagues.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fēnxiǎng is built from fēn 'to divide' and xiǎng 'to offer', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjun and xjangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to hand out' and lists the second under an older spelling, 'to offer up'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: fēnxiǎng
- Say it: fēnxiǎng, once more
- Say it: wǒ hé tóngshì fēnxiǎng le wǒ de yuèbǐng — I shared my mooncakes with my colleagues.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for deep in one's heart, then the Mandarin for good wishes sent to someone, then say fēnxiǎng again

Before you move on

What does fēnxiǎng mean? ("To share".) Say it once more.

Chapter 344

Keeping Memories

Modes: voice (4) eyes (1) Hands-free start: the first 3 of 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say I kept something, talk about memories, the past and a photo album, and say I will never forget.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 344: I can say I kept something, talk about memories, the past and a photo album, and say I will never forget.

344.1 bǎocún — to keep; to save

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for good wishes sent to someone, then the Mandarin for to share good things.

You'll want to know: bǎocún

bǎocún — "to keep; to save".

> tā de xìn wǒ dōu bǎocún zài shūfáng lǐ — I've kept all his letters in the study.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bǎocún is built from bǎo and cún, both inherited from Middle Chinese, pawX and dzwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to keep safe' and the second 'to be there'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: bǎocún
- Say it: bǎocún, once more
- Say it: tā de xìn wǒ dōu bǎocún zài shūfáng lǐ — I've kept all his letters in the study.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for good wishes sent to someone, then the Mandarin for to share good things, then say bǎocún again

Before you move on

What does bǎocún mean? ("To keep; to save".) Say it once more.

344.2 jìyì — memory

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to share good things, then the Mandarin for to keep something safe.

You'll want to know: jìyì

jìyì — "memory".

nà shì wǒ zuì hǎo de jìyì — That's my best memory.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jìyì is built from jì and yì, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kiH and 'ik (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to record' and the second 'to think of'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jìyì
- Say it: jìyì, once more
- Say it: nà shì wǒ zuì hǎo de jìyì — That's my best memory.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to share good things, then the Mandarin for to keep something safe, then say jìyì again

Before you move on

What does jìyì mean? ("Memory".) Say it once more.

344.3 wǎngshì — past events; things of the past

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to keep something safe, then the Mandarin for a memory of the past.

You'll want to know: wǎngshì

wǎngshì — "past events; things of the past".

nà tiān wǎnshang yéye hé wǒmen shuōqǐ le wǎngshì — That evening my grandpa talked to us about the old days.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of wǎngshì is built from wǎng 'to go' and 事 'a matter', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hjwangX and dzriH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to go'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: wǎngshì
- Say it: wǎngshì, once more
- Say it: nà tiān wǎnshang yéye hé wǒmen shuōqǐ le wǎngshì — That evening my grandpa talked to us about the old days.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to keep something safe, then the Mandarin for a memory of the past, then say wǎngshì again

Before you move on

What does wǎngshì mean? ("Past events; things of the past".) Say it once more.

344.4 xiàngcè — photo album

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a memory of the past, then the Mandarin for past events.

You'll want to know: xiàngcè

xiàngcè — "photo album".

wǒ zài xiàngcè lǐ kàndào le xiǎoshíhou de zhàopiàn — In the album I came across photos of myself as a child.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiàngcè is built from xiàng 'a likeness' and cè 'a volume', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sjangH and tsrheak (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to look at' and the second 'bound bamboo slips'. The sense 'a photograph' for the first is modern.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: xiàngcè
- Say it: xiàngcè, once more
- Say it: wǒ zài xiàngcè lǐ kàndào le xiǎoshíhou de zhàopiàn — In the album I came across photos of myself as a child.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a memory of the past, then the Mandarin for past events, then say xiàngcè again

Before you move on

What does xiàngcè mean? ("Photo album".) Say it once more.

344.5 yǒngyuǎn — forever

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for past events, then the Mandarin for a photo album.

You'll want to know: yǒngyuǎn

yǒngyuǎn — "forever".

> wǒ huì yǒngyuǎn jìde nàge Zhōngqiū — I'll always remember that moon festival.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: yǒng is said with a rising tone before yuǎn, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yǒngyuǎn is built from yǒng and yuǎn 'far', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hjwaengX and hjwonX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'long' and the second 'distant'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: yǒngyuǎn
- Say it: yǒngyuǎn, once more
- Say it: wǒ huì yǒngyuǎn jìde nàge Zhōngqiū — I'll always remember that moon festival.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for past events, then the Mandarin for a photo album, then say yǒngyuǎn again

Before you move on

What does yǒngyuǎn mean? ("Forever".) Say it once more.

Chapter 345

Looking Back

Modes: voice (7) Hands-free start: all 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say what people say about the past, say what happened from then on, ask about origins and keep in touch.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 345: I can say what people say about the past, say what happened from then on, ask about origins and keep in touch.

345.1 jùshuō — it is said that; reportedly

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a photo album, then the Mandarin for forever and ever.

You'll want to know: jùshuō

jùshuō — "it is said that; reportedly".

> jùshuō zhège chuánshuō yǒu liǎngqiān nián le — They say this legend is two thousand years old.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jùshuō is built from jù 'to rely on' and 说 'to say', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjoH and sywet (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to lean on' and 'to cite'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: jùshuō
- Say it: jùshuō, once more
- Say it: jùshuō zhège chuánshuō yǒu liǎngqiān nián le — They say this legend is two thousand years old.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a photo album, then the Mandarin for forever and ever, then say jùshuō again

Before you move on

What does jùshuō mean? ("It is said that; reportedly".) Say it once more.

345.2 cóngcǐ — from then on

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for forever and ever, then the Mandarin for reportedly.

You'll want to know: cóngcǐ

cóngcǐ — "from then on".

cóngcǐ wángzǐ hé gōngzhǔ zhù zài yìqǐ — From then on the prince and the princess lived together.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

cóngcǐ is built from 从 'from' and cǐ 'this', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzjowng and tshjeX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to follow' and the second with a word for 'to stop'; the sense 'this' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: cóngcǐ
- Say it: cóngcǐ, once more
- Say it: cóngcǐ wángzǐ hé gōngzhǔ zhù zài yìqǐ — From then on the prince and the princess lived together.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for forever and ever, then the Mandarin for reportedly, then say cóngcǐ again

Before you move on

What does cóngcǐ mean? ("From then on".) Say it once more.

345.3 qǐyuán — origin

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for reportedly, then the Mandarin for from then on.

You'll want to know: qǐyuán

qǐyuán — "origin".

nǐ zhīdào Chūnjié de qǐyuán ma — Do you know how the lunar new year began?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qǐyuán is built from 起 'to rise' and yuán 'a source', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khiX and ngjwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which says of the second that the head of a river is called so.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: qǐyuán
- Say it: qǐyuán, once more
- Say it: nǐ zhīdào Chūnjié de qǐyuán ma — Do you know how the lunar new year began?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for reportedly, then the Mandarin for from then on, then say qǐyuán again

Before you move on

What does qǐyuán mean? ("Origin".) Say it once more.

345.4 wǎngyǒu — online friend

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for from then on, then the Mandarin for the origin of a custom.

You'll want to know: wǎngyǒu

wǎngyǒu — "online friend".

wǒ hé wǒ de wǎngyǒu jiànmiàn le — I met my online friend in person.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: wǎng is said with a rising tone before yǒu, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of wǎngyǒu is built from 网 'a net' and yǒu 'a friend', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjangX and hjuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a net for fish or game'. The internet sense is modern.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: wǎngyǒu
- Say it: wǎngyǒu, once more
- Say it: wǒ hé wǒ de wǎngyǒu jiànmiàn le — I met my online friend in person.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for from then on, then the Mandarin for the origin of a custom, then say wǎngyǒu again

Before you move on

What does wǎngyǒu mean? ("Online friend".) Say it once more.

345.5 yóubiān — postcode

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the origin of a custom, then the Mandarin for an online friend.

You'll want to know: yóubiān

yóubiān — "postcode".

nǐ jiā de yóubiān shì duōshao — What's your postcode?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yóubiān is built from yóu 'the post' and biān 'to arrange', a short form of a longer name. Both are inherited from Middle Chinese, hjuw and pjien (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which calls the first a lodge on the border; the dictionary lists the second under pen and pjien, both glossed 'to put in order'.

What you've built

One more word for telling what happened.

Your turn

- Say it: yóubiān
- Say it: yóubiān, once more
- Say it: nǐ jiā de yóubiān shì duōshao — What's your postcode?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the origin of a custom, then the Mandarin for an online friend, then say yóubiān again

Before you move on

What does yóubiān mean? ("Postcode".) Say it once more.

345.6 Looking back: from Mooncakes to Looking Back

Say the Mandarin for sweet bean paste and a mooncake.

Your turn

- Say it: sweet bean paste, a mooncake, the filling of a dumpling, to taste food with care, trade in a shop
- Say it: to enjoy the moon, the Mid-Autumn Festival, the time during an event, sweet osmanthus flowers, one's native place
- Say it: bright moonlight, for many years now, deep in one's heart, good wishes sent to someone, to share good things
- Say it: to keep something safe, a memory of the past, past events, a photo album, forever and ever
- Say it: reportedly, from then on, the origin of a custom, an online friend, a postcode
- Read it: 饼 秋 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

Sweet bean paste? (dòushā.) A mooncake? (月饼, yuèbǐng.) The filling of a dumpling? (xiànr.) To taste food with care? (pǐncháng.) Trade in a shop? (生意, shēngyi.) To enjoy the moon? (shǎngyuè.) The Mid-Autumn Festival? (中秋, Zhōngqiū.) The time during an event? (期间, qījiān.) Sweet osmanthus flowers? (guìhuā.) One's native place? (jiāxiāng.) Bright moonlight? (yuèguāng.) For many years now? (多年, duōnián.) Deep in one's heart? (心中, xīnzhōng.) Good wishes sent to someone? (zhùfú.) To share good things? (fēnxiǎng.) To keep something safe? (bǎocún.) A memory of the past? (jìyì.) Past events? (wǎngshì.) A photo album? (xiàngcè.) Forever and ever? (yǒngyuǎn.) Reportedly? (jùshuō.) From then on? (cóngcǐ.) The origin of a custom? (qǐyuán.) An online friend? (wǎngyǒu.) A postcode? (yóubiān.)

345.7 Looking Back — once more

Say the Mandarin for reportedly and from then on.

Your turn

- Say it: reportedly, from then on, the origin of a custom, an online friend, a postcode

Before you move on

Reportedly? (jùshuō.) From then on? (cóngcǐ.) The origin of a custom? (qǐyuán.) An online friend? (wǎngyǒu.) A postcode? (yóubiān.)

Chapter 346

Thinking It Over

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say I am thinking something over, give a point of view and say I reckon so.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 346: I can say I am thinking something over, give a point of view and say I reckon so.

346.1 kǎolǜ — to think something over; to consider

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for online friend, then the Mandarin for postcode.

You'll want to know: kǎolǜ

kǎolǜ — "to think something over; to consider".

> wǒ zài kǎolǜ qù bu qù Zhōngguó — I'm thinking over whether to go to China.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of kǎolǜ is built from kǎo and lǜ, both inherited from Middle Chinese, khawX and ljoH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to check' and 'to complete', and the second 'to think'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: kǎolǜ̈
- Say it: kǎolǜ̈, once more
- Say it: wǒ zài kǎolǜ̈ qù bu qù Zhōngguó — I'm thinking over whether to go to China.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for online friend, then the Mandarin for postcode, then say kǎolǜ̈ again

Before you move on

What does kǎolǜ̈ mean? ("To think something over; to consider".) Say it once more.

346.2 guāndiǎn — point of view; standpoint

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for postcode, then the Mandarin for to think something over.

You'll want to know: guāndiǎn

guāndiǎn — "point of view; standpoint".

wǒ juéde zhège guāndiǎn hěn yǒu yìsi — I think that's an interesting point of view.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of guāndiǎn is built from guān and 点 'a point', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwan and temX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to view' and the second 'a dot'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: guāndiǎn
- Say it: guāndiǎn, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhège guāndiǎn hěn yǒu yìsi — I think that's an interesting point of view.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for postcode, then the Mandarin for to think something over, then say guāndiǎn again

Before you move on

What does guāndiǎn mean? ("Point of view; standpoint".) Say it once more.

346.3 感想 (gǎnxiǎng) — impressions afterwards; thoughts

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to think something over, then the Mandarin for a point of view.

You'll want to know: 感想

感想 — gǎnxiǎng — "impressions afterwards; thoughts".

> 看了这本书你有什么感想 kàn le zhè běn shū nǐ yǒu shénme gǎnxiǎng — What did you make of the book once you'd read it?

Two third tones meet in this word: gǎn is said with a rising tone before xiǎng, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 感想 (gǎnxiǎng) is built from 感 'to feel' and 想 'to think', both inherited from Middle Chinese, komX and sjangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to move' and the second 'to think'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: gǎnxiǎng
- Say it: gǎnxiǎng, once more
- Say it: kàn le zhè běn shū nǐ yǒu shénme gǎnxiǎng — What did you make of the book once you'd read it?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to think something over, then the Mandarin for a point of view, then say gǎnxiǎng again

Before you move on

What does 感想 mean? ("Impressions afterwards; thoughts".) Say it once more.

346.4 以为 (yǐwéi) — to wrongly assume; to take it that (often wrongly)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a point of view, then the Mandarin for your impressions afterwards.

You'll want to know: 以为

以为 — yǐwéi — "to wrongly assume; to take it that (often wrongly)".

我以为你不来了 wǒ yǐwéi nǐ bù lái le — I thought you weren't coming.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 以为 (yǐwéi) is built from 以 'to take' and 为 'to make', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yiX and hjwe (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to use' and lists the second as the everyday spelling of a word glossed 'to make'. How the pair came to mean a belief that turns out wrong is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: yǐwéi
- Say it: yǐwéi, once more
- Say it: wǒ yǐwéi nǐ bù lái le — I thought you weren't coming.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a point of view, then the Mandarin for your impressions afterwards, then say yǐwéi again

Before you move on

What does 以为 mean? ("To wrongly assume; to take it that (often wrongly)".) Say it once more.

346.5 gūjì — to reckon; to make a rough guess

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for your impressions afterwards, then the Mandarin for to wrongly assume.

You'll want to know: gūjì

gūjì — "to reckon; to make a rough guess".

yīnwèi xiàyǔ suǒyǐ wǒ gūjì tā bú huì lái — It's raining, so I reckon he won't come.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gūjì is built from gū and jì, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kuX and kejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a market tax' and the second 'to reckon up'. How the first came to mean estimating is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: gūjì
- Say it: gūjì, once more
- Say it: yīnwèi xiàyǔ suǒyǐ wǒ gūjì tā bú huì lái — It's raining, so I reckon he won't come.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for your impressions afterwards, then the Mandarin for to wrongly assume, then say gūjì again

Before you move on

What does gūjì mean? ("To reckon; to make a rough guess".) Say it once more.

Chapter 347

What Do You Mean?

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can ask what something means, say an idea is a good one and say I know from experience.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 347: I can ask what something means, say an idea is a good one and say I know from experience.

347.1 zhǔyi — bright idea; idea of what to do

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to wrongly assume, then the Mandarin for to make a rough guess.

You'll want to know: zhǔyi

zhǔyi — "bright idea; idea of what to do".

> wǒ juéde zhège zhǔyi hěn hǎo — I think that's a good idea.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhǔyi is built from zhǔ and 意 'intent', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyuX and 'iH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to be in charge' and the second 'will'. The second is said light here.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zhǔyi
- Say it: zhǔyi, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhège zhǔyi hěn hǎo — I think that's a good idea.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to wrongly assume, then the Mandarin for to make a rough guess, then say zhǔyi again

Before you move on

What does zhǔyi mean? ("Bright idea; idea of what to do".) Say it once more.

347.2 意思 (yìsi) — meaning; what something means

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to make a rough guess, then the Mandarin for a bright idea.

You'll want to know: 意思

意思 — yìsi — "meaning; what something means".

这个字是什么意思 zhège zì shì shénme yìsi — What does this character mean?

The new character, in pieces: 思 — nine strokes in two pieces: on top a box with a cross inside it, five strokes; under it 心 xīn, the heart, four strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 意思 (yìsi) is built from 意 'intent' and 思 'to think', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'iH and si (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'will' and the second 'to think of'.

The second is said light here.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: yìsi
- Say it: yìsi, once more
- Say it: zhège zì shì shénme yìsi — What does this character mean?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to make a rough guess, then the Mandarin for a bright idea, then say yìsi again

Before you move on

What does 意思 mean? ("Meaning; what something means".) Say it once more.

347.3 思 — a box with a cross, over the heart

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say yìsi — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

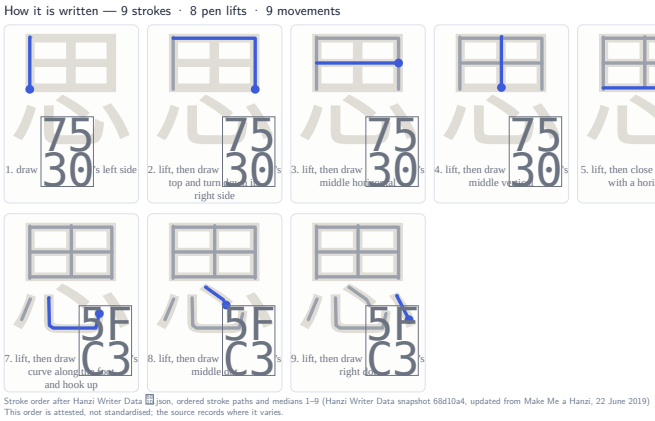
  心 想 意

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — xīn, xiǎng, yì

Script — a box with a cross, over the heart



How 思 is written, stroke by stroke

思

Two pieces, top before bottom. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The top piece, a box with a cross inside, five strokes. A short vertical down the left side. A horizontal along the top that turns down the right side. A short horizontal across the middle. A vertical down the middle. Then the bottom horizontal that closes the box.

The bottom piece, 心, four strokes, wider than the box: the left dot, the long curve along the foot that hooks up, the middle dot, the right dot.

5 + 4 = nine, and the last four your hand already knows.

Your turn

- Write it: 思, all nine, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces in 思? (Two.) Which comes first, the box or the heart? (The box, on top.) How many strokes in the box? (Five.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 思, pinned stroke paths and medians.

347.4 sīkǎo — to think hard; to reflect

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a bright idea, then the Mandarin for what something means.

You'll want to know: sīkǎo

sīkǎo — "to think hard; to reflect".

> tā xǐhuan yí ge rén sīkǎo — He likes to think things through alone.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

sīkǎo is built from 思 'to think' and kǎo 'to check', both inherited from Middle Chinese, si and khawX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to think of' and the second 'to check'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: sīkǎo
- Say it: sīkǎo, once more
- Say it: tā xǐhuan yí ge rén sīkǎo — He likes to think things through alone.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a bright idea, then the Mandarin for what something means, then say sīkǎo again

Before you move on

What does sīkǎo mean? ("To think hard; to reflect".) Say it once more.

347.5 yìyì — significance; meaning

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for what something means, then the Mandarin for to think hard.

You'll want to know: yìyì

yìyì — "significance; meaning".

wǒ juéde zhège gōngzuò hěn yǒu yìyì — I think this work really matters.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

yìyì is built from 意 'intent' and yì 'right conduct', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'iH and ngjeH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'will' and the second 'benevolence and right conduct'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: yìyì
- Say it: yìyì, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhège gōngzuò hěn yǒu yìyì — I think this work really matters.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for what something means, then the Mandarin for to think hard, then say yìyì again

Before you move on

What does yìyì mean? ("Significance; meaning".) Say it once more.

347.6 体会 (tǐhuì) — to know from experience; to come to understand

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to think hard, then the Mandarin for the significance of something.

You'll want to know: 体会

体会 — tǐhuì — "to know from experience; to come to understand".

wǒ néng tǐhuì nǐ de xīnqíng — I know how you feel.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 体会 (tǐhuì) is built from 体 'the body' and 会 'to meet', both inherited from Middle Chinese, thejX and hwajH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the body' and the second 'to come together'. How the pair came to mean knowing from experience is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: tǐhuì
- Say it: tǐhuì, once more
- Say it: wǒ néng tǐhuì nǐ de xīnqíng — I know how you feel.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to think hard, then the Mandarin for the significance of something, then say tǐhuì again

Before you move on

What does 体会 mean? ("To know from experience; to come to understand".) Say it once more.

Chapter 348

Talking It Over

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say we are discussing something, talk it over with the other side and say we all agree.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 348: I can say we are discussing something, talk it over with the other side and say we all agree.

348.1 tǎolùn — to discuss

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the significance of something, then the Mandarin for to know from experience.

You'll want to know: tǎolùn

tǎolùn — "to discuss".

> wǒmen míngtiān kāihuì tǎolùn zhège wèntí — We'll discuss this at tomorrow's meeting.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tǎolùn is built from tǎo and lùn, both inherited from Middle Chinese, thawX and lwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to govern' and 'to punish', and the second 'to speak' and 'to discuss'; it also lists the second in the departing tone, the tone of lùn today.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: tǎolùn
- Say it: tǎolùn, once more
- Say it: wǒmen míngtiān kāihuì tǎolùn zhège wèntí — We'll discuss this at tomorrow's meeting.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the significance of something, then the Mandarin for to know from experience, then say tǎolùn again

Before you move on

What does tǎolùn mean? ("To discuss".) Say it once more.

348.2 shāngliang — to talk it over together; to consult

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to know from experience, then the Mandarin for to discuss.

You'll want to know: shāngliang

shāngliang — "to talk it over together; to consult".

wǒmen yīnggāi gēn lǎoshī shāngliang — We should talk it over with the teacher.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shāngliang is built from shāng and liáng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, syang and ljang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, among other senses, 'to deliberate', and the second 'to measure'. The second is said light here.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: shāngliang
- Say it: shāngliang, once more
- Say it: wǒmen yīnggāi gēn lǎoshī shāngliang — We should talk it over with the teacher.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to know from experience, then the Mandarin for to discuss, then say shāngliang again

Before you move on

What does shāngliang mean? ("To talk it over together; to consult".) Say it once more.

348.3 zhēnglùn — to argue over a point; to debate

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to discuss, then the Mandarin for to talk it over together.

You'll want to know: zhēnglùn

zhēnglùn — "to argue over a point; to debate".

> tāmen zài zhēnglùn zhège wèntí — They're arguing over this question.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhēnglùn is built from zhēng and lùn, both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsreang and lwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to compete' and the second 'to discuss'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zhēnglùn
- Say it: zhēnglùn, once more
- Say it: tāmen zài zhēnglùn zhège wèntí — They're arguing over this question.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to discuss, then the Mandarin for to talk it over together, then say zhēnglùn again

Before you move on

What does zhēnglùn mean? ("To argue over a point; to debate".) Say it once more.

348.4 duìfāng — the other side; the other party

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to talk it over together, then the Mandarin for to argue over a point.

You'll want to know: duìfāng

duìfāng — "the other side; the other party".

nǐ yīnggāi tīng duìfāng shuō wán — You should hear the other side out.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of duìfāng is built from 对 'facing' and fāng 'a side', both inherited from Middle Chinese, twojH and pjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to answer' and 'to match', and the second 'the four quarters'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: duìfāng
- Say it: duìfāng, once more
- Say it: nǐ yīnggāi tīng duìfāng shuō wán — You should hear the other side out.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to talk it over together, then the Mandarin for to argue over a point, then say duìfāng again

Before you move on

What does duìfāng mean? ("The other side; the other party".) Say it once more.

348.5 yízhì — all of one mind; in agreement

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to argue over a point, then the Mandarin for the other party.

You'll want to know: yízhì

yízhì — "all of one mind; in agreement".

dàjiā de yìjiàn hěn yízhì — Everyone was of one mind.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The tone of yī changes here: before a falling tone it is said yí, and the spelling writes the change.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yízhì is built from 一 'one' and zhì 'to arrive', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jit and trijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the start of the numbers' and the second 'to arrive'. How the pair came to mean agreement is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: yízhì
- Say it: yízhì, once more
- Say it: dàjiā de yìjiàn hěn yízhì — Everyone was of one mind.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to argue over a point, then the Mandarin for the other party, then say yízhì again

Before you move on

What does yízhì mean? ("All of one mind; in agreement".) Say it once more.

Chapter 349

Ways of Seeing

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can ask how someone sees a question and talk about ideas and ways of doing things.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 349: I can ask how someone sees a question and talk about ideas and ways of doing things.

349.1 kàndài — to regard (in a certain way)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the other party, then the Mandarin for all of one mind.

You'll want to know: kàndài

kàndài — "to regard (in a certain way)".

> nǐ zěnme kàndài zhège wèntí — How do you view this question?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of kàndài is built from 看 and dài, both inherited from Middle Chinese, khan and dojX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to view' and the second 'to wait'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: kàndài
- Say it: kàndài, once more
- Say it: nǐ zěnme kàndài zhège wèntí — How do you view this question?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the other party, then the Mandarin for all of one mind, then say kàndài again

Before you move on

What does kàndài mean? ("To regard (in a certain way)".) Say it once more.

349.2 想法 (xiǎngfǎ) — idea; way of thinking

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for all of one mind, then the Mandarin for to regard.

You'll want to know: 想法

想法 — xiǎngfǎ — "idea; way of thinking".

我觉得你的想法很好 wǒ juéde nǐ de xiǎngfǎ hěn hǎo — I think your idea is a good one.

The new character, in pieces: 法 — eight strokes in two pieces: on the left the water piece, three strokes, as on the left of 汉; on the right 去 qù, five strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

Two third tones meet in this word: xiǎng is said with a rising tone before fǎ, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 想法 (xiǎngfǎ) is built from 想 'to think' and 法 'a rule', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sjangX and pjop (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to think' and the second 'a rule' and 'a norm'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: xiǎngfǎ
- Say it: xiǎngfǎ, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde nǐ de xiǎngfǎ hěn hǎo — I think your idea is a good one.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for all of one mind, then the Mandarin for to regard, then say xiǎngfǎ again

Before you move on

What does 想法 mean? ("Idea; way of thinking".) Say it once more.

349.3 法 — the water piece, then qù

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say xiǎngfǎ — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

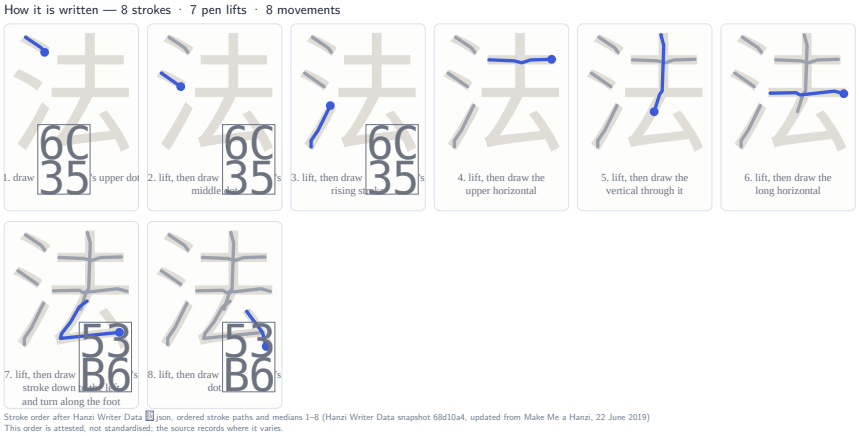
  去 汉 想

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — qù, hàn, xiǎng

Script — the water piece, then qù



How 法 is written, stroke by stroke

法

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the water piece, three strokes, as on the left of 汉: a dot, a second dot under it, then a stroke that rises from the bottom left.

The right piece, 去, five strokes: a short horizontal, a vertical down through it, a long horizontal, then a stroke that falls left and turns right, and a dot.

3 + 5 = eight.

Your turn

- Write it: 法, all eight, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces in 法? (Two.) Which character you know has the same left piece? (汉, or 洗.) What is the right piece read? (qù.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 法, pinned stroke paths and medians.

349.4 说法 (shuōfa) — version of events; way of putting it

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to regard, then the Mandarin for a way of thinking.

You'll want to know: 说法

说法 — shuōfa — "version of events; way of putting it".

我觉得这个说法不对 wǒ juéde zhège shuōfa bú duì — I don't think that's the right way to put it.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 说法 (shuōfa) is built from 说 'to say' and 法 'a rule', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sywet and pjop (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to tell' and the second 'a rule'. The second is said light here.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: shuōfa
- Say it: shuōfa, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhège shuōfa bú duì — I don't think that's the right way to put it.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to regard, then the Mandarin for a way of thinking, then say shuōfa again

Before you move on

What does 说法 mean? ("Version of events; way of putting it".) Say it once more.

349.5 做法 (zuòfǎ) — the way something is done; method

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a way of thinking, then the Mandarin for one version of events.

You'll want to know: 做法

做法 — zuòfǎ — "the way something is done; method".

我觉得这个做法不好 wǒ juéde zhège zuòfǎ bù hǎo — I don't think that's a good way to go about it.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 做法 (zuòfǎ) is built from 做 'to do' and 法 'a rule'. The second is inherited from Middle Chinese pjop (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'a rule'. No dictionary we use records an older form of the first, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zuòfǎ
- Say it: zuòfǎ, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhège zuòfǎ bù hǎo — I don't think that's a good way to go about it.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a way of thinking, then the Mandarin for one version of events, then say zuòfǎ again

Before you move on

What does 做法 mean? ("The way something is done; method".) Say it once more.

349.6 zhǔzhāng — to argue in favour of; to advocate

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for one version of events, then the Mandarin for the way something is done.

You'll want to know: zhǔzhāng

zhǔzhāng — "to argue in favour of; to advocate".

tā zhǔzhāng dàjiā yìqǐ qù — He's in favour of everyone going together.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhǔzhāng is built from zhǔ and zhāng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyuX and trjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to be in charge' and the second 'to spread out'. How the pair came to mean arguing for something is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zhǔzhāng
- Say it: zhǔzhāng, once more
- Say it: tā zhǔzhāng dàjiā yìqǐ qù — He's in favour of everyone going together.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for one version of events, then the Mandarin for the way something is done, then say zhǔzhāng again

Before you move on

What does zhǔzhāng mean? ("To argue in favour of; to advocate".) Say it once more.

Chapter 350

Facts and Grounds

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say what the facts are, what a claim rests on and that it is hard to judge.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 350: I can say what the facts are, what a claim rests on and that it is hard to judge.

350.1 shìshí — fact

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the way something is done, then the Mandarin for to argue in favour of.

You'll want to know: shìshí shìshí — "fact".

> wǒ juéde tā shuō de shì shìshí — I think what he says is true.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shìshí is built from 事 'a matter' and shí, both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzriH and zyit (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'full' and 'sincere'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: shìshí
- Say it: shìshí, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde tā shuō de shì shìshí — I think what he says is true.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the way something is done, then the Mandarin for to argue in favour of, then say shìshí again

Before you move on

What does shìshí mean? ("Fact".) Say it once more.

350.2 zhèngmíng — to prove

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to argue in favour of, then the Mandarin for a fact.

You'll want to know: zhèngmíng

zhèngmíng — "to prove".

nǐ néng zhèngmíng nǐ shuō de huà ma — Can you prove what you say?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhèngmíng is built from zhèng and 明 'bright', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyingH and mjaeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to verify' and the second 'bright'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zhèngmíng
- Say it: zhèngmíng, once more
- Say it: nǐ néng zhèngmíng nǐ shuō de huà ma — Can you prove what you say?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to argue in favour of, then the Mandarin for a fact, then say zhèngmíng again

Before you move on

What does zhèngmíng mean? ("To prove".) Say it once more.

350.3 gēnjù — basis; what something rests on

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a fact, then the Mandarin for to prove.

You'll want to know: gēnjù

gēnjù — "basis; what something rests on".

> yīnwèi méiyǒu gēnjù suǒyǐ wǒ bù xiāngxìn — There's nothing to back it up, so I don't believe it.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gēnjù is built from gēn and jù, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kon and kjoH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a root' and the second 'to rely on'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: gēnjù
- Say it: gēnjù, once more
- Say it: yīnwèi méiyǒu gēnjù suǒyǐ wǒ bù xiāngxìn — There's nothing to back it up, so I don't believe it.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a fact, then the Mandarin for to prove, then say gēnjù again

Before you move on

What does gēnjù mean? ("Basis; what something rests on".) Say it once more.

350.4 pànduàn — to make a judgement; to judge

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to prove, then the Mandarin for a basis for a claim.

You'll want to know: pànduàn

pànduàn — "to make a judgement; to judge".

wǒ bù néng pànduàn tā shuō de shì bu shì shìshí — I can't judge whether what he says is true.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of pànduàn is built from pàn and duàn, both inherited from Middle Chinese, phanH and dwanX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to split' and 'to divide', and the second 'to cut off'; it also lists the second in the departing tone, glossed 'to decide'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: pànduàn
- Say it: pànduàn, once more
- Say it: wǒ bù néng pànduàn tā shuō de shì bu shì shìshí — I can't judge whether what he says is true.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to prove, then the Mandarin for a basis for a claim, then say pànduàn again

Before you move on

What does pànduàn mean? ("To make a judgement; to judge".) Say it once more.

350.5 quèshí — indeed; it is true that

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a basis for a claim, then the Mandarin for to make a judgement.

You'll want to know: quèshí

quèshí — "indeed; it is true that".

tā shuō de quèshí shì shìshí — What he said really is a fact.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of quèshí is built from què and shí, both inherited from Middle Chinese, khaewk and zyit (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'firm' and the second 'full' and 'sincere'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: quèshí
- Say it: quèshí, once more
- Say it: tā shuō de quèshí shì shìshí — What he said really is a fact.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a basis for a claim, then the Mandarin for to make a judgement, then say quèshí again

Before you move on

What does quèshí mean? ("Indeed; it is true that".) Say it once more.

Chapter 351

That Makes Sense

Modes: voice (6) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say someone is in the right, analyse a problem, and talk about ideals and states of mind.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 351: I can say someone is in the right, analyse a problem, and talk about ideals and states of mind.

351.1 fēnxī — to analyse

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to make a judgement, then the Mandarin for indeed.

You'll want to know: fēnxī

fēnxī — "to analyse".

> wǒmen yīnggāi xiān fēnxī wèntí — We should analyse the problem first.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fēnxī is built from fēn and xī, both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjun and sek (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to share out' and the second 'to split'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: fēnxī
- Say it: fēnxī, once more
- Say it: wǒmen yīnggāi xiān fēnxī wèntí — We should analyse the problem first.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to make a judgement, then the Mandarin for indeed, then say fēnxī again

Before you move on

What does fēnxī mean? ("To analyse".) Say it once more.

351.2 有理 (yǒulǐ) — reasonable; in the right

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for indeed, then the Mandarin for to analyse.

You'll want to know: 有理

有理 — yǒulǐ — "reasonable; in the right".

我觉得你说得有理 wǒ juéde nǐ shuō de yǒulǐ — I think you've got a point.

The new character, in pieces: 理 — eleven strokes in two pieces: on the left the jade piece, four strokes, three bars and a vertical, the last bar rising to the right; on the right 里 lǐ, seven strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

Two third tones meet in this word: yǒu is said with a rising tone before lǐ, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 有理 (yǒulǐ) is built from 有 'to have' and 理 'order', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hjuwX and liX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to put in order' and, quoting an older dictionary, 'to work jade'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: yǒulǐ
- Say it: yǒulǐ, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde nǐ shuō de yǒulǐ — I think you've got a point.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for indeed, then the Mandarin for to analyse, then say yǒulǐ again

Before you move on

What does 有理 mean? ("Reasonable; in the right".) Say it once more.

351.3 理 — the jade piece, then lǐ

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say yǒulǐ — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  里 有

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — lǐ, yǒu

Script — the jade piece, then lǐ

How 理 is written, stroke by stroke

理

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the jade piece, four strokes, narrow: a horizontal, a second horizontal, a vertical down through them, then a bar at the foot that rises to the right.

The right piece, 里, seven strokes: a vertical, a horizontal that turns down, a horizontal across the middle, a horizontal closing the box, a vertical down through the middle, a short horizontal, then the long horizontal at the foot.

4 + 7 = eleven, and the last seven your hand already knows.

Your turn

- Write it: 理, all eleven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces in 理? (Two.) What is the right piece read? (lǐ, as in 里.) How does the jade piece end? (With a bar that rises to the right.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 理, pinned stroke paths and medians.

351.4 jiǎnglǐ — to be reasonable; to listen to reason

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to analyse, then the Mandarin for in the right in an argument.

You'll want to know: jiǎnglǐ

jiǎnglǐ — "to be reasonable; to listen to reason".

zhège rén bù jiǎnglǐ — This man won't listen to reason.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: jiǎng is said with a rising tone before lǐ, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiǎnglǐ is built from jiǎng and 理 'order', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaewngX and liX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to tell' and 'to discuss', and the second 'to put in order'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: jiǎnglǐ
- Say it: jiǎnglǐ, once more
- Say it: zhège rén bù jiǎnglǐ — This man won't listen to reason.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to analyse, then the Mandarin for in the right in an argument, then say jiǎnglǐ again

Before you move on

What does jiǎnglǐ mean? ("To be reasonable; to listen to reason".) Say it once more.

351.5 理想 (lǐxiǎng) — ideal; aspiration

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for in the right in an argument, then the Mandarin for to listen to reason.

You'll want to know: 理想

理想 — lǐxiǎng — "ideal; aspiration".

我的理想是当医生 wǒ de lǐxiǎng shì dāng yīshēng — My dream is to be a doctor.

Two third tones meet in this word: lǐ is said with a rising tone before xiǎng, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 理想 (lǐxiǎng) is built from 理 'order' and 想 'to think', both inherited from Middle Chinese, liX and sjangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to put in order' and the second 'to think'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: lǐxiǎng
- Say it: lǐxiǎng, once more
- Say it: wǒ de lǐxiǎng shì dāng yīshēng — My dream is to be a doctor.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for in the right in an argument, then the Mandarin for to listen to reason, then say lǐxiǎng again

Before you move on

What does 理想 mean? ("Ideal; aspiration".) Say it once more.

351.6 心理 (xīnlǐ) — state of mind; psychology

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to listen to reason, then the Mandarin for an ideal to live up to.

You'll want to know: 心理

心理 — xīnlǐ — "state of mind; psychology".

wǒ juéde zhè shì xīnlǐ wèntí — I think it's all in the mind.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 心理 (xīnlǐ) is built from 心 'the heart' and 理 'order', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sim and liX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to put in order'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: xīnlǐ
- Say it: xīnlǐ, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhè shì xīnlǐ wèntí — I think it's all in the mind.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to listen to reason, then the Mandarin for an ideal to live up to, then say xīnlǐ again

Before you move on

What does 心理 mean? ("State of mind; psychology".) Say it once more.

351.7 Looking back: from Thinking It Over to That Makes Sense

Say the Mandarin for to think something over and a point of view.

Your turn

- Say it: to think something over, a point of view, your impressions afterwards, to wrongly assume, to make a rough guess
- Say it: a bright idea, what something means, to think hard, the significance of something, to know from experience
- Say it: to discuss, to talk it over together, to argue over a point, the other party, all of one mind
- Say it: to regard, a way of thinking, one version of events, the way something is done, to argue in favour of
- Say it: a fact, to prove, a basis for a claim, to make a judgement, indeed
- Say it: to analyse, in the right in an argument, to listen to reason, an ideal to live up to, a person's state of mind
- Read it: 思 法 理 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

To think something over? (kǎolǜ.) A point of view? (guāndiǎn.) Your impressions afterwards? (感想, gǎnxiǎng.) To wrongly assume? (以为, yǐwéi.) To make a rough guess? (gūjì.) A bright idea? (zhǔyi.) What something means? (意思, yìsi.) To think hard? (sīkǎo.) The significance of something? (yìyì.) To know from experience? (体会, tǐhuì.) To discuss? (tǎolùn.) To talk it over together? (shāngliang.) To argue over a point? (zhēnglùn.) The other party? (duìfāng.) All of one mind? (yízhì.) To regard? (kàndài.) A way of thinking? (想法, xiǎngfǎ.) One version of events? (说法, shuōfa.) The way something is done? (做法, zuòfǎ.) To argue in favour of? (zhǔzhāng.) A fact? (shìshí.) To prove? (zhèngmíng.) A basis for a claim? (gēnjù.) To make a judgement?

(pànduàn.) Indeed? (quèshí.) To analyse? (fēnxī.) In the right in an argument? (有理, yǒulǐ.) To listen to reason? (jiǎnglǐ.) An ideal to live up to? (理想, lǐxiǎng.) A person's state of mind? (心理, xīnlǐ.)

Chapter 352

Same Here

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say I feel the same, give my approval and say what I really meant.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 352: I can say I feel the same, give my approval and say what I really meant.

352.1 同感 (tónggǎn) — the same feeling

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an ideal to live up to, then the Mandarin for a person's state of mind.

You'll want to know: 同感

同感 — tónggǎn — "the same feeling".

> 我也有同感 wǒ yě yǒu tónggǎn — I feel the same.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 同感 (tónggǎn) is built from 同 'the same' and 感 'to feel', both inherited from Middle Chinese, duwng and komX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'equal' and 'together', and the second 'to move'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: tónggǎn
- Say it: tónggǎn, once more
- Say it: wǒ yě yǒu tónggǎn — I feel the same.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an ideal to live up to, then the Mandarin for a person's state of mind, then say tónggǎn again

Before you move on

What does 同感 mean? ("The same feeling".) Say it once more.

352.2 kěndìng — for sure; without doubt

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a person's state of mind, then the Mandarin for the same feeling.

You'll want to know: kěndìng

kěndìng — "for sure; without doubt".

wǒ juéde tā kěndìng huì tóngyì — I'm sure he'll agree.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of kěndìng is built from two parts, both inherited from Middle Chinese, khongX and dengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to permit' and the second 'to settle'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: kěndìng
- Say it: kěndìng, once more

- Say it: wǒ juéde tā kěndìng huì tóngyì — I'm sure he'll agree.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a person's state of mind, then the Mandarin for the same feeling, then say kěndìng again

Before you move on

What does kěndìng mean? ("For sure; without doubt".) Say it once more.

352.3 rènkě — to give your approval; to accept as good

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the same feeling, then the Mandarin for for sure.

You'll want to know: rènkě

rènkě — "to give your approval; to accept as good".

dàjiā dōu rènkě tā de xiǎngfǎ — Everyone approved of his idea.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

rènkě is built from rèn and kě, both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyinH and khaX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to recognize' and the second 'to permit'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: rènkě
- Say it: rènkě, once more
- Say it: dàjiā dōu rènkě tā de xiǎngfǎ — Everyone approved of his idea.

- Recall: say the Mandarin for the same feeling, then the Mandarin for for sure, then say rènkě again

Before you move on

What does rènkě mean? ("To give your approval; to accept as good".) Say it once more.

352.4 本意 (běnyì) — what one really meant; original intention

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for for sure, then the Mandarin for to give your approval.

You'll want to know: 本意

本意 — běnyì — "what one really meant; original intention".

这不是我的本意 zhè bú shì wǒ de běnyì — That's not what I meant.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 本意 (běnyì) is built from 本 'the root' and 意 'intent', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pwonX and 'iH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the root, as against the branches' and the second 'will'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: běnyì
- Say it: běnyì, once more
- Say it: zhè bú shì wǒ de běnyì — That's not what I meant.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for for sure, then the Mandarin for to give your approval, then say běnyì again

Before you move on

What does 本意 mean? ("What one really meant; original intention".) Say it once more.

352.5 biǎoshì — to make your view known; to express

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to give your approval, then the Mandarin for what one really meant.

You'll want to know: biǎoshì

biǎoshì — "to make your view known; to express".

yīnwèi dàjiā dōu tóngyì suǒyǐ tā yě biǎoshì tóngyì — Everyone agreed, so he said he agreed too.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of biǎoshì is built from biǎo and shì, both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjewX and zyijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to make clear' and the second 'to hand down a sign'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: biǎoshì
- Say it: biǎoshì, once more
- Say it: yīnwèi dàjiā dōu tóngyì suǒyǐ tā yě biǎoshì tóngyì — Everyone agreed, so he said he agreed too.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to give your approval, then the Mandarin for what one really meant, then say biǎoshì again

Before you move on

What does biǎoshì mean? ("To make your view known; to express".) Say it once more.

Chapter 353

You've Got a Point

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say someone has a point, talk someone round and say something is not necessarily so.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 353: I can say someone has a point, talk someone round and say something is not necessarily so.

353.1 shuōfú — to talk someone round; to persuade

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for what one really meant, then the Mandarin for to make your view known.

You'll want to know: shuōfú

shuōfú — "to talk someone round; to persuade".

wǒ juéde nǐ néng shuōfú tā — I think you can talk him round.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shuōfú is built from 说 'to say' and fú, both inherited from Middle Chinese, sywet and bjuwk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to tell' and the second 'to serve' and 'clothes'. How the pair came to mean persuading is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: shuōfú
- Say it: shuōfú, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde nǐ néng shuōfú tā — I think you can talk him round.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for what one really meant, then the Mandarin for to make your view known, then say shuōfú again

Before you move on

What does shuōfú mean? ("To talk someone round; to persuade".) Say it once more.

353.2 道理 (dàoli) — sense; the reason something makes sense

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to make your view known, then the Mandarin for to talk someone round.

You'll want to know: 道理

道理 — dàoli — "sense; the reason something makes sense".

你说得很有道理 nǐ shuō de hěn yǒu dàoli — You've got a point there.

The new character, in pieces: 道 — twelve strokes in two pieces: first a head piece of nine, two short strokes, a bar, a short left-falling stroke and a narrow box with two bars inside; then the walking piece of 这 and 过, three strokes, written last. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 道理 (dàoli) is built from 道 'a way' and 理 'order', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dawX and liX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a principle' and 'a road', and the second 'to put in order'. The second is said light here.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: dàoli
- Say it: dàoli, once more
- Say it: nǐ shuō de hěn yǒu dàoli — You've got a point there.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to make your view known, then the Mandarin for to talk someone round, then say dàoli again

Before you move on

What does 道理 mean? ("Sense; the reason something makes sense".) Say it once more.

353.3 道 — a head piece, then the walking piece

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say dàoli — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  这 过 理

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — zhè, guò, lǐ

Script — a head piece, then the walking piece

How 道 is written, stroke by stroke

道

Two pieces: the head piece first, the walking piece last, although it sits on the left and along the foot. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The head piece, nine strokes. A short stroke falling to the right and a short stroke falling to the left, like two horns. A horizontal under them. A short left-falling stroke. Then a narrow box: a vertical, a horizontal that turns down, two short horizontals inside and one closing the foot.

The walking piece, three strokes, as in 这: a dot, a stroke that zigzags down, then a long sweep along the foot to the right, under the head piece.

9 + 3 = twelve.

Your turn

- Write it: 道, all twelve, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces in 道? (Two.) Which is written first? (The head piece, though the walking piece is on the left.) Where have you written the walking piece? (In 这 and 过.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 道, pinned stroke paths and medians.

353.4 不见得 (bújiànde) — not necessarily

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to talk someone round, then the Mandarin for the sense something makes.

You'll want to know: 不见得

不见得 — bújiànde — "not necessarily".

guì de dōngxi bújiànde hǎo — Expensive things aren't necessarily good.

The tone of bù changes here: before a falling tone it is said bú, and the spelling writes the change.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 不见得 (bújiànde) is built from 不 'not', 见 'to see' and 得 'to get', all three inherited from Middle Chinese, pjut, kenH and tok (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as another word for not, the second 'to see' and the third 'gain'. How the three came to mean not necessarily is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: bújiànde
- Say it: bújiànde, once more
- Say it: guì de dōngxi bújiànde hǎo — Expensive things aren't necessarily good.

- Recall: say the Mandarin for to talk someone round, then the Mandarin for the sense something makes, then say bújiànde again

Before you move on

What does 不见得 mean? ("Not necessarily".) Say it once more.

353.5 fǎnbó — to argue back; to refute

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the sense something makes, then the Mandarin for not necessarily.

You'll want to know: fǎnbó

fǎnbó — "to argue back; to refute".

yīnwèi tā shuō de hěn yǒu dàoli suǒyǐ wǒ méiyǒu fǎnbó — He had a point, so I didn't argue back.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fǎnbó is built from fǎn and bó, both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjonX and paewk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to turn over' and the second 'a horse of mixed colour'. How the pair came to mean arguing back is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: fǎnbó
- Say it: fǎnbó, once more
- Say it: yīnwèi tā shuō de hěn yǒu dàoli suǒyǐ wǒ méiyǒu fǎnbó — He had a point, so I didn't argue back.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the sense something makes, then the Mandarin for not necessarily, then say fǎnbó again

Before you move on

What does fǎnbó mean? ("To argue back; to refute".) Say it once more.

353.6 rèntóng — to share someone's view; to identify with

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for not necessarily, then the Mandarin for to argue back.

You'll want to know: rèntóng

rèntóng — "to share someone's view; to identify with".

wǒ hěn rèntóng nǐ de kànfǎ — I really share your view.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of rèntóng is built from rèn and 同 'the same', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyinH and duwng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to recognize' and the second 'equal'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: rèntóng
- Say it: rèntóng, once more
- Say it: wǒ hěn rèntóng nǐ de kànfǎ — I really share your view.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for not necessarily, then the Mandarin for to argue back, then say rèntóng again

Before you move on

What does rèntóng mean? ("To share someone's view; to identify with".) Say it once more.

Chapter 354

Changing the Subject

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can name a topic, put a question in class and say what something is about.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 354: I can name a topic, put a question in class and say what something is about.

354.1 tíwèn — to put a question (in class or a meeting)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to argue back, then the Mandarin for to share someone's view.

You'll want to know: tíwèn

tíwèn — "to put a question (in class or a meeting)".

> yǒu wèntí zuìhǎo xiàkè yǐhòu tíwèn — If you have a question, it's best to ask after class.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tíwèn is built from tí and 问 'to ask', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dej and mjunH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to carry by the hand' and the second 'to inquire'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: tíwèn
- Say it: tíwèn, once more
- Say it: yǒu wèntí zuìhǎo xiàkè yǐhòu tíwèn — If you have a question, it's best to ask after class.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to argue back, then the Mandarin for to share someone's view, then say tíwèn again

Before you move on

What does tíwèn mean? ("To put a question (in class or a meeting)".) Say it once more.

354.2 话题 (huàtí) — topic of conversation

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to share someone's view, then the Mandarin for to put a question.

You'll want to know: 话题

话题 — huàtí — "topic of conversation".

我觉得这个话题很有意思 wǒ juéde zhège huàtí hěn yǒu yìsi — I think this is an interesting topic.

The new character, in pieces: 题 — fifteen strokes in two pieces: on the left 是 shì, nine strokes, its last stroke sweeping out long under the right side; on the right the page piece, six strokes: a bar, a short left-falling stroke, a narrow box, then a left-falling stroke and a dot under it. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 话题 (huàtí) is built from 话 'talk' and 题 'a heading', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hwaejH and dej (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'speech' and the second 'the title of a book' and, quoting an older dictionary, 'the forehead'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: huàtí
- Say it: huàtí, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhège huàtí hěn yǒu yìsi — I think this is an interesting topic.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to share someone's view, then the Mandarin for to put a question, then say huàtí again

Before you move on

What does 话题 mean? ("Topic of conversation".) Say it once more.

354.3 题 — shì, then the page piece

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say huàtí — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  是 话 问

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — shì, huà, wèn

Script — shì, then the page piece

How 题 is written, stroke by stroke

题

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, 是, nine strokes, narrower than usual: the sun box on top, a long horizontal, then the lower part, whose last stroke sweeps out long to the right, under the right piece.

The right piece, the page piece, six strokes: a horizontal, a short stroke falling to the left, a vertical, a horizontal that turns down, a left-falling stroke inside, then a dot at the foot.

9 + 6 = fifteen, and the first nine your hand already knows.

Your turn

- Write it: 题, all fifteen, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces in 題? (Two.) What is the left piece? (是.) What does its last stroke do? (It sweeps out long, under the page piece.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 題, pinned stroke paths and medians.

354.4 tímù — title; question on a test

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to put a question, then the Mandarin for a topic of conversation.

You'll want to know: tímù

tímù — "title; question on a test".

wǒ kàn bu dǒng zhège tímù — I can't make sense of this question.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tímù is built from 題 'a heading' and mù 'the eye', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dej and mjuwk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the title of a book' and, quoting an older dictionary, the second 'the human eye'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: tímù
- Say it: tímù, once more
- Say it: wǒ kàn bu dǒng zhège tímù — I can't make sense of this question.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to put a question, then the Mandarin for a topic of conversation, then say tímù again

Before you move on

What does tímù mean? ("Title; question on a test".) Say it once more.

354.5 nèiróng — content; what something is about

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a topic of conversation, then the Mandarin for a question on a test.

You'll want to know: nèiróng

nèiróng — "content; what something is about".

zhè běn shū de nèiróng hěn yǒu yìsi — This book has interesting content.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of nèiróng is built from nèi and róng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, nwojH and yowng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to enter' and the second 'to hold'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: nèiróng
- Say it: nèiróng, once more
- Say it: zhè běn shū de nèiróng hěn yǒu yìsi — This book has interesting content.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a topic of conversation, then the Mandarin for a question on a test, then say nèiróng again

Before you move on

What does nèiróng mean? (“Content; what something is about”.) Say it once more.

354.6 tánhuà — to have a serious talk

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a question on a test, then the Mandarin for what something is about.

You’ll want to know: tánhuà

tánhuà — “to have a serious talk”.

lǎoshī xiǎng gēn nǐ tánhuà — The teacher wants a word with you.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tánhuà is built from tán and 话 ’talk’, both inherited from Middle Chinese, dam and hwaejH (Guangyun, in Baxter’s transcription), which glosses the first ’to talk’ and the second ’speech’.

What you’ve built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: tánhuà
- Say it: tánhuà, once more
- Say it: lǎoshī xiǎng gēn nǐ tánhuà — The teacher wants a word with you.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a question on a test, then the Mandarin for what something is about, then say tánhuà again

Before you move on

What does tánhuà mean? (“To have a serious talk”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 355

Thanks, but No

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can turn something down politely, say someone won't do something, and say it to their face.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 355: I can turn something down politely, say someone won't do something, and say it to their face.

355.1 xièjué — to decline politely

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for what something is about, then the Mandarin for to have a serious talk.

You'll want to know: xièjué

xièjué — "to decline politely".

> wǒ qǐng tā chī fàn tā xièjué le — I invited him to dinner, but he politely declined.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xièjué is built from 谢 and jué, both inherited from Middle Chinese, zjaeH and dzjwet (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to take leave' and the second 'to cut off'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: xièjué
- Say it: xièjué, once more
- Say it: wǒ qǐng tā chī fàn tā xièjué le — I invited him to dinner, but he politely declined.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for what something is about, then the Mandarin for to have a serious talk, then say xièjué again

Before you move on

What does xièjué mean? ("To decline politely".) Say it once more.

355.2 好意 (hǎoyì) — good intentions; a kind thought

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to have a serious talk, then the Mandarin for to decline politely.

You'll want to know: 好意

好意 — hǎoyì — "good intentions; a kind thought".

xièxie nǐ de hǎoyì wǒ zìjǐ néng huí jiā — Thanks for the kind thought, but I can get home on my own.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 好意 (hǎoyì) is built from 好 'good' and 意 'intent', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xawX and 'iH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'good' and the second 'will'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: hǎoyì
- Say it: hǎoyì, once more
- Say it: xièxie nǐ de hǎoyì wǒ zìjǐ néng huí jiā — Thanks for the kind thought, but I can get home on my own.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to have a serious talk, then the Mandarin for to decline politely, then say hǎoyì again

Before you move on

What does 好意 mean? ("Good intentions; a kind thought".) Say it once more.

355.3 kěn — to be willing to; to agree to

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to decline politely, then the Mandarin for a kind thought.

You'll want to know: kěn

kěn — "to be willing to; to agree to".

tā bù kěn gàosu wǒ wèishénme — He won't tell me why.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of kěn is inherited from Middle Chinese khongX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it 'to permit' and, quoting an older dictionary, 'the flesh between the bones'. How it came to mean being willing is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: kěn
- Say it: kěn, once more
- Say it: tā bù kěn gàosu wǒ wèishénme — He won't tell me why.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to decline politely, then the Mandarin for a kind thought, then say kěn again

Before you move on

What does kěn mean? ("To be willing to; to agree to".) Say it once more.

355.4 fǒurèn — to deny

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a kind thought, then the Mandarin for to be willing.

You'll want to know: fǒurèn

fǒurèn — "to deny".

wǒ juéde tā bù yīnggāi fǒurèn — I don't think he should deny it.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fǒurèn is built from fǒu and rèn, both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjuwX and nyinH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, quoting an older dictionary, 'not', and the second 'to recognize'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: fǒurèn
- Say it: fǒurèn, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde tā bù yīnggāi fǒurèn — I don't think he should deny it.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a kind thought, then the Mandarin for to be willing, then say fǒurèn again

Before you move on

What does fǒurèn mean? ("To deny".) Say it once more.

355.5 当面 (dāngmiàn) — to someone's face; in person

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be willing, then the Mandarin for to deny.

You'll want to know: 当面

当面 — dāngmiàn — "to someone's face; in person".

nǐ zuìhǎo dāngmiàn gēn tā shuō — You'd better say it to his face.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 当面 (dāngmiàn) is built from 当 and 面 'the face', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tang and mjienH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to match' and 'to preside', and the second 'to face' and 'in front'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: dāngmiàn
- Say it: dāngmiàn, once more
- Say it: nǐ zuìhǎo dāngmiàn gēn tā shuō — You'd better say it to his face.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be willing, then the Mandarin for to deny, then say dāngmiàn again

Before you move on

What does 当面 mean? ("To someone's face; in person".) Say it once more.

Chapter 356

A Missed Chance

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say I missed a chance, slipped up and put a mistake right.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 356: I can say I missed a chance, slipped up and put a mistake right.

356.1 jiàoxun — hard lesson learned

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to deny, then the Mandarin for to someone's face.

You'll want to know: jiàoxun

jiàoxun — "hard lesson learned".

> wǒ juéde zhè shì yí ge hěn hǎo de jiàoxun — I think that's a good lesson to learn.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiàoxun is built from jiào and xùn, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaewH and xjunH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to teach' and the second 'to admonish'. The second is said light here.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: jiàoxun
- Say it: jiàoxun, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhè shì yí ge hěn hǎo de jiàoxun — I think that's a good lesson to learn.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to deny, then the Mandarin for to someone's face, then say jiàoxun again

Before you move on

What does jiàoxun mean? ("Hard lesson learned".) Say it once more.

356.2 错过 (cuòguò) — to miss a chance; to miss a train

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to someone's face, then the Mandarin for a hard lesson learned.

You'll want to know: 错过

错过 — cuòguò — "to miss a chance; to miss a train".

> 我错过了那个机会 wǒ cuòguò le nàge jīhuì — I missed that chance.

The new character, in pieces: 错 — thirteen strokes in two pieces: on the left the metal piece of 钅, five strokes; on the right a short bar with two verticals through it and a long bar under them, then 日 rì, eight strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 错过 (cuòguò) is built from 错 'wrong' and 过 'to pass', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tshak and kwaH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a file' and 'mixed', and the second 'a mistake' and 'to pass over'. How the first came to mean wrong is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: cuòguò
- Say it: cuòguò, once more
- Say it: wǒ cuòguò le nàge jīhuì — I missed that chance.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to someone's face, then the Mandarin for a hard lesson learned, then say cuòguò again

Before you move on

What does 错过 mean? ("To miss a chance; to miss a train".) Say it once more.

356.3 错 — the metal piece, then a cross-bar over the sun

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say cuòguò — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  钱 日 过

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — qián, rì, guò

Script — the metal piece, then a cross-bar over the sun

How 错 is written, stroke by stroke

错

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the metal piece, five strokes, as in 钱: a long left-falling stroke, a short horizontal, a second horizontal, a third that rises to the right, then a vertical that ends rising to the right.

The right piece, eight strokes: a short horizontal, two short verticals down through it, a long horizontal under them, then 日 rì, four strokes, at the foot.

5 + 8 = thirteen.

Your turn

- Write it: 错, all thirteen, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces in 错? (Two.) Which character you know has the same left piece? (钱.) What sits at the foot of the right piece? (日.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 错, pinned stroke paths and medians.

356.4 出错 (chūcuò) — to slip up; to go wrong

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a hard lesson learned, then the Mandarin for to miss a chance.

You'll want to know: 出错

出错 — chūcuò — "to slip up; to go wrong".

他工作从来不出错 tā gōngzuò cónglái bù chūcuò — He never slips up at work.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 出错 (chūcuò) is built from 出 'to come out' and 错 'wrong', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyhwit and tshak (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to go forward' and 'to appear', and the second 'mixed'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: chūcuò
- Say it: chūcuò, once more
- Say it: tā gōngzuò cónglái bù chūcuò — He never slips up at work.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a hard lesson learned, then the Mandarin for to miss a chance, then say chūcuò again

Before you move on

What does 出错 mean? ("To slip up; to go wrong".) Say it once more.

356.5 cuòwù — mistake; error

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to miss a chance, then the Mandarin for to slip up.

You'll want to know: cuòwù

cuòwù — "mistake; error".

wǒ juéde zhège cuòwù bú dà — I don't think it's a big mistake.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

cuòwù is built from 错 'wrong' and wù, both inherited from Middle Chinese, tshak and nguH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'an error'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: cuòwù
- Say it: cuòwù, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhège cuòwù bú dà — I don't think it's a big mistake.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to miss a chance, then the Mandarin for to slip up, then say cuòwù again

Before you move on

What does cuòwù mean? ("Mistake; error".) Say it once more.

356.6 gǎizhèng — to put a mistake right

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to slip up, then the Mandarin for an error.

You'll want to know: gǎizhèng

gǎizhèng — "to put a mistake right".

> nǐ yīnggāi gǎizhèng zhège cuòwù — You should put this mistake right.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gǎizhèng is built from gǎi and 正 'proper', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kojX and tsyengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to change' and the second 'proper' and 'right'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: gǎizhèng
- Say it: gǎizhèng, once more
- Say it: nǐ yīnggāi gǎizhèng zhège cuòwù — You should put this mistake right.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to slip up, then the Mandarin for an error, then say gǎizhèng again

Before you move on

What does gǎizhèng mean? ("To put a mistake right".) Say it once more.

Chapter 357

Owning Up

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say someone admits they were wrong, and talk about tone, angry words, blame and praise.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 357: I can say someone admits they were wrong, and talk about tone, angry words, blame and praise.

357.1 rèncuò — to admit you were wrong

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an error, then the Mandarin for to put a mistake right.

You'll want to know: rèncuò

rèncuò — "to admit you were wrong".

> tā bù kěn rèncuò — He won't admit he was wrong.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of rèncuò is built from rèn and 错 'wrong', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyinH and tshak (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to recognize'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: rèncuò
- Say it: rèncuò, once more
- Say it: tā bù kěn rèncuò — He won't admit he was wrong.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an error, then the Mandarin for to put a mistake right, then say rèncuò again

Before you move on

What does rèncuò mean? ("To admit you were wrong".) Say it once more.

357.2 气话 (qìhuà) — something said in anger

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to put a mistake right, then the Mandarin for to admit you were wrong.

You'll want to know: 气话

气话 — qìhuà — "something said in anger".

他说的是气话 tā shuō de shì qìhuà — He only said it because he was angry.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 气话 (qìhuà) is built from 气 'breath' and 话 'talk', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khj+jH and hwaejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'breath' and the second 'speech'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: qìhuà
- Say it: qìhuà, once more
- Say it: tā shuō de shì qìhuà — He only said it because he was angry.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to put a mistake right, then the Mandarin for to admit you were wrong, then say qìhuà again

Before you move on

What does 气话 mean? ("Something said in anger".) Say it once more.

357.3 口气 (kǒuqì) — tone of voice; way of saying something

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to admit you were wrong, then the Mandarin for something said in anger.

You'll want to know: 口气

口气 — kǒuqì — "tone of voice; way of saying something".

我觉得你说话的口气不太好 wǒ juéde nǐ shuōhuà de kǒuqì bú tài hǎo — I don't think your tone is very nice.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 口气 (kǒuqì) is built from 口 'the mouth' and 气 'breath', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khuwX and khj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, quoting an older dictionary, 'what people speak and eat with', and the second 'breath'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: kǒuqì
- Say it: kǒuqì, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde nǐ shuōhuà de kǒuqì bú tài hǎo — I don't think your tone is very nice.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to admit you were wrong, then the Mandarin for something said in anger, then say kǒuqì again

Before you move on

What does 口气 mean? ("Tone of voice; way of saying something".) Say it once more.

357.4 pīpíng — to criticize

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for something said in anger, then the Mandarin for a tone of voice.

You'll want to know: pīpíng

pīpíng — "to criticize".

yīnwèi tā chídào le suǒyǐ lǎoshī pīpíng le tā — He was late, so the teacher told him off.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of pīpíng is built from pī and píng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, phej and bjaeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to strike' and 'to push', and the second 'to weigh up'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: pīpíng
- Say it: pīpíng, once more
- Say it: yīnwèi tā chídào le suǒyǐ lǎoshī pīpíng le tā — He was late, so the teacher told him off.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for something said in anger, then the Mandarin for a tone of voice, then say pīpíng again

Before you move on

What does pīpíng mean? ("To criticize".) Say it once more.

357.5 biǎoyáng — to praise (in front of others)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a tone of voice, then the Mandarin for to criticize.

You'll want to know: biǎoyáng

biǎoyáng — "to praise (in front of others)".

wǒ juéde nǐ yīnggāi biǎoyáng tā — I think you should praise him.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of biǎoyáng is built from biǎo and yáng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjewX and yang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to make clear' and the second 'to raise' and 'to speak of'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: biǎoyáng
- Say it: biǎoyáng, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde nǐ yīnggāi biǎoyáng tā — I think you should praise him.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a tone of voice, then the Mandarin for to criticize, then say biǎoyáng again

Before you move on

What does biǎoyáng mean? ("To praise (in front of others)".) Say it once more.

357.6 Looking back: from Same Here to Owning Up

Say the Mandarin for the same feeling and for sure.

Your turn

- Say it: the same feeling, for sure, to give your approval, what one really meant, to make your view known
- Say it: to talk someone round, the sense something makes, not necessarily, to argue back, to share someone's view
- Say it: to put a question, a topic of conversation, a question on a test, what something is about, to have a serious talk
- Say it: to decline politely, a kind thought, to be willing, to deny, to someone's face
- Say it: a hard lesson learned, to miss a chance, to slip up, an error, to put a mistake right
- Say it: to admit you were wrong, something said in anger, a tone of voice, to criticize, to praise
- Read it: 道 题 错 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

The same feeling? (同感, tónggǎn.) For sure? (kěndìng.) To give your approval? (rènkě.) What one really meant? (本意, běnyì.) To make your view known? (biǎoshì.) To talk someone round? (shuōfú.) The sense something makes? (道理, dàoli.) Not necessarily? (不见得, bújiànde.) To argue back? (fǎnbó.) To share someone's view? (rèntóng.) To put a question? (tíwèn.) A topic of conversation? (话题, huàtí.) A question on a test? (tímù.) What something is about? (nèiróng.) To have a serious talk? (tánhuà.) To decline politely? (xièjué.) A kind thought? (好意, hǎoyì.) To be willing? (kěn.) To deny? (fǒurèn.) To someone's face? (当面, dāngmiàn.) A hard lesson learned? (jiàoxun.) To miss a chance? (错过, cuòguò.) To slip up? (出错, chūcuò.) An error? (cuòwù.) To put a mistake right? (gǎizhèng.) To admit you were wrong? (rèncuò.) Something said in anger? (气话, qìhuà.) A tone of voice? (口气, kǒuqì.) To criticize? (pīpíng.) To praise? (biǎoyáng.)

Chapter 358

Real Manners

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about good manners, being sincere and modest, and saving face.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 358: I can talk about good manners, being sincere and modest, and saving face.

358.1 lǐmào — good manners; politeness

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to criticize, then the Mandarin for to praise.

You'll want to know: lǐmào

lǐmào — "good manners; politeness".

> zhège háizi hěn yǒu lǐmào — This child has very good manners.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of lǐmào is built from lǐ and mào, both inherited from Middle Chinese, lejX and maewH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, quoting an older dictionary, 'that by which the spirits are served and blessing is brought', and gives the second only as an older spelling. How the pair came to mean manners is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: lǐmào
- Say it: lǐmào, once more
- Say it: zhège háizi hěn yǒu lǐmào — This child has very good manners.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to criticize, then the Mandarin for to praise, then say lǐmào again

Before you move on

What does lǐmào mean? ("Good manners; politeness".) Say it once more.

358.2 真正 (zhēnzhèng) — real; genuine

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to praise, then the Mandarin for good manners.

You'll want to know: 真正

真正 — zhēnzhèng — "real; genuine".

我觉得这是真正的中国菜 wǒ juéde zhè shì zhēnzhèng de Zhōngguó cài — I think this is real Chinese food.

The new character, in pieces: 真 — ten strokes: 十 shí on top, a narrow box with two bars inside it under that, a long bar across, and two short dots under it, left then right. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 真正 (zhēnzhèng) is built from 真 'true' and 正 'proper', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyin and tsyengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'true, as against false' and the second 'proper'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zhēnzhèng
- Say it: zhēnzhèng, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhè shì zhēnzhèng de Zhōngguó cài — I think this is real Chinese food.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to praise, then the Mandarin for good manners, then say zhēnzhèng again

Before you move on

What does 真正 mean? ("Real; genuine".) Say it once more.

358.3 真 — ten, a box, a bar and two dots

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say zhēnzhèng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  十 正

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — shí, zhèng

Script — ten, a box, a bar and two dots

How 真 is written, stroke by stroke

真

One piece, top to bottom. Count it in four parts, not ten strokes.

十 on top, two strokes: a horizontal, then a vertical down through it.

A narrow box, five strokes: a vertical, a horizontal that turns down, two short horizontals inside, then one closing the foot of the box.

A long horizontal across the whole width under the box.

Two short strokes at the foot: one falling to the left, then one falling to the right.

2 + 5 + 1 + 2 = ten.

Your turn

- Write it: 真, all ten, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

What sits on top of 真? (十.) How many bars inside the box? (Two, and one closing it.) What comes last? (Two short strokes, left then right.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 真, pinned stroke paths and medians.

358.4 真心 (zhēnxīn) — sincere; from the bottom of your heart

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for good manners, then the Mandarin for genuine.

You'll want to know: 真心

真心 — zhēnxīn — "sincere; from the bottom of your heart".

我真心觉得你说得有道理 wǒ zhēnxīn juéde nǐ shuō de yǒu dàoli — I honestly think you've got a point.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 真心 (zhēnxīn) is built from 真 'true' and 心 'the heart', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyin and sim (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'true, as against false'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zhēnxīn
- Say it: zhēnxīn, once more
- Say it: wǒ zhēnxīn juéde nǐ shuō de yǒu dàoli — I honestly think you've got a point.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for good manners, then the Mandarin for genuine, then say zhēnxīn again

Before you move on

What does 真心 mean? (“Sincere; from the bottom of your heart”.) Say it once more.

358.5 qiānxū — modest

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for genuine, then the Mandarin for from the bottom of your heart.

You’ll want to know: qiānxū

qiānxū — “modest”.

nǐ tài qiānxū le — You’re being too modest.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qiānxū is built from qiān and xū, both inherited from Middle Chinese, khem and xjo (Guangyun, in Baxter’s transcription), which glosses the first ’respectful’ and ’to yield’, and the second ’empty’.

What you’ve built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: qiānxū
- Say it: qiānxū, once more
- Say it: nǐ tài qiānxū le — You’re being too modest.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for genuine, then the Mandarin for from the bottom of your heart, then say qiānxū again

Before you move on

What does qiānxū mean? (“Modest”.) Say it once more.

358.6 面子 (miànzi) — face; your standing in others' eyes

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for from the bottom of your heart, then the Mandarin for modest about yourself.

You'll want to know: 面子

面子 — miànzi — "face; your standing in others' eyes".

他很要面子 tā hěn yào miànzi — He cares a lot about saving face.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 面子 (miànzi) is built from 面 'the face' and 子, a noun ending, both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjienH and tsiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to face' and the second 'a child'. The second is said light here.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: miànzi
- Say it: miànzi, once more
- Say it: tā hěn yào miànzi — He cares a lot about saving face.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for from the bottom of your heart, then the Mandarin for modest about yourself, then say miànzi again

Before you move on

What does 面子 mean? ("Face; your standing in others' eyes".) Say it once more.

Chapter 359

Rules

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about keeping and breaking rules, putting limits on things, and what is right.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 359: I can talk about keeping and breaking rules, putting limits on things, and what is right.

359.1 guīzé — rules of a game; set procedure

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for modest about yourself, then the Mandarin for face (your standing).

You'll want to know: guīzé

guīzé — "rules of a game; set procedure".

> zhège bǐsài de guīzé hěn jiǎndān — The rules of this game are simple.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

guīzé is built from guī and zé, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjwie and tsok (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'round' and the second 'a rule'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: guīzé
- Say it: guīzé, once more
- Say it: zhège bǐsài de guīzé hěn jiǎndān — The rules of this game are simple.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for modest about yourself, then the Mandarin for face (your standing), then say guīzé again

Before you move on

What does guīzé mean? ("Rules of a game; set procedure".) Say it once more.

359.2 zūnshǒu — to keep to; to abide by

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for face (your standing), then the Mandarin for the rules of a game.

You'll want to know: zūnshǒu

zūnshǒu — "to keep to; to abide by".

wǒmen yīnggāi zūnshǒu guīzé — We should keep to the rules.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zūnshǒu is built from zūn and shǒu, both inherited from Middle Chinese, tswin and syuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to follow' and the second 'to guard'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zūnshǒu
- Say it: zūnshǒu, once more
- Say it: wǒmen yīnggāi zūnshǒu guīzé — We should keep to the rules.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for face (your standing), then the Mandarin for the rules of a game, then say zūnshǒu again

Before you move on

What does zūnshǒu mean? ("To keep to; to abide by".) Say it once more.

359.3 wéifǎn — to break a rule; to go against the law

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the rules of a game, then the Mandarin for to abide by.

You'll want to know: wéifǎn

wéifǎn — "to break a rule; to go against the law".

tā wéifǎn le xuéxiào de guīdìng — He broke the school rules.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of wéifǎn is built from wéi and fǎn, both inherited from Middle Chinese, hjw+j and pjonX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to turn one's back on' and the second 'to turn over'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: wéifǎn
- Say it: wéifǎn, once more
- Say it: tā wéifǎn le xuéxiào de guīdìng — He broke the school rules.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the rules of a game, then the Mandarin for to abide by, then say wéifǎn again

Before you move on

What does wéifǎn mean? ("To break a rule; to go against the law".) Say it once more.

359.4 xiànzhì — to put a limit on; to restrict

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to abide by, then the Mandarin for to break a rule.

You'll want to know: xiànzhì

xiànzhì — "to put a limit on; to restrict".

wǒmen yīnggāi xiànzhì háizi shàngwǎng de shíjiān — We should limit how long children spend online.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiànzhì is built from xiàn and zhì, both inherited from Middle Chinese, heanX and tsyejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a measure' and 'a boundary', and the second 'to restrain'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: xiànzhì
- Say it: xiànzhì, once more
- Say it: wǒmen yīnggāi xiànzhì háizi shàngwǎng de shíjiān — We should limit how long children spend online.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to abide by, then the Mandarin for to break a rule, then say xiànzhì again

Before you move on

What does xiànzhì mean? ("To put a limit on; to restrict".) Say it once more.

359.5 dàodé — morality; ethics

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to break a rule, then the Mandarin for to put a limit on.

You'll want to know: dàodé

dàodé — "morality; ethics".

wǒ juéde zhè shì dàodé wèntí — I think it's a moral question.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

dàodé is built from 道 'a way' and dé 'virtue', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dawX and tok (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a principle' and the second 'virtuous conduct'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: dàodé
- Say it: dàodé, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhè shì dàodé wèntí — I think it's a moral question.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to break a rule, then the Mandarin for to put a limit on, then say dàodé again

Before you move on

What does dàodé mean? ("Morality; ethics".) Say it once more.

Chapter 360

No Need

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say what is necessary, what there is no need for, and what suits the occasion.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 360: I can say what is necessary, what there is no need for, and what suits the occasion.

360.1 gōnggòng — public; shared by everyone

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to put a limit on, then the Mandarin for morality.

You'll want to know: gōnggòng

gōnggòng — "public; shared by everyone".

> zhèr yǒu gōnggòng cèsuǒ ma — Is there a public toilet here?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gōnggòng is built from 公 and gòng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kuwng and gjowngH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'shared' and 'upright', and the second 'together' and 'all'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: gōnggòng
- Say it: gōnggòng, once more
- Say it: zhèr yǒu gōnggòng cèsuǒ ma — Is there a public toilet here?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to put a limit on, then the Mandarin for morality, then say gōnggòng again

Before you move on

What does gōnggòng mean? ("Public; shared by everyone".) Say it once more.

360.2 必要 (bìyào) — necessary

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for morality, then the Mandarin for shared by everyone.

You'll want to know: 必要

必要 — bìyào — "necessary".

我觉得没有必要问这个问题 wǒ juéde méiyǒu bìyào wèn zhège wèntí — I don't think there's any need to ask that.

The new character, in pieces: 必 — five strokes: a dot on the left, the long curve along the foot that hooks up, as in 心, a dot on top, a long left-falling stroke down through the curve, and a dot on the right. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 必要 (bìyào) is built from bì and 要 'to need', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjit and 'jiewH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'certain' and 'so', and the second 'to bind'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: bìyào
- Say it: bìyào, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde méiyǒu bìyào wèn zhège wèntí — I don't think there's any need to ask that.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for morality, then the Mandarin for shared by everyone, then say bìyào again

Before you move on

What does 必要 mean? ("Necessary".) Say it once more.

360.3 必 — the strokes of the heart, with a sweep through them

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say bìyào — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

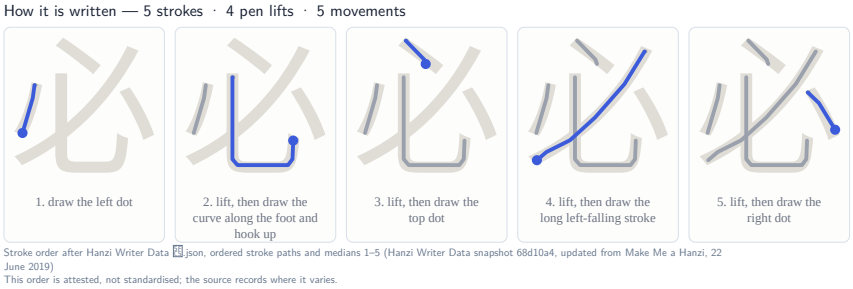
  心 要

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — xīn, yào

Script — the strokes of the heart, with a sweep through them



How 必 is written, stroke by stroke

必

One piece, five strokes. It looks like 心 crossed by a long sweep; the order is its own.

A dot on the left, falling down to the left.

The long curve along the foot, sweeping right and hooking up, as in 心.

A dot on top, falling to the right.

A long left-falling stroke from the top right down through the curve to the bottom left. Only then:

the dot on the right, last.

Five strokes, and the sweep comes before the last dot.

Your turn

- Write it: 必, all five, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 必? (Five.) Which character you know has the same curve? (心.) What comes right before the last dot? (The long left-falling stroke.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 必, pinned stroke paths and medians.

360.4 不必 (búbì) — need not; there's no need to

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for shared by everyone, then the Mandarin for necessary.

You'll want to know: 不必

不必 — búbì — "need not; there's no need to".

> 你不必说对不起你没有错 nǐ búbì shuō duìbuqǐ nǐ méiyǒu cuò — You needn't apologize; you did nothing wrong.

The tone of bù changes here: before a falling tone it is said bú, and the spelling writes the change.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 不必 (búbì) is built from 不 'not' and 必 'surely', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjut and pjit (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'certain' and 'so'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: búbì
- Say it: búbì, once more
- Say it: nǐ búbì shuō duìbuqǐ nǐ méiyǒu cuò — You needn't apologize; you did nothing wrong.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for shared by everyone, then the Mandarin for necessary, then say búbì again

Before you move on

What does 不必 mean? ("Need not; there's no need to".) Say it once more.

360.5 chǎnghé — occasion; setting

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for necessary, then the Mandarin for there's no need to.

You'll want to know: chǎnghé

chǎnghé — "occasion; setting".

nǐ yīnggāi kàn chǎnghé shuōhuà — You should suit what you say to the occasion.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chǎnghé is built from chǎng and hé, both inherited from Middle Chinese, drjang and hop (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a place of offering' and 'a threshing floor', and the second 'to join'. Middle Chinese drjang would regularly give cháng; the dipping tone of chǎng is irregular.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: chǎnghé
- Say it: chǎnghé, once more
- Say it: nǐ yīnggāi kàn chǎnghé shuōhuà — You should suit what you say to the occasion.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for necessary, then the Mandarin for there's no need to, then say chǎnghé again

Before you move on

What does chǎnghé mean? ("Occasion; setting".) Say it once more.

360.6 chāduì — to jump the queue

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for there's no need to, then the Mandarin for the occasion you are in.

You'll want to know: chāduì

chāduì — "to jump the queue".

> dàjiā dōu zài páiduì nǐ bù yīnggāi chāduì — Everyone's queuing; you shouldn't push in.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chāduì is built from chā and duì, both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsrheap and dwojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to thrust in' and the second 'a troop'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: chāduì
- Say it: chāduì, once more
- Say it: dàjiā dōu zài páiduì nǐ bù yīnggāi chāduì — Everyone's queuing; you shouldn't push in.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for there's no need to, then the Mandarin for the occasion you are in, then say chāduì again

Before you move on

What does chāduì mean? ("To jump the queue".) Say it once more.

Chapter 361

A Good Guest, a Good Host

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say hello properly, bow, look after guests and propose a toast.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 361: I can say hello properly, bow, look after guests and propose a toast.

361.1 dǎ zhāohu — to say hello to someone

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the occasion you are in, then the Mandarin for to jump the queue.

You'll want to know: dǎ zhāohu

dǎ zhāohu — "to say hello to someone".

> wǒmen jiànmiàn de shíhou yīnggāi dǎ zhāohu — We should say hello when we meet.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

dǎ zhāohu is built from 扌丁 'to strike' and zhāohu, all three inherited from Middle Chinese, taengX, tsyew and xu (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to strike', the second 'to beckon' and the third 'to call out'. The last syllable is said light.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: dǎ zhāohu
- Say it: dǎ zhāohu, once more
- Say it: wǒmen jiànmiàn de shíhou yīnggāi dǎ zhāohu — We should say hello when we meet.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the occasion you are in, then the Mandarin for to jump the queue, then say dǎ zhāohu again

Before you move on

What does dǎ zhāohu mean? ("To say hello to someone".) Say it once more.

361.2 zhāodài — to look after your guests; to entertain

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to jump the queue, then the Mandarin for to say hello to someone.

You'll want to know: zhāodài

zhāodài — "to look after your guests; to entertain".

tāmen zhāodài kèrén hěn rèqíng — They're very warm hosts.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhāodài is built from zhāo and dài, both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyew and dojX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to beckon' and the second 'to wait'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zhāodài
- Say it: zhāodài, once more
- Say it: tāmen zhāodài kèrén hěn rèqíng — They're very warm hosts.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to jump the queue, then the Mandarin for to say hello to someone, then say zhāodài again

Before you move on

What does zhāodài mean? ("To look after your guests; to entertain".) Say it once more.

361.3 jūgōng — to bow

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to say hello to someone, then the Mandarin for to look after your guests.

You'll want to know: jūgōng

jūgōng — "to bow".

yǎnchū yǐhòu yǎnyuán yìqǐ jūgōng — After the show, the actors bow together.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jūgōng is built from jū and gōng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjuwk and kjuwng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to examine closely' and 'to rear', and the second 'the body'. How the pair came to mean bowing is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: jūgōng
- Say it: jūgōng, once more
- Say it: yǎnchū yǐhòu yǎnyuán yìqǐ jūgōng — After the show, the actors bow together.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to say hello to someone, then the Mandarin for to look after your guests, then say jūgōng again

Before you move on

What does jūgōng mean? ("To bow".) Say it once more.

361.4 jìngjiǔ — to propose a toast

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to look after your guests, then the Mandarin for to bow.

You'll want to know: jìngjiǔ

jìngjiǔ — "to propose a toast".

zài Zhōngguó chī fàn de shíhou dàjiā chángcháng jìngjiǔ — In China people often propose toasts at meals.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jìngjiǔ is built from jìng and jiǔ, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjaengH and tsjuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'respectful' and the second 'wine'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: jìngjiǔ
- Say it: jìngjiǔ, once more
- Say it: zài Zhōngguó chī fàn de shíhou dàjiā chángcháng jìngjiǔ — In China people often propose toasts at meals.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to look after your guests, then the Mandarin for to bow, then say jìngjiǔ again

Before you move on

What does jìngjiǔ mean? ("To propose a toast".) Say it once more.

361.5 看不起 (kànbuqǐ) — to look down on

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to bow, then the Mandarin for to propose a toast.

You'll want to know: 看不起

看不起 — kànbuqǐ — "to look down on".

你不应该看不起他 nǐ bù yīnggāi kànbuqǐ tā — You shouldn't look down on him.

The tone of bù is lost here: between the two parts it is said light, bu.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 看不起 (kànbuqǐ) is built from 看, 不 'not' and 起 'to rise', all three inherited from Middle Chinese, khan, pjut and khiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to view' and the third 'to rise'. How the three came to mean looking down on someone is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: kànbuqǐ
- Say it: kànbuqǐ, once more
- Say it: nǐ bù yīnggāi kànbuqǐ tā — You shouldn't look down on him.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to bow, then the Mandarin for to propose a toast, then say kànbuqǐ again

Before you move on

What does 看不起 mean? ("To look down on".) Say it once more.

Chapter 362

What You Have to Do

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say what you have to do, ask someone not to be loud, and say what is fair.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 362: I can say what you have to do, ask someone not to be loud, and say what is fair.

362.1 dàshēng — loudly; in a loud voice

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to propose a toast, then the Mandarin for to look down on someone.

You'll want to know: dàshēng

dàshēng — "loudly; in a loud voice".

> qǐng búyào dàshēng shuōhuà — Please don't talk loudly.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dàshēng is built from 大 'big' and shēng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, dajH and syeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'big' and the second 'a sound'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: dàshēng
- Say it: dàshēng, once more
- Say it: qǐng búyào dàshēng shuōhuà — Please don't talk loudly.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to propose a toast, then the Mandarin for to look down on someone, then say dàshēng again

Before you move on

What does dàshēng mean? ("Loudly; in a loud voice".) Say it once more.

362.2 必须 (bìxū) — must; it is required that

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to look down on someone, then the Mandarin for in a loud voice.

You'll want to know: 必须

必须 — bìxū — "must; it is required that".

上课的时候必须关手机 shàngkè de shíhou bìxū guān shǒujī — You have to switch your phone off in class.

The new character, in pieces: 须 — nine strokes in two pieces: on the left three left-falling strokes, one under another; on the right the page piece of 题, six strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 必须 (bìxū) is built from 必 'surely' and xū, both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjit and sju (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'certain' and the second 'what the mind wants' and, quoting an older dictionary, 'the hair of the face'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: bìxū
- Say it: bìxū, once more
- Say it: shàngkè de shíhou bìxū guān shǒujī — You have to switch your phone off in class.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to look down on someone, then the Mandarin for in a loud voice, then say bìxū again

Before you move on

What does 必须 mean? ("Must; it is required that".) Say it once more.

362.3 须 — three sweeps, then the page piece

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say bìxū — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  题 必

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — tí, bì

Script — three sweeps, then the page piece

How 须 is written, stroke by stroke

须

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, three strokes: three short strokes falling to the left, one under another, the last the longest.

The right piece, the page piece, six strokes, as on the right of 题: a horizontal, a short left-falling stroke, a vertical, a horizontal that turns down, a left-falling stroke inside, then a dot at the foot.

3 + 6 = nine.

Your turn

- Write it: 须, all nine, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces in 须? (Two.) Where have you written the right piece? (On the right of 题.) How many strokes on the left? (Three, all falling to the left.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 须, pinned stroke paths and medians.

362.4 luàn — messy; in a mess

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for in a loud voice, then the Mandarin for must (a firm requirement).

You'll want to know: luàn

luàn — "messy; in a mess".

nǐ de fángjiān tài luàn le — Your room is far too messy.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of luàn is inherited from Middle Chinese lwanH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it both 'to put in order' and 'disorder'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: luàn
- Say it: luàn, once more
- Say it: nǐ de fángjiān tài luàn le — Your room is far too messy.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for in a loud voice, then the Mandarin for must (a firm requirement), then say luàn again

Before you move on

What does luàn mean? ("Messy; in a mess".) Say it once more.

362.5 公正 (gōngzhèng) — fair; impartial

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for must (a firm requirement), then the Mandarin for in a mess.

You'll want to know: 公正

公正 — gōngzhèng — "fair; impartial".

> 我觉得校长很公正 wǒ juéde xiàozhǎng hěn gōngzhèng — I think the head is very fair.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 公正 (gōngzhèng) is built from 公 and 正 'proper', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kuwng and tsyengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'upright' and 'selfless', and the second 'proper'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: gōngzhèng
- Say it: gōngzhèng, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde xiàozhǎng hěn gōngzhèng — I think the head is very fair.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for must (a firm requirement), then the Mandarin for in a mess, then say gōngzhèng again

Before you move on

What does 公正 mean? ("Fair; impartial".) Say it once more.

362.6 yìwù — duty; obligation

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for in a mess, then the Mandarin for impartial.

You'll want to know: yìwù

yìwù — "duty; obligation".

> wǒ juéde zhè shì dàjiā de yìwù — I think it's everyone's duty.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yìwù is built from yì and wù, both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngjeH and mjuH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'benevolence and right conduct' and the second 'affairs'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: yìwù
- Say it: yìwù, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhè shì dàjiā de yìwù — I think it's everyone's duty.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for in a mess, then the Mandarin for impartial, then say yìwù again

Before you move on

What does yìwù mean? ("Duty; obligation".) Say it once more.

Chapter 363

Out in Public

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about respect, speaking quietly, the law and how people behave.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 363: I can talk about respect, speaking quietly, the law and how people behave.

363.1 zūnzhòng — to show respect for; to respect

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for impartial, then the Mandarin for a duty you owe.

You'll want to know: zūnzhòng

zūnzhòng — "to show respect for; to respect".

> wǒmen yīnggāi zūnzhòng biérén de xiǎngfǎ — We should respect other people's ideas.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zūnzhòng is built from zūn and 重 'heavy', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tswon and drjowngX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'honoured, as against humble' and the second 'much' and 'careful'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zūnzhòng
- Say it: zūnzhòng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen yīnggāi zūnzhòng biérén de xiǎngfǎ — We should respect other people's ideas.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for impartial, then the Mandarin for a duty you owe, then say zūnzhòng again

Before you move on

What does zūnzhòng mean? ("To show respect for; to respect".) Say it once more.

363.2 xiǎoshēng — in a low voice; quietly

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a duty you owe, then the Mandarin for to show respect for.

You'll want to know: xiǎoshēng

xiǎoshēng — "in a low voice; quietly".

zài yīyuàn lǐ yīnggāi xiǎoshēng shuōhuà — You should speak quietly in a hospital.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiǎoshēng is built from 小 'small' and shēng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, sjewX and syeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'tiny' and the second 'a sound'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: xiǎoshēng
- Say it: xiǎoshēng, once more
- Say it: zài yīyuàn lǐ yīnggāi xiǎoshēng shuōhuà — You should speak quietly in a hospital.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a duty you owe, then the Mandarin for to show respect for, then say xiǎoshēng again

Before you move on

What does xiǎoshēng mean? ("In a low voice; quietly".) Say it once more.

363.3 fǎlǜ — law; the law

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to show respect for, then the Mandarin for in a low voice.

You'll want to know: fǎlǜ

fǎlǜ — "law; the law".

wǒmen bìxū zūnshǒu fǎlǜ — We must obey the law.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fǎlǜ is built from 法 'a rule' and lǜ, both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjop and lwit (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a rule' and the second 'the pitch pipes' and 'a law'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: fǎlǜ
- Say it: fǎlǜ, once more
- Say it: wǒmen bìxū zūnshǒu fǎlǜ — We must obey the law.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to show respect for, then the Mandarin for in a low voice, then say fǎlǜ again

Before you move on

What does fǎlǜ mean? ("Law; the law".) Say it once more.

363.4 fànfǎ — to break the law

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for in a low voice, then the Mandarin for the law.

You'll want to know: fànfǎ

fànfǎ — "to break the law".

hējiǔ yǐhòu kāichē fànfǎ — Driving after drinking is against the law.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

fànfǎ is built from fàn and 法 'a rule', both inherited from Middle Chinese, bjomX and pjop (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to offend against' and 'to intrude', and the second 'a rule'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: fànfǎ
- Say it: fànfǎ, once more
- Say it: hējiǔ yǐhòu kāichē fànfǎ — Driving after drinking is against the law.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for in a low voice, then the Mandarin for the law, then say fànfǎ again

Before you move on

What does fànfǎ mean? ("To break the law".) Say it once more.

363.5 sùzhì — a person's quality; upbringing

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the law, then the Mandarin for to break the law.

You'll want to know: sùzhì

sùzhì — "a person's quality; upbringing".

wǒ juéde zhège rén sùzhì hěn gāo — I think he's a very well brought-up person.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of sùzhì is built from sù and zhì, both inherited from Middle Chinese, suH and tsyit (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'empty' and 'silk', and the second 'plain' and 'sincere'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: sùzhì
- Say it: sùzhì, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhège rén sùzhì hěn gāo — I think he's a very well brought-up person.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the law, then the Mandarin for to break the law, then say sùzhì again

Before you move on

What does sùzhì mean? ("A person's quality; upbringing".) Say it once more.

363.6 Looking back: from Real Manners to Out in Public

Say the Mandarin for good manners and genuine.

Your turn

- Say it: good manners, genuine, from the bottom of your heart, modest about yourself, face (your standing)
- Say it: the rules of a game, to abide by, to break a rule, to put a limit on, morality
- Say it: shared by everyone, necessary, there's no need to, the occasion you are in, to jump the queue
- Say it: to say hello to someone, to look after your guests, to bow, to propose a toast, to look down on someone
- Say it: in a loud voice, must (a firm requirement), in a mess, impartial, a duty you owe
- Say it: to show respect for, in a low voice, the law, to break the law, a person's character and upbringing
- Read it: 真 必 须 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

Good manners? (lǐmào.) Genuine? (真正, zhēnzhèng.) From the bottom of your heart? (真心, zhēnxīn.) Modest about yourself? (qiānxū.) Face (your standing)? (面子, miànzi.) The rules of a game? (guīzé.) To abide by? (zūnshǒu.) To break a rule? (wéifǎn.) To put a limit on? (xiànzhì.) Morality? (dàodé.) Shared by everyone? (gōnggòng.) Necessary? (必要, bìyào.) There's no need to? (不必, búbì.) The occasion you are in? (chǎnghé.) To jump the queue? (chāduì.) To say hello to someone? (dǎ zhāohu.) To look after your guests? (zhāodài.) To bow? (jūgōng.) To propose a toast? (jìngjiǔ.) To look down on someone? (看不起, kànbuqǐ.) In a loud voice? (dàshēng.) Must (a firm requirement)? (必须, bìxū.) In a mess? (luàn.) Impartial? (公正, gōngzhèng.) A duty you owe? (yìwù.) To show respect for? (zūnzhòng.) In a low voice? (xiǎoshēng.) The law? (fǎlǜ.) To break the law? (fànfǎ.) A person's character and upbringing? (sùzhì.)

Chapter 364

Not Allowed

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say what is not allowed, urge and remind someone, and say a plan was approved.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 364: I can say what is not allowed, urge and remind someone, and say a plan was approved.

364.1 quàn — to urge; to try to persuade

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to break the law, then the Mandarin for a person's character and upbringing.

You'll want to know: quàn

quàn — "to urge; to try to persuade".

> wǒ quàn tā zuìhǎo bié hējiǔ — I urged him not to drink.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of quàn is inherited from Middle Chinese khjwonH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it 'to encourage' and 'to teach'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: quàn
- Say it: quàn, once more
- Say it: wǒ quàn tā zuìhǎo bié hējiǔ — I urged him not to drink.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to break the law, then the Mandarin for a person's character and upbringing, then say quàn again

Before you move on

What does quàn mean? ("To urge; to try to persuade".) Say it once more.

364.2 不准 (bùzhǔn) — to not allow

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a person's character and upbringing, then the Mandarin for to urge someone.

You'll want to know: 不准

不准 — bùzhǔn — "to not allow".

上课的时候不准吃东西 shàngkè de shíhou bùzhǔn chī dōngxi — No eating in class.

The new character, in pieces: 准 — ten strokes in two pieces: on the left the ice piece of 冷, two strokes; on the right a bird piece, eight strokes: a left-falling stroke, a long vertical, a dot, three short bars, a vertical down through them, and a long bar at the foot. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The tone of bù stays falling here, because the next syllable is not a falling tone.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 不准 (bùzhǔn) is built from 不 'not' and zhǔn, both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjut and tsywinX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which lists the second as the everyday spelling of a word glossed 'even' and 'level'. How it came to mean allowing is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: bùzhǔn
- Say it: bùzhǔn, once more
- Say it: shàngkè de shíhou bùzhǔn chī dōngxi — No eating in class.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a person's character and upbringing, then the Mandarin for to urge someone, then say bùzhǔn again

Before you move on

What does 不准 mean? ("To not allow".) Say it once more.

364.3 准 — the ice piece, then the bird piece

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say bùzhǔn — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  冷 不

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — lěng, bù

Script — the ice piece, then the bird piece

How 准 is written, stroke by stroke

准

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the ice piece, two strokes, as in 冷: a dot, then a stroke rising from the bottom left.

The right piece, the bird piece, eight strokes: a left-falling stroke, a long vertical down the left side, a dot at the top right, three short horizontals, a vertical down through them, then a long horizontal at the foot.

2 + 8 = ten.

Your turn

- Write it: 准, all ten, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces in 准? (Two.) Which character you know has the same left piece? (冷.) What closes the bird piece? (A long horizontal at the foot.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 准, pinned stroke paths and medians.

364.4 biāozhǔn — standard to measure by

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to urge someone, then the Mandarin for to not allow.

You'll want to know: biāozhǔn

biāozhǔn — "standard to measure by".

wǒ juéde zhège biāozhǔn tài gāo le — I think the standard is set too high.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of biāozhǔn is built from biāo and 准 'level', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjiew and tsywinX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to raise' and 'the tip of a tree', and the second 'level'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: biāozhǔn
- Say it: biāozhǔn, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhège biāozhǔn tài gāo le — I think the standard is set too high.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to urge someone, then the Mandarin for to not allow, then say biāozhǔn again

Before you move on

What does biāozhǔn mean? ("Standard to measure by".) Say it once more.

364.5 pīzhǔn — to give official approval; to approve a plan

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to not allow, then the Mandarin for a standard to measure by.

You'll want to know: pīzhǔn

pīzhǔn — "to give official approval; to approve a plan".

xiàozhǎng pīzhǔn le wǒmen de jìhuà — The head approved our plan.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of pīzhǔn is built from pī and 准 'level', both inherited from Middle Chinese, phej and tsywinX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to strike' and 'to show', and the second 'level'. How the pair came to mean approving is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: pīzhǔn
- Say it: pīzhǔn, once more
- Say it: xiàozhǎng pīzhǔn le wǒmen de jìhuà — The head approved our plan.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to not allow, then the Mandarin for a standard to measure by, then say pīzhǔn again

Before you move on

What does pīzhǔn mean? ("To give official approval; to approve a plan".) Say it once more.

364.6 tíxǐng — to remind

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a standard to measure by, then the Mandarin for to give official approval.

You'll want to know: tíxǐng

tíxǐng — "to remind".

qǐng tíxǐng wǒ míngtiān dài shū — Please remind me to bring the book tomorrow.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tíxǐng is built from tí and xǐng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, dej and sengX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to carry by the hand' and the second 'to sober up'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: tíxǐng
- Say it: tíxǐng, once more
- Say it: qǐng tíxǐng wǒ míngtiān dài shū — Please remind me to bring the book tomorrow.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a standard to measure by, then the Mandarin for to give official approval, then say tíxǐng again

Before you move on

What does tíxǐng mean? ("To remind".) Say it once more.

Chapter 365

Yes, but

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say but, suggest what someone should do and say what goes to show.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 365: I can say but, suggest what someone should do and say what goes to show.

365.1 jiànyì — to suggest

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to give official approval, then the Mandarin for to remind someone.

You'll want to know: jiànyì

jiànyì — "to suggest".

> yīnwèi nǐ bìng le suǒyǐ wǒ jiànyì nǐ qù kàn yīshēng — You're ill, so I suggest you go and see a doctor.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiànyì is built from jiàn and yì, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjonH and ngjeH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to set up' and the second 'to deliberate'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: jiànyì
- Say it: jiànyì, once more
- Say it: yīnwèi nǐ bìng le suǒyǐ wǒ jiànyì nǐ qù kàn yīshēng — You're ill, so I suggest you go and see a doctor.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to give official approval, then the Mandarin for to remind someone, then say jiànyì again

Before you move on

What does jiànyì mean? ("To suggest".) Say it once more.

365.2 可是 (kěshì) — but; yet

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to remind someone, then the Mandarin for to suggest.

You'll want to know: 可是

可是 — kěshì — "but; yet".

> 你说得很有道理可是我不想去 nǐ shuō de hěn yǒu dàoli kěshì wǒ bù xiǎng qù — You've got a point, but I don't want to go.

The new character, in pieces: 可 — five strokes: a long bar on top, 口 kǒu under it on the left, three strokes, and a long vertical down the right that hooks at the foot. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 可是 (kěshì) is built from kě and 是, both inherited from Middle Chinese, khaX and dzyeX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to permit' and the second 'right, as against wrong'. How the pair came to mean but is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: kěshì
- Say it: kěshì, once more
- Say it: nǐ shuō de hěn yǒu dàoli kěshì wǒ bù xiǎng qù — You've got a point, but I don't want to go.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to remind someone, then the Mandarin for to suggest, then say kěshì again

Before you move on

What does 可是 mean? ("But; yet".) Say it once more.

365.3 可 — a bar, a mouth and a hook

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say kěshì — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

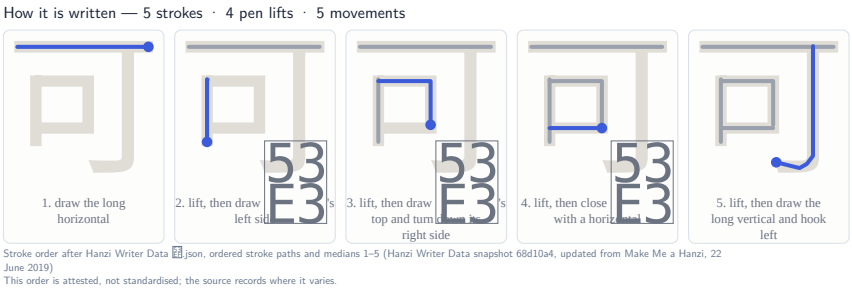
口 是

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — kǒu, shì

Script — a bar, a mouth and a hook



Stroke order after Hanzi Writer Data .json, ordered stroke paths and medians 1–5 (Hanzi Writer Data snapshot 68d10a4, updated from Make Me a Hanzi, 22 June 2019)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How 可 is written, stroke by stroke

可

One piece, five strokes. Count it in three parts.

A long horizontal across the top.

口, three strokes, small, under the bar on the left: a vertical, a horizontal that turns down, and the bottom horizontal.

A long vertical down the right side, from the bar to the foot, hooking up to the left.

1 + 3 + 1 = five.

Your turn

- Write it: 可, all five, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 可? (Five.) What is the small box? (口.) What comes last? (The long vertical with its hook.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 可, pinned stroke paths and medians.

365.4 可见 (kějiàn) — which goes to show; so it is clear that

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to suggest, then the Mandarin for but (in everyday speech).

You'll want to know: 可见

可见 — kějiàn — "which goes to show; so it is clear that".

他每天都准时来可见他很喜欢这儿 tā měitiān dōu zhǔnshí lái kějiàn tā hěn xǐhuan zhèr — He turns up on time every day, which shows he really likes it here.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 可见 (kějiàn) is built from 可 'can' and 见 'to see', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khaX and kenH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to permit' and the second 'to see'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: kějiàn
- Say it: kějiàn, once more
- Say it: tā měitiān dōu zhǔnshí lái kějiàn tā hěn xǐhuan zhèr — He turns up on time every day, which shows he really likes it here.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to suggest, then the Mandarin for but (in everyday speech), then say kějiàn again

Before you move on

What does 可见 mean? ("Which goes to show; so it is clear that".) Say it once more.

365.5 不如 (bùrú) — to do better to; might as well; to be not as good as

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for but (in everyday speech), then the Mandarin for which goes to show.

You'll want to know: 不如

不如 — bùrú — "to do better to; might as well; to be not as good as".

我们不如走路去 wǒmen bùrú zǒulù qù — We might as well walk.

The tone of bù stays falling here, because the next syllable is not a falling tone.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 不如 (bùrú) is built from 不 'not' and 如 'like', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjut and nyo (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'like' and 'as'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: bùrú
- Say it: bùrú, once more
- Say it: wǒmen bùrú zǒulù qù — We might as well walk.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for but (in everyday speech), then the Mandarin for which goes to show, then say bùrú again

Before you move on

What does 不如 mean? ("To do better to; might as well; to be not as good as".) Say it once more.

365.6 zhōnggào — word of advice; warning

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for which goes to show, then the Mandarin for might as well.

You'll want to know: zhōnggào

zhōnggào — "word of advice; warning".

nǐ yīnggāi tīng tā de zhōnggào — You should take his advice.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhōnggào is built from zhōng and gào, both inherited from Middle Chinese, trjuwng and kawH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'selfless' and the second 'to report'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zhōnggào
- Say it: zhōnggào, once more
- Say it: nǐ yīnggāi tīng tā de zhōnggào — You should take his advice.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for which goes to show, then the Mandarin for might as well, then say zhōnggào again

Before you move on

What does zhōnggào mean? ("Word of advice; warning".) Say it once more.

Chapter 366

Take My Advice

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can tell someone to watch out, keep going and not give up, and say something is worth it.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 366: I can tell someone to watch out, keep going and not give up, and say something is worth it.

366.1 bìmiǎn — to avoid

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for might as well, then the Mandarin for a word of advice.

You'll want to know: bìmiǎn

bìmiǎn — "to avoid".

> wǒmen yīnggāi bìmiǎn chūcuò — We should try not to slip up.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bìmiǎn is built from bì and miǎn, both inherited from Middle Chinese, bjieH and mjenX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to turn away' and the second 'to stop' and 'to escape'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: bìmiǎn
- Say it: bìmiǎn, once more
- Say it: wǒmen yīnggāi bìmiǎn chūcuò — We should try not to slip up.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for might as well, then the Mandarin for a word of advice, then say bìmiǎn again

Before you move on

What does bìmiǎn mean? ("To avoid".) Say it once more.

366.2 当心 (dāngxīn) — to watch out; to look out

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a word of advice, then the Mandarin for to avoid.

You'll want to know: 当心

当心 — dāngxīn — "to watch out; to look out".

下雨的时候开车必须当心 xiàyǔ de shíhou kāichē bìxū dāngxīn — You must take care driving in the rain.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 当心 (dāngxīn) is built from 当 and 心 'the heart', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tang and sim (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to match' and 'to preside'. How the pair came to mean watching out is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: dāngxīn
- Say it: dāngxīn, once more
- Say it: xiàyǔ de shíhou kāichē bìxū dāngxīn — You must take care driving in the rain.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a word of advice, then the Mandarin for to avoid, then say dāngxīn again

Before you move on

What does 当心 mean? ("To watch out; to look out".) Say it once more.

366.3 jiānchí — to keep at it; to persist

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to avoid, then the Mandarin for to watch out.

You'll want to know: jiānchí

jiānchí — "to keep at it; to persist".

wǒ juéde xué Hànyǔ yào jiānchí — I think learning Chinese takes perseverance.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiānchí is built from jiān and chí, both inherited from Middle Chinese, ken and dri (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'firm' and the second 'to hold'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: jiānchí
- Say it: jiānchí, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde xué Hànyǔ yào jiānchí — I think learning Chinese takes perseverance.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to avoid, then the Mandarin for to watch out, then say jiānchí again

Before you move on

What does jiānchí mean? ("To keep at it; to persist".) Say it once more.

366.4 fàngqì — to give up

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to watch out, then the Mandarin for to keep at it.

You'll want to know: fàngqì

fàngqì — "to give up".

nǐ bù yīnggāi fàngqì — You shouldn't give up.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fàngqì is built from fàng and qì, both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjangH and khjijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to drive out' and the second, quoting an older dictionary, 'to throw away'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: fàngqì
- Say it: fàngqì, once more
- Say it: nǐ bù yīnggāi fàngqì — You shouldn't give up.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to watch out, then the Mandarin for to keep at it, then say fàngqì again

Before you move on

What does fàngqì mean? ("To give up".) Say it once more.

366.5 zhíde — to be worth it; to be worth doing

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to keep at it, then the Mandarin for to give up.

You'll want to know: zhíde

zhíde — "to be worth it; to be worth doing".

zhè běn shū zhíde kàn — This book is worth reading.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhíde is built from zhí and 得 'to get', both inherited from Middle Chinese, driH and tok (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to hold' and 'to meet with', and the second 'gain'. The second is said light here.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zhíde
- Say it: zhíde, once more
- Say it: zhè běn shū zhíde kàn — This book is worth reading.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to keep at it, then the Mandarin for to give up, then say zhíde again

Before you move on

What does zhíde mean? ("To be worth it; to be worth doing".) Say it once more.

Chapter 367

I See What You Mean

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say I understand someone, know them well, and find an idea ridiculous.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 367: I can say I understand someone, know them well, and find an idea ridiculous.

367.1 wùhuì — to get the wrong idea; to misunderstand

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to give up, then the Mandarin for to be worth it.

You'll want to know: wùhuì

wùhuì — "to get the wrong idea; to misunderstand".

> nǐ wùhuì wǒ de yìsi le — You've misunderstood me.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of wùhuì is built from wù and 会 'to meet', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nguH and hwajH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'an error' and the second 'to come together'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: wùhuì
- Say it: wùhuì, once more
- Say it: nǐ wùhuì wǒ de yìsi le — You've misunderstood me.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to give up, then the Mandarin for to be worth it, then say wùhuì again

Before you move on

What does wùhuì mean? ("To get the wrong idea; to misunderstand".) Say it once more.

367.2 了解 (liǎojiě) — to know in depth; to find out about

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be worth it, then the Mandarin for to get the wrong idea.

You'll want to know: 了解

了解 — liǎojiě — "to know in depth; to find out about".

我很了解他 wǒ hěn liǎojiě tā — I know him well.

The new character, in pieces: 解 — thirteen strokes in three pieces: on the left a horn piece, seven strokes; on the top right a knife piece, two strokes; on the bottom right a cow piece, four strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

Two third tones meet in this word: liǎo is said with a rising tone before jiě, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 了解 (liǎojiě) is built from 了 and 解, both inherited from Middle Chinese, lewX and keaX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'clever' and 'finished', and the second 'to explain' and 'to loosen'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: liǎojiě
- Say it: liǎojiě, once more
- Say it: wǒ hěn liǎojiě tā — I know him well.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be worth it, then the Mandarin for to get the wrong idea, then say liǎojiě again

Before you move on

What does 了解 mean? ("To know in depth; to find out about".) Say it once more.

367.3 解 — a horn, a knife and a cow

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say liǎojiě — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  了 见

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — le, jiàn

Script — a horn, a knife and a cow

How 解 is written, stroke by stroke

解

Three pieces: the horn, then the knife, then the cow. Count three, not thirteen.

The horn piece, seven strokes, on the left: a short left-falling stroke, a horizontal that turns down to the left, a long left-falling stroke down the left side, a horizontal that turns down and hooks, two short horizontals inside, then a vertical down the middle.

The knife piece, two strokes, on the top right: a horizontal that turns down and hooks, then a left-falling stroke inside it.

The cow piece, four strokes, on the bottom right: a short left-falling stroke, a short horizontal, a long horizontal, then a vertical down through them.

7 + 2 + 4 = thirteen.

Your turn

- Write it: 解, all thirteen, with the model in front of you

- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces in 解? (Three: the horn, the knife, the cow.) Which piece comes first? (The horn, on the left.) How many strokes does the knife have? (Two.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 解, pinned stroke paths and medians.

367.4 理解 (lǐjiě) — to understand someone's reasons; to sympathize

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get the wrong idea, then the Mandarin for to know in depth.

You'll want to know: 理解

理解 — lǐjiě — "to understand someone's reasons; to sympathize".

> 因为我也当过学生所以我很理解你 yīnwèi wǒ yě dāng guo xuésheng suǒyǐ wǒ hěn lǐjiě nǐ — I was a student once too, so I really do understand.

Two third tones meet in this word: lǐ is said with a rising tone before jiě, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 理解 (lǐjiě) is built from 理 'order' and 解 'to untie', both inherited from Middle Chinese, liX and keaX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to put in order' and the second 'to explain'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: lǐjiě

- Say it: lǐjiě, once more
- Say it: yīnwèi wǒ yě dāng guo xuésheng suǒyǐ wǒ hěn lǐjiě nǐ — I was a student once too, so I really do understand.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get the wrong idea, then the Mandarin for to know in depth, then say lǐjiě again

Before you move on

What does 理解 mean? ("To understand someone's reasons; to sympathize".) Say it once more.

367.5 见解 (jiànjiě) — insight; considered view

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to know in depth, then the Mandarin for to understand someone's reasons.

You'll want to know: 见解

见解 — jiànjiě — "insight; considered view".

他的见解很有意思 tā de jiànjiě hěn yǒu yìsi — His views are interesting.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 见解 (jiànjiě) is built from 见 'to see' and 解 'to untie', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kenH and keaX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to see' and the second 'to explain'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: jiànjiě
- Say it: jiànjiě, once more

- Say it: tā de jiànjiě hěn yǒu yìsi — His views are interesting.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to know in depth, then the Mandarin for to understand someone's reasons, then say jiànjiě again

Before you move on

What does 见解 mean? ("Insight; considered view".) Say it once more.

367.6 可笑 (kěxiào) — ridiculous; laughable

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to understand someone's reasons, then the Mandarin for an insight.

You'll want to know: 可笑

可笑 — kěxiào — "ridiculous; laughable".

我觉得这个问题很可笑 wǒ juéde zhège wèntí hěn kěxiào — I think that question is ridiculous.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 可笑 (kěxiào) is built from 可 'can' and 笑 'to laugh', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khaX and sjewH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to permit' and the second 'glad'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: kěxiào
- Say it: kěxiào, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhège wèntí hěn kěxiào — I think that question is ridiculous.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to understand someone's reasons, then the Mandarin for an insight, then say kěxiào again

Before you move on

What does 可笑 mean? ("Ridiculous; laughable".) Say it once more.

Chapter 368

Keep Going

Modes: voice (6) Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say at least, name a bad habit, encourage someone and help them choose.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 368: I can say at least, name a bad habit, encourage someone and help them choose.

368.1 zhìshǎo — at least

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an insight, then the Mandarin for ridiculous.

You'll want to know: zhìshǎo

zhìshǎo — "at least".

> nǐ zhìshǎo yīnggāi zhǔnshí lái — You should at least turn up on time.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhìshǎo is built from zhì and 少 'few', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyijH and syewX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to arrive' and the second 'not many'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zhìshǎo
- Say it: zhìshǎo, once more
- Say it: nǐ zhìshǎo yīnggāi zhǔnshí lái — You should at least turn up on time.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an insight, then the Mandarin for ridiculous, then say zhìshǎo again

Before you move on

What does zhìshǎo mean? ("At least".) Say it once more.

368.2 máobìng — fault; bad habit

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for ridiculous, then the Mandarin for at least.

You'll want to know: máobìng

máobìng — "fault; bad habit".

tā yǒu yí ge xiǎo máobìng — He has one little fault.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of máobìng is built from máo and 病 'an illness', both inherited from Middle Chinese, maw and bjaengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, quoting an older dictionary, 'the hair of the brows and the like', and the second 'worry' and 'pain'. How the pair came to mean a fault is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: máobìng
- Say it: máobìng, once more
- Say it: tā yǒu yí ge xiǎo máobìng — He has one little fault.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for ridiculous, then the Mandarin for at least, then say máobìng again

Before you move on

What does máobìng mean? ("Fault; bad habit".) Say it once more.

368.3 了不起 (liǎobuqǐ) — amazing; remarkable

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for at least, then the Mandarin for a bad habit.

You'll want to know: 了不起

了不起 — liǎobuqǐ — "amazing; remarkable".

你真了不起 nǐ zhēn liǎobuqǐ — You're amazing.

The tone of bù is lost here: between the two parts it is said light, bu.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 了不起 (liǎobuqǐ) is built from 了, 不 'not' and 起 'to rise', all three inherited from Middle Chinese, lewX, pjut and khiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'clever' and 'finished' and the third 'to rise'. How the three came to mean remarkable is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: liǎobuqǐ
- Say it: liǎobuqǐ, once more
- Say it: nǐ zhēn liǎobuqǐ — You're amazing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for at least, then the Mandarin for a bad habit, then say liǎobuqǐ again

Before you move on

What does 了不起 mean? ("Amazing; remarkable".) Say it once more.

368.4 gǔlì — to encourage

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a bad habit, then the Mandarin for remarkable.

You'll want to know: gǔlì gǔlì — "to encourage".

lǎoshī chángcháng gǔlì wǒmen — The teacher often encourages us.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

gǔlì is built from gǔ 'a drum' and lì, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kuX and ljejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, quoting an older dictionary, 'to beat a drum', and the second 'to urge on'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: gǔlì
- Say it: gǔlì, once more
- Say it: lǎoshī chángcháng gǔlì wǒmen — The teacher often encourages us.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a bad habit, then the Mandarin for remarkable, then say gǔlì again

Before you move on

What does gǔlì mean? ("To encourage".) Say it once more.

368.5 xuǎnzé — to make a choice

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for remarkable, then the Mandarin for to encourage.

You'll want to know: xuǎnzé

xuǎnzé — "to make a choice".

wǒ juéde nǐ yīnggāi zìjǐ xuǎnzé — I think you should make the choice yourself.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xuǎnzé is built from xuǎn and zé, both inherited from Middle Chinese, sjwenX and draek (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses each of them 'to choose'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: xuǎnzé
- Say it: xuǎnzé, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde nǐ yīnggāi zìjǐ xuǎnzé — I think you should make the choice yourself.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for remarkable, then the Mandarin for to encourage, then say xuǎnzé again

Before you move on

What does xuǎnzé mean? ("To make a choice".) Say it once more.

368.6 Looking back: from Not Allowed to Keep Going

Say the Mandarin for to urge someone and to not allow.

Your turn

- Say it: to urge someone, to not allow, a standard to measure by, to give official approval, to remind someone
- Say it: to suggest, but (in everyday speech), which goes to show, might as well, a word of advice
- Say it: to avoid, to watch out, to keep at it, to give up, to be worth it
- Say it: to get the wrong idea, to know in depth, to understand someone's reasons, an insight, ridiculous
- Say it: at least, a bad habit, remarkable, to encourage, to make a choice
- Read it: 准 可 解 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

To urge someone? (quàn.) To not allow? (不准, bùzhǔn.) A standard to measure by? (biāozhǔn.) To give official approval? (pīzhǔn.) To remind someone? (tíxǐng.) To suggest? (jiànyì.) But (in everyday speech)? (可是, kěshì.) Which goes to show? (可见, kějiàn.) Might as well? (不如, bùrú.) A word of advice? (zhōnggào.) To avoid? (bìmiǎn.) To watch out? (当心, dāngxīn.) To keep at it? (jiānchí.) To give up? (fàngqì.) To be worth it? (zhíde.) To get the wrong idea? (wùhuì.) To know in depth? (了解, liǎojiě.) To understand someone's reasons? (理解, lǐjiě.) An insight? (见解, jiànjiě.) Ridiculous? (可笑, kěxiào.) At least? (zhìshǎo.) A bad habit? (máobìng.) Remarkable? (了不起, liǎobuqǐ.) To encourage? (gǔlì.) To make a choice? (xuǎnzé.)

Chapter 369

Making It Clear

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can make something clear, give an example, and add a second point and a further one.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 369: I can make something clear, give an example, and add a second point and a further one.

369.1 说明 (shuōmíng) — to make something clear; to explain clearly

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to encourage, then the Mandarin for to make a choice.

You'll want to know: 说明

说明 — shuōmíng — "to make something clear; to explain clearly".

> 你必须说明为什么不能准时来 nǐ bìxū shuōmíng wèishénme bù néng zhǔnshí lái — You have to explain why you couldn't be on time.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 说明 (shuōmíng) is built from 说 'to say' and 明 'bright', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sywet and mjaeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to tell' and the second 'bright'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: shuōmíng
- Say it: shuōmíng, once more
- Say it: nǐ bìxū shuōmíng wèishénme bù néng zhǔnshí lái — You have to explain why you couldn't be on time.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to encourage, then the Mandarin for to make a choice, then say shuōmíng again

Before you move on

What does 说明 mean? ("To make something clear; to explain clearly".) Say it once more.

369.2 但是 (dànshì) — but; however

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to make a choice, then the Mandarin for to make something clear.

You'll want to know: 但是

但是 — dànshì — "but; however".

> 我觉得他很好但是我不喜欢他 wǒ juéde tā hěn hǎo dànshì wǒ bù xǐhuan tā — I think he's nice, but I don't like him.

The new character, in pieces: 但 — seven strokes in two pieces: the person piece on the left, two strokes; on the right 日 rì, four strokes, over a long bar, five strokes in all. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 但是 (dànshì) is built from dàn and 是, both inherited from Middle Chinese, danX and dzyeX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as a particle and 'only', and the second 'right, as against wrong'. How the pair came to mean but is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: dànshì
- Say it: dànshì, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde tā hěn hǎo dànshì wǒ bù xǐhuan tā — I think he's nice, but I don't like him.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to make a choice, then the Mandarin for to make something clear, then say dànshì again

Before you move on

What does 但是 mean? ("But; however".) Say it once more.

369.3 但 — the person piece, then the sun over a line

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say dànshì — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

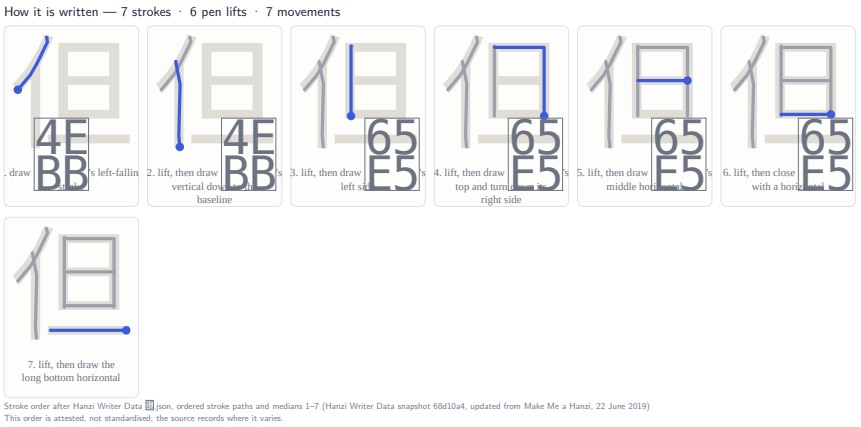
  你 日

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — nǐ, rì

Script — the person piece, then the sun over a line



How 但 is written, stroke by stroke

但

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, 亻, two strokes, as in 你: a left-falling stroke, then a vertical.

The right piece, five strokes: 日, four strokes, a vertical, a horizontal that turns down, a short horizontal inside and the bottom one; then 一, a long horizontal under it, with a little space between.

2 + 5 = seven.

Your turn

- Write it: 但, all seven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 但? (Seven.) What sits on the right? (日 over 一.) Which piece comes first? (亻 , the person piece.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 但, pinned stroke paths and medians.

369.4 jǔlì — to give an example

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to make something clear, then the Mandarin for however.

You'll want to know: jǔlì

jǔlì — "to give an example".

nǐ néng jǔlì shuōmíng ma — Can you give an example?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jǔlì is built from jǔ and lì, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjoX and ljejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to lift' and the second 'to compare'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: jǔlì
- Say it: jǔlì, once more
- Say it: nǐ néng jǔlì shuōmíng ma — Can you give an example?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to make something clear, then the Mandarin for however, then say jǔlì again

Before you move on

What does jǔlì mean? ("To give an example".) Say it once more.

369.5 qícì — secondly; second in order

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for however, then the Mandarin for to give an example.

You'll want to know: qícì

qícì — "secondly; second in order".

> shǒuxiān yīnggāi zhǔnshí qícì yīnggāi yǒu lǐmào — First, be on time; second, be polite.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qícì is built from qí and cì, both inherited from Middle Chinese, gi and tshijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as a particle and the second 'order' and 'the next'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: qícì
- Say it: qícì, once more
- Say it: shǒuxiān yīnggāi zhǔnshí qícì yīnggāi yǒu lǐmào — First, be on time; second, be polite.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for however, then the Mandarin for to give an example, then say qícì again

Before you move on

What does qícì mean? ("Secondly; second in order".) Say it once more.

369.6 lìngwài — besides; in addition

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to give an example, then the Mandarin for secondly.

You'll want to know: lìngwài

lìngwài — "besides; in addition".

> zhège tài guì le lìngwài wǒ yě bù xǐhuan — This one's too expensive, and besides, I don't like it.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of lìngwài is built from lìng 'separate' and 外 'outside'. The second is inherited from Middle Chinese ngwajH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'the outside' and 'far'. No dictionary we use records an older form of the first, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: lìngwài
- Say it: lìngwài, once more
- Say it: zhège tài guì le lìngwài wǒ yě bù xǐhuan — This one's too expensive, and besides, I don't like it.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to give an example, then the Mandarin for secondly, then say lìngwài again

Before you move on

What does lìngwài mean? ("Besides; in addition".) Say it once more.

Chapter 370

The Key Point

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can name a factor and the key point, say what effect something had, and sum up.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 370: I can name a factor and the key point, say what effect something had, and sum up.

370.1 yīnsù — factor

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for secondly, then the Mandarin for in addition.

You'll want to know: yīnsù

yīnsù — "factor".

> wǒ juéde tiānqì shì yí ge zhòngyào de yīnsù — I think the weather is an important factor.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yīnsù is built from 因 'a cause' and sù, both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jin and suH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to rely on' and 'a cause', and the second 'empty' and 'silk'. How the pair came to mean a factor is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: yīnsù
- Say it: yīnsù, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde tiānqì shì yí ge zhòngyào de yīnsù — I think the weather is an important factor.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for secondly, then the Mandarin for in addition, then say yīnsù again

Before you move on

What does yīnsù mean? ("Factor".) Say it once more.

370.2 bìjìng — after all; all things considered

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for in addition, then the Mandarin for a factor.

You'll want to know: bìjìng

bìjìng — "after all; all things considered".

tā bìjìng shì háizi — He's only a child, after all.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bìjìng is built from bì and jìng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjit and kjaengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the end' and the second 'to use up' and 'the end'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: bìjìng
- Say it: bìjìng, once more
- Say it: tā bìjìng shì háizi — He's only a child, after all.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for in addition, then the Mandarin for a factor, then say bìjìng again

Before you move on

What does bìjìng mean? ("After all; all things considered".) Say it once more.

370.3 guānjiàn — key; crucial point

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a factor, then the Mandarin for all things considered.

You'll want to know: guānjiàn

guānjiàn — "key; crucial point".

wǒ juéde guānjiàn shì shíjiān — I think the key thing is time.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of guānjiàn is built from 关 'to shut' and jiàn, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwaen and gjen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, quoting an older dictionary, 'a bar across a door', and the second 'a lock'. Middle Chinese gjen would regularly give qián; the dictionary also lists the character in the rising tone, which fits jiàn.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: guānjiàn
- Say it: guānjiàn, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde guānjiàn shì shíjiān — I think the key thing is time.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a factor, then the Mandarin for all things considered, then say guānjiàn again

Before you move on

What does guānjiàn mean? ("Key; crucial point".) Say it once more.

370.4 作用 (zuòyòng) — effect; function

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for all things considered, then the Mandarin for the crucial point.

You'll want to know: 作用

作用 — zuòyòng — "effect; function".

我说的话没有作用 wǒ shuō de huà méiyǒu zuòyòng — What I said had no effect.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 作用 (zuòyòng) is built from 作 'to do' and 用 'to use', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsak and youngH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to do' and 'to rise', and the second 'to use'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zuòyòng
- Say it: zuòyòng, once more

- Say it: wǒ shuō de huà méiyǒu zuòyòng — What I said had no effect.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for all things considered, then the Mandarin for the crucial point, then say zuòyòng again

Before you move on

What does 作用 mean? ("Effect; function".) Say it once more.

370.5 zǒngzhī — in short; in a word

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the crucial point, then the Mandarin for the effect something has.

You'll want to know: zǒngzhī

zǒngzhī — "in short; in a word".

zǒngzhī wǒ juéde nǐ yīnggāi qù — In short, I think you should go.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zǒngzhī is built from zǒng and zhī, both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsuwngX and tsyi (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to bind together' and 'all', and the second 'to go'. How the pair came to mean in short is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zǒngzhī
- Say it: zǒngzhī, once more
- Say it: zǒngzhī wǒ juéde nǐ yīnggāi qù — In short, I think you should go.

- Recall: say the Mandarin for the crucial point, then the Mandarin for the effect something has, then say zǒngzhī again

Before you move on

What does zǒngzhī mean? ("In short; in a word".) Say it once more.

Chapter 371

Although

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say although, go so far as to say even, and draw a conclusion.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 371: I can say although, go so far as to say even, and draw a conclusion.

371.1 shènzhì — even (going so far as)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the effect something has, then the Mandarin for in short.

You'll want to know: shènzhì

shènzhì — "even (going so far as)".

> tā hěn máng shènzhì méiyǒu shíjiān chī fàn — He's so busy he hasn't even got time to eat.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shènzhì is built from shèn and zhì, both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyimX and tsyijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'excessive' and the second 'to arrive'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: shènzhì
- Say it: shènzhì, once more
- Say it: tā hěn máng shènzhì méiyǒu shíjiān chī fàn — He's so busy he hasn't even got time to eat.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the effect something has, then the Mandarin for in short, then say shènzhì again

Before you move on

What does shènzhì mean? ("Even (going so far as)".) Say it once more.

371.2 虽然 (suīrán) — although

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for in short, then the Mandarin for even (going so far as).

You'll want to know: 虽然

虽然 — suīrán — "although".

虽然下雨了但是我们还是去了 suīrán xiàyǔ le dànshì wǒmen háishi qù le — Although it rained, we still went.

The new character, in pieces: 虽 — nine strokes in two pieces: 口 kǒu on top, and under it an insect piece, six strokes: a small box with a vertical through it, a stroke rising along the foot, and a dot. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 虽然 (suīrán) is built from suī and 然, both inherited from Middle Chinese, swij and nyen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as a particle and the second as a particle and 'like this'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: suīrán
- Say it: suīrán, once more
- Say it: suīrán xiàyǔ le dànshì wǒmen háishi qù le — Although it rained, we still went.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for in short, then the Mandarin for even (going so far as), then say suīrán again

Before you move on

What does 虽然 mean? ("Although".) Say it once more.

371.3 虽 — a mouth over an insect

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say suīrán — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

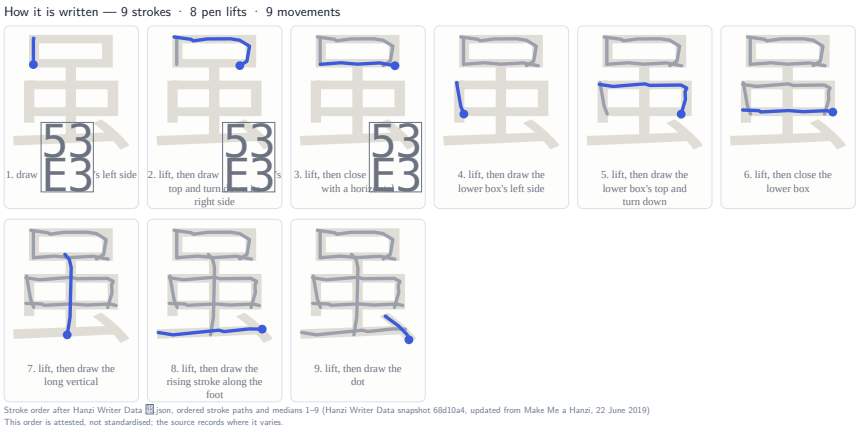
  口 然

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — kǒu, rán

Script — a mouth over an insect



How 虽 is written, stroke by stroke

虽

Two pieces, top before bottom. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The top piece, 口, three strokes, small: a vertical, a horizontal that turns down, the bottom horizontal.

The bottom piece, the insect piece, six strokes: a vertical, a horizontal that turns down, a horizontal closing the small box, a vertical down through it, a stroke rising to the right along the foot, then a dot on the right.

3 + 6 = nine.

Your turn

- Write it: 虽, all nine, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces in 虽? (Two.) What is on top? (口.) What is the last stroke? (A dot on the right.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 虽, pinned stroke paths and medians.

371.4 jiélùn — conclusion

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for even (going so far as), then the Mandarin for although.

You'll want to know: jiélùn

jiélùn — "conclusion".

wǒ juéde zhège jiélùn bú duì — I don't think that conclusion is right.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiélùn is built from jié and lùn, both inherited from Middle Chinese, ket and lwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to tie' and the second 'to discuss'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: jiélùn
- Say it: jiélùn, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhège jiélùn bú duì — I don't think that conclusion is right.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for even (going so far as), then the Mandarin for although, then say jiélùn again

Before you move on

What does jiélùn mean? ("Conclusion".) Say it once more.

371.5 zǒngjié — to sum up

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for although, then the Mandarin for a conclusion.

You'll want to know: zǒngjié

zǒngjié — "to sum up".

> lǎoshī zuìhòu zǒngjié le jīntiān de kè — At the end the teacher summed up the lesson.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zǒngjié is built from zǒng and jié, both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsuwngX and ket (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to bind together' and the second 'to tie'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zǒngjié
- Say it: zǒngjié, once more
- Say it: lǎoshī zuìhòu zǒngjié le jīntiān de kè — At the end the teacher summed up the lesson.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for although, then the Mandarin for a conclusion, then say zǒngjié again

Before you move on

What does zǒngjié mean? ("To sum up".) Say it once more.

371.6 yuánzé — principle

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a conclusion, then the Mandarin for to sum up.

You'll want to know: yuánzé

yuánzé — "principle".

> wǒ juéde měi ge rén dōu yīnggāi yǒu yuánzé — I think everyone should have principles.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yuánzé is built from yuán and zé, both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngjwon and tsok (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a broad plain' and the second 'a rule'. How the first came to mean a source is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: yuánzé
- Say it: yuánzé, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde měi ge rén dōu yīnggāi yǒu yuánzé — I think everyone should have principles.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a conclusion, then the Mandarin for to sum up, then say yuánzé again

Before you move on

What does yuánzé mean? ("Principle".) Say it once more.

Chapter 372

Anyway

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say anyway, ask what on earth someone means, and name someone's strong points.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 372: I can say anyway, ask what on earth someone means, and name someone's strong points.

372.1 fǎnzhèng — anyway; in any case

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to sum up, then the Mandarin for a principle you live by.

You'll want to know: fǎnzhèng

fǎnzhèng — "anyway; in any case".

> nǐ zuìhǎo bié zháojí fǎnzhèng hái yǒu shíjiān — Try not to worry; there's still time anyway.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fǎnzhèng is built from fǎn and 正 'proper', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjonX and tsyengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to turn over' and the second 'proper'. How the pair came to mean anyway is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: fǎnzhèng
- Say it: fǎnzhèng, once more
- Say it: nǐ zuìhǎo bié zhájí fǎnzhèng hái yǒu shíjiān — Try not to worry; there's still time anyway.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to sum up, then the Mandarin for a principle you live by, then say fǎnzhèng again

Before you move on

What does fǎnzhèng mean? ("Anyway; in any case".) Say it once more.

372.2 dàodǐ — on earth (in a question)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a principle you live by, then the Mandarin for anyway.

You'll want to know: dàodǐ

dàodǐ — "on earth (in a question)".

nǐ dàodǐ xiǎng shuō shénme — What on earth are you trying to say?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

dàodǐ is built from 到 'to arrive' and dǐ, both inherited from Middle Chinese, tawH and tejX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to arrive' and the second 'below'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: dàodǐ
- Say it: dàodǐ, once more
- Say it: nǐ dàodǐ xiǎng shuō shénme — What on earth are you trying to say?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a principle you live by, then the Mandarin for anyway, then say dàodǐ again

Before you move on

What does dàodǐ mean? ("On earth (in a question)".) Say it once more.

372.3 同时 (tóngshí) — simultaneously; at the same moment

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for anyway, then the Mandarin for on earth (in a question).

You'll want to know: 同时

同时 — tóngshí — "simultaneously; at the same moment".

他们两个人同时到了 tāmen liǎng ge rén tóngshí dào le — The two of them arrived at the same time.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 同时 (tóngshí) is built from 同 'the same' and 时 'a time', both inherited from Middle Chinese, duwng and dzyi (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'equal' and the second 'a time of day'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: tóngshí
- Say it: tóngshí, once more
- Say it: tāmen liǎng ge rén tóngshí dào le — The two of them arrived at the same time.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for anyway, then the Mandarin for on earth (in a question), then say tóngshí again

Before you move on

What does 同时 mean? ("Simultaneously; at the same moment".) Say it once more.

372.4 用意 (yòngyì) — intention; the purpose behind it

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for on earth (in a question), then the Mandarin for simultaneously.

You'll want to know: 用意

用意 — yòngyì — "intention; the purpose behind it".

虽然他没有说但是我明白他的用意 suīrán tā méiyǒu shuō dànshì wǒ míngbai tā de yòngyì — He didn't say so, but I understand what he meant by it.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 用意 (yòngyì) is built from 用 'to use' and 意 'intent', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yowngH and ʔiH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to use' and the second 'will'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: yòngyì
- Say it: yòngyì, once more
- Say it: suīrán tā méiyǒu shuō dànshì wǒ míngbai tā de yòngyì — He didn't say so, but I understand what he meant by it.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for on earth (in a question), then the Mandarin for simultaneously, then say yòngyì again

Before you move on

What does 用意 mean? ("Intention; the purpose behind it".) Say it once more.

372.5 yōudiǎn — strong point; merit

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for simultaneously, then the Mandarin for the purpose behind it.

You'll want to know: yōudiǎn

yōudiǎn — "strong point; merit".

wǒ juéde zhè shì tā zuì dà de yōudiǎn — I think that's his greatest strength.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yōudiǎn is built from yōu and 点 'a point', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'juw and temX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'abundant' and the second 'a dot'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: yōudiǎn
- Say it: yōudiǎn, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhè shì tā zuì dà de yōudiǎn — I think that's his greatest strength.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for simultaneously, then the Mandarin for the purpose behind it, then say yōudiǎn again

Before you move on

What does yōudiǎn mean? ("Strong point; merit".) Say it once more.

Chapter 373

Pros and Cons

Modes: 🚗 voice (7) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can weigh up strong and weak points, benefits and harm, and tell someone not to take it seriously.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 373: I can weigh up strong and weak points, benefits and harm, and tell someone not to take it seriously.

373.1 quēdiǎn — weak point; shortcoming

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the purpose behind it, then the Mandarin for a strong point.

You'll want to know: quēdiǎn

quēdiǎn — "weak point; shortcoming".

> wǒ juéde měi ge rén dōu yǒu quēdiǎn — I think everyone has their faults.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of quēdiǎn is built from quē and 点 'a point', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khjwiet and temX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'too little' and, quoting an older dictionary, 'a broken vessel', and the second 'a dot'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: quēdiǎn
- Say it: quēdiǎn, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde měi ge rén dōu yǒu quēdiǎn — I think everyone has their faults.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the purpose behind it, then the Mandarin for a strong point, then say quēdiǎn again

Before you move on

What does quēdiǎn mean? ("Weak point; shortcoming".) Say it once more.

373.2 hǎochu — benefit; advantage

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a strong point, then the Mandarin for a weak point.

You'll want to know: hǎochu

hǎochu — "benefit; advantage".

wǒ juéde měitiān yùndòng yǒu hǎochu — I think exercising every day does you good.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of hǎochu is built from 好 'good' and chù, both inherited from Middle Chinese, xawX and tsyhoH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'good' and the second 'a place'. The second is said light here.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: hǎochu
- Say it: hǎochu, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde měitiān yùndòng yǒu hǎochu — I think exercising every day does you good.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a strong point, then the Mandarin for a weak point, then say hǎochu again

Before you move on

What does hǎochu mean? ("Benefit; advantage".) Say it once more.

373.3 huàichu — harm; downside

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a weak point, then the Mandarin for a benefit.

You'll want to know: huàichu

huàichu — "harm; downside".

xīyān yǒu shénme huàichu — What harm does smoking do?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huàichu is built from huài and chù, both inherited from Middle Chinese, hweajH and tsyhoH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to fall apart of itself' and the second 'a place'. The second is said light here.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: huàichu
- Say it: huàichu, once more
- Say it: xīyān yǒu shénme huàichu — What harm does smoking do?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a weak point, then the Mandarin for a benefit, then say huàichu again

Before you move on

What does huàichu mean? ("Harm; downside".) Say it once more.

373.4 天真 (tiānzhēn) — naive; innocent

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a benefit, then the Mandarin for a downside.

You'll want to know: 天真

天真 — tiānzhēn — "naive; innocent".

虽然你说得有理但是你太天真了 suīrán nǐ shuō de yǒulǐ dànshì nǐ tài tiānzhēn le — You may have a point, but you're too naive.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 天真 (tiānzhēn) is built from 天 'the sky' and 真 'true', both inherited from Middle Chinese, then and tsyin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the dark heaven above' and the second 'true, as against false'. How the pair came to mean naive is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: tiānzhēn
- Say it: tiānzhēn, once more
- Say it: suīrán nǐ shuō de yǒulǐ dànshì nǐ tài tiānzhēn le — You may have a point, but you're too naive.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a benefit, then the Mandarin for a downside, then say tiānzhēn again

Before you move on

What does 天真 mean? ("Naive; innocent".) Say it once more.

373.5 当真 (dàngzhēn) — to take it seriously; to take at face value

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a downside, then the Mandarin for naive.

You'll want to know: 当真

当真 — dàngzhēn — "to take it seriously; to take at face value".

nà shì qìhuà nǐ bié dàngzhēn — Those were angry words; don't take them seriously.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 当真 (dàngzhēn) is built from 当 and 真 'true', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tangH and tsyin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to be in charge' and the second 'true, as against false'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: dàngzhēn
- Say it: dàngzhēn, once more
- Say it: nà shì qìhuà nǐ bié dàngzhēn — Those were angry words; don't take them seriously.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a downside, then the Mandarin for naive, then say dàngzhēn again

Before you move on

What does 当真 mean? ("To take it seriously; to take at face value".) Say it once more.

373.6 Looking back: from Making It Clear to Pros and Cons

Say the Mandarin for to make something clear and however.

Your turn

- Say it: to make something clear, however, to give an example, secondly, in addition
- Say it: a factor, all things considered, the crucial point, the effect something has, in short
- Say it: even (going so far as), although, a conclusion, to sum up, a principle you live by
- Say it: anyway, on earth (in a question), simultaneously, the purpose behind it, a strong point
- Say it: a weak point, a benefit, a downside, naive, to take it seriously
- Read it: 但 虽 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

To make something clear? (说明, shuōmíng.) However? (但是, dànshì.) To give an example? (jǔlì.) Secondly? (qícì.) In addition? (lìngwài.) A factor? (yīnsù.) All things considered? (bìjìng.) The crucial point? (guānjiàn.) The effect something has? (作用, zuòyòng.) In short? (zǒngzhī.) Even (going so far as)? (shènzhì.) Although? (虽然, suīrán.) A conclusion? (jiélùn.) To sum up? (zǒngjié.) A principle you live by? (yuánzé.) Anyway? (fǎnzhèng.) On earth (in a question)? (dàodǐ.) Simultaneously? (同时, tóngshí.) The purpose behind it? (用意, yòngyì.) A strong point? (yōudiǎn.) A weak point? (quēdiǎn.) A benefit? (hǎochu.) A downside? (huàichu.) Naive? (天真, tiānzhēn.) To take it seriously? (当真, dàngzhēn.)

373.7 Pros and Cons — once more

Say the Mandarin for a weak point and a benefit.

Your turn

- Say it: a weak point, a benefit, a downside, naive, to take it seriously

Before you move on

A weak point? (quēdiǎn.) A benefit? (hǎochu.) A downside? (huàichu.) Naive? (天真, tiānzhēn.) To take it seriously? (当真, dàngzhēn.)

Chapter 374

People and Government

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a population, the government, culture, ethnic groups and how a place develops.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 374: I can talk about a population, the government, culture, ethnic groups and how a place develops.

374.1 人口 (rénkǒu) — population

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for naive, then the Mandarin for to take it seriously.

You'll want to know: 人口

人口 — rénkǒu — "population".

> zhège chéngshì de rénkǒu yǒu yìqiān wàn — This city has a population of ten million.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 人口 (rénkǒu) is built from 人 'a person' and 口 'a mouth', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyin and khuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'what a person speaks and eats with'. Counting the mouths of a place to mean its people is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: rénkǒu
- Say it: rénkǒu, once more
- Say it: zhège chéngshì de rénkǒu yǒu yìqiān wàn — This city has a population of ten million.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for naive, then the Mandarin for to take it seriously, then say rénkǒu again

Before you move on

What does 人口 mean? ("Population".) Say it once more.

374.2 zhèngfǔ — government

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to take it seriously, then the Mandarin for the population (of a place).

You'll want to know: zhèngfǔ

zhèngfǔ — "government".

zhèngfǔ yīnggāi guānxīn lǎo rén — The government should look after old people.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhèngfǔ is built from zhèng 'governing' and fǔ 'an office', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyengH and pjuX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to set right' and the second 'an office of state' and 'a store of documents'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zhèngfǔ
- Say it: zhèngfǔ, once more
- Say it: zhèngfǔ yīnggāi guānxīn lǎo rén — The government should look after old people.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to take it seriously, then the Mandarin for the population (of a place), then say zhèngfǔ again

Before you move on

What does zhèngfǔ mean? ("Government".) Say it once more.

374.3 wénhuà — culture

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the population (of a place), then the Mandarin for the government.

You'll want to know: wénhuà

wénhuà — "culture".

wǒ hěn xǐhuan Zhōngguó wénhuà bǐrú hànzì — I really like Chinese culture, the characters for one.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of wénhuà is built from 文 'writing' and huà 'to transform', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjun and xwaeH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to change' and 'to transform by example'. The sense 'culture' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: wénhuà
- Say it: wénhuà, once more
- Say it: wǒ hěn xǐhuan Zhōngguó wénhuà bǐrú hànzì — I really like Chinese culture, the characters for one.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the population (of a place), then the Mandarin for the government, then say wénhuà again

Before you move on

What does wénhuà mean? ("Culture".) Say it once more.

374.4 mínzú — ethnic group; nationality

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the government, then the Mandarin for a people's culture.

You'll want to know: mínzú

mínzú — "ethnic group; nationality".

Zhōngguó yǒu wǔshíliù ge mínzú — China has fifty-six ethnic groups.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

mínzú is built from mín 'the people' and zú 'a clan', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjin and dzuwk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the multitude' and the second 'a lineage'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: mínzú
- Say it: mínzú, once more
- Say it: Zhōngguó yǒu wǔshíliù ge mínzú — China has fifty-six ethnic groups.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the government, then the Mandarin for a people's culture, then say mínzú again

Before you move on

What does mínzú mean? ("Ethnic group; nationality".) Say it once more.

374.5 fāzhǎn — to develop; to expand

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a people's culture, then the Mandarin for an ethnic group.

You'll want to know: fāzhǎn

fāzhǎn — "to develop; to expand".

zhège chéngshì fāzhǎn de hěn kuài suǒyǐ fángzi hěn guì — This city is growing fast, so houses are expensive.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fāzhǎn is built from fā 'to set going' and zhǎn 'to open out', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjot and trjenX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses each with the same word, 'to unfold'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: fāzhǎn
- Say it: fāzhǎn, once more
- Say it: zhège chéngshì fāzhǎn de hěn kuài suǒyǐ fángzi hěn guì — This city is growing fast, so houses are expensive.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a people's culture, then the Mandarin for an ethnic group, then say fāzhǎn again

Before you move on

What does fāzhǎn mean? ("To develop; to expand".) Say it once more.

Chapter 375

Helping Others

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about being poor, society, giving money, volunteers and helping each other.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 375: I can talk about being poor, society, giving money, volunteers and helping each other.

375.1 qióng — poor (having little money)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an ethnic group, then the Mandarin for to develop and grow.

You'll want to know: qióng

qióng — "poor (having little money)".

> yǐqián zhèr de rén dōu hěn qióng — People here used to be poor.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qióng is inherited from Middle Chinese gjuwng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to come to the very end'. How running out came to mean being poor is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: qióng
- Say it: qióng, once more
- Say it: yǐqián zhèr de rén dōu hěn qióng — People here used to be poor.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an ethnic group, then the Mandarin for to develop and grow, then say qióng again

Before you move on

What does qióng mean? ("Poor (having little money)".) Say it once more.

375.2 社会 (shèhuì) — society

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to develop and grow, then the Mandarin for poor (having little money).

You'll want to know: 社会

社会 — shèhuì — "society".

wǒmen de shèhuì xūyào rèxīn de rén — Our society needs warm-hearted people.

The new character, in pieces: 社 — seven strokes in two pieces: on the left the sign piece, four strokes; on the right a short bar, a vertical and a long bar, the earth piece at the foot of 在. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 社会 (shèhuì) is built from 社 'the altar of the soil' and 会 'to meet', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyaeX and hwajH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which lists the first with the god of grain and glosses the second 'to come together'. People meeting at the village altar is usually given as the start; the sense 'society' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: shèhuì
- Say it: shèhuì, once more
- Say it: wǒmen de shèhuì xūyào rèxīn de rén — Our society needs warm-hearted people.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to develop and grow, then the Mandarin for poor (having little money), then say shèhuì again

Before you move on

What does 社会 mean? ("Society".) Say it once more.

375.3 社 — the sign piece, then the earth piece

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say shèhuì — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  在 会

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — zài, huì

Script — the sign piece, then the earth piece

How 社 is written, stroke by stroke

社

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the sign piece, four strokes. A short dot at the top. A bar that runs right, turns and falls to the lower left, all one stroke. A vertical down from under it. Then a short dot to the right of the vertical.

The right piece, the earth piece, three strokes, as at the foot of 在: a short bar, a vertical down through it, then a long bar across the foot.

4 + 3 = seven.

Your turn

- Write it: 社, all seven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces in 社? (Two.) How many strokes in the left piece? (Four.) Where have you made the right piece before? (At the foot of 在.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 社, pinned stroke paths and medians.

375.4 juān — to donate

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for poor (having little money), then the Mandarin for society.

You'll want to know: juān

juān — "to donate".

tā měi nián dōu juān yìxiē qián — He gives some money away every year.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of juān is inherited from Middle Chinese ywen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to throw away'. Giving up money for others is the later sense, and it is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: juān
- Say it: juān, once more
- Say it: tā měi nián dōu juān yìxiē qián — He gives some money away every year.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for poor (having little money), then the Mandarin for society, then say juān again

Before you move on

What does juān mean? ("To donate".) Say it once more.

375.5 zhìyuànzhě — volunteer

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for society, then the Mandarin for to donate (money).

You'll want to know: zhìyuànzhě

zhìyuànzhě — "volunteer".

> wǒ xiǎng dāng zhìyuànzhě yīnwèi wǒ xiǎng bāng biérén — I want to be a volunteer because I want to help other people.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhìyuànzhě is built from zhì 'what the heart longs for', yuàn 'to wish' and zhě 'one who', all inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyiH, ngjwonH and tsyaeX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which lists the last as a grammar word. A volunteer is one who serves of their own will.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zhìyuànzhě
- Say it: zhìyuànzhě, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiǎng dāng zhìyuànzhě yīnwèi wǒ xiǎng bāng biérén — I want to be a volunteer because I want to help other people.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for society, then the Mandarin for to donate (money), then say zhìyuànzhě again

Before you move on

What does zhìyuànzhě mean? ("Volunteer".) Say it once more.

375.6 hùxiāng — each other; mutually

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to donate (money), then the Mandarin for a volunteer.

You'll want to know: hùxiāng hùxiāng — "each other; mutually".

> dàjiā yīnggāi hùxiāng bāngmáng — Everyone should help each other.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of hùxiāng is built from hù and xiāng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, huH and sjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'interlocking' and the second 'together'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: hùxiāng
- Say it: hùxiāng, once more
- Say it: dàjiā yīnggāi hùxiāng bāngmáng — Everyone should help each other.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to donate (money), then the Mandarin for a volunteer, then say hùxiāng again

Before you move on

What does hùxiāng mean? ("Each other; mutually".) Say it once more.

Chapter 376

Out in Public

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about events, social workers, looking after the park, giving up a seat and square dancing.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 376: I can talk about events, social workers, looking after the park, giving up a seat and square dancing.

376.1 huódòng — an activity; an organised event

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a volunteer, then the Mandarin for each other.

You'll want to know: huódòng

huódòng — "an activity; an organised event".

> zhège zhōumò gōngyuán lǐ yǒu shénme huódòng — What's on in the park this weekend?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huódòng is built from huó 'alive' and dòng 'to move', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hwat and duwngX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'not dead' and the second 'to stir'. The sense 'an event' is later and not given there.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: huódòng
- Say it: huódòng, once more
- Say it: zhège zhōumò gōngyuán lǐ yǒu shénme huódòng — What's on in the park this weekend?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a volunteer, then the Mandarin for each other, then say huódòng again

Before you move on

What does huódòng mean? ("An activity; an organised event".) Say it once more.

376.2 社工 (shègōng) — social worker

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for each other, then the Mandarin for an organised event.

You'll want to know: 社工

社工 — shègōng — "social worker".

我觉得社工的工作很重要 wǒ juéde shègōng de gōngzuò hěn zhòngyào — I think social workers do important work.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 社工 (shègōng) is built from 社 'society' and 工 'work', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyaeX and kuwng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which lists the first with the god of grain and glosses the second 'a craft'. The word is a modern short form of 'social work'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: shègōng
- Say it: shègōng, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde shègōng de gōngzuò hěn zhòngyào — I think social workers do important work.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for each other, then the Mandarin for an organised event, then say shègōng again

Before you move on

What does 社工 mean? ("Social worker".) Say it once more.

376.3 àihù — to cherish and protect; to treat with care

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an organised event, then the Mandarin for a social worker.

You'll want to know: àihù

àihù — "to cherish and protect; to treat with care".

> wǒmen yīnggāi àihù gōngyuán lǐ de huācǎo — We should look after the plants in the park.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

àihù is built from ài 'to cherish' and hù 'to protect', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'ojH and huH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to pity' and the second 'to save' and 'to help'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: àihù
- Say it: àihù, once more
- Say it: wǒmen yīnggāi àihù gōngyuán lǐ de huācǎo — We should look after the plants in the park.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an organised event, then the Mandarin for a social worker, then say àihù again

Before you move on

What does àihù mean? ("To cherish and protect; to treat with care".) Say it once more.

376.4 ràngzuò — to give up one's seat (to someone)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a social worker, then the Mandarin for to treat with care.

You'll want to know: ràngzuò

ràngzuò — "to give up one's seat (to someone)".

zài dìtiě lǐ niánqīngrén yīnggāi ràngzuò — On the underground, young people should give up their seats.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of ràngzuò is built from ràng 'to yield' and zuò 'a seat', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyangH and dzwaH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to give way' and the second 'a bed or a seat'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: ràngzuò
- Say it: ràngzuò, once more
- Say it: zài dìtiě lǐ niánqīngrén yīnggāi ràngzuò — On the underground, young people should give up their seats.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a social worker, then the Mandarin for to treat with care, then say ràngzuò again

Before you move on

What does ràngzuò mean? ("To give up one's seat (to someone)".) Say it once more.

376.5 guǎngchǎngwǔ — square dancing

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to treat with care, then the Mandarin for to give up one's seat.

You'll want to know: guǎngchǎngwǔ

guǎngchǎngwǔ — "square dancing".

> wǒ māma měitiān wǎnshang dōu qù tiào guǎngchǎngwǔ — My mum goes square dancing every evening.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Three third tones meet in this word: guǎng and chǎng are both said with a rising tone before wǔ, and the spelling keeps all three marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of guǎngchǎngwǔ is built from guǎngchǎng 'a public square' and wǔ 'to dance'. All three parts are inherited from Middle Chinese, kwangX, drjang and mjuX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'wide' and the second 'a threshing floor'. The dancing itself is a custom of recent decades.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: guǎngchǎngwǔ
- Say it: guǎngchǎngwǔ, once more
- Say it: wǒ māma měitiān wǎnshang dōu qù tiào guǎngchǎngwǔ — My mum goes square dancing every evening.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to treat with care, then the Mandarin for to give up one's seat, then say guǎngchǎngwǔ again

Before you move on

What does guǎngchǎngwǔ mean? ("Square dancing".) Say it once more.

Chapter 377

Our Neighbourhood

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the people who live here, our neighbourhood, a housing estate, what is around it and homes near good schools.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 377: I can talk about the people who live here, our neighbourhood, a housing estate, what is around it and homes near good schools.

377.1 jūmín — resident (of a place)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to give up one's seat, then the Mandarin for square dancing (in a public square).

You'll want to know: jūmín

jūmín — "resident (of a place)".

> zhèr de jūmín dōu hěn rèxīn — The people who live here are all very kind.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jūmín is built from jū 'to dwell' and mín 'the people', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjo and mjin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to stay' and the second 'the multitude'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: jūmín
- Say it: jūmín, once more
- Say it: zhèr de jūmín dōu hěn rèxīn — The people who live here are all very kind.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to give up one's seat, then the Mandarin for square dancing (in a public square), then say jūmín again

Before you move on

What does jūmín mean? ("Resident (of a place)".) Say it once more.

377.2 社区 (shèqū) — community; neighbourhood

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for square dancing (in a public square), then the Mandarin for a resident (of a place).

You'll want to know: 社区

社区 — shèqū — "community; neighbourhood".

我们社区里有一家书店 wǒmen shèqū lǐ yǒu yì jiā shūdiàn — There's a bookshop in our neighbourhood.

The new character, in pieces: 区 — four strokes: a bar across the top, two strokes crossing inside, and a frame down the left and along the foot, open on the right. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 社区 (shèqū) is built from 社 'the altar of the soil' and 区 'an area', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyaeX and khju (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary's entry for the second names a marsh and quotes a note on bent shoots; the sense 'an area' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: shèqū
- Say it: shèqū, once more
- Say it: wǒmen shèqū lǐ yǒu yì jiā shūdiàn — There's a bookshop in our neighbourhood.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for square dancing (in a public square), then the Mandarin for a resident (of a place), then say shèqū again

Before you move on

What does 社区 mean? ("Community; neighbourhood".) Say it once more.

377.3 区 — a bar, a cross, then the frame

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say shèqū — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

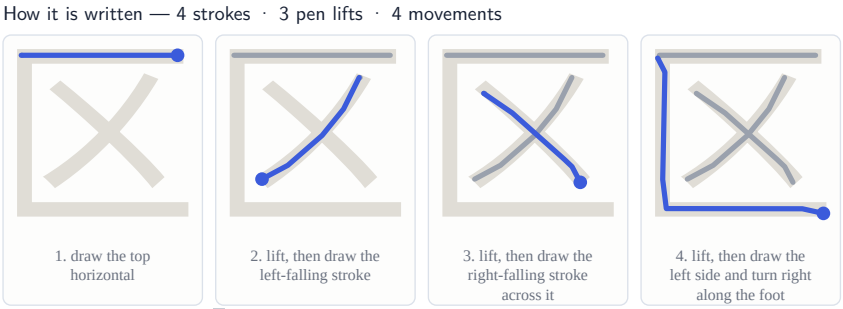
  社 小

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — shè, xiǎo

Script — a bar, a cross, then the frame



How ☒ is written, stroke by stroke

☒

Three steps: the top bar, the cross inside, the frame.

The top bar, one stroke, left to right across the top.

The cross inside, two strokes. A stroke falling to the lower left, then a stroke falling to the lower right that crosses it.

The frame, one stroke. A vertical down the left side that turns right along the foot. The right side stays open.

1 + 2 + 1 = four.

Your turn

- Write it: ☒, all four, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in ☒? (Four.) Which stroke comes last? (The frame, down the left side and along the foot.) Which side stays open? (The right.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data ☒, pinned stroke paths and medians.

377.4 小区 (xiǎoqū) — housing estate; residential compound

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a resident (of a place), then the Mandarin for a local community.

You'll want to know: 小区

小区 — xiǎoqū — "housing estate; residential compound".

我觉得这个小区很好 wǒ juéde zhège xiǎoqū hěn hǎo — I think this estate is very nice.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 小区 (xiǎoqū) is built from 小 'small' and 区 'an area', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sjewX and khju (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'tiny'. A housing estate of many blocks behind one gate is a modern use.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: xiǎoqū
- Say it: xiǎoqū, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhège xiǎoqū hěn hǎo — I think this estate is very nice.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a resident (of a place), then the Mandarin for a local community, then say xiǎoqū again

Before you move on

What does 小区 mean? ("Housing estate; residential compound".) Say it once more.

377.5 zhōuwéi — surroundings; the area around

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a local community, then the Mandarin for a housing estate.

You'll want to know: zhōuwéi

zhōuwéi — "surroundings; the area around".

xiǎoqū zhōuwéi yǒu fàndiàn yě yǒu chāoshì — Round the estate there are restaurants, and a supermarket too.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhōuwéi is built from zhōu 'all round' and wéi 'to surround', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyuw and hjw+j (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to go all the way round' and the second 'to encircle'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zhōuwéi
- Say it: zhōuwéi, once more
- Say it: xiǎoqū zhōuwéi yǒu fàndiàn yě yǒu chāoshì — Round the estate there are restaurants, and a supermarket too.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a local community, then the Mandarin for a housing estate, then say zhōuwéi again

Before you move on

What does zhōuwéi mean? ("Surroundings; the area around".) Say it once more.

377.6 学区房 (xuéqūfáng) — a home near a good school

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a housing estate, then the Mandarin for the area around (a place).

You'll want to know: 学区房

学区房 — xuéqūfáng — "a home near a good school".

> 大家都想买学区房因为学校好 dàjiā dōu xiǎng mǎi xuéqūfáng yīnwèi xuéxiào hǎo — Everyone wants a flat near a good school, because the school is good.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 学区房 (xuéqūfáng) is built from 学 'to study', 区 'an area' and 房 'a house', all inherited from Middle Chinese, haewk, khju and bjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the last 'a room'. A home inside a good school's catchment area is a recent use.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: xuéqūfáng
- Say it: xuéqūfáng, once more
- Say it: dàjiā dōu xiǎng mǎi xuéqūfáng yīnwèi xuéxiào hǎo — Everyone wants a flat near a good school, because the school is good.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a housing estate, then the Mandarin for the area around (a place), then say xuéqūfáng again

Before you move on

What does 学区房 mean? ("A home near a good school".) Say it once more.

Chapter 378

Noise Next Door

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about noise, complaining, thin walls, strangers at the door and the management office.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 378: I can talk about noise, complaining, thin walls, strangers at the door and the management office.

378.1 zàoyīn — unwanted noise; din

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the area around (a place), then the Mandarin for a home near a good school.

You'll want to know: zàoyīn

zàoyīn — "unwanted noise; din".

> wǎnshang wàibian de zàoyīn tài dà le — The noise outside is far too loud at night.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zàoyīn is built from zào 'clamour' and 音 'a sound', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sawH and 'im (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a crowd shouting'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zàoyīn
- Say it: zàoyīn, once more
- Say it: wǎnshang wàibian de zàoyīn tài dà le — The noise outside is far too loud at night.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the area around (a place), then the Mandarin for a home near a good school, then say zàoyīn again

Before you move on

What does zàoyīn mean? ("Unwanted noise; din".) Say it once more.

378.2 bàoyuàn — to complain; to grumble

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a home near a good school, then the Mandarin for unwanted noise.

You'll want to know: bàoyuàn

bàoyuàn — "to complain; to grumble".

línjū bàoyuàn wǒmen tài chǎo le — The neighbours complained that we were too noisy.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bàoyuàn is built from bào 'to hold' and yuàn 'resentment', both inherited from Middle Chinese, bawX and 'jwonH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to grasp' and the second 'to resent': holding on to a grudge.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: bàoyuàn
- Say it: bàoyuàn, once more
- Say it: línjū bàoyuàn wǒmen tài chǎo le — The neighbours complained that we were too noisy.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a home near a good school, then the Mandarin for unwanted noise, then say bàoyuàn again

Before you move on

What does bàoyuàn mean? ("To complain; to grumble".) Say it once more.

378.3 géyīn — soundproofing; soundproof

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for unwanted noise, then the Mandarin for to grumble about.

You'll want to know: géyīn

géyīn — "soundproofing; soundproof".

zhège fángzi de géyīn bù hǎo suǒyǐ hěn chǎo — This house isn't soundproofed well, so it's noisy.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

géyīn is built from gé 'to block' and 音 'a sound', both inherited from Middle Chinese, keak and 'im (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to stop up'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: géyīn
- Say it: géyīn, once more
- Say it: zhège fángzi de géyīn bù hǎo suǒyǐ hěn chǎo — This house isn't soundproofed well, so it's noisy.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for unwanted noise, then the Mandarin for to grumble about, then say géyīn again

Before you move on

What does géyīn mean? ("Soundproofing; soundproof".) Say it once more.

378.4 生人 (shēngrén) — stranger

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to grumble about, then the Mandarin for soundproofing (keeping sound out).

You'll want to know: 生人

生人 — shēngrén — "stranger".

晚上有生人来你最好不要开门 wǎnshang yǒu shēngrén lái nǐ zuìhǎo bú yào kāimén — If a stranger comes at night, you'd better not open the door.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 生人 (shēngrén) is built from 生 'raw, new' and 人 'a person', both inherited from Middle Chinese, srjaeng and nyin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to grow'. The sense 'unfamiliar' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: shēngrén
- Say it: shēngrén, once more
- Say it: wǎnshang yǒu shēngrén lái nǐ zuìhǎo bú yào kāimén — If a stranger comes at night, you'd better not open the door.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to grumble about, then the Mandarin for soundproofing (keeping sound out), then say shēngrén again

Before you move on

What does 生人 mean? ("Stranger".) Say it once more.

378.5 wùyè — property management; the management office

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for soundproofing (keeping sound out), then the Mandarin for a stranger.

You'll want to know: wùyè

wùyè — "property management; the management office".

dēng huài le nǐ yīnggāi zhǎo wùyè — If the light's broken, you should call property management.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

wùyè is built from wù 'a thing' and yè 'an undertaking', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjut and ngjaep (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the ten thousand things' and the second 'an affair'. 'Property', and the office that looks after it, are modern senses.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: wùyè
- Say it: wùyè, once more
- Say it: dēng huài le nǐ yīnggāi zhǎo wùyè — If the light's broken, you should call property management.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for soundproofing (keeping sound out), then the Mandarin for a stranger, then say wùyè again

Before you move on

What does wùyè mean? ("Property management; the management office".) Say it once more.

Chapter 379

Feeling Safe

Modes: voice (6) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the stairwell, feeling at ease or uneasy, the door system and law and order.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 379: I can talk about the stairwell, feeling at ease or uneasy, the door system and law and order.

379.1 lóudào — stairwell; corridor (in a block of flats)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a stranger, then the Mandarin for the property management office.

You'll want to know: lóudào

lóudào — "stairwell; corridor (in a block of flats)".

lóudào lǐ de dēng huài le — The light in the stairwell is broken.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of lóudào is built from lóu 'a building of several floors' and dào 'a way', both inherited from Middle Chinese, luw and dawX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a house on a house' and the second 'a road'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: lóudào
- Say it: lóudào, once more
- Say it: lóudào lǐ de dēng huài le — The light in the stairwell is broken.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a stranger, then the Mandarin for the property management office, then say lóudào again

Before you move on

What does lóudào mean? ("Stairwell; corridor (in a block of flats)".) Say it once more.

379.2 安心 (ānxīn) — with a mind at rest; settled

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the property management office, then the Mandarin for the stairwell of a block.

You'll want to know: 安心

安心 — ānxīn — "with a mind at rest; settled".

这个社区很好我很安心 zhège shèqū hěn hǎo wǒ hěn ānxīn — This is a good neighbourhood, and my mind is at rest.

The new character, in pieces: 安 — six strokes: the roof of 家 on top, three strokes, and 女 under it. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 安心 (ānxīn) is built from 安 'calm' and 心 'the heart', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'an and sim (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'peaceful' and 'to come to rest'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: ānxīn
- Say it: ānxīn, once more
- Say it: zhège shèqū hěn hǎo wǒ hěn ānxīn — This is a good neighbourhood, and my mind is at rest.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the property management office, then the Mandarin for the stairwell of a block, then say ānxīn again

Before you move on

What does 安心 mean? ("With a mind at rest; settled".) Say it once more.

379.3 安 — the roof of 家, then 女

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say ānxīn — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

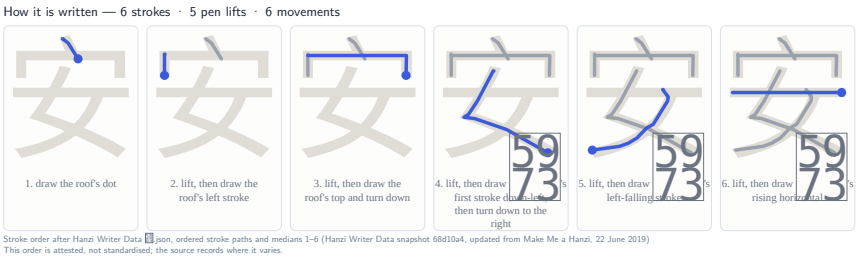
家 女

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — jiā, nǚ

Script — the roof of 家, then 女



How 安 is written, stroke by stroke

安

Two pieces, top before bottom.

The roof, three strokes, as on top of 家 and 字: a dot at the top, a short stroke down on the left, then a bar across that turns down at the right end and hooks.

Under the roof, 女, three strokes, as you wrote it: a stroke that falls to the left and turns to the right, a long stroke falling to the left, then a long bar across.

3 + 3 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 安, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 安? (Six.) What is on top? (The roof of 家.) What sits under it? (女.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 安, pinned stroke paths and medians.

379.4 不安 (bù'ān) — uneasy; worried

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the stairwell of a block, then the Mandarin for with a mind at rest.

You'll want to know: 不安

不安 — bù'ān — "uneasy; worried".

我一个人在家的时候有点儿不安 wǒ yí ge rén zài jiā de shíhou yǒudiǎnr bù'ān — When I'm at home on my own, I feel a little uneasy.

Tone: 不 keeps its own falling tone here, bù, because ān after it is a level tone, not a falling one.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 不安 (bù'ān) is built from 不 'not' and 安 'calm', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjut and 'an (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: bù'ān
- Say it: bù'ān, once more
- Say it: wǒ yí ge rén zài jiā de shíhou yǒudiǎnr bù'ān — When I'm at home on my own, I feel a little uneasy.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the stairwell of a block, then the Mandarin for with a mind at rest, then say bù'ān again

Before you move on

What does 不安 mean? ("Uneasy; worried".) Say it once more.

379.5 ménjìn — door entry system; a card-entry door

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for with a mind at rest, then the Mandarin for uneasy (ill at ease).

You'll want to know: ménjìn

ménjìn — "door entry system; a card-entry door".

wǒmen xiǎoqū yǒu ménjìn suǒyǐ hěn ānquán — Our estate has a door entry system, so it's safe.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of ménjìn is built from 門 'a gate' and jìn 'to forbid', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mwon and kimH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to restrain' and 'to stop'. The card-and-lock system is a modern use.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: ménjìn
- Say it: ménjìn, once more
- Say it: wǒmen xiǎoqū yǒu ménjìn suǒyǐ hěn ānquán — Our estate has a door entry system, so it's safe.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for with a mind at rest, then the Mandarin for uneasy (ill at ease), then say ménjìn again

Before you move on

What does ménjìn mean? ("Door entry system; a card-entry door".) Say it once more.

379.6 zhì'ān — law and order; public order

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for uneasy (ill at ease), then the Mandarin for a card-entry door.

You'll want to know: zhì'ān

zhì'ān — "law and order; public order".

zhèr de zhì'ān hěn hǎo suǒyǐ wǒ hěn fàngxīn — Law and order is good here, so I don't worry.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhì'ān is built from zhì 'to govern' and 安 'calm', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dri and 'an (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to put in order' and also lists it twice in the departing tone, drijH and driH, with the same gloss. Mandarin zhì follows a departing reading.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zhì'ān
- Say it: zhì'ān, once more
- Say it: zhèr de zhì'ān hěn hǎo suǒyǐ wǒ hěn fàngxīn — Law and order is good here, so I don't worry.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for uneasy (ill at ease), then the Mandarin for a card-entry door, then say zhì'ān again

Before you move on

What does zhì'ān mean? ("Law and order; public order".) Say it once more.

379.7 Looking back: from People and Government to Feeling Safe

Say the Mandarin for the population (of a place) and the government.

Your turn

- Say it: the population (of a place), the government, a people's culture, an ethnic group, to develop and grow
- Say it: poor (having little money), society, to donate (money), a volunteer, each other

- Say it: an organised event, a social worker, to treat with care, to give up one's seat, square dancing (in a public square)
- Say it: a resident (of a place), a local community, a housing estate, the area around (a place), a home near a good school
- Say it: unwanted noise, to grumble about, soundproofing (keeping sound out), a stranger, the property management office
- Say it: the stairwell of a block, with a mind at rest, uneasy (ill at ease), a card-entry door, law and order
- Read it: 社 区 安 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

The population (of a place)? (人口, rénkǒu.) The government? (zhèngfǔ.) A people's culture? (wénhuà.) An ethnic group? (mínzú.) To develop and grow? (fāzhǎn.) Poor (having little money)? (qióng.) Society? (社会, shèhuì.) To donate (money)? (juān.) A volunteer? (zhìyuànzhě.) Each other? (hùxiāng.) An organised event? (huódòng.) A social worker? (社工, shègōng.) To treat with care? (àihù.) To give up one's seat? (ràngzuò.) Square dancing (in a public square)? (guǎngchǎngwǔ.) A resident (of a place)? (jūmín.) A local community? (社区, shèqū.) A housing estate? (小区, xiǎoqū.) The area around (a place)? (zhōuwéi.) A home near a good school? (学区房, xuéqūfáng.) Unwanted noise? (zàoyīn.) To grumble about? (bàoyuàn.) Soundproofing (keeping sound out)? (géyīn.) A stranger? (生人, shēngrén.) The property management office? (wùyè.) The stairwell of a block? (lóudào.) With a mind at rest? (安心, ānxīn.) Uneasy (ill at ease)? (不安, bù'ān.) A card-entry door? (ménjìn.) Law and order? (zhì'ān.)

Chapter 380

Clean Air

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the environment, the air, pollution, the earth and green ways to travel.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 380: I can talk about the environment, the air, pollution, the earth and green ways to travel.

380.1 huánjìng — environment; surroundings

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a card-entry door, then the Mandarin for law and order.

You'll want to know: huánjìng

huánjìng — "environment; surroundings".

> wǒ juéde zhèr de huánjìng bǐ yǐqián hǎo — I think the environment here is better than before.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huánjìng is built from huán 'a ring' and jìng 'a border', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hwaen and kjaengX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a jade ring' and the second 'a boundary': what lies around you up to the edge. The modern sense is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: huánjìng
- Say it: huánjìng, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhèr de huánjìng bǐ yǐqián hǎo — I think the environment here is better than before.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a card-entry door, then the Mandarin for law and order, then say huánjìng again

Before you move on

What does huánjìng mean? ("Environment; surroundings".) Say it once more.

380.2 kōngqì — air

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for law and order, then the Mandarin for the environment.

You'll want to know: kōngqì

kōngqì — "air".

yīnwèi xiàyǔ le suǒyǐ kōngqì hěn hǎo — It has rained, so the air is fresh.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of kōngqì is built from kōng 'empty' and 气 'breath', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khuwng and khj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'hollow' and the second 'breath'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: kōngqì
- Say it: kōngqì, once more
- Say it: yīnwèi xiàyǔ le suǒyǐ kōngqì hěn hǎo — It has rained, so the air is fresh.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for law and order, then the Mandarin for the environment, then say kōngqì again

Before you move on

What does kōngqì mean? ("Air".) Say it once more.

380.3 wūrǎn — to pollute

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the environment, then the Mandarin for the air we breathe.

You'll want to know: wūrǎn

wūrǎn — "to pollute".

kāichē huì wūrǎn kōngqì — Driving pollutes the air.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

wūrǎn is built from wū 'dirty water' and rǎn 'to dye', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'u and nyemX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, in another spelling, 'water that stands and does not flow' and the second 'to colour'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: wūrǎn
- Say it: wūrǎn, once more
- Say it: kāichē huì wūrǎn kōngqì — Driving pollutes the air.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the environment, then the Mandarin for the air we breathe, then say wūrǎn again

Before you move on

What does wūrǎn mean? ("To pollute".) Say it once more.

380.4 dìqiú — the earth; our planet

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the air we breathe, then the Mandarin for to pollute.

You'll want to know: dìqiú

dìqiú — "the earth; our planet".

dìqiú shì wǒmen dàjiā de jiā — The earth is home to all of us.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dìqiú is built from dì 'the ground' and qiú 'a ball', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dijH and gjuw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the land' and, under another spelling, the second 'a ball of fur that is struck'. The earth as a ball is a later idea.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: dìqiú
- Say it: dìqiú, once more
- Say it: dìqiú shì wǒmen dàjiā de jiā — The earth is home to all of us.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the air we breathe, then the Mandarin for to pollute, then say dìqiú again

Before you move on

What does dìqiú mean? ("The earth; our planet".) Say it once more.

380.5 huánbǎo — eco-friendly

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to pollute, then the Mandarin for our planet.

You'll want to know: huánbǎo

huánbǎo — "eco-friendly".

zuò dìtiě bǐ kāichē huánbǎo — Taking the underground is greener than driving.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huánbǎo is built from huán, the first syllable of huánjìng 'the environment', and bǎo 'to keep', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hwaen and pawX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to guard': a short form of 'protecting the environment'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: huánbǎo
- Say it: huánbǎo, once more
- Say it: zuò dìtiě bǐ kāichē huánbǎo — Taking the underground is greener than driving.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to pollute, then the Mandarin for our planet, then say huánbǎo again

Before you move on

What does huánbǎo mean? ("Eco-friendly".) Say it once more.

Chapter 381

The Whole Family

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about sorting rubbish, the whole family, recycling, the whole country and feeling safe.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 381: I can talk about sorting rubbish, the whole family, recycling, the whole country and feeling safe.

381.1 fēnlèi — to sort into kinds

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for our planet, then the Mandarin for eco-friendly (good for the environment).

You'll want to know: fēnlèi fēnlèi — "to sort into kinds".

> lājī yīnggāi fēnlèi — Rubbish should be sorted.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fēnlèi is built from fēn 'to divide' and lèi 'a kind', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjun and lwijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to separate' and the second 'a sort'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: fēnlèi
- Say it: fēnlèi, once more
- Say it: lājī yīnggāi fēnlèi — Rubbish should be sorted.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for our planet, then the Mandarin for eco-friendly (good for the environment), then say fēnlèi again

Before you move on

What does fēnlèi mean? ("To sort into kinds".) Say it once more.

381.2 全家 (quánjiā) — the whole family

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for eco-friendly (good for the environment), then the Mandarin for to sort into kinds.

You'll want to know: 全家

全家 — quánjiā — "the whole family".

今天我们全家一起打扫房子 jīntiān wǒmen quánjiā yìqǐ dǎsǎo fángzi — Today the whole family is cleaning the house together.

The new character, in pieces: 全 — six strokes: a wide roof like 人, then a bar, a second bar, a vertical down from the first through the second, and a long bar at the foot. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 全家 (quánjiā) is built from 全 'whole' and 家 'a home', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzjwen and kae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'complete'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: quánjiā
- Say it: quánjiā, once more
- Say it: jīntiān wǒmen quánjiā yìqǐ dǎsǎo fángzi — Today the whole family is cleaning the house together.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for eco-friendly (good for the environment), then the Mandarin for to sort into kinds, then say quánjiā again

Before you move on

What does 全家 mean? ("The whole family".) Say it once more.

381.3 全 — a wide roof, then three bars and a vertical

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say quánjiā — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

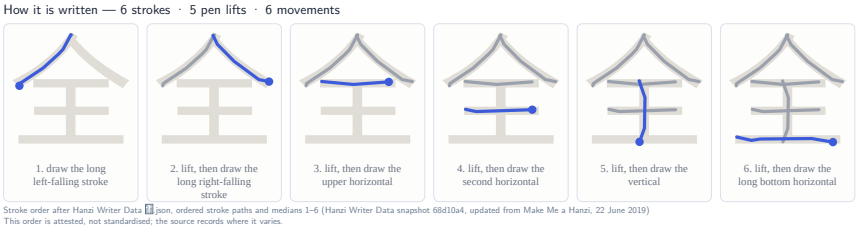
  人 安

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — rén, ān

Script — a wide roof, then three bars and a vertical



How 全 is written, stroke by stroke

全

Two pieces, top before bottom.

The roof, two strokes, like 人 opened wide: a long stroke falling to the left, then a long stroke falling to the right from near its top.

Under it, four strokes. A bar. A second bar under it. A vertical down from the first bar through the second. Then a long bar across the foot.

2 + 4 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 全, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 全? (Six.) What is the roof like? (人, opened wide.) Which stroke comes after the two bars? (The vertical.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 全, pinned stroke paths and medians.

381.4 huíshōu — to recycle

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to sort into kinds, then the Mandarin for the whole family.

You'll want to know: huíshōu

huíshōu — "to recycle".

zhèxiē píngzi yīnggāi huíshōu yīnwèi hái néng yòng — These bottles should be recycled, because they can still be used.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huíshōu is built from 回 'to turn back' and shōu 'to gather', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hwoj and syuw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to collect'. Recycling is a modern sense.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: huíshōu
- Say it: huíshōu, once more
- Say it: zhèxiē píngzi yīnggāi huíshōu yīnwèi hái néng yòng — These bottles should be recycled, because they can still be used.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to sort into kinds, then the Mandarin for the whole family, then say huíshōu again

Before you move on

What does huíshōu mean? ("To recycle".) Say it once more.

381.5 全国 (quánguó) — the whole country; nationwide

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the whole family, then the Mandarin for to recycle.

You'll want to know: 全国

全国 — quánguó — "the whole country; nationwide".

今天全国都很冷 jīntiān quánguó dōu hěn lěng — It's cold all over the country today.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 全国 (quánguó) is built from 全 'whole' and 国 'a country', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzjwen and kwok (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a state'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: quánguó
- Say it: quánguó, once more
- Say it: jīntiān quánguó dōu hěn lěng — It's cold all over the country today.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the whole family, then the Mandarin for to recycle, then say quánguó again

Before you move on

What does 全国 mean? ("The whole country; nationwide".) Say it once more.

381.6 安全感 (ānquángǎn) — a sense of security

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to recycle, then the Mandarin for nationwide.

You'll want to know: 安全感

安全感 — ānquángǎn — "a sense of security".

在这个小区里我很有安全感 zài zhège xiǎoqū lǐ wǒ hěn yǒu ānquángǎn — In this estate I feel really safe.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 安全感 (ānquángǎn) is built from 安全 'safe' and 感 'to feel', all inherited from Middle Chinese, 'an, dzjwen and komX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the last 'to move'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: ānquángǎn
- Say it: ānquángǎn, once more
- Say it: zài zhège xiǎoqū lǐ wǒ hěn yǒu ānquángǎn — In this estate I feel really safe.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to recycle, then the Mandarin for nationwide, then say ānquángǎn again

Before you move on

What does 安全感 mean? ("A sense of security".) Say it once more.

Chapter 382

The Security Guard

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about being on duty, security guards, cameras, promising and patrols.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 382: I can talk about being on duty, security guards, cameras, promising and patrols.

382.1 zhíbān — to be on duty

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for nationwide, then the Mandarin for a sense of security.

You'll want to know: zhíbān

zhíbān — "to be on duty".

> jīntiān wǎnshang wǒ zhíbān — I'm on duty tonight.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhíbān is built from zhí 'to meet, to hold' and bān 'a turn', both inherited from Middle Chinese, driH and paen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to hold' and 'to meet with' and the second 'to hand out tokens'. The sense 'a shift' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zhíbān
- Say it: zhíbān, once more
- Say it: jīntiān wǎnshang wǒ zhíbān — I'm on duty tonight.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for nationwide, then the Mandarin for a sense of security, then say zhíbān again

Before you move on

What does zhíbān mean? ("To be on duty".) Say it once more.

382.2 保安 (bǎo'ān) — security guard

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a sense of security, then the Mandarin for to be on duty.

You'll want to know: 保安

保安 — bǎo'ān — "security guard".

小区门口有两个保安 xiǎoqū ménkǒu yǒu liǎng ge bǎo'ān — There are two security guards at the gate of the estate.

The new character, in pieces: 保 — nine strokes in three pieces: the person piece 亻, then 口 high on the right over a tree of four strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 保安 (bǎo'ān) is built from 保 'to keep' and 安 'calm', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pawX and 'an (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to guard' and 'to keep safe': keeping the peace, and then the person who does it.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: bǎo'ān
- Say it: bǎo'ān, once more
- Say it: xiǎoqū ménkǒu yǒu liǎng ge bǎo'ān — There are two security guards at the gate of the estate.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a sense of security, then the Mandarin for to be on duty, then say bǎo'ān again

Before you move on

What does 保安 mean? ("Security guard".) Say it once more.

382.3 保 — the person piece, then 口 over a tree

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say bǎo'ān — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

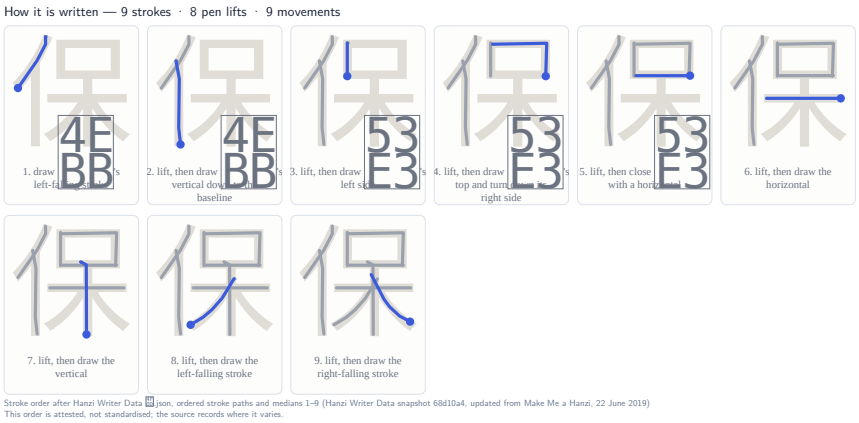
  你 安

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — nǐ, ān

Script — the person piece, then 口 over a tree



How 保 is written, stroke by stroke

保

Three pieces: the person piece on the left, then 口 over a tree on the right.

The person piece 亻, two strokes, as in 你 and 他.

口, three strokes, high on the right: a short vertical, a stroke that runs right and turns down, then the bar that closes the foot.

The tree under it, four strokes. A long bar. A vertical down through it. A stroke falling to the left from the crossing, then one falling to the right.

2 + 3 + 4 = nine.

Your turn

- Write it: 保, all nine, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 保? (Nine.) What sits over the tree? (口.) Which piece comes first? (亻, the person piece.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 保, pinned stroke paths and medians.

382.4 jiānkòng — security camera; CCTV

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be on duty, then the Mandarin for a security guard.

You'll want to know: jiānkòng

jiānkòng — "security camera; CCTV".

yīnwèi yǒu jiānkòng suǒyǐ xiǎoqū lǐ hěn ānquán — There are cameras, so the estate is safe.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiānkòng is built from jiān 'to watch over' and kòng 'to pull', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaem and khuwngH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to look down on and inspect' and the second 'to draw' and 'to report'. The camera is a modern sense.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: jiānkòng
- Say it: jiānkòng, once more
- Say it: yīnwèi yǒu jiānkòng suǒyǐ xiǎoqū lǐ hěn ānquán — There are cameras, so the estate is safe.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be on duty, then the Mandarin for a security guard, then say jiānkòng again

Before you move on

What does jiānkòng mean? ("Security camera; CCTV".) Say it once more.

382.5 bǎozhèng — to promise; to guarantee

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a security guard, then the Mandarin for a security camera.

You'll want to know: bǎozhèng bǎozhèng — "to promise; to guarantee".

wǒ bǎozhèng yǐhòu bú zhème chǎo le — I promise I won't be this noisy again.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bǎozhèng is built from bǎo 'to keep' and zhèng 'to prove', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pawX and tsyingH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to answer for' and the second 'to test'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: bǎozhèng
- Say it: bǎozhèng, once more
- Say it: wǒ bǎozhèng yǐhòu bú zhème chǎo le — I promise I won't be this noisy again.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a security guard, then the Mandarin for a security camera, then say bǎozhèng again

Before you move on

What does bǎozhèng mean? ("To promise; to guarantee".) Say it once more.

382.6 xúnluó — to patrol

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a security camera, then the Mandarin for to guarantee.

You'll want to know: xúnluó

xúnluó — "to patrol".

wǎnshang bǎo'ān yīnggāi zài xiǎoqū lǐ xúnluó — At night the guards should patrol the estate.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xúnluó is built from xún 'to go round' and luó 'a patrol', both inherited from Middle Chinese, zwin and laH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to go about looking' and the second 'roving soldiers'. Mandarin luó has a rising tone where the dictionary gives a departing one.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: xúnluó
- Say it: xúnluó, once more
- Say it: wǎnshang bǎo'ān yīnggāi zài xiǎoqū lǐ xúnluó — At night the guards should patrol the estate.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a security camera, then the Mandarin for to guarantee, then say xúnluó again

Before you move on

What does xúnluó mean? ("To patrol".) Say it once more.

Chapter 383

Saving Energy

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the electricity bill, wasting things, energy, cutting down and throwaway things.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 383: I can talk about the electricity bill, wasting things, energy, cutting down and throwaway things.

383.1 diànfèi — electricity bill

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to guarantee, then the Mandarin for to patrol.

You'll want to know: diànfèi

diànfèi — "electricity bill".

> xiàtiān kāi kōngtiáo diànfèi hěn guì — In summer, with the air conditioning on, the electricity bill is high.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of diànfèi is built from 电 'electricity' and fèi 'a cost', both inherited from Middle Chinese, denH and phj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'lightning' and the second 'to use up'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: diànfèi
- Say it: diànfèi, once more
- Say it: xiàtiān kāi kōngtiáo diànfèi hěn guì — In summer, with the air conditioning on, the electricity bill is high.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to guarantee, then the Mandarin for to patrol, then say diànfèi again

Before you move on

What does diànfèi mean? ("Electricity bill".) Say it once more.

383.2 làngfèi — to waste

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to patrol, then the Mandarin for the electricity bill.

You'll want to know: làngfèi

làngfèi — "to waste".

xǐzǎo de shíhou bú yào làngfèi shuǐ — Don't waste water when you have a shower.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of làngfèi is built from làng 'a wave' and fèi 'to use up', both inherited from Middle Chinese, langH and phj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a wave; reckless' and the second 'to spend down'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: làngfèi
- Say it: làngfèi, once more
- Say it: xǐzǎo de shíhou bú yào làngfèi shuǐ — Don't waste water when you have a shower.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to patrol, then the Mandarin for the electricity bill, then say làngfèi again

Before you move on

What does làngfèi mean? ("To waste".) Say it once more.

383.3 néngyuán — energy; sources of energy

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the electricity bill, then the Mandarin for to waste.

You'll want to know: néngyuán

néngyuán — "energy; sources of energy".

yīnwèi néngyuán hěn guì suǒyǐ diànfèi yě hěn guì — Energy is expensive, so the electricity bill is high too.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of néngyuán is built from 能 'able' and yuán 'a source', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nong and ngjwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'skilled' and the second 'where water rises'. Energy as power for machines is a modern sense.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: néngyuán
- Say it: néngyuán, once more
- Say it: yīnwèi néngyuán hěn guì suǒyǐ diànfèi yě hěn guì — Energy is expensive, so the electricity bill is high too.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the electricity bill, then the Mandarin for to waste, then say néngyuán again

Before you move on

What does néngyuán mean? ("Energy; sources of energy".) Say it once more.

383.4 jiǎnshǎo — to reduce; to cut down

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to waste, then the Mandarin for sources of energy.

You'll want to know: jiǎnshǎo

jiǎnshǎo — "to reduce; to cut down".

zuò dìtiě kěyǐ jiǎnshǎo dǔchē — Taking the underground can cut down on traffic jams.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: jiǎn is said with a rising tone before shǎo, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiǎnshǎo is built from jiǎn 'to lessen' and 少 'few', both inherited from Middle Chinese, keamX and syewX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to diminish' and the second 'not many'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: jiǎnshǎo
- Say it: jiǎnshǎo, once more
- Say it: zuò dìtiě kěyǐ jiǎnshǎo dǔchē — Taking the underground can cut down on traffic jams.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to waste, then the Mandarin for sources of energy, then say jiǎnshǎo again

Before you move on

What does jiǎnshǎo mean? ("To reduce; to cut down".) Say it once more.

383.5 yícìxìng — disposable; used once

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for sources of energy, then the Mandarin for to cut down on.

You'll want to know: yícìxìng

yícìxìng — "disposable; used once".

wǒmen zuìhǎo bú yòng yícìxìng kuàizi — We'd better not use disposable chopsticks.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.
Tone: 一 is said yí here, rising, because cì after it is a falling tone.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yícìxìng is built from 一 'one', cì 'a time' and xìng 'nature', all inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jit, tshijH and sjengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a stopping place' and 'an order'. The word is modern.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: yícìxìng
- Say it: yícìxìng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zuìhǎo bú yòng yícìxìng kuàizi — We'd better not use disposable chopsticks.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for sources of energy, then the Mandarin for to cut down on, then say yícìxìng again

Before you move on

What does yícìxìng mean? ("Disposable; used once".) Say it once more.

Chapter 384

Becoming Green

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about planting trees, becoming something, what things cost to make, resources and growth.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 384: I can talk about planting trees, becoming something, what things cost to make, resources and growth.

384.1 zhòngshù — to plant trees

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to cut down on, then the Mandarin for disposable (used once).

You'll want to know: zhòngshù

zhòngshù — "to plant trees".

> měi nián chūntiān wǒmen dōu qù shān lǐ zhòngshù — Every spring we go to the hills to plant trees.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhòngshù is built from zhòng 'to plant' and shù 'a tree', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyowngH and dzyuH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'trees as a whole' and 'to set up'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zhòngshù
- Say it: zhòngshù, once more
- Say it: měi nián chūntiān wǒmen dōu qù shān lǐ zhòngshù — Every spring we go to the hills to plant trees.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to cut down on, then the Mandarin for disposable (used once), then say zhòngshù again

Before you move on

What does zhòngshù mean? ("To plant trees".) Say it once more.

384.2 成为 (chéngwéi) — to become

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for disposable (used once), then the Mandarin for to plant trees.

You'll want to know: 成为

成为 — chéngwéi — "to become".

他想成为一个医生 tā xiǎng chéngwéi yí ge yīshēng — He wants to become a doctor.

The new character, in pieces: 成 — six strokes: a short bar, a long stroke falling to the left, a small turning hook, the long slanting hook of 我, a short fall and a dot. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 成为 (chéngwéi) is built from 成 'to complete' and 为 'to make', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyeng and hjwe (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to finish' and the second 'to do'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: chéngwéi
- Say it: chéngwéi, once more
- Say it: tā xiǎng chéngwéi yí ge yīshēng — He wants to become a doctor.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for disposable (used once), then the Mandarin for to plant trees, then say chéngwéi again

Before you move on

What does 成为 mean? ("To become".) Say it once more.

384.3 成 — a bar, a fall, a small turn, then the slanting hook of 我

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say chéngwéi — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

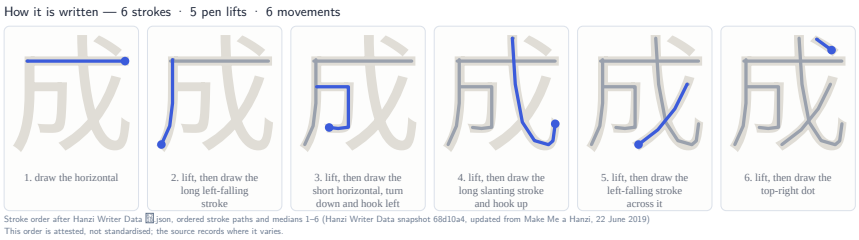
  我 为

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — wǒ, wéi

Script — a bar, a fall, a small turn, then the slanting hook of 我



How 成 is written, stroke by stroke

成

One shape, six strokes in a fixed order. The order is the thing to hold.

A bar, left to right, from the left edge to past the middle.

A long stroke falling to the left from the left end of the bar down to the foot.

A small turning hook under the bar: a short bar that turns down and hooks to the left.

The long slanting hook, as in 我: from the top, a long stroke down to the lower right that flicks up at the end. Then a short stroke falling to the left across it, and a dot at the upper right.

Six strokes in all.

Your turn

- Write it: 成, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 成? (Six.) Which stroke flicks up at the end? (The long slanting hook, the fourth.) What comes last? (The dot at the upper right.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 成, pinned stroke paths and medians.

384.4 成本 (chéngběn) — production cost; cost

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to plant trees, then the Mandarin for to become.

You'll want to know: 成本

成本 — chéngběn — "production cost; cost".

请保安的成本很高 qǐng bǎo'ān de chéngběn hěn gāo — It costs a lot to hire security guards.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 成本 (chéngběn) is built from 成 'to complete' and 本 'the root', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyeng and pwonX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'the foot of a tree': what a finished thing rests on. The sense 'cost' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: chéngběn
- Say it: chéngběn, once more
- Say it: qǐng bǎo'ān de chéngběn hěn gāo — It costs a lot to hire security guards.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to plant trees, then the Mandarin for to become, then say chéngběn again

Before you move on

What does 成本 mean? ("Production cost; cost".) Say it once more.

384.5 zīyuán — natural resources

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to become, then the Mandarin for production cost.

You'll want to know: zīyuán

zīyuán — "natural resources".

> shuǐ shì hěn zhòngyào de zīyuán suǒyǐ wǒmen bù yīnggāi làngfèi — Water is a very important resource, so we shouldn't waste it.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zīyuán is built from zī 'goods' and yuán 'a source', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsij and ngjwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'wealth' and 'to help' and the second 'where water rises'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zīyuán
- Say it: zīyuán, once more
- Say it: shuǐ shì hěn zhòngyào de zīyuán suǒyǐ wǒmen bù yīnggāi làngfèi — Water is a very important resource, so we shouldn't waste it.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to become, then the Mandarin for production cost, then say zīyuán again

Before you move on

What does zīyuán mean? ("Natural resources".) Say it once more.

384.6 zēngjiā — to increase

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for production cost, then the Mandarin for natural resources.

You'll want to know: zēngjiā

zēngjiā — "to increase".

> yīnwèi rénkǒu zēngjiā le suǒyǐ fángzi hěn guì — The population has grown, so houses are expensive.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zēngjiā is built from zēng and jiā, both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsong and kae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses each with the other: 'to add'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zēngjiā
- Say it: zēngjiā, once more
- Say it: yīnwèi rénkǒu zēngjiā le suǒyǐ fángzi hěn guì — The population has grown, so houses are expensive.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for production cost, then the Mandarin for natural resources, then say zēngjiā again

Before you move on

What does zēngjiā mean? ("To increase".) Say it once more.

Chapter 385

Good Reasons

Modes: voice (5) eyes (1) Hands-free start: the first 3 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about raising prices, what is most likely, saving energy, taking things seriously and ways of living.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 385: I can talk about raising prices, what is most likely, saving energy, taking things seriously and ways of living.

385.1 tígāo — to push up (a level)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for natural resources, then the Mandarin for to increase (in number).

You'll want to know: tígāo

tígāo — "to push up (a level)".

> zhè jiā fàndiàn tígāo le jiàqián — This restaurant has put its prices up.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

tígāo is built from tí 'to carry by the handle' and 高 'high', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dej and kaw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to carry in the hand'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: tígāo
- Say it: tígāo, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā fàndiàn tígāo le jiàqián — This restaurant has put its prices up.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for natural resources, then the Mandarin for to increase (in number), then say tígāo again

Before you move on

What does tígāo mean? ("To push up (a level)".) Say it once more.

385.2 八成 (bāchéng) — most likely; eighty per cent

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to increase (in number), then the Mandarin for to push up (a level).

You'll want to know: 八成

八成 — bāchéng — "most likely; eighty per cent".

他八成病了所以没来 tā bāchéng bìng le suǒyǐ méi lái — He's most likely ill, which is why he didn't come.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 八成 (bāchéng) is built from 八 'eight' and 成 'a tenth', both inherited from Middle Chinese, peat and dzyeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the second 'to complete'; 成 for one part in ten is later and is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: bāchéng
- Say it: bāchéng, once more
- Say it: tā bāchéng bìng le suǒyǐ méi lái — He's most likely ill, which is why he didn't come.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to increase (in number), then the Mandarin for to push up (a level), then say bāchéng again

Before you move on

What does 八成 mean? ("Most likely; eighty per cent".) Say it once more.

385.3 节能 (jiénéng) — to save energy; energy-saving

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to push up (a level), then the Mandarin for most likely (eight in ten).

You'll want to know: 节能

节能 — jiénéng — "to save energy; energy-saving".

> 我觉得坐火车比开车节能 wǒ juéde zuò huǒchē bǐ kāichē jiénéng — I think taking the train saves more energy than driving.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 节能 (jiénéng) is built from 节 'to restrain' and 能 'energy', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tset and nong (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the joint of a bamboo' and 'to hold back'. The word is modern.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: jiénéng
- Say it: jiénéng, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zuò huǒchē bǐ kāichē jiénéng — I think taking the train saves more energy than driving.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to push up (a level), then the Mandarin for most likely (eight in ten), then say jiénéng again

Before you move on

What does 节能 mean? ("To save energy; energy-saving".) Say it once more.

385.4 zhòngshì — to attach importance to

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for most likely (eight in ten), then the Mandarin for to save energy.

You'll want to know: zhòngshì

zhòngshì — "to attach importance to".

zhèngfǔ yīnggāi zhòngshì huánjìng — The government should take the environment seriously.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhòngshì is built from 重 'heavy' and shì 'to look at', both inherited from Middle Chinese, drjowngX and dzyijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'thick' and 'careful' and the second 'to look'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zhòngshì
- Say it: zhòngshì, once more
- Say it: zhèngfǔ yīnggāi zhòngshì huánjìng — The government should take the environment seriously.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for most likely (eight in ten), then the Mandarin for to save energy, then say zhòngshì again

Before you move on

What does zhòngshì mean? ("To attach importance to".) Say it once more.

385.5 fāngshì — a way of doing things; a mode

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to save energy, then the Mandarin for to attach importance to.

You'll want to know: fāngshì

fāngshì — "a way of doing things; a mode".

qí zìxíngchē shì yí ge hěn huánbǎo de fāngshì — Cycling is a very green way to get about.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fāngshì is built from fāng 'a method' and shì 'a pattern', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjang and syik (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'square' and 'a method' and the second 'a rule'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: fāngshì
- Say it: fāngshì, once more
- Say it: qí zìxíngchē shì yí ge hěn huánbǎo de fāngshì — Cycling is a very green way to get about.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to save energy, then the Mandarin for to attach importance to, then say fāngshì again

Before you move on

What does fāngshì mean? ("A way of doing things; a mode".) Say it once more.

385.6 Looking back: from Clean Air to Good Reasons

Say the Mandarin for the environment and the air we breathe.

Your turn

- Say it: the environment, the air we breathe, to pollute, our planet, eco-friendly (good for the environment)
- Say it: to sort into kinds, the whole family, to recycle, nationwide, a sense of security
- Say it: to be on duty, a security guard, a security camera, to guarantee, to patrol
- Say it: the electricity bill, to waste, sources of energy, to cut down on, disposable (used once)
- Say it: to plant trees, to become, production cost, natural resources, to increase (in number)

- Say it: to push up (a level), most likely (eight in ten), to save energy, to attach importance to, a way of doing things
- Read it: 全 保 成 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

The environment? (huánjìng.) The air we breathe? (kōngqì.) To pollute? (wūrǎn.) Our planet? (dìqiú.) Eco-friendly (good for the environment)? (huánbǎo.) To sort into kinds? (fēnlèi.) The whole family? (全家, quánjiā.) To recycle? (huíshōu.) Nationwide? (全国, quánguó.) A sense of security? (安全感, ānquángǎn.) To be on duty? (zhíbān.) A security guard? (保安, bǎo'ān.) A security camera? (jiānkòng.) To guarantee? (bǎozhèng.) To patrol? (xúnluó.) The electricity bill? (diànfèi.) To waste? (làngfèi.) Sources of energy? (néngyuán.) To cut down on? (jiǎnshǎo.) Disposable (used once)? (yícìxìng.) To plant trees? (zhòngshù.) To become? (成为, chéngwéi.) Production cost? (成本, chéngběn.) Natural resources? (zīyuán.) To increase (in number)? (zēngjiā.) To push up (a level)? (tígāo.) Most likely (eight in ten)? (八成, bāchéng.) To save energy? (节能, jiénéng.) To attach importance to? (zhòngshì.) A way of doing things? (fāngshì.)

Chapter 386

Second-Hand

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about second-hand things, how something turned into something else, unused things, good value and the weather turning.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 386: I can talk about second-hand things, how something turned into something else, unused things, good value and the weather turning.

386.1 二手 (èrshǒu) — second-hand

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to attach importance to, then the Mandarin for a way of doing things.

You'll want to know: 二手

二手 — èrshǒu — "second-hand".

> wǒ mǎi le yí ge èrshǒu shǒujī yīnwèi hěn piányi — I bought a second-hand phone because it was cheap.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 二手 (èrshǒu) is built from 二 'two' and 手 'a hand', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyijH and syuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription): through a second pair of hands.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: èrshǒu
- Say it: èrshǒu, once more
- Say it: wǒ mǎi le yí ge èrshǒu shǒujī yīnwèi hěn piányi — I bought a second-hand phone because it was cheap.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to attach importance to, then the Mandarin for a way of doing things, then say èrshǒu again

Before you move on

What does 二手 mean? ("Second-hand".) Say it once more.

386.2 变成 (biànchéng) — to turn into

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a way of doing things, then the Mandarin for second-hand.

You'll want to know: 变成

变成 — biànchéng — "to turn into".

> 那家饭店变成了书店 nà jiā fàndiàn biànchéng le shūdiàn — That restaurant has turned into a bookshop.

The new character, in pieces: 变 — eight strokes in two pieces: on top a dot and a bar over four short strokes; at the foot 又, two strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 变成 (biànchéng) is built from 变 'to change' and 成 'to complete', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjenH and dzyeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to transform'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: biànchéng
- Say it: biànchéng, once more
- Say it: nà jiā fàndiàn biànchéng le shūdiàn — That restaurant has turned into a bookshop.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a way of doing things, then the Mandarin for second-hand, then say biànchéng again

Before you move on

What does 变成 mean? ("To turn into".) Say it once more.

386.3 变 — a dot and a bar over four short strokes, then 又

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say biànchéng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  文 又

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — wén, yòu

Script — a dot and a bar over four short strokes, then 又

How 变 is written, stroke by stroke

变

Two pieces, top before bottom.

The top piece, six strokes. A dot, then a long bar under it, as at the top of 文. Two short verticals under the bar, the left one first. Then a short stroke falling to the left beside the left vertical, and a dot falling to the right beside the right one.

The bottom piece, 又, two strokes, as you wrote it: a bar that turns and falls to the lower left, then a long stroke falling to the right across it.

6 + 2 = eight.

Your turn

- Write it: 变, all eight, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 变? (Eight.) How does it start? (A dot and a bar, as in 文.) What is the bottom piece? (又, two strokes.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 变, pinned stroke paths and medians.

386.4 xiánzhì — unused; lying idle

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for second-hand, then the Mandarin for to turn into.

You'll want to know: xiánzhì

xiánzhì — "unused; lying idle".

jiā lǐ xiánzhì de dōngxi kěyǐ sòng gěi péngyou — Things you don't use at home can go to friends.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiánzhì is built from xián 'idle' and zhì 'to put', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hean and triH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'leisure' and the second 'to set down'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: xiánzhì
- Say it: xiánzhì, once more
- Say it: jiā lǐ xiánzhì de dōngxi kěyǐ sòng gěi péngyou — Things you don't use at home can go to friends.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for second-hand, then the Mandarin for to turn into, then say xiánzhì again

Before you move on

What does xiánzhì mean? ("Unused; lying idle".) Say it once more.

386.5 huásuàn — good value; worth it

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to turn into, then the Mandarin for sitting unused at home.

You'll want to know: huásuàn

huásuàn — "good value; worth it".

> wǒ juéde èrshǒu chē bǐ xīn chē huásuàn — I think a second-hand car is better value than a new one.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huásuàn is built from huá and suàn 'to count'. The second is inherited from Middle Chinese swanX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'the number of things'; the dictionary glosses the first 'to row a boat', and how it came into this word is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: huásuàn
- Say it: huásuàn, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde èrshǒu chē bǐ xīn chē huásuàn — I think a second-hand car is better value than a new one.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to turn into, then the Mandarin for sitting unused at home, then say huásuàn again

Before you move on

What does huásuàn mean? ("Good value; worth it".) Say it once more.

386.6 变天 (biàntiān) — to turn bad (of the weather)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for sitting unused at home, then the Mandarin for good value for money.

You'll want to know: 变天

变天 — biàntiān — "to turn bad (of the weather)".

> 要变天了你最好早回家 yào biàntiān le nǐ zuìhǎo zǎo huí jiā — The weather's about to turn; you'd better get home early.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 变天 (biàntiān) is built from 变 'to change' and 天 'the sky', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjenH and then (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: biàntiān
- Say it: biàntiān, once more
- Say it: yào biàntiān le nǐ zuìhǎo zǎo huí jiā — The weather's about to turn; you'd better get home early.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for sitting unused at home, then the Mandarin for good value for money, then say biàntiān again

Before you move on

What does 变天 mean? ("To turn bad (of the weather)".) Say it once more.

Chapter 387

Money In, Money Out

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about income, savings, bills, shopping online and a budget.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 387: I can talk about income, savings, bills, shopping online and a budget.

387.1 shōurù — income

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for good value for money, then the Mandarin for to turn bad (of the weather).

You'll want to know: shōurù

shōurù — "income".

> yīnwèi tā de shōurù bù gāo suǒyǐ tā měitiān zài jiā zuòfàn — His income isn't high, so he cooks at home every day.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shōurù is built from shōu 'to gather' and rù 'to go in', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syuw and nyip (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to take in'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: shōurù
- Say it: shōurù, once more
- Say it: yīnwèi tā de shōurù bù gāo suǒyǐ tā měitiān zài jiā zuòfàn — His income isn't high, so he cooks at home every day.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for good value for money, then the Mandarin for to turn bad (of the weather), then say shōurù again

Before you move on

What does shōurù mean? ("Income".) Say it once more.

387.2 cúnkuǎn — savings (in the bank)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to turn bad (of the weather), then the Mandarin for income.

You'll want to know: cúnkuǎn

cúnkuǎn — "savings (in the bank)".

wǒ yǒu yìdiǎnr cúnkuǎn — I've got a little money saved.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of cúnkuǎn is built from cún 'to keep' and kuǎn 'a sum', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzwon and khwanX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to be present' and the second 'sincere'. The sense 'a sum of money' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: cúnkuǎn
- Say it: cúnkuǎn, once more
- Say it: wǒ yǒu yìdiǎnr cúnkuǎn — I've got a little money saved.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to turn bad (of the weather), then the Mandarin for income, then say cúnkuǎn again

Before you move on

What does cúnkuǎn mean? ("Savings (in the bank)".) Say it once more.

387.3 zhàngdān — bill (to pay)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for income, then the Mandarin for savings (in the bank).

You'll want to know: zhàngdān

zhàngdān — "bill (to pay)".

zhège yuè de zhàngdān wǒ hái méi fù — I haven't paid this month's bills yet.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhàngdān is built from zhàng 'an account' and dān 'a single sheet'. The second is inherited from Middle Chinese tan (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'single'; the dictionary has no entry for the first, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: zhàngdān
- Say it: zhàngdān, once more
- Say it: zhège yuè de zhàngdān wǒ hái méi fù — I haven't paid this month's bills yet.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for income, then the Mandarin for savings (in the bank), then say zhàngdān again

Before you move on

What does zhàngdān mean? ("Bill (to pay)".) Say it once more.

387.4 wǎnggòu — to shop online

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for savings (in the bank), then the Mandarin for a bill (to pay).

You'll want to know: wǎnggòu

wǎnggòu — "to shop online".

wǒ juéde wǎnggòu bǐ qù shāngdiàn piányi — I think shopping online is cheaper than going to the shops.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of wǎnggòu is built from wǎng 'a net' and gòu 'to buy', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjangX and kuwH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to buy back'. The word is a modern short form.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: wǎnggòu
- Say it: wǎnggòu, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde wǎnggòu bǐ qù shāngdiàn piányi — I think shopping online is cheaper than going to the shops.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for savings (in the bank), then the Mandarin for a bill (to pay), then say wǎnggòu again

Before you move on

What does wǎnggòu mean? ("To shop online".) Say it once more.

387.5 yùsuàn — budget

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a bill (to pay), then the Mandarin for to shop online.

You'll want to know: yùsuàn

yùsuàn — "budget".

wǒmen de yùsuàn bú gòu suǒyǐ zuìhǎo mǎi èrshǒu de — Our budget isn't enough, so we'd better buy second-hand.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yùsuàn is built from yù 'beforehand' and suàn 'to count', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yoH and swanX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, among other senses, 'before'.

What you've built

One more word for giving reasons.

Your turn

- Say it: yùsuàn
- Say it: yùsuàn, once more
- Say it: wǒmen de yùsuàn bú gòu suǒyǐ zuìhǎo mǎi èrshǒu de — Our budget isn't enough, so we'd better buy second-hand.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a bill (to pay), then the Mandarin for to shop online, then say yùsuàn again

Before you move on

What does yùsuàn mean? ("Budget".) Say it once more.

Chapter 388

Making a Date

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about finding time, a date, missing an appointment, telling people early and time zones.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 388: I can talk about finding time, a date, missing an appointment, telling people early and time zones.

388.1 chōukòng — to find time (for something)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to shop online, then the Mandarin for a budget.

You'll want to know: chōukòng

chōukòng — "to find time (for something)".

> yàoshi nǐ néng chōukòng lái kàn wǒ wǒ huì hěn gāoxìng — If you can find time to come and see me, I'll be really pleased.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chōukòng is built from chōu 'to pull out' and kòng 'a gap', both inherited from Middle Chinese, trhjuw and khuwngH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to draw out' and the second 'a gap'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: chōukòng
- Say it: chōukòng, once more
- Say it: yàoshi nǐ néng chōukòng lái kàn wǒ wǒ huì hěn gāoxìng — If you can find time to come and see me, I'll be really pleased.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to shop online, then the Mandarin for a budget, then say chōukòng again

Before you move on

What does chōukòng mean? ("To find time (for something)".) Say it once more.

388.2 约会 (yuēhuì) — a romantic date; an appointment (to meet)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a budget, then the Mandarin for to find time (for something).

You'll want to know: 约会

约会 — yuēhuì — "a romantic date; an appointment (to meet)".

今天晚上我有一个约会 jīntiān wǎnshang wǒ yǒu yí ge yuēhuì — I've got a date this evening.

The new character, in pieces: 约 — six strokes in two pieces: the silk piece on the left of 给, three strokes; on the right a short fall, a bar that turns down into a hook, and a dot inside. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 约会 (yuēhuì) is built from 约 'to bind' and 会 'to meet', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jak and hwajH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to tie up' and the second 'to come together': a meeting agreed on beforehand.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: yuēhuì
- Say it: yuēhuì, once more
- Say it: jīntiān wǎnshang wǒ yǒu yí ge yuēhuì — I've got a date this evening.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a budget, then the Mandarin for to find time (for something), then say yuēhuì again

Before you move on

What does 约会 mean? ("A romantic date; an appointment (to meet)".) Say it once more.

388.3 约 — the silk piece of 给, then a hook around a dot

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say yuēhuì — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

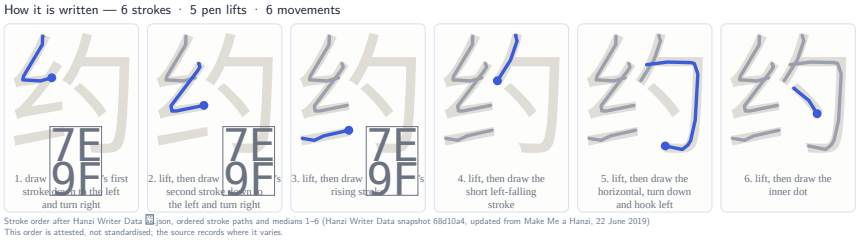
  给 会

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — gěi, huì

Script — the silk piece of 给, then a hook around a dot



How 约 is written, stroke by stroke

约

Two pieces, left before right.

The left piece, the silk piece, three strokes, as on the left of 给: two strokes that each fall to the left and turn to the right, one under the other, then a short stroke rising to the right.

The right piece, three strokes. A short stroke falling to the left. A bar that runs right and turns down into a long hook. Then a dot inside.

3 + 3 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 约, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 约? (Six.) Where have you made the left piece before? (On the left of 给.) What comes last? (The dot inside the hook.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 约, pinned stroke paths and medians.

388.4 shīyuē — to miss an appointment

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to find time (for something), then the Mandarin for a romantic date.

You'll want to know: shīyuē

shīyuē — "to miss an appointment".

> rúguǒ nǐ shīyuē tā huì hěn shēngqì — If you don't turn up, he'll be angry.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shīyuē is built from shī 'to lose' and 约 'an agreement', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syit and 'jak (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to let slip'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: shīyuē
- Say it: shīyuē, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ nǐ shīyuē tā huì hěn shēngqì — If you don't turn up, he'll be angry.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to find time (for something), then the Mandarin for a romantic date, then say shīyuē again

Before you move on

What does shīyuē mean? ("To miss an appointment".) Say it once more.

388.5 tíqián — to do ahead of time; to bring forward (a date)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a romantic date, then the Mandarin for to miss an appointment.

You'll want to know: tíqián

tíqián — "to do ahead of time; to bring forward (a date)".

> yàoshi nǐ bù néng lái zuìhǎo tíqián gàosu wǒ — If you can't come, you'd better tell me in good time.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

tíqián is built from tí 'to carry by the handle' and 前 'before', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dej and dzen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'first': lifting a time forward.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: tíqián
- Say it: tíqián, once more
- Say it: yàoshi nǐ bù néng lái zuìhǎo tíqián gàosu wǒ — If you can't come, you'd better tell me in good time.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a romantic date, then the Mandarin for to miss an appointment, then say tíqián again

Before you move on

What does tíqián mean? ("To do ahead of time; to bring forward (a date)".) Say it once more.

388.6 时区 (shíqū) — time zone

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to miss an appointment, then the Mandarin for to do ahead of time.

You'll want to know: 时区

时区 — shíqū — "time zone".

> 我们不在一个时区所以要先约好时间 wǒmen bú zài yí ge shíqū suǒyǐ yào xiān yuē hǎo shíjiān — We're not in the same time zone, so we need to fix a time first.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 时区 (shíqū) is built from 时 'time' and 区 'an area', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyi and khju (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'an hour of the day'. The word is modern.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: shíqū
- Say it: shíqū, once more
- Say it: wǒmen bú zài yí ge shíqū suǒyǐ yào xiān yuē hǎo shíjiān — We're not in the same time zone, so we need to fix a time first.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to miss an appointment, then the Mandarin for to do ahead of time, then say shíqū again

Before you move on

What does 时区 mean? ("Time zone".) Say it once more.

Chapter 389

In Case

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about spare things, using less, risks, being ready for anything and payments falling due.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 389: I can talk about spare things, using less, risks, being ready for anything and payments falling due.

389.1 bèiyòng — spare (kept for when needed)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to do ahead of time, then the Mandarin for a time zone.

You'll want to know: bèiyòng

bèiyòng — "spare (kept for when needed)".

> wànyī yàoshi diū le wǒmen hái yǒu bèiyòng de — If the keys get lost, we've still got a spare.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bèiyòng is built from bèi 'to provide against' and 用 'to use', both inherited from Middle Chinese, bijH and youngH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'complete' and 'to guard against'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: bèiyòng
- Say it: bèiyòng, once more
- Say it: wànyī yàoshi diū le wǒmen hái yǒu bèiyòng de — If the keys get lost, we've still got a spare.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to do ahead of time, then the Mandarin for a time zone, then say bèiyòng again

Before you move on

What does bèiyòng mean? ("Spare (kept for when needed)".) Say it once more.

389.2 节约 (jiéyuē) — to economise; to use sparingly

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a time zone, then the Mandarin for spare (kept for when needed).

You'll want to know: 节约

节约 — jiéyuē — "to economise; to use sparingly".

rúguǒ dàjiā dōu jiéyuē yòng shuǐ jiù néng shěngqián — If everyone uses water sparingly, we can all save money.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 节约 (jiéyuē) is built from 节 'to restrain' and 约 'sparing', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tset and 'jak (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to hold back' and the second 'thrifty'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: jiéyuē
- Say it: jiéyuē, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ dàjiā dōu jiéyuē yòng shuǐ jiù néng shěngqián — If everyone uses water sparingly, we can all save money.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a time zone, then the Mandarin for spare (kept for when needed), then say jiéyuē again

Before you move on

What does 节约 mean? ("To economise; to use sparingly".) Say it once more.

389.3 fēngxiǎn — risk

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for spare (kept for when needed), then the Mandarin for to economise.

You'll want to know: fēngxiǎn

fēngxiǎn — "risk".

yàoshi fēngxiǎn tài dà wǒmen jiù bú zuò le — If the risk is too great, we won't do it.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fēngxiǎn is built from 风 'the wind' and xiǎn 'dangerous', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjuwng and xjemX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'perilous' and 'hard to pass'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: fēngxiǎn
- Say it: fēngxiǎn, once more
- Say it: yàoshi fēngxiǎn tài dà wǒmen jiù bú zuò le — If the risk is too great, we won't do it.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for spare (kept for when needed), then the Mandarin for to economise, then say fēngxiǎn again

Before you move on

What does fēngxiǎn mean? ("Risk".) Say it once more.

389.4 yǐfáng — so as to guard against; as a precaution

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to economise, then the Mandarin for a risk.

You'll want to know: yǐfáng

yǐfáng — "so as to guard against; as a precaution".

dài yìdiǎnr qián yǐfáng wànyī — Take a bit of money with you, in case.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yǐfáng is built from 以 'by means of' and fáng 'to guard against', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yiX and bjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to use' and the second 'to defend' and 'a dyke'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: yǐfáng
- Say it: yǐfáng, once more
- Say it: dài yìdiǎnr qián yǐfáng wànyī — Take a bit of money with you, in case.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to economise, then the Mandarin for a risk, then say yǐfáng again

Before you move on

What does yǐfáng mean? ("So as to guard against; as a precaution".) Say it once more.

389.5 到期 (dàoqī) — to fall due; to run out

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a risk, then the Mandarin for as a precaution.

You'll want to know: 到期

到期 — dàoqī — "to fall due; to run out".

fángzū xià ge yuè jiù dàoqī le — The rent falls due next month.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 到期 (dàoqī) is built from 到 'to arrive' and 期 'a set time', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tawH and gi (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a limit' and 'an appointed meeting'. Middle Chinese gi would regularly give a rising tone, qí; the level tone of qī is irregular.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: dàoqī
- Say it: dàoqī, once more
- Say it: fángzū xià ge yuè jiù dàoqī le — The rent falls due next month.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a risk, then the Mandarin for as a precaution, then say dàoqī again

Before you move on

What does 到期 mean? ("To fall due; to run out".) Say it once more.

Chapter 390

As We Agreed

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about being sure, agreeing on a time, doing things regularly, keeping to a date and giving a rough time.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 390: I can talk about being sure, agreeing on a time, doing things regularly, keeping to a date and giving a rough time.

390.1 quèdìng — to be certain; to settle on

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for as a precaution, then the Mandarin for to fall due.

You'll want to know: quèdìng quèdìng — "to be certain; to settle on".

> wǒ hái bú quèdìng míngtiān néng bu néng qù — I'm not sure yet whether I can go tomorrow.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of quèdìng is built from què 'firm' and dìng 'settled', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khaewk and dengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'steadfast' and the second 'calm'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: quèdìng
- Say it: quèdìng, once more
- Say it: wǒ hái bú quèdìng míngtiān néng bu néng qù — I'm not sure yet whether I can go tomorrow.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for as a precaution, then the Mandarin for to fall due, then say quèdìng again

Before you move on

What does quèdìng mean? ("To be certain; to settle on".) Say it once more.

390.2 约定 (yuēdìng) — to agree on a time; to fix (a time or place) together

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to fall due, then the Mandarin for to be certain.

You'll want to know: 约定

约定 — yuēdìng — "to agree on a time; to fix (a time or place) together".

> 我们约定明天早上八点见面 wǒmen yuēdìng míngtiān zǎoshang bā diǎn jiànmiàn — We agreed to meet at eight tomorrow morning.

The new character, in pieces: 定 — eight strokes in two pieces: the roof of 安 on top, and under it the five strokes at the foot of 是. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 约定 (yuēdìng) is built from 约 'to bind' and 定 'settled', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jak and dengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'calm'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: yuēdìng
- Say it: yuēdìng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen yuēdìng míngtiān zǎoshang bā diǎn jiànmiàn — We agreed to meet at eight tomorrow morning.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to fall due, then the Mandarin for to be certain, then say yuēdìng again

Before you move on

What does 约定 mean? ("To agree on a time; to fix (a time or place) together".) Say it once more.

390.3 定 — the roof of 安 over the foot of 是

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say yuēdìng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  安 是

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — ān, shì

Script — the roof of 安 over the foot of 是

How 定 is written, stroke by stroke

定

Two pieces, top before bottom.

The roof, three strokes, as on top of 安: a dot, a short stroke down on the left, and a bar that turns down and hooks.

Under it, five strokes, the foot of 是. A bar. A short vertical down from its middle. A short bar to the right of the vertical. Then a stroke falling to the left, and a long stroke falling to the right that sweeps along the foot.

3 + 5 = eight.

Your turn

- Write it: 定, all eight, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 定? (Eight.) What is on top? (The roof of 安.) Where have you made the bottom piece before? (At the foot of 是.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 定, pinned stroke paths and medians.

390.4 定期 (dìngqī) — at regular intervals; periodically

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be certain, then the Mandarin for to agree on a time.

You'll want to know: 定期

定期 — dìngqī — "at regular intervals; periodically".

你最好定期去看医生 nǐ zuìhǎo dìngqī qù kàn yīshēng — You'd better see a doctor regularly.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 定期 (dìngqī) is built from 定 'settled' and 期 'a set time', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dengH and gi (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a limit'. The level tone of qī is irregular, as in 星期.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: dìngqī
- Say it: dìngqī, once more
- Say it: nǐ zuìhǎo dìngqī qù kàn yīshēng — You'd better see a doctor regularly.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be certain, then the Mandarin for to agree on a time, then say dìngqī again

Before you move on

What does 定期 mean? ("At regular intervals; periodically".) Say it once more.

390.5 如期 (rúqī) — as planned (on the agreed date)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to agree on a time, then the Mandarin for at regular intervals.

You'll want to know: 如期

如期 — rúqī — "as planned (on the agreed date)".

要是不下雨我们就如期去山里 yàoshi bú xiàyǔ wǒmen jiù rúqī qù shān lǐ — If it doesn't rain, we'll go to the hills as planned.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 如期 (rúqī) is built from 如 'as' and 期 'a set time', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyo and gi (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'like' and the second 'an appointed meeting'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: rúqī
- Say it: rúqī, once more
- Say it: yàoshi bú xiàyǔ wǒmen jiù rúqī qù shān lǐ — If it doesn't rain, we'll go to the hills as planned.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to agree on a time, then the Mandarin for at regular intervals, then say rúqī again

Before you move on

What does 如期 mean? ("As planned (on the agreed date)".) Say it once more.

390.6 大约 (dàyuē) — approximately; roughly (a time or number)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for at regular intervals, then the Mandarin for on the agreed date.

You'll want to know: 大约

大约 — dàyuē — "approximately; roughly (a time or number)".

yàoshi bù dǔchē wǒ dàyuē bā diǎn dào — If there's no traffic, I'll be there at about eight.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 大约 (dàyuē) is built from 大 'big' and 约 'to bind', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dajH and 'jak (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to tie up' and 'sparing'. How the pair came to mean 'roughly' is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: dàyuē
- Say it: dàyuē, once more
- Say it: yàoshi bù dǔchē wǒ dàyuē bā diǎn dào — If there's no traffic, I'll be there at about eight.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for at regular intervals, then the Mandarin for on the agreed date, then say dàyuē again

Before you move on

What does 大约 mean? ("Approximately; roughly (a time or number)".) Say it once more.

Chapter 391

When Plans Change

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a day's schedule, things at the last minute, still having time, catching a train and what we will do when the time comes.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 391: I can talk about a day's schedule, things at the last minute, still having time, catching a train and what we will do when the time comes.

391.1 rìchéng — a day's schedule

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for on the agreed date, then the Mandarin for approximately.

You'll want to know: rìchéng

rìchéng — "a day's schedule".

> míngtiān de rìchéng hěn mǎn — Tomorrow's schedule is full.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of rìchéng is built from 日 'a day' and chéng 'a stage of a journey', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyit and drjeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a set term' and 'a limit'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: rìchéng
- Say it: rìchéng, once more
- Say it: míngtiān de rìchéng hěn mǎn — Tomorrow's schedule is full.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for on the agreed date, then the Mandarin for approximately, then say rìchéng again

Before you move on

What does rìchéng mean? ("A day's schedule".) Say it once more.

391.2 línshí — at the last minute; for the time being

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for approximately, then the Mandarin for a day's schedule.

You'll want to know: línshí

línshí — "at the last minute; for the time being".

wǒ línshí yǒushì bù néng qù le — Something's come up at the last minute and I can't go.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of línshí is built from lín 'to come close' and 时 'the time', both inherited from Middle Chinese, lim and dzyi (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to be present at': when the moment is upon you.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: línshí
- Say it: línshí, once more
- Say it: wǒ línshí yǒushì bù néng qù le — Something's come up at the last minute and I can't go.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for approximately, then the Mandarin for a day's schedule, then say línshí again

Before you move on

What does línshí mean? ("At the last minute; for the time being".) Say it once more.

391.3 láidejí — to still have time (to do something)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a day's schedule, then the Mandarin for at the last minute.

You'll want to know: láidejí

láidejí — "to still have time (to do something)".

rúguǒ xiànzài zǒu hái láidejí — If we leave now, there's still time.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of láidejí is built from 来 'to come', 得 'can' and jí 'to reach', all inherited from Middle Chinese, loj, tok and gip (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the last 'to get to': you can still get there. It is the other side of láibují.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: láidejí
- Say it: láidejí, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ xiànzài zǒu hái láidejí — If we leave now, there's still time.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a day's schedule, then the Mandarin for at the last minute, then say láidejí again

Before you move on

What does láidejí mean? ("To still have time (to do something)".) Say it once more.

391.4 gǎnshàng — to catch in time; to make it onto a train

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for at the last minute, then the Mandarin for to still have time.

You'll want to know: gǎnshàng

gǎnshàng — "to catch in time; to make it onto a train".

yàoshi wǒmen kuài yìdiǎnr jiù néng gǎnshàng huǒchē — If we're a bit quicker, we can catch the train.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gǎnshàng is built from gǎn 'to chase' and 上 'to go up'. The second is inherited from Middle Chinese dzyangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to climb'; the dictionary has no entry for the first, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: gǎnshàng
- Say it: gǎnshàng, once more
- Say it: yàoshi wǒmen kuài yìdiǎnr jiù néng gǎnshàng huǒchē — If we're a bit quicker, we can catch the train.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for at the last minute, then the Mandarin for to still have time, then say gǎnshàng again

Before you move on

What does gǎnshàng mean? ("To catch in time; to make it onto a train".) Say it once more.

391.5 到时候 (dào shíhou) — when the time comes

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to still have time, then the Mandarin for to make it onto a train.

You'll want to know: 到时候

到时候 — dào shíhou — "when the time comes".

到时候我一定来 dào shíhou wǒ yídìng lái — When the time comes, I'll be there for sure.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 到时候 (dào shíhou) is built from 到 'to arrive' and 时候 'the time', all inherited from Middle Chinese, tawH, dzyi and huwH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the last 'to wait for'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: dào shíhou
- Say it: dào shíhou, once more
- Say it: dào shíhou wǒ yídìng lái — When the time comes, I'll be there for sure.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to still have time, then the Mandarin for to make it onto a train, then say dào shíhou again

Before you move on

What does 到时候 mean? ("When the time comes".) Say it once more.

391.6 Looking back: from Second-Hand to When Plans Change

Say the Mandarin for second-hand and to turn into.

Your turn

- Say it: second-hand, to turn into, sitting unused at home, good value for money, to turn bad (of the weather)
- Say it: income, savings (in the bank), a bill (to pay), to shop online, a budget
- Say it: to find time (for something), a romantic date, to miss an appointment, to do ahead of time, a time zone
- Say it: spare (kept for when needed), to economise, a risk, as a precaution, to fall due
- Say it: to be certain, to agree on a time, at regular intervals, on the agreed date, approximately

- Say it: a day's schedule, at the last minute, to still have time, to make it onto a train, when the time comes
- Read it: 变 约 定 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

Second-hand? (二手, èrshǒu.) To turn into? (变成, biànchéng.) Sitting unused at home? (xiánzhì.) Good value for money? (huásuàn.) To turn bad (of the weather)? (变天, biàntiān.) Income? (shōurù.) Savings (in the bank)? (cúnkuǎn.) A bill (to pay)? (zhàngdān.) To shop online? (wǎnggòu.) A budget? (yùsuàn.) To find time (for something)? (chōukòng.) A romantic date? (约会, yuēhuì.) To miss an appointment? (shīyuē.) To do ahead of time? (tíqián.) A time zone? (时区, shíqū.) Spare (kept for when needed)? (bèiyòng.) To economise? (节约, jiéyuē.) A risk? (fēngxiǎn.) As a precaution? (yǐfáng.) To fall due? (到期, dàoqī.) To be certain? (quèdìng.) To agree on a time? (约定, yuēdìng.) At regular intervals? (定期, dìngqī.) On the agreed date? (如期, rúqī.) Approximately? (大约, dàyuē.) A day's schedule? (rìchéng.) At the last minute? (línshí.) To still have time? (láidejí.) To make it onto a train? (gǎnshàng.) When the time comes? (到时候, dào shíhou.)

Chapter 392

A Change of Plan

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about changing things, changing a date, changing plans, new names and someone changing their tune.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 392: I can talk about changing things, changing a date, changing plans, new names and someone changing their tune.

392.1 改 (gǎi) — to alter; to amend

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to make it onto a train, then the Mandarin for when the time comes.

You'll want to know: 改

改 — gǎi — "to alter; to amend".

> 时间改了我们下午三点见面 shíjiān gǎi le wǒmen xiàwǔ sān diǎn jiànmiàn — The time's changed: we're meeting at three in the afternoon.

The new character, in pieces: 改 — seven strokes in two pieces: on the left a bar that turns down, a short bar, and a vertical that bends right and flicks up; on the right the right piece of 做. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 改 (gǎi) is inherited from Middle Chinese kojX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to change'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: gǎi
- Say it: gǎi, once more
- Say it: shíjiān gǎi le wǒmen xiàwǔ sān diǎn jiànmiàn — The time's changed: we're meeting at three in the afternoon.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to make it onto a train, then the Mandarin for when the time comes, then say gǎi again

Before you move on

What does 改 mean? ("To alter; to amend".) Say it once more.

392.2 改 — a bent piece, then the right piece of 做

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say gǎi — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  做 变

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — zuò, biàn

Script — a bent piece, then the right piece of 做

How 改 is written, stroke by stroke

改

Two pieces, left before right.

The left piece, three strokes. A bar that turns down. A short bar under it. Then a vertical that comes down, bends right along the foot and flicks up.

The right piece, four strokes, the right piece of 做. A short stroke falling to the left. A bar from it to the right. A long stroke falling to the left. Then a long stroke falling to the right across it.

3 + 4 = seven.

Your turn

- Write it: 改, all seven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 改? (Seven.) Where have you made the right piece before? (On the right of 做.) How does the left piece end? (A bend to the right and a flick up.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 改, pinned stroke paths and medians.

392.3 改期 (gǎiqī) — to change the date (of an event)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for when the time comes, then the Mandarin for to alter.

You'll want to know: 改期

改期 — gǎiqī — "to change the date (of an event)".

要是下雨晚会就改期 yàoshi xiàyǔ wǎnhuì jiù gǎiqī — If it rains, the party will be moved to another date.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 改期 (gǎiqī) is built from 改 'to alter' and 期 'a set time', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kojX and gi (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'an appointed meeting'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: gǎiqī
- Say it: gǎiqī, once more
- Say it: yàoshi xiàyǔ wǎnhuì jiù gǎiqī — If it rains, the party will be moved to another date.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for when the time comes, then the Mandarin for to alter, then say gǎiqī again

Before you move on

What does 改期 mean? ("To change the date (of an event)".) Say it once more.

392.4 改变 (gǎibiàn) — to make different (a plan or a habit)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to alter, then the Mandarin for to change the date.

You'll want to know: 改变

改变 — gǎibiàn — "to make different (a plan or a habit)".

rúguǒ tiānqì bù hǎo wǒmen jiù gǎibiàn jìhuà — If the weather's bad, we'll change our plans.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 改变 (gǎibiàn) is built from 改 'to alter' and 变 'to change', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kojX and pjenH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to change' and the second 'to transform'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: gǎibiàn
- Say it: gǎibiàn, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ tiānqì bù hǎo wǒmen jiù gǎibiàn jìhuà — If the weather's bad, we'll change our plans.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to alter, then the Mandarin for to change the date, then say gǎibiàn again

Before you move on

What does 改变 mean? ("To make different (a plan or a habit)".) Say it once more.

392.5 改名 (gǎimíng) — to change the name (of)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to change the date, then the Mandarin for to make different.

You'll want to know: 改名

改名 — gǎimíng — "to change the name (of)".

那家饭店改名了 nà jiā fàndiàn gǎimíng le — That restaurant has changed its name.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 改名 (gǎimíng) is built from 改 'to alter' and 名 'a name', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kojX and mjieng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: gǎimíng
- Say it: gǎimíng, once more
- Say it: nà jiā fàndiàn gǎimíng le — That restaurant has changed its name.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to change the date, then the Mandarin for to make different, then say gǎimíng again

Before you move on

What does 改名 mean? ("To change the name (of)".) Say it once more.

392.6 改口 (gǎikǒu) — to change one's tune; to take back what one said

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to make different, then the Mandarin for to change the name (of).

You'll want to know: 改口

改口 — gǎikǒu — "to change one's tune; to take back what one said".

tā zuótiān shuō bú qù jīntiān yòu gǎikǒu le — Yesterday he said he wasn't going; today he's changed his tune.

Two third tones meet in this word: gǎi is said with a rising tone before kǒu, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 改口 (gǎikǒu) is built from 改 'to alter' and 口 'the mouth', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kojX and khuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'what a person speaks and eats with': altering what comes out of the mouth.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: gǎikǒu
- Say it: gǎikǒu, once more
- Say it: tā zuótiān shuō bú qù jīntiān yòu gǎikǒu le — Yesterday he said he wasn't going; today he's changed his tune.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to make different, then the Mandarin for to change the name (of), then say gǎikǒu again

Before you move on

What does 改口 mean? ("To change one's tune; to take back what one said".) Say it once more.

Chapter 393

Be Sure To

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about telling someone to remember, being sure to, what money can't do, any time and things going smoothly.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 393: I can talk about telling someone to remember, being sure to, what money can't do, any time and things going smoothly.

393.1 zhǔfu — to exhort; to tell (someone) to be sure to do something

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to change the name (of), then the Mandarin for to change one's tune.

You'll want to know: zhǔfu

zhǔfu — "to exhort; to tell (someone) to be sure to do something".

> māma zhǔfu wǒ wǎnshang zǎo huí jiā — Mum told me to be sure to come home early tonight.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhǔfu is built from zhǔ 'to entrust' and fu. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese tsyowk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to entrust to'; the dictionary has no entry for the second, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: zhǔfu
- Say it: zhǔfu, once more
- Say it: māma zhǔfu wǒ wǎnshang zǎo huí jiā — Mum told me to be sure to come home early tonight.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to change the name (of), then the Mandarin for to change one's tune, then say zhǔfu again

Before you move on

What does zhǔfu mean? ("To exhort; to tell (someone) to be sure to do something".) Say it once more.

393.2 千万 (qiānwàn) — be sure to (urging); whatever you do

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to change one's tune, then the Mandarin for to exhort (someone).

You'll want to know: 千万

千万 — qiānwàn — "be sure to (urging); whatever you do".

> 你一个人在外边千万要保重 nǐ yí ge rén zài wàibian qiānwàn yào bǎozhòng — Out there on your own, be sure to look after yourself.

The new character, in pieces: 万 — three strokes: a long bar, a stroke that runs right and turns down with a hook, and a long stroke falling to the left. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 千万 (qiānwàn) is built from 千 'a thousand' and 万 'ten thousand', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tshen and mjonH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'ten hundreds'; for the second it names a dance and an insect, and the number is not given there. A thousand times, ten thousand times over: the urging sense is usually explained that way.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: qiānwàn
- Say it: qiānwàn, once more
- Say it: nǐ yí ge rén zài wàibian qiānwàn yào bǎozhòng — Out there on your own, be sure to look after yourself.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to change one's tune, then the Mandarin for to exhort (someone), then say qiānwàn again

Before you move on

What does 千万 mean? ("Be sure to (urging); whatever you do".) Say it once more.

393.3 万 — a bar, a turning hook, a long fall

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say qiānwàn — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

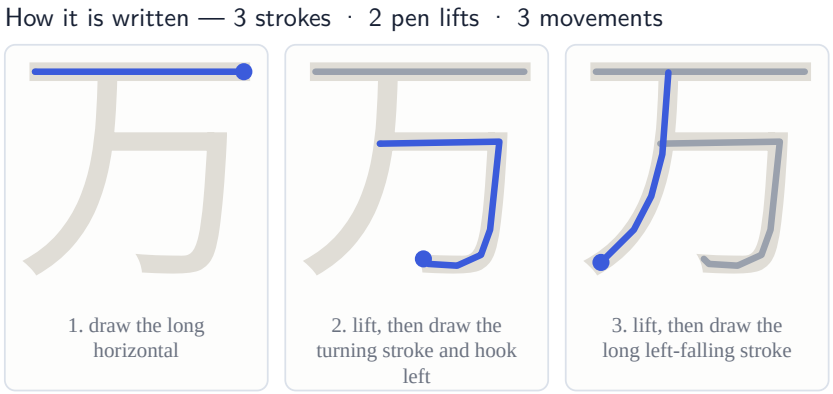
  千 为

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — qiān, wéi

Script — a bar, a turning hook, a long fall



How 万 is written, stroke by stroke

万

Three strokes, top to bottom.

A long bar across the top.

A turning hook: from under the middle of the bar, a stroke that runs right, turns down and hooks to the left, as in 为 and 月.

A long stroke falling to the left, from the bar down to the lower left.

One, two, three.

Your turn

- Write it: 万, all three, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 万? (Three.) Which stroke has the hook? (The second, the turning hook.) Which comes last? (The long fall to the left.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 万, pinned stroke paths and medians.

393.4 万能 (wànnéng) — able to do everything; all-purpose

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to exhort (someone), then the Mandarin for be sure to (urging).

You'll want to know: 万能

万能 — wànnéng — "able to do everything; all-purpose".

méiyǒu wànnéng de bànfǎ — There's no way that works for everything.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 万能 (wànnéng) is built from 万 'ten thousand' and 能 'able', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjonH and nong (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'skilled': able in ten thousand things.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: wànnéng
- Say it: wànnéng, once more
- Say it: méiyǒu wànnéng de bànfǎ — There's no way that works for everything.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to exhort (someone), then the Mandarin for be sure to (urging), then say wànnéng again

Before you move on

What does 万能 mean? ("Able to do everything; all-purpose".) Say it once more.

393.5 suíshí — at any time; whenever needed

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for be sure to (urging), then the Mandarin for all-purpose.

You'll want to know: suíshí

suíshí — "at any time; whenever needed".

yàoshi yǒushì nǐ suíshí lái zhǎo wǒ — If anything comes up, come and find me any time.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of suíshí is built from suí 'to follow' and 时 'the time', both inherited from Middle Chinese, zjwe and dzyi (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to go along with': whatever the time.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: suíshí
- Say it: suíshí, once more
- Say it: yàoshi yǒushì nǐ suíshí lái zhǎo wǒ — If anything comes up, come and find me any time.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for be sure to (urging), then the Mandarin for all-purpose, then say suíshí again

Before you move on

What does suíshí mean? ("At any time; whenever needed".) Say it once more.

393.6 shùnlì — smooth; without a hitch

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for all-purpose, then the Mandarin for at any time at all.

You'll want to know: shùnlì

shùnlì — "smooth; without a hitch".

rúguǒ shùnlì dehuà wǒmen wǔ diǎn jiù dào — If all goes well, we'll be there by five.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shùnlì is built from shùn 'to go along with' and lì 'favourable', both inherited from Middle Chinese, zywinH and lijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to follow' and the second 'auspicious'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: shùnlì
- Say it: shùnlì, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ shùnlì dehuà wǒmen wǔ diǎn jiù dào — If all goes well, we'll be there by five.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for all-purpose, then the Mandarin for at any time at all, then say shùnlì again

Before you move on

What does shùnlì mean? (“Smooth; without a hitch”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 394

Success or Failure

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about succeeding, failing, taking a risk, effort going to waste and things staying the same.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 394: I can talk about succeeding, failing, taking a risk, effort going to waste and things staying the same.

394.1 chénggōng — to succeed

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for at any time at all, then the Mandarin for going smoothly.

You'll want to know: chénggōng

chénggōng — "to succeed".

> rúguǒ nǐ nǔlì jiù huì chénggōng — If you work hard, you'll succeed.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chénggōng is built from 成 'to complete' and gōng 'merit', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyeng and kuwng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'an achievement'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: chénggōng
- Say it: chénggōng, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ nǐ nǔlì jiù huì chénggōng — If you work hard, you'll succeed.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for at any time at all, then the Mandarin for going smoothly, then say chénggōng again

Before you move on

What does chénggōng mean? ("To succeed".) Say it once more.

394.2 shībài — to fail

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for going smoothly, then the Mandarin for to succeed.

You'll want to know: shībài

shībài — "to fail".

shībài le yě méi guānxi wǒmen zài lái — It doesn't matter if we fail; we'll try again.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shībài is built from shī 'to lose' and bài 'to fall apart', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syit and baejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to break of itself'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: shībài
- Say it: shībài, once more
- Say it: shībài le yě méi guānxi wǒmen zài lái — It doesn't matter if we fail; we'll try again.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for going smoothly, then the Mandarin for to succeed, then say shībài again

Before you move on

What does shībài mean? ("To fail".) Say it once more.

394.3 màoxiǎn — to take a risk

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to succeed, then the Mandarin for to fail.

You'll want to know: màoxiǎn

màoxiǎn — "to take a risk".

> rúguǒ nǐ bù xiǎng màoxiǎn jiù bié qù — If you don't want to take the risk, don't go.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of màoxiǎn is built from mào 'to wade into' and xiǎn 'danger', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mawH and xjemX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to cover' and 'to wade' and the second 'perilous'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: màoxiǎn
- Say it: màoxiǎn, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ nǐ bù xiǎng màoxiǎn jiù bié qù — If you don't want to take the risk, don't go.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to succeed, then the Mandarin for to fail, then say màoxiǎn again

Before you move on

What does màoxiǎn mean? ("To take a risk".) Say it once more.

394.4 báifèi — to be wasted (of effort)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to fail, then the Mandarin for to take a risk.

You'll want to know: báifèi

báifèi — "to be wasted (of effort)".

yàoshi nǐ xiànzài bú zuò yǐqián de nǔlì jiù báifèi le — If you don't do it now, all your work so far will be wasted.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of báifèi is built from 白 'white, blank' and fèi 'to use up', both inherited from Middle Chinese, baek and phj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the colour of the west'. 白 for 'in vain' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: báifèi
- Say it: báifèi, once more
- Say it: yàoshi nǐ xiànzài bú zuò yǐqián de nǔlì jiù báifèi le — If you don't do it now, all your work so far will be wasted.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to fail, then the Mandarin for to take a risk, then say báifèi again

Before you move on

What does báifèi mean? ("To be wasted (of effort)".) Say it once more.

394.5 不变 (búbiàn) — unchanged; staying the same

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to take a risk, then the Mandarin for to be wasted (of effort).

You'll want to know: 不变

不变 — búbiàn — "unchanged; staying the same".

时间不变地点改了 shíjiān búbiàn dìdiǎn gǎi le — The time stays the same; the place has changed.

Tone: 不 is said bú here, rising, because biàn after it is a falling tone.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 不变 (búbiàn) is built from 不 'not' and 变 'to change', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjut and pjenH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: búbiàn
- Say it: búbiàn, once more
- Say it: shíjiān búbiàn dìdiǎn gǎi le — The time stays the same; the place has changed.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to take a risk, then the Mandarin for to be wasted (of effort), then say búbiàn again

Before you move on

What does 不变 mean? ("Unchanged; staying the same".) Say it once more.

Chapter 395

Getting Results

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about dreams coming true, achieving something, results, finishing a job and a condition.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 395: I can talk about dreams coming true, achieving something, results, finishing a job and a condition.

395.1 shíxiàn — to come true; to make real

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be wasted (of effort), then the Mandarin for staying the same.

You'll want to know: shíxiàn

shíxiàn — "to come true; to make real".

> yàoshi yǒu qián wǒ de mèngxiǎng jiù néng shíxiàn — If I had the money, my dream could come true.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shíxiàn is built from shí 'real' and 现 'to appear', both inherited from Middle Chinese, zyit and henH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'full' and 'true' and the second 'to show'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: shíxiàn
- Say it: shíxiàn, once more
- Say it: yàoshi yǒu qián wǒ de mèngxiǎng jiù néng shíxiàn — If I had the money, my dream could come true.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be wasted (of effort), then the Mandarin for staying the same, then say shíxiàn again

Before you move on

What does shíxiàn mean? ("To come true; to make real".) Say it once more.

395.2 取得 (qǔdé) — to achieve; to obtain (through effort)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for staying the same, then the Mandarin for to come true.

You'll want to know: 取得

取得 — qǔdé — "to achieve; to obtain (through effort)".

tā qǔdé le hěn hǎo de chéngjì — She got very good marks.

The new character, in pieces: 取 — eight strokes in two pieces: on the left the ear piece, six strokes; on the right 又, as at the foot of 变. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 取得 (qǔdé) is built from 取 'to take' and 得 'to get', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tshjuX and tok (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to gather in' and 'to receive'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: qǔdé
- Say it: qǔdé, once more
- Say it: tā qǔdé le hěn hǎo de chéngjì — She got very good marks.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for staying the same, then the Mandarin for to come true, then say qǔdé again

Before you move on

What does 取得 mean? ("To achieve; to obtain (through effort)".) Say it once more.

395.3 取 — the ear piece, then 又

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say qǔdé — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  变 又

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — biàn, yòu

Script — the ear piece, then 又

How 取 is written, stroke by stroke

取

Two pieces, left before right.

The left piece, the ear piece, six strokes. A bar across the top. A short vertical down on the left. A long vertical down on the right, past the foot. Two short bars between them. Then a stroke rising to the right at the foot.

The right piece, 又, two strokes, as at the foot of 变: a bar that turns and falls to the lower left, then a long stroke falling to the right across it.

6 + 2 = eight.

Your turn

- Write it: 取, all eight, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 取? (Eight.) Which vertical is longer? (The right one, past the foot.) What is the right piece? (又, as at the foot of 变.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 取, pinned stroke paths and medians.

395.4 成果 (chéngguǒ) — fruits of work; achievements

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to come true, then the Mandarin for to obtain (through effort).

You'll want to know: 成果

成果 — chéngguǒ — "fruits of work; achievements".

我们今年取得了很好的成果 wǒmen jīnnián qǔdé le hěn hǎo de chéngguǒ — We got good results this year.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 成果 (chéngguǒ) is built from 成 'to complete' and 果 'fruit', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyeng and kwaX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'the fruit of a tree' and 'resolute'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: chéngguǒ
- Say it: chéngguǒ, once more
- Say it: wǒmen jīnnián qǔdé le hěn hǎo de chéngguǒ — We got good results this year.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to come true, then the Mandarin for to obtain (through effort), then say chéngguǒ again

Before you move on

What does 成果 mean? ("Fruits of work; achievements".) Say it once more.

395.5 wánchéng — to complete; to get (a job) done

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to obtain (through effort), then the Mandarin for fruits of work.

You'll want to know: wánchéng

wánchéng — "to complete; to get (a job) done".

rúguǒ jīntiān néng wánchéng míngtiān jiù kěyǐ xiūxi — If we can finish today, we can rest tomorrow.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of wánchéng is built from wán 'whole' and 成 'to complete', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hwan and dzyeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'complete'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: wánchéng
- Say it: wánchéng, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ jīntiān néng wánchéng míngtiān jiù kěyǐ xiūxi — If we can finish today, we can rest tomorrow.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to obtain (through effort), then the Mandarin for fruits of work, then say wánchéng again

Before you move on

What does wánchéng mean? (“To complete; to get (a job) done”.) Say it once more.

395.6 tiáojiàn — condition (that must be met)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for fruits of work, then the Mandarin for to get (a job) done.

You’ll want to know: tiáojiàn tiáojiàn — “condition (that must be met)”.

wǒ kěyǐ qù kěshì yǒu yí ge tiáojiàn — I can go, but there’s one condition.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tiáojiàn is built from tiáo ’a twig’ and jiàn ’a portion’, both inherited from Middle Chinese, dew and gjenX (Guangyun, in Baxter’s transcription), which glosses the first ’a small branch’ and the second ’to divide into items’.

What you’ve built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: tiáojiàn
- Say it: tiáojiàn, once more
- Say it: wǒ kěyǐ qù kěshì yǒu yí ge tiáojiàn — I can go, but there’s one condition.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for fruits of work, then the Mandarin for to get (a job) done, then say tiáojiàn again

Before you move on

What does tiáojiàn mean? (“Condition (that must be met)”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 396

Whatever Happens

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about doing something no matter what, since something is so, unless something happens, all day and even if something happens.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 396: I can talk about doing something no matter what, since something is so, unless something happens, all day and even if something happens.

396.1 bùguǎn — no matter (whether or how)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get (a job) done, then the Mandarin for a condition (that must be met).

You'll want to know: bùguǎn

bùguǎn — "no matter (whether or how)".

> bùguǎn míngtiān tiānqì zěnmeyàng wǒ dōu qù — Whatever the weather tomorrow, I'm going.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Tone: 不 keeps its own falling tone here, bù, because guǎn after it is a third tone, not a falling one.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bùguǎn is built from 不 'not' and guǎn 'to be in charge', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjut and kwanX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a pipe' and 'to take charge': not caring which.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: bùguǎn
- Say it: bùguǎn, once more
- Say it: bùguǎn míngtiān tiānqì zěnmeyàng wǒ dōu qù — Whatever the weather tomorrow, I'm going.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get (a job) done, then the Mandarin for a condition (that must be met), then say bùguǎn again

Before you move on

What does bùguǎn mean? ("No matter (whether or how)".) Say it once more.

396.2 jìrán — given that; now that

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a condition (that must be met), then the Mandarin for no matter (whether or how).

You'll want to know: jìrán

jìrán — "given that; now that".

jìrán nǐ bìng le jiù zài jiā xiūxi — Since you're ill, stay at home and rest.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jìrán is built from jì 'already' and 然 'so', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kj+jH and nyen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'finished' and the second 'like this'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: jìrán
- Say it: jìrán, once more
- Say it: jìrán nǐ bìng le jiù zài jiā xiūxi — Since you're ill, stay at home and rest.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a condition (that must be met), then the Mandarin for no matter (whether or how), then say jìrán again

Before you move on

What does jìrán mean? ("Given that; now that".) Say it once more.

396.3 chúfēi — unless

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for no matter (whether or how), then the Mandarin for given that.

You'll want to know: chúfēi

chúfēi — "unless".

chúfēi nǐ bìng le bùrán míngtiān yídìng yào lái — Unless you're ill, be sure to come tomorrow.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chúfēi is built from chú 'to take away' and fēi 'not', both inherited from Middle Chinese, drjo and pj+j (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to remove' and the second 'it is not so'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: chúfēi
- Say it: chúfēi, once more
- Say it: chúfēi nǐ bìng le bùrán míngtiān yídìng yào lái — Unless you're ill, be sure to come tomorrow.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for no matter (whether or how), then the Mandarin for given that, then say chúfēi again

Before you move on

What does chúfēi mean? ("Unless".) Say it once more.

396.4 全天 (quántiān) — all day; round the clock

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for given that, then the Mandarin for unless.

You'll want to know: 全天

全天 — quántiān — "all day; round the clock".

要是晚上要用钱这儿全天都能取钱 yàoshi wǎnshang yào yòng qián zhèr quántiān dōu néng qǔqián — If you need cash at night, you can take money out here at any hour.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 全天 (quántiān) is built from 全 'whole' and 天 'a day', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzjwen and then (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: quántiān
- Say it: quántiān, once more
- Say it: yàoshi wǎnshang yào yòng qián zhèr quántiān dōu néng qǔqián — If you need cash at night, you can take money out here at any hour.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for given that, then the Mandarin for unless, then say quántiān again

Before you move on

What does 全天 mean? ("All day; round the clock".) Say it once more.

396.5 jíshǐ — even if

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for unless, then the Mandarin for round the clock.

You'll want to know: jíshǐ

jíshǐ — "even if".

jíshǐ xiàyǔ wǒmen yě yào qù — Even if it rains, we're still going.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jíshǐ is built from jí 'to go up to' and shǐ 'to make (someone do)', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsik and sriX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to go to' and 'now' and the second 'to employ' and 'to order'. How the pair came to mean 'even if' is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: jíshǐ
- Say it: jíshǐ, once more
- Say it: jíshǐ xiàyǔ wǒmen yě yào qù — Even if it rains, we're still going.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for unless, then the Mandarin for round the clock, then say jíshǐ again

Before you move on

What does jíshǐ mean? ("Even if".) Say it once more.

396.6 Looking back: from A Change of Plan to Whatever Happens

Say the Mandarin for to alter and to change the date.

Your turn

- Say it: to alter, to change the date, to make different, to change the name (of), to change one's tune
- Say it: to exhort (someone), be sure to (urging), all-purpose, at any time at all, going smoothly

- Say it: to succeed, to fail, to take a risk, to be wasted (of effort), staying the same
- Say it: to come true, to obtain (through effort), fruits of work, to get (a job) done, a condition (that must be met)
- Say it: no matter (whether or how), given that, unless, round the clock, even if
- Read it: 改 万 取 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

To alter? (改, gǎi.) To change the date? (改期, gǎiqī.) To make different? (改变, gǎibiàn.) To change the name (of)? (改名, gǎimíng.) To change one's tune? (改口, gǎikǒu.) To exhort (someone)? (zhǔfu.) Be sure to (urging)? (千万, qiānwàn.) All-purpose? (万能, wànnéng.) At any time at all? (suíshí.) Going smoothly? (shùnlì.) To succeed? (chénggōng.) To fail? (shībài.) To take a risk? (màoxiǎn.) To be wasted (of effort)? (báifèi.) Staying the same? (不变, búbiàn.) To come true? (shíxiàn.) To obtain (through effort)? (取得, qǔdé.) Fruits of work? (成果, chéngguǒ.) To get (a job) done? (wánchéng.) A condition (that must be met)? (tiáojiàn.) No matter (whether or how)? (bùguǎn.) Given that? (jìrán.) Unless? (chúfēi.) Round the clock? (全天, quántiān.) Even if? (jíshǐ.)

Chapter 397

Surely Not

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about being stood up, asking whether something can really be so, rare chances, awkward spots and excuses.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 397: I can talk about being stood up, asking whether something can really be so, rare chances, awkward spots and excuses.

397.1 fàng gēzi — to stand someone up

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for round the clock, then the Mandarin for even if.

You'll want to know: fàng gēzi

fàng gēzi — "to stand someone up".

> rúguǒ tā yòu fàng gēzi wǒ jiù bù děng tā le — If he stands me up again, I won't wait for him any more.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fàng gēzi is built from fàng 'to let go' and gēzi 'a pigeon', all inherited from Middle Chinese, pjangH, kop and tsiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'the name of a bird'. Letting the pigeon fly is a modern saying, and how it came to mean standing someone up is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: fàng gēzi
- Say it: fàng gēzi, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ tā yòu fàng gēzi wǒ jiù bù děng tā le — If he stands me up again, I won't wait for him any more.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for round the clock, then the Mandarin for even if, then say fàng gēzi again

Before you move on

What does fàng gēzi mean? ("To stand someone up".) Say it once more.

397.2 难道 (nándào) — surely not (in a question)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for even if, then the Mandarin for to stand someone up.

You'll want to know: 难道

难道 — nándào — "surely not (in a question)".

难道你不想去吗 nándào nǐ bù xiǎng qù ma — Surely you want to go?

The new character, in pieces: 难 — ten strokes in two pieces: on the left 又 made narrow, with a dot for its last stroke; on the right the bird piece, eight strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 难道 (nándào) is built from 难 'hard' and dào 'to say', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nan and dawX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'difficult' and the second 'a way'. The sense 'to say' is not given there, and how the pair came to ask whether something can really be so is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: nándào
- Say it: nándào, once more
- Say it: nándào nǐ bù xiǎng qù ma — Surely you want to go?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for even if, then the Mandarin for to stand someone up, then say nándào again

Before you move on

What does 难道 mean? ("Surely not (in a question)".) Say it once more.

397.3 难 — a narrow 又, then the bird piece

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say nándào — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  取 又

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — qǔ, yòu

Script — a narrow 又, then the bird piece

How 难 is written, stroke by stroke

难

Two pieces, left before right.

The left piece, 又 made narrow, two strokes: a bar that turns and falls to the lower left, then a dot instead of the long stroke.

The right piece, the bird piece, eight strokes. A stroke falling to the left. A long vertical down from it. A dot at the top right. Three short bars, one under another. A second vertical down through them. Then a long bar across the foot.

2 + 8 = ten.

Your turn

- Write it: 难, all ten, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 难? (Ten.) What ends the left piece? (A dot.) How many short bars in the bird piece before the long one? (Three.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 难, pinned stroke paths and medians.

397.4 难得 (nándé) — rare; hard to come by

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to stand someone up, then the Mandarin for surely not (in a question).

You'll want to know: 难得

难得 — nándé — "rare; hard to come by".

我们难得有时间一起吃饭 wǒmen nándé yǒu shíjiān yìqǐ chī fàn — We seldom get time to eat together.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 难得 (nándé) is built from 难 'hard' and 得 'to get', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nan and tok (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'difficult'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: nándé
- Say it: nándé, once more
- Say it: wǒmen nándé yǒu shíjiān yìqǐ chī fàn — We seldom get time to eat together.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to stand someone up, then the Mandarin for surely not (in a question), then say nándé again

Before you move on

What does 难得 mean? ("Rare; hard to come by".) Say it once more.

397.5 为难 (wéinán) — in an awkward spot; torn (about what to do)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for surely not (in a question), then the Mandarin for hard to come by.

You'll want to know: 为难

为难 — wéinán — "in an awkward spot; torn (about what to do)".

> 我不想说不所以很为难 wǒ bù xiǎng shuō bù suǒyǐ hěn wéinán — I don't want to say no, so I'm in an awkward spot.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 为难 (wéinán) is built from 为 'to make' and 难 'hard', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hjwe and nan (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to do' and the second 'difficult'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: wéinán
- Say it: wéinán, once more
- Say it: wǒ bù xiǎng shuō bù suǒyǐ hěn wéinán — I don't want to say no, so I'm in an awkward spot.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for surely not (in a question), then the Mandarin for hard to come by, then say wéinán again

Before you move on

What does 为难 mean? ("In an awkward spot; torn (about what to do)".) Say it once more.

397.6 jièkǒu — excuse (a poor reason)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for hard to come by, then the Mandarin for in an awkward spot.

You'll want to know: jièkǒu

jièkǒu — "excuse (a poor reason)".

> yàoshi nǐ bù xiǎng qù jiù bié zhǎo jièkǒu — If you don't want to go, don't make excuses.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jièkǒu is built from jiè 'to borrow' and 口 'a mouth', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsjaeH and khuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to borrow': words borrowed to cover the real reason.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: jièkǒu
- Say it: jièkǒu, once more
- Say it: yàoshi nǐ bù xiǎng qù jiù bié zhǎo jièkǒu — If you don't want to go, don't make excuses.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for hard to come by, then the Mandarin for in an awkward spot, then say jièkǒu again

Before you move on

What does jièkǒu mean? ("Excuse (a poor reason)".) Say it once more.

Chapter 398

It Depends

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about attitude, the difference between two things, a region, ready-made food and what a plan depends on.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 398: I can talk about attitude, the difference between two things, a region, ready-made food and what a plan depends on.

398.1 tàidu — attitude

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for in an awkward spot, then the Mandarin for an excuse (a poor reason).

You'll want to know: tàidu

tàidu — "attitude".

> néng bu néng chénggōng yào kàn nǐ de tàidu — Whether you succeed depends on your attitude.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

tàidu is built from tài 'a bearing' and dù 'a measure', both inherited from Middle Chinese, thojH and duH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'manner' and the second 'a rule'.

In the word the second loses its tone.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: tàidu
- Say it: tàidu, once more
- Say it: néng bu néng chénggōng yào kàn nǐ de tàidu — Whether you succeed depends on your attitude.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for in an awkward spot, then the Mandarin for an excuse (a poor reason), then say tàidu again

Before you move on

What does tàidu mean? ("Attitude".) Say it once more.

398.2 qūbié — difference

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an excuse (a poor reason), then the Mandarin for your attitude.

You'll want to know: qūbié

qūbié — "difference".

zhè liǎng ge yǒu shénme qūbié — What's the difference between these two?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

qūbié is built from 区 'an area' and bié 'to part', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khju and bjet (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'different' and 'to leave'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: qūbié
- Say it: qūbié, once more
- Say it: zhè liǎng ge yǒu shénme qūbié — What's the difference between these two?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an excuse (a poor reason), then the Mandarin for your attitude, then say qūbié again

Before you move on

What does qūbié mean? ("Difference".) Say it once more.

398.3 地区 (dìqū) — region; area (of a country)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for your attitude, then the Mandarin for the difference.

You'll want to know: 地区

地区 — dìqū — "region; area (of a country)".

这个地区有一百万人口 zhège dìqū yǒu yìbǎi wàn rénkǒu — This region has a million people.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 地区 (dìqū) is built from 地 'the ground' and 区 'an area', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dijH and khju (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the land'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: dìqū
- Say it: dìqū, once more
- Say it: zhège dìqū yǒu yìbǎi wàn rénkǒu — This region has a million people.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for your attitude, then the Mandarin for the difference, then say dìqū again

Before you move on

What does 地区 mean? ("Region; area (of a country)".) Say it once more.

398.4 现成 (xiànchéng) — ready-made

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the difference, then the Mandarin for a region of a country.

You'll want to know: 现成

现成 — xiànchéng — "ready-made".

要是没时间做饭就买现成的 yàoshi méi shíjiān zuòfàn jiù mǎi xiànchéng de — If there's no time to cook, buy something ready-made.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 现成 (xiànchéng) is built from 现 'to appear' and 成 'complete', both inherited from Middle Chinese, henH and dzyeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to show' and the second 'finished': already there and done.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: xiànchéng
- Say it: xiànchéng, once more
- Say it: yàoshi méi shíjiān zuòfàn jiù mǎi xiànchéng de — If there's no time to cook, buy something ready-made.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the difference, then the Mandarin for a region of a country, then say xiànchéng again

Before you move on

What does 现成 mean? ("Ready-made".) Say it once more.

398.5 qǔjuéyú — to depend on (a factor); to hinge on

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a region of a country, then the Mandarin for ready-made.

You'll want to know: qǔjuéyú

qǔjuéyú — "to depend on (a factor); to hinge on".

wǒmen qù bu qù qǔjuéyú tiānqì — Whether we go hinges on the weather.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qǔjuéyú is built from 取 'to take', jué 'to decide' and yú 'by', all inherited from Middle Chinese, tshjuX, kwet and 'jo (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to break through' and 'to cut' and lists the third as a grammar word: to take its decision from something.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: qǔjuéyú
- Say it: qǔjuéyú, once more
- Say it: wǒmen qù bu qù qǔjuéyú tiānqì — Whether we go hinges on the weather.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a region of a country, then the Mandarin for ready-made, then say qǔjuéyú again

Before you move on

What does qǔjuéyú mean? ("To depend on (a factor); to hinge on".) Say it once more.

Chapter 399

Only If

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ↙ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about requirements, the only way something happens, what is enough, meeting a demand and settling down.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 399: I can talk about requirements, the only way something happens, what is enough, meeting a demand and settling down.

399.1 yāoqiú — to require; to demand (of someone)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for ready-made, then the Mandarin for to hinge on.

You'll want to know: yāoqiú

yāoqiú — "to require; to demand (of someone)".

> lǎoshī yāoqiú wǒmen měitiān shuō hànyǔ — The teacher asks us to speak Chinese every day.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yāoqiú is built from yāo 'to press' and qiú 'to seek', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jiew and gjuw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to force, in common speech' and the second 'to look for'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: yāoqiú
- Say it: yāoqiú, once more
- Say it: lǎoshī yāoqiú wǒmen měitiān shuō hànyǔ — The teacher asks us to speak Chinese every day.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for ready-made, then the Mandarin for to hinge on, then say yāoqiú again

Before you move on

What does yāoqiú mean? ("To require; to demand (of someone)".) Say it once more.

399.2 只有 (zhǐyǒu) — only if (with cái after it)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to hinge on, then the Mandarin for to demand (of someone).

You'll want to know: 只有

只有 — zhǐyǒu — "only if (with cái after it)".

只有你去他才会去 zhǐyǒu nǐ qù tā cái huì qù — He'll only go if you go.

The new character, in pieces: 只 — five strokes: 口 on top, and 八 under it. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

Two third tones meet in this word: zhǐ is said with a rising tone before yǒu, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 只有 (zhǐyǒu) is built from zhǐ 'only' and 有 'to have'. The second is inherited from Middle Chinese hjuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the dictionary lists the first, tsyeX there, as a particle.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: zhǐyǒu
- Say it: zhǐyǒu, once more
- Say it: zhǐyǒu nǐ qù tā cái huì qù — He'll only go if you go.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to hinge on, then the Mandarin for to demand (of someone), then say zhǐyǒu again

Before you move on

What does 只有 mean? ("Only if (with cái after it)".) Say it once more.

399.3 只 — 口 over 八

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say zhǐyǒu — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

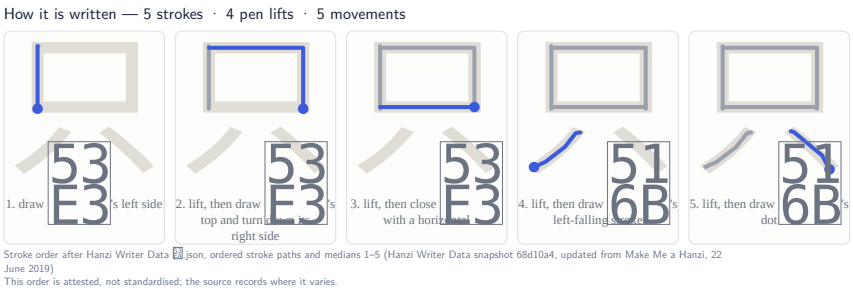
  口 八

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — kǒu, bā

Script — 口 over 八



How 只 is written, stroke by stroke

只

Two pieces, top before bottom.

口 on top, three strokes, as you wrote it: a short vertical, a stroke that runs right and turns down, then the bar that closes the foot.

八 under it, two strokes: a stroke falling to the left, then a dot falling to the right.

3 + 2 = five.

Your turn

- Write it: 只, all five, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 只? (Five.) What is on top? (口.) What is under it? (八.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 只, pinned stroke paths and medians.

399.4 只要 (zhǐyào) — as long as; provided (that)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to demand (of someone), then the Mandarin for only if.

You'll want to know: 只要

只要 — zhǐyào — "as long as; provided (that)".

> 只要不下雨我们就去 zhǐyào bú xiàyǔ wǒmen jiù qù — As long as it doesn't rain, we'll go.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 只要 (zhǐyào) is built from 只 'only' and 要 'to need'. The second is inherited from Middle Chinese 'jiewH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to bind by agreement'; the dictionary lists the first, tsyeX there, as a particle.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: zhǐyào
- Say it: zhǐyào, once more
- Say it: zhǐyào bú xiàyǔ wǒmen jiù qù — As long as it doesn't rain, we'll go.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to demand (of someone), then the Mandarin for only if, then say zhǐyào again

Before you move on

What does 只要 mean? ("As long as; provided (that)".) Say it once more.

399.5 mǎnzú — to meet (a requirement); to satisfy

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for only if, then the Mandarin for as long as.

You'll want to know: mǎnzú

mǎnzú — "to meet (a requirement); to satisfy".

> zhǐyào mǎnzú zhèxiē yāoqiú nǐ jiù néng qù — As long as you meet these requirements, you can go.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of mǎnzú is built from mǎn 'full' and zú 'enough', both inherited from Middle Chinese, manX and tsjowk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'brimming' and the second 'the foot' and 'full'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: mǎnzú
- Say it: mǎnzú, once more
- Say it: zhǐyào mǎnzú zhèxiē yāoqiú nǐ jiù néng qù — As long as you meet these requirements, you can go.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for only if, then the Mandarin for as long as, then say mǎnzú again

Before you move on

What does mǎnzú mean? ("To meet (a requirement); to satisfy".) Say it once more.

399.6 成家 (chéngjiā) — to marry and settle down

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for as long as, then the Mandarin for to meet (a requirement).

You'll want to know: 成家

成家 — chéngjiā — "to marry and settle down".

> 只要找到好工作他就想成家 zhǐyào zhǎodào hǎo gōngzuò tā jiù xiǎng chéngjiā — As long as he finds a good job, he wants to marry and settle down.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 成家 (chéngjiā) is built from 成 'to complete' and 家 'a home', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyeng and kae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a dwelling'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: chéngjiā
- Say it: chéngjiā, once more
- Say it: zhǐyào zhǎodào hǎo gōngzuò tā jiù xiǎng chéngjiā — As long as he finds a good job, he wants to marry and settle down.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for as long as, then the Mandarin for to meet (a requirement), then say chéngjiā again

Before you move on

What does 成家 mean? ("To marry and settle down".) Say it once more.

Chapter 400

Moving the Dates

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about adjusting a plan, making a stay longer or a trip shorter, the original plan and a settled life.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 400: I can talk about adjusting a plan, making a stay longer or a trip shorter, the original plan and a settled life.

400.1 tiáozhěng — to adjust

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to meet (a requirement), then the Mandarin for to marry and settle down.

You'll want to know: tiáozhěng

tiáozhěng — "to adjust".

> rúguǒ shíjiān bù héshì wǒmen kěyǐ tiáozhěng — If the time doesn't suit, we can adjust it.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tiáozhěng is built from tiáo 'to put in tune' and zhěng 'to put in order', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dew and tsyengX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to harmonise' and the second 'straight' and 'neat'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: tiáozhěng
- Say it: tiáozhěng, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ shíjiān bù héshì wǒmen kěyǐ tiáozhěng — If the time doesn't suit, we can adjust it.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to meet (a requirement), then the Mandarin for to marry and settle down, then say tiáozhěng again

Before you move on

What does tiáozhěng mean? ("To adjust".) Say it once more.

400.2 yáncháng — to extend (in time)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to marry and settle down, then the Mandarin for to adjust.

You'll want to know: yáncháng

yáncháng — "to extend (in time)".

yàoshi nǐ xǐhuan zhèr wǒmen kěyǐ yáncháng jiàqī — If you like it here, we can make the holiday longer.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yáncháng is built from yán 'to stretch' and 长 'long', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yen and drjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'far' and 'to lengthen'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: yáncháng
- Say it: yáncháng, once more
- Say it: yàoshi nǐ xǐhuan zhèr wǒmen kěyǐ yáncháng jiàqī — If you like it here, we can make the holiday longer.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to marry and settle down, then the Mandarin for to adjust, then say yáncháng again

Before you move on

What does yáncháng mean? ("To extend (in time)".) Say it once more.

400.3 suōduǎn — to shorten

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to adjust, then the Mandarin for to extend (in time).

You'll want to know: suōduǎn

suōduǎn — "to shorten".

zuò fēijī kěyǐ suōduǎn yíbàn de shíjiān — Flying can cut the journey time by half.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of suōduǎn is built from suō 'to draw in' and duǎn 'short', both inherited from Middle Chinese, srjuwk and twanX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to shrink' and the second 'not long'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: suōduǎn
- Say it: suōduǎn, once more
- Say it: zuò fēijī kěyǐ suōduǎn yíbàn de shíjiān — Flying can cut the journey time by half.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to adjust, then the Mandarin for to extend (in time), then say suōduǎn again

Before you move on

What does suōduǎn mean? ("To shorten".) Say it once more.

400.4 yuándìng — originally planned

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to extend (in time), then the Mandarin for to shorten.

You'll want to know: yuándìng

yuándìng — "originally planned".

yuándìng de shíjiān gǎi le — The time we first planned has changed.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yuándìng is built from yuán 'original' and 定 'settled', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngjwon and dengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a broad plain'. The sense 'original' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: yuándìng
- Say it: yuándìng, once more
- Say it: yuándìng de shíjiān gǎi le — The time we first planned has changed.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to extend (in time), then the Mandarin for to shorten, then say yuándìng again

Before you move on

What does yuándìng mean? ("Originally planned".) Say it once more.

400.5 安定 (āndìng) — settled; stable

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to shorten, then the Mandarin for originally planned.

You'll want to know: 安定

安定 — āndìng — "settled; stable".

只有工作安定了我们才能成家 zhǐyǒu gōngzuò āndìng le wǒmen cái néng chéngjiā — Only once our jobs are settled can we get married.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 安定 (āndìng) is built from 安 'calm' and 定 'settled', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'an and dengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second with the first: 'calm'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: ānding
- Say it: āndìng, once more
- Say it: zhǐyǒu gōngzuò āndìng le wǒmen cái néng chéngjiā — Only once our jobs are settled can we get married.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to shorten, then the Mandarin for originally planned, then say āndìng again

Before you move on

What does 安定 mean? ("Settled; stable".) Say it once more.

Chapter 401

Plans for the Future

Modes: voice (7) Hands-free start: all 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about prospects, changing career, growing up, getting older and everything being fine.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 401: I can talk about prospects, changing career, growing up, getting older and everything being fine.

401.1 qiántú — prospects; future (of a person or job)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for originally planned, then the Mandarin for settled and secure.

You'll want to know: qiántú

qiántú — "prospects; future (of a person or job)".

> wǒ juéde zhège gōngzuò hěn yǒu qiántú — I think this job has good prospects.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qiántú is built from 前 'ahead' and tú 'a road', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzen and du (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a way': the road ahead.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: qiántú
- Say it: qiántú, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhège gōngzuò hěn yǒu qiántú — I think this job has good prospects.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for originally planned, then the Mandarin for settled and secure, then say qiántú again

Before you move on

What does qiántú mean? ("Prospects; future (of a person or job)".) Say it once more.

401.2 gǎiháng — to change careers

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for settled and secure, then the Mandarin for future prospects.

You'll want to know: gǎiháng gǎiháng — "to change careers".

yàoshi bù xǐhuan zhège gōngzuò wǒ jiù gǎiháng — If I don't like this job, I'll change careers.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gǎiháng is built from 改 'to alter' and háng 'a line', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kojX and hang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a rank' and 'a row'. A line of work is a later sense.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: gǎiháng
- Say it: gǎiháng, once more
- Say it: yàoshi bù xǐhuan zhège gōngzuò wǒ jiù gǎiháng — If I don't like this job, I'll change careers.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for settled and secure, then the Mandarin for future prospects, then say gǎiháng again

Before you move on

What does gǎiháng mean? ("To change careers".) Say it once more.

401.3 成长 (chéngzhǎng) — to mature (as a person)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for future prospects, then the Mandarin for to change careers.

You'll want to know: 成长

成长 — chéngzhǎng — "to mature (as a person)".

孩子成长得很快 háizi chéngzhǎng de hěn kuài — Children grow up fast.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 成长 (chéngzhǎng) is built from 成 'to complete' and 长 'to grow', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyeng and trjangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'big'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: chéngzhǎng
- Say it: chéngzhǎng, once more
- Say it: háizi chéngzhǎng de hěn kuài — Children grow up fast.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for future prospects, then the Mandarin for to change careers, then say chéngzhǎng again

Before you move on

What does 成长 mean? ("To mature (as a person)".) Say it once more.

401.4 变老 (biànlǎo) — to get old

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to change careers, then the Mandarin for to mature (as a person).

You'll want to know: 变老

变老 — biànlǎo — "to get old".

人都会变老 rén dōu huì biànlǎo — Everyone gets old.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 变老 (biànlǎo) is built from 变 'to change' and 老 'old', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjenH and lawX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'aged'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: biànlǎo
- Say it: biànlǎo, once more

- Say it: rén dōu huì biànlǎo — Everyone gets old.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to change careers, then the Mandarin for to mature (as a person), then say biànlǎo again

Before you move on

What does 变老 mean? ("To get old".) Say it once more.

401.5 yíqiè — everything; all

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to mature (as a person), then the Mandarin for to get older.

You'll want to know: yíqiè

yíqiè — "everything; all".

zhǐyào nǐ zài yíqiè dōu hǎo — As long as you're here, everything's fine.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.
Tone: 一 is said yí here, rising, because qiè after it is a falling tone.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yíqiè is built from 一 'one' and qiè, both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jit and tshejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second, in this tone, 'the many': all of them as one.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: yíqiè
- Say it: yíqiè, once more
- Say it: zhǐyào nǐ zài yíqiè dōu hǎo — As long as you're here, everything's fine.

- Recall: say the Mandarin for to mature (as a person), then the Mandarin for to get older, then say yíqiè again

Before you move on

What does yíqiè mean? ("Everything; all".) Say it once more.

401.6 Looking back: from Surely Not to Plans for the Future

Say the Mandarin for to stand someone up and surely not (in a question).

Your turn

- Say it: to stand someone up, surely not (in a question), hard to come by, in an awkward spot, an excuse (a poor reason)
- Say it: your attitude, the difference, a region of a country, ready-made, to hinge on
- Say it: to demand (of someone), only if, as long as, to meet (a requirement), to marry and settle down
- Say it: to adjust, to extend (in time), to shorten, originally planned, settled and secure
- Say it: future prospects, to change careers, to mature (as a person), to get older, everything
- Read it: 难 只 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

To stand someone up? (fàng gēzi.) Surely not (in a question)? (难道, nándào.) Hard to come by? (难得, nándé.) In an awkward spot? (为难, wéinán.) An excuse (a poor reason)? (jièkǒu.) Your attitude? (tàidu.) The difference? (qūbié.) A region of a country? (地区, dìqū.) Ready-made? (现成, xiànchéng.) To hinge on? (qǔjuéyú.) To demand (of someone)? (yāoqiú.) Only if? (只有, zhǐyǒu.) As long as? (只要, zhǐyào.) To meet (a requirement)? (mǎnzú.) To marry and settle down? (成家, chéngjiā.) To adjust? (tiáozhěng.) To extend (in time)? (yáncháng.) To shorten? (suōduǎn.) Originally planned? (yuándìng.) Settled and secure? (安定, āndìng.) Future prospects? (qiántú.) To change careers? (gǎiháng.) To mature (as a person)? (成长, chéngzhǎng.) To get older? (变老, biànlǎo.) Everything? (yíqiè.)

401.7 Plans for the Future — once more

Say the Mandarin for future prospects and to change careers.

Your turn

- Say it: future prospects, to change careers, to mature (as a person), to get older, everything

Before you move on

Future prospects? (qiántú.) To change careers? (gǎiháng.) To mature (as a person)? (成长, chéngzhǎng.) To get older? (变老, biànlǎo.) Everything? (yíqiè.)

Chapter 402

At the Station

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about passengers, the waiting room, fast trains, changing trains and the carriages.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 402: I can talk about passengers, the waiting room, fast trains, changing trains and the carriages.

402.1 chéngkè — passenger

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get old, then the Mandarin for everything.

You'll want to know: chéngkè

chéngkè — "passenger".

> huǒchēzhàn lǐ yǒu yìxiē chéngkè — There are a few passengers in the station.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chéngkè is built from chéng 'to ride' and kè 'a guest', both inherited from Middle Chinese, zying and khaek (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to drive', 'to mount' and 'to prevail'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chéngkè
- Say it: chéngkè, once more
- Say it: huǒchēzhàn lǐ yǒu yìxiē chéngkè — There are a few passengers in the station.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get old, then the Mandarin for everything, then say chéngkè again

Before you move on

What does chéngkè mean? ("Passenger".) Say it once more.

402.2 候车 (hòuchē) — to wait for a train or bus

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for everything, then the Mandarin for a passenger.

You'll want to know: 候车

候车 — hòuchē — "to wait for a train or bus".

我们在车站候车 wǒmen zài chēzhàn hòuchē — We're waiting for the train at the station.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 候车 (hòuchē) is built from 候 'to wait for' and 车 'vehicle', both inherited from Middle Chinese, huwH and tsyhae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to wait upon, to watch for'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: hòuchē
- Say it: hòuchē, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zài chēzhàn hòuchē — We're waiting for the train at the station.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for everything, then the Mandarin for a passenger, then say hòuchē again

Before you move on

What does 候车 mean? ("To wait for a train or bus".) Say it once more.

402.3 gāotiě — high-speed railway

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a passenger, then the Mandarin for to wait for a train.

You'll want to know: gāotiě

gāotiě — "high-speed railway".

wǒmen zuò gāotiě qù Běijīng — We're taking the high-speed train to Beijing.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gāotiě is built from 高 'high' and tiě 'iron', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaw and thet (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second, after an older dictionary, 'black metal'. It is a short form of a longer name meaning a high-speed iron road.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: gāotiě
- Say it: gāotiě, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zuò gāotiě qù Běijīng — We're taking the high-speed train to Beijing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a passenger, then the Mandarin for to wait for a train, then say gāotiě again

Before you move on

What does gāotiě mean? ("High-speed railway".) Say it once more.

402.4 huànchéng — to change trains or lines

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to wait for a train, then the Mandarin for the high-speed railway.

You'll want to know: huànchéng

huànchéng — "to change trains or lines".

wǒmen zài zhèr huànchéng — We change trains here.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huànchéng is built from huàn 'to exchange' and chéng 'to ride', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hwanH and zying (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to exchange'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: huànchéng
- Say it: huànchéng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zài zhèr huànchéng — We change trains here.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to wait for a train, then the Mandarin for the high-speed railway, then say huànchéng again

Before you move on

What does huànchéng mean? ("To change trains or lines".) Say it once more.

402.5 chēxiāng — railway carriage

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the high-speed railway, then the Mandarin for to change trains.

You'll want to know: chēxiāng

chēxiāng — "railway carriage".

wǒmen zuò zài sān hào chēxiāng — We're sitting in carriage three.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chēxiāng is built from 车 'vehicle' and xiāng 'a side room', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyhae and sjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a gallery' and the rooms east and west of a hall.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chēxiāng
- Say it: chēxiāng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zuò zài sān hào chēxiāng — We're sitting in carriage three.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the high-speed railway, then the Mandarin for to change trains, then say chēxiāng again

Before you move on

What does chēxiāng mean? ("Railway carriage".) Say it once more.

Chapter 403

Travellers

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say we were in time for the train, talk about travellers and trains on time, and find the staff.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 403: I can say we were in time for the train, talk about travellers and trains on time, and find the staff.

403.1 hòuchēshì — station waiting room

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to change trains, then the Mandarin for a railway carriage.

You'll want to know: hòuchēshì

hòuchēshì — "station waiting room".

> nǐ zuò zài hòuchēshì děng wǒ — Sit in the waiting room and wait for me.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of hòuchēshì is built from 候车 'to wait for a train' and shì 'a room', all inherited from Middle Chinese, huwH, tsyhae and syit (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the last 'a room'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: hòuchēshì
- Say it: hòuchēshì, once more
- Say it: nǐ zuò zài hòuchēshì děng wǒ — Sit in the waiting room and wait for me.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to change trains, then the Mandarin for a railway carriage, then say hòuchēshì again

Before you move on

What does hòuchēshì mean? ("Station waiting room".) Say it once more.

403.2 旅客 (lǚkè) — traveller; passenger on a long journey

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a railway carriage, then the Mandarin for a station waiting room.

You'll want to know: 旅客

旅客 — lǚkè — "traveller; passenger on a long journey".

旅客都上车了 lǚkè dōu shàngchē le — The passengers have all got on.

The new character, in pieces: 旅 — ten strokes in two pieces: on the left a dot, a bar, a stroke that runs right and turns down with a hook, and a long stroke falling to the left; on the right a short stroke falling to the left and a bar, then a short stroke falling to the left, a vertical that turns up at the foot, a short stroke falling to the left and a long stroke falling to the right. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 旅客 (lǚkè) is built from 旅 and 客 'a guest', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ljoX and khaek (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first as a body of troops, five hundred men after an older book; the sense 'to travel' is not given there, so how it came is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: lǚkè
- Say it: lǚkè, once more
- Say it: lǚkè dōu shàngchē le — The passengers have all got on.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a railway carriage, then the Mandarin for a station waiting room, then say lǚkè again

Before you move on

What does 旅客 mean? ("Traveller; passenger on a long journey".) Say it once more.

403.3 旅 — a left piece of four strokes, then a right piece of six

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say lǚkè — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  客 走

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — kè, zǒu

Script — a left piece of four strokes, then a right piece of six

How 旅 is written, stroke by stroke

旅

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, four strokes. A dot on top. A bar under it. A stroke that runs right, turns down and hooks to the left at the foot. Then a long stroke falling to the left from under the bar.

The right piece, six strokes. A short stroke falling to the left and a bar to its right, like a small roof. Under them a short stroke falling to the left, a vertical that turns up to the right at the foot, another short stroke falling to the left, and last a long stroke falling to the right.

4 + 6 = ten.

Your turn

- Write it: 旅, all ten, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 旅 have? (Two: four strokes and six.)
What is the last stroke? (A long stroke falling to the right.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 旅, pinned stroke paths and medians.

403.4 正点 (zhèngdiǎn) — on schedule (of a train or plane)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a station waiting room, then the Mandarin for a passenger on a long journey.

You'll want to know: 正点

正点 — zhèngdiǎn — "on schedule (of a train or plane)".

我们的火车正点到了 wǒmen de huǒchē zhèngdiǎn dào le — Our train got in on time.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 正点 (zhèngdiǎn) is built from 正 'exactly' and 点 'o'clock', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyengH and temX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'right, proper' and the second as a dot made with the brush: on the hour the timetable gives.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: zhèngdiǎn
- Say it: zhèngdiǎn, once more
- Say it: wǒmen de huǒchē zhèngdiǎn dào le — Our train got in on time.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a station waiting room, then the Mandarin for a passenger on a long journey, then say zhèngdiǎn again

Before you move on

What does 正点 mean? ("On schedule (of a train or plane)".) Say it once more.

403.5 lièchēyuán — train attendant

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a passenger on a long journey, then the Mandarin for on schedule.

You'll want to know: lièchēyuán

lièchēyuán — "train attendant".

zhǎo bu dào zuòwèi dehuà kěyǐ wèn lièchēyuán — If you can't find your seat, ask the train attendant.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of lièchēyuán is built from liè 'a row', 车 'vehicle' and yuán 'a member of staff', all inherited from Middle Chinese, ljet, tsyhae and hjwen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'a row, an order' and the third as the number of things; a train is a row of carriages, and the sense 'staff' for the third is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: lièchēyuán
- Say it: lièchēyuán, once more
- Say it: zhǎo bu dào zuòwèi dehuà kěyǐ wèn lièchēyuán — If you can't find your seat, ask the train attendant.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a passenger on a long journey, then the Mandarin for on schedule, then say lièchēyuán again

Before you move on

What does lièchēyuán mean? ("Train attendant".) Say it once more.

403.6 站长 (zhànzhǎng) — stationmaster; head of a station

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for on schedule, then the Mandarin for a train attendant.

You'll want to know: 站长

站长 — zhànzhǎng — "stationmaster; head of a station".

旅客去找站长 lǚkè qù zhǎo zhànzhǎng — The passenger goes to find the stationmaster.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 站长 (zhànzhǎng) is built from 站 'a station' and 长 'the head', both inherited from Middle Chinese, treamH and trjangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first as an everyday word for standing alone and the second 'big'; a station is usually explained as a place where vehicles stand.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: zhànzhǎng
- Say it: zhànzhǎng, once more
- Say it: lǚkè qù zhǎo zhànzhǎng — The passenger goes to find the stationmaster.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for on schedule, then the Mandarin for a train attendant, then say zhànzhǎng again

Before you move on

What does 站长 mean? ("Stationmaster; head of a station".) Say it once more.

Chapter 404

Tickets, Please

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can find the ticket office, have my ticket checked, pay on board and choose a berth or a seat.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 404: I can find the ticket office, have my ticket checked, pay on board and choose a berth or a seat.

404.1 shòupiàochù — ticket office

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a train attendant, then the Mandarin for the head of a station.

You'll want to know: shòupiàochù

shòupiàochù — "ticket office".

> qù shòupiàochù zěnme zǒu — How do I get to the ticket office?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shòupiàochù is built from shòu 'to sell', 票 'a ticket' and chù 'a place'. The first and the last are inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyuwH and tsyhoH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to sell goods' and 'a place'; no dictionary we use records an older form of 票, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shòupiàochù
- Say it: shòupiàochù, once more
- Say it: qù shòupiàochù zěnme zǒu — How do I get to the ticket office?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a train attendant, then the Mandarin for the head of a station, then say shòupiàochù again

Before you move on

What does shòupiàochù mean? ("Ticket office".) Say it once more.

404.2 检票 (jiǎnpiào) — to check tickets

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the head of a station, then the Mandarin for a ticket office.

You'll want to know: 检票

检票 — jiǎnpiào — "to check tickets".

现在检票了 xiànzài jiǎnpiào le — They're checking tickets now.

The new character, in pieces: 检 — eleven strokes in two pieces: on the left the tree piece, four strokes, as on the left of 机; on the right a long stroke falling to the left and one falling to the right, like a roof, then a short bar, two dots and a short stroke falling to the left, and a long bar across the foot. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 检票 (jiǎnpiào) is built from 检 'to check' and 票 'a ticket'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese kjemX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed as the seal on a document and 'to check'; no dictionary we use records an older form of 票, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jiǎnpiào
- Say it: jiǎnpiào, once more
- Say it: xiànzài jiǎnpiào le — They're checking tickets now.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the head of a station, then the Mandarin for a ticket office, then say jiǎnpiào again

Before you move on

What does 检票 mean? ("To check tickets".) Say it once more.

404.3 检 — the tree piece, then a roof and what is under it

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say jiǎnpiào — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

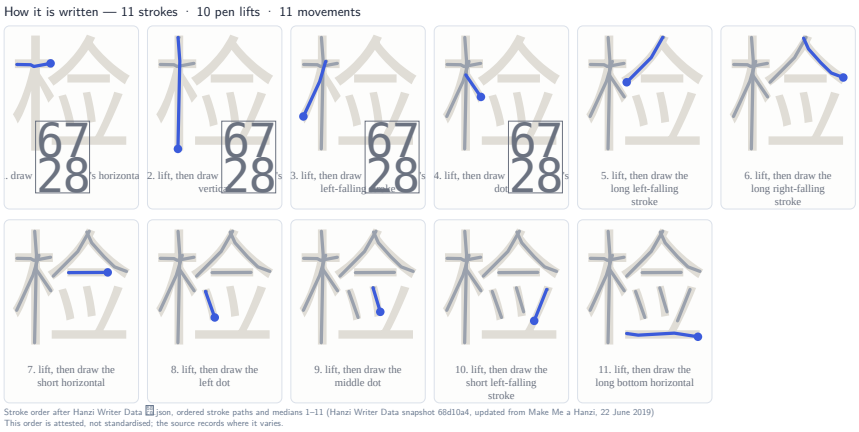
  机 票

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — jī, piào

Script — the tree piece, then a roof and what is under it



How 检 is written, stroke by stroke

检

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the tree piece, four strokes. A short bar. A vertical down through it. A stroke falling to the left from the crossing. Then a short dot to the right.

The right piece, seven strokes. A long stroke falling to the left and a long stroke falling to the right: a roof. Under it a short bar. Then two dots side by side and a short stroke falling to the left beside them. Last, a long bar across the foot.

4 + 7 = eleven.

Your turn

- Write it: 检, all eleven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 检 have? (Two.) Which comes first? (The tree piece, as in 机.) What closes the foot? (A long bar.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 检, pinned stroke paths and medians.

404.4 bǔpiào — to buy a ticket on board

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a ticket office, then the Mandarin for to check tickets.

You'll want to know: bǔpiào

bǔpiào — "to buy a ticket on board".

> méiyǒu piào dehuà kěyǐ shàngchē bǔpiào — If you've no ticket, you can buy one on the train.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bǔpiào is built from bǔ 'to mend' and 票 'a ticket'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese puX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to patch'; no dictionary we use records an older form of 票, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: bǔpiào
- Say it: bǔpiào, once more
- Say it: méiyǒu piào dehuà kěyǐ shàngchē bǔpiào — If you've no ticket, you can buy one on the train.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a ticket office, then the Mandarin for to check tickets, then say bǔpiào again

Before you move on

What does bǔpiào mean? ("To buy a ticket on board".) Say it once more.

404.5 wòpù — sleeping berth

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to check tickets, then the Mandarin for to buy a ticket on board.

You'll want to know: wòpù

wòpù — "sleeping berth".

wǒ xiǎng mǎi liǎng zhāng wòpù — I'd like two sleeper berths.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of wòpù is built from wò 'to lie down' and pù 'a bed', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngwaH and phuH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to sleep' and the second 'to set out, to lay'; the bed sense of the second is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: wòpù
- Say it: wòpù, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiǎng mǎi liǎng zhāng wòpù — I'd like two sleeper berths.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to check tickets, then the Mandarin for to buy a ticket on board, then say wòpù again

Before you move on

What does wòpù mean? ("Sleeping berth".) Say it once more.

404.6 yìngzuò — hard seat

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to buy a ticket on board, then the Mandarin for a sleeping berth.

You'll want to know: yìngzuò

yìngzuò — "hard seat".

> wǒ zuò yìngzuò qù Běijīng — I'm going to Beijing in a hard seat.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yìngzuò is built from yìng 'hard' and zuò 'a seat', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngeangH and dzwaH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'firm' and the second as the seat of a bed.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: yìngzuò
- Say it: yìngzuò, once more
- Say it: wǒ zuò yìngzuò qù Běijīng — I'm going to Beijing in a hard seat.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to buy a ticket on board, then the Mandarin for a sleeping berth, then say yìngzuò again

Before you move on

What does yìngzuò mean? ("Hard seat".) Say it once more.

Chapter 405

Through the Gates

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say a train goes straight through, go in and out of the station, and talk about the last train.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 405: I can say a train goes straight through, go in and out of the station, and talk about the last train.

405.1 zhídá — to go direct; to go without changing

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a sleeping berth, then the Mandarin for a hard seat.

You'll want to know: zhídá

zhídá — "to go direct; to go without changing".

> zuò gāotiě kěyǐ zhídá Běijīng — The high-speed train takes you straight to Beijing.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhídá is built from zhí 'straight' and dá 'to get through', both inherited from Middle Chinese, drik and dat (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'upright' and the second 'to reach through’.

What you’ve built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: zhídá
- Say it: zhídá, once more
- Say it: zuò gāotiě kěyǐ zhídá Běijīng — The high-speed train takes you straight to Beijing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a sleeping berth, then the Mandarin for a hard seat, then say zhídá again

Before you move on

What does zhídá mean? (“To go direct; to go without changing”.) Say it once more.

405.2 进入 (jìnrù) — to go into

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a hard seat, then the Mandarin for to go without changing.

You’ll want to know: 进入

进入 — jìnrù — “to go into”.

wǎng qián zǒu jiù kěyǐ jìnrù chēzhàn — Go straight on and you can get into the station.

The new character, in pieces: 入 — two strokes: a short stroke falling to the left, then a long stroke falling to the right that starts higher, above the top of the first. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 进入 (jìnrù) is built from 进 'to go forward' and 入 'to go in', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsinH and nyip (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'forward' and the second 'within' and 'to take in'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jìnrù
- Say it: jìnrù, once more
- Say it: wǎng qián zǒu jiù kěyǐ jìnrù chēzhàn — Go straight on and you can get into the station.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a hard seat, then the Mandarin for to go without changing, then say jìnrù again

Before you move on

What does 进入 mean? ("To go into".) Say it once more.

405.3 入 — two strokes, the right one on top

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say jìnrù — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

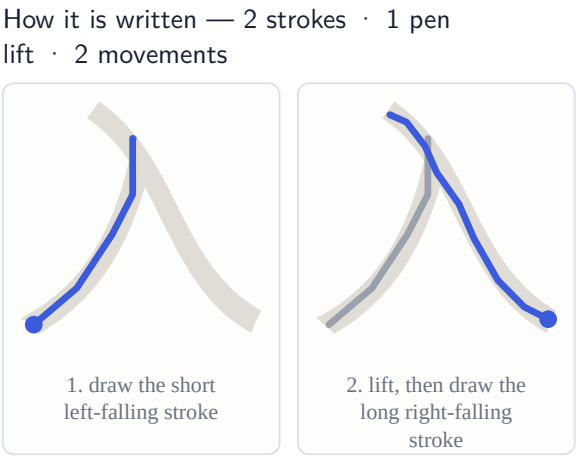
  人 进

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — rén, jìn

Script — two strokes, the right one on top



Stroke order after Hanzi Writer Data 65.json, ordered stroke paths and medians 1–2 (Hanzi Writer Data snapshot 68d10a4, updated from Make Me a Hanzi, 22 June 2019)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How 入 is written, stroke by stroke

入

One piece, two strokes.

First, a short stroke falling to the left, from the middle down to the lower left.

Then a long stroke falling to the right. It starts higher, above the top of the first, and sweeps down to the lower right.

In 人 the left stroke is the long one and the right stroke leans on it; in 入 it is the other way round.

Your turn

- Write it: 入, all two, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 入? (Two.) Which one starts higher? (The second, falling to the right.) How is it unlike 人? (In 入 the right stroke is the long one.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 入, pinned stroke paths and medians.

405.4 出入 (chūrù) — to go in and out

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to go without changing, then the Mandarin for to go into a place.

You'll want to know: 出入

出入 — chūrù — "to go in and out".

旅客从这个门出入 lǚkè cóng zhège mén chūrù — Passengers go in and out through this gate.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 出入 (chūrù) is built from 出 'to go out' and 入 'to go in', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyhwit and nyip (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chūrù
- Say it: chūrù, once more
- Say it: lǚkè cóng zhège mén chūrù — Passengers go in and out through this gate.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to go without changing, then the Mandarin for to go into a place, then say chūrù again

Before you move on

What does 出入 mean? ("To go in and out".) Say it once more.

405.5 mòbānchē — last bus or train

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to go into a place, then the Mandarin for to go in and out.

You'll want to know: mòbānchē

mòbānchē — "last bus or train".

wǒmen zuò mòbānchē qù jīchǎng — We're taking the last train to the airport.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of mòbānchē is built from mò 'last', bān 'a shift' and 车 'vehicle', all inherited from Middle Chinese, mat, paen and tsyhae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first as the tip of a tree and 'the end', and the second as dividing jade tokens, so the sense 'a shift, a run' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: mòbānchē
- Say it: mòbānchē, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zuò mòbānchē qù jīchǎng — We're taking the last train to the airport.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to go into a place, then the Mandarin for to go in and out, then say mòbānchē again

Before you move on

What does mòbānchē mean? ("Last bus or train".) Say it once more.

405.6 tíngkào — to call at a station or port

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to go in and out, then the Mandarin for the last bus or train.

You'll want to know: tíngkào

tíngkào — "to call at a station or port".

gāotiě zài xiǎo zhàn bù tíngkào — The high-speed train doesn't stop at small stations.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tíngkào is built from tíng 'to stop' and kào 'to lean against', both inherited from Middle Chinese, deng and khawH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to rest, to stop' and the second 'to go against each other'; the sense 'to lean on' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: tíngkào
- Say it: tíngkào, once more
- Say it: gāotiě zài xiǎo zhàn bù tíngkào — The high-speed train doesn't stop at small stations.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to go in and out, then the Mandarin for the last bus or train, then say tíngkào again

Before you move on

What does tíngkào mean? (“To call at a station or port”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 406

A Busy Platform

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say a place is crowded, talk about a round trip, change a booking and talk about cars and racks.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 406: I can say a place is crowded, talk about a round trip, change a booking and talk about cars and racks.

406.1 yōngjǐ — crowded

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the last bus or train, then the Mandarin for to call at a station.

You'll want to know: yōngjǐ

yōngjǐ — "crowded".

> dìtiě tài yōngjǐ le wǒmen zuò chūzūchē qù — The metro's too crowded: we'll take a taxi.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yōngjǐ is built from yōng 'to hold close' and jǐ 'to squeeze', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jowngX and tsej (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to hold in the arms' and the second 'to push aside'. Those forms would regularly give yǒng and jī: the tones of yōngjǐ are irregular.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: yōngjǐ
- Say it: yōngjǐ, once more
- Say it: dìtiě tài yōngjǐ le wǒmen zuò chūzūchē qù — The metro's too crowded: we'll take a taxi.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the last bus or train, then the Mandarin for to call at a station, then say yōngjǐ again

Before you move on

What does yōngjǐ mean? ("Crowded".) Say it once more.

406.2 来回 (láihuí) — round trip

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to call at a station, then the Mandarin for crowded.

You'll want to know: 来回

来回 — láihuí — "round trip".

cóng zhèr dào jīchǎng yí ge láihuí yào liǎng ge xiǎoshí — A round trip from here to the airport takes two hours.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 来回 (láihuí) is built from 来 'to come' and 回 'to go back', both inherited from Middle Chinese, loj and hwoj (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to arrive' and the second 'to turn'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: láihuí
- Say it: láihuí, once more
- Say it: cóng zhèr dào jīchǎng yí ge láihuí yào liǎng ge xiǎoshí — A round trip from here to the airport takes two hours.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to call at a station, then the Mandarin for crowded, then say láihuí again

Before you move on

What does 来回 mean? ("Round trip".) Say it once more.

406.3 gǎiqiān — to change a booking; to change a ticket to another train

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for crowded, then the Mandarin for a round trip.

You'll want to know: gǎiqiān

gǎiqiān — "to change a booking; to change a ticket to another train".

wǒ xiǎng gǎiqiān míngtiān de huǒchē — I'd like to change to tomorrow's train.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gǎiqiān is built from gǎi 'to alter' and qiān 'to sign'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese kojX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to change'; no dictionary we use records an older form of the second, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: gǎiqiān
- Say it: gǎiqiān, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiǎng gǎiqiān míngtiān de huǒchē — I'd like to change to tomorrow's train.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for crowded, then the Mandarin for a round trip, then say gǎiqiān again

Before you move on

What does gǎiqiān mean? ("To change a booking; to change a ticket to another train".) Say it once more.

406.4 qìchē — motor vehicle; car

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a round trip, then the Mandarin for to change a booking.

You'll want to know: qìchē

qìchē — "motor vehicle; car".

wǒmen zuò qìchē qù jīchǎng — We're going to the airport by car.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qìchē is built from qì 'steam' and 车 'vehicle'. The second is inherited from Middle Chinese tsyhae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); no dictionary we use records an older form of the first, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: qìchē
- Say it: qìchē, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zuò qìchē qù jīchǎng — We're going to the airport by car.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a round trip, then the Mandarin for to change a booking, then say qìchē again

Before you move on

What does qìchē mean? ("Motor vehicle; car".) Say it once more.

406.5 xínglijià — luggage rack

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to change a booking, then the Mandarin for a motor car.

You'll want to know: xínglijià

xínglijià — "luggage rack".

zhège xínglijià hěn gāo — This luggage rack is very high.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xínglijià is built from xíngli 'luggage' and jià 'a frame', all inherited from Middle Chinese, haeng, liX and kaeH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the last as the frame of a house.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: xínglijià
- Say it: xínglijià, once more
- Say it: zhège xínglijià hěn gāo — This luggage rack is very high.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to change a booking, then the Mandarin for a motor car, then say xínglijià again

Before you move on

What does xínglijià mean? ("Luggage rack".) Say it once more.

Chapter 407

Pulling In

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say a train is pulling in, name the soft sleeper, find an empty seat and reach the end of the line.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 407: I can say a train is pulling in, name the soft sleeper, find an empty seat and reach the end of the line.

407.1 进站 (jìnzhàn) — to pull into the station (of a train or bus)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a motor car, then the Mandarin for a luggage rack.

You'll want to know: 进站

进站 — jìnzhàn — "to pull into the station (of a train or bus)".

> 火车进站了现在检票 huǒchē jìnzhàn le xiànzài jiǎnpiào — The train's pulling in: they're checking tickets now.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 进站 (jìnzhàn) is built from 进 'to go forward, to go in' and 站 'a station', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsinH and treamH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jìnzhàn
- Say it: jìnzhàn, once more
- Say it: huǒchē jìnzhàn le xiànzài jiǎnpiào — The train's pulling in: they're checking tickets now.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a motor car, then the Mandarin for a luggage rack, then say jìnzhàn again

Before you move on

What does 进站 mean? ("To pull into the station (of a train or bus)".) Say it once more.

407.2 ruǎnwò — soft sleeper

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a luggage rack, then the Mandarin for to pull into the station.

You'll want to know: ruǎnwò

ruǎnwò — "soft sleeper".

ruǎnwò bǐ yìngzuò guì — A soft sleeper costs more than a hard seat.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of ruǎnwò is built from ruǎn 'soft' and wò 'to lie down', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nywenX and ngwaH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'soft' and the second 'to sleep'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: ruǎnwò
- Say it: ruǎnwò, once more
- Say it: ruǎnwò bǐ yìngzuò guì — A soft sleeper costs more than a hard seat.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a luggage rack, then the Mandarin for to pull into the station, then say ruǎnwò again

Before you move on

What does ruǎnwò mean? ("Soft sleeper".) Say it once more.

407.3 kòngwèi — empty seat

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to pull into the station, then the Mandarin for a soft sleeper.

You'll want to know: kòngwèi

kòngwèi — "empty seat".

wǒ zài chē lǐ zhǎo bu dào kòngwèi — I can't find an empty seat on the bus.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of kòngwèi is built from kòng 'vacant' and wèi 'a place', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khuwngH and hwijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'empty, lacking' and the second as a place in a row.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: kòngwèi
- Say it: kòngwèi, once more
- Say it: wǒ zài chē lǐ zhǎo bu dào kòngwèi — I can't find an empty seat on the bus.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to pull into the station, then the Mandarin for a soft sleeper, then say kòngwèi again

Before you move on

What does kòngwèi mean? ("Empty seat".) Say it once more.

407.4 zhōngdiǎnzhàn — terminus; the end of the line

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a soft sleeper, then the Mandarin for an empty seat.

You'll want to know: zhōngdiǎnzhàn

zhōngdiǎnzhàn — "terminus; the end of the line".

wǒmen zài zhōngdiǎnzhàn xià chē — We get off at the last stop.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhōngdiǎnzhàn is built from zhōng 'the end', 点 'a point' and 站 'a station', all inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyuwng, temX and treamH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the utmost, the end'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: zhōngdiǎnzhàn
- Say it: zhōngdiǎnzhàn, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zài zhōngdiǎnzhàn xià chē — We get off at the last stop.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a soft sleeper, then the Mandarin for an empty seat, then say zhōngdiǎnzhàn again

Before you move on

What does zhōngdiǎnzhàn mean? ("Terminus; the end of the line".) Say it once more.

407.5 dòngchē — D-class bullet train

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an empty seat, then the Mandarin for the end of the line.

You'll want to know: dòngchē

dòngchē — "D-class bullet train".

> zuò dòngchē qù Běijīng yào duōjiǔ — How long does the bullet train take to Beijing?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dòngchē is built from dòng 'to move' and 车 'vehicle', both inherited from Middle Chinese, duwngX and tsyhae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to stir, to move'. It is a short form of a longer name, a train whose carriages move under their own power.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: dòngchē
- Say it: dòngchē, once more
- Say it: zuò dòngchē qù Běijīng yào duōjiǔ — How long does the bullet train take to Beijing?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an empty seat, then the Mandarin for the end of the line, then say dòngchē again

Before you move on

What does dòngchē mean? ("D-class bullet train".) Say it once more.

407.6 Looking back: from At the Station to Pulling In Say the Mandarin for a passenger and to wait for a train.

Your turn

- Say it: a passenger, to wait for a train, the high-speed railway, to change trains, a railway carriage
- Say it: a station waiting room, a passenger on a long journey, on schedule, a train attendant, the head of a station
- Say it: a ticket office, to check tickets, to buy a ticket on board, a sleeping berth, a hard seat
- Say it: to go without changing, to go into a place, to go in and out, the last bus or train, to call at a station
- Say it: crowded, a round trip, to change a booking, a motor car, a luggage rack

- Say it: to pull into the station, a soft sleeper, an empty seat, the end of the line, a D-class bullet train
- Read it: 旅 检 入 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

A passenger? (chéngkè.) To wait for a train? (候车, hòuchē.) The high-speed railway? (gāotiě.) To change trains? (huànchéng.) A railway carriage? (chēxiāng.) A station waiting room? (hòuchēshì.) A passenger on a long journey? (旅客, lǚkè.) On schedule? (正点, zhèngdiǎn.) A train attendant? (lièchēyuán.) The head of a station? (站长, zhànzhǎng.) A ticket office? (shòupiàochù.) To check tickets? (检票, jiǎnpiào.) To buy a ticket on board? (bǔpiào.) A sleeping berth? (wòpù.) A hard seat? (yìngzuò.) To go without changing? (zhídá.) To go into a place? (进入, jìnrù.) To go in and out? (出入, chūrù.) The last bus or train? (mòbānchē.) To call at a station? (tíngkào.) Crowded? (yōngjǐ.) A round trip? (来回, láihuí.) To change a booking? (gǎiqiān.) A motor car? (qìchē.) A luggage rack? (xínglijià.) To pull into the station? (进站, jìnzhàn.) A soft sleeper? (ruǎnwò.) An empty seat? (kòngwèi.) The end of the line? (zhōngdiǎnzhàn.) A D-class bullet train? (dòngchē.)

Chapter 408

By Bus

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can find the bus stop, take public transport, pay with coins and say where a route starts.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 408: I can find the bus stop, take public transport, pay with coins and say where a route starts.

408.1 zhànpái — bus stop sign

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the end of the line, then the Mandarin for a D-class bullet train.

You'll want to know: zhànpái

zhànpái — "bus stop sign".

> wǒ zài zhànpái xiàbian děng nǐ — I'll wait for you under the bus stop sign.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhànpái is built from 站 'a stop' and pái 'a board', both inherited from Middle Chinese, treamH and bea (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as a signboard.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: zhànpái
- Say it: zhànpái, once more
- Say it: wǒ zài zhànpái xiàbian děng nǐ — I'll wait for you under the bus stop sign.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the end of the line, then the Mandarin for a D-class bullet train, then say zhànpái again

Before you move on

What does zhànpái mean? ("Bus stop sign".) Say it once more.

408.2 公交 (gōngjiāo) — public transport

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a D-class bullet train, then the Mandarin for a bus stop sign.

You'll want to know: 公交

公交 — gōngjiāo — "public transport".

我每天坐公交去学校 wǒ měitiān zuò gōngjiāo qù xuéxiào — I take public transport to school every day.

The new character, in pieces: 交 — six strokes: a dot and a bar on top; under them a short stroke falling to the left and a short dot falling to the right; then a long stroke falling to the left, crossed by a long stroke falling to the right. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 公交 (gōngjiāo) is built from 公 'public' and 交 'to cross', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kuwng and kaew (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'shared' and the second

'to join'. It is a short form of a longer name for public transport; the city bus is gōngjiāochē.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: gōngjiāo
- Say it: gōngjiāo, once more
- Say it: wǒ měitiān zuò gōngjiāo qù xuéxiào — I take public transport to school every day.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a D-class bullet train, then the Mandarin for a bus stop sign, then say gōngjiāo again

Before you move on

What does 公交 mean? ("Public transport".) Say it once more.

408.3 交 — a lid, then two strokes crossing

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say gōngjiāo — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

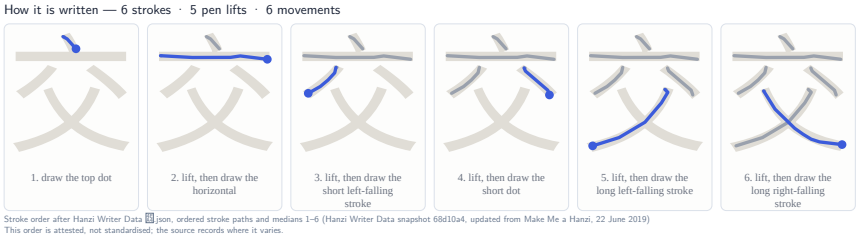
  文 公

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — wén, gōng

Script — a lid, then two strokes crossing



How 交 is written, stroke by stroke

交

Two pieces, top to bottom.

The lid, two strokes. A dot, then a long bar across, as on top of 文.

The lower piece, four strokes. A short stroke falling to the left and a short dot falling to the right, apart, like two feet. Then a long stroke falling to the left, and across it a long stroke falling to the right to the foot.

2 + 4 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 交, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 交? (Six.) What sits on top? (A dot and a bar, as on 文.) What are the last two strokes? (A long fall to the left, crossed by a long fall to the right.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 交, pinned stroke paths and medians.

408.4 tóubì — to drop coins in the box

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a bus stop sign, then the Mandarin for public transport.

You'll want to know: tóubì

tóubì — "to drop coins in the box".

> shàng chē yǐhòu qǐng tóubì — Please put your coins in once you're on.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

tóubì is built from tóu 'to throw' and bì 'money', both inherited from Middle Chinese, duw and bjiejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as gifts of silk; the sense 'coin' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: tóubì
- Say it: tóubì, once more
- Say it: shàng chē yǐhòu qǐng tóubì — Please put your coins in once you're on.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a bus stop sign, then the Mandarin for public transport, then say tóubì again

Before you move on

What does tóubì mean? ("To drop coins in the box".) Say it once more.

408.5 客车 (kèchē) — coach; long-distance bus

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for public transport, then the Mandarin for to drop coins in the box.

You'll want to know: 客车

客车 — kèchē — "coach; long-distance bus".

> 我们坐客车去那儿 wǒmen zuò kèchē qù nàr — We're going there by coach.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 客车 (kèchē) is built from 客 'a guest' and 车 'vehicle', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khaek and tsyhae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription): a vehicle that carries people, not goods.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: kèchē
- Say it: kèchē, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zuò kèchē qù nàr — We're going there by coach.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for public transport, then the Mandarin for to drop coins in the box, then say kèchē again

Before you move on

What does 客车 mean? ("Coach; long-distance bus".) Say it once more.

408.6 起点 (qǐdiǎn) — starting point

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to drop coins in the box, then the Mandarin for a long-distance coach.

You'll want to know: 起点

起点 — qǐdiǎn — "starting point".

公交的起点在火车站 gōngjiāo de qǐdiǎn zài huǒchēzhàn — The bus route starts at the railway station.

Two third tones meet in this word: qǐ is said with a rising tone before diǎn, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 起点 (qǐdiǎn) is built from 起 'to rise, to start' and 点 'a point', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khiX and temX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to rise' and the second as a dot.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: qǐdiǎn
- Say it: qǐdiǎn, once more
- Say it: gōngjiāo de qǐdiǎn zài huǒchēzhàn — The bus route starts at the railway station.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to drop coins in the box, then the Mandarin for a long-distance coach, then say qǐdiǎn again

Before you move on

What does 起点 mean? ("Starting point".) Say it once more.

Chapter 409

Heavy Traffic

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about rush hour and the traffic, say a line opens, find the conductor and take a taxi.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 409: I can talk about rush hour and the traffic, say a line opens, find the conductor and take a taxi.

409.1 gāofēng — peak (of traffic); rush hour

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a long-distance coach, then the Mandarin for a starting point.

You'll want to know: gāofēng

gāofēng — "peak (of traffic); rush hour".

> gāofēng de shíhou zài chē lǐ zhǎo bu dào zuòwèi — At rush hour you can't find a seat on the bus.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gāofēng is built from 高 'high' and fēng 'a peak', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaw and phjowng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which lists the second under another spelling, glossed as a mountain peak.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: gāofēng
- Say it: gāofēng, once more
- Say it: gāofēng de shíhou zài chē lǐ zhǎo bu dào zuòwèi — At rush hour you can't find a seat on the bus.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a long-distance coach, then the Mandarin for a starting point, then say gāofēng again

Before you move on

What does gāofēng mean? ("Peak (of traffic); rush hour".) Say it once more.

409.2 交通 (jiāotōng) — traffic; transport

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a starting point, then the Mandarin for the rush hour.

You'll want to know: 交通

交通 — jiāotōng — "traffic; transport".

zhèr de jiāotōng hěn fāngbiàn — It's easy to get around here.

The new character, in pieces: 通 — ten strokes in two pieces: the right piece first, seven strokes, a short bar that turns down to the left with a dot under it, then a frame with two short bars and a vertical through them; the walking piece of 这, three strokes, sits under it and is written last. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 交通 (jiāotōng) is built from 交 'to cross' and 通 'to go through', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaew and thuwng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to reach through'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jiāotōng
- Say it: jiāotōng, once more
- Say it: zhèr de jiāotōng hěn fāngbiàn — It's easy to get around here.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a starting point, then the Mandarin for the rush hour, then say jiāotōng again

Before you move on

What does 交通 mean? ("Traffic; transport".) Say it once more.

409.3 通 — the right piece first, then the walking piece under it

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say jiāotōng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  这 过

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — zhè, guò

Script — the right piece first, then the walking piece under it

How 通 is written, stroke by stroke

通

Two pieces, and the walking piece comes last. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The right piece, seven strokes. A short bar that turns down to the left, and a dot under its end. A vertical down the left. A bar across the top that turns down the right side and hooks to the left at the foot. Two short bars inside. Then a vertical down through the middle.

The walking piece, three strokes, as in 这: a dot, a stroke that zigzags down, then a long sweep along the foot under the whole character.

7 + 3 = ten.

Your turn

- Write it: 通, all ten, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 通? (Ten.) Which piece comes last? (The walking piece, as in 这.) What runs down through the middle of the right piece? (A vertical.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 通, pinned stroke paths and medians.

409.4 通车 (tōngchē) — to open to traffic

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the rush hour, then the Mandarin for the traffic on the roads.

You'll want to know: 通车

通车 — tōngchē — "to open to traffic".

zhèr de dìtiě míngnián tōngchē — The metro here opens next year.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 通车 (tōngchē) is built from 通 'to go through' and 车 'vehicle', both inherited from Middle Chinese, thuwng and tsyhae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription): vehicles can go through.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: tōngchē
- Say it: tōngchē, once more
- Say it: zhèr de dìtiě míngnián tōngchē — The metro here opens next year.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the rush hour, then the Mandarin for the traffic on the roads, then say tōngchē again

Before you move on

What does 通车 mean? ("To open to traffic".) Say it once more.

409.5 shòupiàoyuán — ticket seller; bus conductor

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the traffic on the roads, then the Mandarin for to open to traffic.

You'll want to know: shòupiàoyuán

shòupiàoyuán — "ticket seller; bus conductor".

shòupiàoyuán zuò zài ménkǒu — The conductor sits by the door.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shòupiàoyuán is built from shòu 'to sell', 票 'a ticket' and yuán 'a member of staff'. The first and the last are inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyuwH and hjwen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); no dictionary we use records an older form of 票, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shòupiàoyuán
- Say it: shòupiàoyuán, once more
- Say it: shòupiàoyuán zuò zài ménkǒu — The conductor sits by the door.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the traffic on the roads, then the Mandarin for to open to traffic, then say shòupiàoyuán again

Before you move on

What does shòupiàoyuán mean? ("Ticket seller; bus conductor".) Say it once more.

409.6 打车 (dǎchē) — to take a taxi

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to open to traffic, then the Mandarin for a ticket seller.

You'll want to know: 打车

打车 — dǎchē — "to take a taxi".

下雨的时候不好打车 xià yǔ de shíhou bù hǎo dǎchē — When it rains it's hard to get a taxi.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 打车 (dǎchē) is built from 打 and 车 'vehicle', both inherited from Middle Chinese, taengX and tsyhae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to strike'. The sense 'to hire' in this word is not given there, and taengX would regularly give a different final, so dǎ is irregular.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: dǎchē
- Say it: dǎchē, once more
- Say it: xià yǔ de shíhou bù hǎo dǎchē — When it rains it's hard to get a taxi.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to open to traffic, then the Mandarin for a ticket seller, then say dǎchē again

Before you move on

What does 打车 mean? ("To take a taxi".) Say it once more.

Chapter 410

Long Trips

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about long-distance coaches and fares, say a train passes through, a line opens and we set off.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 410: I can talk about long-distance coaches and fares, say a train passes through, a line opens and we set off.

410.1 chángtú — long-distance

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a ticket seller, then the Mandarin for to take a taxi.

You'll want to know: chángtú

chángtú — "long-distance".

> zuò chángtú chē qù hěn lèi — Going by long-distance coach is tiring.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chángtú is built from 长 'long' and tú 'a road', both inherited from Middle Chinese, drjang and du (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a road'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chángtú
- Say it: chángtú, once more
- Say it: zuò chángtú chē qù hěn lèi — Going by long-distance coach is tiring.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a ticket seller, then the Mandarin for to take a taxi, then say chángtú again

Before you move on

What does chángtú mean? ("Long-distance".) Say it once more.

410.2 chēfèi — fare for a ride

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to take a taxi, then the Mandarin for long-distance.

You'll want to know: chēfèi

chēfèi — "fare for a ride".

zuò chūzūchē qù jīchǎng chēfèi shì duōshao qián — How much is the taxi fare to the airport?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chēfèi is built from 车 'vehicle' and fèi 'a cost', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyhae and phj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to use up'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chēfèi
- Say it: chēfèi, once more
- Say it: zuò chūzūchē qù jīchǎng chēfèi shì duōshao qián — How much is the taxi fare to the airport?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to take a taxi, then the Mandarin for long-distance, then say chēfèi again

Before you move on

What does chēfèi mean? ("Fare for a ride".) Say it once more.

410.3 通过 (tōngguò) — to pass through

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for long-distance, then the Mandarin for the fare for a ride.

You'll want to know: 通过

通过 — tōngguò — "to pass through".

检票以后我们从这儿通过 jiǎnpiào yǐhòu wǒmen cóng zhèr tōngguò — After the ticket check we go through here.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 通过 (tōngguò) is built from 通 'to go through' and 过 'to cross', both inherited from Middle Chinese, thuwng and kwaH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to go beyond'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: tōngguò
- Say it: tōngguò, once more
- Say it: jiǎnpiào yǐhòu wǒmen cóng zhèr tōngguò — After the ticket check we go through here.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for long-distance, then the Mandarin for the fare for a ride, then say tōngguò again

Before you move on

What does 通过 mean? ("To pass through".) Say it once more.

410.4 开通 (kāitōng) — to launch a new transport line

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the fare for a ride, then the Mandarin for to pass through.

You'll want to know: 开通

开通 — kāitōng — "to launch a new transport line".

wǒmen zhèr kāitōng le gāotiě — High-speed rail has opened in our area.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 开通 (kāitōng) is built from 开 'to open' and 通 'to go through', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khoj and thuwng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: kāitōng
- Say it: kāitōng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zhèr kāitōng le gāotiě — High-speed rail has opened in our area.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the fare for a ride, then the Mandarin for to pass through, then say kāitōng again

Before you move on

What does 开通 mean? ("To launch a new transport line".) Say it once more.

410.5 上路 (shànglù) — to set out on a journey; to hit the road

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to pass through, then the Mandarin for to launch a new transport line.

You'll want to know: 上路

上路 — shànglù — "to set out on a journey; to hit the road".

我们早上六点上路 wǒmen zǎoshang liù diǎn shànglù — We set off at six in the morning.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 上路 (shànglù) is built from 上 'to go up' and 路 'a road', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyangX and luH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to climb'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shànglù
- Say it: shànglù, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zǎoshang liù diǎn shànglù — We set off at six in the morning.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to pass through, then the Mandarin for to launch a new transport line, then say shànglù again

Before you move on

What does 上路 mean? ("To set out on a journey; to hit the road".) Say it once more.

Chapter 411

On the Water

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the pier, the captain, a boat setting sail, the ferry and life jackets.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 411: I can talk about the pier, the captain, a boat setting sail, the ferry and life jackets.

411.1 mǎtou — pier; wharf

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to launch a new transport line, then the Mandarin for to hit the road.

You'll want to know: mǎtou

mǎtou — "pier; wharf".

> qù mǎtou zěnme zǒu — How do I get to the pier?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of mǎtou is built from mǎ and the noun ending tou, both inherited from Middle Chinese, maeX and duw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary lists the first only in the name of agate, a stone like jade, and the second as 'the head'; how the pair came to mean a pier is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: mǎtou
- Say it: mǎtou, once more
- Say it: qù mǎtou zěnme zǒu — How do I get to the pier?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to launch a new transport line, then the Mandarin for to hit the road, then say mǎtou again

Before you move on

What does mǎtou mean? ("Pier; wharf".) Say it once more.

411.2 船长 (chuánzhǎng) — ship's captain

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to hit the road, then the Mandarin for a pier for boats.

You'll want to know: 船长

船长 — chuánzhǎng — "ship's captain".

我想当船长 wǒ xiǎng dāng chuánzhǎng — I want to be a ship's captain.

The new character, in pieces: 船 — eleven strokes in two pieces: on the left the boat piece, six strokes, a short stroke falling to the left, a long one down the left, a bar that turns down and hooks, a dot, a bar rising across and a last dot; on the right a short stroke falling to the left and a bar that turns down and bends right, then 口 under them. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 船长 (chuánzhǎng) is built from 船 'a boat' and 长 'the head', both inherited from Middle Chinese, zywen and trjangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'big'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chuánzhǎng
- Say it: chuánzhǎng, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiǎng dāng chuánzhǎng — I want to be a ship's captain.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to hit the road, then the Mandarin for a pier for boats, then say chuánzhǎng again

Before you move on

What does 船长 mean? ("Ship's captain".) Say it once more.

411.3 船 — the boat piece, then 口 under a small frame

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say chuánzhǎng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

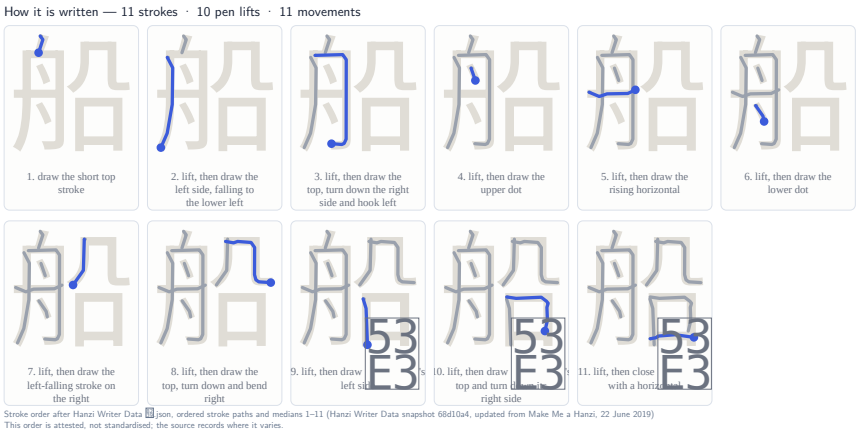
  口 长

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — kǒu, cháng

Script — the boat piece, then 口 under a small frame



How 船 is written, stroke by stroke

船

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the boat piece, six strokes. A short stroke falling to the left. A long stroke down the left side, falling to the left at the foot. A bar that turns down the right side and hooks to the left. A dot inside, a bar rising to the right across the middle, and a last dot under it.

The right piece, five strokes. A short stroke falling to the left, and a bar that turns down and bends to the right at the foot: a small frame. Then 口 under it, three strokes.

6 + 5 = eleven.

Your turn

- Write it: 船, all eleven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 船 have? (Two.) What is the left piece? (The boat piece, six strokes.) What sits at the foot of the right piece? (口.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 船, pinned stroke paths and medians.

411.4 开船 (kāichuán) — to set sail

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a pier for boats, then the Mandarin for a ship's captain.

You'll want to know: 开船

开船 — kāichuán — "to set sail".

船长说十点开船 chuánzhǎng shuō shí diǎn kāichuán — The captain says we sail at ten.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 开船 (kāichuán) is built from 开 'to start off' and 船 'a boat', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khoj and zywen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to open'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: kāichuán
- Say it: kāichuán, once more
- Say it: chuánzhǎng shuō shí diǎn kāichuán — The captain says we sail at ten.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a pier for boats, then the Mandarin for a ship's captain, then say kāichuán again

Before you move on

What does 开船 mean? ("To set sail".) Say it once more.

411.5 dùchuán — ferry

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a ship's captain, then the Mandarin for to set sail.

You'll want to know: dùchuán

dùchuán — "ferry".

wǒmen zuò dùchuán qù nàr — We're taking the ferry over there.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dùchuán is built from dù 'to cross water' and 船 'a boat', both inherited from Middle Chinese, duH and zywen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to cross over'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: dùchuán
- Say it: dùchuán, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zuò dùchuán qù nàr — We're taking the ferry over there.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a ship's captain, then the Mandarin for to set sail, then say dùchuán again

Before you move on

What does dùchuán mean? ("Ferry".) Say it once more.

411.6 救生衣 (jiùshēngyī) — life jacket

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to set sail, then the Mandarin for a ferry across the water.

You'll want to know: 救生衣

救生衣 — jiùshēngyī — "life jacket".

> zuò chuán de shíhou yào chuān jiùshēngyī — On a boat you have to wear a life jacket.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 救生衣 (jiùshēngyī) is built from jiù 'to save', 生 'life' and 衣 'clothes', all inherited from Middle Chinese, kjuwH, srjaeng and 'j+j (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to protect'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jiùshēngyī
- Say it: jiùshēngyī, once more
- Say it: zuò chuán de shíhou yào chuān jiùshēngyī — On a boat you have to wear a life jacket.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to set sail, then the Mandarin for a ferry across the water, then say jiùshēngyī again

Before you move on

What does 救生衣 mean? ("Life jacket".) Say it once more.

Chapter 412

Harbour and Deck

Modes: voice (4) eyes (1) Hands-free start: the first of 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the harbour, the deck and the cabins, a boat coming in to shore and a passenger ship.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 412: I can talk about the harbour, the deck and the cabins, a boat coming in to shore and a passenger ship.

412.1 gǎngkǒu — port; harbour

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a ferry across the water, then the Mandarin for a life jacket.

You'll want to know: gǎngkǒu

gǎngkǒu — "port; harbour".

> zhège gǎngkǒu hěn dà — This harbour is very big.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: gǎng is said with a rising tone before kǒu, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gǎngkǒu is built from gǎng 'a harbour' and 口 'a mouth', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaewngX and khuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as a branch of a river.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: gǎngkǒu
- Say it: gǎngkǒu, once more
- Say it: zhège gǎngkǒu hěn dà — This harbour is very big.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a ferry across the water, then the Mandarin for a life jacket, then say gǎngkǒu again

Before you move on

What does gǎngkǒu mean? ("Port; harbour".) Say it once more.

412.2 jiǎbǎn — ship's deck

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a life jacket, then the Mandarin for a harbour for ships.

You'll want to know: jiǎbǎn

jiǎbǎn — "ship's deck".

wǒmen qù jiǎbǎn kàn dàhǎi — Let's go up on deck and look at the sea.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: jiǎ is said with a rising tone before bǎn, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiǎbǎn is built from jiǎ 'a shell, armour' and bǎn 'a board', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaep and paenX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as armour; how the pair came to mean a ship's deck is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jiǎbǎn
- Say it: jiǎbǎn, once more
- Say it: wǒmen qù jiǎbǎn kàn dàhǎi — Let's go up on deck and look at the sea.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a life jacket, then the Mandarin for a harbour for ships, then say jiǎbǎn again

Before you move on

What does jiǎbǎn mean? ("Ship's deck".) Say it once more.

412.3 chuáncāng — ship's cabin

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a harbour for ships, then the Mandarin for the ship's deck.

You'll want to know: chuáncāng

chuáncāng — "ship's cabin".

nǐ de bāo fàng zài chuáncāng lǐ — Leave your bag in the cabin.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chuáncāng is built from 船 'a boat' and cāng 'a cabin'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese zywen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); no dictionary we use records an older form of the second, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chuáncāng
- Say it: chuáncāng, once more
- Say it: nǐ de bāo fàng zài chuáncāng lǐ — Leave your bag in the cabin.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a harbour for ships, then the Mandarin for the ship's deck, then say chuáncāng again

Before you move on

What does chuáncāng mean? ("Ship's cabin".) Say it once more.

412.4 kào'àn — to come in to shore

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the ship's deck, then the Mandarin for a ship's cabin.

You'll want to know: kào'àn

kào'àn — "to come in to shore".

chuán mǎshàng yào kào'àn le — The boat is about to come in.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of kào'àn is built from kào 'to lean against' and àn 'a shore', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khawH and nganH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as the high bank of a river; the sense 'to lean on' for the first is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: kào'àn
- Say it: kào'àn, once more
- Say it: chuán mǎshàng yào kào'àn le — The boat is about to come in.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the ship's deck, then the Mandarin for a ship's cabin, then say kào'àn again

Before you move on

What does kào'àn mean? ("To come in to shore".) Say it once more.

412.5 客船 (kèchuán) — passenger ship

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a ship's cabin, then the Mandarin for to come in to shore.

You'll want to know: 客船

客船 — kèchuán — "passenger ship".

我们坐客船去那儿 wǒmen zuò kèchuán qù nàr — We're going there on a passenger ship.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 客船 (kèchuán) is built from 客 'a guest' and 船 'a boat', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khaek and zywen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: kèchuán
- Say it: kèchuán, once more

- Say it: wǒmen zuò kèchuán qù nàr — We're going there on a passenger ship.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a ship's cabin, then the Mandarin for to come in to shore, then say kèchuán again

Before you move on

What does 客船 mean? ("Passenger ship".) Say it once more.

Chapter 413

Up in the Air

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can board a plane, say how high it flies, talk about the captain and landing, and say time flies.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 413: I can board a plane, say how high it flies, talk about the captain and landing, and say time flies.

413.1 dēngjī — to board a plane

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to come in to shore, then the Mandarin for a passenger ship.

You'll want to know: dēngjī

dēngjī — "to board a plane".

> dēngjī yǐqián wǒmen zuò zài zhèr děng — Until we board, we'll sit here and wait.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dēngjī is built from dēng 'to go up' and 机 'a plane', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tong and kj+j (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to rise' and, after an older dictionary, 'to get up into a carriage'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: dēngjī
- Say it: dēngjī, once more
- Say it: dēngjī yǐqián wǒmen zuò zài zhèr děng — Until we board, we'll sit here and wait.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to come in to shore, then the Mandarin for a passenger ship, then say dēngjī again

Before you move on

What does dēngjī mean? ("To board a plane".) Say it once more.

413.2 飞 (fēi) — to fly

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a passenger ship, then the Mandarin for to board a plane.

You'll want to know: 飞

飞 — fēi — "to fly".

飞机飞得很高 fēijī fēi de hěn gāo — The plane is flying very high.

The new character, in pieces: 飞 — three strokes: a bar that turns and slants down to the right, ending in a hook up; then a short stroke falling to the left and a dot, near the top on the right. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 飞 (fēi) is inherited from Middle Chinese pj+j (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to fly, to soar'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: fēi
- Say it: fēi, once more
- Say it: fēijī fēi de hěn gāo — The plane is flying very high.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a passenger ship, then the Mandarin for to board a plane, then say fēi again

Before you move on

What does 飞 mean? ("To fly".) Say it once more.

413.3 飞 — a hooked turn, then two small strokes

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say fēi — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

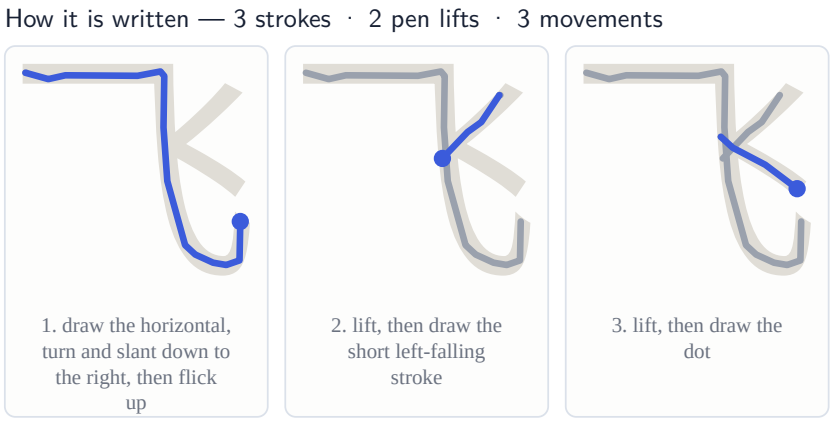
  机 起

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — jī, qǐ

Script — a hooked turn, then two small strokes



Stroke order after Hanzi Writer Data data.json, ordered stroke paths and medians 1–3 (Hanzi Writer Data snapshot 68d10a4, updated from Make Me a Hanzi, 22 June 2019)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How 乛 is written, stroke by stroke

乛

One piece, three strokes.

First, a bar to the right that turns and slants down to the right, then flicks up at the end: one stroke, without lifting the pen.

Then a short stroke falling to the left, on the right of the turn.

Last, a dot under it, falling to the right.

One long stroke and two short ones: three.

Your turn

- Write it: 乛, all three, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 乛? (Three.) Which stroke is the longest? (The first, the bar that turns and hooks.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 乛, pinned stroke paths and medians.

413.4 机长 (jīzhǎng) — plane's captain; pilot in command

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to board a plane, then the Mandarin for to fly.

You'll want to know: 机长

机长 — jīzhǎng — "plane's captain; pilot in command".

> 机长说飞机马上要到了 jīzhǎng shuō fēijī mǎshàng yào dào le — The captain says we'll be there soon.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 机长 (jīzhǎng) is built from 机 'a plane' and 长 'the head', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kj+j and trjangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jīzhǎng
- Say it: jīzhǎng, once more
- Say it: jīzhǎng shuō fēijī mǎshàng yào dào le — The captain says we'll be there soon.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to board a plane, then the Mandarin for to fly, then say jīzhǎng again

Before you move on

What does 机长 mean? ("Plane's captain; pilot in command".) Say it once more.

413.5 jiàngluò — to land; to come down onto the runway

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to fly, then the Mandarin for the pilot in command.

You'll want to know: jiàngluò

jiàngluò — "to land; to come down onto the runway".

> fēijī jiàngluò yǐhòu wǒmen zuò dìtiě qù bīnguǎn — Once the plane has landed, we'll take the metro to the hotel.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiàngluò is built from jiàng 'to come down' and luò 'to fall', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaewngH and lak (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'down, to come down' and the second as leaves falling from a tree.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jiàngluò
- Say it: jiàngluò, once more
- Say it: fēijī jiàngluò yǐhòu wǒmen zuò dìtiě qù bīnguǎn — Once the plane has landed, we'll take the metro to the hotel.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to fly, then the Mandarin for the pilot in command, then say jiàngluò again

Before you move on

What does jiàngluò mean? ("To land; to come down onto the runway".) Say it once more.

413.6 飞快 (fēikuài) — very fast; as fast as flying

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the pilot in command, then the Mandarin for to come down onto the runway.

You'll want to know: 飞快

飞快 — fēikuài — "very fast; as fast as flying".

时间过得飞快 shíjiān guò de fēikuài — Time flies.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 飞快 (fēikuài) is built from 飞 'to fly' and 快 'fast', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pj+j and khwaejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to one's liking'; the sense 'fast' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: fēikuài
- Say it: fēikuài, once more
- Say it: shíjiān guò de fēikuài — Time flies.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the pilot in command, then the Mandarin for to come down onto the runway, then say fēikuài again

Before you move on

What does 飞快 mean? ("Very fast; as fast as flying".) Say it once more.

413.7 Looking back: from By Bus to Up in the Air

Say the Mandarin for a bus stop sign and public transport.

Your turn

- Say it: a bus stop sign, public transport, to drop coins in the box, a long-distance coach, a starting point
- Say it: the rush hour, the traffic on the roads, to open to traffic, a ticket seller, to take a taxi
- Say it: long-distance, the fare for a ride, to pass through, to launch a new transport line, to hit the road
- Say it: a pier for boats, a ship's captain, to set sail, a ferry across the water, a life jacket
- Say it: a harbour for ships, the ship's deck, a ship's cabin, to come in to shore, a passenger ship
- Say it: to board a plane, to fly, the pilot in command, to come down onto the runway, as fast as flying
- Read it: 交 通 船 飞 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

A bus stop sign? (zhànpái.) Public transport? (公交, gōngjiāo.) To drop coins in the box? (tóubì.) A long-distance coach? (客车, kèchē.) A starting point? (起点, qǐdiǎn.) The rush hour? (gāofēng.) The traffic on the roads? (交通, jiāotōng.) To open to traffic? (通车, tōngchē.) A ticket seller? (shòupiàoyuán.) To take a taxi? (打车, dǎchē.) Long-distance? (chángtú.) The fare for a ride? (chēfèi.) To pass through? (通过, tōngguò.) To launch a new transport line? (开通, kāitōng.) To hit the road? (上路, shànglù.) A pier for boats? (mǎtou.) A ship's captain? (船长, chuánzhǎng.) To set sail? (开船, kāichuán.) A ferry across the water? (dùchuán.) A life jacket? (救生衣, jiùshēngyī.) A harbour for ships? (gǎngkǒu.) The ship's deck? (jiǎbǎn.) A ship's cabin? (chuáncāng.) To come in to shore? (kào'àn.) A passenger ship? (客船, kèchuán.) To board a plane? (dēngjī.) To fly? (飞, fēi.) The pilot in command? (机长, jīzhǎng.) To come down onto the runway? (jiàngluò.) As fast as flying? (飞快, fēikuài.)

Chapter 414

In the Cabin

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the cabin crew, a window seat, economy class, feeling sick and the seat belt.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 414: I can talk about the cabin crew, a window seat, economy class, feeling sick and the seat belt.

414.1 chéngwùyuán — flight attendant; cabin crew

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to come down onto the runway, then the Mandarin for as fast as flying.

You'll want to know: chéngwùyuán

chéngwùyuán — "flight attendant; cabin crew".

> chéngwùyuán zhǎohuí le wǒ de shǒujī — The flight attendant found my phone for me.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chéngwùyuán is built from chéng 'to ride', wù 'a task' and yuán 'a member of staff', all inherited from Middle Chinese, zying, mjuH and hjwen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'business, affairs'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chéngwùyuán
- Say it: chéngwùyuán, once more
- Say it: chéngwùyuán zhǎohuí le wǒ de shǒujī — The flight attendant found my phone for me.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to come down onto the runway, then the Mandarin for as fast as flying, then say chéngwùyuán again

Before you move on

What does chéngwùyuán mean? ("Flight attendant; cabin crew".) Say it once more.

414.2 kàochuāng — next to the window

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for as fast as flying, then the Mandarin for a flight attendant.

You'll want to know: kàochuāng

kàochuāng — "next to the window".

wǒ xiǎng yào yí ge kàochuāng de zuòwèi — I'd like a window seat.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of kàochuāng is built from kào 'to be next to' and chuāng 'a window', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khawH and tsrhaewng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second, after an older dictionary, as an opening through a wall.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: kàochuāng
- Say it: kàochuāng, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiǎng yào yí ge kàochuāng de zuòwèi — I'd like a window seat.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for as fast as flying, then the Mandarin for a flight attendant, then say kàochuāng again

Before you move on

What does kàochuāng mean? ("Next to the window".) Say it once more.

414.3 jīngjìcāng — economy class

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a flight attendant, then the Mandarin for next to the window.

You'll want to know: jīngjìcāng

jīngjìcāng — "economy class".

wǒmen zuò jīngjìcāng qù Běijīng — We're flying to Beijing in economy.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jīngjìcāng is built from jīngjì 'economy' and cāng 'a cabin'. The first two parts are inherited from Middle Chinese, keng and tsejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'constant' and 'to cross a river'; no dictionary we use records an older form of the third, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jīngjìcāng
- Say it: jīngjìcāng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zuò jīngjìcāng qù Běijīng — We're flying to Beijing in economy.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a flight attendant, then the Mandarin for next to the window, then say jīngjìcāng again

Before you move on

What does jīngjìcāng mean? ("Economy class".) Say it once more.

414.4 yùnjī — to get airsick

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for next to the window, then the Mandarin for economy class.

You'll want to know: yùnjī

yùnjī — "to get airsick".

wǒ zuò fēijī de shíhou huì yùnjī — I get airsick when I fly.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yùnjī is built from yùn 'dizzy' and 机 'a plane'. The second is inherited from Middle Chinese kj+j (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the dictionary glosses the first, hjunH there, as a halo round the sun or moon, so how it came to mean dizziness is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: yùnjī
- Say it: yùnjī, once more
- Say it: wǒ zuò fēijī de shíhou huì yùnjī — I get airsick when I fly.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for next to the window, then the Mandarin for economy class, then say yùnjī again

Before you move on

What does yùnjī mean? ("To get airsick".) Say it once more.

414.5 ānquándài — seat belt

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for economy class, then the Mandarin for to get airsick.

You'll want to know: ānquándài

ānquándài — "seat belt".

měi ge zuòwèi dōu yǒu ānquándài — Every seat on the plane has a seat belt.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of ānquándài is built from ānquán 'safe' and dài 'a belt', all inherited from Middle Chinese, 'an, dzjwen and tajH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the last as a sash worn with clothes.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: ānquándài
- Say it: ānquándài, once more
- Say it: měi ge zuòwèi dōu yǒu ānquándài — Every seat on the plane has a seat belt.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for economy class, then the Mandarin for to get airsick, then say ānquándài again

Before you move on

What does ānquándài mean? ("Seat belt".) Say it once more.

Chapter 415

The Terminal

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can find the terminal, check in a bag, show my boarding pass, go through security and find the gate.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 415: I can find the terminal, check in a bag, show my boarding pass, go through security and find the gate.

415.1 hángzhànlóu — airport terminal

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get airsick, then the Mandarin for a seat belt.

You'll want to know: hángzhànlóu

hángzhànlóu — "airport terminal".

> wǒmen de hángbān zài èr hào hángzhànlóu — Our flight goes from terminal two.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of hángzhànlóu is built from háng 'to sail, to fly', 站 'a station' and lóu 'a building', all inherited from Middle Chinese, hang, treamH and luw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a boat' and the third as a building of several storeys.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: hángzhànlóu
- Say it: hángzhànlóu, once more
- Say it: wǒmen de hángbān zài èr hào hángzhànlóu — Our flight goes from terminal two.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get airsick, then the Mandarin for a seat belt, then say hángzhànlóu again

Before you move on

What does hángzhànlóu mean? ("Airport terminal".) Say it once more.

415.2 tuōyùn — to check in a suitcase; to send luggage in the hold

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a seat belt, then the Mandarin for an airport terminal building.

You'll want to know: tuōyùn tuōyùn — "to check in a suitcase; to send luggage in the hold".

zhège xiāngzi yào tuōyùn — This suitcase needs to be checked in.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tuōyùn is built from tuō 'to entrust' and yùn 'to carry', both inherited from Middle Chinese, thak and hjunH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which lists the first under another spelling, 'to entrust', and glosses the second 'to move, to carry'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: tuōyùn
- Say it: tuōyùn, once more
- Say it: zhège xiāngzi yào tuōyùn — This suitcase needs to be checked in.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a seat belt, then the Mandarin for an airport terminal building, then say tuōyùn again

Before you move on

What does tuōyùn mean? ("To check in a suitcase; to send luggage in the hold".) Say it once more.

415.3 dēngjīpái — boarding pass

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an airport terminal building, then the Mandarin for to check in a suitcase.

You'll want to know: dēngjīpái

dēngjīpái — "boarding pass".

wǒ de dēngjīpái bú jiàn le — My boarding pass has gone missing.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dēngjīpái is built from dēngjī 'to board a plane' and pái 'a card', all inherited from Middle Chinese, tong, kj+j and bea (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the last as a signboard.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: dēngjīpái
- Say it: dēngjīpái, once more
- Say it: wǒ de dēngjīpái bú jiàn le — My boarding pass has gone missing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an airport terminal building, then the Mandarin for to check in a suitcase, then say dēngjīpái again

Before you move on

What does dēngjīpái mean? ("Boarding pass".) Say it once more.

415.4 安检 (ānjiǎn) — security check

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to check in a suitcase, then the Mandarin for a boarding pass.

You'll want to know: 安检

安检 — ānjiǎn — "security check".

我们先去安检 wǒmen xiān qù ānjiǎn — We'll go through security first.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 安检 (ānjiǎn) is built from ān 'safe' and 检 'to check', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'an and kjemX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); it is a short form of a longer name, a safety check.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: ānjiǎn
- Say it: ānjiǎn, once more

- Say it: wǒmen xiān qù ānjiǎn — We'll go through security first.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to check in a suitcase, then the Mandarin for a boarding pass, then say ānjiǎn again

Before you move on

What does 安检 mean? ("Security check".) Say it once more.

415.5 dēngjīkǒu — departure gate

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a boarding pass, then the Mandarin for the security check at an airport.

You'll want to know: dēngjīkǒu

dēngjīkǒu — "departure gate".

qù shí hào dēngjīkǒu zěnme zǒu — How do I get to gate ten?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dēngjīkǒu is built from dēngjī 'to board a plane' and 口 'an opening', all inherited from Middle Chinese, tong, kj+j and khuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: dēngjīkǒu
- Say it: dēngjīkǒu, once more
- Say it: qù shí hào dēngjīkǒu zěnme zǒu — How do I get to gate ten?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a boarding pass, then the Mandarin for the security check at an airport, then say dēngjīkǒu again

Before you move on

What does dēngjīkǒu mean? (“Departure gate”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 416

A Storm

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say a flight is held up by a storm, that someone missed a plane, and talk about changing planes.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 416: I can say a flight is held up by a storm, that someone missed a plane, and talk about changing planes.

416.1 yánwù — to be delayed; to be held up

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the security check at an airport, then the Mandarin for a departure gate.

You'll want to know: yánwù

yánwù — "to be delayed; to be held up".

> hángbān yánwù le wǒmen yào zài jīchǎng zài děng liǎng ge xiǎoshí — The flight's delayed: we have to wait at the airport two more hours.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yánwù is built from yán 'to draw out' and wù 'a mistake', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yen and nguH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to stretch, to lengthen' and the second 'an error'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: yánwù
- Say it: yánwù, once more
- Say it: hángbān yánwù le wǒmen yào zài jīchǎng zài děng liǎng ge xiǎoshí — The flight's delayed: we have to wait at the airport two more hours.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the security check at an airport, then the Mandarin for a departure gate, then say yánwù again

Before you move on

What does yánwù mean? ("To be delayed; to be held up".) Say it once more.

416.2 场 (chǎng) — measure word for a rainstorm; measure word for a game or a show

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a departure gate, then the Mandarin for to be held up.

You'll want to know: 场

场 — chǎng — "measure word for a rainstorm; measure word for a game or a show".

今天有一场大雨 jīntiān yǒu yì chǎng dà yǔ — There's a big storm today.

The new character, in pieces: 场 — six strokes in two pieces: on the left the earth piece of 地, a bar, a vertical and a bar rising to the right; on the right a bar that turns down and zigzags to a hook, then two strokes falling to the left. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 场 (chǎng) is inherited from Middle Chinese drjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed as a place for offerings to the spirits and a threshing floor; how it came to count spells of rain and games is not settled. drjang would regularly give a rising tone, cháng; the falling-rising tone of the measure word is irregular.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chǎng
- Say it: chǎng, once more
- Say it: jīntiān yǒu yì chǎng dà yǔ — There's a big storm today.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a departure gate, then the Mandarin for to be held up, then say chǎng again

Before you move on

What does 场 mean? ("Measure word for a rainstorm; measure word for a game or a show".) Say it once more.

416.3 场 — the earth piece, then a zigzag and two sweeps

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say chǎng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

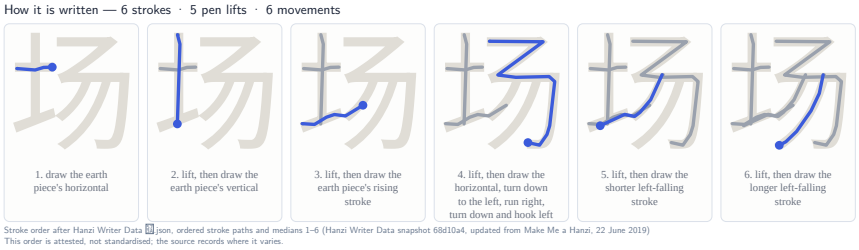
  地 机

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — dì, jī

Script — the earth piece, then a zigzag and two sweeps



How 场 is written, stroke by stroke

场

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, three strokes, as on the left of 地: a short bar, a vertical down through it, then a bar that rises to the right at the foot.

The right piece, three strokes. A bar to the right that turns down, zigzags and ends in a hook to the left: one stroke. Then two strokes falling to the left inside it, the second longer.

3 + 3 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 场, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 场? (Six.) What is the left piece? (The earth piece, as in 地.) How many strokes falling to the left at the end? (Two.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 场, pinned stroke paths and medians.

416.4 wùjī — to miss a flight

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be held up, then the Mandarin for the measure word for a rainstorm.

You'll want to know: wùjī

wùjī — "to miss a flight".

> wǒmen zuò chūzūchē qù jīchǎng bùrán huì wùjī — Let's take a taxi to the airport, or we'll miss the plane.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

wùjī is built from wù 'to miss' and 机 'a plane', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nguH and kj+j (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'an error'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: wùjī
- Say it: wùjī, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zuò chūzūchē qù jīchǎng bùrán huì wùjī — Let's take a taxi to the airport, or we'll miss the plane.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be held up, then the Mandarin for the measure word for a rainstorm, then say wùjī again

Before you move on

What does wùjī mean? ("To miss a flight".) Say it once more.

416.5 zhuǎnjī — to change planes

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the measure word for a rainstorm, then the Mandarin for to miss a flight.

You'll want to know: zhuǎnjī

zhuǎnjī — "to change planes".

> wǒmen yào zài Běijīng zhuǎnjī — We have to change planes in Beijing.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhuǎnjī is built from zhuǎn 'to turn' and 机 'a plane', both inherited from Middle Chinese, trjwenX and kj+j (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to move, to turn'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: zhuǎnjī
- Say it: zhuǎnjī, once more
- Say it: wǒmen yào zài Běijīng zhuǎnjī — We have to change planes in Beijing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the measure word for a rainstorm, then the Mandarin for to miss a flight, then say zhuǎnjī again

Before you move on

What does zhuǎnjī mean? ("To change planes".) Say it once more.

416.6 fēixíng — flight; flying (of an aircraft)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to miss a flight, then the Mandarin for to change planes on the way.

You'll want to know: fēixíng

fēixíng — "flight; flying (of an aircraft)".

> cóng zhèr zuò fēijī qù Běijīng fēixíng shíjiān shì liǎng ge xiǎoshí — Flying from here to Beijing takes two hours.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fēixíng is built from 飞 'to fly' and xíng 'to go', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pj+j and haeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to walk, to go'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: fēixíng
- Say it: fēixíng, once more
- Say it: cóng zhèr zuò fēijī qù Běijīng fēixíng shíjiān shì liǎng ge xiǎoshí — Flying from here to Beijing takes two hours.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to miss a flight, then the Mandarin for to change planes on the way, then say fēixíng again

Before you move on

What does fēixíng mean? ("Flight; flying (of an aircraft)".) Say it once more.

Chapter 417

Customs

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can go through customs, come into and leave a country, declare things and buy duty-free.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 417: I can go through customs, come into and leave a country, declare things and buy duty-free.

417.1 hǎiguān — customs at the border

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to change planes on the way, then the Mandarin for flying (of an aircraft).

You'll want to know: hǎiguān

hǎiguān — "customs at the border".

> qù hǎiguān zěnme zǒu — How do I get to customs?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of hǎiguān is built from hǎi 'the sea' and guān 'a barrier', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xojX and kwaen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as a bar across a gate; how the pair came to mean customs is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: hǎiguān
- Say it: hǎiguān, once more
- Say it: qù hǎiguān zěnme zǒu — How do I get to customs?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to change planes on the way, then the Mandarin for flying (of an aircraft), then say hǎiguān again

Before you move on

What does hǎiguān mean? ("Customs at the border".) Say it once more.

417.2 rùjìng — to enter a country

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for flying (of an aircraft), then the Mandarin for customs at the border.

You'll want to know: rùjìng

rùjìng — "to enter a country".

rùjìng yào yòng hùzhào — You need a passport to enter the country.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of rùjìng is built from 入 'to go in' and jìng 'a border', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyip and kjaengX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a boundary'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: rùjìng
- Say it: rùjìng, once more
- Say it: rùjìng yào yòng hùzhào — You need a passport to enter the country.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for flying (of an aircraft), then the Mandarin for customs at the border, then say rùjìng again

Before you move on

What does rùjìng mean? ("To enter a country".) Say it once more.

417.3 chūjìng — to leave a country

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for customs at the border, then the Mandarin for to enter a country.

You'll want to know: chūjìng

chūjìng — "to leave a country".

chūjìng de shíhou tāmen kàn le wǒ de hùzhào — When I left the country, they looked at my passport.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chūjìng is built from 出 'to go out' and jìng 'a border', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyhwit and kjaengX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chūjìng
- Say it: chūjìng, once more
- Say it: chūjìng de shíhou tāmen kàn le wǒ de hùzhào — When I left the country, they looked at my passport.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for customs at the border, then the Mandarin for to enter a country, then say chūjìng again

Before you move on

What does chūjìng mean? ("To leave a country".) Say it once more.

417.4 shēnbào — to declare goods at customs

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to enter a country, then the Mandarin for to leave a country.

You'll want to know: shēnbào

shēnbào — "to declare goods at customs".

nǐ yǒu dōngxi yào shēnbào ma — Do you have anything to declare?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shēnbào is built from shēn 'to state' and bào 'to report', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syin and pawH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to stretch' and 'to repeat' and the second 'to report'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shēnbào
- Say it: shēnbào, once more
- Say it: nǐ yǒu dōngxi yào shēnbào ma — Do you have anything to declare?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to enter a country, then the Mandarin for to leave a country, then say shēnbào again

Before you move on

What does shēnbào mean? ("To declare goods at customs".) Say it once more.

417.5 miǎnshuì — duty-free; tax-free

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to leave a country, then the Mandarin for to declare goods at customs.

You'll want to know: miǎnshuì

miǎnshuì — "duty-free; tax-free".

jīchǎng lǐ yǒu yì jiā miǎnshuì de shāngdiàn — There's a duty-free shop in the airport.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of miǎnshuì is built from miǎn 'to be spared' and shuì 'a tax', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjenX and sywejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to put off, to escape' and the second 'a levy'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: miǎnshuì
- Say it: miǎnshuì, once more
- Say it: jīchǎng lǐ yǒu yì jiā miǎnshuì de shāngdiàn — There's a duty-free shop in the airport.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to leave a country, then the Mandarin for to declare goods at customs, then say miǎnshuì again

Before you move on

What does miǎnshuì mean? ("Duty-free; tax-free".) Say it once more.

Chapter 418

Checking In

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 3 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can check in for a flight, go through the formalities, say flights are grounded and a bag is too heavy.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 418: I can check in for a flight, go through the formalities, say flights are grounded and a bag is too heavy.

418.1 zhíjī — to check in for a flight

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to declare goods at customs, then the Mandarin for duty-free.

You'll want to know: zhíjī

zhíjī — "to check in for a flight".

> wǒmen xiān zhíjī ránhòu qù ānjiǎn — First we check in, then we go through security.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhíjī is built from zhí 'to be on duty' and 机 'a plane', both inherited from Middle Chinese, driH and kj+j (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to hold' and 'to meet with'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: zhíjī
- Say it: zhíjī, once more
- Say it: wǒmen xiān zhíjī ránhòu qù ānjiǎn — First we check in, then we go through security.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to declare goods at customs, then the Mandarin for duty-free, then say zhíjī again

Before you move on

What does zhíjī mean? ("To check in for a flight".) Say it once more.

418.2 shǒuxù — formalities; procedure

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for duty-free, then the Mandarin for to check in for a flight.

You'll want to know: shǒuxù

shǒuxù — "formalities; procedure".

chūguó de shǒuxù hěn máfan — The formalities for going abroad are a real bother.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shǒuxù is built from 手 'a hand' and xù 'to carry on', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syuwX and zjowk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to continue, to join'; how the pair came to mean formalities is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shǒuxù
- Say it: shǒuxù, once more
- Say it: chūguó de shǒuxù hěn máfan — The formalities for going abroad are a real bother.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for duty-free, then the Mandarin for to check in for a flight, then say shǒuxù again

Before you move on

What does shǒuxù mean? ("Formalities; procedure".) Say it once more.

418.3 停飞 (tíngfēi) — to be grounded (of planes)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to check in for a flight, then the Mandarin for the formalities.

You'll want to know: 停飞

停飞 — tíngfēi — "to be grounded (of planes)".

fēijī tíngfēi le wǒmen zuò gāotiě qù Běijīng — The planes are grounded: we're taking the high-speed train to Beijing.

The new character, in pieces: 停 — eleven strokes in two pieces: on the left the person piece 亻; on the right a dot and a bar, a small 口, a short stroke down and a bar that hooks like a lid, a bar, and a vertical with a hook. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 停飞 (tíngfēi) is built from 停 'to stop' and 飞 'to fly', both inherited from Middle Chinese, deng and pj+j (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to rest, to stop' and the second 'to fly, to soar'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: tíngfēi
- Say it: tíngfēi, once more
- Say it: fēijī tíngfēi le wǒmen zuò gāotiě qù Běijīng — The planes are grounded: we're taking the high-speed train to Beijing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to check in for a flight, then the Mandarin for the formalities, then say tíngfēi again

Before you move on

What does 停飞 mean? ("To be grounded (of planes)".) Say it once more.

418.4 停 — the person piece, then a tall right side

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say tíngfēi — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

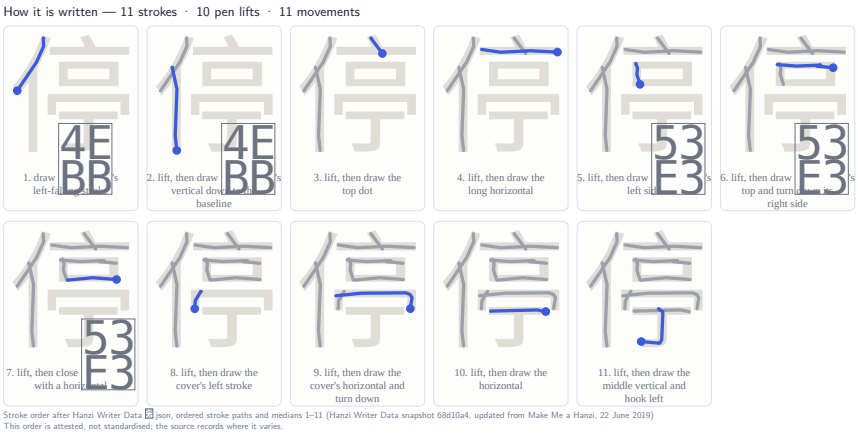
  你 高

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — nǐ, gāo

Script — the person piece, then a tall right side



How 停 is written, stroke by stroke

停

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, 亻, two strokes. The same two as in 你.

The right piece, nine strokes. A dot and a bar, then a small 口, three strokes: the top of 高. Under them a short stroke down and a bar that turns down and hooks: a lid. Then a bar across, and a vertical down the middle that hooks to the left at the foot.

2 + 9 = eleven.

Your turn

- Write it: 停, all eleven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 停 have? (Two.) Which comes first? (亻, the person piece.) How does the last stroke end? (With a hook to the left.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 停, pinned stroke paths and medians.

418.5 bànlǐ — to deal with the paperwork; to go through a procedure

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the formalities, then the Mandarin for to be grounded.

You'll want to know: bànlǐ

bànlǐ — "to deal with the paperwork; to go through a procedure".

wǒmen qù nà jiā bīnguǎn bànlǐ rùzhù — We're going to that hotel to check in.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

bànlǐ is built from bàn 'to see to' and lǐ 'to put in order', both inherited from Middle Chinese, beanH and liX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to prepare' and the second 'to manage'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: bànlǐ
- Say it: bànlǐ, once more
- Say it: wǒmen qù nà jiā bīnguǎn bànlǐ rùzhù — We're going to that hotel to check in.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the formalities, then the Mandarin for to be grounded, then say bànlǐ again

Before you move on

What does bànlǐ mean? ("To deal with the paperwork; to go through a procedure".) Say it once more.

418.6 chāozhòng — overweight; over the weight limit

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be grounded, then the Mandarin for to deal with the paperwork.

You'll want to know: chāozhòng

chāozhòng — "overweight; over the weight limit".

nǐ de xiāngzi chāozhòng le — Your suitcase is overweight.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chāozhòng is built from chāo 'to go beyond' and 重 'heavy', both inherited from Middle Chinese, trhjew and drjowngX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to leap'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chāozhòng
- Say it: chāozhòng, once more
- Say it: nǐ de xiāngzi chāozhòng le — Your suitcase is overweight.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be grounded, then the Mandarin for to deal with the paperwork, then say chāozhòng again

Before you move on

What does chāozhòng mean? ("Overweight; over the weight limit".) Say it once more.

Chapter 419

Arrivals

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can meet someone off a plane, change money, and say a flight is international or domestic.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 419: I can meet someone off a plane, change money, and say a flight is international or domestic.

419.1 jiējī — to meet someone off a plane

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to deal with the paperwork, then the Mandarin for over the weight limit.

You'll want to know: jiējī

jiējī — "to meet someone off a plane".

> míngtiān wǒ zuò chūzūchē qù jīchǎng jiējī — Tomorrow I'm taking a taxi to the airport to meet someone.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiējī is built from jiē 'to meet' and 机 'a plane', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsjep and kj+j (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to join' and 'to meet'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jiējī
- Say it: jiējī, once more
- Say it: míngtiān wǒ zuò chūzūchē qù jīchǎng jiējī — Tomorrow I'm taking a taxi to the airport to meet someone.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to deal with the paperwork, then the Mandarin for over the weight limit, then say jiējī again

Before you move on

What does jiējī mean? ("To meet someone off a plane".) Say it once more.

419.2 duìhuàn — to exchange money

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for over the weight limit, then the Mandarin for to meet someone off a plane.

You'll want to know: duìhuàn

duìhuàn — "to exchange money".

wǒ zài jīchǎng duìhuàn le yìxiē qián — I changed some money at the airport.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of duìhuàn is built from duì and huàn 'to exchange', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dwajH and hwanH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as one of the eight trigrams and 'to please', and the second 'to exchange'; the sense 'to exchange' for the first is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: duìhuàn
- Say it: duìhuàn, once more
- Say it: wǒ zài jīchǎng duìhuàn le yìxiē qián — I changed some money at the airport.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for over the weight limit, then the Mandarin for to meet someone off a plane, then say duìhuàn again

Before you move on

What does duìhuàn mean? ("To exchange money".) Say it once more.

419.3 wàibì — foreign currency

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to meet someone off a plane, then the Mandarin for to exchange money.

You'll want to know: wàibì

wàibì — "foreign currency".

zhèr kěyǐ huàn wàibì — You can change foreign money here.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

wàibì is built from 外 'outside' and bì 'money', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngwajH and bjiejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as gifts of silk.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: wàibì
- Say it: wàibì, once more
- Say it: zhèr kěyǐ huàn wàibì — You can change foreign money here.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to meet someone off a plane, then the Mandarin for to exchange money, then say wàibì again

Before you move on

What does wàibì mean? ("Foreign currency".) Say it once more.

419.4 guójì — international

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to exchange money, then the Mandarin for foreign currency.

You'll want to know: guójì

guójì — "international".

qù guójì hángzhànlóu zěnme zǒu — How do I get to the international terminal?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

guójì is built from 国 'a country' and jì 'an edge, a meeting', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwok and tsjejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a border' and 'to meet'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: guójì
- Say it: guójì, once more
- Say it: qù guójì hángzhànlóu zěnme zǒu — How do I get to the international terminal?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to exchange money, then the Mandarin for foreign currency, then say guójì again

Before you move on

What does guójì mean? ("International".) Say it once more.

419.5 guónèi — domestic (inside the country)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for foreign currency, then the Mandarin for international.

You'll want to know: guónèi

guónèi — "domestic (inside the country)".

guónèi hángbān hěn piányi — Domestic flights are cheap.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of guónèi is built from 国 'a country' and nèi 'inside', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwok and nwojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to go in'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: guónèi
- Say it: guónèi, once more
- Say it: guónèi hángbān hěn piányi — Domestic flights are cheap.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for foreign currency, then the Mandarin for international, then say guónèi again

Before you move on

What does guónèi mean? ("Domestic (inside the country)".) Say it once more.

419.6 Looking back: from In the Cabin to Arrivals

Say the Mandarin for a flight attendant and next to the window.

Your turn

- Say it: a flight attendant, next to the window, economy class, to get airsick, a seat belt
- Say it: an airport terminal building, to check in a suitcase, a boarding pass, the security check at an airport, a departure gate
- Say it: to be held up, the measure word for a rainstorm, to miss a flight, to change planes on the way, flying (of an aircraft)
- Say it: customs at the border, to enter a country, to leave a country, to declare goods at customs, duty-free
- Say it: to check in for a flight, the formalities, to be grounded, to deal with the paperwork, over the weight limit
- Say it: to meet someone off a plane, to exchange money, foreign currency, international, inside the country
- Read it: 场 停 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

A flight attendant? (chéngwùyuán.) Next to the window? (kàochuāng.) Economy class? (jīngjìcāng.) To get airsick? (yùnjī.) A seat belt? (ānquándài.) An airport terminal building? (hángzhànlóu.) To check in a suitcase? (tuōyùn.) A boarding pass? (dēngjīpái.) The security check at an airport? (安检, ānjiǎn.) A departure gate? (dēngjīkǒu.) To be held up? (yánwù.) The measure word for a rainstorm? (场, chǎng.) To miss a flight? (wùjī.) To change planes on the way? (zhuǎnjī.) Flying (of an aircraft)? (fēixíng.) Customs at the border? (hǎiguān.) To enter a country? (rùjìng.) To leave a country? (chūjìng.) To declare goods at customs? (shēnbào.) Duty-free? (miǎnshuì.) To check in for a flight? (zhíjī.) The formalities? (shǒuxù.) To be grounded? (停飞, tíngfēi.) To deal with the paperwork? (bànlǐ.) Over the weight limit? (chāozhòng.) To meet someone off a plane? (jiējī.) To exchange money? (duìhuàn.) Foreign currency? (wàibì.) International? (guójì.) Inside the country? (guónèi.)

Chapter 420

Parking

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a driving licence, traffic lanes, parking spaces, reversing and breaking the rules.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 420: I can talk about a driving licence, traffic lanes, parking spaces, reversing and breaking the rules.

420.1 jiàzhào — driving licence

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for international, then the Mandarin for inside the country.

You'll want to know: jiàzhào

jiàzhào — "driving licence".

> wǒ de jiàzhào bú jiàn le — My driving licence has gone missing.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiàzhào is built from jià 'to drive' and zhào, short for a word for a licence; both are inherited from Middle Chinese, kaeH and tsyewH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to drive a team' and the second 'bright'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jiàzhào
- Say it: jiàzhào, once more
- Say it: wǒ de jiàzhào bú jiàn le — My driving licence has gone missing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for international, then the Mandarin for inside the country, then say jiàzhào again

Before you move on

What does jiàzhào mean? ("Driving licence".) Say it once more.

420.2 车道 (chēdào) — traffic lane

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for inside the country, then the Mandarin for a driving licence.

You'll want to know: 车道

车道 — chēdào — "traffic lane".

wǎng yòubian de chēdào kāi — Move over into the right-hand lane.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 车道 (chēdào) is built from 车 'vehicle' and 道 'a road', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyhae and dawX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a road' and 'reason'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chēdào
- Say it: chēdào, once more
- Say it: wǎng yòubian de chēdào kāi — Move over into the right-hand lane.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for inside the country, then the Mandarin for a driving licence, then say chēdào again

Before you move on

What does 车道 mean? ("Traffic lane".) Say it once more.

420.3 chēwèi — parking space

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a driving licence, then the Mandarin for a traffic lane.

You'll want to know: chēwèi

chēwèi — "parking space".

wǒ zài tíngchēchǎng zhǎo bu dào chēwèi — I can't find a space in the car park.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chēwèi is built from 车 'vehicle' and wèi 'a place', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyhae and hwijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chēwèi
- Say it: chēwèi, once more
- Say it: wǒ zài tíngchēchǎng zhǎo bu dào chēwèi — I can't find a space in the car park.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a driving licence, then the Mandarin for a traffic lane, then say chēwèi again

Before you move on

What does chēwèi mean? ("Parking space".) Say it once more.

420.4 dàochē — to reverse the car; to back up

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a traffic lane, then the Mandarin for a parking space.

You'll want to know: dàochē

dàochē — "to reverse the car; to back up".

tā zài tíngchēchǎng dàochē — He's reversing in the car park.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dàochē is built from dào 'backwards' and 车 'vehicle', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tawH and tsyhae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as hanging upside down.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: dàochē
- Say it: dàochē, once more
- Say it: tā zài tíngchēchǎng dàochē — He's reversing in the car park.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a traffic lane, then the Mandarin for a parking space, then say dàochē again

Before you move on

What does dàochē mean? ("To reverse the car; to back up".) Say it once more.

420.5 wéizhāng — to break the traffic rules

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a parking space, then the Mandarin for to reverse the car.

You'll want to know: wéizhāng

wéizhāng — "to break the traffic rules".

zhèr bù néng tíngchē tíng le jiù wéizhāng — You can't park here: if you do, you're breaking the rules.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of wéizhāng is built from wéi 'to go against' and zhāng 'a rule', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hjw+j and tsyang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to turn your back on' and the second as a section of writing; the sense 'a rule' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: wéizhāng
- Say it: wéizhāng, once more
- Say it: zhèr bù néng tíngchē tíng le jiù wéizhāng — You can't park here: if you do, you're breaking the rules.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a parking space, then the Mandarin for to reverse the car, then say wéizhāng again

Before you move on

What does wéizhāng mean? ("To break the traffic rules".) Say it once more.

Chapter 421

On the Expressway

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about main roads and the expressway, the speed of a car, toll gates and speeding.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 421: I can talk about main roads and the expressway, the speed of a car, toll gates and speeding.

421.1 公路 (gōnglù) — highway; main road

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to reverse the car, then the Mandarin for to break the traffic rules.

You'll want to know: 公路

公路 — gōnglù — "highway; main road".

> zhè tiáo gōnglù hěn cháng — This main road is very long.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 公路 (gōnglù) is built from 公 'public' and 路 'a road', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kuwng and luH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: gōnglù
- Say it: gōnglù, once more
- Say it: zhè tiáo gōnglù hěn cháng — This main road is very long.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to reverse the car, then the Mandarin for to break the traffic rules, then say gōnglù again

Before you move on

What does 公路 mean? ("Highway; main road".) Say it once more.

421.2 高速 (gāosù) — expressway

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to break the traffic rules, then the Mandarin for a main road between towns.

You'll want to know: 高速

高速 — gāosù — "expressway".

去高速怎么走 qù gāosù zěnme zǒu — How do I get onto the expressway?

The new character, in pieces: 速 — ten strokes in two pieces: the right piece first, seven strokes, a bar, a small 口, a long vertical down through them, a stroke falling to the left and a dot; then the walking piece of 这 under it, three strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 高速 (gāosù) is built from 高 'high' and 速 'speed', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaw and suwk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'swift'; it is a short form of a longer name, the high-speed road.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: gāosù
- Say it: gāosù, once more
- Say it: qù gāosù zěnme zǒu — How do I get onto the expressway?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to break the traffic rules, then the Mandarin for a main road between towns, then say gāosù again

Before you move on

What does 高速 mean? (“Expressway”.) Say it once more.

421.3 速 — a bundle, then the walking piece

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say gāosù — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

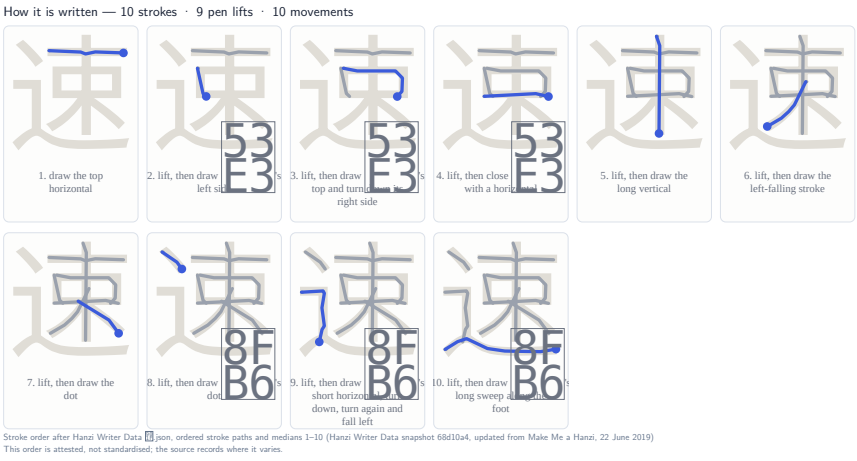
  这 高

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — zhè, gāo

Script — a bundle, then the walking piece



How 速 is written, stroke by stroke

速

Two pieces, and the walking piece comes last. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The upper piece, seven strokes. A bar across the top. A small 口 under it, three strokes. A long vertical down through the bar and 口. Then a stroke falling to the left from the vertical and a dot to the right, as at the foot of the tree piece.

The walking piece, three strokes, as in 这: a dot, a stroke that zigzags down, then a long sweep along the foot.

7 + 3 = ten.

Your turn

- Write it: 速, all ten, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 速? (Ten.) What is written near the top? (A small 口.) Which piece comes last? (The walking piece.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 速, pinned stroke paths and medians.

421.4 车速 (chēsù) — speed of a vehicle

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a main road between towns, then the Mandarin for the expressway.

You'll want to know: 车速

车速 — chēsù — "speed of a vehicle".

高速的车速很快 gāosù de chēsù hěn kuài — Cars go fast on the expressway.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 车速 (chēsù) is built from 车 'vehicle' and 速 'speed', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyhae and suwk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chēsù
- Say it: chēsù, once more
- Say it: gāosù de chēsù hěn kuài — Cars go fast on the expressway.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a main road between towns, then the Mandarin for the expressway, then say chēsù again

Before you move on

What does 车速 mean? ("Speed of a vehicle".) Say it once more.

421.5 shōufèizhàn — toll gate

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the expressway, then the Mandarin for the speed of a vehicle.

You'll want to know: shōufèizhàn

shōufèizhàn — "toll gate".

wǎng qián kāi jiù shì shōufèizhàn — Drive straight on and you come to the toll gate.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shōufèizhàn is built from shōu 'to collect', fèi 'a fee' and 站 'a station', all inherited from Middle Chinese, syuw, phj+jH and treamH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to gather in'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shōufèizhàn
- Say it: shōufèizhàn, once more
- Say it: wǎng qián kāi jiù shì shōufèizhàn — Drive straight on and you come to the toll gate.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the expressway, then the Mandarin for the speed of a vehicle, then say shōufèizhàn again

Before you move on

What does shōufèizhàn mean? ("Toll gate".) Say it once more.

421.6 chāosù — to break the speed limit

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the speed of a vehicle, then the Mandarin for a toll gate.

You'll want to know: chāosù

chāosù — "to break the speed limit".

nǐ kāi de tài kuài le chāosù le — You're driving too fast: you're over the limit.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chāosù is built from chāo 'to go beyond' and 速 'speed', both inherited from Middle Chinese, trhjew and suwk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to leap'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chāosù
- Say it: chāosù, once more
- Say it: nǐ kāi de tài kuài le chāosù le — You're driving too fast: you're over the limit.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the speed of a vehicle, then the Mandarin for a toll gate, then say chāosù again

Before you move on

What does chāosù mean? ("To break the speed limit".) Say it once more.

Chapter 422

Going North

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can use a satnav, name the northeast and the northwest, say we are heading north and take a fast bus.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 422: I can use a satnav, name the northeast and the northwest, say we are heading north and take a fast bus.

422.1 dǎoháng — to navigate by satnav

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a toll gate, then the Mandarin for to break the speed limit.

You'll want to know: dǎoháng

dǎoháng — "to navigate by satnav".

> wǒ yòng shǒujī dǎoháng zhǎodào le nà jiā fàndiàn — I found the way to that restaurant with my phone.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dǎoháng is built from dǎo 'to lead' and háng 'to sail', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dawH and hang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to lead' and the second 'a boat'.

dawH would regularly give dào: the falling-rising tone of dǎo is irregular.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: dǎoháng
- Say it: dǎoháng, once more
- Say it: wǒ yòng shǒujī dǎoháng zhǎodào le nà jiā fàndiàn — I found the way to that restaurant with my phone.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a toll gate, then the Mandarin for to break the speed limit, then say dǎoháng again

Before you move on

What does dǎoháng mean? ("To navigate by satnav".) Say it once more.

422.2 东北 (dōngběi) — northeast; the Northeast (of China)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to break the speed limit, then the Mandarin for to navigate by satnav.

You'll want to know: 东北

东北 — dōngběi — "northeast; the Northeast (of China)".

火车进入了东北 huǒchē jìnrù le dōngběi — The train has come into the northeast of China.

The new character, in pieces: 北 — five strokes in two halves: on the left a vertical, a short bar into it from the left and a bar rising to the right at its foot; on the right a stroke falling to the left, then a vertical that bends right along the foot and hooks up. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 东北 (dōngběi) is built from 东 'east' and 北 'north', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tuwng and pok (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'north' and 'to flee'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: dōngběi
- Say it: dōngběi, once more
- Say it: huǒchē jìnrù le dōngběi — The train has come into the northeast of China.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to break the speed limit, then the Mandarin for to navigate by satnav, then say dōngběi again

Before you move on

What does 东北 mean? ("Northeast; the Northeast (of China)".) Say it once more.

422.3 北 — two halves back to back

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say dōngběi — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

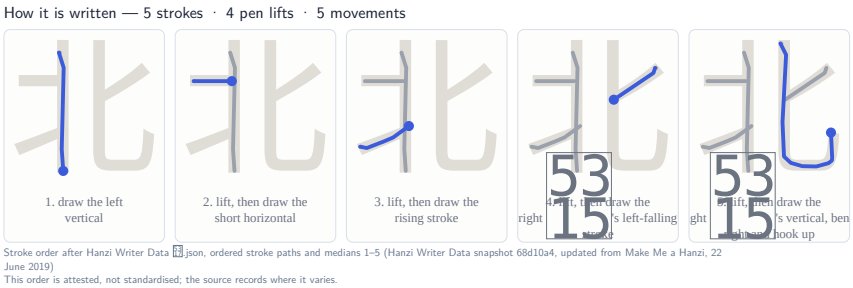
  比 东

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — bǐ, dōng

Script — two halves back to back



How 北 is written, stroke by stroke

北

Two halves, left before right.

The left half, three strokes. A vertical. A short bar from the left into it. Then a bar rising to the right into its foot, from the left.

The right half, two strokes, as on the right of 比: a stroke falling to the left, then a vertical that bends to the right along the foot and hooks up.

3 + 2 = five.

Your turn

- Write it: 北, all five, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 北? (Five.) What is the right half? (The right half of 比.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 北, pinned stroke paths and medians.

422.4 西北 (xīběi) — northwest; the Northwest (of China)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to navigate by satnav, then the Mandarin for the northeast.

You'll want to know: 西北

西北 — xīběi — "northwest; the Northwest (of China)".

风从西北来 fēng cóng xīběi lái — The wind is coming from the northwest.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 西北 (xīběi) is built from 西 'west' and 北 'north', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sej and pok (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: xīběi
- Say it: xīběi, once more
- Say it: fēng cóng xīběi lái — The wind is coming from the northwest.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to navigate by satnav, then the Mandarin for the northeast, then say xīběi again

Before you move on

What does 西北 mean? ("Northwest; the Northwest (of China)".) Say it once more.

422.5 北上 (běishàng) — to go north; to head up north

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the northeast, then the Mandarin for the northwest.

You'll want to know: 北上

北上 — běishàng — "to go north; to head up north".

明天我们坐飞机北上 míngtiān wǒmen zuò fēijī běishàng — Tomorrow we fly north.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 北上 (běishàng) is built from 北 'north' and 上 'to go up', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pok and dzyangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to climb'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: běishàng
- Say it: běishàng, once more
- Say it: míngtiān wǒmen zuò fēijī běishàng — Tomorrow we fly north.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the northeast, then the Mandarin for the northwest, then say běishàng again

Before you move on

What does 北上 mean? ("To go north; to head up north".) Say it once more.

422.6 快速 (kuàisù) — rapid; high-speed

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the northwest, then the Mandarin for to head up north.

You'll want to know: 快速

快速 — kuàisù — "rapid; high-speed".

我们坐快速公交去机场 wǒmen zuò kuàisù gōngjiāo qù jīchǎng — We take the rapid bus to the airport.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 快速 (kuàisù) is built from 快 'fast' and 速 'swift', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khwaejH and suwk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: kuàisù
- Say it: kuàisù, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zuò kuàisù gōngjiāo qù jīchǎng — We take the rapid bus to the airport.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the northwest, then the Mandarin for to head up north, then say kuàisù again

Before you move on

What does 快速 mean? ("Rapid; high-speed".) Say it once more.

Chapter 423

Going South

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can ask how the roads are, name the southeast and southwest, say we are heading south and compare.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 423: I can ask how the roads are, name the southeast and southwest, say we are heading south and compare.

423.1 lùkuàng — road conditions

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to head up north, then the Mandarin for high-speed.

You'll want to know: lùkuàng

lùkuàng — "road conditions".

> lùkuàng bù hǎo dehuà wǒmen zuò dìtiě qù — If the roads are bad, we'll take the metro.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of lùkuàng is built from 路 'a road' and kuàng 'a state of things', both inherited from Middle Chinese, luH and xjwangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to compare'; the sense 'state of things' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: lùkuàng
- Say it: lùkuàng, once more
- Say it: lùkuàng bù hǎo dehuà wǒmen zuò dìtiě qù — If the roads are bad, we'll take the metro.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to head up north, then the Mandarin for high-speed, then say lùkuàng again

Before you move on

What does lùkuàng mean? ("Road conditions".) Say it once more.

423.2 东南 (dōngnán) — southeast

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for high-speed, then the Mandarin for road conditions.

You'll want to know: 东南

东南 — dōngnán — "southeast".

huǒchēzhàn zài jīchǎng de dōngnán fāngxiàng — The railway station is southeast of the airport.

The new character, in pieces: 南 — nine strokes: 十 on top; under it a frame open at the foot, a vertical down the left and a bar that turns down the right side and hooks; inside it a dot and a short stroke falling to the left, two bars, and a vertical down through them. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 东南 (dōngnán) is built from 东 'east' and 南 'south', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tuwng and nom (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as the direction of fire.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: dōngnán
- Say it: dōngnán, once more
- Say it: huǒchēzhàn zài jīchǎng de dōngnán fāngxiàng — The railway station is southeast of the airport.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for high-speed, then the Mandarin for road conditions, then say dōngnán again

Before you move on

What does 东南 mean? ("Southeast".) Say it once more.

423.3 南 — 十 over a frame

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say dōngnán — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  十 东

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — shí, dōng

Script — 十 over a frame

How 南 is written, stroke by stroke

南

Two pieces, top to bottom.

The top piece, 十, two strokes. A short bar, then a vertical down through it.

The frame, two strokes. A vertical down the left. Then a bar across that turns down the right side and hooks to the left at the foot: the frame is open at the bottom.

Inside, five strokes. A dot and a short stroke falling to the left, side by side. Two bars, one under the other. Then a vertical from the upper bar down through the lower one.

$2 + 2 + 5 =$ nine.

Your turn

- Write it: 南, all nine, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 南? (Nine.) What sits on top? (十.) Is the frame closed at the foot? (No, it is open.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 南, pinned stroke paths and medians.

423.4 西南 (xīnán) — southwest; the Southwest (of China)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for road conditions, then the Mandarin for the southeast.

You'll want to know: 西南

西南 — xīnán — "southwest; the Southwest (of China)".

wǒmen wǎng xīnán kāi — We're driving southwest.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 西南 (xīnán) is built from 西 'west' and 南 'south', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sej and nom (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: xīnán
- Say it: xīnán, once more
- Say it: wǒmen wǎng xīnán kāi — We're driving southwest.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for road conditions, then the Mandarin for the southeast, then say xīnán again

Before you move on

What does 西南 mean? ("Southwest; the Southwest (of China)".) Say it once more.

423.5 南下 (nánxià) — to go south; to head down south

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the southeast, then the Mandarin for the southwest.

You'll want to know: 南下

南下 — nánxià — "to go south; to head down south".

下个月我们开车南下 xià ge yuè wǒmen kāichē nánxià — Next month we're driving south.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 南下 (nánxià) is built from 南 'south' and 下 'to go down', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nom and haeX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'low' and 'to come down'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: nánxià
- Say it: nánxià, once more
- Say it: xià ge yuè wǒmen kāichē nánxià — Next month we're driving south.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the southeast, then the Mandarin for the southwest, then say nánxià again

Before you move on

What does 南下 mean? (“To go south; to head down south”.) Say it once more.

423.6 南北 (nánběi) — north and south

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the southwest, then the Mandarin for to head down south.

You’ll want to know: 南北

南北 — nánběi — “north and south”.

Zhōngguó de nánběi hěn bù yíyàng — The north and the south of China are very different.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 南北 (nánběi) is built from 南 ’south’ and 北 ’north’, both inherited from Middle Chinese, nom and pok (Guangyun, in Baxter’s transcription).

What you’ve built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: nánběi
- Say it: nánběi, once more
- Say it: Zhōngguó de nánběi hěn bù yíyàng — The north and the south of China are very different.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the southwest, then the Mandarin for to head down south, then say nánběi again

Before you move on

What does 南北 mean? (“North and south”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 424

On the Road

Modes: voice (6) Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about tunnels, turning round, road signs, speed per hour and stopping halfway.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 424: I can talk about tunnels, turning round, road signs, speed per hour and stopping halfway.

424.1 suìdào — tunnel

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to head down south, then the Mandarin for north and south.

You'll want to know: suìdào

suìdào — "tunnel".

> qiánbian yǒu yì tiáo suìdào — There's a tunnel up ahead.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of suìdào is built from suì 'a passage' and dào 'a way', both inherited from Middle Chinese, zwijH and dawX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as the passage into a tomb and the second 'a road'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: suìdào
- Say it: suìdào, once more
- Say it: qiánbian yǒu yì tiáo suìdào — There's a tunnel up ahead.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to head down south, then the Mandarin for north and south, then say suìdào again

Before you move on

What does suìdào mean? ("Tunnel".) Say it once more.

424.2 diàotóu — to turn round (in a car); to make a U-turn

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for north and south, then the Mandarin for a tunnel through a hill.

You'll want to know: diàotóu

diàotóu — "to turn round (in a car); to make a U-turn".

zhèr bù néng diàotóu wǎng qián kāi — You can't turn round here: drive on.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of diàotóu is built from diào 'to turn' and 头 'the head', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dewH and duw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to shake'; the sense 'to turn' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: diàotóu
- Say it: diàotóu, once more
- Say it: zhèr bù néng diàotóu wǎng qián kāi — You can't turn round here: drive on.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for north and south, then the Mandarin for a tunnel through a hill, then say diàotóu again

Before you move on

What does diàotóu mean? ("To turn round (in a car); to make a U-turn".) Say it once more.

424.3 lùbiāo — road sign

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a tunnel through a hill, then the Mandarin for to make a U-turn.

You'll want to know: lùbiāo

lùbiāo — "road sign".

lùbiāo shuō wǎng qián zǒu — The sign says go straight on.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of lùbiāo is built from 路 'a road' and biāo 'a mark', both inherited from Middle Chinese, luH and pjiew (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as the tip of a tree and 'to raise'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: lùbiāo
- Say it: lùbiāo, once more
- Say it: lùbiāo shuō wǎng qián zǒu — The sign says go straight on.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a tunnel through a hill, then the Mandarin for to make a U-turn, then say lùbiāo again

Before you move on

What does lùbiāo mean? ("Road sign".) Say it once more.

424.4 时速 (shísù) — speed per hour

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to make a U-turn, then the Mandarin for a road sign.

You'll want to know: 时速

时速 — shísù — "speed per hour".

我们的时速是一百公里 wǒmen de shísù shì yìbǎi gōnglǐ — We're doing a hundred kilometres an hour.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 时速 (shísù) is built from 时 'an hour' and 速 'speed', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyi and suwk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shísù
- Say it: shísù, once more

- Say it: wǒmen de shísù shì yìbǎi gōnglǐ — We're doing a hundred kilometres an hour.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to make a U-turn, then the Mandarin for a road sign, then say shísù again

Before you move on

What does 时速 mean? ("Speed per hour".) Say it once more.

424.5 半路 (bànlù) — halfway; on the way

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a road sign, then the Mandarin for speed per hour.

You'll want to know: 半路

半路 — bànlù — "halfway; on the way".

我们在半路停了车 wǒmen zài bànlù tíng le chē — We stopped the car on the way.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 半路 (bànlù) is built from 半 'half' and 路 'a road', both inherited from Middle Chinese, panH and luH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: bànlù
- Say it: bànlù, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zài bànlù tíng le chē — We stopped the car on the way.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a road sign, then the Mandarin for speed per hour, then say bànlù again

Before you move on

What does 半路 mean? ("Halfway; on the way".) Say it once more.

424.6 Looking back: from Parking to On the Road

Say the Mandarin for a driving licence and a traffic lane.

Your turn

- Say it: a driving licence, a traffic lane, a parking space, to reverse the car, to break the traffic rules
- Say it: a main road between towns, the expressway, the speed of a vehicle, a toll gate, to break the speed limit
- Say it: to navigate by satnav, the northeast, the northwest, to head up north, high-speed
- Say it: road conditions, the southeast, the southwest, to head down south, north and south
- Say it: a tunnel through a hill, to make a U-turn, a road sign, speed per hour, halfway
- Read it: 速 北 南 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

A driving licence? (jiàzhào.) A traffic lane? (车道, chēdào.) A parking space? (chēwèi.) To reverse the car? (dàochē.) To break the traffic rules? (wéizhāng.) A main road between towns? (公路, gōnglù.) The expressway? (高速, gāosù.) The speed of a vehicle? (车速, chēsù.) A toll gate? (shōufèizhàn.) To break the speed limit? (chāosù.) To navigate by satnav? (dǎoháng.) The northeast? (东北, dōngběi.) The northwest? (西北, xīběi.) To head up north? (北上, běishàng.) High-speed? (快速, kuàisù.) Road conditions? (lùkuàng.) The southeast? (东南, dōngnán.) The southwest? (西南, xīnán.) To head down south? (南下, nánxià.) North and south? (南北, nánběi.) A tunnel through a hill? (suìdào.) To make a U-turn? (diàotóu.) A road sign? (lùbiāo.) Speed per hour? (时速, shísù.) Halfway? (半路, bànlù.)

Chapter 425

The Hotel

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a place to stay, a big hotel, its guest rooms, the room card and the lobby.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 425: I can talk about a place to stay, a big hotel, its guest rooms, the room card and the lobby.

425.1 zhùsù — accommodation; a place to stay

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for speed per hour, then the Mandarin for halfway.

You'll want to know: zhùsù

zhùsù — "accommodation; a place to stay".

> zhèr de zhùsù hěn guì — Accommodation is expensive here.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

zhùsù is built from zhù 'to stay' and sù 'to lodge for the night', both inherited from Middle Chinese, drjuH and sjuwk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to stop' and the second 'a lodging'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: zhùsù
- Say it: zhùsù, once more
- Say it: zhèr de zhùsù hěn guì — Accommodation is expensive here.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for speed per hour, then the Mandarin for halfway, then say zhùsù again

Before you move on

What does zhùsù mean? ("Accommodation; a place to stay".) Say it once more.

425.2 酒店 (jiǔdiàn) — big hotel

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for halfway, then the Mandarin for a place to stay.

You'll want to know: 酒店

酒店 — jiǔdiàn — "big hotel".

这家酒店很大 zhè jiā jiǔdiàn hěn dà — This hotel is very big.

The new character, in pieces: 酒 — ten strokes in two pieces: on the left the water piece of 洗, three strokes; on the right a bar on top, a frame, a short stroke falling to the left and a vertical bending right inside it, a short bar, and a bar closing the foot. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 酒店 (jiǔdiàn) is built from 酒 'wine' and 店 'a shop, an inn', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsjuwX and temH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as wine and sweet wine; how the pair came to mean a big hotel is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jiǔdiàn
- Say it: jiǔdiàn, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā jiǔdiàn hěn dà — This hotel is very big.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for halfway, then the Mandarin for a place to stay, then say jiǔdiàn again

Before you move on

What does 酒店 mean? ("Big hotel".) Say it once more.

425.3 酒 — the water piece, then a jar

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say jiǔdiàn — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  洗 店

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — xǐ, diàn

Script — the water piece, then a jar

How 酒 is written, stroke by stroke

酒

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the water piece, three strokes, as in 洗: two dots, then a stroke that rises to the right.

The right piece, seven strokes. A bar across the top. A vertical down the left, and a bar that turns down the right side. Inside, a short stroke falling to the left and a vertical that bends to the right at the foot. A short bar across them. Then a bar that closes the foot.

3 + 7 = ten.

Your turn

- Write it: 酒, all ten, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 酒? (Ten.) What is the left piece? (The water piece, as in 洗.) Is the frame closed at the foot? (Yes, the last bar closes it.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 酒, pinned stroke paths and medians.

425.4 客房 (kèfáng) — hotel guest room

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a place to stay, then the Mandarin for a big hotel.

You'll want to know: 客房

客房 — kèfáng — "hotel guest room".

这家酒店有一百间客房 zhè jiā jiǔdiàn yǒu yìbǎi jiān kèfáng — This hotel has a hundred guest rooms.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 客房 (kèfáng) is built from 客 'a guest' and 房 'a room', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khaek and bjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: kèfáng
- Say it: kèfáng, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā jiǔdiàn yǒu yìbǎi jiān kèfáng — This hotel has a hundred guest rooms.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a place to stay, then the Mandarin for a big hotel, then say kèfáng again

Before you move on

What does 客房 mean? ("Hotel guest room".) Say it once more.

425.5 fángkǎ — room key card

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a big hotel, then the Mandarin for a hotel guest room.

You'll want to know: fángkǎ

fángkǎ — "room key card".

> wǒ de fángkǎ bú jiàn le — My room card has gone missing.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fángkǎ is built from 房 'a room' and kǎ 'a card'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese bjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); kǎ is usually traced to English card.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: fángkǎ
- Say it: fángkǎ, once more
- Say it: wǒ de fángkǎ bú jiàn le — My room card has gone missing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a big hotel, then the Mandarin for a hotel guest room, then say fángkǎ again

Before you move on

What does fángkǎ mean? ("Room key card".) Say it once more.

425.6 dàtáng — hotel lobby

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a hotel guest room, then the Mandarin for a room key card.

You'll want to know: dàtáng

dàtáng — "hotel lobby".

wǒ zài jiǔdiàn de dàtáng děng nǐ — I'll wait for you in the hotel lobby.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dàtáng is built from 大 'big' and táng 'a hall', both inherited from Middle Chinese, daH and dang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: dàtáng
- Say it: dàtáng, once more
- Say it: wǒ zài jiǔdiàn de dàtáng děng nǐ — I'll wait for you in the hotel lobby.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a hotel guest room, then the Mandarin for a room key card, then say dàtáng again

Before you move on

What does dàtáng mean? ("Hotel lobby".) Say it once more.

Chapter 426

Booking a Room

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can ask for a standard room, hear that a hotel is full, find an inn, ask about stars and pay the bill.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 426: I can ask for a standard room, hear that a hotel is full, find an inn, ask about stars and pay the bill.

426.1 dàchuángfáng — room with a double bed

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a room key card, then the Mandarin for the hotel lobby.

You'll want to know: dàchuángfáng

dàchuángfáng — "room with a double bed".

> wǒmen yào yì jiān dàchuángfáng — We'd like a double room.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dàchuángfáng is built from 大 'big', chuáng 'a bed' and 房 'a room', all inherited from Middle Chinese, daH, dzrjang and bjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: dàchuángfáng
- Say it: dàchuángfáng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen yào yì jiān dàchuángfáng — We'd like a double room.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a room key card, then the Mandarin for the hotel lobby, then say dàchuángfáng again

Before you move on

What does dàchuángfáng mean? ("Room with a double bed".) Say it once more.

426.2 kèmǎn — fully booked; with no vacancies

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the hotel lobby, then the Mandarin for a room with a double bed.

You'll want to know: kèmǎn

kèmǎn — "fully booked; with no vacancies".

duìbuqǐ jīntiān kèmǎn le — Sorry, we're full tonight.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of kèmǎn is built from 客 'a guest' and mǎn 'full', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khaek and manX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'full, filled'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: kèmǎn
- Say it: kèmǎn, once more
- Say it: duìbuqǐ jīntiān kèmǎn le — Sorry, we're full tonight.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the hotel lobby, then the Mandarin for a room with a double bed, then say kèmǎn again

Before you move on

What does kèmǎn mean? ("Fully booked; with no vacancies".) Say it once more.

426.3 旅店 (lǚdiàn) — inn; small hotel

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a room with a double bed, then the Mandarin for fully booked.

You'll want to know: 旅店

旅店 — lǚdiàn — "inn; small hotel".

这家旅店很小 zhè jiā lǚdiàn hěn xiǎo — This inn is very small.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 旅店 (lǚdiàn) is built from 旅 'to travel' and 店 'an inn', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ljoX and temH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the dictionary glosses the first as a body of troops, so the sense 'to travel' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: lǚdiàn
- Say it: lǚdiàn, once more

- Say it: zhè jiā lǚdiàn hěn xiǎo — This inn is very small.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a room with a double bed, then the Mandarin for fully booked, then say lǚdiàn again

Before you move on

What does 旅店 mean? ("Inn; small hotel".) Say it once more.

426.4 xīngjí — hotel star rating

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for fully booked, then the Mandarin for a small inn.

You'll want to know: xīngjí xīngjí — "hotel star rating".

zhè jiā jiǔdiàn de xīngjí hěn gāo — This hotel has a lot of stars.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xīngjí is built from 星 'a star' and jí 'a rank', both inherited from Middle Chinese, seng and kip (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: xīngjí
- Say it: xīngjí, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā jiǔdiàn de xīngjí hěn gāo — This hotel has a lot of stars.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for fully booked, then the Mandarin for a small inn, then say xīngjí again

Before you move on

What does xīngjí mean? ("Hotel star rating".) Say it once more.

426.5 chāzuò — power socket

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a small inn, then the Mandarin for the hotel star rating.

You'll want to know: chāzuò

chāzuò — "power socket".

fángjiān lǐ de chāzuò zài nǎr — Where's the socket in the room?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chāzuò is built from chā 'to insert' and zuò 'a seat', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsrheap and dzwaH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as the seat of a bed.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chāzuò
- Say it: chāzuò, once more
- Say it: fángjiān lǐ de chāzuò zài nǎr — Where's the socket in the room?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a small inn, then the Mandarin for the hotel star rating, then say chāzuò again

Before you move on

What does chāzuò mean? ("Power socket".) Say it once more.

Chapter 427

Comings and Goings

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the room next door, traffic coming and going, the buffet, the sheets and a bus's route.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 427: I can talk about the room next door, traffic coming and going, the buffet, the sheets and a bus's route.

427.1 gébì — next door

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the hotel star rating, then the Mandarin for a power socket.

You'll want to know: gébì

gébì — "next door".

> wǒ zhù zài gébì — I'm staying next door.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gébì is built from gé 'to separate' and bì 'a wall', both inherited from Middle Chinese, keak and pek (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to block' and the second 'a wall'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: gébì
- Say it: gébì, once more
- Say it: wǒ zhù zài gébì — I'm staying next door.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the hotel star rating, then the Mandarin for a power socket, then say gébì again

Before you move on

What does gébì mean? ("Next door".) Say it once more.

427.2 来往 (láiwǎng) — to come and go

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a power socket, then the Mandarin for right next door.

You'll want to know: 来往

来往 — láiwǎng — "to come and go".

路口来往的车很快你要小心 lùkǒu láiwǎng de chē hěn kuài nǐ yào xiǎoxīn — The cars coming and going at the junction are fast: be careful.

The new character, in pieces: 往 — eight strokes in two pieces: on the left the left piece of 很, three strokes, two short strokes falling to the left and a vertical; on the right a dot, two bars, a vertical through them and a long bar at the foot. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 来往 (láiwǎng) is built from 来 'to come' and 往 'to go', both inherited from Middle Chinese, loj and hjwangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to go'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: láiwǎng
- Say it: láiwǎng, once more
- Say it: lùkǒu láiwǎng de chē hěn kuài nǐ yào xiǎoxīn — The cars coming and going at the junction are fast: be careful.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a power socket, then the Mandarin for right next door, then say láiwǎng again

Before you move on

What does 来往 mean? ("To come and go".) Say it once more.

427.3 往 — the left piece of 很, then a dot over three bars

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say láiwǎng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  很 来

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — hěn, lái

Script — the left piece of 很, then a dot over three bars

How 往 is written, stroke by stroke

往

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, three strokes, as in 很: two short strokes falling to the left, one under the other, then a vertical down from the second.

The right piece, five strokes. A dot on top. A bar, then a second bar. A vertical down through them. Then a long bar across the foot.

3 + 5 = eight.

Your turn

- Write it: 往, all eight, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 往? (Eight.) What is the left piece? (The left piece of 很.) What closes the right piece at the foot? (A long bar.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 往, pinned stroke paths and medians.

427.4 zìzhùcān — buffet

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for right next door, then the Mandarin for to come and go.

You'll want to know: zìzhùcān

zìzhùcān — "buffet".

zhè jiā jiǔdiàn de zǎofàn shì zìzhùcān — Breakfast at this hotel is a buffet.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zìzhùcān is built from zì 'oneself', zhù 'to help' and cān 'a meal', all inherited from Middle Chinese, dzijH, dzrjoH and tshan (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the third 'to swallow'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: zìzhùcān
- Say it: zìzhùcān, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā jiǔdiàn de zǎofàn shì zìzhùcān — Breakfast at this hotel is a buffet.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for right next door, then the Mandarin for to come and go, then say zìzhùcān again

Before you move on

What does zìzhùcān mean? ("Buffet".) Say it once more.

427.5 chuángdān — bed sheet

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to come and go, then the Mandarin for a buffet.

You'll want to know: chuángdān

chuángdān — "bed sheet".

wǒ xiǎng huàn chuángdān — I'd like the sheets changed.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chuángdān is built from chuáng 'a bed' and dān 'a single layer', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzrjang and tan (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chuángdān
- Say it: chuángdān, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiǎng huàn chuángdān — I'd like the sheets changed.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to come and go, then the Mandarin for a buffet, then say chuángdān again

Before you move on

What does chuángdān mean? ("Bed sheet".) Say it once more.

427.6 开往 (kāiwǎng) — to be bound for a place

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a buffet, then the Mandarin for a bed sheet.

You'll want to know: 开往

开往 — kāiwǎng — "to be bound for a place".

开往机场的车在酒店门口 kāiwǎng jīchǎng de chē zài jiǔdiàn ménkǒu — The bus to the airport is at the hotel entrance.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 开往 (kāiwǎng) is built from 开 'to drive off' and 往 'to go towards', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khoj and hjwangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to go'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: kāiwǎng
- Say it: kāiwǎng, once more
- Say it: kāiwǎng jīchǎng de chē zài jiǔdiàn ménkǒu — The bus to the airport is at the hotel entrance.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a buffet, then the Mandarin for a bed sheet, then say kāiwǎng again

Before you move on

What does 开往 mean? ("To be bound for a place".) Say it once more.

Chapter 428

Moving On

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say where a door leads, follow an announcement, and talk about the trip back, the plan and receipts.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 428: I can say where a door leads, follow an announcement, and talk about the trip back, the plan and receipts.

428.1 通往 (tōngwǎng) — to lead to

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a bed sheet, then the Mandarin for to be bound for a place.

You'll want to know: 通往

通往 — tōngwǎng — "to lead to".

> 这个门通往停车场 zhège mén tōngwǎng tíngchēchǎng — This door leads to the car park.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 通往 (tōngwǎng) is built from 通 'to go through' and 往 'to go towards', both inherited from Middle Chinese, thuwng and hjwangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: tōngwǎng
- Say it: tōngwǎng, once more
- Say it: zhège mén tōngwǎng tíngchēchǎng — This door leads to the car park.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a bed sheet, then the Mandarin for to be bound for a place, then say tōngwǎng again

Before you move on

What does 通往 mean? ("To lead to".) Say it once more.

428.2 前往 (qiánwǎng) — to set out for a place

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be bound for a place, then the Mandarin for to lead to a place.

You'll want to know: 前往

前往 — qiánwǎng — "to set out for a place".

前往机场的旅客请上车 qiánwǎng jīchǎng de lǚkè qǐng shàng chē — Passengers for the airport, please get on.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 前往 (qiánwǎng) is built from 前 'forward' and 往 'to go', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzen and hjwangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'before'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: qiánwǎng
- Say it: qiánwǎng, once more
- Say it: qiánwǎng jīchǎng de lǚkè qǐng shàng chē — Passengers for the airport, please get on.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be bound for a place, then the Mandarin for to lead to a place, then say qiánwǎng again

Before you move on

What does 前往 mean? ("To set out for a place".) Say it once more.

428.3 huíchéng — return journey; the journey back

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to lead to a place, then the Mandarin for to set out for a place.

You'll want to know: huíchéng

huíchéng — "return journey; the journey back".

huíchéng wǒmen zuò gāotiě — On the way back we're taking the fast train.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huíchéng is built from 回 'to go back' and chéng 'a stage of a journey', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hwoj and drjeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a set period' and 'a rule'; the sense 'a stretch of road' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: huíchéng
- Say it: huíchéng, once more
- Say it: huíchéng wǒmen zuò gāotiě — On the way back we're taking the fast train.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to lead to a place, then the Mandarin for to set out for a place, then say huíchéng again

Before you move on

What does huíchéng mean? ("Return journey; the journey back".) Say it once more.

428.4 xíngchéng — itinerary; plan for a trip

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to set out for a place, then the Mandarin for the journey back.

You'll want to know: xíngchéng

xíngchéng — "itinerary; plan for a trip".

wǒ zhǎo bu dào wǒmen de xíngchéng le — I can't find our itinerary.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xíngchéng is built from xíng 'to go' and chéng 'a stage', both inherited from Middle Chinese, haeng and drjeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: xíngchéng
- Say it: xíngchéng, once more
- Say it: wǒ zhǎo bu dào wǒmen de xíngchéng le — I can't find our itinerary.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to set out for a place, then the Mandarin for the journey back, then say xíngchéng again

Before you move on

What does xíngchéng mean? ("Itinerary; plan for a trip".) Say it once more.

428.5 发票 (fāpiào) — official receipt

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the journey back, then the Mandarin for the plan for a trip.

You'll want to know: 发票

发票 — fāpiào — "official receipt".

我的发票不见了 wǒ de fāpiào bú jiàn le — My receipt has gone missing.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 发票 (fāpiào) is built from fā 'to send out' and 票 'a slip'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese pjot (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to start' and 'to send out'; no dictionary we use records an older form of 票, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: fāpiào
- Say it: fāpiào, once more
- Say it: wǒ de fāpiào bú jiàn le — My receipt has gone missing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the journey back, then the Mandarin for the plan for a trip, then say fāpiào again

Before you move on

What does 发票 mean? ("Official receipt".) Say it once more.

Chapter 429

Home Again

Modes: 🚗 voice (7) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the journey, give someone a lift on my way, get a lift, get about and count the costs.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 429: I can talk about the journey, give someone a lift on my way, get a lift, get about and count the costs.

429.1 lǚtú — journey

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the plan for a trip, then the Mandarin for an official receipt.

You'll want to know: lǚtú

lǚtú — "journey".

> lǚtú hěn cháng wǒmen dōu hěn lèi — It was a long journey, and we're all tired.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of lǚtú is built from 旅 'to travel' and tú 'a road', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ljoX and du (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the dictionary glosses the first as a body of troops and the second 'a road'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: lǚtú
- Say it: lǚtú, once more
- Say it: lǚtú hěn cháng wǒmen dōu hěn lèi — It was a long journey, and we're all tired.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the plan for a trip, then the Mandarin for an official receipt, then say lǚtú again

Before you move on

What does lǚtú mean? ("Journey".) Say it once more.

429.2 shùnlù — on one's way

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an official receipt, then the Mandarin for the journey as a whole.

You'll want to know: shùnlù

shùnlù — "on one's way".

wǒ zhù zài nǐ jiā fùjìn shùnlù sòng nǐ qù jīchǎng — I live near you, so I'll drop you at the airport on my way.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shùnlù is built from shùn 'to follow' and 路 'a road', both inherited from Middle Chinese, zywinH and luH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to follow'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shùnlù
- Say it: shùnlù, once more
- Say it: wǒ zhù zài nǐ jiā fùjìn shùnlù sòng nǐ qù jīchǎng — I live near you, so I'll drop you at the airport on my way.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an official receipt, then the Mandarin for the journey as a whole, then say shùnlù again

Before you move on

What does shùnlù mean? ("On one's way".) Say it once more.

429.3 dāchē — to get a lift

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the journey as a whole, then the Mandarin for on one's way.

You'll want to know: dāchē

dāchē — "to get a lift".

wǒmen dāchē huí jiā — We got a lift home.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dāchē is built from dā 'to join on' and 车 'vehicle', both inherited from Middle Chinese, thap and tsyhae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the dictionary glosses the first only as a word for touching, so the sense 'to ride along' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: dāchē
- Say it: dāchē, once more
- Say it: wǒmen dāchē huí jiā — We got a lift home.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the journey as a whole, then the Mandarin for on one's way, then say dāchē again

Before you move on

What does dāchē mean? ("To get a lift".) Say it once more.

429.4 chūxíng — to get about; to go out on a journey

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for on one's way, then the Mandarin for to get a lift.

You'll want to know: chūxíng

chūxíng — "to get about; to go out on a journey".

xiàyǔ de shíhou chūxíng hěn bù fāngbiàn — When it rains, getting about is a real nuisance.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chūxíng is built from 出 'to go out' and xíng 'to go', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyhwit and haeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chūxíng
- Say it: chūxíng, once more
- Say it: xiàyǔ de shíhou chūxíng hěn bù fāngbiàn — When it rains, getting about is a real nuisance.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for on one's way, then the Mandarin for to get a lift, then say chūxíng again

Before you move on

What does chūxíng mean? ("To get about; to go out on a journey".) Say it once more.

429.5 lùfèi — travel costs; the cost of getting there

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get a lift, then the Mandarin for to go out on a journey.

You'll want to know: lùfèi

lùfèi — "travel costs; the cost of getting there".

zuò huǒchē qù Běijīng lùfèi shì duōshao — How much does it cost to get to Beijing by train?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of lùfèi is built from 路 'a road' and fèi 'a cost', both inherited from Middle Chinese, luH and phj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: lùfèi
- Say it: lùfèi, once more
- Say it: zuò huǒchē qù Běijīng lùfèi shì duōshao — How much does it cost to get to Beijing by train?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get a lift, then the Mandarin for to go out on a journey, then say lùfèi again

Before you move on

What does lùfèi mean? ("Travel costs; the cost of getting there".) Say it once more.

429.6 Looking back: from The Hotel to Home Again

Say the Mandarin for a place to stay and a big hotel.

Your turn

- Say it: a place to stay, a big hotel, a hotel guest room, a room key card, the hotel lobby
- Say it: a room with a double bed, fully booked, a small inn, the hotel star rating, a power socket
- Say it: right next door, to come and go, a buffet, a bed sheet, to be bound for a place
- Say it: to lead to a place, to set out for a place, the journey back, the plan for a trip, an official receipt
- Say it: the journey as a whole, on one's way, to get a lift, to go out on a journey, the cost of getting there
- Read it: 酒 往 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

A place to stay? (zhùsù.) A big hotel? (酒店, jiǔdiàn.) A hotel guest room? (客房, kèfáng.) A room key card? (fángkǎ.) The hotel lobby? (dàtáng.) A room with a double bed? (dàchuángfáng.) Fully booked? (kèmǎn.) A small inn? (旅店, lǚdiàn.) The hotel star rating? (xīngjí.) A power socket? (chāzuò.) Right next door? (gébì.) To come and go? (来往, láiwǎng.) A buffet? (zìzhùcān.) A bed sheet? (chuángdān.) To be bound for a place? (开往, kāiwǎng.) To lead to a place? (通往, tōngwǎng.) To set out for a place? (前往, qiánwǎng.) The journey back? (huíchéng.) The plan for a trip? (xíngchéng.) An official receipt? (发票, fāpiào.) The journey as a whole? (lǚtú.) On one's way? (shùnlù.) To get a lift? (dāchē.) To go out on a journey? (chūxíng.) The cost of getting there? (lùfèi.)

429.7 Home Again — once more

Say the Mandarin for the journey as a whole and on one's way.

Your turn

- Say it: the journey as a whole, on one's way, to get a lift, to go out on a journey, the cost of getting there

Before you move on

The journey as a whole? (lǚtú.) On one's way? (shùnlù.) To get a lift? (dāchē.) To go out on a journey? (chūxíng.) The cost of getting there? (lùfèi.)

Chapter 430

Seeing the Sights

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about going sightseeing, historic sites, a scenic area, a selfie and the busy season.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 430: I can talk about going sightseeing, historic sites, a scenic area, a selfie and the busy season.

430.1 guānguāng — to go sightseeing

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get about, then the Mandarin for travel costs.

You'll want to know: guānguāng

guānguāng — "to go sightseeing".

> wǒmen zhù zài zhè jiā jiǔdiàn měitiān qù guānguāng — We're staying at this hotel and going sightseeing every day.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of guānguāng is built from guān 'to view' and guāng 'light', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwan and kwang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to view' and the second 'bright'. How the pair came to mean touring the sights is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: guānguāng
- Say it: guānguāng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zhù zài zhè jiā jiǔdiàn měitiān qù guānguāng — We're staying at this hotel and going sightseeing every day.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get about, then the Mandarin for travel costs, then say guānguāng again

Before you move on

What does guānguāng mean? ("To go sightseeing".) Say it once more.

430.2 gǔjì — historic site

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for travel costs, then the Mandarin for to go sightseeing.

You'll want to know: gǔjì

gǔjì — "historic site".

wǒmen zuò gōngjiāo qù kàn gǔjì — We're taking the bus to visit the historic sites.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

gǔjì is built from gǔ 'ancient' and jì 'a trace', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kuX and tsjek (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'former' and the second 'a footprint'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: gǔjì
- Say it: gǔjì, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zuò gōngjiāo qù kàn gǔjì — We're taking the bus to visit the historic sites.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for travel costs, then the Mandarin for to go sightseeing, then say gǔjì again

Before you move on

What does gǔjì mean? ("Historic site".) Say it once more.

430.3 jǐngqū — scenic area

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to go sightseeing, then the Mandarin for a historic site.

You'll want to know: jǐngqū

jǐngqū — "scenic area".

zhège jǐngqū zǎoshang bā diǎn kāimén — This scenic area opens at eight in the morning.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jǐngqū is built from jǐng 'a view' and qū 'an area', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjaengX and khju (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'bright' and 'great' and gives the second as the name of a marsh; the senses 'a view' and 'an area' are not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jǐngqū
- Say it: jǐngqū, once more
- Say it: zhège jǐngqū zǎoshang bā diǎn kāimén — This scenic area opens at eight in the morning.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to go sightseeing, then the Mandarin for a historic site, then say jǐngqū again

Before you move on

What does jǐngqū mean? ("Scenic area".) Say it once more.

430.4 zìpāi — to take a selfie

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a historic site, then the Mandarin for a scenic area.

You'll want to know: zìpāi

zìpāi — "to take a selfie".

tā zài jiǔdiàn de dàtáng zìpāi — She's taking a selfie in the hotel lobby.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zìpāi is built from zì 'oneself' and pāi 'to snap a picture', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzijH and phaek (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'from' and the second 'to strike'; the sense 'to take a photo' is modern.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: zìpāi
- Say it: zìpāi, once more
- Say it: tā zài jiǔdiàn de dàtáng zìpāi — She's taking a selfie in the hotel lobby.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a historic site, then the Mandarin for a scenic area, then say zìpāi again

Before you move on

What does zìpāi mean? ("To take a selfie".) Say it once more.

430.5 wàngjì — peak season; busy season

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a scenic area, then the Mandarin for to take a selfie.

You'll want to know: wàngjì

wàngjì — "peak season; busy season".

wàngjì de shíhou jiǔdiàn dōu kèmǎn le — In the peak season the hotels are all fully booked.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

wàngjì is built from wàng 'thriving' and jì 'a season', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hjwangH and kjwijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as a fine light and the second as the youngest of brothers; the senses 'thriving' and 'a season' are not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: wàngjì
- Say it: wàngjì, once more
- Say it: wàngjì de shíhou jiǔdiàn dōu kèmǎn le — In the peak season the hotels are all fully booked.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a scenic area, then the Mandarin for to take a selfie, then say wàngjì again

Before you move on

What does wàngjì mean? ("Peak season; busy season".) Say it once more.

Chapter 431

A Spring Outing

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can follow a guide's commentary, go on a spring outing, take a pleasure boat, say there are many and pose for a group photo.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 431: I can follow a guide's commentary, go on a spring outing, take a pleasure boat, say there are many and pose for a group photo.

431.1 解说 (jiěshuō) — to give a running commentary

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to take a selfie, then the Mandarin for the peak season.

You'll want to know: 解说

解说 — jiěshuō — "to give a running commentary".

> dǎoyóu zhèngzài gěi wǒmen jiěshuō — The guide is giving us a commentary.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 解说 (jiěshuō) is built from 解 'to explain' and 说 'to speak', both inherited from Middle Chinese, keaX and sywet (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to explain' and the second 'to tell'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jiěshuō
- Say it: jiěshuō, once more
- Say it: dǎoyóu zhèngzài gěi wǒmen jiěshuō — The guide is giving us a commentary.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to take a selfie, then the Mandarin for the peak season, then say jiěshuō again

Before you move on

What does 解说 mean? ("To give a running commentary".) Say it once more.

431.2 春游 (chūnyóu) — spring outing

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the peak season, then the Mandarin for to give a running commentary.

You'll want to know: 春游

春游 — chūnyóu — "spring outing".

我们坐火车去春游 wǒmen zuò huǒchē qù chūnyóu — We're going on a spring outing by train.

The new character, in pieces: 游 — twelve strokes in three pieces: on the left the water piece of 洗, three strokes; in the middle a dot, a bar, a stroke that turns down and hooks, and a stroke falling to the left; on the right a short stroke falling to the left and a bar, with 子 under them. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 春游 (chūnyóu) is built from 春 'spring' and 游 'to roam', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyhwin and yuw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to float' and 'to let loose'; the sense 'to tour' is usually explained as a widening of it.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chūnyóu
- Say it: chūnyóu, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zuò huǒchē qù chūnyóu — We're going on a spring outing by train.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the peak season, then the Mandarin for to give a running commentary, then say chūnyóu again

Before you move on

What does 春游 mean? ("Spring outing".) Say it once more.

431.3 游 — the water piece, a middle piece, then 子

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say chūnyóu — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  洗 子

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — xǐ, zǐ

Script — the water piece, a middle piece, then 子

How 游 is written, stroke by stroke

游

Three pieces, left to right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the water piece, three strokes, as in 洗: two dots, then a stroke that rises to the right.

The middle piece, four strokes. A dot on top. A bar under it. Under the bar, a stroke that runs a little to the right, turns down and hooks to the left at the foot. Then a stroke falling to the left, from under the bar.

The right piece, five strokes. A short stroke falling to the left and a bar, like a small roof. Under them 子 zǐ: a bar that turns down to the left, a vertical with a hook, and a bar across.

3 + 4 + 5 = twelve.

Your turn

- Write it: 游, all twelve, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 游 have? (Three: three strokes, four and five.) Which written character sits at the bottom right? (子, three strokes.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 游, pinned stroke paths and medians.

431.4 游船 (yóuchuán) — pleasure boat

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to give a running commentary, then the Mandarin for a spring outing.

You'll want to know: 游船

游船 — yóuchuán — "pleasure boat".

wǒmen zuò yóuchuán qù hú duìmiàn — We're taking a pleasure boat across the lake.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 游船 (yóuchuán) is built from 游 'to roam' and 船 'a boat', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yuw and zywen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: yóuchuán
- Say it: yóuchuán, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zuò yóuchuán qù hú duìmiàn — We're taking a pleasure boat across the lake.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to give a running commentary, then the Mandarin for a spring outing, then say yóuchuán again

Before you move on

What does 游船 mean? (“Pleasure boat”.) Say it once more.

431.5 多 (duō) — many; much; a lot of

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a spring outing, then the Mandarin for a pleasure boat.

You’ll want to know: 多

多 — duō — “many; much; a lot of”.

春天这儿的游客很多 chūntiān zhèr de yóukè hěn duō — In spring there are a lot of visitors here.

Before a noun it is usually 很多 hěn duō: 很多人 ’a lot of people’.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 多 (duō) is inherited from Middle Chinese ta (Guangyun, in Baxter’s transcription), which glosses it ’many’.

What you’ve built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: duō
- Say it: duō, once more
- Say it: chūntiān zhèr de yóukè hěn duō — In spring there are a lot of visitors here.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a spring outing, then the Mandarin for a pleasure boat, then say duō again

Before you move on

What does 多 mean? (“Many; much; a lot of”.) Say it once more.

431.6 héyǐng — to have a group photo taken; to pose for a group photo

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a pleasure boat, then the Mandarin for many.

You'll want to know: héyǐng

héyǐng — "to have a group photo taken; to pose for a group photo".

wǒmen zài jiǔdiàn ménkǒu héyǐng — We're having a group photo taken outside the hotel.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of héyǐng is built from hé 'together' and yǐng 'a likeness', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hop and 'jaengX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to join' and the second as a shape and its shadow; the sense 'a photograph' is modern.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: héyǐng
- Say it: héyǐng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zài jiǔdiàn ménkǒu héyǐng — We're having a group photo taken outside the hotel.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a pleasure boat, then the Mandarin for many, then say héyǐng again

Before you move on

What does héyǐng mean? ("To have a group photo taken; to pose for a group photo".) Say it once more.

Chapter 432

Busy and Quiet

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say there are few visitors, talk about the off season and public holidays, buy a full-price ticket and hear that a place is closed.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 432: I can say there are few visitors, talk about the off season and public holidays, buy a full-price ticket and hear that a place is closed.

432.1 少 (shǎo) — few; not much

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for many, then the Mandarin for to pose for a group photo.

You'll want to know: 少

少 — shǎo — "few; not much".

> 今年这家酒店的客人很少 jīnnián zhè jiā jiǔdiàn de kèrén hěn shǎo — This hotel has had very few guests this year.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 少 (shǎo) is inherited from Middle Chinese syewX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'not many'. The dictionary lists a second reading, syewH, glossed 'young': the shào of 少年.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shǎo
- Say it: shǎo, once more
- Say it: jīnnián zhè jiā jiǔdiàn de kèrén hěn shǎo — This hotel has had very few guests this year.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for many, then the Mandarin for to pose for a group photo, then say shǎo again

Before you move on

What does 少 mean? ("Few; not much".) Say it once more.

432.2 dànjì — off season; quiet season

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to pose for a group photo, then the Mandarin for few.

You'll want to know: dànjì

dànjì — "off season; quiet season".

dànjì de shíhou yóukè hěn shǎo — In the off season there are very few visitors.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

dànjì is built from dàn 'thin, slack' and jì 'a season', both inherited from Middle Chinese, damX and kjwijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as a thin taste and the second as the youngest of brothers; the sense 'a season' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: dànjì
- Say it: dànjì, once more
- Say it: dànjì de shíhou yóukè hěn shǎo — In the off season there are very few visitors.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to pose for a group photo, then the Mandarin for few, then say dànjì again

Before you move on

What does dànjì mean? ("Off season; quiet season".) Say it once more.

432.3 节假日 (jiéjiàrì) — public holiday

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for few, then the Mandarin for the off season.

You'll want to know: 节假日

节假日 — jiéjiàrì — "public holiday".

jiéjiàrì de shíhou hěn duō rén zuò huǒchē qù hǎibiān — On public holidays lots of people take the train to the seaside.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 节假日 (jiéjiàrì) is built from 节 'a festival', 假 'leave' and 日 'a day', all inherited from Middle Chinese, tset, kaeH and nyit (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as the joint of a bamboo stem and the second 'to borrow' and 'leave'; the sense 'a festival' for the first is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jiéjiàrì
- Say it: jiéjiàrì, once more
- Say it: jiéjiàrì de shíhou hěn duō rén zuò huǒchē qù hǎibiān — On public holidays lots of people take the train to the seaside.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for few, then the Mandarin for the off season, then say jiéjiàrì again

Before you move on

What does 节假日 mean? ("Public holiday".) Say it once more.

432.4 全票 (quánpiào) — full-price ticket

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the off season, then the Mandarin for a public holiday.

You'll want to know: 全票

全票 — quánpiào — "full-price ticket".

wǒmen mǎi le liǎng zhāng quánpiào — We bought two full-price tickets.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 全票 (quánpiào) is built from 全 'whole' and 票 'a ticket'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese dzjwen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'complete'; no dictionary we use records an older form of 票, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: quánpiào
- Say it: quánpiào, once more
- Say it: wǒmen mǎi le liǎng zhāng quánpiào — We bought two full-price tickets.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the off season, then the Mandarin for a public holiday, then say quánpiào again

Before you move on

What does 全票 mean? ("Full-price ticket".) Say it once more.

432.5 guānbì — to shut down; to be shut to the public

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a public holiday, then the Mandarin for a full-price ticket.

You'll want to know: guānbì guānbì — "to shut down; to be shut to the public".

dōngtiān zhège jǐngqū guānbì — This scenic area is closed in winter.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of guānbì is built from 关 'to bar' and bì 'to shut', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwaen and pejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as the bar across a door and the second 'to shut a door'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: guānbì
- Say it: guānbì, once more
- Say it: dōngtiān zhège jǐngqū guānbì — This scenic area is closed in winter.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a public holiday, then the Mandarin for a full-price ticket, then say guānbì again

Before you move on

What does guānbì mean? ("To shut down; to be shut to the public".) Say it once more.

Chapter 433

From Overseas

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ↙ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about receiving visitors from overseas, huge crowds, Chinese people abroad and going out to sea.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 433: I can talk about receiving visitors from overseas, huge crowds, Chinese people abroad and going out to sea.

433.1 jiēdài — to receive visitors; to take care of guests

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a full-price ticket, then the Mandarin for to be shut to the public.

You'll want to know: jiēdài

jiēdài — "to receive visitors; to take care of guests".

> zhè jiā jiǔdiàn jiēdài le hěn duō wàiguó yóukè — This hotel has had lots of foreign visitors.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiēdài is built from jiē 'to meet' and dài 'to wait on', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsjep and dojX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to join' and the second 'to wait for'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jiēdài
- Say it: jiēdài, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā jiǔdiàn jiēdài le hěn duō wàiguó yóukè — This hotel has had lots of foreign visitors.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a full-price ticket, then the Mandarin for to be shut to the public, then say jiēdài again

Before you move on

What does jiēdài mean? ("To receive visitors; to take care of guests".) Say it once more.

433.2 海外 (hǎiwài) — overseas; beyond the sea

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be shut to the public, then the Mandarin for to receive visitors.

You'll want to know: 海外

海外 — hǎiwài — "overseas; beyond the sea".

hěn duō hǎiwài yóukè zhù zài zhè jiā jiǔdiàn — A lot of visitors from overseas stay at this hotel.

The new character, in pieces: 海 — ten strokes in two pieces: on the left the water piece of 洗, three strokes; on the right 每 měi, seven strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 海外 (hǎiwài) is built from 海 'the sea' and 外 'outside', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xojX and ngwajH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, after an older dictionary, as the great pool that takes in a hundred rivers, and the second 'outside'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: hǎiwài
- Say it: hǎiwài, once more
- Say it: hěn duō hǎiwài yóukè zhù zài zhè jiā jiǔdiàn — A lot of visitors from overseas stay at this hotel.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be shut to the public, then the Mandarin for to receive visitors, then say hǎiwài again

Before you move on

What does 海外 mean? ("Overseas; beyond the sea".) Say it once more.

433.3 海 — the water piece, then 每

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say hǎiwài — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

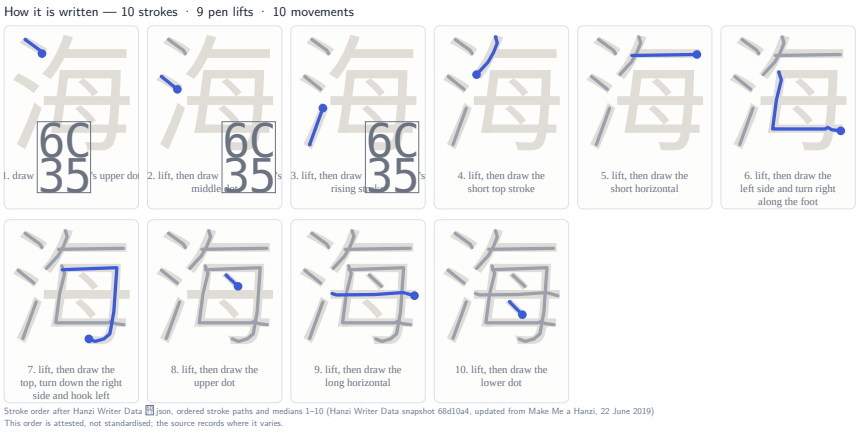
洗 每

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — xǐ, měi

Script — the water piece, then 每



How 海 is written, stroke by stroke

海

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the water piece, three strokes, as in 洗: two dots, then a stroke that rises to the right.

The right piece, 每 měi, seven strokes, as you wrote it: a short stroke falling to the left and a bar; a stroke that runs down and turns right along the foot; a bar that turns down and hooks; a dot; a long bar across; and a last dot.

3 + 7 = ten.

Your turn

- Write it: 海, all ten, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 海? (Ten.) What is the right piece? (每 měi.)
How many dots does 每 have? (Two.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 海, pinned stroke paths and medians.

433.4 人山人海 (rénshānrénhǎi) — huge crowds; a sea of people

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to receive visitors, then the Mandarin for beyond the sea.

You'll want to know: 人山人海

人山人海 — rénshānrénhǎi — "huge crowds; a sea of people".

zhōumò gōngyuán lǐ rénshānrénhǎi — At the weekend the park is packed with people.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 人山人海 (rénshānrénhǎi) is built from 人 'people', 山 'a mountain' and 海 'the sea', said twice with 人: people like mountains, people like seas. The parts are inherited from Middle Chinese, nyin, srean and xojX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: rénshānrénhǎi
- Say it: rénshānrénhǎi, once more
- Say it: zhōumò gōngyuán lǐ rénshānrénhǎi — At the weekend the park is packed with people.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to receive visitors, then the Mandarin for beyond the sea, then say rénshānrénhǎi again

Before you move on

What does 人山人海 mean? ("Huge crowds; a sea of people".) Say it once more.

433.5 huáqiáo — overseas Chinese; a Chinese person settled abroad

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for beyond the sea, then the Mandarin for a sea of people.

You'll want to know: huáqiáo

huáqiáo — "overseas Chinese; a Chinese person settled abroad".

tā shì zhù zài hǎiwài de huáqiáo — He's one of the Chinese who live overseas.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huáqiáo is built from huá 'Chinese' and qiáo 'to live away from home', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hwae and gjew (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'flourishing' and the second 'to lodge' and 'a guest'; the sense 'Chinese' for the first is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: huáqiáo
- Say it: huáqiáo, once more
- Say it: tā shì zhù zài hǎiwài de huáqiáo — He's one of the Chinese who live overseas.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for beyond the sea, then the Mandarin for a sea of people, then say huáqiáo again

Before you move on

What does huáqiáo mean? ("Overseas Chinese; a Chinese person settled abroad".) Say it once more.

433.6 出海 (chūhǎi) — to go out to sea

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a sea of people, then the Mandarin for a Chinese person settled abroad.

You'll want to know: 出海

出海 — chūhǎi — "to go out to sea".

今天风很大我们不能出海 jīntiān fēng hěn dà wǒmen bù néng chūhǎi — It's very windy today, so we can't go out to sea.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 出海 (chūhǎi) is built from 出 'to go out' and 海 'the sea', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyhwit and xojX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chūhǎi
- Say it: chūhǎi, once more
- Say it: jīntiān fēng hěn dà wǒmen bù néng chūhǎi — It's very windy today, so we can't go out to sea.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a sea of people, then the Mandarin for a Chinese person settled abroad, then say chūhǎi again

Before you move on

What does 出海 mean? ("To go out to sea".) Say it once more.

Chapter 434

With a Tour Group

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a tour group, where we meet, going shopping, a photo to remember and travel writing.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 434: I can talk about a tour group, where we meet, going shopping, a photo to remember and travel writing.

434.1 lǚyóutuán — tour group

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a Chinese person settled abroad, then the Mandarin for to go out to sea.

You'll want to know: lǚyóutuán

lǚyóutuán — "tour group".

> wǒ gēn yí ge lǚyóutuán zuò fēijī qù Běijīng — I'm flying to Beijing with a tour group.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of lǚyóutuán is built from 旅游 'to travel' and tuán 'a group', all inherited from Middle Chinese, ljoX, yuw and dwan (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the last 'round'; the sense 'a group' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: lǚyóutuán
- Say it: lǚyóutuán, once more
- Say it: wǒ gēn yí ge lǚyóutuán zuò fēijī qù Běijīng — I'm flying to Beijing with a tour group.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a Chinese person settled abroad, then the Mandarin for to go out to sea, then say lǚyóutuán again

Before you move on

What does lǚyóutuán mean? ("Tour group".) Say it once more.

434.2 jíhé — to gather; to assemble; to meet up as a group

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to go out to sea, then the Mandarin for a tour group.

You'll want to know: jíhé

jíhé — "to gather; to assemble; to meet up as a group".

> míngtiān zǎoshang bā diǎn wǒmen zài jiǔdiàn dàtáng jíhé — Tomorrow at eight in the morning we meet in the hotel lobby.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jíhé is built from jí 'to gather' and hé 'to join', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzip and hop (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to gather' and the second 'to join'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jíhé
- Say it: jíhé, once more
- Say it: míngtiān zǎoshang bā diǎn wǒmen zài jiǔdiàn dàtáng jíhé — Tomorrow at eight in the morning we meet in the hotel lobby.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to go out to sea, then the Mandarin for a tour group, then say jíhé again

Before you move on

What does jíhé mean? ("To gather; to assemble; to meet up as a group".) Say it once more.

434.3 gòuwù — to go shopping; to do some shopping

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a tour group, then the Mandarin for to meet up as a group.

You'll want to know: gòuwù

gòuwù — "to go shopping; to do some shopping".

xiàwǔ wǒmen zuò gōngjiāo qù shìzhōngxīn gòuwù — In the afternoon we're taking the bus into the centre to do some shopping.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

gòuwù is built from gòu 'to buy' and wù 'a thing', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kuwH and mjut (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to buy back' and the second as the ten thousand things.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: gòuwù
- Say it: gòuwù, once more
- Say it: xiàwǔ wǒmen zuò gōngjiāo qù shìzhōngxīn gòuwù — In the afternoon we're taking the bus into the centre to do some shopping.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a tour group, then the Mandarin for to meet up as a group, then say gòuwù again

Before you move on

What does gòuwù mean? ("To go shopping; to do some shopping".) Say it once more.

434.4 liúniàn — to keep as a souvenir

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to meet up as a group, then the Mandarin for to do some shopping.

You'll want to know: liúniàn

liúniàn — "to keep as a souvenir".

wǒmen zài ménkǒu zhàoxiàng liúniàn — We're having our photo taken at the entrance to remember the trip.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

liúniàn is built from liú 'to keep' and niàn 'to remember', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ljuw and nemH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to stay' and the second 'to think of'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: liúniàn
- Say it: liúniàn, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zài ménkǒu zhàoxiàng liúniàn — We're having our photo taken at the entrance to remember the trip.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to meet up as a group, then the Mandarin for to do some shopping, then say liúniàn again

Before you move on

What does liúniàn mean? ("To keep as a souvenir".) Say it once more.

434.5 游记 (yóujì) — travel notes; account of a journey

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to do some shopping, then the Mandarin for to keep as a souvenir.

You'll want to know: 游记

游记 — yóujì — "travel notes; account of a journey".

huílai yǐhòu tā xiě le yì běn yóujì — After she came back, she wrote a book about the trip.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 游记 (yóujì) is built from 游 'to roam' and 记 'to record', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yuw and kiH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to record'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: yóujì
- Say it: yóujì, once more
- Say it: huílai yǐhòu tā xiě le yì běn yóujì — After she came back, she wrote a book about the trip.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to do some shopping, then the Mandarin for to keep as a souvenir, then say yóujì again

Before you move on

What does 游记 mean? ("Travel notes; account of a journey".) Say it once more.

Chapter 435

At the Top

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about climbing a mountain, the summit, a sunrise, a magnificent view and the way down.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 435: I can talk about climbing a mountain, the summit, a sunrise, a magnificent view and the way down.

435.1 dēngshān — to climb a mountain

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to keep as a souvenir, then the Mandarin for an account of a journey.

You'll want to know: dēngshān

dēngshān — "to climb a mountain".

> zhōumò wǒmen zuò huǒchē qù dēngshān — At the weekend we're taking the train to go climbing.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dēngshān is built from dēng 'to ascend' and 山 'a mountain', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tong and srean (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to rise' and 'to go up'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: dēngshān
- Say it: dēngshān, once more
- Say it: zhōumò wǒmen zuò huǒchē qù dēngshān — At the weekend we're taking the train to go climbing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to keep as a souvenir, then the Mandarin for an account of a journey, then say dēngshān again

Before you move on

What does dēngshān mean? ("To climb a mountain".) Say it once more.

435.2 shāndǐng — top of a mountain; summit

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an account of a journey, then the Mandarin for to climb a mountain.

You'll want to know: shāndǐng

shāndǐng — "top of a mountain; summit".

cóng zhèr wǎng qián zǒu shí fēnzhōng jiù dào shāndǐng le — Walk on for ten minutes from here and you'll be at the top.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shāndǐng is built from 山 'a mountain' and dǐng 'the top', both inherited from Middle Chinese, srean and tengX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as the crown of the head.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shāndǐng
- Say it: shāndǐng, once more
- Say it: cóng zhèr wǎng qián zǒu shí fēnzhōng jiù dào shāndǐng le — Walk on for ten minutes from here and you'll be at the top.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an account of a journey, then the Mandarin for to climb a mountain, then say shāndǐng again

Before you move on

What does shāndǐng mean? ("Top of a mountain; summit".) Say it once more.

435.3 日出 (rìchū) — sunrise

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to climb a mountain, then the Mandarin for the summit.

You'll want to know: 日出

日出 — rìchū — "sunrise".

我们早上五点起来看日出 wǒmen zǎoshang wǔ diǎn qǐlai kàn rìchū — We're getting up at five in the morning to watch the sunrise.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 日出 (rìchū) is built from 日 'the sun' and 出 'to come out', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyit and tsyhwit (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: rìchū
- Say it: rìchū, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zǎoshang wǔ diǎn qǐlai kàn rìchū — We're getting up at five in the morning to watch the sunrise.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to climb a mountain, then the Mandarin for the summit, then say rìchū again

Before you move on

What does 日出 mean? ("Sunrise".) Say it once more.

435.4 zhuàngguān — magnificent; spectacular

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the summit, then the Mandarin for the sunrise.

You'll want to know: zhuàngguān

zhuàngguān — "magnificent; spectacular".

shāndǐng de rìchū hěn zhuàngguān — The sunrise from the summit is spectacular.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhuàngguān is built from zhuàng 'grand' and guān 'a sight', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsrjangH and kwan (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'big' and the second 'to view'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: zhuàngguān
- Say it: zhuàngguān, once more
- Say it: shāndǐng de rìchū hěn zhuàngguān — The sunrise from the summit is spectacular.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the summit, then the Mandarin for the sunrise, then say zhuàngguān again

Before you move on

What does zhuàngguān mean? ("Magnificent; spectacular".) Say it once more.

435.5 下山 (xiàshān) — to come down a mountain

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the sunrise, then the Mandarin for spectacular.

You'll want to know: 下山

下山 — xiàshān — "to come down a mountain".

> 下山以后我们坐车回酒店 xiàshān yǐhòu wǒmen zuò chē huí jiǔdiàn — After coming down the mountain, we take the bus back to the hotel.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 下山 (xiàshān) is built from 下 'to go down' and 山 'a mountain', both inherited from Middle Chinese, haeX and srean (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'low' and 'to come down'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: xiàshān
- Say it: xiàshān, once more
- Say it: xiàshān yǐhòu wǒmen zuò chē huí jiǔdiàn — After coming down the mountain, we take the bus back to the hotel.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the sunrise, then the Mandarin for spectacular, then say xiàshān again

Before you move on

What does 下山 mean? ("To come down a mountain".) Say it once more.

435.6 Looking back: from Seeing the Sights to At the Top

Say the Mandarin for to go sightseeing and a historic site.

Your turn

- Say it: to go sightseeing, a historic site, a scenic area, to take a selfie, the peak season
- Say it: to give a running commentary, a spring outing, a pleasure boat, many, to pose for a group photo
- Say it: few, the off season, a public holiday, a full-price ticket, to be shut to the public
- Say it: to receive visitors, beyond the sea, a sea of people, a Chinese person settled abroad, to go out to sea
- Say it: a tour group, to meet up as a group, to do some shopping, to keep as a souvenir, an account of a journey

- Say it: to climb a mountain, the summit, the sunrise, spectacular, to come down a mountain
- Read it: 游 海 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

To go sightseeing? (guānguāng.) A historic site? (gǔjì.) A scenic area? (jǐngqū.) To take a selfie? (zìpāi.) The peak season? (wàngjì.) To give a running commentary? (解说, jiěshuō.) A spring outing? (春游, chūnyóu.) A pleasure boat? (游船, yóuchuán.) Many? (多, duō.) To pose for a group photo? (héyǐng.) Few? (少, shǎo.) The off season? (dànjì.) A public holiday? (节假日, jiéjiàrì.) A full-price ticket? (全票, quánpiào.) To be shut to the public? (guānbì.) To receive visitors? (jiēdài.) Beyond the sea? (海外, hǎiwài.) A sea of people? (人山人海, rénshānrénhǎi.) A Chinese person settled abroad? (huáqiáo.) To go out to sea? (出海, chūhǎi.) A tour group? (lǚyóutuán.) To meet up as a group? (jíhé.) To do some shopping? (gòuwù.) To keep as a souvenir? (liúniàn.) An account of a journey? (游记, yóujì.) To climb a mountain? (dēngshān.) The summit? (shāndǐng.) The sunrise? (日出, rìchū.) Spectacular? (zhuàngguān.) To come down a mountain? (下山, xiàshān.)

Chapter 436

North and South

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the lie of the land, the south and the north, a dialect and an accent.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 436: I can talk about the lie of the land, the south and the north, a dialect and an accent.

436.1 dìxíng — terrain; lie of the land

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for spectacular, then the Mandarin for to come down a mountain.

You'll want to know: dìxíng

dìxíng — "terrain; lie of the land".

> zhège dìqū de dìxíng hěn tèbié — The land in this region has an unusual shape.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dìxíng is built from 地 'the earth' and xíng 'a shape', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dijH and heng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as the look of a thing.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: dìxíng
- Say it: dìxíng, once more
- Say it: zhège dìqū de dìxíng hěn tèbié — The land in this region has an unusual shape.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for spectacular, then the Mandarin for to come down a mountain, then say dìxíng again

Before you move on

What does dìxíng mean? ("Terrain; lie of the land".) Say it once more.

436.2 南方 (nánfāng) — the south of the country; southern China

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to come down a mountain, then the Mandarin for the lie of the land.

You'll want to know: 南方

南方 — nánfāng — "the south of the country; southern China".

dōngtiān wǒmen zuò huǒchē qù nánfāng — In winter we take the train down south.

The new character, in pieces: 方 — four strokes: a dot, a long bar, a stroke that turns down and hooks, and a long stroke falling to the left. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 南方 (nánfāng) is built from 南 'south' and 方 'a quarter', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nom and pjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as the four quarters of the world.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: nánfāng
- Say it: nánfāng, once more
- Say it: dōngtiān wǒmen zuò huǒchē qù nánfāng — In winter we take the train down south.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to come down a mountain, then the Mandarin for the lie of the land, then say nánfāng again

Before you move on

What does 南方 mean? ("The south of the country; southern China".) Say it once more.

436.3 方 — a dot over a bar, a hook and a long stroke

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say nánfāng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

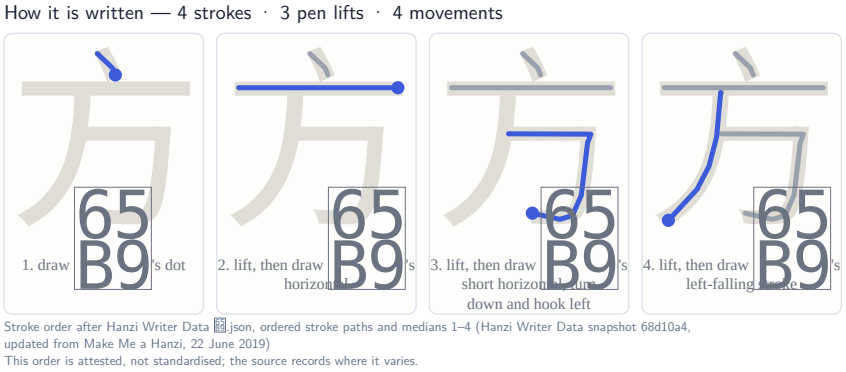
  南 方

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — nán, wàn

Script — a dot over a bar, a hook and a long stroke



How 方 is written, stroke by stroke

方

One piece, four strokes. Count the strokes this time: there is only one piece.

A dot on top, in the middle.

A long bar under it.

From under the bar, a stroke that runs a little to the right, turns down and hooks to the left at the foot. Then a long stroke falling to the left, also from under the bar. These last two are made as in 万.

1 + 1 + 2 = four.

Your turn

- Write it: 方, all four, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 方? (Four.) What comes first? (A dot.) Which stroke hooks? (The third: it runs right, turns down and hooks.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 方, pinned stroke paths and medians.

436.4 北方 (běifāng) — the north of the country; northern China

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the lie of the land, then the Mandarin for the south of the country.

You'll want to know: 北方

北方 — běifāng — "the north of the country; northern China".

wǒ zhù zài běifāng dōngtiān hěn lěng — I live in the north, where the winters are cold.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 北方 (běifāng) is built from 北 'north' and 方 'a quarter', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pok and pjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: běifāng
- Say it: běifāng, once more
- Say it: wǒ zhù zài běifāng dōngtiān hěn lěng — I live in the north, where the winters are cold.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the lie of the land, then the Mandarin for the south of the country, then say běifāng again

Before you move on

What does 北方 mean? ("The north of the country; northern China".) Say it once more.

436.5 fāngyán — dialect

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the south of the country, then the Mandarin for the north of the country.

You'll want to know: fāngyán

fāngyán — "dialect".

zhèr de rén shuō fāngyán wǒ tīng bu dǒng — People here speak a dialect I can't understand.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fāngyán is built from 方 'a region' and yán 'speech', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjang and ngjon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'speech'. The Guangyun itself quotes an old book called the Fangyan, a record of the speech of the regions.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: fāngyán
- Say it: fāngyán, once more
- Say it: zhèr de rén shuō fāngyán wǒ tīng bu dǒng — People here speak a dialect I can't understand.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the south of the country, then the Mandarin for the north of the country, then say fāngyán again

Before you move on

What does fāngyán mean? ("Dialect".) Say it once more.

436.6 口音 (kǒuyīn) — accent

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the north of the country, then the Mandarin for a regional dialect.

You'll want to know: 口音

口音 — kǒuyīn — "accent".

他说话有南方口音 tā shuōhuà yǒu nánfāng kǒuyīn — He speaks with a southern accent.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 口音 (kǒuyīn) is built from 口 'the mouth' and 音 'a sound', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khuwX and 'im (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a sound'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: kǒuyīn
- Say it: kǒuyīn, once more
- Say it: tā shuōhuà yǒu nánfāng kǒuyīn — He speaks with a southern accent.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the north of the country, then the Mandarin for a regional dialect, then say kǒuyīn again

Before you move on

What does 口音 mean? ("Accent".) Say it once more.

Chapter 437

Mountains and Plains

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a mountain area, a plain, a desert, a plateau and moving abroad.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 437: I can talk about a mountain area, a plain, a desert, a plateau and moving abroad.

437.1 山区 (shānqū) — mountain area

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a regional dialect, then the Mandarin for a regional accent.

You'll want to know: 山区

山区 — shānqū — "mountain area".

> wǒ nǎinai zhù zài shānqū — My grandmother lives up in the mountains.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 山区 (shānqū) is built from 山 'a mountain' and 区 'an area', both inherited from Middle Chinese, srean and khju (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the dictionary gives the second as the name of a marsh, and the sense 'an area' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shānqū
- Say it: shānqū, once more
- Say it: wǒ nǎinai zhù zài shānqū — My grandmother lives up in the mountains.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a regional dialect, then the Mandarin for a regional accent, then say shānqū again

Before you move on

What does 山区 mean? ("Mountain area".) Say it once more.

437.2 píngyuán — plain; flat open land

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a regional accent, then the Mandarin for a mountain area.

You'll want to know: píngyuán

píngyuán — "plain; flat open land".

běifāng de píngyuán hěn dà — The plains in the north are huge.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

píngyuán is built from píng 'level' and yuán 'broad flat land', both inherited from Middle Chinese, bjaeng and ngjwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'right' and 'at peace' and the second, after an older dictionary, as broad flat land; the sense 'level' for the first is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: píngyuán
- Say it: píngyuán, once more
- Say it: běifāng de píngyuán hěn dà — The plains in the north are huge.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a regional accent, then the Mandarin for a mountain area, then say píngyuán again

Before you move on

What does píngyuán mean? ("Plain; flat open land".) Say it once more.

437.3 shāmò — desert

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a mountain area, then the Mandarin for flat open land.

You'll want to know: shāmò

shāmò — "desert".

míngtiān wǒmen zuò chē qù shāmò — Tomorrow we're driving out to the desert.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

shāmò is built from shā 'sand' and mò 'a waste', both inherited from Middle Chinese, srae and mak (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as stones scattered by water and gives the pair itself under the second.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shāmò
- Say it: shāmò, once more
- Say it: míngtiān wǒmen zuò chē qù shāmò — Tomorrow we're driving out to the desert.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a mountain area, then the Mandarin for flat open land, then say shāmò again

Before you move on

What does shāmò mean? ("Desert".) Say it once more.

437.4 gāoyuán — plateau; highland

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for flat open land, then the Mandarin for a desert.

You'll want to know: gāoyuán

gāoyuán — "plateau; highland".

xīnán yǒu hěn duō gāoyuán — There are a lot of high plateaus in the southwest.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gāoyuán is built from 高 'high' and yuán 'broad flat land', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaw and ngjwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'high' and 'lofty'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: gāoyuán
- Say it: gāoyuán, once more
- Say it: xīnán yǒu hěn duō gāoyuán — There are a lot of high plateaus in the southwest.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for flat open land, then the Mandarin for a desert, then say gāoyuán again

Before you move on

What does gāoyuán mean? ("Plateau; highland".) Say it once more.

437.5 yímín — to emigrate; to settle abroad

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a desert, then the Mandarin for a high plateau.

You'll want to know: yímín

yímín — "to emigrate; to settle abroad".

tāmen quánjiā yímín qù le guówài — Their whole family emigrated abroad.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yímín is built from yí 'to move' and mín 'the people', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ye and mjin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to shift' and the second 'the common people'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: yímín
- Say it: yímín, once more
- Say it: tāmen quánjiā yímín qù le guówài — Their whole family emigrated abroad.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a desert, then the Mandarin for a high plateau, then say yímín again

Before you move on

What does yímín mean? ("To emigrate; to settle abroad".) Say it once more.

Chapter 438

The North

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about developing an area, the northern and western parts, a part of the visitors and all of the luggage.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 438: I can talk about developing an area, the northern and western parts, a part of the visitors and all of the luggage.

438.1 开发 (kāifā) — to open up land for use

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a high plateau, then the Mandarin for to emigrate.

You'll want to know: 开发

开发 — kāifā — "to open up land for use".

> 这个山区还没有开发 zhège shānqū hái méiyǒu kāifā — This mountain area hasn't been developed yet.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 开发 (kāifā) is built from 开 'to open' and 发 'to set going', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khoj and pjot (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to start' and 'to raise'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: kāifā
- Say it: kāifā, once more
- Say it: zhège shānqū hái méiyǒu kāifā — This mountain area hasn't been developed yet.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a high plateau, then the Mandarin for to emigrate, then say kāifā again

Before you move on

What does 开发 mean? ("To open up land for use".) Say it once more.

438.2 北部 (běibù) — northern part

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to emigrate, then the Mandarin for to open up land for use.

You'll want to know: 北部

北部 — běibù — "northern part".

我们坐火车去中国北部 wǒmen zuò huǒchē qù Zhōngguó běibù — We're taking the train up to the north of China.

The new character, in pieces: 部 — ten strokes in two pieces: on the left five strokes, a dot, a bar, two short strokes and a long bar, over 口 kǒu; on the right the right piece of 那, two strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 北部 (běibù) is built from 北 'north' and 部 'a part', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pok and buX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as a body of troops; the sense 'a part of a whole' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: běibù
- Say it: běibù, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zuò huǒchē qù Zhōngguó běibù — We're taking the train up to the north of China.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to emigrate, then the Mandarin for to open up land for use, then say běibù again

Before you move on

What does 北部 mean? ("Northern part".) Say it once more.

438.3 部 — five strokes over 口, then the right piece of 那

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say běibù — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  那 口

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — nà, kǒu

Script — five strokes over 口, then the right piece of 那

How 部 is written, stroke by stroke

部

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, eight strokes, in two parts. On top, five strokes: a dot, a bar, then a short dot on the left and a short stroke falling to the left on the right, and a long bar under them. Under them, 口 kǒu, three strokes.

The right piece, two strokes, as on the right of 那: a stroke that runs right, bends back and curls down to a hook, then a long vertical.

5 + 3 + 2 = ten.

Your turn

- Write it: 部, all ten, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 部? (Ten.) What sits under the five strokes on top? (口.) Where has your hand made the right piece before? (On the right of 那.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 部, pinned stroke paths and medians.

438.4 西部 (xībù) — western part; the western regions

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to open up land for use, then the Mandarin for the northern part.

You'll want to know: 西部

西部 — xībù — "western part; the western regions".

中国西部的山很高 Zhōngguó xībù de shān hěn gāo — The mountains in western China are very high.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 西部 (xībù) is built from 西 'west' and 部 'a part', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sej and buX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: xībù
- Say it: xībù, once more
- Say it: Zhōngguó xībù de shān hěn gāo — The mountains in western China are very high.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to open up land for use, then the Mandarin for the northern part, then say xībù again

Before you move on

What does 西部 mean? ("Western part; the western regions".) Say it once more.

438.5 bùfen — part; section (of a whole)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the northern part, then the Mandarin for the western part.

You'll want to know: bùfen

bùfen — "part; section (of a whole)".

> dà bùfen yóukè zhù zài běibù — Most of the visitors are staying in the north.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

bùfen is built from 部 'a section' and fèn 'a share', both inherited from Middle Chinese, buX and bjunH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as a portion that is measured out; in this word it is said light.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: bùfen
- Say it: bùfen, once more
- Say it: dà bùfen yóukè zhù zài běibù — Most of the visitors are staying in the north.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the northern part, then the Mandarin for the western part, then say bùfen again

Before you move on

What does bùfen mean? ("Part; section (of a whole)".) Say it once more.

438.6 全部 (quánbù) — all of it; the whole

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the western part, then the Mandarin for a part of a whole.

You'll want to know: 全部

全部 — quánbù — "all of it; the whole".

> wǒmen de xíngli quánbù fàng zài chē lǐ — All our luggage is in the car.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 全部 (quánbù) is built from 全 'whole' and 部 'a part', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzjwen and buX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'complete'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: quánbù
- Say it: quánbù, once more
- Say it: wǒmen de xíngli quánbù fàng zài chē lǐ — All our luggage is in the car.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the western part, then the Mandarin for a part of a whole, then say quánbù again

Before you move on

What does 全部 mean? ("All of it; the whole".) Say it once more.

Chapter 439

Country Life

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about rice paddies, an orchard, a farm stay, ducks and getting away to unwind.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 439: I can talk about rice paddies, an orchard, a farm stay, ducks and getting away to unwind.

439.1 dàotián — rice paddy; paddy field

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a part of a whole, then the Mandarin for all of it.

You'll want to know: dàotián

dàotián — "rice paddy; paddy field".

> wǒ yéye nǎinai zhù zài dàotián pángbiān — My grandparents live next to the rice paddies.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dàotián is built from dào 'rice in the field' and tián 'a field', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dawX and den (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as rice and the second, after an older book, as land that has been ploughed.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: dàotián
- Say it: dàotián, once more
- Say it: wǒ yéye nǎinai zhù zài dàotián pángbiān — My grandparents live next to the rice paddies.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a part of a whole, then the Mandarin for all of it, then say dàotián again

Before you move on

What does dàotián mean? ("Rice paddy; paddy field".) Say it once more.

439.2 guǒyuán — orchard

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for all of it, then the Mandarin for a rice paddy.

You'll want to know: guǒyuán

guǒyuán — "orchard".

zhōumò wǒmen kāichē qù guǒyuán — At the weekend we're driving out to the orchard.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of guǒyuán is built from 果 'fruit' and yuán 'a garden', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwaX and hjwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as the fruit of a tree and the second as a garden.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: guǒyuán
- Say it: guǒyuán, once more
- Say it: zhōumò wǒmen kāichē qù guǒyuán — At the weekend we're driving out to the orchard.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for all of it, then the Mandarin for a rice paddy, then say guǒyuán again

Before you move on

What does guǒyuán mean? ("Orchard".) Say it once more.

439.3 nóngjiālè — farm stay; country guesthouse

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a rice paddy, then the Mandarin for an orchard.

You'll want to know: nóngjiālè

nóngjiālè — "farm stay; country guesthouse".

wǒmen zhù zài yì jiā nóngjiālè — We're staying at a farm guesthouse.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of nóngjiālè is built from nóng 'farming', 家 'a family' and 乐 'joy', all inherited from Middle Chinese, nowng, kae and lak (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as working the fields. The name for a farm that takes guests is modern.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: nóngjiālè
- Say it: nóngjiālè, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zhù zài yì jiā nóngjiālè — We're staying at a farm guesthouse.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a rice paddy, then the Mandarin for an orchard, then say nóngjiālè again

Before you move on

What does nóngjiālè mean? ("Farm stay; country guesthouse".) Say it once more.

439.4 yāzi — duck

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an orchard, then the Mandarin for a farm stay.

You'll want to know: yāzi

yāzi — "duck".

nǎinai jiā yǒu shí zhī yāzi — Grandma keeps ten ducks.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yāzi is built from yā 'a duck' and the noun ending zi. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese 'aep (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed as a water bird.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: yāzi
- Say it: yāzi, once more
- Say it: nǎinai jiā yǒu shí zhī yāzi — Grandma keeps ten ducks.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an orchard, then the Mandarin for a farm stay, then say yāzi again

Before you move on

What does yāzi mean? (“Duck”.) Say it once more.

439.5 sànxīn — to take one’s mind off things; to unwind

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a farm stay, then the Mandarin for a duck.

You’ll want to know: sànxīn

sànxīn — “to take one’s mind off things; to unwind”.

lèi de shíhou wǒ xǐhuan qù nóngcūn sànxīn — When I’m tired, I like to go to the countryside to unwind.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of sànxīn is built from sàn ’to scatter’ and 心 ’the heart’, both inherited from Middle Chinese, sanH and sim (Guangyun, in Baxter’s transcription), which glosses the first ’to break apart’ and ’to spread’: cares scattered from the heart.

What you’ve built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: sànxīn
- Say it: sànxīn, once more
- Say it: lèi de shíhou wǒ xǐhuan qù nóngcūn sànxīn — When I'm tired, I like to go to the countryside to unwind.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a farm stay, then the Mandarin for a duck, then say sànxīn again

Before you move on

What does sànxīn mean? ("To take one's mind off things; to unwind".) Say it once more.

Chapter 440

A Mountain Village

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about market day, a mountain village, its head and its villagers, and staying with a family.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 440: I can talk about market day, a mountain village, its head and its villagers, and staying with a family.

440.1 gǎnjí — to go to market day; to go to a country market

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a duck, then the Mandarin for to take one's mind off things.

You'll want to know: gǎnjí

gǎnjí — "to go to market day; to go to a country market".

> nǎinai měi ge xīngqī qù gǎnjí — Grandma goes to market day every week.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gǎnjí is built from gǎn 'to hurry to' and jí 'a gathering'. The second is inherited from Middle Chinese dzip (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to gather'; no dictionary we use records an older form of gǎn in this sense, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: gǎnjí
- Say it: gǎnjí, once more
- Say it: nǎinai měi ge xīngqī qù gǎnjí — Grandma goes to market day every week.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a duck, then the Mandarin for to take one's mind off things, then say gǎnjí again

Before you move on

What does gǎnjí mean? ("To go to market day; to go to a country market".) Say it once more.

440.2 山村 (shāncūn) — mountain village

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to take one's mind off things, then the Mandarin for to go to market day.

You'll want to know: 山村

山村 — shāncūn — "mountain village".

tā zhù zài yí ge xiǎo shāncūn — He lives in a little mountain village.

The new character, in pieces: 村 — seven strokes in two pieces: on the left the tree piece of 机, four strokes; on the right the right piece of 对, three strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 山村 (shāncūn) is built from 山 'a mountain' and 村 'a village', both inherited from Middle Chinese, srean and tshwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as a farmstead.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shāncūn
- Say it: shāncūn, once more
- Say it: tā zhù zài yí ge xiǎo shāncūn — He lives in a little mountain village.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to take one's mind off things, then the Mandarin for to go to market day, then say shāncūn again

Before you move on

What does 山村 mean? ("Mountain village".) Say it once more.

440.3 村 — the tree piece, then the right piece of 对

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say shāncūn — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  机 对

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — jī, duì

Script — the tree piece, then the right piece of 对

How 村 is written, stroke by stroke

村

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the tree piece, four strokes, as on the left of 机: a bar, a vertical, a stroke falling to the left, and a short dot to the right.

The right piece, three strokes, as on the right of 对: a bar, a vertical with a hook at the foot, and a dot to the left of it.

4 + 3 = seven.

Your turn

- Write it: 村, all seven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 村? (Seven.) What is the left piece? (The tree piece, as in 机.) Where does the last dot go? (To the left of the hooked vertical.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 村, pinned stroke paths and medians.

440.4 村长 (cūnzhǎng) — village head

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to go to market day, then the Mandarin for a mountain village.

You'll want to know: 村长

村长 — cūnzhǎng — "village head".

cūnzhǎng dài wǒmen qù tā jiā — The village head takes us to his house.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 村长 (cūnzhǎng) is built from 村 'a village' and 长 'the head', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tshwon and trjangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'big'; in this sense 长 is said zhǎng, not cháng.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: cūnzhǎng
- Say it: cūnzhǎng, once more
- Say it: cūnzhǎng dài wǒmen qù tā jiā — The village head takes us to his house.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to go to market day, then the Mandarin for a mountain village, then say cūnzhǎng again

Before you move on

What does 村长 mean? ("Village head".) Say it once more.

440.5 cūnmín — villager

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a mountain village, then the Mandarin for the village head.

You'll want to know: cūnmín

cūnmín — "villager".

> zhèr de cūnmín dōu hěn rèqíng — The villagers here are all very friendly.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of cūnmín is built from 村 'a village' and mín 'the people', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tshwon and mjin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: cūnmín
- Say it: cūnmín, once more
- Say it: zhèr de cūnmín dōu hěn rèqíng — The villagers here are all very friendly.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a mountain village, then the Mandarin for the village head, then say cūnmín again

Before you move on

What does cūnmín mean? ("Villager".) Say it once more.

440.6 jièsù — to lodge with a local family; to stay the night at someone's home

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the village head, then the Mandarin for a villager.

You'll want to know: jièsù

jièsù — "to lodge with a local family; to stay the night at someone's home".

> zhǎo bu dào jiǔdiàn de shíhou wǒmen zài cūnmín jiā jièsù — When we can't find a hotel, we stay the night with a village family.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

jièsù is built from jiè 'to borrow' and sù 'to stay the night', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsjaeH and sjuwk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to borrow' and the second 'a lodging'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jièsù
- Say it: jièsù, once more
- Say it: zhǎo bu dào jiǔdiàn de shíhou wǒmen zài cūnmín jiā jièsù — When we can't find a hotel, we stay the night with a village family.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the village head, then the Mandarin for a villager, then say jièsù again

Before you move on

What does jièsù mean? ("To lodge with a local family; to stay the night at someone's home".) Say it once more.

Chapter 441

Out in the Open

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the outskirts, the open country, a tent, lighting a fire and a lake made by nature.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 441: I can talk about the outskirts, the open country, a tent, lighting a fire and a lake made by nature.

441.1 jiāoqū — suburbs; outskirts

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a villager, then the Mandarin for to lodge with a local family.

You'll want to know: jiāoqū

jiāoqū — "suburbs; outskirts".

> wǒmen zhù zài jiāoqū zuò dìtiě qù shìzhōngxīn — We live in the suburbs and take the underground into the centre.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiāoqū is built from jiāo 'the land beyond the walls' and ⊠ 'an area', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaew and khju (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as the land outside a walled town.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jiāoqū
- Say it: jiāoqū, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zhù zài jiāoqū zuò dìtiě qù shìzhōngxīn — We live in the suburbs and take the underground into the centre.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a villager, then the Mandarin for to lodge with a local family, then say jiāoqū again

Before you move on

What does jiāoqū mean? ("Suburbs; outskirts".) Say it once more.

441.2 yěwài — the open country; the wild

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to lodge with a local family, then the Mandarin for the outskirts of a city.

You'll want to know: yěwài

yěwài — "the open country; the wild".

zhōumò wǒmen zuò chē qù yěwài — At the weekend we're driving out into the open country.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

yěwài is built from yě 'open fields' and 外 'outside', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yaeX and ngwajH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, after an older dictionary, as the land beyond the town.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: yěwài
- Say it: yěwài, once more
- Say it: zhōumò wǒmen zuò chē qù yěwài — At the weekend we're driving out into the open country.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to lodge with a local family, then the Mandarin for the outskirts of a city, then say yěwài again

Before you move on

What does yěwài mean? ("The open country; the wild".) Say it once more.

441.3 zhàngpeng — tent

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the outskirts of a city, then the Mandarin for out in the wild.

You'll want to know: zhàngpeng

zhàngpeng — "tent".

> wǎnshang wǒmen zài zhàngpeng lǐ shuìjiào — At night we sleep in the tent.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhàngpeng is built from zhàng 'a curtain' and péng 'an awning', both inherited from Middle Chinese, trjangH and buwng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as a woven cover over a boat; in this word it is said light.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: zhàngpeng
- Say it: zhàngpeng, once more
- Say it: wǎnshang wǒmen zài zhàngpeng lǐ shuìjiào — At night we sleep in the tent.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the outskirts of a city, then the Mandarin for out in the wild, then say zhàngpeng again

Before you move on

What does zhàngpeng mean? ("Tent".) Say it once more.

441.4 生火 (shēnghuǒ) — to light a fire

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for out in the wild, then the Mandarin for a tent.

You'll want to know: 生火

生火 — shēnghuǒ — "to light a fire".

天冷了我们在村子外边生火 tiān lěng le wǒmen zài cūnzi wàibian shēnghuǒ — It's got cold, so we're lighting a fire outside the village.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 生火 (shēnghuǒ) is built from 生 'to bring to life' and 火 'fire', both inherited from Middle Chinese, srjaeng and xwaX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to grow'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shēnghuǒ
- Say it: shēnghuǒ, once more
- Say it: tiān lěng le wǒmen zài cūnzi wàibian shēnghuǒ — It's got cold, so we're lighting a fire outside the village.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for out in the wild, then the Mandarin for a tent, then say shēnghuǒ again

Before you move on

What does 生火 mean? ("To light a fire".) Say it once more.

441.5 天然 (tiānrán) — natural; made by nature

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a tent, then the Mandarin for to light a fire.

You'll want to know: 天然

天然 — tiānrán — "natural; made by nature".

zhè shì yí ge tiānrán de hú — This is a natural lake.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 天然 (tiānrán) is built from 天 'heaven' and 然 'so', both inherited from Middle Chinese, then and nyen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as a particle and 'thus': so by heaven, not by people. How the pair came to mean 'natural' is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: tiānrán
- Say it: tiānrán, once more

- Say it: zhè shì yí ge tiānrán de hú — This is a natural lake.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a tent, then the Mandarin for to light a fire, then say tiānrán again

Before you move on

What does 天然 mean? ("Natural; made by nature".) Say it once more.

441.6 Looking back: from North and South to Out in the Open

Say the Mandarin for the lie of the land and the south of the country.

Your turn

- Say it: the lie of the land, the south of the country, the north of the country, a regional dialect, a regional accent
- Say it: a mountain area, flat open land, a desert, a high plateau, to emigrate
- Say it: to open up land for use, the northern part, the western part, a part of a whole, all of it
- Say it: a rice paddy, an orchard, a farm stay, a duck, to take one's mind off things
- Say it: to go to market day, a mountain village, the village head, a villager, to lodge with a local family
- Say it: the outskirts of a city, out in the wild, a tent, to light a fire, made by nature
- Read it: 方 部 村 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

The lie of the land? (dìxíng.) The south of the country? (南方, nánfāng.) The north of the country? (北方, běifāng.) A regional dialect? (fāngyán.) A regional accent? (口音, kǒuyīn.) A mountain area? (山区, shānqū.) Flat open land? (píngyuán.) A desert? (shāmò.) A high plateau? (gāoyuán.) To emigrate? (yímín.) To open up land for use? (开发, kāifā.) The northern part? (北部, běibù.) The western part? (西部, xībù.) A part of a whole? (bùfen.) All of it? (全部, quánbù.) A rice paddy? (dàotián.) An orchard? (guǒyuán.) A farm stay? (nóngjiālè.) A duck? (yāzi.) To take one's mind off things? (sànxīn.) To go to market day? (gǎnjí.) A mountain village? (山村, shāncūn.) The village head? (村长, cūnzhǎng.) A villager? (cūnmín.) To lodge with a local family? (jièsù.) The outskirts of a city? (jiāoqū.) Out in the wild? (yěwài.) A tent? (zhàngpeng.) To light a fire? (生火, shēnghuǒ.) Made by nature? (天然, tiānrán.)

Chapter 442

The River

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the far bank, a river, its upper reaches, a river in flood and a great river.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 442: I can talk about the far bank, a river, its upper reaches, a river in flood and a great river.

442.1 duì'àn — the far bank; the opposite bank

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to light a fire, then the Mandarin for made by nature.

You'll want to know: duì'àn

duì'àn — "the far bank; the opposite bank".

> wǒmen zuò chuán qù duì'àn — We're taking a boat across to the other side.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of duì'àn is built from 对 'facing' and àn 'a bank', both inherited from Middle Chinese, twojH and nganH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as the high edge of the water.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: duì'àn
- Say it: duì'àn, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zuò chuán qù duì'àn — We're taking a boat across to the other side.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to light a fire, then the Mandarin for made by nature, then say duì'àn again

Before you move on

What does duì'àn mean? ("The far bank; the opposite bank".) Say it once more.

442.2 河 (hé) — river

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for made by nature, then the Mandarin for the far bank.

You'll want to know: 河

河 — hé — "river".

cūnzi qiánbian yǒu yì tiáo hé — There's a river in front of the village.

The new character, in pieces: 河 — eight strokes in two pieces: on the left the water piece of 洗, three strokes; on the right 可 kě, five strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 河 (hé) is inherited from Middle Chinese ha (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), where it is the name of one river, the one said to rise in the far west and run to the sea; the sense 'any river' is usually explained as a widening of that name.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: hé
- Say it: hé, once more
- Say it: cūnzi qiánbian yǒu yì tiáo hé — There's a river in front of the village.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for made by nature, then the Mandarin for the far bank, then say hé again

Before you move on

What does 河 mean? ("River".) Say it once more.

442.3 河 — the water piece, then 可

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say hé — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

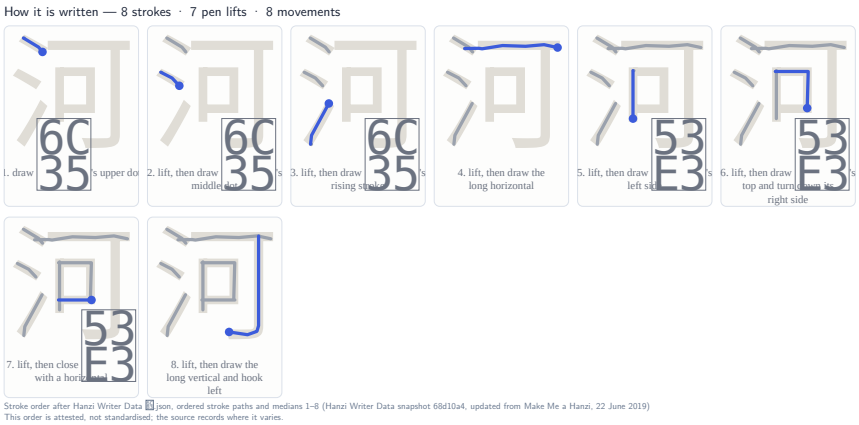
  洗 可

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — xǐ, kě

Script — the water piece, then 可



How 河 is written, stroke by stroke

河

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the water piece, three strokes, as in 洗: two dots, then a stroke that rises to the right.

The right piece, 可 kě, five strokes, as you wrote it: a long bar; under it 口, three strokes, set to the left; then a long vertical down the right side that hooks to the left at the foot.

3 + 5 = eight.

Your turn

- Write it: 河, all eight, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 河? (Eight.) What is the right piece? (可 kě.) What is the last stroke? (The long vertical with a hook.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 河, pinned stroke paths and medians.

442.4 上游 (shàngyóu) — upper reaches (of a river); upstream

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the far bank, then the Mandarin for a river.

You'll want to know: 上游

上游 — shàngyóu — "upper reaches (of a river); upstream".

我们坐船去河的上游 wǒmen zuò chuán qù hé de shàngyóu — We're taking a boat up the river.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 上游 (shàngyóu) is built from 上 'above' and 游 'to float', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyangH and yuw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); how the second came to name a stretch of a river is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shàngyóu
- Say it: shàngyóu, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zuò chuán qù hé de shàngyóu — We're taking a boat up the river.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the far bank, then the Mandarin for a river, then say shàngyóu again

Before you move on

What does 上游 mean? ("Upper reaches (of a river); upstream".) Say it once more.

442.5 zhǎngshuǐ — to rise after rain (of a river)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a river, then the Mandarin for upstream.

You'll want to know: zhǎngshuǐ

zhǎngshuǐ — "to rise after rain (of a river)".

zhè jǐ tiān xiàyǔ hé lǐ zhǎngshuǐ le — It has rained these last few days, and the river has risen.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: zhǎng is said with a rising tone before shuǐ, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhǎngshuǐ is built from zhǎng 'to swell' and 水 'water', both inherited from Middle Chinese, trjang and sywijX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as a great flood of water; today's falling-rising tone is irregular beside it.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: zhǎngshuǐ
- Say it: zhǎngshuǐ, once more
- Say it: zhè jǐ tiān xiàyǔ hé lǐ zhǎngshuǐ le — It has rained these last few days, and the river has risen.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a river, then the Mandarin for upstream, then say zhǎngshuǐ again

Before you move on

What does zhǎngshuǐ mean? ("To rise after rain (of a river)".) Say it once more.

442.6 jiāng — a great river; big river

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for upstream, then the Mandarin for to rise after rain.

You'll want to know: jiāng

jiāng — "a great river; big river".

zhè tiáo jiāng bǐ nà tiáo hé cháng — This great river is longer than that one.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiāng is inherited from Middle Chinese kaewng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it with the pair 'rivers and seas' and lists the great rivers of the south under it.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jiāng
- Say it: jiāng, once more
- Say it: zhè tiáo jiāng bǐ nà tiáo hé cháng — This great river is longer than that one.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for upstream, then the Mandarin for to rise after rain, then say jiāng again

Before you move on

What does jiāng mean? ("A great river; big river".) Say it once more.

Chapter 443

Keeping It Clean

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say the water is clear, protect a river, visit a nature reserve, escort someone and talk about fishing.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 443: I can say the water is clear, protect a river, visit a nature reserve, escort someone and talk about fishing.

443.1 qīngchè — crystal-clear (of water)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to rise after rain, then the Mandarin for a great river.

You'll want to know: qīngchè

qīngchè — "crystal-clear (of water)".

> zhè tiáo hé de shuǐ hěn qīngchè — The water in this river is crystal clear.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qīngchè is built from qīng 'clear' and chè 'clear water', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tshjeng and drjet (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as water that has settled clear.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: qīngchè
- Say it: qīngchè, once more
- Say it: zhè tiáo hé de shuǐ hěn qīngchè — The water in this river is crystal clear.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to rise after rain, then the Mandarin for a great river, then say qīngchè again

Before you move on

What does qīngchè mean? ("Crystal-clear (of water)".) Say it once more.

443.2 保护 (bǎohù) — to protect; to keep from harm

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a great river, then the Mandarin for crystal-clear.

You'll want to know: 保护

保护 — bǎohù — "to protect; to keep from harm".

我们应该保护河水 wǒmen yīnggāi bǎohù héshuǐ — We should keep the river water clean.

The new character, in pieces: 护 — seven strokes in two pieces: on the left the hand piece of 扌, three strokes; on the right a dot over a frame and a long stroke falling to the left, four strokes, as on top of 房. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 保护 (bǎohù) is built from 保 'to keep' and 护 'to guard', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pawX and huH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to keep safe' and the second 'to rescue' and 'to help'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: bǎohù
- Say it: bǎohù, once more
- Say it: wǒmen yīnggāi bǎohù héshuǐ — We should keep the river water clean.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a great river, then the Mandarin for crystal-clear, then say bǎohù again

Before you move on

What does 保护 mean? ("To protect; to keep from harm".) Say it once more.

443.3 护 — the hand piece, then the top of 房

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say bǎohù — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

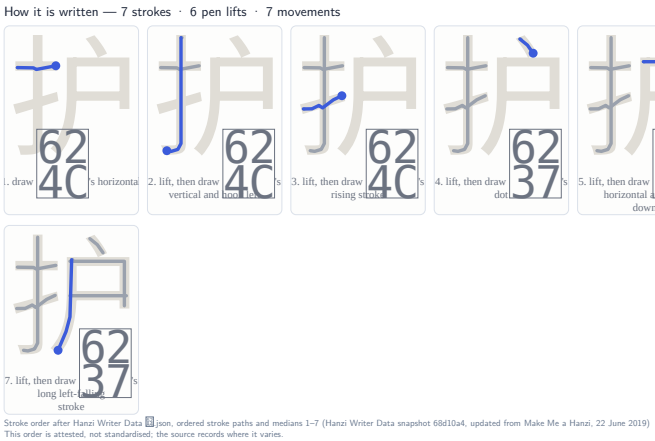
  打 房

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — dǎ, fáng

Script — the hand piece, then the top of 房



How 护 is written, stroke by stroke

护

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the hand piece, three strokes, as in 打: a bar, a vertical with a hook, and a stroke that rises to the right through the vertical.

The right piece, four strokes, as on top of 房: a dot; a stroke that runs right and turns down; a bar that closes the frame at the foot; then a long stroke falling to the left from the top corner of the frame.

3 + 4 = seven.

Your turn

- Write it: 护, all seven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 护? (Seven.) What is the left piece? (The hand piece, as in 打.) Where have you made the right piece before? (On top of 房.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 护, pinned stroke paths and medians.

443.4 保护区 (bǎohùqū) — nature reserve; protected area

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for crystal-clear, then the Mandarin for to keep from harm.

You'll want to know: 保护区

保护区 — bǎohùqū — "nature reserve; protected area".

> 我们坐车去山里的保护区 wǒmen zuò chē qù shān lǐ de bǎohùqū — We're driving to the nature reserve in the mountains.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 保护区 (bǎohùqū) is built from 保护 'to protect' and 区 'an area', all inherited from Middle Chinese, pawX, huH and khju (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: bǎohùqū
- Say it: bǎohùqū, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zuò chē qù shān lǐ de bǎohùqū — We're driving to the nature reserve in the mountains.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for crystal-clear, then the Mandarin for to keep from harm, then say bǎohùqū again

Before you move on

What does 保护区 mean? ("Nature reserve; protected area".) Say it once more.

443.5 护送 (hùsòng) — to escort

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to keep from harm, then the Mandarin for a nature reserve.

You'll want to know: 护送

护送 — hùsòng — "to escort".

tiān hēi le cūnzhǎng hùsòng wǒmen guò hé — It got dark, so the village head saw us safely across the river.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 护送 (hùsòng) is built from 护 'to guard' and 送 'to see someone off', both inherited from Middle Chinese, huH and suwngH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to send'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: hùsòng
- Say it: hùsòng, once more
- Say it: tiān hēi le cūnzhǎng hùsòng wǒmen guò hé — It got dark, so the village head saw us safely across the river.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to keep from harm, then the Mandarin for a nature reserve, then say hùsòng again

Before you move on

What does 护送 mean? ("To escort".) Say it once more.

443.6 bǔyú — to catch fish (for a living)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a nature reserve, then the Mandarin for to escort someone.

You'll want to know: bǔyú

bǔyú — "to catch fish (for a living)".

> cūnmín měitiān zuò chuán qù bǔyú — The villagers go out fishing by boat every day.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

bǔyú is built from bǔ 'to seize' and yú 'a fish', both inherited from Middle Chinese, buH and ngjo (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to seize'; the falling-rising bǔ is irregular beside it.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: bǔyú
- Say it: bǔyú, once more
- Say it: cūnmín měitiān zuò chuán qù bǔyú — The villagers go out fishing by boat every day.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a nature reserve, then the Mandarin for to escort someone, then say bǔyú again

Before you move on

What does bǔyú mean? ("To catch fish (for a living)".) Say it once more.

Chapter 444

An Island

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about diving, an island, a peninsula, a lighthouse and sunscreen.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 444: I can talk about diving, an island, a peninsula, a lighthouse and sunscreen.

444.1 qiánshuǐ — to go diving; to dive under water

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to escort someone, then the Mandarin for to catch fish.

You'll want to know: qiánshuǐ

qiánshuǐ — "to go diving; to dive under water".

> xiàtiān wǒmen qù hǎibiān qiánshuǐ — In summer we go diving at the seaside.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qiánshuǐ is built from qián 'to go under' and 水 'water', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzjem and sywijX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as water flowing hidden and 'to hide’.

What you’ve built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: qiánshuǐ
- Say it: qiánshuǐ, once more
- Say it: xiàtiān wǒmen qù hǎibiān qiánshuǐ — In summer we go diving at the seaside.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to escort someone, then the Mandarin for to catch fish, then say qiánshuǐ again

Before you move on

What does qiánshuǐ mean? (“To go diving; to dive under water”.) Say it once more.

444.2 岛 (dǎo) — island

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to catch fish, then the Mandarin for to dive under water.

You’ll want to know: 岛

岛 — dǎo — “island”.

我们坐船去那个岛 wǒmen zuò chuán qù nàge dǎo — We’re taking a boat to that island.

The new character, in pieces: 岛 — seven strokes in two pieces: on top a short stroke falling to the left, a small bar that turns down and hooks, a dot inside it, and a long stroke that runs down, turns right, turns down again and hooks; tucked under it 山 shān, three strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 岛 (dǎo) is inherited from Middle Chinese tawX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it, after an older dictionary, as the hills here and there in the sea where one can stop and rest.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: dǎo
- Say it: dǎo, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zuò chuán qù nàge dǎo — We're taking a boat to that island.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to catch fish, then the Mandarin for to dive under water, then say dǎo again

Before you move on

What does 岛 mean? ("Island".) Say it once more.

444.3 岛 — a top piece of four strokes, then 山

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say dǎo — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  山 海

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — shān, hǎi

Script — a top piece of four strokes, then 山

How 岛 is written, stroke by stroke

岛

Two pieces, top before bottom. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The top piece, four strokes. A short stroke falling to the left. A small bar that turns down and hooks. A dot inside it. Then a long stroke that runs down the left, turns right along the foot, turns down again and ends in a hook.

The bottom piece, 山 shān, three strokes, tucked into the corner: the middle vertical first, then the left one, which turns right along the foot, then the right one.

4 + 3 = seven.

Your turn

- Write it: 岛, all seven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 岛? (Seven.) Which written character sits at the bottom? (山.) Which stroke of 山 comes first? (The middle vertical.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 岛, pinned stroke paths and medians.

444.4 半岛 (bàndǎo) — peninsula

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to dive under water, then the Mandarin for an island.

You'll want to know: 半岛

半岛 — bàndǎo — "peninsula".

这个半岛有很多酒店 zhège bàndǎo yǒu hěn duō jiǔdiàn — There are lots of hotels on this peninsula.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 半岛 (bàndǎo) is built from 半 'half' and 岛 'an island', both inherited from Middle Chinese, panH and tawX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: bàndǎo
- Say it: bàndǎo, once more
- Say it: zhège bàndǎo yǒu hěn duō jiǔdiàn — There are lots of hotels on this peninsula.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to dive under water, then the Mandarin for an island, then say bàndǎo again

Before you move on

What does 半岛 mean? ("Peninsula".) Say it once more.

444.5 dēngtǎ — lighthouse

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an island, then the Mandarin for a peninsula.

You'll want to know: dēngtǎ

dēngtǎ — "lighthouse".

wǎnshang chuán wǎng dēngtǎ kāi — At night the boats steer for the lighthouse.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dēngtǎ is built from dēng 'a lamp' and tǎ 'a tower', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tong and thap (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as a lamp and the second as a pagoda.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: dēngtǎ
- Say it: dēngtǎ, once more
- Say it: wǎnshang chuán wǎng dēngtǎ kāi — At night the boats steer for the lighthouse.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an island, then the Mandarin for a peninsula, then say dēngtǎ again

Before you move on

What does dēngtǎ mean? (“Lighthouse”.) Say it once more.

444.6 fángshàishuāng — sunscreen

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a peninsula, then the Mandarin for a lighthouse.

You’ll want to know: fángshàishuāng

fángshàishuāng — “sunscreen”.

wǒ de fángshàishuāng bú jiàn le — My sunscreen has gone missing.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fángshàishuāng is built from fáng ’to guard against’, shài ’to put in the sun’ and shuāng ’frost’, all inherited from Middle Chinese, bjang, sreaH and srjang (Guangyun, in Baxter’s transcription); the sense ’a cream’ for the last is modern.

What you’ve built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: fángshàishuāng
- Say it: fángshàishuāng, once more
- Say it: wǒ de fángshàishuāng bú jiàn le — My sunscreen has gone missing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a peninsula, then the Mandarin for a lighthouse, then say fángshàishuāng again

Before you move on

What does fángshàishuāng mean? (“Sunscreen”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 445

By the Sea

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the waves, fishing boats, going ashore, shells and the tide going out.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 445: I can talk about the waves, fishing boats, going ashore, shells and the tide going out.

445.1 hǎilàng — sea wave; a wave of the sea

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a lighthouse, then the Mandarin for sunscreen.

You'll want to know: hǎilàng

hǎilàng — "sea wave; a wave of the sea".

> hǎilàng tài dà le chuán kāi bu dào nàge dǎo — The waves are too big: the boat can't get to the island.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of hǎilàng is built from 海 'the sea' and làng 'a wave', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xojX and langH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'waves'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: hǎilàng
- Say it: hǎilàng, once more
- Say it: hǎilàng tài dà le chuán kāi bu dào nàge dǎo — The waves are too big: the boat can't get to the island.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a lighthouse, then the Mandarin for sunscreen, then say hǎilàng again

Before you move on

What does hǎilàng mean? ("Sea wave; a wave of the sea".) Say it once more.

445.2 yúchuán — fishing boat

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for sunscreen, then the Mandarin for a wave of the sea.

You'll want to know: yúchuán

yúchuán — "fishing boat".

měitiān zǎoshang hěn duō yúchuán chūhǎi — Every morning lots of fishing boats go out to sea.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yúchuán is built from yú 'fishing' and 船 'a boat', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngjo and zywen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, after an older dictionary, as catching fish. It is the syllable of yú 'a fish', written with the water piece.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: yúchuán
- Say it: yúchuán, once more
- Say it: měitiān zǎoshang hěn duō yúchuán chūhǎi — Every morning lots of fishing boats go out to sea.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for sunscreen, then the Mandarin for a wave of the sea, then say yúchuán again

Before you move on

What does yúchuán mean? ("Fishing boat".) Say it once more.

445.3 shàng'àn — to go ashore

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a wave of the sea, then the Mandarin for a fishing boat.

You'll want to know: shàng'àn

shàng'àn — "to go ashore".

xiàwǔ sì diǎn wǒmen shàng'àn zuò chē huí jiǔdiàn — At four in the afternoon we go ashore and take the bus back to the hotel.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shàng'àn is built from 上 'to go up' and àn 'a bank', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyangX and nganH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to climb' and the second as the high edge of the water.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shàng'àn
- Say it: shàng'àn, once more
- Say it: xiàwǔ sì diǎn wǒmen shàng'àn zuò chē huí jiǔdiàn — At four in the afternoon we go ashore and take the bus back to the hotel.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a wave of the sea, then the Mandarin for a fishing boat, then say shàng'àn again

Before you move on

What does shàng'àn mean? ("To go ashore".) Say it once more.

445.4 bèiké — seashell

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a fishing boat, then the Mandarin for to go ashore.

You'll want to know: bèiké

bèiké — "seashell".

wǒ zhǎodào le hěn duō bèiké fàng zài bāo lǐ — I found lots of shells and put them in my bag.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bèiké is built from bèi 'a shellfish' and ké 'a hard shell'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese pajH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed as a creature of the sea in a shell; the second is in the Guangyun only under an older spelling, read khaewk and glossed 'a hard skin', and the everyday ké does not follow from that reading, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: bèiké
- Say it: bèiké, once more
- Say it: wǒ zhǎodào le hěn duō bèiké fàng zài bāo lǐ — I found lots of shells and put them in my bag.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a fishing boat, then the Mandarin for to go ashore, then say bèiké again

Before you move on

What does bèiké mean? ("Seashell".) Say it once more.

445.5 tuìcháo — to ebb (of the tide)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to go ashore, then the Mandarin for a seashell.

You'll want to know: tuìcháo

tuìcháo — "to ebb (of the tide)".

xiàwǔ tuìcháo de shíhou wǒmen qù hǎibiān zhǎo bèiké — In the afternoon, when the tide goes out, we look for shells on the shore.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tuìcháo is built from tuì 'to draw back' and cháo 'the tide', both inherited from Middle Chinese, thwojH and drjew (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to retreat' and the second as the tide.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: tuìcháo
- Say it: tuìcháo, once more
- Say it: xiàwǔ tuìcháo de shíhou wǒmen qù hǎibiān zhǎo bèiké — In the afternoon, when the tide goes out, we look for shells on the shore.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to go ashore, then the Mandarin for a seashell, then say tuìcháo again

Before you move on

What does tuìcháo mean? ("To ebb (of the tide)".) Say it once more.

Chapter 446

The Old Town

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about old lanes, a walled town, an ancient town, its walls and moving to the city for work.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 446: I can talk about old lanes, a walled town, an ancient town, its walls and moving to the city for work.

446.1 hútòng — lane; alley (in an old city)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a seashell, then the Mandarin for to ebb.

You'll want to know: hútòng

hútòng — "lane; alley (in an old city)".

> wǒ zhù zài yì tiáo xiǎo hútòng lǐ — I live in a little old lane.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of hútòng names the narrow lanes of old northern cities. No dictionary we use records an older form, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: hútòng
- Say it: hútòng, once more
- Say it: wǒ zhù zài yì tiáo xiǎo hútòng lǐ — I live in a little old lane.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a seashell, then the Mandarin for to ebb, then say hútòng again

Before you move on

What does hútòng mean? ("Lane; alley (in an old city)".) Say it once more.

446.2 城 (chéng) — town; walled city

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to ebb, then the Mandarin for a narrow old lane.

You'll want to know: 城

城 — chéng — "town; walled city".

城里有很多老房子 chéng lǐ yǒu hěn duō lǎo fángzi — There are lots of old houses in the town.

The new character, in pieces: 城 — nine strokes in two pieces: on the left the earth piece of 地, three strokes; on the right 成 chéng, six strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 城 (chéng) is inherited from Middle Chinese dzyeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses it as the walls of a city and, after an older book, as what holds the people and their goods.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chéng
- Say it: chéng, once more
- Say it: chéng lǐ yǒu hěn duō lǎo fángzi — There are lots of old houses in the town.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to ebb, then the Mandarin for a narrow old lane, then say chéng again

Before you move on

What does 城 mean? ("Town; walled city".) Say it once more.

446.3 城 — the earth piece, then 成

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say chéng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  地 成

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — dì, chéng

Script — the earth piece, then 成

How 城 is written, stroke by stroke

城

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the earth piece, three strokes, as on the left of 地: a short bar, a vertical, and a stroke that rises to the right.

The right piece, 成 chéng, six strokes, as you wrote it: a bar; a long stroke falling to the left; a small bar that turns down and hooks; the long curved stroke with a hook; a short stroke falling to the left across it; and a dot at the top right.

3 + 6 = nine.

Your turn

- Write it: 城, all nine, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 城? (Nine.) What is the left piece? (The earth piece, as in 地.) What is the right piece? (成 chéng.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 城, pinned stroke paths and medians.

446.4 古城 (gǔchéng) — ancient walled town; old town

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a narrow old lane, then the Mandarin for a walled town.

You'll want to know: 古城

古城 — gǔchéng — "ancient walled town; old town".

我们在古城里走了一个下午 wǒmen zài gǔchéng lǐ zǒu le yí ge xiàwǔ — We spent the afternoon walking round the old town.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 古城 (gǔchéng) is built from 古 'ancient' and 城 'a walled town', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kuX and dzyeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: gǔchéng
- Say it: gǔchéng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zài gǔchéng lǐ zǒu le yí ge xiàwǔ — We spent the afternoon walking round the old town.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a narrow old lane, then the Mandarin for a walled town, then say gǔchéng again

Before you move on

What does 古城 mean? ("Ancient walled town; old town".) Say it once more.

446.5 chéngqiáng — city wall; the wall round a city

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a walled town, then the Mandarin for an ancient walled town.

You'll want to know: chéngqiáng

chéngqiáng — "city wall; the wall round a city".

qù chéngqiáng zěnme zǒu — How do I get to the city wall?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chéngqiáng is built from 城 'a walled town' and qiáng 'a wall', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyeng and dzjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chéngqiáng
- Say it: chéngqiáng, once more
- Say it: qù chéngqiáng zěnme zǒu — How do I get to the city wall?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a walled town, then the Mandarin for an ancient walled town, then say chéngqiáng again

Before you move on

What does chéngqiáng mean? ("City wall; the wall round a city".) Say it once more.

446.6 进城 (jìnchéng) — to go to town; to move to the city

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an ancient walled town, then the Mandarin for the wall round a city.

You'll want to know: 进城

进城 — jìnchéng — "to go to town; to move to the city".

村子里很多人进城打工 cūnzi lǐ hěn duō rén jìnchéng dǎgōng — A lot of people from the village move to the city for work.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 进城 (jìnchéng) is built from 进 'to enter' and 城 'a walled town', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsinH and dzyeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to go forward'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: jìnchéng
- Say it: jìnchéng, once more
- Say it: cūnzi lǐ hěn duō rén jìnchéng dǎgōng — A lot of people from the village move to the city for work.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an ancient walled town, then the Mandarin for the wall round a city, then say jìnchéng again

Before you move on

What does 进城 mean? ("To go to town; to move to the city".) Say it once more.

Chapter 447

On Foot

Modes: voice (6) Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about walking, the Great Wall, a pedestrian street, going the long way round and the pavement.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 447: I can talk about walking, the Great Wall, a pedestrian street, going the long way round and the pavement.

447.1 bùxíng — to get there on foot

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the wall round a city, then the Mandarin for to move to the city.

You'll want to know: bùxíng

bùxíng — "to get there on foot".

> cóng jiǔdiàn bùxíng qù gǔchéng yào shí fēnzhōng — It's a ten-minute walk from the hotel to the old town.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bùxíng is built from bù 'a step' and xíng 'to go', both inherited from Middle Chinese, buH and haeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as a walking step and the second 'to walk'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: bùxíng
- Say it: bùxíng, once more
- Say it: cóng jiǔdiàn bùxíng qù gǔchéng yào shí fēnzhōng — It's a ten-minute walk from the hotel to the old town.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the wall round a city, then the Mandarin for to move to the city, then say bùxíng again

Before you move on

What does bùxíng mean? ("To get there on foot".) Say it once more.

447.2 长城 (Chángchéng) — the Great Wall

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to move to the city, then the Mandarin for to get there on foot.

You'll want to know: 长城

长城 — Chángchéng — "the Great Wall".

我们坐车去长城 wǒmen zuò chē qù Chángchéng — We're going to the great wall by bus.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 长城 (Chángchéng) is built from 长 'long' and 城 'a wall round a city', both inherited from Middle Chinese, drjang and dzyeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'long' and 'far'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: Chángchéng
- Say it: Chángchéng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zuò chē qù Chángchéng — We're going to the great wall by bus.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to move to the city, then the Mandarin for to get there on foot, then say Chángchéng again

Before you move on

What does 长城 mean? ("The Great Wall".) Say it once more.

447.3 bùxíngjiē — pedestrian street; a street closed to cars

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get there on foot, then the Mandarin for the Great Wall.

You'll want to know: bùxíngjiē

bùxíngjiē — "pedestrian street; a street closed to cars".

qù bùxíngjiē zěnme zǒu — How do I get to the pedestrian street?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bùxíngjiē is built from bùxíng 'on foot' and jiē 'a street', all inherited from Middle Chinese, buH, haeng and kea (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the last as a road that runs four ways.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: bùxíngjiē
- Say it: bùxíngjiē, once more
- Say it: qù bùxíngjiē zěnme zǒu — How do I get to the pedestrian street?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get there on foot, then the Mandarin for the Great Wall, then say bùxíngjiē again

Before you move on

What does bùxíngjiē mean? ("Pedestrian street; a street closed to cars".) Say it once more.

447.4 ràolù — to take a detour; to take the long way round

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the Great Wall, then the Mandarin for a street closed to cars.

You'll want to know: ràolù

ràolù — "to take a detour; to take the long way round".

qiánbian zài xiū lù wǒmen děi ràolù — There are roadworks ahead, so we'll have to go the long way round.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of ràolù is built from rào 'to wind round' and 路 'a road', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyewX and luH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to wind round'; today's falling tone is irregular beside it.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: ràolù
- Say it: ràolù, once more
- Say it: qiánbian zài xiū lù wǒmen děi ràolù — There are roadworks ahead, so we'll have to go the long way round.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the Great Wall, then the Mandarin for a street closed to cars, then say ràolù again

Before you move on

What does ràolù mean? ("To take a detour; to take the long way round".) Say it once more.

447.5 rénxíngdào — pavement; sidewalk

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a street closed to cars, then the Mandarin for to take the long way round.

You'll want to know: rénxíngdào

rénxíngdào — "pavement; sidewalk".

> qǐng zǒu rénxíngdào bié zǒu mǎlù — Please keep to the pavement and stay off the road.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of rénxíngdào is built from 人 'people', xíng 'to walk' and 道 'a way', all inherited from Middle Chinese, nyin, haeng and dawX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: rénxíngdào
- Say it: rénxíngdào, once more
- Say it: qǐng zǒu rénxíngdào bié zǒu mǎlù — Please keep to the pavement and stay off the road.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a street closed to cars, then the Mandarin for to take the long way round, then say rénxíngdào again

Before you move on

What does rénxíngdào mean? ("Pavement; sidewalk".) Say it once more.

447.6 Looking back: from The River to On Foot

Say the Mandarin for the far bank and a river.

Your turn

- Say it: the far bank, a river, upstream, to rise after rain, a great river
- Say it: crystal-clear, to keep from harm, a nature reserve, to escort someone, to catch fish
- Say it: to dive under water, an island, a peninsula, a lighthouse, sunscreen
- Say it: a wave of the sea, a fishing boat, to go ashore, a seashell, to ebb
- Say it: a narrow old lane, a walled town, an ancient walled town, the wall round a city, to move to the city
- Say it: to get there on foot, the Great Wall, a street closed to cars, to take the long way round, the pavement beside the road
- Read it: 河 护 岛 城 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

The far bank? (duì'àn.) A river? (河, hé.) Upstream? (上游, shàngyóu.) To rise after rain? (zhǎngshuǐ.) A great river? (jiāng.) Crystal-clear? (qīngchè.) To keep from harm? (保护, bǎohù.) A nature reserve? (保护区, bǎohùqū.) To escort someone? (护送, hùsòng.) To catch fish? (bǔyú.) To dive under water? (qiánshuǐ.) An island? (岛, dǎo.) A peninsula? (半岛, bàndǎo.) A lighthouse? (dēngtǎ.) Sunscreen? (fángshàishuāng.) A wave of the sea? (hǎilàng.) A fishing boat? (yúchuán.) To go ashore? (shàng'àn.) A seashell? (bèiké.) To ebb? (tuìcháo.) A narrow old lane? (hútòng.) A walled town? (城, chéng.) An ancient walled town? (古城, gǔchéng.) The wall round a city? (chéngqiáng.) To move to the city? (进城, jìnchéng.) To get there on foot? (bùxíng.) The Great Wall? (长城, Chángchéng.) A street closed to cars? (bùxíngjiē.) To take the long way round? (ràolù.) The pavement beside the road? (rénxíngdào.)

Chapter 448

At the Market

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about stalls, find the market, stay in town, go to a morning market and run a stall.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 448: I can talk about stalls, find the market, stay in town, go to a morning market and run a stall.

448.1 tānwèi — market stall

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to take the long way round, then the Mandarin for the pavement beside the road.

You'll want to know: tānwèi

tānwèi — "market stall".

> zhège tānwèi mài shuǐguǒ — This stall sells fruit.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tānwèi is built from tān 'to spread out' and wèi 'a place', both inherited from Middle Chinese, than and hwijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to open out' and the second as a place in a row.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: tānwèi
- Say it: tānwèi, once more
- Say it: zhège tānwèi mài shuǐguǒ — This stall sells fruit.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to take the long way round, then the Mandarin for the pavement beside the road, then say tānwèi again

Before you move on

What does tānwèi mean? ("Market stall".) Say it once more.

448.2 市场 (shìchǎng) — market; marketplace

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the pavement beside the road, then the Mandarin for a market stall.

You'll want to know: 市场

市场 — shìchǎng — "market; marketplace".

去市场怎么走 qù shìchǎng zěnme zǒu — How do I get to the market?

The new character, in pieces: 市 — five strokes: a dot, a long bar, then a short vertical, a stroke that turns down and hooks, and a long vertical through the middle. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 市场 (shìchǎng) is built from 市 'a market' and 场 'an open ground', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyiX and drjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, after an older dictionary, as where people go to buy and sell, and the second as a threshing floor.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shìchǎng
- Say it: shìchǎng, once more
- Say it: qù shìchǎng zěnme zǒu — How do I get to the market?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the pavement beside the road, then the Mandarin for a market stall, then say shìchǎng again

Before you move on

What does 市场 mean? ("Market; marketplace".) Say it once more.

448.3 市 — a dot and a bar over three strokes

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say shìchǎng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

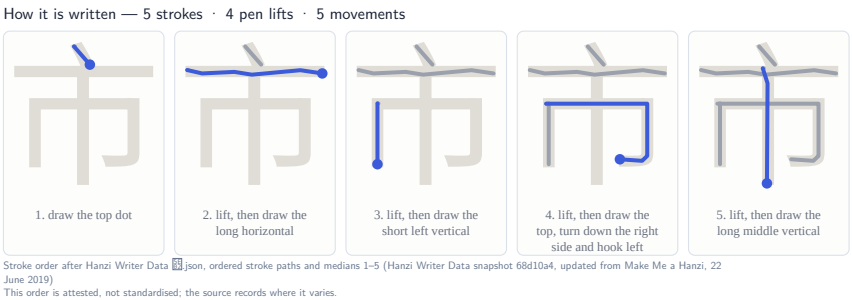
  场 方

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — chǎng, fāng

Script — a dot and a bar over three strokes



Stroke order after Hanzi Writer Data 市.json, ordered stroke paths and medians 1–5 (Hanzi Writer Data snapshot 68d10a4, updated from Make Me a Hanzi, 22 June 2019)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How 市 is written, stroke by stroke

市

One piece, five strokes, top to bottom.
A dot on top, then a long bar, as at the top of 方.
Under the bar, three strokes like a small hanging cloth. A short vertical on the left. A stroke that runs right and turns down, hooking to the left at the foot. Then a long vertical through the middle, from the bar down past the hook.
2 + 3 = five.

Your turn

- Write it: 市, all five, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 市? (Five.) What comes first? (A dot.) What is the last stroke? (The long vertical through the middle.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 市, pinned stroke paths and medians.

448.4 市区 (shìqū) — the built-up part of a city; downtown

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a market stall, then the Mandarin for a marketplace.

You'll want to know: 市区

市区 — shìqū — "the built-up part of a city; downtown".

wǒmen zhù zài shìqū de yì jiā jiǔdiàn — We're staying at a hotel in town.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 市区 (shìqū) is built from 市 'a market town' and 区 'an area', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyiX and khju (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shìqū
- Say it: shìqū, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zhù zài shìqū de yì jiā jiǔdiàn — We're staying at a hotel in town.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a market stall, then the Mandarin for a marketplace, then say shìqū again

Before you move on

What does 市区 mean? ("The built-up part of a city; downtown".) Say it once more.

448.5 早市 (zǎoshì) — morning market; a market held at dawn

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a marketplace, then the Mandarin for the built-up part of a city.

You'll want to know: 早市

早市 — zǎoshì — "morning market; a market held at dawn".

我们早上去早市买菜 wǒmen zǎoshang qù zǎoshì mǎi cài — In the morning we go to the early market to buy vegetables.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 早市 (zǎoshì) is built from 早 'early' and 市 'a market', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsawX and dzyiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the morning'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: zǎoshì
- Say it: zǎoshì, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zǎoshang qù zǎoshì mǎi cài — In the morning we go to the early market to buy vegetables.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a marketplace, then the Mandarin for the built-up part of a city, then say zǎoshì again

Before you move on

What does 早市 mean? ("Morning market; a market held at dawn".) Say it once more.

448.6 bǎitān — to set up a street stall

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the built-up part of a city, then the Mandarin for a market held at dawn.

You'll want to know: bǎitān

bǎitān — "to set up a street stall".

tā měitiān zài shìchǎng bǎitān — He runs a stall at the market every day.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bǎitān is built from bǎi 'to set out' and tān 'to spread out', both inherited from Middle Chinese, peaX and than (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to push aside' and the second 'to open out'; the sense 'to set out goods' for the first is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: bǎitān
- Say it: bǎitān, once more
- Say it: tā měitiān zài shìchǎng bǎitān — He runs a stall at the market every day.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the built-up part of a city, then the Mandarin for a market held at dawn, then say bǎitān again

Before you move on

What does bǎitān mean? ("To set up a street stall".) Say it once more.

Chapter 449

Tastes

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a night market, tastes in food, local flavours, light food and greasy food.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 449: I can talk about a night market, tastes in food, local flavours, light food and greasy food.

449.1 yèshì — night market

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a market held at dawn, then the Mandarin for to set up a street stall.

You'll want to know: yèshì

yèshì — "night market".

> wǎnshang wǒmen zuò gōngjiāo qù yèshì — In the evening we take the bus to the night market.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yèshì is built from yè 'night' and 市 'a market', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yaeH and dzyiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: yèshì
- Say it: yèshì, once more
- Say it: wǎnshang wǒmen zuò gōngjiāo qù yèshì — In the evening we take the bus to the night market.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a market held at dawn, then the Mandarin for to set up a street stall, then say yèshì again

Before you move on

What does yèshì mean? ("Night market".) Say it once more.

449.2 口味 (kǒuwèi) — one's taste in food

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to set up a street stall, then the Mandarin for a night market.

You'll want to know: 口味

口味 — kǒuwèi — "one's taste in food".

nánfāng rén hé běifāng rén de kǒuwèi bù yíyàng — People in the south and the north have different tastes in food.

The new character, in pieces: 味 — eight strokes in two pieces: on the left 口 kǒu, small; on the right a short bar, a longer bar under it, a vertical through both, and a stroke falling to the left and one falling to the right. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 口味 (kǒuwèi) is built from 口 'the mouth' and 味 'a flavour', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khuwX and mj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as the five flavours, sour, salty, sweet, bitter and pungent.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: kǒuwèi
- Say it: kǒuwèi, once more
- Say it: nánfāng rén hé běifāng rén de kǒuwèi bù yíyàng — People in the south and the north have different tastes in food.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to set up a street stall, then the Mandarin for a night market, then say kǒuwèi again

Before you move on

What does 口味 mean? ("One's taste in food".) Say it once more.

449.3 味 — a small 口, then two bars and a vertical

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say kǒuwèi — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  口 吃

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — kǒu, chī

Script — a small 口, then two bars and a vertical

How 味 is written, stroke by stroke

味

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, 口 kǒu, three strokes, small and set high.

The right piece, five strokes. A short bar. A longer bar under it. A vertical down through both. Then a stroke falling to the left and a stroke falling to the right, from where the vertical crosses the long bar.

3 + 5 = eight.

Your turn

- Write it: 味, all eight, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 味? (Eight.) Which bar is shorter, the top one or the one under it? (The top one.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 味, pinned stroke paths and medians.

449.4 风味 (fēngwèi) — local flavour; distinctive taste

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a night market, then the Mandarin for one's taste in food.

You'll want to know: 风味

风味 — fēngwèi — "local flavour; distinctive taste".

我想吃这个岛的风味小吃 wǒ xiǎng chī zhège dǎo de fēngwèi xiǎochī — I'd like to try this island's local snacks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 风味 (fēngwèi) is built from 风 'a custom' and 味 'a flavour', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjuwng and mj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the sense 'a local custom' for the first is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: fēngwèi
- Say it: fēngwèi, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiǎng chī zhège dǎo de fēngwèi xiǎochī — I'd like to try this island's local snacks.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a night market, then the Mandarin for one's taste in food, then say fēngwèi again

Before you move on

What does 风味 mean? ("Local flavour; distinctive taste".) Say it once more.

449.5 qīngdàn — light and mild (of food)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for one's taste in food, then the Mandarin for a distinctive local flavour.

You'll want to know: qīngdàn

qīngdàn — "light and mild (of food)".

zhè jiā fànguǎn de cài hěn qīngdàn — The food at this restaurant is light.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qīngdàn is built from qīng 'clear' and dàn 'thin', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tshjeng and damX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as a thin taste.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: qīngdàn
- Say it: qīngdàn, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā fànguǎn de cài hěn qīngdàn — The food at this restaurant is light.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for one's taste in food, then the Mandarin for a distinctive local flavour, then say qīngdàn again

Before you move on

What does qīngdàn mean? ("Light and mild (of food)".) Say it once more.

449.6 yóunì — greasy; oily

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a distinctive local flavour, then the Mandarin for light and mild (of food).

You'll want to know: yóunì

yóunì — "greasy; oily".

> yèshì de dōngxi tài yóunì le — The food at the night market is too greasy.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yóunì is built from yóu 'oil' and nì 'fatty', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yuw and nrijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as oil and fat and the second as fat and greasy.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: yóunì
- Say it: yóunì, once more
- Say it: yèshì de dōngxi tài yóunì le — The food at the night market is too greasy.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a distinctive local flavour, then the Mandarin for light and mild (of food), then say yóunì again

Before you move on

What does yóunì mean? ("Greasy; oily".) Say it once more.

Chapter 450

Local Food

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about seafood, what makes the food special, going somewhere on purpose, authentic food and a signature dish.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 450: I can talk about seafood, what makes the food special, going somewhere on purpose, authentic food and a signature dish.

450.1 hǎixiān — seafood

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for light and mild (of food), then the Mandarin for greasy (of food).

You'll want to know: hǎixiān

hǎixiān — "seafood".

> zhè jiā fànguǎn de hǎixiān hěn xīnxiān — The seafood at this restaurant is very fresh.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of hǎixiān is built from 海 'the sea' and xiān 'fresh', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xojX and sjen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'fresh' and 'clean'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: hǎixiān
- Say it: hǎixiān, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā fànguǎn de hǎixiān hěn xīnxiān — The seafood at this restaurant is very fresh.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for light and mild (of food), then the Mandarin for greasy (of food), then say hǎixiān again

Before you move on

What does hǎixiān mean? ("Seafood".) Say it once more.

450.2 特点 (tèdiǎn) — characteristic; a distinguishing trait

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for greasy (of food), then the Mandarin for seafood.

You'll want to know: 特点

特点 — tèdiǎn — "characteristic; a distinguishing trait".

这儿的菜有什么特点 zhèr de cài yǒu shénme tèdiǎn — What's special about the food here?

The new character, in pieces: 特 — ten strokes in two pieces: on the left the cow piece, four strokes; on the right the earth piece of 地 over the right piece of 对. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 特点 (tèdiǎn) is built from 特 'single, special' and 点 'a point', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dok and temX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as a bull and 'alone' and the second as a dot made with the brush.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: tèdiǎn
- Say it: tèdiǎn, once more
- Say it: zhèr de cài yǒu shénme tèdiǎn — What's special about the food here?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for greasy (of food), then the Mandarin for seafood, then say tèdiǎn again

Before you move on

What does 特点 mean? ("Characteristic; a distinguishing trait".) Say it once more.

450.3 特 — the cow piece, then two pieces stacked

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say tèdiǎn — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

对 地

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — duì, dì

Script — the cow piece, then two pieces stacked

How 特 is written, stroke by stroke

特

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the cow piece, four strokes. A short stroke falling to the left. A bar. A long vertical down through the bar. Then a stroke that rises to the right.

The right piece, six strokes, in two parts. On top, the earth piece of 地 with its last bar long: a short bar, a vertical, and a long bar under them. Under it, the right piece of 对: a bar, a vertical with a hook, and a dot.

4 + 6 = ten.

Your turn

- Write it: 特, all ten, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 特? (Ten.) What is the last stroke of the left piece? (A stroke that rises to the right.) What sits at the foot of the right piece? (The right piece of 对.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 特, pinned stroke paths and medians.

450.4 特意 (tèyì) — specially; for that very purpose

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for seafood, then the Mandarin for a distinguishing trait.

You'll want to know: 特意

特意 — tèyì — "specially; for that very purpose".

我们特意去吃这儿的风味小吃 wǒmen tèyì qù chī zhèr de fēngwèi xiǎochī — We went specially to try the local snacks here.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 特意 (tèyì) is built from 特 'single' and 意 'an intention', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dok and 'iH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'the will'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: tèyì
- Say it: tèyì, once more
- Say it: wǒmen tèyì qù chī zhèr de fēngwèi xiǎochī — We went specially to try the local snacks here.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for seafood, then the Mandarin for a distinguishing trait, then say tèyì again

Before you move on

What does 特意 mean? ("Specially; for that very purpose".) Say it once more.

450.5 zhèngzōng — authentic; the real thing (of food)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a distinguishing trait, then the Mandarin for specially for that reason.

You'll want to know: zhèngzōng

zhèngzōng — "authentic; the real thing (of food)".

zhè jiā fànguǎn de cài hěn zhèngzōng — The food at this restaurant is authentic.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhèngzōng is built from 正 'right' and zōng 'the source', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyengH and tsowng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'the origin' and 'to honour'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: zhèngzōng
- Say it: zhèngzōng, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā fànguǎn de cài hěn zhèngzōng — The food at this restaurant is authentic.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a distinguishing trait, then the Mandarin for specially for that reason, then say zhèngzōng again

Before you move on

What does zhèngzōng mean? ("Authentic; the real thing (of food)".) Say it once more.

450.6 zhāopáicài — a restaurant's signature dish

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for specially for that reason, then the Mandarin for authentic.

You'll want to know: zhāopáicài

zhāopáicài — "a restaurant's signature dish".

> zhè shì zhè jiā fànguǎn de zhāopáicài — This is the restaurant's signature dish.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhāopáicài is built from zhāopái 'a shop sign' and 菜 'a dish', all inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyew, bea and tshojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to beckon' and the second as a board with writing on it.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: zhāopáicài
- Say it: zhāopáicài, once more
- Say it: zhè shì zhè jiā fànguǎn de zhāopáicài — This is the restaurant's signature dish.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for specially for that reason, then the Mandarin for authentic, then say zhāopáicài again

Before you move on

What does zhāopáicài mean? ("A restaurant's signature dish".) Say it once more.

Chapter 451

Specialities

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say I eat no meat, talk about a place's special character, say something is outstanding, ask for meatless dishes and take food that is left over.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 451: I can say I eat no meat, talk about a place's special character, say something is outstanding, ask for meatless dishes and take food that is left over.

451.1 chīsù — to eat no meat; to be vegetarian

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for authentic, then the Mandarin for a restaurant's signature dish.

You'll want to know: chīsù

chīsù — "to eat no meat; to be vegetarian".

> wǒ chīsù bù chī ròu — I'm vegetarian: I don't eat meat.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chīsù is built from 吃 'to eat' and sù 'plain'. For the first the dictionary has khek, glossed 'to eat', under another way of writing it (there 吃 itself is kj+t, 'to stammer'), though khek would regularly give qì; the second is inherited from Middle Chinese suH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed as plain white silk, and the sense 'meatless' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chīsù
- Say it: chīsù, once more
- Say it: wǒ chīsù bù chī ròu — I'm vegetarian: I don't eat meat.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for authentic, then the Mandarin for a restaurant's signature dish, then say chīsù again

Before you move on

What does chīsù mean? ("To eat no meat; to be vegetarian".) Say it once more.

451.2 特色 (tèsè) — special character; speciality

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a restaurant's signature dish, then the Mandarin for to eat no meat.

You'll want to know: 特色

特色 — tèsè — "special character; speciality".

zhè jiā fànguǎn de cài hěn yǒu tèsè — The food at this restaurant has a character all its own.

The new character, in pieces: 色 — six strokes in two pieces: on top a short stroke falling to the left and a small bar that turns down to the left; under them a bar that turns down, a short vertical, a bar, and a long stroke that runs down the left, along the foot and hooks up. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 特色 (tèsè) is built from 特 'single, special' and 色 'a look', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dok and srik (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as the colour of the face.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: tèsè
- Say it: tèsè, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā fànguǎn de cài hěn yǒu tèsè — The food at this restaurant has a character all its own.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a restaurant's signature dish, then the Mandarin for to eat no meat, then say tèsè again

Before you move on

What does 特色 mean? ("Special character; speciality".) Say it once more.

451.3 色 — a small top piece, then a frame with a long hook

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say tèsè — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

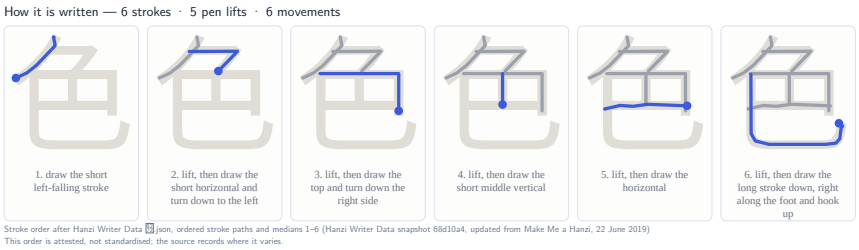
  包 特

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — bāo, tè

Script — a small top piece, then a frame with a long hook



How 色 is written, stroke by stroke

色

Two pieces, top before bottom. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The top piece, two strokes. A short stroke falling to the left. Then a small bar that turns down to the left under it.

The bottom piece, four strokes. A bar that turns down on the right. A short vertical in the middle. A bar across under them. Last, a long stroke that runs down the left side, turns right along the foot and hooks up.

2 + 4 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 色, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 色? (Six.) What is the last stroke? (A long stroke down the left that turns along the foot and hooks up.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 色, pinned stroke paths and medians.

451.4 出色 (chūsè) — outstanding; excellent

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to eat no meat, then the Mandarin for a special character of its own.

You'll want to know: 出色

出色 — chūsè — "outstanding; excellent".

> 他的中文很出色 tā de Zhōngwén hěn chūsè — His spoken Chinese is outstanding.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 出色 (chūsè) is built from 出 'to stand out' and 色 'a look', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyhwit and srik (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); how the pair came to mean 'outstanding' is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: chūsè
- Say it: chūsè, once more
- Say it: tā de Zhōngwén hěn chūsè — His spoken Chinese is outstanding.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to eat no meat, then the Mandarin for a special character of its own, then say chūsè again

Before you move on

What does 出色 mean? ("Outstanding; excellent".) Say it once more.

451.5 sùcài — meatless dish; vegetable dish

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a special character of its own, then the Mandarin for outstanding.

You'll want to know: sùcài

sùcài — "meatless dish; vegetable dish".

> zhè jiā fànguǎn yǒu hěn duō sùcài — This restaurant has lots of meatless dishes.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

sùcài is built from sù 'plain' and 菜 'a dish', both inherited from Middle Chinese, suH and tshojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the sense 'meatless' for the first is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: sùcài
- Say it: sùcài, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā fànguǎn yǒu hěn duō sùcài — This restaurant has lots of meatless dishes.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a special character of its own, then the Mandarin for outstanding, then say sùcài again

Before you move on

What does sùcài mean? ("Meatless dish; vegetable dish".) Say it once more.

451.6 shèng — to be left over

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for outstanding, then the Mandarin for a meatless dish.

You'll want to know: shèng

shèng — "to be left over".

> shèng le hěn duō cài wǒmen dǎbāo — There's a lot of food left, so we'll take it away.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shèng is inherited from Middle Chinese zyingH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed as what is long and to spare.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shèng
- Say it: shèng, once more
- Say it: shèng le hěn duō cài wǒmen dǎbāo — There's a lot of food left, so we'll take it away.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for outstanding, then the Mandarin for a meatless dish, then say shèng again

Before you move on

What does shèng mean? ("To be left over".) Say it once more.

Chapter 452

After the Meal

Modes: voice (6) Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about digesting a meal, good reviews, tips, the light of the sky and paper napkins.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 452: I can talk about digesting a meal, good reviews, tips, the light of the sky and paper napkins.

452.1 xiāohuà — to digest

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a meatless dish, then the Mandarin for to be left over.

You'll want to know: xiāohuà

xiāohuà — "to digest".

> chī le fàn mǎshàng shuìjiào duì xiāohuà bù hǎo — Going to bed right after a meal is bad for your digestion.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiāohuà is built from xiāo 'to melt away' and huà 'to change', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sjew and xwaeH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to use up' and the second 'to change'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: xiāohuà
- Say it: xiāohuà, once more
- Say it: chī le fàn mǎshàng shuìjiào duì xiāohuà bù hǎo — Going to bed right after a meal is bad for your digestion.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a meatless dish, then the Mandarin for to be left over, then say xiāohuà again

Before you move on

What does xiāohuà mean? ("To digest".) Say it once more.

452.2 hǎopíng — good review; favourable comment

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be left over, then the Mandarin for to digest food.

You'll want to know: hǎopíng

hǎopíng — "good review; favourable comment".

zhè jiā fànguǎn yǒu hěn duō hǎopíng — This restaurant has lots of good reviews.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of hǎopíng is built from 好 'good' and píng 'to judge', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xawX and bjaeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to weigh up'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: hǎopíng
- Say it: hǎopíng, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā fànguǎn yǒu hěn duō hǎopíng — This restaurant has lots of good reviews.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be left over, then the Mandarin for to digest food, then say hǎopíng again

Before you move on

What does hǎopíng mean? ("Good review; favourable comment".) Say it once more.

452.3 xiǎofèi — tip; a tip for the waiter

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to digest food, then the Mandarin for a good review online.

You'll want to know: xiǎofèi

xiǎofèi — "tip; a tip for the waiter".

zài Zhōngguó chīfàn yìbān bù gěi xiǎofèi — In China you don't usually leave a tip when you eat out.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiǎofèi is built from 小 'small' and fèi 'a cost', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sjewX and phj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to spend'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: xiǎofèi
- Say it: xiǎofèi, once more
- Say it: zài Zhōngguó chīfàn yìbān bù gěi xiǎofèi — In China you don't usually leave a tip when you eat out.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to digest food, then the Mandarin for a good review online, then say xiǎofèi again

Before you move on

What does xiǎofèi mean? ("Tip; a tip for the waiter".) Say it once more.

452.4 天色 (tiānsè) — the light of the sky; how dark the sky is getting

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a good review online, then the Mandarin for a tip for the waiter.

You'll want to know: 天色

天色 — tiānsè — "the light of the sky; how dark the sky is getting".

> 天色不早了我们坐车回酒店 tiānsè bù zǎo le wǒmen zuò chē huí jiǔdiàn — It's getting late, so we're heading back to the hotel.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 天色 (tiānsè) is built from 天 'the sky' and 色 'a colour', both inherited from Middle Chinese, then and srik (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: tiānsè
- Say it: tiānsè, once more
- Say it: tiānsè bù zǎo le wǒmen zuò chē huí jiǔdiàn — It's getting late, so we're heading back to the hotel.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a good review online, then the Mandarin for a tip for the waiter, then say tiānsè again

Before you move on

What does 天色 mean? ("The light of the sky; how dark the sky is getting".) Say it once more.

452.5 cānjīnzhǐ — paper napkin

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a tip for the waiter, then the Mandarin for how dark the sky is getting.

You'll want to know: cānjīnzhǐ

cānjīnzhǐ — "paper napkin".

fúwùyuán qǐng gěi wǒ jǐ zhāng cānjīnzhǐ — Excuse me, could I have a few napkins, please?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of cānjīnzhǐ is built from cān 'a meal', jīn 'a cloth' and zhǐ 'paper', all inherited from Middle Chinese, tshan, kin and tsyeX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to swallow'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: cānjīnzhǐ
- Say it: cānjīnzhǐ, once more
- Say it: fúwùyuán qǐng gěi wǒ jǐ zhāng cānjīnzhǐ — Excuse me, could I have a few napkins, please?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a tip for the waiter, then the Mandarin for how dark the sky is getting, then say cānjīnzhǐ again

Before you move on

What does cānjīnzhǐ mean? ("Paper napkin".) Say it once more.

452.6 Looking back: from At the Market to After the Meal

Say the Mandarin for a market stall and a marketplace.

Your turn

- Say it: a market stall, a marketplace, the built-up part of a city, a market held at dawn, to set up a street stall
- Say it: a night market, one's taste in food, a distinctive local flavour, light and mild (of food), greasy (of food)
- Say it: seafood, a distinguishing trait, specially for that reason, authentic, a restaurant's signature dish
- Say it: to eat no meat, a special character of its own, outstanding, a meatless dish, to be left over
- Say it: to digest food, a good review online, a tip for the waiter, how dark the sky is getting, a paper napkin
- Read it: 市 味 特 色 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

A market stall? (tānwèi.) A marketplace? (市场, shìchǎng.) The built-up part of a city? (市区, shìqū.) A market held at dawn? (早市, zǎoshì.) To set up a street stall? (bǎitān.) A night market? (yèshì.) One's taste in food? (口味, kǒuwèi.) A distinctive local flavour? (风味, fēngwèi.) Light and mild (of food)? (qīngdàn.) Greasy (of food)? (yóunì.) Seafood? (hǎixiān.) A distinguishing trait? (特点, tèdiǎn.) Specially for that reason? (特意, tèyì.) Authentic? (zhèngzōng.) A restaurant's signature dish? (zhāopáicài.) To eat no meat? (chīsù.) A special character of its own? (特色, tèsè.) Outstanding? (出色, chūsè.) A meatless dish? (sùcài.) To be left over? (shèng.) To digest food? (xiāohuà.) A good review online? (hǎopíng.) A tip for the waiter? (xiǎofèi.) How dark the sky is getting? (天色, tiānsè.) A paper napkin? (cānjīnzhǐ.)

Chapter 453

Bags and Cases

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a backpack, a suitcase, stuffing things in, carrying a case and a luggage tag.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 453: I can talk about a backpack, a suitcase, stuffing things in, carrying a case and a luggage tag.

453.1 bēibāo — backpack; rucksack

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for how dark the sky is getting, then the Mandarin for a paper napkin.

You'll want to know: bēibāo

bēibāo — "backpack; rucksack".

> wǒ de bēibāo bú jiàn le — My backpack has gone missing.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bēibāo is built from bēi 'to carry on the back' and 包 'a bag', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pwojH and paew (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as the back of the body and the second 'to wrap'; the level-toned bēi 'to carry on the back' is irregular beside it.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: bēibāo
- Say it: bēibāo, once more
- Say it: wǒ de bēibāo bú jiàn le — My backpack has gone missing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for how dark the sky is getting, then the Mandarin for a paper napkin, then say bēibāo again

Before you move on

What does bēibāo mean? ("Backpack; rucksack".) Say it once more.

453.2 xínglixiāng — luggage case; a travel case

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a paper napkin, then the Mandarin for a backpack.

You'll want to know: xínglixiāng

xínglixiāng — "luggage case; a travel case".

wǒ de xínglixiāng fàng zài fángjiān lǐ — My suitcase is in the room.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xínglixiāng is built from xíngli 'luggage' and xiāng 'a box', all inherited from Middle Chinese, haeng, liX and sjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses lǐ as a fruit tree and gives xíngli itself under it, and glosses xiāng as a box or a basket.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: xínglixiāng
- Say it: xínglixiāng, once more
- Say it: wǒ de xínglixiāng fàng zài fángjiān lǐ — My suitcase is in the room.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a paper napkin, then the Mandarin for a backpack, then say xínglixiāng again

Before you move on

What does xínglixiāng mean? ("Luggage case; a travel case".) Say it once more.

453.3 sāi — to stuff in; to squeeze in

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a backpack, then the Mandarin for a travel case.

You'll want to know: sāi

sāi — "to stuff in; to squeeze in".

yīfu dōu sāi zài xiāngzi lǐ le — The clothes are all stuffed into the case.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of sāi is inherited from Middle Chinese sok (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'full', 'stopped up' and 'to separate'; today's level-toned sāi is irregular beside it. The dictionary lists a second reading, sojH, glossed as a frontier pass.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: sāi
- Say it: sāi, once more
- Say it: yīfu dōu sāi zài xiāngzi lǐ le — The clothes are all stuffed into the case.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a backpack, then the Mandarin for a travel case, then say sāi again

Before you move on

What does sāi mean? ("To stuff in; to squeeze in".) Say it once more.

453.4 līn — to carry in the hand (by a handle)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a travel case, then the Mandarin for to stuff into a bag.

You'll want to know: līn

līn — "to carry in the hand (by a handle)".

nǐ néng bāng wǒ līn zhège bāo ma — Could you carry this bag for me?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

līn is inherited from Middle Chinese leng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed as holding something so it hangs from the hand; today's līn is irregular beside it.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: līn
- Say it: līn, once more
- Say it: nǐ néng bāng wǒ līn zhège bāo ma — Could you carry this bag for me?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a travel case, then the Mandarin for to stuff into a bag, then say līn again

Before you move on

What does līn mean? ("To carry in the hand (by a handle)".) Say it once more.

453.5 biāoqiān — label; luggage tag

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to stuff into a bag, then the Mandarin for to carry in the hand.

You'll want to know: biāoqiān

biāoqiān — "label; luggage tag".

měi ge xínglixiāng dōu yǒu yí ge biāoqiān — Every suitcase has a tag.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of biāoqiān is built from biāo 'a mark' and qiān 'a tally', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjiew and tshjem (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to raise' and the second, after an older dictionary, 'to check'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: biāoqiān
- Say it: biāoqiān, once more
- Say it: měi ge xínglixiāng dōu yǒu yí ge biāoqiān — Every suitcase has a tag.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to stuff into a bag, then the Mandarin for to carry in the hand, then say biāoqiān again

Before you move on

What does biāoqiān mean? ("Label; luggage tag".) Say it once more.

Chapter 454

The Information Desk

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 3 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can find the information desk, make an inquiry, talk about books, give directions and pick up a brochure.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 454: I can find the information desk, make an inquiry, talk about books, give directions and pick up a brochure.

454.1 fúwùtái — service desk; information desk

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to carry in the hand, then the Mandarin for a luggage tag.

You'll want to know: fúwùtái

fúwùtái — "service desk; information desk".

> qù fúwùtái zěnme zǒu — How do I get to the information desk?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fúwùtái is built from fúwù 'to serve' and tái 'a platform', all inherited from Middle Chinese, bjuwk, mjuH and doj (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to serve', the second 'affairs' and the last as a high square terrace.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: fúwùtái
- Say it: fúwùtái, once more
- Say it: qù fúwùtái zěnme zǒu — How do I get to the information desk?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to carry in the hand, then the Mandarin for a luggage tag, then say fúwùtái again

Before you move on

What does fúwùtái mean? ("Service desk; information desk".) Say it once more.

454.2 zīxún — to make an inquiry; to ask for advice

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a luggage tag, then the Mandarin for an information desk.

You'll want to know: zīxún

zīxún — "to make an inquiry; to ask for advice".

nǐ kěyǐ qù fúwùtái zīxún — You can ask at the information desk.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

zīxún is built from zī 'to consult' and xún 'to ask', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsɨj and swin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to take counsel' and the second 'to consult'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: zīxún
- Say it: zīxún, once more
- Say it: nǐ kěyǐ qù fúwùtái zīxún — You can ask at the information desk.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a luggage tag, then the Mandarin for an information desk, then say zīxún again

Before you move on

What does zīxún mean? ("To make an inquiry; to ask for advice".) Say it once more.

454.3 图书 (túshū) — books on the shelves (of a library or bookshop)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an information desk, then the Mandarin for to make an inquiry.

You'll want to know: 图书

图书 — túshū — "books on the shelves (of a library or bookshop)".

> 这家书店的中文图书很多 zhè jiā shūdiàn de Zhōngwén túshū hěn duō — This bookshop has lots of Chinese books.

The new character, in pieces: 图 — eight strokes: the frame of 国, and inside it a short stroke falling to the left, a bar that turns down to the left, a long stroke falling to the right, and two dots. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 图书 (túshū) is built from 图 'a picture' and 书 'a book', both inherited from Middle Chinese, du and syo (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to plan'; the sense 'a picture, a map' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: túshū
- Say it: túshū, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā shūdiàn de Zhōngwén túshū hěn duō — This bookshop has lots of Chinese books.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an information desk, then the Mandarin for to make an inquiry, then say túshū again

Before you move on

What does 图书 mean? ("Books on the shelves (of a library or bookshop)".) Say it once more.

454.4 图 — a frame, and five strokes inside it

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say túshū — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  国 回

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — guó, huí

Script — a frame, and five strokes inside it

How 图 is written, stroke by stroke

图

A frame and what is inside it, as in 国: the frame opens first, takes its inside, and closes last.

The frame, three strokes. A vertical down the left. A bar that turns down the right side. The bar across the foot comes last, after the inside.

The inside, five strokes. A short stroke falling to the left. A bar that turns down to the left. A long stroke falling to the right, across it. Then two dots, one under the other.

$2 + 5 + 1 =$ eight.

Your turn

- Write it: 图, all eight, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes in 图? (Eight.) Which stroke comes last? (The bar that closes the frame at the foot.) How many dots inside? (Two.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 图, pinned stroke paths and medians.

454.5 zhǐlù — to give directions; to show someone the way

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to make an inquiry, then the Mandarin for books on the shelves.

You'll want to know: zhǐlù

zhǐlù — "to give directions; to show someone the way".

tā gěi wǒ zhǐlù gàosu wǒ wǎng qián zǒu — He gave me directions and told me to go straight on.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhǐlù is built from zhǐ 'to point' and 路 'a road', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyijX and luH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as a finger and 'to show'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: zhǐlù
- Say it: zhǐlù, once more
- Say it: tā gěi wǒ zhǐlù gàosu wǒ wǎng qián zǒu — He gave me directions and told me to go straight on.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to make an inquiry, then the Mandarin for books on the shelves, then say zhǐlù again

Before you move on

What does zhǐlù mean? ("To give directions; to show someone the way".) Say it once more.

454.6 xuānchuáncè — brochure; leaflet

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for books on the shelves, then the Mandarin for to show someone the way.

You'll want to know: xuānchuáncè

xuānchuáncè — "brochure; leaflet".

fúwùtái yǒu hěn duō miǎnfèi de xuānchuáncè — The information desk has lots of free brochures.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xuānchuáncè is built from xuānchuán 'to spread the word' and cè 'a booklet', all inherited from Middle Chinese, sjwen, drjwen and tsrheak (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to spread', the second 'to turn' and the last as a set of bamboo slips.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: xuānchuáncè
- Say it: xuānchuáncè, once more
- Say it: fúwùtái yǒu hěn duō miǎnfèi de xuānchuáncè — The information desk has lots of free brochures.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for books on the shelves, then the Mandarin for to show someone the way, then say xuānchuáncè again

Before you move on

What does xuānchuáncè mean? (“Brochure; leaflet”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 455

Forms

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can give my full name and nationality, say a document has expired or is valid, and apply for a visa.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 455: I can give my full name and nationality, say a document has expired or is valid, and apply for a visa.

455.1 xìngmíng — full name

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to show someone the way, then the Mandarin for a travel brochure.

You'll want to know: xìngmíng

xìngmíng — "full name".

> qǐng zài zhèr xiě nǐ de xìngmíng — Please put your full name here.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xìngmíng is built from xìng 'a surname' and 名 'a name', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sjengH and mjieng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: xìngmíng
- Say it: xìngmíng, once more
- Say it: qǐng zài zhèr xiě nǐ de xìngmíng — Please put your full name here.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to show someone the way, then the Mandarin for a travel brochure, then say xìngmíng again

Before you move on

What does xìngmíng mean? ("Full name".) Say it once more.

455.2 guójí — citizenship; the country one belongs to

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a travel brochure, then the Mandarin for one's full name.

You'll want to know: guójí

guójí — "citizenship; the country one belongs to".

tā zhù zài Běijīng dànshì tā de guójí shì Yīngguó — He lives in Beijing, but he's a UK citizen.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

guójí is built from 国 'a country' and jí 'a register', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwok and dzjek (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as a written roll.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: guójí
- Say it: guójí, once more
- Say it: tā zhù zài Běijīng dànshì tā de guójí shì Yīngguó — He lives in Beijing, but he's a UK citizen.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a travel brochure, then the Mandarin for one's full name, then say guójí again

Before you move on

What does guójí mean? ("Citizenship; the country one belongs to".) Say it once more.

455.3 过期 (guòqī) — to be out of date; to have expired

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for one's full name, then the Mandarin for one's citizenship.

You'll want to know: 过期

过期 — guòqī — "to be out of date; to have expired".

wǒ de qiānzhèng guòqī le — My visa has expired.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 过期 (guòqī) is built from 过 'to pass' and 期 'a set time', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwaH and gi (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as a time agreed on; today's level-toned qī is irregular beside it.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: guòqī
- Say it: guòqī, once more
- Say it: wǒ de qiānzhèng guòqī le — My visa has expired.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for one's full name, then the Mandarin for one's citizenship, then say guòqī again

Before you move on

What does 过期 mean? ("To be out of date; to have expired".) Say it once more.

455.4 yǒuxiào — valid; effective

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for one's citizenship, then the Mandarin for to be out of date.

You'll want to know: yǒuxiào

yǒuxiào — "valid; effective".

zhè zhāng ménpiào jīntiān yǒuxiào — This ticket is valid today.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yǒuxiào is built from 有 'to have' and xiào 'an effect', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hjuwX and haewH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to imitate' and 'an effect'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: yǒuxiào
- Say it: yǒuxiào, once more
- Say it: zhè zhāng ménpiào jīntiān yǒuxiào — This ticket is valid today.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for one's citizenship, then the Mandarin for to be out of date, then say yǒuxiào again

Before you move on

What does yǒuxiào mean? ("Valid; effective".) Say it once more.

455.5 shēnqǐng — to apply for

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be out of date, then the Mandarin for still valid.

You'll want to know: shēnqǐng

shēnqǐng — "to apply for".

wǒ zuò huǒchē qù Běijīng shēnqǐng qiānzhèng — I'm taking the train to Beijing to apply for a visa.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shēnqǐng is built from shēn 'to state' and 请 'to ask', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syin and tshjengX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to stretch' and 'to repeat' and the second 'to beg'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shēnqǐng
- Say it: shēnqǐng, once more
- Say it: wǒ zuò huǒchē qù Běijīng shēnqǐng qiānzhèng — I'm taking the train to Beijing to apply for a visa.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be out of date, then the Mandarin for still valid, then say shēnqǐng again

Before you move on

What does shēnqǐng mean? ("To apply for".) Say it once more.

Chapter 456

Lost and Found

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say we got separated, ask for help, ask a passer-by, and talk about the owner of a lost wallet claiming it.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 456: I can say we got separated, ask for help, ask a passer-by, and talk about the owner of a lost wallet claiming it.

456.1 zǒusàn — to get separated (in a crowd)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for still valid, then the Mandarin for to apply for.

You'll want to know: zǒusàn

zǒusàn — "to get separated (in a crowd)".

> wǒ hé péngyou zài huǒchēzhàn zǒusàn le — My friend and I lost each other at the station.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zǒusàn is built from 走 'to walk' and sàn 'to scatter', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsuwX and sanH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to run' and the second 'to break apart'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: zǒusàn
- Say it: zǒusàn, once more
- Say it: wǒ hé péngyou zài huǒchēzhàn zǒusàn le — My friend and I lost each other at the station.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for still valid, then the Mandarin for to apply for, then say zǒusàn again

Before you move on

What does zǒusàn mean? ("To get separated (in a crowd)".) Say it once more.

456.2 qiúzhù — to ask for help; to turn to someone for help

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to apply for, then the Mandarin for to get separated.

You'll want to know: qiúzhù

qiúzhù — "to ask for help; to turn to someone for help".

wǒ zhǎo bu dào péngyou qù fúwùtái qiúzhù — I can't find my friend, so I'm going to the information desk for help.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qiúzhù is built from qiú 'to seek' and zhù 'to help', both inherited from Middle Chinese, gjuw and dzrjoH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to search for' and the second 'to assist'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: qiúzhù
- Say it: qiúzhù, once more
- Say it: wǒ zhǎo bu dào péngyou qù fúwùtái qiúzhù — I can't find my friend, so I'm going to the information desk for help.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to apply for, then the Mandarin for to get separated, then say qiúzhù again

Before you move on

What does qiúzhù mean? ("To ask for help; to turn to someone for help".) Say it once more.

456.3 路人 (lùrén) — passer-by; stranger in the street

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get separated, then the Mandarin for to turn to someone for help.

You'll want to know: 路人

路人 — lùrén — "passer-by; stranger in the street".

我的地图不见了我问了一个路人 wǒ de dìtú bú jiàn le wǒ wèn le yí ge lùrén — My map had gone, so I asked a passer-by.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 路人 (lùrén) is built from 路 'a road' and 人 'a person', both inherited from Middle Chinese, luH and nyin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: lùrén
- Say it: lùrén, once more
- Say it: wǒ de dìtú bú jiàn le wǒ wèn le yí ge lùrén — My map had gone, so I asked a passer-by.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get separated, then the Mandarin for to turn to someone for help, then say lùrén again

Before you move on

What does 路人 mean? ("Passer-by; stranger in the street".) Say it once more.

456.4 shīzhǔ — the owner of a lost item

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to turn to someone for help, then the Mandarin for a passer-by.

You'll want to know: shīzhǔ

shīzhǔ — "the owner of a lost item".

wǒmen zhǎodào le yí ge qiánbāo zhèngzài zhǎo shīzhǔ — We found a wallet and we're looking for its owner.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shīzhǔ is built from shī 'to lose' and zhǔ 'an owner', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syit and tsyuX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to err' and the second 'to be in charge'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: shīzhǔ
- Say it: shīzhǔ, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zhǎodào le yí ge qiánbāo zhèngzài zhǎo shīzhǔ — We found a wallet and we're looking for its owner.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to turn to someone for help, then the Mandarin for a passer-by, then say shīzhǔ again

Before you move on

What does shīzhǔ mean? ("The owner of a lost item".) Say it once more.

456.5 rènlǐng — to claim lost property

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a passer-by, then the Mandarin for the owner of a lost item.

You'll want to know: rènlǐng

rènlǐng — "to claim lost property".

shīzhǔ kěyǐ qù fúwùtái rènlǐng qiánbāo — The owner can claim the wallet at the information desk.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of rènlǐng is built from rèn 'to recognise' and lǐng 'to receive', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyinH and ljengX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to know' and the second 'to take charge of'; the sense 'to receive' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: rènlǐng
- Say it: rènlǐng, once more
- Say it: shīzhǔ kěyǐ qù fúwùtái rènlǐng qiánbāo — The owner can claim the wallet at the information desk.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a passer-by, then the Mandarin for the owner of a lost item, then say rènlǐng again

Before you move on

What does rènlǐng mean? ("To claim lost property".) Say it once more.

Chapter 457

Thanks for the Help

Modes: voice (7) Hands-free start: all 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can ask a stranger's help politely, ask a favour, say thanks a lot, say I am grateful and ask for a good way to do something.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 457: I can ask a stranger's help politely, ask a favour, say thanks a lot, say I am grateful and ask for a good way to do something.

457.1 láojià — may I trouble you (asking a favour)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the owner of a lost item, then the Mandarin for to claim lost property.

You'll want to know: láojià

láojià — "may I trouble you (asking a favour)".

> láojià qù huǒchēzhàn zěnme zǒu — Excuse me, how do I get to the railway station?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of láojià is built from láo 'to tire' and jià 'a carriage', both inherited from Middle Chinese, law and kaeH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'weary' and the second 'to ride'. The pair is usually explained as an old polite way of asking someone to trouble their carriage.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: láojià
- Say it: láojià, once more
- Say it: láojià qù huǒchēzhàn zěnme zǒu — Excuse me, how do I get to the railway station?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the owner of a lost item, then the Mandarin for to claim lost property, then say láojià again

Before you move on

What does láojià mean? ("May I trouble you (asking a favour)".) Say it once more.

457.2 bàituō — to ask a favour of someone

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to claim lost property, then the Mandarin for may I trouble you.

You'll want to know: bàituō

bàituō — "to ask a favour of someone".

bàituō nǐ bāng wǒ ná xíngli — Could you carry my luggage for me, please?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bàituō is built from bài 'to bow' and tuō 'to entrust', both inherited from Middle Chinese, peajH and thak (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to entrust'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: bàituō
- Say it: bàituō, once more
- Say it: bàituō nǐ bāng wǒ ná xíngli — Could you carry my luggage for me, please?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to claim lost property, then the Mandarin for may I trouble you, then say bàituō again

Before you move on

What does bàituō mean? ("To ask a favour of someone".) Say it once more.

457.3 多谢 (duōxiè) — many thanks; thanks a lot

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for may I trouble you, then the Mandarin for to ask a favour of someone.

You'll want to know: 多谢

多谢 — duōxiè — "many thanks; thanks a lot".

多谢你我找到地图了 duōxiè nǐ wǒ zhǎodào dìtú le — Thanks so much: I've found my map.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 多谢 (duōxiè) is built from 多 'many' and 谢 'to thank', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ta and zjaeH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to decline'; the sense 'to thank' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: duōxiè
- Say it: duōxiè, once more
- Say it: duōxiè nǐ wǒ zhǎodào dìtú le — Thanks so much: I've found my map.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for may I trouble you, then the Mandarin for to ask a favour of someone, then say duōxiè again

Before you move on

What does 多谢 mean? ("Many thanks; thanks a lot".) Say it once more.

457.4 gǎnjī — to feel deeply grateful

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to ask a favour of someone, then the Mandarin for thanks a lot.

You'll want to know: gǎnjī

gǎnjī — "to feel deeply grateful".

nǐ bāng le wǒ hěn duō wǒ hěn gǎnjī — You've helped me so much; I'm very grateful.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

gǎnjī is built from gǎn 'to be moved' and jī 'to surge', both inherited from Middle Chinese, komX and kek (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to move' and the second as a rushing wave.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: gǎnjī
- Say it: gǎnjī, once more
- Say it: nǐ bāng le wǒ hěn duō wǒ hěn gǎnjī — You've helped me so much; I'm very grateful.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to ask a favour of someone, then the Mandarin for thanks a lot, then say gǎnjī again

Before you move on

What does gǎnjī mean? ("To feel deeply grateful".) Say it once more.

457.5 方法 (fāngfǎ) — a way to solve a problem; means

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for thanks a lot, then the Mandarin for to feel deeply grateful.

You'll want to know: 方法

方法 — fāngfǎ — "a way to solve a problem; means".

找不到路的时候你有什么好方法 zhǎo bu dào lù de shíhou nǐ yǒu shénme hǎo fāngfǎ — When you can't find the way, what do you do?

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 方法 (fāngfǎ) is built from 方 'a technique' and 法 'a rule', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjang and pjop (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, among other senses, as an art or technique and the second 'a rule'.

What you've built

One more word for getting around.

Your turn

- Say it: fāngfǎ
- Say it: fāngfǎ, once more
- Say it: zhǎo bu dào lù de shíhou nǐ yǒu shénme hǎo fāngfǎ — When you can't find the way, what do you do?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for thanks a lot, then the Mandarin for to feel deeply grateful, then say fāngfǎ again

Before you move on

What does 方法 mean? ("A way to solve a problem; means".) Say it once more.

457.6 Looking back: from Bags and Cases to Thanks for the Help Say the Mandarin for a backpack and a travel case.

Your turn

- Say it: a backpack, a travel case, to stuff into a bag, to carry in the hand, a luggage tag
- Say it: an information desk, to make an inquiry, books on the shelves, to show someone the way, a travel brochure

- Say it: one's full name, one's citizenship, to be out of date, still valid, to apply for
- Say it: to get separated, to turn to someone for help, a passer-by, the owner of a lost item, to claim lost property
- Say it: may I trouble you, to ask a favour of someone, thanks a lot, to feel deeply grateful, a way to solve a problem
- Read it: 图 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

A backpack? (bēibāo.) A travel case? (xínglixiāng.) To stuff into a bag? (sāi.) To carry in the hand? (līn.) A luggage tag? (biāoqiān.) An information desk? (fúwùtái.) To make an inquiry? (zīxún.) Books on the shelves? (图书, túshū.) To show someone the way? (zhǐlù.) A travel brochure? (xuānchuáncè.) One's full name? (xìngmíng.) One's citizenship? (guójí.) To be out of date? (过期, guòqī.) Still valid? (yǒuxiào.) To apply for? (shēnqǐng.) To get separated? (zǒusàn.) To turn to someone for help? (qiúzhù.) A passer-by? (路人, lùrén.) The owner of a lost item? (shīzhǔ.) To claim lost property? (rènlǐng.) May I trouble you? (láojià.) To ask a favour of someone? (bàituō.) Thanks a lot? (多谢, duōxiè.) To feel deeply grateful? (gǎnjī.) A way to solve a problem? (方法, fāngfǎ.)

457.7 Thanks for the Help — once more

Say the Mandarin for may I trouble you and to ask a favour of someone.

Your turn

- Say it: may I trouble you, to ask a favour of someone, thanks a lot, to feel deeply grateful, a way to solve a problem

Before you move on

May I trouble you? (láojià.) To ask a favour of someone? (bàituō.) Thanks a lot? (多谢, duōxiè.) To feel deeply grateful? (gǎnjī.) A way to solve a problem? (方法, fāngfǎ.)

Chapter 458

How I Feel

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about my mood, feeling for someone, being excited, relaxed or fed up.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 458: I can talk about my mood, feeling for someone, being excited, relaxed or fed up.

458.1 qíngxù — emotions; spirits

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to feel deeply grateful, then the Mandarin for a way to solve a problem.

You'll want to know: qíngxù

qíngxù — "emotions; spirits".

> zuìjìn wǒ de qíngxù bú tài hǎo — My mood hasn't been great lately.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qíngxù is built from qíng 'feeling' and xù 'the end of a thread', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzjeng and zjoX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary explains the first, after an older book, as what a person desires, and the second as the loose end of silk; the sense 'mood' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: qíngxù
- Say it: qíngxù, once more
- Say it: zuìjìn wǒ de qíngxù bú tài hǎo — My mood hasn't been great lately.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to feel deeply grateful, then the Mandarin for a way to solve a problem, then say qíngxù again

Before you move on

What does qíngxù mean? ("Emotions; spirits".) Say it once more.

458.2 心疼 (xīnténg) — to feel for someone; to love dearly

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a way to solve a problem, then the Mandarin for one's spirits.

You'll want to know: 心疼

心疼 — xīnténg — "to feel for someone; to love dearly".

> 孩子病了妈妈很心疼 háizi bìng le māma hěn xīnténg — The child is ill, and her mother's heart aches for her.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 心疼 (xīnténg) is built from 心 'heart' and 疼 'pain', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sim and downg (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'pain'. The regular sound change would give tóng for the second; why the vowel differs is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xīnténg
- Say it: xīnténg, once more
- Say it: háizi bìng le māma hěn xīnténg — The child is ill, and her mother's heart aches for her.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a way to solve a problem, then the Mandarin for one's spirits, then say xīnténg again

Before you move on

What does 心疼 mean? ("To feel for someone; to love dearly".) Say it once more.

458.3 xīngfèn — thrilled; keyed up

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for one's spirits, then the Mandarin for to feel for someone.

You'll want to know: xīngfèn

xīngfèn — "thrilled; keyed up".

míngtiān qù Zhōngguó wǒ gǎnjué hěn xīngfèn — I'm going to China tomorrow, and I feel really excited.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xīngfèn is built from xīng 'to rise' and fèn 'to spread the wings', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xing and pjunH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to rise' and 'to flourish' and the second as a bird spreading its feathers. The sense 'excited' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xīngfèn
- Say it: xīngfèn, once more
- Say it: míngtiān qù Zhōngguó wǒ gǎnjué hěn xīngfèn — I'm going to China tomorrow, and I feel really excited.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for one's spirits, then the Mandarin for to feel for someone, then say xīngfèn again

Before you move on

What does xīngfèn mean? ("Thrilled; keyed up".) Say it once more.

458.4 qīngsōng — relaxed; light and easy

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to feel for someone, then the Mandarin for thrilled.

You'll want to know: qīngsōng

qīngsōng — "relaxed; light and easy".

kǎoshì yǐhòu wǒ gǎnjué hěn qīngsōng — After the exam I feel really relaxed.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qīngsōng is built from qīng 'light' and sōng 'loose', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khjieng and sowng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first as light against heavy, and lists the second under the spelling for loose, tousled hair; the sense 'relaxed' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: qīngsōng
- Say it: qīngsōng, once more
- Say it: kǎoshì yǐhòu wǒ gǎnjué hěn qīngsōng — After the exam I feel really relaxed.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to feel for someone, then the Mandarin for thrilled, then say qīngsōng again

Before you move on

What does qīngsōng mean? ("Relaxed; light and easy".) Say it once more.

458.5 fán — annoyed; fed up

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for thrilled, then the Mandarin for relaxed and at ease.

You'll want to know: fán

fán — "annoyed; fed up".

zhǎo bu dào wǒ de xínglixiāng wǒ hěn fán — I can't find my suitcase, and I'm really fed up.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fán is inherited from Middle Chinese bjon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'weary', and explained after an older book as a hot, aching head. The same syllable is the first half of máfan 'trouble'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: fán
- Say it: fán, once more
- Say it: zhǎo bu dào wǒ de xínglixiāng wǒ hěn fán — I can't find my suitcase, and I'm really fed up.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for thrilled, then the Mandarin for relaxed and at ease, then say fán again

Before you move on

What does fán mean? ("Annoyed; fed up".) Say it once more.

Chapter 459

On My Mind

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say I feel lonely, that I have a lot to do, talk about feelings between people and what is on my mind.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 459: I can say I feel lonely, that I have a lot to do, talk about feelings between people and what is on my mind.

459.1 gūdān — lonely; on one's own

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for relaxed and at ease, then the Mandarin for fed up.

You'll want to know: gūdān

gūdān — "lonely; on one's own".

> wǒ yí ge rén zhù le liǎng nián yǒudiǎnr gūdān — I've lived on my own for two years, and I'm a bit lonely.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gūdān is built from gū 'an orphan' and dān 'single', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ku and tan (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a fatherless child' and the second as single against double.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: gūdān
- Say it: gūdān, once more
- Say it: wǒ yí ge rén zhù le liǎng nián yǒudiǎnr gūdān — I've lived on my own for two years, and I'm a bit lonely.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for relaxed and at ease, then the Mandarin for fed up, then say gūdān again

Before you move on

What does gūdān mean? ("Lonely; on one's own".) Say it once more.

459.2 事情 (shìqing) — matter; affair

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for fed up, then the Mandarin for lonely.

You'll want to know: 事情

事情 — shìqing — "matter; affair".

今天我有很多事情要做 jīntiān wǒ yǒu hěn duō shìqing yào zuò — I've got a lot of things to do today.

The new character, in pieces: 情 — eleven strokes in three pieces: on the left the heart piece, a dot, a second dot and a long vertical; at the top right a bar, a second bar, a vertical through them and a long bar; and under them 月 yuè, four strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 事情 (shìqing) is built from 事 'an affair' and 情 'feeling', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzriH and dzjeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'to employ' and 'to set up', and explains the second, after an older book, as what a person desires; in this word the second is said light, and why it joins the first is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shìqing
- Say it: shìqing, once more
- Say it: jīntiān wǒ yǒu hěn duō shìqing yào zuò — I've got a lot of things to do today.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for fed up, then the Mandarin for lonely, then say shìqing again

Before you move on

What does 事情 mean? ("Matter; affair".) Say it once more.

459.3 情 — the heart piece, then a top over 月

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say shìqing — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  月 事

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — yuè, shì

Script — the heart piece, then a top over 月

How 情 is written, stroke by stroke

情

Three pieces: the left first, then the top right, then the bottom right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, three strokes: the heart piece. A short dot on the left, a short dot on the right falling to the right, then a long vertical down between them from top to foot.

The top right, four strokes. A bar from left to right, a second bar under it, a vertical down through both, then a long bar under them, wider than the two above.

The bottom right, 月, four strokes. The stroke down the left that curves to the left at the foot, the stroke that runs right, turns down and hooks, then the two short bars inside.

3 + 4 + 4 = eleven.

Your turn

- Write it: 情, all eleven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 情 have? (Three: three strokes, four and four.) Which piece comes last? (月, at the bottom right.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 情, pinned stroke paths and medians.

459.4 感情 (gǎnqíng) — affection between people; feelings for each other

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for lonely, then the Mandarin for a matter to deal with.

You'll want to know: 感情

感情 — gǎnqíng — "affection between people; feelings for each other".

wǒmen rènshi le shí nián gǎnqíng hěn hǎo — We've known each other for ten years, and we're very close.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 感情 (gǎnqíng) is built from 感 'to move' and 情 'feeling', both inherited from Middle Chinese, komX and dzjeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to move'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: gǎnqíng
- Say it: gǎnqíng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen rènshi le shí nián gǎnqíng hěn hǎo — We've known each other for ten years, and we're very close.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for lonely, then the Mandarin for a matter to deal with, then say gǎnqíng again

Before you move on

What does 感情 mean? ("Affection between people; feelings for each other".) Say it once more.

459.5 心里话 (xīnlihuà) — what is really on one's mind; words from the heart

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a matter to deal with, then the Mandarin for affection between people.

You'll want to know: 心里话

心里话 — xīnlihuà — "what is really on one's mind; words from the heart".

zhè shì wǒ de xīnlihuà bàituō nǐ bié gàosu biérén — This is what I really think, so please don't tell anyone.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 心里话 (xīnlihuà) is built from 心 'heart', 里 'inside' and 话 'words', all inherited from Middle Chinese, sim, liX and hwaejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'inside' and the third 'speech'. The middle syllable is said light.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xīnlihuà
- Say it: xīnlihuà, once more
- Say it: zhè shì wǒ de xīnlihuà bàituō nǐ bié gàosu biérén — This is what I really think, so please don't tell anyone.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a matter to deal with, then the Mandarin for affection between people, then say xīnlihuà again

Before you move on

What does 心里话 mean? ("What is really on one's mind; words from the heart".) Say it once more.

459.6 wěiqu — wronged; hurt by unfair blame

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for affection between people, then the Mandarin for what is really on one's mind.

You'll want to know: wěiqu

wěiqu — "wronged; hurt by unfair blame".

biérén bù xiāngxìn wǒ wǒ gǎnjué hěn wěiqu — Nobody believes me, and I feel really hard done by.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of wěiqu is built from wěi and qū, both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jweX and khjut (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses both as bent; the sense of a person feeling wronged is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: wěiqu
- Say it: wěiqu, once more
- Say it: biérén bù xiāngxìn wǒ wǒ gǎnjué hěn wěiqu — Nobody believes me, and I feel really hard done by.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for affection between people, then the Mandarin for what is really on one's mind, then say wěiqu again

Before you move on

What does wěiqu mean? (“Wronged; hurt by unfair blame”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 460

Feeling Low

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say I feel down, ask why someone sighs, say I am embarrassed and that I feel for someone or envy them.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 460: I can say I feel down, ask why someone sighs, say I am embarrassed and that I feel for someone or envy them.

460.1 yùmèn — down; gloomy

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for what is really on one's mind, then the Mandarin for hurt by unfair blame.

You'll want to know: yùmèn

yùmèn — "down; gloomy".

> wǒ bìng le yí ge xīngqī hěn yùmèn — I've been ill for a week, and I'm feeling really down.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yùmèn is built from yù 'dense' and mèn 'vexed', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jut and mwonH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as thick and blocked and the second 'vexed'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yùmèn
- Say it: yùmèn, once more
- Say it: wǒ bìng le yí ge xīngqī hěn yùmèn — I've been ill for a week, and I'm feeling really down.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for what is really on one's mind, then the Mandarin for hurt by unfair blame, then say yùmèn again

Before you move on

What does yùmèn mean? ("Down; gloomy".) Say it once more.

460.2 tànqì — to sigh

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for hurt by unfair blame, then the Mandarin for down in the dumps.

You'll want to know: tànqì

tànqì — "to sigh".

nǐ wèishénme tànqì — Why are you sighing?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

tànqì is built from tàn 'to sigh' and 气 'breath', both inherited from Middle Chinese, thanH and khj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as a long breath and the second 'breath'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: tànqì
- Say it: tànqì, once more
- Say it: nǐ wèishénme tànqì — Why are you sighing?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for hurt by unfair blame, then the Mandarin for down in the dumps, then say tànqì again

Before you move on

What does tànqì mean? ("To sigh".) Say it once more.

460.3 难为情 (nánwéiqíng) — embarrassed

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for down in the dumps, then the Mandarin for to sigh.

You'll want to know: 难为情

难为情 — nánwéiqíng — "embarrassed".

大家都笑我我很难为情 dàjiā dōu xiào wǒ wǒ hěn nánwéiqíng — Everyone laughed at me, and I was so embarrassed.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 难为情 (nánwéiqíng) is built from 难 'hard', 为 'to make' and 情 'feeling', all inherited from Middle Chinese, nan, hjwe and dzjeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'hard to do'; the sense 'embarrassed' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: nánwéiqíng
- Say it: nánwéiqíng, once more
- Say it: dàjiā dōu xiào wǒ wǒ hěn nánwéiqíng — Everyone laughed at me, and I was so embarrassed.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for down in the dumps, then the Mandarin for to sigh, then say nánwéiqíng again

Before you move on

What does 难为情 mean? ("Embarrassed".) Say it once more.

460.4 同情 (tóngqíng) — to sympathize with

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to sigh, then the Mandarin for embarrassed.

You'll want to know: 同情

同情 — tóngqíng — "to sympathize with".

nàge háizi gēn māma zǒusàn le wǒ hěn tóngqíng tā — That boy got separated from his mother, and I really feel for him.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 同情 (tóngqíng) is built from 同 'the same' and 情 'feeling', both inherited from Middle Chinese, duwng and dzjeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'equal' and 'together'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: tóngqíng
- Say it: tóngqíng, once more

- Say it: nàge háizi gēn māma zǒusàn le wǒ hěn tóngqíng tā — That boy got separated from his mother, and I really feel for him.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to sigh, then the Mandarin for embarrassed, then say tóngqíng again

Before you move on

What does 同情 mean? ("To sympathize with".) Say it once more.

460.5 xiànmù — to envy

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for embarrassed, then the Mandarin for to sympathize with.

You'll want to know: xiànmù

xiànmù — "to envy".

nǐ qù guo hěn duō guójiā wǒ hěn xiànmù nǐ — You've been to so many countries; I really envy you.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiànmù is built from xiàn 'to covet' and mù 'to long for', both inherited from Middle Chinese, zjenH and muH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary lists the first under three readings and glosses this one 'to covet'; it glosses the second as thinking of someone with longing.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xiànmù
- Say it: xiànmù, once more

- Say it: nǐ qù guo hěn duō guójiā wǒ hěn xiànmù nǐ — You've been to so many countries; I really envy you.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for embarrassed, then the Mandarin for to sympathize with, then say xiànmù again

Before you move on

What does xiànmù mean? ("To envy".) Say it once more.

Chapter 461

Love and Kindness

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say whom I admire, talk about kindness, love stories and the things I love, and what I look forward to.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 461: I can say whom I admire, talk about kindness, love stories and the things I love, and what I look forward to.

461.1 pèifú — to think highly of; to hold in high regard

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to sympathize with, then the Mandarin for to envy.

You'll want to know: pèifú

pèifú — "to think highly of; to hold in high regard".

> wǒ zuì pèifú wǒ de lǎoshī — The person I admire most is my teacher.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of pèifú is built from pèi 'to wear at the belt' and fú 'to serve', both inherited from Middle Chinese, bwojH and bjuwk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as jade worn at the belt and the second 'to serve' and 'clothes'. The sense 'to admire' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: pèifú
- Say it: pèifú, once more
- Say it: wǒ zuì pèifú wǒ de lǎoshī — The person I admire most is my teacher.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to sympathize with, then the Mandarin for to envy, then say pèifú again

Before you move on

What does pèifú mean? ("To think highly of; to hold in high regard".) Say it once more.

461.2 爱心 (àixīn) — compassion; love and care for others

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to envy, then the Mandarin for to hold in high regard.

You'll want to know: 爱心

爱心 — àixīn — "compassion; love and care for others".

nàge lùrén hěn yǒu àixīn wǒ hěn gǎnjī tā — That passer-by was so kind, and I'm very grateful to him.

The new character, in pieces: 爱 — ten strokes in three pieces: at the top a short stroke falling to the left, two dots and a stroke falling to the left, like a hand reaching down; a cover of two strokes, a short stroke down and a bar that turns down with a hook; and under it a bar, a long stroke falling to the left, and 又 yòu. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 爱心 (àixīn) is built from ài 'to love' and 心 'heart', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'ojH and sim (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to cherish'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: àixīn
- Say it: àixīn, once more
- Say it: nàge lùrén hěn yǒu àixīn wǒ hěn gǎnjī tā — That passer-by was so kind, and I'm very grateful to him.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to envy, then the Mandarin for to hold in high regard, then say àixīn again

Before you move on

What does 爱心 mean? ("Compassion; love and care for others".) Say it once more.

461.3 爱 — a hand on top, a cover, and 又 under them

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say àixīn — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

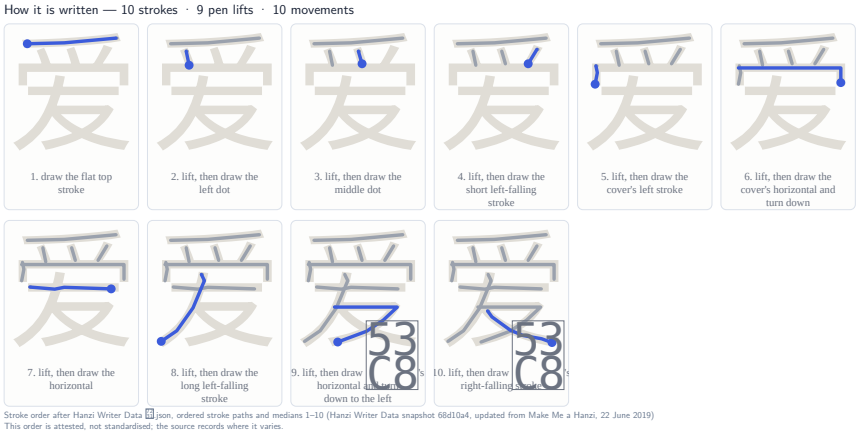
  又 心

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — yòu, xīn

Script — a hand on top, a cover, and 又 under them



How 爱 is written, stroke by stroke

爱

Three pieces, top to bottom. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The top, four strokes. A short stroke from the right falling to the left, a dot, a second dot, then a short stroke falling to the left on the right: a hand reaching down.

The cover, two strokes. A short stroke down on the left, then a bar that runs right, turns down and hooks.

The bottom, four strokes. A bar across, a long stroke falling to the left from above the bar, then 又: a bar that turns into a stroke falling to the left, and a long stroke falling to the right.

4 + 2 + 4 = ten.

Your turn

- Write it: 爱, all ten, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 爱 have? (Three: four strokes, two and four.) Which written character ends it? (又.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 爱, pinned stroke paths and medians.

461.4 爱情 (àiqíng) — romantic love; love between a couple

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to hold in high regard, then the Mandarin for love and care for others.

You'll want to know: 爱情

爱情 — àiqíng — "romantic love; love between a couple".

zhè shì wǒ kàn guo de zuì hǎo de àiqíng diànyǐng — This is the best love film I've ever seen.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 爱情 (àiqíng) is built from 爱 'to love' and 情 'feeling', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'ojH and dzjeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to cherish'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: àiqíng
- Say it: àiqíng, once more
- Say it: zhè shì wǒ kàn guo de zuì hǎo de àiqíng diànyǐng — This is the best love film I've ever seen.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to hold in high regard, then the Mandarin for love and care for others, then say àiqíng again

Before you move on

What does 爱情 mean? ("Romantic love; love between a couple".) Say it once more.

461.5 心爱 (xīn'ài) — beloved; treasured

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for love and care for others, then the Mandarin for love between a couple.

You'll want to know: 心爱

心爱 — xīn'ài — "beloved; treasured".

这是我最心爱的书 zhè shì wǒ zuì xīn'ài de shū — This is my most treasured book.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 心爱 (xīn'ài) is built from 心 'heart' and 爱 'to love', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sim and 'ojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to cherish'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xīn'ài
- Say it: xīn'ài, once more
- Say it: zhè shì wǒ zuì xīn'ài de shū — This is my most treasured book.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for love and care for others, then the Mandarin for love between a couple, then say xīn'ài again

Before you move on

What does 心爱 mean? ("Beloved; treasured".) Say it once more.

461.6 pànwàng — to look forward to; to long for

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for love between a couple, then the Mandarin for treasured.

You'll want to know: pànwàng

pànwàng — "to look forward to; to long for".

háizi dōu pànwàng guònián — All the children are looking forward to the new year.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of pànwàng is built from pàn and wàng 'to look toward', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pheanH and mjangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first as beautiful eyes and the second 'to look toward', after an older book a person far away hoping to come home; the sense 'to look forward to' for the first is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: pànwàng
- Say it: pànwàng, once more
- Say it: háizi dōu pànwàng guònián — All the children are looking forward to the new year.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for love between a couple, then the Mandarin for treasured, then say pànwàng again

Before you move on

What does pànwàng mean? ("To look forward to; to long for".) Say it once more.

Chapter 462

Surprises

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a lovely surprise, something unexpected, hating someone, giving up hope and falling out of love.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 462: I can talk about a lovely surprise, something unexpected, hating someone, giving up hope and falling out of love.

462.1 jīngxǐ — pleasant surprise

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for treasured, then the Mandarin for to look forward to.

You'll want to know: jīngxǐ

jīngxǐ — "pleasant surprise".

> zhè shì wǒ jīnnián zuì dà de jīngxǐ — This is the biggest surprise I've had all year.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jīngxǐ is built from jīng 'to startle' and 喜 'joy', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjaeng and xiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'fear' and, after an older book, a startled horse, and the second 'joy'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jīngxǐ
- Say it: jīngxǐ, once more
- Say it: zhè shì wǒ jīnnián zuì dà de jīngxǐ — This is the biggest surprise I've had all year.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for treasured, then the Mandarin for to look forward to, then say jīngxǐ again

Before you move on

What does jīngxǐ mean? ("Pleasant surprise".) Say it once more.

462.2 意想不到 (yìxiǎngbúdào) — unexpected; beyond what anyone imagined

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to look forward to, then the Mandarin for a pleasant surprise.

You'll want to know: 意想不到

意想不到 — yìxiǎngbúdào — "unexpected; beyond what anyone imagined".

> 这真是一个意想不到的好方法 zhè zhēn shì yí ge yìxiǎngbúdào de hǎo fāngfǎ — That really is an unexpectedly good way of doing it.

不 is said with a rising tone before the falling tone of dào: bú dào.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 意想不到 (yìxiǎngbúdào) is built from 意 'the mind', 想 'to think', 不 'not' and 到 'to reach', all inherited from Middle Chinese, 'iH, sjangX, pjut and tawH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription): what the mind's thinking does not reach.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yìxiǎngbúdào
- Say it: yìxiǎngbúdào, once more
- Say it: zhè zhēn shì yí ge yìxiǎngbúdào de hǎo fāngfǎ — That really is an unexpectedly good way of doing it.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to look forward to, then the Mandarin for a pleasant surprise, then say yìxiǎngbúdào again

Before you move on

What does 意想不到 mean? ("Unexpected; beyond what anyone imagined".) Say it once more.

462.3 hèn — to hate deeply; to resent

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a pleasant surprise, then the Mandarin for beyond what anyone imagined.

You'll want to know: hèn

hèn — "to hate deeply; to resent".

nǐ hái hèn tā ma — Do you still hate him?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of hèn is inherited from Middle Chinese honH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'resentment'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: hèn
- Say it: hèn, once more
- Say it: nǐ hái hèn tā ma — Do you still hate him?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a pleasant surprise, then the Mandarin for beyond what anyone imagined, then say hèn again

Before you move on

What does hèn mean? ("To hate deeply; to resent".) Say it once more.

462.4 死心 (sǐxīn) — to give up hope

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for beyond what anyone imagined, then the Mandarin for to hate deeply.

You'll want to know: 死心

死心 — sǐxīn — "to give up hope".

wǒ děng le tā sān nián xiànzài sǐxīn le — I waited three years for him, and now I've given up.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 死心 (sǐxīn) is built from 死 'to die' and 心 'heart', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sijX and sim (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which explains the first, after an older book, as coming to an end: a heart that has stopped hoping.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: sǐxīn
- Say it: sǐxīn, once more
- Say it: wǒ děng le tā sān nián xiànzài sǐxīn le — I waited three years for him, and now I've given up.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for beyond what anyone imagined, then the Mandarin for to hate deeply, then say sǐxīn again

Before you move on

What does 死心 mean? ("To give up hope".) Say it once more.

462.5 变心 (biànxīn) — to fall out of love; to stop being faithful

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to hate deeply, then the Mandarin for to give up hope.

You'll want to know: 变心

变心 — biànxīn — "to fall out of love; to stop being faithful".

他没有变心他还爱你 tā méiyǒu biànxīn tā hái ài nǐ — He hasn't fallen out of love with you; he still loves you.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 变心 (biànxīn) is built from 变 'to change' and 心 'heart', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjenH and sim (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to change'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: biànxīn
- Say it: biànxīn, once more
- Say it: tā méiyǒu biànxīn tā hái ài nǐ — He hasn't fallen out of love with you; he still loves you.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to hate deeply, then the Mandarin for to give up hope, then say biànxīn again

Before you move on

What does 变心 mean? ("To fall out of love; to stop being faithful".) Say it once more.

Chapter 463

Scared

Modes: voice (6) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say someone is timid, that something is frightening, ask someone not to scare me and talk about nightmares.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 463: I can say someone is timid, that something is frightening, ask someone not to scare me and talk about nightmares.

463.1 dǎnxiǎo — timid; easily scared

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to give up hope, then the Mandarin for to fall out of love.

You'll want to know: dǎnxiǎo

dǎnxiǎo — "timid; easily scared".

> wǒ dìdi bǐ wǒ dǎnxiǎo — My little brother scares more easily than I do.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: dǎn is said with a rising tone before xiǎo, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dǎnxiǎo is built from dǎn 'the gall' and 小 'small', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tamX and sjewX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first in the pair liver and gall. Courage was thought to sit in the gall, so a small gall is a timid heart; the dictionary does not say so itself.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: dǎnxiǎo
- Say it: dǎnxiǎo, once more
- Say it: wǒ dìdi bǐ wǒ dǎnxiǎo — My little brother scares more easily than I do.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to give up hope, then the Mandarin for to fall out of love, then say dǎnxiǎo again

Before you move on

What does dǎnxiǎo mean? ("Timid; easily scared".) Say it once more.

463.2 可怕 (kěpà) — frightening; awful

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to fall out of love, then the Mandarin for easily scared.

You'll want to know: 可怕

可怕 — kěpà — "frightening; awful".

zhège diànyǐng hěn kěpà — This film is really frightening.

The new character, in pieces: 怕 — eight strokes in two pieces: on the left the heart piece, a dot, a second dot and a long vertical; on the right 白 bái, five strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 可怕 (kěpà) is built from 可 'can' and 怕 'to fear', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khaX and phaeH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to permit' and the second 'to fear'. The dictionary lists 怕 under a second reading, phaek, glossed 'still and quiet', which is not this word.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: kěpà
- Say it: kěpà, once more
- Say it: zhège diànyǐng hěn kěpà — This film is really frightening.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to fall out of love, then the Mandarin for easily scared, then say kěpà again

Before you move on

What does 可怕 mean? ("Frightening; awful".) Say it once more.

463.3 怕 — the heart piece, then 白

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say kěpà — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

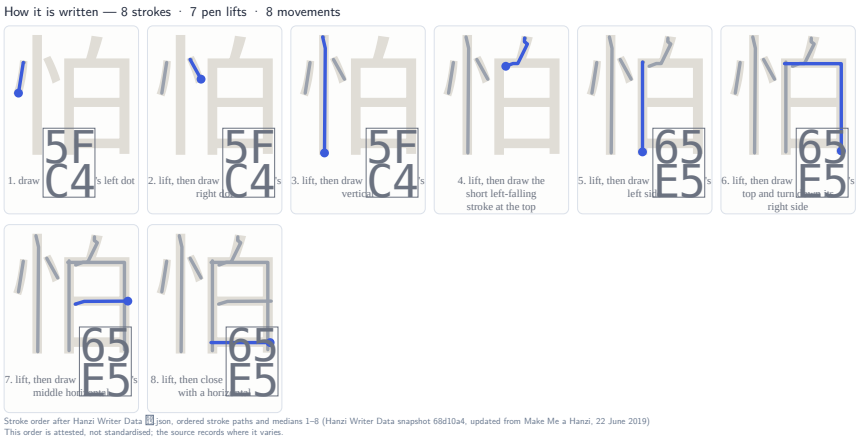
  白 情

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — bái, qíng

Script — the heart piece, then 白



How 怕 is written, stroke by stroke

怕

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, three strokes: the heart piece, as in 情. A short dot on the left, a short dot on the right, then a long vertical down between them.

The right piece, 白, five strokes. A short stroke falling to the left at the top, a vertical down the left, a stroke that runs right and turns down, a short bar inside, then the bar across the foot.

3 + 5 = eight.

Your turn

- Write it: 怕, all eight, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 怕 have? (Two: three strokes and five.)
Which written character is on the right? (白.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 怕, pinned stroke paths and medians.

463.4 xiàrén — scary; giving people a fright

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for easily scared, then the Mandarin for frightening.

You'll want to know: xiàrén

xiàrén — "scary; giving people a fright".

tiānsè hēi le wàibian yǒudiǎnr xiàrén — It's getting dark, and it's a bit scary outside.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiàrén is built from xià and 人 'a person', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xaeH and nyin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary lists the first under two readings and glosses this one as the sound of laughing; the sense 'to frighten' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xiàrén
- Say it: xiàrén, once more
- Say it: tiānsè hēi le wàibian yǒudiǎnr xiàrén — It's getting dark, and it's a bit scary outside.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for easily scared, then the Mandarin for frightening, then say xiàrén again

Before you move on

What does xiàrén mean? ("Scary; giving people a fright".) Say it once more.

463.5 fādǒu — to tremble; to shiver

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for frightening, then the Mandarin for giving people a fright.

You'll want to know: fādǒu

fādǒu — "to tremble; to shiver".

wàibian hěn lěng wǒ de shǒu zài fādǒu — It's freezing outside, and my hands are shaking.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

fādǒu is built from 发 'to set going' and dǒu 'to shake', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjot and tuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to start' and the second as shaking something out.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: fādǒu
- Say it: fādǒu, once more
- Say it: wàibian hěn lěng wǒ de shǒu zài fādǒu — It's freezing outside, and my hands are shaking.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for frightening, then the Mandarin for giving people a fright, then say fādǒu again

Before you move on

What does fādǒu mean? ("To tremble; to shiver".) Say it once more.

463.6 èmèng — nightmare

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for giving people a fright, then the Mandarin for to tremble.

You'll want to know: èmèng

èmèng — "nightmare".

wǒ zuò guo yí ge hěn kěpà de èmèng — I once had a terrifying nightmare.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of èmèng is built from è and mèng 'a dream', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngak and mjuwngH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary gives the first only in the name of a year, and explains the second, after an older book, as the spirit wandering in sleep; the sense 'dreadful' for the first is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: èmèng
- Say it: èmèng, once more
- Say it: wǒ zuò guo yí ge hěn kěpà de èmèng — I once had a terrifying nightmare.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for giving people a fright, then the Mandarin for to tremble, then say èmèng again

Before you move on

What does èmèng mean? ("Nightmare".) Say it once more.

463.7 Looking back: from How I Feel to Scared

Say the Mandarin for one's spirits and to feel for someone.

Your turn

- Say it: one's spirits, to feel for someone, thrilled, relaxed and at ease, fed up
- Say it: lonely, a matter to deal with, affection between people, what is really on one's mind, hurt by unfair blame
- Say it: down in the dumps, to sigh, embarrassed, to sympathize with, to envy
- Say it: to hold in high regard, love and care for others, love between a couple, treasured, to look forward to
- Say it: a pleasant surprise, beyond what anyone imagined, to hate deeply, to give up hope, to fall out of love
- Say it: easily scared, frightening, giving people a fright, to tremble, a nightmare
- Read it: 情 爱 怕 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

One's spirits? (qíngxù.) To feel for someone? (心疼, xīnténg.) Thrilled? (xīngfèn.) Relaxed and at ease? (qīngsōng.) Fed up? (fán.) Lonely? (gūdān.) A matter to deal with? (事情, shìqing.) Affection between people? (感情, gǎnqíng.) What is really on one's mind? (心里话, xīnlihuà.) Hurt by unfair blame? (wěiqu.) Down in the dumps? (yùmèn.) To sigh? (tànqì.) Embarrassed? (难为情, nánwéiqíng.) To sympathize with? (同情, tóngqíng.) To envy? (xiànmù.) To hold in high regard? (pèifú.) Love and care for others? (爱心, àixīn.) Love between a couple? (爱情, àiqíng.) Treasured? (心爱, xīn'ài.) To look forward to? (pànwàng.) A pleasant surprise? (jīngxǐ.) Beyond what anyone imagined? (意想不到, yìxiǎngbúdào.) To hate deeply? (hèn.) To give up hope? (死心, sǐxīn.) To fall out of love? (变心, biànxīn.) Easily scared? (dǎnxiǎo.) Frightening? (可怕, kěpà.) Giving people a fright? (xiàrén.) To tremble? (fādǒu.) A nightmare? (èmèng.)

Chapter 464

Losing My Temper

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say someone lost their temper or has a hot temper, that someone is infuriating, and that I am furious.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 464: I can say someone lost their temper or has a hot temper, that someone is infuriating, and that I am furious.

464.1 发火 (fāhuǒ) — to lose one's temper

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to tremble, then the Mandarin for a nightmare.

You'll want to know: 发火

发火 — fāhuǒ — "to lose one's temper".

> 他发火的时候我很怕他 tā fāhuǒ de shíhou wǒ hěn pà tā — I'm really scared of him when he loses his temper.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 发火 (fāhuǒ) is built from 发 'to send out' and 火 'fire', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjot and xwaX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to start' and 'to raise'. Anger as a fire that breaks out is the usual explanation, not one the dictionary gives.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: fāhuǒ
- Say it: fāhuǒ, once more
- Say it: tā fāhuǒ de shíhou wǒ hěn pà tā — I'm really scared of him when he loses his temper.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to tremble, then the Mandarin for a nightmare, then say fāhuǒ again

Before you move on

What does 发火 mean? ("To lose one's temper".) Say it once more.

464.2 火气 (huǒqì) — temper; anger

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a nightmare, then the Mandarin for to lose one's temper.

You'll want to know: 火气

火气 — huǒqì — "temper; anger".

他的火气比我大 tā de huǒqì bǐ wǒ dà — He has a worse temper than I do.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 火气 (huǒqì) is built from 火 'fire' and 气 'breath', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xwaX and khj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'breath'. The sense 'anger' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: huǒqì
- Say it: huǒqì, once more
- Say it: tā de huǒqì bǐ wǒ dà — He has a worse temper than I do.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a nightmare, then the Mandarin for to lose one's temper, then say huǒqì again

Before you move on

What does 火气 mean? ("Temper; anger".) Say it once more.

464.3 气人 (qìrén) — to be infuriating; to make people angry

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to lose one's temper, then the Mandarin for a hot temper.

You'll want to know: 气人

气人 — qìrén — "to be infuriating; to make people angry".

这个人真气人 zhège rén zhēn qìrén — That man is really infuriating.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 气人 (qìrén) is built from 气 'to anger' and 人 'a person', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khj+jH and nyin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'breath'; the sense 'to anger' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: qìrén
- Say it: qìrén, once more
- Say it: zhège rén zhēn qìrén — That man is really infuriating.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to lose one's temper, then the Mandarin for a hot temper, then say qìrén again

Before you move on

What does 气人 mean? ("To be infuriating; to make people angry".) Say it once more.

464.4 出气 (chūqì) — to vent one's anger; to take it out on someone

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a hot temper, then the Mandarin for to be infuriating.

You'll want to know: 出气

出气 — chūqì — "to vent one's anger; to take it out on someone".

nǐ shēngqì de shíhou bié ná wǒ chūqì — When you get angry, don't take it out on me.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 出气 (chūqì) is built from 出 'out' and 气 'breath', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyhwit and khj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'breath'; letting angry breath out is the usual explanation, not one the dictionary gives.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: chūqì
- Say it: chūqì, once more
- Say it: nǐ shēngqì de shíhou bié ná wǒ chūqì — When you get angry, don't take it out on me.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a hot temper, then the Mandarin for to be infuriating, then say chūqì again

Before you move on

What does 出气 mean? ("To vent one's anger; to take it out on someone".) Say it once more.

464.5 fènnù — furious; indignant

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be infuriating, then the Mandarin for to take it out on someone.

You'll want to know: fènnù

fènnù — "furious; indignant".

tīng le tā de huà wǒ gǎnjué hěn fènnù — When I heard what he said, I was furious.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fènnù is built from fèn and nù, both inherited from Middle Chinese, bjunX and nuH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'vexed' and the second 'anger'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: fènnù
- Say it: fènnù, once more
- Say it: tīng le tā de huà wǒ gǎnjué hěn fènnù — When I heard what he said, I was furious.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be infuriating, then the Mandarin for to take it out on someone, then say fènnù again

Before you move on

What does fènnù mean? ("Furious; indignant".) Say it once more.

Chapter 465

Spoiling the Fun

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say we had a great time, that something spoiled the fun, and talk about being optimistic, gloomy or sure of myself.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 465: I can say we had a great time, that something spoiled the fun, and talk about being optimistic, gloomy or sure of myself.

465.1 tòngkuài — delighted; to one's heart's content

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to take it out on someone, then the Mandarin for furious.

You'll want to know: tòngkuài

tòngkuài — "delighted; to one's heart's content".

> wǒmen wán le yì tiān wán de hěn tòngkuài — We spent the whole day having fun and enjoyed every minute of it.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tòngkuài is built from tòng 'to hurt' and 快 'glad', both inherited from Middle Chinese, thuwngH and khwaejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'illness' and 'to hurt' and the second as what pleases the heart. The sense 'thoroughly' for the first is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: tòngkuài
- Say it: tòngkuài, once more
- Say it: wǒmen wán le yì tiān wán de hěn tòngkuài — We spent the whole day having fun and enjoyed every minute of it.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to take it out on someone, then the Mandarin for furious, then say tòngkuài again

Before you move on

What does tòngkuài mean? ("Delighted; to one's heart's content".) Say it once more.

465.2 扫兴 (sǎoxìng) — deflated; with the fun spoiled

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for furious, then the Mandarin for to one's heart's content.

You'll want to know: 扫兴

扫兴 — sǎoxìng — "deflated; with the fun spoiled".

下雨了真扫兴 xiàyǔ le zhēn sǎoxìng — It's raining. What a let-down.

The new character, in pieces: 兴 — six strokes in three pieces: at the top a dot, a second dot and a short stroke falling to the left; a long bar across; and under it 八 bā, two strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 扫兴 (sǎoxìng) is built from 扫 'to sweep' and 兴 'high spirits', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sawX and xingH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'to sweep away'; it gives the second reading no gloss of its own, so 'high spirits' is the usual explanation, not a settled one.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: sǎoxìng
- Say it: sǎoxìng, once more
- Say it: xiàyǔ le zhēn sǎoxìng — It's raining. What a let-down.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for furious, then the Mandarin for to one's heart's content, then say sǎoxìng again

Before you move on

What does 扫兴 mean? ("Deflated; with the fun spoiled".) Say it once more.

465.3 兴 — three short strokes over a bar, and 八 under it

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say sǎoxìng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

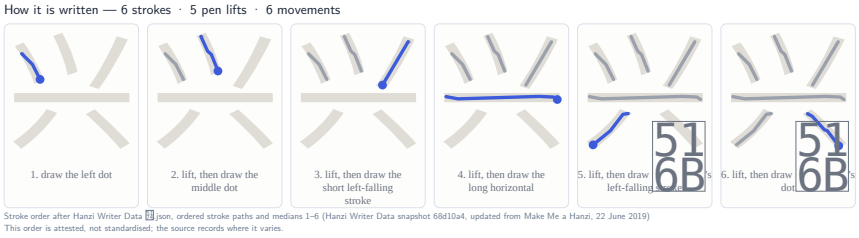
  八 高

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — bā, gāo

Script — three short strokes over a bar, and 丿乀 under it



How 兴 is written, stroke by stroke

兴

Three pieces, top to bottom. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The top, three strokes. A dot on the left, a second dot in the middle, both falling to the right, then a short stroke on the right falling to the left.

The bar, one stroke. A long bar across, from left to right, wider than everything above it.

The bottom, 丿乀, two strokes. A stroke falling to the left, then a short stroke falling to the right.

3 + 1 + 2 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 兴, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 兴 have? (Three: three strokes, one and two.) What is under the bar? (丿乀.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 兴, pinned stroke paths and medians.

465.4 lèguān — optimistic

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to one's heart's content, then the Mandarin for the fun spoiled.

You'll want to know: lèguān

lèguān — "optimistic".

> wǒ nǎinai shì wǒmen jiā zuì lèguān de rén — My grandmother is the most optimistic person in our family.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of lèguān is built from 乐 'joy' and guān 'to view', both inherited from Middle Chinese, lak and kwan (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'joy' and the second 'to look': looking at things with joy.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: lèguān
- Say it: lèguān, once more
- Say it: wǒ nǎinai shì wǒmen jiā zuì lèguān de rén — My grandmother is the most optimistic person in our family.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to one's heart's content, then the Mandarin for the fun spoiled, then say lèguān again

Before you move on

What does lèguān mean? ("Optimistic".) Say it once more.

465.5 bēiguān — pessimistic

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the fun spoiled, then the Mandarin for optimistic.

You'll want to know: bēiguān

bēiguān — "pessimistic".

nǐ bié zhème bēiguān — Don't be so pessimistic.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bēiguān is built from bēi 'grief' and guān 'to view', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pij and kwan (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'pain' and the second 'to look'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: bēiguān
- Say it: bēiguān, once more
- Say it: nǐ bié zhème bēiguān — Don't be so pessimistic.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the fun spoiled, then the Mandarin for optimistic, then say bēiguān again

Before you move on

What does bēiguān mean? ("Pessimistic".) Say it once more.

465.6 自信 (zìxìn) — self-confident; sure of oneself

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for optimistic, then the Mandarin for pessimistic.

You'll want to know: 自信

自信 — zìxìn — "self-confident; sure of oneself".

看到他这么自信我很高兴 kàn dào tā zhème zìxìn wǒ hěn gāoxìng — I'm really glad to see him so sure of himself.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 自信 (zìxìn) is built from 自 'self' and 信 'to trust', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzijH and sinH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'from' and the second 'faithful' and 'proof'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zìxìn
- Say it: zìxìn, once more
- Say it: kàn dào tā zhème zìxìn wǒ hěn gāoxìng — I'm really glad to see him so sure of himself.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for optimistic, then the Mandarin for pessimistic, then say zìxìn again

Before you move on

What does 自信 mean? ("Self-confident; sure of oneself".) Say it once more.

Chapter 466

Keeping Calm

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say someone is lost in thought, tell someone to calm down, talk about my heartbeat, smiles and peace of mind.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 466: I can say someone is lost in thought, tell someone to calm down, talk about my heartbeat, smiles and peace of mind.

466.1 fādāi — to stare blankly; to be lost in a daze

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for pessimistic, then the Mandarin for sure of oneself.

You'll want to know: fādāi

fādāi — "to stare blankly; to be lost in a daze".

> shàngkè de shíhou tā chángcháng fādāi — In class he's often lost in a daze.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fādāi is built from 发 'to set going' and dāi 'dull'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese pjot (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to start'. The dictionary has no entry under the spelling of the second; under a variant spelling it records ngoj, glossed 'foolish', which would regularly give ái, not dāi, so the history of dāi is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: fādāi
- Say it: fādāi, once more
- Say it: shàngkè de shíhou tā chángcháng fādāi — In class he's often lost in a daze.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for pessimistic, then the Mandarin for sure of oneself, then say fādāi again

Before you move on

What does fādāi mean? ("To stare blankly; to be lost in a daze".) Say it once more.

466.2 冷静 (lěngjìng) — calm; cool-headed

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for sure of oneself, then the Mandarin for to be lost in a daze.

You'll want to know: 冷静

冷静 — lěngjìng — "calm; cool-headed".

你太高兴了先冷静一点儿 nǐ tài gāoxìng le xiān lěngjìng yìdiǎnr — You're getting carried away. Calm down a little first.

The new character, in pieces: 靜 — fourteen strokes in two pieces: on the left the right piece of 情, a top of four strokes over 月 yuè; on the right a short stroke falling to the left, a bar that turns into a stroke falling to the left, a stroke that runs right and turns down, two bars and a vertical with a hook. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 冷靜 (lěngjìng) is built from 冷 'cold' and 靜 'still', both inherited from Middle Chinese, lengX and dzjengX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'cold' and the second 'at peace'. The dictionary lists 冷 under three readings, two of them glossed 'cold'; lengX is one of those two.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: lěngjìng
- Say it: lěngjìng, once more
- Say it: nǐ tài gāoxìng le xiān lěngjìng yìdiǎnr — You're getting carried away. Calm down a little first.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for sure of oneself, then the Mandarin for to be lost in a daze, then say lěngjìng again

Before you move on

What does 冷靜 mean? ("Calm; cool-headed".) Say it once more.

466.3 靜 — the right piece of 情, then a right side of six

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say lěngjìng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

情 冷

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — qíng, lěng

Script — the right piece of 情, then a right side of six

How 靜 is written, stroke by stroke

靜

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, eight strokes: the right piece of 情. A bar, a second bar, a vertical down through them and a long bar; then 月 under them: the stroke down the left, the stroke that runs right, turns down and hooks, and the two short bars inside.

The right piece, six strokes. A short stroke falling to the left. A bar that turns into a stroke falling to the left, like a small roof. A stroke that runs right and turns down. A long bar through it, a second bar under it, then a vertical down the middle that hooks to the left at the foot.

8 + 6 = fourteen.

Your turn

- Write it: 靜, all fourteen, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 靜 have? (Two: eight strokes and six.)
Where have you written the left piece before? (On the right of 情.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 靜, pinned stroke paths and medians.

466.4 xīntiào — heartbeat

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be lost in a daze, then the Mandarin for cool-headed.

You'll want to know: xīntiào

xīntiào — "heartbeat".

wǒ gǎnjué xīntiào hěn kuài — I can feel my heart racing.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xīntiào is built from 心 'heart' and tiào 'to jump', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sim and dew (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to leap'. The regular change from dew gives a rising tone; how tiào came to its falling tone is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xīntiào
- Say it: xīntiào, once more

- Say it: wǒ gǎnjué xīntiào hěn kuài — I can feel my heart racing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be lost in a daze, then the Mandarin for cool-headed, then say xīntiào again

Before you move on

What does xīntiào mean? ("Heartbeat".) Say it once more.

466.5 wēixiào — to give a gentle smile

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for cool-headed, then the Mandarin for a heartbeat.

You'll want to know: wēixiào

wēixiào — "to give a gentle smile".

tā wēixiào de shíhou zuì hǎokàn — She looks her best when she smiles.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of wēixiào is built from wēi 'slight' and 笑 'to laugh', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mj+j and sjewH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'fine' and 'small' and the second 'glad'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: wēixiào
- Say it: wēixiào, once more
- Say it: tā wēixiào de shíhou zuì hǎokàn — She looks her best when she smiles.

- Recall: say the Mandarin for cool-headed, then the Mandarin for a heartbeat, then say wēixiào again

Before you move on

What does wēixiào mean? ("To give a gentle smile".) Say it once more.

466.6 píngjìng — calm; peaceful inside

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a heartbeat, then the Mandarin for to give a gentle smile.

You'll want to know: píngjìng

píngjìng — "calm; peaceful inside".

tīng le yīnyuè yǐhòu wǒ de xīnqíng hěn píngjìng — After listening to some music, I feel at peace.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of píngjìng is built from píng 'level' and 靜 'still', both inherited from Middle Chinese, bjaeng and dzjengX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'straight' and 'calm' and the second 'at peace'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: píngjìng
- Say it: píngjìng, once more
- Say it: tīng le yīnyuè yǐhòu wǒ de xīnqíng hěn píngjìng — After listening to some music, I feel at peace.

- Recall: say the Mandarin for a heartbeat, then the Mandarin for to give a gentle smile, then say píngjìng again

Before you move on

What does píngjìng mean? (“Calm; peaceful inside”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 467

What Kind of Person

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about someone's temper, personality and nature, and say someone is cheerful or lively.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 467: I can talk about someone's temper, personality and nature, and say someone is cheerful or lively.

467.1 píqi — temper; temperament

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to give a gentle smile, then the Mandarin for peaceful inside.

You'll want to know: píqi

píqi — "temper; temperament".

> wǒ bàba de píqi bǐ wǒ māma hǎo — My dad is better-tempered than my mum.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of píqi is built from pí 'the spleen' and qì 'breath', both inherited from Middle Chinese, bjie and khj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which explains the first, after an older book, as the organ of earth that helps the stomach. Temper as the breath of the spleen is the usual explanation, not one the dictionary gives.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: píqi
- Say it: píqi, once more
- Say it: wǒ bàba de píqi bǐ wǒ māma hǎo — My dad is better-tempered than my mum.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to give a gentle smile, then the Mandarin for peaceful inside, then say píqi again

Before you move on

What does píqi mean? ("Temper; temperament".) Say it once more.

467.2 个性 (gèxìng) — individuality; a strong personality

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for peaceful inside, then the Mandarin for a person's temperament.

You'll want to know: 个性

个性 — gèxìng — "individuality; a strong personality".

tā hěn yǒu gèxìng — She has a lot of personality.

The new character, in pieces: 性 — eight strokes in two pieces: on the left the heart piece, a dot, a second dot and a long vertical; on the right 生 shēng, five strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 个性 (gèxìng) is built from 个 'single' and 性 'nature', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaH and sjengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'one-sided' and the second 'nature and conduct'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: gèxìng
- Say it: gèxìng, once more
- Say it: tā hěn yǒu gèxìng — She has a lot of personality.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for peaceful inside, then the Mandarin for a person's temperament, then say gèxìng again

Before you move on

What does 个性 mean? ("Individuality; a strong personality".) Say it once more.

467.3 性 — the heart piece, then 生

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say gèxìng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

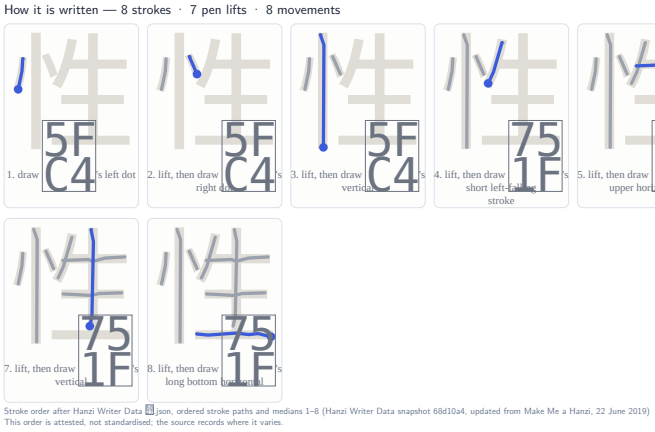
  生 怕

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — shēng, pà

Script — the heart piece, then 生



How 性 is written, stroke by stroke

性

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, three strokes: the heart piece. A short dot on the left, a short dot on the right, then a long vertical down between them.

The right piece, 生, five strokes. A short stroke falling to the left at the top, a bar, a second bar, a vertical down through them, then a long bar across the foot.

3 + 5 = eight.

Your turn

- Write it: 性, all eight, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 性 have? (Two: three strokes and five.)
Which written character is on the right? (生.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 性, pinned stroke paths and medians.

467.4 天性 (tiānxìng) — one's nature; an inborn trait

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a person's temperament, then the Mandarin for a strong personality.

You'll want to know: 天性

天性 — tiānxìng — "one's nature; an inborn trait".

安静是他的天性 ānjìng shì tā de tiānxìng — Being quiet is in his nature.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 天性 (tiānxìng) is built from 天 'heaven' and 性 'nature', both inherited from Middle Chinese, then and sjengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the dark heaven above' and the second 'nature and conduct': the nature heaven gives.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: tiānxìng
- Say it: tiānxìng, once more
- Say it: ānjìng shì tā de tiānxìng — Being quiet is in his nature.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a person's temperament, then the Mandarin for a strong personality, then say tiānxìng again

Before you move on

What does 天性 mean? ("One's nature; an inborn trait".) Say it once more.

467.5 kāilǎng — cheerful and outgoing

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a strong personality, then the Mandarin for an inborn trait.

You'll want to know: kāilǎng

kāilǎng — "cheerful and outgoing".

wǒ de péngyou lǐ tā zuì kāilǎng — Of all my friends, she's the most cheerful.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of kāilǎng is built from 开 'to open' and lǎng 'bright', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khoj and langX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'bright'. The sense of a cheerful nature is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: kāilǎng
- Say it: kāilǎng, once more
- Say it: wǒ de péngyou lǐ tā zuì kāilǎng — Of all my friends, she's the most cheerful.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a strong personality, then the Mandarin for an inborn trait, then say kāilǎng again

Before you move on

What does kāilǎng mean? ("Cheerful and outgoing".) Say it once more.

467.6 huópō — full of life; vivacious

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an inborn trait, then the Mandarin for cheerful and outgoing.

You'll want to know: huópō

huópō — "full of life; vivacious".

wǒ nǚ'ér hěn huópō yě hěn ài xiào — My daughter is very lively and laughs a lot.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huópō is built from 活 'alive' and pō 'to splash'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese hwat (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'not dead'; no dictionary we use records an older form of the second, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: huópō
- Say it: huópō, once more
- Say it: wǒ nǚ'ér hěn huópō yě hěn ài xiào — My daughter is very lively and laughs a lot.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an inborn trait, then the Mandarin for cheerful and outgoing, then say huópō again

Before you move on

What does huópō mean? ("Full of life; vivacious".) Say it once more.

Chapter 468

Good Points

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say someone is kind-hearted, good-natured, strong, hard-working or considerate.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 468: I can say someone is kind-hearted, good-natured, strong, hard-working or considerate.

468.1 shànliáng — kind-hearted

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for cheerful and outgoing, then the Mandarin for full of life.

You'll want to know: shànliáng

shànliáng — "kind-hearted".

> wǒ māma shì wǒ rènshi de zuì shànliáng de rén — My mother is the kindest person I know.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shànliáng is built from shàn and liáng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyenX and ljang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses each with the other: 'good'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shànliáng
- Say it: shànliáng, once more
- Say it: wǒ māma shì wǒ rènshi de zuì shànliáng de rén — My mother is the kindest person I know.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for cheerful and outgoing, then the Mandarin for full of life, then say shànliáng again

Before you move on

What does shànliáng mean? ("Kind-hearted".) Say it once more.

468.2 和气 (héqi) — good-natured; pleasant to deal with

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for full of life, then the Mandarin for kind-hearted.

You'll want to know: 和气

和气 — héqi — "good-natured; pleasant to deal with".

他很安静对人也很和气 tā hěn ānjìng duì rén yě hěn héqi — He's quiet, and he's pleasant to everyone too.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 和气 (héqi) is built from 和 'harmony' and 气 'breath', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hwa and khj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'in tune' and 'neither hard nor soft'. The second is said light.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: héqi
- Say it: héqi, once more
- Say it: tā hěn ānjìng duì rén yě hěn héqi — He's quiet, and he's pleasant to everyone too.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for full of life, then the Mandarin for kind-hearted, then say héqi again

Before you move on

What does 和气 mean? ("Good-natured; pleasant to deal with".) Say it once more.

468.3 jiānqiáng — strong; tough (in spirit)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for kind-hearted, then the Mandarin for pleasant to deal with.

You'll want to know: jiānqiáng

jiānqiáng — "strong; tough (in spirit)".

tā bìng le liǎng nián kěshì tā hěn jiānqiáng — She has been ill for two years, but she's very strong.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiānqiáng is built from jiān 'firm' and qiáng 'strong', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ken and gjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'firm' and the second 'healthy' and 'strong'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jiānqiáng
- Say it: jiānqiáng, once more
- Say it: tā bìng le liǎng nián kěshì tā hěn jiānqiáng — She has been ill for two years, but she's very strong.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for kind-hearted, then the Mandarin for pleasant to deal with, then say jiānqiáng again

Before you move on

What does jiānqiáng mean? ("Strong; tough (in spirit)".) Say it once more.

468.4 qínkuài — diligent with chores; quick to pitch in

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for pleasant to deal with, then the Mandarin for strong in spirit.

You'll want to know: qínkuài

qínkuài — "diligent with chores; quick to pitch in".

tā bǐ tā gēge qínkuài — He's more hard-working than his big brother.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qínkuài is built from qín 'toil' and 快 'quick', both inherited from Middle Chinese, gj+n and khwaejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'toil' and the second as what pleases the heart; the sense 'quick' for the second is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: qínkuài
- Say it: qínkuài, once more
- Say it: tā bǐ tā gēge qínkuài — He's more hard-working than his big brother.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for pleasant to deal with, then the Mandarin for strong in spirit, then say qínkuài again

Before you move on

What does qínkuài mean? ("Diligent with chores; quick to pitch in".) Say it once more.

468.5 tǐtiē — considerate; thoughtful of others' needs

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for strong in spirit, then the Mandarin for quick to pitch in.

You'll want to know: tǐtiē

tǐtiē — "considerate; thoughtful of others' needs".

wǒ bìng de shíhou tā duì wǒ hěn tǐtiē — When I was ill, he was very considerate to me.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tǐtiē is built from 体 'body' and tiē 'to stick to', both inherited from Middle Chinese, thejX and thep (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'the body' and the second as pawning a thing for money; the sense 'considerate' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: tǐtiē
- Say it: tǐtiē, once more
- Say it: wǒ bìng de shíhou tā duì wǒ hěn tǐtiē — When I was ill, he was very considerate to me.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for strong in spirit, then the Mandarin for quick to pitch in, then say tǐtiē again

Before you move on

What does tǐtiē mean? ("Considerate; thoughtful of others' needs".) Say it once more.

Chapter 469

Gentle and Steady

Modes: voice (6) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say someone is impulsive, gentle, decent or steady, and that someone is an impatient sort.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 469: I can say someone is impulsive, gentle, decent or steady, and that someone is an impatient sort.

469.1 chōngdòng — impulsive; rash

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for quick to pitch in, then the Mandarin for thoughtful of others' needs.

You'll want to know: chōngdòng

chōngdòng — "impulsive; rash".

> tā tài chōngdòng le chángcháng shuō cuò huà — He's too impulsive and often says the wrong thing.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chōngdòng is built from chōng 'to dash against' and dòng 'to move', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyhowng and duwngX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to rush at' and the second 'restless' and 'to move'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: chōngdòng
- Say it: chōngdòng, once more
- Say it: tā tài chōngdòng le chángcháng shuō cuò huà — He's too impulsive and often says the wrong thing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for quick to pitch in, then the Mandarin for thoughtful of others' needs, then say chōngdòng again

Before you move on

What does chōngdòng mean? ("Impulsive; rash".) Say it once more.

469.2 温和 (wēnhé) — gentle in manner; soft-spoken

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for thoughtful of others' needs, then the Mandarin for impulsive.

You'll want to know: 温和

温和 — wēnhé — "gentle in manner; soft-spoken".

他的个性比我温和 tā de gèxìng bǐ wǒ wēnhé — He has a gentler nature than I do.

The new character, in pieces: 温 — twelve strokes in three pieces: on the left the water piece, a dot, a second dot and a rising stroke; at the top right 日 rì, four strokes; at the foot a dish of five strokes, a vertical, a stroke that runs right and turns down, two short verticals and a bar. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 温和 (wēnhé) is built from 温 'warm' and 和 'harmony', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'won and hwa (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'mild', 'good', 'soft' and 'warm' and the second 'in tune'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: wēnhé
- Say it: wēnhé, once more
- Say it: tā de gèxìng bǐ wǒ wēnhé — He has a gentler nature than I do.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for thoughtful of others' needs, then the Mandarin for impulsive, then say wēnhé again

Before you move on

What does 温和 mean? ("Gentle in manner; soft-spoken".) Say it once more.

469.3 温 — the water piece, then 日 over a dish

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say wēnhé — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

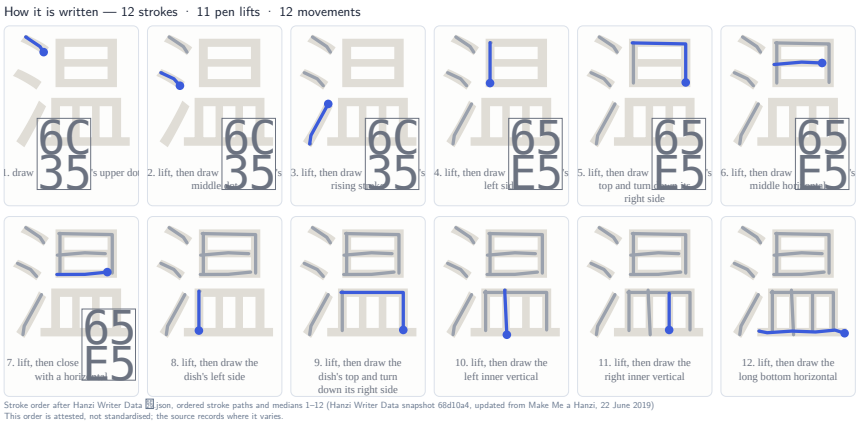
汉 日 和

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — hàn, rì, hé

Script — the water piece, then 日 over a dish



How 温 is written, stroke by stroke

温

Three pieces: the left, then the top right, then the foot. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, three strokes: the water piece, as in 汉. A dot, a second dot under it, then a stroke that rises from the bottom left up to the right.

The top right, 日, four strokes. A vertical down the left, a stroke that runs right and turns down, a bar inside, then the bar across the foot.

The foot, a dish, five strokes. A short vertical on the left, a stroke that runs right and turns down, two short verticals inside, then a long bar across the bottom, under everything.

3 + 4 + 5 = twelve.

Your turn

- Write it: 温, all twelve, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 温 have? (Three: three strokes, four and five.) Which written character sits at the top right? (日.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 温, pinned stroke paths and medians.

469.4 正经 (zhèngjīng) — decent; serious and proper

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for impulsive, then the Mandarin for gentle in manner.

You'll want to know: 正经

正经 — zhèngjīng — "decent; serious and proper".

他是一个很正经的人 tā shì yí ge hěn zhèngjīng de rén — He's a very decent man.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 正经 (zhèngjīng) is built from 正 'straight' and 经 'the warp thread', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyengH and keng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'right' and 'proper' and the second 'constant' and as the warp of cloth. The sense 'decent' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhèngjīng
- Say it: zhèngjīng, once more
- Say it: tā shì yí ge hěn zhèngjīng de rén — He's a very decent man.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for impulsive, then the Mandarin for gentle in manner, then say zhèngjīng again

Before you move on

What does 正经 mean? ("Decent; serious and proper".) Say it once more.

469.5 wěnzhòng — steady; calm and reliable

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for gentle in manner, then the Mandarin for decent and proper.

You'll want to know: wěnzhòng

wěnzhòng — "steady; calm and reliable".

tā bǐ tā jiějie wěnzhòng — She's steadier than her big sister.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of wěnzhòng is built from wěn 'settled' and 重 'heavy', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'wonX and drjowngX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as grain gathered and 'safe and settled', and the second 'thick' and 'careful'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: wěnzhòng
- Say it: wěnzhòng, once more
- Say it: tā bǐ tā jiějie wěnzhòng — She's steadier than her big sister.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for gentle in manner, then the Mandarin for decent and proper, then say wěnzhòng again

Before you move on

What does wěnzhòng mean? ("Steady; calm and reliable".) Say it once more.

469.6 jíxìngzi — an impatient sort; a hothead

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for decent and proper, then the Mandarin for steady and reliable.

You'll want to know: jíxìngzi jíxìngzi — "an impatient sort; a hothead".

wǒ bàba shì ge jíxìngzi — My dad is the impatient sort.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jíxìngzi is built from jí 'hasty', 性 'nature' and 子, a noun ending, all inherited from Middle Chinese, kip, sjengH and tsiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'urgent' and 'quick'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jíxìngzi
- Say it: jíxìngzi, once more
- Say it: wǒ bàba shì ge jíxìngzi — My dad is the impatient sort.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for decent and proper, then the Mandarin for steady and reliable, then say jíxìngzi again

Before you move on

What does jíxìngzi mean? ("An impatient sort; a hothead".) Say it once more.

469.7 Looking back: from Losing My Temper to Gentle and Steady

Say the Mandarin for to lose one's temper and a hot temper.

Your turn

- Say it: to lose one's temper, a hot temper, to be infuriating, to take it out on someone, furious
- Say it: to one's heart's content, the fun spoiled, optimistic, pessimistic, sure of oneself
- Say it: to be lost in a daze, cool-headed, a heartbeat, to give a gentle smile, peaceful inside
- Say it: a person's temperament, a strong personality, an inborn trait, cheerful and outgoing, full of life
- Say it: kind-hearted, pleasant to deal with, strong in spirit, quick to pitch in, thoughtful of others' needs
- Say it: impulsive, gentle in manner, decent and proper, steady and reliable, an impatient sort
- Read it: 兴 静 性 温 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

To lose one's temper? (发火, fāhuǒ.) A hot temper? (火气, huǒqì.) To be infuriating? (气人, qìrén.) To take it out on someone? (出气, chūqì.) Furious? (fènnù.) To one's heart's content? (tòngkuài.) The fun spoiled? (扫兴, sǎoxìng.) Optimistic? (lèguān.) Pessimistic? (bēiguān.) Sure of oneself? (自信, zìxìn.) To be lost in a daze? (fādāi.) Cool-headed? (冷静, lěngjìng.) A heartbeat? (xīntiào.) To give a gentle smile? (wēixiào.) Peaceful inside? (píngjìng.) A person's temperament? (píqi.) A strong personality? (个性, gèxìng.) An inborn trait? (天性, tiānxìng.) Cheerful and outgoing? (kāilǎng.) Full of life? (huópō.) Kind-hearted? (shànliáng.) Pleasant to deal with? (和气, héqi.) Strong in spirit? (jiānqiáng.) Quick to pitch in? (qínkuài.) Thoughtful of others' needs? (tǐtiē.) Impulsive? (chōngdòng.) Gentle in manner? (温和, wēnhé.) Decent and proper? (正经, zhèngjīng.) Steady and reliable? (wěnzhòng.) An impatient sort? (jíxìngzi.)

Chapter 470

Faults

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say someone is selfish, stubborn, a bit full of himself or sloppy, and that I feel stupid.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 470: I can say someone is selfish, stubborn, a bit full of himself or sloppy, and that I feel stupid.

470.1 zìsī — selfish

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for steady and reliable, then the Mandarin for an impatient sort.

You'll want to know: zìsī

zìsī — "selfish".

> wǒ zuì bù xǐhuan zìsī de rén — Selfish people are the ones I like least.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zìsī is built from 自 'self' and sī 'private', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzijH and sij (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'not public'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zìsī
- Say it: zìsī, once more
- Say it: wǒ zuì bù xǐhuan zìsī de rén — Selfish people are the ones I like least.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for steady and reliable, then the Mandarin for an impatient sort, then say zìsī again

Before you move on

What does zìsī mean? ("Selfish".) Say it once more.

470.2 gùzhí — stubborn

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an impatient sort, then the Mandarin for selfish.

You'll want to know: gùzhí

gùzhí — "stubborn".

wǒ yéye bǐ wǒ nǎinai gùzhí — My grandfather is more stubborn than my grandmother.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

gùzhí is built from gù 'firm' and zhí 'to hold', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kuH and tsyip (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'firm' and the second 'to hold' and 'to keep': holding on to one's view.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: gùzhí
- Say it: gùzhí, once more
- Say it: wǒ yéye bǐ wǒ nǎinai gùzhí — My grandfather is more stubborn than my grandmother.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an impatient sort, then the Mandarin for selfish, then say gùzhí again

Before you move on

What does gùzhí mean? ("Stubborn".) Say it once more.

470.3 jiāo'ào — proud; full of oneself

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for selfish, then the Mandarin for stubborn.

You'll want to know: jiāo'ào

jiāo'ào — "proud; full of oneself".

tā hěn cōngming kěshì yǒudiǎnr jiāo'ào — He's very clever, but a bit full of himself.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiāo'ào is built from jiāo and ào 'haughty', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjew and ngawH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first as a horse six feet tall and the second 'arrogant'; the sense 'proud' for the first is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jiāo'ào
- Say it: jiāo'ào, once more
- Say it: tā hěn cōngming kěshì yǒudiǎnr jiāo'ào — He's very clever, but a bit full of himself.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for selfish, then the Mandarin for stubborn, then say jiāo'ào again

Before you move on

What does jiāo'ào mean? ("Proud; full of oneself".) Say it once more.

470.4 mǎhu — sloppy; slapdash

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for stubborn, then the Mandarin for full of oneself.

You'll want to know: mǎhu

mǎhu — "sloppy; slapdash".

tā zuò zuòyè hěn mǎhu — He's slapdash about his homework.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of mǎhu is built from 马 'horse' and hǔ 'tiger', both inherited from Middle Chinese, maeX and xuX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). How a horse and a tiger came to mean 'careless' is not settled; the second syllable is said light.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: mǎhu
- Say it: mǎhu, once more
- Say it: tā zuò zuòyè hěn mǎhu — He's slapdash about his homework.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for stubborn, then the Mandarin for full of oneself, then say mǎhu again

Before you move on

What does mǎhu mean? ("Sloppy; slapdash".) Say it once more.

470.5 bèn — slow-witted; clumsy

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for full of oneself, then the Mandarin for slapdash.

You'll want to know: bèn

bèn — "slow-witted; clumsy".

wǒ gǎnjué zìjǐ hěn bèn — I feel really stupid.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bèn is inherited from Middle Chinese bwonX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed as the inside of a bamboo stem; the dictionary also records a fat man nicknamed with this word. The sense 'stupid' is not given there, so how it came is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: bèn
- Say it: bèn, once more
- Say it: wǒ gǎnjué zìjǐ hěn bèn — I feel really stupid.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for full of oneself, then the Mandarin for slapdash, then say bèn again

Before you move on

What does bèn mean? ("Slow-witted; clumsy".) Say it once more.

Chapter 471

Eyes

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about tears, what is right in front of me, petty people, being short-sighted and a wink.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 471: I can talk about tears, what is right in front of me, petty people, being short-sighted and a wink.

471.1 yǎnlèi — tears

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for slapdash, then the Mandarin for slow-witted.

You'll want to know: yǎnlèi

yǎnlèi — "tears".

> wǒ dì-yī cì kàn dào bàba de yǎnlèi — It was the first time I had seen my dad in tears.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yǎnlèi is built from yǎn 'eye' and lèi 'tears', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngeanX and lwijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the eye' and the second 'tears'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yǎnlèi
- Say it: yǎnlèi, once more
- Say it: wǒ dì-yī cì kàn dào bàba de yǎnlèi — It was the first time I had seen my dad in tears.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for slapdash, then the Mandarin for slow-witted, then say yǎnlèi again

Before you move on

What does yǎnlèi mean? ("Tears".) Say it once more.

471.2 眼前 (yǎnqián) — before one's eyes; right now

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for slow-witted, then the Mandarin for tears.

You'll want to know: 眼前

眼前 — yǎnqián — "before one's eyes; right now".

那个事故发生在我眼前 nàge shìgù fāshēng zài wǒ yǎnqián — That accident happened right in front of my eyes.

The new character, in pieces: 眼 — eleven strokes in two pieces: on the left an eye, five strokes, like 日 rì with one bar more; on the right six strokes, a stroke that runs right and turns down, two bars, a vertical that turns up at the foot, a short stroke falling to the left and a long one falling to the right. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 眼前 (yǎnqián) is built from 眼 'eye' and 前 'in front', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngeanX and dzen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the eye' and the second 'before'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yǎnqián
- Say it: yǎnqián, once more
- Say it: nàge shìgù fāshēng zài wǒ yǎnqián — That accident happened right in front of my eyes.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for slow-witted, then the Mandarin for tears, then say yǎnqián again

Before you move on

What does 眼前 mean? ("Before one's eyes; right now".) Say it once more.

471.3 眼 — an eye, then a right side of six

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say yǎnqián — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  日 前

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — rì, qián

Script — an eye, then a right side of six

How 眼 is written, stroke by stroke

眼

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the eye, five strokes. Like 日, made tall and narrow, with one bar more: a vertical down the left, a stroke that runs right and turns down, two short bars inside, then the bar across the foot.

The right piece, six strokes. A stroke that runs right and turns down. A bar inside, and a second one under it. Then a vertical down the left that turns up to the right at the foot, a short stroke falling to the left, and last a long stroke falling to the right.

5 + 6 = eleven.

Your turn

- Write it: 眼, all eleven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 眼 have? (Two: five strokes and six.)
What is the left piece like? (日, with one bar more.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 眼, pinned stroke paths and medians.

471.4 小心眼 (xiǎoxīnyǎn) — petty; narrow-minded

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for tears, then the Mandarin for right before one's eyes.

You'll want to know: 小心眼

小心眼 — xiǎoxīnyǎn — "petty; narrow-minded".

他有点儿小心眼 tā yǒudiǎnr xiǎoxīnyǎn — He's a bit petty.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 小心眼 (xiǎoxīnyǎn) is built from 小 'small', 心 'heart' and 眼 'eye', all inherited from Middle Chinese, sjewX, sim and ngeanX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription): a heart with a small eye, which sees only small things.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xiǎoxīnyǎn
- Say it: xiǎoxīnyǎn, once more
- Say it: tā yǒudiǎnr xiǎoxīnyǎn — He's a bit petty.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for tears, then the Mandarin for right before one's eyes, then say xiǎoxīnyǎn again

Before you move on

What does 小心眼 mean? ("Petty; narrow-minded".) Say it once more.

471.5 jìnshì — short-sighted

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for right before one's eyes, then the Mandarin for petty and narrow-minded.

You'll want to know: jìnshì

jìnshì — "short-sighted".

> wǒ gǎnjué yǎnjing bú tài hǎo kěnéng jìnshì le — My eyes don't feel right; I might be getting short-sighted.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jìnshì is built from jìn 'near' and shì 'to look', both inherited from Middle Chinese, gj+nX and dzyijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'close by' and the second 'to view'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jìnshì
- Say it: jìnshì, once more
- Say it: wǒ gǎnjué yǎnjing bú tài hǎo kěnéng jìnshì le — My eyes don't feel right; I might be getting short-sighted.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for right before one's eyes, then the Mandarin for petty and narrow-minded, then say jìnshì again

Before you move on

What does jìnshì mean? ("Short-sighted".) Say it once more.

471.6 zhǎyǎn — to blink; to wink

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for petty and narrow-minded, then the Mandarin for short-sighted.

You'll want to know: zhǎyǎn

zhǎyǎn — "to blink; to wink".

> tā duì wǒ zhǎyǎn — He winked at me.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: zhǎ is said with a rising tone before yǎn, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhǎyǎn is built from zhǎ and 眼 'eye', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsreap and ngeanX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the eye moving'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhǎyǎn
- Say it: zhǎyǎn, once more
- Say it: tā duì wǒ zhǎyǎn — He winked at me.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for petty and narrow-minded, then the Mandarin for short-sighted, then say zhǎyǎn again

Before you move on

What does zhǎyǎn mean? ("To blink; to wink".) Say it once more.

Chapter 472

Faces

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about eyebrows, how someone looks, someone turning nasty, a facial expression and a hot forehead.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 472: I can talk about eyebrows, how someone looks, someone turning nasty, a facial expression and a hot forehead.

472.1 méimao — eyebrow

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for short-sighted, then the Mandarin for to wink.

You'll want to know: méimao

méimao — "eyebrow".

> tā de méimao bǐ wǒ de hēi — His eyebrows are darker than mine.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of méimao is built from méi 'the brow' and máo 'hair', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mij and maw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, after an older book, as the hair above the eye; the second is said light.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: méimao
- Say it: méimao, once more
- Say it: tā de méimao bǐ wǒ de hēi — His eyebrows are darker than mine.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for short-sighted, then the Mandarin for to wink, then say méimao again

Before you move on

What does méimao mean? ("Eyebrow".) Say it once more.

472.2 脸色 (liǎnsè) — complexion; the colour of one's face

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to wink, then the Mandarin for an eyebrow.

You'll want to know: 脸色

脸色 — liǎnsè — "complexion; the colour of one's face".

> 你脸色不好是不是病了 nǐ liǎnsè bù hǎo shì bu shì bìng le — You don't look well. Are you ill?

The new character, in pieces: 脸 — eleven strokes in two pieces: on the left 月 yuè, four strokes; on the right seven, as on the right of 检 jiǎn: a long stroke falling to the left and one falling to the right, a short bar, two dots, a short stroke falling to the left and a long bar. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 脸色 (liǎnsè) is built from 脸 'face' and 色 'colour', both inherited from Middle Chinese, leamX and srik (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary lists the first under two readings, tshjem and leamX, and glosses leamX as a kind of stew; neither gloss is the face, so how it came to mean face is not settled. It glosses the second 'colour of the face'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: liǎnsè
- Say it: liǎnsè, once more
- Say it: nǐ liǎnsè bù hǎo shì bu shì bìng le — You don't look well. Are you ill?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to wink, then the Mandarin for an eyebrow, then say liǎnsè again

Before you move on

What does 脸色 mean? ("Complexion; the colour of one's face".) Say it once more.

472.3 脸 — 月, then the right piece of 检

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say liǎnsè — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

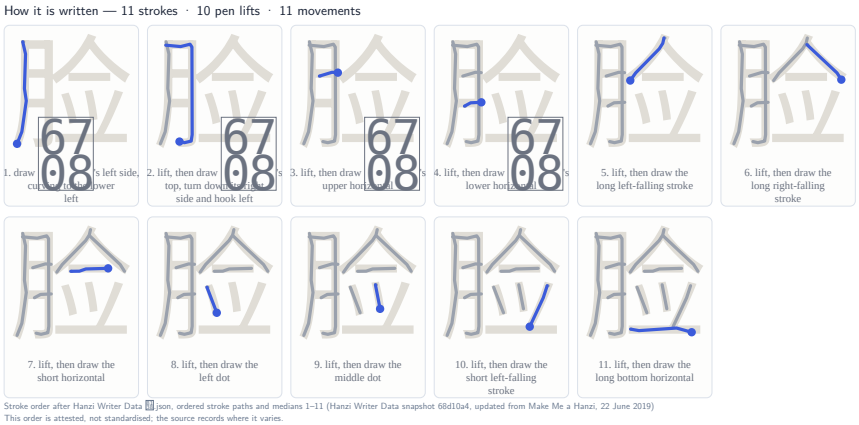
  检 色

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — jiǎn, sè

Script — 月, then the right piece of 检



How 脸 is written, stroke by stroke

脸

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, 月, four strokes, narrow. The stroke down the left that curves to the left at the foot, the stroke that runs right, turns down and hooks, then two short bars inside.

The right piece, seven strokes, as on the right of 检. A long stroke falling to the left and a long one falling to the right, like a roof. A short bar under them. Two short dots and a short stroke falling to the left. Then a long bar across the foot.

4 + 7 = eleven.

Your turn

- Write it: 脸, all eleven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 脸 have? (Two: four strokes and seven.) Where have you written the right piece before? (On the right of 检.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 脸, pinned stroke paths and medians.

472.4 变脸 (biànliǎn) — to turn hostile suddenly; to change one's attitude abruptly

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an eyebrow, then the Mandarin for the colour of one's face.

You'll want to know: 变脸

变脸 — biànliǎn — "to turn hostile suddenly; to change one's attitude abruptly".

我没说什么他怎么突然变脸了 wǒ méi shuō shénme tā zěnme tūrán biànliǎn le — I didn't say anything, so why has he suddenly turned nasty?

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 变脸 (biànliǎn) is built from 变 'to change' and 脸 'face', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjenH and leamX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to change'. The sense of a sudden change of attitude is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: biànliǎn
- Say it: biànliǎn, once more
- Say it: wǒ méi shuō shénme tā zěnme tūrán biànliǎn le — I didn't say anything, so why has he suddenly turned nasty?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an eyebrow, then the Mandarin for the colour of one's face, then say biànliǎn again

Before you move on

What does 变脸 mean? ("To turn hostile suddenly; to change one's attitude abruptly".) Say it once more.

472.5 biǎoqíng — facial expression; the look on one's face

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the colour of one's face, then the Mandarin for to turn hostile suddenly.

You'll want to know: biǎoqíng

biǎoqíng — "facial expression; the look on one's face".

kàn tā de biǎoqíng wǒ gǎnjué tā bú tài gāoxìng — From the look on his face, I get the feeling he's not very happy.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of biǎoqíng is built from biǎo 'the outside' and 情 'feeling', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjewX and dzjeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'to make clear' and, after an older book, as an outer garment: feeling shown on the outside.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: biǎoqíng
- Say it: biǎoqíng, once more
- Say it: kàn tā de biǎoqíng wǒ gǎnjué tā bú tài gāoxìng — From the look on his face, I get the feeling he's not very happy.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the colour of one's face, then the Mandarin for to turn hostile suddenly, then say biǎoqíng again

Before you move on

What does biǎoqíng mean? ("Facial expression; the look on one's face".) Say it once more.

472.6 étóu — forehead

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to turn hostile suddenly, then the Mandarin for the look on one's face.

You'll want to know: étóu

étóu — "forehead".

wǒ de étóu hěn rè kěnéng fāshāo le — My forehead's hot. I might have a temperature.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

étóu is built from é 'the forehead' and 头 'head', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngaek and duw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which explains the first, after an older book, as the brow.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: étóu
- Say it: étóu, once more
- Say it: wǒ de étóu hěn rè kěnéng fāshāo le — My forehead's hot. I might have a temperature.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to turn hostile suddenly, then the Mandarin for the look on one's face, then say étóu again

Before you move on

What does étóu mean? (“Forehead”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 473

At the Dentist

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about my mouth, my dentist and my teeth, and having a tooth out or filled.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 473: I can talk about my mouth, my dentist and my teeth, and having a tooth out or filled.

473.1 zuǐ — mouth; beak

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the look on one's face, then the Mandarin for the forehead.

You'll want to know: zuǐ

zuǐ — "mouth; beak".

> zhège cài tài là le wǒ de zuǐ hěn nánshòu — This dish is so hot my mouth is burning.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

zuǐ is the everyday word for the mouth; 口 kǒu mostly appears inside other words, as in rùkǒu 'entrance'.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

zuǐ No dictionary we use records an older form, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zuǐ
- Say it: zuǐ, once more
- Say it: zhège cài tài là le wǒ de zuǐ hěn nánshòu — This dish is so hot my mouth is burning.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the look on one's face, then the Mandarin for the forehead, then say zuǐ again

Before you move on

What does zuǐ mean? ("Mouth; beak".) Say it once more.

473.2 牙医 (yáyī) — dentist

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the forehead, then the Mandarin for the mouth.

You'll want to know: 牙医

牙医 — yáyī — "dentist".

我的牙医很和气 wǒ de yáyī hěn héqi — My dentist is very nice.

The new character, in pieces: 牙 — four strokes: a short bar on top; a short stroke down on the left that turns and runs right; a vertical that hooks to the left at the foot; and a long stroke falling to the left. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 牙医 (yáyī) is built from 牙 'tooth' and 医 'doctor', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngae and 'i (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'teeth' and the second 'to heal'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yáyī
- Say it: yáyī, once more
- Say it: wǒ de yáyī hěn héqi — My dentist is very nice.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the forehead, then the Mandarin for the mouth, then say yáyī again

Before you move on

What does 牙医 mean? ("Dentist".) Say it once more.

473.3 牙 — four strokes, each one different

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say yáyī — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

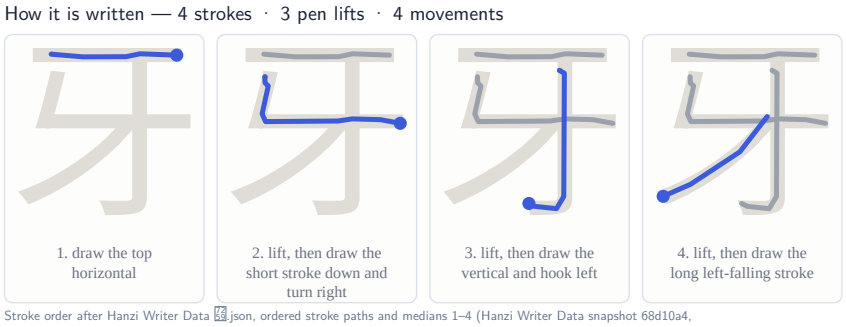
  医 口

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — yī, kǒu

Script — four strokes, each one different



Stroke order after Hanzi Writer Data 牙.json, ordered stroke paths and medians 1–4 (Hanzi Writer Data snapshot 68d10a4, updated from Make Me a Hanzi, 22 June 2019)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How 牙 is written, stroke by stroke

牙

One piece of four strokes. Count them as you go.

The first two. A short bar along the top, from left to right. Then under it on the left a short stroke down that turns and runs right, longer than the bar.

The last two. A vertical from the top bar down through the second stroke, hooking to the left at the foot. Then a long stroke falling to the left, from the middle down to the bottom left.

2 + 2 = four.

Your turn

- Write it: 牙, all four, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes does 牙 have? (Four.) Which comes last? (The long stroke falling to the left.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 牙, pinned stroke paths and medians.

473.4 yáchǐ — tooth; teeth

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the mouth, then the Mandarin for a dentist.

You'll want to know: yáchǐ

yáchǐ — "tooth; teeth".

tā de yáchǐ bǐ wǒ de bái — His teeth are whiter than mine.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yáchǐ is built from 牙 and chǐ, both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngae and tsyhiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses each with this very word: 'teeth'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yáchǐ
- Say it: yáchǐ, once more
- Say it: tā de yáchǐ bǐ wǒ de bái — His teeth are whiter than mine.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the mouth, then the Mandarin for a dentist, then say yáchǐ again

Before you move on

What does yáchǐ mean? ("Tooth; teeth".) Say it once more.

473.5 báyá — to have a tooth pulled

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a dentist, then the Mandarin for the teeth.

You'll want to know: báyá

báyá — "to have a tooth pulled".

wǒ jīntiān qù báyá le xiànzài hái hěn téng — I had a tooth out today, and it still really hurts.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of báyá is built from bá 'to pull up' and 牙 'tooth', both inherited from Middle Chinese, beat and ngae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary lists the first under three readings and glosses this one 'to pull up' and 'to promote'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: báyá
- Say it: báyá, once more
- Say it: wǒ jīntiān qù báyá le xiànzài hái hěn téng — I had a tooth out today, and it still really hurts.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a dentist, then the Mandarin for the teeth, then say báyá again

Before you move on

What does báyá mean? ("To have a tooth pulled".) Say it once more.

473.6 bǔyá — to have a tooth filled

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the teeth, then the Mandarin for to have a tooth pulled.

You'll want to know: bǔyá

bǔyá — "to have a tooth filled".

wǒ zuì pà bǔyá — Having a filling is what I dread most.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

bǔyá is built from bǔ 'to patch' and 牙 'tooth', both inherited from Middle Chinese, puX and ngae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to mend' and, after an older book, mending clothes.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: bǔyá
- Say it: bǔyá, once more
- Say it: wǒ zuì pà bǔyá — Having a filling is what I dread most.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the teeth, then the Mandarin for to have a tooth pulled, then say bǔyá again

Before you move on

What does bǔyá mean? ("To have a tooth filled".) Say it once more.

Chapter 474

Strength

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about my arms and fingers, how strong someone is, their stamina, and pressing hard.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 474: I can talk about my arms and fingers, how strong someone is, their stamina, and pressing hard.

474.1 gēbo — arm

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to have a tooth pulled, then the Mandarin for to have a tooth filled.

You'll want to know: gēbo

gēbo — "arm".

> wǒ gōngzuò le shí ge xiǎoshí gēbo hěn téng — I worked for ten hours, and my arms really ache.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gēbo is built from gē and bo, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kak and phak (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first as the armpit and the second as dried meat; how the pair came to mean the arm is not settled, and the first tone of gē is irregular.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: gēbo
- Say it: gēbo, once more
- Say it: wǒ gōngzuò le shí ge xiǎoshí gēbo hěn téng — I worked for ten hours, and my arms really ache.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to have a tooth pulled, then the Mandarin for to have a tooth filled, then say gēbo again

Before you move on

What does gēbo mean? ("Arm".) Say it once more.

474.2 力气 (lìqi) — physical strength

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to have a tooth filled, then the Mandarin for the arm.

You'll want to know: 力气

力气 — lìqi — "physical strength".

他的力气比我大 tā de lìqi bǐ wǒ dà — He's stronger than I am.

The new character, in pieces: 力 — two strokes: a stroke that runs right, turns down and hooks to the left, and a long stroke falling to the left through it. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 力气 (lìqi) is built from 力 'strength' and 气 'breath', both inherited from Middle Chinese, lik and khj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'sinew' and the second 'breath'; the second is said light.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: lìqi
- Say it: lìqi, once more
- Say it: tā de lìqi bǐ wǒ dà — He's stronger than I am.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to have a tooth filled, then the Mandarin for the arm, then say lìqi again

Before you move on

What does 力气 mean? ("Physical strength".) Say it once more.

474.3 力 — a turn with a hook, then a falling stroke

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say lìqi — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

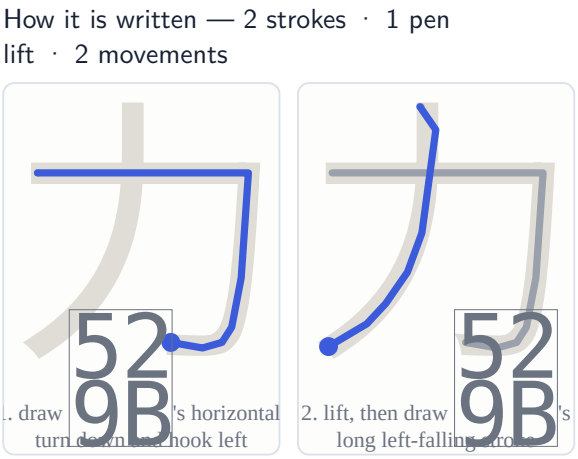
  男 气

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — nán, qì

Script — a turn with a hook, then a falling stroke



Stroke order after Hanzi Writer Data 52/9B.json, ordered stroke paths and medians 1–2 (Hanzi Writer Data snapshot 68d10a4, updated from Make Me a Hanzi, 22 June 2019)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How 力 is written, stroke by stroke

力

One piece of two strokes.

The first stroke. It runs right, turns down, and at the foot hooks back to the left.

The second stroke. A long stroke falling to the left, from above the first stroke, down through it to the bottom left.

1 + 1 = two.

Your turn

- Write it: 力, all two, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes does 力 have? (Two.) Where have you written it before? (At the foot of 男.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 力, pinned stroke paths and medians.

474.4 体力 (tǐlì) — stamina; physical fitness

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the arm, then the Mandarin for physical strength.

You'll want to know: 体力

体力 — tǐlì — "stamina; physical fitness".

他病了一个月脸色和体力都不好 tā bìng le yí ge yuè liǎnsè hé tǐlì dōu bù hǎo — He was ill for a month, and his colour and stamina are both poor.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 体力 (tǐlì) is built from 体 'body' and 力 'strength', both inherited from Middle Chinese, thejX and lik (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the body' and the second 'sinew'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: tǐlì
- Say it: tǐlì, once more
- Say it: tā bìng le yí ge yuè liǎnsè hé tǐlì dōu bù hǎo — He was ill for a month, and his colour and stamina are both poor.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the arm, then the Mandarin for physical strength, then say tǐlì again

Before you move on

What does 体力 mean? ("Stamina; physical fitness".) Say it once more.

474.5 用力 (yònglì) — to push hard; to put one's strength into it

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for physical strength, then the Mandarin for stamina.

You'll want to know: 用力

用力 — yònglì — "to push hard; to put one's strength into it".

> 牙医说吃东西的时候不要太用力 yáyī shuō chī dōngxi de shíhou bú yào tài yònglì — The dentist says not to bite down too hard when I eat.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 用力 (yònglì) is built from 用 'to use' and 力 'strength', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yowngH and lik (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yònglì
- Say it: yònglì, once more
- Say it: yáyī shuō chī dōngxi de shíhou bú yào tài yònglì — The dentist says not to bite down too hard when I eat.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for physical strength, then the Mandarin for stamina, then say yònglì again

Before you move on

What does 用力 mean? ("To push hard; to put one's strength into it".) Say it once more.

474.6 shǒuzhǐ — finger

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for stamina, then the Mandarin for to put one's strength into it.

You'll want to know: shǒuzhǐ

shǒuzhǐ — "finger".

wǒ gǎnjué shǒuzhǐ hěn lěng — My fingers feel really cold.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: shǒu is said with a rising tone before zhǐ, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shǒuzhǐ is built from 手 'hand' and zhǐ 'finger', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syuwX and tsyijX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second with this very word.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shǒuzhǐ
- Say it: shǒuzhǐ, once more
- Say it: wǒ gǎnjué shǒuzhǐ hěn lěng — My fingers feel really cold.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for stamina, then the Mandarin for to put one's strength into it, then say shǒuzhǐ again

Before you move on

What does shǒuzhǐ mean? (“Finger”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 475

Head to Knees

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the palm of my hand, my knees and back, how tall I am, and bending an arm.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 475: I can talk about the palm of my hand, my knees and back, how tall I am, and bending an arm.

475.1 手心 (shǒuxīn) — the palm of the hand

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to put one's strength into it, then the Mandarin for a finger.

You'll want to know: 手心

手心 — shǒuxīn — "the palm of the hand".

> 我手心很热是不是体温高了 wǒ shǒuxīn hěn rè shì bu shì tǐwēn gāo le — My palms are hot. Is my temperature up?

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 手心 (shǒuxīn) is built from 手 'hand' and 心 'heart', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syuwX and sim (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription): the heart, or middle, of the hand.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shǒuxīn
- Say it: shǒuxīn, once more
- Say it: wǒ shǒuxīn hěn rè shì bu shì tǐwēn gāo le — My palms are hot. Is my temperature up?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to put one's strength into it, then the Mandarin for a finger, then say shǒuxīn again

Before you move on

What does 手心 mean? ("The palm of the hand".) Say it once more.

475.2 xīgài — knee

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a finger, then the Mandarin for the palm of the hand.

You'll want to know: xīgài

xīgài — "knee".

wǒ zǒu le yì tiān lù xīgài hěn téng — I walked all day, and my knees really hurt.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xīgài is built from xī 'the knee' and gài 'a cover', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sit and kajH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which explains the first, after an older book, as the joint of the leg and glosses the second 'to cover'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xīgài
- Say it: xīgài, once more
- Say it: wǒ zǒu le yì tiān lù xīgài hěn téng — I walked all day, and my knees really hurt.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a finger, then the Mandarin for the palm of the hand, then say xīgài again

Before you move on

What does xīgài mean? ("Knee".) Say it once more.

475.3 hòubèi — the back of the body

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the palm of the hand, then the Mandarin for the knee.

You'll want to know: hòubèi

hòubèi — "the back of the body".

wǒ gǎnjué hòubèi yǒudiǎnr téng — My back feels a bit sore.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of hòubèi is built from 后 'behind' and bèi 'the back', both inherited from Middle Chinese, huwX and pwojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'the spine and back'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: hòubèi
- Say it: hòubèi, once more
- Say it: wǒ gǎnjué hòubèi yǒudiǎnr téng — My back feels a bit sore.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the palm of the hand, then the Mandarin for the knee, then say hòubèi again

Before you move on

What does hòubèi mean? ("The back of the body".) Say it once more.

475.4 身高 (shēngāo) — a person's height; body height

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the knee, then the Mandarin for the back of the body.

You'll want to know: 身高

身高 — shēngāo — "a person's height; body height".

你身高多少 nǐ shēngāo duōshao — How tall are you?

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 身高 (shēngāo) is built from 身 'body' and 高 'high', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syin and kaw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'oneself' and the second 'high'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shēngāo
- Say it: shēngāo, once more

- Say it: nǐ shēngāo duōshao — How tall are you?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the knee, then the Mandarin for the back of the body, then say shēngāo again

Before you move on

What does 身高 mean? ("A person's height; body height".) Say it once more.

475.5 wān — to bend

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the back of the body, then the Mandarin for a person's height.

You'll want to know: wān

wān — "to bend".

wǒ de gēbo bù néng wān — I can't bend my arm.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

wān is inherited from Middle Chinese 'waen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), explained after an older book as drawing a bow with the arrow set: the bow bends.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: wān
- Say it: wān, once more
- Say it: wǒ de gēbo bù néng wān — I can't bend my arm.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the back of the body, then the Mandarin for a person's height, then say wān again

Before you move on

What does wān mean? ("To bend".) Say it once more.

475.6 Looking back: from Faults to Head to Knees

Say the Mandarin for selfish and stubborn.

Your turn

- Say it: selfish, stubborn, full of oneself, slapdash, slow-witted
- Say it: tears, right before one's eyes, petty and narrow-minded, short-sighted, to wink
- Say it: an eyebrow, the colour of one's face, to turn hostile suddenly, the look on one's face, the forehead
- Say it: the mouth, a dentist, the teeth, to have a tooth pulled, to have a tooth filled
- Say it: the arm, physical strength, stamina, to put one's strength into it, a finger
- Say it: the palm of the hand, the knee, the back of the body, a person's height, to bend
- Read it: 眼 脸 牙 力 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

Selfish? (zìsī.) Stubborn? (gùzhí.) Full of oneself? (jiāo'ào.) Slapdash? (mǎhu.) Slow-witted? (bèn.) Tears? (yǎnlèi.) Right before one's eyes? (眼前, yǎnqián.) Petty and narrow-minded? (小心眼, xiǎoxīnyǎn.) Short-sighted? (jìnshì.) To wink? (zhǎyǎn.) An eyebrow? (méimao.) The colour of one's face? (脸色, liǎnsè.) To turn hostile suddenly? (变脸, biànliǎn.) The look on one's face? (biǎoqíng.) The forehead? (étóu.) The mouth? (zuǐ.) A dentist? (牙医, yáyī.) The teeth? (yáchǐ.) To have a tooth pulled? (báyá.) To have a tooth filled? (bǔyá.) The arm? (gēbo.) Physical strength?

(力气, lìqi.) Stamina? (体力, tǐlì.) To put one's strength into it? (用力, yònglì.) A finger? (shǒuzhǐ.) The palm of the hand? (手心, shǒuxīn.) The knee? (xīgài.) The back of the body? (hòubèi.) A person's height? (身高, shēngāo.) To bend? (wān.)

Chapter 476

Neck and Shoulders

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about my neck, tongue and shoulders, shaking my head, and pain getting better.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 476: I can talk about my neck, tongue and shoulders, shaking my head, and pain getting better.

476.1 bózi — neck

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a person's height, then the Mandarin for to bend.

You'll want to know: bózi

bózi — "neck".

> wǒ kàn le sān ge xiǎoshí diànnǎo bózi hěn téng — I spent three hours at the computer, and my neck really hurts.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bózi is built from bó and 子, a noun ending, both inherited from Middle Chinese, bwot and tsiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first as the navel; how it came to mean the neck is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: bózi
- Say it: bózi, once more
- Say it: wǒ kàn le sān ge xiǎoshí diànnǎo bózi hěn téng — I spent three hours at the computer, and my neck really hurts.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a person's height, then the Mandarin for to bend, then say bózi again

Before you move on

What does bózi mean? ("Neck".) Say it once more.

476.2 shétou — tongue

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to bend, then the Mandarin for the neck.

You'll want to know: shétou

shétou — "tongue".

wǒ de shétou téng le liǎng tiān — My tongue has been sore for two days.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shétou is built from shé 'the tongue' and 头, a noun ending here, both inherited from Middle Chinese, zyet and duw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary lists the first under two readings and glosses zyet as the tongue in the mouth; the second is said light.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shétou
- Say it: shétou, once more
- Say it: wǒ de shétou téng le liǎng tiān — My tongue has been sore for two days.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to bend, then the Mandarin for the neck, then say shétou again

Before you move on

What does shétou mean? ("Tongue".) Say it once more.

476.3 jiānbǎng — shoulder

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the neck, then the Mandarin for the tongue.

You'll want to know: jiānbǎng

jiānbǎng — "shoulder".

wǒ de jiānbǎng hěn téng bù néng ná dōngxi — My shoulder hurts so much I can't carry anything.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiānbǎng is built from jiān 'the shoulder' and bǎng. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese ken (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed as the part below the nape. The dictionary lists the second only as bang, in the word for the bladder, so the reading bǎng and the sense 'shoulder' are not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jiānbǎng
- Say it: jiānbǎng, once more
- Say it: wǒ de jiānbǎng hěn téng bù néng ná dōngxi — My shoulder hurts so much I can't carry anything.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the neck, then the Mandarin for the tongue, then say jiānbǎng again

Before you move on

What does jiānbǎng mean? ("Shoulder".) Say it once more.

476.4 yáotóu — to shake one's head

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the tongue, then the Mandarin for the shoulder.

You'll want to know: yáotóu

yáotóu — "to shake one's head".

wǒ wèn tā qù bu qù tā yáotóu — I asked him whether he was going, and he shook his head.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yáotóu is built from yáo 'to shake' and 头 'head', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yew and duw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to move'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yáotóu
- Say it: yáotóu, once more
- Say it: wǒ wèn tā qù bu qù tā yáotóu — I asked him whether he was going, and he shook his head.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the tongue, then the Mandarin for the shoulder, then say yáotóu again

Before you move on

What does yáotóu mean? ("To shake one's head".) Say it once more.

476.5 téngtòng — pain; ache

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the shoulder, then the Mandarin for to shake one's head.

You'll want to know: téngtòng

téngtòng — "pain; ache".

chī yào yǐhòu téngtòng hǎo le yìdiǎnr — After taking the medicine, the pain eased a little.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of téngtòng is built from 疼 'pain' and tòng 'to hurt', both inherited from Middle Chinese, downg and thuwngH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'pain' and the second 'illness' and 'to hurt'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: téngtòng
- Say it: téngtòng, once more
- Say it: chī yào yǐhòu téngtòng hǎo le yìdiǎnr — After taking the medicine, the pain eased a little.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the shoulder, then the Mandarin for to shake one's head, then say téngtòng again

Before you move on

What does téngtòng mean? ("Pain; ache".) Say it once more.

Chapter 477

Inside the Body

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the heart, bones and the brain, my stomach and my appetite.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 477: I can talk about the heart, bones and the brain, my stomach and my appetite.

477.1 xīnzàng — the heart as an organ

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to shake one's head, then the Mandarin for bodily pain.

You'll want to know: xīnzàng

xīnzàng — "the heart as an organ".

> wǒ yéye de xīnzàng bú tài hǎo — My grandfather has a weak heart.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xīnzàng is built from 心 'heart' and zàng 'an inner organ'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese sim (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed as the organ of fire; no dictionary we use records an older form of the second under this spelling, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xīnzàng
- Say it: xīnzàng, once more
- Say it: wǒ yéye de xīnzàng bú tài hǎo — My grandfather has a weak heart.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to shake one's head, then the Mandarin for bodily pain, then say xīnzàng again

Before you move on

What does xīnzàng mean? ("The heart as an organ".) Say it once more.

477.2 gǔtou — bone

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for bodily pain, then the Mandarin for the heart as an organ.

You'll want to know: gǔtou

gǔtou — "bone".

gǒu zuì xǐhuan chī gǔtou — Dogs love chewing bones more than anything.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gǔtou is built from gǔ 'bone' and 头, a noun ending here, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwot and duw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which explains the first, after an older book, as the core of the flesh; the second is said light.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: gǔtou
- Say it: gǔtou, once more
- Say it: gǒu zuì xǐhuan chī gǔtou — Dogs love chewing bones more than anything.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for bodily pain, then the Mandarin for the heart as an organ, then say gǔtou again

Before you move on

What does gǔtou mean? ("Bone".) Say it once more.

477.3 dànǎo — brain

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the heart as an organ, then the Mandarin for a bone.

You'll want to know: dànǎo

dànǎo — "brain".

shuìjiào de shíhou dànǎo yě zài gōngzuò — Even while you sleep, your brain is working.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

dànǎo is built from 大 'big' and nǎo 'the brain', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dajH and nawX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as the brain in the head.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: dànǎo
- Say it: dànǎo, once more
- Say it: shuìjiào de shíhou dànǎo yě zài gōngzuò — Even while you sleep, your brain is working.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the heart as an organ, then the Mandarin for a bone, then say dànǎo again

Before you move on

What does dànǎo mean? ("Brain".) Say it once more.

477.4 chángwèi — stomach and gut; digestion

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a bone, then the Mandarin for the brain.

You'll want to know: chángwèi

chángwèi — "stomach and gut; digestion".

wǒ chángwèi bù shūfu le liǎng tiān — My stomach has been upset for two days.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chángwèi is built from cháng 'the gut' and wèi 'the stomach', both inherited from Middle Chinese, drjang and hjw+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first in this very pair and the second, after an older book, as the storehouse of grain.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: chángwèi
- Say it: chángwèi, once more
- Say it: wǒ chángwèi bù shūfu le liǎng tiān — My stomach has been upset for two days.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a bone, then the Mandarin for the brain, then say chángwèi again

Before you move on

What does chángwèi mean? ("Stomach and gut; digestion".) Say it once more.

477.5 wèikǒu — appetite

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the brain, then the Mandarin for one's digestion.

You'll want to know: wèikǒu

wèikǒu — "appetite".

wǒ bìng le sān tiān wèikǒu bù hǎo — I've been ill for three days and have no appetite.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of wèikǒu is built from wèi 'the stomach' and 口 'mouth', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hjw+jH and khuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the dictionary explains the first, after an older book, as the storehouse of grain.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: wèikǒu
- Say it: wèikǒu, once more
- Say it: wǒ bìng le sān tiān wèikǒu bù hǎo — I've been ill for three days and have no appetite.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the brain, then the Mandarin for one's digestion, then say wèikǒu again

Before you move on

What does wèikǒu mean? ("Appetite".) Say it once more.

Chapter 478

Injuries

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say I burned myself, talk about a wound and serious injuries, a sprain and having a wound dressed.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 478: I can say I burned myself, talk about a wound and serious injuries, a sprain and having a wound dressed.

478.1 tàngshāng — to scald; to burn (with heat)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for one's digestion, then the Mandarin for an appetite.

You'll want to know: tàngshāng

tàngshāng — "to scald; to burn (with heat)".

> wǒ zuò fàn de shíhou tàngshāng le shǒu — I burned my hand while I was cooking.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tàngshāng is built from tàng 'scalding hot' and shāng 'to hurt'. The second is inherited from Middle Chinese syang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to harm'; no dictionary we use records an older form of the first under this spelling, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: tàngshāng
- Say it: tàngshāng, once more
- Say it: wǒ zuò fàn de shíhou tàngshāng le shǒu — I burned my hand while I was cooking.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for one's digestion, then the Mandarin for an appetite, then say tàngshāng again

Before you move on

What does tàngshāng mean? ("To scald; to burn (with heat)".) Say it once more.

478.2 伤口 (shāngkǒu) — wound; cut

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an appetite, then the Mandarin for to scald oneself.

You'll want to know: 伤口

伤口 — shāngkǒu — "wound; cut".

> 我感觉伤口很疼体温也高了 wǒ gǎnjué shāngkǒu hěn téng tǐwēn yě gāo le — My wound really hurts, and my temperature has gone up too.

The new character, in pieces: 伤 — six strokes in three pieces: on the left 亻, two strokes; at the top right a short stroke falling to the left and a bar; and under them 力 lì, two strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 伤口 (shāngkǒu) is built from 伤 'to hurt' and 口 'an opening', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syang and khuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to harm' and the second 'the mouth'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shāngkǒu
- Say it: shāngkǒu, once more
- Say it: wǒ gǎnjué shāngkǒu hěn téng tǐwēn yě gāo le — My wound really hurts, and my temperature has gone up too.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an appetite, then the Mandarin for to scald oneself, then say shāngkǒu again

Before you move on

What does 伤口 mean? ("Wound; cut".) Say it once more.

478.3 伤 — 亻, then a short top over 力

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say shāngkǒu — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

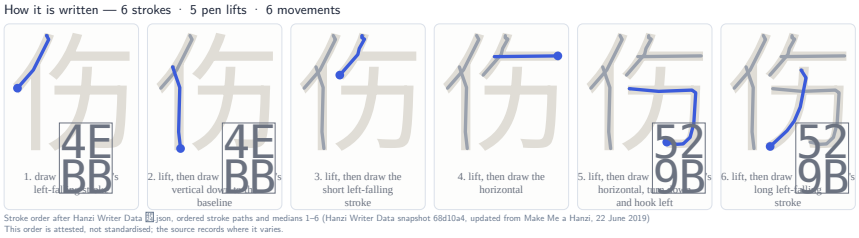
力 你

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — lì, nǐ

Script — 亻, then a short top over 力



How 伤 is written, stroke by stroke

伤

Three pieces: the left, then the top right, then the bottom right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, 亻, two strokes. A stroke falling to the left, then a vertical down.

The top right, two strokes. A short stroke falling to the left, then a bar from left to right beside it.

The bottom right, 力, two strokes. A stroke that runs right, turns down and hooks to the left, then a long stroke falling to the left through it.

2 + 2 + 2 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 伤, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 伤 have? (Three, two strokes each.)
Which written character ends it? (力.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 伤, pinned stroke paths and medians.

478.4 重伤 (zhòngshāng) — serious injury; badly hurt

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to scald oneself, then the Mandarin for an open wound.

You'll want to know: 重伤

重伤 — zhòngshāng — "serious injury; badly hurt".

那个事故里有两个人重伤 nàge shìgù lǐ yǒu liǎng ge rén zhòngshāng — Two people were badly hurt in that accident.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 重伤 (zhòngshāng) is built from 重 'heavy' and 伤 'to hurt', both inherited from Middle Chinese, drjowngX and syang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'thick' and the second 'to harm'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhòngshāng
- Say it: zhòngshāng, once more
- Say it: nàge shìgù lǐ yǒu liǎng ge rén zhòngshāng — Two people were badly hurt in that accident.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to scald oneself, then the Mandarin for an open wound, then say zhòngshāng again

Before you move on

What does 重伤 mean? ("Serious injury; badly hurt".) Say it once more.

478.5 niǔshāng — to sprain

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an open wound, then the Mandarin for badly hurt.

You'll want to know: niǔshāng

niǔshāng — "to sprain".

wǒ niǔshāng guo jiǎo — I've sprained my ankle before.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of niǔshāng is built from niǔ 'to twist' and 伤 'to hurt', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nrjuwX and syang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary lists the first under two readings and glosses nrjuwX as a hand turning.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: niǔshāng
- Say it: niǔshāng, once more
- Say it: wǒ niǔshāng guo jiǎo — I've sprained my ankle before.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an open wound, then the Mandarin for badly hurt, then say niǔshāng again

Before you move on

What does niǔshāng mean? ("To sprain".) Say it once more.

478.6 bāozā — to bandage; to dress a wound

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for badly hurt, then the Mandarin for to sprain.

You'll want to know: bāozā

bāozā — "to bandage; to dress a wound".

> hùshi gěi wǒ bāozā le shāngkǒu — The nurse dressed my wound.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bāozā is built from 包 'to wrap' and zā 'to bind', both inherited from Middle Chinese, paew and tsreat (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to wrap' and the second, in its fuller spelling, as binding the grip of a bow. The regular sound change would give zhá; why it is said zā is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: bāozā
- Say it: bāozā, once more
- Say it: hùshi gěi wǒ bāozā le shāngkǒu — The nurse dressed my wound.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for badly hurt, then the Mandarin for to sprain, then say bāozā again

Before you move on

What does bāozā mean? ("To bandage; to dress a wound".) Say it once more.

Chapter 479

Blood

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a scar, blood, stopping the bleeding, giving blood and blood pressure.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 479: I can talk about a scar, blood, stopping the bleeding, giving blood and blood pressure.

479.1 shāngbā — scar

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to sprain, then the Mandarin for to dress a wound.

You'll want to know: shāngbā

shāngbā — "scar".

> zhège shāngbā yǐjīng yǒu shí nián le — I've had this scar for ten years now.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shāngbā is built from 伤 'to hurt' and bā 'a scar'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese syang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to harm'; no dictionary we use records an older form of the second, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shāngbā
- Say it: shāngbā, once more
- Say it: zhège shāngbā yǐjīng yǒu shí nián le — I've had this scar for ten years now.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to sprain, then the Mandarin for to dress a wound, then say shāngbā again

Before you move on

What does shāngbā mean? ("Scar".) Say it once more.

479.2 血 (xiě) — blood

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to dress a wound, then the Mandarin for a scar.

You'll want to know: 血

血 — xiě — "blood".

你看这是血 nǐ kàn zhè shì xiě — Look, that's blood.

The new character, in pieces: 血 — six strokes: a short stroke falling to the left at the top, then a dish of five, as at the foot of 温 wēn. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

Alone, and in everyday speech, 血 is said xiě; in words such as liúxuè it is said xuè.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 血 (xiě) is inherited from Middle Chinese xwet (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), explained after an older book as what flows out of the flesh. The regular sound change gives xuè; the everyday xiě is a second, spoken reading, and how it arose is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xiě
- Say it: xiě, once more
- Say it: nǐ kàn zhè shì xiě — Look, that's blood.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to dress a wound, then the Mandarin for a scar, then say xiě again

Before you move on

What does 血 mean? ("Blood".) Say it once more.

479.3 血 — one short stroke over a dish

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say xiě — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

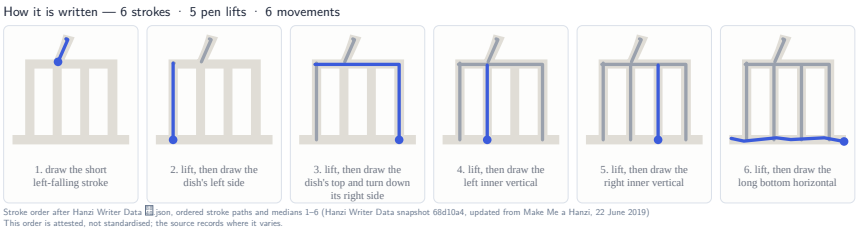
  温 白

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — wēn, bái

Script — one short stroke over a dish



How 血 is written, stroke by stroke

血

Two pieces, top to bottom. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The top, one stroke. A short stroke falling to the left, above the middle.

The dish, five strokes, as at the foot of 温. A short vertical on the left, a stroke that runs right and turns down, two short verticals inside, then the long bar across the bottom.

1 + 5 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 血, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 血 have? (Two: one stroke and five.)
Where have you written the dish before? (At the foot of 温.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 血, pinned stroke paths and medians.

479.4 zhǐxuè — to stop the bleeding

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a scar, then the Mandarin for blood.

You'll want to know: zhǐxuè

zhǐxuè — "to stop the bleeding".

yīshēng yòng le shí fēnzhōng cái zhǐxuè — It took the doctor ten minutes to stop the bleeding.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhǐxuè is built from zhǐ 'to stop' and 血 'blood', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyiX and xwet (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to stop'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhǐxuè
- Say it: zhǐxuè, once more
- Say it: yīshēng yòng le shí fēnzhōng cái zhǐxuè — It took the doctor ten minutes to stop the bleeding.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a scar, then the Mandarin for blood, then say zhǐxuè again

Before you move on

What does zhǐxuè mean? ("To stop the bleeding".) Say it once more.

479.5 xiànxuè — to give blood

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for blood, then the Mandarin for to stop the bleeding.

You'll want to know: xiànxuè

xiànxuè — "to give blood".

wǒ měi nián dōu qù xiànxuè — I give blood every year.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiànxuè is built from xiàn 'to offer' and 血 'blood', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xjonH and xwet (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary lists the first under two readings and glosses xjonH 'to present'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xiànxuè
- Say it: xiànxuè, once more
- Say it: wǒ měi nián dōu qù xiànxuè — I give blood every year.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for blood, then the Mandarin for to stop the bleeding, then say xiànxuè again

Before you move on

What does xiànxuè mean? ("To give blood".) Say it once more.

479.6 xuèyā — blood pressure

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to stop the bleeding, then the Mandarin for to give blood.

You'll want to know: xuèyā

xuèyā — "blood pressure".

wǒ bàba de xuèyā bǐ wǒ gāo — My dad's blood pressure is higher than mine.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xuèyā is built from 血 'blood' and yā 'to press', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xwet and 'aep (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to press down'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xuèyā
- Say it: xuèyā, once more
- Say it: wǒ bàba de xuèyā bǐ wǒ gāo — My dad's blood pressure is higher than mine.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to stop the bleeding, then the Mandarin for to give blood, then say xuèyā again

Before you move on

What does xuèyā mean? ("Blood pressure".) Say it once more.

Chapter 480

Symptoms

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say I feel dizzy or itchy, that my nose is running, that I am allergic to something, and that I cannot sleep.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 480: I can say I feel dizzy or itchy, that my nose is running, that I am allergic to something, and that I cannot sleep.

480.1 tóuyūn — dizzy

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to give blood, then the Mandarin for blood pressure.

You'll want to know: tóuyūn

tóuyūn — "dizzy".

> wǒ gǎnjué yǒudiǎnr tóuyūn — I feel a bit dizzy.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tóuyūn is built from 头 'head' and yūn, both inherited from Middle Chinese, duw and hjunH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as a halo round the sun or moon. The level tone of yūn is irregular, and the sense 'dizzy' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: tóuyūn
- Say it: tóuyūn, once more
- Say it: wǒ gǎnjué yǒudiǎnr tóuyūn — I feel a bit dizzy.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to give blood, then the Mandarin for blood pressure, then say tóuyūn again

Before you move on

What does tóuyūn mean? ("Dizzy".) Say it once more.

480.2 fāyǎng — to itch

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for blood pressure, then the Mandarin for dizzy.

You'll want to know: fāyǎng

fāyǎng — "to itch".

shāngkǒu yǒudiǎnr fāyǎng — The wound is a bit itchy.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fāyǎng is built from 发 'to set going' and yǎng 'itchy', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjot and yangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as itchy skin.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: fāyǎng
- Say it: fāyǎng, once more
- Say it: shāngkǒu yǒudiǎnr fāyǎng — The wound is a bit itchy.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for blood pressure, then the Mandarin for dizzy, then say fāyǎng again

Before you move on

What does fāyǎng mean? ("To itch".) Say it once more.

480.3 liú bítì — to have a runny nose

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for dizzy, then the Mandarin for to itch.

You'll want to know: liú bítì

liú bítì — "to have a runny nose".

wǒ gǎnmào le liǎng tiān xiànzài hái zài liú bítì — I've had a cold for two days, and my nose is still running.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

liú bítì is built from liú 'to flow', bí 'nose' and tì, all inherited from Middle Chinese, ljuw, bjijH and thejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary explains the first, after an older book, as water moving, and glosses the third as tears; the sense 'mucus of the nose' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: liú bítì
- Say it: liú bítì, once more
- Say it: wǒ gǎnmào le liǎng tiān xiànzài hái zài liú bítì — I've had a cold for two days, and my nose is still running.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for dizzy, then the Mandarin for to itch, then say liú bítì again

Before you move on

What does liú bítì mean? ("To have a runny nose".) Say it once more.

480.4 guòmǐn — to be allergic

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to itch, then the Mandarin for to have a runny nose.

You'll want to know: guòmǐn

guòmǐn — "to be allergic".

wǒ duì huā guòmǐn — I'm allergic to flowers.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of guòmǐn is built from 过 'beyond' and mǐn 'quick', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwaH and minX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to go beyond' and the second 'quick' and 'clever': too quick to react. The medical sense is modern.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: guòmǐn
- Say it: guòmǐn, once more
- Say it: wǒ duì huā guòmǐn — I'm allergic to flowers.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to itch, then the Mandarin for to have a runny nose, then say guòmǐn again

Before you move on

What does guòmǐn mean? ("To be allergic".) Say it once more.

480.5 shīmián — to be unable to sleep; to lie awake at night

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to have a runny nose, then the Mandarin for to be allergic.

You'll want to know: shīmián

shīmián — "to be unable to sleep; to lie awake at night".

wǒ shīmián le yí ge xīngqī — I haven't been able to sleep for a week.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shīmián is built from shī 'to lose' and mián 'sleep', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syit and men (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to let slip' and the second 'to sleep'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shīmián
- Say it: shīmián, once more
- Say it: wǒ shīmián le yí ge xīngqī — I haven't been able to sleep for a week.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to have a runny nose, then the Mandarin for to be allergic, then say shīmián again

Before you move on

What does shīmián mean? ("To be unable to sleep; to lie awake at night".) Say it once more.

480.6 Looking back: from Neck and Shoulders to Symptoms

Say the Mandarin for the neck and the tongue.

Your turn

- Say it: the neck, the tongue, the shoulder, to shake one's head, bodily pain
- Say it: the heart as an organ, a bone, the brain, one's digestion, an appetite
- Say it: to scald oneself, an open wound, badly hurt, to sprain, to dress a wound
- Say it: a scar, blood, to stop the bleeding, to give blood, blood pressure
- Say it: dizzy, to itch, to have a runny nose, to be allergic, to lie awake at night
- Read it: 伤 血 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

The neck? (bózi.) The tongue? (shétou.) The shoulder? (jiānbǎng.) To shake one's head? (yáotóu.) Bodily pain? (téngtòng.) The heart as an organ? (xīnzàng.) A bone? (gǔtou.) The brain? (dànǎo.) One's digestion? (chángwèi.) An appetite? (wèikǒu.) To scald oneself? (tàngshāng.) An open wound? (伤口, shāngkǒu.) Badly hurt? (重伤, zhòngshāng.) To sprain? (niǔshāng.) To dress a wound? (bāozā.) A scar? (shāngbā.) Blood? (血, xiě.) To stop the bleeding? (zhǐxuè.) To give blood? (xiànxuè.) Blood pressure? (xuèyā.) Dizzy? (tóuyūn.) To itch? (fāyǎng.) To have a runny nose? (liú bítì.) To be allergic? (guòmǐn.) To lie awake at night? (shīmián.)

Chapter 481

Is It Serious?

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can ask whether it is serious, talk about a patient's condition, the cause of an illness, infection and viruses.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 481: I can ask whether it is serious, talk about a patient's condition, the cause of an illness, infection and viruses.

481.1 要紧 (yàojǐn) — urgent; a cause for concern

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be allergic, then the Mandarin for to lie awake at night.

You'll want to know: 要紧

要紧 — yàojǐn — "urgent; a cause for concern".

> 有一点儿血不要紧 yǒu yìdiǎnr xiě bú yàojǐn — There's a little blood, but it's nothing serious.

The new character, in pieces: 紧 — ten strokes in three pieces: at the top two short verticals and 又 yòu; under them two short zigzag strokes and a dot; and at the foot 小 xiǎo, three strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 要紧 (yàojǐn) is built from 要 'to need' and 紧 'tight', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jiewH and kjinX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to bind' and the second 'tightly bound'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yàojǐn
- Say it: yàojǐn, once more
- Say it: yǒu yìdiǎnr xiě bú yàojǐn — There's a little blood, but it's nothing serious.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be allergic, then the Mandarin for to lie awake at night, then say yàojǐn again

Before you move on

What does 要紧 mean? ("Urgent; a cause for concern".) Say it once more.

481.2 紧 — two verticals and 又, over a silk piece ending in 小

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say yàojǐn — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  又 小 要

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — yòu, xiǎo, yào

Script — two verticals and 又, over a silk piece ending in 小

How 紧 is written, stroke by stroke

紧

Three pieces, top to bottom. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The top, four strokes. Two short verticals side by side, then 又: a bar that turns into a stroke falling to the left, and a long stroke falling to the right.

The middle, three strokes. A short stroke down that turns right, a second one like it to its lower right, then a dot.

The foot, 小, three strokes. A vertical that hooks to the left, a dot on the left, then a dot on the right.

4 + 3 + 3 = ten.

Your turn

- Write it: 紧, all ten, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 紧 have? (Three: four strokes, three and three.) Which written characters are inside it? (又 at the top and 小 at the foot.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 紧, pinned stroke paths and medians.

481.3 病情 (bìngqíng) — a patient's condition; how an illness is going

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to lie awake at night, then the Mandarin for serious or urgent.

You'll want to know: 病情

病情 — bìngqíng — "a patient's condition; how an illness is going".

他的病情不要紧你不要伤心 tā de bìngqíng bú yàojǐn nǐ bú yào shāngxīn — His condition isn't serious, so don't be upset.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 病情 (bìngqíng) is built from 病 'illness' and 情 'the state of things', both inherited from Middle Chinese, bjaengH and dzjeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as an illness growing worse.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: bìngqíng
- Say it: bìngqíng, once more
- Say it: tā de bìngqíng bú yàojǐn nǐ bú yào shāngxīn — His condition isn't serious, so don't be upset.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to lie awake at night, then the Mandarin for serious or urgent, then say bìngqíng again

Before you move on

What does 病情 mean? ("A patient's condition; how an illness is going".) Say it once more.

481.4 病因 (bìngyīn) — cause of an illness

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for serious or urgent, then the Mandarin for how an illness is going.

You'll want to know: 病因

病因 — bìngyīn — "cause of an illness".

> 牙医看了半天还没找到病因 yáyī kàn le bàntiān hái méi zhǎo dào bìngyīn — The dentist has been looking for ages and still hasn't found the cause.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 病因 (bìngyīn) is built from 病 'illness' and 因 'a cause', both inherited from Middle Chinese, bjaengH and 'jin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to rely on' and 'a cause'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: bìngyīn
- Say it: bìngyīn, once more
- Say it: yáyī kàn le bàntiān hái méi zhǎo dào bìngyīn — The dentist has been looking for ages and still hasn't found the cause.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for serious or urgent, then the Mandarin for how an illness is going, then say bìngyīn again

Before you move on

What does 病因 mean? ("Cause of an illness".) Say it once more.

481.5 gǎnrǎn — to become infected

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for how an illness is going, then the Mandarin for the cause of an illness.

You'll want to know: gǎnrǎn

gǎnrǎn — "to become infected".

wǒ gǎnjué shāngkǒu gǎnrǎn le — I think the wound has become infected.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: gǎn is said with a rising tone before rǎn, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gǎnrǎn is built from 感 'to move' and rǎn 'to dye', both inherited from Middle Chinese, komX and nyemX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to move' and the second 'to dye'. The medical sense is modern.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: gǎnrǎn
- Say it: gǎnrǎn, once more
- Say it: wǒ gǎnjué shāngkǒu gǎnrǎn le — I think the wound has become infected.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for how an illness is going, then the Mandarin for the cause of an illness, then say gǎnrǎn again

Before you move on

What does gǎnrǎn mean? (“To become infected”.) Say it once more.

481.6 bìngdú — virus

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the cause of an illness, then the Mandarin for to become infected.

You’ll want to know: bìngdú

bìngdú — “virus”.

zhège bìngdú bǐ gǎnmào kěpà — This virus is worse than a cold.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bìngdú is built from 病 ’illness’ and dú ’poison’, both inherited from Middle Chinese, bjaengH and dowk (Guangyun, in Baxter’s transcription), which glosses the second ’harm’ and, after an older book, as a plant that harms people. The sense ’virus’ is modern.

What you’ve built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: bìngdú
- Say it: bìngdú, once more
- Say it: zhège bìngdú bǐ gǎnmào kěpà — This virus is worse than a cold.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the cause of an illness, then the Mandarin for to become infected, then say bìngdú again

Before you move on

What does bìngdú mean? (“Virus”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 482

Treatment

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the emergency department, treatment, tablets, cleaning a wound and nursing the sick.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 482: I can talk about the emergency department, treatment, tablets, cleaning a wound and nursing the sick.

482.1 jízhěn — emergency department; urgent treatment

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to become infected, then the Mandarin for a virus.

You'll want to know: jízhěn

jízhěn — "emergency department; urgent treatment".

> wǒ xiǎng dāng jízhěn yīshēng — I want to be an emergency doctor.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jízhěn is built from jí 'urgent' and zhěn 'to examine', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kip and tsyinX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'urgent' and the second as feeling the pulse.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jízhěn
- Say it: jízhěn, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiǎng dāng jízhěn yīshēng — I want to be an emergency doctor.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to become infected, then the Mandarin for a virus, then say jízhěn again

Before you move on

What does jízhěn mean? ("Emergency department; urgent treatment".) Say it once more.

482.2 zhìliáo — to give medical treatment; to cure

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a virus, then the Mandarin for the emergency department.

You'll want to know: zhìliáo

zhìliáo — "to give medical treatment; to cure".

tā zhìliáo le bàn nián xiànzài yǐjīng hǎo le — He was treated for six months, and now he's well again.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhìliáo is built from zhì 'to put in order' and liáo 'to heal', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dri and ljewH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary lists the first under three readings and glosses them 'to put in order'; it glosses the second 'to treat an illness'. The falling tone of zhì follows the reading driH.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhìliáo
- Say it: zhìliáo, once more
- Say it: tā zhìliáo le bàn nián xiànzài yǐjīng hǎo le — He was treated for six months, and now he's well again.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a virus, then the Mandarin for the emergency department, then say zhìliáo again

Before you move on

What does zhìliáo mean? ("To give medical treatment; to cure".) Say it once more.

482.3 yàopiàn — tablet; pill

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the emergency department, then the Mandarin for to give medical treatment.

You'll want to know: yàopiàn

yàopiàn — "tablet; pill".

yīshēng shuō yàopiàn yì tiān chī sān cì — The doctor says to take the pills three times a day.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yàopiàn is built from yào 'medicine' and piàn 'a slice', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yak and phenH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which explains the first, after an older book, as a plant that cures illness, and glosses the second 'half' and 'a split piece of wood'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yàopiàn
- Say it: yàopiàn, once more
- Say it: yīshēng shuō yàopiàn yì tiān chī sān cì — The doctor says to take the pills three times a day.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the emergency department, then the Mandarin for to give medical treatment, then say yàopiàn again

Before you move on

What does yàopiàn mean? ("Tablet; pill".) Say it once more.

482.4 xiāodú — to disinfect

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to give medical treatment, then the Mandarin for a pill.

You'll want to know: xiāodú

xiāodú — "to disinfect".

hùshi xiān gěi shāngkǒu xiāodú — The nurse disinfects the wound first.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiāodú is built from xiāo 'to wipe out' and dú 'poison', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sjew and dowk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to destroy' and 'to use up' and the second 'harm'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xiāodú
- Say it: xiāodú, once more
- Say it: hùshi xiān gěi shāngkǒu xiāodú — The nurse disinfects the wound first.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to give medical treatment, then the Mandarin for a pill, then say xiāodú again

Before you move on

What does xiāodú mean? ("To disinfect".) Say it once more.

482.5 护理 (hùlǐ) — to care for the sick; to tend

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a pill, then the Mandarin for to disinfect.

You'll want to know: 护理

护理 — hùlǐ — "to care for the sick; to tend".

护理病人的时候你不能怕血 hùlǐ bìngrén de shíhou nǐ bù néng pà xiě — When you look after patients, you can't be afraid of blood.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 护理 (hùlǐ) is built from 护 'to protect' and 理 'to put in order', both inherited from Middle Chinese, huH and liX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to rescue' and 'to help' and the second 'to manage'; the sense of caring for the sick is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: hùlǐ
- Say it: hùlǐ, once more
- Say it: hùlǐ bìngrén de shíhou nǐ bù néng pà xiě — When you look after patients, you can't be afraid of blood.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a pill, then the Mandarin for to disinfect, then say hùlǐ again

Before you move on

What does 护理 mean? ("To care for the sick; to tend".) Say it once more.

Chapter 483

Getting Better

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say someone's illness is improving, that someone has recovered, and talk about nourishing food, keeping well and long illnesses.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 483: I can say someone's illness is improving, that someone has recovered, and talk about nourishing food, keeping well and long illnesses.

483.1 hǎozhuǎn — to take a turn for the better; to start to improve

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to disinfect, then the Mandarin for to care for the sick.

You'll want to know: hǎozhuǎn

hǎozhuǎn — "to take a turn for the better; to start to improve".

> tā zhìliáo le yí ge yuè bìngqíng hǎozhuǎn le — He had treatment for a month, and his illness has taken a turn for the better.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: hǎo is said with a rising tone before zhuǎn, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of hǎozhuǎn is built from 好 'good' and zhuǎn 'to turn', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xawX and trjwenX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to move' and 'to turn round'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: hǎozhuǎn
- Say it: hǎozhuǎn, once more
- Say it: tā zhìliáo le yí ge yuè bìngqíng hǎozhuǎn le — He had treatment for a month, and his illness has taken a turn for the better.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to disinfect, then the Mandarin for to care for the sick, then say hǎozhuǎn again

Before you move on

What does hǎozhuǎn mean? ("To take a turn for the better; to start to improve".) Say it once more.

483.2 kāngfù — to get well again; to convalesce

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to care for the sick, then the Mandarin for to start to improve.

You'll want to know: kāngfù

kāngfù — "to get well again; to convalesce".

tā kāngfù le xià ge yuè kěyǐ shàngbān — He has recovered and can go back to work next month.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of kāngfù is built from kāng 'at ease' and fù 'to return', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khang and bjuwk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'peaceful' and 'happy' and the second 'to return'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: kāngfù
- Say it: kāngfù, once more
- Say it: tā kāngfù le xià ge yuè kěyǐ shàngbān — He has recovered and can go back to work next month.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to care for the sick, then the Mandarin for to start to improve, then say kāngfù again

Before you move on

What does kāngfù mean? ("To get well again; to convalesce".) Say it once more.

483.3 yíngyǎng — nutrition; nourishment

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to start to improve, then the Mandarin for to get well again.

You'll want to know: yíngyǎng

yíngyǎng — "nutrition; nourishment".

shuǐguǒ hěn yǒu yíngyǎng nǐ yīnggāi měi tiān chī — Fruit is very good for you, so you should eat some every day.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yíngyǎng is built from yíng 'to build' and yǎng 'to nourish', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yweng and yangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to make' and the second 'to raise' and 'to feed'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yíngyǎng
- Say it: yíngyǎng, once more
- Say it: shuǐguǒ hěn yǒu yíngyǎng nǐ yīnggāi měi tiān chī — Fruit is very good for you, so you should eat some every day.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to start to improve, then the Mandarin for to get well again, then say yíngyǎng again

Before you move on

What does yíngyǎng mean? ("Nutrition; nourishment".) Say it once more.

483.4 bǎojiàn — health care; looking after one's health

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get well again, then the Mandarin for nourishment.

You'll want to know: bǎojiàn

bǎojiàn — "health care; looking after one's health".

wǒ yéye bǐ wǒ nǎinai zhùyì bǎojiàn — My grandfather takes more care of his health than my grandmother does.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bǎojiàn is built from 保 'to keep' and jiàn 'strong', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pawX and gjonH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to keep safe' and the second 'strong'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: bǎojiàn
- Say it: bǎojiàn, once more
- Say it: wǒ yéye bǐ wǒ nǎinai zhùyì bǎojiàn — My grandfather takes more care of his health than my grandmother does.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get well again, then the Mandarin for nourishment, then say bǎojiàn again

Before you move on

What does bǎojiàn mean? ("Health care; looking after one's health".) Say it once more.

483.5 mànxìng — chronic (of an illness)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for nourishment, then the Mandarin for looking after one's health.

You'll want to know: mànxìng

mànxìng — "chronic (of an illness)".

tā yǒu mànxìngbìng yào chángcháng chī yào — He has a chronic illness and has to take medicine regularly.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of mànxìng is built from màn 'slow' and 性 'nature', both inherited from Middle Chinese, maenH and sjengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'idle' and the second 'nature and conduct'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: mànxìng
- Say it: mànxìng, once more
- Say it: tā yǒu mànxìngbìng yào chángcháng chī yào — He has a chronic illness and has to take medicine regularly.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for nourishment, then the Mandarin for looking after one's health, then say mànxìng again

Before you move on

What does mànxìng mean? ("Chronic (of an illness)".) Say it once more.

Chapter 484

Staying Well

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about preventing illness, giving up drinking, forming a habit, feeling worn out and fighting off colds.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 484: I can talk about preventing illness, giving up drinking, forming a habit, feeling worn out and fighting off colds.

484.1 yùfáng — to prevent; to guard against

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for looking after one's health, then the Mandarin for chronic.

You'll want to know: yùfáng

yùfáng — "to prevent; to guard against".

> chángcháng xǐ shǒu kěyǐ yùfáng gǎnmào — Washing your hands often helps prevent colds.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yùfáng is built from yù 'beforehand' and fáng 'to ward off', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yoH and bjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'in advance' and the second 'to guard against’.

What you’ve built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yùfáng
- Say it: yùfáng, once more
- Say it: chángcháng xǐ shǒu kěyǐ yùfáng gǎnmào — Washing your hands often helps prevent colds.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for looking after one’s health, then the Mandarin for chronic, then say yùfáng again

Before you move on

What does yùfáng mean? (“To prevent; to guard against”.) Say it once more.

484.2 jièjiǔ — to give up drinking

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for chronic, then the Mandarin for to guard against.

You’ll want to know: jièjiǔ

jièjiǔ — “to give up drinking”.

yīshēng shuō tā yīnggāi jièjiǔ — The doctor says he ought to give up drinking.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jièjiǔ is built from jiè ’to guard against’ and 酒 ’alcohol’, both inherited from Middle Chinese, keajH and tsjuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter’s transcription), which glosses the first ’to be careful’ and ’to be on guard' and the second as wine.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jièjiǔ
- Say it: jièjiǔ, once more
- Say it: yīshēng shuō tā yīnggāi jièjiǔ — The doctor says he ought to give up drinking.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for chronic, then the Mandarin for to guard against, then say jièjiǔ again

Before you move on

What does jièjiǔ mean? ("To give up drinking".) Say it once more.

484.3 yǎngchéng — to form (a habit); to get into a habit

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to guard against, then the Mandarin for to give up drinking.

You'll want to know: yǎngchéng

yǎngchéng — "to form (a habit); to get into a habit".

> wǒ yǎngchéng le zǎoshang pǎobù de xíguàn — I've got into the habit of running in the morning.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yǎngchéng is built from yǎng 'to raise' and 成 'to complete', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yangX and dzyeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to rear' and the second 'to finish'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yǎngchéng
- Say it: yǎngchéng, once more
- Say it: wǒ yǎngchéng le zǎoshang pǎobù de xíguàn — I've got into the habit of running in the morning.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to guard against, then the Mandarin for to give up drinking, then say yǎngchéng again

Before you move on

What does yǎngchéng mean? ("To form (a habit); to get into a habit".) Say it once more.

484.4 píláo — worn out; fatigued

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to give up drinking, then the Mandarin for to get into a habit.

You'll want to know: píláo

píláo — "worn out; fatigued".

wǒ gōngzuò le yì tiān gǎnjué hěn píláo — I've worked all day, and I feel worn out.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of píláo is built from pí 'weary' and láo 'toil', both inherited from Middle Chinese, bje and law (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'tired' and 'spent' and the second 'tired' and 'hard work'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: píláo
- Say it: píláo, once more
- Say it: wǒ gōngzuò le yì tiān gǎnjué hěn píláo — I've worked all day, and I feel worn out.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to give up drinking, then the Mandarin for to get into a habit, then say píláo again

Before you move on

What does píláo mean? ("Worn out; fatigued".) Say it once more.

484.5 dǐkànglì — resistance to illness

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get into a habit, then the Mandarin for worn out.

You'll want to know: dǐkànglì

dǐkànglì — "resistance to illness".

chángcháng duànliàn de rén dǐkànglì bǐ biérén hǎo — People who exercise regularly fight off illness better than others.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dǐkànglì is built from dǐ 'to push against', kàng 'to resist' and 力 'strength', all inherited from Middle Chinese, tejX, khangH and lik (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'to push' and lists the second under two readings, glossing khangH as lifting with the hand.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: dǐkànglì
- Say it: dǐkànglì, once more
- Say it: chángcháng duànliàn de rén dǐkànglì bǐ biérén hǎo — People who exercise regularly fight off illness better than others.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get into a habit, then the Mandarin for worn out, then say dǐkànglì again

Before you move on

What does dǐkànglì mean? ("Resistance to illness".) Say it once more.

Chapter 485

Body and Mind

Modes: 🚗 voice (7) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about stress, energy, body and mind, my frame of mind and relieving stress.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 485: I can talk about stress, energy, body and mind, my frame of mind and relieving stress.

485.1 yālì — pressure; stress

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for worn out, then the Mandarin for resistance to illness.

You'll want to know: yālì

yālì — "pressure; stress".

> wǒ zuìjìn yālì hěn dà — I've been under a lot of stress lately.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yālì is built from yā 'to press' and 力 'strength', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'aep and lik (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to press down' and the second 'sinew'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yālì
- Say it: yālì, once more
- Say it: wǒ zuìjìn yālì hěn dà — I've been under a lot of stress lately.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for worn out, then the Mandarin for resistance to illness, then say yālì again

Before you move on

What does yālì mean? ("Pressure; stress".) Say it once more.

485.2 jīngshen — vigour; get-up-and-go

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for resistance to illness, then the Mandarin for stress and pressure.

You'll want to know: jīngshen

jīngshen — "vigour; get-up-and-go".

hē le kāfēi yǐhòu wǒ gǎnjué hěn yǒu jīngshen — After a coffee, I feel full of energy.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jīngshen is built from jīng 'refined' and shén 'spirit', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsjeng and zyin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'bright' and 'pure' and the second 'divine'. In this sense the second is said light.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jīngshen
- Say it: jīngshen, once more
- Say it: hē le kāfēi yǐhòu wǒ gǎnjué hěn yǒu jīngshen — After a coffee, I feel full of energy.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for resistance to illness, then the Mandarin for stress and pressure, then say jīngshen again

Before you move on

What does jīngshen mean? ("Vigour; get-up-and-go".) Say it once more.

485.3 身心 (shēnxīn) — body and mind

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for stress and pressure, then the Mandarin for get-up-and-go.

You'll want to know: 身心

身心 — shēnxīn — "body and mind".

眼前最要紧的是身心都好 yǎnqián zuì yàojǐn de shì shēnxīn dōu hǎo — For now, what matters most is being well in body and mind.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 身心 (shēnxīn) is built from 身 'body' and 心 'heart', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syin and sim (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'oneself'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shēnxīn
- Say it: shēnxīn, once more
- Say it: yǎnqián zuì yàojǐn de shì shēnxīn dōu hǎo — For now, what matters most is being well in body and mind.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for stress and pressure, then the Mandarin for get-up-and-go, then say shēnxīn again

Before you move on

What does 身心 mean? ("Body and mind".) Say it once more.

485.4 xīntài — mindset; attitude of mind

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for get-up-and-go, then the Mandarin for body and mind.

You'll want to know: xīntài

xīntài — "mindset; attitude of mind".

kǎoshì de shíhou xīntài zuì zhòngyào — In an exam, your mindset matters most.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xīntài is built from 心 'heart' and tài 'a manner', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sim and thojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'bearing and manner'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xīntài
- Say it: xīntài, once more
- Say it: kǎoshì de shíhou xīntài zuì zhòngyào — In an exam, your mindset matters most.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for get-up-and-go, then the Mandarin for body and mind, then say xīntài again

Before you move on

What does xīntài mean? ("Mindset; attitude of mind".) Say it once more.

485.5 jiǎnyā — to relieve stress

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for body and mind, then the Mandarin for a mindset.

You'll want to know: jiǎnyā

jiǎnyā — "to relieve stress".

tīng yīnyuè kěyǐ jiǎnyā — Listening to music helps relieve stress.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiǎnyā is built from jiǎn 'to lessen' and yā 'to press', both inherited from Middle Chinese, keamX and 'aep (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary lists the first under two readings and glosses keamX 'to reduce'; it glosses the second 'to press down'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jiǎnyā
- Say it: jiǎnyā, once more
- Say it: tīng yīnyuè kěyǐ jiǎnyā — Listening to music helps relieve stress.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for body and mind, then the Mandarin for a mindset, then say jiǎnyā again

Before you move on

What does jiǎnyā mean? ("To relieve stress".) Say it once more.

485.6 Looking back: from Is It Serious? to Body and Mind

Say the Mandarin for serious or urgent and how an illness is going.

Your turn

- Say it: serious or urgent, how an illness is going, the cause of an illness, to become infected, a virus
- Say it: the emergency department, to give medical treatment, a pill, to disinfect, to care for the sick
- Say it: to start to improve, to get well again, nourishment, looking after one's health, chronic
- Say it: to guard against, to give up drinking, to get into a habit, worn out, resistance to illness
- Say it: stress and pressure, get-up-and-go, body and mind, a mindset, to relieve stress
- Read it: 紧 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

Serious or urgent? (要紧, yàojǐn.) How an illness is going? (病情, bìngqíng.) The cause of an illness? (病因, bìngyīn.) To become infected? (gǎnrǎn.) A virus? (bìngdú.) The emergency department? (jízhěn.) To give medical treatment? (zhìliáo.) A pill? (yàopiàn.) To disinfect? (xiāodú.) To care for the sick? (护理, hùlǐ.) To start to improve? (hǎozhuǎn.) To get well again? (kāngfù.) Nourishment? (yíngyǎng.) Looking after one's health? (bǎojiàn.) Chronic? (mànxìng.) To guard against? (yùfáng.) To give up drinking? (jièjiǔ.) To get into a habit? (yǎngchéng.) Worn out? (píláo.) Resistance to illness? (dǐkànglì.) Stress and pressure? (yālì.) Get-up-and-go? (jīngshen.) Body and mind? (身心, shēnxīn.) A mindset? (xīntài.) To relieve stress? (jiǎnyā.)

485.7 Body and Mind — once more

Say the Mandarin for stress and pressure and get-up-and-go.

Your turn

- Say it: stress and pressure, get-up-and-go, body and mind, a mindset, to relieve stress

Before you move on

Stress and pressure? (yālì.) Get-up-and-go? (jīngshen.) Body and mind? (身心, shēnxīn.) A mindset? (xīntài.) To relieve stress? (jiǎnyā.)

Chapter 486

Looking for Work

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about job adverts, a CV, applying for a job, an internship and pay and conditions.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 486: I can talk about job adverts, a CV, applying for a job, an internship and pay and conditions.

486.1 zhāopìn — to recruit; to advertise a job

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for mindset, then the Mandarin for to relieve stress.

You'll want to know: zhāopìn

zhāopìn — "to recruit; to advertise a job".

> zhè jiā gōngsī zhèngzài zhāopìn — This company is hiring.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhāopìn is built from zhāo 'to beckon' and pìn 'to engage by invitation', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyew and phjiengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to call to' and the second 'a formal visit of inquiry'; the sense 'to hire' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhāopìn
- Say it: zhāopìn, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā gōngsī zhèngzài zhāopìn — This company is hiring.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for mindset, then the Mandarin for to relieve stress, then say zhāopìn again

Before you move on

What does zhāopìn mean? ("To recruit; to advertise a job".) Say it once more.

486.2 jiǎnlì — CV; résumé

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to relieve stress, then the Mandarin for to recruit staff.

You'll want to know: jiǎnlì

jiǎnlì — "CV; résumé".

zhè shì wǒ de jiǎnlì — Here's my CV.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiǎnlì is built from jiǎn 'a writing slip; brief' and lì 'to pass through', both inherited from Middle Chinese, keanX and lek (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a writing tablet' and the second 'to pass through'. The sense 'a CV' is modern and not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jiǎnlì
- Say it: jiǎnlì, once more
- Say it: zhè shì wǒ de jiǎnlì — Here's my CV.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to relieve stress, then the Mandarin for to recruit staff, then say jiǎnlì again

Before you move on

What does jiǎnlì mean? ("CV; résumé".) Say it once more.

486.3 yìngpìn — to apply for a job

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to recruit staff, then the Mandarin for a CV.

You'll want to know: yìngpìn

yìngpìn — "to apply for a job".

> qù yìngpìn de shíhou xīntài zuì zhòngyào — When you go to apply for a job, your frame of mind matters most.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yìngpìn is built from 应 'to answer' and pìn 'to engage by invitation', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'ingH and phjiengH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'things answering each other'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yìngpìn
- Say it: yìngpìn, once more
- Say it: qù yìngpìn de shíhou xīntài zuì zhòngyào — When you go to apply for a job, your frame of mind matters most.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to recruit staff, then the Mandarin for a CV, then say yìngpìn again

Before you move on

What does yìngpìn mean? ("To apply for a job".) Say it once more.

486.4 shíxí — to do an internship; to work as a trainee

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a CV, then the Mandarin for to apply for a job.

You'll want to know: shíxí

shíxí — "to do an internship; to work as a trainee".

wǒ zài yínháng shíxí le sān ge yuè — I did a three-month internship at a bank.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

shíxí is built from shí 'real' and xí 'to practise', both inherited from Middle Chinese, zyit and zip (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'full' and 'true' and the second 'to learn'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shíxí
- Say it: shíxí, once more
- Say it: wǒ zài yínháng shíxí le sān ge yuè — I did a three-month internship at a bank.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a CV, then the Mandarin for to apply for a job, then say shíxí again

Before you move on

What does shíxí mean? ("To do an internship; to work as a trainee".) Say it once more.

486.5 dàiyù — pay and conditions (of a job)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to apply for a job, then the Mandarin for to do an internship.

You'll want to know: dàiyù

dàiyù — "pay and conditions (of a job)".

zhè jiā gōngsī de dàiyù bǐ nà jiā hǎo — This company pays better than that one.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dàiyù is built from dài 'to treat' and yù 'to meet', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dojX and ngjuH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to wait for' and the second 'to meet without arranging it'; the sense 'how one is treated at work' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: dàiyù
- Say it: dàiyù, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā gōngsī de dàiyù bǐ nà jiā hǎo — This company pays better than that one.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to apply for a job, then the Mandarin for to do an internship, then say dàiyù again

Before you move on

What does dàiyù mean? ("Pay and conditions (of a job)".) Say it once more.

Chapter 487

A Career

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about lines of work, a career, finding a job, being out of work and factories.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 487: I can talk about lines of work, a career, finding a job, being out of work and factories.

487.1 hángyè — line of business; industry

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to do an internship, then the Mandarin for pay and conditions.

You'll want to know: hángyè

hángyè — "line of business; industry".

> nǐ zài nǎge hángyè gōngzuò — What line of work are you in?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of hángyè is built from háng 'a row' and yè 'a trade', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hang and ngjaep (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a file of soldiers' and the second 'affairs'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: hángyè
- Say it: hángyè, once more
- Say it: nǐ zài nǎge hángyè gōngzuò — What line of work are you in?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to do an internship, then the Mandarin for pay and conditions, then say hángyè again

Before you move on

What does hángyè mean? ("Line of business; industry".) Say it once more.

487.2 事业 (shìyè) — career; life's work

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for pay and conditions, then the Mandarin for a line of business.

You'll want to know: 事业

事业 — shìyè — "career; life's work".

他觉得事业最重要 tā juéde shìyè zuì zhòngyào — He thinks his career matters most.

The new character, in pieces: 业 — five strokes and no piece you have written yet: two verticals side by side, a dot on the left and a short stroke falling left on the right, then a long bar along the foot. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 事业 (shìyè) is built from 事 'a matter' and 业 'a trade', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzriH and ngjaep (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to employ' and the second 'affairs' and 'great'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shìyè
- Say it: shìyè, once more
- Say it: tā juéde shìyè zuì zhòngyào — He thinks his career matters most.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for pay and conditions, then the Mandarin for a line of business, then say shìyè again

Before you move on

What does 事业 mean? ("Career; life's work".) Say it once more.

487.3 业 — two verticals, two short strokes, a long bar

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say shìyè — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

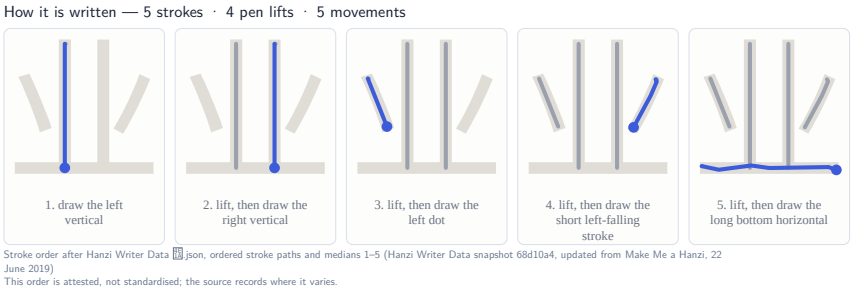
  事 作

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — shì, zuò

Script — two verticals, two short strokes, a long bar



How 业 is written, stroke by stroke

业

Five strokes, in three steps.

Two verticals first, side by side in the middle: the left one, then the right one, which starts a little higher.

Two short strokes outside them: a dot on the left that falls to the right, then a short stroke on the right that falls to the left.

Last, a long bar along the foot, wider than everything above it.

2 + 2 + 1 = five.

Your turn

- Write it: 业, all five, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes does 业 have? (Five.) What comes first? (The two verticals.) And last? (The long bar along the foot.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 业, pinned stroke paths and medians.

487.4 就业 (jiùyè) — to find employment; to get a job

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a line of business, then the Mandarin for one's life's work.

You'll want to know: 就业

就业 — jiùyè — "to find employment; to get a job".

> xiànzài dàxuésheng jiùyè bù róngyì — It isn't easy for graduates to find jobs these days.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 就业 (jiùyè) is built from 就 'to go to' and 业 'work', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzjuwH and ngjaep (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to accomplish' and 'to go towards'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jiùyè
- Say it: jiùyè, once more
- Say it: xiànzài dàxuésheng jiùyè bù róngyì — It isn't easy for graduates to find jobs these days.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a line of business, then the Mandarin for one's life's work, then say jiùyè again

Before you move on

What does 就业 mean? ("To find employment; to get a job".) Say it once more.

487.5 shīyè — to lose one's job; to be out of work

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for one's life's work, then the Mandarin for to find employment.

You'll want to know: shīyè

shīyè — "to lose one's job; to be out of work".

> tā shīyè le bàn nián jīngshen hěn bù hǎo — He was out of work for six months and was in very low spirits.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shīyè is built from shī 'to lose' and 业 'work', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syit and ngjaep (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to err' and 'to let slip'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shīyè
- Say it: shīyè, once more
- Say it: tā shīyè le bàn nián jīngshen hěn bù hǎo — He was out of work for six months and was in very low spirits.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for one's life's work, then the Mandarin for to find employment, then say shīyè again

Before you move on

What does shīyè mean? ("To lose one's job; to be out of work".) Say it once more.

487.6 gōngchǎng — factory

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to find employment, then the Mandarin for to be out of work.

You'll want to know: gōngchǎng

gōngchǎng — "factory".

> wǒ bàba zài gōngchǎng gōngzuò le èrshí nián — My dad worked in a factory for twenty years.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gōngchǎng is built from 工 'work' and chǎng 'a shed', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kuwng and tsyhangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'skilled work' and the second 'a roofed building'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: gōngchǎng
- Say it: gōngchǎng, once more
- Say it: wǒ bàba zài gōngchǎng gōngzuò le èrshí nián — My dad worked in a factory for twenty years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to find employment, then the Mandarin for to be out of work, then say gōngchǎng again

Before you move on

What does gōngchǎng mean? ("Factory".) Say it once more.

Chapter 488

What Do You Want to Be

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say what I want to be: an engineer, a chef or a scientist, and talk about translating and earning.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 488: I can say what I want to be: an engineer, a chef or a scientist, and talk about translating and earning.

488.1 gōngchéngshī — engineer

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be out of work, then the Mandarin for a factory.

You'll want to know: gōngchéngshī gōngchéngshī — "engineer".

> wǒ yǐhòu xiǎng dāng gōngchéngshī — I want to be an engineer.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gōngchéngshī is built from 工 'work', chéng 'a measure' and shī 'a master', all inherited from Middle Chinese, kuwng, drjeng and srij (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a rule' and the third 'a model to follow'; the sense 'engineering' is modern and not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: gōngchéngshī
- Say it: gōngchéngshī, once more
- Say it: wǒ yǐhòu xiǎng dāng gōngchéngshī — I want to be an engineer.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be out of work, then the Mandarin for a factory, then say gōngchéngshī again

Before you move on

What does gōngchéngshī mean? ("Engineer".) Say it once more.

488.2 chúshī — chef; professional cook

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a factory, then the Mandarin for an engineer.

You'll want to know: chúshī

chúshī — "chef; professional cook".

tā dāng le shí nián chúshī měi tiān dōu hěn píláo — He was a chef for ten years and was worn out every day.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chúshī is built from chú 'a kitchen' and shī 'a master', both inherited from Middle Chinese, drju and srij (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a kitchen' and the second 'a model to follow'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: chúshī
- Say it: chúshī, once more
- Say it: tā dāng le shí nián chúshī měi tiān dōu hěn píláo — He was a chef for ten years and was worn out every day.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a factory, then the Mandarin for an engineer, then say chúshī again

Before you move on

What does chúshī mean? ("Chef; professional cook".) Say it once more.

488.3 kēxuéjiā — scientist

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an engineer, then the Mandarin for a chef.

You'll want to know: kēxuéjiā

kēxuéjiā — "scientist".

xiǎoshíhou wǒ zuì xiǎng dāng kēxuéjiā — When I was little, what I wanted most was to be a scientist.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of kēxuéjiā is built from kē 'a grade', 学 'to learn' and 家 'a household', all inherited from Middle Chinese, khwa, haewk and kae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a rule' and 'a class'. The senses 'science' and 'someone skilled in it' are modern and not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: kēxuéjiā
- Say it: kēxuéjiā, once more
- Say it: xiǎoshíhou wǒ zuì xiǎng dāng kēxuéjiā — When I was little, what I wanted most was to be a scientist.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an engineer, then the Mandarin for a chef, then say kēxuéjiā again

Before you move on

What does kēxuéjiā mean? ("Scientist".) Say it once more.

488.4 fānyì — to translate; to interpret

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a chef, then the Mandarin for a scientist.

You'll want to know: fānyì

fānyì — "to translate; to interpret".

nǐ néng bāng wǒ fānyì zhège ma — Can you translate this for me?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

fānyì is built from fān 'to turn over' and yì 'to translate', both inherited from Middle Chinese, phjon and yek (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to overturn' and the second 'to pass words on', the name of the interpreters for the peoples of the north.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: fānyì
- Say it: fānyì, once more
- Say it: nǐ néng bāng wǒ fānyì zhège ma — Can you translate this for me?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a chef, then the Mandarin for a scientist, then say fānyì again

Before you move on

What does fānyì mean? ("To translate; to interpret".) Say it once more.

488.5 zhuàn — to earn money; to make a profit

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a scientist, then the Mandarin for to translate.

You'll want to know: zhuàn

zhuàn — "to earn money; to make a profit".

tā yí ge yuè zhuàn yíwàn kuài — He earns ten thousand yuan a month.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhuàn has no entry in the Guangyun, the dictionary this track cites for older forms. No dictionary we use records an older form, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhuàn
- Say it: zhuàn, once more
- Say it: tā yí ge yuè zhuàn yíwàn kuài — He earns ten thousand yuan a month.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a scientist, then the Mandarin for to translate, then say zhuàn again

Before you move on

What does zhuàn mean? ("To earn money; to make a profit".) Say it once more.

Chapter 489

On the Staff

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about changing employers, the staff, full-time jobs, posts and promotion.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 489: I can talk about changing employers, the staff, full-time jobs, posts and promotion.

489.1 tiàocáo — to move to another employer; to change jobs

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to translate, then the Mandarin for to earn money.

You'll want to know: tiàocáo

tiàocáo — "to move to another employer; to change jobs".

> gōngzuò yālì tài dà suǒyǐ tā tiàocáo le — The pressure at work was too much, so he moved to another firm.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tiàocáo is built from tiào 'to jump' and cáo 'a trough', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dew and dzaw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to leap' and the second 'a horse's trough'. A horse leaving one trough for the next is the picture usually given, but the dictionary does not give the sense.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: tiàocáo
- Say it: tiàocáo, once more
- Say it: gōngzuò yālì tài dà suǒyǐ tā tiàocáo le — The pressure at work was too much, so he moved to another firm.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to translate, then the Mandarin for to earn money, then say tiàocáo again

Before you move on

What does tiàocáo mean? ("To move to another employer; to change jobs".) Say it once more.

489.2 职工 (zhígōng) — member of staff; employee (of a firm or factory)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to earn money, then the Mandarin for to move to another employer.

You'll want to know: 职工

职工 — zhígōng — "member of staff; employee (of a firm or factory)".

zhè jiā gōngchǎng yǒu yìbǎi ge zhígōng — This factory has a hundred staff.

The new character, in pieces: 职 — eleven strokes in two pieces: on the left an ear piece of six strokes, a bar, two verticals with two short bars between them and a stroke rising at the foot; on the right 只 zhǐ, five strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 职工 (zhígōng) is built from 职 'a post' and 工 'work', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyik and kuwng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to be in charge of' and, after an older dictionary, 'an occupation'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhígōng
- Say it: zhígōng, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā gōngchǎng yǒu yìbǎi ge zhígōng — This factory has a hundred staff.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to earn money, then the Mandarin for to move to another employer, then say zhígōng again

Before you move on

What does 职工 mean? ("Member of staff; employee (of a firm or factory)".) Say it once more.

489.3 职 — an ear piece, then zhǐ

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say zhígōng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

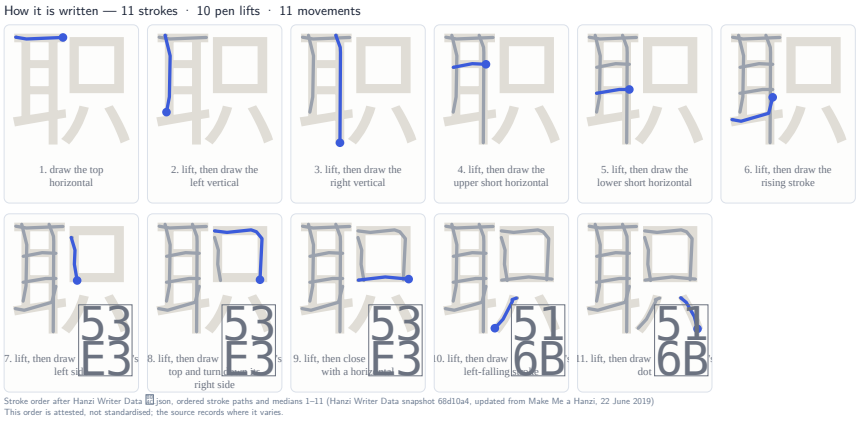
只 工

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — zhǐ, gōng

Script — an ear piece, then zhǐ



How 职 is written, stroke by stroke

职

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, six strokes. A bar on top. A short vertical on the left, then a long vertical on the right that runs down past everything else to the foot. Two short bars between them. Last, a stroke that rises to the right across the bottom.

The right piece, 只 zhǐ, five strokes, as you wrote it: 口 kǒu, then a stroke falling to the left and a dot falling to the right under it.

6 + 5 = eleven.

Your turn

- Write it: 职, all eleven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 职 have? (Two.) What is the right piece read? (zhǐ.) Which stroke of the left piece runs longest? (The vertical on its right.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 职, pinned stroke paths and medians.

489.4 全职 (quánzhí) — full-time (of a job)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to move to another employer, then the Mandarin for a member of staff.

You'll want to know: 全职

全职 — quánzhí — "full-time (of a job)".

quánzhí de gōngzuò bǐ dǎgōng lèi — A full-time job is more tiring than casual work.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 全职 (quánzhí) is built from 全 'whole' and 职 'a post', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzjwen and tsyik (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'complete'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: quánzhí
- Say it: quánzhí, once more
- Say it: quánzhí de gōngzuò bǐ dǎgōng lèi — A full-time job is more tiring than casual work.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to move to another employer, then the Mandarin for a member of staff, then say quánzhí again

Before you move on

What does 全职 mean? ("Full-time (of a job)".) Say it once more.

489.5 zhíwèi — a position in a firm

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a member of staff, then the Mandarin for full-time (of a job).

You'll want to know: zhíwèi

zhíwèi — "a position in a firm".

> tā xiǎng yào jīnglǐ de zhíwèi — He wants the manager's job.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhíwèi is built from 职 'a post' and wèi 'a place', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyik and hwijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a rank in a row'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhíwèi
- Say it: zhíwèi, once more
- Say it: tā xiǎng yào jīnglǐ de zhíwèi — He wants the manager's job.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a member of staff, then the Mandarin for full-time (of a job), then say zhíwèi again

Before you move on

What does zhíwèi mean? ("A position in a firm".) Say it once more.

489.6 shēngzhí — to get promoted

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for full-time (of a job), then the Mandarin for a position in a firm.

You'll want to know: shēngzhí

shēngzhí — "to get promoted".

tā gōngzuò le wǔ nián cái shēngzhí — He worked five years before he was promoted.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shēngzhí is built from shēng 'to rise' and 职 'a post', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sying and tsyik (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as a measure of grain and 'to complete'; the sense 'to rise' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shēngzhí
- Say it: shēngzhí, once more
- Say it: tā gōngzuò le wǔ nián cái shēngzhí — He worked five years before he was promoted.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for full-time (of a job), then the Mandarin for a position in a firm, then say shēngzhí again

Before you move on

What does shēngzhí mean? ("To get promoted".) Say it once more.

Chapter 490

Pressure at Work

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about managing, working together, night shifts, hard work and being fired.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 490: I can talk about managing, working together, night shifts, hard work and being fired.

490.1 guǎnlǐ — to manage; to be in charge of

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a position in a firm, then the Mandarin for to get promoted.

You'll want to know: guǎnlǐ guǎnlǐ — "to manage; to be in charge of".

> tā guǎnlǐ yì jiā fàndiàn — She manages a restaurant.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: guǎn is said with a rising tone before lǐ, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of guǎnlǐ is built from guǎn 'to be in charge' and 理 'to put in order', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwanX and liX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a pipe (a wind instrument)' and 'to be in charge', and the second 'to work jade' and 'a pattern'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: guǎnlǐ
- Say it: guǎnlǐ, once more
- Say it: tā guǎnlǐ yì jiā fàndiàn — She manages a restaurant.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a position in a firm, then the Mandarin for to get promoted, then say guǎnlǐ again

Before you move on

What does guǎnlǐ mean? ("To manage; to be in charge of".) Say it once more.

490.2 hézuò — to work together; to cooperate

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get promoted, then the Mandarin for to manage.

You'll want to know: hézuò

hézuò — "to work together; to cooperate".

gēn tā hézuò wǒ gǎnjué hěn kāixīn — I really enjoy working with him.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

hézuò is built from hé 'to join' and 作 'to do', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hop and tsak (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to join together' and the second 'to do' and 'to make'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: hézuò
- Say it: hézuò, once more
- Say it: gēn tā hézuò wǒ gǎnjué hěn kāixīn — I really enjoy working with him.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get promoted, then the Mandarin for to manage, then say hézuò again

Before you move on

What does hézuò mean? ("To work together; to cooperate".) Say it once more.

490.3 yèbān — night shift

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to manage, then the Mandarin for to work together.

You'll want to know: yèbān

yèbān — "night shift".

zuò le yì nián yèbān yǐhòu tā chángcháng shīmián — After a year of night shifts, he often couldn't sleep.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

yèbān is built from yè 'night' and bān 'a shift', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yaeH and paen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'dusk' and the second 'to divide jade tokens'; the sense 'a turn of work' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yèbān
- Say it: yèbān, once more
- Say it: zuò le yì nián yèbān yǐhòu tā chángcháng shīmián — After a year of night shifts, he often couldn't sleep.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to manage, then the Mandarin for to work together, then say yèbān again

Before you move on

What does yèbān mean? ("Night shift".) Say it once more.

490.4 xīnkǔ — exhausting; toilsome (of work)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to work together, then the Mandarin for the night shift.

You'll want to know: xīnkǔ

xīnkǔ — "exhausting; toilsome (of work)".

gōngzuò yālì dà de shíhou wǒ gǎnjué hěn xīnkǔ — When the pressure at work is high, I find it really hard going.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

xīnkǔ is built from xīn 'pungent' and kǔ 'bitter', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sin and khuX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as the taste of ginger and the second 'coarse' and 'toil'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xīnkǔ
- Say it: xīnkǔ, once more
- Say it: gōngzuò yālì dà de shíhou wǒ gǎnjué hěn xīnkǔ — When the pressure at work is high, I find it really hard going.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to work together, then the Mandarin for the night shift, then say xīnkǔ again

Before you move on

What does xīnkǔ mean? ("Exhausting; toilsome (of work)".) Say it once more.

490.5 kāichú — to fire; to dismiss (from a job or school)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the night shift, then the Mandarin for exhausting (of work).

You'll want to know: kāichú

kāichú — "to fire; to dismiss (from a job or school)".

tā chángcháng chídào suǒyǐ lǎobǎn kāichú le tā — He was often late, so the boss fired him.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of kāichú is built from 开 'to open' and chú 'to remove', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khoj and drjo (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to release' and the second 'to take away'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: kāichú
- Say it: kāichú, once more
- Say it: tā chángcháng chídào suǒyǐ lǎobǎn kāichú le tā — He was often late, so the boss fired him.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the night shift, then the Mandarin for exhausting (of work), then say kāichú again

Before you move on

What does kāichú mean? ("To fire; to dismiss (from a job or school)".) Say it once more.

Chapter 491

The Boss

Modes: voice (6) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a pay rise, my superior, a secretary, the world of work and the people under me.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 491: I can talk about a pay rise, my superior, a secretary, the world of work and the people under me.

491.1 jiāxīn — to get a pay rise; to raise someone's pay

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for exhausting (of work), then the Mandarin for to fire (from a job).

You'll want to know: jiāxīn

jiāxīn — "to get a pay rise; to raise someone's pay".

> wǒ gōngzuò le liǎng nián hái méiyǒu jiāxīn — I've worked for two years and still haven't had a pay rise.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiāxīn is built from jiā 'to add' and xīn 'firewood', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kae and sin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to increase' and the second 'firewood'. Firewood standing for pay is the usual explanation, but the dictionary does not give that sense.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jiāxīn
- Say it: jiāxīn, once more
- Say it: wǒ gōngzuò le liǎng nián hái méiyǒu jiāxīn — I've worked for two years and still haven't had a pay rise.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for exhausting (of work), then the Mandarin for to fire (from a job), then say jiāxīn again

Before you move on

What does jiāxīn mean? ("To get a pay rise; to raise someone's pay".) Say it once more.

491.2 上司 (shàngsi) — one's superior at work

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to fire (from a job), then the Mandarin for to get a pay rise.

You'll want to know: 上司

上司 — shàngsi — "one's superior at work".

我的新上司比以前的好 wǒ de xīn shàngsi bǐ yǐqián de hǎo — My new boss is better than the last one.

The new character, in pieces: 司 — five strokes: one long stroke for the frame, a bar along the top that turns down the right side and hooks; a short bar under it; then 口 kǒu inside. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The second syllable is light: shàngsi, with no tone of its own.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 上司 (shàngsi) is built from 上 'above' and 司 'to be in charge', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyangH and si (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a ruler' and the second 'to be in charge'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shàngsi
- Say it: shàngsi, once more
- Say it: wǒ de xīn shàngsi bǐ yǐqián de hǎo — My new boss is better than the last one.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to fire (from a job), then the Mandarin for to get a pay rise, then say shàngsi again

Before you move on

What does 上司 mean? ("One's superior at work".) Say it once more.

491.3 司 — a hooked frame, a short bar, then kǒu

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say shàngsi — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

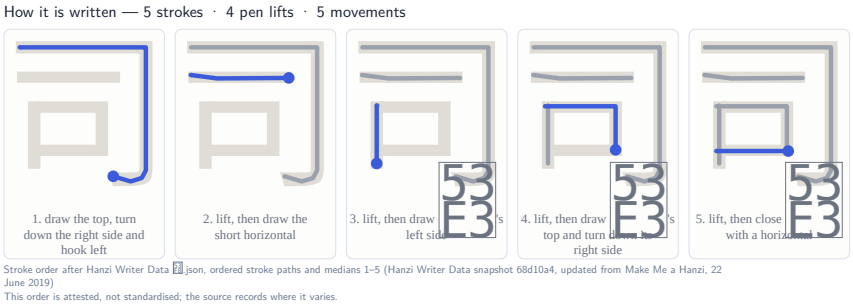
口 公

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — kǒu, gōng

Script — a hooked frame, a short bar, then kǒu



How 司 is written, stroke by stroke

司

The frame, one stroke. A bar along the top that turns down the right side and hooks to the left at the foot.

A short bar inside, under the top.

Then 口 kǒu, three strokes, under the short bar: the left side, the top that turns down, and the bottom.

1 + 1 + 3 = five.

Your turn

- Write it: 司, all five, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes does 司 have? (Five.) Which stroke comes first? (The frame: a top bar that turns down and hooks.) What sits inside? (A short bar and 口.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 司, pinned stroke paths and medians.

491.4 mìshū — secretary

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get a pay rise, then the Mandarin for one's superior at work.

You'll want to know: mìshū

mìshū — "secretary".

> wǒ zài gōngsī dāng le sān nián mìshū — I was a secretary at a company for three years.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of mìshū is built from mì 'secret' and 书 'writing', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pijH and syo (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which lists the first in an older form, glossed 'close' and 'secret'. The modern mì is irregular: pijH would regularly give bì.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: mìshū
- Say it: mìshū, once more
- Say it: wǒ zài gōngsī dāng le sān nián mìshū — I was a secretary at a company for three years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get a pay rise, then the Mandarin for one's superior at work, then say mìshū again

Before you move on

What does mìshū mean? ("Secretary".) Say it once more.

491.5 职场 (zhíchǎng) — the workplace; the world of work

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for one's superior at work, then the Mandarin for a secretary.

You'll want to know: 职场

职场 — zhíchǎng — "the workplace; the world of work".

> wǒ juéde zhíchǎng bǐ xuéxiào lèi — I find working life more tiring than school.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 职场 (zhíchǎng) is built from 职 'a post' and 场 'a ground', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyik and drjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a threshing floor'; the modern third tone of chǎng is irregular for drjang.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhíchǎng
- Say it: zhíchǎng, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhíchǎng bǐ xuéxiào lèi — I find working life more tiring than school.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for one's superior at work, then the Mandarin for a secretary, then say zhíchǎng again

Before you move on

What does 职场 mean? ("The workplace; the world of work".) Say it once more.

491.6 xiàshǔ — subordinate; someone under one at work

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a secretary, then the Mandarin for the world of work.

You'll want to know: xiàshǔ

xiàshǔ — "subordinate; someone under one at work".

> tā de xiàshǔ dōu hěn yǒu jīngshen — The people under him are all full of energy.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiàshǔ is built from 下 'below' and shǔ 'to belong to', both inherited from Middle Chinese, haeX and dzyowk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'low' and the second 'attached to' and 'a kind'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xiàshǔ
- Say it: xiàshǔ, once more
- Say it: tā de xiàshǔ dōu hěn yǒu jīngshen — The people under him are all full of energy.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a secretary, then the Mandarin for the world of work, then say xiàshǔ again

Before you move on

What does xiàshǔ mean? ("Subordinate; someone under one at work".) Say it once more.

491.7 Looking back: from Looking for Work to The Boss

Say the Mandarin for to recruit staff and a CV.

Your turn

- Say it: to recruit staff, a CV, to apply for a job, to do an internship, pay and conditions
- Say it: a line of business, one's life's work, to find employment, to be out of work, a factory
- Say it: an engineer, a chef, a scientist, to translate, to earn money
- Say it: to move to another employer, a member of staff, full-time (of a job), a position in a firm, to get promoted
- Say it: to manage, to work together, the night shift, exhausting (of work), to fire (from a job)
- Say it: to get a pay rise, one's superior at work, a secretary, the world of work, someone under one at work
- Read it: 业 职 司 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

To recruit staff? (zhāopìn.) A CV? (jiǎnlì.) To apply for a job? (yìngpìn.) To do an internship? (shíxí.) Pay and conditions? (dàiyù.) A line of business? (hángyè.) One's life's work? (事业, shìyè.) To find employment? (就业, jiùyè.) To be out of work? (shīyè.) A factory? (gōngchǎng.) An engineer? (gōngchéngshī.) A chef? (chúshī.) A scientist? (kēxuéjiā.) To translate? (fānyì.) To earn money? (zhuàn.) To move to another employer? (tiàocáo.) A member of staff? (职工, zhígōng.) Full-time (of a job)? (全职, quánzhí.) A position in a firm? (zhíwèi.) To get promoted? (shēngzhí.) To manage? (guǎnlǐ.) To work together? (hézuò.) The night shift? (yèbān.) Exhausting (of work)? (xīnkǔ.) To fire (from a job)? (kāichú.) To get a pay rise? (jiāxīn.) One's superior at work? (上司, shàngsi.) A secretary? (mìshū.) The world of work? (职场, zhíchǎng.) Someone under one at work? (xiàshǔ.)

Chapter 492

School Subjects

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can name school subjects, say which one I like best and talk about my major.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 492: I can name school subjects, say which one I like best and talk about my major.

492.1 语文 (yǔwén) — Chinese (as a school subject)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the world of work, then the Mandarin for someone under one at work.

You'll want to know: 语文

语文 — yǔwén — "Chinese (as a school subject)".

> 我最喜欢语文课 wǒ zuì xǐhuan yǔwén kè — Chinese is my favourite lesson.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 语文 (yǔwén) is built from 语 'speech' and 文 'writing', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngjoX and mjun (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to discuss' and the second 'a written piece'. The name of the school subject is modern and not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yǔwén
- Say it: yǔwén, once more
- Say it: wǒ zuì xǐhuan yǔwén kè — Chinese is my favourite lesson.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the world of work, then the Mandarin for someone under one at work, then say yǔwén again

Before you move on

What does 语文 mean? ("Chinese (as a school subject)".) Say it once more.

492.2 shùxué — maths; mathematics

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for someone under one at work, then the Mandarin for Chinese (as a school subject).

You'll want to know: shùxué

shùxué — "maths; mathematics".

wǒ de shùxué bǐ yǔwén hǎo — I'm better at maths than at Chinese.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shùxué is built from shù 'a number' and 学 'to learn', both inherited from Middle Chinese, srjuH and haewk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'reckoning' and names the nine arts of reckoning of an old book of rites.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shùxué
- Say it: shùxué, once more
- Say it: wǒ de shùxué bǐ yǔwén hǎo — I'm better at maths than at Chinese.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for someone under one at work, then the Mandarin for Chinese (as a school subject), then say shùxué again

Before you move on

What does shùxué mean? ("Maths; mathematics".) Say it once more.

492.3 地理 (dìlǐ) — geography

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for Chinese (as a school subject), then the Mandarin for maths.

You'll want to know: 地理

地理 — dìlǐ — "geography".

wǒmen de dìlǐ lǎoshī hěn yǒuyìsi — Our geography teacher is really interesting.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 地理 (dìlǐ) is built from 地 'the land' and 理 'a pattern', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dijH and liX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the earth' and the second 'to work jade' and 'a pattern'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: dìlǐ
- Say it: dìlǐ, once more
- Say it: wǒmen de dìlǐ lǎoshī hěn yǒuyìsi — Our geography teacher is really interesting.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for Chinese (as a school subject), then the Mandarin for maths, then say dìlǐ again

Before you move on

What does 地理 mean? ("Geography".) Say it once more.

492.4 Yīngyǔ — English (the language)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for maths, then the Mandarin for geography.

You'll want to know: Yīngyǔ

Yīngyǔ — "English (the language)".

wǒ xué le liù nián Yīngyǔ — I studied English for six years.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of Yīngyǔ is built from Yīng, short for the name of England, and 语 'speech', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jaeng and ngjoX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a flower'; the first stands for the country only in modern use.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: Yīngyǔ
- Say it: Yīngyǔ, once more
- Say it: wǒ xué le liù nián Yīngyǔ — I studied English for six years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for maths, then the Mandarin for geography, then say Yīngyǔ again

Before you move on

What does Yīngyǔ mean? ("English (the language)".) Say it once more.

492.5 zhuānyè — major; field of study

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for geography, then the Mandarin for English (the language).

You'll want to know: zhuānyè

zhuānyè — "major; field of study".

nǐ de zhuānyè shì shénme — What's your major?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhuānyè is built from zhuān 'single-minded' and 业 'a trade', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsywen and ngjaep (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'alone' and 'to have to oneself'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhuānyè
- Say it: zhuānyè, once more
- Say it: nǐ de zhuānyè shì shénme — What's your major?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for geography, then the Mandarin for English (the language), then say zhuānyè again

Before you move on

What does zhuānyè mean? ("Major; field of study".) Say it once more.

Chapter 493

Extra Lessons

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about extra lessons, a private tutor, education, tutoring and asking for advice.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 493: I can talk about extra lessons, a private tutor, education, tutoring and asking for advice.

493.1 bǔxí — to take extra lessons

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for English (the language), then the Mandarin for a major (at university).

You'll want to know: bǔxí

bǔxí — "to take extra lessons".

> wǒ bǔxí le yì nián shùxué — I had extra maths lessons for a year.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bǔxí is built from bǔ 'to patch' and xí 'to practise', both inherited from Middle Chinese, puX and zip (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to mend clothes' and the second 'to learn'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: bǔxí
- Say it: bǔxí, once more
- Say it: wǒ bǔxí le yì nián shùxué — I had extra maths lessons for a year.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for English (the language), then the Mandarin for a major (at university), then say bǔxí again

Before you move on

What does bǔxí mean? ("To take extra lessons".) Say it once more.

493.2 家教 (jiājiào) — private tutor

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a major (at university), then the Mandarin for to take extra lessons.

You'll want to know: 家教

家教 — jiājiào — "private tutor".

大学的时候我当过家教 dàxué de shíhou wǒ dāng guo jiājiào — At university I worked as a private tutor.

The new character, in pieces: 教 — eleven strokes in two pieces: on the left the top of 老 lǎo with 子 zǐ tucked under it, seven strokes; on the right four strokes, two falling to the left, a short bar and a long stroke falling to the right. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 家教 (jiājiào) is built from 家 'a home' and 教 'to teach', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kae and kaewH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to instruct'. Here 教 keeps the falling tone, jiào.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jiājiào
- Say it: jiājiào, once more
- Say it: dàxué de shíhou wǒ dāng guo jiājiào — At university I worked as a private tutor.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a major (at university), then the Mandarin for to take extra lessons, then say jiājiào again

Before you move on

What does 家教 mean? ("Private tutor".) Say it once more.

493.3 教 — the top of lǎo over zǐ, then four strokes

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say jiājiào — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  老 子 家

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — lǎo, zǐ, jiā

Script — the top of lǎo over zǐ, then four strokes

How 教 is written, stroke by stroke

教

Two pieces, left before right.

The left piece, seven strokes. First the top of 老, four strokes, as you wrote them: a short bar, a vertical through it, a long bar, and a long stroke falling to the left. Then 子 zǐ, three strokes, tucked under it: a bar that turns and falls to the left, a vertical with a hook, and a stroke rising to the right.

The right piece, four strokes: a short stroke falling to the left, a bar, a long stroke falling to the left, and a long stroke falling to the right.

4 + 3 + 4 = eleven.

Your turn

- Write it: 教, all eleven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 教 have? (Two.) What starts the left piece? (The top of 老.) What sits under it? (子.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 教, pinned stroke paths and medians.

493.4 jiàoyù — to educate; to bring up (the young); education

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to take extra lessons, then the Mandarin for a private tutor.

You'll want to know: jiàoyù

jiàoyù — "to educate; to bring up (the young); education".

jiàoyù háizi bù róngyì — Bringing up children isn't easy.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiàoyù is built from 教 'to instruct' and yù 'to rear', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaewH and yuwk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to instruct' and the second 'to nourish' and 'to grow'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jiàoyù
- Say it: jiàoyù, once more
- Say it: jiàoyù háizi bù róngyì — Bringing up children isn't easy.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to take extra lessons, then the Mandarin for a private tutor, then say jiàoyù again

Before you move on

What does jiàoyù mean? ("To educate; to bring up (the young); education".) Say it once more.

493.5 fǔdǎo — to tutor; to give guidance

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a private tutor, then the Mandarin for to educate.

You'll want to know: fǔdǎo

fǔdǎo — "to tutor; to give guidance".

jiějie měi tiān wǎnshang fǔdǎo wǒ zuò zuòyè — My sister helps me with my homework every evening.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: fǔ is said with a rising tone before dǎo, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fǔdǎo is built from fǔ 'to help' and dǎo 'to lead', both inherited from Middle Chinese, bjuX and dawH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to assist' and the second 'to guide'. Both modern third tones are irregular: bjuX and dawH would regularly give fù and dào.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: fǔdǎo
- Say it: fǔdǎo, once more
- Say it: jiějie měi tiān wǎnshang fǔdǎo wǒ zuò zuòyè — My sister helps me with my homework every evening.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a private tutor, then the Mandarin for to educate, then say fǔdǎo again

Before you move on

What does fǔdǎo mean? ("To tutor; to give guidance".) Say it once more.

493.6 请教 (qǐngjiào) — to seek advice (from someone who knows more)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to educate, then the Mandarin for to tutor.

You'll want to know: 请教

请教 — qǐngjiào — "to seek advice (from someone who knows more)".

我常常请教我的上司 wǒ chángcháng qǐngjiào wǒ de shàngsi — I often ask my boss for advice.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 请教 (qǐngjiào) is built from 请 'to ask' and 教 'to instruct', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tshjengX and kaewH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to beg' and 'to ask'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: qǐngjiào
- Say it: qǐngjiào, once more
- Say it: wǒ chángcháng qǐngjiào wǒ de shàngsi — I often ask my boss for advice.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to educate, then the Mandarin for to tutor, then say qǐngjiào again

Before you move on

What does 请教 mean? ("To seek advice (from someone who knows more)".) Say it once more.

Chapter 494

The Entrance Exam

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the college entrance exam, the candidates, applying, getting in and failing.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 494: I can talk about the college entrance exam, the candidates, applying, getting in and failing.

494.1 高考 (gāokǎo) — college entrance exam

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to tutor, then the Mandarin for to seek advice.

You'll want to know: 高考

高考 — gāokǎo — "college entrance exam".

> gāokǎo de shíhou wǒ gǎnjué hěn jǐnzhāng — I felt very nervous during the entrance exam.

The new character, in pieces: 考 — six strokes: the top of 老 lǎo, four strokes, then a short bar and a stroke that drops, runs right, turns down and hooks. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 高考 (gāokǎo) is built from 高 'high' and 考 'to examine', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaw and khawX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to check' and 'to complete'. It is short for a longer official name, the exam for the higher schools.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: gāokǎo
- Say it: gāokǎo, once more
- Say it: gāokǎo de shíhou wǒ gǎnjué hěn jǐnzhāng — I felt very nervous during the entrance exam.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to tutor, then the Mandarin for to seek advice, then say gāokǎo again

Before you move on

What does 高考 mean? ("College entrance exam".) Say it once more.

494.2 考 — the top of lǎo, then two strokes

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say gāokǎo — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

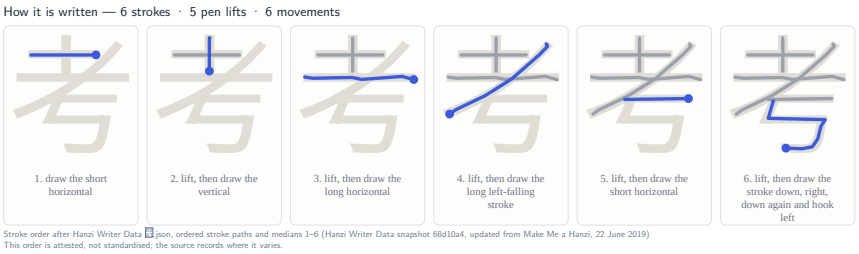
  老 高

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — lǎo, gāo

Script — the top of lǎo, then two strokes



How 考 is written, stroke by stroke

考

The top of 老, four strokes, as in 老 and on the left of 教: a short bar, a vertical through it, a long bar, and a long stroke falling to the left.

Then two strokes under it: a short bar, and a stroke that starts under the bar's left end, drops a little, runs right, then turns down and hooks to the left.

4 + 2 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 考, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes does 考 have? (Six.) What are the first four? (The top of 老.) How does the last stroke end? (It turns down and hooks to the left.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 考, pinned stroke paths and medians.

494.3 考生 (kǎoshēng) — exam candidate

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to seek advice, then the Mandarin for the college entrance exam.

You'll want to know: 考生

考生 — kǎoshēng — "exam candidate".

kǎoshēng dōu hěn jǐnzhāng — The candidates are all nervous.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 考生 (kǎoshēng) is built from 考 'to examine' and 生 'a student', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khawX and srjaeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to grow'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: kǎoshēng
- Say it: kǎoshēng, once more
- Say it: kǎoshēng dōu hěn jǐnzhāng — The candidates are all nervous.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to seek advice, then the Mandarin for the college entrance exam, then say kǎoshēng again

Before you move on

What does 考生 mean? ("Exam candidate".) Say it once more.

494.4 报考 (bàokǎo) — to enter for an exam; to apply to a school by exam

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the college entrance exam, then the Mandarin for an exam candidate.

You'll want to know: 报考

报考 — bàokǎo — "to enter for an exam; to apply to a school by exam".

wǒ xiǎng bàokǎo Běijīng de dàxué — I want to apply to universities in Beijing.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 报考 (bàokǎo) is built from 报 'to report' and 考 'to examine', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pawH and khawX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to report'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: bàokǎo
- Say it: bàokǎo, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiǎng bàokǎo Běijīng de dàxué — I want to apply to universities in Beijing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the college entrance exam, then the Mandarin for an exam candidate, then say bàokǎo again

Before you move on

What does 报考 mean? ("To enter for an exam; to apply to a school by exam".) Say it once more.

494.5 考上 (kǎoshàng) — to get into (a school) by exam; to pass the entrance exam for

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an exam candidate, then the Mandarin for to enter for an exam.

You'll want to know: 考上

考上 — kǎoshàng — "to get into (a school) by exam; to pass the entrance exam for".

tā fùxí le yì nián cái kǎoshàng dàxué — He revised for a year before he got into university.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 考上 (kǎoshàng) is built from 考 'to examine' and 上 'to go up', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khawX and dzyangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to climb'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: kǎoshàng
- Say it: kǎoshàng, once more
- Say it: tā fùxí le yì nián cái kǎoshàng dàxué — He revised for a year before he got into university.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an exam candidate, then the Mandarin for to enter for an exam, then say kǎoshàng again

Before you move on

What does 考上 mean? ("To get into (a school) by exam; to pass the entrance exam for".) Say it once more.

494.6 luòbǎng — to fail an entrance exam

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to enter for an exam, then the Mandarin for to pass the entrance exam for.

You'll want to know: luòbǎng

luòbǎng — "to fail an entrance exam".

luòbǎng yǐhòu tā gǎnjué hěn nánguò — After he failed the entrance exam, he felt awful.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of luòbǎng is built from luò 'to fall' and bǎng 'a board', both inherited from Middle Chinese, lak and pangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as leaves falling and the second 'a wooden board'. Falling off the list of names posted on a board is the usual explanation, but the dictionary does not give that sense.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: luòbǎng
- Say it: luòbǎng, once more
- Say it: luòbǎng yǐhòu tā gǎnjué hěn nánguò — After he failed the entrance exam, he felt awful.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to enter for an exam, then the Mandarin for to pass the entrance exam for, then say luòbǎng again

Before you move on

What does luòbǎng mean? ("To fail an entrance exam".) Say it once more.

Chapter 495

Marks

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a midterm exam, the exam hall, full marks, cheating and hard questions.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 495: I can talk about a midterm exam, the exam hall, full marks, cheating and hard questions.

495.1 期中 (qīzhōng) — the middle of the term; midterm

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to pass the entrance exam for, then the Mandarin for to fail an entrance exam.

You'll want to know: 期中

期中 — qīzhōng — "the middle of the term; midterm".

> zhè cì qīzhōng kǎoshì wǒ gǎnjué hái xíng — I think this midterm went all right.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 期中 (qīzhōng) is built from 期 'a set time' and 中 'the middle', both inherited from Middle Chinese, gi and trjuwng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'an appointed time'. The modern first tone of qī is irregular: gi would regularly give qí.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: qīzhōng
- Say it: qīzhōng, once more
- Say it: zhè cì qīzhōng kǎoshì wǒ gǎnjué hái xíng — I think this midterm went all right.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to pass the entrance exam for, then the Mandarin for to fail an entrance exam, then say qīzhōng again

Before you move on

What does 期中 mean? ("The middle of the term; midterm".) Say it once more.

495.2 考场 (kǎochǎng) — exam hall; exam room

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to fail an entrance exam, then the Mandarin for the middle of the term.

You'll want to know: 考场

考场 — kǎochǎng — "exam hall; exam room".

进考场以前我喝了一杯水 jìn kǎochǎng yǐqián wǒ hē le yì bēi shuǐ — Before going into the exam hall, I drank a glass of water.

Two third tones meet in this word: kǎo is said with a rising tone before chǎng, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 考场 (kǎochǎng) is built from 考 'to examine' and 场 'a ground', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khawX and drjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a threshing floor'; the third tone of chǎng is irregular for drjang.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: kǎochǎng
- Say it: kǎochǎng, once more
- Say it: jìn kǎochǎng yǐqián wǒ hē le yì bēi shuǐ — Before going into the exam hall, I drank a glass of water.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to fail an entrance exam, then the Mandarin for the middle of the term, then say kǎochǎng again

Before you move on

What does 考场 mean? ("Exam hall; exam room".) Say it once more.

495.3 mǎnfēn — full marks

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the middle of the term, then the Mandarin for an exam hall.

You'll want to know: mǎnfēn

mǎnfēn — "full marks".

zhè cì shùxué kǎoshì tā shì mǎnfēn — He got full marks in this maths test.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of mǎnfēn is built from mǎn 'full' and fēn 'a part', both inherited from Middle Chinese, manX and pjun (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'brimming' and the second 'to divide'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: mǎnfēn
- Say it: mǎnfēn, once more
- Say it: zhè cì shùxué kǎoshì tā shì mǎnfēn — He got full marks in this maths test.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the middle of the term, then the Mandarin for an exam hall, then say mǎnfēn again

Before you move on

What does mǎnfēn mean? ("Full marks".) Say it once more.

495.4 zuòbì — to cheat in an exam

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an exam hall, then the Mandarin for full marks.

You'll want to know: zuòbì

zuòbì — "to cheat in an exam".

kǎoshì de shíhou bù yīnggāi zuòbì — You shouldn't cheat in an exam.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zuòbì is built from 作 'to do' and bì 'harm', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsak and bjiejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'worn out' and 'bad'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zuòbì
- Say it: zuòbì, once more
- Say it: kǎoshì de shíhou bù yīnggāi zuòbì — You shouldn't cheat in an exam.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an exam hall, then the Mandarin for full marks, then say zuòbì again

Before you move on

What does zuòbì mean? ("To cheat in an exam".) Say it once more.

495.5 难题 (nántí) — hard problem; difficult question

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for full marks, then the Mandarin for to cheat in an exam.

You'll want to know: 难题

难题 — nántí — "hard problem; difficult question".

这个难题我想了一个小时 zhège nántí wǒ xiǎng le yí ge xiǎoshí — I spent an hour thinking about this hard question.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 难题 (nántí) is built from 难 'hard' and 题 'a heading', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nan and dej (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'hard to do' and the second 'a written heading'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: nántí
- Say it: nántí, once more
- Say it: zhège nántí wǒ xiǎng le yí ge xiǎoshí — I spent an hour thinking about this hard question.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for full marks, then the Mandarin for to cheat in an exam, then say nántí again

Before you move on

What does 难题 mean? ("Hard problem; difficult question".) Say it once more.

Chapter 496

Levels

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ↙ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about learning by heart, advanced, intermediate and elementary levels, and repeating a year.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 496: I can talk about learning by heart, advanced, intermediate and elementary levels, and repeating a year.

496.1 bèishū — to learn a text by heart; to recite from memory

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to cheat in an exam, then the Mandarin for a hard problem.

You'll want to know: bèishū

bèishū — "to learn a text by heart; to recite from memory".

> kǎoshì yǐqián wǒ měi tiān zǎoshang bèishū — Before exams I learn my texts by heart every morning.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bèishū is built from bèi 'the back' and 书 'a book', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pwojH and syo (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the back of the body' and also lists it as bwojH, 'to turn one's back on'. How the pair came to mean 'to recite from memory' is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: bèishū
- Say it: bèishū, once more
- Say it: kǎoshì yǐqián wǒ měi tiān zǎoshang bèishū — Before exams I learn my texts by heart every morning.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to cheat in an exam, then the Mandarin for a hard problem, then say bèishū again

Before you move on

What does bèishū mean? ("To learn a text by heart; to recite from memory".) Say it once more.

496.2 高级 (gāojí) — advanced; high-level

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a hard problem, then the Mandarin for to learn a text by heart.

You'll want to know: 高级

高级 — gāojí — "advanced; high-level".

我学了三年汉语现在学高级汉语 wǒ xué le sān nián Hànyǔ xiànzài xué gāojí Hànyǔ — I've studied Chinese for three years, and now I'm doing advanced Chinese.

The new character, in pieces: 级 — six strokes in two pieces: on the left the silk piece of 红 hóng, three strokes; on the right three strokes, a long stroke falling left, a stroke that runs right and turns twice, and a long stroke falling right. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 高级 (gāojí) is built from 高 'high' and 级 'a grade', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaw and kip (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a grade' and, after an older dictionary, 'the order of silk threads'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: gāojí
- Say it: gāojí, once more
- Say it: wǒ xué le sān nián Hànyǔ xiànzài xué gāojí Hànyǔ — I've studied Chinese for three years, and now I'm doing advanced Chinese.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a hard problem, then the Mandarin for to learn a text by heart, then say gāojí again

Before you move on

What does 高级 mean? ("Advanced; high-level".) Say it once more.

496.3 级 — the silk piece, then three strokes

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say gāojí — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  红 高

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — hóng, gāo

Script — the silk piece, then three strokes

How 级 is written, stroke by stroke

级

Two pieces, left before right.

The left piece, three strokes, as on the left of 红: a stroke that falls to the left and turns right, a second one like it below, then a short stroke rising to the right.

The right piece, three strokes: a long stroke falling to the left; then one stroke that runs right along the top, turns down and back, runs right again and falls away to the lower left; then a long stroke falling to the right.

3 + 3 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 级, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 级 have? (Two.) Which characters you know share its left piece? (红, 经 or 约.) What is the last stroke? (A long stroke falling to the right.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 级, pinned stroke paths and medians.

496.4 中级 (zhōngjí) — intermediate (in level)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to learn a text by heart, then the Mandarin for advanced (in level).

You'll want to know: 中级

中级 — zhōngjí — "intermediate (in level)".

> 我在公司学中级汉语 wǒ zài gōngsī xué zhōngjí Hànyǔ — I'm taking intermediate Chinese at work.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 中级 (zhōngjí) is built from 中 'the middle' and 级 'a grade', both inherited from Middle Chinese, trjuwng and kip (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhōngjí
- Say it: zhōngjí, once more
- Say it: wǒ zài gōngsī xué zhōngjí Hànyǔ — I'm taking intermediate Chinese at work.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to learn a text by heart, then the Mandarin for advanced (in level), then say zhōngjí again

Before you move on

What does 中级 mean? ("Intermediate (in level)".) Say it once more.

496.5 chūjí — elementary; for beginners

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for advanced (in level), then the Mandarin for intermediate (in level).

You'll want to know: chūjí

chūjí — "elementary; for beginners".

wǒ xué guo chūjí Hànyǔ — I've done elementary Chinese.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chūjí is built from chū 'the start' and 级 'a grade', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsrhjo and kip (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the beginning'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: chūjí
- Say it: chūjí, once more
- Say it: wǒ xué guo chūjí Hànyǔ — I've done elementary Chinese.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for advanced (in level), then the Mandarin for intermediate (in level), then say chūjí again

Before you move on

What does chūjí mean? ("Elementary; for beginners".) Say it once more.

496.6 liújí — to repeat a school year

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for intermediate (in level), then the Mandarin for elementary (in level).

You'll want to know: liújí

liújí — "to repeat a school year".

tā de chéngjì bù hǎo liújí le — His marks were poor, so he had to repeat the year.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of liújí is built from liú 'to stay' and 级 'a grade', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ljuw and kip (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to stay' and 'to stop'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: liújí
- Say it: liújí, once more
- Say it: tā de chéngjì bù hǎo liújí le — His marks were poor, so he had to repeat the year.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for intermediate (in level), then the Mandarin for elementary (in level), then say liújí again

Before you move on

What does liújí mean? ("To repeat a school year".) Say it once more.

Chapter 497

Learning on Your Own

Modes: voice (6) Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about teaching myself, time outside class, notes, knowledge and going on to further study.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 497: I can talk about teaching myself, time outside class, notes, knowledge and going on to further study.

497.1 自学 (zìxué) — to teach oneself

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for elementary (in level), then the Mandarin for to repeat a school year.

You'll want to know: 自学

自学 — zìxué — "to teach oneself".

> 我自学了两年汉语现在是中级 wǒ zìxué le liǎng nián Hànyǔ xiànzài shì zhōngjí — I taught myself Chinese for two years, and now I'm at intermediate level.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 自学 (zìxué) is built from 自 'oneself' and 学 'to learn', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzijH and haewk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'from'; the sense 'oneself' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zìxué
- Say it: zìxué, once more
- Say it: wǒ zìxué le liǎng nián Hànyǔ xiànzài shì zhōngjí — I taught myself Chinese for two years, and now I'm at intermediate level.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for elementary (in level), then the Mandarin for to repeat a school year, then say zìxué again

Before you move on

What does 自学 mean? ("To teach oneself".) Say it once more.

497.2 课外 (kèwài) — outside class; extracurricular

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to repeat a school year, then the Mandarin for to teach oneself.

You'll want to know: 课外

课外 — kèwài — "outside class; extracurricular".

我还没有做课外作业 wǒ hái méiyǒu zuò kèwài zuòyè — I haven't done my homework yet.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 课外 (kèwài) is built from 课 'a lesson' and 外 'outside', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khwaH and ngwajH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a tax' and 'to test' and the second 'the outside'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: kèwài
- Say it: kèwài, once more
- Say it: wǒ hái méiyǒu zuò kèwài zuòyè — I haven't done my homework yet.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to repeat a school year, then the Mandarin for to teach oneself, then say kèwài again

Before you move on

What does 课外 mean? ("Outside class; extracurricular".) Say it once more.

497.3 bǐjì — notes (taken in class)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to teach oneself, then the Mandarin for outside class.

You'll want to know: bǐjì

bǐjì — "notes (taken in class)".

nǐ de bǐjì xiě de hěn hǎo — Your notes are really well written.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bǐjì is built from bǐ 'a brush' and 记 'to record', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pit and kiH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to record'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: bǐjì
- Say it: bǐjì, once more
- Say it: nǐ de bǐjì xiě de hěn hǎo — Your notes are really well written.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to teach oneself, then the Mandarin for outside class, then say bǐjì again

Before you move on

What does bǐjì mean? ("Notes (taken in class)".) Say it once more.

497.4 zhīshi — knowledge

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for outside class, then the Mandarin for notes (taken in class).

You'll want to know: zhīshi

zhīshi — "knowledge".

zhīshi bǐ qián zhòngyào — Knowledge matters more than money.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhīshi is built from zhī 'to know' and shí 'to recognise', both inherited from Middle Chinese, trje and syik (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to perceive' and the second 'to know'; in the word the second syllable is light.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhīshi
- Say it: zhīshi, once more
- Say it: zhīshi bǐ qián zhòngyào — Knowledge matters more than money.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for outside class, then the Mandarin for notes (taken in class), then say zhīshi again

Before you move on

What does zhīshi mean? ("Knowledge".) Say it once more.

497.5 shēngxué — to go on to a higher school; to go on to further study

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for notes (taken in class), then the Mandarin for knowledge.

You'll want to know: shēngxué

shēngxué — "to go on to a higher school; to go on to further study".

gāozhōng bìyè yǐhòu tā méiyǒu shēngxué — After senior high he didn't go on to further study.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shēngxué is built from shēng 'to rise' and 学 'to learn', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sying and haewk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the sense 'to rise' is not given for the first there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shēngxué
- Say it: shēngxué, once more
- Say it: gāozhōng bìyè yǐhòu tā méiyǒu shēngxué — After senior high he didn't go on to further study.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for notes (taken in class), then the Mandarin for knowledge, then say shēngxué again

Before you move on

What does shēngxué mean? ("To go on to a higher school; to go on to further study".) Say it once more.

497.6 Looking back: from School Subjects to Learning on Your Own

Say the Mandarin for Chinese (as a school subject) and maths.

Your turn

- Say it: Chinese (as a school subject), maths, geography, English (the language), a major (at university)
- Say it: to take extra lessons, a private tutor, to educate, to tutor, to seek advice
- Say it: the college entrance exam, an exam candidate, to enter for an exam, to pass the entrance exam for, to fail an entrance exam
- Say it: the middle of the term, an exam hall, full marks, to cheat in an exam, a hard problem
- Say it: to learn a text by heart, advanced (in level), intermediate (in level), elementary (in level), to repeat a school year
- Say it: to teach oneself, outside class, notes (taken in class), knowledge, to go on to further study
- Read it: 教 考 级 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

Chinese (as a school subject)? (语文, yǔwén.) Maths? (shùxué.) Geography? (地理, dìlǐ.) English (the language)? (Yīngyǔ.) A major (at university)? (zhuānyè.) To take extra lessons? (bǔxí.) A private tutor? (家教, jiājiào.) To educate? (jiàoyù.) To tutor? (fǔdǎo.) To seek advice? (请教, qǐngjiào.) The college entrance exam? (高考, gāokǎo.) An exam candidate? (考生, kǎoshēng.) To enter for an exam? (报考, bàokǎo.) To pass the entrance exam for? (考上, kǎoshàng.) To fail an entrance exam? (luòbǎng.) The middle of the term? (期中, qīzhōng.) An exam hall? (考场, kǎochǎng.) Full marks? (mǎnfēn.) To cheat in an exam? (zuòbì.) A hard problem? (难题, nántí.) To learn a text by heart? (bèishū.) Advanced (in level)? (高级, gāojí.) Intermediate (in level)? (中级, zhōngjí.) Elementary (in level)? (chūjí.) To repeat a school year? (liújí.) To teach oneself? (自学, zìxué.) Outside class? (课外, kèwài.) Notes (taken in class)? (bǐjì.) Knowledge? (zhīshi.) To go on to further study? (shēngxué.)

Chapter 498

On the Pitch

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about PE, a pitch, the ball, the goalmouth and scoring a goal.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 498: I can talk about PE, a pitch, the ball, the goalmouth and scoring a goal.

498.1 tǐyù — physical education (a school subject)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for knowledge, then the Mandarin for to go on to further study.

You'll want to know: tǐyù

tǐyù — "physical education (a school subject)".

wǒ zuì xǐhuan de kè shì tǐyù — My favourite lesson is PE.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

tǐyù is built from 体 'the body' and yù 'to rear', both inherited from Middle Chinese, thejX and yuwk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the body' and the second 'to nourish' and 'to grow'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: tǐyù
- Say it: tǐyù, once more
- Say it: wǒ zuì xǐhuan de kè shì tǐyù — My favourite lesson is PE.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for knowledge, then the Mandarin for to go on to further study, then say tǐyù again

Before you move on

What does tǐyù mean? ("Physical education (a school subject)".) Say it once more.

498.2 球场 (qiúchǎng) — sports ground; pitch; court

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to go on to further study, then the Mandarin for physical education.

You'll want to know: 球场

球场 — qiúchǎng — "sports ground; pitch; court".

wǒmen zài qiúchǎng tī le yí ge xiàwǔ zúqiú — We played football on the pitch all afternoon.

The new character, in pieces: 球 — eleven strokes in two pieces: on the left the jade piece of 理 lǐ, four strokes; on the right seven strokes, a bar, a long vertical with a hook, a dot and a rising stroke on the left, a short and a long falling stroke on the right, and a last dot at the top right. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 球场 (qiúchǎng) is built from qiú 'a ball' and 场 'a ground', both inherited from Middle Chinese, gjuw and drjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a threshing floor'. It glosses the first character 'a fine jade'; the sense 'a ball' belongs to a second character with the same sound, glossed 'a ball of hair to be struck', which modern writing spells the same way.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: qiúchǎng
- Say it: qiúchǎng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zài qiúchǎng tī le yí ge xiàwǔ zúqiú — We played football on the pitch all afternoon.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to go on to further study, then the Mandarin for physical education, then say qiúchǎng again

Before you move on

What does 球场 mean? ("Sports ground; pitch; court".) Say it once more.

498.3 球 — the jade piece, then seven strokes

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say qiúchǎng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  理 场

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — lǐ, chǎng

Script — the jade piece, then seven strokes

How 球 is written, stroke by stroke

球

Two pieces, left before right.

The left piece, four strokes, as on the left of 理: two bars, a vertical through them, then a stroke rising to the right.

The right piece, seven strokes. A bar. A long vertical down through it that hooks at the foot. On the left, a dot and a stroke rising to the right. On the right, a short stroke falling to the left and a long stroke falling to the right. Last, the small dot at the top right.

4 + 7 = eleven.

Your turn

- Write it: 球, all eleven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 球 have? (Two.) Which character you know has the same left piece? (理.) Which stroke comes last? (The small dot at the top right.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 球, pinned stroke paths and medians.

498.4 球门 (qiúmén) — goalmouth; goal (in football)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for physical education, then the Mandarin for a sports pitch.

You'll want to know: 球门

球门 — qiúmén — "goalmouth; goal (in football)".

他站在球门前边 tā zhàn zài qiúmén qiánbian — He's standing in front of the goal.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 球门 (qiúmén) is built from 球 'a ball' and 门 'a gate', both inherited from Middle Chinese, gjuw and mwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which says the character is made of two door leaves.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: qiúmén
- Say it: qiúmén, once more
- Say it: tā zhàn zài qiúmén qiánbian — He's standing in front of the goal.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for physical education, then the Mandarin for a sports pitch, then say qiúmén again

Before you move on

What does 球门 mean? ("Goalmouth; goal (in football)".) Say it once more.

498.5 shèmén — to shoot at goal

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a sports pitch, then the Mandarin for the goalmouth.

You'll want to know: shèmén

shèmén — "to shoot at goal".

tā shèmén de shíhou qiúmén qiánbian méiyǒu rén — When he shot, there was nobody in front of the goal.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shèmén is built from shè 'to shoot' and 门 'a gate', both inherited from Middle Chinese, zyaeH and mwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first with the arts of archery.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shèmén
- Say it: shèmén, once more
- Say it: tā shèmén de shíhou qiúmén qiánbian méiyǒu rén — When he shot, there was nobody in front of the goal.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a sports pitch, then the Mandarin for the goalmouth, then say shèmén again

Before you move on

What does shèmén mean? ("To shoot at goal".) Say it once more.

498.6 进球 (jìnqiú) — to score a goal

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the goalmouth, then the Mandarin for to shoot at goal.

You'll want to know: 进球

进球 — jìnqiú — "to score a goal".

> 进球的时候我感觉很开心 jìnqiú de shíhou wǒ gǎnjué hěn kāixīn — When I score, I feel great.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 进球 (jìnqiú) is built from 进 'to go in' and 球 'a ball', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsinH and gjuw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'forward'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jìnqiú
- Say it: jìnqiú, once more
- Say it: jìnqiú de shíhou wǒ gǎnjué hěn kāixīn — When I score, I feel great.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the goalmouth, then the Mandarin for to shoot at goal, then say jìnqiú again

Before you move on

What does 进球 mean? ("To score a goal".) Say it once more.

Chapter 499

The Team

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a team, its players and captain, training and passing the ball.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 499: I can talk about a team, its players and captain, training and passing the ball.

499.1 qiúduì — a sports team (in a ball game)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to shoot at goal, then the Mandarin for to score a goal.

You'll want to know: qiúduì

qiúduì — "a sports team (in a ball game)".

> zhè shì wǒmen xuéxiào zuì hǎo de qiúduì — This is our school's best team.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qiúduì is built from 球 'a ball' and duì 'a troop', both inherited from Middle Chinese, gjuw and dwojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a band of people'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: qiúduì
- Say it: qiúduì, once more
- Say it: zhè shì wǒmen xuéxiào zuì hǎo de qiúduì — This is our school's best team.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to shoot at goal, then the Mandarin for to score a goal, then say qiúduì again

Before you move on

What does qiúduì mean? ("A sports team (in a ball game)".) Say it once more.

499.2 qiúyuán — a player in a ball game

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to score a goal, then the Mandarin for a sports team.

You'll want to know: qiúyuán

qiúyuán — "a player in a ball game".

tā dāng le shí nián qiúyuán — He was a player for ten years.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qiúyuán is built from 球 'a ball' and yuán 'a member', both inherited from Middle Chinese, gjuw and hjwen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a count of things'; the sense 'a member' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: qiúyuán
- Say it: qiúyuán, once more
- Say it: tā dāng le shí nián qiúyuán — He was a player for ten years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to score a goal, then the Mandarin for a sports team, then say qiúyuán again

Before you move on

What does qiúyuán mean? ("A player in a ball game".) Say it once more.

499.3 duìzhǎng — team captain; team leader

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a sports team, then the Mandarin for a player in a ball game.

You'll want to know: duìzhǎng

duìzhǎng — "team captain; team leader".

wǒmen dōu xiǎng dāng duìzhǎng — We all want to be captain.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of duìzhǎng is built from duì 'a troop' and zhǎng 'a head', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dwojH and trjangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'great'; the sense 'a head of a group' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: duìzhǎng
- Say it: duìzhǎng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen dōu xiǎng dāng duìzhǎng — We all want to be captain.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a sports team, then the Mandarin for a player in a ball game, then say duìzhǎng again

Before you move on

What does duìzhǎng mean? ("Team captain; team leader".) Say it once more.

499.4 xùnliàn — to do training (for a sport); to drill

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a player in a ball game, then the Mandarin for a team captain.

You'll want to know: xùnliàn

xùnliàn — "to do training (for a sport); to drill".

wǒmen měi tiān xùnliàn liǎng ge xiǎoshí — We train for two hours a day.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xùnliàn is built from xùn 'to instruct' and liàn 'to practise', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xjunH and lenH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to admonish' and the second 'white silk'; the sense 'to practise' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xùnliàn
- Say it: xùnliàn, once more
- Say it: wǒmen měi tiān xùnliàn liǎng ge xiǎoshí — We train for two hours a day.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a player in a ball game, then the Mandarin for a team captain, then say xùnliàn again

Before you move on

What does xùnliàn mean? ("To do training (for a sport); to drill".) Say it once more.

499.5 传球 (chuánqiú) — to pass the ball

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a team captain, then the Mandarin for to do training (for a sport).

You'll want to know: 传球

传球 — chuánqiú — "to pass the ball".

他传球很快 tā chuánqiú hěn kuài — He passes the ball quickly.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 传球 (chuánqiú) is built from 传 'to hand on' and 球 'a ball', both inherited from Middle Chinese, drjwen and gjuw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to turn'; the sense 'to pass on' it gives only under the other reading, drjwenH.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: chuánqiú
- Say it: chuánqiú, once more
- Say it: tā chuánqiú hěn kuài — He passes the ball quickly.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a team captain, then the Mandarin for to do training (for a sport), then say chuánqiú again

Before you move on

What does 传球 mean? ("To pass the ball".) Say it once more.

Chapter 500

Match Day

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about winning, a match, a final, the score and taking the field.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 500: I can talk about winning, a match, a final, the score and taking the field.

500.1 huòshèng — to win a contest; to be victorious

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to do training (for a sport), then the Mandarin for to pass the ball.

You'll want to know: huòshèng

huòshèng — "to win a contest; to be victorious".

> wǒmen de qiúduì huòshèng le wǒ gǎnjué tèbié gāoxìng — Our team won, and I'm over the moon.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huòshèng is built from huò 'to get' and shèng 'victory', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hweak and syingH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to get' and the second 'victory and defeat' and 'to overcome'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: huòshèng
- Say it: huòshèng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen de qiúduì huòshèng le wǒ gǎnjué tèbié gāoxìng — Our team won, and I'm over the moon.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to do training (for a sport), then the Mandarin for to pass the ball, then say huòshèng again

Before you move on

What does huòshèng mean? ("To win a contest; to be victorious".) Say it once more.

500.2 球赛 (qiúsài) — a ball game (a football or basketball match)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to pass the ball, then the Mandarin for to win a contest.

You'll want to know: 球赛

球赛 — qiúsài — "a ball game (a football or basketball match)".

> 这是我看过的最好的一场球赛 zhè shì wǒ kàn guo de zuì hǎo de yì chǎng qiúsài — This is the best match I've ever seen.

The new character, in pieces: 赛 — fourteen strokes in three pieces: the roof of 家 jiā on top, three strokes; in the middle seven strokes, two short bars, two verticals, a long bar and two strokes spreading left and right; at the foot four strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 球赛 (qiúsài) is built from 球 'a ball' and 赛 'a contest', both inherited from Middle Chinese, gjuw and sojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to repay'; the sense 'a contest' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: qiúsài
- Say it: qiúsài, once more
- Say it: zhè shì wǒ kàn guo de zuì hǎo de yì chǎng qiúsài — This is the best match I've ever seen.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to pass the ball, then the Mandarin for to win a contest, then say qiúsài again

Before you move on

What does 球赛 mean? ("A ball game (a football or basketball match)".) Say it once more.

500.3 赛 — a roof, a middle of seven strokes, a foot of four

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say qiúsài — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

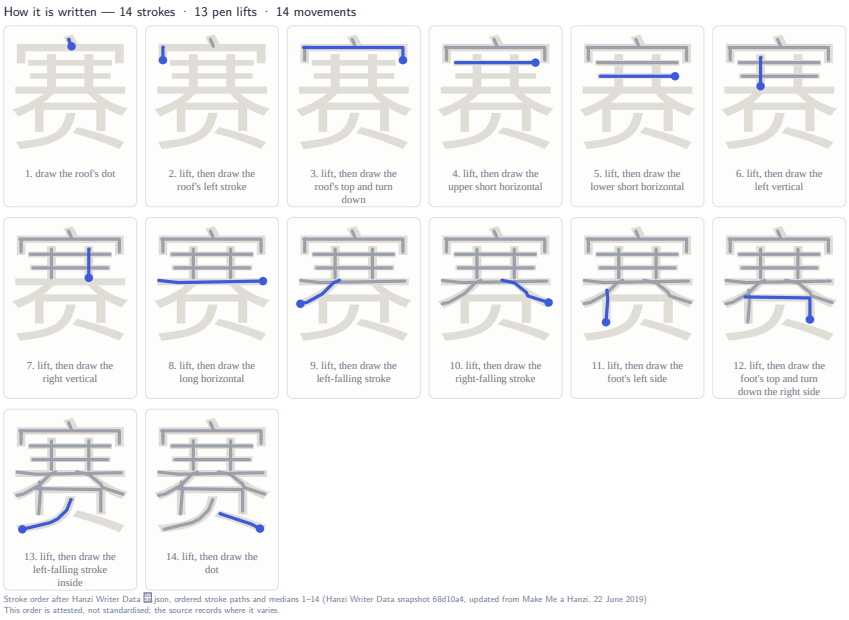
  家 比

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — jiā, bǐ

Script — a roof, a middle of seven strokes, a foot of four



How 赛 is written, stroke by stroke

赛

Three pieces, top to bottom.

The roof, three strokes, as on top of 家 and 安: a dot, a short stroke down on the left, then a bar that turns down at the right end and hooks.

The middle, seven strokes. Two short bars, one under the other. Two verticals down through them. A long bar across. Then a stroke falling to the left and a stroke falling to the right, spreading out like legs.

The foot, four strokes: a vertical, a bar that turns down, a stroke falling to the left inside, and a dot.

3 + 7 + 4 = fourteen.

Your turn

- Write it: 赛, all fourteen, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 赛 have? (Three.) What is on top? (The roof of 家.) How many strokes at the foot? (Four.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 赛, pinned stroke paths and medians.

500.4 juésài — final (of a competition)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to win a contest, then the Mandarin for a ball game.

You'll want to know: juésài

juésài — "final (of a competition)".

wǒmen de qiúduì jìn le juésài — Our team got into the final.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of juésài is built from jué 'to decide' and 赛 'a contest', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwet and sojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to cut' and 'to break through'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: juésài
- Say it: juésài, once more
- Say it: wǒmen de qiúduì jìn le juésài — Our team got into the final.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to win a contest, then the Mandarin for a ball game, then say juésài again

Before you move on

What does juésài mean? ("Final (of a competition)".) Say it once more.

500.5 bǐfēn — the score of a game

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a ball game, then the Mandarin for final (of a competition).

You'll want to know: bǐfēn

bǐfēn — "the score of a game".

xiànzài bǐfēn shì duōshao — What's the score now?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bǐfēn is built from 比 'to compare' and fēn 'a part', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjijX and pjun (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to collate' and the second 'to divide'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: bǐfēn
- Say it: bǐfēn, once more
- Say it: xiànzài bǐfēn shì duōshao — What's the score now?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a ball game, then the Mandarin for final (of a competition), then say bǐfēn again

Before you move on

What does bǐfēn mean? ("The score of a game".) Say it once more.

500.6 上场 (shàngchǎng) — to take the field; to come on (to play)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for final (of a competition), then the Mandarin for the score of a game.

You'll want to know: 上场

上场 — shàngchǎng — "to take the field; to come on (to play)".

> 这场比赛我没有上场 zhè chǎng bǐsài wǒ méiyǒu shàngchǎng — I didn't get on the pitch in this match.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 上场 (shàngchǎng) is built from 上 'to go up' and 场 'a ground', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyangX and drjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to climb' and the second 'a threshing floor'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shàngchǎng
- Say it: shàngchǎng, once more
- Say it: zhè chǎng bǐsài wǒ méiyǒu shàngchǎng — I didn't get on the pitch in this match.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for final (of a competition), then the Mandarin for the score of a game, then say shàngchǎng again

Before you move on

What does 上场 mean? ("To take the field; to come on (to play)".) Say it once more.

Chapter 501

Winners

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about athletes, champions, gold medals, winning prizes and star players.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 501: I can talk about athletes, champions, gold medals, winning prizes and star players.

501.1 yùndòngyuán — athlete

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the score of a game, then the Mandarin for to take the field.

You'll want to know: yùndòngyuán

yùndòngyuán — "athlete".

> wǒ xiǎoshíhou xiǎng dāng yùndòngyuán — When I was a kid I wanted to be an athlete.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yùndòngyuán is built from yùndòng 'sport' and yuán 'a member', all inherited from Middle Chinese, hjunH, duwngX and hjwen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to move' and the third 'a count of things'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yùndòngyuán
- Say it: yùndòngyuán, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiǎoshíhou xiǎng dāng yùndòngyuán — When I was a kid I wanted to be an athlete.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the score of a game, then the Mandarin for to take the field, then say yùndòngyuán again

Before you move on

What does yùndòngyuán mean? ("Athlete".) Say it once more.

501.2 guànjūn — champion

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to take the field, then the Mandarin for an athlete.

You'll want to know: guànjūn

guànjūn — "champion".

tā dāng guo liǎng cì guànjūn — He's been champion twice.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of guànjūn is built from guàn 'to put on a cap' and jūn 'an army', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwanH and kjun (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to tie on the cap' and the second 'a body of troops'. How the pair came to mean 'champion' is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: guànjūn
- Say it: guànjūn, once more
- Say it: tā dāng guo liǎng cì guànjūn — He's been champion twice.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to take the field, then the Mandarin for an athlete, then say guànjūn again

Before you move on

What does guànjūn mean? ("Champion".) Say it once more.

501.3 jīnpái — gold medal

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an athlete, then the Mandarin for the champion.

You'll want to know: jīnpái

jīnpái — "gold medal".

tā zuì xiǎng yào yí kuài jīnpái — What he wants most is a gold medal.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jīnpái is built from jīn 'gold' and pái 'a tablet', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kim and bea (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'gold' and the second 'a signboard'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jīnpái
- Say it: jīnpái, once more
- Say it: tā zuì xiǎng yào yí kuài jīnpái — What he wants most is a gold medal.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an athlete, then the Mandarin for the champion, then say jīnpái again

Before you move on

What does jīnpái mean? ("Gold medal".) Say it once more.

501.4 huòdé — to win (a prize); to be awarded

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the champion, then the Mandarin for a gold medal.

You'll want to know: huòdé

huòdé — "to win (a prize); to be awarded".

tā huòdé le liǎng kuài jīnpái — She won two gold medals.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

huòdé is built from huò 'to get' and 得 'to gain', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hweak and tok (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to get' and the second 'gain and loss'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: huòdé
- Say it: huòdé, once more
- Say it: tā huòdé le liǎng kuài jīnpái — She won two gold medals.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the champion, then the Mandarin for a gold medal, then say huòdé again

Before you move on

What does huòdé mean? ("To win (a prize); to be awarded".) Say it once more.

501.5 球星 (qiúxīng) — star player; sports star

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a gold medal, then the Mandarin for to win (a prize).

You'll want to know: 球星

球星 — qiúxīng — "star player; sports star".

那个球星今天没有来比赛 nàge qiúxīng jīntiān méiyǒu lái bǐsài — That star player didn't come to play today.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 球星 (qiúxīng) is built from 球 'a ball' and 星 'a star', both inherited from Middle Chinese, gjuw and seng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'the stars'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: qiúxīng
- Say it: qiúxīng, once more

- Say it: nàge qiúxīng jīntiān méiyǒu lái bǐsài — That star player didn't come to play today.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a gold medal, then the Mandarin for to win (a prize), then say qiúxīng again

Before you move on

What does 球星 mean? ("Star player; sports star".) Say it once more.

Chapter 502

Painting

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about oil painting, Chinese painting, painters, famous paintings and art shows.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 502: I can talk about oil painting, Chinese painting, painters, famous paintings and art shows.

502.1 yóuhuà — oil painting

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to win (a prize), then the Mandarin for a star player.

You'll want to know: yóuhuà

yóuhuà — "oil painting".

> wǒ xué le liǎng nián yóuhuà — I studied oil painting for two years.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yóuhuà is built from yóu 'oil' and huà 'a painting', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yuw and hweaH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second, after an older book, 'to hang': to hang up the shapes of things in the five colours.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yóuhuà
- Say it: yóuhuà, once more
- Say it: wǒ xué le liǎng nián yóuhuà — I studied oil painting for two years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to win (a prize), then the Mandarin for a star player, then say yóuhuà again

Before you move on

What does yóuhuà mean? ("Oil painting".) Say it once more.

502.2 国画 (guóhuà) — traditional Chinese painting

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a star player, then the Mandarin for an oil painting.

You'll want to know: 国画

国画 — guóhuà — "traditional Chinese painting".

wǒ juéde guóhuà bǐ yóuhuà yǒuyìsi — I find Chinese painting more interesting than oil painting.

The new character, in pieces: 画 — eight strokes: a bar on top, then five strokes as on top of 男 nán, then an open box of two strokes around them. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 国画 (guóhuà) is built from 国 'a country' and 画 'a painting', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwok and hweaH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a state'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: guóhuà
- Say it: guóhuà, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde guóhuà bǐ yóuhuà yǒuyìsi — I find Chinese painting more interesting than oil painting.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a star player, then the Mandarin for an oil painting, then say guóhuà again

Before you move on

What does 国画 mean? ("Traditional Chinese painting".) Say it once more.

502.3 画 — a bar, a field, an open box

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say guóhuà — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

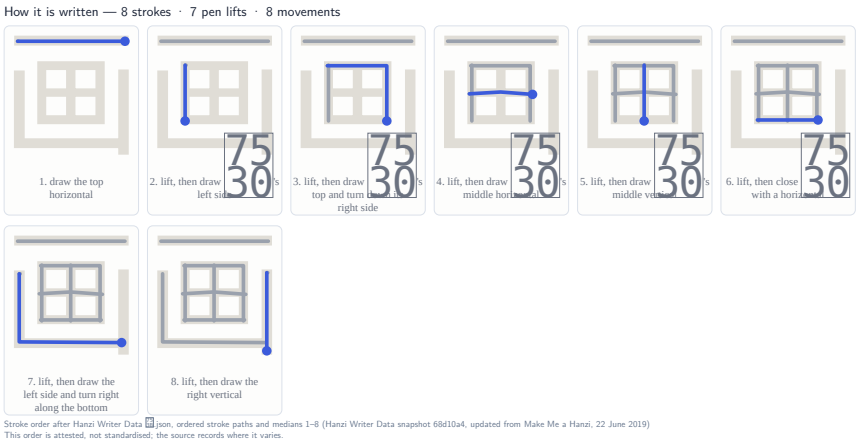
  男 国

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — nán, guó

Script — a bar, a field, an open box



How 画 is written, stroke by stroke

画

A bar on top.

Then five strokes, as on top of 男: a vertical, a bar that turns down, a middle bar, a middle vertical, and the bottom bar.

Then the open box, two strokes: one that runs down the left and turns right along the bottom, and last a vertical on the right, from top to bottom.

1 + 5 + 2 = eight.

Your turn

- Write it: 画, all eight, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes does 画 have? (Eight.) What sits in the middle? (The top of 男.) Which stroke is last? (The vertical on the right.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 画, pinned stroke paths and medians.

502.4 画家 (huàjiā) — painter (an artist)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an oil painting, then the Mandarin for a traditional Chinese painting.

You'll want to know: 画家

画家 — huàjiā — "painter (an artist)".

小时候我想当画家 xiǎoshíhou wǒ xiǎng dāng huàjiā — When I was little I wanted to be a painter.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 画家 (huàjiā) is built from 画 'a painting' and 家 'a household', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hweaH and kae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a dwelling'; the sense 'a master of an art' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: huàjiā
- Say it: huàjiā, once more
- Say it: xiǎoshíhou wǒ xiǎng dāng huàjiā — When I was little I wanted to be a painter.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an oil painting, then the Mandarin for a traditional Chinese painting, then say huàjiā again

Before you move on

What does 画家 mean? ("Painter (an artist)".) Say it once more.

502.5 名画 (mínghuà) — famous painting

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a traditional Chinese painting, then the Mandarin for a painter (an artist).

You'll want to know: 名画

名画 — mínghuà — "famous painting".

> 这些名画我都看过 zhèxiē mínghuà wǒ dōu kàn guo — I've seen all these famous paintings.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 名画 (mínghuà) is built from 名 'a name' and 画 'a painting', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjieng and hweaH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a name' and 'a title'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: mínghuà
- Say it: mínghuà, once more
- Say it: zhèxiē mínghuà wǒ dōu kàn guo — I've seen all these famous paintings.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a traditional Chinese painting, then the Mandarin for a painter (an artist), then say mínghuà again

Before you move on

What does 名画 mean? ("Famous painting".) Say it once more.

502.6 huàzhǎn — art exhibition

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a painter (an artist), then the Mandarin for a famous painting.

You'll want to know: huàzhǎn

huàzhǎn — "art exhibition".

xīngqīliù wǒmen qù kàn huàzhǎn — We're going to an art exhibition on Saturday.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huàzhǎn is built from 画 'a painting' and zhǎn 'to unfold', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hweaH and trjenX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to spread out'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: huàzhǎn
- Say it: huàzhǎn, once more
- Say it: xīngqīliù wǒmen qù kàn huàzhǎn — We're going to an art exhibition on Saturday.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a painter (an artist), then the Mandarin for a famous painting, then say huàzhǎn again

Before you move on

What does huàzhǎn mean? ("Art exhibition".) Say it once more.

Chapter 503

Art

Modes: voice (6) Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about calligraphy, the arts, a work of art, creating one and new year prints.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 503: I can talk about calligraphy, the arts, a work of art, creating one and new year prints.

503.1 书法 (shūfǎ) — calligraphy

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a famous painting, then the Mandarin for an art exhibition.

You'll want to know: 书法

书法 — shūfǎ — "calligraphy".

> wǒ yéye xué le shí nián shūfǎ — My grandpa studied calligraphy for ten years.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 书法 (shūfǎ) is built from 书 'writing' and 法 'a rule', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syo and pjop (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a rule' and 'a norm'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shūfǎ
- Say it: shūfǎ, once more
- Say it: wǒ yéye xué le shí nián shūfǎ — My grandpa studied calligraphy for ten years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a famous painting, then the Mandarin for an art exhibition, then say shūfǎ again

Before you move on

What does 书法 mean? (“Calligraphy”.) Say it once more.

503.2 yìshù — art; the arts

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an art exhibition, then the Mandarin for calligraphy.

You’ll want to know: yìshù

yìshù — “art; the arts”.

tā zuì xǐhuan yìshù — Art is what she loves most.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yìshù is built from yì ’a skill’ and shù ’a technique’, both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngjiejH and zywit (Guangyun, in Baxter’s transcription), which glosses the first ’ability’ and the second ’technique’.

What you’ve built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yìshù
- Say it: yìshù, once more
- Say it: tā zuì xǐhuan yìshù — Art is what she loves most.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an art exhibition, then the Mandarin for calligraphy, then say yìshù again

Before you move on

What does yìshù mean? ("Art; the arts".) Say it once more.

503.3 zuòpǐn — a work of art; a piece of writing

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for calligraphy, then the Mandarin for the arts.

You'll want to know: zuòpǐn

zuòpǐn — "a work of art; a piece of writing".

zhè shì tā zuì hǎo de zuòpǐn — This is his best work.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zuòpǐn is built from 作 'to make' and pǐn 'a kind', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsak and phimX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a rank' and 'a kind'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zuòpǐn
- Say it: zuòpǐn, once more

- Say it: zhè shì tā zuì hǎo de zuòpǐn — This is his best work.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for calligraphy, then the Mandarin for the arts, then say zuòpǐn again

Before you move on

What does zuòpǐn mean? ("A work of art; a piece of writing".) Say it once more.

503.4 chuàngzuò — to create (art or writing)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the arts, then the Mandarin for a work of art.

You'll want to know: chuàngzuò

chuàngzuò — "to create (art or writing)".

tā yòng le wǔ nián chuàngzuò zhège zuòpǐn — He spent five years creating this work.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chuàngzuò is built from chuàng 'to found' and 作 'to make', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsrhjangH and tsak (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the level-tone reading 'a wound', and gives the falling-tone one as another spelling of a word glossed 'to begin' and 'to found a craft'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: chuàngzuò
- Say it: chuàngzuò, once more

- Say it: tā yòng le wǔ nián chuàngzuò zhège zuòpǐn — He spent five years creating this work.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the arts, then the Mandarin for a work of art, then say chuàngzuò again

Before you move on

What does chuàngzuò mean? ("To create (art or writing)".) Say it once more.

503.5 年画 (niánhuà) — a new year print (hung at the spring festival)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a work of art, then the Mandarin for to create (art or writing).

You'll want to know: 年画

年画 — niánhuà — "a new year print (hung at the spring festival)".

guònián de shíhou wǒ nǎinai mǎi le yìxiē niánhuà — At the new year, my grandma bought some new year prints.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 年画 (niánhuà) is built from 年 'a year' and 画 'a painting', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nen and hweaH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the grain is ripe'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: niánhuà
- Say it: niánhuà, once more
- Say it: guònián de shíhou wǒ nǎinai mǎi le yìxiē niánhuà — At the new year, my grandma bought some new year prints.

- Recall: say the Mandarin for a work of art, then the Mandarin for to create (art or writing), then say niánhuà again

Before you move on

What does 年画 mean? ("A new year print (hung at the spring festival)".) Say it once more.

503.6 Looking back: from On the Pitch to Art

Say the Mandarin for physical education and a sports pitch.

Your turn

- Say it: physical education, a sports pitch, the goalmouth, to shoot at goal, to score a goal
- Say it: a sports team, a player in a ball game, a team captain, to do training (for a sport), to pass the ball
- Say it: to win a contest, a ball game, final (of a competition), the score of a game, to take the field
- Say it: an athlete, the champion, a gold medal, to win (a prize), a star player
- Say it: an oil painting, a traditional Chinese painting, a painter (an artist), a famous painting, an art exhibition
- Say it: calligraphy, the arts, a work of art, to create (art or writing), a new year print
- Read it: 球 赛 画 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

Physical education? (tǐyù.) A sports pitch? (球场, qiúchǎng.) The goalmouth? (球门, qiúmén.) To shoot at goal? (shèmén.) To score a goal? (进球, jìnqiú.) A sports team? (qiúduì.) A player in a ball game? (qiúyuán.) A team captain? (duìzhǎng.) To do training (for a sport)? (xùnliàn.) To pass the ball? (传球, chuánqiú.) To win a contest? (huòshèng.) A ball game? (球赛, qiúsài.) Final (of a competition)? (juésài.) The score of a game? (bǐfēn.) To take the field? (上场, shàngchǎng.) An athlete? (yùndòngyuán.) The champion? (guànjūn.) A gold medal? (jīnpái.) To win (a prize)? (huòdé.) A star player? (球星, qiúxīng.) An oil painting? (yóuhuà.) A traditional Chinese painting? (国画, guóhuà.) A painter (an artist)? (画家, huàjiā.) A famous painting? (名画, mínghuà.) An art exhibition? (huàzhǎn.) Calligraphy? (书法, shūfǎ.) The arts? (yìshù.) A work of art? (zuòpǐn.) To create (art or writing)? (chuàngzuò.) A new year print? (年画, niánhuà.)

Chapter 504

Songs

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the words of a song, nursery rhymes, the national anthem, folk songs and singing on stage.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 504: I can talk about the words of a song, nursery rhymes, the national anthem, folk songs and singing on stage.

504.1 gēcí — the words of a song; lyrics

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to create (art or writing), then the Mandarin for a new year print.

You'll want to know: gēcí

gēcí — "the words of a song; lyrics".

> wǒ tīng le liǎng tiān cái jìzhù gēcí — It took two days of listening before I knew the words.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

gēcí is built from gē 'a song' and cí 'words', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ka and zi (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the voice of a person singing' and the second 'to speak'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: gēcí
- Say it: gēcí, once more
- Say it: wǒ tīng le liǎng tiān cái jìzhù gēcí — It took two days of listening before I knew the words.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to create (art or writing), then the Mandarin for a new year print, then say gēcí again

Before you move on

What does gēcí mean? ("The words of a song; lyrics".) Say it once more.

504.2 儿歌 (érgē) — nursery rhyme; children's song

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a new year print, then the Mandarin for the words of a song.

You'll want to know: 儿歌

儿歌 — érgē — "nursery rhyme; children's song".

这是我小时候最喜欢的儿歌 zhè shì wǒ xiǎoshíhou zuì xǐhuan de érgē — This was my favourite nursery rhyme when I was little.

The new character, in pieces: 歌 — fourteen strokes in two pieces: on the left 可 kě twice, one over the other, ten strokes; on the right four strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 儿歌 (érgē) is built from 儿 'a child' and 歌 'a song', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nye and ka (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'an infant' and the second 'the voice of a person singing'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: érgē
- Say it: érgē, once more
- Say it: zhè shì wǒ xiǎoshíhou zuì xǐhuan de érgē — This was my favourite nursery rhyme when I was little.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a new year print, then the Mandarin for the words of a song, then say érgē again

Before you move on

What does 儿歌 mean? ("Nursery rhyme; children's song".) Say it once more.

504.3 歌 — kě twice, then four strokes

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say érgē — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

可 儿

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — kě, ér

Script — kě twice, then four strokes

How 歌 is written, stroke by stroke

歌

Two pieces, left before right.

The left piece, ten strokes: 可 kě twice, one over the other. The upper 可 is small: a bar, 口, and a vertical with no hook. The lower 可 is wider: a long bar, 口, and a vertical that hooks to the left.

The right piece, four strokes: a short stroke falling to the left, a bar that turns down to the left, a long stroke falling to the left, and a long stroke falling to the right.

5 + 5 + 4 = fourteen.

Your turn

- Write it: 歌, all fourteen, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes does 歌 have? (Fourteen.) What is the left piece? (可, twice.) Which of the two has a hook? (The lower one.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 歌, pinned stroke paths and medians.

504.4 国歌 (guógē) — national anthem

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the words of a song, then the Mandarin for a nursery rhyme.

You'll want to know: 国歌

国歌 — guógē — "national anthem".

tīng guógē de shíhou wǒ gǎnjué hěn jīdòng — When I hear the national anthem, I feel very moved.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 国歌 (guógē) is built from 国 'a country' and 歌 'a song', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwok and ka (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: guógē
- Say it: guógē, once more
- Say it: tīng guógē de shíhou wǒ gǎnjué hěn jīdòng — When I hear the national anthem, I feel very moved.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the words of a song, then the Mandarin for a nursery rhyme, then say guógē again

Before you move on

What does 国歌 mean? ("National anthem".) Say it once more.

504.5 míngē — folk song

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a nursery rhyme, then the Mandarin for the national anthem.

You'll want to know: míngē míngē — "folk song".

wǒ zuì xǐhuan tīng Zhōngguó míngē — Chinese folk songs are my favourite.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

míngē is built from mín 'the people' and 歌 'a song', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjin and ka (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'the common people'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: míngē
- Say it: míngē, once more
- Say it: wǒ zuì xǐhuan tīng Zhōngguó míngē — Chinese folk songs are my favourite.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a nursery rhyme, then the Mandarin for the national anthem, then say míngē again

Before you move on

What does míngē mean? ("Folk song".) Say it once more.

504.6 yǎnchàng — to perform a song (on stage)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the national anthem, then the Mandarin for a folk song.

You'll want to know: yǎnchàng

yǎnchàng — "to perform a song (on stage)".

nàge gēshǒu lái wǒmen xuéxiào yǎnchàng — That singer is coming to sing at our school.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yǎnchàng is built from yǎn 'to perform' and chàng 'to sing', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yenX and tsyhangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to spread wide' and the second 'to strike up a song'; the sense 'to perform' is not given for the first there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yǎnchàng
- Say it: yǎnchàng, once more
- Say it: nàge gēshǒu lái wǒmen xuéxiào yǎnchàng — That singer is coming to sing at our school.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the national anthem, then the Mandarin for a folk song, then say yǎnchàng again

Before you move on

What does yǎnchàng mean? ("To perform a song (on stage)".) Say it once more.

Chapter 505

Dancing

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about dance, a dance party, a dance partner, the stage and rehearsals.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 505: I can talk about dance, a dance party, a dance partner, the stage and rehearsals.

505.1 wǔdǎo — the art of dance

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a folk song, then the Mandarin for to perform a song (on stage).

You'll want to know: wǔdǎo

wǔdǎo — "the art of dance".

> wǒ nǚ'ér xué le wǔ nián wǔdǎo — My daughter has studied dance for five years.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: wǔ is said with a rising tone before dǎo, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of wǔdǎo is built from wǔ 'to dance' and dǎo 'to tread', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjuX and dawH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'singing and dancing' and the second 'to tread'. The modern third tone of dǎo is irregular: dawH would regularly give dào.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: wǔdǎo
- Say it: wǔdǎo, once more
- Say it: wǒ nǚ'ér xué le wǔ nián wǔdǎo — My daughter has studied dance for five years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a folk song, then the Mandarin for to perform a song (on stage), then say wǔdǎo again

Before you move on

What does wǔdǎo mean? ("The art of dance".) Say it once more.

505.2 舞会 (wǔhuì) — dance party; ball

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to perform a song (on stage), then the Mandarin for the art of dance.

You'll want to know: 舞会

舞会 — wǔhuì — "dance party; ball".

zhè shì wǒ dìyī cì cānjiā wǔhuì — This is the first time I've been to a dance.

The new character, in pieces: 舞 — fourteen strokes: on top eight, a short stroke falling left, two bars with four short verticals through the lower one, and a long bar across; below, on the left the top of 多 duō, three strokes, and on the right three strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 舞会 (wǔhuì) is built from 舞 'to dance' and 会 'a gathering', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjuX and hwajH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'singing and dancing' and the second 'to meet'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: wǔhuì
- Say it: wǔhuì, once more
- Say it: zhè shì wǒ dìyī cì cānjiā wǔhuì — This is the first time I've been to a dance.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to perform a song (on stage), then the Mandarin for the art of dance, then say wǔhuì again

Before you move on

What does 舞会 mean? ("Dance party; ball".) Say it once more.

505.3 舞 — eight strokes on top, then two pieces below

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say wǔhuì — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  多 会

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — duō, huì

Script — eight strokes on top, then two pieces below

How 舞 is written, stroke by stroke

舞

The top, eight strokes. A short stroke falling to the left. A short bar, then a longer bar under it. Four short verticals through it, from left to right. Then a long bar across the whole width.

The lower left, three strokes, as on top of 多: a stroke falling to the left, a bar that turns and falls to the left, and a dot.

The lower right, three strokes: a bar, a stroke that drops and turns to the right, then a long vertical down through them.

8 + 3 + 3 = fourteen.

Your turn

- Write it: 舞, all fourteen, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes does 舞 have? (Fourteen.) How many short verticals in the top? (Four.) Which character you know has the lower left piece on top? (多.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 舞, pinned stroke paths and medians.

505.4 wǔbàn — dance partner

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the art of dance, then the Mandarin for a dance party.

You'll want to know: wǔbàn

wǔbàn — "dance partner".

tā shì wǒ zuì hǎo de wǔbàn — She's my best dance partner.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of wǔbàn is built from 舞 'to dance' and bàn 'a companion', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjuX and banX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a companion'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: wǔbàn
- Say it: wǔbàn, once more
- Say it: tā shì wǒ zuì hǎo de wǔbàn — She's my best dance partner.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the art of dance, then the Mandarin for a dance party, then say wǔbàn again

Before you move on

What does wǔbàn mean? (“Dance partner”.) Say it once more.

505.5 wǔtái — stage (in a theatre)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a dance party, then the Mandarin for a dance partner.

You’ll want to know: wǔtái

wǔtái — “stage (in a theatre)”.

nàge wǔtái bǐ wǒmen xuéxiào de dà — That stage is bigger than our school’s.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

wǔtái is built from 舞 ’to dance’ and tái ’a platform’, both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjuX and doj (Guangyun, in Baxter’s transcription), which glosses the second as a raised square of earth.

What you’ve built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: wǔtái
- Say it: wǔtái, once more
- Say it: nàge wǔtái bǐ wǒmen xuéxiào de dà — That stage is bigger than our school’s.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a dance party, then the Mandarin for a dance partner, then say wǔtái again

Before you move on

What does wǔtái mean? (“Stage (in a theatre)”.) Say it once more.

505.6 páiliàn — to rehearse

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a dance partner, then the Mandarin for a stage (in a theatre).

You’ll want to know: páiliàn

páiliàn — “to rehearse”.

wǒmen páiliàn le yí ge yuè — We rehearsed for a month.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

páiliàn is built from pái ’to line up’ and liàn ’to practise’, both inherited from Middle Chinese, beaj and lenH (Guangyun, in Baxter’s transcription), which glosses the first ’to push’ and the second ’white silk’; the senses ’to line up’ and ’to practise’ are not given there.

What you’ve built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: páiliàn
- Say it: páiliàn, once more
- Say it: wǒmen páiliàn le yí ge yuè — We rehearsed for a month.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a dance partner, then the Mandarin for a stage (in a theatre), then say páiliàn again

Before you move on

What does páiliàn mean? (“To rehearse”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 506

Music on Stage

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a band, performing on an instrument, the violin, Beijing opera and fans.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 506: I can talk about a band, performing on an instrument, the violin, Beijing opera and fans.

506.1 yuèduì — band (of musicians)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a stage (in a theatre), then the Mandarin for to rehearse.

You'll want to know: yuèduì

yuèduì — "band (of musicians)".

> wǒ zài yuèduì tán le sān nián jítā — I played guitar in a band for three years.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yuèduì is built from 乐 'music' and duì 'a troop', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngaewk and dwojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'music' and the second 'a band of people'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yuèduì
- Say it: yuèduì, once more
- Say it: wǒ zài yuèduì tán le sān nián jítā — I played guitar in a band for three years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a stage (in a theatre), then the Mandarin for to rehearse, then say yuèduì again

Before you move on

What does yuèduì mean? ("Band (of musicians)".) Say it once more.

506.2 yǎnzòu — to perform on an instrument

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to rehearse, then the Mandarin for a band (of musicians).

You'll want to know: yǎnzòu

yǎnzòu — "to perform on an instrument".

tā yǎnzòu de hěn hǎo — He plays beautifully.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yǎnzòu is built from yǎn 'to perform' and zòu 'to present', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yenX and tsuwH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to spread wide' and the second 'to offer up'; the sense 'to play music' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yǎnzòu
- Say it: yǎnzòu, once more
- Say it: tā yǎnzòu de hěn hǎo — He plays beautifully.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to rehearse, then the Mandarin for a band (of musicians), then say yǎnzòu again

Before you move on

What does yǎnzòu mean? ("To perform on an instrument".) Say it once more.

506.3 xiǎotíqín — violin

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a band (of musicians), then the Mandarin for to perform on an instrument.

You'll want to know: xiǎotíqín

xiǎotíqín — "violin".

wǒ xué le bā nián xiǎotíqín — I've been learning the violin for eight years.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiǎotíqín is built from 小 'small', tí 'to lift' and qín 'a zither', all inherited from Middle Chinese, sjewX, dej and gim (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to carry by hand' and the third as a stringed instrument; the name for the violin is modern.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xiǎotíqín
- Say it: xiǎotíqín, once more
- Say it: wǒ xué le bā nián xiǎotíqín — I've been learning the violin for eight years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a band (of musicians), then the Mandarin for to perform on an instrument, then say xiǎotíqín again

Before you move on

What does xiǎotíqín mean? ("Violin".) Say it once more.

506.4 Jīngjù — Beijing opera

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to perform on an instrument, then the Mandarin for a violin.

You'll want to know: Jīngjù

Jīngjù — "Beijing opera".

nǐ kàn guo Jīngjù ma — Have you ever seen Beijing opera?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of Jīngjù is built from Jīng, short for the capital Beijing, and jù 'a play', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kjaeng and gjaek (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'great' and the second 'to increase' and 'hard'; the sense 'a play' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: Jīngjù
- Say it: Jīngjù, once more
- Say it: nǐ kàn guo Jīngjù ma — Have you ever seen Beijing opera?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to perform on an instrument, then the Mandarin for a violin, then say Jīngjù again

Before you move on

What does Jīngjù mean? ("Beijing opera".) Say it once more.

506.5 gēmí — fan (of a singer)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a violin, then the Mandarin for Beijing opera.

You'll want to know: gēmí

gēmí — "fan (of a singer)".

wǒ shì nàge gēshǒu zuì dà de gēmí — I'm that singer's biggest fan.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

gēmí is built from 歌 'a song' and mí 'to be led astray', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ka and mej (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to be confused'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: gēmí
- Say it: gēmí, once more
- Say it: wǒ shì nàge gēshǒu zuì dà de gēmí — I'm that singer's biggest fan.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a violin, then the Mandarin for Beijing opera, then say gēmí again

Before you move on

What does gēmí mean? ("Fan (of a singer)".) Say it once more.

Chapter 507

Fathers and Sons

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about brothers, fathers and sons, fathers and daughters, married couples and my elders.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 507: I can talk about brothers, fathers and sons, fathers and daughters, married couples and my elders.

507.1 xiōngdì — brothers

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for Beijing opera, then the Mandarin for a fan (of a singer).

You'll want to know: xiōngdì

xiōngdì — "brothers".

> xiōngdì liǎng ge gēge bǐ dìdi gāo — Of the two brothers, the elder is taller.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiōngdì is built from xiōng 'an elder brother' and dì 'a younger brother', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xjwaeng and dejX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, after an older dictionary, 'a man born first' and the second 'a man born after'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xiōngdì
- Say it: xiōngdì, once more
- Say it: xiōngdì liǎng ge gēge bǐ dìdi gāo — Of the two brothers, the elder is taller.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for Beijing opera, then the Mandarin for a fan (of a singer), then say xiōngdì again

Before you move on

What does xiōngdì mean? ("Brothers".) Say it once more.

507.2 父子 (fùzǐ) — father and son

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a fan (of a singer), then the Mandarin for brothers.

You'll want to know: 父子

父子 — fùzǐ — "father and son".

他们父子都是歌手 tāmen fùzǐ dōu shì gēshǒu — Father and son are both singers.

The new character, in pieces: 父 — four strokes: two short strokes on top, one falling left and a dot falling right, then two long strokes that cross, one falling left and one falling right. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 父子 (fùzǐ) is built from 父 'a father' and 子 'a son', both inherited from Middle Chinese, bjuX and tsiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, after an older dictionary, as the head of a family who leads and teaches, and the second 'offspring'. The dictionary also lists 父 as pjuX, a title of respect for a man.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: fùzǐ
- Say it: fùzǐ, once more
- Say it: tāmen fùzǐ dōu shì gēshǒu — Father and son are both singers.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a fan (of a singer), then the Mandarin for brothers, then say fùzǐ again

Before you move on

What does 父子 mean? ("Father and son".) Say it once more.

507.3 父 — two short strokes, then two long ones

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say fùzǐ — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

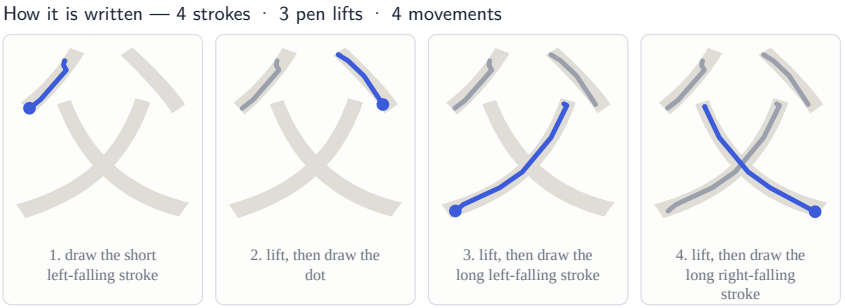
  人 子

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — rén, zǐ

Script — two short strokes, then two long ones



How 父 is written, stroke by stroke

父

Two short strokes on top: on the left a stroke falling to the left, on the right a dot falling to the right.

Then two long strokes that cross: a long stroke falling to the left, then a long stroke falling to the right, like the legs of 人 set wide.

2 + 2 = four.

Your turn

- Write it: 父, all four, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes does 父 have? (Four.) Which way does the first stroke fall? (To the left.) What do the last two strokes do? (They cross.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 父, pinned stroke paths and medians.

507.4 父女 (fùnǚ) — father and daughter

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for brothers, then the Mandarin for a father and son.

You'll want to know: 父女

父女 — fùnǚ — "father and daughter".

> 他们父女一起去了舞会 tāmen fùnǚ yìqǐ qù le wǔhuì — Father and daughter went to the dance together.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 父女 (fùnǚ) is built from 父 'a father' and 女 'a daughter', both inherited from Middle Chinese, bjuX and nrjoX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: fùnǚ
- Say it: fùnǚ, once more
- Say it: tāmen fùnǚ yìqǐ qù le wǔhuì — Father and daughter went to the dance together.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for brothers, then the Mandarin for a father and son, then say fùnǚ again

Before you move on

What does 父女 mean? ("Father and daughter".) Say it once more.

507.5 fūqī — married couple; husband and wife

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a father and son, then the Mandarin for a father and daughter.

You'll want to know: fūqī

fūqī — "married couple; husband and wife".

tāmen zuò le sìshí nián fūqī — They've been married for forty years.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fūqī is built from fū 'a grown man' and qī 'a wife', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pju and tshej (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a grown man' and the second with a word of like sound meaning 'level'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: fūqī
- Say it: fūqī, once more
- Say it: tāmen zuò le sìshí nián fūqī — They've been married for forty years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a father and son, then the Mandarin for a father and daughter, then say fūqī again

Before you move on

What does fūqī mean? ("Married couple; husband and wife".) Say it once more.

507.6 zhǎngbèi — one's elders; the older generation

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a father and daughter, then the Mandarin for a married couple.

You'll want to know: zhǎngbèi

zhǎngbèi — "one's elders; the older generation".

> zài zhǎngbèi miànqián wǒ gǎnjué hěn jǐnzhāng — I feel nervous in front of my elders.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhǎngbèi is built from zhǎng 'elder' and bèi 'a generation', both inherited from Middle Chinese, trjangX and pwojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'great' and the second 'people of one rank'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhǎngbèi
- Say it: zhǎngbèi, once more
- Say it: zài zhǎngbèi miànqián wǒ gǎnjué hěn jǐnzhāng — I feel nervous in front of my elders.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a father and daughter, then the Mandarin for a married couple, then say zhǎngbèi again

Before you move on

What does zhǎngbèi mean? ("One's elders; the older generation".) Say it once more.

Chapter 508

Brothers and Sisters

Modes: voice (6) Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about sisters, a brother and sister, only children, being picked on and growing up sensible.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 508: I can talk about sisters, a brother and sister, only children, being picked on and growing up sensible.

508.1 jiěmèi — sisters

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a married couple, then the Mandarin for one's elders.

You'll want to know: jiěmèi

jiěmèi — "sisters".

> wǒmen jiěmèi sān ge wǒ zuì xiǎo — There are three of us sisters, and I'm the youngest.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiěmèi is built from jiě 'an elder sister' and mèi 'a younger sister', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsjaeX and mwojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as a word for mother among a people of the west and the second 'a younger sister'; the sense

'elder sister' is not given for the first there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jiěmèi
- Say it: jiěmèi, once more
- Say it: wǒmen jiěmèi sān ge wǒ zuì xiǎo — There are three of us sisters, and I'm the youngest.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a married couple, then the Mandarin for one's elders, then say jiěmèi again

Before you move on

What does jiěmèi mean? ("Sisters".) Say it once more.

508.2 xiōngmèi — elder brother and younger sister

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for one's elders, then the Mandarin for sisters.

You'll want to know: xiōngmèi

xiōngmèi — "elder brother and younger sister".

tāmen xiōngmèi dōu shì dàxuésheng — The brother and sister are both at university.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiōngmèi is built from xiōng 'an elder brother' and mèi 'a younger sister', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xjwaeng and mwojH

(Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xiōngmèi
- Say it: xiōngmèi, once more
- Say it: tāmen xiōngmèi dōu shì dàxuésheng — The brother and sister are both at university.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for one's elders, then the Mandarin for sisters, then say xiōngmèi again

Before you move on

What does xiōngmèi mean? ("Elder brother and younger sister".) Say it once more.

508.3 dúshēngzǐnǚ — only child

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for sisters, then the Mandarin for elder brother and younger sister.

You'll want to know: dúshēngzǐnǚ

dúshēngzǐnǚ — "only child".

wǒ shì dúshēngzǐnǚ xiǎoshíhou zuì xiǎng yào yí ge dìdi — I'm an only child; when I was little, what I wanted most was a little brother.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: zǐ is said with a rising tone before nǚ, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dúshēngzǐnǚ is built from dú 'alone', 生 'to be born' and 子女 'sons and daughters', all inherited from Middle Chinese, duwk, srjaeng, tsiX and nrjoX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). For duwk the dictionary quotes an older one that sets it against qún 'in flocks', the way sheep go.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: dúshēngzǐnǚ
- Say it: dúshēngzǐnǚ, once more
- Say it: wǒ shì dúshēngzǐnǚ xiǎoshíhou zuì xiǎng yào yí ge dìdi — I'm an only child; when I was little, what I wanted most was a little brother.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for sisters, then the Mandarin for elder brother and younger sister, then say dúshēngzǐnǚ again

Before you move on

What does dúshēngzǐnǚ mean? ("Only child".) Say it once more.

508.4 qīfu — to bully; to pick on

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for elder brother and younger sister, then the Mandarin for an only child.

You'll want to know: qīfu

qīfu — "to bully; to pick on".

xiǎoshíhou gēge chángcháng qīfu wǒ — When I was little, my elder brother often picked on me.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qīfu is built from qī 'to deceive' and fù 'to bear', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khi and bjuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to deceive' and the second 'to carry' and 'to repay kindness with ingratitude'; in the word the second syllable is light.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: qīfu
- Say it: qīfu, once more
- Say it: xiǎoshíhou gēge chángcháng qīfu wǒ — When I was little, my elder brother often picked on me.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for elder brother and younger sister, then the Mandarin for an only child, then say qīfu again

Before you move on

What does qīfu mean? ("To bully; to pick on".) Say it once more.

508.5 dǒngshì — sensible; grown-up for one's age (of a child)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for an only child, then the Mandarin for to pick on (someone weaker).

You'll want to know: dǒngshì

dǒngshì — "sensible; grown-up for one's age (of a child)".

jiějie bǐ wǒ dǒngshì — My big sister is more grown-up than me.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dǒngshì is built from dǒng 'to understand' and 事 'a matter'. The second is inherited from Middle Chinese dzriH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to employ'; the Guangyun has no entry for the first, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: dǒngshì
- Say it: dǒngshì, once more
- Say it: jiějie bǐ wǒ dǒngshì — My big sister is more grown-up than me.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for an only child, then the Mandarin for to pick on (someone weaker), then say dǒngshì again

Before you move on

What does dǒngshì mean? ("Sensible; grown-up for one's age (of a child)".) Say it once more.

508.6 Looking back: from Songs to Brothers and Sisters

Say the Mandarin for the words of a song and a nursery rhyme.

Your turn

- Say it: the words of a song, a nursery rhyme, the national anthem, a folk song, to perform a song (on stage)
- Say it: the art of dance, a dance party, a dance partner, a stage (in a theatre), to rehearse

- Say it: a band (of musicians), to perform on an instrument, a violin, Beijing opera, a fan (of a singer)
- Say it: brothers, a father and son, a father and daughter, a married couple, one's elders
- Say it: sisters, elder brother and younger sister, an only child, to pick on (someone weaker), sensible (of a child)
- Read it: 歌 舞 父 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

The words of a song? (gēcí.) A nursery rhyme? (儿歌, érgē.) The national anthem? (国歌, guógē.) A folk song? (míngē.) To perform a song (on stage)? (yǎnchàng.) The art of dance? (wǔdǎo.) A dance party? (舞会, wǔhuì.) A dance partner? (wǔbàn.) A stage (in a theatre)? (wǔtái.) To rehearse? (páiliàn.) A band (of musicians)? (yuèduì.) To perform on an instrument? (yǎnzòu.) A violin? (xiǎotíqín.) Beijing opera? (Jīngjù.) A fan (of a singer)? (gēmí.) Brothers? (xiōngdì.) A father and son? (父子, fùzǐ.) A father and daughter? (父女, fùnǚ.) A married couple? (fūqī.) One's elders? (zhǎngbèi.) Sisters? (jiěmèi.) Elder brother and younger sister? (xiōngmèi.) An only child? (dúshēngzǐnǚ.) To pick on (someone weaker)? (qīfu.) Sensible (of a child)? (dǒngshì.)

Chapter 509

Parents

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about who runs the household, my parents, mothers and daughters, my mother tongue and stepmothers.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 509: I can talk about who runs the household, my parents, mothers and daughters, my mother tongue and stepmothers.

509.1 当家 (dāngjiā) — to run the household

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to pick on (someone weaker), then the Mandarin for sensible (of a child).

You'll want to know: 当家

当家 — dāngjiā — "to run the household".

> 我们家是我妈妈当家 wǒmen jiā shì wǒ māma dāngjiā — In our family, it's my mum who runs things.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 当家 (dāngjiā) is built from 当 'to be in charge' and 家 'a home', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tang and kae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to be in charge' and the second 'a dwelling'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: dāngjiā
- Say it: dāngjiā, once more
- Say it: wǒmen jiā shì wǒ māma dāngjiā — In our family, it's my mum who runs things.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to pick on (someone weaker), then the Mandarin for sensible (of a child), then say dāngjiā again

Before you move on

What does 当家 mean? ("To run the household".) Say it once more.

509.2 父母 (fùmǔ) — parents; one's mother and father

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for sensible (of a child), then the Mandarin for to run the household.

You'll want to know: 父母

父母 — fùmǔ — "parents; one's mother and father".

wǒ gēn fùmǔ zhù le èrshí nián — I lived with my parents for twenty years.

The new character, in pieces: 母 — five strokes: a frame of two, one down the left that turns right along the bottom and one along the top that turns down the right side and hooks; a dot inside the top half; a long bar across; a dot inside the bottom half. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 父母 (fùmǔ) is built from 父 'a father' and 母 'a mother', both inherited from Middle Chinese, bjuX and muwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a mother' and, after an older book, reads its two dots as a picture of a nursing mother's breasts.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: fùmǔ
- Say it: fùmǔ, once more
- Say it: wǒ gēn fùmǔ zhù le èrshí nián — I lived with my parents for twenty years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for sensible (of a child), then the Mandarin for to run the household, then say fùmǔ again

Before you move on

What does 父母 mean? ("Parents; one's mother and father".) Say it once more.

509.3 母 — a frame, two dots and a long bar

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say fùmǔ — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

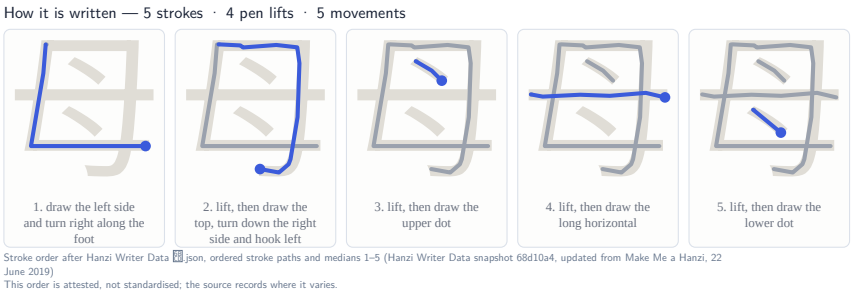
  父 女

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — fù, nǚ

Script — a frame, two dots and a long bar



How 母 is written, stroke by stroke

母

The frame, two strokes. One that runs down the left side and turns right along the bottom. Then one that runs along the top, turns down the right side and hooks to the left at the foot.

A dot inside the top half.

A long bar right across the middle, wider than the frame on both sides.

A dot inside the bottom half.

2 + 1 + 1 + 1 = five.

Your turn

- Write it: 母, all five, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes does 母 have? (Five.) How many dots? (Two, one above the long bar and one below.) Which stroke is widest? (The long bar across the middle.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 母, pinned stroke paths and medians.

509.4 母女 (mǔnǚ) — mother and daughter

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to run the household, then the Mandarin for one's mother and father.

You'll want to know: 母女

母女 — mǔnǚ — "mother and daughter".

> 母女两个人都喜欢去舞会 mǔnǚ liǎng ge rén dōu xǐhuan qù wǔhuì — Mother and daughter both love going to dances.

Two third tones meet in this word: mǔ is said with a rising tone before nǚ, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 母女 (mǔnǚ) is built from 母 'a mother' and 女 'a daughter', both inherited from Middle Chinese, muwX and nrjoX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: mǔnǚ
- Say it: mǔnǚ, once more
- Say it: mǔnǚ liǎng ge rén dōu xǐhuan qù wǔhuì — Mother and daughter both love going to dances.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to run the household, then the Mandarin for one's mother and father, then say mǔnǚ again

Before you move on

What does 母女 mean? ("Mother and daughter".) Say it once more.

509.5 母语 (mǔyǔ) — mother tongue

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for one's mother and father, then the Mandarin for a mother and daughter.

You'll want to know: 母语

母语 — mǔyǔ — "mother tongue".

> wǒ de mǔyǔ shì Yīngyǔ — My mother tongue is English.

Two third tones meet in this word: mǔ is said with a rising tone before yǔ, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 母语 (mǔyǔ) is built from 母 'a mother' and 语 'speech', both inherited from Middle Chinese, muwX and ngjoX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: mǔyǔ
- Say it: mǔyǔ, once more
- Say it: wǒ de mǔyǔ shì Yīngyǔ — My mother tongue is English.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for one's mother and father, then the Mandarin for a mother and daughter, then say mǔyǔ again

Before you move on

What does 母语 mean? ("Mother tongue".) Say it once more.

509.6 后妈 (hòumā) — stepmother

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a mother and daughter, then the Mandarin for one's mother tongue.

You'll want to know: 后妈

后妈 — hòumā — "stepmother".

> tā xiǎoshíhou gēn hòumā zhù le wǔ nián — As a child he lived with his stepmother for five years.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 后妈 (hòumā) is built from 后 'after' and 妈 'mum', both inherited from Middle Chinese, huwX and muX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'after' and the second 'a mother'. It belongs to everyday speech.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: hòumā
- Say it: hòumā, once more
- Say it: tā xiǎoshíhou gēn hòumā zhù le wǔ nián — As a child he lived with his stepmother for five years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a mother and daughter, then the Mandarin for one's mother tongue, then say hòumā again

Before you move on

What does 后妈 mean? ("Stepmother".) Say it once more.

Chapter 510

Grandparents

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about my grandma on my mother's side, grandsons and granddaughters, doting and soothing a child.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 510: I can talk about my grandma on my mother's side, grandsons and granddaughters, doting and soothing a child.

510.1 wàipó — grandma on the mother's side

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for one's mother tongue, then the Mandarin for a stepmother.

You'll want to know: wàipó

wàipó — "grandma on the mother's side".

> wǒ zài wàipó jiā zhù le yí ge yuè — I stayed at my grandma's for a month.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

wàipó is built from 外 'outside' and pó 'an old woman', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngwajH and ba (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a name for an old mother'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: wàipó
- Say it: wàipó, once more
- Say it: wǒ zài wàipó jiā zhù le yí ge yuè — I stayed at my grandma's for a month.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for one's mother tongue, then the Mandarin for a stepmother, then say wàipó again

Before you move on

What does wàipó mean? ("Grandma on the mother's side".) Say it once more.

510.2 sūnzi — grandson

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a stepmother, then the Mandarin for grandma on the mother's side.

You'll want to know: sūnzi

sūnzi — "grandson".

yéye zuì xǐhuan tā de sūnzi — Grandpa loves his grandson most of all.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of sūnzi is built from sūn 'a grandchild' and 子 'a son', both inherited from Middle Chinese, swon and tsiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, after an older dictionary, 'the son of a son'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: sūnzi
- Say it: sūnzi, once more
- Say it: yéye zuì xǐhuan tā de sūnzi — Grandpa loves his grandson most of all.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a stepmother, then the Mandarin for grandma on the mother's side, then say sūnzi again

Before you move on

What does sūnzi mean? ("Grandson".) Say it once more.

510.3 sūnnǚ — granddaughter

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for grandma on the mother's side, then the Mandarin for a grandson.

You'll want to know: sūnnǚ

sūnnǚ — "granddaughter".

nǎinai měi tiān sòng sūnnǚ qù shàngxué — Grandma takes her granddaughter to school every day.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of sūnnǚ is built from sūn 'a grandchild' and 女 'a daughter', both inherited from Middle Chinese, swon and nrjoX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: sūnnǚ
- Say it: sūnnǚ, once more
- Say it: nǎinai měi tiān sòng sūnnǚ qù shàngxué — Grandma takes her granddaughter to school every day.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for grandma on the mother's side, then the Mandarin for a grandson, then say sūnnǚ again

Before you move on

What does sūnnǚ mean? ("Granddaughter".) Say it once more.

510.4 疼爱 (téng'ài) — to dote on

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a grandson, then the Mandarin for a granddaughter.

You'll want to know: 疼爱

疼爱 — téng'ài — "to dote on".

wàipó hěn téng'ài wǒ — Grandma really dotes on me.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 疼爱 (téng'ài) is built from 疼 'to ache' and ài 'to love', both inherited from Middle Chinese, downg and 'ojH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'pain' and the second 'to pity'; the sense 'to love dearly' is not given for the first there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: téng'ài
- Say it: téng'ài, once more
- Say it: wàipó hěn téng'ài wǒ — Grandma really dotes on me.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a grandson, then the Mandarin for a granddaughter, then say téng'ài again

Before you move on

What does 疼爱 mean? ("To dote on".) Say it once more.

510.5 hǒng — to soothe a child; to coax

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a granddaughter, then the Mandarin for to dote on.

You'll want to know: hǒng

hǒng — "to soothe a child; to coax".

wàipó zuì huì hǒng háizi — Grandma is the best at soothing children.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of hǒng is written with a character the Guangyun lists only as Middle Chinese huwngH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'the sound of singing', which would regularly give hòng. The sense 'to soothe a child' is not given there and the third tone does not fit, so how the word came is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: hǒng
- Say it: hǒng, once more
- Say it: wàipó zuì huì hǒng háizi — Grandma is the best at soothing children.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a granddaughter, then the Mandarin for to dote on, then say hǒng again

Before you move on

What does hǒng mean? ("To soothe a child; to coax".) Say it once more.

Chapter 511

Close Family

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about my nearest and dearest, my father and mother, children by birth and doing things myself.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 511: I can talk about my nearest and dearest, my father and mother, children by birth and doing things myself.

511.1 亲人 (qīnrén) — one's close family; one's nearest and dearest

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to dote on, then the Mandarin for to soothe a child.

You'll want to know: 亲人

亲人 — qīnrén — "one's close family; one's nearest and dearest".

> 在国外的时候我最想我的亲人 zài guówài de shíhou wǒ zuì xiǎng wǒ de qīnrén — When I was abroad, I missed my family most of all.

The new character, in pieces: 亲 — nine strokes in two pieces: on top the top of 意 yì, five strokes; under it four strokes, a bar, a vertical that hooks at the foot, a stroke falling left and a dot. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 亲人 (qīnrén) is built from 亲 'close' and 人 'a person', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tshin and nyin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to love' and 'near'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: qīnrén
- Say it: qīnrén, once more
- Say it: zài guówài de shíhou wǒ zuì xiǎng wǒ de qīnrén — When I was abroad, I missed my family most of all.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to dote on, then the Mandarin for to soothe a child, then say qīnrén again

Before you move on

What does 亲人 mean? ("One's close family; one's nearest and dearest".) Say it once more.

511.2 亲 — the top of yì, then four strokes

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say qīnrén — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

意 人

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — yì, rén

Script — the top of yì, then four strokes

How 亲 is written, stroke by stroke

亲

Two pieces, top before bottom.

The top, five strokes, as on top of 意: a dot, a bar, a dot on the left and a short stroke falling to the left on the right, then a long bar.

The bottom, four strokes: a bar, a vertical down the middle that hooks to the left at the foot, a short stroke falling to the left, and a dot falling to the right.

5 + 4 = nine.

Your turn

- Write it: 亲, all nine, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 亲 have? (Two.) Which character you know has the same top? (意.) How does the middle vertical end? (With a hook to the left.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 亲, pinned stroke paths and medians.

511.3 父亲 (fùqīn) — father (the formal word)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to soothe a child, then the Mandarin for one's nearest and dearest.

You'll want to know: 父亲

父亲 — fùqīn — "father (the formal word)".

我父亲在大学教了三十年汉语 wǒ fùqīn zài dàxué jiāo le sānshí nián Hànyǔ — My father taught Chinese at a university for thirty years.

Many speakers make the second syllable light: fùqin.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 父亲 (fùqīn) is built from 父 'a father' and 亲 'close', both inherited from Middle Chinese, bjuX and tshin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: fùqīn
- Say it: fùqīn, once more
- Say it: wǒ fùqīn zài dàxué jiāo le sānshí nián Hànyǔ — My father taught Chinese at a university for thirty years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to soothe a child, then the Mandarin for one's nearest and dearest, then say fùqīn again

Before you move on

What does 父亲 mean? ("Father (the formal word)".) Say it once more.

511.4 母亲 (mǔqīn) — mother (the formal word)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for one's nearest and dearest, then the Mandarin for father (the formal word).

You'll want to know: 母亲

母亲 — mǔqīn — "mother (the formal word)".

我母亲比我父亲大两岁 wǒ mǔqīn bǐ wǒ fùqīn dà liǎng suì — My mother is two years older than my father.

Many speakers make the second syllable light: mǔqin.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 母亲 (mǔqīn) is built from 母 'a mother' and 亲 'close', both inherited from Middle Chinese, muwX and tshin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: mǔqīn
- Say it: mǔqīn, once more
- Say it: wǒ mǔqīn bǐ wǒ fùqīn dà liǎng suì — My mother is two years older than my father.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for one's nearest and dearest, then the Mandarin for father (the formal word), then say mǔqīn again

Before you move on

What does 母亲 mean? ("Mother (the formal word)".) Say it once more.

511.5 亲生 (qīnshēng) — one's own (by birth)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for father (the formal word), then the Mandarin for mother (the formal word).

You'll want to know: 亲生

亲生 — qīnshēng — "one's own (by birth)".

tāmen bú shì qīnshēng xiōngdì — They aren't brothers by birth.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 亲生 (qīnshēng) is built from 亲 'close' and 生 'to be born', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tshin and srjaeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to grow'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: qīnshēng
- Say it: qīnshēng, once more
- Say it: tāmen bú shì qīnshēng xiōngdì — They aren't brothers by birth.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for father (the formal word), then the Mandarin for mother (the formal word), then say qīnshēng again

Before you move on

What does 亲生 mean? ("One's own (by birth)".) Say it once more.

511.6 亲自 (qīnzì) — personally (doing it oneself)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for mother (the formal word), then the Mandarin for one's own (by birth).

You'll want to know: 亲自

亲自 — qīnzì — "personally (doing it oneself)".

> 妈妈亲自来学校看我 māma qīnzì lái xuéxiào kàn wǒ — Mum came to school to see me herself.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 亲自 (qīnzì) is built from 亲 'close' and 自 'self', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tshin and dzijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'from'; the sense 'self' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: qīnzì
- Say it: qīnzì, once more
- Say it: māma qīnzì lái xuéxiào kàn wǒ — Mum came to school to see me herself.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for mother (the formal word), then the Mandarin for one's own (by birth), then say qīnzì again

Before you move on

What does 亲自 mean? ("Personally (doing it oneself)".) Say it once more.

Chapter 512

Dreams

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about my ambition in life, chasing a dream, making something of myself, fame and top schools.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 512: I can talk about my ambition in life, chasing a dream, making something of myself, fame and top schools.

512.1 zhìxiàng — ambition in life; the goal one sets oneself

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for one's own (by birth), then the Mandarin for personally (doing it oneself).

You'll want to know: zhìxiàng

zhìxiàng — "ambition in life; the goal one sets oneself".

> wǒ zuì dà de zhìxiàng shì dāng yīshēng — My greatest ambition is to be a doctor.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhìxiàng is built from zhì 'a longing' and xiàng 'to face', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyiH and xjangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'what the mind longs for' and the second 'to face'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhìxiàng
- Say it: zhìxiàng, once more
- Say it: wǒ zuì dà de zhìxiàng shì dāng yīshēng — My greatest ambition is to be a doctor.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for one's own (by birth), then the Mandarin for personally (doing it oneself), then say zhìxiàng again

Before you move on

What does zhìxiàng mean? ("Ambition in life; the goal one sets oneself".) Say it once more.

512.2 zhuīqiú — to pursue (a goal); to chase a dream

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for personally (doing it oneself), then the Mandarin for one's ambition in life.

You'll want to know: zhuīqiú

zhuīqiú — "to pursue (a goal); to chase a dream".

wǒ xiǎng zhuīqiú zìjǐ de mèngxiǎng — I want to follow my own dream.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhuīqiú is built from zhuī 'to chase' and qiú 'to seek', both inherited from Middle Chinese, trwij and gjuw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to chase' and the second 'to search for'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhuīqiú
- Say it: zhuīqiú, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiǎng zhuīqiú zìjǐ de mèngxiǎng — I want to follow my own dream.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for personally (doing it oneself), then the Mandarin for one's ambition in life, then say zhuīqiú again

Before you move on

What does zhuīqiú mean? ("To pursue (a goal); to chase a dream".) Say it once more.

512.3 成才 (chéngcái) — to make something of oneself

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for one's ambition in life, then the Mandarin for to pursue (a goal).

You'll want to know: 成才

成才 — chéngcái — "to make something of oneself".

tā cóngxiǎo nǔlì xuéxí hòulái chéngcái le — He studied hard from childhood and later made something of himself.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 成才 (chéngcái) is built from 成 'to become' and 才 'talent', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyeng and dzoj (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to complete' and the second 'ability' and 'a gift for letters'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: chéngcái
- Say it: chéngcái, once more
- Say it: tā cóngxiǎo nǔlì xuéxí hòulái chéngcái le — He studied hard from childhood and later made something of himself.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for one's ambition in life, then the Mandarin for to pursue (a goal), then say chéngcái again

Before you move on

What does 成才 mean? ("To make something of oneself".) Say it once more.

512.4 成名 (chéngmíng) — to become famous

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to pursue (a goal), then the Mandarin for to make something of oneself.

You'll want to know: 成名

成名 — chéngmíng — "to become famous".

成名以后他感觉很不开心 chéngmíng yǐhòu tā gǎnjué hěn bù kāixīn — After he became famous, he felt very unhappy.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 成名 (chéngmíng) is built from 成 'to complete' and 名 'a name', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyeng and mjieng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a name' and 'a title'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: chéngmíng
- Say it: chéngmíng, once more
- Say it: chéngmíng yǐhòu tā gǎnjué hěn bù kāixīn — After he became famous, he felt very unhappy.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to pursue (a goal), then the Mandarin for to make something of oneself, then say chéngmíng again

Before you move on

What does 成名 mean? ("To become famous".) Say it once more.

512.5 名校 (míngxiào) — top school; famous university

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to make something of oneself, then the Mandarin for to become famous.

You'll want to know: 名校

名校 — míngxiào — "top school; famous university".

我想考上名校 wǒ xiǎng kǎoshàng míngxiào — I want to get into a top school.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 名校 (míngxiào) is built from 名 'a name' and 校 'a school', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjieng and haewH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as the title of an officer; the sense 'a school' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: míngxiào
- Say it: míngxiào, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiǎng kǎoshàng míngxiào — I want to get into a top school.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to make something of oneself, then the Mandarin for to become famous, then say míngxiào again

Before you move on

What does 名校 mean? ("Top school; famous university".) Say it once more.

Chapter 513

Ambitions

Modes: voice (7) Hands-free start: all 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about starting a business, reaching a goal, striving for it and doing it with my own hands.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 513: I can talk about starting a business, reaching a goal, striving for it and doing it with my own hands.

513.1 chuàngyè — to start a business; to found an enterprise

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to become famous, then the Mandarin for a top school.

You'll want to know: chuàngyè

chuàngyè — "to start a business; to found an enterprise".

> dàxué bìyè yǐhòu wǒ xiǎng zìjǐ chuàngyè — After university I want to start my own business.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chuàngyè is built from chuàng 'to found' and 业 'an undertaking', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsrhjangH and ngjaep (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary gives the first as another spelling of a word it glosses, after an older dictionary, 'to found a craft and begin an undertaking'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: chuàngyè
- Say it: chuàngyè, once more
- Say it: dàxué bìyè yǐhòu wǒ xiǎng zìjǐ chuàngyè — After university I want to start my own business.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to become famous, then the Mandarin for a top school, then say chuàngyè again

Before you move on

What does chuàngyè mean? ("To start a business; to found an enterprise".) Say it once more.

513.2 dádào — to attain (a goal); to reach a level

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a top school, then the Mandarin for to start a business.

You'll want to know: dádào

dádào — "to attain (a goal); to reach a level".

tā xué le sān nián dádào le zìjǐ de mùbiāo — He studied for three years and reached his goal.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

dádào is built from dá 'to get through' and 到 'to arrive', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dat and tawH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to reach through' and the second 'to arrive'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: dádào
- Say it: dádào, once more
- Say it: tā xué le sān nián dádào le zìjǐ de mùbiāo — He studied for three years and reached his goal.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a top school, then the Mandarin for to start a business, then say dádào again

Before you move on

What does dádào mean? ("To attain (a goal); to reach a level".) Say it once more.

513.3 zhēngqǔ — to strive for; to fight for

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to start a business, then the Mandarin for to attain (a goal).

You'll want to know: zhēngqǔ

zhēngqǔ — "to strive for; to fight for".

wǒ yào zhēngqǔ kǎoshàng míngxiào — I'm going to do my best to get into a top school.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhēngqǔ is built from zhēng 'to contend' and 取 'to take', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsreang and tshjuX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to compete' and the second 'to receive'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhēngqǔ
- Say it: zhēngqǔ, once more
- Say it: wǒ yào zhēngqǔ kǎoshàng míngxiào — I'm going to do my best to get into a top school.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to start a business, then the Mandarin for to attain (a goal), then say zhēngqǔ again

Before you move on

What does zhēngqǔ mean? ("To strive for; to fight for".) Say it once more.

513.4 fèndòu — to struggle (towards a goal)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to attain (a goal), then the Mandarin for to strive for.

You'll want to know: fèndòu

fèndòu — "to struggle (towards a goal)".

tā fèndòu le shí nián cái chénggōng — He struggled for ten years before he succeeded.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of fèndòu is built from fèn 'to spread the wings' and dòu 'to fight', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjunH and tuwH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as a bird spreading its feathers and the second, after an older dictionary, as two men facing each other with weapons.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: fèndòu
- Say it: fèndòu, once more
- Say it: tā fèndòu le shí nián cái chénggōng — He struggled for ten years before he succeeded.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to attain (a goal), then the Mandarin for to strive for, then say fèndòu again

Before you move on

What does fèndòu mean? ("To struggle (towards a goal)".) Say it once more.

513.5 亲手 (qīnshǒu) — with one's own hands

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to strive for, then the Mandarin for to struggle (towards a goal).

You'll want to know: 亲手

亲手 — qīnshǒu — "with one's own hands".

我想亲手开一家饭店 wǒ xiǎng qīnshǒu kāi yì jiā fàndiàn — I want to open a restaurant with my own hands.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 亲手 (qīnshǒu) is built from 亲 'close' and 手 'a hand', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tshin and syuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: qīnshǒu
- Say it: qīnshǒu, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiǎng qīnshǒu kāi yì jiā fàndiàn — I want to open a restaurant with my own hands.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to strive for, then the Mandarin for to struggle (towards a goal), then say qīnshǒu again

Before you move on

What does 亲手 mean? ("With one's own hands".) Say it once more.

513.6 Looking back: from Parents to Ambitions

Say the Mandarin for to run the household and one's mother and father.

Your turn

- Say it: to run the household, one's mother and father, a mother and daughter, one's mother tongue, a stepmother
- Say it: grandma on the mother's side, a grandson, a granddaughter, to dote on, to soothe a child
- Say it: one's nearest and dearest, father (the formal word), mother (the formal word), one's own (by birth), personally (doing it oneself)

- Say it: one's ambition in life, to pursue (a goal), to make something of oneself, to become famous, a top school
- Say it: to start a business, to attain (a goal), to strive for, to struggle (towards a goal), with one's own hands
- Read it: 母 亲 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

To run the household? (当家, dāngjiā.) One's mother and father? (父母, fùmǔ.) A mother and daughter? (母女, mǔnǚ.) One's mother tongue? (母语, mǔyǔ.) A stepmother? (后妈, hòumā.) Grandma on the mother's side? (wàipó.) A grandson? (sūnzi.) A granddaughter? (sūnnǚ.) To dote on? (疼爱, téng'ài.) To soothe a child? (hǒng.) One's nearest and dearest? (亲人, qīnrén.) Father (the formal word)? (父亲, fùqīn.) Mother (the formal word)? (母亲, mǔqīn.) One's own (by birth)? (亲生, qīnshēng.) Personally (doing it oneself)? (亲自, qīnzì.) One's ambition in life? (zhìxiàng.) To pursue (a goal)? (zhuīqiú.) To make something of oneself? (成才, chéngcái.) To become famous? (成名, chéngmíng.) A top school? (名校, míngxiào.) To start a business? (chuàngyè.) To attain (a goal)? (dádào.) To strive for? (zhēngqǔ.) To struggle (towards a goal)? (fèndòu.) With one's own hands? (亲手, qīnshǒu.)

513.7 Ambitions — once more

Say the Mandarin for to start a business and to attain (a goal).

Your turn

- Say it: to start a business, to attain (a goal), to strive for, to struggle (towards a goal), with one's own hands

Before you move on

To start a business? (chuàngyè.) To attain (a goal)? (dádào.) To strive for? (zhēngqǔ.) To struggle (towards a goal)? (fèndòu.) With one's own hands? (亲手, qīnshǒu.)

Chapter 514

When the Weather Turns

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about wind and storms, getting caught in the rain, things that freeze and snow that melts.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 514: I can talk about wind and storms, getting caught in the rain, things that freeze and snow that melts.

514.1 shǎndiàn — lightning

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to struggle, then the Mandarin for with one's own hands.

You'll want to know: shǎndiàn

shǎndiàn — "lightning".

> wǒ zuì pà dǎléi hé shǎndiàn — Thunder and lightning are what I'm most afraid of.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shǎndiàn is built from shǎn and diàn 'lightning', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syemX and denH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first as the look of something coming out of a door, and explains the second as the flash when yin and yang clash; the sense 'to flash' is not given for the first.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shǎndiàn
- Say it: shǎndiàn, once more
- Say it: wǒ zuì pà dǎléi hé shǎndiàn — Thunder and lightning are what I'm most afraid of.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to struggle, then the Mandarin for with one's own hands, then say shǎndiàn again

Before you move on

What does shǎndiàn mean? ("Lightning".) Say it once more.

514.2 línyǔ — to get caught in the rain

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for with one's own hands, then the Mandarin for a flash of lightning.

You'll want to know: línyǔ

línyǔ — "to get caught in the rain".

zuótiān línyǔ yǐhòu wǒ gǎnjué hěn lěng — After I got caught in the rain yesterday, I felt cold.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

línyǔ is built from lín 'to pour on' and 雨 'rain', both inherited from Middle Chinese, lim and hjuX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as pouring water over something: to be poured on by the rain.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: línyǔ
- Say it: línyǔ, once more
- Say it: zuótiān línyǔ yǐhòu wǒ gǎnjué hěn lěng — After I got caught in the rain yesterday, I felt cold.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for with one's own hands, then the Mandarin for a flash of lightning, then say línyǔ again

Before you move on

What does línyǔ mean? ("To get caught in the rain".) Say it once more.

514.3 léiyǔ — thunderstorm

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a flash of lightning, then the Mandarin for to get caught in the rain.

You'll want to know: léiyǔ

léiyǔ — "thunderstorm".

wàipó shuō jīntiān wǎnshang yǒu léiyǔ — Grandma says there'll be a thunderstorm tonight.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

léiyǔ is built from léi 'thunder' and 雨 'rain', both inherited from Middle Chinese, lwoj and hjuX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which explains the first, after an older book, as yin and yang striking each other.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: léiyǔ
- Say it: léiyǔ, once more
- Say it: wàipó shuō jīntiān wǎnshang yǒu léiyǔ — Grandma says there'll be a thunderstorm tonight.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a flash of lightning, then the Mandarin for to get caught in the rain, then say léiyǔ again

Before you move on

What does léiyǔ mean? ("Thunderstorm".) Say it once more.

514.4 dòngjiāng — to be frozen stiff

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get caught in the rain, then the Mandarin for a thunderstorm.

You'll want to know: dòngjiāng

dòngjiāng — "to be frozen stiff".

> wǒ děng le yí ge xiǎoshí shǒu dōu dòngjiāng le — I waited an hour, and my hands were frozen stiff.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dòngjiāng is built from dòng 'to freeze' and jiāng 'stiff', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tuwngH and kjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'ice, freezing' and the second as falling over flat.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: dòngjiāng
- Say it: dòngjiāng, once more
- Say it: wǒ děng le yí ge xiǎoshí shǒu dōu dòngjiāng le — I waited an hour, and my hands were frozen stiff.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get caught in the rain, then the Mandarin for a thunderstorm, then say dòngjiāng again

Before you move on

What does dòngjiāng mean? ("To be frozen stiff".) Say it once more.

514.5 rónghuà — to melt; to thaw

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a thunderstorm, then the Mandarin for to be frozen stiff.

You'll want to know: rónghuà

rónghuà — "to melt; to thaw".

tiānqì nuǎnhuo le xuěrén dōu rónghuà le — It turned warm, and the snowmen all melted.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of rónghuà is built from róng and huà 'to change', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yuwng and xwaeH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'harmonious' and 'bright' and, after an older book, as steam rising from a cooking pot; the second it glosses 'to change, to transform'. How the pair came to mean melting is usually explained as warmth changing a thing, but it is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: rónghuà
- Say it: rónghuà, once more
- Say it: tiānqì nuǎnhuo le xuěrén dōu rónghuà le — It turned warm, and the snowmen all melted.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a thunderstorm, then the Mandarin for to be frozen stiff, then say rónghuà again

Before you move on

What does rónghuà mean? ("To melt; to thaw".) Say it once more.

Chapter 515

Four Seasons

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about the four seasons, the rainy season, bitter cold, getting away from the heat and the harvest.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 515: I can talk about the four seasons, the rainy season, bitter cold, getting away from the heat and the harvest.

515.1 hánlěng — bitterly cold (of a climate)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be frozen stiff, then the Mandarin for to melt.

You'll want to know: hánlěng

hánlěng — "bitterly cold (of a climate)".

> zhèr de dōngtiān bǐ Běijīng hánlěng — Winters here are colder than in Beijing.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of hánlěng is built from hán and 冷 'cold', both inherited from Middle Chinese, han and lengX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'cold, as against heat'; it lists the second three times, leng, laengX and lengX, the last two glossed 'cold'. Two words for cold, put together, make it bitter.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: hánlěng
- Say it: hánlěng, once more
- Say it: zhèr de dōngtiān bǐ Běijīng hánlěng — Winters here are colder than in Beijing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be frozen stiff, then the Mandarin for to melt, then say hánlěng again

Before you move on

What does hánlěng mean? ("Bitterly cold (of a climate)".) Say it once more.

515.2 四季 (sìjì) — the four seasons

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to melt, then the Mandarin for bitterly cold.

You'll want to know: 四季

四季 — sìjì — "the four seasons".

这儿四季都有花 zhèr sìjì dōu yǒu huā — There are flowers here all year round.

The new character, in pieces: 季 — eight strokes in two pieces: on top the grain piece, five strokes, as on the left of 秋, but spread wide; and 子 at the foot, three strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 四季 (sìjì) is built from 四 'four' and 季, both inherited from Middle Chinese, sijH and kjwijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the second as the youngest of brothers and 'young'; how it came to mean a season, as in 季节, is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: sìjì
- Say it: sìjì, once more
- Say it: zhèr sìjì dōu yǒu huā — There are flowers here all year round.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to melt, then the Mandarin for bitterly cold, then say sìjì again

Before you move on

What does 四季 mean? ("The four seasons".) Say it once more.

515.3 季 — the grain piece, then 子 under it

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say sìjì — R1, one lesson back, before it decays 秋 子

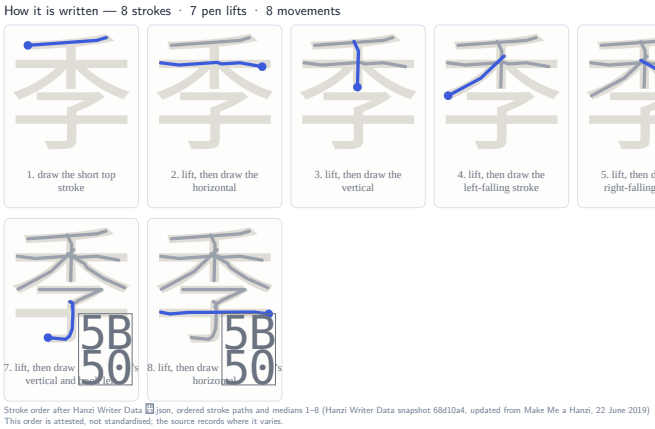
Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — qiū, zǐ

Script — the grain piece, then 子 under it



How 季 is written, stroke by stroke

季

Two pieces, top to bottom. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The top piece, the grain piece, five strokes, as on the left of 秋, but spread out wide: a short stroke falling to the left at the top, a bar, a short vertical down through the bar, a stroke falling to the left from the crossing, then a long stroke falling to the right.

The bottom piece, 子, three strokes, as you wrote it: a bar that turns down to the left, a vertical that curves down and hooks to the left, then a long bar across.

5 + 3 = eight.

Your turn

- Write it: 季, all eight, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 季 have? (Two: the grain piece on top and 子 at the foot.) How many strokes? (Eight: five and three.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 季, pinned stroke paths and medians.

515.4 雨季 (yǔjì) — rainy season

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for bitterly cold, then the Mandarin for the four seasons.

You'll want to know: 雨季

雨季 — yǔjì — "rainy season".

我最不喜欢雨季 wǒ zuì bù xǐhuan yǔjì — I like the rainy season least of all.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 雨季 (yǔjì) is built from 雨 'rain' and 季 'a season', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hjuX and kjwijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the dictionary glosses the second as the youngest of brothers, so its sense 'season' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yǔjì
- Say it: yǔjì, once more
- Say it: wǒ zuì bù xǐhuan yǔjì — I like the rainy season least of all.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for bitterly cold, then the Mandarin for the four seasons, then say yǔjì again

Before you move on

What does 雨季 mean? ("Rainy season".) Say it once more.

515.5 bìshǔ — to escape the summer heat

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the four seasons, then the Mandarin for the rainy season.

You'll want to know: bìshǔ

bìshǔ — "to escape the summer heat".

> xiàtiān wǒ hé fùmǔ qù shān lǐ bìshǔ — In summer I go up into the hills with my parents to get away from the heat.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

bìshǔ is built from bì 'to avoid' and shǔ 'heat', both inherited from Middle Chinese, bjieH and syoX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to turn away from' and the second 'heat'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: bìshǔ
- Say it: bìshǔ, once more
- Say it: xiàtiān wǒ hé fùmǔ qù shān lǐ bìshǔ — In summer I go up into the hills with my parents to get away from the heat.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the four seasons, then the Mandarin for the rainy season, then say bìshǔ again

Before you move on

What does bìshǔ mean? ("To escape the summer heat".) Say it once more.

515.6 shōuhuò — to bring in the harvest; to reap

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the rainy season, then the Mandarin for to escape the summer heat.

You'll want to know: shōuhuò

shōuhuò — "to bring in the harvest; to reap".

> qiūtiān shì shōuhuò de jìjié — Autumn is the season for bringing in the harvest.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shōuhuò is built from shōu 'to gather in' and huò 'to reap', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syuw and hwak (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to collect' and the second, written with the grain piece, 'to cut down the crop'. The falling tone of huò is not the regular outcome of hwak, which would give huó.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shōuhuò
- Say it: shōuhuò, once more
- Say it: qiūtiān shì shōuhuò de jìjié — Autumn is the season for bringing in the harvest.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the rainy season, then the Mandarin for to escape the summer heat, then say shōuhuò again

Before you move on

What does shōuhuò mean? ("To bring in the harvest; to reap".) Say it once more.

Chapter 516

Trees and Leaves

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about trees, fruit trees, woods, fallen leaves and fruit that is not ripe yet.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 516: I can talk about trees, fruit trees, woods, fallen leaves and fruit that is not ripe yet.

516.1 luòyè — fallen leaves

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to escape the summer heat, then the Mandarin for to bring in the harvest.

You'll want to know: luòyè

luòyè — "fallen leaves".

> qiūtiān gōngyuán lǐ dōu shì luòyè — In autumn the park is full of fallen leaves.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of luòyè is built from luò 'to fall' and yè 'a leaf', both inherited from Middle Chinese, lak and yep (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary says the first is the word for what trees do when their leaves come down, and glosses the second 'branches and leaves'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: luòyè
- Say it: luòyè, once more
- Say it: qiūtiān gōngyuán lǐ dōu shì luòyè — In autumn the park is full of fallen leaves.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to escape the summer heat, then the Mandarin for to bring in the harvest, then say luòyè again

Before you move on

What does luòyè mean? ("Fallen leaves".) Say it once more.

516.2 树 (shù) — tree

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to bring in the harvest, then the Mandarin for fallen leaves.

You'll want to know: 树

树 — shù — "tree".

秋天的树最好看 qiūtiān de shù zuì hǎokàn — Trees look their best in autumn.

The new character, in pieces: 树 — nine strokes in three pieces: on the left the tree piece, four strokes, as in 机; in the middle 又, two strokes, the second shrunk to a short stroke; and on the right a bar, a vertical that hooks to the left, and a dot. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 树 (shù) is inherited from Middle Chinese dzyuH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed as the general name for trees and 'to set up'; the dictionary also lists dzyuX, glossed 'to prop up'. The falling tone of shù comes from dzyuH.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shù
- Say it: shù, once more
- Say it: qiūtiān de shù zuì hǎokàn — Trees look their best in autumn.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to bring in the harvest, then the Mandarin for fallen leaves, then say shù again

Before you move on

What does 树 mean? ("Tree".) Say it once more.

516.3 树 — the tree piece, 又, and three strokes on the right

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say shù — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

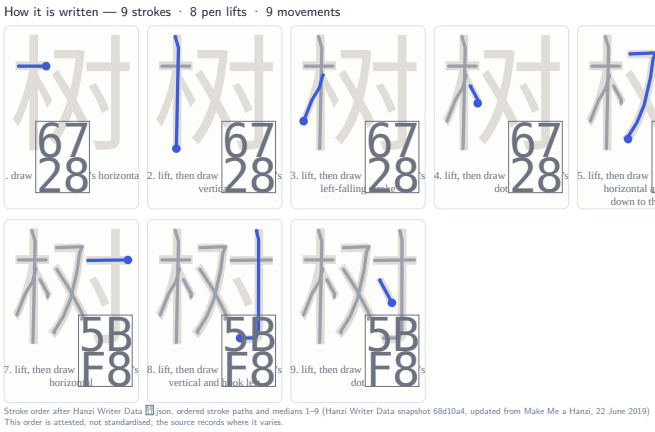
  机 又

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — jī, yòu

Script — the tree piece, 又, and three strokes on the right



How 树 is written, stroke by stroke

树

Three pieces, left to right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the tree piece, four strokes, narrow, as in 机: a short bar, a vertical down through it, a stroke falling to the left from the crossing, then a short dot to the right.

The middle piece, 又, two strokes: a short bar that turns into a stroke falling to the left, then a short stroke falling to the right across it.

The right piece, three strokes: a bar, a long vertical down the right side that hooks to the left at the foot, then a dot on the left of the vertical.

4 + 2 + 3 = nine.

Your turn

- Write it: 树, all nine, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 树 have? (Three: the tree piece, 又 and a right piece.) What is the last stroke? (A dot beside the hooked vertical.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 树, pinned stroke paths and medians.

516.4 果树 (guǒshù) — fruit tree

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for fallen leaves, then the Mandarin for a tree.

You'll want to know: 果树

果树 — guǒshù — "fruit tree".

我外公家有一些果树 wǒ wàigōng jiā yǒu yìxiē guǒshù — There are some fruit trees at my grandad's.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 果树 (guǒshù) is built from 果 'fruit' and 树 'a tree', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kwaX and dzyuH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'bold' and 'firm', and also 'the fruit of a tree'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: guǒshù
- Say it: guǒshù, once more
- Say it: wǒ wàigōng jiā yǒu yìxiē guǒshù — There are some fruit trees at my grandad's.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for fallen leaves, then the Mandarin for a tree, then say guǒshù again

Before you move on

What does 果树 mean? ("Fruit tree".) Say it once more.

516.5 shùlín — woods; a grove

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a tree, then the Mandarin for a fruit tree.

You'll want to know: shùlín

shùlín — "woods; a grove".

wǒ hé sūnnǚ zài shùlín lǐ zǒu le liǎng ge xiǎoshí — My granddaughter and I walked in the woods for two hours.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

shùlín is built from 树 'a tree' and lín 'a wood', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyuH and lim (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which says, after an older dictionary, that land out in the open is called lim, and after another, that flat land with stands of trees is.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shùlín
- Say it: shùlín, once more
- Say it: wǒ hé sūnnǚ zài shùlín lǐ zǒu le liǎng ge xiǎoshí — My granddaughter and I walked in the woods for two hours.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a tree, then the Mandarin for a fruit tree, then say shùlín again

Before you move on

What does shùlín mean? ("Woods; a grove".) Say it once more.

516.6 chéngshú — to ripen; to be ripe

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a fruit tree, then the Mandarin for the woods.

You'll want to know: chéngshú

chéngshú — "to ripen; to be ripe".

> zhèxiē píngguǒ hái méiyǒu chéngshú — These apples aren't ripe yet.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chéngshú is built from 成 'to complete' and shú, both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyeng and dzyuwk (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'finished' and the second with the first: done, as fruit is done when it is ripe.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: chéngshú
- Say it: chéngshú, once more
- Say it: zhèxiē píngguǒ hái méiyǒu chéngshú — These apples aren't ripe yet.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a fruit tree, then the Mandarin for the woods, then say chéngshú again

Before you move on

What does chéngshú mean? ("To ripen; to be ripe".) Say it once more.

Chapter 517

Light in the Dark

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about light, things that shine, starlight, dusk and the time it gets light.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 517: I can talk about light, things that shine, starlight, dusk and the time it gets light.

517.1 tiānliàng — to get light at dawn

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the woods, then the Mandarin for to ripen.

You'll want to know: tiānliàng

tiānliàng — "to get light at dawn".

> wàipó shuō dōngtiān qī diǎn cái tiānliàng — Grandma says it doesn't get light until seven in winter.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tiānliàng is built from 天 'the sky' and liàng 'bright', both inherited from Middle Chinese, then and ljangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'bright' and 'clear'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: tiānliàng
- Say it: tiānliàng, once more
- Say it: wàipó shuō dōngtiān qī diǎn cái tiānliàng — Grandma says it doesn't get light until seven in winter.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the woods, then the Mandarin for to ripen, then say tiānliàng again

Before you move on

What does tiānliàng mean? ("To get light at dawn".) Say it once more.

517.2 光 (guāng) — light from the sun or a lamp

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to ripen, then the Mandarin for to get light at dawn.

You'll want to know: 光

光 — guāng — "light from the sun or a lamp".

停电以后房间里没有光了 tíngdiàn yǐhòu fángjiān lǐ méiyǒu guāng le — After the power went off, there was no light in the room.

The new character, in pieces: 光 — six strokes in three pieces: on top a short vertical with a dot on each side, three strokes; a long bar across the middle; and 儿 at the foot, two strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 光 (guāng) is inherited from Middle Chinese kwang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'bright'; the dictionary also lists a departing-tone reading, kwangH, for adding colour. The noun 'light' is not glossed there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: guāng
- Say it: guāng, once more
- Say it: tíngdiàn yǐhòu fángjiān lǐ méiyǒu guāng le — After the power went off, there was no light in the room.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to ripen, then the Mandarin for to get light at dawn, then say guāng again

Before you move on

What does 光 mean? ("Light from the sun or a lamp".) Say it once more.

517.3 光 — three short strokes, a bar, then 儿

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say guāng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

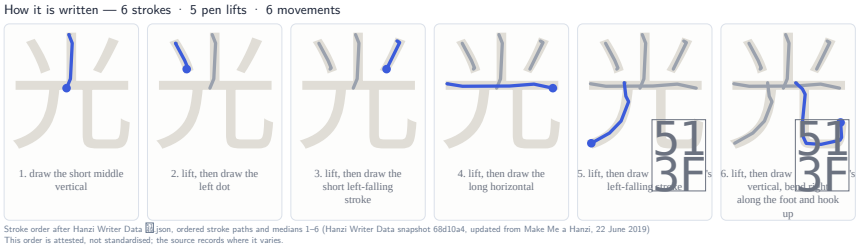
  儿 先

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — ér, xiān

Script — three short strokes, a bar, then 儿



How 光 is written, stroke by stroke

光

Three pieces, top to bottom. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The top piece, three strokes: a short vertical down the middle, a dot on its left, then a short stroke on its right falling to the left.

One long bar across the middle, under them.

The bottom piece, 儿, two strokes, as you wrote it: a stroke falling to the left, then a vertical that bends right along the foot and hooks up.

3 + 1 + 2 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 光, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes does 光 have? (Six.) What sits at its foot? (儿, two strokes.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 光, pinned stroke paths and medians.

517.4 发光 (fāguāng) — to give off light; to shine

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get light at dawn, then the Mandarin for light from the sun.

You'll want to know: 发光

发光 — fāguāng — "to give off light; to shine".

> 星星为什么会发光 xīngxing wèishénme huì fāguāng — Why do the stars shine?

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 发光 (fāguāng) is built from 发 'to send out' and 光 'light', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjot and kwang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to start' and 'to open out' and the second 'bright'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: fāguāng
- Say it: fāguāng, once more
- Say it: xīngxing wèishénme huì fāguāng — Why do the stars shine?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get light at dawn, then the Mandarin for light from the sun, then say fāguāng again

Before you move on

What does 发光 mean? ("To give off light; to shine".) Say it once more.

517.5 星光 (xīngguāng) — starlight

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for light from the sun, then the Mandarin for to give off light.

You'll want to know: 星光

星光 — xīngguāng — "starlight".

> 山里的星光最好看 shān lǐ de xīngguāng zuì hǎokàn — The starlight is loveliest up in the hills.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 星光 (xīngguāng) is built from 星 'a star' and 光 'light', both inherited from Middle Chinese, seng and kwang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'bright'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xīngguāng
- Say it: xīngguāng, once more
- Say it: shān lǐ de xīngguāng zuì hǎokàn — The starlight is loveliest up in the hills.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for light from the sun, then the Mandarin for to give off light, then say xīngguāng again

Before you move on

What does 星光 mean? ("Starlight".) Say it once more.

517.6 huánghūn — twilight; the fading light of evening

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to give off light, then the Mandarin for starlight.

You'll want to know: huánghūn

huánghūn — "twilight; the fading light of evening".

> wǒ zuì xǐhuan huánghūn de shíhou qù sànbù — Twilight is my favourite time for a walk.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huánghūn is built from huáng 'yellow' and hūn, both inherited from Middle Chinese, hwang and xwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as the colour of the centre and, after an older dictionary, the second as the sun gone dark.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: huánghūn
- Say it: huánghūn, once more
- Say it: wǒ zuì xǐhuan huánghūn de shíhou qù sànbù — Twilight is my favourite time for a walk.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to give off light, then the Mandarin for starlight, then say huánghūn again

Before you move on

What does huánghūn mean? ("Twilight; the fading light of evening".) Say it once more.

Chapter 518

Sunshine

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about clear skies, sunshine, solar power, umbrellas against the sun and fog.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 518: I can talk about clear skies, sunshine, solar power, umbrellas against the sun and fog.

518.1 qínglǎng — clear and cloudless (of the sky)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for starlight, then the Mandarin for twilight.

You'll want to know: qínglǎng

qínglǎng — "clear and cloudless (of the sky)".

> míngtiān tiānqì qínglǎng wǒmen qù gōngyuán — It'll be clear tomorrow, so we're going to the park.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qínglǎng is built from qíng and lǎng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzjeng and langX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as the sky clearing and the second 'bright'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: qínglǎng
- Say it: qínglǎng, once more
- Say it: míngtiān tiānqì qínglǎng wǒmen qù gōngyuán — It'll be clear tomorrow, so we're going to the park.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for starlight, then the Mandarin for twilight, then say qínglǎng again

Before you move on

What does qínglǎng mean? ("Clear and cloudless (of the sky)".) Say it once more.

518.2 阳光 (yángguāng) — sunshine

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for twilight, then the Mandarin for clear and cloudless.

You'll want to know: 阳光

阳光 — yángguāng — "sunshine".

这个季节的阳光最好 zhège jìjié de yángguāng zuì hǎo — The sunshine is at its best at this time of year.

The new character, in pieces: 阳 — six strokes in two pieces: on the left the ear piece, two strokes, as on the right of 那; on the right 日, four strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 阳光 (yángguāng) is built from 阳 and 光 'light', both inherited from Middle Chinese, yang and kwang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first as the yang of yin and yang and, after an older book, 'high and bright'; the light of the yang is the sun's.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yángguāng
- Say it: yángguāng, once more
- Say it: zhège jìjié de yángguāng zuì hǎo — The sunshine is at its best at this time of year.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for twilight, then the Mandarin for clear and cloudless, then say yángguāng again

Before you move on

What does 阳光 mean? ("Sunshine".) Say it once more.

518.3 阳 — the ear piece on the left, then 日

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say yángguāng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

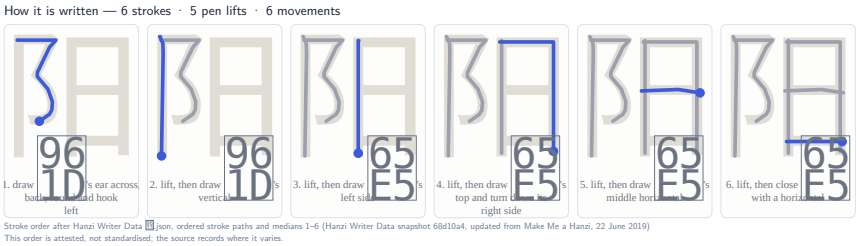
  那 日

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — nà, rì

Script — the ear piece on the left, then 日



How 阳 is written, stroke by stroke

阳

Two pieces, left before right. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the ear, two strokes, as on the right of 那 and 都: one stroke that runs right, folds down twice like an ear and hooks, then a long vertical down its left edge.

The right piece, 日, four strokes, as you wrote it: a vertical, a bar that turns down the right side, a bar across the middle, then a bar closing the foot.

2 + 4 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 阳, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 阳 have? (Two: the ear and 日.) Which comes first? (The ear, on the left.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 阳, pinned stroke paths and medians.

518.4 太阳能 (tàiyángnéng) — solar energy; solar power

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for clear and cloudless, then the Mandarin for sunshine.

You'll want to know: 太阳能

太阳能 — tàiyángnéng — "solar energy; solar power".

> 我们家用了五年太阳能 wǒmen jiā yòng le wǔ nián tàiyángnéng — We've used solar power at home for five years.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 太阳能 (tàiyángnéng) is built from 太阳 'the sun' and 能 'energy', all inherited from Middle Chinese, thajH, yang and nong (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the last 'skilled' and 'able'; the sense 'energy' is modern, and is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: tàiyángnéng
- Say it: tàiyángnéng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen jiā yòng le wǔ nián tàiyángnéng — We've used solar power at home for five years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for clear and cloudless, then the Mandarin for sunshine, then say tàiyángnéng again

Before you move on

What does 太阳能 mean? ("Solar energy; solar power".) Say it once more.

518.5 dǎsǎn — to put up an umbrella

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for sunshine, then the Mandarin for solar power.

You'll want to know: dǎsǎn

dǎsǎn — "to put up an umbrella".

> wàipó chūmén de shíhou zǒngshì dǎsǎn — Grandma always puts up an umbrella when she goes out.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: dǎ is said with a rising tone before sǎn, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dǎsǎn is built from 扌丁 and sǎn 'an umbrella', both inherited from Middle Chinese, taengX and sanX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to strike' and the second 'a canopy'. The vowel of dǎ is not the regular outcome of taengX.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: dǎsǎn
- Say it: dǎsǎn, once more
- Say it: wàipó chūmén de shíhou zǒngshì dǎsǎn — Grandma always puts up an umbrella when she goes out.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for sunshine, then the Mandarin for solar power, then say dǎsǎn again

Before you move on

What does dǎsǎn mean? ("To put up an umbrella".) Say it once more.

518.6 dàwù — thick fog

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for solar power, then the Mandarin for to put up an umbrella.

You'll want to know: dàwù

dàwù — "thick fog".

> zǎoshang yǒu dàwù wǒmen kàn bu dào shān — There was thick fog this morning, and we couldn't make out the hills.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

dàwù is built from 大 'big' and wù 'fog', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dajH and mjuH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which explains the second, after an older book, as what comes when yin and yang are in disorder, and after another, as the earth's breath that the sky does not answer.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: dàwù
- Say it: dàwù, once more
- Say it: zǎoshang yǒu dàwù wǒmen kàn bu dào shān — There was thick fog this morning, and we couldn't make out the hills.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for solar power, then the Mandarin for to put up an umbrella, then say dàwù again

Before you move on

What does dàwù mean? ("Thick fog".) Say it once more.

Chapter 519

Out in Nature

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about spring at its best, the early morning, a place that is mild all year, a snowy view and sitting in the cool.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 519: I can talk about spring at its best, the early morning, a place that is mild all year, a snowy view and sitting in the cool.

519.1 春光 (chūnguāng) — the beauty of spring; spring sunshine

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to put up an umbrella, then the Mandarin for a thick fog.

You'll want to know: 春光

春光 — chūnguāng — "the beauty of spring; spring sunshine".

> 春光最好的时候树都开花了 chūnguāng zuì hǎo de shíhou shù dōu kāihuā le — When spring is at its loveliest, the trees are all in blossom.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 春光 (chūnguāng) is built from chūn 'spring' and 光 'light', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyhwin and kwang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, after an older book, as the head of the four seasons, when all things come out.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: chūnguāng
- Say it: chūnguāng, once more
- Say it: chūnguāng zuì hǎo de shíhou shù dōu kāihuā le — When spring is at its loveliest, the trees are all in blossom.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to put up an umbrella, then the Mandarin for a thick fog, then say chūnguāng again

Before you move on

What does 春光 mean? ("The beauty of spring; spring sunshine".) Say it once more.

519.2 qīngchén — early in the morning; at daybreak

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a thick fog, then the Mandarin for the beauty of spring.

You'll want to know: qīngchén

qīngchén — "early in the morning; at daybreak".

fùqīn měitiān qīngchén qù gōngyuán pǎobù — My father goes running in the park early every morning.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of qīngchén is built from qīng 'clear' and chén 'dawn', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tshjeng and dzyin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'clear, still' and the second 'early' and 'bright'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: qīngchén
- Say it: qīngchén, once more
- Say it: fùqīn měitiān qīngchén qù gōngyuán pǎobù — My father goes running in the park early every morning.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a thick fog, then the Mandarin for the beauty of spring, then say qīngchén again

Before you move on

What does qīngchén mean? ("Early in the morning; at daybreak".) Say it once more.

519.3 四季如春 (sìjì rú chūn) — mild like spring all year round (of a place)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the beauty of spring, then the Mandarin for early in the morning.

You'll want to know: 四季如春

四季如春 — sìjì rú chūn — "mild like spring all year round (of a place)".

> 这儿四季如春我最喜欢这儿的阳光 zhèr sìjì rú chūn wǒ zuì xǐhuan zhèr de yángguāng — It's like spring here all year round, and the sunshine is what I love most.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 四季如春 (sìjì rú chūn) is built from 四季 'the four seasons', 如 'like' and 春 'spring', all inherited from Middle Chinese, sijH, kjwijH, nyo and tsyhwin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses 如 'to resemble' and the last, after an older book, as the head of the four seasons: every season like the spring.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: sìjì rú chūn
- Say it: sìjì rú chūn, once more
- Say it: zhèr sìjì rú chūn wǒ zuì xǐhuan zhèr de yángguāng — It's like spring here all year round, and the sunshine is what I love most.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the beauty of spring, then the Mandarin for early in the morning, then say sìjì rú chūn again

Before you move on

What does 四季如春 mean? ("Mild like spring all year round (of a place)".) Say it once more.

519.4 xuějǐng — a snowy landscape

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for early in the morning, then the Mandarin for like spring all year round.

You'll want to know: xuějǐng

xuějǐng — "a snowy landscape".

wǒ méi kàn guo zhème hǎokàn de xuějǐng — I've never seen such a lovely snowy landscape.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: xuě is said with a rising tone before jǐng, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xuějǐng is built from 雪 'snow' and jǐng 'a view', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sjwet and kjaengX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, after an older book, as rain that has set, and the second 'bright' and 'an image'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xuějǐng
- Say it: xuějǐng, once more
- Say it: wǒ méi kàn guo zhème hǎokàn de xuějǐng — I've never seen such a lovely snowy landscape.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for early in the morning, then the Mandarin for like spring all year round, then say xuějǐng again

Before you move on

What does xuějǐng mean? ("A snowy landscape".) Say it once more.

519.5 chéngliáng — to sit in the cool (out of the sun)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for like spring all year round, then the Mandarin for a snowy landscape.

You'll want to know: chéngliáng

chéngliáng — "to sit in the cool (out of the sun)".

xiàtiān de wǎnshang dàjiā dōu zài wàibian chéngliáng — On summer evenings everyone sits outside in the cool.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chéngliáng is built from chéng 'to ride on' and liáng 'cool', both inherited from Middle Chinese, zying and ljang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to drive' and 'to mount' and the second 'thin' and 'cold': to take the cool air.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: chéngliáng
- Say it: chéngliáng, once more
- Say it: xiàtiān de wǎnshang dàjiā dōu zài wàibian chéngliáng — On summer evenings everyone sits outside in the cool.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for like spring all year round, then the Mandarin for a snowy landscape, then say chéngliáng again

Before you move on

What does chéngliáng mean? ("To sit in the cool (out of the sun)".) Say it once more.

519.6 Looking back: from When the Weather Turns to Out in Nature

Say the Mandarin for a flash of lightning and to get caught in the rain.

Your turn

- Say it: a flash of lightning, to get caught in the rain, a thunderstorm, to be frozen stiff, to melt
- Say it: bitterly cold, the four seasons, the rainy season, to escape the summer heat, to bring in the harvest
- Say it: fallen leaves, a tree, a fruit tree, the woods, to ripen
- Say it: to get light at dawn, light from the sun, to give off light, starlight, twilight
- Say it: clear and cloudless, sunshine, solar power, to put up an umbrella, a thick fog
- Say it: the beauty of spring, early in the morning, like spring all year round, a snowy landscape, to sit in the cool
- Read it: 季 树 光 阳 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

A flash of lightning? (shǎndiàn.) To get caught in the rain? (línyǔ.) A thunderstorm? (léiyǔ.) To be frozen stiff? (dòngjiāng.) To melt? (rónghuà.) Bitterly cold? (hánlěng.) The four seasons? (四季, sìjì.) The rainy season? (雨季, yǔjì.) To escape the summer heat? (bìshǔ.) To bring in the harvest? (shōuhuò.) Fallen leaves? (luòyè.) A tree? (树, shù.) A fruit tree? (果树, guǒshù.) The woods? (shùlín.) To ripen? (chéngshú.) To get light at dawn? (tiānliàng.) Light from the sun? (光, guāng.) To give off light? (发光, fāguāng.) Starlight? (星光, xīngguāng.) Twilight? (huánghūn.) Clear and cloudless? (qínglǎng.) Sunshine? (阳光, yángguāng.) Solar power? (太阳能, tàiyángnéng.) To put up an umbrella? (dǎsǎn.) A thick fog? (dàwù.) The beauty of spring? (春光, chūnguāng.) Early in the morning? (qīngchén.) Like spring all year round? (四季如春, sìjì rú chūn.) A snowy landscape? (xuějǐng.) To sit in the cool? (chéngliáng.)

Chapter 520

Around the House

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about household appliances, light switches, the water heater, the heating and saving electricity.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 520: I can talk about household appliances, light switches, the water heater, the heating and saving electricity.

520.1 家电 (jiādiàn) — household appliance

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a snowy landscape, then the Mandarin for to sit in the cool.

You'll want to know: 家电

家电 — jiādiàn — "household appliance".

> 我们去年买了一些新家电 wǒmen qùnián mǎi le yìxiē xīn jiādiàn — We bought some new household appliances last year.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 家电 (jiādiàn) is built from 家 'home' and 电 'electricity', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kae and denH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary explains the second as the flash when yin and yang clash, lightning; the sense 'electricity' is modern.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jiādiàn
- Say it: jiādiàn, once more
- Say it: wǒmen qùnián mǎi le yìxiē xīn jiādiàn — We bought some new household appliances last year.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a snowy landscape, then the Mandarin for to sit in the cool, then say jiādiàn again

Before you move on

What does 家电 mean? ("Household appliance".) Say it once more.

520.2 开关 (kāiguān) — a light switch; a switch on a machine

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to sit in the cool, then the Mandarin for a household appliance.

You'll want to know: 开关

开关 — kāiguān — "a light switch; a switch on a machine".

wǒ zhǎo bu dào dēng de kāiguān — I can't find the light switch.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 开关 (kāiguān) is built from 开 'to open' and 关 'to close', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khoj and kwaen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second, after an older dictionary, as the bar laid across a door to hold it shut: the thing that opens and closes.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: kāiguān
- Say it: kāiguān, once more
- Say it: wǒ zhǎo bu dào dēng de kāiguān — I can't find the light switch.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to sit in the cool, then the Mandarin for a household appliance, then say kāiguān again

Before you move on

What does 开关 mean? ("A light switch; a switch on a machine".) Say it once more.

520.3 rèshuǐqì — water heater

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a household appliance, then the Mandarin for a light switch.

You'll want to know: rèshuǐqì

rèshuǐqì — "water heater".

wǒmen de rèshuǐqì yòng le shí nián le — Our water heater has been going for ten years.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of rèshuǐqì is built from 热 'hot', 水 'water' and qì 'a vessel', all inherited from Middle Chinese, nyet, sywijX and khijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the last 'vessels and dishes'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: rèshuǐqì
- Say it: rèshuǐqì, once more
- Say it: wǒmen de rèshuǐqì yòng le shí nián le — Our water heater has been going for ten years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a household appliance, then the Mandarin for a light switch, then say rèshuǐqì again

Before you move on

What does rèshuǐqì mean? ("Water heater".) Say it once more.

520.4 nuǎnqì — central heating

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a light switch, then the Mandarin for a water heater.

You'll want to know: nuǎnqì

nuǎnqì — "central heating".

yǒu nuǎnqì de fángjiān bǐ wàibian nuǎnhuo — A room with heating is warmer than outside.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of nuǎnqì is built from nuǎn 'warm' and 气 'air', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nwanX and khj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary gives the first as the same word as another spelling glossed 'the warmth of a fire', and the second 'breath'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: nuǎnqì
- Say it: nuǎnqì, once more
- Say it: yǒu nuǎnqì de fángjiān bǐ wàibian nuǎnhuo — A room with heating is warmer than outside.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a light switch, then the Mandarin for a water heater, then say nuǎnqì again

Before you move on

What does nuǎnqì mean? ("Central heating".) Say it once more.

520.5 shěngdiàn — to use little electricity; to save electricity

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a water heater, then the Mandarin for central heating.

You'll want to know: shěngdiàn

shěngdiàn — "to use little electricity; to save electricity".

xīn jiādiàn bǐ jiù de shěngdiàn — New appliances use less electricity than old ones.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shěngdiàn is built from shěng 'to spare' and 电 'electricity', both inherited from Middle Chinese, srjaengX and denH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first as a government office and, under another reading, 'to examine'; the sense 'to spare, to save' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shěngdiàn
- Say it: shěngdiàn, once more
- Say it: xīn jiādiàn bǐ jiù de shěngdiàn — New appliances use less electricity than old ones.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a water heater, then the Mandarin for central heating, then say shěngdiàn again

Before you move on

What does shěngdiàn mean? ("To use little electricity; to save electricity".) Say it once more.

Chapter 521

Keeping House

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about scrubbing, mending, arranging a room, keeping it tidy and keeping a kitchen clean.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 521: I can talk about scrubbing, mending, arranging a room, keeping it tidy and keeping a kitchen clean.

521.1 shuā — to scrub; to brush clean

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for central heating, then the Mandarin for to use little electricity.

You'll want to know: shuā shuā — "to scrub; to brush clean".

> wǒ shuā le yí ge xiǎoshí de guō — I spent an hour scrubbing the pot.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shuā is inherited from Middle Chinese srwaet (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to wipe clean'; the dictionary also lists srjwet, glossed 'to sweep'. The level tone of shuā cannot be read off srwaet: words that once ended in t, as this one did, are spread over all four Mandarin tones.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shuā
- Say it: shuā, once more
- Say it: wǒ shuā le yí ge xiǎoshí de guō — I spent an hour scrubbing the pot.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for central heating, then the Mandarin for to use little electricity, then say shuā again

Before you move on

What does shuā mean? ("To scrub; to brush clean".) Say it once more.

521.2 féng — to sew; to stitch

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to use little electricity, then the Mandarin for to scrub clean.

You'll want to know: féng

féng — "to sew; to stitch".

māma bāng wǒ féng kùzi féng le bàntiān — Mum sewed up my trousers for me, and it took her ages.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of féng is inherited from Middle Chinese bjowng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to stitch'; its departing-tone reading, bjowngH, is glossed 'a seam'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: féng
- Say it: féng, once more
- Say it: māma bāng wǒ féng kùzi féng le bàntiān — Mum sewed up my trousers for me, and it took her ages.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to use little electricity, then the Mandarin for to scrub clean, then say féng again

Before you move on

What does féng mean? ("To sew; to stitch".) Say it once more.

521.3 bùzhì — to lay out a room; to decorate a room

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to scrub clean, then the Mandarin for to sew by hand.

You'll want to know: bùzhì

bùzhì — "to lay out a room; to decorate a room".

xīn fángzi wǒmen bùzhì le liǎng tiān — We spent two days arranging the new flat.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bùzhì is built from bù 'to spread' and zhì 'to place', both inherited from Middle Chinese, puH and triH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to spread everywhere' and the second 'to set in place'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: bùzhì
- Say it: bùzhì, once more
- Say it: xīn fángzi wǒmen bùzhì le liǎng tiān — We spent two days arranging the new flat.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to scrub clean, then the Mandarin for to sew by hand, then say bùzhì again

Before you move on

What does bùzhì mean? ("To lay out a room; to decorate a room".) Say it once more.

521.4 zhěngqí — neat; orderly

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to sew by hand, then the Mandarin for to lay out a room.

You'll want to know: zhěngqí

zhěngqí — "neat; orderly".

tā de fángjiān bǐ wǒ de zhěngqí — His room is tidier than mine.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhěngqí is built from zhěng and qí, both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyengX and dzej (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses each with the other: 'upright, even'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhěngqí
- Say it: zhěngqí, once more
- Say it: tā de fángjiān bǐ wǒ de zhěngqí — His room is tidier than mine.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to sew by hand, then the Mandarin for to lay out a room, then say zhěngqí again

Before you move on

What does zhěngqí mean? ("Neat; orderly".) Say it once more.

521.5 wèishēng — hygiene; cleanliness

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to lay out a room, then the Mandarin for neat and orderly.

You'll want to know: wèishēng

wèishēng — "hygiene; cleanliness".

chúfáng yídìng yào zhùyì wèishēng — A kitchen has to be kept really clean.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of wèishēng is built from wèi 'to guard' and 生 'life', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hjwejH and srjaeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to protect' and the second 'to grow'. Guarding life as a word for hygiene is modern, and its path is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: wèishēng
- Say it: wèishēng, once more
- Say it: chúfáng yídìng yào zhùyì wèishēng — A kitchen has to be kept really clean.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to lay out a room, then the Mandarin for neat and orderly, then say wèishēng again

Before you move on

What does wèishēng mean? ("Hygiene; cleanliness".) Say it once more.

Chapter 522

Something Needs Fixing

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about a leak, a repairman who comes to the house, the water bill, locks and the floor.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 522: I can talk about a leak, a repairman who comes to the house, the water bill, locks and the floor.

522.1 lòushuǐ — to leak water

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for neat and orderly, then the Mandarin for hygiene.

You'll want to know: lòushuǐ

lòushuǐ — "to leak water".

> chúfáng lòushuǐ yǐjīng sān tiān le — The kitchen has been leaking for three days.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of lòushuǐ is built from lòu and 水 'water', both inherited from Middle Chinese, luwH and sywijX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first as the water clock, a vessel that lets water drip away in marked steps; the sense 'to leak' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: lòushuǐ
- Say it: lòushuǐ, once more
- Say it: chúfáng lòushuǐ yǐjīng sān tiān le — The kitchen has been leaking for three days.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for neat and orderly, then the Mandarin for hygiene, then say lòushuǐ again

Before you move on

What does lòushuǐ mean? ("To leak water".) Say it once more.

522.2 上门 (shàngmén) — to call at the house (to do a job)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for hygiene, then the Mandarin for to leak water.

You'll want to know: 上门

上门 — shàngmén — "to call at the house (to do a job)".

xiū kōngtiáo de shīfu míngtiān shàngmén — The man who fixes air conditioners is coming round tomorrow.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 上门 (shàngmén) is built from 上 'to go up' and 门 'a door', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyangX and mwon (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to climb, to rise': to come up to someone's door.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shàngmén
- Say it: shàngmén, once more
- Say it: xiū kōngtiáo de shīfu míngtiān shàngmén — The man who fixes air conditioners is coming round tomorrow.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for hygiene, then the Mandarin for to leak water, then say shàngmén again

Before you move on

What does 上门 mean? ("To call at the house (to do a job)".) Say it once more.

522.3 shuǐfèi — water bill

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to leak water, then the Mandarin for to call at the house.

You'll want to know: shuǐfèi

shuǐfèi — "water bill".

zhège yuè de shuǐfèi bǐ shàng ge yuè guì — This month's water bill is higher than last month's.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shuǐfèi is built from 水 'water' and fèi 'a cost', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sywijX and phj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to use up, to spend'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shuǐfèi
- Say it: shuǐfèi, once more
- Say it: zhège yuè de shuǐfèi bǐ shàng ge yuè guì — This month's water bill is higher than last month's.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to leak water, then the Mandarin for to call at the house, then say shuǐfèi again

Before you move on

What does shuǐfèi mean? ("Water bill".) Say it once more.

522.4 ménlíng — doorbell

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to call at the house, then the Mandarin for the water bill.

You'll want to know: ménlíng

ménlíng — "doorbell".

wǒmen jiā de ménlíng huài le sān tiān le — Our doorbell has been broken for three days.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of ménlíng is built from 门 'a door' and líng 'a bell', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mwon and leng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as like a bell, but smaller.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: ménlíng
- Say it: ménlíng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen jiā de ménlíng huài le sān tiān le — Our doorbell has been broken for three days.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to call at the house, then the Mandarin for the water bill, then say ménlíng again

Before you move on

What does ménlíng mean? ("Doorbell".) Say it once more.

522.5 dìbǎn — the floor of a room; floorboards

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the water bill, then the Mandarin for a doorbell.

You'll want to know: dìbǎn

dìbǎn — "the floor of a room; floorboards".

wǒ shuā le bàntiān dìbǎn — I spent ages scrubbing the floor.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

dìbǎn is built from 地 'the ground' and bǎn 'a board', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dijH and paenX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which gives the second as the same word as another spelling glossed, after an older dictionary, 'split wood'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: dìbǎn
- Say it: dìbǎn, once more
- Say it: wǒ shuā le bàntiān dìbǎn — I spent ages scrubbing the floor.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the water bill, then the Mandarin for a doorbell, then say dìbǎn again

Before you move on

What does dìbǎn mean? ("The floor of a room; floorboards".) Say it once more.

Chapter 523

Buying and Selling

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about running a business, sellers and buyers, and selling wholesale or retail.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 523: I can talk about running a business, sellers and buyers, and selling wholesale or retail.

523.1 pīfā — to sell wholesale

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a doorbell, then the Mandarin for the floor of a room.

You'll want to know: pīfā

pīfā — "to sell wholesale".

> zhè jiā shāngdiàn pīfā shuǐguǒ — This shop sells fruit wholesale.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of pīfā is built from pī and 发 'to send out', both inherited from Middle Chinese, phej and pjot (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'to strike', 'to push' and 'to pass on'; how the pair came to mean selling in bulk is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: pīfā
- Say it: pīfā, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā shāngdiàn pīfā shuǐguǒ — This shop sells fruit wholesale.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a doorbell, then the Mandarin for the floor of a room, then say pīfā again

Before you move on

What does pīfā mean? ("To sell wholesale".) Say it once more.

523.2 买卖 (mǎimai) — buying and selling for a living; a business deal

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the floor of a room, then the Mandarin for to sell wholesale.

You'll want to know: 买卖

买卖 — mǎimai — "buying and selling for a living; a business deal".

他做了二十年买卖 tā zuò le èrshí nián mǎimai — He has made his living buying and selling for twenty years.

The new character, in pieces: 卖 — eight strokes in two pieces: 十 on top, two strokes; and 买 under it, six strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 买卖 (mǎimai) is built from 买 'to buy' and 卖 'to sell', both inherited from Middle Chinese, meaX and meaH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first, after an older dictionary, 'to trade' and the second 'to put goods out'. The two differ only in their tones, and in the word the second is said light.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: mǎimai
- Say it: mǎimai, once more
- Say it: tā zuò le èrshí nián mǎimai — He has made his living buying and selling for twenty years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the floor of a room, then the Mandarin for to sell wholesale, then say mǎimai again

Before you move on

What does 买卖 mean? ("Buying and selling for a living; a business deal".) Say it once more.

523.3 卖 — 十 on top, then 买 under it

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say mǎimai — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

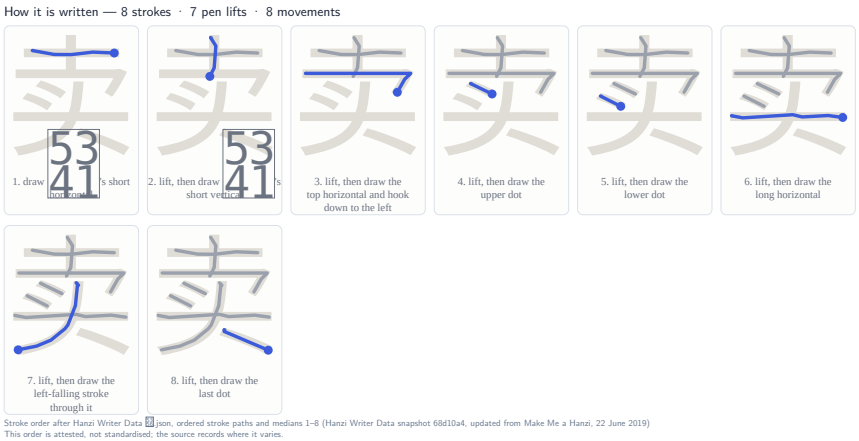
  买 十

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — mǎi, shí

Script — 十 on top, then 买 under it



How 卖 is written, stroke by stroke

卖

Two pieces, top to bottom. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The top piece, 十, two strokes: a short bar, then a short vertical down through it.

The bottom piece, 买, six strokes, as you wrote it: a bar that hooks down at its right end, two short strokes falling to the right under it, a long bar, a long stroke falling to the left and a long stroke falling to the right.

2 + 6 = eight: to sell is to buy with 十 on top.

Your turn

- Write it: 卖, all eight, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 卖 have? (Two: 十 and 买.) How does 卖 differ from 买? (It has 十 on top.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 卖, pinned stroke paths and medians.

523.4 卖家 (màijiā) — seller

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to sell wholesale, then the Mandarin for buying and selling for a living.

You'll want to know: 卖家

卖家 — màijiā — "seller".

我觉得这个卖家最好 wǒ juéde zhège màijiā zuì hǎo — I think this seller is the best.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 卖家 (màijiā) is built from 卖 'to sell' and 家, both inherited from Middle Chinese, meaH and kae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the second 'a dwelling'; its use for the one who does a trade is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: màijiā
- Say it: màijiā, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhège màijiā zuì hǎo — I think this seller is the best.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to sell wholesale, then the Mandarin for buying and selling for a living, then say màijiā again

Before you move on

What does 卖家 mean? ("Seller".) Say it once more.

523.5 买家 (mǎijiā) — buyer

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for buying and selling for a living, then the Mandarin for the seller (in a sale).

You'll want to know: 买家

买家 — mǎijiā — "buyer".

> 买家都觉得这个卖家很好 mǎijiā dōu juéde zhège màijiā hěn hǎo — The buyers all think this seller is very good.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 买家 (mǎijiā) is built from 买 'to buy' and 家, both inherited from Middle Chinese, meaX and kae (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'a dwelling'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: mǎijiā
- Say it: mǎijiā, once more
- Say it: mǎijiā dōu juéde zhège màijiā hěn hǎo — The buyers all think this seller is very good.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for buying and selling for a living, then the Mandarin for the seller (in a sale), then say mǎijiā again

Before you move on

What does 买家 mean? ("Buyer".) Say it once more.

523.6 língshòu — to sell retail

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the seller (in a sale), then the Mandarin for the buyer (in a sale).

You'll want to know: língshòu

língshòu — "to sell retail".

zhè jiā shāngdiàn zhǐ língshòu bù pīfā — This shop sells only retail, not wholesale.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of língshòu is built from líng and shòu 'to sell', both inherited from Middle Chinese, leng and dzyuwH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'to fall' and, after an older dictionary, as a slow rain; the sense 'in small bits' is not given there. It glosses the second 'to sell goods'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: língshòu
- Say it: língshòu, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā shāngdiàn zhǐ língshòu bù pīfā — This shop sells only retail, not wholesale.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the seller (in a sale), then the Mandarin for the buyer (in a sale), then say língshòu again

Before you move on

What does língshòu mean? ("To sell retail".) Say it once more.

Chapter 524

Half Price

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about paying the bill, half price, the asking price, offering less and the cost of living.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 524: I can talk about paying the bill, half price, the asking price, offering less and the cost of living.

524.1 jiézhàng — to settle the bill

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the buyer (in a sale), then the Mandarin for to sell retail.

You'll want to know: jiézhàng

jiézhàng — "to settle the bill".

> wǒmen děng le èrshí fēnzhōng cái jiézhàng — We waited twenty minutes before we could settle the bill.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiézhàng is built from jié 'to tie' and zhàng 'an account'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese ket (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to tie'; no dictionary we use records an older form of the second, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: jiézhàng
- Say it: jiézhàng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen děng le èrshí fēnzhōng cái jiézhàng — We waited twenty minutes before we could settle the bill.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the buyer (in a sale), then the Mandarin for to sell retail, then say jiézhàng again

Before you move on

What does jiézhàng mean? ("To settle the bill".) Say it once more.

524.2 半价 (bànjià) — half price

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to sell retail, then the Mandarin for to settle the bill.

You'll want to know: 半价

半价 — bànjià — "half price".

今天这儿的东西都半价 jīntiān zhèr de dōngxi dōu bànjià — Everything here is half price today.

The new character, in pieces: 价 — six strokes in three pieces: the person piece on the left, two strokes, as in 你; 人 on the right, two strokes; and under 人 a short stroke falling to the left and a vertical. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 半价 (bànjià) is built from 半 'half' and 价 'a price', the jià of the word for price, both inherited from Middle Chinese, panH and kaeH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as a thing split in the middle and the second as the count of a price.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: bànjià
- Say it: bànjià, once more
- Say it: jīntiān zhèr de dōngxi dōu bànjià — Everything here is half price today.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to sell retail, then the Mandarin for to settle the bill, then say bànjià again

Before you move on

What does 半价 mean? ("Half price".) Say it once more.

524.3 价 — the person piece, then 人 with two legs under it

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say bànjià — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

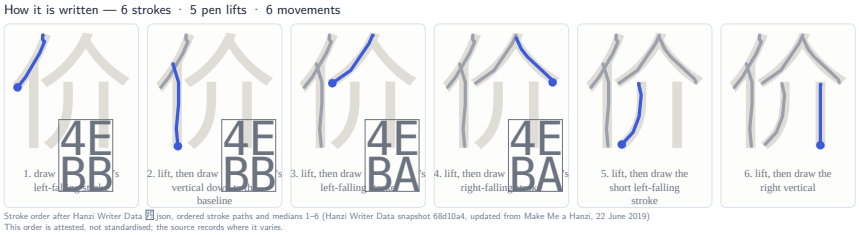
  你 人

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — nǐ, rén

Script — the person piece, then 人 with two legs under it



How 价 is written, stroke by stroke

价

Three pieces: the person piece, then 人, then what stands under it. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the person piece, two strokes, as in 你: a stroke falling to the left, then a vertical down to the foot.

The top right piece, 人, two strokes, as you wrote it, spread wide like a roof: a long stroke falling to the left, then a long stroke falling to the right.

Under it, two strokes: a short stroke that drops and falls to the left, then a vertical on the right.

2 + 2 + 2 = six.

Your turn

- Write it: 价, all six, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes does 价 have? (Six.) What is the first piece? (The person piece, on the left.) Source: Hanzi Writer Data 价, pinned stroke paths and medians.

524.4 要价 (yàojià) — to name one's price; to ask a price

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to settle the bill, then the Mandarin for at half price.

You'll want to know: 要价

要价 — yàojià — "to name one's price; to ask a price".

tā yàojià bǐ nà jiā shāngdiàn gāo — He's asking more than that shop.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 要价 (yàojià) is built from 要 'to want' and 价 'a price', both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jiewH and kaeH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to bind by agreement' and the second as the count of a price.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yàojià
- Say it: yàojià, once more
- Say it: tā yàojià bǐ nà jiā shāngdiàn gāo — He's asking more than that shop.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to settle the bill, then the Mandarin for at half price, then say yàojià again

Before you move on

What does 要价 mean? ("To name one's price; to ask a price".) Say it once more.

524.5 还价 (huánjià) — to offer a lower price back; to make a counter-offer

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for at half price, then the Mandarin for to name one's price.

You'll want to know: 还价

还价 — huánjià — "to offer a lower price back; to make a counter-offer".

在这儿买东西最好还价 zài zhèr mǎi dōngxi zuìhǎo huánjià — When you buy things here, it's best to offer less.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 还价 (huánjià) is built from 还 huán 'to give back' and 价 'a price', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hwaen and kaeH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to return': a price handed back.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: huánjià
- Say it: huánjià, once more
- Say it: zài zhèr mǎi dōngxi zuìhǎo huánjià — When you buy things here, it's best to offer less.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for at half price, then the Mandarin for to name one's price, then say huánjià again

Before you move on

What does 还价 mean? ("To offer a lower price back; to make a counter-offer".) Say it once more.

524.6 wùjià — prices; the cost of living

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to name one's price, then the Mandarin for to offer a lower price back.

You'll want to know: wùjià

wùjià — "prices; the cost of living".

> zhèr de wùjià bǐ Běijīng gāo — The cost of living here is higher than in Beijing.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

wùjià is built from wù 'a thing' and 价 'a price', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjut and kaeH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'all things': the price of things.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: wùjià
- Say it: wùjià, once more
- Say it: zhèr de wùjià bǐ Běijīng gāo — The cost of living here is higher than in Beijing.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to name one's price, then the Mandarin for to offer a lower price back, then say wùjià again

Before you move on

What does wùjià mean? ("Prices; the cost of living".) Say it once more.

Chapter 525

At Your Service

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) ✓ pen (1) 🚗 Hands-free start: the first 2 of 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about attentive service and shop assistants, complain and get a refund, and say something is especially good.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 525: I can talk about attentive service and shop assistants, complain and get a refund, and say something is especially good.

525.1 zhōudào — attentive and thorough (of service)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to offer a lower price back, then the Mandarin for the cost of living.

You'll want to know: zhōudào

zhōudào — "attentive and thorough (of service)".

> zhè jiā fàndiàn de fúwùyuán bǐ nà jiā zhōudào — The waiters in this restaurant are more attentive than in that one.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhōudào is built from zhōu and 到 'to reach', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyuw and tawH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'all round', 'complete' and 'close' and the second 'to arrive': reaching all round.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhōudào
- Say it: zhōudào, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā fàndiàn de fúwùyuán bǐ nà jiā zhōudào — The waiters in this restaurant are more attentive than in that one.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to offer a lower price back, then the Mandarin for the cost of living, then say zhōudào again

Before you move on

What does zhōudào mean? ("Attentive and thorough (of service)".) Say it once more.

525.2 格外 (géwài) — more than usual; unusually

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the cost of living, then the Mandarin for attentive and thorough.

You'll want to know: 格外

格外 — géwài — "more than usual; unusually".

今天的菜格外好吃 jīntiān de cài géwài hǎochī — The food is especially good today.

The new character, in pieces: 格 — ten strokes in three pieces: on the left the tree piece, four strokes, as in 机; on the right the walking foot, three strokes, as in the middle of 客; and 口 under it, three strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 格外 (géwài) is built from 格 and 外 'outside', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaek and ngwajH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'a pattern' and 'a measure', and lists another reading, kak, for a branch; outside the measure is beyond the usual, though how the pair came to mean 'especially' is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: géwài
- Say it: géwài, once more
- Say it: jīntiān de cài géwài hǎochī — The food is especially good today.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the cost of living, then the Mandarin for attentive and thorough, then say géwài again

Before you move on

What does 格外 mean? ("More than usual; unusually".) Say it once more.

525.3 格 — the tree piece, then the walking foot over 口

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say géwài — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

客 机

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — kè, jī

Script — the tree piece, then the walking foot over 口

How 格 is written, stroke by stroke

格

Three pieces: the tree piece on the left, then the walking foot, then 口 under it. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The left piece, the tree piece, four strokes, narrow, as in 机: a short bar, a vertical down through it, a stroke falling to the left, then a short dot to the right.

The walking foot, three strokes, as in 客: a short stroke falling to the left, a bar that turns into a long stroke falling to the left, then a long stroke falling to the right.

口, three strokes, at the foot: a vertical, a bar that turns down, and a bar closing it.

4 + 3 + 3 = ten.

Your turn

- Write it: 格, all ten, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 格 have? (Three: the tree piece, the walking foot and 口.) Which character has the same right side at its foot? (客.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 格, pinned stroke paths and medians.

525.4 shòuhuòyuán — shop assistant

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for attentive and thorough, then the Mandarin for more than usual.

You'll want to know: shòuhuòyuán shòuhuòyuán — "shop assistant".

wǒ juéde zhèr de shòuhuòyuán zuì rèqíng — I think the shop assistants here are the friendliest.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shòuhuòyuán is built from shòu 'to sell', huò 'goods' and yuán 'a member of staff', all inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyuwH, xwaH and hjwen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'to sell goods', the second 'wealth' and the third as the number of things; the sense 'staff' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shòuhuòyuán
- Say it: shòuhuòyuán, once more
- Say it: wǒ juéde zhèr de shòuhuòyuán zuì rèqíng — I think the shop assistants here are the friendliest.

- Recall: say the Mandarin for attentive and thorough, then the Mandarin for more than usual, then say shòuhuòyuán again

Before you move on

What does shòuhuòyuán mean? ("Shop assistant".) Say it once more.

525.5 tóusù — to make a formal complaint

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for more than usual, then the Mandarin for a shop assistant.

You'll want to know: tóusù

tóusù — "to make a formal complaint".

wǒ tóusù guo zhè jiā shāngdiàn — I've complained about this shop before.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tóusù is built from tóu 'to throw, to hand in' and sù 'to accuse', both inherited from Middle Chinese, duw and suH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to entrust' and 'to throw' and the second 'to bring a case' and 'to tell'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: tóusù
- Say it: tóusù, once more
- Say it: wǒ tóusù guo zhè jiā shāngdiàn — I've complained about this shop before.

- Recall: say the Mandarin for more than usual, then the Mandarin for a shop assistant, then say tóusù again

Before you move on

What does tóusù mean? ("To make a formal complaint".) Say it once more.

525.6 tuìkuǎn — to give the money back; to refund

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a shop assistant, then the Mandarin for to make a formal complaint.

You'll want to know: tuìkuǎn

tuìkuǎn — "to give the money back; to refund".

wǒ děng le yí ge xīngqī tāmen cái tuìkuǎn — I waited a week before they gave me my money back.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tuìkuǎn is built from tuì 'to go back' and kuǎn, both inherited from Middle Chinese, thwojH and khwanX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'to retreat' and the second 'sincere' and 'to knock'; the sense 'a sum of money' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: tuìkuǎn
- Say it: tuìkuǎn, once more

- Say it: wǒ děng le yí ge xīngqī tāmen cái tuìkuǎn — I waited a week before they gave me my money back.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a shop assistant, then the Mandarin for to make a formal complaint, then say tuìkuǎn again

Before you move on

What does tuìkuǎn mean? ("To give the money back; to refund".) Say it once more.

525.7 Looking back: from Around the House to At Your Service

Say the Mandarin for a household appliance and a light switch.

Your turn

- Say it: a household appliance, a light switch, a water heater, central heating, to use little electricity
- Say it: to scrub clean, to sew by hand, to lay out a room, neat and orderly, hygiene
- Say it: to leak water, to call at the house, the water bill, a doorbell, the floor of a room
- Say it: to sell wholesale, buying and selling for a living, the seller (in a sale), the buyer (in a sale), to sell retail
- Say it: to settle the bill, at half price, to name one's price, to offer a lower price back, the cost of living
- Say it: attentive and thorough, more than usual, a shop assistant, to make a formal complaint, to give the money back
- Read it: 卖 价 格 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

A household appliance? (家电, jiādiàn.) A light switch? (开关, kāiguān.) A water heater? (rèshuǐqì.) Central heating? (nuǎnqì.) To use little electricity? (shěngdiàn.) To scrub clean? (shuā.) To sew by hand? (féng.) To lay out a room? (bùzhì.) Neat and orderly? (zhěngqí.) Hygiene? (wèishēng.) To leak water? (lòushuǐ.) To call at the house? (上门, shàngmén.) The water bill? (shuǐfèi.) A doorbell? (ménlíng.) The floor of a room? (dìbǎn.) To sell wholesale? (pīfā.) Buying and selling for a living? (买卖, mǎimai.) The seller (in a sale)? (卖家, màijiā.) The buyer (in a sale)? (买家, mǎijiā.) To sell retail? (língshòu.) To settle the bill? (jiézhàng.) At half price? (半价, bànjià.) To name one's price? (要价, yàojià.) To offer a lower price back? (还价, huánjià.) The cost of living? (wùjià.) Attentive and thorough? (zhōudào.) More than usual? (格外, géwài.) A shop assistant? (shòuhuòyuán.) To make a formal complaint? (tóusù.) To give the money back? (tuìkuǎn.)

Chapter 526

How Heavy?

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 3 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can weigh things, talk about kilograms and weight, and say I eat or drink a lot or a little.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 526: I can weigh things, talk about kilograms and weight, and say I eat or drink a lot or a little.

526.1 chēng — to weigh on a scale

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to make a formal complaint, then the Mandarin for to give the money back.

You'll want to know: chēng

chēng — "to weigh on a scale".

> qǐng nǐ bāng wǒ chēng zhèxiē píngguǒ — Could you weigh these apples for me?

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

chēng is inherited from Middle Chinese tsyhing (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to know light from heavy'; the dictionary also lists tsyhingH, glossed 'fitting' and, in a common spelling, the balance that weighs things.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: chēng
- Say it: chēng, once more
- Say it: qǐng nǐ bāng wǒ chēng zhèxiē píngguǒ — Could you weigh these apples for me?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to make a formal complaint, then the Mandarin for to give the money back, then say chēng again

Before you move on

What does chēng mean? ("To weigh on a scale".) Say it once more.

526.2 gōngjīn — kilogram

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to give the money back, then the Mandarin for to weigh on a scale.

You'll want to know: gōngjīn

gōngjīn — "kilogram".

wǒ bǐ qùnián zhòng le liǎng gōngjīn — I'm two kilos heavier than last year.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gōngjīn is built from 公 'public, standard' and jīn, a weight, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kuwng and kj+n (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as sixteen ounces. The standard weight of a kilogram is a modern use.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: gōngjīn
- Say it: gōngjīn, once more
- Say it: wǒ bǐ qùnián zhòng le liǎng gōngjīn — I'm two kilos heavier than last year.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to give the money back, then the Mandarin for to weigh on a scale, then say gōngjīn again

Before you move on

What does gōngjīn mean? ("Kilogram".) Say it once more.

526.3 重量 (zhòngliàng) — weight; how heavy something is

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to weigh on a scale, then the Mandarin for a kilogram.

You'll want to know: 重量

重量 — zhòngliàng — "weight; how heavy something is".

zhège xiāngzi de zhòngliàng shì èrshí gōngjīn — This suitcase weighs twenty kilos.

The new character, in pieces: 量 — twelve strokes in three pieces: 日 on top, four strokes; a long bar under it; and 里 at the foot, seven strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 重量 (zhòngliàng) is built from 重 'heavy' and liàng 'an amount', both inherited from Middle Chinese, drjowngX and ljangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'much, thick' and gives the second as units of dry measure. The dictionary lists the second again as ljang, 'to measure', the liáng of the word for talking things over.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: zhòngliàng
- Say it: zhòngliàng, once more
- Say it: zhège xiāngzi de zhòngliàng shì èrshí gōngjīn — This suitcase weighs twenty kilos.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to weigh on a scale, then the Mandarin for a kilogram, then say zhòngliàng again

Before you move on

What does 重量 mean? ("Weight; how heavy something is".) Say it once more.

526.4 量 — 日, a long bar, then 里

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say zhòngliàng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  里 日

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — lǐ, rì

Script — 日, a long bar, then 里

How 量 is written, stroke by stroke

量

Three pieces, top to bottom. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The top piece, 日, four strokes, small, as you wrote it: a vertical, a bar that turns down, a bar across the middle, a bar closing the foot.

One long bar across the middle, the widest stroke of the character.

The bottom piece, 里, seven strokes, as you wrote it: a vertical, a bar that turns down, a bar across the middle, a bar closing the box, a vertical down through the middle, a short bar, then the long bar at the foot.

4 + 1 + 7 = twelve.

Your turn

- Write it: 量, all twelve, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 量 have? (Three: 日, a long bar and 里.)
How many strokes? (Twelve.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 量, pinned stroke paths and medians.

526.5 大量 (dàliàng) — a large amount of; in large amounts

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a kilogram, then the Mandarin for how heavy something is.

You'll want to know: 大量

大量 — dàliàng — "a large amount of; in large amounts".

今天格外热最好大量喝水 jīntiān géwài rè zuìhǎo dàliàng hē shuǐ — It's especially hot today, so you'd better drink plenty of water.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 大量 (dàliàng) is built from 大 'big' and 量 'an amount', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dajH and ljangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which gives the second as units of dry measure.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: dàliàng
- Say it: dàliàng, once more
- Say it: jīntiān géwài rè zuìhǎo dàliàng hē shuǐ — It's especially hot today, so you'd better drink plenty of water.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a kilogram, then the Mandarin for how heavy something is, then say dàliàng again

Before you move on

What does 大量 mean? ("A large amount of; in large amounts".) Say it once more.

526.6 少量 (shǎoliàng) — a small amount of

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for how heavy something is, then the Mandarin for in large amounts.

You'll want to know: 少量

少量 — shǎoliàng — "a small amount of".

> 吃了少量的米饭以后我感觉很好 chī le shǎoliàng de mǐfàn yǐhòu wǒ gǎnjué hěn hǎo — After a little rice I felt fine.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 少量 (shǎoliàng) is built from 少 'few' and 量 'an amount', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syewX and ljangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'not many'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: shǎoliàng
- Say it: shǎoliàng, once more
- Say it: chī le shǎoliàng de mǐfàn yǐhòu wǒ gǎnjué hěn hǎo — After a little rice I felt fine.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for how heavy something is, then the Mandarin for in large amounts, then say shǎoliàng again

Before you move on

What does 少量 mean? ("A small amount of".) Say it once more.

Chapter 527

Ordering Online

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about placing an order, packaging, being a member, special deals and checked patterns.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 527: I can talk about placing an order, packaging, being a member, special deals and checked patterns.

527.1 xiàdān — to place an order

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for in large amounts, then the Mandarin for a small amount of.

You'll want to know: xiàdān

xiàdān — "to place an order".

> wǒ xiàdān yǐjīng sān tiān le dōngxi hái méi dào — I placed the order three days ago, and it still hasn't arrived.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiàdān is built from 下 'to put down' and dān 'a slip of paper', both inherited from Middle Chinese, haeX and tan (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to go down' and the second 'single'; the sense 'an order slip' is modern.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: xiàdān
- Say it: xiàdān, once more
- Say it: wǒ xiàdān yǐjīng sān tiān le dōngxi hái méi dào — I placed the order three days ago, and it still hasn't arrived.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for in large amounts, then the Mandarin for a small amount of, then say xiàdān again

Before you move on

What does xiàdān mean? ("To place an order".) Say it once more.

527.2 bāozhuāng — to wrap goods for sale

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a small amount of, then the Mandarin for to place an order.

You'll want to know: bāozhuāng

bāozhuāng — "to wrap goods for sale".

zhè jiā shāngdiàn de dōngxi bāozhuāng de zuì hǎokàn — This shop packages its things the most beautifully.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bāozhuāng is built from 包 'to wrap' and zhuāng 'to pack', both inherited from Middle Chinese, paew and tsrjang (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to wrap up' and the second 'to bind up, to dress'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: bāozhuāng
- Say it: bāozhuāng, once more
- Say it: zhè jiā shāngdiàn de dōngxi bāozhuāng de zuì hǎokàn — This shop packages its things the most beautifully.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a small amount of, then the Mandarin for to place an order, then say bāozhuāng again

Before you move on

What does bāozhuāng mean? ("To wrap goods for sale".) Say it once more.

527.3 huìyuán — a member of a club or a shop's scheme

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to place an order, then the Mandarin for to wrap goods for sale.

You'll want to know: huìyuán

huìyuán — "a member of a club or a shop's scheme".

wǒ dāng le sān nián huìyuán — I've been a member for three years.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of huìyuán is built from 会 'to meet' and yuán, both inherited from Middle Chinese, hwajH and hjwen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to come together' and the second as the number of things; the sense 'a member' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: huìyuán
- Say it: huìyuán, once more
- Say it: wǒ dāng le sān nián huìyuán — I've been a member for three years.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to place an order, then the Mandarin for to wrap goods for sale, then say huìyuán again

Before you move on

What does huìyuán mean? ("A member of a club or a shop's scheme".) Say it once more.

527.4 yōuhuì — a favourable deal (for customers)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to wrap goods for sale, then the Mandarin for a member of a club.

You'll want to know: yōuhuì

yōuhuì — "a favourable deal (for customers)".

huìyuán yǒu yōuhuì — Members get a special deal.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yōuhuì is built from yōu and huì, both inherited from Middle Chinese, 'juw and hwejH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'plentiful' and the second 'kindness'.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: yōuhuì
- Say it: yōuhuì, once more
- Say it: huìyuán yǒu yōuhuì — Members get a special deal.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to wrap goods for sale, then the Mandarin for a member of a club, then say yōuhuì again

Before you move on

What does yōuhuì mean? ("A favourable deal (for customers)".) Say it once more.

527.5 格子 (gézi) — a checked pattern; squares

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a member of a club, then the Mandarin for a favourable deal.

You'll want to know: 格子

格子 — gézi — "a checked pattern; squares".

wǒ zuì xǐhuan zhè tiáo gézi qúnzi — This checked skirt is my favourite.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 格子 (gézi) is built from 格 'a pattern' and 子, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaek and tsiX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the second is said light, as at the end of many names of things.

What you've built

One more word for saying how it was.

Your turn

- Say it: gézi
- Say it: gézi, once more

- Say it: wǒ zuì xǐhuan zhè tiáo gézi qúnzi — This checked skirt is my favourite.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a member of a club, then the Mandarin for a favourable deal, then say gézi again

Before you move on

What does 格子 mean? ("A checked pattern; squares".) Say it once more.

Chapter 528

By Chance

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say something happens by chance, that I have no choice, and talk about drawing lots and making bets.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 528: I can say something happens by chance, that I have no choice, and talk about drawing lots and making bets.

528.1 pèngqiǎo — as luck would have it; coincidentally

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a favourable deal, then the Mandarin for a checked pattern.

You'll want to know: pèngqiǎo

pèngqiǎo — "as luck would have it; coincidentally".

> yàoshi pèngqiǎo lùguò jiù lái wǒ jiā zuòzuò — If you happen to be passing, come round to my place.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of pèngqiǎo is built from pèng 'to bump into' and qiǎo. No dictionary we use records an older form of the first, so its history is not settled. The second is inherited from Middle Chinese khaewX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'fine' and 'skilful'; the sense 'by coincidence' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: pèngqiǎo
- Say it: pèngqiǎo, once more
- Say it: yàoshi pèngqiǎo lùguò jiù lái wǒ jiā zuòzuò — If you happen to be passing, come round to my place.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a favourable deal, then the Mandarin for a checked pattern, then say pèngqiǎo again

Before you move on

What does pèngqiǎo mean? ("As luck would have it; coincidentally".) Say it once more.

528.2 不得不 (bùdébù) — to be obliged to; cannot help but

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a checked pattern, then the Mandarin for as luck would have it.

You'll want to know: 不得不

不得不 — bùdébù — "to be obliged to; cannot help but".

如果明天下雨我们就不得不改期 rúguǒ míngtiān xiàyǔ wǒmen jiù bùdébù gǎiqī — If it rains tomorrow, we'll have to change the date.

Tone: the first 不 keeps its falling tone before dé; the second is said bú before a falling tone (bùdébú qù) and bù before the others.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 不得不 (bùdébù) is built from 不 'not', 得 'to get' and 不 again, all inherited from Middle Chinese, pjut, tok and pjut (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription): may not not do it.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: bùdébù
- Say it: bùdébù, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ míngtiān xiàyǔ wǒmen jiù bùdébù gǎiqī — If it rains tomorrow, we'll have to change the date.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a checked pattern, then the Mandarin for as luck would have it, then say bùdébù again

Before you move on

What does 不得不 mean? ("To be obliged to; cannot help but".) Say it once more.

528.3 chōuqiān — to draw lots

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for as luck would have it, then the Mandarin for to be obliged to.

You'll want to know: chōuqiān

chōuqiān — "to draw lots".

yàoshi dàjiā dōu xiǎng qù wǒmen jiù chōuqiān — If everyone wants to go, let's draw lots.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chōuqiān is built from chōu 'to pull out' and qiān, both inherited from Middle Chinese, trhjuw and tshjem (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to draw out' and the second, after an older dictionary, 'a test' and 'pointed'; the slip that is drawn is not named there.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: chōuqiān
- Say it: chōuqiān, once more
- Say it: yàoshi dàjiā dōu xiǎng qù wǒmen jiù chōuqiān — If everyone wants to go, let's draw lots.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for as luck would have it, then the Mandarin for to be obliged to, then say chōuqiān again

Before you move on

What does chōuqiān mean? ("To draw lots".) Say it once more.

528.4 dǎdǔ — to make a bet

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be obliged to, then the Mandarin for to draw lots.

You'll want to know: dǎdǔ

dǎdǔ — "to make a bet".

wǒ gēn nǐ dǎdǔ tā míngtiān bú huì lái — I bet you he won't come tomorrow.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: dǎ is said with a rising tone before dǔ, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dǎdǔ is built from 打 and dǔ 'to gamble', both inherited from Middle Chinese, taengX and tuX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to strike' and the second as gambling for play. The vowel of dǎ is not the regular outcome of taengX.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: dǎdǔ
- Say it: dǎdǔ, once more
- Say it: wǒ gēn nǐ dǎdǔ tā míngtiān bú huì lái — I bet you he won't come tomorrow.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be obliged to, then the Mandarin for to draw lots, then say dǎdǔ again

Before you move on

What does dǎdǔ mean? ("To make a bet".) Say it once more.

528.5 ǒurán — accidental; happening by chance

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to draw lots, then the Mandarin for to make a bet.

You'll want to know: ǒurán

ǒurán — "accidental; happening by chance".

rúguǒ zhǐ fāshēng yí cì kěnéng shì ǒurán — If it only happens once, it may be chance.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of ǒurán is built from ǒu and 然 'so', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nguwH and nyen (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses nguwH 'unexpected', and lists a rising-tone reading, nguwX, glossed 'a pair'; the rising tone of ǒu matches that other reading.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: ǒurán
- Say it: ǒurán, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ zhǐ fāshēng yí cì kěnéng shì ǒurán — If it only happens once, it may be chance.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to draw lots, then the Mandarin for to make a bet, then say ǒurán again

Before you move on

What does ǒurán mean? ("Accidental; happening by chance".) Say it once more.

Chapter 529

Good Luck, Bad Luck

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about luck, being lucky or unlucky, being in luck and fate.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 529: I can talk about luck, being lucky or unlucky, being in luck and fate.

529.1 dǎoméi — to be out of luck; to have bad luck

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to make a bet, then the Mandarin for happening by chance.

You'll want to know: dǎoméi

dǎoméi — "to be out of luck; to have bad luck".

> jīntiān zhēn dǎoméi wǒ de qiánbāo bú jiàn le — What bad luck today: my wallet's gone.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dǎoméi is built from dǎo 'to fall over' and méi 'mould'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese tawX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to fall flat'; no dictionary we use records an older form of the second, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: dǎoméi
- Say it: dǎoméi, once more
- Say it: jīntiān zhēn dǎoméi wǒ de qiánbāo bú jiàn le — What bad luck today: my wallet's gone.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to make a bet, then the Mandarin for happening by chance, then say dǎoméi again

Before you move on

What does dǎoméi mean? ("To be out of luck; to have bad luck".) Say it once more.

529.2 运气 (yùnqi) — a person's luck (good or bad)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for happening by chance, then the Mandarin for to be out of luck.

You'll want to know: 运气

运气 — yùnqi — "a person's luck (good or bad)".

> 运气好的话我们就能买到票 yùnqi hǎo dehuà wǒmen jiù néng mǎi dào piào — With luck, we'll be able to get tickets.

The new character, in pieces: 运 — seven strokes in two pieces: 云 first, four strokes; then the walking piece, three strokes, as in 这, along the left and the foot. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 运气 (yùnqi) is built from 运 and 气 'breath', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hjunH and khj+jH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'far', 'to move' and 'to carry'. The sense 'luck' is not given there; the second is said light.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: yùnqi
- Say it: yùnqi, once more
- Say it: yùnqi hǎo dehuà wǒmen jiù néng mǎi dào piào — With luck, we'll be able to get tickets.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for happening by chance, then the Mandarin for to be out of luck, then say yùnqi again

Before you move on

What does 运气 mean? ("A person's luck (good or bad)".) Say it once more.

529.3 运 — 云 first, then the walking piece

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say yùnqi — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

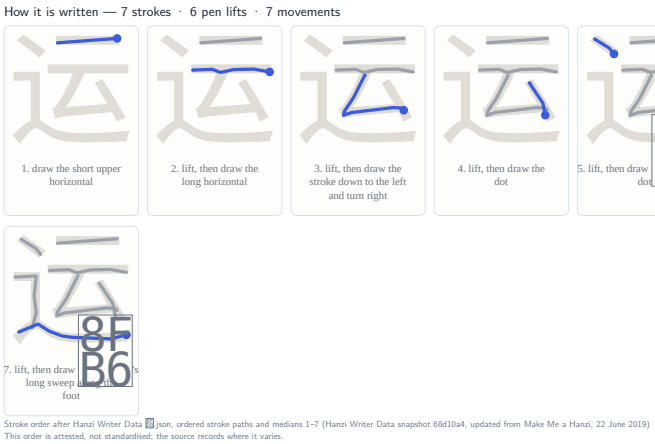
  云 这

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — yún, zhè

Script — 云 first, then the walking piece



How 运 is written, stroke by stroke

运

Two pieces, and the walking piece comes last, though it runs up the left and along the foot. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The inside piece, 云, four strokes, as you wrote it: a short bar, a longer bar, a stroke that falls to the left and turns right along the bottom, then a dot.

The walking piece, three strokes, as in 这: a dot, a stroke that zigzags down, then a long sweep along the foot to the right.

4 + 3 = seven.

Your turn

- Write it: 运, all seven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 运 have? (Two: 云 and the walking piece.) Which is written first? (云.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 运, pinned stroke paths and medians.

529.4 走运 (zǒuyùn) — to be in luck

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be out of luck, then the Mandarin for a person's luck.

You'll want to know: 走运

走运 — zǒuyùn — "to be in luck".

如果你走运就能找到好工作 rúguǒ nǐ zǒuyùn jiù néng zhǎo dào hǎo gōngzuò — If you're in luck, you'll find a good job.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 走运 (zǒuyùn) is built from 走 'to go' and 运 'luck', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsuwX and hjunH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to hurry'; the sense 'luck' of the second is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: zǒuyùn
- Say it: zǒuyùn, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ nǐ zǒuyùn jiù néng zhǎo dào hǎo gōngzuò — If you're in luck, you'll find a good job.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be out of luck, then the Mandarin for a person's luck, then say zǒuyùn again

Before you move on

What does 走运 mean? ("To be in luck".) Say it once more.

529.5 xìngyùn — lucky; fortunate

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a person's luck, then the Mandarin for to be in luck.

You'll want to know: xìngyùn

xìngyùn — "lucky; fortunate".

> wǒ hěn xìngyùn bùrán wǒ jiù chídào le — I was lucky, or I'd have been late.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xìngyùn is built from xìng and 运 'luck', both inherited from Middle Chinese, heangX and hjunH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first, after an older book, as having good fortune and escaping harm.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: xìngyùn
- Say it: xìngyùn, once more
- Say it: wǒ hěn xìngyùn bùrán wǒ jiù chídào le — I was lucky, or I'd have been late.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a person's luck, then the Mandarin for to be in luck, then say xìngyùn again

Before you move on

What does xìngyùn mean? ("Lucky; fortunate".) Say it once more.

529.6 mìngyùn — fate; destiny

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be in luck, then the Mandarin for fortunate.

You'll want to know: mìngyùn

mìngyùn — "fate; destiny".

> jíshǐ mìngyùn bù hǎo wǒmen yě yào nǔlì — Even if fate is against us, we have to keep trying.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of mìngyùn is built from mìng and 运 'luck', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjaengH and hjunH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to order' and 'to send': what has been ordered for you.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: mìngyùn
- Say it: mìngyùn, once more
- Say it: jíshǐ mìngyùn bù hǎo wǒmen yě yào nǔlì — Even if fate is against us, we have to keep trying.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be in luck, then the Mandarin for fortunate, then say mìngyùn again

Before you move on

What does mìngyùn mean? ("Fate; destiny".) Say it once more.

Chapter 530

Winning a Prize

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can talk about lottery tickets, prize draws, winning a prize and trying my luck.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 530: I can talk about lottery tickets, prize draws, winning a prize and trying my luck.

530.1 cǎipiào — lottery ticket

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for fortunate, then the Mandarin for fate.

You'll want to know: cǎipiào

cǎipiào — "lottery ticket".

> tā měi ge xīngqī dōu mǎi cǎipiào — He buys lottery tickets every week.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of cǎipiào is built from cǎi and 票 'a ticket'. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese tshojX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'brilliant colour'; no dictionary we use records an older form of 票, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: cǎipiào
- Say it: cǎipiào, once more
- Say it: tā měi ge xīngqī dōu mǎi cǎipiào — He buys lottery tickets every week.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for fortunate, then the Mandarin for fate, then say cǎipiào again

Before you move on

What does cǎipiào mean? ("Lottery ticket".) Say it once more.

530.2 chōujiǎng — to draw for prizes; to hold a prize draw

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for fate, then the Mandarin for a lottery ticket.

You'll want to know: chōujiǎng

chōujiǎng — "to draw for prizes; to hold a prize draw".

zhǐyào mǎi yìbǎi kuài qián de dōngxi jiù kěyǐ chōujiǎng — Spend a hundred yuan and you can enter the prize draw.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chōujiǎng is built from chōu 'to pull out' and jiǎng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, trhjuw and tsjangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to encourage' and 'to praise'; the sense 'a prize' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: chōujiǎng
- Say it: chōujiǎng, once more
- Say it: zhǐyào mǎi yìbǎi kuài qián de dōngxi jiù kěyǐ chōujiǎng — Spend a hundred yuan and you can enter the prize draw.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for fate, then the Mandarin for a lottery ticket, then say chōujiǎng again

Before you move on

What does chōujiǎng mean? ("To draw for prizes; to hold a prize draw".) Say it once more.

530.3 zhòngjiǎng — to win in a draw; to win a prize

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a lottery ticket, then the Mandarin for to draw for prizes.

You'll want to know: zhòngjiǎng

zhòngjiǎng — "to win in a draw; to win a prize".

yàoshi wǒ zhòngjiǎng le wǒ jiù qù lǚyóu — If I win a prize, I'll go travelling.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhòngjiǎng is built from 中 zhòng 'to hit the mark' and jiǎng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, trjuwngH and tsjangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to hit' and the second 'to encourage'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: zhòngjiǎng
- Say it: zhòngjiǎng, once more
- Say it: yàoshi wǒ zhòngjiǎng le wǒ jiù qù lǚyóu — If I win a prize, I'll go travelling.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a lottery ticket, then the Mandarin for to draw for prizes, then say zhòngjiǎng again

Before you move on

What does zhòngjiǎng mean? ("To win in a draw; to win a prize".) Say it once more.

530.4 jiǎngpǐn — a prize you win; an award

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to draw for prizes, then the Mandarin for to win in a draw.

You'll want to know: jiǎngpǐn

jiǎngpǐn — "a prize you win; an award".

rúguǒ nǐ zhòngjiǎng le jiù kěyǐ ná dào jiǎngpǐn — If you win, you'll get a prize.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: jiǎng is said with a rising tone before pǐn, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiǎngpǐn is built from jiǎng and pǐn, both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsjangX and phimX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to encourage' and the second 'a rank' and 'a kind'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: jiǎngpǐn
- Say it: jiǎngpǐn, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ nǐ zhòngjiǎng le jiù kěyǐ ná dào jiǎngpǐn — If you win, you'll get a prize.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to draw for prizes, then the Mandarin for to win in a draw, then say jiǎngpǐn again

Before you move on

What does jiǎngpǐn mean? ("A prize you win; an award".) Say it once more.

530.5 tóujiǎng — first prize; the jackpot

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to win in a draw, then the Mandarin for a prize you win.

You'll want to know: tóujiǎng

tóujiǎng — "first prize; the jackpot".

zhè cì chōujiǎng de tóujiǎng shì yìbǎi wàn — The first prize in this draw is a million.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tóujiǎng is built from 头 'the head' and jiǎng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, duw and tsjangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to encourage': the reward at the head of the list.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: tóujiǎng
- Say it: tóujiǎng, once more
- Say it: zhè cì chōujiǎng de tóujiǎng shì yìbǎi wàn — The first prize in this draw is a million.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to win in a draw, then the Mandarin for a prize you win, then say tóujiǎng again

Before you move on

What does tóujiǎng mean? ("First prize; the jackpot".) Say it once more.

Chapter 531

A Lucky Escape

Modes: 🚗 voice (6) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say it is a good thing that, all but, by a fluke and unfortunately, and talk about losing.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 531: I can say it is a good thing that, all but, by a fluke and unfortunately, and talk about losing.

531.1 tuōxiǎn — to get out of danger

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a prize you win, then the Mandarin for the jackpot.

You'll want to know: tuōxiǎn

tuōxiǎn — "to get out of danger".

> zhǐyào zhǎo dào lù wǒmen jiù néng tuōxiǎn — As long as we find the way, we'll get out of danger.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of tuōxiǎn is built from tuō and xiǎn 'danger', both inherited from Middle Chinese, thwat and xjemX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first as bone with the flesh taken off, and the second 'dangerous' and 'hard'; the sense 'to slip free' is not given for the first.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: tuōxiǎn
- Say it: tuōxiǎn, once more
- Say it: zhǐyào zhǎo dào lù wǒmen jiù néng tuōxiǎn — As long as we find the way, we'll get out of danger.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a prize you win, then the Mandarin for the jackpot, then say tuōxiǎn again

Before you move on

What does tuōxiǎn mean? ("To get out of danger".) Say it once more.

531.2 jīhū — very nearly; all but

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the jackpot, then the Mandarin for to get out of danger.

You'll want to know: jīhū

jīhū — "very nearly; all but".

rúguǒ xiàyǔ gōngyuán lǐ jīhū méiyǒu rén — If it rains, there's hardly anyone in the park.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jīhū is built from jī and hū, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kj+j and hu (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary lists the first four times: kj+j, which gives jī, in a phrase meaning 'very nearly', and gj+j, glossed 'near'. It glosses the second as a grammar word; the level tone of hū is not the regular outcome of hu, which would give hú.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: jīhū
- Say it: jīhū, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ xiàyǔ gōngyuán lǐ jīhū méiyǒu rén — If it rains, there's hardly anyone in the park.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the jackpot, then the Mandarin for to get out of danger, then say jīhū again

Before you move on

What does jīhū mean? ("Very nearly; all but".) Say it once more.

531.3 jiǎoxìng — lucky by a fluke

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get out of danger, then the Mandarin for all but.

You'll want to know: jiǎoxìng

jiǎoxìng — "lucky by a fluke".

wǒmen zhè cì méi chūshì zhǐ shì jiǎoxìng — Nothing happened to us this time, but it was only a fluke.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jiǎoxìng is built from jiǎo and xìng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, kewX and heangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary reads the first character as written today ngew, the name of a far country, and lists the word itself, in an older spelling, under its second syllable; the first syllable of that spelling, kewX, regularly gives jiǎo.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: jiǎoxìng
- Say it: jiǎoxìng, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zhè cì méi chūshì zhǐ shì jiǎoxìng — Nothing happened to us this time, but it was only a fluke.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get out of danger, then the Mandarin for all but, then say jiǎoxìng again

Before you move on

What does jiǎoxìng mean? ("Lucky by a fluke".) Say it once more.

531.4 búxìng — misfortune; unfortunate

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for all but, then the Mandarin for lucky by a fluke.

You'll want to know: búxìng

búxìng — "misfortune; unfortunate".

jíshǐ yùdào búxìng yě búyào fàngqì — Even if misfortune comes your way, don't give up.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Tone: 不 is said bú before the falling tone of xìng, and the spelling shows it.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of búxìng is built from 不 'not' and xìng 'fortunate', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pjut and heangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as having good fortune and escaping harm.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: búxìng
- Say it: búxìng, once more
- Say it: jíshǐ yùdào búxìng yě búyào fàngqì — Even if misfortune comes your way, don't give up.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for all but, then the Mandarin for lucky by a fluke, then say búxìng again

Before you move on

What does búxìng mean? ("Misfortune; unfortunate".) Say it once more.

531.5 shīshǒu — to lose one's grip; to do by a slip of the hand

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for lucky by a fluke, then the Mandarin for a misfortune.

You'll want to know: shīshǒu

shīshǒu — "to lose one's grip; to do by a slip of the hand".

> yàoshi nǐ shīshǒu dǎpò le bēizi jiù zài mǎi yí ge — If your hand slips and you break a cup, buy another one.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of shīshǒu is built from shī 'to lose' and 手 'the hand', both inherited from Middle Chinese, syit and syuwX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a mistake' and 'to let go': the hand lets it go.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: shīshǒu
- Say it: shīshǒu, once more
- Say it: yàoshi nǐ shīshǒu dǎpò le bēizi jiù zài mǎi yí ge — If your hand slips and you break a cup, buy another one.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for lucky by a fluke, then the Mandarin for a misfortune, then say shīshǒu again

Before you move on

What does shīshǒu mean? ("To lose one's grip; to do by a slip of the hand".) Say it once more.

531.6 Looking back: from How Heavy? to A Lucky Escape

Say the Mandarin for to weigh on a scale and a kilogram.

Your turn

- Say it: to weigh on a scale, a kilogram, how heavy something is, in large amounts, a small amount of
- Say it: to place an order, to wrap goods for sale, a member of a club, a favourable deal, a checked pattern
- Say it: as luck would have it, to be obliged to, to draw lots, to make a bet, happening by chance
- Say it: to be out of luck, a person's luck, to be in luck, fortunate, fate
- Say it: a lottery ticket, to draw for prizes, to win in a draw, a prize you win, the jackpot

- Say it: to get out of danger, all but, lucky by a fluke, a misfortune, to lose one's grip
- Read it: 量 运 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

To weigh on a scale? (chēng.) A kilogram? (gōngjīn.) How heavy something is? (重量, zhòngliàng.) In large amounts? (大量, dàliàng.) A small amount of? (少量, shǎoliàng.) To place an order? (xiàdān.) To wrap goods for sale? (bāozhuāng.) A member of a club? (huìyuán.) A favourable deal? (yōuhuì.) A checked pattern? (格子, gézi.) As luck would have it? (pèngqiǎo.) To be obliged to? (不得不, bùdébù.) To draw lots? (chōuqiān.) To make a bet? (dǎdǔ.) Happening by chance? (ǒurán.) To be out of luck? (dǎoméi.) A person's luck? (运气, yùnqi.) To be in luck? (走运, zǒuyùn.) Fortunate? (xìngyùn.) Fate? (mìngyùn.) A lottery ticket? (cǎipiào.) To draw for prizes? (chōujiǎng.) To win in a draw? (zhòngjiǎng.) A prize you win? (jiǎngpǐn.) The jackpot? (tóujiǎng.) To get out of danger? (tuōxiǎn.) All but? (jīhū.) Lucky by a fluke? (jiǎoxìng.) A misfortune? (búxìng.) To lose one's grip? (shīshǒu.)

Chapter 532

Hoping for More

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say I'm dying for something, that something should happen, what I expect and whom I count on.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 532: I can say I'm dying for something, that something should happen, what I expect and whom I count on.

532.1 有望 (yǒuwàng) — with good hopes of it; likely to happen

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a misfortune, then the Mandarin for to lose one's grip.

You'll want to know: 有望

有望 — yǒuwàng — "with good hopes of it; likely to happen".

> 如果天气好飞机就有望正点起飞 rúguǒ tiānqì hǎo fēijī jiù yǒuwàng zhèngdiǎn qǐfēi — If the weather is good, the plane should take off on time.

The new character, in pieces: 望 — eleven strokes in three pieces: on the top left a dot, a bar and a short vertical that turns right, three strokes; on the top right 月, four strokes; and 王 at the foot, four strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 有望 (yǒuwàng) is built from 有 'to have' and wàng, both inherited from Middle Chinese, hjuwX and mjangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to look out for' and, after an older dictionary, as watching for someone far away to come back.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: yǒuwàng
- Say it: yǒuwàng, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ tiānqì hǎo fēijī jiù yǒuwàng zhèngdiǎn qǐfēi — If the weather is good, the plane should take off on time.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a misfortune, then the Mandarin for to lose one's grip, then say yǒuwàng again

Before you move on

What does 有望 mean? ("With good hopes of it; likely to happen".) Say it once more.

532.2 望 — a small piece and 月, then 王 under them

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say yǒuwàng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  月 王

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — yuè, wáng

Script — a small piece and 月, then 王 under them

How 望 is written, stroke by stroke

望

Three pieces: two side by side on top, then one across the foot. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The top left piece, three strokes: a dot, a bar under it, then a short vertical that turns right along the bottom.

The top right piece, 月, four strokes, as you wrote it: a stroke down that falls to the left, a bar that turns down and hooks, then two short bars inside.

The bottom piece, 王, four strokes, as you wrote it: a bar, a second bar, a vertical down through them, then the long bar at the foot.

3 + 4 + 4 = eleven.

Your turn

- Write it: 望, all eleven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 望 have? (Three.) Which two have you written before? (月 and 王.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 望, pinned stroke paths and medians.

532.3 bābude — to be dying to; to be eager for (colloquial)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to lose one's grip, then the Mandarin for with good hopes of it.

You'll want to know: bābude

bābude — "to be dying to; to be eager for (colloquial)".

wǒ bābude mǎshàng fàngjià — I'm dying for the holidays to start right away.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.
Tone: 不 and 得 are both said light here, bābude, so 不 does not change its tone.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of bābude is built from bā, 不 'not' and 得, all inherited from Middle Chinese, pae, pjut and tok (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first as the name of a region in the west and of a creature; the sense 'to long for' is not given there, and how the three came to mean 'to be dying to' is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: bābude
- Say it: bābude, once more

- Say it: wǒ bābude mǎshàng fàngjià — I'm dying for the holidays to start right away.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to lose one's grip, then the Mandarin for with good hopes of it, then say bābude again

Before you move on

What does bābude mean? ("To be dying to; to be eager for (colloquial)".) Say it once more.

532.4 期望 (qīwàng) — to expect much of someone; expectations

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for with good hopes of it, then the Mandarin for to be dying to.

You'll want to know: 期望

期望 — qīwàng — "to expect much of someone; expectations".

yàoshi nǐ qīwàng tài gāo jiù huì shīwàng — If you expect too much, you'll be disappointed.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 期望 (qīwàng) is built from 期 'a set time' and 望 'to look out for', both inherited from Middle Chinese, gi and mjangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a time agreed on'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: qīwàng
- Say it: qīwàng, once more
- Say it: yàoshi nǐ qīwàng tài gāo jiù huì shīwàng — If you expect too much, you'll be disappointed.

- Recall: say the Mandarin for with good hopes of it, then the Mandarin for to be dying to, then say qīwàng again

Before you move on

What does 期望 mean? ("To expect much of someone; expectations".) Say it once more.

532.5 如意 (rúyì) — as one would wish

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be dying to, then the Mandarin for to expect much of someone.

You'll want to know: 如意

如意 — rúyì — "as one would wish".

rúguǒ gōngzuò bú tài rúyì jiù huàn yí ge — If your job isn't quite what you hoped, change it.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 如意 (rúyì) is built from 如 'like' and 意 'what one means', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyo and 'iH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'intent': as one intends.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: rúyì
- Say it: rúyì, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ gōngzuò bú tài rúyì jiù huàn yí ge — If your job isn't quite what you hoped, change it.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be dying to, then the Mandarin for to expect much of someone, then say rúyì again

Before you move on

What does 如意 mean? ("As one would wish".) Say it once more.

532.6 zhǐwàng — to count on someone

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to expect much of someone, then the Mandarin for as one would wish it.

You'll want to know: zhǐwàng

zhǐwàng — "to count on someone".

nǐ búyào zhǐwàng tā bùrán nǐ huì shīwàng — Don't count on him, or you'll be disappointed.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhǐwàng is built from zhǐ 'to point to' and 望 'to look out for', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyijX and mjangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'a finger' and 'to show'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: zhǐwàng
- Say it: zhǐwàng, once more
- Say it: nǐ búyào zhǐwàng tā bùrán nǐ huì shīwàng — Don't count on him, or you'll be disappointed.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to expect much of someone, then the Mandarin for as one would wish it, then say zhǐwàng again

Before you move on

What does zhǐwàng mean? (“To count on someone”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 533

I Hope So

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say what I hope, long for and yearn for, say when hope runs out, and wish someone well.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 533: I can say what I hope, long for and yearn for, say when hope runs out, and wish someone well.

533.1 xiàngwǎng — to yearn for

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for as one would wish it, then the Mandarin for to count on someone.

You'll want to know: xiàngwǎng

xiàngwǎng — "to yearn for".

> rúguǒ yǒu jīhuì wǒ jiù qù wǒ xiàngwǎng de dìfang — If I get the chance, I'll go to the place I've always longed for.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiàngwǎng is built from xiàng 'towards' and 往 'to go', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xjangH and hjwangX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which gives the first as the same word as its usual spelling and glosses the second 'to go to'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: xiàngwǎng
- Say it: xiàngwǎng, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ yǒu jīhuì wǒ jiù qù wǒ xiàngwǎng de dìfang — If I get the chance, I'll go to the place I've always longed for.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for as one would wish it, then the Mandarin for to count on someone, then say xiàngwǎng again

Before you move on

What does xiàngwǎng mean? ("To yearn for".) Say it once more.

533.2 希望 (xīwàng) — to hope

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to count on someone, then the Mandarin for to yearn for.

You'll want to know: 希望

希望 — xīwàng — "to hope".

我希望明天不下雨 wǒ xīwàng míngtiān bú xiàyǔ — I hope it doesn't rain tomorrow.

The new character, in pieces: 希 — seven strokes in three pieces: a small cross of two strokes on top; a long bar with a long stroke falling to the left through it; and at the foot three strokes, a short vertical, a bar that turns down and hooks, and a long vertical through the middle. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 希望 (xīwàng) is built from 希 and 望 'to look out for', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xj+j and mjangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'to stop', 'to scatter' and, after an older dictionary, 'rare', and also with the second: 'to hope'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: xīwàng
- Say it: xīwàng, once more
- Say it: wǒ xīwàng míngtiān bú xiàyǔ — I hope it doesn't rain tomorrow.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to count on someone, then the Mandarin for to yearn for, then say xīwàng again

Before you move on

What does 希望 mean? ("To hope".) Say it once more.

533.3 希 — a cross, a bar and a long stroke, then three at the foot

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say xīwàng — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

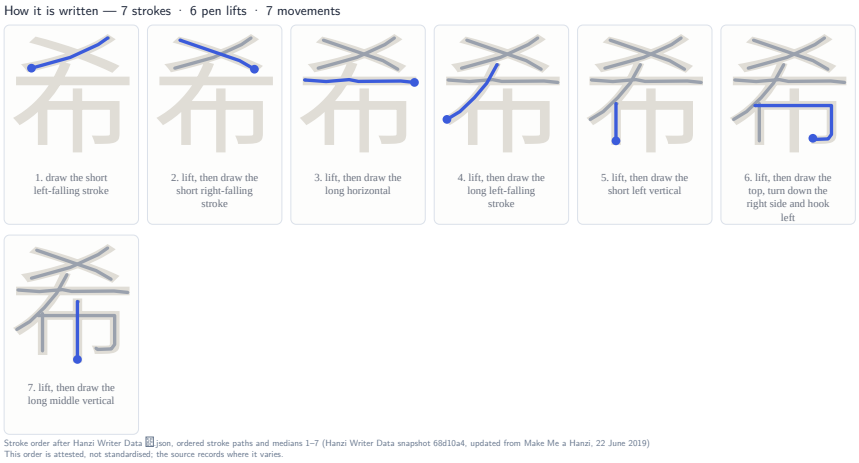
  望 有

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — wàng, yǒu

Script — a cross, a bar and a long stroke, then three at the foot



How 希 is written, stroke by stroke

希

Three pieces, top to bottom. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The top piece, two strokes: a short stroke falling to the left, then a short stroke falling to the right across it, a small cross.

The middle piece, two strokes: a long bar, then a long stroke falling to the left from above the bar down through it.

The bottom piece, three strokes: a short vertical on the left, a bar that turns down the right side and hooks to the left, then a long vertical down through the middle, past the foot.

2 + 2 + 3 = seven.

Your turn

- Write it: 希, all seven, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many strokes does 希 have? (Seven.) What is the last stroke? (A long vertical through the middle of the foot.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 希, pinned stroke paths and medians.

533.4 kěwàng — to thirst for; to crave

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to yearn for, then the Mandarin for to hope that.

You'll want to know: kěwàng

kěwàng — "to thirst for; to crave".

tā hěn kěwàng dāng yīshēng — He longs to be a doctor.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of kěwàng is built from kě 'thirsty' and 望 'to look out for', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khat and mjangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'hunger and thirst'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: kěwàng
- Say it: kěwàng, once more
- Say it: tā hěn kěwàng dāng yīshēng — He longs to be a doctor.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to yearn for, then the Mandarin for to hope that, then say kěwàng again

Before you move on

What does kěwàng mean? ("To thirst for; to crave".) Say it once more.

533.5 juéwàng — to give up all hope; to despair

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to hope that, then the Mandarin for to thirst for.

You'll want to know: juéwàng

juéwàng — "to give up all hope; to despair".

jíshǐ shībài le yě búyào juéwàng — Even if you fail, don't give up hope.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of juéwàng is built from jué 'to cut off' and 望 'a hope', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzjwet and mjangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to break off'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: juéwàng
- Say it: juéwàng, once more
- Say it: jíshǐ shībài le yě búyào juéwàng — Even if you fail, don't give up hope.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to hope that, then the Mandarin for to thirst for, then say juéwàng again

Before you move on

What does juéwàng mean? ("To give up all hope; to despair".) Say it once more.

533.6 心想事成 (xīnxiǎng shìchéng) — may your wishes all come true

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to thirst for, then the Mandarin for to give up all hope.

You'll want to know: 心想事成

心想事成 — xīnxiǎng shìchéng — "may your wishes all come true".

祝你们好运心想事成 zhù nǐmen hǎoyùn xīnxiǎng shìchéng — Good luck to you all, and may all your wishes come true.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 心想事成 (xīnxiǎng shìchéng) is built from 心 'the heart', 想 'to wish', 事 'a matter' and 成 'done', all inherited from Middle Chinese, sim, sjangX, dzriH and dzyeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription): what the heart thinks of, may it be done.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: xīnxiǎng shìchéng
- Say it: xīnxiǎng shìchéng, once more
- Say it: zhù nǐmen hǎoyùn xīnxiǎng shìchéng — Good luck to you all, and may all your wishes come true.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to thirst for, then the Mandarin for to give up all hope, then say xīnxiǎng shìchéng again

Before you move on

What does 心想事成 mean? ("May your wishes all come true".) Say it once more.

Chapter 534

I'd Rather

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say I'd rather, that I'll do what I can, suppose something, give my word and wish someone all the best.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 534: I can say I'd rather, that I'll do what I can, suppose something, give my word and wish someone all the best.

534.1 nìngkě — would rather

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to give up all hope, then the Mandarin for may your wishes all come true.

You'll want to know: nìngkě

nìngkě — "would rather".

> wǒ nìngkě zǒulù yě bù xiǎng děng chē — I'd rather walk than wait for the bus.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of nìngkě is built from nìng and 可 'may', both inherited from Middle Chinese, neng and khaX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first 'calm' and, after an older dictionary, as a word of wishing. The falling tone of nìng is not the regular outcome of neng, which gives níng.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: nìngkě
- Say it: nìngkě, once more
- Say it: wǒ nìngkě zǒulù yě bù xiǎng děng chē — I'd rather walk than wait for the bus.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to give up all hope, then the Mandarin for may your wishes all come true, then say nìngkě again

Before you move on

What does nìngkě mean? ("Would rather".) Say it once more.

534.2 jǐnliàng — as far as one can

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for may your wishes all come true, then the Mandarin for would rather.

You'll want to know: jǐnliàng

jǐnliàng — "as far as one can".

rúguǒ nǐ yǒu wèntí wǒ huì jǐnliàng bāng nǐ — If you have a problem, I'll do what I can to help.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of jǐnliàng is built from jǐn 'to the full' and 量 'an amount'. No dictionary we use records an older form of jǐn as this word writes it, so its history is not settled. 量 is inherited from Middle Chinese ljangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: jǐnliàng
- Say it: jǐnliàng, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ nǐ yǒu wèntí wǒ huì jǐnliàng bāng nǐ — If you have a problem, I'll do what I can to help.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for may your wishes all come true, then the Mandarin for would rather, then say jǐnliàng again

Before you move on

What does jǐnliàng mean? ("As far as one can".) Say it once more.

534.3 假如 (jiǎrú) — supposing that

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for would rather, then the Mandarin for as far as one can.

You'll want to know: 假如

假如 — jiǎrú — "supposing that".

假如明天下雨我们就不去了 jiǎrú míngtiān xiàyǔ wǒmen jiù bú qù le — Supposing it rains tomorrow, we won't go.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 假如 (jiǎrú) is built from 假 jiǎ and 如 'like', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kaeX and nyo (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to borrow', 'false' and 'for the time being': a borrowed case.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: jiǎrú
- Say it: jiǎrú, once more
- Say it: jiǎrú míngtiān xiàyǔ wǒmen jiù bú qù le — Supposing it rains tomorrow, we won't go.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for would rather, then the Mandarin for as far as one can, then say jiǎrú again

Before you move on

What does 假如 mean? ("Supposing that".) Say it once more.

534.4 xǔnuò — to give one's word; to pledge

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for as far as one can, then the Mandarin for supposing that.

You'll want to know: xǔnuò

xǔnuò — "to give one's word; to pledge".

rúguǒ nǐ xǔnuò le jiù yídìng yào zuò dào — If you've given your word, you must keep it.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

xǔnuò is built from xǔ 'to allow' and nuò 'to say yes', both inherited from Middle Chinese, xjoX and nak (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to permit' and the second, after an older dictionary, 'to answer'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: xǔnuò
- Say it: xǔnuò, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ nǐ xǔnuò le jiù yídìng yào zuò dào — If you've given your word, you must keep it.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for as far as one can, then the Mandarin for supposing that, then say xǔnuò again

Before you move on

What does xǔnuò mean? ("To give one's word; to pledge".) Say it once more.

534.5 万事如意 (wànshì rúyì) — may all go as you wish

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for supposing that, then the Mandarin for to give one's word.

You'll want to know: 万事如意

万事如意 — wànshì rúyì — "may all go as you wish".

希望你万事如意 xīwàng nǐ wànshì rúyì — I hope everything goes well for you.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 万事如意 (wànshì rúyì) is built from 万 'ten thousand', 事 'a matter', 如 'like' and 意 'what one means', all inherited from Middle Chinese, mjonH, dzriH, nyo and 'iH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription): every matter as you would have it.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: wànshì rúyì
- Say it: wànshì rúyì, once more
- Say it: xīwàng nǐ wànshì rúyì — I hope everything goes well for you.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for supposing that, then the Mandarin for to give one's word, then say wànshì rúyì again

Before you move on

What does 万事如意 mean? ("May all go as you wish".) Say it once more.

Chapter 535

If You're Willing

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say I'm willing, talk about wishes, getting what I hoped for and doing something of my own free will, and say let's hope.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 535: I can say I'm willing, talk about wishes, getting what I hoped for and doing something of my own free will, and say let's hope.

535.1 愿意 (yuànyì) — to be willing (to)

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to give one's word, then the Mandarin for may all go as you wish.

You'll want to know: 愿意

愿意 — yuànyì — "to be willing (to)".

> 要是你愿意我们明天就去 yàoshi nǐ yuànyì wǒmen míngtiān jiù qù — If you're willing, we'll go tomorrow.

The new character, in pieces: 愿 — fourteen strokes in four pieces: a bar and a long stroke falling to the left, like a cliff; under it 白, five strokes, and 小, three strokes; and 心 at the foot, four strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 愿意 (yuànyì) is built from 愿 and 意 'what one means', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngjwonH and 'iH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to desire' and 'to think of'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: yuànyì
- Say it: yuànyì, once more
- Say it: yàoshi nǐ yuànyì wǒmen míngtiān jiù qù — If you're willing, we'll go tomorrow.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to give one's word, then the Mandarin for may all go as you wish, then say yuànyì again

Before you move on

What does 愿意 mean? ("To be willing (to)".) Say it once more.

535.2 愿 — a cliff over 白 and 小, then 心

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say yuànyì — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  白 心

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — bái, xīn

Script — a cliff over 白 and 小, then 心

How 愿 is written, stroke by stroke

愿

Four pieces: the cliff, then what it shelters, then 心 at the foot. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The cliff, two strokes: a bar, then a long stroke falling to the left down from its left end.

Under the cliff, 白, five strokes, then 小, three strokes, as you wrote them: a short stroke falling to the left, a vertical, a bar that turns down, two short bars; then a vertical that hooks to the left, a short stroke on its left and a dot on its right.

心, four strokes, as you wrote it, across the foot: a dot, a long curve that hooks up, then two dots.

2 + 5 + 3 + 4 = fourteen.

Your turn

- Write it: 愿, all fourteen, with the model in front of you

- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 愿 have? (Four: the cliff, 白, 小 and 心.)
Which piece comes last? (心, at the foot.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 愿, pinned stroke paths and medians.

535.3 愿望 (yuànwàng) — a wish one has; a desire

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for may all go as you wish, then the Mandarin for to be willing.

You'll want to know: 愿望

愿望 — yuànwàng — "a wish one has; a desire".

如果可以有一个愿望你想要什么 rúguǒ kěyǐ yǒu yí ge yuànwàng nǐ xiǎng yào shénme — If you could have one wish, what would you want?

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 愿望 (yuànwàng) is built from 愿 'to desire' and 望 'a hope', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngjwonH and mjangH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription).

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: yuànwàng
- Say it: yuànwàng, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ kěyǐ yǒu yí ge yuànwàng nǐ xiǎng yào shénme — If you could have one wish, what would you want?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for may all go as you wish, then the Mandarin for to be willing, then say yuànwàng again

Before you move on

What does 愿望 mean? ("A wish one has; a desire".) Say it once more.

535.4 如愿 (rúyuàn) — to get what one wished for

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to be willing, then the Mandarin for a wish one has.

You'll want to know: 如愿

如愿 — rúyuàn — "to get what one wished for".

zhǐyào nǐ nǔlì jiù néng rúyuàn — As long as you work hard, you'll get what you hoped for.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 如愿 (rúyuàn) is built from 如 'as, like' and 愿 'a wish', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nyo and ngjwonH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription): as one wished.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: rúyuàn
- Say it: rúyuàn, once more
- Say it: zhǐyào nǐ nǔlì jiù néng rúyuàn — As long as you work hard, you'll get what you hoped for.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to be willing, then the Mandarin for a wish one has, then say rúyuàn again

Before you move on

What does 如愿 mean? ("To get what one wished for".) Say it once more.

535.5 自愿 (zìyuàn) — of one's own free will; voluntary

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a wish one has, then the Mandarin for to get what one wished for.

You'll want to know: 自愿

自愿 — zìyuàn — "of one's own free will; voluntary".

我们自愿在这儿工作 wǒmen zìyuàn zài zhèr gōngzuò — We work here of our own free will.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 自愿 (zìyuàn) is built from 自 'self' and 愿 'to wish', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzijH and ngjwonH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'from' and 'by way of'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: zìyuàn
- Say it: zìyuàn, once more
- Say it: wǒmen zìyuàn zài zhèr gōngzuò — We work here of our own free will.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a wish one has, then the Mandarin for to get what one wished for, then say zìyuàn again

Before you move on

What does 自愿 mean? ("Of one's own free will; voluntary".) Say it once more.

535.6 但愿 (dànyuàn) — let us hope that; if only

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get what one wished for, then the Mandarin for of one's own free will.

You'll want to know: 但愿

但愿 — dànyuàn — "let us hope that; if only".

但愿他明天能来 dànyuàn tā míngtiān néng lái — Let's hope he can come tomorrow.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 但愿 (dànyuàn) is built from 但 'only' and 愿 'to wish', both inherited from Middle Chinese, danX and ngjwonH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first as a grammar word and 'merely': I only wish.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: dànyuàn
- Say it: dànyuàn, once more
- Say it: dànyuàn tā míngtiān néng lái — Let's hope he can come tomorrow.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get what one wished for, then the Mandarin for of one's own free will, then say dànyuàn again

Before you move on

What does 但愿 mean? ("Let us hope that; if only".) Say it once more.

Chapter 536

When Wishes Come True

Modes: voice (6) Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say a wish comes true, a dream is fulfilled and life gets better, tell a dream, and say there's something to look forward to.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 536: I can say a wish comes true, a dream is fulfilled and life gets better, tell a dream, and say there's something to look forward to.

536.1 成真 (chéngzhēn) — to become reality (of a wish)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for of one's own free will, then the Mandarin for let us hope that.

You'll want to know: 成真

成真 — chéngzhēn — "to become reality (of a wish)".

> 希望我的愿望能成真 xīwàng wǒ de yuànwàng néng chéngzhēn — I hope my wish comes true.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 成真 (chéngzhēn) is built from 成 'to become' and 真 'true', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzyeng and tsyin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as the true against the false.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: chéngzhēn
- Say it: chéngzhēn, once more
- Say it: xīwàng wǒ de yuànwàng néng chéngzhēn — I hope my wish comes true.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for of one's own free will, then the Mandarin for let us hope that, then say chéngzhēn again

Before you move on

What does 成真 mean? ("To become reality (of a wish)".) Say it once more.

536.2 yuánmèng — to fulfil a dream

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for let us hope that, then the Mandarin for to become reality.

You'll want to know: yuánmèng

yuánmèng — "to fulfil a dream".

rúguǒ míngnián néng qù Zhōngguó wǒ jiù yuánmèng le — If I can go to China next year, my dream will have come true.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of yuánmèng is built from yuán 'round, whole' and mèng 'a dream', both inherited from Middle Chinese, hjwen and mjuwngH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second, after an older dictionary, as waking within sleep: a dream made whole.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: yuánmèng
- Say it: yuánmèng, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ míngnián néng qù Zhōngguó wǒ jiù yuánmèng le — If I can go to China next year, my dream will have come true.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for let us hope that, then the Mandarin for to become reality, then say yuánmèng again

Before you move on

What does yuánmèng mean? ("To fulfil a dream".) Say it once more.

536.3 měihǎo — fine and happy (of a life or a future)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to become reality, then the Mandarin for to fulfil a dream.

You'll want to know: měihǎo

měihǎo — "fine and happy (of a life or a future)".

zhǐyào dàjiā nǔlì shēnghuó jiù huì gèng měihǎo — As long as everyone works hard, life will get better.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

Two third tones meet in this word: měi is said with a rising tone before hǎo, and the spelling keeps both marks.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of měihǎo is built from měi 'beautiful' and 好 'good', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mijX and xawX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'good-looking' and, after an older dictionary, 'sweet', and the second 'good, beautiful'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: měihǎo
- Say it: měihǎo, once more
- Say it: zhǐyào dàjiā nǔlì shēnghuó jiù huì gèng měihǎo — As long as everyone works hard, life will get better.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to become reality, then the Mandarin for to fulfil a dream, then say měihǎo again

Before you move on

What does měihǎo mean? ("Fine and happy (of a life or a future)".) Say it once more.

536.4 mèngjiàn — to dream of; to see in a dream

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to fulfil a dream, then the Mandarin for fine and happy.

You'll want to know: mèngjiàn

mèngjiàn — "to dream of; to see in a dream".

wǒ zuótiān wǎnshang mèngjiàn wǒ zhòngjiǎng le — Last night I dreamt I had won a prize.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of mèngjiàn is built from mèng 'a dream' and 见 'to see', both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjuwngH and kenH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second 'to look'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: mèngjiàn
- Say it: mèngjiàn, once more
- Say it: wǒ zuótiān wǎnshang mèngjiàn wǒ zhòngjiǎng le — Last night I dreamt I had won a prize.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to fulfil a dream, then the Mandarin for fine and happy, then say mèngjiàn again

Before you move on

What does mèngjiàn mean? ("To dream of; to see in a dream".) Say it once more.

536.5 pàntou — something to look forward to

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for fine and happy, then the Mandarin for to see in a dream.

You'll want to know: pàntou

pàntou — "something to look forward to".

> yǒu le gōngzuò shēnghuó jiù yǒu pàntou le — With a job, life has something to look forward to.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of pàntou is built from pàn 'to long for' and 头, both inherited from Middle Chinese, pheanH and duw (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first as beautiful eyes; the sense 'to long for' is not given there. The second, 'the head', is said light here, as at the end of other nouns.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: pàntou
- Say it: pàntou, once more
- Say it: yǒu le gōngzuò shēnghuó jiù yǒu pàntou le — With a job, life has something to look forward to.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for fine and happy, then the Mandarin for to see in a dream, then say pàntou again

Before you move on

What does pàntou mean? ("Something to look forward to".) Say it once more.

536.6 Looking back: from Hoping for More to When Wishes Come True

Say the Mandarin for with good hopes of it and to be dying to.

Your turn

- Say it: with good hopes of it, to be dying to, to expect much of someone, as one would wish it, to count on someone
- Say it: to yearn for, to hope that, to thirst for, to give up all hope, may your wishes all come true

- Say it: would rather, as far as one can, supposing that, to give one's word, may all go as you wish
- Say it: to be willing, a wish one has, to get what one wished for, of one's own free will, let us hope that
- Say it: to become reality, to fulfil a dream, fine and happy, to see in a dream, something to look forward to
- Read it: 望 希 愿 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

With good hopes of it? (有望, yǒuwàng.) To be dying to? (bābude.) To expect much of someone? (期望, qīwàng.) As one would wish it? (如意, rúyì.) To count on someone? (zhǐwàng.) To yearn for? (xiàngwǎng.) To hope that? (希望, xīwàng.) To thirst for? (kěwàng.) To give up all hope? (juéwàng.) May your wishes all come true? (心想事成, xīnxiǎng shìchéng.) Would rather? (nìngkě.) As far as one can? (jǐnliàng.) Supposing that? (假如, jiǎrú.) To give one's word? (xǔnuò.) May all go as you wish? (万事如意, wànshì rúyì.) To be willing? (愿意, yuànyì.) A wish one has? (愿望, yuànwàng.) To get what one wished for? (如愿, rúyuàn.) Of one's own free will? (自愿, zìyuàn.) Let us hope that? (但愿, dànyuàn.) To become reality? (成真, chéngzhēn.) To fulfil a dream? (yuánmèng.) Fine and happy? (měihǎo.) To see in a dream? (mèngjiàn.) Something to look forward to? (pàntou.)

Chapter 537

As It Turns Out

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say what started something, that it turns out to be so, what it leads to and causes, and whether it works.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 537: I can say what started something, that it turns out to be so, what it leads to and causes, and whether it works.

537.1 起因 (qǐyīn) — what set it off; the starting cause

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to see in a dream, then the Mandarin for something to look forward to.

You'll want to know: 起因

起因 — qǐyīn — "what set it off; the starting cause".

> rúguǒ zhīdào le qǐyīn jiù néng jiějué wèntí — If we know what set it off, we can solve the problem.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 起因 (qǐyīn) is built from 起 'to rise, to start' and 因 'a cause', both inherited from Middle Chinese, khiX and 'jin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to rise' and 'to start' and the second 'to rest on' and 'to follow from'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: qǐyīn
- Say it: qǐyīn, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ zhīdào le qǐyīn jiù néng jiějué wèntí — If we know what set it off, we can solve the problem.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to see in a dream, then the Mandarin for something to look forward to, then say qǐyīn again

Before you move on

What does 起因 mean? ("What set it off; the starting cause".) Say it once more.

537.2 原来 (yuánlái) — so (it turns out); as it turns out

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for something to look forward to, then the Mandarin for what set it off.

You'll want to know: 原来

原来 — yuánlái — "so (it turns out); as it turns out".

原来你也在这儿 yuánlái nǐ yě zài zhèr — So you're here too!

The new character, in pieces: 原 — ten strokes: the cliff, a bar and a long stroke falling to the left, as at the top of 愿; under it 白, five strokes, and 小, three strokes: 愿 without its heart. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 原来 (yuánlái) is built from 原 and 来 'to come', both inherited from Middle Chinese, ngjwon and loj (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription). The dictionary glosses the first as wide flat land, a plain; the sense 'origin' is not given there, and how the pair came to mean 'as it turns out' is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: yuánlái
- Say it: yuánlái, once more
- Say it: yuánlái nǐ yě zài zhèr — So you're here too!
- Recall: say the Mandarin for something to look forward to, then the Mandarin for what set it off, then say yuánlái again

Before you move on

What does 原来 mean? ("So (it turns out); as it turns out".) Say it once more.

537.3 原 — the cliff over 白 and 小

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say yuánlái — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

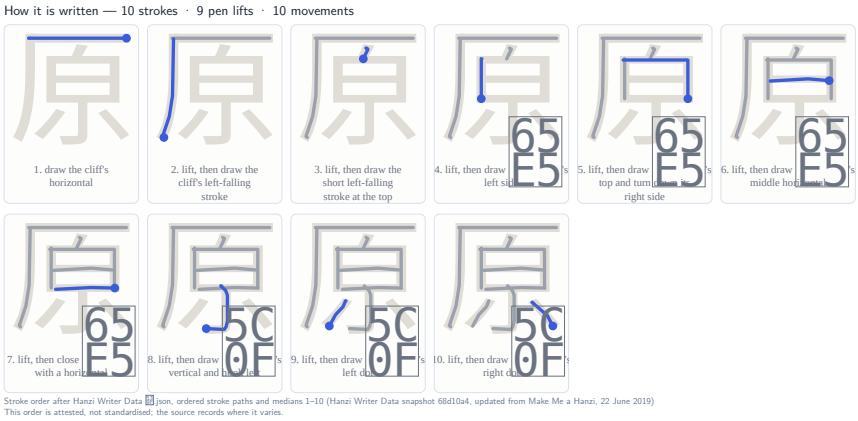
  愿 白

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — yuàn, bái

Script — the cliff over 白 and 小



How 原 is written, stroke by stroke

原

Three pieces: the cliff, then 白, then 小 under it. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The cliff, two strokes: a bar, then a long stroke falling to the left down from its left end.

白, five strokes, under the cliff's arm: a short stroke falling to the left, a vertical, a bar that turns down, two short bars.

小, three strokes: a vertical that hooks to the left, a short stroke on its left, a dot on its right.

2 + 5 + 3 = ten, the first ten strokes of 愿.

Your turn

- Write it: 原, all ten, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

Which character is 原 with 心 under it? (愿.) How many strokes does 原 have? (Ten.)
Source: Hanzi Writer Data 原, pinned stroke paths and medians.

537.4 dǎozhì — to result in something bad

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for what set it off, then the Mandarin for as it turns out.

You'll want to know: dǎozhì

dǎozhì — "to result in something bad".

> rúguǒ bú zhùyì jiù huì dǎozhì shìgù — If you're careless, it will lead to an accident.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of dǎozhì is built from dǎo 'to lead' and zhì 'to bring to', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dawH and trijH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to lead' and the second 'to arrive' and 'to send to'. The dipping tone of dǎo is not the regular outcome of dawH.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: dǎozhì
- Say it: dǎozhì, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ bú zhùyì jiù huì dǎozhì shìgù — If you're careless, it will lead to an accident.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for what set it off, then the Mandarin for as it turns out, then say dǎozhì again

Before you move on

What does dǎozhì mean? ("To result in something bad".) Say it once more.

537.5 zàochéng — to cause damage or trouble

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for as it turns out, then the Mandarin for to result in something bad.

You'll want to know: zàochéng

zàochéng — "to cause damage or trouble".

rúguǒ nǐ bù shuō jiù huì zàochéng wùhuì — If you don't say anything, it will cause a misunderstanding.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zàochéng is built from zào 'to make' and 成 'to complete', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzawX and dzyeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to make'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: zàochéng
- Say it: zàochéng, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ nǐ bù shuō jiù huì zàochéng wùhuì — If you don't say anything, it will cause a misunderstanding.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for as it turns out, then the Mandarin for to result in something bad, then say zàochéng again

Before you move on

What does zàochéng mean? ("To cause damage or trouble".) Say it once more.

537.6 xiàoguǒ — the effect it has (how well it works)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to result in something bad, then the Mandarin for to cause damage.

You'll want to know: xiàoguǒ

xiàoguǒ — "the effect it has (how well it works)".

yàoshi méiyǒu xiàoguǒ nǐ jiù huàn yí ge bànfǎ — If it doesn't work, try another way.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of xiàoguǒ is built from xiào and 果 'fruit', both inherited from Middle Chinese, haewH and kwaX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to imitate' and 'proven effect': what the effort bears.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: xiàoguǒ
- Say it: xiàoguǒ, once more
- Say it: yàoshi méiyǒu xiàoguǒ nǐ jiù huàn yí ge bànfǎ — If it doesn't work, try another way.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to result in something bad, then the Mandarin for to cause damage, then say xiàoguǒ again

Before you move on

What does xiàoguǒ mean? ("The effect it has (how well it works)".) Say it once more.

Chapter 538

One Thing Leads to Another

Modes: 🚗 voice (5) 🚗 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say so as not to, and thereby, talk about the thing itself and what it gives rise to, and say not at all.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 538: I can say so as not to, and thereby, talk about the thing itself and what it gives rise to, and say not at all.

538.1 miǎnde — so as not to; lest

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to cause damage, then the Mandarin for how well it works.

You'll want to know: miǎnde

miǎnde — "so as not to; lest".

> nǐ zuìhǎo dài yǔsǎn miǎnde línyǔ — You'd better take an umbrella, so you don't get caught in the rain.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of miǎnde is built from miǎn 'to escape' and 得, both inherited from Middle Chinese, mjenX and tok (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to stop' and 'to get free of'; the second is said light.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: miǎnde
- Say it: miǎnde, once more
- Say it: nǐ zuìhǎo dài yǔsǎn miǎnde línyǔ — You'd better take an umbrella, so you don't get caught in the rain.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to cause damage, then the Mandarin for how well it works, then say miǎnde again

Before you move on

What does miǎnde mean? ("So as not to; lest".) Say it once more.

538.2 cóng'ér — and thereby; and in this way

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for how well it works, then the Mandarin for so as not to.

You'll want to know: cóng'ér

cóng'ér — "and thereby; and in this way".

wǒmen gǎi le shíjiān cóng'ér jiějué le zhège wèntí — We changed the time, and so solved the problem.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of cóng'ér is built from 从 'to follow' and ér 'and', both inherited from Middle Chinese, dzjowng and nyi (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the second as a grammar word.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: cóng'ér
- Say it: cóng'ér, once more
- Say it: wǒmen gǎi le shíjiān cóng'ér jiějué le zhège wèntí — We changed the time, and so solved the problem.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for how well it works, then the Mandarin for so as not to, then say cóng'ér again

Before you move on

What does cóng'ér mean? ("And thereby; and in this way".) Say it once more.

538.3 本身 (běnshēn) — itself (in itself)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for so as not to, then the Mandarin for and thereby.

You'll want to know: 本身

本身 — běnshēn — "itself (in itself)".

这个问题本身不大 zhège wèntí běnshēn bú dà — The problem itself isn't a big one.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 本身 (běnshēn) is built from 本 'the root' and 身 'the body', both inherited from Middle Chinese, pwonX and syin (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which says, after an older dictionary, that the base of a tree is pwonX.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: běnshēn
- Say it: běnshēn, once more
- Say it: zhège wèntí běnshēn bú dà — The problem itself isn't a big one.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for so as not to, then the Mandarin for and thereby, then say běnshēn again

Before you move on

What does 本身 mean? ("Itself (in itself)".) Say it once more.

538.4 chǎnshēng — to arise; to come about

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for and thereby, then the Mandarin for in itself.

You'll want to know: chǎnshēng

chǎnshēng — "to arise; to come about".

yàoshi bù shuō qīngchu jiù huì chǎnshēng wùhuì — If you don't make it clear, misunderstandings will arise.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chǎnshēng is built from chǎn 'to bear' and 生 'to be born', both inherited from Middle Chinese, sreanX and srjaeng (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to give birth'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: chǎnshēng
- Say it: chǎnshēng, once more
- Say it: yàoshi bù shuō qīngchu jiù huì chǎnshēng wùhuì — If you don't make it clear, misunderstandings will arise.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for and thereby, then the Mandarin for in itself, then say chǎnshēng again

Before you move on

What does chǎnshēng mean? ("To arise; to come about".) Say it once more.

538.5 gēnběn — not in the least; (not) at all

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for in itself, then the Mandarin for to arise from something.

You'll want to know: gēnběn

gēnběn — "not in the least; (not) at all".

> jíshǐ nǐ shuō le tā yě gēnběn bù tīng — Even if you tell him, he won't listen at all.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gēnběn is built from gēn 'a root' and 本 'the base of a tree', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kon and pwonX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'roots': down to the roots.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: gēnběn
- Say it: gēnběn, once more
- Say it: jíshǐ nǐ shuō le tā yě gēnběn bù tīng — Even if you tell him, he won't listen at all.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for in itself, then the Mandarin for to arise from something, then say gēnběn again

Before you move on

What does gēnběn mean? ("Not in the least; (not) at all".) Say it once more.

Chapter 539

Whose Fault?

Modes: voice (5) pen (1) Hands-free start: the first 2 of 6 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say who is to blame, say something is strange, and talk about provoking someone, coming off worse and getting into trouble.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 539: I can say who is to blame, say something is strange, and talk about provoking someone, coming off worse and getting into trouble.

539.1 rě — to stir up trouble; to provoke

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to arise from something, then the Mandarin for not in the least.

You'll want to know: rě

rě — "to stir up trouble; to provoke".

> nǐ búyào rě tā bùrán tā huì shēngqì — Don't provoke him, or he'll get angry.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of rě is inherited from Middle Chinese nyaeX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'a troubled mind'; the dictionary also lists nyak. The sense 'to provoke' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: rě
- Say it: rě, once more
- Say it: nǐ búyào rě tā bùrán tā huì shēngqì — Don't provoke him, or he'll get angry.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to arise from something, then the Mandarin for not in the least, then say rě again

Before you move on

What does rě mean? ("To stir up trouble; to provoke".) Say it once more.

539.2 怪 (guài) — to put the blame on someone

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for not in the least, then the Mandarin for to stir up trouble.

You'll want to know: 怪

怪 — guài — "to put the blame on someone".

这不能怪你原因不在你 zhè bù néng guài nǐ yuányīn bú zài nǐ — You can't be blamed for this: the cause doesn't lie with you.

The new character, in pieces: 怪 — eight strokes in three pieces: the upright heart on the left, three strokes, as in 快; on the right 又, two strokes; and under it the earth piece, three strokes. The next lesson puts it in your hand.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 怪 (guài) is inherited from Middle Chinese kweajH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'strange'. The sense 'to blame' is not given there; it is usually explained as finding fault, but how it came is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: guài
- Say it: guài, once more
- Say it: zhè bù néng guài nǐ yuányīn bú zài nǐ — You can't be blamed for this: the cause doesn't lie with you.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for not in the least, then the Mandarin for to stir up trouble, then say guài again

Before you move on

What does 怪 mean? ("To put the blame on someone".) Say it once more.

539.3 怪 — the upright heart, then 又 over the earth piece

The word first, then the character inside it.

- Recall: say guài — R1, one lesson back, before it decays

  快 地

Read it: each one aloud, with nothing said first — kuài, dì

Script — the upright heart, then 又 over the earth piece

How 怪 is written, stroke by stroke

怪

Three pieces: the upright heart on the left, then 又, then the earth piece under it. Count the pieces, not the strokes.

The upright heart, three strokes, as in 快: a short dot on the left, a short dot on the right, then a long vertical down between them.

又, two strokes, as you wrote it: a bar that turns into a long stroke falling to the left, then a long stroke falling to the right across it.

The earth piece, three strokes, as on the left of 地, but at the foot: a short bar, a vertical down through it, then a long bar along the foot.

3 + 2 + 3 = eight.

Your turn

- Write it: 怪, all eight, with the model in front of you
- Cover: write it again from memory, and count the pieces, not the strokes

Before you move on

How many pieces does 怪 have? (Three: the upright heart, 又 and the earth piece.) Which piece is written last? (The earth piece, at the foot.)

Source: Hanzi Writer Data 怪, pinned stroke paths and medians.

539.4 怪事 (guàishì) — a strange business; an odd thing

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to stir up trouble, then the Mandarin for to put the blame on.

You'll want to know: 怪事

怪事 — guàishì — "a strange business; an odd thing".

这真是怪事 zhè zhēn shì guàishì — That really is a strange business.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 怪事 (guàishì) is built from 怪 'strange' and 事 'a matter', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kweajH and dzriH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'strange'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: guàishì
- Say it: guàishì, once more
- Say it: zhè zhēn shì guàishì — That really is a strange business.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to stir up trouble, then the Mandarin for to put the blame on, then say guàishì again

Before you move on

What does 怪事 mean? ("A strange business; an odd thing".) Say it once more.

539.5 chīkuī — to come off worse; to lose out

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to put the blame on, then the Mandarin for a strange business.

You'll want to know: chīkuī

chīkuī — "to come off worse; to lose out".

rúguǒ nǐ bù tīng wǒ de jiù huì chīkuī — If you don't listen to me, you'll come off worse.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chīkuī is built from 吃 'to eat' and kuī 'a loss'. For the first the dictionary has khek, glossed 'to eat', under another spelling; the second is inherited from Middle Chinese khjwe (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'to be lacking': to swallow a loss.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: chīkuī
- Say it: chīkuī, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ nǐ bù tīng wǒ de jiù huì chīkuī — If you don't listen to me, you'll come off worse.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to put the blame on, then the Mandarin for a strange business, then say chīkuī again

Before you move on

What does chīkuī mean? ("To come off worse; to lose out".) Say it once more.

539.6 chuǎnghuò — to get into trouble; to cause a mess

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for a strange business, then the Mandarin for to come off worse.

You'll want to know: chuǎnghuò

chuǎnghuò — "to get into trouble; to cause a mess".

yàoshi nǐ zài chuǎnghuò wǒ jiù gàosu nǐ māma — If you get into trouble again, I'll tell your mum.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of chuǎnghuò is built from chuǎng 'to rush' and huò 'disaster'. The second is inherited from Middle Chinese hwaX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), glossed 'harm'. The dictionary lists the first as trhimH, a horse dashing out of a gate, but chuǎng is not the regular outcome of that form, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: chuǎnghuò
- Say it: chuǎnghuò, once more
- Say it: yàoshi nǐ zài chuǎnghuò wǒ jiù gàosu nǐ māma — If you get into trouble again, I'll tell your mum.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for a strange business, then the Mandarin for to come off worse, then say chuǎnghuò again

Before you move on

What does chuǎnghuò mean? ("To get into trouble; to cause a mess".) Say it once more.

Chapter 540

So That's Why

Modes: voice (5) Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say someone is odd, that something drags others in, that something is bound to happen, tell the whole story and ask what is going on.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 540: I can say someone is odd, that something drags others in, that something is bound to happen, tell the whole story and ask what is going on.

540.1 古怪 (gǔguài) — eccentric; peculiar (of a person)

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to come off worse, then the Mandarin for to get into trouble.

You'll want to know: 古怪

古怪 — gǔguài — "eccentric; peculiar (of a person)".

> 原来他是一个古怪的人 yuánlái tā shì yí ge gǔguài de rén — So he's an odd sort of man.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 古怪 (gǔguài) is built from 古 'old' and 怪 'strange', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kuX and kweajH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'of old' and the second 'strange'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: gǔguài
- Say it: gǔguài, once more
- Say it: yuánlái tā shì yí ge gǔguài de rén — So he's an odd sort of man.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to come off worse, then the Mandarin for to get into trouble, then say gǔguài again

Before you move on

What does 古怪 mean? ("Eccentric; peculiar (of a person)".) Say it once more.

540.2 liánlei — to drag someone into trouble

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to get into trouble, then the Mandarin for eccentric.

You'll want to know: liánlei

liánlei — "to drag someone into trouble".

yàoshi wǒ chūshì le jiù huì liánlei dàjiā — If anything happens to me, everyone will be dragged into it.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of liánlei is built from lián 'to join' and lei, both inherited from Middle Chinese, ljen and ljweH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to join, to continue' and the second as being caught up in another's offence. The second is said light here.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: liánlei
- Say it: liánlei, once more
- Say it: yàoshi wǒ chūshì le jiù huì liánlei dàjiā — If anything happens to me, everyone will be dragged into it.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to get into trouble, then the Mandarin for eccentric, then say liánlei again

Before you move on

What does liánlei mean? ("To drag someone into trouble".) Say it once more.

540.3 nánmiǎn — bound to happen; hard to avoid

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for eccentric, then the Mandarin for to drag someone into trouble.

You'll want to know: nánmiǎn nánmiǎn — "bound to happen; hard to avoid".

rúguǒ shì dì yī cì zuò nánmiǎn huì chūcuò — If it's your first time, mistakes are bound to happen.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of

nánmiǎn is built from 难 'hard' and miǎn 'to escape', both inherited from Middle Chinese, nan and mjenX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'difficult' and the second 'to stop' and 'to get free of': hard to get free of.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: nánmiǎn
- Say it: nánmiǎn, once more
- Say it: rúguǒ shì dì yī cì zuò nánmiǎn huì chūcuò — If it's your first time, mistakes are bound to happen.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for eccentric, then the Mandarin for to drag someone into trouble, then say nánmiǎn again

Before you move on

What does nánmiǎn mean? ("Bound to happen; hard to avoid".) Say it once more.

540.4 前因后果 (qiányīn hòuguǒ) — the whole chain of causes and effects

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to drag someone into trouble, then the Mandarin for bound to happen.

You'll want to know: 前因后果

前因后果 — qiányīn hòuguǒ — "the whole chain of causes and effects".

yàoshi nǐ zhīdào qiányīn hòuguǒ jiù bú huì guài tā le — If you knew the whole story, you wouldn't blame him.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 前因后果 (qiányīn hòuguǒ) is built from 前 'before', 因 'a cause', 后 'after' and 果 'fruit', all inherited from Middle Chinese, dzen, 'jin, huwX and kwaX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription): the cause that came before and the fruit that came after.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: qiányīn hòuguǒ
- Say it: qiányīn hòuguǒ, once more
- Say it: yàoshi nǐ zhīdào qiányīn hòuguǒ jiù bú huì guài tā le — If you knew the whole story, you wouldn't blame him.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to drag someone into trouble, then the Mandarin for bound to happen, then say qiányīn hòuguǒ again

Before you move on

What does 前因后果 mean? ("The whole chain of causes and effects".) Say it once more.

540.5 怎么回事 (zěnme huí shì) — what is going on here; what's the matter

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for bound to happen, then the Mandarin for the whole chain of causes.

You'll want to know: 怎么回事

怎么回事 — zěnme huí shì — "what is going on here; what's the matter".

这是怎么回事 zhè shì zěnme huí shì — What's going on here?

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 怎么回事 (zěnme huí shì) is built from 怎么 'how', 回 'a time' and 事 'a matter'. 回 and 事 are inherited from Middle Chinese, hwoj and dzriH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); no dictionary we use records an older form of 怎, so its history is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: zěnme huí shì
- Say it: zěnme huí shì, once more
- Say it: zhè shì zěnme huí shì — What's going on here?
- Recall: say the Mandarin for bound to happen, then the Mandarin for the whole chain of causes, then say zěnme huí shì again

Before you move on

What does 怎么回事 mean? ("What is going on here; what's the matter".) Say it once more.

Chapter 541

If It Weren't for You

Modes: voice (7) Hands-free start: all 7 lessons.

> By the end of this chapter: I can say if it weren't for, thanks to, things will improve, what the main reason is, and either this or that.
>
> Complete the last lesson of chapter 541: I can say if it weren't for, thanks to, things will improve, what the main reason is, and either this or that.

541.1 要不是 (yàobúshì) — if it were not for

> Before the new one: say the Mandarin for the whole chain of causes, then the Mandarin for what is going on here.

You'll want to know: 要不是

要不是 — yàobúshì — "if it were not for".

> 要不是你我们就找不到这儿了 yàobúshì nǐ wǒmen jiù zhǎo bu dào zhèr le — If it weren't for you, we'd never have found this place.

Tone: 不 is said bú before the falling tone of shì, and the spelling shows it.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 要不是 (yàobúshì) is built from 要 'if', 不 'not' and 是 'to be', all inherited from Middle Chinese, 'jiewH, pjut and dzyeX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the dictionary glosses the first 'to bind by agreement', and its use for 'if' is not given there.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: yàobúshì
- Say it: yàobúshì, once more
- Say it: yàobúshì nǐ wǒmen jiù zhǎo bu dào zhèr le — If it weren't for you, we'd never have found this place.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for the whole chain of causes, then the Mandarin for what is going on here, then say yàobúshì again

Before you move on

What does 要不是 mean? ("If it were not for".) Say it once more.

541.2 duōkuī — it is thanks to; luckily for

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for what is going on here, then the Mandarin for if it were not for.

You'll want to know: duōkuī

duōkuī — "it is thanks to; luckily for".

duōkuī nǐ bāng wǒ bùrán wǒ jiù zuò bu wán — Thanks to your help I finished; otherwise I'd never have managed.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of duōkuī is built from 多 'much' and kuī, both inherited from Middle Chinese, ta and khjwe (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'many' and the second 'to be lacking'. How the pair came to mean 'thanks to' is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: duōkuī
- Say it: duōkuī, once more
- Say it: duōkuī nǐ bāng wǒ bùrán wǒ jiù zuò bu wán — Thanks to your help I finished; otherwise I'd never have managed.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for what is going on here, then the Mandarin for if it were not for, then say duōkuī again

Before you move on

What does duōkuī mean? ("It is thanks to; luckily for".) Say it once more.

541.3 gǎishàn — to make conditions better

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for if it were not for, then the Mandarin for it is thanks to.

You'll want to know: gǎishàn

gǎishàn — "to make conditions better".

zhǐyào dàjiā yìqǐ nǔlì huánjìng jiù huì gǎishàn — As long as we all work together, the environment will get better.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of gǎishàn is built from 改 'to change' and shàn 'good', both inherited from Middle Chinese, kojX and dzyenX (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to alter' and the second 'good'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: gǎishàn
- Say it: gǎishàn, once more
- Say it: zhǐyào dàjiā yìqǐ nǔlì huánjìng jiù huì gǎishàn — As long as we all work together, the environment will get better.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for if it were not for, then the Mandarin for it is thanks to, then say gǎishàn again

Before you move on

What does gǎishàn mean? ("To make conditions better".) Say it once more.

541.4 zhǔyào — main; chief

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for it is thanks to, then the Mandarin for to make conditions better.

You'll want to know: zhǔyào

zhǔyào — "main; chief".

wǒ bú qù de zhǔyào yuányīn shì tiānqì bù hǎo — The main reason I'm not going is the bad weather.

Its characters come later; for now it is a word for the ear.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of zhǔyào is built from zhǔ 'to be in charge' and 要 'important', both inherited from Middle Chinese, tsyuX and 'jiewH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription), which glosses the first 'to manage, to lead' and the second 'to bind by agreement'.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: zhǔyào
- Say it: zhǔyào, once more
- Say it: wǒ bú qù de zhǔyào yuányīn shì tiānqì bù hǎo — The main reason I'm not going is the bad weather.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for it is thanks to, then the Mandarin for to make conditions better, then say zhǔyào again

Before you move on

What does zhǔyào mean? ("Main; chief".) Say it once more.

541.5 要么 (yàome) — either one or the other; either ... or

Before the new one: say the Mandarin for to make conditions better, then the Mandarin for the main one.

You'll want to know: 要么

要么 — yàome — "either one or the other; either … or".

要么你来要么我去 yàome nǐ lái yàome wǒ qù — Either you come here or I go there.

The word, taken apart — what its characters are made of 要么 (yàome) is built from 要 and the light ending 么, as in 怎么. The first is inherited from Middle Chinese 'jiewH (Guangyun, in Baxter's transcription); the second is said light, and its history in this use is not settled.

What you've built

One more word for saying what would happen.

Your turn

- Say it: yàome
- Say it: yàome, once more
- Say it: yàome nǐ lái yàome wǒ qù — Either you come here or I go there.
- Recall: say the Mandarin for to make conditions better, then the Mandarin for the main one, then say yàome again

Before you move on

What does 要么 mean? ("Either one or the other; either … or".) Say it once more.

541.6 Looking back: from As It Turns Out to If It Weren't for You

Say the Mandarin for what set it off and as it turns out.

Your turn

- Say it: what set it off, as it turns out, to result in something bad, to cause damage, how well it works
- Say it: so as not to, and thereby, in itself, to arise from something, not in the least

- Say it: to stir up trouble, to put the blame on, a strange business, to come off worse, to get into trouble
- Say it: eccentric, to drag someone into trouble, bound to happen, the whole chain of causes, what is going on here
- Say it: if it were not for, it is thanks to, to make conditions better, the main one, either one or the other
- Read it: 原 怪 — each one aloud, then a word that holds it

Before you move on

What set it off? (起因, qǐyīn.) As it turns out? (原来, yuánlái.) To result in something bad? (dǎozhì.) To cause damage? (zàochéng.) How well it works? (xiàoguǒ.) So as not to? (miǎnde.) And thereby? (cóng'ér.) In itself? (本身, běnshēn.) To arise from something? (chǎnshēng.) Not in the least? (gēnběn.) To stir up trouble? (rě.) To put the blame on? (怪, guài.) A strange business? (怪事, guàishì.) To come off worse? (chīkuī.) To get into trouble? (chuǎnghuò.) Eccentric? (古怪, gǔguài.) To drag someone into trouble? (liánlei.) Bound to happen? (nánmiǎn.) The whole chain of causes? (前因后果, qiányīn hòuguǒ.) What is going on here? (怎么回事, zěnme huí shì.) If it were not for? (要不是, yàobúshì.) It is thanks to? (duōkuī.) To make conditions better? (gǎishàn.) The main one? (zhǔyào.) Either one or the other? (要么, yàome.)

541.7 If It Weren't for You — once more

Say the Mandarin for if it were not for and it is thanks to.

Your turn

- Say it: if it were not for, it is thanks to, to make conditions better, the main one, either one or the other

Before you move on

If it were not for? (要不是, yàobúshì.) It is thanks to? (duōkuī.) To make conditions better? (gǎishàn.) The main one? (zhǔyào.) Either one or the other? (要么, yàome.)

Pronunciation & Character Guide

Reference material, never a gate. Every lesson teaches the sounds its own word needs, inline, and links here for anyone who wants the fuller picture. Nobody has to read this page before Lesson 1, and most readers never will.

The ids in each heading are the values a lesson's `sounds:` frontmatter list points at.

Why this page is different from every other track's

In an alphabetic or abugida track, "the sounds you'll need" is a list of segments: this letter is silent, that vowel is long, this consonant is retroflex. Each fact is attached to a letter, and the letter is on the page.

Mandarin adds a second, orthogonally different kind of fact. Tone rides on a whole syllable, is not written in the characters at all, and is phonemic — it distinguishes words the way a consonant does. A segmental note cannot express it. So this page has two halves: tones first, because they are the part an English speaker has no instinct for, then the segments.

The machine-readable form of the first half lives in the Chinese script reference under `tones` and `toneSandhi`.

Tones

Mandarin has four tones plus a neutral one. Pinyin writes the tone as a mark over the vowel; the characters do not record it anywhere.

The classic demonstration uses one syllable, ma:

- `tone-1` — first, high level (contour 55). Held high and flat, one steady note. mā — mother.
- `tone-2` — second, rising (35). Climbs from mid to high, like the pitch on a surprised English "huh?". má — hemp.

- `tone-3` — third, dipping (214). Sinks low and creaky; said alone it rises again a little at the end, but in running speech it usually just stays low. mǎ — horse.
- `tone-4` — fourth, falling (51). Drops sharply from high to low, like a clipped "No!". mà — to scold.
- `tone-neutral` — unstressed. Short and light, with no mark written at all, pitched by whatever came before it. ma — a question particle.

tone-lexical — tone is part of the word

The single fact that matters most, taught in the first lesson: changing the pitch of a Mandarin syllable changes which word it is, not how you feel about it. mā, má, mǎ and mà are four separate words. English uses pitch for mood and emphasis only, so this is a genuinely new job for an English speaker's voice.

tone-sandhi-third — two third tones in a row

When a third tone is followed by another third tone, the first is spoken as a rising second tone.

Written nǐ hǎo, said ní hǎo. Neither the pinyin nor the characters record the change; dictionaries print the citation tone each word carries alone. This is why a reader who trusts only the page mispronounces the commonest greeting in the language.

tone-sandhi-bu — 不 before a fourth tone

不 bù is said bú when the next syllable has a fourth tone: bù shì → bú shì. Taught in full on 不是, the first collocation in the track that forces it.

Segments

Pinyin is a romanization, not English spelling. A few letters do work you would not guess.

- `pinyin-n` — as in English no.
- `pinyin-i` — after most consonants, the ee of "see". (After z-, c-, s-, zh-, ch-, sh-, r- it is a different, buzzier vowel; no Chapter 1 word uses those.)

- `pinyin-h` — rougher than English h, scraped at the back of the mouth, closer to the ch of Scottish loch softened.
- `pinyin-ao` — one gliding vowel, the ow of "how". Not two syllables.

The characters themselves

Stroke shapes, components, and stroke order for every character this track has introduced live in Chinese script reference. Unlike the Indic scripts in this curriculum, where stroke order is conventional, Chinese stroke order is a taught, standardised system — top before bottom, left before right, horizontal before vertical, outside before inside, and close a box last. That file marks its stroke orders `authoritative` for exactly that reason.

Glossary

This glossary collects every word and phrase taught in the book. Pronunciation appears when it differs from the written form; chapter numbers show where each entry is introduced.

ài to love
Introduced in Chapter 55.

ǎi
short in height; low Introduced in Chapter 61.

àihào hobby
Introduced in Chapter 250.

àihù
to cherish and protect; to treat with care
Introduced in Chapter 376.

爱情 àiqíng
romantic love; love between a couple
Introduced in Chapter 461.

爱心 àixīn
compassion; love and care for others
Introduced in Chapter 461.

àn to press; to push down
Introduced in Chapter 171.

安定 āndìng settled; stable
Introduced in Chapter 400.

安检 ānjiǎn security check
Introduced in Chapter 415.

ānjìng quiet
Introduced in Chapter 129.

ānpái to arrange Introduced in Chapter 207.

ānquán safe; safety
Introduced in Chapter 209.

ānquándài seat belt
Introduced in Chapter 414.

安全感 ānquángǎn
a sense of security
Introduced in Chapter 381.

ānwèi
to comfort; to console
Introduced in Chapter 314.

安心 ānxīn
with a mind at rest; settled Introduced in Chapter 379.

ānzhuāng
to install; to put in Introduced in Chapter 208.

áoyè
to stay up late; to stay up all night
Introduced in Chapter 169.

āyí
auntie; mother's sister
Introduced in Chapter 272.

八 bā
eight — first tone, and the luckiest number in the language Introduced in Chapter 20.

bàba
dad; father
Introduced in Chapter 32.

bābude
to be dying to; to be eager for (colloquial)
Introduced in Chapter 532.

八成 bāchéng
most likely; eighty per cent
Introduced in Chapter 385.

白 bái
white; pale
Introduced in Chapter 60.

bàibai
bye-bye
Introduced in Chapter 76.

白菜 báicài
Chinese cabbage
Introduced in Chapter 101.

bàifǎng to pay a visit to Introduced in Chapter 338.

báifèi
to be wasted (of effort)
Introduced in Chapter 394.

bàinián to pay a New Year call Introduced in Chapter 333.

bǎitān
to set up a street stall
Introduced in Chapter 448.

白天 báitiān
daytime
Introduced in Chapter 146.

bàituō to ask a favour of someone Introduced in Chapter 457.

bàn half Introduced in Chapter 48.

bān
to move house; to move (something heavy)
Introduced in Chapter 107.

半岛 bàndǎo peninsula
Introduced in Chapter 444.

bànfǎ
a way to deal with it Introduced in Chapter 214.

bāng
to help
Introduced in Chapter 64.

bāngmáng to help out; to do a favour Introduced in Chapter 64.

bàngōngshì office
Introduced in Chapter 206.

bàngwǎn dusk; towards evening
Introduced in Chapter 169.

半价 bànjià
half price
Introduced in Chapter 524.

bànlǐ
to deal with the paperwork; to go through a procedure
Introduced in Chapter 418.

半路 bànlù
halfway; on the way
Introduced in Chapter 424.

bānmǎxiàn
zebra crossing; pedestrian crossing
Introduced in Chapter 194.

半天 bàntiān
a long while; half a day
Introduced in Chapter 143.

bànyè
the middle of the night
Introduced in Chapter 146.

báo thin (of cloth or paper)
Introduced in Chapter 199.

bāo bag
Introduced in Chapter 58.

bǎo
full after eating; full up
Introduced in Chapter 177.

报 bào
newspaper; the daily paper
Introduced in Chapter 293.

保安 bǎo'ān security guard
Introduced in Chapter 382.

bǎobao
baby; darling (said to a small child)
Introduced in Chapter 266.

bǎochí to keep up; to keep as it is Introduced in Chapter 209.

bǎocún to keep; to save Introduced in Chapter 344.

bàodào
to report on; a news report
Introduced in Chapter 290.

报到 bàodào
to report in on arrival; to sign in Introduced in Chapter 304.

bāoguǒ parcel; package
Introduced in Chapter 118.

保护 bǎohù
to protect; to keep from harm
Introduced in Chapter 443.

保护区 bǎohùqū
nature reserve; protected area
Introduced in Chapter 443.

bǎojiàn
health care; looking after one's health Introduced in Chapter 483.

bàojǐng to call the police
Introduced in Chapter 216.

报考 bàokǎo
to enter for an exam; to apply to a school by exam Introduced in Chapter 494.

bàomíng to sign up; to enter (one's name)
Introduced in Chapter 268.

bàoqiàn sorry; regretful
Introduced in Chapter 264.

bǎowù treasure
Introduced in Chapter 331.

bǎoxiǎn insurance
Introduced in Chapter 297.

bàoyuàn to complain; to grumble Introduced in Chapter 378.

bāozā
to bandage; to dress a wound
Introduced in Chapter 478.

bàozhà
to explode; to blow up Introduced in Chapter 300.

bǎozhèng to promise; to guarantee Introduced in Chapter 382.

bǎozhòng
to look after yourself; to take care of oneself Introduced in Chapter 245.

bāozhuāng to wrap goods for sale
Introduced in Chapter 527.

bāozi steamed bun
Introduced in Chapter 70.

báyá to have a tooth pulled Introduced in Chapter 473.

bēi
a cup of; a glass of (a measure word)
Introduced in Chapter 88.

bēibāo backpack; rucksack
Introduced in Chapter 453.

běibian
the north; on the north side
Introduced in Chapter 117.

北部 běibù
northern part Introduced in Chapter 438.

北方 běifāng
the north of the country; northern China Introduced in Chapter 436.

bēiguān pessimistic
Introduced in Chapter 465.

Běijīng
Beijing
Introduced in Chapter 36.

bèiké seashell
Introduced in Chapter 445.

北上 běishàng
to go north; to head up north Introduced in Chapter 422.

bèishū
to learn a text by heart; to recite from memory Introduced in Chapter 496.

bèiyòng spare (kept for when needed)
Introduced in Chapter 389.

bèizi quilt; duvet
Introduced in Chapter 181.

bēizi cup; glass
Introduced in Chapter 58.

bèn
slow-witted; clumsy
Introduced in Chapter 470.

běn
(a measure word for books)
Introduced in Chapter 88.

本地 běndì local
Introduced in Chapter 211.

本来 běnlái
originally; at first Introduced in Chapter 269.

本身 běnshēn itself (in itself)
Introduced in Chapter 538.

本事 běnshi skill; what someone is capable of Introduced in Chapter 260.

本意 běnyì
what one really meant; original intention Introduced in Chapter 352.

本子 běnzi notebook
Introduced in Chapter 104.

bǐ pen
Introduced in Chapter 104.

比 bǐ than; compared with
Introduced in Chapter 153.

变成 biànchéng to turn into Introduced in Chapter 386.

biànhuà
to change over time; a change
Introduced in Chapter 243.

变老 biànlǎo to get old
Introduced in Chapter 401.

变脸 biànliǎn
to turn hostile suddenly; to change one's attitude abruptly Introduced in Chapter 472.

biānpào firecrackers
Introduced in Chapter 335.

变天 biàntiān
to turn bad (of the weather)
Introduced in Chapter 386.

变心 biànxīn
to fall out of love; to stop being faithful Introduced in Chapter 462.

biǎogé
a form to fill in Introduced in Chapter 189.

biāoqiān label; luggage tag
Introduced in Chapter 453.

biǎoqíng
facial expression; the look on one's face Introduced in Chapter 472.

biǎoshì
to make your view known; to express Introduced in Chapter 352.

biǎoyáng to praise (in front of others)
Introduced in Chapter 357.

biāozhǔn standard to measure by Introduced in Chapter 364.

bié don't Introduced in Chapter 154.

biéde something else; other Introduced in Chapter 92.

biérén
other people
Introduced in Chapter 138.

bǐfēn
the score of a game
Introduced in Chapter 500.

bǐjì
notes (taken in class)
Introduced in Chapter 497.

bìjìng
after all; all things considered Introduced in Chapter 370.

bìmiǎn to avoid Introduced in Chapter 366.

bìng to fall ill; illness
Introduced in Chapter 50.

bīng ice
Introduced in Chapter 221.

bìngdú virus
Introduced in Chapter 481.

病房 bìngfáng hospital ward
Introduced in Chapter 241.

bǐnggān
biscuit; cracker
Introduced in Chapter 102.

病假 bìngjià sick leave
Introduced in Chapter 263.

病情 bìngqíng
a patient's condition; how an illness is going
Introduced in Chapter 481.

病人 bìngrén
patient; sick person
Introduced in Chapter 130.

bīnguǎn hotel
Introduced in Chapter 200.

bīngxiāng fridge; refrigerator
Introduced in Chapter 87.

病因 bìngyīn cause of an illness
Introduced in Chapter 481.

比如 bǐrú
for instance; such as Introduced in Chapter 281.

bǐsài match; competition
Introduced in Chapter 135.

bìshǔ
to escape the summer heat
Introduced in Chapter 515.

必须 bìxū must; it is required that Introduced in Chapter 362.

必要 bìyào necessary
Introduced in Chapter 360.

bìyè
to graduate; to finish school
Introduced in Chapter 254.

bǐyǒu pen pal
Introduced in Chapter 318.

bízi nose
Introduced in Chapter 230.

bōdǎ to dial a number Introduced in Chapter 320.

bówùguǎn museum
Introduced in Chapter 190.

bózi neck
Introduced in Chapter 476.

不 bù
not — the character that turns a word around Introduced in Chapter 4.

bù hǎoyìsi excuse me; sorry to trouble you
Introduced in Chapter 65.

不客气 bú kèqi
you're welcome; don't mention it
Introduced in Chapter 77.

不是 bú shì
is not — and a pitch that moves to get out of the way
Introduced in Chapter 5.

不谢 bú xiè
you're welcome — real and understood everywhere, though not the commonest reply, which needs characters this book cannot yet print
Introduced in Chapter 10.

不要 bú yào
don't; do not want
Introduced in Chapter 91.

不安 bù'ān uneasy; worried
Introduced in Chapter 379.

不必 búbì need not; there's no need to Introduced in Chapter 360.

不变 búbiàn unchanged; staying the same
Introduced in Chapter 394.

búcuò not bad; pretty good
Introduced in Chapter 152.

不得不 bùdébù to be obliged to; cannot help but Introduced in Chapter 528.

bùfen part; section (of a whole)
Introduced in Chapter 438.

bùguǎn
no matter (whether or how)
Introduced in Chapter 396.

不见得 bújiànde not necessarily Introduced in Chapter 353.

bǔpiào
to buy a ticket on board
Introduced in Chapter 404.

不然 bùrán
otherwise; or else
Introduced in Chapter 289.

不如 bùrú to do better to; might as well; to be not as good as Introduced in Chapter 365.

不同 bùtóng different Introduced in Chapter 256.

bǔxí to take extra lessons
Introduced in Chapter 493.

bùxíng
to get there on foot Introduced in Chapter 447.

búxìng misfortune; unfortunate Introduced in Chapter 531.

bùxíngjiē
pedestrian street; a street closed to cars
Introduced in Chapter 447.

bǔyá
to have a tooth filled
Introduced in Chapter 473.

bǔyú
to catch fish (for a living)
Introduced in Chapter 443.

bùzhì
to lay out a room; to decorate a room
Introduced in Chapter 521.

不准 bùzhǔn to not allow Introduced in Chapter 364.

cā to wipe Introduced in Chapter 133.

cài dish of food; vegetable Introduced in Chapter 38.

cāi to guess
Introduced in Chapter 335.

才 cái
only then; not until Introduced in Chapter 313.

càidān menu
Introduced in Chapter 92.

cǎifǎng to interview someone for the news
Introduced in Chapter 291.

cǎihóng rainbow
Introduced in Chapter 238.

cǎipiào lottery ticket
Introduced in Chapter 530.

cáng
to hide
Introduced in Chapter 331.

cānguān
to look round a place; to visit (a sight)
Introduced in Chapter 184.

cānjiā to take part in; to join Introduced in Chapter 84.

cānjīnzhǐ paper napkin
Introduced in Chapter 452.

cǎo grass
Introduced in Chapter 68.

草地 cǎodì
lawn; grassy ground
Introduced in Chapter 226.

cǎoyuán
grassland; prairie
Introduced in Chapter 226.

céng floor; storey Introduced in Chapter 206.

céngjīng
once (in the past); at one time
Introduced in Chapter 261.

cèsuǒ toilet; lavatory
Introduced in Chapter 192.

chà
to be short of; to (before the hour)
Introduced in Chapter 143.

chá tea
Introduced in Chapter 39.

茶杯 chábēi teacup
Introduced in Chapter 170.

chàbuduō about; almost Introduced in Chapter 205.

chàdiǎnr nearly; almost Introduced in Chapter 236.

chāduì to jump the queue
Introduced in Chapter 360.

场 chǎng measure word for a rainstorm; measure word for a game or a show Introduced in Chapter 416.

长 cháng long Introduced in Chapter 61.

chángcháng often
Introduced in Chapter 126.

长城 Chángchéng
the Great Wall
Introduced in Chapter 447.

chànggē to sing
Introduced in Chapter 55.

chǎnghé occasion; setting
Introduced in Chapter 360.

长假 chángjià long holiday Introduced in Chapter 339.

chángtú long-distance
Introduced in Chapter 410.

chángwèi stomach and gut; digestion Introduced in Chapter 477.

chǎnshēng to arise; to come about Introduced in Chapter 538.

chǎo to stir-fry
Introduced in Chapter 113.

吵 chǎo
noisy
Introduced in Chapter 129.

chǎofàn fried rice
Introduced in Chapter 161.

chǎojià to quarrel; to have a row
Introduced in Chapter 176.

cháoshī damp; humid Introduced in Chapter 218.

chāoshì supermarket
Introduced in Chapter 100.

chāosù
to break the speed limit
Introduced in Chapter 421.

chāozhòng
overweight; over the weight limit
Introduced in Chapter 418.

cháyè
tea leaves
Introduced in Chapter 166.

chāzi fork
Introduced in Chapter 170.

chāzuò power socket
Introduced in Chapter 426.

车 chē
car; vehicle
Introduced in Chapter 44.

车道 chēdào
traffic lane
Introduced in Chapter 420.

chēfèi
fare for a ride
Introduced in Chapter 410.

chēhuò
traffic accident; car crash Introduced in Chapter 296.

chēng to weigh on a scale
Introduced in Chapter 526.

城 chéng
town; walled city
Introduced in Chapter 446.

成本 chéngběn production cost; cost
Introduced in Chapter 384.

成才 chéngcái
to make something of oneself Introduced in Chapter 512.

chénggōng to succeed
Introduced in Chapter 394.

成果 chéngguǒ
fruits of work; achievements
Introduced in Chapter 395.

chéngjì results; marks
Introduced in Chapter 249.

成家 chéngjiā
to marry and settle down
Introduced in Chapter 399.

chéngkè passenger
Introduced in Chapter 402.

chéngliáng
to sit in the cool (out of the sun)
Introduced in Chapter 519.

成名 chéngmíng to become famous Introduced in Chapter 512.

chéngnián to come of age; fully grown Introduced in Chapter 317.

chéngqiáng
city wall; the wall round a city Introduced in Chapter 446.

chéngrèn to admit; to own up Introduced in Chapter 310.

chéngshì city
Introduced in Chapter 81.

chéngshí honest
Introduced in Chapter 273.

chéngshú to ripen; to be ripe
Introduced in Chapter 516.

成为 chéngwéi to become
Introduced in Chapter 384.

chéngwùyuán flight attendant; cabin crew
Introduced in Chapter 414.

成长 chéngzhǎng
to mature (as a person)
Introduced in Chapter 401.

成真 chéngzhēn to become reality (of a wish)
Introduced in Chapter 536.

车票 chēpiào
train or bus ticket
Introduced in Chapter 196.

车速 chēsù
speed of a vehicle
Introduced in Chapter 421.

chēwèi parking space
Introduced in Chapter 420.

chēxiāng railway carriage
Introduced in Chapter 402.

车站 chēzhàn station; stop
Introduced in Chapter 106.

吃 chī
to eat
Introduced in Chapter 38.

chídào
to be late; to arrive late Introduced in Chapter 83.

chījīng surprised; taken aback Introduced in Chapter 271.

chīkuī
to come off worse; to lose out Introduced in Chapter 539.

chǐmǎ clothing size; shoe size
Introduced in Chapter 199.

chīsù
to eat no meat; to be vegetarian Introduced in Chapter 451.

chítáng pond
Introduced in Chapter 246.

chīyào to take medicine
Introduced in Chapter 228.

chōngdiàn to charge a battery
Introduced in Chapter 109.

chōngdòng impulsive; rash
Introduced in Chapter 469.

chǒngwù pet
Introduced in Chapter 229.

重新 chóngxīn
anew; over again from the start Introduced in Chapter 295.

chōngzhí
to top up (a card or a phone)
Introduced in Chapter 212.

chóngzi insect; bug
Introduced in Chapter 242.

chōujiǎng
to draw for prizes; to hold a prize draw Introduced in Chapter 530.

chōukòng to find time (for something) Introduced in Chapter 388.

chōuqiān to draw lots
Introduced in Chapter 528.

chōuti drawer
Introduced in Chapter 186.

chuán boat; ship
Introduced in Chapter 227.

chuān to wear; to put on Introduced in Chapter 59.

chuáncāng ship's cabin
Introduced in Chapter 412.

chuáng bed
Introduced in Chapter 87.

chuángdān bed sheet Introduced in Chapter 427.

chuānghu window
Introduced in Chapter 159.

chuǎnghuò
to get into trouble; to cause a mess
Introduced in Chapter 539.

chuānglián curtain
Introduced in Chapter 181.

chuàngyè
to start a business; to found an enterprise Introduced in Chapter 513.

chuàngzuò
to create (art or writing)
Introduced in Chapter 503.

传话 chuánhuà
to carry messages between people
Introduced in Chapter 328.

传球 chuánqiú
to pass the ball
Introduced in Chapter 499.

chuánrǎn to pass on (an illness); to be catching
Introduced in Chapter 245.

传说 chuánshuō
legend; folk tale
Introduced in Chapter 328.

chuántǒng tradition
Introduced in Chapter 340.

船长 chuánzhǎng
ship's captain
Introduced in Chapter 411.

chūchāi
to travel for work; to go on a business trip
Introduced in Chapter 191.

出错 chūcuò
to slip up; to go wrong Introduced in Chapter 356.

chūfā
to set off; to depart Introduced in Chapter 155.

chúfáng kitchen
Introduced in Chapter 101.

chúfēi unless
Introduced in Chapter 396.

出国 chūguó
to go abroad
Introduced in Chapter 191.

出海 chūhǎi
to go out to sea
Introduced in Chapter 433.

chūhàn to sweat
Introduced in Chapter 220.

chuīfēngjī hair dryer
Introduced in Chapter 164.

chūjí elementary; for beginners Introduced in Chapter 496.

chūjìng to leave a country
Introduced in Chapter 417.

出口 chūkǒu
exit; way out
Introduced in Chapter 112.

chǔlǐ to deal with Introduced in Chapter 297.

chūmén to go out
Introduced in Chapter 43.

春光 chūnguāng
the beauty of spring; spring sunshine
Introduced in Chapter 519.

春节 Chūnjié
the Spring Festival; Chinese New Year
Introduced in Chapter 137.

chūnlián
Spring Festival couplets
Introduced in Chapter 334.

春天 chūntiān
spring
Introduced in Chapter 131.

春晚 Chūnwǎn
the Spring Festival Gala
Introduced in Chapter 333.

春游 chūnyóu spring outing
Introduced in Chapter 431.

出气 chūqì
to vent one's anger; to take it out on someone Introduced in Chapter 464.

出去 chūqù
to go outside; to go out of here
Introduced in Chapter 183.

出入 chūrù
to go in and out
Introduced in Chapter 405.

出色 chūsè outstanding; excellent
Introduced in Chapter 451.

出生 chūshēng to be born
Introduced in Chapter 254.

chúshī
chef; professional cook
Introduced in Chapter 488.

出事 chūshì
to have an accident; for something to go wrong Introduced in Chapter 232.

Chúxī
lunar New Year's Eve
Introduced in Chapter 333.

出现 chūxiàn
to appear; to turn up Introduced in Chapter 236.

chūxíng
to get about; to go out on a journey Introduced in Chapter 429.

chūyuàn to leave hospital
Introduced in Chapter 241.

chūzūchē taxi
Introduced in Chapter 44.

cì time (one occurrence)
Introduced in Chapter 140.

cídiǎn dictionary
Introduced in Chapter 104.

cízhí
to resign; to quit a job
Introduced in Chapter 276.

从 cóng from Introduced in Chapter 155.

cóng'ér
and thereby; and in this way
Introduced in Chapter 538.

cóngcǐ from then on Introduced in Chapter 345.

cónglái ever; (before 没) never once Introduced in Chapter 150.

cōngming clever; bright
Introduced in Chapter 123.

从前 cóngqián
once upon a time; in the past
Introduced in Chapter 178.

从小 cóngxiǎo
since childhood; since I was little Introduced in Chapter 269.

cúnkuǎn savings (in the bank)
Introduced in Chapter 387.

cūnmín villager
Introduced in Chapter 440.

cúnqián
to put money by; to put money in the bank
Introduced in Chapter 195.

村长 cūnzhǎng village head
Introduced in Chapter 440.

cūnzi village
Introduced in Chapter 246.

cuò wrong; mistaken
Introduced in Chapter 121.

错过 cuòguò
to miss a chance; to miss a train Introduced in Chapter 356.

cuòwù mistake; error
Introduced in Chapter 356.

cūxīn careless Introduced in Chapter 273.

大 dà
big; large, now read and written
Introduced in Chapter 13.

打电话 dǎ diànhuà to phone; to make a phone call Introduced in Chapter 63.

dǎ pēntì to sneeze
Introduced in Chapter 222.

dǎ zhāohu to say hello to someone Introduced in Chapter 361.

dá'àn
answer to a question
Introduced in Chapter 268.

dǎbài
to defeat; to beat (an opponent)
Introduced in Chapter 262.

dǎban
to dress up; to get dressed up
Introduced in Chapter 164.

打包 dǎbāo
to pack food to take away
Introduced in Chapter 120.

dāchē to get a lift
Introduced in Chapter 429.

打车 dǎchē
to take a taxi
Introduced in Chapter 409.

dàchuángfáng room with a double bed
Introduced in Chapter 426.

dádào
to attain (a goal); to reach a level
Introduced in Chapter 513.

dǎdǔ
to make a bet
Introduced in Chapter 528.

dàfang generous; open-handed
Introduced in Chapter 265.

打工 dǎgōng
to work part-time; to have a part-time job Introduced in Chapter 255.

dǎgǔ
to play the drums
Introduced in Chapter 257.

dàhǎi
the open sea
Introduced in Chapter 238.

dài to bring; to take along Introduced in Chapter 89.

dàiyù
pay and conditions (of a job)
Introduced in Chapter 486.

dàizi
bag; sack
Introduced in Chapter 119.

dǎjià
to fight; to get into a fistfight
Introduced in Chapter 312.

大家 dàjiā
everyone, built from known characters
Introduced in Chapter 13.

打开 dǎkāi
to open; to switch on Introduced in Chapter 171.

dǎléi to thunder
Introduced in Chapter 136.

大量 dàliàng
a large amount of; in large amounts Introduced in Chapter 526.

大米 dàmǐ
uncooked rice; rice grain
Introduced in Chapter 161.

dàn bland; weak (in taste)
Introduced in Chapter 172.

dànǎo brain
Introduced in Chapter 477.

dānchéng
one way (of a ticket or a trip)
Introduced in Chapter 284.

当 dāng
to work as; to be (a job or a role)
Introduced in Chapter 287.

dàngāo cake
Introduced in Chapter 75.

dāngchǎng on the spot; there and then Introduced in Chapter 295.

当地 dāngdì
of that place; in the place in question
Introduced in Chapter 316.

当家 dāngjiā
to run the household
Introduced in Chapter 509.

当面 dāngmiàn
to someone's face; in person
Introduced in Chapter 355.

当年 dāngnián
back then; in those years
Introduced in Chapter 322.

dāngrán of course
Introduced in Chapter 217.

dāngshí
at that time; then
Introduced in Chapter 187.

当天 dàngtiān
that same day; on that very day
Introduced in Chapter 295.

当心 dāngxīn
to watch out; to look out
Introduced in Chapter 366.

当真 dàngzhēn
to take it seriously; to take at face value Introduced in Chapter 373.

dànjì off season; quiet season
Introduced in Chapter 432.

dānrénjiān single room
Introduced in Chapter 200.

但是 dànshì
but; however Introduced in Chapter 369.

dǎnxiǎo
timid; easily scared
Introduced in Chapter 463.

dānxīn to worry
Introduced in Chapter 125.

但愿 dànyuàn
let us hope that; if only Introduced in Chapter 535.

dǎnzi courage; nerve Introduced in Chapter 332.

dào to arrive; to reach Introduced in Chapter 72.

dāo knife
Introduced in Chapter 101.

dǎo
to topple over; to fall down (of a thing)
Introduced in Chapter 176.

岛 dǎo island
Introduced in Chapter 444.

到时候 dào shíhou
when the time comes Introduced in Chapter 391.

dàochē to reverse the car; to back up Introduced in Chapter 420.

dàochù everywhere
Introduced in Chapter 211.

dàodá
to reach a destination; to arrive Introduced in Chapter 196.

dàodé morality; ethics
Introduced in Chapter 359.

dàodǐ
on earth (in a question)
Introduced in Chapter 372.

dǎoháng to navigate by satnav
Introduced in Chapter 422.

道理 dàoli
sense; the reason something makes sense Introduced in Chapter 353.

dǎoméi
to be out of luck; to have bad luck
Introduced in Chapter 529.

到期 dàoqī
to fall due; to run out Introduced in Chapter 389.

dàoqiàn to apologise
Introduced in Chapter 275.

dàotián
rice paddy; paddy field
Introduced in Chapter 439.

dǎoyóu tour guide
Introduced in Chapter 213.

dǎozhì to result in something bad
Introduced in Chapter 537.

dǎpò to break; to smash
Introduced in Chapter 187.

dǎqiú
to play ball
Introduced in Chapter 56.

dǎrǎo to disturb
Introduced in Chapter 209.

大人 dàren adult; grown-up
Introduced in Chapter 266.

dǎsǎn
to put up an umbrella
Introduced in Chapter 518.

打扫 dǎsǎo
to clean (a room); to sweep Introduced in Chapter 133.

dàshēng loudly; in a loud voice
Introduced in Chapter 362.

大事 dàshì
big deal; important matter
Introduced in Chapter 276.

dǎsuàn to plan to; to intend Introduced in Chapter 148.

dàtáng hotel lobby
Introduced in Chapter 425.

dǎting to ask around; to inquire Introduced in Chapter 217.

dǎtōng to get through on the phone Introduced in Chapter 320.

dàwù thick fog
Introduced in Chapter 518.

大小 dàxiǎo
size
Introduced in Chapter 108.

大学 dàxué
university; college, built from known characters
Introduced in Chapter 13.

大学生 dàxuésheng university student, built from known characters Introduced in Chapter 13.

大衣 dàyī
overcoat; coat
Introduced in Chapter 165.

dǎyìn to print out
Introduced in Chapter 212.

dāying
to agree (to a request); to say yes
Introduced in Chapter 275.

大约 dàyuē
approximately; roughly (a time or number) Introduced in Chapter 390.

dǎzhàng
to fight a war; to go into battle
Introduced in Chapter 327.

dǎzhé
to give a discount; to be on sale
Introduced in Chapter 122.

dǎzhēn to have an injection; to give one Introduced in Chapter 228.

打字 dǎzì to type Introduced in Chapter 204.

得 de
the particle between a verb and how well it is done Introduced in Chapter 152.

的 de de — the particle that puts an owner in front of what is owned, and carries no tone
Introduced in Chapter 23.

的话 dehuà
if (closing a condition)
Introduced in Chapter 288.

děi to have to; must
Introduced in Chapter 282.

得救 déjiù
to be rescued; to be saved from danger
Introduced in Chapter 299.

dēng lamp; light
Introduced in Chapter 87.

děng to wait; to wait for Introduced in Chapter 48.

dēngjì to register officially Introduced in Chapter 316.

dēngjī to board a plane
Introduced in Chapter 413.

dēngjīkǒu departure gate
Introduced in Chapter 415.

dēngjīpái boarding pass
Introduced in Chapter 415.

dēnglóng lantern
Introduced in Chapter 335.

dēnglù to log in Introduced in Chapter 204.

dēngpào light bulb
Introduced in Chapter 174.

dēngshān to climb a mountain
Introduced in Chapter 435.

dēngtǎ lighthouse
Introduced in Chapter 444.

第二天 dì'èr tiān
the next day; the following day
Introduced in Chapter 279.

点 diǎn o'clock; dot
Introduced in Chapter 48.

diǎncài to order food
Introduced in Chapter 71.

diànchí
battery
Introduced in Chapter 208.

diànfèi electricity bill
Introduced in Chapter 383.

电工 diàngōng electrician
Introduced in Chapter 259.

电话 diànhuà
telephone; phone call Introduced in Chapter 63.

diǎnjī to click (on a screen)
Introduced in Chapter 204.

diànnǎo computer
Introduced in Chapter 58.

diànshì television
Introduced in Chapter 109.

diàntái radio station
Introduced in Chapter 290.

diàntī lift; elevator
Introduced in Chapter 192.

点头 diǎntóu to nod
Introduced in Chapter 228.

点心 diǎnxin
dim sum; light snacks and pastries Introduced in Chapter 120.

diànyǐng film; movie
Introduced in Chapter 55.

diànyǐngyuàn cinema
Introduced in Chapter 190.

diàochá to investigate
Introduced in Chapter 311.

diàotóu to turn round (in a car); to make a U-turn Introduced in Chapter 424.

diàoyú to go fishing
Introduced in Chapter 141.

dìbǎn
the floor of a room; floorboards
Introduced in Chapter 522.

dìdi younger brother
Introduced in Chapter 32.

地点 dìdiǎn place; venue
Introduced in Chapter 207.

dié to fold
Introduced in Chapter 133.

dìfang place
Introduced in Chapter 81.

dǐkànglì resistance to illness
Introduced in Chapter 484.

地理 dìlǐ
geography
Introduced in Chapter 492.

dìng
to make a booking; to order
Introduced in Chapter 120.

dìnghūn to get engaged
Introduced in Chapter 305.

dìngjū
to settle down; to make a place your home
Introduced in Chapter 313.

定期 dìngqī
at regular intervals; periodically Introduced in Chapter 390.

dìqiú
the earth; our planet
Introduced in Chapter 380.

地区 dìqū
region; area (of a country)
Introduced in Chapter 398.

dìtiě underground; metro
Introduced in Chapter 106.

dìtú
map
Introduced in Chapter 211.

diū
to lose (a thing)
Introduced in Chapter 116.

dìxíng
terrain; lie of the land
Introduced in Chapter 436.

dìyī first Introduced in Chapter 140.

dìzhèn earthquake
Introduced in Chapter 300.

dìzhǐ
address
Introduced in Chapter 120.

dǒng to understand
Introduced in Chapter 53.

东北 dōngběi
northeast; the Northeast (of China)
Introduced in Chapter 422.

dōngbian
the east; on the east side
Introduced in Chapter 117.

dòngchē
D-class bullet train
Introduced in Chapter 407.

dòngjiāng to be frozen stiff
Introduced in Chapter 514.

东南 dōngnán southeast
Introduced in Chapter 423.

dǒngshì sensible; grown-up for one's age (of a child)
Introduced in Chapter 508.

dōngtiān winter
Introduced in Chapter 131.

dòngwù animal Introduced in Chapter 223.

dōngxi thing; things
Introduced in Chapter 42.

都 dōu
all; both
Introduced in Chapter 94.

dòufu tofu; bean curd
Introduced in Chapter 177.

dòushā
sweet bean paste
Introduced in Chapter 341.

dú
to read aloud; to study
Introduced in Chapter 54.

duǎn
short in length; brief
Introduced in Chapter 61.

duànliàn to exercise; to work out Introduced in Chapter 135.

duǎnxìn text message
Introduced in Chapter 118.

dǔchē
traffic jam; to be stuck in traffic Introduced in Chapter 95.

dùchuán ferry
Introduced in Chapter 411.

对 duì
duì — 'right', and on its own the commonest way to agree in spoken Mandarin Introduced in Chapter 26.

duì'àn
the far bank; the opposite bank
Introduced in Chapter 442.

对不起 duìbuqǐ
sorry
Introduced in Chapter 64.

duìfāng
the other side; the other party
Introduced in Chapter 348.

duìhuàn to exchange money
Introduced in Chapter 419.

duìmiàn opposite; across from
Introduced in Chapter 82.

对手 duìshǒu opponent; rival
Introduced in Chapter 262.

duìzhǎng team captain; team leader
Introduced in Chapter 499.

dùjià
to go on holiday; to spend a holiday Introduced in Chapter 184.

dùn to stew
Introduced in Chapter 168.

多 duō
many; much; a lot of
Introduced in Chapter 431.

多大 duō dà
how old (asking a person's age)
Introduced in Chapter 78.

duōjiǔ
how long (a time)
Introduced in Chapter 286.

duōkuī
it is thanks to; luckily for
Introduced in Chapter 541.

多年 duōnián
for many years
Introduced in Chapter 343.

多少 duōshao how much; how many
Introduced in Chapter 41.

多谢 duōxiè
many thanks; thanks a lot
Introduced in Chapter 457.

duǒyǔ
to shelter from the rain
Introduced in Chapter 234.

多云 duōyún
cloudy
Introduced in Chapter 219.

dúshēngzǐnǚ only child
Introduced in Chapter 508.

读音 dúyīn
pronunciation; how a character is read Introduced in Chapter 249.

dùzi belly; tummy
Introduced in Chapter 230.

è hungry
Introduced in Chapter 38.

èmèng nightmare
Introduced in Chapter 463.

二 èr
two Introduced in Chapter 3.

ěrduo ear
Introduced in Chapter 52.

儿歌 érgē
nursery rhyme; children's song
Introduced in Chapter 504.

二十 èrshí
twenty — two ten, and the same ten words now reach ninety-nine
Introduced in Chapter 21.

二手 èrshǒu
second-hand
Introduced in Chapter 386.

儿子 érzi son, now read and written Introduced in Chapter 12.

étóu forehead
Introduced in Chapter 472.

fābiǎo
to publish an article; to make public Introduced in Chapter 292.

fādāi
to stare blankly; to be lost in a daze Introduced in Chapter 466.

fādǒu
to tremble; to shiver
Introduced in Chapter 463.

发光 fāguāng
to give off light; to shine
Introduced in Chapter 517.

发火 fāhuǒ
to lose one's temper
Introduced in Chapter 464.

fákuǎn
to impose a fine; a penalty fine
Introduced in Chapter 312.

fǎlǜ law; the law
Introduced in Chapter 363.

发明 fāmíng
to invent; an invention Introduced in Chapter 291.

fán annoyed; fed up
Introduced in Chapter 458.

饭 fàn cooked rice; meal
Introduced in Chapter 38.

fǎnbó
to argue back; to refute Introduced in Chapter 353.

fàndiàn restaurant
Introduced in Chapter 44.

fǎnduì to be against; to oppose Introduced in Chapter 270.

fànfǎ to break the law
Introduced in Chapter 363.

fàng to put; to place
Introduced in Chapter 89.

fàng gēzi
to stand someone up Introduced in Chapter 397.

fāngbiàn convenient; handy
Introduced in Chapter 129.

房东 fángdōng
landlord; landlady
Introduced in Chapter 203.

方法 fāngfǎ
a way to solve a problem; means Introduced in Chapter 457.

fàngjià
to have time off; to go on holiday Introduced in Chapter 137.

fángjiān room
Introduced in Chapter 57.

fángkǎ room key card
Introduced in Chapter 425.

fàngqì
to give up
Introduced in Chapter 366.

fàngqíng
to clear up (of the sky)
Introduced in Chapter 219.

fángshàishuāng sunscreen
Introduced in Chapter 444.

fāngshì
a way of doing things; a mode Introduced in Chapter 385.

fàngsōng to relax; to loosen Introduced in Chapter 184.

fànguǎn
restaurant
Introduced in Chapter 182.

fāngxiàng direction; way
Introduced in Chapter 117.

fàngxīn to stop worrying; to be at ease
Introduced in Chapter 125.

fàngxué
to finish school for the day; (of a school) to let out Introduced in Chapter 249.

fāngyán dialect
Introduced in Chapter 436.

fángzi house
Introduced in Chapter 57.

fángzū rent for a home
Introduced in Chapter 203.

fānyì to translate; to interpret Introduced in Chapter 488.

fǎnzhèng anyway; in any case
Introduced in Chapter 372.

fànzuì to commit a crime
Introduced in Chapter 308.

发票 fāpiào official receipt Introduced in Chapter 428.

fāshāo to have a fever
Introduced in Chapter 130.

fāshēng
to happen; to take place
Introduced in Chapter 167.

fāsòng
to send electronically; to send a message or an email Introduced in Chapter 201.

fāxiàn to discover; to find out Introduced in Chapter 236.

fāyá to sprout; to bud
Introduced in Chapter 237.

fāyán to become inflamed
Introduced in Chapter 240.

fāyǎng to itch
Introduced in Chapter 480.

fāzhǎn
to develop; to expand Introduced in Chapter 374.

féi
loose; baggy (of clothes)
Introduced in Chapter 199.

飞 fēi
to fly
Introduced in Chapter 413.

fēicháng extremely; very Introduced in Chapter 77.

fēijī aeroplane
Introduced in Chapter 72.

飞快 fēikuài
very fast; as fast as flying Introduced in Chapter 413.

fēixíng flight; flying (of an aircraft)
Introduced in Chapter 416.

féizào soap
Introduced in Chapter 105.

fèn measure word for a serving; portion Introduced in Chapter 161.

fēn minute; to divide
Introduced in Chapter 48.

fèndòu to struggle (towards a goal)
Introduced in Chapter 513.

féng to sew; to stitch
Introduced in Chapter 521.

fēng wind
Introduced in Chapter 66.

fēngjǐng scenery; landscape
Introduced in Chapter 226.

fēngsú
custom; social custom
Introduced in Chapter 338.

风味 fēngwèi
local flavour; distinctive taste
Introduced in Chapter 449.

fēngxiǎn risk
Introduced in Chapter 389.

风衣 fēngyī
a windbreaker; a light coat against the wind Introduced in Chapter 218.

fěnhóng pink Introduced in Chapter 139.

fēnlèi to sort into kinds
Introduced in Chapter 381.

fènnù furious; indignant
Introduced in Chapter 464.

fēnshǒu
to break up; to end a relationship Introduced in Chapter 307.

fēnxī to analyse Introduced in Chapter 351.

fēnxiǎng to share
Introduced in Chapter 343.

fēnzhōng minute (a length of time)
Introduced in Chapter 143.

fǒurèn to deny Introduced in Chapter 355.

fù
to pay
Introduced in Chapter 114.

fú
to help up; to hold up with a hand
Introduced in Chapter 301.

fǔdǎo
to tutor; to give guidance
Introduced in Chapter 493.

fùjìn nearby; in the area
Introduced in Chapter 111.

父母 fùmǔ
parents; one's mother and father
Introduced in Chapter 509.

父女 fùnǚ
father and daughter
Introduced in Chapter 507.

fūqī married couple; husband and wife
Introduced in Chapter 507.

父亲 fùqīn
father (the formal word)
Introduced in Chapter 511.

fúwùtái service desk; information desk
Introduced in Chapter 454.

fúwùyuán waiter; attendant
Introduced in Chapter 92.

fùxí
to revise; to go over again
Introduced in Chapter 121.

fùyìn to photocopy
Introduced in Chapter 212.

fùzé to be in charge (of)
Introduced in Chapter 263.

父子 fùzǐ
father and son
Introduced in Chapter 507.

改 gǎi
to alter; to amend Introduced in Chapter 392.

该 gāi
it's time to; should (by now)
Introduced in Chapter 282.

改变 gǎibiàn
to make different (a plan or a habit)
Introduced in Chapter 392.

gǎiháng to change careers
Introduced in Chapter 401.

改口 gǎikǒu
to change one's tune; to take back what one said
Introduced in Chapter 392.

改名 gǎimíng to change the name (of)
Introduced in Chapter 392.

改期 gǎiqī
to change the date (of an event)
Introduced in Chapter 392.

gǎiqiān
to change a booking; to change a ticket to another train Introduced in Chapter 406.

gǎishàn
to make conditions better
Introduced in Chapter 541.

gǎitiān
some other day; another time Introduced in Chapter 234.

gǎizhèng
to put a mistake right
Introduced in Chapter 356.

gǎndào to feel Introduced in Chapter 252.

gǎndòng to move; to touch someone's heart
Introduced in Chapter 271.

gāngcái
a moment ago
Introduced in Chapter 126.

gǎngkǒu port; harbour
Introduced in Chapter 412.

gāngqín piano
Introduced in Chapter 110.

gànhuó
to get the jobs done; to work Introduced in Chapter 160.

gǎnjí
to go to market day; to go to a country market Introduced in Chapter 440.

gǎnjī
to feel deeply grateful Introduced in Chapter 457.

gānjìng clean
Introduced in Chapter 93.

感觉 gǎnjué
to feel (how something seems); a feeling Introduced in Chapter 286.

gǎnkuài quickly; hurry
Introduced in Chapter 145.

gǎnmào
to catch a cold; a cold
Introduced in Chapter 130.

感情 gǎnqíng affection between people; feelings for each other Introduced in Chapter 459.

gǎnrǎn
to become infected
Introduced in Chapter 481.

gǎnshàng
to catch in time; to make it onto a train Introduced in Chapter 391.

gānxǐ to dry-clean
Introduced in Chapter 215.

感想 gǎnxiǎng
impressions afterwards; thoughts
Introduced in Chapter 346.

gǎnxiè to thank (warmly)
Introduced in Chapter 77.

gānzào
dry air; dry (of weather or skin)
Introduced in Chapter 218.

gāo tall; high Introduced in Chapter 61.

gàobié
to say goodbye; to take leave Introduced in Chapter 336.

gāofēng peak (of traffic); rush hour
Introduced in Chapter 409.

高级 gāojí advanced; high-level
Introduced in Chapter 496.

高考 gāokǎo college entrance exam
Introduced in Chapter 494.

高手 gāoshǒu expert; master (at something) Introduced in Chapter 260.

gàosu to tell
Introduced in Chapter 214.

高速 gāosù
expressway Introduced in Chapter 421.

gāotiě
high-speed railway
Introduced in Chapter 402.

gāoxìng happy; glad Introduced in Chapter 51.

gāoyuán plateau; highland
Introduced in Chapter 437.

高中 gāozhōng
senior high school
Introduced in Chapter 248.

gē song
Introduced in Chapter 128.

个 gè
gè — the measure word, and the fact that a Mandarin number cannot touch a noun without one Introduced in Chapter 24.

gébì
next door
Introduced in Chapter 427.

gēbo arm
Introduced in Chapter 474.

gēcí
the words of a song; lyrics
Introduced in Chapter 504.

gēge
elder brother
Introduced in Chapter 32.

给 gěi to give; to, for Introduced in Chapter 89.

gēmí fan (of a singer)
Introduced in Chapter 506.

gēn with; and; (gēn … yíyàng) the same as Introduced in Chapter 153.

gēnběn not in the least; (not) at all Introduced in Chapter 538.

gèng
even more; still more Introduced in Chapter 153.

gēnjù basis; what something rests on Introduced in Chapter 350.

gēshǒu singer
Introduced in Chapter 257.

格外 géwài
more than usual; unusually
Introduced in Chapter 525.

个性 gèxìng
individuality; a strong personality
Introduced in Chapter 467.

géyīn
soundproofing; soundproof
Introduced in Chapter 378.

个子 gèzi height; build (of a person)
Introduced in Chapter 124.

格子 gézi
a checked pattern; squares Introduced in Chapter 527.

gōngchǎng factory
Introduced in Chapter 487.

gōngchéngshī engineer
Introduced in Chapter 488.

gōnggòng public; shared by everyone
Introduced in Chapter 360.

公交 gōngjiāo public transport
Introduced in Chapter 408.

gōngjiāochē city bus
Introduced in Chapter 106.

gōngjīn kilogram
Introduced in Chapter 526.

gōngjù tool
Introduced in Chapter 208.

公里 gōnglǐ kilometre
Introduced in Chapter 205.

公路 gōnglù
highway; main road
Introduced in Chapter 421.

gōngrén worker
Introduced in Chapter 80.

gōngsī company; firm
Introduced in Chapter 80.

gōngxǐ to congratulate Introduced in Chapter 337.

gōngyuán park
Introduced in Chapter 100.

公正 gōngzhèng fair; impartial Introduced in Chapter 362.

gōngzhǔ princess Introduced in Chapter 329.

gōngzī pay; wages
Introduced in Chapter 255.

gōngzuò to work; job
Introduced in Chapter 35.

gòu enough
Introduced in Chapter 188.

gǒu dog
Introduced in Chapter 67.

gòuwù
to go shopping; to do some shopping Introduced in Chapter 434.

guà
to hang; to hang up
Introduced in Chapter 174.

guàduàn to hang up the phone; to end a call Introduced in Chapter 320.

guāfēng to be windy
Introduced in Chapter 136.

guàhào
to register at a clinic; to register at a hospital
Introduced in Chapter 231.

guǎi to turn a corner
Introduced in Chapter 111.

怪 guài
to put the blame on someone Introduced in Chapter 539.

guàibude
no wonder
Introduced in Chapter 235.

怪事 guàishì
a strange business; an odd thing
Introduced in Chapter 539.

guāliǎn to have a shave; to shave one's face Introduced in Chapter 164.

guān
to shut; to close; to switch off
Introduced in Chapter 65.

guānbì
to shut down; to be shut to the public Introduced in Chapter 432.

guāndiǎn point of view; standpoint
Introduced in Chapter 346.

光 guāng
light from the sun or a lamp Introduced in Chapter 517.

guǎngbō to broadcast; a broadcast
Introduced in Chapter 292.

guǎngchǎng public square
Introduced in Chapter 194.

guǎngchǎngwǔ square dancing
Introduced in Chapter 376.

guǎnggào advert; advertisement
Introduced in Chapter 156.

guàngjiē
to stroll the shops; to go window-shopping Introduced in Chapter 141.

guānguāng to go sightseeing
Introduced in Chapter 430.

关机 guānjī
to switch off (a phone or a computer)
Introduced in Chapter 198.

guānjiàn
key; crucial point
Introduced in Chapter 370.

guànjūn champion
Introduced in Chapter 501.

guǎnlǐ to manage; to be in charge of Introduced in Chapter 490.

guānmén
to close (for the day); to shut the door
Introduced in Chapter 155.

guānxīn to care about Introduced in Chapter 123.

guānzhòng
viewers; spectators; the people watching a show Introduced in Chapter 292.

guānzhù to follow a story closely; to keep an eye on Introduced in Chapter 293.

guàshī
to report the loss of (a card or document)
Introduced in Chapter 285.

古城 gǔchéng
ancient walled town; old town
Introduced in Chapter 446.

古代 gǔdài ancient times
Introduced in Chapter 323.

gūdān lonely; on one's own
Introduced in Chapter 459.

古怪 gǔguài
eccentric; peculiar (of a person)
Introduced in Chapter 540.

guì expensive
Introduced in Chapter 42.

鬼 guǐ
ghost
Introduced in Chapter 332.

guīdìng rule; regulation
Introduced in Chapter 209.

guìhuā osmanthus flowers
Introduced in Chapter 342.

guījù
rules of conduct; manners
Introduced in Chapter 340.

guīzé rules of a game; set procedure
Introduced in Chapter 359.

guìzi cupboard; cabinet
Introduced in Chapter 175.

gūjì
to reckon; to make a rough guess
Introduced in Chapter 346.

gǔjì historic site
Introduced in Chapter 430.

gùkè customer
Introduced in Chapter 202.

古老 gǔlǎo ancient; age-old
Introduced in Chapter 321.

gǔlì to encourage Introduced in Chapter 368.

guō
pot; pan; wok
Introduced in Chapter 170.

国歌 guógē national anthem
Introduced in Chapter 504.

国画 guóhuà
traditional Chinese painting
Introduced in Chapter 502.

guójì international Introduced in Chapter 419.

guójí citizenship; the country one belongs to Introduced in Chapter 455.

国家 guójiā country; nation
Introduced in Chapter 326.

过节 guòjié
to celebrate a festival
Introduced in Chapter 338.

过来 guòlai to come over Introduced in Chapter 180.

guòmǐn to be allergic
Introduced in Chapter 480.

guónèi
domestic (inside the country)
Introduced in Chapter 419.

guònián to celebrate the New Year
Introduced in Chapter 137.

过期 guòqī
to be out of date; to have expired
Introduced in Chapter 455.

国庆 Guóqìng
National Day
Introduced in Chapter 339.

过去 guòqù
in the past; to go over (there)
Introduced in Chapter 150.

果然 guǒrán
sure enough; as expected
Introduced in Chapter 301.

果树 guǒshù
fruit tree
Introduced in Chapter 516.

国外 guówài abroad; overseas
Introduced in Chapter 261.

国王 guówáng
king
Introduced in Chapter 330.

guǒyuán orchard
Introduced in Chapter 439.

guǒzhī fruit juice
Introduced in Chapter 102.

古人 gǔrén
the ancients; people of long ago
Introduced in Chapter 321.

gùshi story
Introduced in Chapter 250.

古书 gǔshū
ancient book; old book
Introduced in Chapter 321.

gǔtou bone
Introduced in Chapter 477.

故意 gùyì
on purpose; deliberately Introduced in Chapter 309.

gǔzhǎng to clap; to applaud
Introduced in Chapter 257.

gǔzhé to break a bone
Introduced in Chapter 301.

gùzhí stubborn
Introduced in Chapter 470.

还 hái
still; yet
Introduced in Chapter 154.

hái xíng
hái xíng — 'not bad', the honest middle answer between fine and tired Introduced in Chapter 30.

hǎibiān
the seaside; the seashore
Introduced in Chapter 227.

hǎiguān
customs at the border
Introduced in Chapter 417.

hǎilàng sea wave; a wave of the sea
Introduced in Chapter 445.

hàipà
to be scared
Introduced in Chapter 236.

还是 háishi
or (in a question)
Introduced in Chapter 154.

海外 hǎiwài
overseas; beyond the sea
Introduced in Chapter 433.

hǎixiān seafood
Introduced in Chapter 450.

hàixiū shy; bashful
Introduced in Chapter 265.

háizi child
Introduced in Chapter 33.

hǎn to shout; to call out Introduced in Chapter 298.

hángbān scheduled flight
Introduced in Chapter 196.

hángyè line of business; industry
Introduced in Chapter 487.

hángzhànlóu airport terminal
Introduced in Chapter 415.

hánlěng bitterly cold (of a climate)
Introduced in Chapter 515.

汉语 hànyǔ
the Chinese language; Mandarin
Introduced in Chapter 16.

汉字 hànzì
Chinese character; Han character
Introduced in Chapter 16.

号 hào
day of the month; number (in a series)
Introduced in Chapter 189.

好 hǎo
good, well
Introduced in Chapter 1.

好不好 hǎo bu hǎo
is it good, written from three characters already yours and no new shape at all
Introduced in Chapter 19.

好吃 hǎochī
tasty; good to eat
Introduced in Chapter 69.

hǎochu benefit; advantage
Introduced in Chapter 373.

好喝 hǎohē
nice to drink
Introduced in Chapter 71.

hǎojiǔ
a long time; ages
Introduced in Chapter 185.

好看 hǎokàn
good-looking or nice to look at Introduced in Chapter 18.

好客 hàokè hospitable Introduced in Chapter 273.

hàomǎ number (of a phone, a room); identifying number Introduced in Chapter 63.

hǎopíng
good review; favourable comment Introduced in Chapter 452.

hǎotīng pleasant to hear
Introduced in Chapter 128.

hǎoxiàng
as if; to look like (a guess)
Introduced in Chapter 280.

好笑 hǎoxiào
funny
Introduced in Chapter 267.

好意 hǎoyì
good intentions; a kind thought Introduced in Chapter 355.

hǎoyùn good luck
Introduced in Chapter 337.

hǎozhuǎn
to take a turn for the better; to start to improve Introduced in Chapter 483.

和 hé
hé — 'and' between two nouns, and never between two sentences
Introduced in Chapter 27.

喝 hē
to drink
Introduced in Chapter 39.

河 hé river
Introduced in Chapter 442.

héfàn
boxed meal; packed lunch
Introduced in Chapter 182.

hēi
black; dark
Introduced in Chapter 60.

hējiǔ to drink alcohol
Introduced in Chapter 239.

hèn
to hate deeply; to resent
Introduced in Chapter 462.

很 hěn
hěn — 'very', and the plain link Mandarin puts in front of an adjective Introduced in Chapter 30.

很好 hěn hǎo
hěn hǎo — 'fine', the answer to how are you, and two third tones side by side Introduced in Chapter 30.

和气 héqi
good-natured; pleasant to deal with Introduced in Chapter 468.

héshì right; suitable; a good fit
Introduced in Chapter 108.

hétong contract; written agreement Introduced in Chapter 203.

héyǐng
to have a group photo taken; to pose for a group photo Introduced in Chapter 431.

hézi
box; small case
Introduced in Chapter 119.

hézuò
to work together; to cooperate Introduced in Chapter 490.

hóng red
Introduced in Chapter 60.

hǒng
to soothe a child; to coax
Introduced in Chapter 510.

红包 hóngbāo
red envelope
Introduced in Chapter 334.

hóngchá
black tea
Introduced in Chapter 166.

红火 hónghuǒ prosperous; flourishing
Introduced in Chapter 334.

hónglǜdēng traffic lights
Introduced in Chapter 194.

hòu
after; behind; later
Introduced in Chapter 82.

hòubèi
the back of the body
Introduced in Chapter 475.

hòubian behind; at the back
Introduced in Chapter 111.

候车 hòuchē
to wait for a train or bus
Introduced in Chapter 402.

hòuchēshì station waiting room
Introduced in Chapter 403.

后代 hòudài
descendants; later generations
Introduced in Chapter 325.

后果 hòuguǒ
consequences; what comes of it Introduced in Chapter 297.

hòuhuǐ to regret
Introduced in Chapter 187.

后来 hòulái
afterwards; later (in the past)
Introduced in Chapter 150.

后妈 hòumā
stepmother
Introduced in Chapter 509.

后天 hòutiān
the day after tomorrow
Introduced in Chapter 147.

hóuzi monkey
Introduced in Chapter 223.

hú lake
Introduced in Chapter 226.

huā flower
Introduced in Chapter 68.

话 huà
words; speech
Introduced in Chapter 53.

huábīng to ice-skate
Introduced in Chapter 274.

huáchuán to row a boat
Introduced in Chapter 246.

花店 huādiàn
florist's; flower shop
Introduced in Chapter 224.

huàfèi
phone charges
Introduced in Chapter 319.

huàhuà
to paint pictures; to draw Introduced in Chapter 110.

huài broken; bad
Introduced in Chapter 103.

huàichu harm; downside
Introduced in Chapter 373.

huáiniàn to cherish the memory of; to look back fondly on Introduced in Chapter 322.

huáiyí to suspect; to doubt Introduced in Chapter 310.

huáiyùn
to be pregnant; to be expecting a baby
Introduced in Chapter 302.

画家 huàjiā
painter (an artist)
Introduced in Chapter 502.

huàn
to change; to exchange
Introduced in Chapter 108.

huán to give back
Introduced in Chapter 64.

huánbǎo eco-friendly
Introduced in Chapter 380.

huànchéng to change trains or lines
Introduced in Chapter 402.

huáng yellow
Introduced in Chapter 139.

huāng
flustered; in a panic
Introduced in Chapter 301.

huángdì emperor
Introduced in Chapter 327.

huánghūn
twilight; the fading light of evening
Introduced in Chapter 517.

还价 huánjià
to offer a lower price back; to make a counter-offer Introduced in Chapter 524.

huánjìng
environment; surroundings
Introduced in Chapter 380.

欢送 huānsòng
to give a send-off
Introduced in Chapter 336.

huānyíng welcome
Introduced in Chapter 74.

huāqián to spend money
Introduced in Chapter 188.

huáqiáo overseas Chinese; a Chinese person settled abroad
Introduced in Chapter 433.

花生 huāshēng peanut Introduced in Chapter 237.

huásuàn good value; worth it
Introduced in Chapter 386.

话题 huàtí
topic of conversation
Introduced in Chapter 354.

huáxuě to ski
Introduced in Chapter 221.

huāyuán garden
Introduced in Chapter 224.

huàzhǎn art exhibition
Introduced in Chapter 502.

huàzhuāng to put on make-up
Introduced in Chapter 164.

húdié butterfly
Introduced in Chapter 224.

huí
to go back; to return
Introduced in Chapter 43.

huī grey
Introduced in Chapter 139.

会 huì can (having learned how)
Introduced in Chapter 90.

huíchéng return journey; the journey back Introduced in Chapter 428.

huídá to answer
Introduced in Chapter 121.

回电 huídiàn to call back; to return a call Introduced in Chapter 319.

huífù
to reply (to a message)
Introduced in Chapter 157.

huīfù to recover; to get back to normal
Introduced in Chapter 241.

回国 huíguó
to go home from abroad; to return to one's own country
Introduced in Chapter 191.

回来 huílái
to come back
Introduced in Chapter 191.

回去 huíqù
to go back there
Introduced in Chapter 191.

huíshōu to recycle
Introduced in Chapter 381.

huíyì to recall; to think back on Introduced in Chapter 247.

回音 huíyīn
reply; echo
Introduced in Chapter 318.

huìyuán
a member of a club or a shop's scheme
Introduced in Chapter 527.

护理 hùlǐ to care for the sick; to tend Introduced in Chapter 482.

hūnlǐ wedding
Introduced in Chapter 254.

hūnshā wedding dress
Introduced in Chapter 307.

hūnyīn
marriage; the bond of marriage
Introduced in Chapter 317.

活 huó
to live; alive
Introduced in Chapter 302.

火车 huǒchē train
Introduced in Chapter 72.

huǒchēzhàn railway station
Introduced in Chapter 73.

huòdé to win (a prize); to be awarded Introduced in Chapter 501.

huódòng
an activity; an organised event
Introduced in Chapter 376.

活该 huógāi
it serves them right; serves you right
Introduced in Chapter 312.

huópō
full of life; vivacious
Introduced in Chapter 467.

火气 huǒqì temper; anger
Introduced in Chapter 464.

huòshèng
to win a contest; to be victorious Introduced in Chapter 500.

huǒzāi
big fire; a fire that destroys buildings Introduced in Chapter 298.

huòzhě or (in a statement)
Introduced in Chapter 154.

hùshi nurse
Introduced in Chapter 231.

护送 hùsòng
to escort
Introduced in Chapter 443.

hútòng
lane; alley (in an old city)
Introduced in Chapter 446.

hūxī to breathe
Introduced in Chapter 239.

hùxiāng
each other; mutually Introduced in Chapter 375.

hùzhào passport
Introduced in Chapter 116.

húzi beard; moustache
Introduced in Chapter 233.

jì
to post; to send by post
Introduced in Chapter 118.

jǐ
how many; a few
Introduced in Chapter 48.

家 jiā
home or family, now read and written Introduced in Chapter 12.

jiābān to work overtime
Introduced in Chapter 255.

jiǎbǎn ship's deck
Introduced in Chapter 412.

家常菜 jiāchángcài home cooking; everyday dishes
Introduced in Chapter 182.

家电 jiādiàn
household appliance
Introduced in Chapter 520.

家教 jiājiào
private tutor
Introduced in Chapter 493.

jiājù furniture
Introduced in Chapter 175.

jiān
to fry (in a little oil)
Introduced in Chapter 113.

间 jiān
measure word for rooms
Introduced in Chapter 181.

jiānbǎng shoulder
Introduced in Chapter 476.

见报 jiànbào
to appear in the papers; to make the papers
Introduced in Chapter 293.

jiǎnchá to check; to examine Introduced in Chapter 208.

jiānchí to keep at it; to persist Introduced in Chapter 366.

jiǎndān simple Introduced in Chapter 144.

jiǎndāo scissors
Introduced in Chapter 186.

jiǎnféi
to lose weight; to diet
Introduced in Chapter 220.

jiāng
a great river; big river
Introduced in Chapter 442.

jiàngjià
to get cheaper; to come down in price
Introduced in Chapter 193.

jiǎngjià to haggle
Introduced in Chapter 193.

jiǎngjiu to be particular about Introduced in Chapter 340.

jiānglái
in the future; some day
Introduced in Chapter 148.

jiǎnglǐ
to be reasonable; to listen to reason Introduced in Chapter 351.

jiàngluò
to land; to come down onto the runway Introduced in Chapter 413.

jiǎngpǐn
a prize you win; an award
Introduced in Chapter 530.

jiǎngshù to tell about; to give an account of
Introduced in Chapter 325.

见鬼 jiànguǐ
how absurd; curse it Introduced in Chapter 332.

jiàngwēn to turn colder; to cool down
Introduced in Chapter 219.

jiànjiàn gradually; little by little
Introduced in Chapter 315.

见解 jiànjiě
insight; considered view
Introduced in Chapter 367.

jiànkāng healthy; health
Introduced in Chapter 239.

jiānkòng security camera; CCTV
Introduced in Chapter 382.

jiànlì to found; to set up Introduced in Chapter 326.

jiǎnlì
CV; résumé
Introduced in Chapter 486.

jiànmiàn to meet up; to see each other
Introduced in Chapter 84.

检票 jiǎnpiào
to check tickets
Introduced in Chapter 404.

jiānqiáng strong; tough (in spirit)
Introduced in Chapter 468.

jiǎnshǎo to reduce; to cut down
Introduced in Chapter 383.

jiànshēn
to work out; to keep fit
Introduced in Chapter 220.

jiǎnyā to relieve stress
Introduced in Chapter 485.

jiànyì to suggest
Introduced in Chapter 365.

jiānyù prison
Introduced in Chapter 312.

jiāo to teach
Introduced in Chapter 121.

jiǎo foot
Introduced in Chapter 52.

叫 jiào
to be called; to call Introduced in Chapter 34.

jiāo'ào proud; full of oneself Introduced in Chapter 470.

jiāohuā to water the plants
Introduced in Chapter 142.

jiāojǐng traffic police officer
Introduced in Chapter 311.

jiāoqū suburbs; outskirts
Introduced in Chapter 441.

jiàoshì classroom
Introduced in Chapter 79.

交通 jiāotōng
traffic; transport
Introduced in Chapter 409.

jiàoxǐng to wake someone up
Introduced in Chapter 158.

jiǎoxìng lucky by a fluke
Introduced in Chapter 531.

jiàoxun hard lesson learned Introduced in Chapter 356.

jiàoyù
to educate; to bring up (the young); education Introduced in Chapter 493.

jiǎozi dumpling
Introduced in Chapter 70.

jiàqī holidays; time off
Introduced in Chapter 137.

jiàqián price
Introduced in Chapter 156.

家人 jiārén family members, now read and written Introduced in Chapter 12.

假日 jiàrì
holiday; day off
Introduced in Chapter 338.

假如 jiǎrú supposing that Introduced in Chapter 534.

jiātíng
household; a family unit
Introduced in Chapter 317.

jiāwù
housework
Introduced in Chapter 133.

jiāxiāng
hometown; native place
Introduced in Chapter 342.

jiāxīn
to get a pay rise; to raise someone's pay Introduced in Chapter 491.

jiāyóu to cheer someone on; come on!
Introduced in Chapter 262.

家长 jiāzhǎng
pupil's parent; parent of a schoolchild Introduced in Chapter 248.

jiàzhào driving licence
Introduced in Chapter 420.

jīchǎng airport
Introduced in Chapter 73.

jìchéng
to inherit; to take over (from a parent)
Introduced in Chapter 330.

jìcún
to leave in safekeeping Introduced in Chapter 215.

jīdàn egg
Introduced in Chapter 40.

jìde to remember
Introduced in Chapter 217.

jīdòng excited; worked up
Introduced in Chapter 271.

jiè to borrow; to lend Introduced in Chapter 64.

jiébīng to freeze over Introduced in Chapter 243.

jiēdài
to receive visitors; to take care of guests Introduced in Chapter 433.

jiéguǒ
in the end; as a result; a result Introduced in Chapter 187.

jiéhūn to get married
Introduced in Chapter 254.

jiējī
to meet someone off a plane
Introduced in Chapter 419.

节假日 jiéjiàrì public holiday Introduced in Chapter 432.

jiějie elder sister
Introduced in Chapter 32.

jièjiǔ to give up drinking Introduced in Chapter 484.

jiéjú ending
Introduced in Chapter 329.

jiějué to solve; to settle Introduced in Chapter 217.

jièkǒu
excuse (a poor reason)
Introduced in Chapter 397.

jiélùn
conclusion
Introduced in Chapter 371.

jiěmèi sisters
Introduced in Chapter 508.

jiémù programme; TV show
Introduced in Chapter 267.

节能 jiénéng
to save energy; energy-saving
Introduced in Chapter 385.

节气 jiéqì
solar term
Introduced in Chapter 340.

节日 jiérì festival
Introduced in Chapter 137.

jièshào to introduce Introduced in Chapter 74.

jiěshì to explain
Introduced in Chapter 268.

jiēshòu to accept
Introduced in Chapter 275.

jiéshù
to come to an end; to finish
Introduced in Chapter 122.

解说 jiěshuō
to give a running commentary Introduced in Chapter 431.

jièsù
to lodge with a local family; to stay the night at someone's home Introduced in Chapter 440.

jièyān
to give up smoking
Introduced in Chapter 239.

节约 jiéyuē
to economise; to use sparingly Introduced in Chapter 389.

jiézhàng to settle the bill Introduced in Chapter 524.

jiēzhe next; straight after that Introduced in Chapter 278.

jígé to pass an exam
Introduced in Chapter 268.

jíhé
to gather; to assemble; to meet up as a group
Introduced in Chapter 434.

jīhū very nearly; all but Introduced in Chapter 531.

jìhuà plan
Introduced in Chapter 207.

机会 jīhuì chance; opportunity Introduced in Chapter 276.

jìjié season
Introduced in Chapter 131.

jíjiù
first aid
Introduced in Chapter 299.

jìn near; close
Introduced in Chapter 62.

jǐn tight
Introduced in Chapter 199.

进 jìn
to come in; to enter Introduced in Chapter 74.

jìnbù
to improve; to make progress
Introduced in Chapter 260.

进城 jìnchéng
to go to town; to move to the city
Introduced in Chapter 446.

警报 jǐngbào alarm; a warning siren Introduced in Chapter 311.

jǐngchá police officer; the police Introduced in Chapter 216.

jīngcháng regularly; often
Introduced in Chapter 162.

警车 jǐngchē
police car
Introduced in Chapter 311.

jǐngdiǎn sight; place of interest
Introduced in Chapter 207.

经过 jīngguò
the sequence of events; what happened
Introduced in Chapter 306.

jīngjìcāng economy class
Introduced in Chapter 414.

jìngjiǔ to propose a toast
Introduced in Chapter 361.

Jīngjù
Beijing opera
Introduced in Chapter 506.

jīnglì
an experience (something lived through) Introduced in Chapter 247.

jīnglǐ manager
Introduced in Chapter 263.

jǐngqū scenic area
Introduced in Chapter 430.

jìngrán to my surprise; unexpectedly Introduced in Chapter 315.

jīngshen vigour; get-up-and-go Introduced in Chapter 485.

jīngxǐ pleasant surprise
Introduced in Chapter 462.

jīngyàn experience; know-how Introduced in Chapter 261.

jìngzi mirror
Introduced in Chapter 105.

jìniàn to commemorate; to honour the memory of Introduced in Chapter 324.

jìniànpǐn souvenir
Introduced in Chapter 247.

进来 jìnlái
to come inside; to come in Introduced in Chapter 183.

jǐnliàng as far as one can
Introduced in Chapter 534.

今年 jīnnián
this year
Introduced in Chapter 47.

jīnpái
gold medal
Introduced in Chapter 501.

进球 jìnqiú
to score a goal
Introduced in Chapter 498.

进入 jìnrù to go into Introduced in Chapter 405.

jìnshì short-sighted
Introduced in Chapter 471.

今天 jīntiān
today
Introduced in Chapter 45.

进站 jìnzhàn
to pull into the station (of a train or bus)
Introduced in Chapter 407.

jǐnzhāng nervous; tense
Introduced in Chapter 265.

jìnzhǐ
to forbid; no (on signs)
Introduced in Chapter 115.

机票 jīpiào plane ticket
Introduced in Chapter 196.

jìrán given that; now that Introduced in Chapter 396.

jīròu
chicken meat; chicken (as food)
Introduced in Chapter 161.

jíshí
in time; promptly; before it was too late Introduced in Chapter 299.

jíshǐ even if Introduced in Chapter 396.

jìshù
skill; technique
Introduced in Chapter 260.

jítā guitar
Introduced in Chapter 128.

jiù old (of things); no longer new Introduced in Chapter 62.

九 jiǔ
nine — third tone, and a dip you have had since ni Introduced in Chapter 20.

就 jiù
then; right away
Introduced in Chapter 288.

酒店 jiǔdiàn
big hotel
Introduced in Chapter 425.

jiùhùchē ambulance
Introduced in Chapter 232.

救活 jiùhuó
to bring back to life
Introduced in Chapter 302.

救火 jiùhuǒ
to fight a fire; to put out a fire
Introduced in Chapter 298.

jiùmìng
help!; the cry for help
Introduced in Chapter 298.

救生衣 jiùshēngyī life jacket
Introduced in Chapter 411.

就业 jiùyè
to find employment; to get a job Introduced in Chapter 487.

jíxìngzi
an impatient sort; a hothead Introduced in Chapter 469.

jìxù
to carry on; to continue Introduced in Chapter 244.

jìyì memory
Introduced in Chapter 344.

机长 jīzhǎng
plane's captain; pilot in command
Introduced in Chapter 413.

jìzhě journalist; reporter
Introduced in Chapter 259.

jízhěn
emergency department; urgent treatment
Introduced in Chapter 482.

jìzhù
to commit to memory; to keep in mind
Introduced in Chapter 304.

juān to donate
Introduced in Chapter 375.

juéde
to find (that); to feel; to think (that) Introduced in Chapter 144.

juédìng to decide; a decision
Introduced in Chapter 184.

juésài
final (of a competition)
Introduced in Chapter 500.

juéwàng to give up all hope; to despair Introduced in Chapter 533.

jūgōng to bow
Introduced in Chapter 361.

jùhuì get-together; party
Introduced in Chapter 173.

jùjué to refuse; to turn down
Introduced in Chapter 264.

jùlí distance
Introduced in Chapter 205.

jǔlì to give an example
Introduced in Chapter 369.

jūmín
resident (of a place)
Introduced in Chapter 377.

jùshuō
it is said that; reportedly Introduced in Chapter 345.

jǔxíng
to hold a ceremony; to hold an event Introduced in Chapter 306.

kāfēi coffee
Introduced in Chapter 55.

kāi
to open; to switch on
Introduced in Chapter 65.

开车 kāichē
to drive
Introduced in Chapter 72.

kāichú
to fire; to dismiss (from a job or school)
Introduced in Chapter 490.

开船 kāichuán
to set sail
Introduced in Chapter 411.

开发 kāifā
to open up land for use Introduced in Chapter 438.

kāifàng
to be open to the public
Introduced in Chapter 192.

开关 kāiguān
a light switch; a switch on a machine
Introduced in Chapter 520.

开花 kāihuā
to bloom; to flower
Introduced in Chapter 224.

开会 kāihuì
to have a meeting
Introduced in Chapter 157.

开机 kāijī
to turn a phone on; to switch on a phone or a computer Introduced in Chapter 198.

kāilǎng cheerful and outgoing
Introduced in Chapter 467.

开门 kāimén
to open (for business); to open the door
Introduced in Chapter 155.

kāishǐ to begin; to start
Introduced in Chapter 122.

开水 kāishuǐ
boiled water; boiling water
Introduced in Chapter 166.

开通 kāitōng
to launch a new transport line
Introduced in Chapter 410.

开往 kāiwǎng
to be bound for a place
Introduced in Chapter 427.

开心 kāixīn
happy; in high spirits
Introduced in Chapter 252.

开学 kāixué
to start the school term
Introduced in Chapter 303.

kāiyào to prescribe medicine
Introduced in Chapter 231.

看 kàn
to look at or watch, recovered without pinyin
Introduced in Chapter 18.

看病 kànbìng
to see a doctor
Introduced in Chapter 130.

看不起 kànbuqǐ to look down on Introduced in Chapter 361.

kàndài to regard (in a certain way)
Introduced in Chapter 349.

看到 kàndào
to see; to catch sight of Introduced in Chapter 151.

kàndǒng
to understand (on reading or watching)
Introduced in Chapter 151.

kànfǎ view; opinion
Introduced in Chapter 256.

kāngfù
to get well again; to convalesce
Introduced in Chapter 483.

看见 kànjiàn
to see or catch sight of
Introduced in Chapter 18.

看来 kànlai
it seems; it looks as if
Introduced in Chapter 256.

看书 kànshū
to read a book or read books
Introduced in Chapter 18.

kànwàng to call on; to visit (a person)
Introduced in Chapter 180.

kǎo to roast; to bake
Introduced in Chapter 113.

kào'àn
to come in to shore
Introduced in Chapter 412.

考场 kǎochǎng
exam hall; exam room
Introduced in Chapter 495.

kàochuāng
next to the window
Introduced in Chapter 414.

kǎolǜ to think something over; to consider
Introduced in Chapter 346.

考上 kǎoshàng to get into (a school) by exam; to pass the entrance exam for Introduced in Chapter 494.

考生 kǎoshēng
exam candidate
Introduced in Chapter 494.

kǎoshì to take an exam
Introduced in Chapter 79.

kè lesson; class
Introduced in Chapter 54.

kě thirsty
Introduced in Chapter 39.

kě'ài
cute; lovable
Introduced in Chapter 123.

客车 kèchē
coach; long-distance bus
Introduced in Chapter 408.

客船 kèchuán passenger ship
Introduced in Chapter 412.

客房 kèfáng
hotel guest room
Introduced in Chapter 425.

可见 kějiàn which goes to show; so it is clear that Introduced in Chapter 365.

kělè cola
Introduced in Chapter 102.

kèmǎn
fully booked; with no vacancies Introduced in Chapter 426.

kěn to be willing to; to agree to Introduced in Chapter 355.

kěndìng for sure; without doubt Introduced in Chapter 352.

kěnéng maybe; possibly Introduced in Chapter 147.

可怕 kěpà frightening; awful
Introduced in Chapter 463.

客人 kèrén
guest
Introduced in Chapter 74.

可是 kěshì
but; yet
Introduced in Chapter 365.

késou to cough
Introduced in Chapter 222.

kètīng living room; sitting room
Introduced in Chapter 159.

课外 kèwài outside class; extracurricular Introduced in Chapter 497.

kěwàng
to thirst for; to crave
Introduced in Chapter 533.

kěxī
a pity; it's a shame
Introduced in Chapter 264.

可笑 kěxiào
ridiculous; laughable Introduced in Chapter 367.

kēxuéjiā scientist
Introduced in Chapter 488.

kěyǐ
may; can (with permission)
Introduced in Chapter 90.

kōng empty
Introduced in Chapter 134.

kǒngpà
I'm afraid that; probably Introduced in Chapter 264.

kōngqì
air
Introduced in Chapter 380.

kōngtiáo
air conditioner; air conditioning
Introduced in Chapter 171.

kòngwèi empty seat
Introduced in Chapter 407.

口 kǒu mouth
Introduced in Chapter 4.

口气 kǒuqì
tone of voice; way of saying something
Introduced in Chapter 357.

口试 kǒushì
oral exam
Introduced in Chapter 268.

口味 kǒuwèi
one's taste in food
Introduced in Chapter 449.

口音 kǒuyīn
accent
Introduced in Chapter 436.

kǒuzhào face mask
Introduced in Chapter 245.

kū to cry; to weep
Introduced in Chapter 51.

kǔ bitter
Introduced in Chapter 172.

kuài
yuan; lump
Introduced in Chapter 41.

快 kuài
fast; quick
Introduced in Chapter 62.

kuàidì express delivery; courier
Introduced in Chapter 201.

快乐 kuàilè joyful; happy
Introduced in Chapter 75.

快速 kuàisù
rapid; high-speed
Introduced in Chapter 422.

kuàizi chopsticks
Introduced in Chapter 101.

kuǎnshì style; design
Introduced in Chapter 210.

kùzi trousers
Introduced in Chapter 59.

là spicy; hot
Introduced in Chapter 71.

lā to pull Introduced in Chapter 112.

lā dùzi
to have diarrhoea; to have an upset stomach
Introduced in Chapter 240.

来 lái
to come
Introduced in Chapter 36.

láibují to run out of time
Introduced in Chapter 83.

láidejí to still have time (to do something)
Introduced in Chapter 391.

来电 láidiàn
incoming call
Introduced in Chapter 319.

来回 láihuí round trip
Introduced in Chapter 406.

来往 láiwǎng to come and go
Introduced in Chapter 427.

来自 láizì to come from Introduced in Chapter 308.

lājī rubbish
Introduced in Chapter 142.

lājītǒng rubbish bin
Introduced in Chapter 186.

lán blue
Introduced in Chapter 60.

làngfèi to waste
Introduced in Chapter 383.

lánqiú basketball
Introduced in Chapter 135.

lǎo old
Introduced in Chapter 35.

lǎobǎn boss; owner (of a business)
Introduced in Chapter 255.

老公 lǎogōng
hubby; husband (informal)
Introduced in Chapter 272.

lǎohǔ tiger
Introduced in Chapter 223.

láojià
may I trouble you (asking a favour) Introduced in Chapter 457.

lǎojiā home town; family home
Introduced in Chapter 184.

lǎoshī teacher
Introduced in Chapter 35.

了 le le after a verb: the event is finished — and this is aspect, not tense Introduced in Chapter 25.

lèguān optimistic
Introduced in Chapter 465.

lèi
lèi — 'tired', and asked with 吗 like any other statement
Introduced in Chapter 30.

léiyǔ thunderstorm
Introduced in Chapter 514.

lěng cold
Introduced in Chapter 51.

冷菜 lěngcài
cold starter; cold dishes (on a menu)
Introduced in Chapter 182.

冷静 lěngjìng calm; cool-headed
Introduced in Chapter 466.

离 lí
from; away from (in distance)
Introduced in Chapter 205.

里 lǐ
inside; in
Introduced in Chapter 81.

liàng
to hang out to dry
Introduced in Chapter 179.

两 liǎng
two (of something)
Introduced in Chapter 88.

liángkuai pleasantly cool
Introduced in Chapter 136.

liánlei to drag someone into trouble
Introduced in Chapter 540.

脸色 liǎnsè
complexion; the colour of one's face Introduced in Chapter 472.

liànxí to practise
Introduced in Chapter 121.

liánxì
to get in touch with; to contact
Introduced in Chapter 285.

了不起 liǎobuqǐ amazing; remarkable
Introduced in Chapter 368.

了解 liǎojiě
to know in depth; to find out about Introduced in Chapter 367.

liáotiān to chat
Introduced in Chapter 84.

lǐbian
inside; in
Introduced in Chapter 85.

lièchēyuán train attendant
Introduced in Chapter 403.

lǐfà to get a haircut
Introduced in Chapter 212.

líhūn to divorce
Introduced in Chapter 307.

理解 lǐjiě
to understand someone's reasons; to sympathize Introduced in Chapter 367.

líkāi
to leave a place
Introduced in Chapter 107.

lǐmào
good manners; politeness
Introduced in Chapter 358.

līn
to carry in the hand (by a handle)
Introduced in Chapter 453.

líng zero
Introduced in Chapter 132.

língchén
the small hours; before dawn Introduced in Chapter 178.

língqián
small change; loose coins Introduced in Chapter 188.

língshòu to sell retail Introduced in Chapter 523.

lìngwài
besides; in addition Introduced in Chapter 369.

língxià below zero
Introduced in Chapter 221.

línjū neighbour
Introduced in Chapter 176.

línshí
at the last minute; for the time being Introduced in Chapter 391.

línyǔ
to get caught in the rain
Introduced in Chapter 514.

力气 lìqi
physical strength
Introduced in Chapter 474.

lìshǐ history
Introduced in Chapter 321.

六 liù
six — the sixth number, and the first one past where this book stopped Introduced in Chapter 20.

liú bítì
to have a runny nose
Introduced in Chapter 480.

liúchuán to be handed down; to spread Introduced in Chapter 328.

liùgǒu to walk the dog
Introduced in Chapter 229.

liújí
to repeat a school year
Introduced in Chapter 496.

liúlèi to shed tears
Introduced in Chapter 314.

liúlì fluent Introduced in Chapter 152.

liúniàn to keep as a souvenir Introduced in Chapter 434.

liúxià to leave behind
Introduced in Chapter 324.

liúxuè to bleed
Introduced in Chapter 232.

liúxué to study abroad
Introduced in Chapter 261.

liúyán to leave a message
Introduced in Chapter 198.

lǐwù present; gift
Introduced in Chapter 75.

理想 lǐxiǎng
ideal; aspiration Introduced in Chapter 351.

lǐyóu reason; grounds
Introduced in Chapter 235.

lìzi
an example
Introduced in Chapter 281.

lóng dragon
Introduced in Chapter 328.

lóu
a building of several floors; a floor
Introduced in Chapter 206.

lóudào stairwell; corridor (in a block of flats)
Introduced in Chapter 379.

lòushuǐ to leak water
Introduced in Chapter 522.

lóutī stairs; staircase
Introduced in Chapter 112.

lù road; way
Introduced in Chapter 72.

lǜ
green
Introduced in Chapter 139.

luàn messy; in a mess
Introduced in Chapter 362.

lùbiāo road sign
Introduced in Chapter 424.

旅店 lǚdiàn
inn; small hotel
Introduced in Chapter 426.

lùfèi travel costs; the cost of getting there
Introduced in Chapter 429.

路过 lùguò
to pass by (on the way somewhere)
Introduced in Chapter 283.

旅客 lǚkè
traveller; passenger on a long journey Introduced in Chapter 403.

lùkǒu
crossroads; junction
Introduced in Chapter 111.

lùkuàng road conditions
Introduced in Chapter 423.

luòbǎng
to fail an entrance exam
Introduced in Chapter 494.

luòyè fallen leaves
Introduced in Chapter 516.

路人 lùrén
passer-by; stranger in the street
Introduced in Chapter 456.

lǜshī lawyer
Introduced in Chapter 259.

lǚtú journey
Introduced in Chapter 429.

lùxiàn route
Introduced in Chapter 197.

lùyíng to camp out Introduced in Chapter 225.

lǚyóu to travel; to tour
Introduced in Chapter 141.

lǚyóutuán tour group
Introduced in Chapter 434.

吗 ma
the question particle, recovered without pinyin Introduced in Chapter 19.

马 mǎ
horse
Introduced in Chapter 67.

máfan to trouble; to bother
Introduced in Chapter 77.

mǎhu sloppy; slapdash
Introduced in Chapter 470.

mài to sell
Introduced in Chapter 42.

买 mǎi
to buy
Introduced in Chapter 40.

mǎidān to pay the bill
Introduced in Chapter 114.

买家 mǎijiā
buyer
Introduced in Chapter 523.

卖家 màijiā
seller
Introduced in Chapter 523.

买卖 mǎimai
buying and selling for a living; a business deal Introduced in Chapter 523.

马路 mǎlù
road; a street for traffic Introduced in Chapter 194.

妈妈 māma
mum; mother
Introduced in Chapter 32.

màn slow
Introduced in Chapter 53.

mǎn full Introduced in Chapter 134.

mǎnfēn full marks
Introduced in Chapter 495.

máng
máng — 'busy', an adjective, so it takes 很 like 好
Introduced in Chapter 30.

mànxìng
chronic (of an illness)
Introduced in Chapter 483.

mǎnyì satisfied; pleased
Introduced in Chapter 252.

mǎnzú
to meet (a requirement); to satisfy Introduced in Chapter 399.

māo cat
Introduced in Chapter 67.

máobìng fault; bad habit
Introduced in Chapter 368.

máojīn towel
Introduced in Chapter 105.

màoxiǎn to take a risk
Introduced in Chapter 394.

máoyī
sweater; jumper
Introduced in Chapter 165.

màozi hat; cap
Introduced in Chapter 59.

马上 mǎshàng
at once; right away
Introduced in Chapter 83.

mǎtou pier; wharf
Introduced in Chapter 411.

每 měi
every; each
Introduced in Chapter 138.

méi guānxi
it doesn't matter; never mind
Introduced in Chapter 217.

Měiguó
America; the United States
Introduced in Chapter 36.

měihǎo
fine and happy (of a life or a future)
Introduced in Chapter 536.

méimao eyebrow
Introduced in Chapter 472.

mèimei younger sister
Introduced in Chapter 33.

没事 méishì
it's nothing; to be all right
Introduced in Chapter 167.

měitiān
every day
Introduced in Chapter 97.

没有 méiyǒu
not have; there is no
Introduced in Chapter 87.

门 mén door; gate
Introduced in Chapter 65.

mèngjiàn to dream of; to see in a dream
Introduced in Chapter 536.

mèngxiǎng
a dream (for your life); an aspiration Introduced in Chapter 287.

ménjìn door entry system; a card-entry door
Introduced in Chapter 379.

门口 ménkǒu doorway; entrance
Introduced in Chapter 74.

ménlíng doorbell
Introduced in Chapter 522.

门票 ménpiào
admission ticket
Introduced in Chapter 213.

mēnrè
hot and stuffy; muggy Introduced in Chapter 218.

miànbāo bread
Introduced in Chapter 40.

miǎnde
so as not to; lest Introduced in Chapter 538.

miǎnfèi
free (of charge)
Introduced in Chapter 156.

面前 miànqián
in front of someone; in someone's presence
Introduced in Chapter 175.

面试 miànshì
to have an interview (for a job); interview Introduced in Chapter 276.

miǎnshuì duty-free; tax-free Introduced in Chapter 417.

miàntiáo noodles
Introduced in Chapter 70.

面子 miànzi
face; your standing in others' eyes
Introduced in Chapter 358.

miǎo second (of time)
Introduced in Chapter 143.

miáotiao slim; slender
Introduced in Chapter 233.

mǐfàn cooked rice
Introduced in Chapter 38.

mìfēng
bee; honeybee
Introduced in Chapter 224.

mílù
to lose your way; to get lost
Introduced in Chapter 197.

mìmǎ password; PIN
Introduced in Chapter 195.

明白 míngbai
to grasp a meaning; to understand; clear Introduced in Chapter 214.

míngē folk song
Introduced in Chapter 504.

名画 mínghuà famous painting
Introduced in Chapter 502.

明年 míngnián
next year
Introduced in Chapter 47.

名人 míngrén
famous person; well-known figure Introduced in Chapter 327.

míngtiān tomorrow
Introduced in Chapter 45.

明天见 míngtiān jiàn
see you tomorrow
Introduced in Chapter 76.

名校 míngxiào
top school; famous university
Introduced in Chapter 512.

明星 míngxīng star; celebrity
Introduced in Chapter 267.

míngxìnpiàn postcard
Introduced in Chapter 318.

mìngyùn fate; destiny
Introduced in Chapter 529.

名字 míngzi
name — literally the characters a name is made of Introduced in Chapter 8.

mínzú
ethnic group; nationality
Introduced in Chapter 374.

mìshū
secretary
Introduced in Chapter 491.

míyǔ riddle
Introduced in Chapter 335.

mìyuè honeymoon
Introduced in Chapter 307.

mō to stroke; to touch
Introduced in Chapter 229.

mòbānchē
last bus or train
Introduced in Chapter 405.

mófǎ magic Introduced in Chapter 331.

mùbiāo
a goal; a target
Introduced in Chapter 287.

mùdì cemetery; graveyard
Introduced in Chapter 314.

母女 mǔnǚ mother and daughter
Introduced in Chapter 509.

母亲 mǔqīn
mother (the formal word)
Introduced in Chapter 511.

母语 mǔyǔ
mother tongue
Introduced in Chapter 509.

ná to take; to hold
Introduced in Chapter 103.

nǎ which Introduced in Chapter 36.

那 nà that Introduced in Chapter 37.

nǎge which one Introduced in Chapter 37.

那个 nàge that one Introduced in Chapter 37.

nǎinai
grandma on the father's side
Introduced in Chapter 253.

nàixīn patient with people
Introduced in Chapter 258.

那么 nàme
so; that (much)
Introduced in Chapter 153.

男 nán male
Introduced in Chapter 33.

南北 nánběi
north and south
Introduced in Chapter 423.

nánbian
the south; on the south side
Introduced in Chapter 117.

nánchī tasting bad; horrible to eat
Introduced in Chapter 177.

难道 nándào
surely not (in a question)
Introduced in Chapter 397.

难得 nándé
rare; hard to come by
Introduced in Chapter 397.

南方 nánfāng
the south of the country; southern China Introduced in Chapter 436.

nánguò sad; upset
Introduced in Chapter 125.

男孩 nánhái boy
Introduced in Chapter 266.

nánkàn ugly Introduced in Chapter 124.

nánmiǎn bound to happen; hard to avoid Introduced in Chapter 540.

男人 nánrén man
Introduced in Chapter 33.

nánshòu miserable; unwell
Introduced in Chapter 222.

难题 nántí
hard problem; difficult question
Introduced in Chapter 495.

难为情 nánwéiqíng
embarrassed
Introduced in Chapter 460.

南下 nánxià
to go south; to head down south
Introduced in Chapter 423.

nàoguǐ to be haunted
Introduced in Chapter 332.

nàozhōng alarm clock
Introduced in Chapter 145.

哪儿 nǎr
where?
Introduced in Chapter 86.

那儿 nàr
there
Introduced in Chapter 85.

哪些 nǎxiē which ones
Introduced in Chapter 127.

那些 nàxiē
those Introduced in Chapter 127.

呢 ne
ne — the particle that hands the question back, and turns one word into a whole turn Introduced in Chapter 26.

nèiróng content; what something is about Introduced in Chapter 354.

能 néng can; to be able to; to be allowed to Introduced in Chapter 90.

nénglì ability
Introduced in Chapter 260.

néngyuán energy; sources of energy
Introduced in Chapter 383.

你 nǐ
you (one person)
Introduced in Chapter 1.

你好 nǐ hǎo
hello (literally "you good")
Introduced in Chapter 1.

你好吗 nǐ hǎo ma
how are you, written from three characters already yours
Introduced in Chapter 19.

你喜欢什么 nǐ xǐhuan shénme asking what somebody likes, out of four words the book already had Introduced in Chapter 28.

年 nián year
Introduced in Chapter 47.

年代 niándài decade; era
Introduced in Chapter 323.

年画 niánhuà
a new year print (hung at the spring festival)
Introduced in Chapter 503.

niánjì age (of a person)
Introduced in Chapter 78.

niánjí
year; grade (at school)
Introduced in Chapter 248.

年假 niánjià annual leave
Introduced in Chapter 263.

niánqīng young Introduced in Chapter 94.

niányèfàn
New Year's Eve dinner
Introduced in Chapter 333.

niǎo bird
Introduced in Chapter 67.

你们 nǐmen
you all; you (more than one) Introduced in Chapter 31.

nín
you (polite)
Introduced in Chapter 34.

nìngkě would rather Introduced in Chapter 534.

niúnǎi milk
Introduced in Chapter 39.

niúròu beef
Introduced in Chapter 161.

niǔshāng to sprain
Introduced in Chapter 478.

nòng
to sort something out; to do; to handle
Introduced in Chapter 174.

nóngcūn
the countryside; a farming village Introduced in Chapter 225.

nóngjiālè farm stay; country guesthouse Introduced in Chapter 439.

nóngmín farmer
Introduced in Chapter 225.

女 nǚ female; woman
Introduced in Chapter 12.

女儿 nǚ'ér daughter, now read and written Introduced in Chapter 12.

nuǎnhuo pleasantly warm; mild
Introduced in Chapter 218.

nuǎnqì central heating
Introduced in Chapter 520.

女孩 nǚhái girl Introduced in Chapter 266.

nǔlì hard-working; trying hard
Introduced in Chapter 249.

女人 nǚrén woman
Introduced in Chapter 33.

ǒu'ěr
now and then; occasionally
Introduced in Chapter 162.

ǒurán accidental; happening by chance Introduced in Chapter 528.

pà
to be afraid of; to fear
Introduced in Chapter 51.

pá to climb; to crawl
Introduced in Chapter 107.

pàichūsuǒ
local police station
Introduced in Chapter 308.

páiduì to queue; to line up Introduced in Chapter 192.

páiliàn to rehearse
Introduced in Chapter 505.

pànduàn to make a judgement; to judge Introduced in Chapter 350.

pàng fat; plump
Introduced in Chapter 94.

pángbiān side; beside Introduced in Chapter 81.

pàntou something to look forward to Introduced in Chapter 536.

pànwàng to look forward to; to long for Introduced in Chapter 461.

pánzi
plate; dish
Introduced in Chapter 101.

pǎobù to run; to jog
Introduced in Chapter 56.

pàochá
to make tea (to steep the leaves)
Introduced in Chapter 166.

péi to keep someone company; to go along with Introduced in Chapter 163.

pèifú
to think highly of; to hold in high regard Introduced in Chapter 461.

péiqián to pay for damage
Introduced in Chapter 296.

pèng to touch; to bump into Introduced in Chapter 171.

pèngqiǎo
as luck would have it; coincidentally Introduced in Chapter 528.

péngyou friend
Introduced in Chapter 34.

piàn to cheat; to con
Introduced in Chapter 309.

piān measure word for essays and stories Introduced in Chapter 251.

piányi cheap
Introduced in Chapter 42.

piànzi
swindler; con man
Introduced in Chapter 309.

piào ticket
Introduced in Chapter 73.

piàoliang pretty; good-looking Introduced in Chapter 59.

pīfā to sell wholesale Introduced in Chapter 523.

pífū skin
Introduced in Chapter 233.

píjiǔ beer
Introduced in Chapter 102.

píláo worn out; fatigued
Introduced in Chapter 484.

pǐncháng to taste; to sample
Introduced in Chapter 341.

píngguǒ apple
Introduced in Chapter 40.

píngjìng calm; peaceful inside
Introduced in Chapter 466.

pīngpāngqiú
table tennis; ping-pong
Introduced in Chapter 262.

píngshí usually; ordinarily Introduced in Chapter 146.

píngyuán
plain; flat open land
Introduced in Chapter 437.

píngzi bottle
Introduced in Chapter 186.

pīpíng to criticize
Introduced in Chapter 357.

píqi temper; temperament
Introduced in Chapter 467.

pīzhǔn
to give official approval; to approve a plan Introduced in Chapter 364.

pūchuáng to make the bed
Introduced in Chapter 160.

qí
to ride (a bike or a horse)
Introduced in Chapter 106.

七 qī
seven — first tone, and a consonant English does not have Introduced in Chapter 20.

qián money
Introduced in Chapter 41.

前 qián
before; ago; front
Introduced in Chapter 78.

千 qiān thousand Introduced in Chapter 132.

qiánbāo wallet; purse
Introduced in Chapter 116.

qiānbǐ pencil
Introduced in Chapter 104.

前边 qiánbian
in front; ahead
Introduced in Chapter 111.

qiǎngjié to rob by force
Introduced in Chapter 309.

qiǎngjiù
to fight to save a patient; to give emergency treatment Introduced in Chapter 299.

qiānmíng to sign your name
Introduced in Chapter 189.

qiānshōu to sign for (a delivery)
Introduced in Chapter 215.

qiánshuǐ
to go diving; to dive under water
Introduced in Chapter 444.

qiántái front desk; reception
Introduced in Chapter 206.

前天 qiántiān
the day before yesterday
Introduced in Chapter 167.

qiántú
prospects; future (of a person or job)
Introduced in Chapter 401.

千万 qiānwàn
be sure to (urging); whatever you do
Introduced in Chapter 393.

前往 qiánwǎng
to set out for a place
Introduced in Chapter 428.

qiānxū modest
Introduced in Chapter 358.

前因后果 qiányīn hòuguǒ
the whole chain of causes and effects Introduced in Chapter 540.

qiānzhèng visa
Introduced in Chapter 213.

qiáo bridge
Introduced in Chapter 246.

qiāomén to knock at the door
Introduced in Chapter 176.

qìchē
motor vehicle; car
Introduced in Chapter 406.

qǐchuáng to get up
Introduced in Chapter 50.

qícì
secondly; second in order
Introduced in Chapter 369.

起点 qǐdiǎn
starting point
Introduced in Chapter 408.

qiē to cut; to slice Introduced in Chapter 113.

qǐfēi
to take off (of a plane)
Introduced in Chapter 196.

qīfu to bully; to pick on Introduced in Chapter 508.

qíguài strange; odd
Introduced in Chapter 216.

气候 qìhòu climate
Introduced in Chapter 243.

气话 qìhuà something said in anger
Introduced in Chapter 357.

期间 qījiān period (during which); during Introduced in Chapter 342.

起来 qǐlai
to get up; to stand up
Introduced in Chapter 158.

起名 qǐmíng
to name a baby; to give a name
Introduced in Chapter 303.

请 qǐng
please — a word you can say on its own, and a frame waiting to be filled Introduced in Chapter 11.

qīngchè crystal-clear (of water)
Introduced in Chapter 443.

qīngchén
early in the morning; at daybreak Introduced in Chapter 519.

qīngchu clear; clearly Introduced in Chapter 152.

qīngdàn
light and mild (of food)
Introduced in Chapter 449.

请假 qǐngjià to ask for time off
Introduced in Chapter 263.

请教 qǐngjiào
to seek advice (from someone who knows more)
Introduced in Chapter 493.

请客 qǐngkè
to pay for everyone; to treat (the others)
Introduced in Chapter 173.

qíngkuàng situation; how things stand Introduced in Chapter 294.

qínglǎng clear and cloudless (of the sky)
Introduced in Chapter 518.

qīngnián
young people; youth
Introduced in Chapter 317.

qīngsōng relaxed; light and easy
Introduced in Chapter 458.

qíngtiān sunny day; fine weather
Introduced in Chapter 136.

请问 qǐngwèn excuse me, may I ask Introduced in Chapter 65.

qíngxù emotions; spirits
Introduced in Chapter 458.

庆祝 qìngzhù to celebrate Introduced in Chapter 339.

qínkuài diligent with chores; quick to pitch in Introduced in Chapter 468.

qīnqi relative; family member
Introduced in Chapter 253.

亲人 qīnrén
one's close family; one's nearest and dearest
Introduced in Chapter 511.

亲生 qīnshēng
one's own (by birth)
Introduced in Chapter 511.

亲手 qīnshǒu
with one's own hands
Introduced in Chapter 513.

亲自 qīnzì
personally (doing it oneself)
Introduced in Chapter 511.

qióng poor (having little money)
Introduced in Chapter 375.

气人 qìrén
to be infuriating; to make people angry Introduced in Chapter 464.

qíshí actually; as a matter of fact Introduced in Chapter 264.

qítā
other; the others
Introduced in Chapter 138.

球场 qiúchǎng
sports ground; pitch; court
Introduced in Chapter 498.

qiúduì
a sports team (in a ball game)
Introduced in Chapter 499.

qiúhūn to propose marriage
Introduced in Chapter 305.

球门 qiúmén
goalmouth; goal (in football)
Introduced in Chapter 498.

qiúmí
sports fan
Introduced in Chapter 274.

球赛 qiúsài
a ball game (a football or basketball match)
Introduced in Chapter 500.

qiūtiān autumn
Introduced in Chapter 131.

球星 qiúxīng
star player; sports star
Introduced in Chapter 501.

qiúyuán
a player in a ball game
Introduced in Chapter 499.

qiúzhù
to ask for help; to turn to someone for help
Introduced in Chapter 456.

期望 qīwàng
to expect much of someone; expectations Introduced in Chapter 532.

qìwēn
air temperature
Introduced in Chapter 219.

起因 qǐyīn
what set it off; the starting cause
Introduced in Chapter 537.

qǐyuán origin
Introduced in Chapter 345.

期中 qīzhōng
the middle of the term; midterm Introduced in Chapter 495.

qīzi wife
Introduced in Chapter 272.

去 qù
to go
Introduced in Chapter 43.

quàn to urge; to try to persuade
Introduced in Chapter 364.

全部 quánbù
all of it; the whole
Introduced in Chapter 438.

全国 quánguó
the whole country; nationwide
Introduced in Chapter 381.

全家 quánjiā
the whole family
Introduced in Chapter 381.

全票 quánpiào
full-price ticket
Introduced in Chapter 432.

全天 quántiān
all day; round the clock
Introduced in Chapter 396.

全职 quánzhí
full-time (of a job)
Introduced in Chapter 489.

qūbié difference
Introduced in Chapter 398.

取得 qǔdé
to achieve; to obtain (through effort)
Introduced in Chapter 395.

quēdiǎn weak point; shortcoming Introduced in Chapter 373.

quèdìng to be certain; to settle on Introduced in Chapter 390.

quèshí indeed; it is true that Introduced in Chapter 350.

qǔjuéyú to depend on (a factor); to hinge on Introduced in Chapter 398.

qúnzi skirt
Introduced in Chapter 165.

qǔqián
to take out money
Introduced in Chapter 195.

去世 qùshì
to pass away
Introduced in Chapter 325.

qǔxiāo to cancel; to call off
Introduced in Chapter 234.

ràngzuò to give up one's seat (to someone)
Introduced in Chapter 376.

ránhòu then; after that Introduced in Chapter 150.

ràolù
to take a detour; to take the long way round Introduced in Chapter 447.

rè hot
Introduced in Chapter 51.

rě
to stir up trouble; to provoke Introduced in Chapter 539.

rè'ài to love deeply
Introduced in Chapter 277.

热点 rèdiǎn
hot topic; what everyone is talking about Introduced in Chapter 290.

热门 rèmén popular; all the rage
Introduced in Chapter 274.

人 rén person
Introduced in Chapter 12.

rènao lively; bustling
Introduced in Chapter 129.

rèncuò
to admit you were wrong Introduced in Chapter 357.

rēng
to throw; to throw away
Introduced in Chapter 103.

réngrán
as before; even now
Introduced in Chapter 315.

人间 rénjiān
the human world
Introduced in Chapter 332.

rènkě
to give your approval; to accept as good
Introduced in Chapter 352.

人口 rénkǒu population
Introduced in Chapter 374.

rènlǐng to claim lost property
Introduced in Chapter 456.

人山人海 rénshānrénhǎi huge crowds; a sea of people
Introduced in Chapter 433.

人生 rénshēng
a person's life; life from birth to death Introduced in Chapter 316.

rènshi to know someone; to recognise Introduced in Chapter 34.

rèntóng to share someone's view; to identify with Introduced in Chapter 353.

rènwéi
to think; to hold a view
Introduced in Chapter 256.

rénxíngdào
pavement; sidewalk
Introduced in Chapter 447.

rènzhēn
conscientious; serious
Introduced in Chapter 123.

rèqíng warm; welcoming Introduced in Chapter 123.

rèshuǐqì water heater
Introduced in Chapter 520.

热心 rèxīn
warm-hearted; eager to help
Introduced in Chapter 258.

日 rì
sun, and also day
Introduced in Chapter 4.

rìchéng
a day's schedule
Introduced in Chapter 391.

日出 rìchū
sunrise
Introduced in Chapter 435.

日记 rìjì
diary
Introduced in Chapter 304.

日期 rìqī
date
Introduced in Chapter 47.

日子 rìzi
day; days (of one's life)
Introduced in Chapter 178.

rónghuà to melt; to thaw
Introduced in Chapter 514.

róngyì easy
Introduced in Chapter 144.

ròu meat
Introduced in Chapter 70.

ruǎn soft
Introduced in Chapter 134.

ruǎnwò soft sleeper
Introduced in Chapter 407.

如果 rúguǒ
if; in case
Introduced in Chapter 289.

rùjìng
to enter a country
Introduced in Chapter 417.

rùkǒu entrance; way in Introduced in Chapter 112.

如期 rúqī
as planned (on the agreed date)
Introduced in Chapter 390.

rùxué to start school
Introduced in Chapter 304.

如意 rúyì
as one would wish
Introduced in Chapter 532.

如愿 rúyuàn
to get what one wished for Introduced in Chapter 535.

rùzhù
to check in (at a hotel)
Introduced in Chapter 200.

sāi to stuff in; to squeeze in Introduced in Chapter 453.

三 sān
three Introduced in Chapter 3.

sànbù to take a walk
Introduced in Chapter 141.

sǎngzi throat; voice
Introduced in Chapter 222.

sànxīn
to take one's mind off things; to unwind Introduced in Chapter 439.

sǎodì to sweep the floor
Introduced in Chapter 160.

sǎomǎ
to scan a code (to pay)
Introduced in Chapter 202.

sǎomù to tend the family graves
Introduced in Chapter 340.

扫兴 sǎoxìng
deflated; with the fun spoiled
Introduced in Chapter 465.

sēnlín forest
Introduced in Chapter 226.

shāchē
to put on the brakes; a brake Introduced in Chapter 296.

shāfā sofa
Introduced in Chapter 175.

shài to dry in the sun
Introduced in Chapter 142.

shāmò desert
Introduced in Chapter 437.

山 shān mountain; hill
Introduced in Chapter 68.

山村 shāncūn mountain village
Introduced in Chapter 440.

shǎndiàn lightning
Introduced in Chapter 514.

shāndǐng
top of a mountain; summit
Introduced in Chapter 435.

上个月 shàng ge yuè
last month
Introduced in Chapter 148.

shàng'àn to go ashore
Introduced in Chapter 445.

shāngbā
scar
Introduced in Chapter 479.

shàngbān to go to work
Introduced in Chapter 80.

shàngbian on top; above
Introduced in Chapter 86.

shāngchǎng shopping centre
Introduced in Chapter 190.

上场 shàngchǎng
to take the field; to come on (to play)
Introduced in Chapter 500.

上车 shàngchē
to get on (a bus or train)
Introduced in Chapter 73.

shāngdiàn shop
Introduced in Chapter 42.

上课 shàngkè
to have class; to start class
Introduced in Chapter 79.

伤口 shāngkǒu wound; cut
Introduced in Chapter 478.

shāngliang to talk it over together; to consult Introduced in Chapter 348.

shànglóu to go upstairs
Introduced in Chapter 206.

上路 shànglù
to set out on a journey; to hit the road
Introduced in Chapter 410.

上门 shàngmén
to call at the house (to do a job)
Introduced in Chapter 522.

上司 shàngsi one's superior at work
Introduced in Chapter 491.

上网 shàngwǎng
to go online
Introduced in Chapter 109.

上午 shàngwǔ morning (before noon)
Introduced in Chapter 49.

shāngxīn sad; heartbroken
Introduced in Chapter 252.

上学 shàngxué go to school; attend school, built from known characters
Introduced in Chapter 15.

上游 shàngyóu upper reaches (of a river); upstream Introduced in Chapter 442.

shǎngyuè to enjoy the moon
Introduced in Chapter 342.

shànliáng kind-hearted
Introduced in Chapter 468.

山区 shānqū mountain area
Introduced in Chapter 437.

shānyáng
goat
Introduced in Chapter 242.

少 shǎo few; not much
Introduced in Chapter 432.

少量 shǎoliàng
a small amount of
Introduced in Chapter 526.

少年 shàonián
teenage boy; teenager Introduced in Chapter 323.

shāoshuǐ to boil water
Introduced in Chapter 168.

sháozi spoon; ladle
Introduced in Chapter 170.

shātān
sandy beach
Introduced in Chapter 227.

shé snake
Introduced in Chapter 242.

shěbude
to hate to part with; to hate to leave
Introduced in Chapter 313.

社工 shègōng social worker
Introduced in Chapter 376.

社会 shèhuì society
Introduced in Chapter 375.

shèmén to shoot at goal
Introduced in Chapter 498.

shēnbào to declare goods at customs Introduced in Chapter 417.

shēnfènzhèng identity card
Introduced in Chapter 189.

shèng to be left over
Introduced in Chapter 451.

身高 shēngāo
a person's height; body height
Introduced in Chapter 475.

生病 shēngbìng
to get sick; to fall ill Introduced in Chapter 240.

shěngdiàn
to use little electricity; to save electricity Introduced in Chapter 520.

shēnghuó life; daily life
Introduced in Chapter 254.

生火 shēnghuǒ
to light a fire
Introduced in Chapter 441.

shēngmìng
the life of a living thing
Introduced in Chapter 300.

生气 shēngqì
to get angry
Introduced in Chapter 125.

shěngqián
to spend less; to save money
Introduced in Chapter 188.

生前 shēngqián
in someone's lifetime; while they were alive
Introduced in Chapter 314.

生人 shēngrén stranger
Introduced in Chapter 378.

生日 shēngrì birthday
Introduced in Chapter 75.

shēngxué
to go on to a higher school; to go on to further study
Introduced in Chapter 497.

生意 shēngyi business; trade
Introduced in Chapter 341.

shēngyīn sound; voice; noise
Introduced in Chapter 167.

shēngzhí to get promoted
Introduced in Chapter 489.

生字 shēngzì
new character; a character not yet learned Introduced in Chapter 251.

shénhuà myth
Introduced in Chapter 328.

什么 shénme
what — the first question word in this book Introduced in Chapter 9.

shēnqǐng to apply for
Introduced in Chapter 455.

身上 shēnshang
on your person; on one's body
Introduced in Chapter 230.

shēntǐ body; health
Introduced in Chapter 50.

shénxiān immortal; supernatural being Introduced in Chapter 331.

身心 shēnxīn
body and mind
Introduced in Chapter 485.

shēnyè
late at night; the dead of night
Introduced in Chapter 169.

shènzhì
even (going so far as)
Introduced in Chapter 371.

社区 shèqū
community; neighbourhood
Introduced in Chapter 377.

shétou tongue
Introduced in Chapter 476.

十 shí
ten — and the last of the ten words that build every number to ninety-nine Introduced in Chapter 20.

是 shì
to be — and how Mandarin says yes
Introduced in Chapter 5.

试 shì to try; to try on
Introduced in Chapter 108.

是吗 shì ma
is that so, written from two characters already yours Introduced in Chapter 19.

shībài
to fail
Introduced in Chapter 394.

市场 shìchǎng
market; marketplace
Introduced in Chapter 448.

世代 shìdài
for generations
Introduced in Chapter 325.

时代 shídài era; age
Introduced in Chapter 324.

shīfu skilled tradesman; master (and how you address one) Introduced in Chapter 208.

事故 shìgù accident
Introduced in Chapter 297.

shíhou time; moment
Introduced in Chapter 46.

事后 shìhòu
after the event; in hindsight
Introduced in Chapter 295.

shìjiàn incident; event (in the news)
Introduced in Chapter 291.

shíjiān time; free time
Introduced in Chapter 83.

世界 shìjiè world
Introduced in Chapter 326.

shíkèbiǎo
timetable
Introduced in Chapter 122.

shīmián
to be unable to sleep; to lie awake at night Introduced in Chapter 480.

shìpín video
Introduced in Chapter 204.

时期 shíqī
period; phase
Introduced in Chapter 323.

事情 shìqing matter; affair
Introduced in Chapter 459.

市区 shìqū
the built-up part of a city; downtown
Introduced in Chapter 448.

时区 shíqū time zone
Introduced in Chapter 388.

shìshí fact Introduced in Chapter 350.

shīshǒu
to lose one's grip; to do by a slip of the hand
Introduced in Chapter 531.

时速 shísù
speed per hour
Introduced in Chapter 424.

shítou
stone; rock
Introduced in Chapter 246.

shīwàng disappointed
Introduced in Chapter 252.

shíxí
to do an internship; to work as a trainee Introduced in Chapter 486.

shíxiàn to come true; to make real
Introduced in Chapter 395.

事先 shìxiān beforehand; in advance
Introduced in Chapter 317.

shīyè
to lose one's job; to be out of work
Introduced in Chapter 487.

事业 shìyè career; life's work
Introduced in Chapter 487.

十一 shíyī
eleven — ten one, and the teens are finished in a sentence
Introduced in Chapter 21.

试衣间 shìyījiān fitting room
Introduced in Chapter 210.

shìyìng to adapt; to adjust to new surroundings Introduced in Chapter 313.

shīyuē to miss an appointment
Introduced in Chapter 388.

shìzhōngxīn city centre
Introduced in Chapter 211.

shīzhǔ
the owner of a lost item
Introduced in Chapter 456.

shīzōng to go missing
Introduced in Chapter 308.

shòu thin; slim
Introduced in Chapter 94.

shōu to receive; to accept
Introduced in Chapter 118.

手 shǒu hand
Introduced in Chapter 52.

shǒubiǎo wristwatch
Introduced in Chapter 116.

shōudào to get something sent; to receive
Introduced in Chapter 201.

shōufèizhàn toll gate
Introduced in Chapter 421.

手工 shǒugōng
handicraft; things made by hand
Introduced in Chapter 274.

shōuhuò
to bring in the harvest; to reap
Introduced in Chapter 515.

shòuhuòyuán shop assistant Introduced in Chapter 525.

shōují to collect things
Introduced in Chapter 274.

手机 shǒujī
mobile phone
Introduced in Chapter 58.

shōujù receipt
Introduced in Chapter 202.

shòupiàochù ticket office
Introduced in Chapter 404.

shòupiàoyuán ticket seller; bus conductor Introduced in Chapter 409.

shōurù income
Introduced in Chapter 387.

shòushāng
to get hurt; to be injured
Introduced in Chapter 232.

shōushi to tidy up
Introduced in Chapter 133.

shǒushù surgical operation
Introduced in Chapter 241.

shǒusuì to keep the New Year vigil Introduced in Chapter 333.

shǒutào gloves
Introduced in Chapter 221.

shǒuxiān first of all; to begin with
Introduced in Chapter 278.

手心 shǒuxīn
the palm of the hand
Introduced in Chapter 475.

shǒuxù formalities; procedure
Introduced in Chapter 418.

shōuyíntái checkout; till Introduced in Chapter 202.

shǒuzhǐ finger
Introduced in Chapter 474.

shǔ to count
Introduced in Chapter 132.

书 shū book, recovered without pinyin
Introduced in Chapter 18.

树 shù tree
Introduced in Chapter 516.

shuā to scrub; to brush clean
Introduced in Chapter 521.

shuài handsome Introduced in Chapter 124.

shuāi
to have a fall; to drop (and break)
Introduced in Chapter 187.

shuākǎ to pay by card
Introduced in Chapter 114.

shuāng
a pair of (a measure word)
Introduced in Chapter 108.

shuāngbāotāi twins
Introduced in Chapter 302.

shuāyá to brush one's teeth
Introduced in Chapter 99.

书包 shūbāo schoolbag
Introduced in Chapter 119.

书店 shūdiàn bookshop
Introduced in Chapter 190.

书法 shūfǎ
calligraphy
Introduced in Chapter 503.

书房 shūfáng
study; a room for books and work Introduced in Chapter 159.

shūfu comfortable; well
Introduced in Chapter 96.

水 shuǐ
water
Introduced in Chapter 39.

shuì lǎnjiào to sleep in; to lie in Introduced in Chapter 145.

shuǐfèi water bill
Introduced in Chapter 522.

shuǐguǒ fruit
Introduced in Chapter 40.

shuìjiào to sleep; to go to bed
Introduced in Chapter 50.

shuìzháo to fall asleep
Introduced in Chapter 158.

shūjià bookshelf
Introduced in Chapter 175.

shùlín woods; a grove
Introduced in Chapter 516.

shùnlì smooth; without a hitch Introduced in Chapter 393.

shùnlù on one's way
Introduced in Chapter 429.

说 shuō
to say; to speak
Introduced in Chapter 53.

shuōbudìng
perhaps; who knows
Introduced in Chapter 244.

说法 shuōfa
version of events; way of putting it Introduced in Chapter 349.

shuōfú to talk someone round; to persuade Introduced in Chapter 353.

shuōhuǎng
to lie; to tell a lie
Introduced in Chapter 310.

说明 shuōmíng
to make something clear; to explain clearly
Introduced in Chapter 369.

说起 shuōqǐ
to mention; to bring up a subject Introduced in Chapter 320.

shūshu
uncle; father's younger brother
Introduced in Chapter 272.

shūtóu to comb one's hair
Introduced in Chapter 99.

shúxī to know well; to be familiar with Introduced in Chapter 316.

shùxué
maths; mathematics
Introduced in Chapter 492.

四 sì
four
Introduced in Chapter 3.

死 sǐ
to die
Introduced in Chapter 300.

死活 sǐhuó
no matter what; whatever anyone says
Introduced in Chapter 312.

sījī driver
Introduced in Chapter 80.

四季 sìjì
the four seasons
Introduced in Chapter 515.

四季如春 sìjì rú chūn
mild like spring all year round (of a place)
Introduced in Chapter 519.

sīkǎo to think hard; to reflect
Introduced in Chapter 347.

死心 sǐxīn
to give up hope
Introduced in Chapter 462.

死因 sǐyīn cause of death
Introduced in Chapter 300.

sòng
to give as a present; to see off
Introduced in Chapter 75.

sònghuò to deliver goods
Introduced in Chapter 215.

送客 sòngkè
to see a guest out Introduced in Chapter 336.

sònglǐ
to give a present
Introduced in Chapter 336.

suàn
to calculate; to work out Introduced in Chapter 140.

suān sour
Introduced in Chapter 172.

sùcài
meatless dish; vegetable dish
Introduced in Chapter 451.

岁 suì
suì — years of age, and the sentence that says how old you are without a verb in it Introduced in Chapter 27.

suíbiàn
as you like; casual Introduced in Chapter 275.

suìdào tunnel
Introduced in Chapter 424.

虽然 suīrán
although Introduced in Chapter 371.

suíshí
at any time; whenever needed
Introduced in Chapter 393.

sùliàodài plastic bag
Introduced in Chapter 186.

sūnnǚ granddaughter
Introduced in Chapter 510.

sūnzi grandson
Introduced in Chapter 510.

suōduǎn to shorten
Introduced in Chapter 400.

suǒmén to lock the door; to lock up Introduced in Chapter 183.

suǒyǐ
so; therefore Introduced in Chapter 96.

suǒyǒu
all; every Introduced in Chapter 138.

sùzhì
a person's quality; upbringing Introduced in Chapter 363.

tā
she; her
Introduced in Chapter 31.

他 tā
he; him
Introduced in Chapter 31.

tài too; too much
Introduced in Chapter 41.

tái
to lift; to carry (between two people)
Introduced in Chapter 174.

太好了 tài hǎo le great!; that's wonderful Introduced in Chapter 93.

tàidu attitude
Introduced in Chapter 398.

táifēng typhoon
Introduced in Chapter 244.

tàiyang sun
Introduced in Chapter 68.

太阳能 tàiyángnéng
solar energy; solar power
Introduced in Chapter 518.

他们 tāmen
they; them
Introduced in Chapter 31.

tán to play an instrument; to pluck
Introduced in Chapter 110.

tán liàn'ài
to go out with someone; to be in a relationship Introduced in Chapter 305.

táng
sugar; sweets
Introduced in Chapter 168.

tāng soup
Introduced in Chapter 70.

tǎng to lie down
Introduced in Chapter 183.

tàngshāng
to scald; to burn (with heat)
Introduced in Chapter 478.

tánhuà
to have a serious talk Introduced in Chapter 354.

tànqì to sigh
Introduced in Chapter 460.

tānwèi market stall
Introduced in Chapter 448.

táo
to run away; to flee Introduced in Chapter 301.

tǎolùn to discuss Introduced in Chapter 348.

tǎoyàn to dislike; to hate
Introduced in Chapter 277.

tèbié special; especially Introduced in Chapter 144.

tèchǎn
a local speciality; a regional product
Introduced in Chapter 247.

特点 tèdiǎn
characteristic; a distinguishing trait
Introduced in Chapter 450.

tèjià
special offer; reduced price
Introduced in Chapter 193.

téng sore; painful
Introduced in Chapter 130.

疼爱 téng'ài to dote on Introduced in Chapter 510.

téngtòng pain; ache
Introduced in Chapter 476.

特色 tèsè
special character; speciality
Introduced in Chapter 451.

特意 tèyì
specially; for that very purpose Introduced in Chapter 450.

tī to kick
Introduced in Chapter 135.

tián sweet
Introduced in Chapter 71.

天 tiān day; sky
Introduced in Chapter 45.

tiānkōng
the sky
Introduced in Chapter 238.

tiānliàng to get light at dawn
Introduced in Chapter 517.

天气 tiānqì
weather
Introduced in Chapter 66.

tiānqì yùbào weather forecast
Introduced in Chapter 147.

天然 tiānrán
natural; made by nature
Introduced in Chapter 441.

天色 tiānsè
the light of the sky; how dark the sky is getting Introduced in Chapter 452.

tiánxiě to fill in (a form)
Introduced in Chapter 189.

天性 tiānxìng
one's nature; an inborn trait
Introduced in Chapter 467.

天真 tiānzhēn
naive; innocent
Introduced in Chapter 373.

tiào to jump
Introduced in Chapter 107.

tiáo measure word for long things (skirts, scarves, trousers, fish, roads)
Introduced in Chapter 165.

tiāo to pick out; to choose Introduced in Chapter 199.

tiàocáo
to move to another employer; to change jobs Introduced in Chapter 489.

tiáojiàn condition (that must be met)
Introduced in Chapter 395.

tiàoshéng to skip with a rope
Introduced in Chapter 220.

tiàowǔ to dance
Introduced in Chapter 110.

tiáozhěng to adjust
Introduced in Chapter 400.

tiē to stick; to paste up Introduced in Chapter 334.

tígāo to push up (a level)
Introduced in Chapter 385.

体会 tǐhuì
to know from experience; to come to understand Introduced in Chapter 347.

tǐjiǎn medical check-up
Introduced in Chapter 239.

体力 tǐlì
stamina; physical fitness Introduced in Chapter 474.

tímù
title; question on a test
Introduced in Chapter 354.

tíng
to stop; to park
Introduced in Chapter 107.

tīng
to listen; to hear
Introduced in Chapter 53.

tíngchēchǎng car park
Introduced in Chapter 192.

tíngdiàn to have a power cut Introduced in Chapter 167.

tīngdǒng to understand (on hearing)
Introduced in Chapter 151.

停飞 tíngfēi
to be grounded (of planes)
Introduced in Chapter 418.

tíngkào to call at a station or port Introduced in Chapter 405.

tīngzhòng listeners; the people listening to the radio Introduced in Chapter 292.

tíqián
to do ahead of time; to bring forward (a date)
Introduced in Chapter 388.

tǐtiē considerate; thoughtful of others' needs Introduced in Chapter 468.

tíwèn
to put a question (in class or a meeting)
Introduced in Chapter 354.

tǐwēn body temperature
Introduced in Chapter 245.

tíxǐng to remind Introduced in Chapter 364.

tǐyàn to experience for yourself Introduced in Chapter 261.

tǐyù physical education (a school subject)
Introduced in Chapter 498.

体重 tǐzhòng body weight
Introduced in Chapter 230.

tīzi ladder
Introduced in Chapter 174.

tōngcháng normally; usually
Introduced in Chapter 162.

通车 tōngchē
to open to traffic
Introduced in Chapter 409.

同感 tónggǎn
the same feeling
Introduced in Chapter 352.

通过 tōngguò to pass through Introduced in Chapter 410.

tónghuà fairy tale
Introduced in Chapter 329.

tòngkuài delighted; to one's heart's content Introduced in Chapter 465.

tóngnián childhood
Introduced in Chapter 269.

同情 tóngqíng to sympathize with
Introduced in Chapter 460.

同事 tóngshì colleague
Introduced in Chapter 255.

同时 tóngshí
simultaneously; at the same moment
Introduced in Chapter 372.

通往 tōngwǎng to lead to Introduced in Chapter 428.

tōngxìn to write to each other; to correspond
Introduced in Chapter 319.

同学 tóngxué
classmate; schoolmate, now read and written Introduced in Chapter 15.

tóngyì to agree
Introduced in Chapter 270.

tōngzhī to notify; a notice
Introduced in Chapter 157.

tóu head
Introduced in Chapter 52.

tōu
to steal
Introduced in Chapter 216.

tóubì
to drop coins in the box
Introduced in Chapter 408.

tóufa
hair (on the head)
Introduced in Chapter 124.

tóujiǎng
first prize; the jackpot
Introduced in Chapter 530.

tóusù
to make a formal complaint
Introduced in Chapter 525.

头疼 tóuténg
having a headache; aching in the head Introduced in Chapter 228.

tóutiáo lead story; headline; the front-page story Introduced in Chapter 293.

tóuyūn dizzy
Introduced in Chapter 480.

tù to throw up; to vomit Introduced in Chapter 240.

tuányuán
to be reunited as a family
Introduced in Chapter 338.

突发 tūfā
to break out suddenly; sudden Introduced in Chapter 291.

tuī to push
Introduced in Chapter 112.

tuǐ leg
Introduced in Chapter 230.

tuìcháo to ebb (of the tide)
Introduced in Chapter 445.

tuīchí to put off; to postpone Introduced in Chapter 234.

tuìfáng to check out (of a hotel)
Introduced in Chapter 200.

tuìhuò
to take goods back; to return goods to a shop
Introduced in Chapter 202.

tuījiàn to recommend Introduced in Chapter 177.

tuìkuǎn to give the money back; to refund
Introduced in Chapter 525.

tuìpiào
to return a ticket (for a refund)
Introduced in Chapter 284.

tuìxiū to retire
Introduced in Chapter 276.

tuōdì to mop the floor
Introduced in Chapter 142.

tuōxiǎn
to get out of danger
Introduced in Chapter 531.

tuōyùn
to check in a suitcase; to send luggage in the hold
Introduced in Chapter 415.

突然 tūrán
suddenly; all of a sudden Introduced in Chapter 279.

图书 túshū
books on the shelves (of a library or bookshop) Introduced in Chapter 454.

túshūguǎn library
Introduced in Chapter 100.

tùzi rabbit; hare
Introduced in Chapter 223.

wàibì foreign currency
Introduced in Chapter 419.

wàibian outside
Introduced in Chapter 85.

外地 wàidì
from out of town; another part of the country
Introduced in Chapter 211.

外公 wàigōng
grandpa on the mother's side
Introduced in Chapter 272.

wàiguó
foreign country; abroad
Introduced in Chapter 81.

外界 wàijiè
the outside world
Introduced in Chapter 326.

wàimài
takeaway; food delivered
Introduced in Chapter 120.

wàipó
grandma on the mother's side
Introduced in Chapter 510.

外语 wàiyǔ
foreign language
Introduced in Chapter 110.

wàn ten thousand
Introduced in Chapter 132.

wán
to play; to have fun
Introduced in Chapter 56.

wān to bend
Introduced in Chapter 475.

wǎn'ān good night
Introduced in Chapter 76.

wánchéng to complete; to get (a job) done
Introduced in Chapter 395.

晚点 wǎndiǎn
to run behind schedule; to be late (of a train or plane)
Introduced in Chapter 145.

晚饭 wǎnfàn dinner; supper
Introduced in Chapter 69.

wàng to forget
Introduced in Chapter 95.

wǎng towards; in the direction of Introduced in Chapter 283.

wǎnggòu to shop online
Introduced in Chapter 387.

王国 wángguó kingdom
Introduced in Chapter 330.

王后 wánghòu
queen (a king's wife)
Introduced in Chapter 330.

wàngjì peak season; busy season Introduced in Chapter 430.

wǎngqiú tennis
Introduced in Chapter 262.

wǎngshì past events; things of the past Introduced in Chapter 344.

wǎngwǎng more often than not; tends to Introduced in Chapter 185.

wǎngyǒu online friend
Introduced in Chapter 345.

网站 wǎngzhàn
website
Introduced in Chapter 204.

王子 wángzǐ
prince
Introduced in Chapter 330.

晚会 wǎnhuì
evening party; evening show
Introduced in Chapter 173.

wánjù toy
Introduced in Chapter 269.

万能 wànnéng
able to do everything; all-purpose
Introduced in Chapter 393.

晚年 wǎnnián one's later years; old age
Introduced in Chapter 322.

晚上 wǎnshang evening
Introduced in Chapter 49.

晚上好 wǎnshang hǎo
good evening
Introduced in Chapter 49.

万事如意 wànshì rúyì
may all go as you wish Introduced in Chapter 534.

wànyī
in case; if by any chance Introduced in Chapter 244.

wéi
hello on the phone
Introduced in Chapter 63.

wēibōlú microwave oven
Introduced in Chapter 170.

wèidao taste; flavour
Introduced in Chapter 172.

wéifǎn
to break a rule; to go against the law Introduced in Chapter 359.

wéijīn scarf
Introduced in Chapter 165.

wèikǒu appetite
Introduced in Chapter 477.

为了 wèile for; in order to Introduced in Chapter 235.

为难 wéinán
in an awkward spot; torn (about what to do)
Introduced in Chapter 397.

wěiqu wronged; hurt by unfair blame Introduced in Chapter 459.

wèishēng hygiene; cleanliness
Introduced in Chapter 521.

为什么 wèishénme
why?
Introduced in Chapter 95.

wēixiǎn dangerous
Introduced in Chapter 115.

wēixiào to give a gentle smile
Introduced in Chapter 466.

wéizhāng to break the traffic rules Introduced in Chapter 420.

wèn to ask Introduced in Chapter 54.

wēndù temperature
Introduced in Chapter 243.

温和 wēnhé
gentle in manner; soft-spoken
Introduced in Chapter 469.

问候 wènhòu
to send regards to; to greet Introduced in Chapter 173.

wénhuà culture
Introduced in Chapter 374.

问路 wènlù
to ask the way
Introduced in Chapter 197.

文明 wénmíng civilization
Introduced in Chapter 326.

wèntí question; problem
Introduced in Chapter 214.

wěnzhòng steady; calm and reliable Introduced in Chapter 469.

wénzi
mosquito
Introduced in Chapter 242.

文字 wénzì
script; written language
Introduced in Chapter 321.

我 wǒ
I, me — one word for both, and no change for either
Introduced in Chapter 8.

我们 wǒmen
we; us
Introduced in Chapter 31.

wòpù sleeping berth
Introduced in Chapter 404.

wòshì bedroom
Introduced in Chapter 159.

wòshǒu to shake hands
Introduced in Chapter 336.

5 — 五 wǔ
the digit and the character — which one a price, a date and a phone number use Introduced in Chapter 21.

五 wǔ
five
Introduced in Chapter 3.

wǔbàn dance partner
Introduced in Chapter 505.

wǔdǎo
the art of dance
Introduced in Chapter 505.

午饭 wǔfàn
lunch
Introduced in Chapter 69.

wùhuì
to get the wrong idea; to misunderstand
Introduced in Chapter 367.

舞会 wǔhuì
dance party; ball
Introduced in Chapter 505.

wùjī
to miss a flight
Introduced in Chapter 416.

wùjià
prices; the cost of living
Introduced in Chapter 524.

午觉 wǔjiào afternoon nap
Introduced in Chapter 169.

wúliáo bored; boring
Introduced in Chapter 271.

wūrǎn to pollute
Introduced in Chapter 380.

wǔtái stage (in a theatre)
Introduced in Chapter 505.

wùyè property management; the management office
Introduced in Chapter 378.

wūyún dark clouds
Introduced in Chapter 238.

洗 xǐ
to wash
Introduced in Chapter 99.

xià cì
next time
Introduced in Chapter 163.

下个月 xià ge yuè
next month
Introduced in Chapter 148.

下星期 xià xīngqī
next week
Introduced in Chapter 148.

xiàbān
to finish work; to come off a shift
Introduced in Chapter 183.

xiàbian
under; below
Introduced in Chapter 86.

下车 xiàchē
to get off (a bus or train)
Introduced in Chapter 73.

xiàdān
to place an order
Introduced in Chapter 527.

下课 xiàkè
to finish class
Introduced in Chapter 79.

xián salty
Introduced in Chapter 71.

先 xiān
first; before anything else
Introduced in Chapter 269.

现成 xiànchéng ready-made
Introduced in Chapter 398.

现代 xiàndài modern times; modern Introduced in Chapter 323.

xiàng to resemble; to take after Introduced in Chapter 124.

xiāng
smelling good; fragrant; tasty
Introduced in Chapter 172.

想 xiǎng
to want to; to think; to miss Introduced in Chapter 55.

xiàngcè
photo album
Introduced in Chapter 344.

想法 xiǎngfǎ
idea; way of thinking
Introduced in Chapter 349.

xiǎngniàn to miss someone
Introduced in Chapter 325.

想起 xiǎngqǐ
to think of; to call to mind
Introduced in Chapter 324.

xiǎngshòu to enjoy Introduced in Chapter 277.

xiàngwǎng to yearn for Introduced in Chapter 533.

xiāngxìn to believe; to trust
Introduced in Chapter 270.

想要 xiǎngyào to want; would like
Introduced in Chapter 91.

xiāngzi
box; suitcase; trunk Introduced in Chapter 119.

xiànjīn cash
Introduced in Chapter 114.

xiànmù to envy
Introduced in Chapter 460.

xiānnǚ fairy; heavenly maiden Introduced in Chapter 329.

xiànr filling Introduced in Chapter 341.

xiānsheng
Mr; sir; husband
Introduced in Chapter 35.

xiànxuè to give blood
Introduced in Chapter 479.

xiànzài
now
Introduced in Chapter 45.

xiànzhì to put a limit on; to restrict Introduced in Chapter 359.

xiánzhì unused; lying idle
Introduced in Chapter 386.

xiào to laugh; to smile
Introduced in Chapter 56.

小 xiǎo
small; little, now read and written
Introduced in Chapter 14.

小吃 xiǎochī
snack; street food
Introduced in Chapter 182.

xiāodú to disinfect
Introduced in Chapter 482.

xiāofángyuán firefighter
Introduced in Chapter 298.

xiǎofèi
tip; a tip for the waiter
Introduced in Chapter 452.

xiàoguǒ
the effect it has (how well it works)
Introduced in Chapter 537.

小孩 xiǎohái child; kid
Introduced in Chapter 253.

xiāohuà to digest
Introduced in Chapter 452.

笑话 xiàohua joke
Introduced in Chapter 267.

小名 xiǎomíng childhood pet name
Introduced in Chapter 303.

小气 xiǎoqì
stingy; mean (with money)
Introduced in Chapter 265.

小区 xiǎoqū
housing estate; residential compound Introduced in Chapter 377.

xiǎoshēng
in a low voice; quietly Introduced in Chapter 363.

xiāoshī to disappear; to vanish
Introduced in Chapter 329.

小时 xiǎoshí hour
Introduced in Chapter 97.

xiǎoshíhou
in childhood; when one was little
Introduced in Chapter 78.

小说 xiǎoshuō
novel; story (in a book)
Introduced in Chapter 250.

xiǎotíqín violin
Introduced in Chapter 506.

小偷 xiǎotōu thief
Introduced in Chapter 309.

xiāoxi
news; a message
Introduced in Chapter 157.

小心 xiǎoxīn
to be careful; to mind (something)
Introduced in Chapter 115.

小心眼 xiǎoxīnyǎn
petty; narrow-minded
Introduced in Chapter 471.

小学 xiǎoxué
primary school, built from known characters
Introduced in Chapter 14.

小学生 xiǎoxuésheng primary-school student, built from known characters
Introduced in Chapter 14.

校长 xiàozhǎng
head teacher; principal Introduced in Chapter 248.

xiàqí to play chess
Introduced in Chapter 250.

xiàrén
scary; giving people a fright
Introduced in Chapter 463.

下山 xiàshān
to come down a mountain Introduced in Chapter 435.

xiàshǔ subordinate; someone under one at work Introduced in Chapter 491.

xiàtiān summer
Introduced in Chapter 131.

xiàwǔ afternoon
Introduced in Chapter 49.

下午茶 xiàwǔchá afternoon tea (a light meal)
Introduced in Chapter 166.

xiàyǔ to rain
Introduced in Chapter 66.

xiàzài to download
Introduced in Chapter 109.

西北 xīběi
northwest; the Northwest (of China)
Introduced in Chapter 422.

xībian
the west; on the west side
Introduced in Chapter 117.

西部 xībù
western part; the western regions Introduced in Chapter 438.

xié shoe
Introduced in Chapter 59.

xiě to write
Introduced in Chapter 54.

血 xiě
blood
Introduced in Chapter 479.

xièjué to decline politely
Introduced in Chapter 355.

谢谢 xièxie
thank you — the same character twice, and the second one goes light
Introduced in Chapter 10.

写作 xiězuò
to write essays and stories; writing Introduced in Chapter 251.

xīgài knee
Introduced in Chapter 475.

xīguā watermelon
Introduced in Chapter 237.

xíguàn
to be used to; a habit
Introduced in Chapter 158.

喜欢 xǐhuan
xǐhuan — 'to like', an ordinary verb with an ordinary object, and no inversion anywhere Introduced in Chapter 28.

xǐliǎn to wash one's face
Introduced in Chapter 99.

xìn letter (in the post)
Introduced in Chapter 118.

xīn new
Introduced in Chapter 61.

心爱 xīn'ài beloved; treasured
Introduced in Chapter 461.

西南 xīnán
southwest; the Southwest (of China)
Introduced in Chapter 423.

xìnfēng envelope
Introduced in Chapter 318.

xìng
to have the family name; family name
Introduced in Chapter 34.

xǐng to wake up
Introduced in Chapter 146.

xíngchéng
itinerary; plan for a trip Introduced in Chapter 428.

xīngfèn thrilled; keyed up
Introduced in Chapter 458.

xìnggé personality; character
Introduced in Chapter 258.

星光 xīngguāng
starlight Introduced in Chapter 517.

xìnghǎo luckily; fortunately Introduced in Chapter 236.

xīngjí hotel star rating
Introduced in Chapter 426.

xíngli luggage
Introduced in Chapter 119.

xínglijià luggage rack
Introduced in Chapter 406.

xínglixiāng
luggage case; a travel case Introduced in Chapter 453.

xìngmíng full name
Introduced in Chapter 455.

星期 xīngqī
week
Introduced in Chapter 46.

星期天 xīngqītiān
Sunday
Introduced in Chapter 46.

星期一 xīngqīyī
Monday
Introduced in Chapter 46.

xìngqù interest; interest in something
Introduced in Chapter 250.

星星 xīngxing star
Introduced in Chapter 68.

xìngyùn lucky; fortunate
Introduced in Chapter 529.

xìnhào
phone signal
Introduced in Chapter 198.

xīnkǔ
exhausting; toilsome (of work)
Introduced in Chapter 490.

xīnláng bridegroom
Introduced in Chapter 305.

心理 xīnlǐ
state of mind; psychology
Introduced in Chapter 351.

心里话 xīnlǐhuà
what is really on one's mind; words from the heart
Introduced in Chapter 459.

xīnniáng bride
Introduced in Chapter 306.

xīnqíng mood; frame of mind
Introduced in Chapter 245.

新人 xīnrén
the bride and groom
Introduced in Chapter 306.

xīnshǎng to admire; to appreciate
Introduced in Chapter 277.

新生 xīnshēng
new student
Introduced in Chapter 303.

心事 xīnshì
something on your mind; a worry
Introduced in Chapter 271.

新手 xīnshǒu
novice; beginner
Introduced in Chapter 296.

xīntài mindset; attitude of mind
Introduced in Chapter 485.

心疼 xīnténg
to feel for someone; to love dearly Introduced in Chapter 458.

xīntiào heartbeat
Introduced in Chapter 466.

xīnwén
the news; news on TV and radio Introduced in Chapter 290.

xīnxiān fresh
Introduced in Chapter 177.

心想事成 xīnxiǎng shìchéng may your wishes all come true
Introduced in Chapter 533.

信心 xìnxīn confidence; faith
Introduced in Chapter 319.

心意 xīnyì kind thoughts; a token of regard Introduced in Chapter 337.

xìnyòngkǎ credit card
Introduced in Chapter 195.

xīnzàng
the heart as an organ
Introduced in Chapter 477.

心中 xīnzhōng
in one's heart
Introduced in Chapter 343.

xiōngdì brothers
Introduced in Chapter 507.

xióngmāo
a panda; giant panda Introduced in Chapter 223.

xiōngmèi
elder brother and younger sister
Introduced in Chapter 508.

喜庆 xǐqìng
festive; joyous
Introduced in Chapter 339.

喜事 xǐshì
a happy occasion; a wedding in the family
Introduced in Chapter 305.

xǐshǒujiān toilet; washroom
Introduced in Chapter 86.

xǐtáng wedding sweets
Introduced in Chapter 306.

xǐtóu to wash one's hair
Introduced in Chapter 164.

xiū to repair; to fix
Introduced in Chapter 103.

xiūgǎi
to revise; to correct (a piece of work)
Introduced in Chapter 251.

xiūxi to rest
Introduced in Chapter 50.

xǐwǎn
to do the washing-up; to wash the dishes
Introduced in Chapter 160.

希望 xīwàng
to hope
Introduced in Chapter 533.

xìxīn careful; attentive to detail
Introduced in Chapter 273.

xīyān to smoke
Introduced in Chapter 115.

西医 xīyī
western medicine; a doctor of it
Introduced in Chapter 231.

洗衣店 xǐyīdiàn
laundry shop
Introduced in Chapter 215.

xǐyīfěn washing powder
Introduced in Chapter 179.

洗衣机 xǐyījī
washing machine
Introduced in Chapter 179.

xǐzǎo
to have a shower; to have a bath
Introduced in Chapter 99.

xuǎn to choose Introduced in Chapter 210.

xuānbù to announce officially Introduced in Chapter 291.

xuānchuáncè brochure; leaflet
Introduced in Chapter 454.

xuǎnzé
to make a choice
Introduced in Chapter 368.

xuě snow
Introduced in Chapter 66.

学 xué
study; learn, now read and written Introduced in Chapter 13.

xuéfèi tuition fees
Introduced in Chapter 304.

雪花 xuěhuā
snowflake
Introduced in Chapter 243.

学会 xuéhuì
to learn (and now be able to)
Introduced in Chapter 151.

xuějǐng
a snowy landscape
Introduced in Chapter 519.

学期 xuéqī school term; semester
Introduced in Chapter 248.

学区房 xuéqūfáng
a home near a good school
Introduced in Chapter 377.

雪人 xuěrén
snowman
Introduced in Chapter 221.

学生 xuésheng
student, now read and written Introduced in Chapter 13.

xuéxí to study; to learn
Introduced in Chapter 54.

xuéxiào school
Introduced in Chapter 43.

xuèyā blood pressure
Introduced in Chapter 479.

xùnliàn
to do training (for a sport); to drill
Introduced in Chapter 499.

xúnluó to patrol
Introduced in Chapter 382.

xǔnuò
to give one's word; to pledge Introduced in Chapter 534.

xūyào to need
Introduced in Chapter 91.

xǔyuàn to make a wish Introduced in Chapter 337.

yáchǐ tooth; teeth
Introduced in Chapter 473.

yágāo toothpaste
Introduced in Chapter 105.

yājīn
a deposit paid in advance
Introduced in Chapter 203.

yālì pressure; stress
Introduced in Chapter 485.

yáncháng to extend (in time)
Introduced in Chapter 400.

yǎnchàng
to perform a song (on stage)
Introduced in Chapter 504.

yǎnchū to perform on stage
Introduced in Chapter 257.

yǎng to keep an animal; to raise Introduced in Chapter 229.

yǎngchéng
to form (a habit); to get into a habit
Introduced in Chapter 484.

阳光 yángguāng
sunshine
Introduced in Chapter 518.

yángtái balcony
Introduced in Chapter 159.

yàngzi appearance; manner
Introduced in Chapter 233.

yānhuā
fireworks
Introduced in Chapter 339.

yǎnjing eye
Introduced in Chapter 52.

yǎnjìng
glasses; spectacles
Introduced in Chapter 233.

yǎnlèi tears
Introduced in Chapter 471.

眼前 yǎnqián
before one's eyes; right now Introduced in Chapter 471.

yánsè colour
Introduced in Chapter 60.

yánwù to be delayed; to be held up Introduced in Chapter 416.

yǎnyuán
actor; performer
Introduced in Chapter 267.

yánzhòng serious (of illness); serious (of a problem)
Introduced in Chapter 228.

yǎnzòu
to perform on an instrument
Introduced in Chapter 506.

yào to want; to ask for
Introduced in Chapter 41.

要不是 yàobúshì
if it were not for Introduced in Chapter 541.

yàodiàn
chemist's; pharmacy
Introduced in Chapter 190.

yāoguài monster; demon
Introduced in Chapter 331.

要价 yàojià
to name one's price; to ask a price
Introduced in Chapter 524.

要紧 yàojǐn urgent; a cause for concern
Introduced in Chapter 481.

yáokòngqì remote control
Introduced in Chapter 171.

要么 yàome either one or the other; either … or Introduced in Chapter 541.

yàopiàn tablet; pill
Introduced in Chapter 482.

yāoqǐng to invite; an invitation
Introduced in Chapter 173.

yāoqiú to require; to demand (of someone)
Introduced in Chapter 399.

yàoshi
key
Introduced in Chapter 87.

要是 yàoshi
if Introduced in Chapter 288.

yáotóu to shake one's head
Introduced in Chapter 476.

yáshuā toothbrush
Introduced in Chapter 105.

牙医 yáyī dentist
Introduced in Chapter 473.

yāzi duck
Introduced in Chapter 439.

也 yě
also; too
Introduced in Chapter 92.

yèbān night shift
Introduced in Chapter 490.

yěcān
to have a picnic; a picnic
Introduced in Chapter 163.

yèli at night
Introduced in Chapter 146.

yèshì night market
Introduced in Chapter 449.

yěwài
the open country; the wild Introduced in Chapter 441.

yěxǔ
it may be that; perhaps Introduced in Chapter 256.

yéye
grandpa on the father's side
Introduced in Chapter 253.

yèzi leaf
Introduced in Chapter 237.

一 yī
one
Introduced in Chapter 3.

一百 yìbǎi
a hundred — and the one word in the run whose tone moves Introduced in Chapter 21.

yìbān generally; as a rule; ordinary Introduced in Chapter 162.

一半 yíbàn
one half; half (of something)
Introduced in Chapter 140.

一边 yìbiān
at the same time (said twice, before two verbs); one side Introduced in Chapter 149.

yícìxìng
disposable; used once
Introduced in Chapter 383.

一大早 yídàzǎo
first thing in the morning; at the crack of dawn
Introduced in Chapter 169.

一点儿 yìdiǎnr
a little; a bit
Introduced in Chapter 91.

yídìng certainly; definitely Introduced in Chapter 147.

yǐfáng
so as to guard against; as a precaution
Introduced in Chapter 389.

yīfu clothes
Introduced in Chapter 58.

yígòng altogether; in all Introduced in Chapter 132.

yīguì wardrobe
Introduced in Chapter 179.

yíhàn
a pity; regrettable
Introduced in Chapter 286.

yǐhòu
after; afterwards
Introduced in Chapter 97.

一会儿 yíhuìr
a little while; in a moment
Introduced in Chapter 76.

意见 yìjiàn
a suggestion; an objection
Introduced in Chapter 280.

yǐjīng already Introduced in Chapter 126.

yíkuàir
all together; together (in everyday speech)
Introduced in Chapter 163.

yílù píng'ān have a safe journey Introduced in Chapter 213.

yímín to emigrate; to settle abroad Introduced in Chapter 437.

yīncǐ
for this reason; and so (written or careful speech)
Introduced in Chapter 281.

yìng hard; stiff Introduced in Chapter 134.

yīng'ér newborn; infant
Introduced in Chapter 302.

应该 yīnggāi should; ought to Introduced in Chapter 282.

Yīngguó
Britain; the United Kingdom
Introduced in Chapter 36.

yìngpìn to apply for a job
Introduced in Chapter 486.

yǐngxiǎng to affect; influence; to have an effect on Introduced in Chapter 294.

yīngxióng hero
Introduced in Chapter 327.

yíngyǎng nutrition; nourishment Introduced in Chapter 483.

yíngyè
to be open for business
Introduced in Chapter 122.

Yīngyǔ
English (the language)
Introduced in Chapter 492.

yìngzuò hard seat
Introduced in Chapter 404.

yínháng bank
Introduced in Chapter 100.

yǐnliào drink; soft drink
Introduced in Chapter 102.

yǐnqǐ to give rise to; to bring about Introduced in Chapter 294.

yīnsù factor
Introduced in Chapter 370.

yīntiān overcast day
Introduced in Chapter 136.

因为 yīnwèi
because
Introduced in Chapter 96.

yìnxiàng impression
Introduced in Chapter 324.

音乐 yīnyuè
music
Introduced in Chapter 128.

音乐会 yīnyuèhuì concert
Introduced in Chapter 128.

一起 yìqǐ
together
Introduced in Chapter 84.

以前 yǐqián
before; in the past Introduced in Chapter 126.

yíqiè everything; all Introduced in Chapter 401.

yīshēng doctor
Introduced in Chapter 80.

一生 yìshēng
all one's life; a lifetime
Introduced in Chapter 322.

yìshù
art; the arts
Introduced in Chapter 503.

意思 yìsi meaning; what something means Introduced in Chapter 347.

意外 yìwài
mishap; something unexpected
Introduced in Chapter 296.

以为 yǐwéi
to wrongly assume; to take it that (often wrongly) Introduced in Chapter 346.

yìwù duty; obligation
Introduced in Chapter 362.

意想不到 yìxiǎngbúdào
unexpected; beyond what anyone imagined
Introduced in Chapter 462.

一下子 yíxiàzi
all at once; in no time
Introduced in Chapter 279.

一些 yìxiē
some; a few
Introduced in Chapter 127.

yíyàng
the same; alike
Introduced in Chapter 94.

yìyì significance; meaning
Introduced in Chapter 347.

yīyuàn hospital
Introduced in Chapter 44.

yìzhí straight on; all the way
Introduced in Chapter 197.

yízhì
all of one mind; in agreement
Introduced in Chapter 348.

yǐzi chair
Introduced in Chapter 57.

用 yòng
to use
Introduced in Chapter 103.

yǒnggǎn brave
Introduced in Chapter 265.

yōngjǐ crowded
Introduced in Chapter 406.

用力 yònglì
to push hard; to put one's strength into it
Introduced in Chapter 474.

用心 yòngxīn
attentive; putting your heart into it
Introduced in Chapter 273.

用意 yòngyì
intention; the purpose behind it Introduced in Chapter 372.

yǒngyuǎn forever
Introduced in Chapter 344.

又 yòu
yet again; it happened again
Introduced in Chapter 315.

有 yǒu
yǒu — 'to have', and also 'there is': one verb where Spanish spends three points
Introduced in Chapter 24.

yòu'éryuán kindergarten; nursery school
Introduced in Chapter 303.

yòubian
the right; on the right
Introduced in Chapter 82.

yóubiān
postcode
Introduced in Chapter 345.

游船 yóuchuán pleasure boat
Introduced in Chapter 431.

yōudiǎn strong point; merit
Introduced in Chapter 372.

有点儿 yǒudiǎnr
a bit (of something unwanted); rather Introduced in Chapter 93.

yǒuhǎo friendly
Introduced in Chapter 258.

yóuhuà oil painting
Introduced in Chapter 502.

yōuhuì
a favourable deal (for customers)
Introduced in Chapter 527.

游记 yóujì
travel notes; account of a journey Introduced in Chapter 434.

yóujiàn
email; mail
Introduced in Chapter 201.

yóujú post office
Introduced in Chapter 100.

yóukè tourist Introduced in Chapter 213.

yǒukòng
to have free time; to be free
Introduced in Chapter 163.

有理 yǒulǐ
reasonable; in the right
Introduced in Chapter 351.

yōumò humorous; witty (of a person)
Introduced in Chapter 258.

yóunì greasy; oily
Introduced in Chapter 449.

yóupiào postage stamp
Introduced in Chapter 201.

有钱 yǒuqián rich; well-off
Introduced in Chapter 188.

yǒuqù fun; amusing
Introduced in Chapter 277.

yǒushì
to have something on; to be busy Introduced in Chapter 95.

yǒushíhou sometimes
Introduced in Chapter 126.

有望 yǒuwàng
with good hopes of it; likely to happen
Introduced in Chapter 532.

yóuxì game
Introduced in Chapter 141.

yǒuxiào valid; effective
Introduced in Chapter 455.

yǒuyìsi interesting
Introduced in Chapter 129.

yóuyǒng to swim
Introduced in Chapter 90.

yóuyú owing to; because of Introduced in Chapter 235.

yú fish
Introduced in Chapter 67.

雨 yǔ
rain
Introduced in Chapter 66.

yuán round
Introduced in Chapter 139.

yuǎn far
Introduced in Chapter 62.

元 yuán
yuan (the unit of money, as written; said kuài)
Introduced in Chapter 156.

yuándìng
originally planned
Introduced in Chapter 400.

原来 yuánlái
so (it turns out); as it turns out Introduced in Chapter 537.

yuánliàng to forgive
Introduced in Chapter 275.

yuánmèng to fulfil a dream
Introduced in Chapter 536.

愿望 yuànwàng
a wish one has; a desire
Introduced in Chapter 535.

Yuánxiāo
the Lantern Festival
Introduced in Chapter 335.

愿意 yuànyì
to be willing (to)
Introduced in Chapter 535.

yuányīn reason; cause
Introduced in Chapter 145.

yuánzé principle
Introduced in Chapter 371.

yúchuán fishing boat
Introduced in Chapter 445.

yùdào to run into; to come across Introduced in Chapter 227.

yùdìng to book ahead
Introduced in Chapter 200.

yuè month; moon
Introduced in Chapter 47.

yuē to arrange to meet; to make a date with
Introduced in Chapter 180.

月饼 yuèbǐng
mooncake
Introduced in Chapter 341.

约定 yuēdìng
to agree on a time; to fix (a time or place) together Introduced in Chapter 390.

yuèduì
band (of musicians)
Introduced in Chapter 506.

yuèguāng moonlight
Introduced in Chapter 343.

约会 yuēhuì
a romantic date; an appointment (to meet)
Introduced in Chapter 388.

yuèliang
the moon
Introduced in Chapter 238.

yuèqì musical instrument
Introduced in Chapter 257.

yùfáng to prevent; to guard against Introduced in Chapter 484.

雨季 yǔjì
rainy season
Introduced in Chapter 515.

yúkuài pleasant; cheerful
Introduced in Chapter 247.

yùmèn down; gloomy
Introduced in Chapter 460.

yùn to iron
Introduced in Chapter 179.

云 yún
cloud
Introduced in Chapter 219.

yùnchuán to get seasick
Introduced in Chapter 227.

yūndǎo to faint; to pass out Introduced in Chapter 299.

yùndòng sport; exercise
Introduced in Chapter 56.

yùndòngyuán athlete
Introduced in Chapter 501.

yùnjī to get airsick
Introduced in Chapter 414.

运气 yùnqi
a person's luck (good or bad)
Introduced in Chapter 529.

yǔnxǔ
to allow; to permit
Introduced in Chapter 209.

yǔsǎn umbrella
Introduced in Chapter 116.

yùshì bathroom
Introduced in Chapter 181.

yúshì
so; and then (as a result)
Introduced in Chapter 294.

yùsuàn budget
Introduced in Chapter 387.

语文 yǔwén
Chinese (as a school subject)
Introduced in Chapter 492.

yùxí
to prepare a lesson (before class)
Introduced in Chapter 249.

雨衣 yǔyī raincoat
Introduced in Chapter 234.

语音 yǔyīn
voice message; speech sounds
Introduced in Chapter 320.

yùyuē
to make an appointment; to book
Introduced in Chapter 212.

再 zài
again (still to come); once more Introduced in Chapter 283.

在 zài to be at; in, at Introduced in Chapter 85.

zàihūn to remarry
Introduced in Chapter 307.

再见 zàijiàn
goodbye — two characters whose meanings genuinely add up
Introduced in Chapter 6.

再说 zàishuō
to leave it till later Introduced in Chapter 76.

zànchéng to approve of; to be in favour Introduced in Chapter 270.

zāng
dirty
Introduced in Chapter 93.

zànglǐ funeral
Introduced in Chapter 314.

早 zǎo
early Introduced in Chapter 83.

zàochéng to cause damage or trouble
Introduced in Chapter 537.

早饭 zǎofàn
breakfast
Introduced in Chapter 69.

zāogāo
oh no; what a mess
Introduced in Chapter 216.

早年 zǎonián
one's early years; long ago
Introduced in Chapter 322.

早上 zǎoshang
morning — and a syllable with no tone at all
Introduced in Chapter 7.

早上好 zǎoshang hǎo
good morning — and proof that 好 was a building block
Introduced in Chapter 7.

早市 zǎoshì
morning market; a market held at dawn
Introduced in Chapter 448.

早晚 zǎowǎn morning and evening; sooner or later Introduced in Chapter 185.

zàoyīn unwanted noise; din
Introduced in Chapter 378.

zázhì magazine
Introduced in Chapter 293.

zēngjiā to increase
Introduced in Chapter 384.

怎么 zěnme
how; in what way
Introduced in Chapter 283.

zěnme bàn
what should I do?
Introduced in Chapter 214.

怎么回事 zěnme huí shì
what is going on here; what's the matter
Introduced in Chapter 540.

zěnmeyàng
zěnmeyàng — 'how is it?', the everyday way to ask how somebody is doing Introduced in Chapter 30.

zérèn responsibility; blame
Introduced in Chapter 297.

zhá to deep-fry
Introduced in Chapter 168.

zhāi
to pick fruit; to pick flowers
Introduced in Chapter 225.

zhàn to stand Introduced in Chapter 89.

zhāng
(a measure word for flat things: tables, beds, tickets)
Introduced in Chapter 88.

zhǎngbèi one's elders; the older generation
Introduced in Chapter 507.

长大 zhǎngdà to grow up
Introduced in Chapter 78.

zhàngdān
bill (to pay)
Introduced in Chapter 387.

zhànghù bank account
Introduced in Chapter 195.

zhǎngjià
to get dearer; to go up in price
Introduced in Chapter 193.

zhàngpeng tent
Introduced in Chapter 441.

zhǎngshuǐ
to rise after rain (of a river)
Introduced in Chapter 442.

zhànpái bus stop sign
Introduced in Chapter 408.

zhàntái
a platform (at a station)
Introduced in Chapter 284.

zhànxiàn engaged; busy (of a phone line)
Introduced in Chapter 198.

站长 zhànzhǎng
stationmaster; head of a station
Introduced in Chapter 403.

zhànzhēng war
Introduced in Chapter 327.

zhǎo to look for Introduced in Chapter 63.

zhāodài
to look after your guests; to entertain
Introduced in Chapter 361.

找到 zhǎodào to find
Introduced in Chapter 197.

zhàogù to look after; to take care of Introduced in Chapter 160.

找回 zhǎohuí
to get back (something lost)
Introduced in Chapter 285.

zháohuǒ to catch fire
Introduced in Chapter 176.

zháojí anxious; in a hurry
Introduced in Chapter 125.

zháoliáng to catch a chill
Introduced in Chapter 222.

zhāopáicài
a restaurant's signature dish
Introduced in Chapter 450.

zhàopiàn
photo; photograph
Introduced in Chapter 109.

zhāopìn
to recruit; to advertise a job Introduced in Chapter 486.

zhǎoqián to give change
Introduced in Chapter 114.

zhàoxiàng to take a photo
Introduced in Chapter 207.

zhǎyǎn to blink; to wink
Introduced in Chapter 471.

这 zhè this
Introduced in Chapter 37.

这个 zhège this one Introduced in Chapter 37.

这么 zhème
so; this much; like this Introduced in Chapter 280.

zhēn really; truly Introduced in Chapter 77.

zhēng to steam (food)
Introduced in Chapter 168.

正常 zhèngcháng normal; as usual
Introduced in Chapter 178.

正点 zhèngdiǎn
on schedule (of a train or plane)
Introduced in Chapter 403.

zhèngfǔ government
Introduced in Chapter 374.

正好 zhènghǎo exactly right; as it happens Introduced in Chapter 149.

zhèngjiàn papers; an identity document
Introduced in Chapter 285.

正经 zhèngjīng decent; serious and proper Introduced in Chapter 469.

zhèngjù evidence; proof
Introduced in Chapter 310.

zhěnglǐ
to sort out; to put in order
Introduced in Chapter 142.

zhēnglùn
to argue over a point; to debate
Introduced in Chapter 348.

zhèngmíng to prove Introduced in Chapter 350.

zhěngqí neat; orderly Introduced in Chapter 521.

zhēngqǔ to strive for; to fight for Introduced in Chapter 513.

zhèngrén
witness
Introduced in Chapter 310.

正月 zhēngyuè
first lunar month
Introduced in Chapter 334.

正在 zhèngzài
in the middle of (doing)
Introduced in Chapter 149.

zhèngzōng
authentic; the real thing (of food)
Introduced in Chapter 450.

zhěntou pillow
Introduced in Chapter 181.

真心 zhēnxīn
sincere; from the bottom of your heart
Introduced in Chapter 358.

zhènyǔ
a rain shower
Introduced in Chapter 244.

真正 zhēnzhèng
real; genuine Introduced in Chapter 358.

这儿 zhèr here
Introduced in Chapter 57.

这些 zhèxiē these Introduced in Chapter 127.

zhèyàng
like this; this way
Introduced in Chapter 127.

zhī
(a measure word for animals, and for one of a pair)
Introduced in Chapter 88.

zhǐ paper
Introduced in Chapter 104.

zhì'ān
law and order; public order
Introduced in Chapter 379.

zhíbān
to be on duty
Introduced in Chapter 382.

zhíbō
to broadcast live; a live show
Introduced in Chapter 292.

职场 zhíchǎng
the workplace; the world of work
Introduced in Chapter 491.

zhīchí to support; to back Introduced in Chapter 270.

zhídá
to go direct; to go without changing Introduced in Chapter 405.

zhīdào to know a fact; to be aware Introduced in Chapter 62.

zhíde
to be worth it; to be worth doing
Introduced in Chapter 366.

职工 zhígōng
member of staff; employee (of a firm or factory)
Introduced in Chapter 489.

zhǐhǎo to have no choice but to Introduced in Chapter 235.

zhīhòu
after (a time); after (an event)
Introduced in Chapter 185.

zhíjī
to check in for a flight
Introduced in Chapter 418.

zhìliàng quality
Introduced in Chapter 193.

zhìliáo
to give medical treatment; to cure
Introduced in Chapter 482.

zhǐlù
to give directions; to show someone the way
Introduced in Chapter 454.

zhīqián
before (a time); before (an event)
Introduced in Chapter 185.

zhìshǎo at least Introduced in Chapter 368.

zhīshi knowledge
Introduced in Chapter 497.

zhǐwàng to count on someone Introduced in Chapter 532.

zhíwèi
a position in a firm
Introduced in Chapter 489.

zhíwù plant
Introduced in Chapter 237.

zhìxiàng
ambition in life; the goal one sets oneself Introduced in Chapter 512.

zhǐxuè
to stop the bleeding
Introduced in Chapter 479.

只要 zhǐyào
as long as; provided (that) Introduced in Chapter 399.

zhíyè occupation; profession
Introduced in Chapter 259.

只有 zhǐyǒu
only if (with cái after it)
Introduced in Chapter 399.

zhìyuànzhě volunteer
Introduced in Chapter 375.

zhǒng swollen
Introduced in Chapter 240.

重 zhòng
heavy Introduced in Chapter 134.

zhòngdì
to farm; to work the land
Introduced in Chapter 225.

zhōngdiǎnzhàn terminus; the end of the line
Introduced in Chapter 407.

zhōnggào
word of advice; warning
Introduced in Chapter 365.

中国 zhōngguó
China
Introduced in Chapter 17.

中国人 Zhōngguó rén
中国人 — a Chinese person, built out of three characters you already write Introduced in Chapter 22.

中级 zhōngjí
intermediate (in level)
Introduced in Chapter 496.

zhōngjiān
the middle; between Introduced in Chapter 82.

zhòngjiǎng
to win in a draw; to win a prize
Introduced in Chapter 530.

重量 zhòngliàng weight; how heavy something is Introduced in Chapter 526.

中年 zhōngnián middle age
Introduced in Chapter 266.

中秋 Zhōngqiū
the Mid-Autumn Festival
Introduced in Chapter 342.

重伤 zhòngshāng serious injury; badly hurt
Introduced in Chapter 478.

zhòngshì to attach importance to Introduced in Chapter 385.

zhòngshù to plant trees
Introduced in Chapter 384.

中文 zhōngwén
Chinese; the Chinese language
Introduced in Chapter 17.

中午 zhōngwǔ
noon
Introduced in Chapter 49.

中学 zhōngxué
middle school, built from known characters
Introduced in Chapter 15.

中学生 zhōngxuésheng middle-school student, built from known characters
Introduced in Chapter 15.

重要 zhòngyào important
Introduced in Chapter 144.

中医 zhōngyī
traditional Chinese medicine; a doctor of it Introduced in Chapter 231.

zhōngyú at long last Introduced in Chapter 294.

zhōudào
attentive and thorough (of service)
Introduced in Chapter 525.

zhōumò weekend
Introduced in Chapter 46.

zhōuwéi surroundings; the area around Introduced in Chapter 377.

zhù
to live somewhere; to stay
Introduced in Chapter 35.

zhū pig
Introduced in Chapter 242.

zhǔ
to boil; to cook in water
Introduced in Chapter 113.

祝 zhù
to wish someone well
Introduced in Chapter 337.

zhuā to scratch; to grab
Introduced in Chapter 229.

zhuàn
to earn money; to make a profit
Introduced in Chapter 488.

zhuàng to crash into; to bump into Introduced in Chapter 232.

zhuǎngào to pass on a message
Introduced in Chapter 318.

zhuàngguān magnificent; spectacular Introduced in Chapter 435.

zhuāngxiū to do up a home; to renovate Introduced in Chapter 313.

zhuǎnjī to change planes
Introduced in Chapter 416.

zhuānyè
major; field of study
Introduced in Chapter 492.

zhǔchírén
presenter; host of a show
Introduced in Chapter 290.

zhùfú blessing; good wishes
Introduced in Chapter 343.

zhǔfu
to exhort; to tell (someone) to be sure to do something Introduced in Chapter 393.

zhuī to chase; to run after Introduced in Chapter 311.

zhuīqiú
to pursue (a goal); to chase a dream
Introduced in Chapter 512.

zhǔnbèi to get ready; to prepare Introduced in Chapter 84.

zhǔnshí
on time; punctual
Introduced in Chapter 143.

zhuōzi
table
Introduced in Chapter 57.

zhǔrén
host; owner
Introduced in Chapter 180.

zhùsù
accommodation; a place to stay Introduced in Chapter 425.

zhǔyào
main; chief Introduced in Chapter 541.

zhùyì
to pay attention; to take care
Introduced in Chapter 115.

zhǔyi
bright idea; idea of what to do Introduced in Chapter 347.

zhùyuàn to be in hospital
Introduced in Chapter 241.

zhǔzhāng
to argue in favour of; to advocate
Introduced in Chapter 349.

字 zì
a written Chinese character, recovered without pinyin
Introduced in Chapter 16.

自从 zìcóng
since; ever since Introduced in Chapter 308.

zìjǐ oneself
Introduced in Chapter 138.

子女 zǐnǚ
sons and daughters; children
Introduced in Chapter 253.

zìpāi to take a selfie
Introduced in Chapter 430.

自然 zìrán
naturally; nature
Introduced in Chapter 316.

zǐsè purple
Introduced in Chapter 210.

zìsī selfish
Introduced in Chapter 470.

自信 zìxìn
self-confident; sure of oneself Introduced in Chapter 465.

zìxíngchē bicycle
Introduced in Chapter 106.

自学 zìxué
to teach oneself
Introduced in Chapter 497.

zīxún
to make an inquiry; to ask for advice
Introduced in Chapter 454.

zīyuán natural resources
Introduced in Chapter 384.

自愿 zìyuàn
of one's own free will; voluntary Introduced in Chapter 535.

自在 zìzai
at ease; free and relaxed Introduced in Chapter 315.

zìzhùcān buffet
Introduced in Chapter 427.

zǒngjié to sum up
Introduced in Chapter 371.

zōngsè
brown
Introduced in Chapter 210.

zǒngshì
every single time; always Introduced in Chapter 162.

zǒngzhī
in short; in a word
Introduced in Chapter 370.

zǒu to walk; to leave
Introduced in Chapter 43.

zǒulù
to walk; to go on foot Introduced in Chapter 194.

zǒusàn
to get separated (in a crowd)
Introduced in Chapter 456.

走运 zǒuyùn
to be in luck
Introduced in Chapter 529.

zū to rent
Introduced in Chapter 203.

zuì most Introduced in Chapter 140.

zuǐ mouth; beak
Introduced in Chapter 473.

zuìchū
at the very start; initially
Introduced in Chapter 295.

最好 zuìhǎo had better; it would be best to Introduced in Chapter 282.

最后 zuìhòu
last; finally; in the end
Introduced in Chapter 278.

zuìjìn lately; recently Introduced in Chapter 178.

zūnshǒu to keep to; to abide by Introduced in Chapter 359.

zūnzhòng
to show respect for; to respect
Introduced in Chapter 363.

zuò to sit; to travel by Introduced in Chapter 44.

做 zuò to do; to make
Introduced in Chapter 89.

zuòbì to cheat in an exam
Introduced in Chapter 495.

zuǒbian
the left; on the left Introduced in Chapter 82.

zuòcāo
to do a fitness routine; to do physical exercises
Introduced in Chapter 220.

做法 zuòfǎ
the way something is done; method
Introduced in Chapter 349.

做饭 zuòfàn
to cook
Introduced in Chapter 69.

作家 zuòjiā writer; author
Introduced in Chapter 259.

做客 zuòkè
to visit as a guest; to be a guest Introduced in Chapter 180.

zuòmèng to dream; to have a dream
Introduced in Chapter 158.

zuòpǐn
a work of art; a piece of writing
Introduced in Chapter 503.

zuótiān yesterday
Introduced in Chapter 45.

zuòwán to finish (doing)
Introduced in Chapter 151.

zuòwèi
a seat
Introduced in Chapter 284.

作文 zuòwén
essay; composition (at school)
Introduced in Chapter 251.

zuòyè homework
Introduced in Chapter 79.

作用 zuòyòng effect; function
Introduced in Chapter 370.

zuǒyòu about; or so (after a number) Introduced in Chapter 205.

zúqiú football; soccer
Introduced in Chapter 135.

Review Questions

Try these without looking ahead. Every prompt comes from the same canonical lesson data as its chapter. Answers begin in the next section.

Chapter 1

1.1 mā má mǎ mà — one syllable, four words
How many marked tones does Mandarin have, not counting the neutral one? Type the number as a word.

1.2 你 — "you", and the first character
Type the Mandarin word, in pinyin with its tone mark, that means 'you' (one person).

1.3 好 — "good", and what replaces etymology here
好 is built from two components. Type the meaning of the one on the left.

1.4 你好 — the greeting, assembled from two things you already have
You have just been introduced to someone. Type the Mandarin greeting in characters.

1.5 ní hǎo — why the greeting is not said the way it is written
A dictionary prints the greeting as nǐ hǎo. Type it in pinyin the way it is actually spoken.

1.6 好 again — proof, on a character you own, that tone is the word
Read in the falling fourth tone, 好 stops meaning 'good'. Type its meaning with that tone, in English.

1.7 Practice — greet someone, and be greeted back
Someone greets you with 你好. Type your reply in characters.

Chapter 2

2.1 人 — two strokes, and a person walking
How many strokes does the character for 'person' have?

2.2 亻 — the same person, standing sideways
A character has the narrow upright person component at its left edge. What does that tell you about the word?

2.3 尔 — a piece that is there for its sound
When a component is inside a character for its SOUND rather than its meaning, what is it telling you?

2.4 Putting two pieces together — and reading the result
In this character, which half points at the MEANING — the left or the right?

2.5 女 — three strokes, seated
How many strokes are in the character for 'woman'?

2.6 子 — three strokes, a child
What does the three-stroke character with the hooked vertical and a bar across the middle mean?

2.7 Two pieces again — and a warning about the story
Does this character have a component that points at its pronunciation?

Chapter 3

3.1 一 — one stroke, and that is the character
How many strokes does the character for one have?

3.2 一 — one, and the number is the strokes
What is the relationship between the number of strokes in this character and what it means?

3.3 二 — two bars, and neither is decoration
In the character for two, which bar is longer — the top or the bottom?

3.4 二 — two, and a syllable you have met before
Type the pinyin, with its tone mark, for the number two.

3.5 三 — three bars, and the pattern's last stand
In the character for three, which of the three bars is shortest?

3.6 三 — three, and the end of the easy road
Do you expect the character for four to have four strokes? Why or why not?

3.7 四 — a box, and the rule that governs every box
Which stroke of the box in the character for four is drawn LAST?

3.8 四 — four, borrowed for its sound
Why do some buildings in China have no fourth floor?

3.9 五 — count the strokes and be wrong
How many strokes does the character for five have?

3.10 五 — five, and the run is complete
Which of the five numbers could you have worked out from their strokes alone?

3.11 Practice — read the numbers off a wall
A lift panel reads 一 二 三 五. Which floor number is missing, and why?

Chapter 4

4.1 口 — the box, on its own
Which stroke of this box is written last?

4.2 口 — mouth, and a piece you will meet everywhere
What does this character mean, and what is it a picture of?

4.3 日 — one bar inside the box
Does the middle bar go in before or after the bottom bar?

4.4 日 — the sun, and the day it measures
This character means two things. What are they, and why are they the same word?

4.5 不 — four strokes, all of them separate
How many times do you lift the pen writing this character?

4.6 不 — how Mandarin says no
Mandarin has no single word meaning 'no'. So how do you answer no to a yes-or-no question?

4.7 Practice — one box, two characters, and a refusal
Why is 不 worth more than one word of vocabulary?

Chapter 5

5.1 是 — finish the sun, then build under it
Which character sits on top of this one, and must be finished first?

5.2 是 — "is", and the nearest thing to "yes"
Mandarin has no separate word for 'yes'. So how do you say it?

5.3 不是 — "is not", and the second tone that moves
不 changes tone before one particular kind of syllable. Which, and what does 不 become?

5.4 Practice — answering either way
Mandarin gives you no word for yes and none for no. What does it give you instead?

Chapter 6

6.1 再 — a bar, a frame, and a line that closes it
The frame's top, right side and hook are drawn how – as three strokes, or as one?

6.2 见 — an eye on two legs
What sits underneath the frame in this character, and where have you seen it before?

6.3 再见 — the word that says what it means
Read the goodbye word literally, character by character. What do the two characters say?

6.4 Practice — a conversation that ends
You have opened an exchange, answered inside it, and closed it. Which line closes it, in pinyin?

Chapter 7

7.1 早 — sun on top, one more time
Which piece of this character is finished before the other, and how many strokes does it take?

7.2 上 — the same rule, read the other way
Which stroke of this character is drawn first, and why is it not the short bar?

7.3 早上 — morning, and a syllable that goes light
In the pinyin for 'morning', why does the second syllable have no tone mark?

7.4 早上好 — the greeting was a pattern all along
Both greetings you now know end in the same character. Which one, and what does it mean on its own?

7.5 Practice — greeting the time of day
You meet someone at eight in the morning. You know two greetings that would both be understood. Which one fits the hour?

Chapter 8

8.1 我 — seven strokes, and an honest admission
Which stroke of this seven-stroke character is written last?

8.2 我 — I, me, and saying who you are English has two words, 'I' and 'me', and picks between them. How many does Mandarin use?

8.3 名 — a mouth with something above it
Which character that you have already written forms the bottom half of this one?

8.4 字 — a child under a roof
This character is the word for the thing you have been writing all along. What does it mean?

8.5 名字 — the word for a name
The word for 'name' is made of two characters. What does the second one mean on its own?

8.6 Practice — saying who you are
In pinyin, what two words do you put in front of your own name to introduce yourself?

Chapter 9

9.1 什 — both halves are old news
Name the two pieces of this character, left first.

9.2 么 — three strokes, and one of them turns
The middle stroke goes down-left and then sweeps right. Is that one stroke or two?

9.3 什么 — what
Every earlier expression in this book gave something to the listener. What does this word do instead?

9.4 Practice — when you did not catch it
You did not catch what someone just said. In pinyin, what one word gets it repeated?

Chapter 10

10.1 讠 — the speech radical
A character has this component at its left edge. What can you guess about the word?

10.2 谢 — twelve strokes, and three pieces
How many pieces does this twelve-stroke character break into, and which one do you write first?

10.3 谢谢 — said twice
The two halves of this word are the same character. Are they said the same way?

10.4 不谢 — answering thanks
Why is it said bú xiè and not bù xiè?

10.5 Practice — thanks, and the answer
This chapter taught you both how to thank someone and how to answer being thanked. How many new characters did that take?

Chapter 11

11.1 请 — a half that tells you the sound
One half of this character tells you the meaning. What does the other half tell you?

11.2 请 — please, and after you
You hold a door open for someone and say this one word. What are you telling them?

11.3 Practice — after you
A character can give you two different kinds of hint at once. What are they?

Chapter 12

12.1 人 — a person
Type the Mandarin character for person.

12.2 女 — female, woman
Which taught character is the Level 1 word female or woman?

12.3 Hear érzi — son
What does érzi mean?

12.4 儿 — fall, then bend and hook
Write the first character of érzi.

12.5 儿子 — son on the page
Write son in Chinese characters.

12.6 Hear nǚ'ér — daughter
What does nǚ'ér mean?

12.7 女儿 — daughter on the page
Write daughter in Chinese characters.

12.8 Hear jiā — home, family
What two closely linked meanings does jiā carry?

12.9 家 — roof first, body second
Which taught component must be completed first when writing 家?

12.10 家 — home on the page
Write home or family in one Chinese character.

12.11 Hear jiārén — family members
What does jiārén mean?

12.12 家人 — the people of the home
Write family members in Chinese characters.

12.13 Retrieve six people and family words
Write son, daughter, and family members in that order.

12.14 Payoff — six family words in four skills
After all four checks pass, write home, person, and family members.

Chapter 13

13.1 Hear dà — big
What does dà mean?

13.2 大 — one bar, two falls
Which stroke comes first in 大?

13.3 大 — big on the page
Write dà, big, in Chinese.

13.4 Hear dàjiā — everyone
What does dàjiā mean?

13.5 大家 — everyone on the page
Write everyone in Chinese characters.

13.6 Hear xué — study, learn
What does xué mean?

13.7 学 — top, cover, child
Which familiar character closes 学 at the bottom?

13.8 学 — study on the page
Write xué, study or learn, in Chinese.

13.9 Hear xuésheng — student
What does xuésheng mean?

13.10 生 — five measured strokes
Which stroke closes 生?

13.11 学生 — student on the page
Write student in Chinese characters.

13.12 Hear dàxué — university
What does dàxué mean?

13.13 大学 — university on the page
Write university in Chinese characters.

13.14 Hear dàxuésheng — university student
What does dàxuésheng mean?

13.15 大学生 — university student on the page
Write university student in Chinese characters.

13.16 Retrieve six size and school words
Write student, university, and university student in that order.

13.17 Payoff — six school words in four skills
After all four checks pass, write everyone, university, and university student.

Chapter 14

14.1 Hear xiǎo — small
What does xiǎo mean?

14.2 小 — centre, left, right
Which stroke comes first in 小?

14.3 小 — small on the page
Write xiǎo, small, in Chinese.

14.4 Hear xiǎoxué — primary school
What does xiǎoxué mean?

14.5 小学 — primary school on the page
Write primary school in Chinese characters.

14.6 Hear xiǎoxuésheng — primary-school student
What does xiǎoxuésheng mean?

14.7 小学生 — primary-school student on the page
Write primary-school student in Chinese characters.

14.8 Retrieve three primary-school words
Write small, primary school, and primary-school student in that order.

14.9 Payoff — three primary-school words in four skills
After all four checks pass, write primary school and primary-school student.

Chapter 15

15.1 Hear zhōng — middle
What does zhōng mean?

15.2 中 — close, then pass through
What happens immediately before the final centre line in 中?

15.3 中 — middle on the page
Write zhōng, middle, in Chinese.

15.4 Hear zhōngxué — middle school
What does zhōngxué mean?

15.5 中学 — middle school on the page
Write middle school in Chinese characters.

15.6 Retrieval 1 — middle and middle school
Write middle and middle school in that order.

15.7 Hear zhōngxuésheng — middle-school student
What does zhōngxuésheng mean?

15.8 中学生 — middle-school student on the page
Write middle-school student in Chinese characters.

15.9 Hear tóngxué — classmate
What does tóngxué mean?

15.10 同 — frame, line, box
What three-stroke shape finishes 同?

15.11 同学 — classmate on the page
Write classmate in Chinese characters.

15.12 Retrieval 2 — school and people
Write middle school, middle-school student, and classmate.

15.13 Hear shàngxué — go to school
What does shàngxué mean?

15.14 上学 — go to school on the page
Write go to school in Chinese characters.

15.15 Retrieval 3 — place, person, classmate, action
Write middle school, middle-school student, classmate, and go to school.

15.16 Retrieval 4 — the full school ladder
Write primary school, middle school, and university in that order.

15.17 Payoff — four school compounds in four skills
After all four checks pass, write middle school, classmate, and go to school.

Chapter 16

16.1 Hear zì — a written character
What does zì mean on its own?

16.2 字 — the familiar shape stands alone
Write zì, a written character, in Chinese.

16.3 Hear hànzì — Chinese character
What does hànzì mean?

16.4 汉 — watch five strokes
After the three water strokes in 汉, what are the last two directions?

16.5 汉 — copy with a five-part cue
How many strokes and pen lifts does 汉 use?

16.6 汉 — hold the route briefly
Write 汉 after the model has been hidden.

16.7 汉字 — two known routes, one word
Read 汉字 without pinyin, then give its meaning.

16.8 Hear hànyǔ — the Chinese language
Which spoken word means the Chinese language: hànzì or hànyǔ?

16.9 Retrieval 1 — 字 and 汉字
Write written character and Chinese character in that order.

16.10 语 — speech, five, box
Which part of 语 is written first, and which small shape closes it?

16.11 语 — copy, then fade
After covering half the model, which three-part cue rebuilds 语?

16.12 语 — wait, then write
Write 语 from memory. Which component should stay narrow?

16.13 汉语 — the language in writing
Read 汉语 without pinyin, then give its meaning.

16.14 Retrieval 2 — character or language?
Write Chinese character, then Chinese language.

16.15 Checkpoint — 字, 汉字, 汉语
Without pinyin, write character, Chinese character, and Chinese language in that order.

Chapter 17

17.1 Hear zhōngwén — Chinese
What does zhōngwén mean?

17.2 文 — watch four open strokes
Which two directions finish 文?

17.3 文 — copy with the route visible
How many strokes and pen lifts does 文 use?

17.4 文 — wait, then open the two falls
Write 文 after the model has been hidden.

17.5 中文 — two known squares
Read 中文 without pinyin, then give its meaning.

17.6 Longer return — character or language?
Write Chinese language, Chinese character, and written character in that order.

17.7 Hear zhōngguó — China
Which spoken word means China: zhōngwén or zhōngguó?

17.8 国 — frame, inside, close
When is the bottom of 国 closed?

17.9 国 — copy with the frame open
How many strokes and pen lifts does 国 use?

17.10 国 — wait before closing
Write 国 from memory. What must happen before the final bottom bar?

17.11 中国 — China in two squares
Read 中国 without pinyin, then give its meaning.

17.12 Retrieval 1 — language or country?
Write Chinese language, then China.

17.13 Longer return — the older three
Write written character, Chinese language, and Chinese character in that order.

17.14 Listening score — five meanings
Which sound means China: zhōngwén or zhōngguó?

17.15 Reading score — no pinyin
Read and distinguish 中文 and 中国 without pinyin.

17.16 Writing score — from sound, no model
Without a model, write Chinese language with 中, then China.

17.17 Payoff — five identity words
Without pinyin or a model, write character, Chinese character, Chinese language with 汉, Chinese language with 中, and China.

Chapter 18

18.1 Hear kàn — look or watch
What does kàn mean?

18.2 看 — a hand above an eye
How many strokes does 看 use?

18.3 看 — copy hand above, eye below
What familiar shape finishes 看?

18.4 看 — wait, then recover the eye
Write 看 after the model has been hidden.

18.5 看 — the familiar sound meets the shape
Read 看, give its meaning, then copy it once.

18.6 Hear kànjiàn — see
What does kànjiàn mean?

18.7 看见 — looking reaches seeing
Write kànjiàn, to see, without pinyin.

18.8 Hear hǎokàn — good-looking
What does hǎokàn mean?

18.9 好看 — good to look at
Write hǎokàn, good-looking, without pinyin.

18.10 Retrieval 1 — look, see, or good-looking?
Write look, see, and good-looking in that order.

18.11 Hear shū — book
What does shū mean?

18.12 书 — two folds, upright, dot
How many strokes does 书 use?

18.13 书 — copy the compact route
What is the final stroke of 书?

18.14 书 — wait, then place the dot
Write 书 after the model has been hidden.

18.15 书 — the sound meets the shape
Read 书, give its meaning, then write it once.

18.16 Hear kànshū — read a book
What does kànshū mean?

18.17 看书 — look at a book, read
Write kànshū, read a book, without pinyin.

18.18 Retrieval 2 — the earlier three return
Write good-looking, look, and see in that order.

18.19 Retrieval 1 — book or read a book?
Write book, then read a book.

18.20 Listening score — five nearby meanings
Which sound means read a book: kànjiàn or kànshū?

18.21 Reading score — no pinyin
Read 看见 and 看书, then give their meanings.

18.22 Writing score — sound to Hanzi, no model
Without a model, write look, see, good-looking, book, and read a book.

18.23 Payoff — looking and reading
Without pinyin or a model, write look, see, good-looking, book, and read a book.

Chapter 19

19.1 Hear ma — the syllable that asks
Which tone does ma carry?

19.2 吗 — the mouth, then the horse
How many strokes does 吗 use, and which half is written first?

19.3 吗 — copy it, and keep the mouth small
What is the final stroke of 吗?

19.4 吗 — wait, then write the bar
Which half of 吗 is completed first?

19.5 吗 — the sound meets the shape
Where in the sentence does 吗 go, and what does it change?

19.6 Hear nǐ hǎo ma — how are you
What does nǐ hǎo ma mean?

19.7 你好吗 — the greeting, asked
Write how are you, without pinyin.

19.8 Retrieval 1 — greeting, or question?
Write hello, then how are you.

19.9 Hear shì ma — is that so?
When do you say shì ma?

19.10 是吗 — checking what you were told
Write is that so, without pinyin.

19.11 Hear hǎo bu hǎo — the question with the answer inside it
What three pieces make hǎo bu hǎo?

19.12 好不好 — the question that needed no new character
Name Mandarin's two ways of asking a yes-or-no question.

19.13 Retrieval 2 — which question was that?
Which of the three does NOT end in 吗?

19.14 Listening score — catch the question
How many of the three did you catch by ear alone?

19.15 Reading score — no pinyin on the card
Reading cold, what tells you a sentence is a question?

19.16 Payoff — the book can ask
Give your four scores as listening, speaking, reading, writing.

Chapter 20

20.1 六 — four strokes again, for six this time
How many strokes does 六 have?

20.2 六 — six, and the run starts again
Which earlier number shares liu's tone?

20.3 七 — two strokes, for seven
How many times do you lift the pen writing 七?

20.4 七 — seven
Where is the tongue for the q of qi?

20.5 八 — a character you have already written twice
What is the only difference between 八 and 人?

20.6 八 — eight, and why it costs more
Why is eight a lucky number in Chinese?

20.7 九 — two strokes again
How many strokes do 七, 八 and 九 have between them?

20.8 九 — nine
Which tone does jiu share with ni, hao and wu?

20.9 十 — the character that was already here
Which character you already write has 十 inside it?

20.10 十 — ten
Which tone is shi, and is any other number on it?

20.11 Payoff — one to ten
Count aloud from one to ten in Mandarin.

Chapter 21

21.1 十一 — eleven, and the teens in one line
Build seventeen from shi and qi.

21.2 二十 — twenty, and ninety-nine numbers from ten words
What is the difference between shiyi and ershi?

21.3 百 — a hundred, on a box you have built before
Which stroke of 百 comes last?

21.4 一百 — a hundred, and 一 moves
Is the 一 in yibai said on the same tone as 一 counted alone?

21.5 5 and 五 — the same number, two registers
A Chinese price tag says 20. How do you say it aloud?

21.6 Payoff — ninety-nine numbers, and the price tag
Say sixty-eight and ninety-nine in Mandarin.

21.7 Close the numeral slice
Write ten and a hundred in characters.

Chapter 29

29.1 (reading) — six characters, nothing said first
Which character is a book?

29.2 (reading) — six words, not six characters
Which is the person who reads?

29.3 (reading) — the first passage
How old is the writer?

Chapter 30

30.1 很好 — I'm fine
Somebody asks you how you are doing. Answer that you are fine.

30.2 nǐ zěnmeyàng — wǒ hěn hǎo
In the morning exchange, who says they are busy, A or B?

Chapter 85

85.1 我在这儿 — 你在那儿
Where is the cat?

Chapter 86

86.1 你在哪儿 — 我在那儿
Where is the phone in the end?

Chapter 87

87.1 不 — 没*: two words for not*
Which negative goes with 有, 不 or 没?

87.2 你有没有 — 没有
Has A got a key?

Chapter 88

88.1 yī → yí ge, yì tiān: the tone 一 takes
Say one person: is 一 rising or falling in front of 个?

88.2 两个人
How many cups of tea does B ask for?

Chapter 89

89.1 给我
Where does the phone go in the end?

Chapter 90

90.1 我会开车
Why can't B drive tomorrow?

Chapter 91

91.1 我想要一点儿水
Does B want tea?

Chapter 92

92.1 我也要
What does C order?

Chapter 93

93.1 太大了
What is wrong with the second one?

Chapter 94

94.1 我们都是学生
Who is the tall, thin man?

Chapter 95

95.1 你为什么不去
Why isn't B going tomorrow?

Chapter 96

96.1 为什么 — 因为
Why isn't B going to class?

Chapter 97

97.1 (reading) — a Sunday at home
At what time do they go to buy books?

97.2 My own line — the first Chinese with no model
Write the word for an hour, in characters.

Chapter 98

98.1 The same writing, with a clock
Write the form label that asks where your home is.

Chapter 147

147.1 明天会下雨 — 会 for what will happen
How do you say that it won't rain tomorrow?

147.2 明天会下雨吗 — 后天不会
Which day will it not rain?

Chapter 148

148.1 火车要开了 — 要 for what is coming
How do you say that the train is about to leave?

148.2 下个月我要去中国
Where is B going next month?

Chapter 149

149.1 你在做什么 — 在 before a verb
How do you ask someone what they are doing right now?

149.2 我正在吃饭
What is A's mum doing?

Chapter 150

150.1 你去过中国吗 — 过 for what you have done
How do you say you have not been there?

150.2 你去过吗 — 我没去过
Has A ever been to China?

Chapter 151

151.1 看到 — 没看到*: a verb and its result*
How do you say you looked but did not spot it?

151.2 我看到他了
Did B catch what he was saying?

Chapter 152

152.1 你说得很好 — how well, with 得
How do you say that he speaks Chinese fast?

152.2 他说汉语说得很快
How does A say they speak?

Chapter 153

153.1 他比我大两岁 — comparing with 比
How do you say he is two years older than you?

153.2 我比他大 — 我没有他那么大
How many years older than B is he?

Chapter 154

154.1 你要水还是要饭
Has B eaten yet?

Chapter 155

155.1 从八点到十点 — from and to
How do you say from eight to ten o'clock?

155.2 (reading) — a timetable and opening hours
You must be at the university by eleven. At what time does your train leave?

155.3 火车十点半到
What time does the train get to the university?

Chapter 156

156.1 (reading) — a price list and an advert
How many yuan do two books cost on Saturday?

156.2 一本书十元
What is free?

Chapter 157

157.1 (reading) — a notice and a message
Why can't your friend come tomorrow?

157.2 A reply, and the lines that lean on each other
Write the words for 'from two to four o'clock', in characters.

Chapter 278

278.1 先…然后…最后 — first, then, last
Which word opens the last step of a story told in order?

278.2 吃了饭以后 — after doing something
How do you say 'after we've eaten', in characters?

278.3 先洗手 然后吃早饭
Where does B go straight after breakfast?

Chapter 279

279.1 …的时候 — when, and what was going on
How do you say 'when he came', in characters?

279.2 (reading) — a day on the mountain
Why did they go to the old man's house?

279.3 他突然来了
Who came while they were looking for the car?

Chapter 280

280.1 我觉得… — I think
How do you say 'I think he's right', in characters?

280.2 我觉得这个意见很好
Why does B think he doesn't want to go?

Chapter 281

281.1 因为…所以… — because, so
How do you say 'because it rained, we didn't go', in characters?

281.2 One reason — a line of your own with 因为 and 所以
Write the word for 'so', in characters.

281.3 因为我喜欢中国 所以学汉语
Why is B learning Chinese?

Chapter 282

282.1 你应该… — you should
How do you tell someone they should see a doctor, in characters?

282.2 你病了 应该去看医生
Where does B say A had better stay?

Chapter 283

283.1 去…怎么走 — how do I get there?
How do you ask the way to the station, in characters?

283.2 去书店怎么走
At the crossing, which way do you turn?

Chapter 284

284.1 坐火车去 — going by train
How do you say 'we're going by train', in characters?

284.2 坐在这儿 — 在 after the verb
How do you tell someone to sit here, in characters?

284.3 一家书店 — counting shops with 家
Which measure word counts a bookshop?

284.4 我们坐八点的火车
Which train are they taking?

Chapter 285

285.1 我的手机不见了 — it's gone
How do you say your phone has gone missing, in characters?

285.2 找不到 — can't find it
How do you say 'I can't find my phone', in characters?

285.3 A note to the desk, four lines that lean on each other
Write the words for 'when I came back', in characters.

285.4 我的车票不见了
When did A still have the ticket?

Chapter 286

286.1 我感觉… — how it felt
How do you say 'I felt really happy that day', in characters?

286.2 学了两年 — how long it lasted
How do you say 'I studied Chinese for two years', in characters?

286.3 我感觉很好
How long did B study Chinese in China?

Chapter 287

287.1 以后我想… — later, I want to
How do you say 'later on I want to go and work in China', in characters?

287.2 我最喜欢… — the one I like best
How do you say 'I like Chinese food best', in characters?

287.3 以后我想当医生
Why does B want to be a doctor?

Chapter 288

288.1 要是…就… — if, then
How do you say 'if it rains tomorrow, I won't go', in characters?

288.2 看天气 — it depends on the weather
How do you say 'it depends on the weather', in characters?

288.3 要是下雨 我就不去了
What will B do if it doesn't rain?

Chapter 289

289.1 如果…就… — if, then
After 如果 and the condition, which word opens the result?

289.2 如果…就会… — what would happen
How do you say 'if I had the money, I would go to China', in characters?

289.3 Six lines to a friend, a story with advice at the end
Write the word for 'suddenly', in characters.

Answer Key

The first response is the canonical display answer. When a question accepts other authored forms, they appear underneath.

Chapter 1

1.1 mā má mǎ mà — one syllable, four words
Answer: four
Also accepted: 4

1.2 你 — "you", and the first character
Answer: nǐ
Also accepted: ni3; ni

1.3 好 — "good", and what replaces etymology here
Answer: woman
Also accepted: female

1.4 你好 — the greeting, assembled from two things you already have Answer: 你好
Also accepted: ni hao; nǐ hǎo; ní hǎo; nihao

1.5 ní hǎo — why the greeting is not said the way it is written
Answer: ní hǎo
Also accepted: ni2 hao3; nihao (ní hǎo); ní hao

1.6 好 again — proof, on a character you own, that tone is the word
Answer: to be fond of
Also accepted: to like; like; fond of; be fond of 1.7 Practice — greet someone, and be greeted back

Answer: 你好
Also accepted: ni hao; nǐ hǎo; ní hǎo; nihao

Chapter 2

2.1 人 — two strokes, and a person walking
Answer: 2
Also accepted: two; 2 strokes; two strokes

2.2 亻 — the same person, standing sideways
Answer: it is about a person
Also accepted: person; about a person; it involves a person; people

2.3 尔 — a piece that is there for its sound
Answer: roughly how the word is pronounced
Also accepted: the pronunciation; how it sounds; the sound; how to say it

2.4 Putting two pieces together — and reading the result
Answer: the left
Also accepted: left; left half; the left half

2.5 女 — three strokes, seated
Answer: 3
Also accepted: three; 3 strokes; three strokes

2.6 子 — three strokes, a child
Answer: child
Also accepted: a child; baby; kid; child, zi

2.7 Two pieces again — and a warning about the story
Answer: no
Also accepted: none; neither; no it does not

Chapter 3

3.1 一 — one stroke, and that is the character
Answer: 1
Also accepted: one; 1 stroke; one stroke

3.2 一 — one, and the number is the strokes
Answer: they are the same
Also accepted: they are the same number; one stroke means one; the same; stroke count equals the number; they match

3.3 二 — two bars, and neither is decoration
Answer: the bottom
Also accepted: bottom; lower; the lower one; bottom bar

3.4 二 — two, and a syllable you have met before
Answer: èr
Also accepted: er4; er

3.5 三 — three bars, and the pattern's last stand
Answer: the middle one
Also accepted: middle; the middle; middle bar; the middle bar; 2nd; second

3.6 三 — three, and the end of the easy road
Answer: no
Also accepted: four bars would be unreadable; you would have to count it; stacked bars stop being readable

3.7 四 — a box, and the rule that governs every box
Answer: the bottom
Also accepted: bottom; the bottom bar; bottom bar; closing the bottom; the closing bottom stroke

3.8 四 — four, borrowed for its sound
Answer: si sounds like the word for die
Also accepted: because si sounds like die; four sounds like death; si and si differ only by tone; it sounds like the word for death

3.9 五 — count the strokes and be wrong
Answer: 4
Also accepted: four; 4 strokes; four strokes

3.10 五 — five, and the run is complete
Answer: one two and three
Also accepted: 1 2 3; one, two, three; the first three; 一二三; yi er san

3.11 Practice — read the numbers off a wall
Answer: four
Also accepted: 4; 四; four, because si sounds like the word for die; four - sounds like die; 4 - unlucky

Chapter 4

4.1 口 — the box, on its own
Answer: the bottom
Also accepted: bottom; the bottom bar; bottom bar; closing the bottom

4.2 口 — mouth, and a piece you will meet everywhere
Answer: mouth
Also accepted: a mouth; an open mouth; mouth - it is a picture of one

4.3 日 — one bar inside the box
Answer: before
Also accepted: before it; before the bottom; the middle comes first

4.4 日 — the sun, and the day it measures
Answer: sun and day
Also accepted: sun and day - the sun measures the day; sun, day; the sun and the day it counts

4.5 不 — four strokes, all of them separate
Answer: 3
Also accepted: three; 3 times; three times

4.6 不 — how Mandarin says no
Answer: negate the word they asked about
Also accepted: by negating the verb; put bu in front of the word; negate what was asked; say bu plus the word

4.7 Practice — one box, two characters, and a refusal
Answer: it negates every word you know
Also accepted: it doubles your vocabulary; it turns any word into its opposite; every word gets a negative

Chapter 5

5.1 是 — finish the sun, then build under it
Answer: the sun character
Also accepted: 日; ri; the sun; sun

5.2 是 — "is", and the nearest thing to "yes"
Answer: echo the word back
Also accepted: repeat it; say it again; echo the word you were asked about

5.3 不是 — "is not", and the second tone that moves
Answer: before a fourth tone it becomes rising
Also accepted: before a falling tone, it rises; before 4th tone it becomes 2nd; it becomes second tone before a fourth tone; rising, before a fourth tone

5.4 Practice — answering either way
Answer: a word you keep or turn
Also accepted: the word, kept or negated; you echo it or negate it; one word and two things to do with it

Chapter 6

6.1 再 — a bar, a frame, and a line that closes it
Answer: one
Also accepted: as one; one stroke; 1; a single stroke; one turning stroke

6.2 见 — an eye on two legs
Answer: legs, from the person character
Also accepted: the legs of ren; two legs; the legs from 人; legs; 人

6.3 再见 — the word that says what it means Answer: again see
Also accepted: see again; again, see; zai jian = again see; again + see

6.4 Practice — a conversation that ends
Answer: zàijiàn
Also accepted: zaijian; zai jian; zài jiàn; zaijian4; 再见

Chapter 7

7.1 早 — sun on top, one more time
Answer: the sun, four strokes
Also accepted: 日, four; the sun character, 4; 日 first, four strokes; 日 in four

7.2 上 — the same rule, read the other way
Answer: the vertical, because the bar does not cross it
Also accepted: vertical; the central vertical; the vertical, the bar meets it; the vertical stroke

7.3 早上 — morning, and a syllable that goes light
Answer: it is neutral
Also accepted: neutral tone; it lost its tone; it is unstressed; no tone, it is neutral

7.4 早上好 — the greeting was a pattern all along Answer: 好, good
Also accepted: hao, good; 好 means good; 好 - good; the good character

7.5 Practice — greeting the time of day
Answer: 早上好
Also accepted: zaoshang hao; zǎoshang hǎo; zaoshanghao; the morning one; good morning

Chapter 8

8.1 我 — seven strokes, and an honest admission
Answer: the dot
Also accepted: dot; the upper right dot; the top right dot; the last dot

8.2 我 — I, me, and saying who you are
Answer: one
Also accepted: 1; one word; just one; only one

8.3 名 — a mouth with something above it
Answer: 口
Also accepted: kou; the mouth; 口 the mouth; mouth

8.4 字 — a child under a roof
Answer: character
Also accepted: a character; written character; chinese character; a written word

8.5 名字 — the word for a name
Answer: character
Also accepted: a character; written character; zi means character; a written unit

8.6 Practice — saying who you are
Answer: wǒ shì
Also accepted: wo shi; wǒshì; wo3 shi4; 我是

Chapter 9

9.1 什 — both halves are old news
Answer: the person radical, then ten
Also accepted: 亻 and 十; person and ten; the person, then ten; ren radical and shi

9.2 么 — three strokes, and one of them turns
Answer: one
Also accepted: 1; one stroke; a single stroke; one, unbroken

9.3 什么 — what
Answer: it asks
Also accepted: asks; it asks a question; asks for something back; it gets something back

9.4 Practice — when you did not catch it
Answer: shénme
Also accepted: shenme; shén me; shen2 me; 什么

Chapter 10

10.1 讠 — the speech radical
Answer: it is about speech
Also accepted: speech; it involves speaking; something to do with talking; about talking

10.2 谢 — twelve strokes, and three pieces
Answer: three, speech first
Also accepted: three, 讠 first; 3, the speech radical; three pieces, speech first; three - speech, body, inch

10.3 谢谢 — said twice
Answer: no
Also accepted: not quite; no, the second is light; no - the second goes neutral; they differ

10.4 不谢 — answering thanks
Answer: because 谢 is fourth tone
Also accepted: 谢 is fourth tone; bu rises before a fourth tone; the following tone is falling; because of the fourth tone after it

10.5 Practice — thanks, and the answer
Answer: one
Also accepted: 1; just one; one character; a single character

Chapter 11

11.1 请 — a half that tells you the sound
Answer: the sound
Also accepted: how to say it; the pronunciation; roughly how it sounds; the sound of the word

11.2 请 — please, and after you
Answer: go ahead
Also accepted: after you; please, go ahead; be my guest; I invite you to go first

11.3 Practice — after you
Answer: meaning and sound
Also accepted: what it means and how it sounds; meaning and pronunciation; sound and meaning; one for meaning, one for sound

Chapter 12

12.1 人 — a person
Answer: 人
Also accepted: 人 rén

12.2 女 — female, woman
Answer: 女
Also accepted: 女 nǚ

12.3 Hear érzi — son
Answer: son
Also accepted: a son

12.4 儿 — fall, then bend and hook
Answer: 儿
Also accepted: 儿 ér

12.5 儿子 — son on the page
Answer: 儿子
Also accepted: 儿子 érzi

12.6 Hear nǚ'ér — daughter
Answer: daughter
Also accepted: a daughter

12.7 女儿 — daughter on the page
Answer: 女儿
Also accepted: 女儿 nǚ'ér

12.8 Hear jiā — home, family
Answer: home and family
Also accepted: family and home; home; family; household and home

12.9 家 — roof first, body second Answer: 宀
Also accepted: the roof; roof; 宀 roof

12.10 家 — home on the page
Answer: 家
Also accepted: 家 jiā

12.11 Hear jiārén — family members
Answer: family members
Also accepted: family; the people in a family; members of the family

12.12 家人 — the people of the home
Answer: 家人
Also accepted: 家人 jiārén

12.13 Retrieve six people and family words
Answer: 儿子 — 女儿 — 家人
Also accepted: 儿子 女儿 家人; 儿子, 女儿, 家人

12.14 Payoff — six family words in four skills
Answer: 家 — 人 — 家人
Also accepted: 家 人 家人; 家, 人, 家人

Chapter 13

13.1 Hear dà — big
Answer: big
Also accepted: large; big or large

13.2 大 — one bar, two falls
Answer: the horizontal stroke
Also accepted: horizontal; 一; the bar

13.3 大 — big on the page
Answer: 大
Also accepted: 大 dà

13.4 Hear dàjiā — everyone
Answer: everyone
Also accepted: everybody

13.5 大家 — everyone on the page
Answer: 大家
Also accepted: 大家 dàjiā

13.6 Hear xué — study, learn
Answer: study
Also accepted: learn; study or learn; to study; to learn

13.7 学 — top, cover, child
Answer: 子
Also accepted: 子 zi; child 子

13.8 学 — study on the page
Answer: 学
Also accepted: 学 xué

13.9 Hear xuésheng — student
Answer: student
Also accepted: a student

13.10 生 — five measured strokes
Answer: the long bottom horizontal Also accepted: bottom horizontal; the bottom bar; horizontal

13.11 学生 — student on the page
Answer: 学生
Also accepted: 学生 xuésheng

13.12 Hear dàxué — university
Answer: university
Also accepted: college; university or college

13.13 大学 — university on the page
Answer: 大学
Also accepted: 大学 dàxué

13.14 Hear dàxuésheng — university student
Answer: university student
Also accepted: college student; a university student; a college student

13.15 大学生 — university student on the page
Answer: 大学生
Also accepted: 大学生 dàxuésheng

13.16 Retrieve six size and school words
Answer: 学生 — 大学 — 大学生
Also accepted: 学生 大学 大学生; 学生, 大学, 大学生

13.17 Payoff — six school words in four skills
Answer: 大家 — 大学 — 大学生
Also accepted: 大家 大学 大学生; 大家, 大学, 大学生

Chapter 14

14.1 Hear xiǎo — small
Answer: small
Also accepted: little; small or little

14.2 小 — centre, left, right
Answer: the centre vertical hook
Also accepted: centre vertical; vertical hook; middle stroke

14.3 小 — small on the page
Answer: 小
Also accepted: 小 xiǎo

14.4 Hear xiǎoxué — primary school
Answer: primary school
Also accepted: elementary school; primary or elementary school

14.5 小学 — primary school on the page
Answer: 小学
Also accepted: 小学 xiǎoxué

14.6 Hear xiǎoxuésheng — primary-school student
Answer: primary-school student
Also accepted: elementary-school student; a primary school student; an elementary school student

14.7 小学生 — primary-school student on the page
Answer: 小学生
Also accepted: 小学生 xiǎoxuésheng

14.8 Retrieve three primary-school words
Answer: 小 — 小学 — 小学生
Also accepted: 小 小学 小学生; 小, 小学, 小学生

14.9 Payoff — three primary-school words in four skills
Answer: 小学 — 小学生
Also accepted: 小学 小学生; 小学, 小学生

Chapter 15

15.1 Hear zhōng — middle Answer: middle
Also accepted: centre; center; middle or centre

15.2 中 — close, then pass through
Answer: close the box
Also accepted: the box closes; draw the bottom horizontal; close 口

15.3 中 — middle on the page
Answer: 中
Also accepted: 中 zhōng

15.4 Hear zhōngxué — middle school
Answer: middle school
Also accepted: a middle school

15.5 中学 — middle school on the page
Answer: 中学
Also accepted: 中学 zhōngxué

15.6 Retrieval 1 — middle and middle school
Answer: 中 — 中学
Also accepted: 中 中学; 中, 中学

15.7 Hear zhōngxuésheng — middle-school student
Answer: middle-school student
Also accepted: a middle school student; middle school student

15.8 中学生 — middle-school student on the page
Answer: 中学生
Also accepted: 中学生 zhōngxuésheng

15.9 Hear tóngxué — classmate
Answer: classmate
Also accepted: schoolmate; a classmate; a schoolmate

15.10 同 — frame, line, box
Answer: 口
Also accepted: the inner 口; mouth box; a box

15.11 同学 — classmate on the page
Answer: 同学
Also accepted: 同学 tóngxué

15.12 Retrieval 2 — school and people
Answer: 中学 — 中学生 — 同学
Also accepted: 中学 中学生 同学; 中学, 中学生, 同学

15.13 Hear shàngxué — go to school
Answer: go to school
Also accepted: attend school; to go to school; to attend school

15.14 上学 — go to school on the page
Answer: 上学
Also accepted: 上学 shàngxué

15.15 Retrieval 3 — place, person, classmate, action
Answer: 中学 — 中学生 — 同学 — 上学
Also accepted: 中学 中学生 同学 上学; 中学, 中学生, 同学, 上学

15.16 Retrieval 4 — the full school ladder
Answer: 小学 — 中学 — 大学
Also accepted: 小学 中学 大学; 小学, 中学, 大学

15.17 Payoff — four school compounds in four skills
Answer: 中学 — 同学 — 上学
Also accepted: 中学 同学 上学; 中学, 同学, 上学

Chapter 16

16.1 Hear zì — a written character
Answer: a written Chinese character
Also accepted: character; written character; Chinese character

16.2 字 — the familiar shape stands alone
Answer: 字
Also accepted: 字 zì

16.3 Hear hànzì — Chinese character
Answer: Chinese character
Also accepted: a Chinese character; Han character; a Han character

16.4 汉 — watch five strokes
Answer: turn down-left, then fall down-right
Also accepted: left then right; down-left then down-right; turn left and fall right

16.5 汉 — copy with a five-part cue
Answer: five strokes and four lifts
Also accepted: 5 strokes, 4 lifts; five and four

16.6 汉 — hold the route briefly
Answer: 汉
Also accepted: 汉 hàn

16.7 汉字 — two known routes, one word
Answer: hànzì — Chinese character
Also accepted: hanzi, Chinese character; Chinese character; hànzì

16.8 Hear hànyǔ — the Chinese language
Answer: hànyǔ
Also accepted: hanyu; hànyǔ means Chinese language

16.9 Retrieval 1 — 字 and 汉字
Answer: 字 — 汉字
Also accepted: 字 汉字; 字, 汉字

16.10 语 — speech, five, box
Answer: 讠 first; 口 closes it
Also accepted: speech radical then box; 讠 then 口; yan first and kou last

16.11 语 — copy, then fade
Answer: speech, five, box
Also accepted: 讠 五 口; yan five kou; speech five mouth

16.12 语 — wait, then write
Answer: 讠
Also accepted: speech radical; the left side; yan

16.13 汉语 — the language in writing
Answer: hànyǔ — the Chinese language
Also accepted: hanyu, Chinese language; Chinese language; hànyǔ

16.14 Retrieval 2 — character or language?
Answer: 汉字 — 汉语
Also accepted: 汉字 汉语; 汉字, 汉语

16.15 Checkpoint — 字, 汉字, 汉语
Answer: 字 — 汉字 — 汉语
Also accepted: 字 汉字 汉语; 字, 汉字, 汉语

Chapter 17

17.1 Hear zhōngwén — Chinese
Answer: Chinese; the Chinese language
Also accepted: Chinese; Chinese language; the Chinese language

17.2 文 — watch four open strokes
Answer: fall left, then fall right
Also accepted: left then right; down-left then down-right; left-falling then right-falling

17.3 文 — copy with the route visible
Answer: four strokes and three lifts
Also accepted: 4 strokes, 3 lifts; four and three

17.4 文 — wait, then open the two falls
Answer: 文
Also accepted: 文 wén

17.5 中文 — two known squares
Answer: zhōngwén — Chinese; the Chinese language
Also accepted: Chinese; Chinese language; zhongwen; zhōngwén

17.6 Longer return — character or language?
Answer: 汉语 — 汉字 — 字
Also accepted: 汉语 汉字 字; 汉语, 汉字, 字

17.7 Hear zhōngguó — China
Answer: zhōngguó
Also accepted: zhongguo; zhōngguó means China

17.8 国 — frame, inside, close
Answer: after every stroke of 玉 inside is finished
Also accepted: last; after the inside; after 玉; after the inner dot

17.9 国 — copy with the frame open
Answer: eight strokes and seven lifts
Also accepted: 8 strokes, 7 lifts; eight and seven

17.10 国 — wait before closing
Answer: finish 玉 inside
Also accepted: finish the inside; write 玉; complete all inner strokes

17.11 中国 — China in two squares
Answer: zhōngguó — China
Also accepted: China; zhongguo; zhōngguó

17.12 Retrieval 1 — language or country?
Answer: 中文 — 中国
Also accepted: 中文 中国; 中文, 中国

17.13 Longer return — the older three Answer: 字 — 汉语 — 汉字
Also accepted: 字 汉语 汉字; 字, 汉语, 汉字

17.14 Listening score — five meanings
Answer: zhōngguó
Also accepted: zhongguo; zhōngguó means China

17.15 Reading score — no pinyin
Answer: 中文 — Chinese language; 中国 — China
Also accepted: 中文 Chinese, 中国 China; Chinese language; China

17.16 Writing score — from sound, no model
Answer: 中文 — 中国
Also accepted: 中文 中国; 中文, 中国

17.17 Payoff — five identity words
Answer: 字 — 汉字 — 汉语 — 中文 — 中国
Also accepted: 字 汉字 汉语 中文 中国; 字, 汉字, 汉语, 中文, 中国

Chapter 18

18.1 Hear kàn — look or watch
Answer: look at or watch
Also accepted: look; look at; watch; to look at; to watch

18.2 看 — a hand above an eye
Answer: nine
Also accepted: 9; nine strokes

18.3 看 — copy hand above, eye below
Answer: 目, the eye shape
Also accepted: 目; eye; the eye component; mu

18.4 看 — wait, then recover the eye
Answer: 看
Also accepted: 看 kàn

18.5 看 — the familiar sound meets the shape
Answer: kàn — look at or watch — 看
Also accepted: kan look watch 看; kàn look at 看; kàn watch 看

18.6 Hear kànjiàn — see
Answer: see or catch sight of
Also accepted: see; to see; catch sight of 18.7 看见 — looking reaches seeing Answer: 看见

Also accepted: 看见 kànjiàn

18.8 Hear hǎokàn — good-looking Answer: good-looking or nice to look at
Also accepted: good-looking; good looking; nice to look at; pretty

18.9 好看 — good to look at Answer: 好看
Also accepted: 好看 hǎokàn

18.10 Retrieval 1 — look, see, or good-looking?
Answer: 看 — 看见 — 好看
Also accepted: 看 看见 好看; 看, 看见, 好看

18.11 Hear shū — book
Answer: book
Also accepted: a book

18.12 书 — two folds, upright, dot
Answer: four
Also accepted: 4; four strokes

18.13 书 — copy the compact route
Answer: the dot at the upper right
Also accepted: dot; the dot; upper-right dot

18.14 书 — wait, then place the dot
Answer: 书
Also accepted: 书 shū

18.15 书 — the sound meets the shape
Answer: shū — book — 书
Also accepted: shu book 书; shū book 书

18.16 Hear kànshū — read a book
Answer: read a book or read books
Also accepted: read; read a book; read books; to read

18.17 看书 — look at a book, read Answer: 看书
Also accepted: 看书 kànshū

18.18 Retrieval 2 — the earlier three return
Answer: 好看 — 看 — 看见
Also accepted: 好看 看 看见; 好看, 看, 看见

18.19 Retrieval 1 — book or read a book?
Answer: 书 — 看书
Also accepted: 书 看书; 书, 看书

18.20 Listening score — five nearby meanings
Answer: kànshū
Also accepted: kanshu; kànshū means read a book

18.21 Reading score — no pinyin
Answer: kànjiàn — see; kànshū — read a book
Also accepted: see; read a book; kànjiàn see, kànshū read; 看见 see 看书 read

18.22 Writing score — sound to Hanzi, no model
Answer: 看 — 看见 — 好看 — 书 — 看书
Also accepted: 看 看见 好看 书 看书; 看, 看见, 好看, 书, 看书

18.23 Payoff — looking and reading
Answer: 看 — 看见 — 好看 — 书 — 看书
Also accepted: 看 看见 好看 书 看书; 看, 看见, 好看, 书, 看书

Chapter 19

19.1 Hear ma — the syllable that asks
Answer: none — it is neutral
Also accepted: none; neutral; no tone; neutral tone

19.2 吗 — the mouth, then the horse
Answer: six, and the left 口 is written first
Also accepted: six left; 6 left; six, 口 first; 6, kou first

19.3 吗 — copy it, and keep the mouth small
Answer: the long horizontal across the right half
Also accepted: the long horizontal; long bar; the wide horizontal; horizontal

19.4 吗 — wait, then write the bar
Answer: the left 口
Also accepted: left; 口; the mouth; kou; the left half

19.5 吗 — the sound meets the shape
Answer: at the end, and it turns the statement into a yes-or-no question
Also accepted: at the end; end, makes it a question; at the end - question

19.6 Hear nǐ hǎo ma — how are you
Answer: how are you
Also accepted: how are you?; are you well

19.7 你好吗 — the greeting, asked Answer: 你好吗
Also accepted: 你好吗 nǐ hǎo ma; ni hao ma 你好吗

19.8 Retrieval 1 — greeting, or question?
Answer: 你好 — 你好吗
Also accepted: 你好 你好吗; 你好, 你好吗

19.9 Hear shì ma — is that so?
Answer: after somebody tells you something, to check it and invite them to go on
Also accepted: to check what you were told; really; is that so; to show you heard

19.10 是吗 — checking what you were told Answer: 是吗
Also accepted: 是吗 shì ma; shi ma 是吗

19.11 Hear hǎo bu hǎo — the question with the answer inside it
Answer: good, not, good
Also accepted: good not good; hao bu hao; the word, its negative, the word again

19.12 好不好 — the question that needed no new character
Answer: put 吗 at the end, or say the word, 不, and the word again
Also accepted: ma at the end and verb-not-verb; 吗 or 不; ma, or the word not the word

19.13 Retrieval 2 — which question was that?
Answer: 好不好
Also accepted: 好不好 hǎo bu hǎo; hao bu hao; the good-not-good one

19.14 Listening score — catch the question
Answer: three of three
Also accepted: 3; 3/3; three; two; 2; one; 1; zero; 0

19.15 Reading score — no pinyin on the card
Answer: a 吗 at the end, or a word repeated around 不
Also accepted: 吗 at the end or 不 in the middle; ma or bu; the last character, or the repetition

19.16 Payoff — the book can ask
Answer: four separate numbers out of four
Also accepted: 4 4 4 4; 4/4 4/4 4/4 4/4; three four four three; 3 4 4 3

Chapter 20

20.1 六 — four strokes again, for six this time
Answer: four
Also accepted: 4; four strokes

20.2 六 — six, and the run starts again
Answer: si
Also accepted: 四; sì, four; four

20.3 七 — two strokes, for seven
Answer: once
Also accepted: 1; one; once, after the horizontal

20.4 七 — seven
Answer: where it is for y in yes
Also accepted: like y; the y position; front, as for y

20.5 八 — a character you have already written twice
Answer: the strokes are parted at the top
Also accepted: they do not touch; the gap at the top; 人 joins, 八 does not

20.6 八 — eight, and why it costs more
Answer: it sounds like fa, to prosper
Also accepted: it sounds like the word for prosper; fa; sounds like getting rich

20.7 九 — two strokes again
Answer: six
Also accepted: 6; six, two each

20.8 九 — nine
Answer: third
Also accepted: 3; tone 3; the third, the dip

20.9 十 — the character that was already here
Answer: 早
Also accepted: zao; 早, morning; morning

20.10 十 — ten
Answer: second, and no
Also accepted: second tone, no others; 2, none; the rise, and it is the only one

20.11 Payoff — one to ten
Answer: yī èr sān sì wǔ liù qī bā jiǔ shí
Also accepted: yi er san si wu liu qi ba jiu shi; yī, èr, sān, sì, wǔ, liù, qī, bā, jiǔ, shí

Chapter 21

21.1 十一 — eleven, and the teens in one line
Answer: shíqī
Also accepted: shiqi; 十七; shí qī

21.2 二十 — twenty, and ninety-nine numbers from ten words
Answer: the order
Also accepted: the order of the two words; ten-one versus two-ten; which comes first

21.3 百 — a hundred, on a box you have built before
Answer: the bottom horizontal
Also accepted: the floor; the closing bottom bar; the bottom bar

21.4 一百 — a hundred, and 一 moves
Answer: no
Also accepted: no, it falls; no — it becomes a fall; it falls

21.5 5 and 五 — the same number, two registers
Answer: èrshí
Also accepted: ershi; 二十; er shi

21.6 Payoff — ninety-nine numbers, and the price tag
Answer: liùshíbā jiǔshíjiǔ
Also accepted: liushiba jiushijiu; liùshíbā, jiǔshíjiǔ; liushiba, jiushijiu

21.7 Close the numeral slice Answer: 十 百
Also accepted: 十, 百; 十百

Chapter 29

29.1 (reading) — six characters, nothing said first Answer: shu
Also accepted: 书; shū

29.2 (reading) — six words, not six characters
Answer: kan shu de ren
Also accepted: 看书的人; the reader

29.3 (reading) — the first passage
Answer: 18
Also accepted: 十八; eighteen

Chapter 30

30.1 很好 — I'm fine
Answer: 我很好
Also accepted: wo hen hao; wǒ hěn hǎo; 很好; hen hao; hěn hǎo

30.2 nǐ zěnmeyàng — wǒ hěn hǎo
Answer: B
Also accepted: speaker b; the second speaker

Chapter 85

85.1 我在这儿 — 你在那儿
Answer: outside
Also accepted: wàibian; waibian; outside the house

Chapter 86

86.1 你在哪儿 — 我在那儿
Answer: under the chair
Also accepted: zài yǐzi xiàbian; under a chair; below the chair

Chapter 87

87.1 不 — 没*: two words for not* Answer: 没
Also accepted: mei; méi; 没有

87.2 你有没有 — 没有
Answer: no
Also accepted: méiyǒu; meiyou; 没有; no key

Chapter 88

88.1 yī → yí ge, yì tiān: the tone 一 takes Answer: rising
Also accepted: yí; yi2; it rises; rises

88.2 两个人
Answer: 2
Also accepted: two; 两; liǎng bēi; liang bei

Chapter 89

89.1 给我
Answer: in the bag
Also accepted: bāo lǐbian; bao libian; the bag; into the bag

Chapter 90

90.1 我会开车
Answer: work
Also accepted: at work; B is at work; shàngbān; shangban

Chapter 91

91.1 我想要一点儿水
Answer: no
Also accepted: bú yào; bu yao; 不要; no thanks

Chapter 92

92.1 我也要
Answer: dumplings
Also accepted: jiǎozi; jiaozi; water and dumplings; the same as A

Chapter 93

93.1 太大了
Answer: a bit small
Also accepted: too small; small; yǒudiǎnr xiǎo; 有点儿小

Chapter 94

94.1 我们都是学生
Answer: their teacher
Also accepted: the teacher; lǎoshī; laoshi; teacher

Chapter 95

95.1 你为什么不去
Answer: something on
Also accepted: yǒushì; youshi; busy; has something on

Chapter 96

96.1 为什么 — 因为
Answer: not well
Also accepted: unwell; not feeling well; bù shūfu; bu shufu; ill

Chapter 97

97.1 (reading) — a Sunday at home
Answer: 2
Also accepted: two; two o'clock; 两点; liǎng diǎn; 2pm

97.2 My own line — the first Chinese with no model
Answer: 小时
Also accepted: xiǎoshí; xiaoshi

Chapter 98

98.1 The same writing, with a clock
Answer: 家在哪儿
Also accepted: jiā zài nǎr; jia zai nar

Chapter 147

147.1 明天会下雨 — 会 for what will happen
Answer: 明天不会下雨
Also accepted: míngtiān bú huì xiàyǔ; mingtian bu hui xiayu; 不会下雨

147.2 明天会下雨吗 — 后天不会
Answer: the day after tomorrow
Also accepted: 后天; hòutiān; houtian; day after tomorrow

Chapter 148

148.1 火车要开了 — 要 for what is coming Answer: 火车要开了
Also accepted: huǒchē yào kāi le; huoche yao kai le; 火车快要开了

148.2 下个月我要去中国
Answer: China
Also accepted: 中国; Zhōngguó; zhongguo; to China

Chapter 149

149.1 你在做什么 — 在 before a verb
Answer: 你在做什么
Also accepted: nǐ zài zuò shénme; ni zai zuo shenme; 你正在做什么

149.2 我正在吃饭
Answer: cooking
Also accepted: 做饭; zuò fàn; zuofan; she's cooking; she is cooking

Chapter 150

150.1 你去过中国吗 — 过 for what you have done
Answer: 我没去过
Also accepted: wǒ méi qù guo; wo mei qu guo; 没去过

150.2 你去过吗 — 我没去过
Answer: no
Also accepted: 没去过; méi qù guo; mei qu guo; never; no, never

Chapter 151

151.1 看到 — 没看到*: a verb and its result*
Answer: 我看了 没看到
Also accepted: wǒ kàn le, méi kàndào; 没看到; méi kàndào; 我没看到

151.2 我看到他了
Answer: no
Also accepted: méi tīngdǒng; mei tingdong; no, he talks too fast

Chapter 152

152.1 你说得很好 — how well, with 得
Answer: 他说汉语说得很快
Also accepted: tā shuō Hànyǔ shuō de hěn kuài; ta shuo hanyu shuo de hen kuai; 他汉语说得很快

152.2 他说汉语说得很快
Answer: slowly
Also accepted: màn; man; hěn màn; slow

Chapter 153

153.1 他比我大两岁 — comparing with 比
Answer: 他比我大两岁
Also accepted: tā bǐ wǒ dà liǎng suì; ta bi wo da liang sui

153.2 我比他大 — 我没有他那么大
Answer: two
Also accepted: 2; 两岁; liǎng suì; two years

Chapter 154

154.1 你要水还是要饭
Answer: no
Also accepted: 还没; hái méi; hai mei; not yet

Chapter 155

155.1 从八点到十点 — from and to Answer: 从八点到十点
Also accepted: cóng bā diǎn dào shí diǎn; cong ba dian dao shi dian; 从8点到10点

155.2 (reading) — a timetable and opening hours
Answer: 8
Also accepted: eight; 8am; eight o'clock; 八点; bā diǎn; 早上八点

155.3 火车十点半到
Answer: 10:30
Also accepted: half past ten; 十点半; shí diǎn bàn; 10.30; ten thirty

Chapter 156

156.1 (reading) — a price list and an advert
Answer: 15
Also accepted: fifteen; 十五; 十五元; shíwǔ; shíwǔ kuài; 15 yuan

156.2 一本书十元
Answer: water
Also accepted: 水; shuǐ; shui; the water

Chapter 157

157.1 (reading) — a notice and a message
Answer: the mother is ill
Also accepted: mother is ill; her mum is ill; his mum is ill; 妈妈病了; 因为我妈妈病了; mum is ill; their mother is ill

157.2 A reply, and the lines that lean on each other Answer: 从两点到四点
Also accepted: cóng liǎng diǎn dào sì diǎn; cong liang dian dao si dian

Chapter 278

278.1 先…然后…最后 — first, then, last Answer: 最后
Also accepted: zuìhòu; zuihou

278.2 吃了饭以后 — after doing something Answer: 吃了饭以后
Also accepted: chī le fàn yǐhòu; chi le fan yihou

278.3 先洗手 然后吃早饭
Answer: school
Also accepted: to school; 学校; 去学校; xuéxiào; xuexiao; goes to school

Chapter 279

279.1 …的时候 — when, and what was going on Answer: 他来的时候
Also accepted: tā lái de shíhou; ta lai de shihou

279.2 (reading) — a day on the mountain
Answer: it rained
Also accepted: because it rained; it was raining; 下雨了; 突然下雨了; the rain; they had no raincoats; 没有雨衣

279.3 他突然来了
Answer: an old man
Also accepted: old man; 一个老人; 老人; lǎorén; an old person; a man

Chapter 280

280.1 我觉得… — I think
Answer: 我觉得他说得对
Also accepted: wǒ juéde tā shuō de duì; wo juede ta shuo de dui

280.2 我觉得这个意见很好
Answer: he's too tired
Also accepted: too tired; tired; tài lèi; tā tài lèi le; he is tired

Chapter 281

281.1 因为…所以… — because, so
Answer: 因为下雨了所以我们没去
Also accepted: 因为下雨了 所以我们没去; yīnwèi xiàyǔ le, suǒyǐ wǒmen méi qù; yinwei xiayu le suoyi women mei qu

281.2 One reason — a line of your own with 因为 and 所以
Answer: 所以
Also accepted: suǒyǐ; suoyi

281.3 因为我喜欢中国 所以学汉语
Answer: because B likes China
Also accepted: likes China; they like China; 因为我喜欢中国; 喜欢中国; xǐhuan Zhōngguó; because they like China; he likes China; she likes China

Chapter 282

282.1 你应该… — you should Answer: 你应该去看医生
Also accepted: nǐ yīnggāi qù kàn yīshēng; ni yinggai qu kan yisheng; 你应该看医生

282.2 你病了 应该去看医生
Answer: at home
Also accepted: home; 在家; zài jiā; stay at home; 家

Chapter 283

283.1 去…怎么走 — how do I get there?
Answer: 去火车站怎么走
Also accepted: qù huǒchēzhàn zěnme zǒu; qu huochezhan zenme zou; 请问去火车站怎么走

283.2 去书店怎么走
Answer: right
Also accepted: to the right; yòu; you; wǎng yòu guǎi; turn right; right turn

Chapter 284

284.1 坐火车去 — going by train
Answer: 我们坐火车去
Also accepted: wǒmen zuò huǒchē qù; women zuo huoche qu

284.2 坐在这儿 — 在 after the verb
Answer: 你坐在这儿
Also accepted: nǐ zuò zài zhèr; ni zuo zai zher; 坐在这儿

284.3 一家书店 — counting shops with 家
Answer: 家
Also accepted: jiā; jia; 一家; 这家

284.4 我们坐八点的火车
Answer: the eight o'clock
Also accepted: eight; 8; 八点; bā diǎn; eight o'clock; the 8 o'clock; 8:00

Chapter 285

285.1 我的手机不见了 — it's gone
Answer: 我的手机不见了
Also accepted: wǒ de shǒujī bú jiàn le; wo de shouji bu jian le; 手机不见了

285.2 找不到 — can't find it
Answer: 我找不到我的手机
Also accepted: wǒ zhǎo bu dào wǒ de shǒujī; wo zhao bu dao wo de shouji; 找不到我的手机

285.3 A note to the desk, four lines that lean on each other Answer: 我回来的时候
Also accepted: wǒ huílai de shíhou; wo huilai de shihou; 回来的时候

285.4 我的车票不见了
Answer: when sitting down here
Also accepted: when A sat down; sitting here; when sitting here; 坐在这儿的时候; when I sat here; when they sat down here; on getting on; when getting on

Chapter 286

286.1 我感觉… — how it felt Answer: 那天我感觉很开心
Also accepted: nà tiān wǒ gǎnjué hěn kāixīn; na tian wo ganjue hen kaixin; 我感觉很开心

286.2 学了两年 — how long it lasted
Answer: 我学了两年汉语
Also accepted: wǒ xué le liǎng nián Hànyǔ; wo xue le liang nian hanyu

286.3 我感觉很好
Answer: a year
Also accepted: one year; 1 year; 一年; yì nián; yi nian; for a year

Chapter 287

287.1 以后我想… — later, I want to Answer: 以后我想去中国工作
Also accepted: yǐhòu wǒ xiǎng qù Zhōngguó gōngzuò; yihou wo xiang qu zhongguo gongzuo

287.2 我最喜欢… — the one I like best Answer: 我最喜欢中国菜
Also accepted: wǒ zuì xǐhuan Zhōngguó cài; wo zui xihuan zhongguo cai

287.3 以后我想当医生
Answer: B's mother is a doctor
Also accepted: mother is a doctor; their mum is a doctor; 因为我妈妈是医生; 妈妈是医生; because their mother is a doctor; her mother is a doctor; his mother is a doctor

Chapter 288

288.1 要是…就… — if, then Answer: 要是明天下雨我就不去了
Also accepted: 要是明天下雨 我就不去了; yàoshi míngtiān xiàyǔ, wǒ jiù bú qù le; yaoshi mingtian xiayu wo jiu bu qu le

288.2 看天气 — it depends on the weather
Answer: 要看天气
Also accepted: 看天气; yào kàn tiānqì; kàn tiānqì; yao kan tianqi

288.3 要是下雨 我就不去了
Answer: go
Also accepted: go up the mountain; 去; 我就去; jiù qù; go to the mountain; B will go; he will go; she will go; they will go

Chapter 289

289.1 如果…就… — if, then Answer: 就
Also accepted: jiù; jiu

289.2 如果…就会… — what would happen
Answer: 如果我有钱我就会去中国
Also accepted: 如果我有钱 我就会去中国; rúguǒ wǒ yǒu qián, wǒ jiù huì qù Zhōngguó; ruguo wo you qian wo jiu hui qu zhongguo

289.3 Six lines to a friend, a story with advice at the end
Answer: 突然
Also accepted: tūrán; turan

Sources for this starter edition

Character shapes, components, and stroke order follow this project's curated character inventory, whose stroke orders are marked authoritative because Chinese stroke order is a standardised taught system rather than a convention. Codepoint and glyph references are to the Unicode CJK Unified Ideographs chart.

Index

Look up an English meaning, a dedicated language topic, or a chapter topic. Each linked reference opens the chapter where the material is introduced; the focus labels name only explicitly typed lesson sections.

A

A Baby on the Way
chapter topic; Chapter 302, p. 2373
a ball game (a football or basketball match) 球赛 (qiúsài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 500, p. 3821
a bit (of something unwanted); rather 有点儿 (yǒudiǎnr)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 93, p. 797
a building of several floors; a floor lóu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 206, p. 1647
A Busy Platform
chapter topic; Chapter 406, p. 3135
A Career
chapter topic; Chapter 487, p. 3727
A Change of Plan
chapter topic; Chapter 392, p. 3031
a checked pattern; squares 格子 (gézi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 527, p. 4023
A Crash
chapter topic; Chapter 296, p. 2329
a cup of; a glass of (a measure word) bēi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 88, p. 749
A Day at the Sea
chapter topic; Chapter 227, p. 1789
A Day from Morning to Night
chapter topic; Chapter 49, p. 447
a day's schedule rìchéng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 391, p. 3023

a deposit paid in advance yājīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 203, p. 1623
a dream (for your life); an aspiration mèngxiǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 287, p. 2253
a favourable deal (for customers) yōuhuì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 527, p. 4023
A Fire
chapter topic; Chapter 298, p. 2343
a form to fill in biǎogé
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 189, p. 1521
a goal; a target mùbiāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 287, p. 2253
A Good Guest, a Good Host
chapter topic; Chapter 361, p. 2805
a great river; big river jiāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 442, p. 3395
a happy occasion; a wedding in the family 喜事 (xǐshì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 305, p. 2395
A Headache
chapter topic; Chapter 228, p. 1795
a home near a good school 学区房 (xuéqūfáng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 377, p. 2921
a hundred — and the one word in the run whose tone moves 一百 (yìbǎi)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology; Chapter 21, p. 213
A Knock at the Door
chapter topic; Chapter 176, p. 1433
a large amount of; in large amounts 大量 (dàliàng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 526, p. 4015
A Legend
chapter topic; Chapter 328, p. 2561
a light switch; a switch on a machine 开关 (kāiguān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 520, p. 3971
a little; a bit 一点儿 (yìdiǎnr)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 91, p. 779
a little while; in a moment 一会儿 (yíhuìr)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 76, p. 655
a local speciality; a regional product tèchǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 247, p. 1927
a long time; ages hǎojiǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 185, p. 1493
a long while; half a day 半天 (bàntiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 143, p. 1161

A Lucky Escape
chapter topic; Chapter 531, p. 4049
(a measure word for animals, and for one of a pair) zhī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 88, p. 749
(a measure word for books) běn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 88, p. 749
(a measure word for flat things: tables, beds, tickets) zhāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 88, p. 749
a member of a club or a shop's scheme huìyuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 527, p. 4023
A Missed Chance
chapter topic; Chapter 356, p. 2767
a moment ago gāngcái
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 126, p. 1035
A Mountain Village
chapter topic; Chapter 440, p. 3379
A Name and a School
chapter topic; Chapter 303, p. 2381
A New Job
chapter topic; Chapter 276, p. 2133
A New Place
chapter topic; Chapter 316, p. 2477
A New Term
chapter topic; Chapter 248, p. 1935
a new year print (hung at the spring festival) 年画 (niánhuà)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 503, p. 3843
A Note About Tomorrow
chapter topic; Chapter 157, p. 1293
A note to the desk, four lines that lean on each other script and writing topic; explicit focus: writing; Chapter 285, p. 2231
a pair of (a measure word) shuāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 108, p. 911
a panda; giant panda xióngmāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 223, p. 1761
A Part-Time Job
chapter topic; Chapter 255, p. 1989
a patient's condition; how an illness is going 病情 (bìngqíng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 481, p. 3687
a person's height; body height 身高 (shēngāo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 475, p. 3643
a person's life; life from birth to death 人生 (rénshēng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 316, p. 2477
a person's luck (good or bad) 运气 (yùnqi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 529, p. 4035

a person's quality; upbringing sùzhì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 363, p. 2915
a pity; it's a shame kěxī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 264, p. 2051
a pity; regrettable yíhàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 286, p. 2243
a platform (at a station) zhàntái
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 284, p. 2219
a player in a ball game qiúyuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 499, p. 3815
a position in a firm zhíwèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 489, p. 3741
a prize you win; an award jiǎngpǐn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 530, p. 4043
a rain shower zhènyǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 244, p. 1909
A reply, and the lines that lean on each other script and writing topic; explicit focus: writing; Chapter 157, p. 1293
a restaurant's signature dish zhāopáicài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 450, p. 3457
a romantic date; an appointment (to meet) 约会 (yuēhuì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 388, p. 3001
a seat zuòwèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 284, p. 2219
a sense of security 安全感 (ānquángǎn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 381, p. 2949
a small amount of 少量 (shǎoliàng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 526, p. 4015
a snowy landscape xuějǐng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 519, p. 3963
a sports team (in a ball game) qiúduì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 499, p. 3815
A Spring Outing
chapter topic; Chapter 431, p. 3315
A Storm
chapter topic; Chapter 416, p. 3205
A Storm Coming
chapter topic; Chapter 244, p. 1909
a strange business; an odd thing 怪事 (guàishì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 539, p. 4109
a suggestion; an objection 意见 (yìjiàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 280, p. 2173
A Thief
chapter topic; Chapter 309, p. 2425

A Trip Abroad
chapter topic; Chapter 213, p. 1693
a way of doing things; a mode fāngshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 385, p. 2979
a way to deal with it bànfǎ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 214, p. 1699
a way to solve a problem; means 方法 (fāngfǎ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 457, p. 3507
A wider school map
chapter topic; Chapter 15, p. 137
a windbreaker; a light coat against the wind 风衣 (fēngyī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 218, p. 1725
a wish one has; a desire 愿望 (yuànwàng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 535, p. 4079
a work of art; a piece of writing zuòpǐn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 503, p. 3843
a written Chinese character, recovered without pinyin 字 (zì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 16, p. 147 ability nénglì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 260, p. 2025
able to do everything; all-purpose 万能 (wànnéng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 393, p. 3039
about; almost chàbuduō
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 205, p. 1637
about; or so (after a number) zuǒyòu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 205, p. 1637 abroad; overseas 国外 (guówài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 261, p. 2031
accent 口音 (kǒuyīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 436, p. 3351
accident 事故 (shìgù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 297, p. 4109
accidental; happening by chance ǒurán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 528, p. 4029 accommodation; a place to stay zhùsù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 425, p. 3273
actor; performer yǎnyuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 267, p. 2071
Actors and Jokes
chapter topic; Chapter 267, p. 2071
actually; as a matter of fact qíshí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 264, p. 2051
address dìzhǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 120, p. 997

admission ticket 门票 (ménpiào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 213, p. 1693 adult; grown-up 大人 (dàren)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 266, p. 2065
advanced; high-level 高级 (gāojí)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 496, p. 3791
advert; advertisement guǎnggào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 156, p. 1283
aeroplane fēijī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 72, p. 621
affection between people; feelings for each other 感情 (gǎnqíng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 459, p. 3521
after (a time); after (an event) zhīhòu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 185, p. 1493
after; afterwards yǐhòu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 97, p. 835
after all; all things considered bìjìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 370, p. 2873
after; behind; later hòu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 82, p. 699
after the event; in hindsight 事后 (shìhòu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 295, p. 2319
After the Meal
chapter topic; Chapter 452, p. 3473
After You
chapter topic; Chapter 11, p. 103
afternoon xiàwǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 49, p. 447
afternoon nap 午觉 (wǔjiào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 169, p. 1383 afternoon tea (a light meal) 下午茶 (xiàwǔchá)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 166, p. 1361
afterwards; later (in the past) 后来 (hòulái)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 150, p. 1219
again (still to come); once more 再 (zài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 283, p. 2207
Age, and And
chapter topic; Chapter 27, p. 269
Age and Growing Up
chapter topic; Chapter 78, p. 669
age (of a person) niánjì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 78, p. 669
air kōngqì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 380, p. 2943

air conditioner; air conditioning kōngtiáo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 171, p. 1399
air temperature qìwēn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 219, p. 1733 airport jīchǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 73, p. 3105
airport terminal hángzhànlóu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 415, p. 3199
alarm; a warning siren 警报 (jǐngbào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 311, p. 2439
alarm clock nàozhōng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 145, p. 1173
all at once; in no time 一下子 (yíxiàzi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 279, p. 2159
all; both 都 (dōu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 94, p. 807
all day; round the clock 全天 (quántiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 396, p. 3061
all; every suǒyǒu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 138, p. 1127
all of it; the whole 全部 (quánbù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 438, p. 3365
all of one mind; in agreement yízhì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 348, p. 2709
all one's life; a lifetime 一生 (yìshēng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 322, p. 2519
All the Same
chapter topic; Chapter 94, p. 807
all together; together (in everyday speech) yíkuàir
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 163, p. 1339
already yǐjīng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 126, p. 1035
also; too 也 (yě)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 92, p. 787
Although
chapter topic; Chapter 371, p. 2879
although 虽然 (suīrán)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 371, p. 2879
altogether; in all yígòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 132, p. 1083 amazing; remarkable 了不起 (liǎobuqǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 368, p. 2857
ambition in life; the goal one sets oneself zhìxiàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 512, p. 3911

Ambitions
chapter topic; Chapter 513, p. 3917
ambulance jiùhùchē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 232, p. 1831
America; the United States Měiguó
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 36, p. 343
An Accident
chapter topic; Chapter 232, p. 1831
an activity; an organised event huódòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 376, p. 2915
an example lìzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 281, p. 2183
an experience (something lived through) jīnglì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 247, p. 1927
an impatient sort; a hothead jíxìngzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 469, p. 3595
An Invitation
chapter topic; Chapter 173, p. 1411
An Island
chapter topic; Chapter 444, p. 3411
An Ordinary Day
chapter topic; Chapter 178, p. 1445
ancient; age-old 古老 (gǔlǎo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 321, p. 2511
ancient book; old book 古书 (gǔshū)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 321, p. 2511
ancient times 古代 (gǔdài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 323, p. 2525
ancient walled town; old town 古城 (gǔchéng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 446, p. 3425
and thereby; and in this way cóng'ér
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 538, p. 4103
anew; over again from the start 重新 (chóngxīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 295, p. 2319
Angry and Worried
chapter topic; Chapter 125, p. 1029
animal dòngwù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 223, p. 1761
Animals
chapter topic; Chapter 67, p. 1761; Chapter 223, p. 1761 annoyed; fed up fán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 458, p. 3515
annual leave 年假 (niánjià)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 263, p. 2043

answer to a question dá'àn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 268, p. 2079
anxious; in a hurry zháojí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 125, p. 1029
Anyway
chapter topic; Chapter 372, p. 2887
anyway; in any case fǎnzhèng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 372, p. 2887
appearance; manner yàngzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 233, p. 1837 appetite wèikǒu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 477, p. 3657
apple píngguǒ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 40, p. 375
approximately; roughly (a time or number) 大约 (dàyuē)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 390, p. 3015
arm gēbo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 474, p. 3635
Around the House
chapter topic; Chapter 520, p. 3971
Around the World
chapter topic; Chapter 326, p. 2547
Around Town
chapter topic; Chapter 100, p. 855
Arrivals
chapter topic; Chapter 419, p. 3227
Art
chapter topic; Chapter 503, p. 3843
art exhibition huàzhǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 502, p. 3835
art; the arts yìshù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 503, p. 3843
as before; even now réngrán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 315, p. 2469
as far as one can jǐnliàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 534, p. 4073
as if; to look like (a guess) hǎoxiàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 280, p. 2173
As It Turns Out
chapter topic; Chapter 537, p. 4095
as long as; provided (that) 只要 (zhǐyào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 399, p. 3083
as luck would have it; coincidentally pèngqiǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 528, p. 4029

as one would wish 如意 (rúyì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 532, p. 4057
as planned (on the agreed date) 如期 (rúqī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 390, p. 3015
As We Agreed
chapter topic; Chapter 390, p. 3015
as you like; casual suíbiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 275, p. 2127
Asking
chapter topic; Chapter 19, p. 185
Asking for Help
chapter topic; Chapter 64, p. 1699; Chapter 214, p. 1699
asking what somebody likes, out of four words the book already had 你喜欢什么 (nǐ xǐhuan shénme)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 28, p. 279
at any time; whenever needed suíshí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 393, p. 3039
at ease; free and relaxed 自在 (zìzai)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 315, p. 2469
At Home
chapter topic; Chapter 57, p. 503
at least zhìshǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 368, p. 2857
at long last zhōngyú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 294, p. 2313
at night yèli
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 146, p. 1179
at once; right away 马上 (mǎshàng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 83, p. 705
at regular intervals; periodically 定期 (dìngqī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 390, p. 3015
At School
chapter topic; Chapter 79, p. 677
at that time; then dāngshí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 187, p. 1505
At the Bank
chapter topic; Chapter 195, p. 1567
At the Dentist
chapter topic; Chapter 473, p. 3627
at the last minute; for the time being línshí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 391, p. 3023
At the Market
chapter topic; Chapter 448, p. 3441

at the same time (said twice, before two verbs); one side 一边 (yìbiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 149, p. 1209
At the Station
chapter topic; Chapter 73, p. 3105; Chapter 402, p. 3105
At the Till
chapter topic; Chapter 202, p. 1617
At the Top
chapter topic; Chapter 435, p. 3343
at the very start; initially zuìchū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 295, p. 2319
At Your Service
chapter topic; Chapter 525, p. 4005
athlete yùndòngyuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 501, p. 3829
attentive and thorough (of service) zhōudào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 525, p. 4005
attentive; putting your heart into it 用心 (yòngxīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 273, p. 2115 attitude tàidu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 398, p. 3077
auntie; mother's sister āyí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 272, p. 2107
authentic; the real thing (of food) zhèngzōng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 450, p. 3457
autumn qiūtiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 131, p. 3931

B

baby; darling (said to a small child) bǎobao
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 266, p. 2065
Back From a Trip
chapter topic; Chapter 247, p. 1927
Back Next Month
chapter topic; Chapter 191, p. 1537
Back Then
chapter topic; Chapter 322, p. 2519
back then; in those years 当年 (dāngnián)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 322, p. 2519
backpack; rucksack bēibāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 453, p. 3481
bag bāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 58, p. 511

bag; sack dàizi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 119, p. 989
Bags and Boxes
chapter topic; Chapter 119, p. 989
Bags and Cases
chapter topic; Chapter 453, p. 3481
balcony yángtái
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 159, p. 1311 band (of musicians) yuèduì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 506, p. 3867
bank yínháng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 100, p. 855
bank account zhànghù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 195, p. 1567
basis; what something rests on gēnjù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 350, p. 2723
basketball lánqiú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 135, p. 1107 bathroom yùshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 181, p. 1465
battery diànchí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 208, p. 1661
Be Sure To
chapter topic; Chapter 393, p. 3039
be sure to (urging); whatever you do 千万 (qiānwàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 393, p. 3039
beard; moustache húzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 233, p. 1837
Because
chapter topic; Chapter 96, p. 827
because 因为 (yīnwèi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 96, p. 827
Because of the Weather
chapter topic; Chapter 136, p. 1113
Becoming Green
chapter topic; Chapter 384, p. 2971
bed chuáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 87, p. 737
Bed and Bath
chapter topic; Chapter 181, p. 1465
bed sheet chuángdān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 427, p. 3287
bedroom wòshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 159, p. 1311

bee; honeybee mìfēng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 224, p. 1767 beef niúròu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 161, p. 1325
beer píjiǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 102, p. 869
before (a time); before (an event) zhīqián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 185, p. 1493
before; ago; front 前 (qián)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 78, p. 669
before; in the past 以前 (yǐqián)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 126, p. 1035
before one's eyes; right now 眼前 (yǎnqián)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 471, p. 3611
beforehand; in advance 事先 (shìxiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 317, p. 2687
behind; at the back hòubian
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 111, p. 935
Behind, Left and Right
chapter topic; Chapter 82, p. 699
Beijing Běijīng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 36, p. 343
Beijing opera Jīngjù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 506, p. 3867
belly; tummy dùzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 230, p. 1811
beloved; treasured 心爱 (xīn'ài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 461, p. 3535
below zero língxià
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 221, p. 1747
benefit; advantage hǎochu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 373, p. 2893
besides; in addition lìngwài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 369, p. 2865
Best Wishes
chapter topic; Chapter 337, p. 2629
bicycle zìxíngchē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 106, p. 897
big deal; important matter 大事 (dàshì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 276, p. 2133
big fire; a fire that destroys buildings huǒzāi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 298, p. 2343
big hotel 酒店 (jiǔdiàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 425, p. 3273

big; large, now read and written 大 (dà)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 13, p. 121
bill (to pay) zhàngdān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 387, p. 2995
bird niǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 67, p. 1761 birthday 生日 (shēngrì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 75, p. 647
biscuit; cracker bǐnggān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 102, p. 869 bitter kǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 172, p. 1405 bitterly cold (of a climate) hánlěng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 515, p. 3931
black; dark hēi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 60, p. 525
black tea hóngchá
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 166, p. 1361
bland; weak (in taste) dàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 172, p. 1405
blessing; good wishes zhùfú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 343, p. 2675
Blood
chapter topic; Chapter 479, p. 3671
blood 血 (xiě)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 479, p. 3671
blood pressure xuèyā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 479, p. 3671
blue lán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 60, p. 525
boarding pass dēngjīpái
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 415, p. 3199
boat; ship chuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 227, p. 1789
Body and Mind
chapter topic; Chapter 485, p. 3713
body and mind 身心 (shēnxīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 485, p. 3713
body; health shēntǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 50, p. 455
body temperature tǐwēn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 245, p. 1915
body weight 体重 (tǐzhòng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 230, p. 1811

boiled water; boiling water 开水 (kāishuǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 166, p. 1361 bone gǔtou
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 477, p. 3657
book, recovered without pinyin 书 (shū)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 18, p. 171
Booking a Room
chapter topic; Chapter 200, p. 3281; Chapter 426, p. 3281
books on the shelves (of a library or bookshop) 图书 (túshū)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 454, p. 3487
bookshelf shūjià
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 175, p. 1425
bookshop 书店 (shūdiàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 190, p. 1529
bored; boring wúliáo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 271, p. 2099
Born and Married
chapter topic; Chapter 254, p. 1983
boss; owner (of a business) lǎobǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 255, p. 1989
bottle píngzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 186, p. 1499 bound to happen; hard to avoid nánmiǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 540, p. 4117
box; small case hézi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 119, p. 989
box; suitcase; trunk xiāngzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 119, p. 989
boxed meal; packed lunch héfàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 182, p. 1473
boy 男孩 (nánhái)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 266, p. 2065
brain dànǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 477, p. 3657
brave yǒnggǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 265, p. 2057
bread miànbāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 40, p. 375
breakfast 早饭 (zǎofàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 69, p. 601
bride xīnniáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 306, p. 2401
bridegroom xīnláng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 305, p. 2395

bridge qiáo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 246, p. 1921
bright idea; idea of what to do zhǔyi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 347, p. 2701
Britain; the United Kingdom Yīngguó
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 36, p. 343 brochure; leaflet xuānchuáncè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 454, p. 3487
broken; bad huài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 103, p. 875 brothers xiōngdì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 507, p. 3873
Brothers and Sisters
chapter topic; Chapter 508, p. 3881
brown zōngsè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 210, p. 1673
budget yùsuàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 387, p. 2995
buffet zìzhùcān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 427, p. 3287
bus stop sign zhànpái
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 408, p. 3149
business; trade 生意 (shēngyi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 341, p. 2659
Busy and Quiet
chapter topic; Chapter 432, p. 3323
but; however 但是 (dànshì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 369, p. 2865
but; yet 可是 (kěshì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 365, p. 2835
butterfly húdié
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 224, p. 1767
buyer 买家 (mǎijiā)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 523, p. 3989
Buying and Selling
chapter topic; Chapter 523, p. 3989
buying and selling for a living; a business deal 买卖 (mǎimai)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 523, p. 3989
By Bus
chapter topic; Chapter 408, p. 3149
By Chance
chapter topic; Chapter 528, p. 4029
By the Sea
chapter topic; Chapter 445, p. 3419

bye-bye bàibai
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 76, p. 655

C

cake dàngāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 75, p. 647
calligraphy 书法 (shūfǎ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 503, p. 3843
Calls and Confidence
chapter topic; Chapter 319, p. 2497
calm; cool-headed 冷静 (lěngjìng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 466, p. 3573
calm; peaceful inside píngjìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 466, p. 3573
can (having learned how) 会 (huì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 90, p. 2025
can; to be able to; to be allowed to 能 (néng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 90, p. 2025 car park tíngchēchǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 192, p. 1545
car; vehicle 车 (chē)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 44, p. 405 career; life's work 事业 (shìyè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 487, p. 3727
Careful!
chapter topic; Chapter 115, p. 963
careful; attentive to detail xìxīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 273, p. 2115
careless cūxīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 273, p. 2115
cash xiànjīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 114, p. 957
cat māo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 67, p. 1761 cause of an illness 病因 (bìngyīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 481, p. 3687
cause of death 死因 (sǐyīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 300, p. 2357
Celebrating
chapter topic; Chapter 75, p. 647
cemetery; graveyard mùdì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 314, p. 2463

central heating nuǎnqì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 520, p. 3971
certainly; definitely yídìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 147, p. 1187
chair yǐzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 57, p. 503
champion guànjūn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 501, p. 3829 chance; opportunity 机会 (jīhuì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 276, p. 2133
Changing Seasons
chapter topic; Chapter 243, p. 1903
Changing the Subject
chapter topic; Chapter 354, p. 2753
Character or language?
chapter topic; Chapter 16, p. 147
characteristic; a distinguishing trait 特点 (tèdiǎn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 450, p. 3457
cheap piányi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 42, p. 391
Checking In
chapter topic; Chapter 418, p. 3219
checkout; till shōuyíntái
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 202, p. 1617
cheerful and outgoing kāilǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 467, p. 3581
chef; professional cook chúshī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 488, p. 3735
chemist's; pharmacy yàodiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 190, p. 1529
chicken meat; chicken (as food) jīròu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 161, p. 1325
child háizi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 33, p. 321
child; kid 小孩 (xiǎohái)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 253, p. 1975
childhood tóngnián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 269, p. 2085
childhood pet name 小名 (xiǎomíng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 303, p. 2381
China 中国 (zhōngguó)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 17, p. 159
Chinese (as a school subject) 语文 (yǔwén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 492, p. 3763

Chinese cabbage 白菜 (báicài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 101, p. 861
Chinese character; Han character 汉字 (hànzì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 16, p. 147
Chinese; the Chinese language 中文 (zhōngwén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 17, p. 159
chopsticks kuàizi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 101, p. 861
chronic (of an illness) mànxìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 483, p. 3701
cinema diànyǐngyuàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 190, p. 1529
citizenship; the country one belongs to guójí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 455, p. 3495
city chéngshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 81, p. 691
city bus gōngjiāochē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 106, p. 897
city centre shìzhōngxīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 211, p. 1679
city wall; the wall round a city chéngqiáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 446, p. 3425
civilization 文明 (wénmíng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 326, p. 2547
classmate; schoolmate, now read and written 同学 (tóngxué)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 15, p. 137
classroom jiàoshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 79, p. 677
clean gānjìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 93, p. 797
Clean Air
chapter topic; Chapter 380, p. 2943
clear and cloudless (of the sky) qínglǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 518, p. 3955
clear; clearly qīngchu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 152, p. 1241
clever; bright cōngming
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 123, p. 1017
climate 气候 (qìhòu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 243, p. 1903
Clock Words
chapter topic; Chapter 143, p. 1161
Close Family
chapter topic; Chapter 511, p. 3903

Clothes
chapter topic; Chapter 59, p. 519 clothes yīfu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 58, p. 511 clothing size; shoe size chǐmǎ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 199, p. 1597
cloud 云 (yún)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 219, p. 1733
cloudy 多云 (duōyún)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 219, p. 1733
Cloudy Tomorrow
chapter topic; Chapter 219, p. 1733
coach; long-distance bus 客车 (kèchē)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 408, p. 3149
Coats and Scarves
chapter topic; Chapter 165, p. 1353
coffee kāfēi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 55, p. 489
cola kělè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 102, p. 869
cold lěng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 51, p. 461
cold starter; cold dishes (on a menu) 冷菜 (lěngcài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 182, p. 1473
colleague 同事 (tóngshì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 255, p. 1989
college entrance exam 高考 (gāokǎo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 494, p. 3777
colour yánsè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 60, p. 525
Colours
chapter topic; Chapter 60, p. 525
Colours and Shapes
chapter topic; Chapter 139, p. 1135
Colours and Styles
chapter topic; Chapter 210, p. 1673
comfortable; well shūfu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 96, p. 827
Coming and Going
chapter topic; Chapter 43, p. 397
Coming Over
chapter topic; Chapter 180, p. 1459
Comings and Goings
chapter topic; Chapter 427, p. 3287

community; neighbourhood 社区 (shèqū)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 377, p. 2921
company; firm gōngsī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 80, p. 685 compassion; love and care for others 爱心 (àixīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 461, p. 3535
complexion; the colour of one's face 脸色 (liǎnsè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 472, p. 3619
computer diànnǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 58, p. 511 concert 音乐会 (yīnyuèhuì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 128, p. 1051
conclusion jiélùn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 371, p. 2879
condition (that must be met) tiáojiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 395, p. 3053 confidence; faith 信心 (xìnxīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 319, p. 2497
conscientious; serious rènzhēn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 123, p. 1017 consequences; what comes of it 后果 (hòuguǒ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 297, p. 4109
considerate; thoughtful of others' needs tǐtiē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 468, p. 3589
content; what something is about nèiróng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 354, p. 2753 contract; written agreement hétong
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 203, p. 1623
convenient; handy fāngbiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 129, p. 1059
cooked rice mǐfàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 38, p. 359
cooked rice; meal 饭 (fàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 38, p. 359
Cooking
chapter topic; Chapter 113, p. 951
Country Life
chapter topic; Chapter 439, p. 3373
country; nation 国家 (guójiā)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 326, p. 2547
courage; nerve dǎnzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 332, p. 2591
credit card xìnyòngkǎ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 195, p. 1567

crossroads; junction lùkǒu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 111, p. 935
crowded yōngjǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 406, p. 3135
crystal-clear (of water) qīngchè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 443, p. 3403 culture wénhuà
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 374, p. 2901
cup; glass bēizi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 58, p. 511 cupboard; cabinet guìzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 175, p. 1425
curtain chuānglián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 181, p. 1465
custom; social custom fēngsú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 338, p. 2637
customer gùkè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 202, p. 1617
Customs
chapter topic; Chapter 417, p. 3213
customs at the border hǎiguān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 417, p. 3213
cute; lovable kě'ài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 123, p. 1017
CV; résumé jiǎnlì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 486, p. 3721

D

D-class bullet train dòngchē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 407, p. 3141
dad; father bàba
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 32, p. 313
damp; humid cháoshī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 218, p. 1725
dance partner wǔbàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 505, p. 3859
dance party; ball 舞会 (wǔhuì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 505, p. 3859
Dancing
chapter topic; Chapter 505, p. 3859 dangerous wēixiǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 115, p. 963

dark clouds wūyún
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 238, p. 1871
date 日期 (rìqī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 47, p. 429
daughter, now read and written 女儿 (nǚ'ér)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 12, p. 111
Day and Night
chapter topic; Chapter 146, p. 1179
day; days (of one's life) 日子 (rìzi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 178, p. 1445
day of the month; number (in a series) 号 (hào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 189, p. 1521
day; sky 天 (tiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 45, p. 413
daytime 白天 (báitiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 146, p. 1179
De — The Hinge
chapter topic; Chapter 23, p. 229
de — the particle that puts an owner in front of what is owned, and carries no tone 的 (de) explicit focus: pronunciation, grammar, etymology; Chapter 23, p. 229 decade; era 年代 (niándài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 323, p. 2525
Decades and Eras
chapter topic; Chapter 323, p. 2525
decent; serious and proper 正经 (zhèngjīng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 469, p. 3595
deflated; with the fun spoiled 扫兴 (sǎoxìng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 465, p. 3565
delighted; to one's heart's content tòngkuài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 465, p. 3565
Deliveries and the Laundry
chapter topic; Chapter 215, p. 1705
dentist 牙医 (yáyī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 473, p. 3627
departure gate dēngjīkǒu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 415, p. 3199
descendants; later generations 后代 (hòudài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 325, p. 2539
desert shāmò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 437, p. 3359
dialect fāngyán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 436, p. 3351

diary 日记 (rìjì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 304, p. 2387
dictionary cídiǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 104, p. 883 difference qūbié
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 398, p. 3077 different 不同 (bùtóng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 256, p. 1997
diligent with chores; quick to pitch in qínkuài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 468, p. 3589
dim sum; light snacks and pastries 点心 (diǎnxin)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 120, p. 997 dinner; supper 晚饭 (wǎnfàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 69, p. 601 direction; way fāngxiàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 117, p. 2207
dirty zāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 93, p. 797 disappointed shīwàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 252, p. 1969
dish of food; vegetable cài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 38, p. 359
disposable; used once yícìxìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 383, p. 2965
distance jùlí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 205, p. 1637
dizzy tóuyūn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 480, p. 3679
Do You Agree?
chapter topic; Chapter 270, p. 2093
doctor yīshēng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 80, p. 685
dog gǒu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 67, p. 1761
Doing the Chores
chapter topic; Chapter 160, p. 1319
Doing Things Together
chapter topic; Chapter 84, p. 711
domestic (inside the country) guónèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 419, p. 3227
don't bié
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 154, p. 1261 don't; do not want 不要 (bú yào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 91, p. 779

door entry system; a card-entry door ménjìn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 379, p. 2935
door; gate 门 (mén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 65, p. 567
doorbell ménlíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 522, p. 3983
doorway; entrance 门口 (ménkǒu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 74, p. 637
down; gloomy yùmèn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 460, p. 3529
dragon lóng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 328, p. 2561
drawer chōuti
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 186, p. 1499 Dreams
chapter topic; Chapter 512, p. 3911
drink; soft drink yǐnliào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 102, p. 869
Drinking
chapter topic; Chapter 39, p. 367 driver sījī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 80, p. 685
driving licence jiàzhào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 420, p. 3235
dry air; dry (of weather or skin) gānzào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 218, p. 1725
duck yāzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 439, p. 3373
duì — 'right', and on its own the commonest way to agree in spoken Mandarin 对 (duì) explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology, usage and culture; Chapter 26, p. 259
dumpling jiǎozi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 70, p. 609
dusk; towards evening bàngwǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 169, p. 1383 duty-free; tax-free miǎnshuì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 417, p. 3213
duty; obligation yìwù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 362, p. 2811

E

each other; mutually hùxiāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 375, p. 2907

ear ěrduo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 52, p. 467 early 早 (zǎo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 83, p. 705
Early and Late
chapter topic; Chapter 169, p. 1383
early in the morning; at daybreak qīngchén
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 519, p. 3963 earthquake dìzhèn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 300, p. 2357
easy róngyì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 144, p. 1167
Easy and Important
chapter topic; Chapter 144, p. 1167
Eating
chapter topic; Chapter 38, p. 359
Eating Out
chapter topic; Chapter 182, p. 1473
eccentric; peculiar (of a person) 古怪 (gǔguài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 540, p. 4117
eco-friendly huánbǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 380, p. 2943
economy class jīngjìcāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 414, p. 3193 effect; function 作用 (zuòyòng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 370, p. 2873
egg jīdàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 40, p. 375
eight — first tone, and the luckiest number in the language 八 (bā)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology; Chapter 20, p. 199 either one or the other; either ... or 要么 (yàome)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 541, p. 4123
elder brother gēge
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 32, p. 313
elder brother and younger sister xiōngmèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 508, p. 3881
elder sister jiějie
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 32, p. 313
electrician 电工 (diàngōng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 259, p. 2017
electricity bill diànfèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 383, p. 2965

elementary; for beginners chūjí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 496, p. 3791
eleven — ten one, and the teens are finished in a sentence 十一 (shíyī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 21, p. 213
email; mail yóujiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 201, p. 1611
embarrassed 难为情 (nánwéiqíng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 460, p. 3529
emergency department; urgent treatment jízhěn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 482, p. 3695
emotions; spirits qíngxù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 458, p. 3515
emperor huángdì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 327, p. 2555
empty kōng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 134, p. 1099
empty seat kòngwèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 407, p. 3141
ending jiéjú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 329, p. 2569
energy; sources of energy néngyuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 383, p. 2965
engaged; busy (of a phone line) zhànxiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 198, p. 1589
engineer gōngchéngshī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 488, p. 3735
English (the language) Yīngyǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 492, p. 3763
enough gòu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 188, p. 1513
entrance; way in rùkǒu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 112, p. 943
envelope xìnfēng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 318, p. 2491
environment; surroundings huánjìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 380, p. 2943
era; age 时代 (shídài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 324, p. 2533
essay; composition (at school) 作文 (zuòwén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 251, p. 1959
Essays and New Characters
chapter topic; Chapter 251, p. 1959

ethnic group; nationality mínzú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 374, p. 2901
even (going so far as) shènzhì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 371, p. 2879
even if jíshǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 396, p. 3061
even more; still more gèng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 153, p. 1251
evening 晚上 (wǎnshang)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 49, p. 447 evening party; evening show 晚会 (wǎnhuì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 173, p. 1411 ever; (before 没) never once cónglái
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 150, p. 1219
Ever Since
chapter topic; Chapter 308, p. 2417
Every and Other
chapter topic; Chapter 138, p. 1127
every day měitiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 97, p. 835
every; each 每 (měi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 138, p. 1127
every single time; always zǒngshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 162, p. 1333 everyone, built from known characters 大家 (dàjiā)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 13, p. 121
everything; all yíqiè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 401, p. 3097
everywhere dàochù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 211, p. 1679
evidence; proof zhèngjù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 310, p. 2433
exactly right; as it happens 正好 (zhènghǎo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 149, p. 1209
exam candidate 考生 (kǎoshēng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 494, p. 3777
exam hall; exam room 考场 (kǎochǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 495, p. 3785
Exams
chapter topic; Chapter 268, p. 2079
excited; worked up jīdòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 271, p. 2099
excuse (a poor reason) jièkǒu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 397, p. 3069

Excuse Me
chapter topic; Chapter 65, p. 567
excuse me, may I ask 请问 (qǐngwèn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 65, p. 567
excuse me; sorry to trouble you bù hǎoyìsi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 65, p. 567
exhausting; toilsome (of work) xīnkǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 490, p. 3749
exit; way out 出口 (chūkǒu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 112, p. 943 expensive guì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 42, p. 391 experience; know-how jīngyàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 261, p. 2031 expert; master (at something) 高手 (gāoshǒu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 260, p. 2025
express delivery; courier kuàidì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 201, p. 1611
expressway 高速 (gāosù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 421, p. 3241
Extra Lessons
chapter topic; Chapter 493, p. 3769
extremely; very fēicháng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 77, p. 663
eye yǎnjing
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 52, p. 467
eyebrow méimao
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 472, p. 3619
Eyes
chapter topic; Chapter 471, p. 3611

F

face mask kǒuzhào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 245, p. 1915
face; your standing in others' eyes 面子 (miànzi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 358, p. 2783
Faces
chapter topic; Chapter 472, p. 3619
facial expression; the look on one's face biǎoqíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 472, p. 3619
fact shìshí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 350, p. 2723

factor yīnsù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 370, p. 2873
factory gōngchǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 487, p. 3727
Facts and Grounds
chapter topic; Chapter 350, p. 2723
fair; impartial 公正 (gōngzhèng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 362, p. 2811
fairy; heavenly maiden xiānnǚ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 329, p. 2569
fairy tale tónghuà
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 329, p. 2569
fallen leaves luòyè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 516, p. 3939
family members, now read and written 家人 (jiārén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 12, p. 111 famous painting 名画 (mínghuà)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 502, p. 3835
famous person; well-known figure 名人 (míngrén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 327, p. 2555
fan (of a singer) gēmí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 506, p. 3867
far yuǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 62, p. 541
Far from Home
chapter topic; Chapter 343, p. 2675
fare for a ride chēfèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 410, p. 3165
Farm Animals and Bugs
chapter topic; Chapter 242, p. 1897
farm stay; country guesthouse nóngjiālè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 439, p. 3373 farmer nóngmín
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 225, p. 1775
Fast, Far and Near
chapter topic; Chapter 62, p. 541
fast; quick 快 (kuài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 62, p. 541
fat; plump pàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 94, p. 807
fate; destiny mìngyùn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 529, p. 4035
father and daughter 父女 (fùnǚ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 507, p. 3873

father and son 父子 (fùzǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 507, p. 3873
father (the formal word) 父亲 (fùqīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 511, p. 3903
Fathers and Sons
chapter topic; Chapter 507, p. 3873
fault; bad habit máobìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 368, p. 2857
Faults
chapter topic; Chapter 470, p. 3605
Feeling Ill
chapter topic; Chapter 130, p. 1883; Chapter 240, p. 1883
Feeling Low
chapter topic; Chapter 460, p. 3529
Feeling Safe
chapter topic; Chapter 379, p. 2935
female; woman 女 (nǚ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 12, p. 111
ferry dùchuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 411, p. 3171 festival 节日 (jiérì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 137, p. 1119
Festival Visits
chapter topic; Chapter 338, p. 2637
festive; joyous 喜庆 (xǐqìng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 339, p. 2643
few; not much 少 (shǎo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 432, p. 3323
filling xiànr
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 341, p. 2659
film; movie diànyǐng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 55, p. 489
final (of a competition) juésài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 500, p. 3821
Finding the Way
chapter topic; Chapter 197, p. 1581
fine and happy (of a life or a future) měihǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 536, p. 4087
finger shǒuzhǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 474, p. 3635
firecrackers biānpào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 335, p. 2613
firefighter xiāofángyuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 298, p. 2343

fireworks yānhuā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 339, p. 2643
first dìyī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 140, p. 1141
first aid jíjiù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 299, p. 2351
First and Half
chapter topic; Chapter 140, p. 1141
first; before anything else 先 (xiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 269, p. 2085
first lunar month 正月 (zhēngyuè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 334, p. 2605
first of all; to begin with shǒuxiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 278, p. 2147
first prize; the jackpot tóujiǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 530, p. 4043
First, Then, Last
chapter topic; Chapter 278, p. 2147
first thing in the morning; at the crack of dawn 一大早 (yídàzǎo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 169, p. 1383 fish yú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 67, p. 1761 fishing boat yúchuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 445, p. 3419
fitting room 试衣间 (shìyījiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 210, p. 1673
five 五 (wǔ)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology; Chapter 3, p. 25 flight attendant; cabin crew chéngwùyuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 414, p. 3193
flight; flying (of an aircraft) fēixíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 416, p. 3205
floor; storey céng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 206, p. 1647
florist's; flower shop 花店 (huādiàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 224, p. 1767 flower huā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 68, p. 593
fluent liúlì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 152, p. 1241
flustered; in a panic huāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 301, p. 2365
folk song míngē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 504, p. 3851

foot jiǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 52, p. 467
football; soccer zúqiú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 135, p. 1107
For a Reason
chapter topic; Chapter 235, p. 1849
For Example
chapter topic; Chapter 281, p. 2183
for generations 世代 (shìdài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 325, p. 2539
for; in order to 为了 (wèile)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 235, p. 1849
for instance; such as 比如 (bǐrú)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 281, p. 2183
for many years 多年 (duōnián)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 343, p. 2675 for sure; without doubt kěndìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 352, p. 2739
for this reason; and so (written or careful speech) yīncǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 281, p. 2183
forehead étóu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 472, p. 3619
foreign country; abroad wàiguó
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 81, p. 691
foreign currency wàibì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 419, p. 3227
foreign language 外语 (wàiyǔ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 110, p. 927
forest sēnlín
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 226, p. 1781
forever yǒngyuǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 344, p. 2681
fork chāzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 170, p. 1391
formalities; procedure shǒuxù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 418, p. 3219
Forms
chapter topic; Chapter 455, p. 3495
Forms and Dates
chapter topic; Chapter 189, p. 1521
four 四 (sì)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology, usage and culture; Chapter 3, p. 25
Four Seasons
chapter topic; Chapter 131, p. 3931; Chapter 515, p. 3931

free (of charge) miǎnfèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 156, p. 1283
Free This Weekend
chapter topic; Chapter 163, p. 1339
Free Time
chapter topic; Chapter 56, p. 2121; Chapter 274, p. 2121
fresh xīnxiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 177, p. 1439
fridge; refrigerator bīngxiāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 87, p. 737
fried rice chǎofàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 161, p. 1325
friend péngyou
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 34, p. 329 friendly yǒuhǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 258, p. 2009 frightening; awful 可怕 (kěpà)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 463, p. 3549
from 从 (cóng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 155, p. 1271
from; away from (in distance) 离 (lí)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 205, p. 1637
from out of town; another part of the country 外地 (wàidì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 211, p. 1679
From Overseas
chapter topic; Chapter 433, p. 3329
From study to university student
chapter topic; Chapter 13, p. 121
from then on cóngcǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 345, p. 2687 front desk; reception qiántái
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 206, p. 1647
fruit shuǐguǒ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 40, p. 375
Fruit, Bread and Eggs
chapter topic; Chapter 40, p. 375
fruit juice guǒzhī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 102, p. 869
fruit tree 果树 (guǒshù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 516, p. 3939
fruits of work; achievements 成果 (chéngguǒ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 395, p. 3053
full mǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 134, p. 1099

full after eating; full up bǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 177, p. 1439
Full Already
chapter topic; Chapter 177, p. 1439
full marks mǎnfēn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 495, p. 3785
full name xìngmíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 455, p. 3495
full of life; vivacious huópō
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 467, p. 3581
full-price ticket 全票 (quánpiào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 432, p. 3323
full-time (of a job) 全职 (quánzhí)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 489, p. 3741
fully booked; with no vacancies kèmǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 426, p. 3281
fun; amusing yǒuqù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 277, p. 2139
funeral zànglǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 314, p. 2463
funny 好笑 (hǎoxiào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 267, p. 2071
furious; indignant fènnù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 464, p. 3559
furniture jiājù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 175, p. 1425

G

game yóuxì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 141, p. 1149
garden huāyuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 224, p. 1767
gè — the measure word, and the fact that a Mandarin number cannot touch a noun without one 个 (gè)
explicit focus: pronunciation, grammar, etymology; Chapter 24, p. 239 generally; as a rule; ordinary yìbān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 162, p. 1333 generous; open-handed dàfang
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 265, p. 2057
Gentle and Steady
chapter topic; Chapter 469, p. 3595

gentle in manner; soft-spoken 温和 (wēnhé)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 469, p. 3595 geography 地理 (dìlǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 492, p. 3763
get-together; party jùhuì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 173, p. 1411
Getting About
chapter topic; Chapter 72, p. 621
Getting Better
chapter topic; Chapter 483, p. 3701
Getting Engaged
chapter topic; Chapter 305, p. 2395
Getting Out
chapter topic; Chapter 301, p. 2365
Getting Ready
chapter topic; Chapter 164, p. 1347
Getting Results
chapter topic; Chapter 395, p. 3053
Getting Things Fixed
chapter topic; Chapter 208, p. 1661
Getting Washed
chapter topic; Chapter 99, p. 847
ghost 鬼 (guǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 332, p. 2591
Ghost Stories
chapter topic; Chapter 332, p. 2591
girl 女孩 (nǚhái)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 266, p. 2065
Give Me That
chapter topic; Chapter 89, p. 761
given that; now that jìrán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 396, p. 3061
glasses; spectacles yǎnjìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 233, p. 1837
gloves shǒutào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 221, p. 1747
go to school; attend school, built from known characters 上学 (shàngxué)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 15, p. 137
goalmouth; goal (in football) 球门 (qiúmén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 498, p. 3807
goat shānyáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 242, p. 1897

Going North
chapter topic; Chapter 422, p. 3249
Going South
chapter topic; Chapter 423, p. 3257
gold medal jīnpái
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 501, p. 3829
Gone but Remembered
chapter topic; Chapter 325, p. 2539
good evening 晚上好 (wǎnshang hǎo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 49, p. 447
good intentions; a kind thought 好意 (hǎoyì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 355, p. 2761
good-looking or nice to look at 好看 (hǎokàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 18, p. 171
good luck hǎoyùn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 337, p. 2629
Good Luck, Bad Luck
chapter topic; Chapter 529, p. 4035
good manners; politeness lǐmào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 358, p. 2783
Good Morning, and a Rule That Declines to Fire
chapter topic; Chapter 7, p. 67
good morning — and proof that 好 was a building block 早上好 (zǎoshang hǎo)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology; Chapter 7, p. 67
good-natured; pleasant to deal with 和气 (héqi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 468, p. 3589
good night wǎn'ān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 76, p. 655
Good Points
chapter topic; Chapter 468, p. 3589
Good Reasons
chapter topic; Chapter 385, p. 2979
good review; favourable comment hǎopíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 452, p. 3473
good value; worth it huásuàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 386, p. 2987
good, well 好 (hǎo)
explicit focus: pronunciation, script, etymology; Chapter 1, p. 1 goodbye — two characters whose meanings genuinely add up 再见 (zàijiàn)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology, usage and culture; Chapter 6, p. 59 government zhèngfǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 374, p. 2901

gradually; little by little jiànjiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 315, p. 2469
granddaughter sūnnǚ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 510, p. 3897
grandma on the father's side nǎinai
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 253, p. 1975
grandma on the mother's side wàipó
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 510, p. 3897
grandpa on the father's side yéye
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 253, p. 1975
grandpa on the mother's side 外公 (wàigōng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 272, p. 2107
Grandparents
chapter topic; Chapter 510, p. 3897
Grandparents and Relatives
chapter topic; Chapter 253, p. 1975
grandson sūnzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 510, p. 3897
grass cǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 68, p. 593
Grass and Lakes
chapter topic; Chapter 226, p. 1781
grassland; prairie cǎoyuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 226, p. 1781
greasy; oily yóunì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 449, p. 3449 great!; that's wonderful 太好了 (tài hǎo le)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 93, p. 797 green lǜ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 139, p. 1135
grey huī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 139, p. 1135
Grown-Ups and Children
chapter topic; Chapter 266, p. 2065
guest 客人 (kèrén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 74, p. 637
guitar jítā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 128, p. 1051

H

had better; it would be best to 最好 (zuìhǎo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 282, p. 2195

hái xíng — 'not bad', the honest middle answer between fine and tired hái xíng explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology, usage and culture, reading; Chapter 30, p. 293 hair dryer chuīfēngjī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 164, p. 1347
hair (on the head) tóufa
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 124, p. 1023
half bàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 48, p. 439
Half Price
chapter topic; Chapter 524, p. 3997
half price 半价 (bànjià)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 524, p. 3997
halfway; on the way 半路 (bànlù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 424, p. 3265
hand 手 (shǒu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 52, p. 467 handicraft; things made by hand 手工 (shǒugōng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 274, p. 2121
handsome shuài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 124, p. 1023
Happy and Sad
chapter topic; Chapter 252, p. 1969
happy; glad gāoxìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 51, p. 461
happy; in high spirits 开心 (kāixīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 252, p. 1969
Harbour and Deck
chapter topic; Chapter 412, p. 3179
hard lesson learned jiàoxun
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 356, p. 2767
hard problem; difficult question 难题 (nántí)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 495, p. 3785
hard seat yìngzuò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 404, p. 3119
hard; stiff yìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 134, p. 1099
hard-working; trying hard nǔlì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 249, p. 1945
harm; downside huàichu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 373, p. 2893
hat; cap màozi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 59, p. 519

have a safe journey yílù píng'ān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 213, p. 1693
Have, and Count
chapter topic; Chapter 24, p. 239
Have You Ever?
chapter topic; Chapter 261, p. 2031
Have You Ever Been?
chapter topic; Chapter 150, p. 1219
having a headache; aching in the head 头疼 (tóuténg)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 228, p. 1795
hé — 'and' between two nouns, and never between two sentences 和 (hé)
explicit focus: pronunciation, grammar, etymology; Chapter 27, p. 269
he; him 他 (tā)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 31, p. 305
He, She and We
chapter topic; Chapter 31, p. 305
head tóu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 52, p. 467
Head, Hands and Feet
chapter topic; Chapter 52, p. 467
head teacher; principal 校长 (xiàozhǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 248, p. 1935
Head to Knees
chapter topic; Chapter 475, p. 3643
Head to Toe
chapter topic; Chapter 230, p. 1811
Headlines
chapter topic; Chapter 293, p. 2305
health care; looking after one's health bǎojiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 483, p. 3701
Healthy Habits
chapter topic; Chapter 239, p. 1877
healthy; health jiànkāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 239, p. 1877
heartbeat xīntiào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 466, p. 3573
heavy 重 (zhòng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 134, p. 1099
Heavy and Soft
chapter topic; Chapter 134, p. 1099
Heavy Traffic
chapter topic; Chapter 409, p. 3157

height; build (of a person) 个子 (gèzi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 124, p. 1023
hello (literally "you good") 你好 (nǐ hǎo) explicit focus: grammar, etymology, usage and culture; Chapter 1, p. 1 hello on the phone wéi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 63, p. 2505
Help Arrives
chapter topic; Chapter 299, p. 2351
help!; the cry for help jiùmìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 298, p. 2343
Helping Others
chapter topic; Chapter 375, p. 2907
hěn hǎo — 'fine', the answer to how are you, and two third tones side by side 很好 (hěn hǎo)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology, usage and culture, reading; Chapter 30, p. 293
hěn — 'very', and the plain link Mandarin puts in front of an adjective 很 (hěn)
explicit focus: pronunciation, grammar, etymology; Chapter 30, p. 293
here 这儿 (zhèr)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 57, p. 503
hero yīngxióng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 327, p. 2555
Heroes and Emperors
chapter topic; Chapter 327, p. 2555
high-speed railway gāotiě
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 402, p. 3105
highway; main road 公路 (gōnglù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 421, p. 3241
historic site gǔjì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 430, p. 3309
history lìshǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 321, p. 2511
Hitting the Books
chapter topic; Chapter 249, p. 1945
Hobbies
chapter topic; Chapter 250, p. 1953
hobby àihào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 250, p. 1953
holiday; day off 假日 (jiàrì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 338, p. 2637
Holiday Plans
chapter topic; Chapter 184, p. 1487
Holidays
chapter topic; Chapter 137, p. 1119

holidays; time off jiàqī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 137, p. 1119
Home Again
chapter topic; Chapter 429, p. 3301
home cooking; everyday dishes 家常菜 (jiāchángcài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 182, p. 1473
home or family, now read and written 家 (jiā)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 12, p. 111
home town; family home lǎojiā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 184, p. 1487
hometown; native place jiāxiāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 342, p. 2667
homework zuòyè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 79, p. 677
honest chéngshí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 273, p. 2115
Honest and Careful
chapter topic; Chapter 273, p. 2115
honeymoon mìyuè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 307, p. 2409
Hoping for More
chapter topic; Chapter 532, p. 4057
horse 马 (mǎ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 67, p. 1761 hospitable 好客 (hàokè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 273, p. 2115
hospital yīyuàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 44, p. 405 hospital ward 病房 (bìngfáng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 241, p. 1889
host; owner zhǔrén
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 180, p. 1459
hot rè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 51, p. 461
hot and stuffy; muggy mēnrè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 218, p. 1725
hot topic; what everyone is talking about 热点 (rèdiǎn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 290, p. 2285
hotel bīnguǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 200, p. 3281
hotel guest room 客房 (kèfáng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 425, p. 3273
hotel lobby dàtáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 425, p. 3273

hotel star rating xīngjí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 426, p. 3281
hour 小时 (xiǎoshí)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 97, p. 835
house fángzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 57, p. 503
household; a family unit jiātíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 317, p. 2687 household appliance 家电 (jiādiàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 520, p. 3971
Housework
chapter topic; Chapter 133, p. 1091
housework jiāwù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 133, p. 1091 housing estate; residential compound 小区 (xiǎoqū)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 377, p. 2921
how absurd; curse it 见鬼 (jiànguǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 332, p. 2591
How Are You?
chapter topic; Chapter 30, p. 293
how are you, written from three characters already yours 你好吗 (nǐ hǎo ma)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 19, p. 185
How Far Is It?
chapter topic; Chapter 205, p. 1637
How Heavy?
chapter topic; Chapter 526, p. 4015
How I Feel
chapter topic; Chapter 458, p. 3515
how; in what way 怎么 (zěnme)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 283, p. 2207
How It Felt
chapter topic; Chapter 286, p. 2243
How It Turned Out
chapter topic; Chapter 294, p. 2313
how long (a time) duōjiǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 286, p. 2243
how many; a few jǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 48, p. 439
how much; how many 多少 (duōshao)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 41, p. 957
How Often
chapter topic; Chapter 162, p. 1333

how old (asking a person's age) 多大 (duō dà)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 78, p. 669
How People Look
chapter topic; Chapter 233, p. 1837
How You Feel
chapter topic; Chapter 51, p. 461
hubby; husband (informal) 老公 (lǎogōng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 272, p. 2107
huge crowds; a sea of people 人山人海 (rénshānrénhǎi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 433, p. 3329
humorous; witty (of a person) yōumò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 258, p. 2009 hungry è
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 38, p. 359
Husband and Wife
chapter topic; Chapter 272, p. 2107
hygiene; cleanliness wèishēng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 521, p. 3977

I

I'd Rather
chapter topic; Chapter 534, p. 4073
I Hope So
chapter topic; Chapter 533, p. 4065
I'm afraid that; probably kǒngpà
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 264, p. 2051
I, me — one word for both, and no change for either 我 (wǒ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 8, p. 75
I See What You Mean
chapter topic; Chapter 367, p. 2849
ice bīng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 221, p. 1747
idea; way of thinking 想法 (xiǎngfǎ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 349, p. 2715
ideal; aspiration 理想 (lǐxiǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 351, p. 2729 identity card shēnfènzhèng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 189, p. 1521
if 要是 (yàoshi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 288, p. 2263
if (closing a condition) 的话 (dehuà)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 288, p. 2263

If I Had the Time
chapter topic; Chapter 289, p. 2273
if; in case 如果 (rúguǒ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 289, p. 2273
If It Rains
chapter topic; Chapter 288, p. 2263
if it were not for 要不是 (yàobúshì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 541, p. 4123
If It Weren't for You
chapter topic; Chapter 541, p. 4123
If You're Willing
chapter topic; Chapter 535, p. 4079
immortal; supernatural being shénxiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 331, p. 2585
important 重要 (zhòngyào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 144, p. 1167
impression yìnxiàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 324, p. 2533
impressions afterwards; thoughts 感想 (gǎnxiǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 346, p. 2695
impulsive; rash chōngdòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 469, p. 3595
in a low voice; quietly xiǎoshēng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 363, p. 2915
in an awkward spot; torn (about what to do) 为难 (wéinán)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 397, p. 3069
In and Out
chapter topic; Chapter 183, p. 1481
In Case
chapter topic; Chapter 389, p. 3009
in case; if by any chance wànyī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 244, p. 1909
in childhood; when one was little xiǎoshíhou
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 78, p. 669
in front; ahead 前边 (qiánbian)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 111, p. 935
In Front and Behind
chapter topic; Chapter 111, p. 935
in front of someone; in someone's presence 面前 (miànqián)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 175, p. 1425
In Hospital
chapter topic; Chapter 241, p. 1889
in one's heart 心中 (xīnzhōng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 343, p. 2675

in short; in a word zǒngzhī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 370, p. 2873
in someone's lifetime; while they were alive 生前 (shēngqián)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 314, p. 2463
In the Bathroom
chapter topic; Chapter 105, p. 891
In the Cabin
chapter topic; Chapter 414, p. 3193
In the Country
chapter topic; Chapter 225, p. 1775
in the end; as a result; a result jiéguǒ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 187, p. 1505
in the future; some day jiānglái
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 148, p. 1197
In the Kitchen
chapter topic; Chapter 101, p. 861
in the middle of (doing) 正在 (zhèngzài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 149, p. 1209
In the News
chapter topic; Chapter 290, p. 2285
in the past; to go over (there) 过去 (guòqù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 150, p. 1219
In the Shop
chapter topic; Chapter 42, p. 391
in time; promptly; before it was too late jíshí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 299, p. 2351 incident; event (in the news) shìjiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 291, p. 2291
income shōurù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 387, p. 2995
incoming call 来电 (láidiàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 319, p. 2497
indeed; it is true that quèshí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 350, p. 2723
individuality; a strong personality 个性 (gèxìng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 467, p. 3581
Injuries
chapter topic; Chapter 478, p. 3663
inn; small hotel 旅店 (lǚdiàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 426, p. 3281
insect; bug chóngzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 242, p. 1897
inside; in lǐbian
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 85, p. 719

inside; in 里 (lǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 81, p. 691
Inside the Body
chapter topic; Chapter 477, p. 3657
insight; considered view 见解 (jiànjiě)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 367, p. 2849
insurance bǎoxiǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 297, p. 4109 intention; the purpose behind it 用意 (yòngyì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 372, p. 2887
interest; interest in something xìngqù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 250, p. 1953
interesting yǒuyìsi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 129, p. 1059 intermediate (in level) 中级 (zhōngjí)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 496, p. 3791
international guójì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 419, p. 3227 is it good, written from three characters already yours and no new shape at all 好不好 (hǎo bu hǎo)
explicit focus: grammar, etymology; Chapter 19, p. 185
Is It Serious?
chapter topic; Chapter 481, p. 3687
is not — and a pitch that moves to get out of the way 不是 (bú shì) explicit focus: etymology, usage and culture; Chapter 5, p. 51 is that so, written from two characters already yours 是吗 (shì ma)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 19, p. 185
Is There Any?
chapter topic; Chapter 87, p. 737
island 岛 (dǎo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 444, p. 3411
It Depends
chapter topic; Chapter 398, p. 3077
it doesn't matter; never mind méi guānxi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 217, p. 1717
it is said that; reportedly jùshuō
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 345, p. 2687
it is thanks to; luckily for duōkuī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 541, p. 4123
it may be that; perhaps yěxǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 256, p. 1997

It Might Rain
chapter topic; Chapter 147, p. 1187
it's nothing; to be all right 没事 (méishì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 167, p. 1369
it's time to; should (by now) 该 (gāi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 282, p. 2195
it seems; it looks as if 看来 (kànlai)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 256, p. 1997
it serves them right; serves you right 活该 (huógāi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 312, p. 2447
itinerary; plan for a trip xíngchéng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 428, p. 3295
itself (in itself) 本身 (běnshēn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 538, p. 4103

J

Jobs
chapter topic; Chapter 80, p. 685
Jobs Around the House
chapter topic; Chapter 174, p. 1419
joke 笑话 (xiàohua)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 267, p. 2071
journalist; reporter jìzhě
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 259, p. 2017
journey lǚtú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 429, p. 3301
joyful; happy 快乐 (kuàilè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 75, p. 647

K

Keep Going
chapter topic; Chapter 368, p. 2857
Keeping a Pet
chapter topic; Chapter 229, p. 1803
Keeping Calm
chapter topic; Chapter 466, p. 3573
Keeping Fit
chapter topic; Chapter 220, p. 1741
Keeping House
chapter topic; Chapter 521, p. 3977

Keeping It Clean
chapter topic; Chapter 443, p. 3403
Keeping Memories
chapter topic; Chapter 344, p. 2681
key yàoshi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 87, p. 737
key; crucial point guānjiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 370, p. 2873
kilogram gōngjīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 526, p. 4015
kilometre 公里 (gōnglǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 205, p. 1637
kind-hearted shànliáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 468, p. 3589
kind thoughts; a token of regard 心意 (xīnyì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 337, p. 2629
kindergarten; nursery school yòu'éryuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 303, p. 2381
king 国王 (guówáng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 330, p. 2577
kingdom 王国 (wángguó)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 330, p. 2577
kitchen chúfáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 101, p. 861 knee xīgài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 475, p. 3643
knife dāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 101, p. 861 knowledge zhīshi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 497, p. 3799

L

label; luggage tag biāoqiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 453, p. 3481
ladder tīzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 174, p. 1419
lake hú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 226, p. 1781
lamp; light dēng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 87, p. 737 landlord; landlady 房东 (fángdōng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 203, p. 1623

lane; alley (in an old city) hútòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 446, p. 3425
Language or country?
chapter topic; Chapter 17, p. 159
lantern dēnglóng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 335, p. 2613
Lanterns and Riddles
chapter topic; Chapter 335, p. 2613
last bus or train mòbānchē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 405, p. 3127
last; finally; in the end 最后 (zuìhòu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 278, p. 2147
last month 上个月 (shàng ge yuè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 148, p. 1197
Late Again
chapter topic; Chapter 145, p. 1173
late at night; the dead of night shēnyè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 169, p. 1383 lately; recently zuìjìn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 178, p. 1445
Laundry Day
chapter topic; Chapter 179, p. 1453
laundry shop 洗衣店 (xǐyīdiàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 215, p. 1705
law and order; public order zhì'ān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 379, p. 2935
law; the law fǎlǜ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 363, p. 2915
lawn; grassy ground 草地 (cǎodì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 226, p. 1781
lawyer lǜshī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 259, p. 2017
le after a verb: the event is finished — and this is aspect, not tense 了 (le)
explicit focus: grammar, etymology; Chapter 25, p. 249
Le — Finished, and Changed
chapter topic; Chapter 25, p. 249
lead story; headline; the front-page story tóutiáo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 293, p. 2305
leaf yèzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 237, p. 1865
Learning
chapter topic; Chapter 54, p. 483

Learning on Your Own
chapter topic; Chapter 497, p. 3799
leg tuǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 230, p. 1811
legend; folk tale 传说 (chuánshuō)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 328, p. 2561
lèi — 'tired', and asked with 吗 like any other statement lèi
explicit focus: pronunciation, grammar, etymology; Chapter 30, p. 293
lesson; class kè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 54, p. 483
let us hope that; if only 但愿 (dànyuàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 535, p. 4079
letter (in the post) xìn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 118, p. 983
Letters from Far Away
chapter topic; Chapter 318, p. 2491
Levels
chapter topic; Chapter 496, p. 3791
library túshūguǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 100, p. 855
Life and Death
chapter topic; Chapter 300, p. 2357
life; daily life shēnghuó
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 254, p. 1983 life jacket 救生衣 (jiùshēngyī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 411, p. 3171
lift; elevator diàntī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 192, p. 1545
light and mild (of food) qīngdàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 449, p. 3449
light bulb dēngpào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 174, p. 1419
light from the sun or a lamp 光 (guāng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 517, p. 3947
Light in the Dark
chapter topic; Chapter 517, p. 3947
lighthouse dēngtǎ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 444, p. 3411
lightning shǎndiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 514, p. 3925
like this; this way zhèyàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 127, p. 1043
Likes and Dislikes
chapter topic; Chapter 277, p. 2139

line of business; industry hángyè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 487, p. 3727
listeners; the people listening to the radio tīngzhòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 292, p. 2299
lively; bustling rènao
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 129, p. 1059
living room; sitting room kètīng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 159, p. 1311
local 本地 (běndì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 211, p. 1679
local flavour; distinctive taste 风味 (fēngwèi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 449, p. 3449
Local Food
chapter topic; Chapter 450, p. 3457
Local or From Out of Town
chapter topic; Chapter 211, p. 1679
local police station pàichūsuǒ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 308, p. 2417
Locked Up
chapter topic; Chapter 312, p. 2447
lonely; on one's own gūdān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 459, p. 3521
long 长 (cháng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 61, p. 533
Long Ago and Soon
chapter topic; Chapter 185, p. 1493
Long and Short
chapter topic; Chapter 61, p. 533
long-distance chángtú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 410, p. 3165
long holiday 长假 (chángjià)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 339, p. 2643
Long Trips
chapter topic; Chapter 410, p. 3165
Looking and reading
chapter topic; Chapter 18, p. 171
Looking Back
chapter topic; Chapter 317, p. 2687; Chapter 345, p. 2687
Looking for Work
chapter topic; Chapter 486, p. 3721
loose; baggy (of clothes) féi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 199, p. 1597
Losing My Temper
chapter topic; Chapter 464, p. 3559

Lost and Found
chapter topic; Chapter 456, p. 3501
Lost on the Way
chapter topic; Chapter 285, p. 2231
lottery ticket cǎipiào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 530, p. 4043
loudly; in a loud voice dàshēng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 362, p. 2811
Love and Kindness
chapter topic; Chapter 461, p. 3535
luckily; fortunately xìnghǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 236, p. 1857
lucky by a fluke jiǎoxìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 531, p. 4049
lucky; fortunate xìngyùn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 529, p. 4035
luggage xíngli
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 119, p. 989
luggage case; a travel case xínglixiāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 453, p. 3481
luggage rack xínglijià
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 406, p. 3135
lunar New Year's Eve Chúxī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 333, p. 2599
lunch 午饭 (wǔfàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 69, p. 601

M

mā má mǎ mà — one syllable, four words pronunciation topic; explicit focus: pronunciation, writing; Chapter 1, p. 1 magazine zázhì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 293, p. 2305
magic mófǎ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 331, p. 2585
magnificent; spectacular zhuàngguān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 435, p. 3343
main; chief zhǔyào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 541, p. 4123
major; field of study zhuānyè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 492, p. 3763
Making a Date
chapter topic; Chapter 388, p. 3001

Making It Clear
chapter topic; Chapter 369, p. 2865
male 男 (nán)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 33, p. 321
man 男人 (nánrén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 33, p. 321
manager jīnglǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 263, p. 2043
máng — 'busy', an adjective, so it takes 很 like 好 máng
explicit focus: pronunciation, grammar, etymology; Chapter 30, p. 293
many; much; a lot of 多 (duō)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 431, p. 3315
many thanks; thanks a lot 多谢 (duōxiè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 457, p. 3507
map dìtú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 211, p. 1679
market; marketplace 市场 (shìchǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 448, p. 3441
market stall tānwèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 448, p. 3441
Marks
chapter topic; Chapter 495, p. 3785
marriage; the bond of marriage hūnyīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 317, p. 2687
married couple; husband and wife fūqī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 507, p. 3873
Marrying and Parting
chapter topic; Chapter 307, p. 2409
match; competition bǐsài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 135, p. 1107 Match Day
chapter topic; Chapter 500, p. 3821
maths; mathematics shùxué
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 492, p. 3763
matter; affair 事情 (shìqing)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 459, p. 3521
may all go as you wish 万事如意 (wànshì rúyì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 534, p. 4073
may; can (with permission) kěyǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 90, p. 2025
may I trouble you (asking a favour) láojià
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 457, p. 3507
may your wishes all come true 心想事成 (xīnxiǎng shìchéng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 533, p. 4065

maybe; possibly kěnéng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 147, p. 1187
Me Too
chapter topic; Chapter 92, p. 787
Meals
chapter topic; Chapter 69, p. 601
meaning; what something means 意思 (yìsi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 347, p. 2701 measure word for a rainstorm; measure word for a game or a show 场 (chǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 416, p. 3205
measure word for a serving; portion fèn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 161, p. 1325
measure word for essays and stories piān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 251, p. 1959
measure word for long things (skirts, scarves, trousers, fish, roads) tiáo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 165, p. 1353 measure word for rooms 间 (jiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 181, p. 1465
meat ròu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 70, p. 609
meatless dish; vegetable dish sùcài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 451, p. 3465
medical check-up tǐjiǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 239, p. 1877
member of staff; employee (of a firm or factory) 职工 (zhígōng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 489, p. 3741
memory jìyì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 344, p. 2681
menu càidān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 92, p. 787
messy; in a mess luàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 362, p. 2811
microwave oven wēibōlú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 170, p. 1391
Mid-Autumn
chapter topic; Chapter 342, p. 2667
middle age 中年 (zhōngnián)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 266, p. 2065
middle school, built from known characters 中学 (zhōngxué)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 15, p. 137

middle-school student, built from known characters 中学生 (zhōngxuésheng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 15, p. 137
mild like spring all year round (of a place) 四季如春 (sìjì rú chūn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 519, p. 3963
milk niúnǎi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 39, p. 367
mindset; attitude of mind xīntài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 485, p. 3713 minute (a length of time) fēnzhōng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 143, p. 1161
minute; to divide fēn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 48, p. 439 mirror jìngzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 105, p. 891 miserable; unwell nánshòu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 222, p. 1755
misfortune; unfortunate búxìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 531, p. 4049
mishap; something unexpected 意外 (yìwài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 296, p. 2329
mistake; error cuòwù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 356, p. 2767
mobile phone 手机 (shǒujī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 58, p. 511 modern times; modern 现代 (xiàndài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 323, p. 2525
modest qiānxū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 358, p. 2783
Monday 星期一 (xīngqīyī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 46, p. 421 money qián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 41, p. 957
Money In, Money Out
chapter topic; Chapter 387, p. 2995
Money to Spend
chapter topic; Chapter 188, p. 1513
monkey hóuzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 223, p. 1761
monster; demon yāoguài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 331, p. 2585
Monsters and Treasure
chapter topic; Chapter 331, p. 2585

month; moon yuè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 47, p. 429
Months and Years
chapter topic; Chapter 47, p. 429
mood; frame of mind xīnqíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 245, p. 1915
Moods
chapter topic; Chapter 271, p. 2099
mooncake 月饼 (yuèbǐng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 341, p. 2659
Mooncakes
chapter topic; Chapter 341, p. 2659
moonlight yuèguāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 343, p. 2675 morality; ethics dàodé
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 359, p. 2791
More Housework
chapter topic; Chapter 142, p. 1155
more often than not; tends to wǎngwǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 185, p. 1493
more than usual; unusually 格外 (géwài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 525, p. 4005
More to Eat
chapter topic; Chapter 70, p. 609
morning — and a syllable with no tone at all 早上 (zǎoshang)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology; Chapter 7, p. 67
morning and evening; sooner or later 早晚 (zǎowǎn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 185, p. 1493 morning (before noon) 上午 (shàngwǔ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 49, p. 447
morning market; a market held at dawn 早市 (zǎoshì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 448, p. 3441
mosquito wénzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 242, p. 1897
most zuì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 140, p. 1141
most likely; eighty per cent 八成 (bāchéng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 385, p. 2979
mother and daughter 母女 (mǔnǚ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 509, p. 3889
mother (the formal word) 母亲 (mǔqīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 511, p. 3903
mother tongue 母语 (mǔyǔ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 509, p. 3889

motor vehicle; car qìchē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 406, p. 3135
mountain area 山区 (shānqū)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 437, p. 3359
mountain; hill 山 (shān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 68, p. 593 mountain village 山村 (shāncūn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 440, p. 3379
Mountains and Plains
chapter topic; Chapter 437, p. 3359
mouth 口 (kǒu)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology, usage and culture; Chapter 4, p. 41 mouth; beak zuǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 473, p. 3627
Moving House
chapter topic; Chapter 313, p. 2455
Moving On
chapter topic; Chapter 428, p. 3295
Moving the Dates
chapter topic; Chapter 400, p. 3091
Mr; sir; husband xiānsheng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 35, p. 337
Mum and Dad
chapter topic; Chapter 32, p. 313
mum; mother 妈妈 (māma)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 32, p. 313 museum bówùguǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 190, p. 1529
Music
chapter topic; Chapter 128, p. 1051
music 音乐 (yīnyuè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 128, p. 1051
Music and Shows
chapter topic; Chapter 257, p. 2003
Music on Stage
chapter topic; Chapter 506, p. 3867
musical instrument yuèqì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 257, p. 2003
must; it is required that 必须 (bìxū)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 362, p. 2811
My Day in Characters
chapter topic; Chapter 97, p. 835
My own line — the first Chinese with no model script and writing topic; explicit focus: writing; Chapter 97, p. 835

myth shénhuà
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 328, p. 2561

N

naive; innocent 天真 (tiānzhēn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 373, p. 2893
name — literally the characters a name is made of 名字 (míngzi)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology; Chapter 8, p. 75 national anthem 国歌 (guógē)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 504, p. 3851
National Day
chapter topic; Chapter 339, p. 2643
National Day 国庆 (Guóqìng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 339, p. 2643
natural; made by nature 天然 (tiānrán)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 441, p. 3387
natural resources zīyuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 384, p. 2971 naturally; nature 自然 (zìrán)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 316, p. 2477
nature reserve; protected area 保护区 (bǎohùqū)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 443, p. 3403
Ne and Dui
chapter topic; Chapter 26, p. 259
ne — the particle that hands the question back, and turns one word into a whole turn 呢 (ne)
explicit focus: grammar, etymology; Chapter 26, p. 259
near; close jìn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 62, p. 541 nearby; in the area fùjìn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 111, p. 935
nearly; almost chàdiǎnr
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 236, p. 1857
neat; orderly zhěngqí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 521, p. 3977
necessary 必要 (bìyào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 360, p. 2797
neck bózi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 476, p. 3651
Neck and Shoulders
chapter topic; Chapter 476, p. 3651

need not; there's no need to 不必 (búbì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 360, p. 2797 neighbour línjū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 176, p. 1433
nervous; tense jǐnzhāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 265, p. 2057
Never Mind
chapter topic; Chapter 217, p. 1717
new xīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 61, p. 533
new character; a character not yet learned 生字 (shēngzì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 251, p. 1959
new student 新生 (xīnshēng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 303, p. 2381
New Year's Eve
chapter topic; Chapter 333, p. 2599
New Year's Eve dinner niányèfàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 333, p. 2599
newborn; infant yīng'ér
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 302, p. 2373
news; a message xiāoxi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 157, p. 1293 newspaper; the daily paper 报 (bào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 293, p. 2305
next door gébì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 427, p. 3287
Next Month
chapter topic; Chapter 148, p. 1197
next month 下个月 (xià ge yuè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 148, p. 1197
next; straight after that jiēzhe
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 278, p. 2147
next time xià cì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 163, p. 1339
next to the window kàochuāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 414, p. 3193
next week 下星期 (xià xīngqī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 148, p. 1197
next year 明年 (míngnián)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 47, p. 429
Nǐ Hǎo — Hello, Character by Character
chapter topic; Chapter 1, p. 1
ní hǎo — why the greeting is not said the way it is written pronunciation topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 1, p. 1 nice to drink 好喝 (hǎohē)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 71, p. 3449
night market yèshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 449, p. 3449
night shift yèbān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 490, p. 3749
nightmare èmèng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 463, p. 3549
nine — third tone, and a dip you have had since ni 九 (jiǔ)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology; Chapter 20, p. 199
no matter what; whatever anyone says 死活 (sǐhuó)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 312, p. 2447
no matter (whether or how) bùguǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 396, p. 3061
No Need
chapter topic; Chapter 360, p. 2797
no wonder guàibude
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 235, p. 1849
Noise Next Door
chapter topic; Chapter 378, p. 2929
noisy 吵 (chǎo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 129, p. 1059
noodles miàntiáo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 70, p. 609
noon 中午 (zhōngwǔ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 49, p. 447
normal; as usual 正常 (zhèngcháng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 178, p. 1445
normally; usually tōngcháng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 162, p. 1333
North and South
chapter topic; Chapter 436, p. 3351
north and south 南北 (nánběi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 423, p. 3257
northeast; the Northeast (of China) 东北 (dōngběi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 422, p. 3249
northern part 北部 (běibù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 438, p. 3365
northwest; the Northwest (of China) 西北 (xīběi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 422, p. 3249
nose bízi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 230, p. 1811
Not Allowed
chapter topic; Chapter 364, p. 2827

not bad; pretty good búcuò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 152, p. 1241
not have; there is no 没有 (méiyǒu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 87, p. 737
not in the least; (not) at all gēnběn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 538, p. 4103
not necessarily 不见得 (bújiànde)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 353, p. 2745
not — the character that turns a word around 不 (bù)
explicit focus: pronunciation, grammar, etymology; Chapter 4, p. 41
notebook 本子 (běnzi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 104, p. 883
notes (taken in class) bǐjì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 497, p. 3799
novel; story (in a book) 小说 (xiǎoshuō)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 250, p. 1953
novice; beginner 新手 (xīnshǒu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 296, p. 2329
now xiànzài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 45, p. 413
now and then; occasionally ǒu'ěr
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 162, p. 1333
number (of a phone, a room); identifying number hàomǎ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 63, p. 2505
nurse hùshi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 231, p. 1821
nursery rhyme; children's song 儿歌 (érgē)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 504, p. 3851
nutrition; nourishment yíngyǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 483, p. 3701

O

o'clock; dot 点 (diǎn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 48, p. 439 occasion; setting chǎnghé
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 360, p. 2797
occupation; profession zhíyè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 259, p. 2017
Odds and Ends
chapter topic; Chapter 186, p. 1499 of course dāngrán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 217, p. 1717

of one's own free will; voluntary 自愿 (zìyuàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 535, p. 4079
of that place; in the place in question 当地 (dāngdì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 316, p. 2477
off season; quiet season dànjì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 432, p. 3323
office bàngōngshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 206, p. 1647
official receipt 发票 (fāpiào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 428, p. 3295
often chángcháng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 126, p. 1035
Often and Sometimes
chapter topic; Chapter 126, p. 1035
oh no; what a mess zāogāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 216, p. 1711
oil painting yóuhuà
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 502, p. 3835
old lǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 35, p. 337
old (of things); no longer new jiù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 62, p. 541
Old Ways
chapter topic; Chapter 340, p. 2651
Older Than Me
chapter topic; Chapter 153, p. 1251
on earth (in a question) dàodǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 372, p. 2887
On Foot
chapter topic; Chapter 447, p. 3433
On My Mind
chapter topic; Chapter 459, p. 3521
on one's way shùnlù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 429, p. 3301
on purpose; deliberately 故意 (gùyì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 309, p. 2425
on schedule (of a train or plane) 正点 (zhèngdiǎn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 403, p. 3111
On the Desk
chapter topic; Chapter 104, p. 883
On the Expressway
chapter topic; Chapter 421, p. 3241
On the Move
chapter topic; Chapter 107, p. 905

On the Phone
chapter topic; Chapter 63, p. 2505; Chapter 320, p. 2505
On the Pitch
chapter topic; Chapter 498, p. 3807
On the Radio
chapter topic; Chapter 292, p. 2299
On the Road
chapter topic; Chapter 424, p. 3265
on the spot; there and then dāngchǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 295, p. 2319
On the Staff
chapter topic; Chapter 489, p. 3741
On the Water
chapter topic; Chapter 411, p. 3171
on time; punctual zhǔnshí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 143, p. 1161
on top; above shàngbian
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 86, p. 727
on your person; on one's body 身上 (shēnshang)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 230, p. 1811
Once Again
chapter topic; Chapter 315, p. 2469
once (in the past); at one time céngjīng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 261, p. 2031
Once upon a Time
chapter topic; Chapter 329, p. 2569
once upon a time; in the past 从前 (cóngqián)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 178, p. 1445
one 一 (yī)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology; Chapter 3, p. 25
One Box, Two Characters, and the First Thing You Can Refuse
chapter topic; Chapter 4, p. 41
One Character, Two Courtesies
chapter topic; Chapter 10, p. 93
one half; half (of something) 一半 (yíbàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 140, p. 1141
One reason — a line of your own with 因为 and 所以
script and writing topic; explicit focus: writing; Chapter 281, p. 2183 one's close family; one's nearest and dearest 亲人 (qīnrén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 511, p. 3903
one's early years; long ago 早年 (zǎonián)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 322, p. 2519
one's elders; the older generation zhǎngbèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 507, p. 3873

one's later years; old age 晚年 (wǎnnián)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 322, p. 2519
one's nature; an inborn trait 天性 (tiānxìng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 467, p. 3581
one's own (by birth) 亲生 (qīnshēng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 511, p. 3903
one's superior at work 上司 (shàngsi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 491, p. 3755
one's taste in food 口味 (kǒuwèi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 449, p. 3449
One small step into school
chapter topic; Chapter 14, p. 131
One Thing Leads to Another
chapter topic; Chapter 538, p. 4103
One to Five — Where the Character Is the Count
chapter topic; Chapter 3, p. 25
one way (of a ticket or a trip) dānchéng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 284, p. 2219
oneself zìjǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 138, p. 1127
Online
chapter topic; Chapter 204, p. 1631
online friend wǎngyǒu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 345, p. 2687
only child dúshēngzǐnǚ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 508, p. 3881
Only If
chapter topic; Chapter 399, p. 3083
only if (with cái after it) 只有 (zhǐyǒu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 399, p. 3083
only then; not until 才 (cái)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 313, p. 2455
Opening Hours
chapter topic; Chapter 122, p. 1009
opponent; rival 对手 (duìshǒu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 262, p. 2037
opposite; across from duìmiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 82, p. 699 optimistic lèguān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 465, p. 3565
or (in a question) 还是 (háishi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 154, p. 1261
or (in a statement) huòzhě
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 154, p. 1261

oral exam 口试 (kǒushì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 268, p. 2079
orchard guǒyuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 439, p. 3373
Ordering Online
chapter topic; Chapter 527, p. 4023
origin qǐyuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 345, p. 2687
originally; at first 本来 (běnlái)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 269, p. 2085
originally planned yuándìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 400, p. 3091
osmanthus flowers guìhuā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 342, p. 2667
other people biérén
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 138, p. 1127
other; the others qítā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 138, p. 1127
otherwise; or else 不然 (bùrán)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 289, p. 2273
Our Neighbourhood
chapter topic; Chapter 377, p. 2921
Out in Nature
chapter topic; Chapter 519, p. 3963
Out in Public
chapter topic; Chapter 363, p. 2915; Chapter 376, p. 2915
Out in the Hills
chapter topic; Chapter 246, p. 1921
Out in the Open
chapter topic; Chapter 441, p. 3387
Out of Town
chapter topic; Chapter 68, p. 593
outside wàibian
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 85, p. 719 outside class; extracurricular 课外 (kèwài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 497, p. 3799 outstanding; excellent 出色 (chūsè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 451, p. 3465
overcast day yīntiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 136, p. 1113
overcoat; coat 大衣 (dàyī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 165, p. 1353 overseas; beyond the sea 海外 (hǎiwài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 433, p. 3329

overseas Chinese; a Chinese person settled abroad huáqiáo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 433, p. 3329
overweight; over the weight limit chāozhòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 418, p. 3219
owing to; because of yóuyú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 235, p. 1849
Owning Up
chapter topic; Chapter 357, p. 2775

P

pain; ache téngtòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 476, p. 3651
painter (an artist) 画家 (huàjiā)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 502, p. 3835
Painting
chapter topic; Chapter 502, p. 3835
paper zhǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 104, p. 883 paper napkin cānjīnzhǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 452, p. 3473
papers; an identity document zhèngjiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 285, p. 2231
parcel; package bāoguǒ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 118, p. 983
Parents
chapter topic; Chapter 509, p. 3889
parents; one's mother and father 父母 (fùmǔ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 509, p. 3889
park gōngyuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 100, p. 855
Parking
chapter topic; Chapter 420, p. 3235
parking space chēwèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 420, p. 3235
part; section (of a whole) bùfen
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 438, p. 3365
Parting
chapter topic; Chapter 76, p. 655 passenger chéngkè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 402, p. 3105 passenger ship 客船 (kèchuán)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 412, p. 3179

passer-by; stranger in the street 路人 (lùrén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 456, p. 3501 passport hùzhào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 116, p. 971
password; PIN mìmǎ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 195, p. 1567
past events; things of the past wǎngshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 344, p. 2681
patient; sick person 病人 (bìngrén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 130, p. 1883
patient with people nàixīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 258, p. 2009
pavement; sidewalk rénxíngdào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 447, p. 3433
pay and conditions (of a job) dàiyù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 486, p. 3721
pay; wages gōngzī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 255, p. 1989
Paying
chapter topic; Chapter 41, p. 957; Chapter 114, p. 957
peak (of traffic); rush hour gāofēng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 409, p. 3157
peak season; busy season wàngjì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 430, p. 3309
peanut 花生 (huāshēng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 237, p. 1865
pedestrian street; a street closed to cars bùxíngjiē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 447, p. 3433
pen bǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 104, p. 883 pen pal bǐyǒu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 318, p. 2491
pencil qiānbǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 104, p. 883 peninsula 半岛 (bàndǎo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 444, p. 3411
People and Government
chapter topic; Chapter 374, p. 2901
People of Long Ago
chapter topic; Chapter 321, p. 2511
People under one roof
chapter topic; Chapter 12, p. 111
perhaps; who knows shuōbudìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 244, p. 1909

period (during which); during 期间 (qījiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 342, p. 2667
period; phase 时期 (shíqī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 323, p. 2525 person 人 (rén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 12, p. 111 personality; character xìnggé
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 258, p. 2009
personally (doing it oneself) 亲自 (qīnzì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 511, p. 3903
pessimistic bēiguān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 465, p. 3565
pet chǒngwù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 229, p. 1803
petty; narrow-minded 小心眼 (xiǎoxīnyǎn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 471, p. 3611
phone charges huàfèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 319, p. 2497
phone signal xìnhào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 198, p. 1589
Phones and Messages
chapter topic; Chapter 198, p. 1589
photo album xiàngcè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 344, p. 2681
photo; photograph zhàopiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 109, p. 919
physical education (a school subject) tǐyù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 498, p. 3807 physical strength 力气 (lìqi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 474, p. 3635
piano gāngqín
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 110, p. 927
pier; wharf mǎtou
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 411, p. 3171
pig zhū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 242, p. 1897
pillow zhěntou
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 181, p. 1465
pink fěnhóng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 139, p. 1135
place dìfang
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 81, p. 691
place; venue 地点 (dìdiǎn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 207, p. 1653

Places in Town
chapter topic; Chapter 44, p. 405
plain; flat open land píngyuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 437, p. 3359
plan jìhuà
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 207, p. 1653
plane's captain; pilot in command 机长 (jīzhǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 413, p. 3185
plane ticket 机票 (jīpiào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 196, p. 1573
Plans for the Future
chapter topic; Chapter 401, p. 3097
plant zhíwù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 237, p. 1865
Plants
chapter topic; Chapter 237, p. 1865
plastic bag sùliàodài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 186, p. 1499 plate; dish pánzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 101, p. 861
plateau; highland gāoyuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 437, p. 3359
pleasant; cheerful yúkuài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 247, p. 1927
pleasant surprise jīngxǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 462, p. 3543
pleasant to hear hǎotīng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 128, p. 1051
pleasantly cool liángkuai
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 136, p. 1113 pleasantly warm; mild nuǎnhuo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 218, p. 1725
please — a word you can say on its own, and a frame waiting to be filled 请 (qǐng)
explicit focus: etymology, usage and culture; Chapter 11, p. 103 pleasure boat 游船 (yóuchuán)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 431, p. 3315
point of view; standpoint guāndiǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 346, p. 2695
police car 警车 (jǐngchē)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 311, p. 2439
police officer; the police jǐngchá
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 216, p. 1711

pond chítáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 246, p. 1921
poor (having little money) qióng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 375, p. 2907
popular; all the rage 热门 (rèmén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 274, p. 2121
population 人口 (rénkǒu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 374, p. 2901
port; harbour gǎngkǒu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 412, p. 3179
Post and Parcels
chapter topic; Chapter 201, p. 1611
post office yóujú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 100, p. 855
postage stamp yóupiào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 201, p. 1611
postcard míngxìnpiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 318, p. 2491
postcode yóubiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 345, p. 2687
pot; pan; wok guō
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 170, p. 1391
Pots and Pans
chapter topic; Chapter 170, p. 1391
power socket chāzuò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 426, p. 3281
present; gift lǐwù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 75, p. 647
presenter; host of a show zhǔchírén
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 290, p. 2285
Pressure at Work
chapter topic; Chapter 490, p. 3749
pressure; stress yālì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 485, p. 3713
pretty; good-looking piàoliang
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 59, p. 519
price jiàqián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 156, p. 1283
Price List
chapter topic; Chapter 156, p. 1283
prices; the cost of living wùjià
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 524, p. 3997
Prices Up and Down
chapter topic; Chapter 193, p. 1551

primary school, built from known characters 小学 (xiǎoxué)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 14, p. 131

primary-school student, built from known characters 小学生 (xiǎoxuésheng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 14, p. 131

prince 王子 (wángzǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 330, p. 2577

princess gōngzhǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 329, p. 2569

principle yuánzé
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 371, p. 2879

prison jiānyù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 312, p. 2447

private tutor 家教 (jiājiào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 493, p. 3769

production cost; cost 成本 (chéngběn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 384, p. 2971

programme; TV show jiémù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 267, p. 2071

pronunciation; how a character is read 读音 (dúyīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 249, p. 1945

property management; the management office wùyè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 378, p. 2929

Pros and Cons
chapter topic; Chapter 373, p. 2893

prospects; future (of a person or job) qiántú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 401, p. 3097

prosperous; flourishing 红火 (hónghuǒ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 334, p. 2605

proud; full of oneself jiāo'ào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 470, p. 3605

public holiday 节假日 (jiéjiàrì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 432, p. 3323

public; shared by everyone gōnggòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 360, p. 2797

public square guǎngchǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 194, p. 1559

public transport 公交 (gōngjiāo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 408, p. 3149

Pulling In
chapter topic; Chapter 407, p. 3141

pupil's parent; parent of a schoolchild 家长 (jiāzhǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 248, p. 1935

purple zǐsè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 210, p. 1673
Putting two pieces together — and reading the result script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 2, p. 11

Q

quality zhìliàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 193, p. 1551 queen (a king's wife) 王后 (wánghòu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 330, p. 2577
question; problem wèntí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 214, p. 1699
quickly; hurry gǎnkuài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 145, p. 1173
quiet ānjìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 129, p. 1059
Quiet and Noisy
chapter topic; Chapter 129, p. 1059
quilt; duvet bèizi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 181, p. 1465

R

rabbit; hare tùzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 223, p. 1761
radio station diàntái
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 290, p. 2285
railway carriage chēxiāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 402, p. 3105
railway station huǒchēzhàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 73, p. 3105
rain 雨 (yǔ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 66, p. 577
Rain or Shine
chapter topic; Chapter 234, p. 1843
rainbow cǎihóng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 238, p. 1871
raincoat 雨衣 (yǔyī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 234, p. 1843
rainy season 雨季 (yǔjì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 515, p. 3931

rapid; high-speed 快速 (kuàisù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 422, p. 3249
rare; hard to come by 难得 (nándé)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 397, p. 3069
Reading — Characters, Words, and a First Passage
chapter topic; Chapter 29, p. 289
Reading the Greeting — One Piece at a Time
chapter topic; Chapter 2, p. 11
ready-made 现成 (xiànchéng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 398, p. 3077
real; genuine 真正 (zhēnzhèng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 358, p. 2783
Real Manners
chapter topic; Chapter 358, p. 2783
really; truly zhēn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 77, p. 663
reason; cause yuányīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 145, p. 1173
reason; grounds lǐyóu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 235, p. 1849 reasonable; in the right 有理 (yǒulǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 351, p. 2729 receipt shōujù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 202, p. 1617
red hóng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 60, p. 525
red envelope 红包 (hóngbāo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 334, p. 2605
Red Envelopes
chapter topic; Chapter 334, p. 2605
region; area (of a country) 地区 (dìqū)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 398, p. 3077
regularly; often jīngcháng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 162, p. 1333
relative; family member qīnqi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 253, p. 1975
relaxed; light and easy qīngsōng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 458, p. 3515
Remembering
chapter topic; Chapter 324, p. 2533
remote control yáokòngqì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 171, p. 1399
rent for a home fángzū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 203, p. 1623

Renting a Flat
chapter topic; Chapter 203, p. 1623
reply; echo 回音 (huíyīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 318, p. 2491
resident (of a place) jūmín
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 377, p. 2921
resistance to illness dǐkànglì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 484, p. 3707
responsibility; blame zérèn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 297, p. 4109
restaurant fàndiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 44, p. 405 restaurant fànguǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 182, p. 1473
results; marks chéngjì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 249, p. 1945
return journey; the journey back huíchéng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 428, p. 3295
Rice and Meat
chapter topic; Chapter 161, p. 1325
rice paddy; paddy field dàotián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 439, p. 3373
rich; well-off 有钱 (yǒuqián)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 188, p. 1513
riddle míyǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 335, p. 2613
ridiculous; laughable 可笑 (kěxiào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 367, p. 2849
Right Now
chapter topic; Chapter 149, p. 1209
right; suitable; a good fit héshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 108, p. 911
risk fēngxiǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 389, p. 3009
river 河 (hé)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 442, p. 3395 road; a street for traffic 马路 (mǎlù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 194, p. 1559
road conditions lùkuàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 423, p. 3257
road sign lùbiāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 424, p. 3265
road; way lù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 72, p. 621

Roads and Crossings
chapter topic; Chapter 194, p. 1559
romantic love; love between a couple 爱情 (àiqíng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 461, p. 3535
room fángjiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 57, p. 503 room key card fángkǎ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 425, p. 3273
room with a double bed dàchuángfáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 426, p. 3281
Rooms at Home
chapter topic; Chapter 159, p. 1311
round yuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 139, p. 1135
round trip 来回 (láihuí)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 406, p. 3135
route lùxiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 197, p. 1581
rubbish lājī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 142, p. 1155
rubbish bin lājītǒng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 186, p. 1499 rule; regulation guīdìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 209, p. 1667
Rules
chapter topic; Chapter 359, p. 2791
Rules and Notices
chapter topic; Chapter 209, p. 1667
rules of a game; set procedure guīzé
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 359, p. 2791
rules of conduct; manners guījù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 340, p. 2651
Running Late
chapter topic; Chapter 83, p. 705

S

sad; heartbroken shāngxīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 252, p. 1969
sad; upset nánguò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 125, p. 1029
safe; safety ānquán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 209, p. 1667

salty xián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 71, p. 3449
Same Here
chapter topic; Chapter 352, p. 2739
sandy beach shātān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 227, p. 1789
satisfied; pleased mǎnyì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 252, p. 1969
Saving Energy
chapter topic; Chapter 383, p. 2965
savings (in the bank) cúnkuǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 387, p. 2995
Saying Goodbye
chapter topic; Chapter 314, p. 2463
Saying Sorry
chapter topic; Chapter 275, p. 2127
Saying Who You Are
chapter topic; Chapter 8, p. 75
scar shāngbā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 479, p. 3671
Scared
chapter topic; Chapter 463, p. 3549
scarf wéijīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 165, p. 1353
scary; giving people a fright xiàrén
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 463, p. 3549
scenery; landscape fēngjǐng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 226, p. 1781
scenic area jǐngqū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 430, p. 3309
scheduled flight hángbān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 196, p. 1573
school xuéxiào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 43, p. 397
School Subjects
chapter topic; Chapter 492, p. 3763
school term; semester 学期 (xuéqī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 248, p. 1935
schoolbag 书包 (shūbāo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 119, p. 989
scientist kēxuéjiā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 488, p. 3735
scissors jiǎndāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 186, p. 1499

Screens
chapter topic; Chapter 109, p. 919 script; written language 文字 (wénzì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 321, p. 2511
Sea and Sky
chapter topic; Chapter 238, p. 1871
sea wave; a wave of the sea hǎilàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 445, p. 3419
seafood hǎixiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 450, p. 3457
seashell bèiké
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 445, p. 3419
season jìjié
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 131, p. 3931
seat belt ānquándài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 414, p. 3193
Second-Hand
chapter topic; Chapter 386, p. 2987
second-hand 二手 (èrshǒu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 386, p. 2987
second (of time) miǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 143, p. 1161
secondly; second in order qícì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 369, p. 2865
secretary mìshū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 491, p. 3755 security camera; CCTV jiānkòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 382, p. 2957 security check 安检 (ānjiǎn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 415, p. 3199
security guard 保安 (bǎo'ān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 382, p. 2957
See You Again
chapter topic; Chapter 6, p. 59
see you tomorrow 明天见 (míngtiān jiàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 76, p. 655
Seeing a Doctor
chapter topic; Chapter 231, p. 1821
Seeing Friends Off
chapter topic; Chapter 336, p. 2621
Seeing the Sights
chapter topic; Chapter 430, p. 3309
Seen and Understood
chapter topic; Chapter 151, p. 1229

self-confident; sure of oneself 自信 (zìxìn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 465, p. 3565
selfish zìsī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 470, p. 3605
seller 卖家 (màijiā)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 523, p. 3989
Sending Things
chapter topic; Chapter 118, p. 983
senior high school 高中 (gāozhōng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 248, p. 1935 sense; the reason something makes sense 道理 (dàoli)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 353, p. 2745
sensible; grown-up for one's age (of a child) dǒngshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 508, p. 3881
serious injury; badly hurt 重伤 (zhòngshāng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 478, p. 3663 serious (of illness); serious (of a problem) yánzhòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 228, p. 1795 service desk; information desk fúwùtái
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 454, p. 3487
Services in Town
chapter topic; Chapter 212, p. 1687
settled; stable 安定 (āndìng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 400, p. 3091
seven — first tone, and a consonant English does not have 七 (qī)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology; Chapter 20, p. 199
she; her tā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 31, p. 305
ship's cabin chuáncāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 412, p. 3179
ship's captain 船长 (chuánzhǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 411, p. 3171
ship's deck jiǎbǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 412, p. 3179
shoe xié
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 59, p. 519
shop shāngdiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 42, p. 391
shop assistant shòuhuòyuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 525, p. 4005
shopping centre shāngchǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 190, p. 1529
Shops in Town
chapter topic; Chapter 190, p. 1529

short in height; low ǎi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 61, p. 533
short in length; brief duǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 61, p. 533
short-sighted jìnshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 471, p. 3611
should; ought to 应该 (yīnggāi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 282, p. 2195
shoulder jiānbǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 476, p. 3651
shy; bashful hàixiū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 265, p. 2057
Shy or Brave
chapter topic; Chapter 265, p. 2057
sick leave 病假 (bìngjià)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 263, p. 2043
side; beside pángbiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 81, p. 691
sight; place of interest jǐngdiǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 207, p. 1653
significance; meaning yìyì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 347, p. 2701
Signs in a Building
chapter topic; Chapter 192, p. 1545
simple jiǎndān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 144, p. 1167
simultaneously; at the same moment 同时 (tóngshí)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 372, p. 2887
since childhood; since I was little 从小 (cóngxiǎo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 269, p. 2085
since; ever since 自从 (zìcóng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 308, p. 2417 sincere; from the bottom of your heart 真心 (zhēnxīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 358, p. 2783
singer gēshǒu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 257, p. 2003
single room dānrénjiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 200, p. 3281
sisters jiěmèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 508, p. 3881
situation; how things stand qíngkuàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 294, p. 2313
Six lines to a friend, a story with advice at the end
script and writing topic; explicit focus: writing; Chapter 289, p. 2273

six — the sixth number, and the first one past where this book stopped 六 (liù)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology; Chapter 20, p. 199
Six to Ten, and the Character That Was Already Here
chapter topic; Chapter 20, p. 199
size 大小 (dàxiǎo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 108, p. 911
Sizes
chapter topic; Chapter 199, p. 1597
skill; technique jìshù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 260, p. 2025
skill; what someone is capable of 本事 (běnshi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 260, p. 2025
skilled tradesman; master (and how you address one) shīfu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 208, p. 1661
skin pífū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 233, p. 1837
skirt qúnzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 165, p. 1353
Sleeping and Waking
chapter topic; Chapter 50, p. 455
sleeping berth wòpù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 404, p. 3119
slim; slender miáotiao
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 233, p. 1837
sloppy; slapdash mǎhu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 470, p. 3605
slow màn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 53, p. 475
slow-witted; clumsy bèn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 470, p. 3605
small change; loose coins língqián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 188, p. 1513
small; little, now read and written 小 (xiǎo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 14, p. 131
smelling good; fragrant; tasty xiāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 172, p. 1405 smooth; without a hitch shùnlì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 393, p. 3039
snack; street food 小吃 (xiǎochī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 182, p. 1473
snake shé
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 242, p. 1897

snow xuě
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 66, p. 577
Snow and Ice
chapter topic; Chapter 221, p. 1747
snowflake 雪花 (xuěhuā)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 243, p. 1903
snowman 雪人 (xuěrén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 221, p. 1747
so; and then (as a result) yúshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 294, p. 2313
so as not to; lest miǎnde
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 538, p. 4103
so as to guard against; as a precaution yǐfáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 389, p. 3009
so (it turns out); as it turns out 原来 (yuánlái)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 537, p. 4095
so; that (much) 那么 (nàme)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 153, p. 1251
So That's Why
chapter topic; Chapter 540, p. 4117
so; therefore suǒyǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 96, p. 827
so; this much; like this 这么 (zhème)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 280, p. 2173
soap féizào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 105, p. 891
social worker 社工 (shègōng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 376, p. 2915
society 社会 (shèhuì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 375, p. 2907
sofa shāfā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 175, p. 1425
Sofa and Shelves
chapter topic; Chapter 175, p. 1425
soft ruǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 134, p. 1099
soft sleeper ruǎnwò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 407, p. 3141
solar energy; solar power 太阳能 (tàiyángnéng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 518, p. 3955
solar term 节气 (jiéqì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 340, p. 2651
some; a few 一些 (yìxiē)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 127, p. 1043

some other day; another time gǎitiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 234, p. 1843
something else; other biéde
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 92, p. 787
Something Has Gone Wrong
chapter topic; Chapter 216, p. 1711
Something Needs Fixing
chapter topic; Chapter 522, p. 3983
Something New
chapter topic; Chapter 291, p. 2291
Something Odd
chapter topic; Chapter 236, p. 1857
something on your mind; a worry 心事 (xīnshì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 271, p. 2099
something said in anger 气话 (qìhuà)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 357, p. 2775
Something to Drink
chapter topic; Chapter 102, p. 869
something to look forward to pàntou
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 536, p. 4087
sometimes yǒushíhou
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 126, p. 1035
son, now read and written 儿子 (érzi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 12, p. 111
song gē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 128, p. 1051
Songs
chapter topic; Chapter 504, p. 3851
sons and daughters; children 子女 (zǐnǚ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 253, p. 1975
sore; painful téng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 130, p. 1883
sorry 对不起 (duìbuqǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 64, p. 1699
Sorry, I Can't
chapter topic; Chapter 264, p. 2051
sorry; regretful bàoqiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 264, p. 2051
sound; voice; noise shēngyīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 167, p. 1369
soundproofing; soundproof géyīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 378, p. 2929
soup tāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 70, p. 609

sour suān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 172, p. 1405 southeast 东南 (dōngnán)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 423, p. 3257
southwest; the Southwest (of China) 西南 (xīnán)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 423, p. 3257
souvenir jìniànpǐn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 247, p. 1927
spare (kept for when needed) bèiyòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 389, p. 3009
Speaking and Hearing
chapter topic; Chapter 53, p. 475
special character; speciality 特色 (tèsè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 451, p. 3465
special; especially tèbié
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 144, p. 1167
special offer; reduced price tèjià
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 193, p. 1551
Specialities
chapter topic; Chapter 451, p. 3465
specially; for that very purpose 特意 (tèyì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 450, p. 3457
speed of a vehicle 车速 (chēsù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 421, p. 3241
speed per hour 时速 (shísù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 424, p. 3265
spicy; hot là
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 71, p. 3449
Spoiling the Fun
chapter topic; Chapter 465, p. 3565
spoon; ladle sháozi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 170, p. 1391
Sport
chapter topic; Chapter 135, p. 1107 sport; exercise yùndòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 56, p. 2121
sports fan qiúmí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 274, p. 2121
sports ground; pitch; court 球场 (qiúchǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 498, p. 3807
spring 春天 (chūntiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 131, p. 3931
Spring Festival couplets chūnlián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 334, p. 2605

Spring Flowers
chapter topic; Chapter 224, p. 1767
spring outing 春游 (chūnyóu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 431, p. 3315
square dancing guǎngchǎngwǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 376, p. 2915
stage (in a theatre) wǔtái
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 505, p. 3859
stairs; staircase lóutī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 112, p. 943 stairwell; corridor (in a block of flats) lóudào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 379, p. 2935
stamina; physical fitness 体力 (tǐlì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 474, p. 3635
standard to measure by biāozhǔn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 364, p. 2827
star 星星 (xīngxing)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 68, p. 593
star; celebrity 明星 (míngxīng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 267, p. 2071
star player; sports star 球星 (qiúxīng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 501, p. 3829
starlight 星光 (xīngguāng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 517, p. 3947
Starting Over
chapter topic; Chapter 295, p. 2319
starting point 起点 (qǐdiǎn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 408, p. 3149
Starting School
chapter topic; Chapter 304, p. 2387
state of mind; psychology 心理 (xīnlǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 351, p. 2729 station; stop 车站 (chēzhàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 106, p. 897 station waiting room hòuchēshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 403, p. 3111
stationmaster; head of a station 站长 (zhànzhǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 403, p. 3111
Staying Well
chapter topic; Chapter 484, p. 3707
steady; calm and reliable wěnzhòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 469, p. 3595
steamed bun bāozi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 70, p. 609

Steamed or Fried
chapter topic; Chapter 168, p. 1377
stepmother 后妈 (hòumā)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 509, p. 3889
still; yet 还 (hái)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 154, p. 1261
stingy; mean (with money) 小气 (xiǎoqì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 265, p. 2057
stomach and gut; digestion chángwèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 477, p. 3657
stone; rock shítou
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 246, p. 1921
Stops and Stations
chapter topic; Chapter 106, p. 897
story gùshi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 250, p. 1953
straight on; all the way yìzhí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 197, p. 1581
strange; odd qíguài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 216, p. 1711
stranger 生人 (shēngrén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 378, p. 2929
Strength
chapter topic; Chapter 474, p. 3635
strong point; merit yōudiǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 372, p. 2887
strong; tough (in spirit) jiānqiáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 468, p. 3589
stubborn gùzhí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 470, p. 3605
student, now read and written 学生 (xuésheng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 13, p. 121
study; a room for books and work 书房 (shūfáng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 159, p. 1311 study; learn, now read and written 学 (xué)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 13, p. 121
style; design kuǎnshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 210, p. 1673
subordinate; someone under one at work xiàshǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 491, p. 3755
suburbs; outskirts jiāoqū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 441, p. 3387
Success or Failure
chapter topic; Chapter 394, p. 3047

suddenly; all of a sudden 突然 (tūrán)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 279, p. 2159
sugar; sweets táng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 168, p. 1377
suì — years of age, and the sentence that says how old you are without a verb in it 岁 (suì)
explicit focus: pronunciation, grammar, etymology; Chapter 27, p. 269
summer xiàtiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 131, p. 3931
sun tàiyang
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 68, p. 593
sun, and also day 日 (rì)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology, usage and culture; Chapter 4, p. 41
Sunday 星期天 (xīngqītiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 46, p. 421
sunny day; fine weather qíngtiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 136, p. 1113
sunrise 日出 (rìchū)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 435, p. 3343
sunscreen fángshàishuāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 444, p. 3411
Sunshine
chapter topic; Chapter 518, p. 3955
sunshine 阳光 (yángguāng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 518, p. 3955
supermarket chāoshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 100, p. 855
supposing that 假如 (jiǎrú)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 534, p. 4073
sure enough; as expected 果然 (guǒrán)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 301, p. 2365
Surely Not
chapter topic; Chapter 397, p. 3069
surely not (in a question) 难道 (nándào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 397, p. 3069
surgical operation shǒushù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 241, p. 1889 surprised; taken aback chījīng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 271, p. 2099
Surprises
chapter topic; Chapter 462, p. 3543
surroundings; the area around zhōuwéi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 377, p. 2921

sweater; jumper máoyī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 165, p. 1353
sweet tián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 71, p. 3449
Sweet and Sour
chapter topic; Chapter 172, p. 1405
sweet bean paste dòushā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 341, p. 2659
swindler; con man piànzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 309, p. 2425
Switching Things On
chapter topic; Chapter 171, p. 1399
swollen zhǒng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 240, p. 1883
Symptoms
chapter topic; Chapter 480, p. 3679

T

table zhuōzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 57, p. 503
table tennis; ping-pong pīngpāngqiú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 262, p. 2037
tablet; pill yàopiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 482, p. 3695
Take Care
chapter topic; Chapter 245, p. 1915
Take My Advice
chapter topic; Chapter 366, p. 2843
Takeaway
chapter topic; Chapter 120, p. 997
takeaway; food delivered wàimài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 120, p. 997
Talking It Over
chapter topic; Chapter 348, p. 2709
Tall and Handsome
chapter topic; Chapter 124, p. 1023
tall; high gāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 61, p. 533
taste; flavour wèidao
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 172, p. 1405
Tastes
chapter topic; Chapter 71, p. 3449; Chapter 449, p. 3449

tasting bad; horrible to eat nánchī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 177, p. 1439
tasty; good to eat 好吃 (hǎochī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 69, p. 601
taxi chūzūchē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 44, p. 405
tea chá
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 39, p. 367
tea leaves cháyè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 166, p. 1361
Tea Time
chapter topic; Chapter 166, p. 1361
teacher lǎoshī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 35, p. 337
Teaching and Practising
chapter topic; Chapter 121, p. 1003
teacup 茶杯 (chábēi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 170, p. 1391
team captain; team leader duìzhǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 499, p. 3815
tears yǎnlèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 471, p. 3611
teenage boy; teenager 少年 (shàonián)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 323, p. 2525
telephone; phone call 电话 (diànhuà)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 63, p. 2505
television diànshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 109, p. 919
Telling the Time
chapter topic; Chapter 48, p. 439
temper; anger 火气 (huǒqì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 464, p. 3559
temper; temperament píqi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 467, p. 3581
temperature wēndù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 243, p. 1903
ten — and the last of the ten words that build every number to ninety-nine 十 (shí)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology; Chapter 20, p. 199
ten thousand wàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 132, p. 1083
Ten Words, Ninety-Nine Numbers
chapter topic; Chapter 21, p. 213

tennis wǎngqiú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 262, p. 2037
tent zhàngpeng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 441, p. 3387
terminus; the end of the line zhōngdiǎnzhàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 407, p. 3141 terrain; lie of the land dìxíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 436, p. 3351
text message duǎnxìn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 118, p. 983
than; compared with 比 (bǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 153, p. 1251
thank you — the same character twice, and the second one goes light 谢谢 (xièxie)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology; Chapter 10, p. 93
Thanks and Replies
chapter topic; Chapter 77, p. 663
Thanks, but No
chapter topic; Chapter 355, p. 2761
Thanks for the Help
chapter topic; Chapter 457, p. 3507
that 那 (nà)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 37, p. 351
That Makes Sense
chapter topic; Chapter 351, p. 2729
that one 那个 (nàge)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 37, p. 351 that same day; on that very day 当天 (dàngtiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 295, p. 2319
the ancients; people of long ago 古人 (gǔrén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 321, p. 2511
the art of dance wǔdǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 505, p. 3859
the back of the body hòubèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 475, p. 3643
the beauty of spring; spring sunshine 春光 (chūnguāng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 519, p. 3963
The Boss
chapter topic; Chapter 491, p. 3755
the bride and groom 新人 (xīnrén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 306, p. 2401
the built-up part of a city; downtown 市区 (shìqū)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 448, p. 3441

the Chinese language; Mandarin 汉语 (hànyǔ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 16, p. 147
The City
chapter topic; Chapter 81, p. 691
the countryside; a farming village nóngcūn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 225, p. 1775
the day after tomorrow 后天 (hòutiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 147, p. 1187
The Day Before Yesterday
chapter topic; Chapter 167, p. 1369
the day before yesterday 前天 (qiántiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 167, p. 1369
the digit and the character — which one a price, a date and a phone number use 5 — 五 (wǔ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 21, p. 213
the earth; our planet dìqiú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 380, p. 2943
the east; on the east side dōngbian
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 117, p. 2207
the effect it has (how well it works) xiàoguǒ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 537, p. 4095
The Entrance Exam
chapter topic; Chapter 494, p. 3777
the far bank; the opposite bank duì'àn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 442, p. 3395
the floor of a room; floorboards dìbǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 522, p. 3983
the four seasons 四季 (sìjì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 515, p. 3931
The Grammar That Is Not There
chapter topic; Chapter 22, p. 221
the Great Wall 长城 (Chángchéng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 447, p. 3433
the heart as an organ xīnzàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 477, p. 3657
The Hotel
chapter topic; Chapter 425, p. 3273
the human world 人间 (rénjiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 332, p. 2591
The Information Desk
chapter topic; Chapter 454, p. 3487
The Key Point
chapter topic; Chapter 370, p. 2873

The King's Son
chapter topic; Chapter 330, p. 2577
the Lantern Festival Yuánxiāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 335, p. 2613
the left; on the left zuǒbian
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 82, p. 699
the life of a living thing shēngmìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 300, p. 2357
the light of the sky; how dark the sky is getting 天色 (tiānsè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 452, p. 3473
the Mid-Autumn Festival 中秋 (Zhōngqiū)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 342, p. 2667
the middle; between zhōngjiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 82, p. 699
the middle of the night bànyè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 146, p. 1179
the middle of the term; midterm 期中 (qīzhōng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 495, p. 3785
the moon yuèliang
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 238, p. 1871
the news; news on TV and radio xīnwén
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 290, p. 2285
The Next Day
chapter topic; Chapter 279, p. 2159
the next day; the following day 第二天 (dì'èr tiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 279, p. 2159
The North
chapter topic; Chapter 438, p. 3365
the north of the country; northern China 北方 (běifāng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 436, p. 3351
the north; on the north side běibian
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 117, p. 2207
The Old Town
chapter topic; Chapter 446, p. 3425
the open country; the wild yěwài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 441, p. 3387
the open sea dàhǎi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 238, p. 1871
the other side; the other party duìfāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 348, p. 2709
the outside world 外界 (wàijiè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 326, p. 2547
the owner of a lost item shīzhǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 456, p. 3501

the palm of the hand 手心 (shǒuxīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 475, p. 3643
the particle between a verb and how well it is done 得 (de)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 152, p. 1241
The Police Car
chapter topic; Chapter 311, p. 2439
the question particle, recovered without pinyin 吗 (ma)
explicit focus: grammar, etymology; Chapter 19, p. 185
The Rest of the Family
chapter topic; Chapter 33, p. 321
the right; on the right yòubian
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 82, p. 699
The River
chapter topic; Chapter 442, p. 3395
the same; alike yíyàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 94, p. 807
the same feeling 同感 (tónggǎn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 352, p. 2739
the score of a game bǐfēn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 500, p. 3821
the seaside; the seashore hǎibiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 227, p. 1789
The Security Guard
chapter topic; Chapter 382, p. 2957
the sequence of events; what happened 经过 (jīngguò)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 306, p. 2401
the sky tiānkōng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 238, p. 1871
the small hours; before dawn língchén
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 178, p. 1445
the south of the country; southern China 南方 (nánfāng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 436, p. 3351
the south; on the south side nánbian
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 117, p. 2207
the Spring Festival; Chinese New Year 春节 (Chūnjié)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 137, p. 1119
the Spring Festival Gala 春晚 (Chūnwǎn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 333, p. 2599
The Team
chapter topic; Chapter 499, p. 3815
The Terminal
chapter topic; Chapter 415, p. 3199
the way something is done; method 做法 (zuòfǎ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 349, p. 2715

The Weather
chapter topic; Chapter 66, p. 577
The Wedding
chapter topic; Chapter 306, p. 2401
The Week
chapter topic; Chapter 46, p. 421
the west; on the west side xībian
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 117, p. 2207
the whole chain of causes and effects 前因后果 (qiányīn hòuguǒ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 540, p. 4117
the whole country; nationwide 全国 (quánguó)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 381, p. 2949
The Whole Family
chapter topic; Chapter 381, p. 2949
the whole family 全家 (quánjiā)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 381, p. 2949
the words of a song; lyrics gēcí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 504, p. 3851
the workplace; the world of work 职场 (zhíchǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 491, p. 3755
then; after that ránhòu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 150, p. 1219
then; right away 就 (jiù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 288, p. 2263
there 那儿 (nàr)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 85, p. 719
these 这些 (zhèxiē)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 127, p. 1043
These and Those
chapter topic; Chapter 127, p. 1043
they; them 他们 (tāmen)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 31, p. 305
thick fog dàwù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 518, p. 3955
thief 小偷 (xiǎotōu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 309, p. 2425
thin (of cloth or paper) báo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 199, p. 1597
thin; slim shòu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 94, p. 807
thing; things dōngxi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 42, p. 391
Things I Can Do
chapter topic; Chapter 110, p. 927

Things I Carry
chapter topic; Chapter 116, p. 971
Things You Carry
chapter topic; Chapter 58, p. 511
Thinking It Over
chapter topic; Chapter 346, p. 2695
thirsty kě
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 39, p. 367
this 这 (zhè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 37, p. 351
this one 这个 (zhège)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 37, p. 351
This One and That One
chapter topic; Chapter 37, p. 351
This One or That One
chapter topic; Chapter 154, p. 1261
this year 今年 (jīnnián)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 47, p. 429
those 那些 (nàxiē)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 127, p. 1043
thousand 千 (qiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 132, p. 1083
Thousands
chapter topic; Chapter 132, p. 1083
three 三 (sān)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology, usage and culture; Chapter 3, p. 25 thrilled; keyed up xīngfèn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 458, p. 3515
throat; voice sǎngzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 222, p. 1755
Through the Gates
chapter topic; Chapter 405, p. 3127
thunderstorm léiyǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 514, p. 3925
ticket piào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 73, p. 3105
ticket office shòupiàochù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 404, p. 3119
ticket seller; bus conductor shòupiàoyuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 409, p. 3157
Tickets and Flights
chapter topic; Chapter 196, p. 1573
Tickets, Please
chapter topic; Chapter 404, p. 3119

tiger lǎohǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 223, p. 1761
tight jǐn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 199, p. 1597
time; free time shíjiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 83, p. 705
time; moment shíhou
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 46, p. 421
Time Off Work
chapter topic; Chapter 263, p. 2043
time (one occurrence) cì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 140, p. 1141
time zone 时区 (shíqū)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 388, p. 3001
timetable shíkèbiǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 122, p. 1009
timid; easily scared dǎnxiǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 463, p. 3549
tip; a tip for the waiter xiǎofèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 452, p. 3473
title; question on a test tímù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 354, p. 2753
to accept jiēshòu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 275, p. 2127
to achieve; to obtain (through effort) 取得 (qǔdé)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 395, p. 3053
to adapt; to adjust to new surroundings shìyìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 313, p. 2455
to adjust tiáozhěng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 400, p. 3091
to admire; to appreciate xīnshǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 277, p. 2139
to admit; to own up chéngrèn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 310, p. 2433
to admit you were wrong rèncuò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 357, p. 2775
to affect; influence; to have an effect on yǐngxiǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 294, p. 2313
to agree tóngyì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 270, p. 2093
to agree on a time; to fix (a time or place) together 约定 (yuēdìng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 390, p. 3015
to agree (to a request); to say yes dāying
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 275, p. 2127

to allow; to permit yǔnxǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 209, p. 1667
to alter; to amend 改 (gǎi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 392, p. 3031
to analyse fēnxī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 351, p. 2729
to announce officially xuānbù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 291, p. 2291
to answer huídá
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 121, p. 1003
to apologise dàoqiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 275, p. 2127
to appear in the papers; to make the papers 见报 (jiànbào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 293, p. 2305
to appear; to turn up 出现 (chūxiàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 236, p. 1857
to apply for shēnqǐng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 455, p. 3495
to apply for a job yìngpìn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 486, p. 3721
to approve of; to be in favour zànchéng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 270, p. 2093
to argue back; to refute fǎnbó
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 353, p. 2745
to argue in favour of; to advocate zhǔzhāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 349, p. 2715
to argue over a point; to debate zhēnglùn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 348, p. 2709
to arise; to come about chǎnshēng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 538, p. 4103
to arrange ānpái
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 207, p. 1653
to arrange to meet; to make a date with yuē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 180, p. 1459
to arrive; to reach dào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 72, p. 621
to ask wèn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 54, p. 483
to ask a favour of someone bàituō
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 457, p. 3507
to ask around; to inquire dǎting
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 217, p. 1717
to ask for help; to turn to someone for help qiúzhù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 456, p. 3501

to ask for time off 请假 (qǐngjià)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 263, p. 2043
to ask the way 问路 (wènlù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 197, p. 1581
to attach importance to zhòngshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 385, p. 2979
to attain (a goal); to reach a level dádào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 513, p. 3917
to avoid bìmiǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 366, p. 2843
to bandage; to dress a wound bāozā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 478, p. 3663
to be afraid of; to fear pà
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 51, p. 461 to be against; to oppose fǎnduì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 270, p. 2093
to be allergic guòmǐn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 480, p. 3679
to be — and how Mandarin says yes 是 (shì)
explicit focus: pronunciation, grammar, etymology; Chapter 5, p. 51
to be at; in, at 在 (zài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 85, p. 719
to be born 出生 (chūshēng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 254, p. 1983
to be bound for a place 开往 (kāiwǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 427, p. 3287
to be called; to call 叫 (jiào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 34, p. 329
to be careful; to mind (something) 小心 (xiǎoxīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 115, p. 963
to be certain; to settle on quèdìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 390, p. 3015
to be delayed; to be held up yánwù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 416, p. 3205
to be dying to; to be eager for (colloquial) bābude
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 532, p. 4057
to be frozen stiff dòngjiāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 514, p. 3925
to be grounded (of planes) 停飞 (tíngfēi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 418, p. 3219
to be handed down; to spread liúchuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 328, p. 2561
to be haunted nàoguǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 332, p. 2591

to be in charge (of) fùzé
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 263, p. 2043
to be in hospital zhùyuàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 241, p. 1889
to be in luck 走运 (zǒuyùn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 529, p. 4035
to be infuriating; to make people angry 气人 (qìrén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 464, p. 3559
to be late; to arrive late chídào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 83, p. 705
to be left over shèng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 451, p. 3465
to be obliged to; cannot help but 不得不 (bùdébù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 528, p. 4029
to be on duty zhíbān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 382, p. 2957
to be open for business yíngyè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 122, p. 1009
to be open to the public kāifàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 192, p. 1545
to be out of date; to have expired 过期 (guòqī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 455, p. 3495
to be out of luck; to have bad luck dǎoméi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 529, p. 4035
to be particular about jiǎngjiu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 340, p. 2651
to be pregnant; to be expecting a baby huáiyùn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 302, p. 2373
to be reasonable; to listen to reason jiǎnglǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 351, p. 2729
to be rescued; to be saved from danger 得救 (déjiù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 299, p. 2351
to be reunited as a family tuányuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 338, p. 2637
to be scared hàipà
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 236, p. 1857
to be short of; to (before the hour) chà
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 143, p. 1161
to be unable to sleep; to lie awake at night shīmián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 480, p. 3679
to be used to; a habit xíguàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 158, p. 1305
to be wasted (of effort) báifèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 394, p. 3047

to be willing (to) 愿意 (yuànyì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 535, p. 4079
to be willing to; to agree to kěn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 355, p. 2761
to be windy guāfēng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 136, p. 1113
to be worth it; to be worth doing zhíde
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 366, p. 2843
to become 成为 (chéngwéi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 384, p. 2971
to become famous 成名 (chéngmíng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 512, p. 3911
to become infected gǎnrǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 481, p. 3687
to become inflamed fāyán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 240, p. 1883
to become reality (of a wish) 成真 (chéngzhēn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 536, p. 4087
to begin; to start kāishǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 122, p. 1009
to believe; to trust xiāngxìn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 270, p. 2093
to bend wān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 475, p. 3643
to bleed liúxuè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 232, p. 1831
to blink; to wink zhǎyǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 471, p. 3611
to bloom; to flower 开花 (kāihuā)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 224, p. 1767
to board a plane dēngjī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 413, p. 3185
to boil; to cook in water zhǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 113, p. 951
to boil water shāoshuǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 168, p. 1377
to book ahead yùdìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 200, p. 3281
to borrow; to lend jiè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 64, p. 1699
to bow jūgōng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 361, p. 2805
to break a bone gǔzhé
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 301, p. 2365

to break a rule; to go against the law wéifǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 359, p. 2791
to break out suddenly; sudden 突发 (tūfā)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 291, p. 2291
to break the law fànfǎ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 363, p. 2915
to break the speed limit chāosù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 421, p. 3241
to break the traffic rules wéizhāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 420, p. 3235
to break; to smash dǎpò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 187, p. 1505
to break up; to end a relationship fēnshǒu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 307, p. 2409
to breathe hūxī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 239, p. 1877
to bring back to life 救活 (jiùhuó)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 302, p. 2373
to bring in the harvest; to reap shōuhuò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 515, p. 3931
to bring; to take along dài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 89, p. 761
to broadcast; a broadcast guǎngbō
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 292, p. 2299
to broadcast live; a live show zhíbō
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 292, p. 2299
to brush one's teeth shuāyá
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 99, p. 847
to bully; to pick on qīfu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 508, p. 3881
to buy 买 (mǎi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 40, p. 375
to buy a ticket on board bǔpiào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 404, p. 3119
to calculate; to work out suàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 140, p. 1141
to call at a station or port tíngkào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 405, p. 3127
to call at the house (to do a job) 上门 (shàngmén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 522, p. 3983
to call back; to return a call 回电 (huídiàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 319, p. 2497
to call on; to visit (a person) kànwàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 180, p. 1459

to call the police bàojǐng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 216, p. 1711
to camp out lùyíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 225, p. 1775
to cancel; to call off qǔxiāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 234, p. 1843
to care about guānxīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 123, p. 1017
to care for the sick; to tend 护理 (hùlǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 482, p. 3695
to carry in the hand (by a handle) līn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 453, p. 3481
to carry messages between people 传话 (chuánhuà)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 328, p. 2561
to carry on; to continue jìxù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 244, p. 1909
to catch a chill zháoliáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 222, p. 1755
to catch a cold; a cold gǎnmào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 130, p. 1883
to catch fire zháohuǒ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 176, p. 1433
to catch fish (for a living) bǔyú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 443, p. 3403 to catch in time; to make it onto a train gǎnshàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 391, p. 3023
to cause damage or trouble zàochéng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 537, p. 4095
to celebrate 庆祝 (qìngzhù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 339, p. 2643
to celebrate a festival 过节 (guòjié)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 338, p. 2637
to celebrate the New Year guònián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 137, p. 1119
to change a booking; to change a ticket to another train gǎiqiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 406, p. 3135
to change careers gǎiháng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 401, p. 3097
to change one's tune; to take back what one said 改口 (gǎikǒu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 392, p. 3031
to change over time; a change biànhuà
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 243, p. 1903
to change planes zhuǎnjī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 416, p. 3205

to change the date (of an event) 改期 (gǎiqī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 392, p. 3031
to change the name (of) 改名 (gǎimíng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 392, p. 3031
to change; to exchange huàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 108, p. 911
to change trains or lines huànchéng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 402, p. 3105
to charge a battery chōngdiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 109, p. 919
to chase; to run after zhuī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 311, p. 2439
to chat liáotiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 84, p. 711 to cheat in an exam zuòbì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 495, p. 3785
to cheat; to con piàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 309, p. 2425
to check in a suitcase; to send luggage in the hold tuōyùn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 415, p. 3199
to check in (at a hotel) rùzhù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 200, p. 3281
to check in for a flight zhíjī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 418, p. 3219
to check out (of a hotel) tuìfáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 200, p. 3281
to check tickets 检票 (jiǎnpiào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 404, p. 3119
to check; to examine jiǎnchá
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 208, p. 1661
to cheer someone on; come on! jiāyóu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 262, p. 2037
to cherish and protect; to treat with care àihù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 376, p. 2915
to cherish the memory of; to look back fondly on huáiniàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 322, p. 2519
to choose xuǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 210, p. 1673
to claim lost property rènlǐng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 456, p. 3501 to clap; to applaud gǔzhǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 257, p. 2003
to clean (a room); to sweep 打扫 (dǎsǎo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 133, p. 1091

to clear up (of the sky) fàngqíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 219, p. 1733
to click (on a screen) diǎnjī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 204, p. 1631
to climb a mountain dēngshān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 435, p. 3343
to climb; to crawl pá
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 107, p. 905 to close (for the day); to shut the door guānmén
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 155, p. 1271
to collect things shōují
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 274, p. 2121
to comb one's hair shūtóu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 99, p. 847
to come 来 (lái)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 36, p. 343
to come and go 来往 (láiwǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 427, p. 3287
to come back 回来 (huílái)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 191, p. 1537
to come down a mountain 下山 (xiàshān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 435, p. 3343
to come from 来自 (láizì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 308, p. 2417
to come in; to enter 进 (jìn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 74, p. 637
to come in to shore kào'àn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 412, p. 3179
to come inside; to come in 进来 (jìnlái)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 183, p. 1481
to come of age; fully grown chéngnián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 317, p. 2687
to come off worse; to lose out chīkuī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 539, p. 4109
to come over 过来 (guòlai)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 180, p. 1459
to come to an end; to finish jiéshù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 122, p. 1009
to come true; to make real shíxiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 395, p. 3053
to comfort; to console ānwèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 314, p. 2463
to commemorate; to honour the memory of jìniàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 324, p. 2533

to commit a crime fànzuì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 308, p. 2417
to commit to memory; to keep in mind jìzhù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 304, p. 2387
to complain; to grumble bàoyuàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 378, p. 2929
to complete; to get (a job) done wánchéng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 395, p. 3053
to congratulate gōngxǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 337, p. 2629
to cook 做饭 (zuòfàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 69, p. 601
to cough késou
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 222, p. 1755
to count shǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 132, p. 1083
to count on someone zhǐwàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 532, p. 4057
to crash into; to bump into zhuàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 232, p. 1831
to create (art or writing) chuàngzuò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 503, p. 3843
to criticize pīpíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 357, p. 2775
to cry; to weep kū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 51, p. 461
to cut; to slice qiē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 113, p. 951
to dance tiàowǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 110, p. 927
to deal with chǔlǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 297, p. 4109
to deal with the paperwork; to go through a procedure bànlǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 418, p. 3219
to decide; a decision juédìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 184, p. 1487
to declare goods at customs shēnbào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 417, p. 3213
to decline politely xièjué
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 355, p. 2761
to deep-fry zhá
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 168, p. 1377
to defeat; to beat (an opponent) dǎbài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 262, p. 2037

to deliver goods sònghuò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 215, p. 1705
to deny fǒurèn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 355, p. 2761
to depend on (a factor); to hinge on qǔjuéyú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 398, p. 3077
to develop; to expand fāzhǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 374, p. 2901
to dial a number bōdǎ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 320, p. 2505
to die 死 (sǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 300, p. 2357
to digest xiāohuà
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 452, p. 3473
to disappear; to vanish xiāoshī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 329, p. 2569
to discover; to find out fāxiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 236, p. 1857
to discuss tǎolùn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 348, p. 2709
to disinfect xiāodú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 482, p. 3695
to dislike; to hate tǎoyàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 277, p. 2139
to disturb dǎrǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 209, p. 1667
to divorce líhūn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 307, p. 2409
to do a fitness routine; to do physical exercises zuòcāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 220, p. 1741
to do ahead of time; to bring forward (a date) tíqián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 388, p. 3001
to do an internship; to work as a trainee shíxí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 486, p. 3721
to do better to; might as well; to be not as good as 不如 (bùrú)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 365, p. 2835
to do the washing-up; to wash the dishes xǐwǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 160, p. 1319
to do; to make 做 (zuò)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 89, p. 761
to do training (for a sport); to drill xùnliàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 499, p. 3815
to do up a home; to renovate zhuāngxiū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 313, p. 2455

to donate juān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 375, p. 2907
to dote on 疼爱 (téng'ài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 510, p. 3897
to download xiàzài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 109, p. 919
to drag someone into trouble liánlei
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 540, p. 4117
to draw for prizes; to hold a prize draw chōujiǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 530, p. 4043
to draw lots chōuqiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 528, p. 4029
to dream of; to see in a dream mèngjiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 536, p. 4087
to dream; to have a dream zuòmèng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 158, p. 1305
to dress up; to get dressed up dǎban
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 164, p. 1347
to drink 喝 (hē)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 39, p. 367
to drink alcohol hējiǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 239, p. 1877
to drive 开车 (kāichē)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 72, p. 621
to drop coins in the box tóubì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 408, p. 3149
to dry-clean gānxǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 215, p. 1705
to dry in the sun shài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 142, p. 1155
to earn money; to make a profit zhuàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 488, p. 3735
to eat 吃 (chī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 38, p. 359
to eat no meat; to be vegetarian chīsù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 451, p. 3465
to ebb (of the tide) tuìcháo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 445, p. 3419
to economise; to use sparingly 节约 (jiéyuē)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 389, p. 3009
to educate; to bring up (the young); education jiàoyù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 493, p. 3769
to emigrate; to settle abroad yímín
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 437, p. 3359

to encourage gǔlì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 368, p. 2857
to enjoy xiǎngshòu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 277, p. 2139
to enjoy the moon shǎngyuè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 342, p. 2667
to enter a country rùjìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 417, p. 3213
to enter for an exam; to apply to a school by exam 报考 (bàokǎo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 494, p. 3777
to envy xiànmù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 460, p. 3529
to escape the summer heat bìshǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 515, p. 3931
to escort 护送 (hùsòng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 443, p. 3403 to exchange money duìhuàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 419, p. 3227
to exercise; to work out duànliàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 135, p. 1107 to exhort; to tell (someone) to be sure to do something zhǔfu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 393, p. 3039
to expect much of someone; expectations 期望 (qīwàng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 532, p. 4057
to experience for yourself tǐyàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 261, p. 2031
to explain jiěshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 268, p. 2079
to explode; to blow up bàozhà
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 300, p. 2357
to extend (in time) yáncháng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 400, p. 3091
to fail shībài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 394, p. 3047
to fail an entrance exam luòbǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 494, p. 3777
to faint; to pass out yūndǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 299, p. 2351
to fall asleep shuìzháo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 158, p. 1305
to fall due; to run out 到期 (dàoqī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 389, p. 3009
to fall ill; illness bìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 50, p. 455

to fall out of love; to stop being faithful 变心 (biànxīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 462, p. 3543
to farm; to work the land zhòngdì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 225, p. 1775
to feel gǎndào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 252, p. 1969
to feel deeply grateful gǎnjī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 457, p. 3507
to feel for someone; to love dearly 心疼 (xīnténg)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 458, p. 3515
to feel (how something seems); a feeling 感觉 (gǎnjué)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 286, p. 2243
to fight a fire; to put out a fire 救火 (jiùhuǒ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 298, p. 2343
to fight a war; to go into battle dǎzhàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 327, p. 2555
to fight; to get into a fistfight dǎjià
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 312, p. 2447
to fight to save a patient; to give emergency treatment qiǎngjiù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 299, p. 2351
to fill in (a form) tiánxiě
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 189, p. 1521
to find 找到 (zhǎodào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 197, p. 1581
to find employment; to get a job 就业 (jiùyè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 487, p. 3727
to find (that); to feel; to think (that) juéde
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 144, p. 1167
to find time (for something) chōukòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 388, p. 3001
to finish class 下课 (xiàkè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 79, p. 677
to finish (doing) zuòwán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 151, p. 1229
to finish school for the day; (of a school) to let out fàngxué
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 249, p. 1945
to finish work; to come off a shift xiàbān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 183, p. 1481
to fire; to dismiss (from a job or school) kāichú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 490, p. 3749 to fly 飞 (fēi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 413, p. 3185
to fold dié
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 133, p. 1091

to follow a story closely; to keep an eye on guānzhù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 293, p. 2305
to forbid; no (on signs) jìnzhǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 115, p. 963
to forget wàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 95, p. 817
to forgive yuánliàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 275, p. 2127
to form (a habit); to get into a habit yǎngchéng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 484, p. 3707
to found; to set up jiànlì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 326, p. 2547
to freeze over jiébīng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 243, p. 1903
to fry (in a little oil) jiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 113, p. 951
to fulfil a dream yuánmèng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 536, p. 4087
to gather; to assemble; to meet up as a group jíhé
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 434, p. 3337
to get a haircut lǐfà
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 212, p. 1687
to get a lift dāchē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 429, p. 3301
to get a pay rise; to raise someone's pay jiāxīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 491, p. 3755
to get about; to go out on a journey chūxíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 429, p. 3301
to get airsick yùnjī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 414, p. 3193
to get angry 生气 (shēngqì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 125, p. 1029
to get back (something lost) 找回 (zhǎohuí)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 285, p. 2231
to get caught in the rain línyǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 514, p. 3925
to get cheaper; to come down in price jiàngjià
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 193, p. 1551 to get dearer; to go up in price zhǎngjià
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 193, p. 1551 to get engaged dìnghūn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 305, p. 2395
to get hurt; to be injured shòushāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 232, p. 1831

to get in touch with; to contact liánxì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 285, p. 2231
to get into (a school) by exam; to pass the entrance exam for 考上 (kǎoshàng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 494, p. 3777
to get into trouble; to cause a mess chuǎnghuò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 539, p. 4109
to get light at dawn tiānliàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 517, p. 3947
to get married jiéhūn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 254, p. 1983
to get off (a bus or train) 下车 (xiàchē)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 73, p. 3105
to get old 变老 (biànlǎo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 401, p. 3097
to get on (a bus or train) 上车 (shàngchē)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 73, p. 3105
to get out of danger tuōxiǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 531, p. 4049
to get promoted shēngzhí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 489, p. 3741
to get ready; to prepare zhǔnbèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 84, p. 711 to get seasick yùnchuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 227, p. 1789
to get separated (in a crowd) zǒusàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 456, p. 3501 to get sick; to fall ill 生病 (shēngbìng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 240, p. 1883
to get something sent; to receive shōudào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 201, p. 1611
to get the jobs done; to work gànhuó
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 160, p. 1319
to get the wrong idea; to misunderstand wùhuì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 367, p. 2849
to get there on foot bùxíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 447, p. 3433
to get through on the phone dǎtōng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 320, p. 2505
to get up qǐchuáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 50, p. 455
to get up; to stand up 起来 (qǐlai)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 158, p. 1305

to get well again; to convalesce kāngfù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 483, p. 3701
to get what one wished for 如愿 (rúyuàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 535, p. 4079
to give a discount; to be on sale dǎzhé
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 122, p. 1009
to give a gentle smile wēixiào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 466, p. 3573
to give a present sònglǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 336, p. 2621
to give a running commentary 解说 (jiěshuō)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 431, p. 3315
to give a send-off 欢送 (huānsòng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 336, p. 2621
to give an example jǔlì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 369, p. 2865
to give as a present; to see off sòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 75, p. 647
to give back huán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 64, p. 1699
to give blood xiànxuè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 479, p. 3671
to give change zhǎoqián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 114, p. 957
to give directions; to show someone the way zhǐlù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 454, p. 3487
to give medical treatment; to cure zhìliáo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 482, p. 3695
to give off light; to shine 发光 (fāguāng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 517, p. 3947
to give official approval; to approve a plan pīzhǔn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 364, p. 2827
to give one's word; to pledge xǔnuò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 534, p. 4073
to give rise to; to bring about yǐnqǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 294, p. 2313
to give the money back; to refund tuìkuǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 525, p. 4005
to give; to, for 给 (gěi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 89, p. 761
to give up fàngqì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 366, p. 2843
to give up all hope; to despair juéwàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 533, p. 4065

to give up drinking jièjiǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 484, p. 3707
to give up hope 死心 (sǐxīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 462, p. 3543
to give up one's seat (to someone) ràngzuò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 376, p. 2915
to give up smoking jièyān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 239, p. 1877
to give your approval; to accept as good rènkě
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 352, p. 2739
to go 去 (qù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 43, p. 397
to go abroad 出国 (chūguó)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 191, p. 1537
to go ashore shàng'àn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 445, p. 3419
to go back there 回去 (huíqù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 191, p. 1537
to go back; to return huí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 43, p. 397
to go direct; to go without changing zhídá
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 405, p. 3127
to go diving; to dive under water qiánshuǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 444, p. 3411
to go fishing diàoyú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 141, p. 1149
to go home from abroad; to return to one's own country 回国 (huíguó)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 191, p. 1537
to go in and out 出入 (chūrù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 405, p. 3127
to go into 进入 (jìnrù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 405, p. 3127
to go missing shīzōng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 308, p. 2417
to go north; to head up north 北上 (běishàng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 422, p. 3249
to go on holiday; to spend a holiday dùjià
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 184, p. 1487 to go on to a higher school; to go on to further study shēngxué
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 497, p. 3799
to go online 上网 (shàngwǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 109, p. 919

to go out chūmén
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 43, p. 397
to go out to sea 出海 (chūhǎi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 433, p. 3329
to go out with someone; to be in a relationship tán liàn'ài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 305, p. 2395
to go outside; to go out of here 出去 (chūqù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 183, p. 1481
to go shopping; to do some shopping gòuwù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 434, p. 3337
to go sightseeing guānguāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 430, p. 3309
to go south; to head down south 南下 (nánxià)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 423, p. 3257
to go to market day; to go to a country market gǎnjí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 440, p. 3379
to go to town; to move to the city 进城 (jìnchéng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 446, p. 3425
to go to work shàngbān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 80, p. 685
to go upstairs shànglóu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 206, p. 1647
to graduate; to finish school bìyè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 254, p. 1983
to grasp a meaning; to understand; clear 明白 (míngbai)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 214, p. 1699
to grow up 长大 (zhǎngdà)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 78, p. 669
to guess cāi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 335, p. 2613
to haggle jiǎngjià
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 193, p. 1551 to hang out to dry liàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 179, p. 1453
to hang; to hang up guà
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 174, p. 1419
to hang up the phone; to end a call guàduàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 320, p. 2505
to happen; to take place fāshēng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 167, p. 1369
to hate deeply; to resent hèn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 462, p. 3543
to hate to part with; to hate to leave shěbude
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 313, p. 2455

to have a fall; to drop (and break) shuāi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 187, p. 1505
to have a fever fāshāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 130, p. 1883
to have a group photo taken; to pose for a group photo héyǐng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 431, p. 3315
to have a meeting 开会 (kāihuì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 157, p. 1293
to have a picnic; a picnic yěcān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 163, p. 1339
to have a power cut tíngdiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 167, p. 1369
to have a runny nose liú bítì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 480, p. 3679
to have a serious talk tánhuà
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 354, p. 2753
to have a shave; to shave one's face guāliǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 164, p. 1347
to have a shower; to have a bath xǐzǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 99, p. 847
to have a tooth filled bǔyá
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 473, p. 3627
to have a tooth pulled báyá
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 473, p. 3627
to have an accident; for something to go wrong 出事 (chūshì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 232, p. 1831
to have an injection; to give one dǎzhēn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 228, p. 1795
to have an interview (for a job); interview 面试 (miànshì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 276, p. 2133
to have class; to start class 上课 (shàngkè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 79, p. 677
to have diarrhoea; to have an upset stomach lā dùzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 240, p. 1883
to have free time; to be free yǒukòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 163, p. 1339
to have no choice but to zhǐhǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 235, p. 1849
to have something on; to be busy yǒushì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 95, p. 817
to have the family name; family name xìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 34, p. 329
to have time off; to go on holiday fàngjià
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 137, p. 1119

to have to; must děi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 282, p. 2195
to help bāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 64, p. 1699
to help out; to do a favour bāngmáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 64, p. 1699
to help up; to hold up with a hand fú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 301, p. 2365
to hide cáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 331, p. 2585
to hold a ceremony; to hold an event jǔxíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 306, p. 2401
to hope 希望 (xīwàng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 533, p. 4065
to ice-skate huábīng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 274, p. 2121
to impose a fine; a penalty fine fákuǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 312, p. 2447
to improve; to make progress jìnbù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 260, p. 2025
to increase zēngjiā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 384, p. 2971
to inherit; to take over (from a parent) jìchéng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 330, p. 2577
to install; to put in ānzhuāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 208, p. 1661
to interview someone for the news cǎifǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 291, p. 2291
to introduce jièshào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 74, p. 637
to invent; an invention 发明 (fāmíng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 291, p. 2291
to investigate diàochá
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 311, p. 2439
to invite; an invitation yāoqǐng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 173, p. 1411
to iron yùn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 179, p. 1453
to itch fāyǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 480, p. 3679
to jump tiào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 107, p. 905
to jump the queue chāduì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 360, p. 2797

to keep an animal; to raise yǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 229, p. 1803
to keep as a souvenir liúniàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 434, p. 3337
to keep at it; to persist jiānchí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 366, p. 2843
to keep someone company; to go along with péi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 163, p. 1339
to keep the New Year vigil shǒusuì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 333, p. 2599
to keep; to save bǎocún
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 344, p. 2681
to keep to; to abide by zūnshǒu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 359, p. 2791
to keep up; to keep as it is bǎochí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 209, p. 1667
to kick tī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 135, p. 1107 to knock at the door qiāomén
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 176, p. 1433
to know a fact; to be aware zhīdào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 62, p. 541
to know from experience; to come to understand 体会 (tǐhuì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 347, p. 2701
to know in depth; to find out about 了解 (liǎojiě)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 367, p. 2849
to know someone; to recognise rènshi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 34, p. 329
to know well; to be familiar with shúxī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 316, p. 2477
to land; to come down onto the runway jiàngluò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 413, p. 3185
to laugh; to smile xiào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 56, p. 2121
to launch a new transport line 开通 (kāitōng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 410, p. 3165
to lay out a room; to decorate a room bùzhì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 521, p. 3977
to lead to 通往 (tōngwǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 428, p. 3295
to leak water lòushuǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 522, p. 3983
to learn a text by heart; to recite from memory bèishū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 496, p. 3791

to learn (and now be able to) 学会 (xuéhuì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 151, p. 1229
to leave a country chūjìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 417, p. 3213
to leave a message liúyán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 198, p. 1589
to leave a place líkāi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 107, p. 905 to leave behind liúxià
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 324, p. 2533
to leave hospital chūyuàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 241, p. 1889
to leave in safekeeping jìcún
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 215, p. 1705
to leave it till later 再说 (zàishuō)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 76, p. 655
to lie down tǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 183, p. 1481
to lie; to tell a lie shuōhuǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 310, p. 2433
to lift; to carry (between two people) tái
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 174, p. 1419
to light a fire 生火 (shēnghuǒ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 441, p. 3387
to listen; to hear tīng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 53, p. 475
to live; alive 活 (huó)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 302, p. 2373
to live somewhere; to stay zhù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 35, p. 337
to lock the door; to lock up suǒmén
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 183, p. 1481
to lodge with a local family; to stay the night at someone's home jièsù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 440, p. 3379
to log in dēnglù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 204, p. 1631
to look after; to take care of zhàogù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 160, p. 1319
to look after your guests; to entertain zhāodài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 361, p. 2805
to look after yourself; to take care of oneself bǎozhòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 245, p. 1915

to look at or watch, recovered without pinyin 看 (kàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 18, p. 171
to look down on 看不起 (kànbuqǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 361, p. 2805
to look for zhǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 63, p. 2505
to look forward to; to long for pànwàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 461, p. 3535
to look round a place; to visit (a sight) cānguān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 184, p. 1487
to lose (a thing) diū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 116, p. 971
to lose one's grip; to do by a slip of the hand shīshǒu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 531, p. 4049
to lose one's job; to be out of work shīyè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 487, p. 3727
to lose one's temper 发火 (fāhuǒ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 464, p. 3559
to lose weight; to diet jiǎnféi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 220, p. 1741
to lose your way; to get lost mílù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 197, p. 1581
to love ài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 55, p. 489
to love deeply rè'ài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 277, p. 2139
to make a bet dǎdǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 528, p. 4029
to make a booking; to order dìng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 120, p. 997
to make a choice xuǎnzé
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 368, p. 2857
to make a formal complaint tóusù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 525, p. 4005
to make a judgement; to judge pànduàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 350, p. 2723
to make a wish xǔyuàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 337, p. 2629
to make an appointment; to book yùyuē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 212, p. 1687
to make an inquiry; to ask for advice zīxún
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 454, p. 3487
to make conditions better gǎishàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 541, p. 4123

to make different (a plan or a habit) 改变 (gǎibiàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 392, p. 3031
to make something clear; to explain clearly 说明 (shuōmíng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 369, p. 2865
to make something of oneself 成才 (chéngcái)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 512, p. 3911
to make tea (to steep the leaves) pàochá
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 166, p. 1361
to make the bed pūchuáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 160, p. 1319
to make your view known; to express biǎoshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 352, p. 2739
to manage; to be in charge of guǎnlǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 490, p. 3749 to marry and settle down 成家 (chéngjiā)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 399, p. 3083
to mature (as a person) 成长 (chéngzhǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 401, p. 3097
to meet (a requirement); to satisfy mǎnzú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 399, p. 3083
to meet someone off a plane jiējī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 419, p. 3227
to meet up; to see each other jiànmiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 84, p. 711 to melt; to thaw rónghuà
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 514, p. 3925
to mention; to bring up a subject 说起 (shuōqǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 320, p. 2505
to miss a chance; to miss a train 错过 (cuòguò)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 356, p. 2767
to miss a flight wùjī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 416, p. 3205
to miss an appointment shīyuē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 388, p. 3001
to miss someone xiǎngniàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 325, p. 2539
to mop the floor tuōdì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 142, p. 1155
to move house; to move (something heavy) bān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 107, p. 905 to move to another employer; to change jobs tiàocáo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 489, p. 3741
to move; to touch someone's heart gǎndòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 271, p. 2099

to my surprise; unexpectedly jìngrán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 315, p. 2469
to name a baby; to give a name 起名 (qǐmíng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 303, p. 2381
to name one's price; to ask a price 要价 (yàojià)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 524, p. 3997
to navigate by satnav dǎoháng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 422, p. 3249
to need xūyào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 91, p. 779
to nod 点头 (diǎntóu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 228, p. 1795
to not allow 不准 (bùzhǔn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 364, p. 2827
to notify; a notice tōngzhī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 157, p. 1293
to offer a lower price back; to make a counter-offer 还价 (huánjià)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 524, p. 3997
to open (for business); to open the door 开门 (kāimén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 155, p. 1271
to open; to switch on kāi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 65, p. 567
to open; to switch on 打开 (dǎkāi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 171, p. 1399
to open to traffic 通车 (tōngchē)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 409, p. 3157
to open up land for use 开发 (kāifā)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 438, p. 3365
to order food diǎncài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 71, p. 3449
to pack food to take away 打包 (dǎbāo)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 120, p. 997
to paint pictures; to draw huàhuà
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 110, p. 927
to pass an exam jígé
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 268, p. 2079
to pass away 去世 (qùshì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 325, p. 2539
to pass by (on the way somewhere) 路过 (lùguò)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 283, p. 2207
to pass on a message zhuǎngào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 318, p. 2491

to pass on (an illness); to be catching chuánrǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 245, p. 1915
to pass the ball 传球 (chuánqiú)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 499, p. 3815
to pass through 通过 (tōngguò)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 410, p. 3165
to patrol xúnluó
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 382, p. 2957
to pay fù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 114, p. 957
to pay a New Year call bàinián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 333, p. 2599
to pay a visit to bàifǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 338, p. 2637
to pay attention; to take care zhùyì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 115, p. 963
to pay by card shuākǎ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 114, p. 957
to pay for damage péiqián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 296, p. 2329
to pay for everyone; to treat (the others) 请客 (qǐngkè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 173, p. 1411
to pay the bill mǎidān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 114, p. 957
to perform a song (on stage) yǎnchàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 504, p. 3851
to perform on an instrument yǎnzòu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 506, p. 3867
to perform on stage yǎnchū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 257, p. 2003
to phone; to make a phone call 打电话 (dǎ diànhuà)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 63, p. 2505
to photocopy fùyìn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 212, p. 1687
to pick fruit; to pick flowers zhāi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 225, p. 1775
to pick out; to choose tiāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 199, p. 1597
to place an order xiàdān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 527, p. 4023
to plan to; to intend dǎsuàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 148, p. 1197
to plant trees zhòngshù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 384, p. 2971

to play an instrument; to pluck tán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 110, p. 927
to play ball dǎqiú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 56, p. 2121
to play chess xiàqí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 250, p. 1953
to play the drums dǎgǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 257, p. 2003
to play; to have fun wán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 56, p. 2121
to pollute wūrǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 380, p. 2943
to post; to send by post jì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 118, p. 983
to practise liànxí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 121, p. 1003
to praise (in front of others) biǎoyáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 357, p. 2775
to prepare a lesson (before class) yùxí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 249, p. 1945
to prescribe medicine kāiyào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 231, p. 1821
to press; to push down àn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 171, p. 1399
to prevent; to guard against yùfáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 484, p. 3707
to print out dǎyìn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 212, p. 1687
to promise; to guarantee bǎozhèng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 382, p. 2957
to propose a toast jìngjiǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 361, p. 2805
to propose marriage qiúhūn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 305, p. 2395
to protect; to keep from harm 保护 (bǎohù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 443, p. 3403 to prove zhèngmíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 350, p. 2723
to publish an article; to make public fābiǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 292, p. 2299
to pull lā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 112, p. 943
to pull into the station (of a train or bus) 进站 (jìnzhàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 407, p. 3141

to pursue (a goal); to chase a dream zhuīqiú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 512, p. 3911
to push tuī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 112, p. 943
to push hard; to put one's strength into it 用力 (yònglì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 474, p. 3635
to push up (a level) tígāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 385, p. 2979
to put a limit on; to restrict xiànzhì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 359, p. 2791
to put a mistake right gǎizhèng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 356, p. 2767
to put a question (in class or a meeting) tíwèn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 354, p. 2753
to put money by; to put money in the bank cúnqián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 195, p. 1567
to put off; to postpone tuīchí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 234, p. 1843
to put on make-up huàzhuāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 164, p. 1347
to put on the brakes; a brake shāchē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 296, p. 2329
to put the blame on someone 怪 (guài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 539, p. 4109
to put; to place fàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 89, p. 761
to put up an umbrella dǎsǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 518, p. 3955
to quarrel; to have a row chǎojià
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 176, p. 1433
to queue; to line up páiduì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 192, p. 1545
to rain xiàyǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 66, p. 577
to reach a destination; to arrive dàodá
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 196, p. 1573
to read a book or read books 看书 (kànshū)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 18, p. 171
to read aloud; to study dú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 54, p. 483
to recall; to think back on huíyì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 247, p. 1927
to receive; to accept shōu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 118, p. 983

to receive visitors; to take care of guests jiēdài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 433, p. 3329
to reckon; to make a rough guess gūjì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 346, p. 2695
to recommend tuījiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 177, p. 1439
to recover; to get back to normal huīfù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 241, p. 1889
to recruit; to advertise a job zhāopìn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 486, p. 3721
to recycle huíshōu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 381, p. 2949
to reduce; to cut down jiǎnshǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 383, p. 2965
to refuse; to turn down jùjué
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 264, p. 2051
to regard (in a certain way) kàndài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 349, p. 2715
to register at a clinic; to register at a hospital guàhào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 231, p. 1821
to register officially dēngjì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 316, p. 2477
to regret hòuhuǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 187, p. 1505
to rehearse páiliàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 505, p. 3859
to relax; to loosen fàngsōng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 184, p. 1487
to relieve stress jiǎnyā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 485, p. 3713
to remarry zàihūn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 307, p. 2409
to remember jìde
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 217, p. 1717
to remind tíxǐng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 364, p. 2827
to rent zū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 203, p. 1623
to repair; to fix xiū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 103, p. 875 to repeat a school year liújí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 496, p. 3791
to reply (to a message) huífù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 157, p. 1293

to report in on arrival; to sign in 报到 (bàodào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 304, p. 2387
to report on; a news report bàodào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 290, p. 2285
to report the loss of (a card or document) guàshī
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 285, p. 2231
to require; to demand (of someone) yāoqiú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 399, p. 3083
to resemble; to take after xiàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 124, p. 1023
to resign; to quit a job cízhí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 276, p. 2133
to rest xiūxi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 50, p. 455
to result in something bad dǎozhì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 537, p. 4095
to retire tuìxiū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 276, p. 2133
to return a ticket (for a refund) tuìpiào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 284, p. 2219
to reverse the car; to back up dàochē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 420, p. 3235
to revise; to correct (a piece of work) xiūgǎi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 251, p. 1959
to revise; to go over again fùxí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 121, p. 1003 to ride (a bike or a horse) qí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 106, p. 897 to ripen; to be ripe chéngshú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 516, p. 3939
to rise after rain (of a river) zhǎngshuǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 442, p. 3395
to roast; to bake kǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 113, p. 951
to rob by force qiǎngjié
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 309, p. 2425
to row a boat huáchuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 246, p. 1921
to run away; to flee táo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 301, p. 2365
to run behind schedule; to be late (of a train or plane) 晚点 (wǎndiǎn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 145, p. 1173

to run into; to come across yùdào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 227, p. 1789
to run out of time láibují
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 83, p. 705
to run the household 当家 (dāngjiā)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 509, p. 3889
to run; to jog pǎobù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 56, p. 2121
to save energy; energy-saving 节能 (jiénéng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 385, p. 2979
to say goodbye; to take leave gàobié
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 336, p. 2621
to say hello to someone dǎ zhāohu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 361, p. 2805
to say; to speak 说 (shuō)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 53, p. 475
to scald; to burn (with heat) tàngshāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 478, p. 3663
to scan a code (to pay) sǎomǎ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 202, p. 1617
to score a goal 进球 (jìnqiú)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 498, p. 3807
to scratch; to grab zhuā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 229, p. 1803
to scrub; to brush clean shuā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 521, p. 3977
to see a doctor 看病 (kànbìng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 130, p. 1883
to see a guest out 送客 (sòngkè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 336, p. 2621
to see or catch sight of 看见 (kànjiàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 18, p. 171
to see; to catch sight of 看到 (kàndào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 151, p. 1229
to seek advice (from someone who knows more) 请教 (qǐngjiào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 493, p. 3769
to sell mài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 42, p. 391
to sell retail língshòu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 523, p. 3989
to sell wholesale pīfā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 523, p. 3989
to send electronically; to send a message or an email fāsòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 201, p. 1611

to send regards to; to greet 问候 (wènhòu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 173, p. 1411
to set off; to depart chūfā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 155, p. 1271
to set out for a place 前往 (qiánwǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 428, p. 3295
to set out on a journey; to hit the road 上路 (shànglù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 410, p. 3165
to set sail 开船 (kāichuán)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 411, p. 3171
to set up a street stall bǎitān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 448, p. 3441
to settle down; to make a place your home dìngjū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 313, p. 2455
to settle the bill jiézhàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 524, p. 3997
to sew; to stitch féng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 521, p. 3977
to shake hands wòshǒu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 336, p. 2621
to shake one's head yáotóu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 476, p. 3651
to share fēnxiǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 343, p. 2675 to share someone's view; to identify with rèntóng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 353, p. 2745
to shed tears liúlèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 314, p. 2463
to shelter from the rain duǒyǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 234, p. 1843
to shoot at goal shèmén
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 498, p. 3807
to shop online wǎnggòu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 387, p. 2995
to shorten suōduǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 400, p. 3091
to shout; to call out hǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 298, p. 2343
to show respect for; to respect zūnzhòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 363, p. 2915
to shut down; to be shut to the public guānbì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 432, p. 3323
to shut; to close; to switch off guān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 65, p. 567

to sigh tànqì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 460, p. 3529
to sign for (a delivery) qiānshōu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 215, p. 1705
to sign up; to enter (one's name) bàomíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 268, p. 2079
to sign your name qiānmíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 189, p. 1521
to sing chànggē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 55, p. 489
to sit in the cool (out of the sun) chéngliáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 519, p. 3963
to sit; to travel by zuò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 44, p. 405
to ski huáxuě
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 221, p. 1747
to skip with a rope tiàoshéng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 220, p. 1741
to sleep in; to lie in shuì lǎnjiào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 145, p. 1173
to sleep; to go to bed shuìjiào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 50, p. 455
to slip up; to go wrong 出错 (chūcuò)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 356, p. 2767
to smoke xīyān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 115, p. 963
to sneeze dǎ pēntì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 222, p. 1755
to solve; to settle jiějué
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 217, p. 1717
to someone's face; in person 当面 (dāngmiàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 355, p. 2761
to soothe a child; to coax hǒng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 510, p. 3897
to sort into kinds fēnlèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 381, p. 2949
to sort out; to put in order zhěnglǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 142, p. 1155
to sort something out; to do; to handle nòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 174, p. 1419
to spend less; to save money shěngqián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 188, p. 1513
to spend money huāqián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 188, p. 1513

to sprain niǔshāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 478, p. 3663
to sprout; to bud fāyá
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 237, p. 1865
to stand zhàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 89, p. 761 to stand someone up fàng gēzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 397, p. 3069
to stare blankly; to be lost in a daze fādāi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 466, p. 3573
to start a business; to found an enterprise chuàngyè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 513, p. 3917
to start school rùxué
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 304, p. 2387
to start the school term 开学 (kāixué)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 303, p. 2381
to stay up late; to stay up all night áoyè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 169, p. 1383 to steal tōu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 216, p. 1711
to steam (food) zhēng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 168, p. 1377
to stew dùn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 168, p. 1377
to stick; to paste up tiē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 334, p. 2605
to still have time (to do something) láidejí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 391, p. 3023
to stir-fry chǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 113, p. 951
to stir up trouble; to provoke rě
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 539, p. 4109
to stop the bleeding zhǐxuè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 479, p. 3671
to stop; to park tíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 107, p. 905 to stop worrying; to be at ease fàngxīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 125, p. 1029
to strive for; to fight for zhēngqǔ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 513, p. 3917
to stroke; to touch mō
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 229, p. 1803
to stroll the shops; to go window-shopping guàngjiē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 141, p. 1149

to struggle (towards a goal) fèndòu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 513, p. 3917
to study abroad liúxué
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 261, p. 2031
to study; to learn xuéxí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 54, p. 483
to stuff in; to squeeze in sāi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 453, p. 3481
to succeed chénggōng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 394, p. 3047
to suggest jiànyì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 365, p. 2835
to sum up zǒngjié
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 371, p. 2879
to support; to back zhīchí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 270, p. 2093
to suspect; to doubt huáiyí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 310, p. 2433
to sweat chūhàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 220, p. 1741
to sweep the floor sǎodì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 160, p. 1319
to swim yóuyǒng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 90, p. 2025
to switch off (a phone or a computer) 关机 (guānjī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 198, p. 1589
to sympathize with 同情 (tóngqíng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 460, p. 3529
to take a detour; to take the long way round ràolù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 447, p. 3433
to take a photo zhàoxiàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 207, p. 1653
to take a risk màoxiǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 394, p. 3047
to take a selfie zìpāi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 430, p. 3309
to take a taxi 打车 (dǎchē)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 409, p. 3157
to take a turn for the better; to start to improve hǎozhuǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 483, p. 3701
to take a walk sànbù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 141, p. 1149
to take an exam kǎoshì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 79, p. 677

to take extra lessons bǔxí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 493, p. 3769
to take goods back; to return goods to a shop tuìhuò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 202, p. 1617
to take it seriously; to take at face value 当真 (dàngzhēn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 373, p. 2893
to take medicine chīyào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 228, p. 1795
to take off (of a plane) qǐfēi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 196, p. 1573
to take one's mind off things; to unwind sànxīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 439, p. 3373
to take out money qǔqián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 195, p. 1567
to take part in; to join cānjiā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 84, p. 711 to take the field; to come on (to play) 上场 (shàngchǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 500, p. 3821
to take; to hold ná
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 103, p. 875
to talk it over together; to consult shāngliang
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 348, p. 2709
to talk someone round; to persuade shuōfú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 353, p. 2745
to taste; to sample pǐncháng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 341, p. 2659
to teach jiāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 121, p. 1003
to teach oneself 自学 (zìxué)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 497, p. 3799
to tell gàosu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 214, p. 1699
to tell about; to give an account of jiǎngshù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 325, p. 2539
to tend the family graves sǎomù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 340, p. 2651
to thank (warmly) gǎnxiè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 77, p. 663
to think hard; to reflect sīkǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 347, p. 2701
to think highly of; to hold in high regard pèifú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 461, p. 3535
to think of; to call to mind 想起 (xiǎngqǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 324, p. 2533

to think something over; to consider kǎolǜ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 346, p. 2695
to think; to hold a view rènwéi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 256, p. 1997
to thirst for; to crave kěwàng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 533, p. 4065
to throw; to throw away rēng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 103, p. 875
to throw up; to vomit tù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 240, p. 1883
to thunder dǎléi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 136, p. 1113
to tidy up shōushi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 133, p. 1091
to top up (a card or a phone) chōngzhí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 212, p. 1687
to topple over; to fall down (of a thing) dǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 176, p. 1433
to touch; to bump into pèng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 171, p. 1399
to translate; to interpret fānyì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 488, p. 3735
to travel for work; to go on a business trip chūchāi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 191, p. 1537
to travel; to tour lǚyóu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 141, p. 1149
to tremble; to shiver fādǒu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 463, p. 3549
to trouble; to bother máfan
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 77, p. 663
to try; to try on 试 (shì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 108, p. 911
to turn a corner guǎi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 111, p. 935
to turn a phone on; to switch on a phone or a computer 开机 (kāijī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 198, p. 1589
to turn bad (of the weather) 变天 (biàntiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 386, p. 2987
to turn colder; to cool down jiàngwēn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 219, p. 1733
to turn hostile suddenly; to change one's attitude abruptly 变脸 (biànliǎn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 472, p. 3619

to turn into 变成 (biànchéng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 386, p. 2987
to turn round (in a car); to make a U-turn diàotóu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 424, p. 3265
to tutor; to give guidance fǔdǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 493, p. 3769
to type 打字 (dǎzì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 204, p. 1631
to understand dǒng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 53, p. 475 to understand (on hearing) tīngdǒng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 151, p. 1229
to understand (on reading or watching) kàndǒng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 151, p. 1229
to understand someone's reasons; to sympathize 理解 (lǐjiě)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 367, p. 2849
to urge; to try to persuade quàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 364, p. 2827
to use 用 (yòng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 103, p. 875
to use little electricity; to save electricity shěngdiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 520, p. 3971
to vent one's anger; to take it out on someone 出气 (chūqì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 464, p. 3559
to visit as a guest; to be a guest 做客 (zuòkè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 180, p. 1459
to wait for a train or bus 候车 (hòuchē)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 402, p. 3105
to wait; to wait for děng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 48, p. 439 to wake someone up jiàoxǐng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 158, p. 1305
to wake up xǐng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 146, p. 1179
to walk the dog liùgǒu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 229, p. 1803
to walk; to go on foot zǒulù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 194, p. 1559
to walk; to leave zǒu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 43, p. 397
to want; to ask for yào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 41, p. 957
to want to; to think; to miss 想 (xiǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 55, p. 489

to want; would like 想要 (xiǎngyào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 91, p. 779
to wash 洗 (xǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 99, p. 847
to wash one's face xǐliǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 99, p. 847
to wash one's hair xǐtóu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 164, p. 1347
to waste làngfèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 383, p. 2965
to watch out; to look out 当心 (dāngxīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 366, p. 2843
to water the plants jiāohuā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 142, p. 1155
to wear; to put on chuān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 59, p. 519
to weigh on a scale chēng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 526, p. 4015
to win a contest; to be victorious huòshèng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 500, p. 3821
to win (a prize); to be awarded huòdé
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 501, p. 3829
to win in a draw; to win a prize zhòngjiǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 530, p. 4043
to wipe cā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 133, p. 1091
to wish someone well 祝 (zhù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 337, p. 2629
to work as; to be (a job or a role) 当 (dāng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 287, p. 2253
to work; job gōngzuò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 35, p. 337 to work out; to keep fit jiànshēn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 220, p. 1741
to work overtime jiābān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 255, p. 1989
to work part-time; to have a part-time job 打工 (dǎgōng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 255, p. 1989
to work together; to cooperate hézuò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 490, p. 3749 to worry dānxīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 125, p. 1029
to wrap goods for sale bāozhuāng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 527, p. 4023

to write xiě
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 54, p. 483
to write essays and stories; writing 写作 (xiězuò)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 251, p. 1959
to write to each other; to correspond tōngxìn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 319, p. 2497
to wrongly assume; to take it that (often wrongly) 以为 (yǐwéi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 346, p. 2695
to yearn for xiàngwǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 533, p. 4065
today 今天 (jīntiān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 45, p. 413
Today and Tomorrow
chapter topic; Chapter 45, p. 413
tofu; bean curd dòufu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 177, p. 1439
together 一起 (yìqǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 84, p. 711
toilet; lavatory cèsuǒ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 192, p. 1545
toilet; washroom xǐshǒujiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 86, p. 727
toll gate shōufèizhàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 421, p. 3241
tomorrow míngtiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 45, p. 413
tone of voice; way of saying something 口气 (kǒuqì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 357, p. 2775
tongue shétou
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 476, p. 3651
Too Much
chapter topic; Chapter 93, p. 797 too; too much tài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 41, p. 957 tool gōngjù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 208, p. 1661
tooth; teeth yáchǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 473, p. 3627
toothbrush yáshuā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 105, p. 891
toothpaste yágāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 105, p. 891
top of a mountain; summit shāndǐng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 435, p. 3343

top school; famous university 名校 (míngxiào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 512, p. 3911
topic of conversation 话题 (huàtí)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 354, p. 2753
tour group lǚyóutuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 434, p. 3337
tour guide dǎoyóu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 213, p. 1693
tourist yóukè
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 213, p. 1693
towards; in the direction of wǎng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 283, p. 2207
towel máojīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 105, p. 891 town; walled city 城 (chéng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 446, p. 3425
toy wánjù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 269, p. 2085 tradition chuántǒng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 340, p. 2651
traditional Chinese medicine; a doctor of it 中医 (zhōngyī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 231, p. 1821
traditional Chinese painting 国画 (guóhuà)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 502, p. 3835
traffic accident; car crash chēhuò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 296, p. 2329
traffic jam; to be stuck in traffic dǔchē
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 95, p. 817
traffic lane 车道 (chēdào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 420, p. 3235
traffic lights hónglǜdēng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 194, p. 1559
traffic police officer jiāojǐng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 311, p. 2439
traffic; transport 交通 (jiāotōng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 409, p. 3157
train 火车 (huǒchē)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 72, p. 621
train attendant lièchēyuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 403, p. 3111
train or bus ticket 车票 (chēpiào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 196, p. 1573
Trains and Opening Hours
chapter topic; Chapter 155, p. 1271

Travel and Fun
chapter topic; Chapter 141, p. 1149
travel costs; the cost of getting there lǜfèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 429, p. 3301
travel notes; account of a journey 游记 (yóujì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 434, p. 3337
traveller; passenger on a long journey 旅客 (lǚkè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 403, p. 3111
Travellers
chapter topic; Chapter 403, p. 3111
treasure bǎowù
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 331, p. 2585
Treatment
chapter topic; Chapter 482, p. 3695
tree 树 (shù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 516, p. 3939
Trees and Leaves
chapter topic; Chapter 516, p. 3939
trousers kùzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 59, p. 519
Trying It On
chapter topic; Chapter 108, p. 911
tuition fees xuéfèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 304, p. 2387
tunnel suìdào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 424, p. 3265
twenty — two ten, and the same ten words now reach ninety-nine 二十 (èrshí)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology; Chapter 21, p. 213
twilight; the fading light of evening huánghūn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 517, p. 3947
twins shuāngbāotāi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 302, p. 2373
two 二 (èr)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology; Chapter 3, p. 25
Two Cups of Tea
chapter topic; Chapter 88, p. 749
two (of something) 两 (liǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 88, p. 749
Two pieces again — and a warning about the story
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 2, p. 11
Two Tickets
chapter topic; Chapter 284, p. 2219
typhoon táifēng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 244, p. 1909

U ugly nánkàn

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 124, p. 1023
umbrella yǔsǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 116, p. 971
unchanged; staying the same 不变 (búbiàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 394, p. 3047
uncle; father's younger brother shūshu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 272, p. 2107
uncooked rice; rice grain 大米 (dàmǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 161, p. 1325
under; below xiàbian
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 86, p. 727
Under the Weather
chapter topic; Chapter 222, p. 1755
underground; metro dìtiě
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 106, p. 897 uneasy; worried 不安 (bù'ān)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 379, p. 2935
unexpected; beyond what anyone imagined 意想不到 (yìxiǎngbúdào)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 462, p. 3543
university; college, built from known characters 大学 (dàxué)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 13, p. 121
university student, built from known characters 大学生 (dàxuésheng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 13, p. 121
unless chúfēi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 396, p. 3061 unused; lying idle xiánzhì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 386, p. 2987
unwanted noise; din zàoyīn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 378, p. 2929
Up in the Air
chapter topic; Chapter 413, p. 3185
upper reaches (of a river); upstream 上游 (shàngyóu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 442, p. 3395
Upstairs
chapter topic; Chapter 206, p. 1647
urgent; a cause for concern 要紧 (yàojǐn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 481, p. 3687
Using Things
chapter topic; Chapter 103, p. 875

usually; ordinarily píngshí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 146, p. 1179

V

valid; effective yǒuxiào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 455, p. 3495
version of events; way of putting it 说法 (shuōfa)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 349, p. 2715
very fast; as fast as flying 飞快 (fēikuài)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 413, p. 3185
very nearly; all but jīhū
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 531, p. 4049
video shìpín
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 204, p. 1631
view; opinion kànfǎ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 256, p. 1997
viewers; spectators; the people watching a show guānzhòng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 292, p. 2299
vigour; get-up-and-go jīngshen
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 485, p. 3713
village cūnzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 246, p. 1921
village head 村长 (cūnzhǎng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 440, p. 3379
villager cūnmín
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 440, p. 3379
violin xiǎotíqín
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 506, p. 3867
virus bìngdú
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 481, p. 3687
visa qiānzhèng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 213, p. 1693
Visiting
chapter topic; Chapter 74, p. 637
voice message; speech sounds 语音 (yǔyīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 320, p. 2505
volunteer zhìyuànzhě
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 375, p. 2907

W

waiter; attendant fúwùyuán
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 92, p. 787
Waking Up
chapter topic; Chapter 158, p. 1305
wallet; purse qiánbāo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 116, p. 971
war zhànzhēng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 327, p. 2555
wardrobe yīguì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 179, p. 1453
Warm-Hearted
chapter topic; Chapter 258, p. 2009
warm-hearted; eager to help 热心 (rèxīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 258, p. 2009
warm; welcoming rèqíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 123, p. 1017
washing machine 洗衣机 (xǐyījī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 179, p. 1453
washing powder xǐyīfěn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 179, p. 1453
water 水 (shuǐ)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 39, p. 367
water bill shuǐfèi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 522, p. 3983
water heater rèshuǐqì
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 520, p. 3971
watermelon xīguā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 237, p. 1865
Way In, Way Out
chapter topic; Chapter 112, p. 943
Ways of Seeing
chapter topic; Chapter 349, p. 2715
we; us 我们 (wǒmen)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 31, p. 305
weak point; shortcoming quēdiǎn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 373, p. 2893
weather 天气 (tiānqì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 66, p. 577 weather forecast tiānqì yùbào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 147, p. 1187
website 网站 (wǎngzhàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 204, p. 1631

wedding hūnlǐ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 254, p. 1983
wedding dress hūnshā
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 307, p. 2409
wedding sweets xǐtáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 306, p. 2401
week 星期 (xīngqī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 46, p. 421 weekend zhōumò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 46, p. 421
weight; how heavy something is 重量 (zhòngliàng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 526, p. 4015
welcome huānyíng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 74, p. 637
Well Said
chapter topic; Chapter 152, p. 1241
western medicine; a doctor of it 西医 (xīyī)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 231, p. 1821
western part; the western regions 西部 (xībù)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 438, p. 3365
What?
chapter topic; Chapter 9, p. 85
What a Day
chapter topic; Chapter 187, p. 1505
What Do You Do?
chapter topic; Chapter 259, p. 2017
What Do You Mean?
chapter topic; Chapter 347, p. 2701
What Do You Think?
chapter topic; Chapter 256, p. 1997
What Do You Want to Be
chapter topic; Chapter 488, p. 3735
What I Can Do
chapter topic; Chapter 90, p. 2025; Chapter 260, p. 2025
What I'd Like
chapter topic; Chapter 91, p. 779
What I Think
chapter topic; Chapter 280, p. 2173
What I Want to Be
chapter topic; Chapter 287, p. 2253
what is going on here; what's the matter 怎么回事 (zěnme huí shì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 540, p. 4117
what is really on one's mind; words from the heart 心里话 (xīnlihuà)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 459, p. 3521

What Kind of Person
chapter topic; Chapter 467, p. 3581
what one really meant; original intention 本意 (běnyì)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 352, p. 2739
What People Are Like
chapter topic; Chapter 123, p. 1017
what set it off; the starting cause 起因 (qǐyīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 537, p. 4095
what should I do? zěnme bàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 214, p. 1699
what — the first question word in this book 什么 (shénme)
explicit focus: etymology, usage and culture; Chapter 9, p. 85
What You Are Called
chapter topic; Chapter 34, p. 329
What You Have to Do
chapter topic; Chapter 362, p. 2811
What You Love
chapter topic; Chapter 55, p. 489
Whatever Happens
chapter topic; Chapter 396, p. 3061
When I Was Little
chapter topic; Chapter 269, p. 2085
When Plans Change
chapter topic; Chapter 391, p. 3023
when the time comes 到时候 (dào shíhou)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 391, p. 3023
When the Weather Turns
chapter topic; Chapter 514, p. 3925
When Wishes Come True
chapter topic; Chapter 536, p. 4087
where? 哪儿 (nǎr)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 86, p. 727
Where and When
chapter topic; Chapter 207, p. 1653
Where Is It?
chapter topic; Chapter 86, p. 727
Where People Come From
chapter topic; Chapter 36, p. 343
Where Things Are
chapter topic; Chapter 85, p. 719
which nǎ
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 36, p. 343
which goes to show; so it is clear that 可见 (kějiàn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 365, p. 2835

which one nǎge
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 37, p. 351 which ones 哪些 (nǎxiē)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 127, p. 1043
Which Way?
chapter topic; Chapter 117, p. 2207; Chapter 283, p. 2207
white; pale 白 (bái)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 60, p. 525
Who Did It
chapter topic; Chapter 310, p. 2433
Who Does What
chapter topic; Chapter 35, p. 337
Whose Fault
chapter topic; Chapter 297, p. 4109
Whose Fault?
chapter topic; Chapter 539, p. 4109
Why?
chapter topic; Chapter 95, p. 817
why? 为什么 (wèishénme)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 95, p. 817
wife qīzi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 272, p. 2107
Win or Lose
chapter topic; Chapter 262, p. 2037
wind fēng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 66, p. 577
Wind and Warm Days
chapter topic; Chapter 218, p. 1725
window chuānghu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 159, p. 1311
Winners
chapter topic; Chapter 501, p. 3829
Winning a Prize
chapter topic; Chapter 530, p. 4043
winter dōngtiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 131, p. 3931
With a Clock
chapter topic; Chapter 98, p. 843
with a mind at rest; settled 安心 (ānxīn)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 379, p. 2935
With a Tour Group
chapter topic; Chapter 434, p. 3337
with; and; (gēn ... yíyàng) the same as gēn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 153, p. 1251

with good hopes of it; likely to happen 有望 (yǒuwàng)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 532, p. 4057
with one's own hands 亲手 (qīnshǒu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 513, p. 3917
witness zhèngrén
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 310, p. 2433
woman 女人 (nǚrén)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 33, p. 321
woods; a grove shùlín
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 516, p. 3939
word of advice; warning zhōnggào
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 365, p. 2835 words; speech 话 (huà)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 53, p. 475
worker gōngrén
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 80, p. 685
world 世界 (shìjiè)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 326, p. 2547
worn out; fatigued píláo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 484, p. 3707
would rather nìngkě
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 534, p. 4073
wound; cut 伤口 (shāngkǒu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 478, p. 3663
wristwatch shǒubiǎo
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 116, p. 971 writer; author 作家 (zuòjiā)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 259, p. 2017
Writing score — from sound, no model
script and writing topic; Chapter 17, p. 159 wrong; mistaken cuò
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 121, p. 1003 wronged; hurt by unfair blame wěiqu
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 459, p. 3521

X

xǐhuan — 'to like', an ordinary verb with an ordinary object, and no inversion anywhere 喜欢 (xǐhuan)
explicit focus: pronunciation, grammar, etymology; Chapter 28, p. 279
Xihuan — What You Like
chapter topic; Chapter 28, p. 279

Y

year 年 (nián)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 47, p. 429
year; grade (at school) niánjí
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 248, p. 1935
yellow huáng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 139, p. 1135
Yes, but
chapter topic; Chapter 365, p. 2835
Yes, No, and a Tone That Moves
chapter topic; Chapter 5, p. 51
yesterday zuótiān
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 45, p. 413
yet again; it happened again 又 (yòu)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 315, p. 2469
yī → yí ge, yì tiān: the tone 一 takes pronunciation topic; explicit focus: pronunciation; Chapter 88, p. 749 you all; you (more than one) 你们 (nǐmen)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 31, p. 305
you (one person) 你 (nǐ)
explicit focus: pronunciation, script, etymology; Chapter 1, p. 1
you (polite) nín
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 34, p. 329
you're welcome; don't mention it 不客气 (bú kèqi)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 77, p. 663
you're welcome — real and understood everywhere, though not the commonest reply, which needs characters this book cannot yet print 不谢 (bú xiè)
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology, usage and culture; Chapter 10, p. 93
You Should Rest
chapter topic; Chapter 282, p. 2195
yǒu — 'to have', and also 'there is': one verb where Spanish spends three points 有 (yǒu)
explicit focus: pronunciation, grammar, etymology; Chapter 24, p. 239
You've Got a Point
chapter topic; Chapter 353, p. 2745
young niánqīng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 94, p. 807
young people; youth qīngnián
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 317, p. 2687
younger brother dìdi
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 32, p. 313

younger sister mèimei
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 33, p. 321
yuan; lump kuài
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 41, p. 957
yuan (the unit of money, as written; said kuài) 元 (yuán)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 156, p. 1283

Z

zebra crossing; pedestrian crossing bānmǎxiàn
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 194, p. 1559
zěnmeyàng — 'how is it?', the everyday way to ask how somebody is doing zěnmeyàng
explicit focus: pronunciation, etymology, usage and culture; Chapter 30, p. 293 zero líng
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 132, p. 1083

Other

一 — one stroke, and that is the character
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 3, p. 25 一家书店 — counting shops with 家
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 284, p. 2219
七 — two strokes, for seven
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 20, p. 199 万 — a bar, a turning hook, a long fall
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 393, p. 3039
三 — three bars, and the pattern's last stand
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 3, p. 25 上 — the same rule, read the other way
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 7, p. 67 下 — a bar, a vertical, a dot
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 73, p. 3105 不 — four strokes, all of them separate
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 4, p. 41 不 — 没: two words for not
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 87, p. 737
世 — a long bar and two verticals
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 325, p. 2539 业 — two verticals, two short strokes, a long bar
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 487, p. 3727

东 — a bar, a turn, a hook and two short strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 203, p. 1623 两 — a bar, a frame, two small 人
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 88, p. 749 个 — three strokes, and you already write two of them
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 24, p. 239
中 — close, then pass through
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 15, p. 137 中国人 — a Chinese person, built out of three characters you already write 中国人 (Zhōngguó rén) explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 22, p. 221 为 — a dot, a long fall, the hook of 男, a dot
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 95, p. 817 么 — three strokes, and one of them turns script and writing topic; explicit focus: pronunciation, script; Chapter 9, p. 85 乐 — a fall, a turn, and 小
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 75, p. 647 九 — two strokes again
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 20, p. 199 也 — the right half of 他
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 92, p. 787 书 — a book, the book, books grammar topic; Chapter 22, p. 221
书 — copy the compact route
script and writing topic; Chapter 18, p. 171
书 — two folds, upright, dot
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 18, p. 171
书 — wait, then place the dot
script and writing topic; Chapter 18, p. 171 买 — a lid, two dots, and a cut-down 大
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 40, p. 375 了 — aspect, and why it is not a tense
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 25, p. 249 了 — two strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 25, p. 249 事 — a bar, 口, three bars and a long hook
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 167, p. 1369 二 — two bars, and neither is decoration
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 3, p. 25 云 — two bars, then a turn and a dot
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 219, p. 1733 五 — count the strokes and be wrong
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 3, p. 25

些 — two small pieces over 二
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 127, p. 1043 交 — a lid, then two strokes crossing
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 408, p. 3149 亲 — the top of yì, then four strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 511, p. 3903
人 — two strokes, and a person walking
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 2, p. 11 亻 — the same person, standing sideways
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 2, p. 11
什 — both halves are old news
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 9, p. 85 今 — a roof, a dot and a turn
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 45, p. 413 从 — 人 twice, the left one narrower
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 155, p. 1271 从八点到十点 — from and to
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 155, p. 1271 他 — the person piece, then yě
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 31, p. 305 他比我大两岁 — comparing with 比
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 153, p. 1251
代 — the person piece, then a slanting hook
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 323, p. 2525 以 — four strokes in two pairs
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 126, p. 1035 以后我想... — later, I want to
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 287, p. 2253 们 — the person piece, then a doorway
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 31, p. 305 价 — the person piece, then 人 with two legs under it
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 524, p. 3997 会 — 人 over two bars and a bend
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 76, p. 655 传 — the person piece, then two bars and a turning sweep
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 328, p. 2561
伤 — 亻, then a short top over 力
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 478, p. 3663 但 — the person piece, then the sun over a line
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 369, p. 2865 体 — the person piece, then 本
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 230, p. 1811

作 — the person piece, then a post with two short bars
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 251, p. 1959
你去过中国吗 — 过 for what you have done
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 150, p. 1219
你在做什么 — 在 before a verb
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 149, p. 1209 你应该... — you should
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 282, p. 2195
你说得很好 — how well, with 得
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 152, p. 1241
保 — the person piece, then 口 over a tree
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 382, p. 2957 信 — the person piece, then a dot, three bars and 口
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 319, p. 2497 候 — the person piece, a thin stroke, then the right side
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 173, p. 1411 假 — the person piece, then two narrow pieces
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 263, p. 2043
做 — the person, gǔ, and a striking hand
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 69, p. 601 停 — the person piece, then a tall right side
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 418, p. 3219 偷 — the person piece, then a roof over 月 and two posts
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 309, p. 2425 儿 — fall, then bend and hook
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 12, p. 111 元 — 二, then 儿 under it
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 156, p. 1283 先 — a cross and a long bar, over 儿
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 269, p. 2085 先...然后...最后 — first, then, last
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 278, p. 2147
光 — three short strokes, a bar, then 儿
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 517, p. 3947 入 — two strokes, the right one on top
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 405, p. 3127 全 — a wide roof, then three bars and a vertical
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 381, p. 2949 八 — a character you have already written twice
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 20, p. 199 公 — 八 over a turn and a dot
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 205, p. 1637

六 — four strokes again, for six this time
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 20, p. 199 关 — two short strokes over 天
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 198, p. 1589 兴 — three short strokes over a bar, and 八 under it
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 465, p. 3565 再 — a bar, a frame, and a line that closes it
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 6, p. 59 写 — a cover, then a turning hook
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 251, p. 1959 冷 — the ice piece, then 今 and a dot
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 182, p. 1473 准 — the ice piece, then the bird piece
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 364, p. 2827 出 — two halves like 山, one long vertical
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 112, p. 943 到 — 至 on the left, then the blade of 前
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 151, p. 1229 前 — horns, a bar, the moon and a blade
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 78, p. 669 力 — a turn with a hook, then a falling stroke
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 474, p. 3635 包 — a wrapping stroke, and three strokes inside
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 119, p. 989 北 — two halves back to back
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 422, p. 3249 区 — a bar, a cross, then the frame
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 377, p. 2921 医 — a box open on the right, with five strokes inside
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 231, p. 1821 十 — the character that was already here
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 20, p. 199 千 — a short fall over 十
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 132, p. 1083 午 — the top of 年
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 49, p. 447 半 — two dots, two bars, one vertical
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 140, p. 1141 卖 — 十 on top, then 买 under it
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 523, p. 3989 南 — 十 over a frame
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 423, p. 3257

原 — the cliff over 白 and 小
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 537, p. 4095
去 — a cross on a bar, and a corner below
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 43, p. 397 去...怎么走 — how do I get there?
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 283, p. 2207
又 — the fork at the foot of 报
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 315, p. 2469
发 — a bent stroke, a sweep, a fork and a dot
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 291, p. 2291 取 — the ear piece, then 又
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 395, p. 3053
变 — a dot and a bar over four short strokes, then 又
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 386, p. 2987
口 — the box, on its own
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 4, p. 41 古 — 十 over 口
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 321, p. 2511 只 — 口 over 八
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 399, p. 3083 叫 — a small mouth, then two strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 34, p. 329 可 — a bar, a mouth and a hook
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 365, p. 2835 号 — 口 on top, then a bar and a hook
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 189, p. 1521
司 — a hooked frame, a short bar, then kǒu
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 491, p. 3755 吃 — a mouth, then three strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 38, p. 359 吃了饭以后 — after doing something
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 278, p. 2147
同 — frame, line, box
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 15, p. 137
名 — a mouth with something above it
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 8, p. 75 后 — a three-stroke frame, then 口
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 147, p. 1187 吗 — copy it, and keep the mouth small
script and writing topic; Chapter 19, p. 185
吗 — the mouth, then the horse
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 19, p. 185

吗 — wait, then write the bar
script and writing topic; Chapter 19, p. 185 吵 — 口, then 少
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 129, p. 1059 呢 — 吗's shape, a different sound
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 26, p. 259 味 — a small 口, then two bars and a vertical
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 449, p. 3449 和 — eight strokes, and the right half is a mouth
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 27, p. 269 哪 — 口 beside the whole of 那
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 86, p. 727 喜 — twelve strokes, stacked in four bands
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 28, p. 279 喝 — a mouth, a sun and a wrap
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 39, p. 367
四 — a box, and the rule that governs every box
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 3, p. 25 回 — 口 inside a larger frame
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 191, p. 1537 因 — 大 inside the frame of 国
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 96, p. 827 因为...所以... — because, so
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 281, p. 2183 国 — copy with the frame open
script and writing topic; Chapter 17, p. 159
国 — frame, inside, close
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 17, p. 159 国 — wait before closing
script and writing topic; Chapter 17, p. 159
图 — a frame, and five strokes inside it
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 454, p. 3487 在 — the top of 有, a vertical, then 土
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 85, p. 719 地 — the earth piece, then 也
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 207, p. 1653
场 — the earth piece, then a zigzag and two sweeps
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 416, p. 3205 坐 — 人 twice, then 土
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 284, p. 2219
坐在这儿 — 在 after the verb
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 284, p. 2219

坐火车去 — going by train
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 284, p. 2219
城 — the earth piece, then 成
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 446, p. 3425 外 — the top of 多, then a vertical and a dot
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 110, p. 927 多 — the same three strokes, twice
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 41, p. 957
大 — one bar, two falls
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 13, p. 121 天 — one more bar over 大
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 45, p. 413 太 — 大, then a dot
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 93, p. 797 头 — two dots over a shape like 大
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 228, p. 1795 女 — three strokes, seated
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 2, p. 11 好 again — proof, on a character you own, that tone is the word etymology topic; explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 1, p. 1 如 — 女, then 口
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 281, p. 2183 如果...就... — if, then
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 289, p. 2273 如果...就会... — what would happen
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 289, p. 2273 妈 — the woman piece, then a horse
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 32, p. 313 子 — three strokes, a child
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 2, p. 11 字 — a child under a roof
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 8, p. 75 季 — the grain piece, then 子 under it
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 515, p. 3931 学 — top, cover, child
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 13, p. 121 学了两年 — how long it lasted
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 286, p. 2243
孩 — 子, then a dot, a bar and four strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 253, p. 1975
安 — the roof of 家, then 女
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 379, p. 2935

定 — the roof of 安 over the foot of 是
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 390, p. 3015 客 — under the roof, a foot and 口
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 74, p. 637
家 — roof first, body second
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 12, p. 111 对 — five strokes, and a hand on the left
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 26, p. 259 小 — centre, left, right
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 14, p. 131 少 — 小 without its hook, and a sweep
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 41, p. 957 尔 — a piece that is there for its sound
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 2, p. 11 就 — a dot, a bar, 口 and 小, then a four-stroke right side
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 288, p. 2263 山 — three peaks on a base
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 68, p. 593 岁 — six strokes, and a rule that is not left-to-right
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 27, p. 269
岛 — a top piece of four strokes, then 山
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 444, p. 3411 工 — two bars and a post
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 255, p. 1989 市 — a dot and a bar over three strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 448, p. 3441
希 — a cross, a bar and a long stroke, then three at the foot
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 533, p. 4065 常 — three strokes, a cover, 口 and a cloth
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 178, p. 1445 年 — three bars and a long vertical
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 47, p. 429 庆 — the roof piece over 大
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 339, p. 2643
应 — the roof of 店, two dots, a falling stroke and a base
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 282, p. 2195 店 — a roof over a small piece and 口
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 190, p. 1529 开 — two bars, two legs
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 72, p. 621 当 — the top of 常, then the foot of 雪
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 287, p. 2253

往 — the left piece of 很, then a dot over three bars
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 427, p. 3287 很 — nine strokes, two pieces
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 30, p. 293 得 — the left of 很, then 日, a bar and 寸
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 152, p. 1241 心 — a dot, a lying hook, two dots
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 115, p. 963 必 — the strokes of the heart, with a sweep through them
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 360, p. 2797 快 — the upright heart, then guài
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 62, p. 541
怎 — the right of 作, then 心
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 283, p. 2207 怕 — the heart piece, then 白
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 463, p. 3549
思 — a box with a cross, over the heart
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 347, p. 2701 性 — the heart piece, then 生
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 467, p. 3581 怪 — the upright heart, then 又 over the earth piece
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 539, p. 4109 情 — the heart piece, then a top over 月
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 459, p. 3521 想 — a tree and an eye, over a heart
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 55, p. 489 意 — the left of 站 on top, then 日 and 心
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 280, p. 2173
感 — a frame with 口 inside, then 心
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 286, p. 2243
愿 — a cliff over 白 and 小, then 心
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 535, p. 4079 成 — a bar, a fall, a small turn, then the slanting hook of 我
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 384, p. 2971 我 — seven strokes, and an honest admission
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 8, p. 75 我感觉... — how it felt
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 286, p. 2243
我是 — nothing agrees with anything
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 22, p. 221 我是大学生了 — something has changed
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 25, p. 249

我最喜欢... — the one I like best
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 287, p. 2253 我的手机不见了 — it's gone
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 285, p. 2231
我觉得... — I think
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 280, p. 2173
房 — a door over fāng
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 159, p. 1311 所 — two four-stroke sides
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 281, p. 2183 手 — a fall, two bars, a hook
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 52, p. 467 才 — a bar, a hooked post and a sweep
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 313, p. 2455 打 — the hand piece, then dīng
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 63, p. 2505 扫 — the hand piece, then three bars
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 133, p. 1091 找 — the hand piece, then a hook and a fall
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 197, p. 1581 找不到 — can't find it
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 285, p. 2231
护 — the hand piece, then the top of 房
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 443, p. 3403 报 — the hand piece, then a hook, a post and a fork
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 293, p. 2305 改 — a bent piece, then the right piece of 做
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 392, p. 3031 故 — 十 over 口, then the striking piece
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 297, p. 4109 救 — a hooked post with small strokes, then the striking piece
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 298, p. 2343 教 — the top of lǎo over zǐ, then four strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 493, p. 3769 文 — copy with the route visible
script and writing topic; Chapter 17, p. 159
文 — wait, then open the two falls
script and writing topic; Chapter 17, p. 159
文 — watch four open strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 17, p. 159 新 — two pieces on the left, one on the right
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 295, p. 2319

方 — a dot over a bar, a hook and a long stroke
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 436, p. 3351 旅 — a left piece of four strokes, then a right piece of six
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 403, p. 3111
日 — one bar inside the box
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 4, p. 41 早 — sun on top, one more time
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 7, p. 67 时 — 日, then the right half of 对
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 97, p. 835 明 — the sun beside the moon
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 47, p. 429 明天会下雨 — 会 for what will happen
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 147, p. 1187 星 — 日 above 生
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 46, p. 421 春 — 三 and 人 over 日
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 131, p. 3931 是 — finish the sun, then build under it
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 5, p. 51 晚 — 日, then seven strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 49, p. 447 最 — 日, six strokes, then 又
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 278, p. 2147 月 — the moon piece, standing on its own
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 148, p. 1197 有 — six strokes, and a moon underneath
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 24, p. 239 望 — a small piece and 月, then 王 under them
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 532, p. 4057 期 — eight strokes, then the moon
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 46, p. 421 本 — the tree piece, and a bar at its foot
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 104, p. 883 机 — the tree piece, then jǐ
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 58, p. 511
村 — the tree piece, then the right piece of 对
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 440, p. 3379 来 — one piece, top to bottom
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 36, p. 343 杯 — a tree piece, then 不
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 170, p. 1391

果 — 日, with 木 running through it
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 289, p. 2273

树 — the tree piece, 又, and three strokes on the right
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 516, p. 3939

校 — the tree piece, then a lid and a cross
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 248, p. 1935

格 — the tree piece, then the walking foot over 口
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 525, p. 4005

检 — the tree piece, then a roof and what is under it
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 404, p. 3119

欢 — six strokes, and two of them are already yours
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 28, p. 279

歌 — kě twice, then four strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 504, p. 3851

正 — 一 on top, then the middle of 上 on a long bar
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 149, p. 1209

死 — a long bar over two small pieces
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 300, p. 2357

母 — a frame, two dots and a long bar
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 509, p. 3889

每 — a fall and a bar over a dotted box
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 138, p. 1127

比 — two halves side by side, the left one first
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 153, p. 1251

气 — a fall, two bars, a hook
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 66, p. 577

水 — the middle first, then the sides
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 39, p. 367

汉 — copy with a five-part cue
script and writing topic; Chapter 16, p. 147

汉 — hold the route briefly
script and writing topic; Chapter 16, p. 147

汉 — watch five strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 16, p. 147

汉语 — 我看书: topic first, comment after
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 23, p. 229

没 — water, a small roof, and 又
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 87, p. 737

河 — the water piece, then 可
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 442, p. 3395

法 — the water piece, then qù
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 349, p. 2715

洗 — the water piece, then xiān
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 99, p. 847
活 — the water piece, 千, then 口
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 302, p. 2373 海 — the water piece, then 每
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 433, p. 3329
温 — the water piece, then 日 over a dish
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 469, p. 3595 游 — the water piece, a middle piece, then 子
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 431, p. 3315 火 — two sparks around 人
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 72, p. 621 火车要开了 — 要 for what is coming
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 148, p. 1197 点 — a mark on 口, over four dots
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 48, p. 439 热 — the hand piece and a hooked bend, over four dots
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 258, p. 2009 然 — a four-stroke piece, 大 with a dot, and four dots
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 278, p. 2147 爱 — a hand on top, a cover, and 又 under them
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 461, p. 3535 父 — two short strokes, then two long ones
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 507, p. 3873 牙 — four strokes, each one different
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 473, p. 3627 特 — the cow piece, then two pieces stacked
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 450, p. 3457
王 — two bars, a vertical, a long bar
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 330, p. 2577 现 — a narrow left piece, then 见
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 236, p. 1857
球 — the jade piece, then seven strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 498, p. 3807 理 — the jade piece, then lǐ
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 351, p. 2729 生 — five measured strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 13, p. 121 用 — the moon frame, two bars, a vertical
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 103, p. 875 电 — 日 with a long tail
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 63, p. 2505

男 — a field above, strength below
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 33, p. 321 画 — a bar, a field, an open box
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 502, p. 3835 界 — a field over 人
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 326, p. 2547 疼 — the frame of 病, and a shape of five inside
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 228, p. 1795 病 — the sickbed piece around a box
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 130, p. 1883 白 — a short fall over 日
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 60, p. 525 百 — a hundred, on a box you have built before
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 21, p. 213 的 — eight strokes for the commonest character there is
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 23, p. 229
...的时候 — when, and what was going on
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 279, p. 2159
看 — a hand above an eye
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 18, p. 171
看 — copy hand above, eye below
script and writing topic; Chapter 18, p. 171
看 — the verb that never changes
grammar topic; Chapter 22, p. 221
看 — wait, then recover the eye
script and writing topic; Chapter 18, p. 171 看书的人 — the one who reads
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 23, p. 229
看到 — 没看到: a verb and its result
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 151, p. 1229
看天气 — it depends on the weather
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 288, p. 2263
真 — ten, a box, a bar and two dots
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 358, p. 2783 眼 — an eye, then a right side of six
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 471, p. 3611
社 — the sign piece, then the earth piece
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 375, p. 2907 祝 — the spirit piece, then 口 over 儿
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 337, p. 2629 票 — a framed top over 二 and three strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 196, p. 1573

离 — a cap, a box and a hooked frame
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 205, p. 1637
秋 — the grain piece, then 火
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 342, p. 2667
突 — the roof of 家, 八, then 大 with a dot
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 279, p. 2159 站 — the standing piece, then a mark over 口
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 106, p. 897 笑 — two small pieces over a short fall and 大
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 267, p. 2071
第 — the bamboo piece of 笑, then a five-stroke body
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 279, p. 2159 米 — a cross with two strokes above and two below
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 161, p. 1325
紧 — two verticals and 又, over a silk piece ending in 小
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 481, p. 3687 红 — the silk piece, then 工
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 334, p. 2605 约 — the silk piece of 给, then a hook around a dot
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 388, p. 3001
级 — the silk piece, then three strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 496, p. 3791 经 — the silk piece, then a fork over 工
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 306, p. 2401 给 — the silk piece, then 合
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 89, p. 761 网 — the frame of 两, and two crosses
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 109, p. 919 老 — a cross and a long fall, over the right half of 比
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 272, p. 2107
考 — the top of lǎo, then two strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 494, p. 3777 职 — an ear piece, then zhǐ
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 489, p. 3741 能 — 厶 over the moon piece, then two 匕
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 90, p. 2025 脸 — 月, then the right piece of 检
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 472, p. 3619
自 — a short sweep over a tall frame
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 308, p. 2417 舞 — eight strokes on top, then two pieces below
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 505, p. 3859

船 — the boat piece, then 口 under a small frame
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 411, p. 3171 色 — a small top piece, then a frame with a long hook
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 451, p. 3465 节 — the grass piece over a hook
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 137, p. 1119 花 — the grass piece over the person piece and two more strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 224, p. 1767 茶 — grass, a roof, a small tree
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 166, p. 1361 草 — the grass piece over 早
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 226, p. 1781 菜 — the grass piece, a hand, the tree piece
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 101, p. 861
虽 — a mouth over an insect
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 371, p. 2879 血 — one short stroke over a dish
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 479, p. 3671 衣 — a dot and a bar, then the body
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 165, p. 1353 西 — a bar, a box and two strokes inside
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 231, p. 1821 要 — the top of 西, then 女
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 91, p. 779 要是...就... — if, then
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 288, p. 2263
见 — an eye on two legs
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 6, p. 59 觉 — three strokes, a cover, then 见
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 169, p. 1383 解 — a horn, a knife and a cow
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 367, p. 2849
警 — three pieces: top left, top right and the foot
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 311, p. 2439 讠 — the speech radical
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 10, p. 93 记 — the speech piece, then the right piece of 起
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 304, p. 2387 试 — the speech piece, then a slanting hook
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 108, p. 911 话 — the speech piece, then a mouth
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 53, p. 475

该 — the left of 说, then the right of 孩
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 282, p. 2195
语 — copy, then fade
script and writing topic; Chapter 16, p. 147
语 — speech, five, box
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 16, p. 147 语 — wait, then write
script and writing topic; Chapter 16, p. 147 说 — the speech piece, then a mouth with legs
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 53, p. 475 请 — a half that tells you the sound
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 11, p. 103 读 — the speech piece, then 十 over 买
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 249, p. 1945 课 — the speech piece, then guǒ
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 79, p. 677
谢 — twelve strokes, and three pieces
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 10, p. 93 赛 — a roof, a middle of seven strokes, a foot of four
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 500, p. 3821 走 — 土, then four strokes along the foot
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 283, p. 2207 起 — the walking piece, carrying jǐ
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 64, p. 1699 路 — the foot piece, then three strokes over 口
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 194, p. 1559 身 — a frame with two bars, crossed by two long strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 230, p. 1811 车 — four strokes, the vertical last
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 44, p. 405 边 — the foot of 男, inside the walking piece
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 111, p. 935 过 — 寸, then the walking piece last
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 150, p. 1219 运 — 云 first, then the walking piece
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 529, p. 4035 还 — 不, then the walking piece last
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 154, p. 1261 这 — 文, then the walking piece
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 37, p. 351 进 — jǐng on the road piece
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 74, p. 637

送 — 关 in the walking piece
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 336, p. 2621 通 — the right piece first, then the walking piece under it
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 409, p. 3157 速 — a bundle, then the walking piece
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 421, p. 3241
道 — a head piece, then the walking piece
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 353, p. 2745
那 — four strokes, then an ear
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 37, p. 351
部 — five strokes over 口, then the right piece of 那
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 438, p. 3365 都 — 者, then the ear on the right
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 94, p. 807
酒 — the water piece, then a jar
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 425, p. 3273 里 — 日, a line through it, two bars
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 81, p. 691 重 — a fall and a bar over 里
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 134, p. 1099 量 — 日, a long bar, then 里
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 526, p. 4015 钱 — the metal piece, then two bars and a hook
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 188, p. 1513 错 — the metal piece, then a cross-bar over the sun
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 356, p. 2767 长 — four strokes in one piece
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 61, p. 533 门 — a dot, a post, a frame
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 65, p. 567 问 — 门 with 口 inside
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 65, p. 567 间 — 门 with 日 inside
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 181, p. 1465 阳 — the ear piece on the left, then 日
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 518, p. 3955
难 — a narrow 又, then the bird piece
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 397, p. 3069 雨 — a lid, a frame and four drops
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 66, p. 577 雪 — 雨 on top, three bars below
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 221, p. 1747

静 — the right piece of 情, then a right side of six
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 466, p. 3573 面 — a bar, a short stroke, then a frame
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 175, p. 1425 音 — five strokes over 日
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 128, p. 1051 须 — three sweeps, then the page piece
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 362, p. 2811
题 — shì, then the page piece
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 354, p. 2753 风 — a frame, and two short strokes inside
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 218, p. 1725 飞 — a hooked turn, then two small strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 413, p. 3185 饭 — the food piece, then four strokes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 38, p. 359 饼 — the food piece, then two bars and two legs
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 341, p. 2659 马 — a turn, a zigzag, a base
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 67, p. 1761 高 — a lid, 口, then a frame around a small 口
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 248, p. 1935 鬼 — a box with long legs
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 332, p. 2591