

Persian, Step by Step, Root by Root

A gentle, etymology-driven introduction to Iranian Persian

Adhithya Rajasekaran

Starter edition — fourteen short chapters, with more being written.

Copyright © Adhithya Rajasekaran. Licensed under Creative Commons
Attribution-ShareAlike 4.0 International (CC BY-SA 4.0). Persian is set in Noto Naskh Arabic (SIL Open Font License).

Preface

This book teaches Persian one word at a time, and it teaches each word by taking it apart. It assumes no Persian and no Perso-Arabic script: every section takes one small expression, introduces only the letters and grammar that expression needs, connects it to words you may already know, and ends by asking for it back. Persian reads right to left — but you will be reading real words long before you have met the whole alphabet.

This is contemporary Iranian Persian. Romanization stays beside the script for now and fades as your reading grows. Where formal written and colloquial forms diverge, both are labelled rather than quietly averaged; Dari and Tajik are relatives of this language, not substitutes for it, and are not smuggled in here.

Persian vocabulary comes in historical layers. Some everyday words are inherited Iranian forms; many others arrived through Arabic and now follow Persian pronunciation and grammar completely. Etymology in this book is practical — it gives a word a handhold in your memory — and never a claim that a borrowed word is less fully Persian today.

This is a starter edition: fourteen short chapters, complete in themselves, with more being written.

How to use this book

Every numbered section is one word, or one small phrase, and takes a few minutes — the length of a queue, an errand, or the walk to the bus. Read them in order the first time through: each section stands on the ones before it, and nothing is used before it has been taught. After that the book becomes reference, and you can open it anywhere.

Say the Persian out loud wherever you can. The prompts under Your turn are written to be spoken, and saying a word is most of what makes it stay. The questions under Before you move on carry their own answers in brackets: cover them, answer from memory, then look.

Released under CC BY-SA 4.0 — share it, adapt it, teach from it.

Contents

Preface	iii
1 Greetings and responses	1
1.1 salâm	1
1.2 alef	2
1.3 alef	3
1.4 alef	5
1.5 mamnun	6
1.6 bale	7
1.7 na	8
1.8 Practice	9
2 Give your name	11
2.1 esm-e man ... ast	11
3 Ask and Answer Names	13
3.1 shomâ / to	13
3.2 (shomâ / to, continued)	14
3.3 chist	15
3.4 esm-e shomâ chist?	16
3.5 khoshvaghtam	17
3.6 Practice	18
4 How Are You?	19
4.1 hâl	19
4.2 chetor	20
4.3 hâl-e shomâ chetor ast?	21
4.4 khub	22
4.5 khubam, mamnun	23
4.6 Practice	23

5	Take Leave	25
5.1	khodâ	25
5.2	hâfez	26
5.3	khodâ hâfez	27
5.4	(khodâ hâfez, continued)	27
5.5	Practice	28
6	Name a Verb, Find Its Stem	31
6.1	budan	31
6.2	raftan	33
6.3	âmadan	34
6.4	goftan	35
6.5	dânestan	37
7	Four Verbs of the Mind	39
7.1	fekr kardan	39
7.2	fahmidan	41
7.3	khândan	42
7.4	neveshtan	44
8	Taking, Asking, Helping, Loving	47
8.1	gereftan	47
8.2	porsidan	49
8.3	komak kardan	50
8.4	dust dâsthan	52
9	Please: Water, Bread, Tea, Key	55
9.1	âb	55
9.2	nân	57
9.3	chây	58
9.4	kelid	59
10	Mother, Father, Brother, Daughter	61
10.1	mâdar	61
10.2	pedar	62
10.3	barâdar	63
10.4	dokhtar	64

11	Eye, Hand, Foot, Tongue	67
11.1	cheshm	67
11.2	dast	68
11.3	pâ	69
11.4	zabân	70
12	Name, Heart, Door, Book	73
12.1	nâm	73
12.2	del	74
12.3	dar	75
12.4	ketâb	76
13	Sky, Sun, Moon, Star, Rain	79
13.1	âsemân	79
13.2	khoshid	80
13.3	mâh	81
13.4	setâre	82
13.5	bârân	83
14	Sister, Son, Man, Woman, Friend	85
14.1	khâhar	85
14.2	pesar	86
14.3	mard	87
14.4	zan	88
14.5	dust	89
15	Nine Letters, and the Words You Already Knew	93
15.1	alef	93
15.2	lâm	95
15.3	sin	96
15.4	mim	98
15.5	salâm	99
15.6	be	100
15.7	te, nun	102
15.8	he	103
15.9	vâv	104
15.10	Practice	106
15.11	mamnun · zan · dust	108

16	One to Five, and the Words English Already Says	111
16.1	yek	111
16.2	do	112
16.3	se	113
16.4	chahâr	114
16.5	panj	115
16.6	Practice	116
16.7	yek dust	116
17	Six to Ten, and One Sound Law	119
17.1	shesh	119
17.2	haft	120
17.3	hasht	121
17.4	noh	122
17.5	dah	122
17.6	Practice	123
18	The Teens Are a Rule, Not Nine Words	125
18.1	yâzdah	125
18.2	sizdah	126
18.3	pânzdah	127
18.4	bist sad	127
18.5	Practice	128
19	The Ten Persian Digits	131
19.1	sefr yek	131
19.2	do se	132
19.3	chahâr panj shesh	132
19.4	haft hasht noh	133
19.5	Practice	134
20	Which One: the Ordinals	135
20.1	avval	135
20.2	dovvom sevvom	136
20.3	chahârom	137
20.4	Practice	137
21	Reading — Words, Answers, and the Figures	139
21.1	salām, mamnūn, bale, na, nān, māh	139
21.2	bale, na, mamnūn, salām, avval, sevvom	140

21.3	sefr tâ noh, dah, bist, sad	141
22	Letters That Never Join Forward	143
22.1	re	143
22.2	ze	145
22.3	dâl	147
23	The Hook Family	151
23.1	he-ye jimi	151
23.2	jim	153
23.3	khe	154
23.4	che	155
24	Letters From Asking and Saying	159
24.1	pe	159
24.2	ye	161
24.3	kâf	163
24.4	gâf	164
25	Letters That Share a Sound	167
25.1	shin	167
25.2	sâd	169
25.3	tâ	170
25.4	zâ	171
26	Letters From Thinking and Coming	175
26.1	fe	175
26.2	ghâf	177
26.3	alef-e madd	178
26.4	hejdah harf	179
26.5	hejdah harf	180
27	Head, Ear, Nose, Mouth, Tooth	183
27.1	sar	183
27.2	gush	184
27.3	bini	184
27.4	dahân	185
27.5	dandân	186

28	Hair, Finger, Shoulder, Neck, Face	187
28.1	mu	187
28.2	angosht	188
28.3	shâne	188
28.4	gardan	189
28.5	surat	190
29	Blood, Knee, Back, Belly, Lip	191
29.1	khun	191
29.2	zânu	192
29.3	posht	192
29.4	shekam	193
29.5	lab	194
30	Heart, Arm, Fever, Hospital, Ill	195
30.1	ghalb	195
30.2	bâzu	196
30.3	tab	196
30.4	bimârestân	197
30.5	bimâr	198
31	Pain, Medicine, Thirsty, Hungry, Happy	199
31.1	dard	199
31.2	dâru	200
31.3	teshne	200
31.4	gorosne	201
31.5	khoshhâl	202
32	Upset, Doctor, Grandfather, Grandmother, Uncle	203
32.1	nârâhat	203
32.2	pezeshk	204
32.3	pedarbozorg	204
32.4	mâdarbozorg	205
32.5	dâyi	206
33	Aunt, Husband, Spouse, Child, Family	207
33.1	khâle	207
33.2	shohar	208
33.3	hamsar	208
33.4	bachche	209

33.5	khânevâde	210
34	Neighbour, Guest, University student, Gentleman, Lady	211
34.1	hamsâye	211
34.2	mehmân	212
34.3	dâneshju	212
34.4	âghâ	213
34.5	khânôm	214
35	To eat, To drink, To see, To hear, To sit	215
35.1	khordan	215
35.2	nushidan	216
35.3	didan	216
35.4	shenidan	217
35.5	neshashtan	218
36	To sleep, To stand, To run, To buy, To sell	219
36.1	khâbidan	219
36.2	istâdan	220
36.3	davidan	220
36.4	kharidan	221
36.5	forukhtan	222
37	To give, To close, To cook, To wash, To laugh	223
37.1	dâdan	223
37.2	bastan	224
37.3	pokhtan	224
37.4	shostan	225
37.5	khandidan	226
38	To dance, To want, To bring, To send, To count	227
38.1	raghsidan	227
38.2	khâstan	228
38.3	âvardan	228
38.4	ferestâdan	229
38.5	shemordan	230
39	To cut, To look for, To wear, To come back, To take away	231
39.1	boridan	231
39.2	gashtan	232
39.3	pushidan	232

	39.4	bargashtan	233
	39.5	bordan	234
40		To become, To build, Fish, Rice, Meat	235
	40.1	shodan	235
	40.2	sâkhtan	236
	40.3	mâhi	236
	40.4	berenj	237
	40.5	gusht	238
41		Fruit, Apple, Banana, Tomato, Carrot	239
	41.1	miveh	239
	41.2	sib	240
	41.3	moz	240
	41.4	gowje	241
	41.5	havij	242
42		Sugar, Salt, Butter, Grapes, Orange	243
	42.1	shekar	243
	42.2	namak	244
	42.3	kare	244
	42.4	angur	245
	42.5	porteghâl	246
43		Lemon, Yoghurt, Onion, Breakfast, Lunch	247
	43.1	limu	247
	43.2	mâst	248
	43.3	piyâz	248
	43.4	sobhâne	249
	43.5	nâhâr	250
44		Dinner, Juice, Cake, Cheese, Milk	251
	44.1	shâm	251
	44.2	âbmive	252
	44.3	keyk	252
	44.4	panir	253
	44.5	shir	254
	44.6	(dialogue)	254
	44.7	(dialogue)	256

45	House, Room, Window, Chair, Table	259
45.1	khâne	259
45.2	otâgh	260
45.3	panjere	260
45.4	sandali	261
45.5	miz	262
46	Wall, Bed, Cupboard, Ground, Mirror	263
46.1	divâr	263
46.2	takht	264
46.3	komod	264
46.4	zamin	265
46.5	âyene	266
47	Lock, Plate, Knife, Fork, Spoon	267
47.1	ghofl	267
47.2	boshghâb	268
47.3	châghu	268
47.4	chângâl	269
47.5	ghâshogh	270
48	Bottle, Kitchen, Bathroom, Glass, Notebook	271
48.1	bottri	271
48.2	âshpazkhâne	272
48.3	hammâm	272
48.4	livân	273
48.5	daftar	274
49	Pencil, Pen, School, Bag, Money	275
49.1	medâd	275
49.2	khodkâr	276
49.3	madrese	276
49.4	kif	277
49.5	pul	278
50	Map, Lesson, Answer, Word, Game	279
50.1	naghshe	279
50.2	dars	280
50.3	javâb	280
50.4	kalame	281

	50.5	bâzi	282
51		Letter, Newspaper, Tree, Flower, Leaf	283
	51.1	nâme	283
	51.2	ruznâme	284
	51.3	derakht	284
	51.4	gol	285
	51.5	barg	286
52		Mountain, Forest, River, Lake, Stone	287
	52.1	kuh	287
	52.2	jangal	288
	52.3	rudkhâne	288
	52.4	daryâche	289
	52.5	sang	290
53		Sand, Cloud, Sea, Fire, Snow	291
	53.1	mâse	291
	53.2	abr	292
	53.3	daryâ	292
	53.4	âdash	293
	53.5	barf	294
54		Soil, Wind, Desert, Dog, Cat	295
	54.1	khâk	295
	54.2	bâd	296
	54.3	biyâbân	296
	54.4	sag	297
	54.5	gorbe	298
55		Horse, Cow, Goat, Sheep, Bird	299
	55.1	asb	299
	55.2	gâv	300
	55.3	boz	300
	55.4	gusfand	301
	55.5	parande	302
56		Mouse, Tiger, Elephant, Monkey, Snake	303
	56.1	mush	303
	56.2	bebar	304
	56.3	fil	304

	56.4	meymun	305
	56.5	mâr	306
57		Bear, Camel, Donkey, Butterfly, Ant	307
	57.1	khers	307
	57.2	shotor	308
	57.3	khar	308
	57.4	parvâne	309
	57.5	murche	310
58		Wolf, Big, Small, Fresh, Old	311
	58.1	gorg	311
	58.2	bozorg	312
	58.3	kuchek	312
	58.4	tâze	313
	58.5	ghadimi	314
59		Long, Short, Warm, Cold, Slow	315
	59.1	boland	315
	59.2	kutâh	316
	59.3	garm	316
	59.4	sard	317
	59.5	âheste	318
60		Fast, Easy, Hard, Expensive, Cheap	319
	60.1	tond	319
	60.2	âsân	320
	60.3	sakht	320
	60.4	gerân	321
	60.5	arzân	322
61		Full, Empty, Rich, Poor, Clean	323
	61.1	por	323
	61.2	khâli	324
	61.3	puldâr	324
	61.4	faghir	325
	61.5	tamiz	326
	61.6	(dialogue)	326
	61.7	(dialogue)	327

62	Sweet, Fat, Light, Heavy, Right	329
62.1	shirin	329
62.2	châgh	330
62.3	sabok	330
62.4	sangin	331
62.5	dorost	332
63	Important, Beautiful, Green, Yellow, Red	333
63.1	mohem	333
63.2	zibâ	334
63.3	sabz	334
63.4	zard	335
63.5	ghermez	336
64	Blue, Black, White, Week, Year	337
64.1	âbi	337
64.2	siyâh	338
64.3	sefid	338
64.4	hafte	339
64.5	sâl	340
65	Minute, Today, Yesterday, Tomorrow, Now	341
65.1	daghighē	341
65.2	emruz	342
65.3	diruz	342
65.4	fardâ	343
65.5	hâlâ	344
66	Always, Sometimes, Early, Late, Before	345
66.1	hamishe	345
66.2	gâhi	346
66.3	zud	346
66.4	dir	347
66.5	ghabl	348
67	Morning, Night, Day, Far, Near	349
67.1	sobh	349
67.2	shab	350
67.3	ruz	350
67.4	dur	351

	67.5	nazdik	352
68		Inside, Outside, Up, Down, In front	353
	68.1	dâkhel	353
	68.2	birun	354
	68.3	bâlâ	354
	68.4	pâyin	355
	68.5	jolow	356
69		Here, There, Right, Left, Street	357
	69.1	injâ	357
	69.2	ânjâ	358
	69.3	râst	358
	69.4	chap	359
	69.5	khiyâbân	360
70		Bank, Station, Car, Bus, Train	361
	70.1	bânk	361
	70.2	istgâh	362
	70.3	mâshin	362
	70.4	otobus	363
	70.5	ghatâr	364
71		Bridge, Mosque, Hotel, Office, Police	365
	71.1	pol	365
	71.2	masjed	366
	71.3	hotel	366
	71.4	edâre	367
	71.5	polis	368
72		Boat, Bicycle, Bazaar, Village, City	369
	72.1	ghâyegh	369
	72.2	docharkhe	370
	72.3	bâzâr	370
	72.4	rustâ	371
	72.5	shahr	372
73		Airport, Restaurant, Clothes, Shirt, Trousers	373
	73.1	forudgâh	373
	73.2	resturân	374
	73.3	lebâs	374

	73.4	pirâhan	375
	73.5	shalvâr	376
74		Sock, Pocket, Ring, Hat, Shoe	377
	74.1	jurâb	377
	74.2	jib	378
	74.3	angoshtar	378
	74.4	kolâh	379
	74.5	kafsh	380
75		Jacket, Belt, Twelve, Fourteen, Sixteen	381
	75.1	kot	381
	75.2	kamarband	382
	75.3	davâzdah	382
	75.4	chahârdah	383
	75.5	shânzdah	384
76		Seventeen, Eighteen, Nineteen, Thirty, Forty	385
	76.1	hefdah	385
	76.2	hejdah	386
	76.3	nuzdah	386
	76.4	si	387
	76.5	chehel	388
77		Fifty, Thousand, World, Colour, Song	389
	77.1	panjâh	389
	77.2	hezâr	390
	77.3	donyâ	390
	77.4	rang	391
	77.5	âhang	392
78		Journey, Music, News, Country, Story	393
	78.1	safar	393
	78.2	musighi	394
	78.3	khabar	394
	78.4	keshvar	395
	78.5	dâstân	396
	78.6	(dialogue)	396
	78.7	(dialogue)	397
		Pronunciation & Script Reference	399

CONTENTS	xix
Glossary	403
Review Questions	429
Answer Key	437
A note on sources	447
Index	449

Chapter 1

Greetings and responses

Modes: 🗣️ voice (1) 👁️ eyes (3) ✍️ pen (4) 🗣️ Hands-free start: first 1 of 8 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can greet someone in Persian, respond courteously, answer yes or no, and copy one alef with a visible model.

Hold a four-line greeting exchange, point to its right-to-left start, and copy one alef beside the visible model.

1.1 سلام — hello, one joined word at a time

One greeting is enough for this lesson. Listen once: salâm.

You'll want to know: سلام

Persian runs right to left. Start at the right edge of سلام and let your eyes travel towards the left while you say salâm:

سلام — salâm — hello

Treat the joined word as one familiar greeting today. You do not need its four letter names, its joining rules, or the rest of the alphabet yet.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

salâm means “hello” and literally evokes peace. Persian borrowed it from Arabic, where the consonants s-l-m organize a family concerned with peace, safety, and wholeness. That same old Semitic family also includes Hebrew shalom. The word is now thoroughly everyday Persian.

Why it's said this way

Say salâm to one person or a group. It is neutral, friendly, and safe in most situations.

- See a neighbor: Salâm!
- Answer a greeting: Salâm!

Writing — follow one visible stroke

Keep this model visible: l. With your finger, trace its one upright stroke from top to bottom. Do not copy it yet and do not hunt for it inside the joined word. The next two-minute lesson will name and copy this one shape.

Your turn

- Point to: to the right edge, where Persian reading begins
- Say it: salâm once to greet, and once to answer

Before you move on

Which direction does Persian run? (Right to left.) What old idea lives inside salâm? (Peace, safety, or wholeness.) Say the greeting once.

Persian Online: the writing system

1.2 | — one stroke with the model present

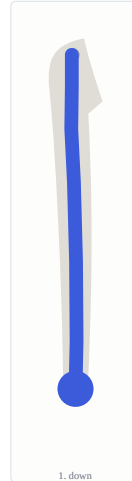

Point to the right edge of سلام and say salâm. Keep this separate one-stroke model visible: l.

Script — meet alef

The shape is l, named alef. Draw its one straight stroke from top to bottom, then lift. In salâm, alef carries the long â sound.

Writing — one guided copy

How it is written — one ui

l. down
Stroke order after Persian
Online, How to Write Persian Characters, opening l demonstration at 00:08-00:11 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)
This order is attested, not standardized; the source records where it varies.

How l is written, stroke by stroke

Copy l once beside the model. Look back whenever you need. Say the long â as your pen reaches the bottom, then stop.

Do not hide the model, copy the whole greeting, or add a second letter today. One visible stroke is enough for a first Persian writing lesson.

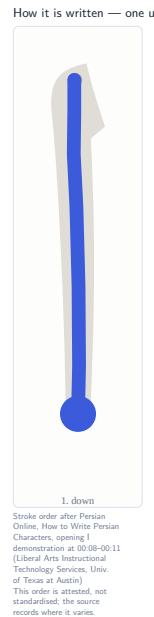

Before you move on

Compare your copy with l. How many strokes? (One.) Which way did that stroke travel? (Top to bottom.)

1.3 l — one stroke with the model covered

Look at l once and say the long â. Then cover it.

Writing — delayed copy

How ا is written, stroke by stroke

With the model covered, wait ten seconds, then draw ا once from memory.

Ten seconds is long enough that your hand cannot be tracing a shape it can still see, and short enough that a stroke you made a minute ago is still there.

Only after the stroke is finished, uncover the model and compare.

Before you move on

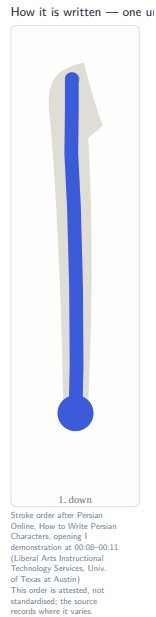

One stroke is the easiest shape in the script to get right and the easiest to get backwards, and the page cannot tell you which you did.

So the question to ask yourself is not whether it looks right. It is: which end did your pen start from? Alef travels top to bottom. A stroke drawn upward lands in the same place and behaves differently the moment it has neighbours, which is why a single line is worth this much attention now rather than later.

1.4 | — the stroke from the sound

Cover every | on the page. Nothing to trace and nothing to uncover.

Writing — dictation

How | is written, stroke by stroke

Say the long â of salâm aloud, or play it, and write the letter that carries it. One stroke, top to bottom, on the right-hand side of the line.

A delayed copy asked your hand to remember a shape. This asks it to turn a sound into a shape, which is the thing writing is actually for, and the two do not always arrive together.

Before you move on

Uncover the model and compare.

Now a warning worth having on the first day rather than the hundredth. What you wrote was alef standing for a vowel, and that is one of its two jobs. At the start of a word the same stroke often carries no long â at all — it is a stand for a short vowel to sit on, because Persian does not begin a word with a bare vowel. So alef is not a letter with a sound. It is a letter with a position, and what it says depends on where it stands. Nothing in the dictation will tell you that; the word around it will.

1.5 ممنون — thank you

One more expression, and the exchange starts to work: mamnun.

The letters in this word

ممنون — mamnun — thank you

Read it the way you read the greeting: from the right edge, as one whole word with its romanization beside it. One thing about the writing is worth noticing now, because it is true of nearly every Persian word you will meet: the short vowels are not written. The a in mamnun is part of the word you hear, not a mark you read. The letters themselves get their own lessons later; none is being asked of you today.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

mamnun literally describes someone as grateful or obliged, and in ordinary conversation it simply works as “thanks.” Persian received it from Arabic, where the consonant family m-n-n gathers ideas of favour and kindness — the same kind of three-consonant family that gave you salâm.

Why it’s said this way

Build the smallest exchange there is, and treat each expression as one social move rather than a sentence to analyse:

- A: سلام — salâm — Hello.
- B: سلام — salâm — Hello.
- A: ممنون — mamnun — Thank you.

No grammar is due. Two people, three moves.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- salâm — mamnun, the two moves in order
- what mamnun literally describes — someone grateful or obliged

Before you move on

Say salâm — mamnun without looking. What does mamnun literally describe? (Someone grateful, or obliged to you.)
Which vowels does Persian writing leave out? (The short ones.)

1.6 بـ — yes

A greeting and a thank-you need an answer. Here is the polite one.

The letters in this word

بـ — bale — yes

Three letters, and both of its vowels are among the short ones Persian leaves out — so the written word carries no vowel at all and the reader supplies a and e. That is the same habit you just met in mamnun, met twice in one short word. Read the romanization and take the shape as a whole; no letter is being asked of you yet.

Why it's said this way

bale is the standard, polite “yes.” A more casual âre exists, but one clear affirmative is plenty for now.

- “Is this Persian?” — Bale.
- “Are you ready?” — Bale, mamnun. — Yes, thank you.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- bale, once on its own
- bale, mamnun — yes, thank you

Before you move on

Answer “yes” in Persian once. (Bale.) Which sounds does the writing leave for you to supply? (The short vowels — here both of them.)

1.7 𐬀 — no

The other answer — and the smallest word in the chapter.

The letters in this word

𐬀 — na — no

Two letters and, once again, an unwritten short a. The second of the two is the shape that also ends bale, so part of this word is already familiar to your eye. Recognising a repeated shape is all that is asked; naming it is a later lesson’s job.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

salâm and mamnun both arrived from Arabic. na did not. It continues a very old Indo-Iranian negative, and relatives of it turn up right across the Iranian and Indo-Aryan languages. That is the first bridge from Persian towards Hindi and Urdu — not something to study now, just a reason this tiny word may feel oddly familiar when you meet those languages later.

Why it’s said this way

Change only the answer, and keep everything else the same:

- bale — yes
- 𐬀 — na — no

Ask yourself a harmless yes/no question and answer it both ways. The two written forms stand side by side at the end of the chapter, where every model is on the page at once.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- the pair, twice — bale ... na
- which of the chapter's four words is not a loan from Arabic — na

Before you move on

Answer “no” in Persian. (Na.) Which of this chapter's words came from somewhere other than Arabic, and where from? (na — an old Indo-Iranian negative.) Now say the whole chain once: hello, thank you, yes, no.

1.8 Chapter 1 — one tiny exchange, one tiny mark

Keep every model visible. Say سلام once to greet and once to answer.

The exchange

Read each Persian line from right to left:

- A: سلام — salâm
- B: سلام — salâm
- A: ممنون — mamnun
- B: به or نه — bale or na

The later three words remain visible whole-word supports. Today you are proving the greeting and the page direction, not decoding every letter.

Your turn

- Say it: the four-line exchange, choosing bale or na
- Point to: to the right edge where each Persian line begins
- Copy: 1 once beside the visible model, top to bottom
- Say it: the old idea behind salâm — “peace”

Before you move on

Greet once without help. Then compare your l with the model. No hidden-word spelling and no second letter: the chapter closes with one usable exchange and one supported stroke.

Chapter 2

Give your name

Modes: 🗣️ voice (1) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 1 lesson.

By the end of this chapter: I can say my name in Persian in one careful sentence, and I can hear the small linking -e that ties the name to its owner.

One careful sentence with a slot for your own name: esm-e man ... ast, with the spoken ezafe doing the linking.

2.1 اسم من ... است — my name is ...

Greet once, then answer yes and no. The next line gives you one careful sentence for your own name.

The exchange

Read the phrase from right to left, but say its words in this order:

اسم من ... است — esm-e man ... ast

- اسم esm = name. You already recognize ا, س, and م.
- The small spoken -e after esm links “name” to its owner. This linker is called ezafe. It is often not written in ordinary text.
- من man = I / me; after the linker it means “my.”
- است ast = is.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

esm is an Arabic loan related to Arabic ism, while man and ast belong to Persian's inherited Iranian core. One tiny sentence can therefore show two major layers of Persian vocabulary.

Grammar Lens: one spoken link

Only one grammar idea is new: noun + -e + owner. The spoken -e links “name” to its owner, so esm-e man is literally “name-of me.” Do not turn that one pattern into a full grammar table yet.

Your turn

Replace the dots with your name:

است سارا من اسم. — esm-e man Sârâ ast. — My name is Sara.

Say these aloud:

- esm-e man Sârâ ast
- replace Sârâ with your own name

In everyday speech, the ending is often shortened. Keep the careful full form for now; it makes every part visible.

Before you move on

What links esm to man? The spoken -e, or ezafe. Say “My name is ...” once with your own name.

Chapter 3

Ask and Answer Names

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 👁️ eyes (1) 🖱️ Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can ask someone's name respectfully with shomâ, answer with my own, and tell them I am pleased to meet them.

A six-line first meeting: greet, ask the name with respectful shomâ, answer with your own, and acknowledge with khoshvaghtam.

3.1 شما / تو — two relationships inside “you”

Say esm-e man ... ast with your own name. To turn that sentence around, you next need a safe word for the other person.

The two words

Persian	read	use
شما	shomâ	one person respectfully, or more than one person
تو	to	one familiar person

In شما, meet ش sh; its three dots distinguish it from س s. Final ل carries long â. In تو, و has its o value rather than the long u it had in ممنون. Learn the sound from the whole word.

Grammar Lens: begin respectfully

Persian uses plural shomâ for respectful singular address, much as Russian uses vy and French uses vous. Use shomâ with an unfamiliar adult or in a first meeting. Use to after the relationship is familiar. English once made a similar distinction but now uses you for both.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- a new adult — shomâ
- a close friend — to
- the old family — to, thou, tū, tvam

Before you move on

Which form is safest when the relationship is new? (Shomâ.)
Which is the relative of English thou? (To.) Source: Persian Online: Pronouns.

3.2 (شما / تو, continued) — The word, taken apart

Before going on: say شما / تو again, and what it means.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

Persian to belongs to the ancient Indo-European familiar-“you” family: English thou, Latin tū, and Sanskrit tvam are relatives. The word is old; the social choice carried by it is current.

Your turn

- Say it: what this lesson added to شما / تو, in one sentence

Before you move on

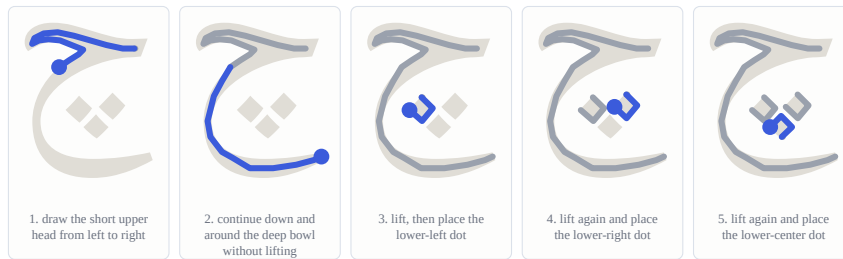

What did this lesson add to شما / تو? Say it once more, without looking.

3.3 چیست — “what is?” in one joined word

Which “you” is safe for a new adult? (شما, shomâ.) Now add the question engine that will follow “your name.”

You’ll want to know first — چیست

How it is written — 4 strokes · 3 pen lifts · 5 movements

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, چ demonstration at 00:35–00:41 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How چ is written, stroke by stroke

چیست — chist — what is?

Read from the right: چ ch, ی long i, س s, ت t. چ is one of Persian’s four additions to the Arabic alphabet: it uses the same base shape as ج, with three dots below. Meet only this joined form now.

Grammar Lens: two words compressed chist is the careful fusion of chi “what” and ast “is.” The opening vowel of ast disappears when the pieces join:

chi + ast → chist

You already know full ast from esm-e man ... ast. This lesson changes no copula rule; it gives one high-frequency fused question form.

Your turn

- Say it: chi + ast → chist
- Read it: چیست from چ to ت
- Say it: chist? — “what is?”

Before you move on

What two pieces make chist? (Chi + ast.) Which new Persian letter opens it? (چ, ch, with three dots below.)

3.4 چیست؟ شما اسم — ask a name respectfully

Give the three ready pieces: esm-e “name-of,” shomâ respectful “you,” and chist “what is?”

The exchange

چیست؟ شما اسم — esm-e shomâ chist? — What is your name?

The Persian order is transparent once the pieces are known:

name + -e + you + what-is?

The spoken ezafe turns esm-e shomâ into “your name.” Chist stays at the end. No new agreement or verb table is hiding here.

Script: the question mark

Persian ends a written question with ؟. Its curve faces the opposite way from English ?, matching the right-to-left line. Read the sentence from its right edge; meet the punctuation at the far left.

Your turn

- Say it: esm-e shomâ chist?
- Say it: ask, then answer — esm-e man ... ast
- Point to: to ؟ at the end of the right-to-left question

Before you move on

Ask the question once without reading the romanization. Then answer with the careful name frame you already know.
Source: Persian Online: Introducing Yourself.

3.5 خوشوقتم — pleased to meet you

Ask esm-e shomâ chist? and answer esm-e man ... ast.
One warm response now closes that tiny meeting.

The exchange

خوشوقتم — khoshvaghtam — Pleased to meet you.

Treat the joined word as one social move first. خ gives kh, like the sound in Scottish loch. ش gives sh. Persian commonly pronounces ق here with the merged gh/q sound of contemporary Iranian speech.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

- khosh — pleasant, happy; inherited Persian vocabulary.
- vaqt (pronounced vaght here) — time; an Arabic loan fully at home in Persian.
- -am — I am, the first-person ending.

So the word builds “pleasant-time-I-am” into the idiomatic feeling “I am pleased.” The history is layered; the expression is ordinary modern Persian.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- khoshvaghtam as one smooth response
- the three pieces — khosh + vaqt + -am
- which piece came from Arabic — vaqt

Before you move on

Which response closes the introduction? (Khoshvaghtam.) Which three layers can you hear inside it? (Khosh + vaqt + -am.)
Source: Persian Online: Introducing Yourself.

3.6 Practice — a complete Persian name exchange

Recall the four moves without adding anything: greet, ask, answer, acknowledge.

The exchange

A: سلام! — Salâm! B: سلام! — Salâm! A: چیست؟ شما اسم — Esm-e shomâ chist? B: است سارا من اسم. — Esm-e man Sârâ ast. A: خوشوقتم. — Khoshvaghtam. B: ممنون. — Mamnun.

Every line is already known. Shomâ keeps the first meeting respectful; the answer returns to man. The question mark sits at the left end of the right-to-left question.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- both voices, using your own name
- the exchange again without romanization
- only the three name moves — question, answer, response

Before you move on

Run the meeting once from salâm to mamnun. If one line stalls, review that single micro-lesson rather than rereading the whole chapter.

Chapter 4

How Are You?

Modes: 🗣️ voice (6) 🖱️ Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can ask how someone is in careful respectful Persian and answer that I am well, thank you.

The careful wellbeing exchange in two moves: hâl-e shomâ chetor ast? answered khubam, mamnun.

4.1 حال — the “state” in a wellbeing question

Run only the opening of the meeting you know: salâm and the name question. The next move asks about the other person’s present state.

You’ll want to know first — one useful word

حال — hâl — state, condition

Read from right to left: ح h + l long â + ل l. The first letter is a breathier h than English normally uses; a clear ordinary h is a safe beginner approximation. Keep the whole written word attached to its meaning.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

Persian borrowed hâl from Arabic, then uses it with Persian grammar. You will soon say hâl-e shomâ, literally “the state of you.” That -e is the same spoken ezafe already learned in esm-e shomâ.

Your turn

- Say it: hâl — state or condition
- Read it: حال from right to left
- Connect: an Arabic-rooted noun inside Persian ezafe grammar

Before you move on

What does hâl name? (A state or condition.) Which familiar linker will attach an owner to it? (Ezafe -e.)
Source: Persian Online: Greetings List.

4.2 چطور — “how?” one layer at a time

Say the Persian noun for a state or condition. (Hâl.) Now ask about the manner of that state with one question word.

You’ll want to know first — the question word

چطور؟ — chetor? — how? / in what manner?

You already met چ ch in چیست. Here it is followed by ط t, و o, and ر r. The short e is not written. Learn the sound from the whole word: che-tor.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

Persian Online takes چطور apart as Persian چه che, “what,” plus the Arabic loan طور tor, “manner.” The literal picture is “in what manner?” That layered history is useful memory, but chetor is one everyday Persian question word now.

Your turn

- Say it: chetor? — how?
- Point to: to familiar چ at the right edge
- Rebuild: che “what” + tor “manner”

Before you move on

Which part means “what”? (Che.) Which borrowed part means “manner”? (Tor.)

Source: Persian Online: Interrogatives.

4.3 است؟ چطور شما حال — ask “How are you?” respectfully

Recall hâl “state,” shomâ respectful “you,” chetor “how,” and careful ast “is.” The only assembly move is familiar ezafe.

The exchange

است؟ چطور شما حال — hâl-e shomâ chetor ast? — How are you?

Build it without translating English word for word:

state + -e + respectful-you + how + is?

The unwritten ezafe in hâl-e shomâ works exactly like esm-e shomâ. Persian asks, literally, “the state of you, in what manner is?”

Grammar Lens: one reliable careful form

This chapter asks you to produce the careful written form with ast. Everyday Iranian speech often contracts the end to چتوره؟ chetore?; recognize that preview, but keep the uncontracted line until the careful pattern is secure.

Your turn

- Say it: hâl-e shomâ chetor ast?
- Trace it: hâl-e shomâ — state-of-you
- Choose: careful production now — final ast

Before you move on

Ask once from memory. What already-known grammar holds hâl and shomâ together? (Ezafe -e.)

Source: Persian Online: Greetings List.

4.4 خوب — “good” and “well”

Ask hâl-e shomâ chetor ast? The smallest positive answer begins with one word.

You’ll want to know first — the answer word

خوب — khub — good, well

At the right edge, خ is kh, made farther back than English h. و carries long u, as it did in ممنون; final ب closes the word with b. Say it as one beat: khub.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

Persian’s everyday vocabulary is layered. Hâl and the tor inside chetor came through Arabic; khub belongs to the inherited Persian layer. All three are fully ordinary Persian now. History helps memory without ranking one layer as more authentic than another.

Your turn

- Say it: khub — good, well
- Read it: خ + long-u و + final ب
- Contrast: inherited khub beside borrowed hâl

Before you move on

Give the answer word once without romanization. Which letter carries its long u? (و.)

Source: Persian Online: Greetings List.

4.5 ممنون خوبم، — “I am well, thank you”

Say khub “well,” then the thanks you learned in Chapter 1: mamnun. One small ending turns the first word into a full answer.

The exchange

ممنون خوبم،. — Khubam, mamnun. — I am well, thank you.

The new final م is m. Attach it directly to خوب: خوب + م → خوبم. Persian script and speech both keep the answer compact.

Grammar Lens: one copula ending, not a table

The attached ending -am means “I am” here. Persian Online notes that خوبم by itself already means “I am fine”; the separate pronoun man is unnecessary. Learn only this useful first-person ending today. The rest of the copula set can arrive one form at a time later.

Your turn

- Build: khub + -am → khubam
- Say it: khubam, mamnun
- Point to: to final م carrying “I am”

Before you move on

What does final -am contribute? (“I am.”) Do you need a separate man in this answer? (No.)

Sources: Persian Online: Verb “To Be” and Greetings List.

4.6 Practice — a Persian wellbeing exchange

Recall the two moves only: ask about the other person’s state, then answer “I am well, thank you.”

The exchange

A: سلام! چطور شما حال است؟ Salâm! Hâl-e shomâ chetor ast? B:
ممنون خوبم. Khubam, mamnun.

Every piece is already owned. The question reuses respectful shomâ, ezafe, and careful ast. The answer's final -am carries "I am," so no new pronoun is hiding between the lines.

Grammar Lens: keep the social choice visible

Use this careful question in a first meeting. You may hear shorter conversational forms, but producing one stable respectful line first prevents script, register, and contraction from arriving as one oversized step.

Your turn

- Say it: both voices with the script visible
- Say it: both voices without romanization
- Switch: ask first, then answer after a pause

Before you move on

Run the exchange once from salâm to mamnun. If one side stalls, return to that single micro-lesson rather than rereading the chapter.

Chapter 5

Take Leave

Modes: ⇄ voice (5) ⇄ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can open a short Persian conversation, check how the other person is, and close it with khodâ hâfez.

A four-line interaction with a beginning and an end: salâm, the wellbeing check, then khodâ hâfez from both voices.

5.1 خدا — the Persian half of a farewell

Run the known wellbeing exchange once. The next chapter adds only the final social move: ending that interaction.

You'll want to know first — one word

خدا — khodâ — God

Read from right to left: خ kh + د d + ا long â. The short o is learned with the word rather than written as a separate letter. Keep the back-of-the-mouth kh gentle; clarity matters more than force.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

Modern khodâ continues Middle Persian xwadây, “lord.” The everyday farewell will pair this inherited Persian word with an Arabic loan. That mixed history is normal Persian vocabulary, not an exception to memorize away.

Your turn

- Say it: khodâ — God
- Read it: خدا from the right edge
- Connect: modern khodâ ← Middle Persian xwadây “lord”

Before you move on

Which letter carries the final long â? (l.) Which vowel is heard but not written separately? (The short o.)
Source: Wiktionary: خدا.

5.2 حافظ — “guardian” or “protector”

Read خدا and say khodâ. Keep it separate: this lesson adds only the second word behind the farewell.

You’ll want to know first — one word

حافظ — hâfez — guardian, protector

Read ح ا ف ا ح from right to left. ا carries long â. In contemporary Persian, final ط is pronounced z here, so say hâ-fez, not an English th sound. The short e is part of the learned word and is normally unwritten.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

Arabic ḥāfiẓ is an active participle from the root ḥ-f-ẓ, “guard, preserve.” Persian borrowed the word and uses its Persian pronunciation hâfez. Keep the useful meaning first; the root is a memory hook.

Your turn

- Say it: hâfez — guardian, protector
- Read it: حافظ
- Connect: Arabic ḥ-f-ẓ — guard, preserve

Before you move on

What does hâfez contribute to the farewell? (The idea of guarding or protecting.)

Source: American Heritage Dictionary: hafiz.

5.3 خدا حافظ — goodbye

Retrieve khodâ and hâfez separately: “God” + “guardian.”
Now let them become one everyday social move.

The two words — put the known pieces together

خدا حافظ — khodâ hâfez — goodbye

Persian normally writes the two spoken pieces together. Start with خدا, add حافظ, and read the joined spelling خدا حافظ from the right edge. Keep the two meaning layers available underneath the complete form.

Your turn

- Build: khodâ + hâfez
- Read it: joined خدا حافظ
- Use: say it only when the interaction ends

Before you move on

When do you use khodâ hâfez? (At parting, not at the opening.)
Source: Persian Online: Greetings List.

5.4 (خدا حافظ, continued) — Grammar Lens — a complete wish without a full sentence

Before going on: say خدا حافظ again, and what it means.

Grammar Lens — a complete wish without a full sentence

The expression carries the protective sense “God [be] guardian,” but everyday speakers use the whole formula simply as goodbye. No new verb is required for beginner production. It is a broadly polite, reliable way to end the short respectful interaction built in Chapters 1–4.

Your turn

- Say it: what this lesson added to خدا حافظ, in one sentence

Before you move on

What did this lesson add to خدا حافظ? Say it once more, without looking.

5.5 Practice — open, check, and close

Without looking ahead, retrieve the expression for the beginning and the expression for the end. Do not add a new middle line.

The exchange — the complete interaction

A: سلام! است؟ چطور شما حال! Salâm! Hâl-e shomâ chetor ast? B: ممنون خوبم. Khubam, mamnun. A: خدا حافظ. Khodâ hâfez. B: خدا حافظ. Khodâ hâfez.

Every line is already learned. Salâm opens; khodâ hâfez closes. The same farewell works for both voices, so no pronoun, agreement ending, or new register table is hiding inside the practice.

Your turn

- Choose: meeting begins → salâm
- Choose: interaction ends → khodâ hâfez
- Run through: both voices once with script, once without romanization

Before you move on

Run the full exchange once. If the final line stalls, return only to the assembled-farewell lesson rather than rereading the chapter.

Chapter 6

Name a Verb, Find Its Stem

Modes: ⇄ voice (5) ⇄ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can name five core Persian verbs in their dictionary form, recognise the -tan/-dan ending that marks any Persian infinitive, and give the present stem that each verb carries beside it.

The five pairs run back to back from memory — budan, raftan/rav-, âmadan/â-, goftan/gu-, dânestan/dân- — with the infinitive ending named and the stem produced for each.

6.1 بودن — “to be,” and the ending every Persian verb wears

Chapter 4 ended on خوبم khubam, “I am well.” That -am carried “I am” with no verb beside it. This chapter names the verb it belongs to.

You’ll want to know first — one verb

بودن — budan — to be

Four letters, all of them already yours. From the right edge: ب b, و long u, د d, ن n. Persian و never joins to the letter on its left, so the word falls into two clumps, بو and دن — the same kind of break ل makes inside سلام.

Grammar Lens: how a Persian verb announces itself

English names a verb with a word in front of it: to be, to go, to know. Persian names it with an ending on the back. Every Persian infinitive — every one, with no list of exceptions — finishes in -تن -tan or -دن -dan.

بودن is bu + dan. Whenever a Persian word ends in -tan or -dan, you are holding a verb in its naming form.

Persian rewards you here: one set of personal endings serves every verb. What it asks instead is one extra fact per verb — the next lesson is about that fact.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

budan continues Middle Persian būdan, from the Indo-European root bheu-*, “to grow, to become, to be.” English be and been are that root, worn smooth. So are German bin, Latin fuī “I was” — the ancestor of English future — and Sanskrit bhavati.

The resemblance runs through Persian’s plainest words: مادر mâdar is mother, پدر pedar is father, برادر barâdar is brother, دختر dokhtar is daughter, نام nâm is name. Nobody borrowed these; both languages inherited them.

One caution to carry through the chapter: lookalikes lie. Persian بد bad does mean “bad,” but its history and the English word’s are unconnected. A cousin has to be traced, not guessed.

Your turn

- Say it: budan — to be
- Read it: بودن from the right edge, in its two clumps
- Name: the ending that marks a Persian infinitive — -tan / -dan
- Connect: budan ← bheu-* → English be, been
- Retrieve: the ending on خويم that already meant “I am”

Before you move on

How does a Persian verb announce that it is a verb? (It ends in -tan or -dan.) Which English word is budan? (Be — the same inherited root.) Is Persian bad a cousin of English bad? (No; that one is coincidence.)

Source: Wiktionary: بودن.

6.2 رفتن — “to go,” and the second form that travels with it

Retrieve the Persian for “to be,” and the ending that marked it as a verb. That ending returns here, on a word that brings the extra fact Persian asks of you.

You’ll want to know first — one verb

رفتن — raftan — to go

From the right edge: ر r, ف f, ت t, ن n — all four familiar, ر from چطور chetor and ف from حافظ hâfez. ر does not join leftward, so it stands alone and رفتن follows as one run. The ending is the -tan you met on بودن.

Grammar Lens: the second fact every Persian verb carries

Persian keeps two forms for each verb, and you learn them as a pair. The first is the infinitive, رفتن raftan. Strip its -an and you have رفت raft, the past stem; everything about yesterday is built on that. The second is the present stem, and it cannot be predicted from the infinitive. For raftan it is رو rav. Everything about now is built on rav-: mi-ravam “I go,” mi-ravad “she goes.” So the fact to store is not raftan alone but raftan → rav-, said in one breath. Get the pair and the whole verb opens: the endings that follow a stem are the same for every Persian verb.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

رفتن raftan continues Middle Persian raftan; its deeper Indo-European ancestry is genuinely unsettled, so no English cousin is claimed for it here.

The split itself needs no excuse — English does the same thing. Go and went are two unrelated words sharing one verb; so are be and was. English calls that irregularity and buries it in a list. Persian makes it the ordinary shape of a verb and says so up front.

رو rav is short: ر, then و, with no join between them. Say the pair aloud until it sounds like one item — raftan, rav.

Your turn

- Say it: raftan — to go
- Say it: the pair as one item — raftan, rav
- Read it: رفتن, then رو
- Name: the ending that made raftan an infinitive
- Retrieve: the Chapter 6 verb meaning “to be” — budan

Before you move on

Which two facts does a Persian verb ask you to store? (The infinitive and its present stem.) What is the pair for “to go”? (Raftan, rav.) Could rav- have been worked out from raftan? (No — which is why it is learned with the word.)

Source: Wiktionary: رفتن.

6.3 آمدن — “to come,” and an alef that wears a hat

Say the pair for “to go” as one item. Now expect the same two-part shape from every verb that follows, including this one, which travels in the opposite direction.

You’ll want to know first — one verb and one new shape

آمدن — âmadan — to come

The last three letters are old friends: م m, د d, ن n, and the -dan ending tells you at once that this is an infinitive. The first shape is new. Ā is plain l with a small wavy stroke over it, called madde, and it is what Persian writes when a word opens on long â. Plain l at the start of a word carries a short vowel — that is the l in اسم esm. The hat is the difference between esm and âmadan.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

âmadan was built from a prefix â-, “toward,” and the very old verb root gwem-, “to go, to come.” In Old Iranian that gave a form like â-gmata-, “come toward”; the g wore away, the m survived, and Middle Persian âmad is what was left.

That root is one of the family’s great travellers. English kept it almost bare as come. Latin turned it into venīre, which English then borrowed back dozens of times over: advent, adventure, convene, convenient, event, invent, avenue, revenue, prevent, souvenir. Sanskrit has gacchati, “goes.” So âmadan and come are not lookalikes; they are the same word, four thousand years apart.

The present stem is $\bar{a} \hat{a}$ — a single letter — heard as ây- before an ending: mī-âyam “I come.” Store the pair as âmadan, â-. It comes from a different ancient root than the infinitive does, which is exactly why the two look nothing alike.

Your turn

- Say it: âmadan — to come
- Say it: the pair as one item — âmadan, â-
- Read it: آمدن, starting at the hatted alef
- Connect: âmadan ← gwem-* → English come, advent, event
- Contrast: raftan, rav- going out; âmadan, â- coming in

Before you move on

What does the little hat on $\bar{a}$ tell you? (The word opens on long â.) Which everyday English verb shares âmadan’s root? (Come.) And what is the pair for “to come”? (Âmadan, â-.)
Source: Wiktionary: آمدن.

6.4 گفتن — “to say,” written with a letter Arabic does not have

Say the pair for “to come.” Then hold the shape in mind: a name, and a present stem that has to be learned beside it. Here is a third verb built the same way.

You'll want to know first — one verb and one new letter

گفتن — goftan — to say, to tell

Read from the right. The last three, ف f, ت t, ن n, close the word with the familiar -tan. The opening shape is گ g, called gâf: a long slanting stroke with a second slanting stroke laid above it.

Arabic has no g, so Persian made one. Persian adds four letters to the inherited Arabic set — پ p, چ ch, ژ zh, and گ g — and you have already read one of them, the چ inside چیست chist. Each is an Arabic letter with extra strokes: گ is the k shape wearing a second bar.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

The present stem is گو gu: گ then ُو, no join between them. Mi-guyam is “I say.” Store the pair as goftan, gu-.

Now the part that makes the pair unforgettable. Persian has an ordinary, everyday word for “conversation”: گفتگو goftogu. Pull it apart and it is the past stem گفت goft, a linking -o- meaning “and,” and the present stem گو gu. A conversation is literally said-and-say. The two halves of the verb, sitting next to each other in a noun you can hear on any Iranian news broadcast.

The verb is old. Old Persian, the language of Darius’s cliff inscriptions, already had the root gaub-, “to say, to call oneself.” Outside the Iranian branch its relatives are not securely established, so no English cousin is claimed here — and English gab and gossip, which look tempting, come from somewhere else entirely.

Your turn

- Say it: goftan — to say
- Say it: the pair as one item — goftan, gu-
- Read it: گ, then ُو, then گفتن
- Build: goft + -o- + gu → goftogu, conversation
- Retrieve: the pair for “to come” — âmadan, â-

Before you move on

Which letter opens گفتن, and why is it not in Arabic? (گ gâf; Arabic has no g sound.) What two pieces of the verb hide inside goftogu? (The past stem goft and the present stem gu.) Say the pair. (Goftan, gu-)

Source: Wiktionary: گفتن.

6.5 دانستن — “to know,” and five pairs held together

Name the ending that marks a Persian infinitive. The last verb of the chapter wears it, and every letter in the word is one you can already read.

You’ll want to know first — one verb and its stem

دانستن — dānestan — to know

From the right: د d, | long â, ن n, س s, ت t, ن n. Nothing new to decode, which is a good place to be six lessons into a script.

The present stem is دان dân: mi-dānam, “I know.” The pair is dānestan, dân- — and this stem is one you can watch working. دانش dānesh is “knowledge”; add گاه gâh, “place,” and you get دانشگاه dāneshgâh, university — a knowledge-place, built straight off the stem.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

dānestan belongs to the Indo-European root gnō-*, “to know.” English inherited it three times over: know, and also can (originally “to know how”), ken, cunning, and uncouth, which is literally “un-known.” Latin’s nōscere sent English notice, notion, note, recognise, cognition, and noble — a noble person being a known one. Greek gnōsis gives diagnosis, prognosis, agnostic. Sanskrit has jânâti, “knows.”

One honest footnote: specialists still argue about how this root arrived in Persian wearing a d, when its Iranian relatives usually show a z or zh. The membership in the family is standard; the road it took is disputed, and this book flags that rather than smoothing it over. Persian’s other “know” is شناختن shenâkhtan, used for knowing a person rather than a fact. Its stem شناس shenâs- shows the same root more plainly — it is the gnos- of gnosis, wearing Iranian clothes. And بودن budan has a present stem too: باش bâsh-. It waits for the chapter where the present tense arrives.

Your turn

- Say it: dânestan, dân- — to know
- Say it: raftan, rav- — to go
- Say it: âmadan, â- — to come
- Say it: goftan, gu- — to say
- Say it: budan — to be
- Build: dân → dânesh → dâneshgâh, university
- Connect: dânestan ← gnō-* → English know, can, diagnosis

Before you move on

Which two things does a Persian verb ask you to store? (Its name in -tan or -dan, and its present stem.) Which English words share dânestan's root? (Know, can, and the gnosis family.) Now run all five pairs once, out loud, without the page.

Source: Wiktionary: دانستن.

Chapter 7

Four Verbs of the Mind

Modes: ⇄ voice (4) ⇄ Hands-free start: all 4 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say think, understand, read and write in Persian, give the present stem of each, and tell which of the three ways a Persian verb is built each one uses.

The chapter closes on neveshtan, nevis-, then runs its four verbs back to back — fekr kardan with kon-, fahmidan with fahm-, khândan with khân-, neveshtan with nevis- — and names which is a compound, which hands its stem over free, and which two had to be told. The five pairs from Chapter 6 run after them, so all nine are produced from memory in one sitting.

7.1 کردن فکر — “to think,” written as two words

Name the two facts every Persian verb has asked you to store. This one brings a third shape: it is spelled as two words, and only the second is the verb.

You’ll want to know first — one verb in two pieces

کردن فکر — fekr kardan — to think

The first word, فکر fekr, is a noun: “thought.” From the right — ف f, ک k, ر r.

The second, کردن kardan, is the verb, and it means to do, to make. Its ending is the -dan you have collected since بودن budan. Word for word, the phrase is thought to-do.

Grammar Lens: Persian asks less of you than you fear

Persian has no grammatical gender, so nothing has to agree. It has no noun cases: a noun keeps one shape everywhere. Its adjectives never change. And it has exactly one set of personal endings — -am, -i, -ad, -im, -id, -and — taken by every verb in the language. What it asks instead is the present stem, and this: many of its commonest verbs are two words. A noun sits in front, and a plain verb behind it does the grammatical work. کردن kardan is the workhorse — put almost any noun in front of it and you have a verb. You met the same instinct in خوشوقت khoshvaghtam, which welded khosh, “good,” to vaqt, “time.”

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

The halves come from opposite ends of Persian’s history. فکر fekr is a loan from Arabic فِكر fikr, “thought,” on the root f-k-r, and it takes Persian grammar completely.

کردن kardan is as Persian as a word gets: Old Persian kar-, “to do,” from the Indo-European root k^wer-*, “to make.” That root gave Sanskrit karoti, “he does,” and karman, “deed” — which English borrowed outright as karma. English has no inherited cousin here, so that is a borrowing, not a family resemblance, and this book says which is which.

The present stem is کن kon: mi-konam, “I do.” Store kardan, kon-, and note the opening ك kâf — the shape گ gâf is built from, as گفتن goftan wears it with a second bar.

Your turn

- Say it: fekr kardan — to think
- Split: fekr, thought — kardan, to do
- Say it: the pair as one item — kardan, kon-
- Read it: ك in کردن, then گ in گفتن — one bar apart
- Retrieve: the two words welded inside khoshvaghtam
- Name: the ending that marks kardan as an infinitive

Before you move on

Which half of fekr kardan is the verb, and what is its present stem? (Kardan; kon-.) Name two of the four things Persian does without. (Gender, cases, adjective agreement, a second set of endings.)

Source: Wiktionary: کردن.

7.2 فهمیدن — “to understand,” and the class that gives its stem away

Say the two words meaning “to think,” and which of them is the verb. Then say the pair for “to know.” This lesson adds the verb that sits between them.

You’ll want to know first — one verb, one word this time

فهمیدن — fahmidan — to understand

One word, not two. From the right: ف f, ه h, م m, ی long i, د d, ن n. The ی is the letter you first read inside چیست chist.

Persian keeps دانستن dānestan and فهمیدن fahmidan apart the way English keeps know and understand apart. Dānestan stores a fact; fahmidan grasps a point.

Grammar Lens: the one stem you never have to be told

Every verb so far handed you an unpredictable stem: raftan gave rav-, goftan gave gu-. Here is the relief.

When a Persian infinitive ends in -یدن -idan, its present stem is what is left once you take the -idan off. Nothing shifts. فهمیدن fahmidan minus -idan leaves فهم fahm: mī-fahmam, “I understand.” The pair is fahmidan, fahm-, and you could have worked it out yourself.

This is no small exception. -idan is the suffix Persian reaches for whenever it needs a new verb, so the predictable class is large and growing. The verbs that fight you are the old inherited ones.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

فهم fahm is Arabic — فَهَمَ, “understanding,” from the root f-h-m. Persian took the noun and did something Arabic would not: it glued a native Persian suffix onto it and made a verb. You have now watched Arabic words arrive three ways. وقت vaqt, inside khoshvaghtam, came as a noun and stayed one. حال hâl came as a noun and took Persian’s own linking grammar. حافظ hâfez came as a participle and became a name. And فهم fahm was turned into a Persian verb outright. Against all of them stands خوب khub, inherited Persian from the start, borrowed from nobody. Persian vocabulary is layered, and neither layer is less Persian than the other today.

Your turn

- Say it: fahmidan — to understand
- Derive: strip -idan from fahmidan → the stem fahm-
- Contrast: dânestan stores a fact; fahmidan grasps a point
- Retrieve: the pair for “to know” — dânestan, dân-
- Name: three Arabic arrivals — vaqt, hâl, hâfez — and one inherited word, khub
- Read it: the ی inside فهمیدن, the letter you first met in چیست

Before you move on

How do you get the present stem of any -idan verb? (Take the -idan off.) Which of Persian’s layers did fahm arrive from, and which layer does khub belong to? (Fahm is Arabic; khub is inherited Persian.)

Source: Wiktionary: فهمیدن.

7.3 خواندن — “to read,” and a letter that is written but not said

Say the pair for “to understand,” and how you got its stem without being told. This verb is not so obliging — and its spelling hides something.

You'll want to know first — one verb with a silent letter

خواندن — khândan — to read

From the right: خ kh, و, | long â, ن n, د d, ن n. Six letters — but only five sounds. The و in second position is written and not pronounced. The word is khândan, never khwândan.

That خ opens خوب khub, “good,” where the و works as a vowel. Here it does nothing.

The silent و belongs to a small, closed set of words — always after خ, before |. Not a rule to apply, just words you recognize.

Grammar Lens: one verb, four English verbs

The present stem is خوان khân — same silent و, so khân-. Mi-khânam, “I read.” The pair is khândan, khân-.

Now the surprise. خواندن also means to recite, to sing and to study. English splits those jobs across separate words; Persian does not, and the reason is in the word’s history.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

khândan is from Proto-Iranian hwanH-, “to call,” from the Indo-European root swenh₂-, “to sound.” The four meanings become one idea: reading, reciting and singing all make a text sound. For most of history, reading was reading aloud.

Latin took the root as sonus, which English borrowed over and over: sound, sonic, resonate, consonant, sonata. Sanskrit has svanati, “it sounds.” And English inherited one word directly, without Latin’s help — swan, most likely “the sounding one.”

The silent و is a fossil of this: the Iranian root began hw-, and Persian spelled the cluster long after it stopped saying it. خدا khodâ comes from the same xw- family, continuing Middle Persian xwadây — gone from both mouths, surviving in one spelling.

One contrast to fix: the long â here is plain | because it sits inside the word. When a word opens on long â, Persian writes Ā with its hat, as آمدن âmadan does.

Your turn

- Say it: khândan — to read
- Say it: the pair as one item — khândan, khân-
- Read it: خواندن, sounding the خ and skipping the و
- List: the four jobs of one verb — read, recite, sing, study
- Connect: khândan ← swenh₂*- → English sound, swan
- Contrast: ُ inside a word, ̄ when a word opens on long â

Before you move on

How many letters does خواندن have, and how many sounds? (Six and five.) Which four English verbs does it cover, and why those four together? (Read, recite, sing, study — its root means to sound.)
Source: Wiktionary: خواندن.

7.4 نوشتن — “to write,” and four verbs of the mind held together

Say the pair for “to read,” and name the letter in it that is written but never said. Its natural partner closes this chapter.

You’ll want to know first — one verb and its stem

نوشتن — neveshtan — to write

From the right: ن n, و v, ش sh, ت t, ن n. Here the و is pronounced — a plain consonant v — the exact contrast the last lesson set up.

The present stem is نویس nevis: mi-nevisam, “I write.” The pair is neveshtan, nevis-, as unpredictable as raftan, rav- was. Name the price plainly: the stem of an inherited verb cannot be worked out, so it is learned in the same breath as the infinitive.

Watch the stem earn its keep: نویس nevis- plus -ande gives نویسنده nevisande, “writer.” The stem, not the infinitive, is what Persian builds on.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

neveshtan is an Old Persian compound: ni-, “down,” plus the root paiš-*, “to adorn, to mark, to paint.” To write was to paint something down — a verb Darius had carved into a cliff at Behistun.

The root is Indo-European peyk-*, “to cut, to mark, to paint.” Latin made it pingere, and English has borrowed from that ever since:

paint, picture, pigment, depict. So neveshtan and picture are one root, one branch writing, the other painting.

Trace the p if you like a puzzle: it softened to b in Middle Persian nibištan, then to the v in nevis-.

Grammar Lens: what this chapter has actually given you

Four verbs, three ways a Persian verb can be built.

فکر کردن fekr kardan is a compound: noun plus kardan. فهمیدن fahmidan is a -idan verb, stem free. خواندن khândan and نوشتن neveshtan are inherited verbs, stems you must be told.

Three shapes, one set of personal endings for all of them — the whole verb system in outline.

Your turn

Run the chapter’s four, then the five that came before, without the page.

- Say it: fekr kardan — to think; kardan, kon-
- Say it: fahmidan, fahm- — to understand
- Say it: khândan, khân- — to read
- Say it: neveshtan, nevis- — to write
- Say it: budan — to be; raftan, rav-; âmadan, â-; goftan, gu-; dânestan, dân-
- Build: nevis + -ande → nevisande, writer
- Connect: neveshtan ← peyk-* → English paint, picture
- Name: the English cousins of budan and dânestan — be and know

Before you move on

Which of this chapter's four verbs is a compound, and which one hands you its stem for free? (Fekr kardan; fahmidan.) What did neveshtan originally mean? (To paint down.) Now say all nine pairs you hold, in any order.

Source: Wiktionary: نوشتن.

Chapter 8

Taking, Asking, Helping, Loving

Modes: ⇄ voice (4) ⇄ Hands-free start: all 4 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say take, ask, help and love in Persian, give the present stem where a verb has one, and sort all thirteen verbs I hold into compounds, -idan verbs and inherited verbs.

The chapter closes on dust dâshtan — to have as friend — and its dâr- stem, then runs all thirteen verbs the track has taught: this chapter’s four, Chapter 7’s four, and Chapter 6’s five, each with its stem, sorted into the three shapes a Persian verb can take.

8.1 گرفتن — “to take,” and a cousin you can hear

Say the pair for “to write.” Then get ready for a Persian verb whose English relative you will recognize the moment you hear it.

You’ll want to know first — one verb and its stem

گرفتن — gereftan — to take

From the right: گ g, ر r, ف f, ت t, ن n. The opening shape is گ gâf, the letter Persian added because Arabic has no g — the same one that opens گفتن goftan. Neither گ nor ر joins leftward, so the word arrives in three small pieces and closes on the familiar -tan.

The present stem is گیر gir: mi-giram, “I take.” The pair is gereftan, gir- — inherited, and so unpredictable, exactly as promised.

Persian uses it widely: to take, to get, to catch, to hold, to seize. It is a hand closing around something.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

gereftan continues Middle Persian griftan, from Old Persian grab-, “to seize,” from the Indo-European root g^hrebh₂-*, “to grab, to seize.” Say gir- and grip one after the other. Say gereftan and grab. That is not a coincidence and it is not a loan in either direction — English and Persian both inherited the word from a common ancestor, and four thousand years later the consonants g-r-b are still sitting in both. English kept grab, grip, grasp, grope and gripe; German kept greifen; Sanskrit has grhṇāti, “he seizes”; Russian has grabit’, “to rob.” Collect the evidence you already hold. بودن budan is English be. تو to is English thou — the old familiar you, which English has nearly retired and Persian uses daily. Persian is not a distant relative of English in an unfamiliar script; it is a cousin. Persian has repaid the family too. English bazaar, caravan, khaki, pyjama, lemon, spinach and paradise all came from Persian — the last of them from Old Persian paridaida, “a walled garden.”

Your turn

- Say it: gereftan — to take
- Say it: the pair as one item — gereftan, gir-
- Read it: گ opening گرفتن, then گ opening گفتن
- Connect: gir- → English grip; gereftan → English grab
- Retrieve: two cousins you already hold — budan is be, to is thou
- Name: three English words Persian gave away — bazaar, khaki, paradise

Before you move on

Which English verbs are gereftan’s own relatives? (Grab, grip, grasp.) Did English borrow it from Persian? (No — both inherited it.) Say the pair once more. (Gereftan, gir-.)
Source: Wiktionary: گرفتن.

8.2 پرسیدن — “to ask,” and the questions you could already ask

Say the pair for “to take.” Then put the respectful name question you have had since Chapter 3. You have been asking without owning the verb.

You’ll want to know first — one verb that behaves

پرسیدن — porsidan — to ask

From the right: پ p, ر r, س s, ی long i, د d, ن n. The opening پ pe is another letter Persian added — a ب b shape with three dots beneath instead of one.

Now the ending: -یدن -idan. Strip it, and the present stem remains: پرس pors. Mi-porsam, “I ask.” The pair is porsidan, pors- — the same free ride فهمیدن fahmidan gave you.

Grammar Lens: asking a question and asking a person

Two chapters ago you learned to put a question — چیست؟ شما اسم esm-e shomâ chist?, چطور شما حال hâl-e shomâ chetor ast? Both work by word order and a question word, with no verb meaning “ask” in them.

That is the ordinary case, as in English: you do not say “I ask you what your name is,” you just ask it. پرسیدن is for talking about the asking.

The noun from the same stem is پرسش porsesh, “a question”: stem plus -ش -esh, the machine that turned دان dân- into دانش dânes, “knowledge.”

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

porsidan continues Middle Persian pursīdan, from Old Persian pars- — a word Darius used on stone — and beyond that the Indo-European root prek-*, “to ask.” Sanskrit has pr̥cchati; German still says fragen. English is the interesting case. It had this root and lost it: Old English frignan, “to ask,” died out. Then English borrowed the root back from Latin, which had turned it into precārī, “to pray.” So English says pray, prayer, precarious — “held by prayer,” and so uncertain — and deprecate. A root the language once owned now survives only as loans.

Your turn

- Say it: porsidan — to ask
- Derive: strip -idan → the stem pors-
- Pair: porsidan, pors- beside fahmidan, fahm- — both free
- Contrast: gereftan, gir- had to be told; these two did not
- Build: pors + -esh → porsesh, a question
- Connect: porsidan ← prek-* → English pray, precarious

Before you move on

Which two verbs so far gave you their stems for free, and what do they have in common? (Fahmidan and porsidan — both end in -idan.) Why does English say pray rather than an inherited word here? (It lost its own and borrowed the root back from Latin.)

Source: Wiktionary: پرسیدن.

8.3 کردن کمک — “to help,” and the machine on its second run

Say the pair for “to ask.” Then the two words meaning “to think,” and which half of them is the verb. That half is about to do the same job twice over.

You’ll want to know first — one verb in two pieces, once more

کردن کمک — komak kardan — to help

Two words, and you already know the second one. کمک komak is a noun, “help, assistance.” From the right: ک k, م m, ک k — the same kâf twice, once joined and once standing free at the word’s end.

Behind it sits کردن kardan, doing exactly what it did in فکر کردن fekr kardan. Noun in front, kardan behind, and the pair is a verb. Its present stem is still کن kon-: komak mi-konam, “I help.”

This is the point of the pattern. You are not learning a second verb; you are learning a second noun and dropping it into a slot you already own.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

کمک komak is neither inherited Persian nor Arabic. It came from Turkic — Azerbaijani kömək, “help,” from Proto-Turkic kömek*. Turkic and Persian have been neighbours for a thousand years, and words crossed both ways.

So everyday Persian vocabulary holds three layers, and you have a word from each. خوب khub, “good,” is inherited Iranian. وقت vaqt, “time,” inside khoshvaghtam, is Arabic. کمک komak is Turkic. All three are ordinary Persian words today, and none is more Persian than the others.

The verb half is the oldest thing here: کردن kardan on the Indo-European root k^wer-*, “to make.” A Turkic noun and an Indo-European verb in one phrase — Persian’s history in three syllables.

One script note: the ک kâf opening komak is the shape گ gâf is built from, one bar apart.

Your turn

- Say it: komak kardan — to help
- Split: komak, help — kardan, to do
- Match: fekr kardan and komak kardan — one machine, two nouns
- Say it: the stem still in place — kardan, kon-
- Sort: khub inherited, vaqt Arabic, komak Turkic
- Retrieve: the two words welded inside khoshvaghtam
- Read it: ک in کمک, then گ — one bar apart

Before you move on

Which half of komak kardan did you already know? (Kardan.)
 Which of Persian's three vocabulary layers did komak come from?
 (Turkic.) Name a word from each of the other two. (Khub, inherited; vaqt, Arabic.)
 Source: Wiktionary: کمک.

8.4 داشتن دوست — “to love,” which Persian says as “to have as friend”

Say the two words meaning “to help,” and the pair for “to ask.”
 This last verb is a compound too — but not with kardan.

You'll want to know first — one verb in two pieces, a new second half

داشتن دوست — dust dâshtan — to like, to love

دوست dust is a noun: friend. From the right, د d, و long u, س s, ت t.
 داشتن dâshtan is the verb, to have, to hold. Its present stem is دار dâr:
 the pair is dâshtan, dâr-.

So dust dâshtan is, word for word, to have as friend. Dust dâram is “I love” — literally “I hold [it] a friend,” built out of friendship rather than passion.

Notice what changed. کردن kardan made a noun into a doing. داشتن dâshtan makes it a holding. Two light verbs, one pattern.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

Both halves are old, and both have English relatives.

دوست dust goes back through Old Persian dauštā to the Indo-European root ǵews-*, “to taste, to choose.” A friend is the one chosen. English inherited it directly as choose; Latin took it as gustus, “taste,” giving English gusto and disgust.

داشتن dâshtan continues Old Persian dāraya-, “to hold,” from dʰer-*.
 English has no inherited cousin here, but the root fills its borrowings:
 Latin firmus, “held fast,” gave firm; Greek thronos gave throne;
 Sanskrit built dharma, “that which holds the world together.”
 So Persian builds “I love you” from choose and hold.

Grammar Lens: what the two chapters add up to Thirteen verbs now, and every one fits one of three shapes.

Compounds — fekr kardan, komak kardan, dust dâshtan: noun plus light verb. -idan verbs — fahmidan, porsidan: stem free. Inherited verbs — budan, raftan, âmadan, goftan, dânestan, khândan, neveshtan, gereftan: stem told, never guessed.

Behind all three: one infinitive ending; one set of personal endings; no gender, no cases, no agreement. The hard part of Persian is a list of stems.

Your turn

All thirteen, from memory.

- Say it: gereftan, gir-; porsidan, pors-; komak kardan; dust dâshtan, dâr-
- Say it: fekr kardan, kon-; fahmidan, fahm-; khândan, khân-; neveshtan, nevis-
- Say it: budan; raftan, rav-; âmadan, â-; goftan, gu-; dânestan, dân-
- Split: dust, friend — dâshtan, to hold
- Sort: which three are compounds, which two are -idan, which eight are inherited
- Connect: dust ← ġews*- → English choose; gereftan → grab; neveshtan → paint

Before you move on

What does dust dâshtan say word for word? (To have as friend.)

Which light verb makes a doing, and which makes a holding?

(Kardan; dâshtan.) Now name all thirteen, with a stem for each that has one.

Source: Wiktionary: داشتن دوست.

Chapter 9

Please: Water, Bread, Tea, Key

Modes: 🗣️ voice (4) 🖱️ Hands-free start: all 4 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can politely ask for water, bread, tea, or my key in Persian, and I can name the four vocabulary layers those four words come from.

The chapter closes on kelid, a Greek loan, then runs all four requests back to back — âb, nân, chây, kelid, each with lotfan — and reuses the ezafe from Chapter 2 to ask for kelid-e man, my key.

9.1 آب — water, and Persian’s first “please”

The last chapter closed on داشتن dâshtan, “to have,” stem دار dâr. This chapter names what to ask for when you do not have it yet.

You’ll want to know first — one word

آب — âb — water

Two letters, both already yours: آ, alef with madde, from آمدن; then ب b.

Grammar Lens: your first Persian “please”

لطفاً آب. — âb, lotfan. — Water, please.

Name the thing you want, add لطفاً lotfan, and the request is complete — no verb required. لطفاً ends in a small hooked mark, ّ, called tanvin: an Arabic grammatical ending, pronounced -an, that survives in Persian only inside a short list of frozen Arabic adverbs borrowed whole — لطفاً and تقريباً taghriban, “approximately,” are two of them — and plays no part in ordinary Persian spelling. This is the first request this track has built.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

آب continues Old Persian āp-, from Indo-European h₂ep-*, “water” — the root Sanskrit kept as áp-, still visible today inside a place-name: Punjab is usually explained as this same word, پنج آب panj āb, “five waters,” naming the region’s five rivers.

Hindi and Marathi’s everyday word for water, pānī, is not this word at all. Sanskrit holds a second, unrelated root for water too — pā-, “to drink,” from peh₃-*, the root hiding inside English potion and poison — and it is that second root modern Hindi and Marathi kept for everyday use. آب and pānī are not cousins; they are two different ancient words for the same thing, and Persian happened to keep the older one.

Your turn

- Say it: âb — water
- Say it: âb, lotfan. — water, please
- Connect: âb ← h₂ep-* → Sanskrit áp-, and the -âb inside Punjab
- Contrast: âb against Hindi’s pānī — two different old words, not cousins
- Retrieve: dâshtan, dâr- — “to have,” from the chapter just closed

Before you move on

Ask for water politely. (Âb, lotfan.) What is the ّ at the end of لطفاً called, and where else does Persian use it? (Tanvin; only inside a few frozen Arabic adverbs.) Is Persian آب related to Hindi’s pānī? (No — two separate old words.)

Source: Wiktionary: آب; Wiktionary: لطفاً.

9.2 نان — bread, and a root this track cannot trace

Say لطفاً آب, (âb, lotfan). This chapter's second request names the other thing on every Persian table.

You'll want to know first — one word

نان — nân — bread

لطفاً نان. — nân, lotfan. — Bread, please.

Three letters, all already yours: ن ا ن — n, long â, n again.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

نان continues Middle Persian nân, and there this word's trail runs cold: no secure root beyond that form is agreed, and no English cousin can honestly be claimed. Not every word in this book gets a family tree, and this one is named plainly rather than forced into one.

The word travelled anyway, just not by inheritance. Persian نان passed into Hindi-Urdu as nân, and from there into English as naan — the bread on a restaurant menu is this exact word, arriving by borrowing three languages after Persian, not by any shared ancestor.

Your turn

- Say it: nân — bread
- Say it: nân, lotfan. — bread, please
- Name: the one fact this word's history gives you — Middle Persian nân, root beyond that unknown
- Trace it: nân → Hindi-Urdu nân → English naan — a borrowing, not a cousin
- Run through: âb, lotfan — nân, lotfan — two requests back to back

Before you move on

What does نان mean? (Bread.) Does it have a secure Indo-European cousin? (No — the trail runs cold at Middle Persian nān.) Which English word is this same word, borrowed rather than inherited? (Naan, via Hindi-Urdu.)

Source: Wiktionary: نان.

9.3 چای — tea, and the road that gave everyone but Europe the same word

Say, لطفاً نان, (nân, lotfan). Here is the drink that usually comes with it.

You'll want to know first — one word

چای — chây — tea

لطفاً چای. — chây, lotfan. — Tea, please.

Three letters, all already yours: چ ch, from چيست; long â; ی as a closing glide.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

چای is not an inherited Persian word at all — it is a loan, and a comparatively recent one. It continues Northern Chinese chá, carried overland through Central Asia into Persian, the same road Russian chai and Turkish çay travelled.

The word did not stop at Persian. چای itself passed onward into Urdu as چائے chây, the same three-step road: Chinese into Persian into Urdu. Tea that instead reached Europe by sea carried a different, southern-Chinese form, which is why English says tea and French says thé rather than chai: one drink, two words, sorted by whether it travelled by land or by water.

Your turn

- Say it: chây — tea
- Say it: chây, lotfan. — tea, please

- Name: the road — Chinese chá → Persian chây → Urdu chāy
- Contrast: chây, which travelled by land, against tea, which travelled by sea
- Run through: âb, lotfan — nân, lotfan — chây, lotfan

Before you move on

Which language gave Persian چای? (Chinese, overland.) Which language borrowed this exact Persian word onward? (Urdu, as چائے.) Why does English say tea instead? (It arrived by sea, carrying a different Chinese form.)

Source: Wiktionary: چای.

9.4 کلید — key, a Greek word Persian has held for two thousand years

Say لطفاً چای. Then recall the small linking -e the first sentence taught inside من اسم — you will need it again in a moment.

You'll want to know first — one word

کلید — kelid — key

Four letters, all already yours: ک k, from کمک; ل l; ی long i; د d.

Grammar Lens: a possessive request, built from an old part لطفاً من، کلید. — kelid-e man, lotfan. — My key, please.

No new grammar here — this reuses the ezafe -e exactly as من اسم did, now linking a household word to its owner instead of a name. A request can carry an owner the same way a name did.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

کلید is not inherited Persian at all — it is a loan from Greek kleidíon, “little key,” one of a handful of Greek words that entered Persian in the Hellenistic centuries after Alexander’s conquest, when Greek-speaking rulers governed Iranian land for generations. The parent word, kleís, shares its Indo-European root with Latin claudere, “to close” — the root behind English close, conclude, and exclude. This chapter’s four words now stand for all three of Persian’s vocabulary layers: inherited آب, an untraceable نان, an overland Chinese loan in چای, and a Greek loan in کلید.

Your turn

- Say it: kelid — key; then kelid-e man, lotfan — my key, please
- Connect: kelid ← Greek kleidíon → Latin claudere → English close, conclude, exclude
- Run through: âb, nân, chây, kelid — each with , lotfan
- Sort: which of the four is inherited, which is untraceable, which travelled by land, which came from Greek
- Retrieve: the ezafe -e from من اسم, now on کلید من

Before you move on

Which language did Persian borrow کلید from, and when? (Greek, after Alexander.) Say “my key, please.” (Kelid-e man, lotfan.) Name all four polite requests this chapter built. (Âb, nân, chây, kelid, each with lotfan.) Source: Wiktionary: کلید.

Chapter 10

Mother, Father, Brother, Daughter

Modes: 🗣️ voice (4) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 4 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can name my mother, father, brother, and daughter in Persian, the four secure English cousins Chapter 6 named without teaching.

The chapter closes on dokhtar, daughter, then runs all four family words back to back and reuses the ezafe from esm-e man ast and kelid-e man to say dokhtar-e man, my daughter.

10.1 مادر — mother, a word this track already promised you

The بودن lesson traced it back to English be, and in passing named four plainest inherited cousins the track had not yet taught as their own lessons: مادر, پدر, برادر, دختر. This chapter and the next finally give each one its own lesson, starting here.

You'll want to know first — one word

مادر — mâdar — mother

Four letters, all already yours: م د ا — m, long â, d, r.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

مادر continues Middle Persian mādar, from Indo-European méh₂tēr* — the same root English wore down to mother, German to Mutter, Latin to māter (giving English maternal), and Sanskrit to mātr̥. Few words in any language family stay this recognisable after four thousand years; a mother is called almost the same thing across most of Eurasia because small children the world over reach for the same easy sounds.

Your turn

- Say it: mādar — mother
- Connect: mādar ← méh₂tēr* → English mother, Latin māter, Sanskrit mātr̥
- Retrieve: kelid-e man, lotfan — my key, please
- Name: which four family words the بودن lesson promised, and which one this lesson delivers

Before you move on

What does مادر mean? (Mother.) Which lesson first named it as an English cousin, without teaching it as its own word? (The بودن lesson, in passing.) Which three family words does the track still owe you? (دختر, برادر, پدر.)
Source: Wiktionary: مادر.

10.2 پدر — father, mādar's oldest partner

Say مادر, and its English cousin. This lesson's word has kept the same partnership for four thousand years.

You'll want to know first — one word

پدر — pedar — father

Three letters, all already yours: پ p, from پرسیدن; د d; ر r.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

پدر continues Middle Persian pidar, from Indo-European ph₂tēr* — the direct cousin of English father, German Vater, and Latin pater (giving English paternal, patriot). مادر and پدر are not just similar in meaning; they are built the same way, both old Indo-European kinship words carrying a shared -ar/-tar ending that once meant something close to “the one who [does the kin role].”

Your turn

- Say it: pedar — father
- Connect: pedar ← ph₂tēr* → English father, Latin pater
- Pair: mâdar — pedar, both carrying the same old kinship ending
- Run through: mâdar, pedar — mother, father

Before you move on

What does پدر mean? (Father.) Which English word is it the direct cousin of? (Father, via pater.) What ending do مادر and پدر share? (An old kinship ending, -ar/-tar.)
Source: Wiktionary: پدر.

10.3 برادر — brother, the cousin that never drifted

Say پدر and مادر. One family word from the بودن lesson’s list is still owed to you, and it is the sibling one.

You’ll want to know first — one word

برادر — barâdar — brother

Five letters, all already yours: ب ر د ا ر — b, r, long â, d, r again. Notice ر opens and closes the word.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

برادر continues Middle Persian brād(ar), from Indo-European b^hréh₂tēr* — the direct cousin of English brother, German Bruder, and Latin frāter (giving English fraternal). Unlike some kinship cousins, whose meanings narrow or shift as they travel, brother has meant exactly the same thing in every branch that kept it, for as long as anyone can trace it: this is as clean an inheritance as the family survives with.

Your turn

- Say it: barâdar — brother
- Connect: barâdar ← b^hréh₂tēr* → English brother, Latin frāter
- Run through: mâdar, pedar, barâdar — mother, father, brother
- Name: the one word the بودن lesson still owes you

Before you move on

What does برادر mean? (Brother.) Which English word is it the direct cousin of? (Brother.) Which family word from the بودن lesson's list is still owed? (دختر, daughter.)
Source: Wiktionary: برادر.

10.4 دختر — daughter, and the family the بودن lesson promised is complete

Say برادر. Then read من اسم است ... once more, from the right edge — the very first sentence this track ever built, and the pattern this lesson reuses to close a family.

You'll want to know first — one word

دختر — dokhtar — daughter

Four letters, all already yours: د ر ت خ — d, kh, t, r.

Grammar Lens: naming a family member as your own

من دختر — dokhtar-e man — my daughter

The same ezafe -e from من اسم and من کلید links a family word to its owner exactly the way it linked a name and a request. One grammar habit, three completely different kinds of noun.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

دختر continues Middle Persian duxtar, from Indo-European $*d^hugh_2tēr$ — the direct cousin of English daughter and German Tochter. An earlier lesson named four inherited family cousins in passing — مادر, دختر, برادر, پدر — while it was really teaching بودن. This chapter and the last have now taught all four as full lessons: a promise made early, kept three chapters later.

Your turn

- Say it: dokhtar — daughter; then dokhtar-e man — my daughter
- Connect: dokhtar $\leftarrow *d^hugh_2tēr \rightarrow$ English daughter
- Run through: mâdar, pedar, barâdar, dokhtar — all four, from memory
- Retrieve: است ... من اسم, the first sentence this track built, and its ezafe
- Name: which of the four family words is the odd one out in sound — دختر's kh, where the other three have none

Before you move on

Name all four family words this chapter and the last have taught, in order. (Mâdar, pedar, barâdar, dokhtar.) Say “my daughter.” (Dokhtar-e man.) Which earlier sentence used the same ezafe? (است ... من اسم, the very first sentence this track built.)
Source: Wiktionary: دختر.

Chapter 11

Eye, Hand, Foot, Tongue

Modes: ⇄ voice (4) ⇄ Hands-free start: all 4 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can name my eye, hand, foot, and tongue in Persian, and I can say zabân for both tongue and language — the word for the thing this whole track teaches.

The chapter and the tranche close on zabân, tongue and language together, then run a short scene built from every chapter so far: the name exchange, the wellbeing question, this chapter’s own requests and family and body words, and khodâhâfez to close.

11.1 چشم — eye, and what “how are you” was really pointing at

Say دختر. Then read چطور شما حال است؟ once more from the right edge — an earlier lesson asked about your حال, your state, but never once named the parts of you that state belongs to. This chapter does.

You’ll want to know first — one word

چشم — cheshm — eye

Three letters, all already yours: چ ch, from چیست; ش sh, from شما; م m.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

چشم continues Middle Persian čāšm, tracing back through Old Iranian to the Indo-European root spek', “to look at, to observe.” English never inherited this root directly for its everyday word eye — that word comes from a different ancient root entirely — but it kept spek' through Latin specere, “to look at”: spy, spectacle, species, inspect, and suspect are all this same root, arriving sideways rather than head-on.

Your turn

- Say it: cheshm — eye
- Connect: cheshm ← spek'* → Latin specere → English spy, spectacle, species
- Retrieve: است؟ چطور شما حال — the question this chapter’s body words could actually answer
- Run through: mâdar, pedar, barâdar, dokhtar, cheshm — five family and body words in one breath

Before you move on

What does چشم mean? (Eye.) Which three English words share its root, none of them meaning “eye”? (Spy, spectacle, species.) Which earlier question could a body-part chapter actually answer? (است؟ چطور شما حال)
Source: Wiktionary: چشم.

11.2 دست — hand, and a sound law that hides a cousin in plain sight

Say چشم (cheshm). This lesson’s word looks nothing like its closest Indo-Iranian relative — and that mismatch is not an accident.

You’ll want to know first — one word

دست — dast — hand

Three letters, all already yours: د ت س — d, s, t.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

دست continues Old Persian dastā-, from Indo-European ǵ^hes-to-*, “hand.” Sanskrit’s word for hand, hasta, is the very same root — and so, further out, is Greek kheír, which English kept indirectly in surgery (literally “hand-work”) and chiropractic (“done by hand”). Old Persian’s d, Avestan’s z, and Sanskrit’s h look like three unrelated sounds, but they are the completely regular Indo-Iranian outcome of the same ancestral sound in each of the three branches — the kind of correspondence a false cousin never has, and a real one always does.

Your turn

- Say it: dast — hand
- Connect: dast ← ǵ^hes-to-* → Sanskrit hasta, Greek kheír → English surgery, chiropractic
- Contrast: Persian d, Avestan z, Sanskrit h — three sounds, one regular law
- Run through: cheshm, dast — eye, hand

Before you move on

What does دست mean? (Hand.) Which Sanskrit word is its direct cousin? (hasta.) Which two English words trace to the same root through Greek kheír? (Surgery, chiropractic.)

Source: Wiktionary: دست.

11.3 پا — foot, the plainest cousin in the whole track

Say چشم and دست. One more body word closes this chapter, and for once its history needs no caution at all.

You’ll want to know first — one word

پا — pâ — foot

Two letters, both already yours: پ p, from پدر; long ا â.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

پا continues Old Persian pād-, from Indo-European ped-/pod-*, “foot.” Unlike دست, this cousin needs no sound-law explanation to see: English foot, Latin pes/pedis (pedal, pedestrian), Greek pous/podos (podiatry, tripod), and Sanskrit pāda all sit close enough to hear the family resemblance directly. Some Indo-European cousins take a page of sound changes to prove; this one barely needs a sentence.

Your turn

- Say it: pâ — foot
- Connect: pâ ← ped-/pod-* → English foot, Latin pes, Greek pous, Sanskrit pāda
- Run through: cheshm, dast, pâ — eye, hand, foot
- Name: which of this chapter’s three cousins needed a sound law, and which one did not

Before you move on

What does پا mean? (Foot.) Name four language families that keep a recognisable version of this word. (English, Latin, Greek, Sanskrit.) Which earlier body word needed a sound law to prove its cousin? (دست, hand.)
Source: Wiktionary: پا.

11.4 زبان — tongue, and language, and everything this track has built

Say چشم, دست, پا — eye, hand, foot. One organ this list has left out names something bigger than itself.

You’ll want to know first — one word, one new letter

زبان — zabân — tongue, and also language

Four letters, three of them already yours — ن ا ب — plus one this track has never needed before: ز ze, an ordinary letter from the inherited Arabic set, read simply as English z. ن-ا-ب-ز.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

زبان continues Middle Persian zabān, tracing to the ancient Indo-European word for “tongue.” English tongue is the same root, worn down at home. Latin took the same root and, by a well-documented but still debated d-to-l shift, turned it into lingua — the ancestor of English language and linguistics. Persian, like English, never split the organ from the ability: فارسی زبان zabân-e fârsi, “the Persian tongue,” is simply the Persian language — the same word this whole track has been teaching you to use.

Your turn — everything this track has taught

One short scene, built entirely from independently learned pieces, chapter by chapter:

- Read it: است ... من اسم — the very first sentence this track built
- Read it: شما against تو — the register this track built next
- Read it: چطور شما حال است؟ — the careful question that followed
- Say it: خوبم — the reply that answered it
- Say it: لطفاً من، کلید / لطفاً آب، — this chapter’s own requests
- Name: زبان پا، دست، چشم، دختر، برادر، پدر، مادر، — eight new words, three chapters
- Read it: خدا حافظ، and recall what it leaves unsaid — no verb, just the two halves an earlier lesson joined
- Connect: zabân ← old “tongue” word → English tongue, Latin lingua → language, linguistics

Before you move on

What does زبان mean, in both of its senses? (Tongue, and language.) Which new letter did it need? (ز, ze.) Which two English words trace to the same root by a disputed sound shift?

(Tongue directly; language and linguistics through Latin's d-to-l turn.) What is فارسی زبان? (The Persian language — the one this whole track teaches.)
Source: Wiktionary: زبان.

Chapter 12

Name, Heart, Door, Book

Modes: 🗣️ voice (4) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 4 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say name, heart, door, and book in Persian, and I can tell which of the four is inherited and which is a later Arabic loan.

The chapter closes on ketâb, an Arabic loan, then runs all four words back to back — nâm, del, dar, ketâb — sorts them by vocabulary layer, and rebuilds the earlier name exchange the reappearance of nâm reopens.

12.1 نام — name, the word Persian never borrowed

Say زبان, starting on its letter ز. Then say the very first sentence this track ever built, است ... من اسم. Both words in that sentence for “name” are about to get company.

You’ll want to know first — one word

نام — nâm — name

Three letters, all already yours: ن ا م — n, long â, m.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

نام continues Old Persian nāma, from Indo-European h₁nómn*, “name” — one of the most widely shared words in the whole family:

English kept it as name, Greek as ónoma (→ onomastics), Italian as nome, and Sanskrit as nāman. اسم esm, the word this track taught first, is a separate, later Arabic loan for the identical idea — so Persian now holds two words for “name,” inherited and borrowed, sitting side by side the way خوب and وقت already showed the track’s vocabulary layers working.

Your turn

- Say it: nām — name
- Connect: nām ← h₁nómn* → English name, Greek ónoma, Sanskrit nāman
- Contrast: نام, inherited, against اسم, the Arabic loan the name-exchange lesson taught first
- Retrieve: زبان — tongue, and language, the word that closed the last chapter

Before you move on

What does نام mean? (Name.) Which other Persian word means the same thing, and which language did it arrive through? (اسم, through Arabic.) Which English word shares نام’s own root?

(Name.)

Source: Wiktionary: نام.

12.2 دل — heart

Say نام (nām), and its English cousin. This lesson’s word has an even more famous one.

You’ll want to know first — one word

دل — del — heart

Two letters, both already yours: د — d, ل — l.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

دل continues Middle Persian dil, from the ancient Indo-European word for heart, kē̌r* — the same root English wore down to heart, Armenian kept as sirt, and Sanskrit built into hṛdaya. Persian uses دل far beyond anatomy, the way English leans on heart for courage and feeling rather than only the organ — a later chapter’s word for “want” will lean on it too.

Your turn

- Say it: del — heart
- Connect: del ← kē̌r* → English heart, Sanskrit hṛdaya, Armenian sirt
- Run through: nâm, del — name, heart
- Retrieve: دختر — daughter, from a few lessons back

Before you move on

What does دل mean? (Heart.) Which English word is its direct cousin? (Heart.) Name one other language that kept the same root. (Sanskrit hṛdaya, or Armenian sirt.)
Source: Wiktionary: دل.

12.3 در — door

Say در, and the root it shares with heart. This lesson’s word shares its own root with an equally ordinary English word.

You’ll want to know first — one word

در — dar — door

Two letters, both already yours: د ر — d, r.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

در continues Old Persian duvar-, “door, gate,” from Indo-European d^hwer-*. Few Indo-European words are this well attested across every branch of the family at once: English door, German Tür, Latin foris (→ foreign, “outside the door”), Greek thýra, and Sanskrit dvāra all continue the identical ancient word. در is Persian’s contribution to a cognate set most Indo-European languages still carry.

Your turn

- Say it: dar — door
- Connect: dar ← d^hwer-* → English door, German Tür, Latin foris, Sanskrit dvāra
- Run through: nām, del, dar — name, heart, door

Before you move on

What does در mean? (Door.) Name three other languages that kept the same root. (English door, German Tür, Sanskrit dvāra, among others.)

Source: Wiktionary: در.

12.4 کتاب — book, and the name exchange this chapter reopens

Say در, and the four languages that share its root. This chapter’s last word breaks that pattern completely.

You’ll want to know first — one word

کتاب — ketâb — book

Four letters, all already yours: ک ت ب ا — k, t, long â, b.

Grammar Lens: a possessed object, the pattern one more time کتابِ من، لطفاً. — ketâb-e man, lotfan. — My book, please.

The same ezafe -e from من اسمِ, and دخترِ من links a fourth kind of noun to its owner. Four different words, one grammar habit.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

کتاب is not inherited Persian at all: it is borrowed whole from Arabic kitāb, “book,” built on the three-consonant root ک ت ب (k-t-b), “to write.” Persian’s four new words this chapter show its vocabulary layers running in both directions at once — نام is inherited where اسم, taught first, is Arabic; کتاب is Arabic where Persian has no single inherited word of its own for the idea. دل and در are older still, each carrying an Indo-European root beside a whole set of English cousins.

Your turn — the chapter, then the name exchange it reopens

- Say it: ketâb — book; then ketâb-e man, lotfan — my book, please
- Run through: nâm, del, dar, ketâb — all four of this chapter’s words
- Sort: which words are inherited, and which one is Arabic
- Rebuild: شما / تو — the register choice; چيست؟ شما اسم — the question, joining chi and ast; خوشوقتم — the reply that closes an introduction
- Connect: نام, this chapter’s own name-word, back to the exchange that first taught اسم
- Retrieve: پا — foot, one more body word from a few lessons back

Before you move on

Which language did Persian borrow کتاب from? (Arabic.) Say “my book, please.” (Ketâb-e man, lotfan.) Which of this chapter’s four words is inherited Persian, and which is the Arabic loan? (نام, دل, در inherited; کتاب Arabic.) Which earlier word for “name” does نام now stand beside? (اسم.)
Source: Wiktionary: کتاب.

Chapter 13

Sky, Sun, Moon, Star, Rain

Modes: ⇄ voice (5) ⇄ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can name the sky, sun, moon, star, and rain in Persian, and I can say which of those words has no established English cousin.

The chapter closes on bârân, a word with no English cousin, then runs all five sky words back to back and rebuilds the careful wellbeing question the weather now follows in ordinary small talk.

13.1 آسمان — sky

Say کتاب (ketâb), and which language it came from. This chapter turns from things in the house to the world above it, starting with the biggest word of all.

You'll want to know first — one word

آسمان — âsemân — sky

Five letters, all already yours: آ م س ن — alef with madde, s, m, long â, n.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

آسمان continues Old Persian asmānam, from Indo-European h₂ék^mō*, “stone.” Sanskrit kept the plain sense as aśman, “stone,” while Avestan’s cousin word already carried both meanings, “stone” and “sky,” at once. Picturing the sky as a stone dome overhead was a widespread Indo-European habit, not a Persian invention — one old word doing two jobs, the way زبان later did for tongue and language.

Your turn

- Say it: âsemân — sky
- Connect: âsemân ← *h₂ék̑mō → Sanskrit aśman, “stone”
- Name: the old Indo-European habit آسمان preserves — picturing the sky as stone
- Retrieve: زبان — tongue and language, with its letter ز

Before you move on

What does آسمان mean? (Sky.) What did its root originally mean, and which Sanskrit word still keeps that older sense? (Stone; aśman.)

Source: Wiktionary: آسمان.

13.2 خورشید — sun, a word built from two old pieces

Say آسمان (âsemân), and the root sense it once carried. Look up, and this lesson names what is in it.

You’ll want to know first — one word

خورشید — khorshid — sun

Six letters, all already yours: خ و د ی ش ر — kh, o carrying its learned o value, r, sh, long i, d.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

خورشید is a compound, not a single old root. Its first half, خور khōr, “sun,” descends from the ancient Indo-European word for the sun, *sóh₂wl — the same distant root behind English sun, Latin sol (→ solar), Greek hēlios (→ heliotrope), and Sanskrit sūrya, though it reached Persian by a completely different branch of the family. Its second half, شید shid, “shining,” is an unrelated word that Avestan had already paired with خور long before Persian existed.

Your turn

- Say it: khorshid — sun
- Split: خور, sun — شید, shining
- Connect: خور ← sóh₂wl* → English sun, Latin sol, Greek hēlios, Sanskrit sūrya
- Run through: âsemân, khorshid — sky, sun

Before you move on

What does خورشید mean, and what are its two parts? (Sun; خور “sun” plus شید “shining.”) Which English word shares خور’s distant root? (Sun.)

Source: Wiktionary: خورشید.

13.3 ماه — moon, and month

Say خورشید (khorshid), and the two old pieces fused inside it. The sky’s other light gives Persian one more word doing double duty.

You’ll want to know first — one word

ماه — mâh — moon, and also month

Three letters, all already yours: م ا ه — m, long â, h.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

ماه continues Old Persian māha-, from Indo-European mēh₁ns*, “moon.” The same root split into two related English words, moon and month — a month was, for most of human history, one full cycle of the moon — and Persian’s single word still holds both senses together, the way زبان later holds “tongue” and “language” in one word. Latin kept the root as mensis (→ month, menstrual), Greek as mēn, and Sanskrit as māsa.

Your turn

- Say it: mâh — moon, and month
- Connect: mâh ← mēh₁ns* → English moon and month, Latin mensis, Sanskrit māsa
- Run through: âsemân, khorshid, mâh — sky, sun, moon

Before you move on

What two English words does ماه's root split into? (Moon and month.) Which earlier Persian word did the same double duty for tongue and language? (زبان.)

Source: Wiktionary: ماه.

13.4 ستاره — star

Say ماه, and the two English words its root split into. One more light in the sky, and a new small spelling habit.

You'll want to know first — one word, one small spelling habit

ستاره — setâre — star

Five letters, all already yours: ه ر ا ت س — s, t, long â, r, and a final ه read as the vowel -e rather than as a consonant — the first time this track has met ه doing that particular job.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

ستاره continues Old Persian star-, from Indo-European h₂stér*, “star.” Few Indo-European roots survive this cleanly across the whole family: English star, Latin stella (→ stellar, constellation), Greek astron (→ astronomy, disaster — “ill-starred”), and Persian's own ستاره all continue the identical ancient word, alongside در's door and ماه's moon as the tranche's clearest cousins.

Your turn

- Say it: setâre — star
- Connect: setâre ← h₂stér* → English star, Latin stella, Greek astron
- Read it: the final ه in ستاره as -e, not as a consonant
- Run through: âsemân, khoshid, mâh, setâre — sky, sun, moon, star
- Retrieve: در — door, and its own well-attested cousin set

Before you move on

What does ستاره mean? (Star.) How is its final ه read? (As the vowel -e, not a consonant.) Name two other languages whose word for star shares the same root. (English star, Latin stella, or Greek astron.)

Source: Wiktionary: ستاره.

13.5 باران — rain, and the wellbeing question this chapter answers differently

Say ستاره (setâre), and its root's three attested cousins. Not every sky word gets to keep company like that.

You'll want to know first — one word

باران — bârân — rain

Five letters, all already yours: ب ا ر ا ن — b, long â, r, long â, n.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

باران continues Middle Persian wārān, from Indo-Iranian wáHr*, “water, rain,” itself from Indo-European weh₁r-*, “water.” Its cousins stayed close to home: Avestan vāra, “rain,” and Sanskrit vār, “water,” share the identical root. English rain is not part of this family at all — its own origin is disputed and confined to the Germanic languages, with no secure Indo-European cousin beyond them — so, as with رفتن and گفتن far earlier, the honest answer here is that no English cousin is claimed.

Grammar Lens: what small talk about the sky follows

Weather small talk in Persian commonly follows the wellbeing exchange, the same slot English fills right after “how are you?” Rebuild the question: است؟ چطور شما حال, careful ast, not a contraction, then its reply, ممنون خوبم — a shape a sky word can now attach to.

Your turn — every sky word, then the exchange it follows

- Say it: bârân — rain
- Connect: bârân ← *weh₁r- → Sanskrit vār, Avestan vāra — no English cousin
- Run through: âsemân, khoshid, mâh, setâre, bârân — all five sky words
- Rebuild: است؟ چطور شما حال and its reply, ممنون خوبم

Before you move on

What does باران mean? (Rain.) Does it share a root with English rain? (No.) Which two Indo-Iranian languages keep the closest cousins? (Avestan, Sanskrit.) Name all five sky words. (Âsemân, khoshid, mâh, setâre, bârân.)
Source: Wiktionary: باران.

Chapter 14

Sister, Son, Man, Woman, Friend

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can name my sister, son, and friend in Persian, tell man and woman apart, and open and close a short interaction with all of them.

The chapter and the tranche close on dust, friend, then run all five people-words back to back and rebuild a complete short interaction with a friend: a polite request for tea, a request for a key, and the standard farewell both voices share.

14.1 خواهر — sister, the family word the earlier tranche skipped

Say باران, and whether it has an English cousin. The sky words are done; the family the earlier tranche built — پدر, مادر, برادر — is missing exactly one member.

You'll want to know first — one word, a familiar silent letter

خواهر — khâhar — sister

Five letters, all already yours: ر ه ا و خ. The و here is silent, exactly the pattern خواندن taught: written after خ and before ل, never pronounced. Read it kh-â-har.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

خواهر continues Middle Persian xwāhar, from Indo-European swésōr*, “sister” — as secure a cognate as برادر’s own b^hréh₂tēr*. English kept it as sister (through Old Norse, replacing the native Old English form), Latin as soror (→ sorority), and Sanskrit as svasṛ. پدر, مادر, برادر, خواهر دختر now give the track all five of Indo-European’s plainest kinship words.

Your turn

- Say it: khâhar — sister
- Connect: khâhar ← swésōr* → English sister, Latin soror, Sanskrit svasṛ
- Read it: the silent و in خواهر, the same pattern خواندن taught
- Name: all five family words this track now holds — پدر, مادر, برادر, خواهر دختر
- Retrieve: کتاب — book, from a few lessons back

Before you move on

What does خواهر mean? (Sister.) Which letter in it is silent, and which earlier word taught the same pattern? (خواندن; و) Which English word is its direct cousin? (Sister.)
Source: Wiktionary: خواهر.

14.2 پسر — son, دختر’s missing counterpart

Say خواهر, and its secure English cousin. Then say برادر — its own family tranche taught دختر, “daughter,” but never gave her brother’s counterpart a lesson of its own, until now.

You’ll want to know first — one word

پسر — pesar — son

Three letters, all already yours: پ — pe, from پرسیدن, then s, r.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

پسر continues Old Persian puça, cognate with Sanskrit putra, “son” — an Indo-Iranian word Persian and Sanskrit still share with each other. English son is not part of this family: it descends from an entirely different Indo-European root, so — as with باران and رفتن before it — no English cousin is claimed here. پسر and دختر now give the track a complete pair for “son” and “daughter,” even though only one of the two has an English relative.

Your turn

- Say it: pesar — son
- Connect: pesar ← Old Persian puça → Sanskrit putra — no English cousin
- Run through: barâdar, pesar — brother, son — the two words this pair now completes
- Run through: khâhar, pesar — sister, son

Before you move on

What does پسر mean? (Son.) Which Sanskrit word is its direct cousin? (Putra.) Does English son share the same root? (No.)
Source: Wiktionary: پسر.

14.3 مرد — man, but its root says “mortal”

Say پسر (pesar), and the Sanskrit word it shares a root with.
This lesson’s word looks like it should be an easy English cousin.
It is not.

You’ll want to know first — one word

مرد — mard — man

Three letters, all already yours: د ر م — m, r, d.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

مرد continues Middle Persian mard, from Indo-European mer-*, “to die.” Its literal sense is not “man” at all — it is “mortal,” “one who dies.” The same root gives Latin mortuus, “dead” (→ English mortal, mortician), Greek brotós (→ ambrosia, “not mortal”), and Sanskrit martya. English man looks like an obvious match for مرد and is not one — it descends from a completely different root — so this is one place where guessing a cousin from sound alone would mislead rather than help.

Your turn

- Say it: mard — man
- Connect: mard ← mer-* → Latin mortuus, mortal; Greek brotós; Sanskrit martya — not English man
- Run through: pesar, mard — son, man

Before you move on

What does مرد mean? (Man.) What does its root literally mean, and which English word keeps that sense? (Mortal; mortal itself.) Does English man share the same root? (No — a false friend.) Source: Wiktionary: مرد.

14.4 زن — woman, a root hiding behind a royal title

Say مرد, and why it is not a cousin of English man. This lesson’s word finds its English cousin in an unexpected place.

You’ll want to know first — one word

زن — zan — woman

Two letters, both already yours: ز ن — ز ze, from زبان, then n.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

زن continues Middle Persian zan, from Indo-European $*g^w\acute{e}n(h_2)-$, “woman.” English kept the same root, but only inside a narrowed, elevated word: queen was once simply “woman,” the way مرد narrowed “mortal” down to “man.” Greek kept the plain sense directly as gynē (→ gynecology), and Russian as žena. مرد and زن give the track its first pair of person words that are not family roles.

Your turn

- Say it: zan — woman
- Connect: zan ← $*g^w\acute{e}n(h_2)-$ → English queen, Greek gynē
- Run through: mard, zan — man, woman
- Contrast: مرد narrowed from “mortal”; زن widened English’s cousin down to royalty alone
- Retrieve: ستاره — star, one more well-attested cousin

Before you move on

What does زن mean? (Woman.) Which English word is its cousin, and what did that word originally mean before it narrowed? (Queen; simply “woman.”) Which Greek word shares the same root? (Gynē.) Source: Wiktionary: زن.

14.5 دوست — friend, and everything this tranche has built

Say زن مرد, (mard, zan) — man, woman. One more person word closes the tranche, and it is a word this track has half-taught already.

You’ll want to know first — one word, already half-known

دوست — dust — friend

Four letters, all already yours: د ت س و — d, long u, s, t. The compound verb for “to love” already ran on this exact word; here it stands alone, as the person it names.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

دوست goes back through Old Persian dauštā to Indo-European ǵews-*, “to taste, to choose” — a friend is the one chosen. English inherited the root directly as choose; Latin took it as gustus, “taste,” giving English gusto and disgust. The compound-verb lesson that first taught this root only ever used دوست glued to داشتن; this is its first lesson as a free-standing noun.

Your turn — the tranche, start to finish

One short scene, built entirely from independently learned pieces:

- Say it: dust — friend; then khâhar, pesar, mard, zan, dust — all five people-words this closing chapter taught
- Connect: dust ← ǵews-* → English choose, Latin gustus
- Say it: لطفاً چای، — offer your friend tea in the bârân, rain, reusing the very first polite request this track built
- Say it: لطفاً من، کلید — and ask a friend to pass your key
- Read it: حافظ — guardian, protector — the Arabic-rooted half of a farewell you have used since your very first complete exchange
- Read it: joined خداحافظ, and recall what it leaves unsaid — no verb, just two halves fused into one wish
- Run through: ... خداحافظ ... ممنون خوبم، ... است؟ چطور شما حال! سلام. خداحافظ. — the exact four-line interaction a friend opens and closes

Before you move on

What does دوست mean on its own? (Friend.) Which compound verb already ran on this exact word? (Dust dâshtan, “to love.”) Name all five people-words this closing chapter taught, in order. (Khâhar, pesar, mard, zan, dust.) How does a friend close the four-line interaction? (خداحافظ, said by both voices.)

Source: Wiktionary: دوست.

Chapter 15

Nine Letters, and the Words You Already Knew

Modes:  voice (1)  eyes (1)  pen (9)  Hands-free start: none of the 11 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can write nine Perso-Arabic letters from memory, read salâm, bale, na, mamnun, nân, nâm and mâh off the page rather than from the romanization, and explain why Persian leaves its short vowels unwritten.

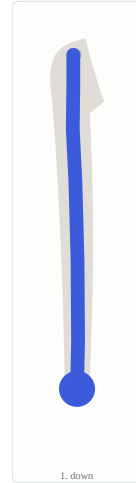

Seven words the book had only ever given by ear, read letter by letter from the right – and the reason a Persian word can be read only once you have heard it.

15.1 | — one stroke, and the direction of the page

Return to the right-to-left direction and the one alef stroke you first copied beside salâm. Now make both durable before adding a second letter.

Script — first, which way the page runs

How it is written — one u

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, opening 1 demonstration at 00:08-00:11 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin). This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ۱ is written, stroke by stroke

English marches left to right. Persian marches right to left.

Your pen starts at the right edge of a word and travels towards the left. So in a Persian word the letter you meet first is the rightmost one, and the letter you meet last is the leftmost — the exact reverse of what your eye has been trained on for your whole reading life.

This takes a few minutes to stop feeling strange and then stops mattering entirely. Numbers, incidentally, still run left to right, which surprises people more than the letters do.

Script — the letter itself

۱

One downstroke. That is the whole letter, and there is nothing in the alphabet simpler. Draw it from the top down, straight, and lift.

Its name is alef. What it sounds like is a longer story than what it looks like, and this book will take that slowly: for now, treat alef as the letter that carries a long â, the vowel in English father.

Your turn

- Write it: ﻝ — one stroke, top to bottom
- Say it: â, the vowel of father
- Point to: at the right edge of a Persian word, where your pen would begin

Before you move on

How many strokes in alef? (One.)

15.2 ﺝ — alef, with a bowl at its foot

Write ﻝ. One stroke, top to bottom.

Script — the shape

How it is written — one unbroken stroke · 2 mover

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, J demonstration at 02:29–02:32 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)

This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ﺝ is written, stroke by stroke

ﺝ

Start exactly as you started alef — a tall stroke coming down — and then, instead of lifting, swing left into a shallow bowl at the foot and come back up a little.

One movement, no pen lift. If you can write ل you are most of the way to ج already; the difference is what happens at the bottom.

Its name is lām and it says l, as in English long.

Your turn

- Write it: ل, then ج — the same descent, and then the bowl
- Say it: l

Before you move on

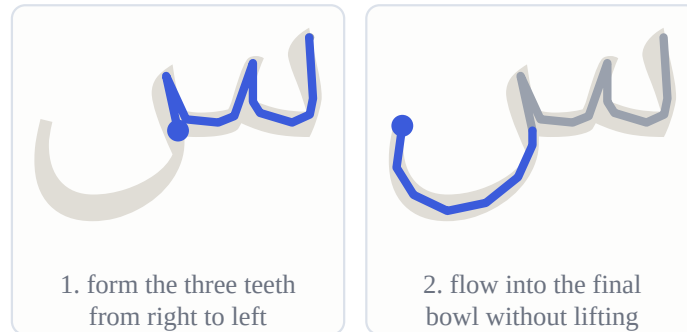

Do you lift the pen between the stroke and the bowl? (No — one movement.)

15.3 س — three teeth, then a bowl

Write ج. Descent, then bowl.

Script — the shape

How it is written — one unbroken stroke · 2 moves

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, س demonstration at 01:23–01:28 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)

This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

*How س is written, stroke by stroke*

س

Three small teeth — short upward points in a row — and then the line drops into a bowl and comes back up, the same kind of bowl you drew on lâm.

Remember you are working right to left: the first tooth you draw is the rightmost one.

All of it is one movement. No lifts at all.

Its name is sin and it says s, as in English see.

Your turn

- Write it: س — three teeth from the right, then the bowl, without lifting
- Say it: s

Before you move on

Which tooth do you draw first? (The rightmost.)

15.4 م — a loop, and a tail below the line

Write مس. Three teeth, then the bowl.

Script — the shape

How it is written — one unbroken stroke · 2 moves

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, م demonstration at 02:33–02:36 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How م is written, stroke by stroke

م

A small closed loop sitting on the line, and from it a tail dropping straight down below the line.

The loop is small and round; keep it tight, or it starts to look like other letters you will meet later. The tail is what makes mim unmistakable standing on its own — very few letters drop below the line, and your eye will learn to use that. Joined into the middle of a word the tail is trimmed away and the loop is what survives, which is the same trimming you will meet everywhere.

One movement, no lift.

Its name is mim and it says m.

Your turn

- Write it: م — the small loop, then the tail dropping below the line
- Say it: m

Before you move on

Is the loop open or closed? (Closed.)

15.5 Letters that hold hands, and two that will not

Write س, then م. Four letters are now yours.

Script — the running line

Persian is not written as separate letters sitting side by side. Letters join, running into one another along a single line, the way English cursive does — except that in Persian it is not a style. It is the ordinary way to write, and printed text does it too.

Because they join, most letters change shape depending on where they sit: a letter at the start of a joined run, one in the middle, one at the end, and one standing alone can all look different. They are the same letter.

That sounds like four times the work. It is not, and here is why: the changes are almost always the same trimming. A letter's identifying part stays, and the finishing flourish is cut short so the next letter can begin.

Look at sin, which you can already write:

alone: س — in the middle of a run: س

The three teeth survive. The bowl is what gets trimmed away.

Script — and the letters that refuse

Now the rule that saves you the most trouble.

A few letters join to the letter before them, but never to the letter after. They connect on the right, and refuse on the left, so the run breaks and the next letter starts fresh as though beginning a new word.

alef is one of them. So when you meet a gap in the middle of a Persian word, it is very often not a gap at all — it is one of these non-joining letters doing exactly what it always does.

That single fact turns a page of Persian from an unbroken puzzle into something with visible seams.

What you've built

Four letters, and they spell a word you have been saying since the very first lesson:

سلام

Read it right to left: م m, ا â, ل l, س s. Say it: salâm.

Two things to notice. The short vowel between s and l is not written — Persian normally prints only the long vowels, and readers supply the rest. And the break before the final م is alef refusing to join, exactly as promised.

Your turn

- Read it: سلام — name each letter from the right, then say the word
- Write it: سلام — and let the run break after alef
- Say it: salâm

Before you move on

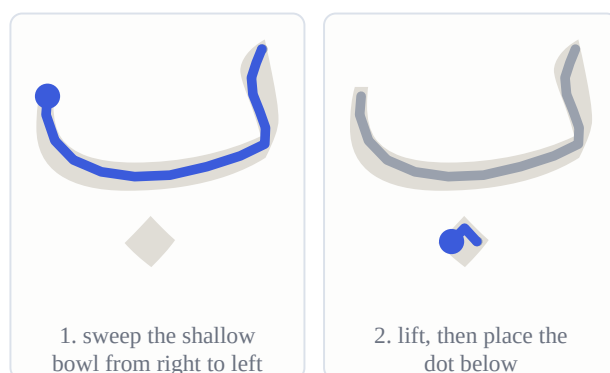

Which part of sin survives when it joins? (The teeth; the bowl is trimmed.)

15.6 ب — a bowl, and one dot underneath

Write سلام. Four letters, one break.

Script — the shape

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 2 moves

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, opening ب demonstration at 00:11–00:15 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)

This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ب is written, stroke by stroke

ب

A single shallow bowl, wider and flatter than the one on lâṃ, sitting on the line — and one dot below it.

Draw the bowl first, then lift and place the dot. That lift is the only one.

Its name is be and it says b.

Now the part worth more than the letter. This bowl is a skeleton that several letters share. On its own it means nothing; the dots decide which letter it is — how many, and whether they sit above or below.

That is why dots in Persian are not decoration and not optional. Move one dot from below to above and you have written a different letter. Your eye has to learn to look at the dots as hard as it looks at the shape.

Your turn

- Write it: ب — the shallow bowl, then one dot beneath it
- Say it: b

Before you move on

Is the bowl alone enough to identify a letter? (No — the dots decide.)

15.7 ت and ن — the same bowl, dotted differently

Write ب. Bowl, then one dot below.

Script — two dots above

ت

The same bowl as be. Two dots, and they sit above it.

That is the entire difference, and it is a whole different letter: te, saying t.

Script — one dot above, and a deeper bowl

ن

One dot above — and a bowl that is noticeably deeper and rounder than be's, curving well below the line before coming back up.

Its name is nun and it says n.

Standing alone, nun's deeper bowl helps you. In the middle of a joined run the bowl gets trimmed like everyone else's, and then the dot is doing nearly all the work: one above is nun, two above is te, one below is be.

What you've built

Three letters, one shape:

ب — one dot below

ت — two dots above

ن — one dot above

You learned one bowl and got three letters out of it. That is the trade Persian keeps offering: fewer shapes than you feared, and dots you cannot afford to skim.

Your turn

- Write it: ب, then ت, then ن — same hand movement, different dots
- Say it: b, t, n

Before you move on

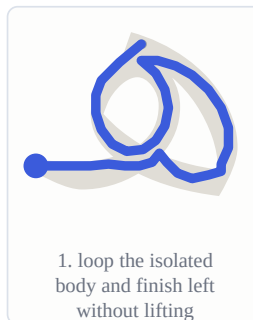

Which of the three has the deepest bowl? (nun.)

15.8 ه — the letter with four costumes

Write ت, then ن. Same bowl, different dots.

Script — the shape

How it is written — one u

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, o demonstration at 02:47–02:50 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)

This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ه is written, stroke by stroke

ه

A small round letter, standing on the line, no dots at all.

Its name is he. It says h at the start of a word — and at the end of a word it usually says nothing like an h: it carries a final e sound, the vowel that ends so many Persian words.

This letter will test what you learned about joining, because its four forms differ more than most:

alone: ه — at the start: ه — in the middle: ه — at the end: ه

Do not try to memorise four shapes. Recognise the round body, notice where in the run it is sitting, and let the shape follow from that. Persian readers are not holding four pictures in mind either.

Your turn

- Write it: ه — small and round, no dots
- Say it: h at the front of a word; a soft e at the end of one

Before you move on

Does he carry any dots? (None.)

15.9 ه — one shape, three jobs, and no hand offered to the left

Write ه. Small, round, no dots.

Script — the shape

How it is written — one unbroken stroke · 2 moves

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, 9 demonstration at 02:43–02:45 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How 9 is written, stroke by stroke

9

A small loop at the top with a tail sweeping down and to the left, below the line. One movement.

Its name is vâv, and it is unusually hard-working. Depending on the word it is:

- the consonant v
- the long vowel u, as in English food
- the vowel o

You cannot tell which from the letter alone. You learn it with the word — and that is a fair trade, because it means Persian needs no separate letters for those vowels at all.

And vâv is a non-joiner, the second one this chapter has given you. Like alef, it takes the hand of the letter on its right and offers nothing to the left, so the run breaks after it.

Your turn

- Write it: و — the small loop, then the tail below the line
- Say it: v, then u, then o — one letter, three jobs

Before you move on

Can you tell from the shape alone whether vâv is v, u or o? (No — the word tells you.)

15.10 Practice — seven words you already knew, now read

Write your nine letters in a row, right to left, saying each name as you go.

Script — the words come back

Nothing new is taught here. Every word below is one this book already gave you to say, and every letter in them is one you can now write.

Read each from the right, naming its letters before you say it:

سلام

بله

نه

ممنون

نان

نام

ماه

salâm — bale — na — mamnun — nân — nâm — mâh.

Seven words. Nine letters. That ratio is the point: a small closed set of shapes unlocks far more than its own size, and it keeps doing so as the set grows.

Why it's said this way

Count the letters in بَـلَـه and count the sounds in bale. Three letters, four sounds.

Persian normally does not write its short vowels. The long ones get letters — that is part of what alef and vâv are for — but the short a, e and o are left off the page, and the reader supplies them.

This sounds alarming and is not, for the same reason English readers cope with read and read: you are not decoding letter by letter for long. You recognise the word.

It does mean one thing, though, and it is worth accepting early. You cannot reliably sound out a Persian word you have never heard. Reading and listening have to grow together in this language, more tightly than in one that spells every vowel. That is why this book taught you these seven words by ear first, and is only now handing you the page.

What you've built this chapter

Nine letters, and three ideas that matter more than any of them:

- the page runs right to left, and your pen starts at the right edge
- letters join, changing shape by position — but the change is a trimming, not a new letter, and alef and vâv refuse to join to the left, which is what makes the gaps inside a word
- dots carry the identity — one bowl gave you ب, ت and ن

Nine of Persian's thirty-two letters. The remaining twenty-three are mostly more of what you have just done: familiar skeletons, re-dotted.

Your turn

- Read it: ممنون نه بله سلام — name the letters of each before saying it
- Write it: نام and نان — one letter apart, and check which
- Say it: mamnun, and count how many letters are written for it

Before you move on

Which two of your nine letters refuse to join to the left? (ا and و.)

15.11 دوست · زن · ممنون — three words the letters have caught up with

Say the word you have used for thank you since the first page. You have had it in your mouth far longer than you have had it on the page.

You'll want to know: the letters have caught up with the words

Three words you already say, now taken apart with letters you can name:

word		its letters
ممنون mamnun	thank you	ن · و · ن · م · م
زن zan	woman	ن · ز
دوست dust	friend	ت · س · و · د

Look at what is not there. Mamnun has an a you say and no a you read, because Persian leaves the short vowels off the page — the rule you were told on the very first word, now visible in a word you can spell. Dust has the opposite: the و is written, because a long u earns a letter.

Short vowels are heard and not written; long ones are both. That single sentence is most of what makes Persian readable.

Your turn

- Look: at ممنون and name each letter from the right
- Say it: zan — woman; then name its two letters
- Say it: dust — friend; then say which of its four letters is the long u
- Say it: mamnun — and say where the a you hear has gone on the page

Before you move on

Which word means thank you, and which vowel of it is unwritten?
(ممنون — the short a.) Which two letters spell woman? (ن. ز.)
Which letter of دوست carries the long u? (و.) And what is the rule the three words share? (Short vowels are not written; long ones are.)

Chapter 16

One to Five, and the Words English Already Says

Modes: 🗣️ voice (6) 👁️ eyes (1) 🖱️ Hands-free start: first 6 of 7 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say, hear and recognise the Persian numbers one to five, write the one of them made only of letters I have been taught, and name the English cousin of each.

Five numbers, five Indo-European roots and five everyday English cousins — retrieved shuffled rather than recited, with the one writable form written.

16.1 یک — one, and the first number this book has ever taught

Read سلام and نان off the page, without the romanization. Nine letters, and the words they finish.

You'll want to know first — one word

یک — yek — one

Fifteen chapters of names, verbs, kinship, the body and the sky, and not one number. That has a cost the book has been carrying quietly: no age, no price, no telephone number, no quantity, no time of day. It starts being paid here.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

یک continues Middle Persian yak, from Proto-Iranian Haywāh* and Indo-Iranian Háywas*, ultimately Indo-European óywos*, “one.” That root did not stay in Iran. Sanskrit eka, Ancient Greek oios, Latin ūnus, French un, German ein and English one are all the same word, worn down differently. Of the ten numbers this slice teaches, nine have a cousin an English speaker already says every day — which makes the count the cheapest vocabulary in the whole book, not the most expensive.

Your turn

- Say it: yek — one
- Connect: yek ← óywos* → English one, Latin ūnus, Sanskrit eka

Before you move on

What does یک mean? (One.) Which everyday English word is the same root? (One.)

Sources: Wiktionary: یک; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

16.2 دو — two, and a letter doing its third job

Say yek, and the English word that is the same root.

You’ll want to know first — one word

دو — do — two

Two letters. The second is و, the hard-working letter from the script chapter that can be v, u or o; here it is o, and the word tells you so.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

دو continues Middle Persian dō, from Proto-Iranian duwā*, from Indo-European dwoh*, “two.” English two, Latin duo, Greek dyo and Sanskrit dvá are the same word.

Say do and two one after the other. Nothing has to be learned there; it has to be recognised.

Your turn

- Say it: do — two
- Connect: do ← dwōh* → English two, Latin duo
- Run through: yek, do

Before you move on

Which of ۳'s three jobs is it doing in دو? (۳.)

Sources: Wiktionary: دو; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

16.3 سه — three, and the first number the hand can make

Say yek, do.

You'll want to know first — one word

سه — se — three

س and ه. Both were taught in the script chapter, so this is the first number in the book you can write as well as say. Of the twelve numbers this slice covers, exactly two are in that position — the other is nine.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

سه continues Middle Persian sē, from Indo-European tréyes*, “three.” English three, Latin trēs, Greek treîs and Sanskrit tri are the same word.

The Persian form looks further away than do did, and it is: the initial consonant and the r have both gone. Hearing se as three takes a moment where hearing do as two took none — that is worth noticing now, because the next two numbers are further still.

Your turn

- Say it: se — three
- Connect: se ← tréyes* → English three, Latin trēs

- Write it: سه — sin, then he. Right to left.
- Run through: yek, do, se

Before you move on

Which two numbers can this book write so far? (سه and, later, نه.)
Sources: Wiktionary: سه; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

16.4 چهار — four, and one consonant taking three different paths

Say se and its English cousin, then do.

You'll want to know first — one word

چهار — chahâr — four

Two syllables, and the long â of باران in the second.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

چهار continues Old Persian chathwar, from Indo-European k^wetwóres*, “four.”

That opening k^w* is the interesting part, because three languages did three different things with it. Latin kept it whole: quattuor. English lost the lip-rounding and then the k itself softened to f: four. Persian pushed it forward to a ch. One sound, three descendants, and the numbers still line up.

Your turn

- Say it: chahâr — four
- Connect: chahâr ← k^wetwóres* → Latin quattuor, English four
- Run through: yek, do, se, chahâr

Before you move on

Which language kept the original kw whole? (Latin.)

Sources: Wiktionary: چهار; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

16.5 پنج — five, and the word you have already met on a map

Say chahâr, and what three languages did with its first sound.

You'll want to know first — one word

پنج — panj — five

پ is Persian's own letter, one of the four the alphabet added for sounds Arabic does not have.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

پنج continues Middle Persian panj, from Indo-European pénk^we*, “five.” Greek pénte, Latin quīnque and English five are the same word.

This one an English speaker has probably already met without knowing it. Punjab is panj + âb, “five waters” — the land of the five rivers. So is the fruit drink punch, named for its five ingredients. The number was in the language before the lesson was.

Your turn

- Say it: panj — five
- Connect: panj ← pénk^we* → Greek pénte, Latin quīnque, English five
- Run through: yek, do, se, chahâr, panj — the whole first five

Before you move on

What does the panj in Punjab mean? (Five.)

Sources: Wiktionary: پنج; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

16.6 Payoff — one to five, out of order

Say panj, then yek.

Your turn

A run learned forwards is a rhyme. Break it four ways.

1. Hear each of the five named singly and out of order, and say what it is.
2. Count backwards from panj to yek.
3. Read the five printed shuffled — پنج، چهار، یک، دو سه — and say each.
4. Write سه, the one of the five whose letters are already yours.

Then say each number's English cousin: one, two, three, four, five. Every one of the five has one, and that is not a coincidence — it is the same set of words, five thousand years apart.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

16.7 دوست یک — counting the people you can name

Two person words, from memory: the one for woman, and the one for friend. Neither is a family role, which is what made them worth learning.

You'll want to know: numbers go in front, and nothing else changes

Put a number you now have in front of a person word you now have:

یک دوست yek dust	one friend
دو دوست do dust	two friends
زن سه se zan	three women

Read the middle column down and notice what stays still. دوست does not change between one friend and two, and neither does زن. Persian does not reach for a plural ending once a number has already said how many — the number has done that job, so the noun does not repeat it.

دوست is also the one to hold on to. It goes back to a root meaning to choose, so a friend in Persian is the one chosen — and the same root gave English choose.

Your turn

- Say it: one friend, then two friends — the noun does not move
- Say it: three women
- Say it: dust — and what a friend is, literally
- Run through: yek, do, se in front of dust, one after the other

Before you move on

How do you say two friends? (دوست دو do dust — the noun is unchanged.) Why is there no plural ending? (The number already said how many.) What does دوست mean literally? (The one chosen.) And which English word shares its root? (Choose.)

Chapter 17

Six to Ten, and One Sound Law

Modes: ⇄ voice (5) 👁 eyes (1) ⇄ Hands-free start: first 3 of 6 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say, hear and recognise every Persian number from one to ten, write the two of them made only of letters I have been taught, and explain why haft begins with h where septem begins with s.

Five more numbers, the Iranian s-to-h rule that explains one of them, the analogy that explains the next, and the whole run of ten shuffled.

17.1 شش — six, and the short vowel you cannot see

Count one to five, then five to one.

You'll want to know first — one word

شش — shesh — six

Two letters, and they are the same letter. The vowel between them is short, so Persian does not write it — which is the script chapter's rule doing exactly what it said it would: a Persian word can be read only once you have heard it.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

شش continues Middle Persian shash, from Indo-European swéks*, “six.” English six, Latin sex, Greek hék and Sanskrit ṣaṣ are the same word.

Your turn

- Say it: shesh — six
- Connect: shesh ← swéks* → English six, Latin sex
- Run through: chahâr, panj, shesh

Before you move on

Sources: Wiktionary: شش; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

17.2 هفت — seven, and the rule behind it

Say shesh and its English cousin.

You'll want to know first — one word

هفت — haft — seven

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

هفت comes from Proto-Iranian haptá*, from Indo-European septm*, “seven.” Latin septem, English seven and Sanskrit saptá all keep the s.

Persian does not, and that is not an accident about this word. Iranian turned Indo-European s into h at the front of a word, everywhere, and once you know that one change a great many Persian words stop looking foreign. Set the pairs side by side:

- Sanskrit saptá — Persian haft
- Sanskrit sindhu, “river” — Persian hind (and, through Persian, India)
- Sanskrit soma — Avestan haoma

This is the single most useful sound law in the language for a reader who knows any European one, and a number is where it is easiest to see.

Your turn

- Say it: haft — seven
- Connect: haft ← *septm → Latin septem, English seven
- Apply: s at the front becomes h — saptá → haft
- Run through: panj, shesh, haft

Before you move on

Sources: Wiktionary: هفت; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

17.3 هشت — eight, and a rule that does not apply

Say haft, and what Iranian did to every word-initial s.

You'll want to know first — one word

هشت — hasht — eight

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

هشت goes back to Indo-European oktōw*, “eight” — Latin octō, Greek oktō, English eight. There is no s anywhere in that history, so the rule you learned one lesson ago cannot be what put the h on the front. What put it there was haft standing next to it. Seven and eight are said together more often than almost any other pair of words, and the h- of haft spread onto its neighbour. A rule and an exception, one lesson apart, and the exception is the more human of the two.

Your turn

- Say it: hasht — eight
- Connect: hasht ← oktōw* → Latin octō, English eight
- Run through: shesh, haft, hasht

Before you move on

Sources: Wiktionary: هشت; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

17.4 ﺋ — nine, and the word it is spelled exactly like

Say hasht, and why its h is there.

You’ll want to know first — one word

ﺋ — noh — nine

ﻥ and ه. Both are yours from the script chapter, so this is the second of the twelve numbers you can write as well as say — the other was سه.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

ﺋ continues Middle Persian noh, from Indo-European h1newn*, “nine.” Latin novem, English nine and Sanskrit náva are the same word. Now look at the spelling against a word from the opening chapter. ﺋ is also na, “no” — the same two letters, because the vowel that tells them apart is short and Persian does not write short vowels. Only the sentence separates nine from no.

This is the clearest case in the book of the trade the script chapter named. Persian writes fewer signs than it says, and the reader pays for it exactly here.

Your turn

- Say it: noh — nine
- Connect: noh ← h1newn* → Latin novem, English nine
- Write it: ﺋ — nun, then he
- Contrast: the same two letters said na are “no”

Before you move on

Sources: Wiktionary: ﺋ; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

17.5 ده — ten, and the building block for nine more numbers

Say noh and haft, and what ﺋ can also mean.

You'll want to know first — one word

ده — dah — ten

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

ده continues Middle Persian dah, from Indo-European dekm*, “ten.” Latin decem (and through it decimal, December), English ten and Sanskrit dāśa are the same word.

Hold on to this one. Persian builds every number from eleven to nineteen by putting a unit in front of dah — yâz-dah, si-dah, chahâr-dah — so the next chapter costs one rule rather than nine words. Ten has to be learned before the teens can be, and now it is.

Your turn

- Say it: dah — ten
- Connect: dah ← dekm* → Latin decem, English ten
- Run through: haft, hasht, noh, dah

Before you move on

Sources: Wiktionary: ده; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

17.6 Payoff — one to ten

Count one to five, then say what Iranian did to word-initial s.

Your turn

1. Hear all ten named singly and out of order, and say each.
2. Count backwards from dah to yek.
3. Read the ten printed shuffled and say each.
4. Write ده and نه, the two whose letters the script chapter gave you.
5. Say the English cousin of each of the ten. Every one has one.

Then group them by what happened to the first sound: haft shows the s-to-h rule, hasht borrowed its h from haft, and shesh kept its s because the rule only touches the front of a word.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

Chapter 18

The Teens Are a Rule, Not Nine Words

Modes: ⇄ voice (5) ⇄ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can build any number from eleven to nineteen by putting a unit in front of dah, say twenty and a hundred, and write the tenth letter of this book.

Three teens taught and six built from the rule, then the two round amounts a price actually names — and the one letter a hundred needs that no lesson yet teaches the hand to make.

18.1 یازده — eleven, and one rule for nine numbers

Count one to ten, then say dah on its own and what it means.

You'll want to know first — one word, and then a rule

یازده — yâzdah — eleven

Say it slowly and the ten is audible at the end: yâz + dah. The first piece is yek worn down; the second is the word for ten you learned in the last lesson.

That is the whole of the teens. Persian puts the unit in front of ten and stops:

12	davâz-dah — from do
14	chahâr-dah — chahâr unchanged
19	nuz-dah — from noh

Nine numbers, one rule, and the unit is a number you already have. This is why ten had to come first.

Your turn

- Say it: yâzdah — eleven
- Split: yâz + dah
- Build: chahâr + dah → chahârdah, fourteen

Before you move on

Sources: Wiktionary: یازده; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

18.2 سیزده — thirteen, and how far a unit can bend

Say yâzdah, split it in two, and build fourteen.

You'll want to know first — one word

سیزده — sizdah — thirteen

si + dah. The unit is se, with its vowel lengthened and darkened — and English does the same thing without anyone noticing: three becomes thir- in thirteen, and five becomes fif- in fifteen.

Listen past the bending, then, and hear what does not bend: the ten stays the same, on the end, every time.

Your turn

- Say it: sizdah — thirteen
- Split: si + dah
- Compare: se → si, as English three → thir-

Before you move on

Sources: Wiktionary: سیزده; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

18.3 پانزده — fifteen, and the one irregularity worth naming

Say sizdah and split it, then say panj.

You'll want to know first — one word

پانزده — pânzdah — fifteen

pân + z + dah. There is an n in there that panj does not have in the place you would expect it, and there is a z that came from the j.

Sixteen does the same thing: shânzdah, from shesh. Fifteen and sixteen are the only two of the nine teens that bend this far, and they bend the same way — so it is one irregularity, met once, not two.

Your turn

- Say it: pânzdah — fifteen
- Say it: shânzdah — sixteen, the same bend
- Run through: yâzdah, sizdah, pânzdah and the ten inside each

Before you move on

Sources: Wiktionary: پانزده; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

18.4 بیست and صد — twenty and a hundred

Say pânzdah and sizdah, and split each in two.

You'll want to know first — two words

بیست — bîst — twenty

صد — sad — a hundred

Two words, taken together because a price names one or the other far more often than it names any of the eighteen numbers between them.

صد is two letters and it is the largest number in this book. Its first letter, ص, is one no lesson has taught the hand to make — it enters this book by eye only, the way most of the track's words have, and reading is what the number needs.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

بیست goes back to Indo-European wikmtih*, “twenty” — Latin vīgintī, Sanskrit vimshati.

صد goes back to kmtom*, “hundred” — Latin centum, Greek hekatón, English hundred. The Latin form is the one English borrowed twice over, in century and per cent, so a reader who has ever seen a percentage has already met sad's cousin.

The spelling is the joke: صد is written with a borrowed Arabic letter for a word that is not Arabic at all.

Your turn

- Say it: bist — twenty; sad — a hundred
- Connect: sad ← kmtom* → Latin centum, English hundred
- Run through: dah, bist, sad — the three round amounts

Before you move on

Sources: Wiktionary: صد; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

18.5 Payoff — one to twenty, and the hundred above it

Count one to ten, then say a hundred.

Your turn

Three of the nine teens were taught. Build the other six rather than recalling them.

1. From do, chahâr, haft, hasht and noh, build twelve, fourteen, seventeen, eighteen and nineteen by putting the unit in front of dah. Then check each against a printed list and repair only what missed.
2. Say sixteen, and say which taught number it bends like.

3. Count one to twenty straight through.
4. Hear twelve amounts named singly, from yek to sad, and say each.

The point of the chapter is that six of these nine numbers were never taught and you can say them anyway. That is what a rule buys and a word list does not.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

Chapter 19

The Ten Persian Digits

Modes: ⇄ voice (1) ✍ pen (4) ⇄ Hands-free start: none of the 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can read and write the ten Persian digits, read a price, a page number and a telephone number off an Iranian page, and say which way a number runs inside a right-to-left line.

Ten signs across four lessons, grouped by what makes each pair hard: the reversed direction, the one-tooth pair, the three Arabic draws differently, and the mirror pair.

19.1 · \ — two digits, and a direction that reverses

Which way does a Persian line run? Say yek.

Script — the shapes, and the direction

· — sefr, zero \ — yek, one

Persian has its own ten digit signs, and every price ticket, telephone number and page number in Iran is written in them. A reader who can say yek and cannot read \ still cannot read a price.

· is a dot, not a ring. Fix that first, because a European eye reads a dot as a decimal point — and Persian's nine is the ring.

Now the part no earlier chapter has had to say: numbers run left to right, inside a line that runs right to left. Ten is \ · — one, then zero, in the European order — while the words around it move the other way. The page changes direction at the number and changes back after it.

Your turn

- Write it: · — a dot; ۱ — a stroke
- Read it: ۱· — dah, ten, left to right

Before you move on

Sources: Unicode Arabic chart; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

19.2 ۲ ۳ — one tooth apart

Write · and ۱, then read ۱·.

Script — the shapes

۲ — do, two ۳ — se, three

۳ is ۲ with one more tooth. That is the whole difference, and it is small enough that the two have to be written as a pair rather than one at a time — say do and se aloud as the hand makes them and the shapes stop competing.

Your turn

- Write it: ۲, then ۳ beside it
- Read it: ۱۲, ۱۳, ۲۳, left to right

Before you move on

Sources: Unicode Arabic chart; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

19.3 ۴ ۵ ۶ — the three Persian keeps for itself

Write ۲ and ۳, and say which has the extra tooth.

Script — the shapes

۴ — chahâr, four ۵ — panj, five ۶ — shesh, six

These three are the reason this chapter exists as more than a list.

Seven of the ten digits are drawn the same way in Persian and in Arabic. ۴, ۵ and ۶ are not: Arabic writes those three with quite different shapes. A reader who picked up the digits from an Arabic book will read an Iranian price wrongly at exactly these three places and nowhere else.

If you drill three of the ten harder than the rest, drill these.

Your turn

- Write it: ۴, ۵, ۶, saying chahâr, panj, shesh
- Read it: ۱۴, ۱۵, ۱۶, left to right

Before you move on

Sources: Unicode Arabic chart; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

19.4 ∨ ∧ ۹ — a mirror pair, and the ring

Write ۴, ۵, ۶ — the three Arabic draws differently.

Script — the shapes

∨ — haft, seven ∧ — hasht, eight ۹ — noh, nine

∨ and ∧ are mirror images of each other, one opening upward and one downward. Write them as a pair, every time, and the mirror stops being a problem — the same trick that worked on ۲ and ۳.

۹ is a ring with a tail, and this is where a dot-shaped zero pays off. Had · been a ring too, the page would carry two rings and no way to separate them.

Ten signs, four lessons. The set is closed.

Your turn

- Write it: ∨ and ∧ as a pair, then ۹
- Run through: · ۱ ۲ ۳ ۴ ۵ ۶ ∨ ∧ ۹ once, slowly

Before you move on

Sources: Unicode Arabic chart; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

19.5 Payoff — reading the figures

Count one to twenty, then say which way digits run inside a Persian line.

Your turn

1. Read all ten signs shuffled and say each as a Persian word.
2. Read ۱۰, ۱۱, ۲۰ and ۱۰۰ and say each — dah, yâzdah, bist, sad.
3. Hear ten amounts named and write each in Persian figures.
4. Write the ten signs from dictation, out of order, and check ۴, ۵ and ۶ against the models rather than against memory.

Say what a reader can now do that could not be done four chapters ago: read a price, a page number and a telephone number off an Iranian page.

Before you move on

Sources: Unicode Arabic chart; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

Chapter 20

Which One: the Ordinals

Modes: ⇄ voice (4) ⇄ Hands-free start: all 4 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say first, second, third and fourth, build the ordinal of any number I can count to, and write two of them from memory.

One borrowed ordinal at the head of the series, one ending that makes all the rest, and the two forms whose letters chapter 15 already gave.

20.1 اول — first, and the one ordinal Persian did not build

Read ا, ه and او, then say yek.

You'll want to know first — one word

اول — avval — first

Counting says how many. Ordering says which one, and a floor number, a date on a notice, a chapter heading and a queue all need the second.

Three letters — ا, و, ل — and every one of them was taught in the script chapter, so this is the third word in the book you can write from memory without meeting a new sign.

The word, taken apart — and its English cousins

اول is Arabic, from the root ʔ-w-l. Persian did not build it from yek. Every other ordinal in the language is built from its own number, as the next lesson shows. So the series opens with a borrowed word and continues with native ones — the same shape English has in first and second, which are not built from one and two either, before third, fourth, fifth fall into line.

Your turn

- Say it: avval — first
- Write it: اول — alef, vâv, lam
- Contrast: yek counts, اول orders

Before you move on

Sources: Wiktionary: اول; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

20.2 دوم and سوم — second, third, and one ending

Say avval, and where it came from. Then say do and se.

You'll want to know first — two words and a rule

دوم — dovvom — second

سوم — sevvom — third

The rule is one ending: م, -om, on the cardinal. do + -om → dovvom; se + -om → sevvom. The consonant doubles at the join, which is the only thing you have to hear.

سوم is written س، و، م — three letters, all yours from the script chapter. That makes it the fourth word in this book you can write unaided, after se, noh and avval, whose written forms the script chapter already gave.

Your turn

- Say it: dovvom — second; sevvom — third
- Split: do + -om, se + -om
- Write it: سوم — sin, vâv, mim

Before you move on

Sources: Wiktionary: سوم; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

20.3 چهارم — fourth, with nothing bending

Say the ordinal ending, then dovvom and sevvom.

You'll want to know first — one word

چهارم — chahârom — fourth

chahâr + -om, and nothing happens at the join. panjom, “fifth,” is the same: the cardinal ends in a consonant, so the ending simply follows it.

dovvom and sevvom doubled a consonant only because their cardinals end in a vowel. Two and three are the exception; four onwards is the rule, all the way up. dahom is “tenth”, bistom is “twentieth”, sadom is “hundredth.”

So a reader who has twelve cardinals and one ending has twelve ordinals, minus the borrowed first.

Your turn

- Say it: chahârom — fourth
- Build: panj + -om → panjom, fifth
- Build: dah + -om → dahom, tenth

Before you move on

Sources: Wiktionary: چهارم; Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

20.4 Payoff — which one

Count one to twenty, then read ۷, ۱۲ and ۱۰۰.

Your turn

1. Say the first four in order, then out of order.

2. Build, do not recall: fifth, seventh, tenth, twentieth, hundredth, from the cardinals and the ending.
3. Say which one of the whole series is not built that way, and where it came from.
4. Write اول and سوم from memory. Both are made entirely of letters the script chapter taught.
5. Use one: name the floor a room is on, and the day of the month a notice gives.

Before you move on

Source: Omniglot, Numbers in Persian.

Chapter 21

Reading — Words, Answers, and the Figures

Modes: 🗣️ voice (2) 👁️ eyes (1) 🖱️ Hands-free start: none of the 3 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can read a Persian word, an answer and a figure off a page, without anyone saying them first.

The ten digits read as amounts rather than drawn as shapes — the first Persian a traveller can take off a page without knowing a single letter.

21.1 (reading) — six words, nothing said first

You have written every letter in every one of these. Not one word is new, and not one shape inside them is new either.

What is new is that nobody says them before you read them.

Read this

ماه نان نه بله ممنون سلام

Read down the list once. Do not take each word apart — look at the whole shape and let it arrive.

Again, and notice which came at once and which you had to unpick. Both are fine. The difference is what practice removes.

What to know first

Persian joins its letters, so a word is not five shapes standing in a row. It is one shape.

That is why reading a word cold is a different skill from writing it. Writing, you make the joins one at a time and know what is coming. Reading, the joins are already made and the whole word has to land at once.

Look at نان and نه. Both open with the same letter, and the difference is at the end, which is exactly where a reader is most likely to stop looking.

Your turn

- Say it: the six words down the list, once, without stopping

Twice through:

Before you move on

How many of the six were new? (None.)

Which two open with the same letter? (نان and نه.)

21.2 (reading) — the answers, on the page

The last lesson gave you six words. These are six you would answer with.

Nothing here is new. What is new is meeting them where nobody is speaking.

Read this

سوم اول سلام ممنون نه بله

Read down once, without stopping.

Again — and notice the list changes halfway. The first four are things you say to a person. The last two are things you read off a door.

What to know first

اول and سوم are the two you are most likely to meet written before you ever meet them spoken: a floor, a platform, a queue.

That is the argument for reading them now. An answer you can only recognise by ear is one you can only give when somebody asks out loud. The same words on a sign do not wait for you.

Six lines, and the last two are the ones a street will hand you first.

Your turn

- Say it: the six lines, once, in order, without stopping

Twice through:

Before you move on

How many of the six were new? (None.)

Which two would you read off a door? (سوم and اول.)

21.3 (reading) — the figures

Six words, then six answers. These are not words at all.

You drew every one of them. Reading them is the same ten signs coming the other way.

Read this

• ۱ ۲ ۳ ۴ ۵ ۶ ۷ ۸ ۹ ۱۰ ۲۰ ۱۰۰

Read across each line once, without stopping.

Again — and this time read the last three as amounts rather than as signs. Ten. Twenty. A hundred.

What to know first

These ten signs are the only Persian most travellers read before they read any word at all. A price, a floor, a platform, a phone number: none of them waits for you to know the letters.

Notice also which way they run. The digits go left to right inside a number even though the words around them run right to left, so ۱۰۰ is a one and two zeros in the order you already expect.

That is the whole trick, and it is why a figure is the first thing a reader can take from a Persian page.

Your turn

- Say it: the six lines aloud, once, without stopping

Twice through:

Before you move on

How many of the ten signs were new? (None.)

Which way does a Persian number run? (Left to right, inside a line that runs the other way.)

Chapter 22

Letters That Never Join Forward

Modes: ✍ pen (3) ⇄ Hands-free start: none of the 3 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can write re, ze and dal, and find each one in a word I already say.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 22: i can write re, ze and dal, and find each one in a word I already say.

22.1 ر (re) — the letter that ends چطور

Before the new one: write ه and و once each, and name them.

Now say چطور (chetor), “how”. You have read it for a long time.

This lesson takes one letter out of it and puts it in your hand.

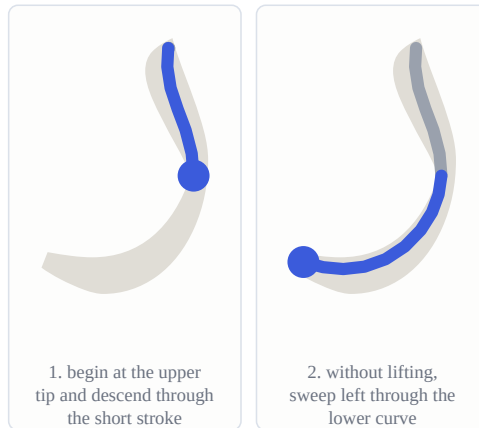

Script you’ll notice: ر

ر — re, the sound r.

It ends چطور (chetor), “how”, from “how are you?”. ر is a non-connector, like ل and و, which you already write: it joins the letter before it but never the one after, so a small gap always follows it.

Writing: ر

How it is written — one unbroken stroke · 2 moves

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, ر demonstration at 01:10–01:12 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ر is written, stroke by stroke

- 1. start here: begin at the upper tip and descend through the short stroke
- 2. without lifting, sweep left through the lower curve — and only now lift

Pen lifts: 0. The pen never leaves the paper.

Stroke order is one attested teaching order; hands and teachers vary. Source: Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, ر demonstration at 01:10–01:12 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin).

Your turn

- Look: at چطور and point at ر inside it
- Trace it: ر three times, saying r as you finish each one

- Write it: و, then ر, from memory
- Read it: چطور aloud once more

Before you move on

Which letter is this — ر? (re, r.) Which word did it come from?
(چطور, chetor, “how”.)

22.2 زبان (ze) — the letter that opens زبان

Before the new one: write و and ر once each, and name them.

Now say زبان (zabân), “language”. You have read it for a long time. This lesson takes one letter out of it and puts it in your hand.

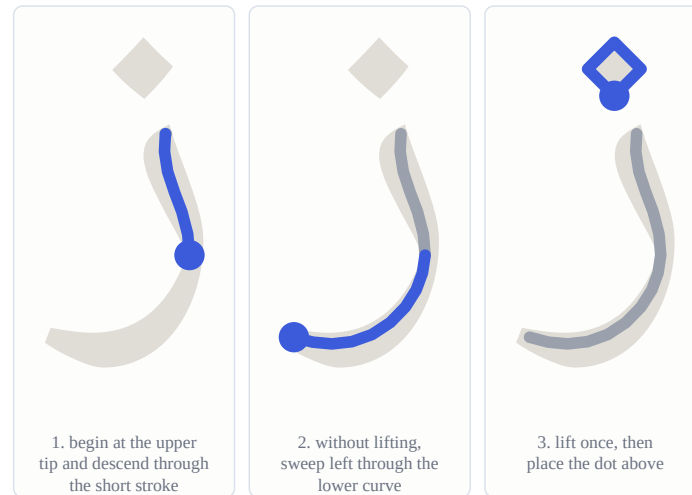

Script you’ll notice: ز

ز — ze, the sound z.

It opens زبان (zabân), “language”, the thing you are learning. It is ر, from the last lesson, with one dot above, and like ر it never joins the letter after it.

Writing: ز

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 3 movements

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, ز demonstration at 01:13–01:16 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ز is written, stroke by stroke

- 1. start here: begin at the upper tip and descend through the short stroke
- 2. without lifting, sweep left through the lower curve
- 3. lift once, then place the dot above — and only now lift

Pen lifts: 1.

Stroke order is one attested teaching order; hands and teachers vary. Source: Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, ز demonstration at 01:13–01:16 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin).

Your turn

- Look: at زبان and point at ز inside it
- Trace it: ز three times, saying z as you finish each one

- Write it: د, then ذ, from memory
- Read it: زبان aloud once more

Before you move on

Which letter is this — ذ? (ze, z.) Which word did it come from?
(زبان, zabân, “language”.)

22.3 د (dâl) — the letter inside خدا

Before the new one: write د and ذ once each, and name them.

Now say خدا (khodâ), “God”. You have read it for a long time.

This lesson takes one letter out of it and puts it in your hand.

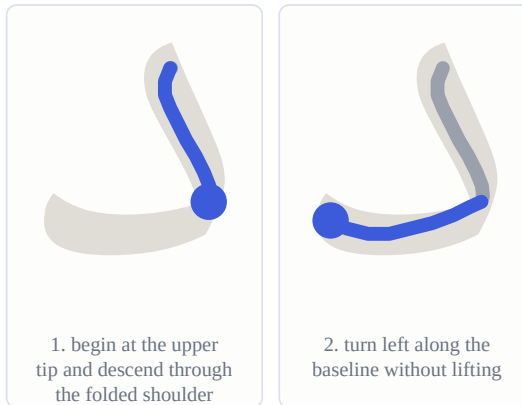

Script you’ll notice: د

د — dâl, the sound d.

It is inside خدا (khodâ), the first half of the farewell حافظ خدا. It is the third letter that never joins forward: after د, as after د and ل, the pen lifts and the next letter starts fresh.

Writing: د

How it is written — one unbroken stroke · 2 mover

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, د demonstration at 01:04–01:06 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)

This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How د is written, stroke by stroke

- 1. start here: begin at the upper tip and descend through the folded shoulder
- 2. turn left along the baseline without lifting — and only now lift

Pen lifts: 0. The pen never leaves the paper.

Stroke order is one attested teaching order; hands and teachers vary. Source: Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, د demonstration at 01:04–01:06 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin).

Your turn

- Look: at خدا and point at د inside it
- Trace it: د three times, saying d as you finish each one
- Write it: د, then د, from memory
- Read it: خدا aloud once more

Before you move on

Which letter is this — د? (dâl, d.) Which word did it come from?
(خدا, khodâ, “God”.)

Chapter 23

The Hook Family

Modes: ✍ pen (4) ⇔ Hands-free start: none of the 4 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can write he-ye jimi, jim, khe and che, and tell the four apart by their dots.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 23: i can write he-ye jimi, jim, khe and che, and tell the four apart by their dots.

23.1 ح (he-ye jimi) — the letter that opens حال

Before the new one: write ج and د once each, and name them.

Now say حال (hâl), “state, how you are”. You have read it for a long time. This lesson takes one letter out of it and puts it in your hand.

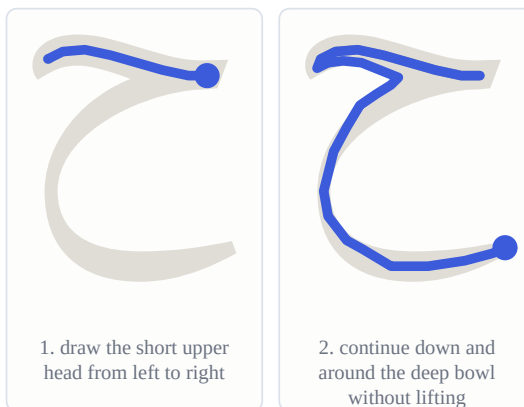

Script you’ll notice: ح

ح — he-ye jimi, the sound h.

It opens حال (hâl), the “how you are” in است؟ چطور حالت. Persian already has an h, ه, which you write; this second one came in with Arabic words and sounds the same. Its name, he-ye jimi, means “the h shaped like jim”: a short head and a deep bowl, with no dots.

Writing: ح

How it is written — one unbroken stroke · 2 mover

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, ح demonstration at 00:42–00:46 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)

This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ح is written, stroke by stroke

- 1. start here: draw the short upper head from left to right
- 2. continue down and around the deep bowl without lifting — and only now lift

Pen lifts: 0. The pen never leaves the paper.

Stroke order is one attested teaching order; hands and teachers vary. Source: Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, ح demonstration at 00:42–00:46 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin).

Your turn

- Look: at حال and point at ح inside it
- Trace it: ح three times, saying h as you finish each one
- Write it: د, then ح, from memory
- Read it: حال aloud once more

Before you move on

Which letter is this — ح? (he-ye jimi, h.) Which word did it come from? (حال, hâl, “state, how you are”.)

23.2 چ (jim) — the letter that ends پنج

Before the new one: write د and ح once each, and name them.

Now say پنج (panj), “five”. You have read it for a long time. This lesson takes one letter out of it and puts it in your hand.

Script you’ll notice: چ

چ — jim, the sound j.

It ends پنج (panj), “five”. It is ح, from the last lesson, with one dot below the head.

Writing: چ

Put your pen on چ and follow its line. Copy the shape you can see — slowly, and larger than it is printed.

This book does not yet tell you where to start this letter or which way to travel. It is not written down here until it can be written down with a source. Copying what is in front of you needs no such source, and it is how the shape gets into your hand in the meantime.

Your turn

- Look: at پنج and point at چ inside it
- Trace it: چ three times, saying j as you finish each one
- Write it: ح, then چ, from memory
- Read it: پنج aloud once more

Before you move on

Which letter is this — چ? (jim, j.) Which word did it come from?
(پنج, panj, “five”.)

23.3 خ (khe) — the letter that opens خدا

Before the new one: write ح and ج once each, and name them.

Now say خدا (khodâ), “God”. You have read it for a long time.

This lesson takes one letter out of it and puts it in your hand.

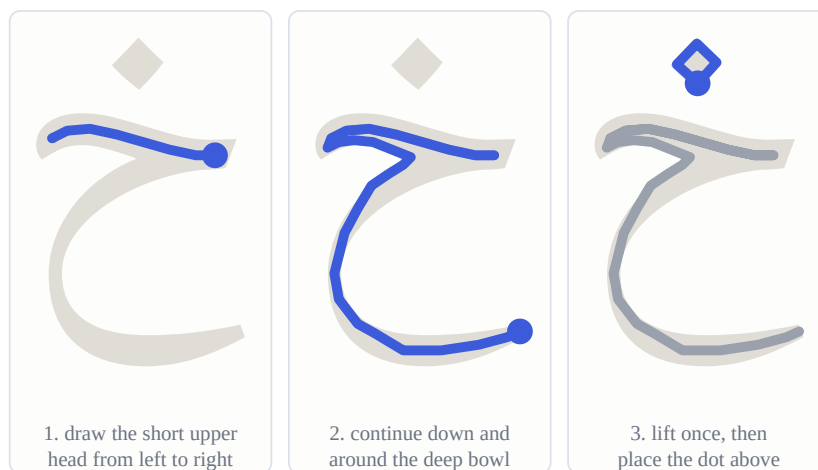

Script you’ll notice: خ

خ — khe, a kh scraped at the back of the throat.

It opens خدا (khodâ). The same head and bowl as ح, with one dot above. One skeleton, and the dot decides the sound.

Writing: خ

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 3 movements

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, خ demonstration at 00:49–00:54 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How خ is written, stroke by stroke

- 1. start here: draw the short upper head from left to right
- 2. without lifting, continue down and around the deep bowl
- 3. lift once, then place the dot above — and only now lift

Pen lifts: 1.

Stroke order is one attested teaching order; hands and teachers vary. Source: Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, خ demonstration at 00:49–00:54 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin).

Your turn

- Look: at خدا and point at خ inside it
- Trace it: خ three times, saying kh as you finish each one
- Write it: چ, then خ, from memory
- Read it: خدا aloud once more

Before you move on

Which letter is this — خ? (khe, kh.) Which word did it come from? (خدا, khodâ, “God”.)

23.4 چ (che) — the letter that opens چیست

Before the new one: write چ and خ once each, and name them.

Now say چیست (chist), “what is?”. You have read it for a long time. This lesson takes one letter out of it and puts it in your hand.

Script you’ll notice: چ

چ — che, the sound ch.

It opens چیست (chist), “what is?”, one of your first questions. It is one of the four letters Persian added to the Arabic alphabet: the same skeleton as ح, with three dots below.

Writing: چ

How چ is written, stroke by stroke

- 1. start here: draw the short upper head from left to right
- 2. continue down and around the deep bowl without lifting
- 3. lift, then place the lower-left dot
- 4. lift again and place the lower-right dot
- 5. lift again and place the lower-center dot — and only now lift

Pen lifts: 3.

Stroke order is one attested teaching order; hands and teachers vary. Source: Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, چ demonstration at 00:35–00:41 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin).

Your turn

- Look: at چيست and point at چ inside it
- Trace it: چ three times, saying ch as you finish each one
- Write it: خ, then چ, from memory
- Read it: چيست aloud once more

Before you move on

Which letter is this — چ? (che, ch.) Which word did it come from?
(چیست, chist, “what is?”.)

Chapter 24

Letters From Asking and Saying

Modes: ✍ pen (4) ⇌ Hands-free start: none of the 4 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can write pe, ye, kaf and gaf, and find each one in a word I already say.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 24: i can write pe, ye, kaf and gaf, and find each one in a word I already say.

24.1 پ (pe) — the letter that opens پرسیدن

Before the new one: write خ and چ once each, and name them.

Now say پرسیدن (porsidan), “to ask”. You have read it for a long time. This lesson takes one letter out of it and puts it in your hand.

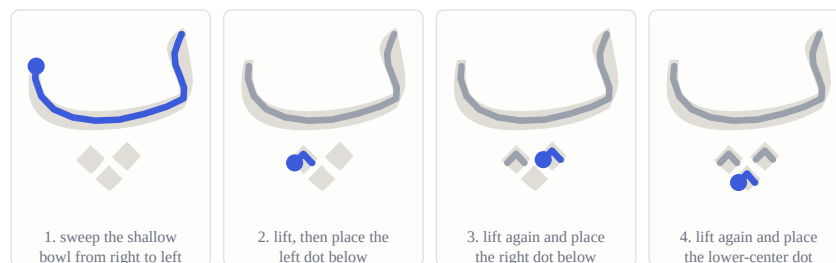

Script you’ll notice: پ

پ — pe, the sound p.

It opens پرسیدن (porsidan), “to ask”. It is ب with three dots below instead of one, another letter Persian added to the Arabic alphabet, because Arabic has no p.

Writing: پ

How it is written — 4 strokes · 3 pen lifts · 4 movements

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, پ demonstration at 00:16–00:21 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How پ is written, stroke by stroke

- 1. start here: sweep the shallow bowl from right to left
- 2. lift, then place the left dot below
- 3. lift again and place the right dot below
- 4. lift again and place the lower-center dot — and only now lift

Pen lifts: 3.

Stroke order is one attested teaching order; hands and teachers vary. Source: Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, پ demonstration at 00:16–00:21 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin).

Your turn

- Look: at پرسیدن and point at پ inside it
- Trace it: پ three times, saying p as you finish each one
- Write it: چ, then پ, from memory
- Read it: پرسیدن aloud once more

Before you move on

Which letter is this — پ? (pe, p.) Which word did it come from?
(پرسیدن, porsidan, “to ask”.)

24.2 ی (ye) — the letter inside چیست

Before the new one: write چ and پ once each, and name them.

Now say چیست (chist), “what is?”. You have read it for a long time. This lesson takes one letter out of it and puts it in your hand.

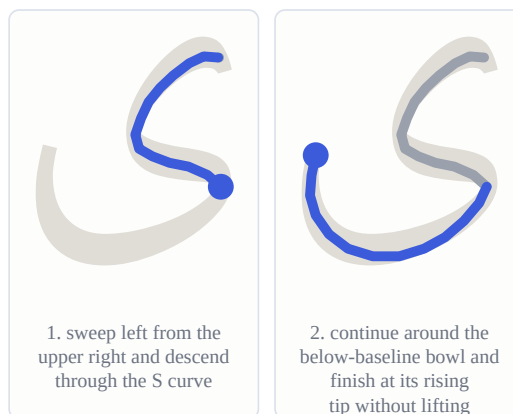

Script you’ll notice: ی

ی — ye, the sound y, or a long i.

It is inside چیست (chist), where it gives the long i. Persian ی changes its coat by position: two dots below at the start or in the middle of a word, and no dots when it ends a word or stands alone, which is the shape this lesson writes.

Writing: ی

How it is written — one unbroken stroke · 2 moves

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, closing ی demonstration at 02:55–02:58 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ی is written, stroke by stroke

- 1. start here: sweep left from the upper right and descend through the S curve
- 2. continue around the below-baseline bowl and finish at its rising tip without lifting — and only now lift

Pen lifts: 0. The pen never leaves the paper.

Stroke order is one attested teaching order; hands and teachers vary. Source: Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, closing ی demonstration at 02:55–02:58 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin).

Your turn

- Look: at چيست and point at ی inside it
- Trace it: ی three times, saying y as you finish each one

- Write it: پ, then ی, from memory
- Read it: چیست aloud once more

Before you move on

Which letter is this — ی? (ye, y.) Which word did it come from?
(چیست, chist, “what is?”.)

24.3 ک (kâf) — the letter inside کردن فکر

Before the new one: write پ and ی once each, and name them.

Now say کردن فکر (fekr kardan), “to think”. You have read it for a long time. This lesson takes one letter out of it and puts it in your hand.

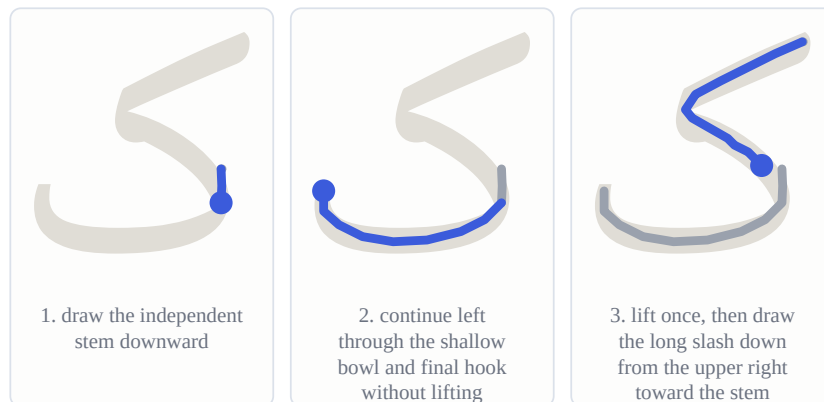

Script you’ll notice: ک

ک — kâf, the sound k.

It is in both halves of کردن فکر (fekr kardan), “to think”. A tall stem, a shallow bowl, and one slash across the top.

Writing: ک

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 3 movements

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, ک demonstration at 02:19–02:23 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ک is written, stroke by stroke

- 1. start here: draw the independent stem downward
- 2. continue left through the shallow bowl and final hook without lifting
- 3. lift once, then draw the long slash down from the upper right toward the stem — and only now lift

Pen lifts: 1.

Stroke order is one attested teaching order; hands and teachers vary. Source: Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, ک demonstration at 02:19–02:23 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin).

Your turn

- Look: at کردن فکر and point at ک inside it
- Trace it: ک three times, saying k as you finish each one
- Write it: ی, then ک, from memory
- Read it: کردن فکر aloud once more

Before you move on

Which letter is this — ک? (kâf, k.) Which word did it come from?
(کردن فکر, fekr kardan, “to think”.)

24.4 گ (gâf) — the letter that opens گفتن

Before the new one: write ی and ک once each, and name them.

Now say گفتن (goftan), “to say”. You have read it for a long time. This lesson takes one letter out of it and puts it in your hand.

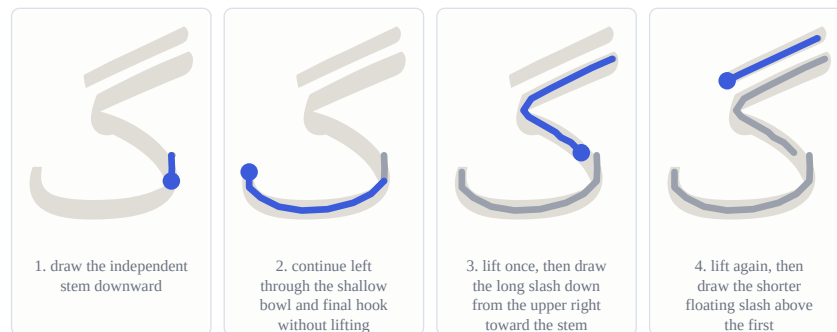

Script you'll notice: گ

گ — gâf, the sound g.

It opens گفتن (goftan), “to say”. It is گ, from the last lesson, with a second slash above the first, the last of Persian’s four added letters you will write here.

Writing: گ

How it is written — 3 strokes · 2 pen lifts · 4 movements

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, گ demonstration at 02:24–02:28 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How گ is written, stroke by stroke

- 1. start here: draw the independent stem downward
- 2. continue left through the shallow bowl and final hook without lifting
- 3. lift once, then draw the long slash down from the upper right toward the stem
- 4. lift again, then draw the shorter floating slash above the first — and only now lift

Pen lifts: 2.

Stroke order is one attested teaching order; hands and teachers vary. Source: Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, گ demonstration at 02:24–02:28 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin).

Your turn

- Look: at گفتن and point at گ inside it
- Trace it: گ three times, saying g as you finish each one
- Write it: ك, then گ, from memory
- Read it: گفتن aloud once more

Before you move on

Which letter is this — گ? (gâf, g.) Which word did it come from?
(گفتن, goftan, “to say”.)

Chapter 25

Letters That Share a Sound

Modes: ✍ pen (4) ⇌ Hands-free start: none of the 4 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can write shin, sad, ta and za, and say which letter I already know sounds the same.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 25: i can write shin, sad, ta and za, and say which letter I already know sounds the same.

25.1 ش (shin) — the letter that opens شما

Before the new one: write ش and گ once each, and name them.

Now say شما (shomâ), “you (respectful)”. You have read it for a long time. This lesson takes one letter out of it and puts it in your hand.

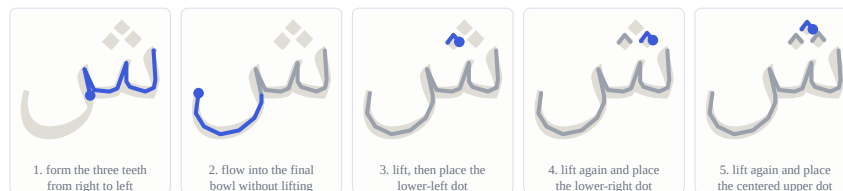

Script you’ll notice: ش

ش — shin, the sound sh.

It opens شما (shomâ), the respectful “you”. It is س, which you already write, with three dots above.

Writing: ش

How it is written — 4 strokes · 3 pen lifts · 5 movements

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, ش demonstration at 01:29–01:35 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ش is written, stroke by stroke

- 1. start here: form the three teeth from right to left
- 2. flow into the final bowl without lifting
- 3. lift, then place the lower-left dot
- 4. lift again and place the lower-right dot
- 5. lift again and place the centered upper dot — and only now lift

Pen lifts: 3.

Stroke order is one attested teaching order; hands and teachers vary. Source: Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, ش demonstration at 01:29–01:35 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin).

Your turn

- Look: at شما and point at ش inside it
- Trace it: ش three times, saying sh as you finish each one
- Write it: گ, then ش, from memory
- Read it: شما aloud once more

Before you move on

Which letter is this — ش (shin, sh.) Which word did it come from? شما, shomâ, “you (respectful).”

25.2 ص (sâd) — the letter that opens صد

Before the new one: write گ and ش once each, and name them.

Now say صد (sad), “a hundred”. You have read it for a long time.

This lesson takes one letter out of it and puts it in your hand.

Script you’ll notice: ص

ص — sâd, the sound s.

It opens صد (sad), “a hundred”. In Persian it sounds exactly like س: the two letters are spelled differently and said the same, because ص came in with Arabic words and kept its Arabic spelling. The letter is a closed oval with a bowl after it.

Writing: ص

Put your pen on ص and follow its line. Copy the shape you can see — slowly, and larger than it is printed.

This book does not yet tell you where to start this letter or which way to travel. It is not written down here until it can be written down with a source. Copying what is in front of you needs no such source, and it is how the shape gets into your hand in the meantime.

Your turn

- Look: at صد and point at ص inside it
- Trace it: ص three times, saying s as you finish each one
- Write it: ش, then ص, from memory
- Read it: صد aloud once more

Before you move on

Which letter is this — ص? (sâd, s.) Which word did it come from?
(صد, sad, “a hundred”.)

25.3 ط (tâ) — the letter inside چطور

Before the new one: write ش and ص once each, and name them.

Now say چطور (chetor), “how”. You have read it for a long time.

This lesson takes one letter out of it and puts it in your hand.

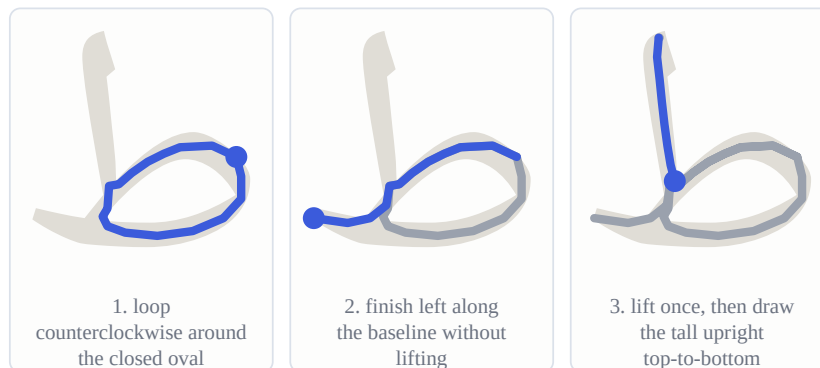

Script you’ll notice: ط

ط — tâ, the sound t.

It is inside چطور (chetor), “how”. Like ص, it sounds exactly like a letter you know, here ت. A closed oval on the line and a tall upright drawn from the top down.

Writing: ط

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 3 movements

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, ط demonstration at 01:54–01:56 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ط is written, stroke by stroke

- 1. start here: loop counterclockwise around the closed oval

- 2. finish left along the baseline without lifting
- 3. lift once, then draw the tall upright top-to-bottom — and only now lift

Pen lifts: 1.

Stroke order is one attested teaching order; hands and teachers vary. Source: Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, ط demonstration at 01:54–01:56 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin).

Your turn

- Look: at چطور and point at ط inside it
- Trace it: ط three times, saying t as you finish each one
- Write it: ص, then ط, from memory
- Read it: چطور aloud once more

Before you move on

Which letter is this — ط? (tâ, t.) Which word did it come from? (چطور, chetor, “how”.)

25.4 حافظ (zâ) — the letter that ends

Before the new one: write ص and ط once each, and name them.

Now say حافظ (hâfez), “guardian”. You have read it for a long time. This lesson takes one letter out of it and puts it in your hand.

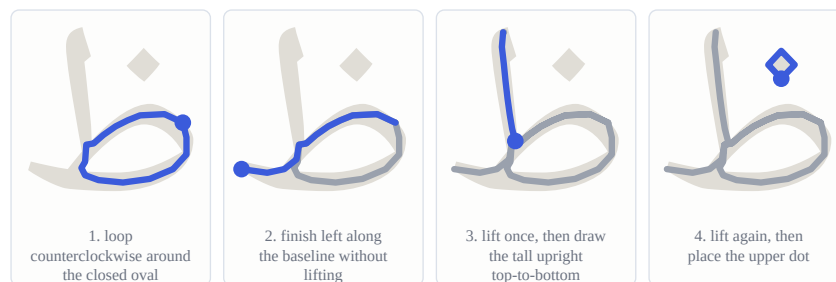

Script you’ll notice: ظ

ظ — zâ, the sound z.

It ends حافظ (hâfez), the second half of حافظ خدا. It is ط with one dot above, and in Persian it sounds exactly like j.

Writing: ظ

How it is written — 3 strokes · 2 pen lifts · 4 movements

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, ظ demonstration at 01:57–01:59 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ظ is written, stroke by stroke

- 1. start here: loop counterclockwise around the closed oval
- 2. finish left along the baseline without lifting
- 3. lift once, then draw the tall upright top-to-bottom
- 4. lift again, then place the upper dot — and only now lift

Pen lifts: 2.

Stroke order is one attested teaching order; hands and teachers vary. Source: Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, ظ demonstration at 01:57–01:59 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin).

Your turn

- Look: at حافظ and point at ظ inside it
- Trace it: ظ three times, saying z as you finish each one
- Write it: ط, then ظ, from memory
- Read it: حافظ aloud once more

Before you move on

Which letter is this — ط? (zâ, z.) Which word did it come from?
(حافظ, hâfez, “guardian”).

Chapter 26

Letters From Thinking and Coming

Modes: 👁 eyes (2) ✍ pen (3) 🔄 Hands-free start: none of the 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can write fe, ghaf and alef with madd, and I have now written every letter the words of this book use.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 26: i can write fe, ghaf and alef with madd, and I have now written every letter the words of this book use.

26.1 ف (fe) — the letter that opens فکر

Before the new one: write ط and ظ once each, and name them.

Now say کردن فکر (fekr kardan), “to think”. You have read it for a long time. This lesson takes one letter out of it and puts it in your hand.

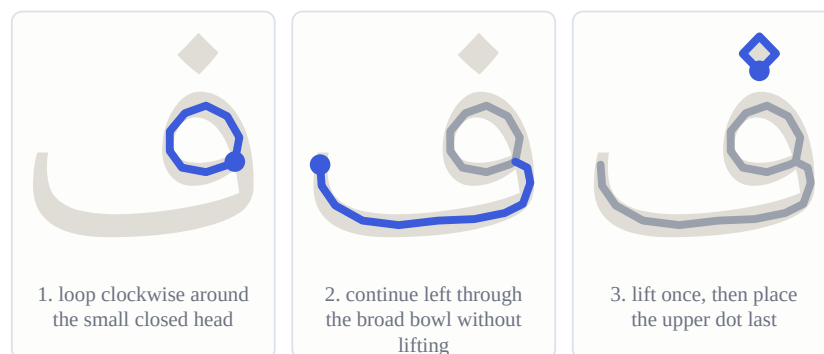

Script you’ll notice: ف

ف — fe, the sound f.

It opens فکر (fekr), “thought”, in کردن فکر. A small closed head on a broad bowl, with one dot above.

Writing: ف

How it is written — 2 strokes · 1 pen lift · 3 movements

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, ف demonstration at 02:09–02:13 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ف is written, stroke by stroke

- 1. start here: loop clockwise around the small closed head
- 2. continue left through the broad bowl without lifting
- 3. lift once, then place the upper dot last — and only now lift

Pen lifts: 1.

Stroke order is one attested teaching order; hands and teachers vary. Source: Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, ف demonstration at 02:09–02:13 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin).

Your turn

- Look: at کردن فکر and point at ف inside it
- Trace it: ف three times, saying f as you finish each one
- Write it: ظ, then ف, from memory
- Read it: کردن فکر aloud once more

Before you move on

Which letter is this — ف? (fe, f.) Which word did it come from?
(کردن فکر, fekr kardan, “to think”).

26.2 ق (ghâf) — the letter inside خوشوقتم

Before the new one: write ظ and ف once each, and name them.

Now say خوشوقتم (khoshvaghtam), “pleased to meet you”. You have read it for a long time. This lesson takes one letter out of it and puts it in your hand.

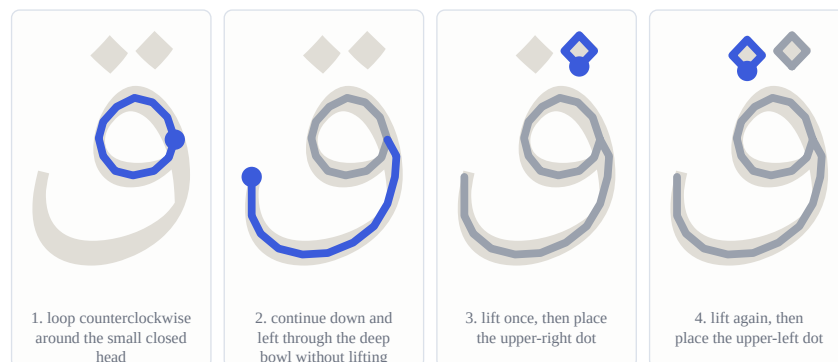

Script you’ll notice: ق

ق — ghâf, a gh made far back in the throat.

It is inside خوشوقتم (khoshvaghtam), “pleased to meet you”. Its head is the head of ف, from the last lesson, but it carries two dots, and standing alone its bowl dips below the line.

Writing: ق

How it is written — 3 strokes · 2 pen lifts · 4 movements

Stroke order after Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, ق demonstration at 02:14–02:18 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin)
This order is attested, not standardised; the source records where it varies.

How ق is written, stroke by stroke

- 1. start here: loop counterclockwise around the small closed head

- 2. continue down and left through the deep bowl without lifting
- 3. lift once, then place the upper-right dot
- 4. lift again, then place the upper-left dot — and only now lift

Pen lifts: 2.

Stroke order is one attested teaching order; hands and teachers vary. Source: Persian Online, How to Write Persian Characters, ق demonstration at 02:14–02:18 (Liberal Arts Instructional Technology Services, Univ. of Texas at Austin).

Your turn

- Look: at خوشوقتم and point at ق inside it
- Trace it: ق three times, saying gh as you finish each one
- Write it: ف, then ق, from memory
- Read it: خوشوقتم aloud once more

Before you move on

Which letter is this — ق? (ghâf, gh.) Which word did it come from? (خوشوقتم, khoshvaghtam, “pleased to meet you”.)

26.3 آ̄ (alef-e madd) — the alef that opens آمدن

Before the new one: write ف and ق once each, and name them.

Now say آمدن (âmadan), “to come”. You have read it for a long time. This lesson takes one letter out of it and puts it in your hand.

Script you’ll notice: آ̄

آ̄ — alef with a madd, the long â at the start of a word.

It opens آمدن (âmadan), “to come”. It is l, which you already write, wearing a small wavy hat. A plain l at the start of a word says a short a; the hat makes it a long â.

Writing: Ā

Put your pen on Ā and follow its line. Copy the shape you can see — slowly, and larger than it is printed.

This book does not yet tell you where to start this letter or which way to travel. It is not written down here until it can be written down with a source. Copying what is in front of you needs no such source, and it is how the shape gets into your hand in the meantime.

Your turn

- Look: at آمدن and point at Ā inside it
- Trace it: Ā three times, saying â as you finish each one
- Write it: ق, then Ā, from memory
- Read it: آمدن aloud once more

Before you move on

Which letter is this — Ā? (alef-e madd, â.) Which word did it come from? (آمدن, âmadan, “to come”.)

26.4 (eighteen letters) — Eighteen letters, eighteen words — a first pass

Write the letter that opens زبان, then the one that opens خدا.

Your turn

letter	name	the word it came from
ر	re	چطور chetor
ز	ze	زبان zabân
د	dâl	خدا khodâ
ح	he-ye jimi	حال hâl
ج	jim	پنج panj
خ	khe	خدا khodâ
چ	che	چیست chist
پ	pe	پرسیدن porsidan
ی	ye	چیست chist
ک	kâf	کردن فکر fekr kardan
گ	gâf	گفتن goftan
ش	shin	شما shomâ
ص	sâd	صد sad
ط	tâ	چطور chetor
ظ	zâ	حافظ hâfez
ف	fe	کردن فکر fekr kardan
ق	ghâf	خوشوقتم khoshvaghtam
آ	alef-e madd	آمدن âmadan

- Write it: each letter in the table from memory, then check it
- Say it: the word each one came from
- Write it: the one-dot pairs side by side: ز ر, ح ج, ح خ, ط ظ

Before you move on

Which letters here did Persian add to the Arabic alphabet, because Arabic has no such sound? (گ چ پ.)

26.5 (eighteen letters) — From the word back to the letter — a second pass

Say chetor, then write the two new letters it holds.

Your turn

letter	name	the word it came from
ر	re	چطور chetor
ز	ze	زبان zabân
د	dâl	خدا khodâ
ح	he-ye jimi	حال hâl
ج	jim	پنج panj
خ	khe	خدا khodâ
چ	che	چيست chist
پ	pe	پرسیدن porsidan
ی	ye	چيست chist
ک	kâf	کردن فکر fekr kardan
گ	gâf	گفتن goftan
ش	shin	شما shomâ
ص	sâd	صد sad
ط	tâ	چطور chetor
ظ	zâ	حافظ hâfez
ف	fe	کردن فکر fekr kardan
ق	ghâf	خوشوقتم khoshvaghtam
آ	alef-e madd	آمدن âmadan

- Say it: each word in the table, then write the letter it gave you without looking
- Write it: س beside ص, ت beside ط, and ز beside ظ, and say each pair aloud: same sound, two spellings
- Write it: ک beside گ, and ف beside ق

Before you move on

Which letters here never join to the letter after them? (ر, د, ز, and Ā.)

Chapter 27

Head, Ear, Nose, Mouth, Tooth

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say the head, an ear, a nose, a mouth and a tooth.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 27: i can say the head, an ear, a nose, a mouth and a tooth.

27.1 سر (sar) — the head

Before the new one: say the Persian for first, then the Persian for fourth.

You'll want to know: سر

سر — sar — “the head”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: sar
- Say it: sar, once more
- Say it: say sar

- Recall: say the Persian for first, then the Persian for fourth, then say sar again

Before you move on

What does سر mean? (“The head”.) Say it once more.

27.2 گوش (gush) — an ear

Before the new one: say the Persian for fourth, then the Persian for the head.

You’ll want to know: گوش

گوش — gush — “an ear”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: gush
- Say it: gush, once more
- Say it: say gush
- Recall: say the Persian for fourth, then the Persian for the head, then say gush again

Before you move on

What does گوش mean? (“An ear”.) Say it once more.

27.3 بینی (bini) — a nose

Before the new one: say the Persian for the head, then the Persian for an ear.

You'll want to know: بینی

بینی — bini — “a nose”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: bini
- Say it: bini, once more
- Say it: say bini
- Recall: say the Persian for the head, then the Persian for an ear, then say bini again

Before you move on

What does بینی mean? (“A nose”.) Say it once more.

27.4 دهان (dahân) — a mouth

Before the new one: say the Persian for an ear, then the Persian for a nose.

You'll want to know: دهان

دهان — dahân — “a mouth”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: dahân
- Say it: dahân, once more
- Say it: say dahân

- Recall: say the Persian for an ear, then the Persian for a nose, then say dahân again

Before you move on

What does دهان mean? (“A mouth”.) Say it once more.

27.5 دندان (dandân) — a tooth

Before the new one: say the Persian for a nose, then the Persian for a mouth.

You’ll want to know: دندان

دندان — dandân — “a tooth”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: dandân
- Say it: dandân, once more
- Say it: say dandân
- Recall: say the Persian for a nose, then the Persian for a mouth, then say dandân again

Before you move on

What does دندان mean? (“A tooth”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 28

Hair, Finger, Shoulder, Neck, Face

Modes: ⇄ voice (5) ⇄ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say hair, a finger, a shoulder, the neck and the face.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 28: i can say hair, a finger, a shoulder, the neck and the face.

28.1 مو (mu) — hair

Before the new one: say the Persian for a mouth, then the Persian for a tooth.

You'll want to know: مو

مو — mu — “hair”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: mu
- Say it: mu, once more
- Say it: say mu

- Recall: say the Persian for a mouth, then the Persian for a tooth, then say mu again

Before you move on

What does مو mean? (“Hair”.) Say it once more.

28.2 انگشت (angosht) — a finger

Before the new one: say the Persian for a tooth, then the Persian for hair.

You’ll want to know: انگشت

انگشت — angosht — “a finger”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: angosht
- Say it: angosht, once more
- Say it: say angosht
- Recall: say the Persian for a tooth, then the Persian for hair, then say angosht again

Before you move on

What does انگشت mean? (“A finger”.) Say it once more.

28.3 شانه (shâne) — a shoulder; a comb

Before the new one: say the Persian for hair, then the Persian for a finger.

You'll want to know: شانه

شانه — shâne — “a shoulder; a comb”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: shâne
- Say it: shâne, once more
- Say it: say shâne
- Recall: say the Persian for hair, then the Persian for a finger, then say shâne again

Before you move on

What does شانه mean? (“A shoulder; a comb”.) Say it once more.

28.4 گردن (gardan) — the neck

Before the new one: say the Persian for a finger, then the Persian for a shoulder; a comb.

You'll want to know: گردن

گردن — gardan — “the neck”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: gardan
- Say it: gardan, once more
- Say it: say gardan

- Recall: say the Persian for a finger, then the Persian for a shoulder; a comb, then say gardan again

Before you move on

What does گردن mean? (“The neck”.) Say it once more.

28.5 صورت (surat) — the face

Before the new one: say the Persian for a shoulder; a comb, then the Persian for the neck.

You’ll want to know: صورت

صورت — surat — “the face”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: surat
- Say it: surat, once more
- Say it: say surat
- Recall: say the Persian for a shoulder; a comb, then the Persian for the neck, then say surat again

Before you move on

What does صورت mean? (“The face”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 29

Blood, Knee, Back, Belly, Lip

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗋️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say blood, a knee, the back, the belly and a lip.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 29: i can say blood, a knee, the back, the belly and a lip.

29.1 خون (khun) — blood

Before the new one: say the Persian for the neck, then the Persian for the face.

You'll want to know: خون

خون — khun — “blood”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: khun
- Say it: khun, once more
- Say it: say khun

- Recall: say the Persian for the neck, then the Persian for the face, then say khun again

Before you move on

What does خون mean? (“Blood”.) Say it once more.

29.2 زانو (zânu) — a knee

Before the new one: say the Persian for the face, then the Persian for blood.

You’ll want to know: زانو

زانو — zânu — “a knee”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: zânu
- Say it: zânu, once more
- Say it: say zânu
- Recall: say the Persian for the face, then the Persian for blood, then say zânu again

Before you move on

What does زانو mean? (“A knee”.) Say it once more.

29.3 پشت (posht) — the back

Before the new one: say the Persian for blood, then the Persian for a knee.

You'll want to know: پشت

پشت — posht — “the back”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: posht
- Say it: posht, once more
- Say it: say posht
- Recall: say the Persian for blood, then the Persian for a knee, then say posht again

Before you move on

What does پشت mean? (“The back”.) Say it once more.

29.4 شکم (shekam) — the belly

Before the new one: say the Persian for a knee, then the Persian for the back.

You'll want to know: شکم

شکم — shekam — “the belly”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: shekam
- Say it: shekam, once more
- Say it: say shekam

- Recall: say the Persian for a knee, then the Persian for the back, then say shekam again

Before you move on

What does شکم mean? (“The belly”.) Say it once more.

29.5 لب (lab) — a lip

Before the new one: say the Persian for the back, then the Persian for the belly.

You’ll want to know: لب

لب — lab — “a lip”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: lab
- Say it: lab, once more
- Say it: say lab
- Recall: say the Persian for the back, then the Persian for the belly, then say lab again

Before you move on

What does لب mean? (“A lip”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 30

Heart, Arm, Fever, Hospital, Ill

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say the heart, an arm, a fever, a hospital and ill, sick.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 30: i can say the heart, an arm, a fever, a hospital and ill, sick.

30.1 قلب (ghalb) — the heart

Before the new one: say the Persian for the belly, then the Persian for a lip.

You'll want to know: قلب

قلب — ghalb — “the heart”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: ghalb
- Say it: ghalb, once more
- Say it: say ghalb

- Recall: say the Persian for the belly, then the Persian for a lip, then say ghalb again

Before you move on

What does قلب mean? (“The heart”.) Say it once more.

30.2 بازو (bâzu) — an arm

Before the new one: say the Persian for a lip, then the Persian for the heart.

You’ll want to know: بازو

بازو — bâzu — “an arm”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: bâzu
- Say it: bâzu, once more
- Say it: say bâzu
- Recall: say the Persian for a lip, then the Persian for the heart, then say bâzu again

Before you move on

What does بازو mean? (“An arm”.) Say it once more.

30.3 تب (tab) — a fever

Before the new one: say the Persian for the heart, then the Persian for an arm.

You'll want to know: تب

تب — tab — “a fever”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: tab
- Say it: tab, once more
- Say it: say tab
- Recall: say the Persian for the heart, then the Persian for an arm, then say tab again

Before you move on

What does تب mean? (“A fever”.) Say it once more.

30.4 بیمارستان (bimârestân) — a hospital

Before the new one: say the Persian for an arm, then the Persian for a fever.

You'll want to know: بیمارستان

بیمارستان — bimârestân — “a hospital”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: bimârestân
- Say it: bimârestân, once more
- Say it: say bimârestân

- Recall: say the Persian for an arm, then the Persian for a fever, then say bimârestân again

Before you move on

What does بیمارستان mean? (“A hospital”.) Say it once more.

30.5 بیمار (bimâr) — ill, sick

Before the new one: say the Persian for a fever, then the Persian for a hospital.

You’ll want to know: بیمار

بیمار — bimâr — “ill, sick”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: bimâr
- Say it: bimâr, once more
- Say it: say bimâr
- Recall: say the Persian for a fever, then the Persian for a hospital, then say bimâr again

Before you move on

What does بیمار mean? (“Ill, sick”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 31

Pain, Medicine, Thirsty, Hungry, Happy

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say pain, medicine, thirsty, hungry and happy.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 31: i can say pain, medicine, thirsty, hungry and happy.

31.1 درد (dard) — pain

Before the new one: say the Persian for a hospital, then the Persian for ill.

You'll want to know: درد

درد — dard — “pain”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: dard
- Say it: dard, once more

- Say it: say dard
- Recall: say the Persian for a hospital, then the Persian for ill, then say dard again

Before you move on

What does درد mean? (“Pain”.) Say it once more.

31.2 دارو (dâru) — medicine

Before the new one: say the Persian for ill, then the Persian for pain.

You’ll want to know: دارو

دارو — dâru — “medicine”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: dâru
- Say it: dâru, once more
- Say it: say dâru
- Recall: say the Persian for ill, then the Persian for pain, then say dâru again

Before you move on

What does دارو mean? (“Medicine”.) Say it once more.

31.3 تشنه (teshne) — thirsty

Before the new one: say the Persian for pain, then the Persian for medicine.

You'll want to know: تشنه

تشنه — teshne — “thirsty”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: teshne
- Say it: teshne, once more
- Say it: say teshne
- Recall: say the Persian for pain, then the Persian for medicine, then say teshne again

Before you move on

What does تشنه mean? (“Thirsty”.) Say it once more.

31.4 گرسنه (gorosne) — hungry

Before the new one: say the Persian for medicine, then the Persian for thirsty.

You'll want to know: گرسنه

گرسنه — gorosne — “hungry”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: gorosne
- Say it: gorosne, once more
- Say it: say gorosne

- Recall: say the Persian for medicine, then the Persian for thirsty, then say gorosne again

Before you move on

What does گرسنه mean? (“Hungry”.) Say it once more.

31.5 خوشحال (khoshhâl) — happy

Before the new one: say the Persian for thirsty, then the Persian for hungry.

You’ll want to know: خوشحال

خوشحال — khoshhâl — “happy”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: khoshhâl
- Say it: khoshhâl, once more
- Say it: say khoshhâl
- Recall: say the Persian for thirsty, then the Persian for hungry, then say khoshhâl again

Before you move on

What does خوشحال mean? (“Happy”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 32

Upset, Doctor, Grandfather, Grandmother, Uncle

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say upset, sad, a doctor, a grandfather, a grandmother and an uncle.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 32: i can say upset, sad, a doctor, a grandfather, a grandmother and an uncle.

32.1 ناراحت (nârâhat) — upset, sad

Before the new one: say the Persian for hungry, then the Persian for happy.

You'll want to know: ناراحت

ناراحت — nârâhat — “upset, sad”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: nârâhat
- Say it: nârâhat, once more

- Say it: say nârâhat
- Recall: say the Persian for hungry, then the Persian for happy, then say nârâhat again

Before you move on

What does ناراحت mean? (“Upset, sad”.) Say it once more.

32.2 پزشک (pezeshk) — a doctor

Before the new one: say the Persian for happy, then the Persian for upset.

You’ll want to know: پزشک

پزشک — pezeshk — “a doctor”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: pezeshk
- Say it: pezeshk, once more
- Say it: say pezeshk
- Recall: say the Persian for happy, then the Persian for upset, then say pezeshk again

Before you move on

What does پزشک mean? (“A doctor”.) Say it once more.

32.3 پدربزرگ (pedarbozorg) — a grandfather

Before the new one: say the Persian for upset, then the Persian for a doctor.

You'll want to know: پدربزرگ

پدربزرگ — pedarbozorg — “a grandfather”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: pedarbozorg
- Say it: pedarbozorg, once more
- Say it: say pedarbozorg
- Recall: say the Persian for upset, then the Persian for a doctor, then say pedarbozorg again

Before you move on

What does پدربزرگ mean? (“A grandfather”.) Say it once more.

32.4 مادربزرگ (mâdarbozorg) — a grandmother

Before the new one: say the Persian for a doctor, then the Persian for a grandfather.

You'll want to know: مادربزرگ

مادربزرگ — mâdarbozorg — “a grandmother”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: mâdarbozorg
- Say it: mâdarbozorg, once more
- Say it: say mâdarbozorg

- Recall: say the Persian for a doctor, then the Persian for a grandfather, then say mâdarbozorg again

Before you move on

What does مادر بزرگ mean? (“A grandmother”.) Say it once more.

32.5 دایی (dâyi) — an uncle (mother’s brother)

Before the new one: say the Persian for a grandfather, then the Persian for a grandmother.

You’ll want to know: دایی

دایی — dâyi — “an uncle (mother’s brother)”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: dâyi
- Say it: dâyi, once more
- Say it: say dâyi
- Recall: say the Persian for a grandfather, then the Persian for a grandmother, then say dâyi again

Before you move on

What does دایی mean? (“An uncle (mother’s brother)”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 33

Aunt, Husband, Spouse, Child, Family

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say an aunt, a husband, a spouse, a child and a family.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 33: i can say an aunt, a husband, a spouse, a child and a family.

33.1 خاله (khâle) — an aunt (mother's sister)

Before the new one: say the Persian for a grandmother, then the Persian for an uncle.

You'll want to know: خاله

خاله — khâle — “an aunt (mother's sister)”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: khâle
- Say it: khâle, once more

- Say it: say khâle
- Recall: say the Persian for a grandmother, then the Persian for an uncle, then say khâle again

Before you move on

What does خاله mean? (“An aunt (mother’s sister).”) Say it once more.

33.2 شوهر (shohar) — a husband

Before the new one: say the Persian for an uncle, then the Persian for an aunt.

You’ll want to know: شوهر

شوهر — shohar — “a husband”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: shohar
- Say it: shohar, once more
- Say it: say shohar
- Recall: say the Persian for an uncle, then the Persian for an aunt, then say shohar again

Before you move on

What does شوهر mean? (“A husband.”) Say it once more.

33.3 همسر (hamsar) — a spouse

Before the new one: say the Persian for an aunt, then the Persian for a husband.

You'll want to know: همسر

همسر — hamsar — “a spouse”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: hamsar
- Say it: hamsar, once more
- Say it: say hamsar
- Recall: say the Persian for an aunt, then the Persian for a husband, then say hamsar again

Before you move on

What does همسر mean? (“A spouse”.) Say it once more.

33.4 بچه (bachche) — a child

Before the new one: say the Persian for a husband, then the Persian for a spouse.

You'll want to know: بچه

بچه — bachche — “a child”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: bachche
- Say it: bachche, once more
- Say it: say bachche

- Recall: say the Persian for a husband, then the Persian for a spouse, then say bachche again

Before you move on

What does بچه mean? (“A child”.) Say it once more.

33.5 خانواده (khânevâde) — a family

Before the new one: say the Persian for a spouse, then the Persian for a child.

You’ll want to know: خانواده

خانواده — khânevâde — “a family”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: khânevâde
- Say it: khânevâde, once more
- Say it: say khânevâde
- Recall: say the Persian for a spouse, then the Persian for a child, then say khânevâde again

Before you move on

What does خانواده mean? (“A family”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 34

Neighbour, Guest, University student, Gentleman, Lady

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a neighbour, a guest, a university student, a gentleman and a lady.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 34: i can say a neighbour, a guest, a university student, a gentleman and a lady.

34.1 همسایه (hamsâye) — a neighbour

Before the new one: say the Persian for a child, then the Persian for a family.

You'll want to know: همسایه

همسایه — hamsâye — “a neighbour”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: hamsâye
- Say it: hamsâye, once more

- Say it: say hamsâye
- Recall: say the Persian for a child, then the Persian for a family, then say hamsâye again

Before you move on

What does همسایه mean? (“A neighbour”.) Say it once more.

34.2 مهمان (mehmân) — a guest

Before the new one: say the Persian for a family, then the Persian for a neighbour.

You’ll want to know: مهمان

مهمان — mehmân — “a guest”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: mehmân
- Say it: mehmân, once more
- Say it: say mehmân
- Recall: say the Persian for a family, then the Persian for a neighbour, then say mehmân again

Before you move on

What does مهمان mean? (“A guest”.) Say it once more.

34.3 دانشجو (dâнешju) — a university student

Before the new one: say the Persian for a neighbour, then the Persian for a guest.

You'll want to know: دانشجو

دانشجو — dâneshju — “a university student”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: dâneshju
- Say it: dâneshju, once more
- Say it: say dâneshju
- Recall: say the Persian for a neighbour, then the Persian for a guest, then say dâneshju again

Before you move on

What does دانشجو mean? (“A university student”.) Say it once more.

34.4 آقا (âghâ) — a gentleman; Mr

Before the new one: say the Persian for a guest, then the Persian for a university student.

You'll want to know: آقا

آقا — âghâ — “a gentleman; Mr”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: âghâ
- Say it: âghâ, once more
- Say it: say âghâ

- Recall: say the Persian for a guest, then the Persian for a university student, then say âghâ again

Before you move on

What does آقا mean? (“A gentleman; Mr”.) Say it once more.

34.5 خانم (khânom) — a lady; Mrs

Before the new one: say the Persian for a university student, then the Persian for a gentleman; Mr.

You’ll want to know: خانم

خانم — khânom — “a lady; Mrs”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: khânom
- Say it: khânom, once more
- Say it: say khânom
- Recall: say the Persian for a university student, then the Persian for a gentleman; Mr, then say khânom again

Before you move on

What does خانم mean? (“A lady; Mrs”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 35

To eat, To drink, To see, To hear, To sit

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say to eat, to drink, to see, to hear and to sit.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 35: i can say to eat, to drink, to see, to hear and to sit.

35.1 خوردن (khordan) — to eat

Before the new one: say the Persian for a gentleman; Mr, then the Persian for a lady; Mrs.

You'll want to know: خوردن

خوردن — khordan — “to eat”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: khordan
- Say it: khordan, once more

- Say it: say khordan
- Recall: say the Persian for a gentleman; Mr, then the Persian for a lady; Mrs, then say khordan again

Before you move on

What does خوردن mean? (“To eat”.) Say it once more.

35.2 نوشیدن (nushidan) — to drink

Before the new one: say the Persian for a lady; Mrs, then the Persian for to eat.

You’ll want to know: نوشیدن

نوشیدن — nushidan — “to drink”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: nushidan
- Say it: nushidan, once more
- Say it: say nushidan
- Recall: say the Persian for a lady; Mrs, then the Persian for to eat, then say nushidan again

Before you move on

What does نوشیدن mean? (“To drink”.) Say it once more.

35.3 دیدن (didan) — to see

Before the new one: say the Persian for to eat, then the Persian for to drink.

You'll want to know: دیدن

دیدن — didan — “to see”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: didan
- Say it: didan, once more
- Say it: say didan
- Recall: say the Persian for to eat, then the Persian for to drink, then say didan again

Before you move on

What does دیدن mean? (“To see”.) Say it once more.

35.4 شنیدن (shenidan) — to hear

Before the new one: say the Persian for to drink, then the Persian for to see.

You'll want to know: شنیدن

شنیدن — shenidan — “to hear”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: shenidan
- Say it: shenidan, once more
- Say it: say shenidan

- Recall: say the Persian for to drink, then the Persian for to see, then say shenidan again

Before you move on

What does شنیدن mean? (“To hear”.) Say it once more.

35.5 نشستن (neshastan) — to sit

Before the new one: say the Persian for to see, then the Persian for to hear.

You’ll want to know: نشستن

نشستن — neshastan — “to sit”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: neshastan
- Say it: neshastan, once more
- Say it: say neshastan
- Recall: say the Persian for to see, then the Persian for to hear, then say neshastan again

Before you move on

What does نشستن mean? (“To sit”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 36

To sleep, To stand, To run, To buy, To sell

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say to sleep, to stand, to run, to buy and to sell.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 36: i can say to sleep, to stand, to run, to buy and to sell.

36.1 خوابیدن (khâbidan) — to sleep

Before the new one: say the Persian for to hear, then the Persian for to sit.

You'll want to know: خوابیدن

خوابیدن — khâbidan — “to sleep”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: khâbidan
- Say it: khâbidan, once more

- Say it: say khâbidan
- Recall: say the Persian for to hear, then the Persian for to sit, then say khâbidan again

Before you move on

What does خوابیدن mean? (“To sleep.”) Say it once more.

36.2 ایستادن (istâdan) — to stand

Before the new one: say the Persian for to sit, then the Persian for to sleep.

You’ll want to know: ایستادن

ایستادن — istâdan — “to stand”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: istâdan
- Say it: istâdan, once more
- Say it: say istâdan
- Recall: say the Persian for to sit, then the Persian for to sleep, then say istâdan again

Before you move on

What does ایستادن mean? (“To stand.”) Say it once more.

36.3 دویدن (davidan) — to run

Before the new one: say the Persian for to sleep, then the Persian for to stand.

You'll want to know: دویدن

دویدن — davidan — “to run”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: davidan
- Say it: davidan, once more
- Say it: say davidan
- Recall: say the Persian for to sleep, then the Persian for to stand, then say davidan again

Before you move on

What does دویدن mean? (“To run”.) Say it once more.

36.4 خریدن (kharidan) — to buy

Before the new one: say the Persian for to stand, then the Persian for to run.

You'll want to know: خریدن

خریدن — kharidan — “to buy”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: kharidan
- Say it: kharidan, once more
- Say it: say kharidan

- Recall: say the Persian for to stand, then the Persian for to run, then say kharidan again

Before you move on

What does خریدن mean? (“To buy”.) Say it once more.

36.5 فروختن (forukhtan) — to sell

Before the new one: say the Persian for to run, then the Persian for to buy.

You’ll want to know: فروختن

فروختن — forukhtan — “to sell”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: forukhtan
- Say it: forukhtan, once more
- Say it: say forukhtan
- Recall: say the Persian for to run, then the Persian for to buy, then say forukhtan again

Before you move on

What does فروختن mean? (“To sell”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 37

To give, To close, To cook, To wash, To laugh

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say to give, to close, to cook, to wash and to laugh.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 37: i can say to give, to close, to cook, to wash and to laugh.

37.1 دادن (dâdan) — to give

Before the new one: say the Persian for to buy, then the Persian for to sell.

You'll want to know: دادن

دادن — dâdan — “to give”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: dâdan
- Say it: dâdan, once more

- Say it: say dâdan
- Recall: say the Persian for to buy, then the Persian for to sell, then say dâdan again

Before you move on

What does دادن mean? (“To give”.) Say it once more.

37.2 بستن (bastan) — to close

Before the new one: say the Persian for to sell, then the Persian for to give.

You’ll want to know: بستن

بستن — bastan — “to close”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: bastan
- Say it: bastan, once more
- Say it: say bastan
- Recall: say the Persian for to sell, then the Persian for to give, then say bastan again

Before you move on

What does بستن mean? (“To close”.) Say it once more.

37.3 پختن (pokhtan) — to cook

Before the new one: say the Persian for to give, then the Persian for to close.

You'll want to know: پختن

پختن — pokhtan — “to cook”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: pokhtan
- Say it: pokhtan, once more
- Say it: say pokhtan
- Recall: say the Persian for to give, then the Persian for to close, then say pokhtan again

Before you move on

What does پختن mean? (“To cook”.) Say it once more.

37.4 شستن (shostan) — to wash

Before the new one: say the Persian for to close, then the Persian for to cook.

You'll want to know: شستن

شستن — shostan — “to wash”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: shostan
- Say it: shostan, once more
- Say it: say shostan

- Recall: say the Persian for to close, then the Persian for to cook, then say shostan again

Before you move on

What does شستن mean? (“To wash”.) Say it once more.

37.5 خندیدن (khandidan) — to laugh

Before the new one: say the Persian for to cook, then the Persian for to wash.

You’ll want to know: خندیدن

خندیدن — khandidan — “to laugh”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: khandidan
- Say it: khandidan, once more
- Say it: say khandidan
- Recall: say the Persian for to cook, then the Persian for to wash, then say khandidan again

Before you move on

What does خندیدن mean? (“To laugh”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 38

To dance, To want, To bring, To send, To count

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗋️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say to dance, to want, to bring, to send and to count.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 38: i can say to dance, to want, to bring, to send and to count.

38.1 رقصیدن (raghsidan) — to dance

Before the new one: say the Persian for to wash, then the Persian for to laugh.

You'll want to know: رقصیدن

رقصیدن — raghsidan — “to dance”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: raghsidan
- Say it: raghsidan, once more

- Say it: say raghsidan
- Recall: say the Persian for to wash, then the Persian for to laugh, then say raghsidan again

Before you move on

What does رقصیدن mean? (“To dance”.) Say it once more.

38.2 خواستن (khâstan) — to want

Before the new one: say the Persian for to laugh, then the Persian for to dance.

You’ll want to know: خواستن

خواستن — khâstan — “to want”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: khâstan
- Say it: khâstan, once more
- Say it: say khâstan
- Recall: say the Persian for to laugh, then the Persian for to dance, then say khâstan again

Before you move on

What does خواستن mean? (“To want”.) Say it once more.

38.3 آوردن (âvardan) — to bring

Before the new one: say the Persian for to dance, then the Persian for to want.

You'll want to know: آوردن

آوردن — âvardan — “to bring”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: âvardan
- Say it: âvardan, once more
- Say it: say âvardan
- Recall: say the Persian for to dance, then the Persian for to want, then say âvardan again

Before you move on

What does آوردن mean? (“To bring”.) Say it once more.

38.4 فرستادن (ferestâdan) — to send

Before the new one: say the Persian for to want, then the Persian for to bring.

You'll want to know: فرستادن

فرستادن — ferestâdan — “to send”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: ferestâdan
- Say it: ferestâdan, once more
- Say it: say ferestâdan

- Recall: say the Persian for to want, then the Persian for to bring, then say ferestâdan again

Before you move on

What does فرستادن mean? (“To send”.) Say it once more.

38.5 شمردن (shemordan) — to count

Before the new one: say the Persian for to bring, then the Persian for to send.

You’ll want to know: شمردن

شمردن — shemordan — “to count”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: shemordan
- Say it: shemordan, once more
- Say it: say shemordan
- Recall: say the Persian for to bring, then the Persian for to send, then say shemordan again

Before you move on

What does شمردن mean? (“To count”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 39

To cut, To look for, To wear, To come back, To take away

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say to cut, to look for, to wear, to come back and to take away.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 39: i can say to cut, to look for, to wear, to come back and to take away.

39.1 بریدن (boridan) — to cut

Before the new one: say the Persian for to send, then the Persian for to count.

You'll want to know: بریدن

بریدن — boridan — “to cut”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: boridan
- Say it: boridan, once more

- Say it: say boridan
- Recall: say the Persian for to send, then the Persian for to count, then say boridan again

Before you move on

What does بریدن mean? (“To cut”.) Say it once more.

39.2 گشتن (gashtan) — to look for; to wander

Before the new one: say the Persian for to count, then the Persian for to cut.

You’ll want to know: گشتن

گشتن — gashtan — “to look for; to wander”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: gashtan
- Say it: gashtan, once more
- Say it: say gashtan
- Recall: say the Persian for to count, then the Persian for to cut, then say gashtan again

Before you move on

What does گشتن mean? (“To look for; to wander”.) Say it once more.

39.3 پوشیدن (pushidan) — to wear

Before the new one: say the Persian for to cut, then the Persian for to look for; to wander.

You'll want to know: پوشیدن

پوشیدن — pushidan — “to wear”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: pushidan
- Say it: pushidan, once more
- Say it: say pushidan
- Recall: say the Persian for to cut, then the Persian for to look for; to wander, then say pushidan again

Before you move on

What does پوشیدن mean? (“To wear”.) Say it once more.

39.4 برگشتن (bargashtan) — to come back

Before the new one: say the Persian for to look for; to wander, then the Persian for to wear.

You'll want to know: برگشتن

برگشتن — bargashtan — “to come back”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: bargashtan
- Say it: bargashtan, once more
- Say it: say bargashtan

- Recall: say the Persian for to look for; to wander, then the Persian for to wear, then say bargashtan again

Before you move on

What does برگشتن mean? (“To come back”.) Say it once more.

39.5 بردن (bordan) — to take away; to win

Before the new one: say the Persian for to wear, then the Persian for to come back.

You’ll want to know: بردن

بردن — bordan — “to take away; to win”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: bordan
- Say it: bordan, once more
- Say it: say bordan
- Recall: say the Persian for to wear, then the Persian for to come back, then say bordan again

Before you move on

What does بردن mean? (“To take away; to win”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 40

To become, To build, Fish, Rice, Meat

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say to become, to build, to make, a fish, rice and meat.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 40: i can say to become, to build, to make, a fish, rice and meat.

40.1 شدن (shodan) — to become

Before the new one: say the Persian for to come back, then the Persian for to take away; to win.

You'll want to know: شدن

شدن — shodan — “to become”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: shodan
- Say it: shodan, once more

- Say it: say shodan
- Recall: say the Persian for to come back, then the Persian for to take away; to win, then say shodan again

Before you move on

What does شدن mean? (“To become”.) Say it once more.

40.2 ساختن (sâkhtan) — to build, to make

Before the new one: say the Persian for to take away; to win, then the Persian for to become.

You’ll want to know: ساختن

ساختن — sâkhtan — “to build, to make”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: sâkhtan
- Say it: sâkhtan, once more
- Say it: say sâkhtan
- Recall: say the Persian for to take away; to win, then the Persian for to become, then say sâkhtan again

Before you move on

What does ساختن mean? (“To build, to make”.) Say it once more.

40.3 ماهی (mâhi) — a fish

Before the new one: say the Persian for to become, then the Persian for to build.

You'll want to know: ماهی

ماهی — mâhi — “a fish”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: mâhi
- Say it: mâhi, once more
- Say it: say mâhi
- Recall: say the Persian for to become, then the Persian for to build, then say mâhi again

Before you move on

What does ماهی mean? (“A fish”.) Say it once more.

40.4 برنج (berenj) — rice

Before the new one: say the Persian for to build, then the Persian for a fish.

You'll want to know: برنج

برنج — berenj — “rice”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: berenj
- Say it: berenj, once more
- Say it: say berenj

- Recall: say the Persian for to build, then the Persian for a fish, then say berenj again

Before you move on

What does برنج mean? (“Rice”.) Say it once more.

40.5 گوشت (gusht) — meat

Before the new one: say the Persian for a fish, then the Persian for rice.

You’ll want to know: گوشت

گوشت — gusht — “meat”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: gusht
- Say it: gusht, once more
- Say it: say gusht
- Recall: say the Persian for a fish, then the Persian for rice, then say gusht again

Before you move on

What does گوشت mean? (“Meat”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 41

Fruit, Apple, Banana, Tomato, Carrot

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say fruit, an apple, a banana, a tomato and a carrot.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 41: i can say fruit, an apple, a banana, a tomato and a carrot.

41.1 میوه (miveh) — fruit

Before the new one: say the Persian for rice, then the Persian for meat.

You'll want to know: میوه

میوه — miveh — “fruit”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: miveh
- Say it: miveh, once more

- Say it: say miveh
- Recall: say the Persian for rice, then the Persian for meat, then say miveh again

Before you move on

What does میوه mean? (“Fruit”.) Say it once more.

41.2 سیب (sib) — an apple

Before the new one: say the Persian for meat, then the Persian for fruit.

You’ll want to know: سیب

سیب — sib — “an apple”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: sib
- Say it: sib, once more
- Say it: say sib
- Recall: say the Persian for meat, then the Persian for fruit, then say sib again

Before you move on

What does سیب mean? (“An apple”.) Say it once more.

41.3 موز (moz) — a banana

Before the new one: say the Persian for fruit, then the Persian for an apple.

You'll want to know: موز

موز — moz — “a banana”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: moz
- Say it: moz, once more
- Say it: say moz
- Recall: say the Persian for fruit, then the Persian for an apple, then say moz again

Before you move on

What does موز mean? (“A banana”.) Say it once more.

41.4 گوجه (gowje) — a tomato

Before the new one: say the Persian for an apple, then the Persian for a banana.

You'll want to know: گوجه

گوجه — gowje — “a tomato”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: gowje
- Say it: gowje, once more
- Say it: say gowje

- Recall: say the Persian for an apple, then the Persian for a banana, then say gowje again

Before you move on

What does گوجه mean? (“A tomato”.) Say it once more.

41.5 هویج (havij) — a carrot

Before the new one: say the Persian for a banana, then the Persian for a tomato.

You’ll want to know: هویج

هویج — havij — “a carrot”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: havij
- Say it: havij, once more
- Say it: say havij
- Recall: say the Persian for a banana, then the Persian for a tomato, then say havij again

Before you move on

What does هویج mean? (“A carrot”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 42

Sugar, Salt, Butter, Grapes, Orange

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say sugar, salt, butter, grapes and an orange.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 42: i can say sugar, salt, butter, grapes and an orange.

42.1 شکر (shekar) — sugar

Before the new one: say the Persian for a tomato, then the Persian for a carrot.

You'll want to know: شکر

شکر — shekar — “sugar”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: shekar
- Say it: shekar, once more

- Say it: say shekar
- Recall: say the Persian for a tomato, then the Persian for a carrot, then say shekar again

Before you move on

What does شکر mean? (“Sugar”.) Say it once more.

42.2 نمک (namak) — salt

Before the new one: say the Persian for a carrot, then the Persian for sugar.

You’ll want to know: نمک

نمک — namak — “salt”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: namak
- Say it: namak, once more
- Say it: say namak
- Recall: say the Persian for a carrot, then the Persian for sugar, then say namak again

Before you move on

What does نمک mean? (“Salt”.) Say it once more.

42.3 کره (kare) — butter

Before the new one: say the Persian for sugar, then the Persian for salt.

You'll want to know: کره

کره — kare — “butter”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: kare
- Say it: kare, once more
- Say it: say kare
- Recall: say the Persian for sugar, then the Persian for salt, then say kare again

Before you move on

What does کره mean? (“Butter.”) Say it once more.

42.4 انگور (angur) — grapes

Before the new one: say the Persian for salt, then the Persian for butter.

You'll want to know: انگور

انگور — angur — “grapes”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: angur
- Say it: angur, once more
- Say it: say angur

- Recall: say the Persian for salt, then the Persian for butter, then say angur again

Before you move on

What does انگور mean? (“Grapes”.) Say it once more.

42.5 پرتقال (porteghâl) — an orange

Before the new one: say the Persian for butter, then the Persian for grapes.

You’ll want to know: پرتقال

پرتقال — porteghâl — “an orange”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: porteghâl
- Say it: porteghâl, once more
- Say it: say porteghâl
- Recall: say the Persian for butter, then the Persian for grapes, then say porteghâl again

Before you move on

What does پرتقال mean? (“An orange”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 43

Lemon, Yoghurt, Onion, Breakfast, Lunch

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a lemon, yoghurt, an onion, breakfast and lunch.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 43: i can say a lemon, yoghurt, an onion, breakfast and lunch.

43.1 ليمو (limu) — a lemon

Before the new one: say the Persian for grapes, then the Persian for an orange.

You'll want to know: ليمو

ليمو — limu — “a lemon”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: limu
- Say it: limu, once more

- Say it: say limu
- Recall: say the Persian for grapes, then the Persian for an orange, then say limu again

Before you move on

What does لیمو mean? (“A lemon”.) Say it once more.

43.2 ماست (mâst) — yoghurt

Before the new one: say the Persian for an orange, then the Persian for a lemon.

You’ll want to know: ماست

ماست — mâst — “yoghurt”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: mâst
- Say it: mâst, once more
- Say it: say mâst
- Recall: say the Persian for an orange, then the Persian for a lemon, then say mâst again

Before you move on

What does ماست mean? (“Yoghurt”.) Say it once more.

43.3 پیاز (piyâz) — an onion

Before the new one: say the Persian for a lemon, then the Persian for yoghurt.

You'll want to know: پیاز

پیاز — piyâz — “an onion”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: piyâz
- Say it: piyâz, once more
- Say it: say piyâz
- Recall: say the Persian for a lemon, then the Persian for yoghurt, then say piyâz again

Before you move on

What does پیاز mean? (“An onion”.) Say it once more.

43.4 صبحانه (sobhâne) — breakfast

Before the new one: say the Persian for yoghurt, then the Persian for an onion.

You'll want to know: صبحانه

صبحانه — sobhâne — “breakfast”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: sobhâne
- Say it: sobhâne, once more
- Say it: say sobhâne

- Recall: say the Persian for yoghurt, then the Persian for an onion, then say sobhâne again

Before you move on

What does صبحانه mean? (“Breakfast”.) Say it once more.

43.5 ناهار (nâhâr) — lunch

Before the new one: say the Persian for an onion, then the Persian for breakfast.

You’ll want to know: ناهار

ناهار — nâhâr — “lunch”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: nâhâr
- Say it: nâhâr, once more
- Say it: say nâhâr
- Recall: say the Persian for an onion, then the Persian for breakfast, then say nâhâr again

Before you move on

What does ناهار mean? (“Lunch”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 44

Dinner, Juice, Cake, Cheese, Milk

Modes: 🗣️ voice (7) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 7 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say dinner, juice, a cake, cheese and milk.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 44: i can say dinner, juice, a cake, cheese and milk.

44.1 شام (shâm) — dinner

Before the new one: say the Persian for breakfast, then the Persian for lunch.

You'll want to know: شام

شام — shâm — “dinner”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: shâm
- Say it: shâm, once more
- Say it: say shâm

- Recall: say the Persian for breakfast, then the Persian for lunch, then say shâm again

Before you move on

What does شام mean? (“Dinner”). Say it once more.

44.2 آبمیوه (âbmive) — juice

Before the new one: say the Persian for lunch, then the Persian for dinner.

You’ll want to know: آبمیوه

آبمیوه — âbmive — “juice”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: âbmive
- Say it: âbmive, once more
- Say it: say âbmive
- Recall: say the Persian for lunch, then the Persian for dinner, then say âbmive again

Before you move on

What does آبمیوه mean? (“Juice”). Say it once more.

44.3 کیک (keyk) — a cake

Before the new one: say the Persian for dinner, then the Persian for juice.

You'll want to know: کیک

کیک — keyk — “a cake”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: keyk
- Say it: keyk, once more
- Say it: say keyk
- Recall: say the Persian for dinner, then the Persian for juice, then say keyk again

Before you move on

What does کیک mean? (“A cake”.) Say it once more.

44.4 پنیر (panir) — cheese

Before the new one: say the Persian for juice, then the Persian for a cake.

You'll want to know: پنیر

پنیر — panir — “cheese”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: panir
- Say it: panir, once more
- Say it: say panir

- Recall: say the Persian for juice, then the Persian for a cake, then say panir again

Before you move on

What does پنیر mean? (“Cheese”). Say it once more.

44.5 شیر (shir) — milk; a lion

Before the new one: say the Persian for a cake, then the Persian for cheese.

You’ll want to know: شیر

شیر — shir — “milk; a lion”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: shir
- Say it: shir, once more
- Say it: say shir
- Recall: say the Persian for a cake, then the Persian for cheese, then say shir again

Before you move on

What does شیر mean? (“Milk; a lion”). Say it once more.

44.6 The body, health and family — a first pass

Say the words for cheese and milk; a lion.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- the head, an ear, a nose, a mouth, a tooth
- hair, a finger, a shoulder; a comb, the neck, the face
- blood, a knee, the back, the belly, a lip
- the heart, an arm, a fever, a hospital, ill
- pain, medicine, thirsty, hungry, happy
- upset, a doctor, a grandfather, a grandmother, an uncle
- an aunt, a husband, a spouse, a child, a family
- a neighbour, a guest, a university student, a gentleman; Mr, a lady; Mrs
- to eat, to drink, to see, to hear, to sit

Before you move on

The head? (سر, sar.) An ear? (گوش, gush.) A nose? (بینی, bini.) A mouth? (دهان, dahân.) A tooth? (دندان, dandân.) Hair? (مو, mu.) A finger? (انگشت, angosht.) A shoulder; a comb? (شانه, shâne.) The neck? (گردن, gardan.) The face? (صورت, surat.) Blood? (خون, khun.) A knee? (زانو, zânu.) The back? (پشت, posht.) The belly? (شکم, shekam.) A lip? (لب, lab.) The heart? (قلب, ghalb.) An arm? (بازو, bâzu.) A fever? (تب, tab.) A hospital? (بیمارستان, bimârestân.) Ill? (بیمار, bimâr.) Pain? (درد, dard.) Medicine? (دارو, dâru.) Thirsty? (تشنه, teshne.) Hungry? (گرسنه, gorosne.) Happy? (خوشحال, khoshhâl.) Upset? (ناراحت, nârâhat.) A doctor? (پزشک, pezeshk.) A grandfather? (پدربزرگ, pedarbozorg.) A grandmother? (مادربزرگ, mâdarbozorg.) An uncle? (دایی, dâyi.) An aunt? (خاله, khâle.) A husband? (شوهر, shohar.) A spouse? (همسر, hamsar.) A child? (بچه, bachche.) A family? (خانواده, khânevâde.) A neighbour? (همسایه, hamsâye.) A guest? (مهمان, mehmân.) A university student? (دانشجو, dâneshju.) A gentleman; Mr? (آقا, âghâ.) A lady; Mrs? (خانم, khânôm.) To eat? (خوردن, khordan.) To drink? (نوشیدن, nushidan.) To see? (دیدن, didan.) To hear? (شنیدن, shenidan.) To sit? (نشستن, neshastan.)

44.7 Verbs — a second pass

Say the words for to sleep and to stand.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- to sleep, to stand, to run, to buy, to sell
- to give, to close, to cook, to wash, to laugh
- to dance, to want, to bring, to send, to count
- to cut, to look for; to wander, to wear, to come back, to take away; to win
- to become, to build, a fish, rice, meat
- fruit, an apple, a banana, a tomato, a carrot
- sugar, salt, butter, grapes, an orange
- a lemon, yoghurt, an onion, breakfast, lunch
- dinner, juice, a cake, cheese, milk; a lion

Before you move on

To sleep? (خوابیدن, khâbidan.) To stand? (ایستادن, istâdan.) To run? (دویدن, davidan.) To buy? (خریدن, kharidan.) To sell? (فروختن, forukhtan.) To give? (دادن, dâdan.) To close? (بستن, bastan.) To cook? (پختن, pokhtan.) To wash? (شستن, shostan.) To laugh? (خندیدن, khandidan.) To dance? (رقصیدن, raghsidan.) To want? (خواستن, khâstan.) To bring? (آوردن, âvardan.) To send? (فرستادن, ferestâdan.) To count? (شمردن, shemordan.) To cut? (بریدن, boridan.) To look for; to wander? (گشتن, gashtan.) To wear? (پوشیدن, pushidan.) To come back? (برگشتن, bargashtan.) To take away; to win? (بردن, bordan.) To become? (شدن, shodan.) To build? (ساختن, sâkhtan.) A fish? (ماهی, mâhi.) Rice? (برنج, berenj.) Meat?

(گوشت, gusht.) Fruit? (میوه, miveh.) An apple? (سیب, sib.) A banana? (موز, moz.) A tomato? (گوجه, gowje.) A carrot? (هویج, havij.) Sugar? (شکر, shekar.) Salt? (نمک, namak.) Butter? (کره, kare.) Grapes? (انگور, angur.) An orange? (پرتقال, porteghâl.) A lemon? (لیمو, limu.) Yoghurt? (ماست, mâst.) An onion? (پیاز, piyâz.) Breakfast? (صبحانه, sobhâne.) Lunch? (ناهار, nâhâr.) Dinner? (شام, shâm.) Juice? (آبمیوه, âbmive.) A cake? (کیک, keyk.) Cheese? (پنیر, panir.) Milk; a lion? (شیر, shir.)

Chapter 45

House, Room, Window, Chair, Table

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a house, home, a room, a window, a chair and a table.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 45: i can say a house, home, a room, a window, a chair and a table.

45.1 خانه (khâne) — a house, home

Before the new one: say the Persian for cheese, then the Persian for milk; a lion.

You'll want to know: خانه

خانه — khâne — “a house, home”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: khâne
- Say it: khâne, once more

- Say it: say khâne
- Recall: say the Persian for cheese, then the Persian for milk; a lion, then say khâne again

Before you move on

What does خانه mean? (“A house, home”.) Say it once more.

45.2 اتاق (otâgh) — a room

Before the new one: say the Persian for milk; a lion, then the Persian for a house.

You’ll want to know: اتاق

اتاق — otâgh — “a room”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: otâgh
- Say it: otâgh, once more
- Say it: say otâgh
- Recall: say the Persian for milk; a lion, then the Persian for a house, then say otâgh again

Before you move on

What does اتاق mean? (“A room”.) Say it once more.

45.3 پنجره (panjere) — a window

Before the new one: say the Persian for a house, then the Persian for a room.

You'll want to know: پنجره

پنجره — panjere — “a window”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: panjere
- Say it: panjere, once more
- Say it: say panjere
- Recall: say the Persian for a house, then the Persian for a room, then say panjere again

Before you move on

What does پنجره mean? (“A window”.) Say it once more.

45.4 صندلی (sandali) — a chair

Before the new one: say the Persian for a room, then the Persian for a window.

You'll want to know: صندلی

صندلی — sandali — “a chair”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: sandali
- Say it: sandali, once more
- Say it: say sandali

- Recall: say the Persian for a room, then the Persian for a window, then say sandali again

Before you move on

What does صندلی mean? (“A chair.”) Say it once more.

45.5 میز (miz) — a table

Before the new one: say the Persian for a window, then the Persian for a chair.

You’ll want to know: میز

میز — miz — “a table”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: miz
- Say it: miz, once more
- Say it: say miz
- Recall: say the Persian for a window, then the Persian for a chair, then say miz again

Before you move on

What does میز mean? (“A table.”) Say it once more.

Chapter 46

Wall, Bed, Cupboard, Ground, Mirror

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a wall, a bed, a cupboard, the ground and a mirror.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 46: i can say a wall, a bed, a cupboard, the ground and a mirror.

46.1 دیوار (divâr) — a wall

Before the new one: say the Persian for a chair, then the Persian for a table.

You'll want to know: دیوار

دیوار — divâr — “a wall”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: divâr
- Say it: divâr, once more

- Say it: say divâr
- Recall: say the Persian for a chair, then the Persian for a table, then say divâr again

Before you move on

What does دیوار mean? (“A wall”.) Say it once more.

46.2 تخت (takht) — a bed

Before the new one: say the Persian for a table, then the Persian for a wall.

You’ll want to know: تخت

تخت — takht — “a bed”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: takht
- Say it: takht, once more
- Say it: say takht
- Recall: say the Persian for a table, then the Persian for a wall, then say takht again

Before you move on

What does تخت mean? (“A bed”.) Say it once more.

46.3 کمد (komod) — a cupboard

Before the new one: say the Persian for a wall, then the Persian for a bed.

You'll want to know: کمد

کمد — komod — “a cupboard”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: komod
- Say it: komod, once more
- Say it: say komod
- Recall: say the Persian for a wall, then the Persian for a bed, then say komod again

Before you move on

What does کمد mean? (“A cupboard”.) Say it once more.

46.4 زمین (zamin) — the ground; the earth

Before the new one: say the Persian for a bed, then the Persian for a cupboard.

You'll want to know: زمین

زمین — zamin — “the ground; the earth”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: zamin
- Say it: zamin, once more
- Say it: say zamin

- Recall: say the Persian for a bed, then the Persian for a cupboard, then say zamin again

Before you move on

What does زمین mean? (“The ground; the earth”.) Say it once more.

46.5 آینه (âylene) — a mirror

Before the new one: say the Persian for a cupboard, then the Persian for the ground; the earth.

You’ll want to know: آینه

آینه — âylene — “a mirror”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: âylene
- Say it: âylene, once more
- Say it: say âylene
- Recall: say the Persian for a cupboard, then the Persian for the ground; the earth, then say âylene again

Before you move on

What does آینه mean? (“A mirror”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 47

Lock, Plate, Knife, Fork, Spoon

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a lock, a plate, a knife, a fork and a spoon.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 47: i can say a lock, a plate, a knife, a fork and a spoon.

47.1 قفل (ghofl) — a lock

Before the new one: say the Persian for the ground; the earth, then the Persian for a mirror.

You'll want to know: قفل

قفل — ghofl — “a lock”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: ghofl
- Say it: ghofl, once more
- Say it: say ghofl

- Recall: say the Persian for the ground; the earth, then the Persian for a mirror, then say ghofl again

Before you move on

What does قفل mean? (“A lock”.) Say it once more.

47.2 بشقاب (boshghâb) — a plate

Before the new one: say the Persian for a mirror, then the Persian for a lock.

You’ll want to know: بشقاب

بشقاب — boshghâb — “a plate”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: boshghâb
- Say it: boshghâb, once more
- Say it: say boshghâb
- Recall: say the Persian for a mirror, then the Persian for a lock, then say boshghâb again

Before you move on

What does بشقاب mean? (“A plate”.) Say it once more.

47.3 چاقو (châghu) — a knife

Before the new one: say the Persian for a lock, then the Persian for a plate.

You'll want to know: چاقو

چاقو — châghu — “a knife”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: châghu
- Say it: châghu, once more
- Say it: say châghu
- Recall: say the Persian for a lock, then the Persian for a plate, then say châghu again

Before you move on

What does چاقو mean? (“A knife”.) Say it once more.

47.4 چنگال (chângâl) — a fork

Before the new one: say the Persian for a plate, then the Persian for a knife.

You'll want to know: چنگال

چنگال — chângâl — “a fork”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: chângâl
- Say it: chângâl, once more
- Say it: say chângâl

- Recall: say the Persian for a plate, then the Persian for a knife, then say chângâl again

Before you move on

What does چنگال mean? (“A fork”.) Say it once more.

47.5 قاشق (ghâshogh) — a spoon

Before the new one: say the Persian for a knife, then the Persian for a fork.

You’ll want to know: قاشق

قاشق — ghâshogh — “a spoon”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: ghâshogh
- Say it: ghâshogh, once more
- Say it: say ghâshogh
- Recall: say the Persian for a knife, then the Persian for a fork, then say ghâshogh again

Before you move on

What does قاشق mean? (“A spoon”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 48

Bottle, Kitchen, Bathroom, Glass, Notebook

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a bottle, a kitchen, a bathroom, a glass and a notebook.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 48: i can say a bottle, a kitchen, a bathroom, a glass and a notebook.

48.1 بطری (bottri) — a bottle

Before the new one: say the Persian for a fork, then the Persian for a spoon.

You'll want to know: بطری

بطری — bottri — “a bottle”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: bottri
- Say it: bottri, once more

- Say it: say bottri
- Recall: say the Persian for a fork, then the Persian for a spoon, then say bottri again

Before you move on

What does بطری mean? (“A bottle”.) Say it once more.

48.2 آشپزخانه (âshpazkhâne) — a kitchen

Before the new one: say the Persian for a spoon, then the Persian for a bottle.

You’ll want to know: آشپزخانه

آشپزخانه — âshpazkhâne — “a kitchen”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: âshpazkhâne
- Say it: âshpazkhâne, once more
- Say it: say âshpazkhâne
- Recall: say the Persian for a spoon, then the Persian for a bottle, then say âshpazkhâne again

Before you move on

What does آشپزخانه mean? (“A kitchen”.) Say it once more.

48.3 حمام (hammâm) — a bathroom

Before the new one: say the Persian for a bottle, then the Persian for a kitchen.

You'll want to know: حمام

حمام — hammâm — “a bathroom”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: hammâm
- Say it: hammâm, once more
- Say it: say hammâm
- Recall: say the Persian for a bottle, then the Persian for a kitchen, then say hammâm again

Before you move on

What does حمام mean? (“A bathroom”.) Say it once more.

48.4 لیوان (livân) — a glass

Before the new one: say the Persian for a kitchen, then the Persian for a bathroom.

You'll want to know: لیوان

لیوان — livân — “a glass”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: livân
- Say it: livân, once more
- Say it: say livân

- Recall: say the Persian for a kitchen, then the Persian for a bathroom, then say livân again

Before you move on

What does لیوان mean? (“A glass”.) Say it once more.

48.5 دفتر (daftar) — a notebook

Before the new one: say the Persian for a bathroom, then the Persian for a glass.

You’ll want to know: دفتر

دفتر — daftar — “a notebook”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: daftar
- Say it: daftar, once more
- Say it: say daftar
- Recall: say the Persian for a bathroom, then the Persian for a glass, then say daftar again

Before you move on

What does دفتر mean? (“A notebook”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 49

Pencil, Pen, School, Bag, Money

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a pencil, a pen, a school, a bag and money.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 49: i can say a pencil, a pen, a school, a bag and money.

49.1 مداد (medâd) — a pencil

Before the new one: say the Persian for a glass, then the Persian for a notebook.

You'll want to know: مداد

مداد — medâd — “a pencil”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: medâd
- Say it: medâd, once more
- Say it: say medâd

- Recall: say the Persian for a glass, then the Persian for a notebook, then say medâd again

Before you move on

What does مداد mean? (“A pencil”.) Say it once more.

49.2 خودکار (khodkâr) — a pen

Before the new one: say the Persian for a notebook, then the Persian for a pencil.

You’ll want to know: خودکار

خودکار — khodkâr — “a pen”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: khodkâr
- Say it: khodkâr, once more
- Say it: say khodkâr
- Recall: say the Persian for a notebook, then the Persian for a pencil, then say khodkâr again

Before you move on

What does خودکار mean? (“A pen”.) Say it once more.

49.3 مدرسه (madrese) — a school

Before the new one: say the Persian for a pencil, then the Persian for a pen.

You'll want to know: مدرسه

مدرسه — madrese — “a school”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: madrese
- Say it: madrese, once more
- Say it: say madrese
- Recall: say the Persian for a pencil, then the Persian for a pen, then say madrese again

Before you move on

What does مدرسه mean? (“A school”.) Say it once more.

49.4 کیف (kif) — a bag

Before the new one: say the Persian for a pen, then the Persian for a school.

You'll want to know: کیف

کیف — kif — “a bag”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: kif
- Say it: kif, once more
- Say it: say kif

- Recall: say the Persian for a pen, then the Persian for a school, then say kif again

Before you move on

What does کیف mean? (“A bag”.) Say it once more.

49.5 پول (pul) — money

Before the new one: say the Persian for a school, then the Persian for a bag.

You’ll want to know: پول

پول — pul — “money”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: pul
- Say it: pul, once more
- Say it: say pul
- Recall: say the Persian for a school, then the Persian for a bag, then say pul again

Before you move on

What does پول mean? (“Money”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 50

Map, Lesson, Answer, Word, Game

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a map, a lesson, an answer, a word and a game.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 50: i can say a map, a lesson, an answer, a word and a game.

50.1 نقشه (naghshe) — a map

Before the new one: say the Persian for a bag, then the Persian for money.

You'll want to know: نقشه

نقشه — naghshe — “a map”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: naghshe
- Say it: naghshe, once more

- Say it: say naghshe
- Recall: say the Persian for a bag, then the Persian for money, then say naghshe again

Before you move on

What does نقشه mean? (“A map”.) Say it once more.

50.2 درس (dars) — a lesson

Before the new one: say the Persian for money, then the Persian for a map.

You’ll want to know: درس

درس — dars — “a lesson”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: dars
- Say it: dars, once more
- Say it: say dars
- Recall: say the Persian for money, then the Persian for a map, then say dars again

Before you move on

What does درس mean? (“A lesson”.) Say it once more.

50.3 جواب (javâb) — an answer

Before the new one: say the Persian for a map, then the Persian for a lesson.

You'll want to know: جواب

جواب — javâb — “an answer”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: javâb
- Say it: javâb, once more
- Say it: say javâb
- Recall: say the Persian for a map, then the Persian for a lesson, then say javâb again

Before you move on

What does جواب mean? (“An answer”.) Say it once more.

50.4 کلمه (kalame) — a word

Before the new one: say the Persian for a lesson, then the Persian for an answer.

You'll want to know: کلمه

کلمه — kalame — “a word”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: kalame
- Say it: kalame, once more
- Say it: say kalame

- Recall: say the Persian for a lesson, then the Persian for an answer, then say kalame again

Before you move on

What does کلمه mean? (“A word”.) Say it once more.

50.5 بازی (bâzi) — a game

Before the new one: say the Persian for an answer, then the Persian for a word.

You’ll want to know: بازی

بازی — bâzi — “a game”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: bâzi
- Say it: bâzi, once more
- Say it: say bâzi
- Recall: say the Persian for an answer, then the Persian for a word, then say bâzi again

Before you move on

What does بازی mean? (“A game”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 51

Letter, Newspaper, Tree, Flower, Leaf

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a letter, a newspaper, a tree, a flower and a leaf.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 51: i can say a letter, a newspaper, a tree, a flower and a leaf.

51.1 نامه (nâme) — a letter (post)

Before the new one: say the Persian for a word, then the Persian for a game.

You'll want to know: نامه

نامه — nâme — “a letter (post)”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: nâme
- Say it: nâme, once more

- Say it: say nâme
- Recall: say the Persian for a word, then the Persian for a game, then say nâme again

Before you move on

What does نامه mean? (“A letter (post).”) Say it once more.

51.2 روزنامه (ruzname) — a newspaper

Before the new one: say the Persian for a game, then the Persian for a letter.

You’ll want to know: روزنامه

روزنامه — ruzname — “a newspaper”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: ruzname
- Say it: ruzname, once more
- Say it: say ruzname
- Recall: say the Persian for a game, then the Persian for a letter, then say ruzname again

Before you move on

What does روزنامه mean? (“A newspaper.”) Say it once more.

51.3 درخت (derakht) — a tree

Before the new one: say the Persian for a letter, then the Persian for a newspaper.

You'll want to know: درخت

درخت — derakht — “a tree”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: derakht
- Say it: derakht, once more
- Say it: say derakht
- Recall: say the Persian for a letter, then the Persian for a newspaper, then say derakht again

Before you move on

What does درخت mean? (“A tree”.) Say it once more.

51.4 گل (gol) — a flower

Before the new one: say the Persian for a newspaper, then the Persian for a tree.

You'll want to know: گل

گل — gol — “a flower”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: gol
- Say it: gol, once more
- Say it: say gol

- Recall: say the Persian for a newspaper, then the Persian for a tree, then say gol again

Before you move on

What does گل mean? (“A flower”.) Say it once more.

51.5 برگ (barg) — a leaf

Before the new one: say the Persian for a tree, then the Persian for a flower.

You’ll want to know: برگ

برگ — barg — “a leaf”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: barg
- Say it: barg, once more
- Say it: say barg
- Recall: say the Persian for a tree, then the Persian for a flower, then say barg again

Before you move on

What does برگ mean? (“A leaf”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 52

Mountain, Forest, River, Lake, Stone

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a mountain, a forest, a river, a lake and a stone.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 52: i can say a mountain, a forest, a river, a lake and a stone.

52.1 کوه (kuh) — a mountain

Before the new one: say the Persian for a flower, then the Persian for a leaf.

You'll want to know: کوه

کوه — kuh — “a mountain”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: kuh
- Say it: kuh, once more

- Say it: say kuh
- Recall: say the Persian for a flower, then the Persian for a leaf, then say kuh again

Before you move on

What does کوه mean? (“A mountain”.) Say it once more.

52.2 جنگل (jāngal) — a forest

Before the new one: say the Persian for a leaf, then the Persian for a mountain.

You’ll want to know: جنگل

جنگل — jāngal — “a forest”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: jāngal
- Say it: jāngal, once more
- Say it: say jāngal
- Recall: say the Persian for a leaf, then the Persian for a mountain, then say jāngal again

Before you move on

What does جنگل mean? (“A forest”.) Say it once more.

52.3 رودخانه (rudkhâne) — a river

Before the new one: say the Persian for a mountain, then the Persian for a forest.

You'll want to know: رودخانه

رودخانه — rudkhâne — “a river”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: rudkhâne
- Say it: rudkhâne, once more
- Say it: say rudkhâne
- Recall: say the Persian for a mountain, then the Persian for a forest, then say rudkhâne again

Before you move on

What does رودخانه mean? (“A river”.) Say it once more.

52.4 دریاچه (daryâche) — a lake

Before the new one: say the Persian for a forest, then the Persian for a river.

You'll want to know: دریاچه

دریاچه — daryâche — “a lake”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: daryâche
- Say it: daryâche, once more
- Say it: say daryâche

- Recall: say the Persian for a forest, then the Persian for a river, then say daryâche again

Before you move on

What does دریاچه mean? (“A lake”.) Say it once more.

52.5 سنگ (sang) — a stone

Before the new one: say the Persian for a river, then the Persian for a lake.

You’ll want to know: سنگ

سنگ — sang — “a stone”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: sang
- Say it: sang, once more
- Say it: say sang
- Recall: say the Persian for a river, then the Persian for a lake, then say sang again

Before you move on

What does سنگ mean? (“A stone”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 53

Sand, Cloud, Sea, Fire, Snow

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say sand, a cloud, the sea, fire and snow.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 53: i can say sand, a cloud, the sea, fire and snow.

53.1 ماسه (mâse) — sand

Before the new one: say the Persian for a lake, then the Persian for a stone.

You'll want to know: ماسه

ماسه — mâse — “sand”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: mâse
- Say it: mâse, once more
- Say it: say mâse

- Recall: say the Persian for a lake, then the Persian for a stone, then say mâse again

Before you move on

What does ماسه mean? (“Sand”.) Say it once more.

53.2 ابر (abr) — a cloud

Before the new one: say the Persian for a stone, then the Persian for sand.

You’ll want to know: ابر

ابر — abr — “a cloud”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: abr
- Say it: abr, once more
- Say it: say abr
- Recall: say the Persian for a stone, then the Persian for sand, then say abr again

Before you move on

What does ابر mean? (“A cloud”.) Say it once more.

53.3 دریا (daryâ) — the sea

Before the new one: say the Persian for sand, then the Persian for a cloud.

You'll want to know: دریا

دریا — daryâ — “the sea”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: daryâ
- Say it: daryâ, once more
- Say it: say daryâ
- Recall: say the Persian for sand, then the Persian for a cloud, then say daryâ again

Before you move on

What does دریا mean? (“The sea”.) Say it once more.

53.4 آتش (âdash) — fire

Before the new one: say the Persian for a cloud, then the Persian for the sea.

You'll want to know: آتش

آتش — âdash — “fire”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: âdash
- Say it: âdash, once more
- Say it: say âdash

- Recall: say the Persian for a cloud, then the Persian for the sea, then say âdash again

Before you move on

What does آتش mean? (“Fire”). Say it once more.

53.5 برف (barf) — snow

Before the new one: say the Persian for the sea, then the Persian for fire.

You’ll want to know: برف

برف — barf — “snow”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: barf
- Say it: barf, once more
- Say it: say barf
- Recall: say the Persian for the sea, then the Persian for fire, then say barf again

Before you move on

What does برف mean? (“Snow”). Say it once more.

Chapter 54

Soil, Wind, Desert, Dog, Cat

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say soil, wind, a desert, a dog and a cat.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 54: i can say soil, wind, a desert, a dog and a cat.

54.1 خاک (khâk) — soil

Before the new one: say the Persian for fire, then the Persian for snow.

You'll want to know: خاک

خاک — khâk — “soil”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: khâk
- Say it: khâk, once more
- Say it: say khâk

- Recall: say the Persian for fire, then the Persian for snow, then say khâk again

Before you move on

What does خاک mean? (“Soil”.) Say it once more.

54.2 باد (bâd) — wind

Before the new one: say the Persian for snow, then the Persian for soil.

You’ll want to know: باد

باد — bâd — “wind”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: bâd
- Say it: bâd, once more
- Say it: say bâd
- Recall: say the Persian for snow, then the Persian for soil, then say bâd again

Before you move on

What does باد mean? (“Wind”.) Say it once more.

54.3 بیابان (biyâbân) — a desert

Before the new one: say the Persian for soil, then the Persian for wind.

You'll want to know: بیابان

بیابان — biyâbân — “a desert”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: biyâbân
- Say it: biyâbân, once more
- Say it: say biyâbân
- Recall: say the Persian for soil, then the Persian for wind, then say biyâbân again

Before you move on

What does بیابان mean? (“A desert”.) Say it once more.

54.4 سگ (sag) — a dog

Before the new one: say the Persian for wind, then the Persian for a desert.

You'll want to know: سگ

سگ — sag — “a dog”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: sag
- Say it: sag, once more
- Say it: say sag

- Recall: say the Persian for wind, then the Persian for a desert, then say sag again

Before you move on

What does سگ mean? (“A dog”.) Say it once more.

54.5 گربه (gorbe) — a cat

Before the new one: say the Persian for a desert, then the Persian for a dog.

You’ll want to know: گربه

گربه — gorbe — “a cat”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: gorbe
- Say it: gorbe, once more
- Say it: say gorbe
- Recall: say the Persian for a desert, then the Persian for a dog, then say gorbe again

Before you move on

What does گربه mean? (“A cat”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 55

Horse, Cow, Goat, Sheep, Bird

Modes: 🔄 voice (5) 🔄 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a horse, a cow, a goat, a sheep and a bird.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 55: i can say a horse, a cow, a goat, a sheep and a bird.

55.1 اسب (asb) — a horse

Before the new one: say the Persian for a dog, then the Persian for a cat.

You'll want to know: اسب

اسب — asb — “a horse”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: asb
- Say it: asb, once more
- Say it: say asb

- Recall: say the Persian for a dog, then the Persian for a cat, then say asb again

Before you move on

What does اسب mean? (“A horse”.) Say it once more.

55.2 گاو (gâv) — a cow

Before the new one: say the Persian for a cat, then the Persian for a horse.

You’ll want to know: گاو

گاو — gâv — “a cow”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: gâv
- Say it: gâv, once more
- Say it: say gâv
- Recall: say the Persian for a cat, then the Persian for a horse, then say gâv again

Before you move on

What does گاو mean? (“A cow”.) Say it once more.

55.3 بز (boz) — a goat

Before the new one: say the Persian for a horse, then the Persian for a cow.

You'll want to know: بز

بز — boz — “a goat”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: boz
- Say it: boz, once more
- Say it: say boz
- Recall: say the Persian for a horse, then the Persian for a cow, then say boz again

Before you move on

What does بز mean? (“A goat”.) Say it once more.

55.4 گوسفند (gusfand) — a sheep

Before the new one: say the Persian for a cow, then the Persian for a goat.

You'll want to know: گوسفند

گوسفند — gusfand — “a sheep”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: gusfand
- Say it: gusfand, once more
- Say it: say gusfand

- Recall: say the Persian for a cow, then the Persian for a goat, then say gusfand again

Before you move on

What does گوسفند mean? (“A sheep”.) Say it once more.

55.5 پرنده (parande) — a bird

Before the new one: say the Persian for a goat, then the Persian for a sheep.

You’ll want to know: پرنده

پرنده — parande — “a bird”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: parande
- Say it: parande, once more
- Say it: say parande
- Recall: say the Persian for a goat, then the Persian for a sheep, then say parande again

Before you move on

What does پرنده mean? (“A bird”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 56

Mouse, Tiger, Elephant, Monkey, Snake

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a mouse, a tiger, an elephant, a monkey and a snake.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 56: i can say a mouse, a tiger, an elephant, a monkey and a snake.

56.1 موش (mush) — a mouse

Before the new one: say the Persian for a sheep, then the Persian for a bird.

You'll want to know: موش

موش — mush — “a mouse”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: mush
- Say it: mush, once more

- Say it: say mush
- Recall: say the Persian for a sheep, then the Persian for a bird, then say mush again

Before you move on

What does موش mean? (“A mouse”.) Say it once more.

56.2 ببر (bebar) — a tiger

Before the new one: say the Persian for a bird, then the Persian for a mouse.

You’ll want to know: ببر

ببر — bebar — “a tiger”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: bebar
- Say it: bebar, once more
- Say it: say bebar
- Recall: say the Persian for a bird, then the Persian for a mouse, then say bebar again

Before you move on

What does ببر mean? (“A tiger”.) Say it once more.

56.3 فیل (fil) — an elephant

Before the new one: say the Persian for a mouse, then the Persian for a tiger.

You'll want to know: فیل

فیل — fil — “an elephant”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: fil
- Say it: fil, once more
- Say it: say fil
- Recall: say the Persian for a mouse, then the Persian for a tiger, then say fil again

Before you move on

What does فیل mean? (“An elephant”.) Say it once more.

56.4 میمون (meymun) — a monkey

Before the new one: say the Persian for a tiger, then the Persian for an elephant.

You'll want to know: میمون

میمون — meymun — “a monkey”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: meymun
- Say it: meymun, once more
- Say it: say meymun

- Recall: say the Persian for a tiger, then the Persian for an elephant, then say meymun again

Before you move on

What does میمون mean? (“A monkey”.) Say it once more.

56.5 مار (mâr) — a snake

Before the new one: say the Persian for an elephant, then the Persian for a monkey.

You’ll want to know: مار

مار — mâr — “a snake”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: mâr
- Say it: mâr, once more
- Say it: say mâr
- Recall: say the Persian for an elephant, then the Persian for a monkey, then say mâr again

Before you move on

What does مار mean? (“A snake”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 57

Bear, Camel, Donkey, Butterfly, Ant

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a bear, a camel, a donkey, a butterfly and an ant.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 57: i can say a bear, a camel, a donkey, a butterfly and an ant.

57.1 خرس (khers) — a bear

Before the new one: say the Persian for a monkey, then the Persian for a snake.

You'll want to know: خرس

خرس — khers — “a bear”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: khers
- Say it: khers, once more

- Say it: say khers
- Recall: say the Persian for a monkey, then the Persian for a snake, then say khers again

Before you move on

What does خرس mean? (“A bear”.) Say it once more.

57.2 شتر (shotor) — a camel

Before the new one: say the Persian for a snake, then the Persian for a bear.

You’ll want to know: شتر

شتر — shotor — “a camel”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: shotor
- Say it: shotor, once more
- Say it: say shotor
- Recall: say the Persian for a snake, then the Persian for a bear, then say shotor again

Before you move on

What does شتر mean? (“A camel”.) Say it once more.

57.3 خر (khar) — a donkey

Before the new one: say the Persian for a bear, then the Persian for a camel.

You'll want to know: خر

خر — khar — “a donkey”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: khar
- Say it: khar, once more
- Say it: say khar
- Recall: say the Persian for a bear, then the Persian for a camel, then say khar again

Before you move on

What does خر mean? (“A donkey”.) Say it once more.

57.4 پروانه (parvâne) — a butterfly

Before the new one: say the Persian for a camel, then the Persian for a donkey.

You'll want to know: پروانه

پروانه — parvâne — “a butterfly”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: parvâne
- Say it: parvâne, once more
- Say it: say parvâne

- Recall: say the Persian for a camel, then the Persian for a donkey, then say parvâne again

Before you move on

What does پروانه mean? (“A butterfly”.) Say it once more.

57.5 مورچه (murche) — an ant

Before the new one: say the Persian for a donkey, then the Persian for a butterfly.

You’ll want to know: مورچه

مورچه — murche — “an ant”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: murche
- Say it: murche, once more
- Say it: say murche
- Recall: say the Persian for a donkey, then the Persian for a butterfly, then say murche again

Before you move on

What does مورچه mean? (“An ant”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 58

Wolf, Big, Small, Fresh, Old

Modes: 🔄 voice (5) 🔄 Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a wolf, big, small, fresh, new and old.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 58: i can say a wolf, big, small, fresh, new and old.

58.1 گِگ (gorg) — a wolf

Before the new one: say the Persian for a butterfly, then the Persian for an ant.

You'll want to know: گِگ

گِگ — gorg — “a wolf”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: gorg
- Say it: gorg, once more
- Say it: say gorg

- Recall: say the Persian for a butterfly, then the Persian for an ant, then say gorg again

Before you move on

What does گرگ mean? (“A wolf”.) Say it once more.

58.2 بزرگ (bozorg) — big

Before the new one: say the Persian for an ant, then the Persian for a wolf.

You’ll want to know: بزرگ

بزرگ — bozorg — “big”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: bozorg
- Say it: bozorg, once more
- Say it: say bozorg
- Recall: say the Persian for an ant, then the Persian for a wolf, then say bozorg again

Before you move on

What does بزرگ mean? (“Big”.) Say it once more.

58.3 کوچک (kuchek) — small

Before the new one: say the Persian for a wolf, then the Persian for big.

You'll want to know: کوچک

کوچک — kuchek — “small”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: kuchek
- Say it: kuchek, once more
- Say it: say kuchek
- Recall: say the Persian for a wolf, then the Persian for big, then say kuchek again

Before you move on

What does کوچک mean? (“Small”.) Say it once more.

58.4 تازه (tâze) — fresh, new

Before the new one: say the Persian for big, then the Persian for small.

You'll want to know: تازه

تازه — tâze — “fresh, new”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: tâze
- Say it: tâze, once more
- Say it: say tâze

- Recall: say the Persian for big, then the Persian for small, then say tâze again

Before you move on

What does تازه mean? (“Fresh, new”.) Say it once more.

58.5 قدیمی (ghadimi) — old

Before the new one: say the Persian for small, then the Persian for fresh.

You’ll want to know: قدیمی

قدیمی — ghadimi — “old”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: ghadimi
- Say it: ghadimi, once more
- Say it: say ghadimi
- Recall: say the Persian for small, then the Persian for fresh, then say ghadimi again

Before you move on

What does قدیمی mean? (“Old”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 59

Long, Short, Warm, Cold, Slow

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say long, tall, short, warm, hot, cold and slow, slowly.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 59: i can say long, tall, short, warm, hot, cold and slow, slowly.

59.1 بلند (boland) — long, tall; loud

Before the new one: say the Persian for fresh, then the Persian for old.

You'll want to know: بلند

بلند — boland — “long, tall; loud”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: boland
- Say it: boland, once more
- Say it: say boland

- Recall: say the Persian for fresh, then the Persian for old, then say boland again

Before you move on

What does بلند mean? (“Long, tall; loud”.) Say it once more.

59.2 کوتاه (kutâh) — short

Before the new one: say the Persian for old, then the Persian for long.

You’ll want to know: کوتاه

کوتاه — kutâh — “short”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: kutâh
- Say it: kutâh, once more
- Say it: say kutâh
- Recall: say the Persian for old, then the Persian for long, then say kutâh again

Before you move on

What does کوتاه mean? (“Short”.) Say it once more.

59.3 گرم (garm) — warm, hot

Before the new one: say the Persian for long, then the Persian for short.

You'll want to know: گرم

گرم — garm — “warm, hot”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: garm
- Say it: garm, once more
- Say it: say garm
- Recall: say the Persian for long, then the Persian for short, then say garm again

Before you move on

What does گرم mean? (“Warm, hot”.) Say it once more.

59.4 سرد (sard) — cold

Before the new one: say the Persian for short, then the Persian for warm.

You'll want to know: سرد

سرد — sard — “cold”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: sard
- Say it: sard, once more
- Say it: say sard

- Recall: say the Persian for short, then the Persian for warm, then say sard again

Before you move on

What does سرد mean? (“Cold”.) Say it once more.

59.5 آهسته (âheste) — slow, slowly

Before the new one: say the Persian for warm, then the Persian for cold.

You’ll want to know: آهسته

آهسته — âheste — “slow, slowly”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: âheste
- Say it: âheste, once more
- Say it: say âheste
- Recall: say the Persian for warm, then the Persian for cold, then say âheste again

Before you move on

What does آهسته mean? (“Slow, slowly”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 60

Fast, Easy, Hard, Expensive, Cheap

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say fast, easy, hard, difficult, expensive and cheap.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 60: i can say fast, easy, hard, difficult, expensive and cheap.

60.1 تند (tond) — fast

Before the new one: say the Persian for cold, then the Persian for slow.

You'll want to know: تند

تند — tond — “fast”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: tond
- Say it: tond, once more

- Say it: say tond
- Recall: say the Persian for cold, then the Persian for slow, then say tond again

Before you move on

What does تند mean? (“Fast”.) Say it once more.

60.2 آسان (âsân) — easy

Before the new one: say the Persian for slow, then the Persian for fast.

You’ll want to know: آسان

آسان — âsân — “easy”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: âsân
- Say it: âsân, once more
- Say it: say âsân
- Recall: say the Persian for slow, then the Persian for fast, then say âsân again

Before you move on

What does آسان mean? (“Easy”.) Say it once more.

60.3 سخت (sakht) — hard, difficult

Before the new one: say the Persian for fast, then the Persian for easy.

You'll want to know: سخت

سخت — sakht — “hard, difficult”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: sakht
- Say it: sakht, once more
- Say it: say sakht
- Recall: say the Persian for fast, then the Persian for easy, then say sakht again

Before you move on

What does سخت mean? (“Hard, difficult”.) Say it once more.

60.4 گران (gerân) — expensive

Before the new one: say the Persian for easy, then the Persian for hard.

You'll want to know: گران

گران — gerân — “expensive”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: gerân
- Say it: gerân, once more
- Say it: say gerân

- Recall: say the Persian for easy, then the Persian for hard, then say gerân again

Before you move on

What does گران mean? (“Expensive”.) Say it once more.

60.5 ارزان (arzân) — cheap

Before the new one: say the Persian for hard, then the Persian for expensive.

You’ll want to know: ارزان

ارزان — arzân — “cheap”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: arzân
- Say it: arzân, once more
- Say it: say arzân
- Recall: say the Persian for hard, then the Persian for expensive, then say arzân again

Before you move on

What does ارزان mean? (“Cheap”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 61

Full, Empty, Rich, Poor, Clean

Modes: 🗣️ voice (7) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 7 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say full, empty, rich, poor and clean.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 61: i can say full, empty, rich, poor and clean.

61.1 پر (por) — full

Before the new one: say the Persian for expensive, then the Persian for cheap.

You'll want to know: پر

پر — por — “full”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: por
- Say it: por, once more
- Say it: say por

- Recall: say the Persian for expensive, then the Persian for cheap, then say por again

Before you move on

What does پر mean? (“Full.”) Say it once more.

61.2 خالی (khâli) — empty

Before the new one: say the Persian for cheap, then the Persian for full.

You’ll want to know: خالی

خالی — khâli — “empty”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: khâli
- Say it: khâli, once more
- Say it: say khâli
- Recall: say the Persian for cheap, then the Persian for full, then say khâli again

Before you move on

What does خالی mean? (“Empty.”) Say it once more.

61.3 پولدار (puldâr) — rich

Before the new one: say the Persian for full, then the Persian for empty.

You'll want to know: پولدار

پولدار — puldâr — “rich”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: puldâr
- Say it: puldâr, once more
- Say it: say puldâr
- Recall: say the Persian for full, then the Persian for empty, then say puldâr again

Before you move on

What does پولدار mean? (“Rich.”) Say it once more.

61.4 فقير (faghir) — poor

Before the new one: say the Persian for empty, then the Persian for rich.

You'll want to know: فقير

فقير — faghir — “poor”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: faghir
- Say it: faghir, once more
- Say it: say faghir

- Recall: say the Persian for empty, then the Persian for rich, then say faghîr again

Before you move on

What does فقير mean? (“Poor”.) Say it once more.

61.5 تمیز (tamiz) — clean

Before the new one: say the Persian for rich, then the Persian for poor.

You’ll want to know: تمیز

تمیز — tamiz — “clean”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: tamiz
- Say it: tamiz, once more
- Say it: say tamiz
- Recall: say the Persian for rich, then the Persian for poor, then say tamiz again

Before you move on

What does تمیز mean? (“Clean”.) Say it once more.

61.6 Food and the home — a first pass

Say the words for poor and clean.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- a house, a room, a window, a chair, a table
- a wall, a bed, a cupboard, the ground; the earth, a mirror
- a lock, a plate, a knife, a fork, a spoon
- a bottle, a kitchen, a bathroom, a glass, a notebook
- a pencil, a pen, a school, a bag, money
- a map, a lesson, an answer, a word, a game
- a letter, a newspaper, a tree, a flower, a leaf
- a mountain, a forest, a river, a lake, a stone

Before you move on

A house? (خانه, khâne.) A room? (اتاق, otâgh.) A window? (پنجره, panjere.) A chair? (صندلی, sandali.) A table? (میز, miz.) A wall? (دیوار, divâr.) A bed? (تخت, takht.) A cupboard? (کمد, komod.) The ground; the earth? (زمین, zamin.) A mirror? (آینه, âyene.) A lock? (قفل, ghofl.) A plate? (بشقاب, boshghâb.) A knife? (چاقو, châghu.) A fork? (چنگال, chângâl.) A spoon? (قاشق, ghâshogh.) A bottle? (بطری, bottri.) A kitchen? (آشپزخانه, âshpazkhâne.) A bathroom? (حمام, hammâm.) A glass? (لیوان, livân.) A notebook? (دفتر, daftar.) A pencil? (مداد, medâd.) A pen? (خودکار, khodkâr.) A school? (مدرسه, madrese.) A bag? (کیف, kif.) Money? (پول, pul.) A map? (نقشه, naghshe.) A lesson? (درس, dars.) An answer? (جواب, javâb.) A word? (کلمه, kalame.) A game? (بازی, bâzi.) A letter? (نامه, nâme.) A newspaper? (روزنامه, ruznâme.) A tree? (درخت, derakht.) A flower? (گل, gol.) A leaf? (برگ, barg.) A mountain? (کوه, kuh.) A forest? (جنگل, jangal.) A river? (رودخانه, rudkhâne.) A lake? (دریاچه, daryâche.) A stone? (سنگ, sang.)

61.7 School, nature and animals — a second pass

Say the words for sand and a cloud.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- sand, a cloud, the sea, fire, snow
- soil, wind, a desert, a dog, a cat
- a horse, a cow, a goat, a sheep, a bird
- a mouse, a tiger, an elephant, a monkey, a snake
- a bear, a camel, a donkey, a butterfly, an ant
- a wolf, big, small, fresh, old
- long, short, warm, cold, slow
- fast, easy, hard, expensive, cheap
- full, empty, rich, poor, clean

Before you move on

Sand? (ماسه, mâse.) A cloud? (ابر, abr.) The sea? (دریا, daryâ.)
 Fire? (آتش, âdash.) Snow? (برف, barf.) Soil? (خاک, khâk.) Wind?
 (باد, bâd.) A desert? (بیابان, biyâbân.) A dog? (سگ, sag.) A cat?
 (گربه, gorbe.) A horse? (اسب, asb.) A cow? (گاو, gâv.) A goat? (بز, boz.) A sheep? (گوسفند, gusfand.) A bird? (پرنده, parande.) A mouse? (موش, mush.) A tiger? (ببر, bebar.) An elephant? (فیل, fil.)
 A monkey? (میمون, meymun.) A snake? (مار, mâr.) A bear? (خرس, khers.) A camel? (شتر, shotor.) A donkey? (خر, khar.) A butterfly?
 (پروانه, parvâne.) An ant? (مورچه, murche.) A wolf? (گرگ, gorg.)
 Big? (بزرگ, bozorg.) Small? (کوچک, kuchek.) Fresh? (تازه, tâze.)
 Old? (قدیمی, ghadimi.) Long? (بلند, boland.) Short? (کوتاه, kutâh.)
 Warm? (گرم, garm.) Cold? (سرد, sard.) Slow? (آهسته, âheste.) Fast?
 (تند, tond.) Easy? (آسان, âsân.) Hard? (سخت, sakht.) Expensive?
 (گران, gerân.) Cheap? (ارزان, arzân.) Full? (پر, por.) Empty? (خالی, khâli.) Rich? (پولدار, puldâr.) Poor? (فقیر, faghîr.) Clean? (تمیز, tamiz.)

Chapter 62

Sweet, Fat, Light, Heavy, Right

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗋️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say sweet, fat, light, heavy and right, correct.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 62: i can say sweet, fat, light, heavy and right, correct.

62.1 شیرین (shirin) — sweet

Before the new one: say the Persian for poor, then the Persian for clean.

You'll want to know: شیرین

شیرین — shirin — “sweet”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: shirin
- Say it: shirin, once more
- Say it: say shirin

- Recall: say the Persian for poor, then the Persian for clean, then say shirîn again

Before you move on

What does شیرین mean? (“Sweet”.) Say it once more.

62.2 چاق (châgh) — fat

Before the new one: say the Persian for clean, then the Persian for sweet.

You’ll want to know: چاق

چاق — châgh — “fat”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: châgh
- Say it: châgh, once more
- Say it: say châgh
- Recall: say the Persian for clean, then the Persian for sweet, then say châgh again

Before you move on

What does چاق mean? (“Fat”.) Say it once more.

62.3 سبک (sabok) — light (in weight)

Before the new one: say the Persian for sweet, then the Persian for fat.

You'll want to know: سبک

سبک — sabok — “light (in weight)”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: sabok
- Say it: sabok, once more
- Say it: say sabok
- Recall: say the Persian for sweet, then the Persian for fat, then say sabok again

Before you move on

What does سبک mean? (“Light (in weight)”). Say it once more.

62.4 سنگین (sangin) — heavy

Before the new one: say the Persian for fat, then the Persian for light.

You'll want to know: سنگین

سنگین — sangin — “heavy”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: sangin
- Say it: sangin, once more
- Say it: say sangin

- Recall: say the Persian for fat, then the Persian for light, then say sangin again

Before you move on

What does سنگین mean? (“Heavy”.) Say it once more.

62.5 درست (dorost) — right, correct

Before the new one: say the Persian for light, then the Persian for heavy.

You’ll want to know: درست

درست — dorost — “right, correct”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: dorost
- Say it: dorost, once more
- Say it: say dorost
- Recall: say the Persian for light, then the Persian for heavy, then say dorost again

Before you move on

What does درست mean? (“Right, correct”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 63

Important, Beautiful, Green, Yellow, Red

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say important, beautiful, green, yellow and red.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 63: i can say important, beautiful, green, yellow and red.

63.1 مهم (mohem) — important

Before the new one: say the Persian for heavy, then the Persian for right.

You'll want to know: مهم

مهم — mohem — “important”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: mohem
- Say it: mohem, once more

- Say it: say mohem
- Recall: say the Persian for heavy, then the Persian for right, then say mohem again

Before you move on

What does مهم mean? (“Important”.) Say it once more.

63.2 زیبا (zibâ) — beautiful

Before the new one: say the Persian for right, then the Persian for important.

You’ll want to know: زیبا

زیبا — zibâ — “beautiful”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: zibâ
- Say it: zibâ, once more
- Say it: say zibâ
- Recall: say the Persian for right, then the Persian for important, then say zibâ again

Before you move on

What does زیبا mean? (“Beautiful”.) Say it once more.

63.3 سبز (sabz) — green

Before the new one: say the Persian for important, then the Persian for beautiful.

You'll want to know: سبز

سبز — sabz — “green”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: sabz
- Say it: sabz, once more
- Say it: say sabz
- Recall: say the Persian for important, then the Persian for beautiful, then say sabz again

Before you move on

What does سبز mean? (“Green”.) Say it once more.

63.4 زرد (zard) — yellow

Before the new one: say the Persian for beautiful, then the Persian for green.

You'll want to know: زرد

زرد — zard — “yellow”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: zard
- Say it: zard, once more
- Say it: say zard

- Recall: say the Persian for beautiful, then the Persian for green, then say zard again

Before you move on

What does زرد mean? (“Yellow”.) Say it once more.

63.5 قرمز (ghermez) — red

Before the new one: say the Persian for green, then the Persian for yellow.

You’ll want to know: قرمز

قرمز — ghermez — “red”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: ghermez
- Say it: ghermez, once more
- Say it: say ghermez
- Recall: say the Persian for green, then the Persian for yellow, then say ghermez again

Before you move on

What does قرمز mean? (“Red”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 64

Blue, Black, White, Week, Year

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say blue, black, white, a week and a year.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 64: i can say blue, black, white, a week and a year.

64.1 آبی (âbi) — blue

Before the new one: say the Persian for yellow, then the Persian for red.

You'll want to know: آبی

آبی — âbi — “blue”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: âbi
- Say it: âbi, once more
- Say it: say âbi

- Recall: say the Persian for yellow, then the Persian for red, then say âbi again

Before you move on

What does آبی mean? (“Blue”.) Say it once more.

64.2 سیاه (siyâh) — black

Before the new one: say the Persian for red, then the Persian for blue.

You’ll want to know: سیاه

سیاه — siyâh — “black”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: siyâh
- Say it: siyâh, once more
- Say it: say siyâh
- Recall: say the Persian for red, then the Persian for blue, then say siyâh again

Before you move on

What does سیاه mean? (“Black”.) Say it once more.

64.3 سفید (sefid) — white

Before the new one: say the Persian for blue, then the Persian for black.

You'll want to know: سفید

سفید — sefid — “white”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: sefid
- Say it: sefid, once more
- Say it: say sefid
- Recall: say the Persian for blue, then the Persian for black, then say sefid again

Before you move on

What does سفید mean? (“White”.) Say it once more.

64.4 هفته (hafte) — a week

Before the new one: say the Persian for black, then the Persian for white.

You'll want to know: هفته

هفته — hafte — “a week”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: hafte
- Say it: hafte, once more
- Say it: say hafte

- Recall: say the Persian for black, then the Persian for white, then say hafte again

Before you move on

What does هفته mean? (“A week”.) Say it once more.

64.5 سال (sâl) — a year

Before the new one: say the Persian for white, then the Persian for a week.

You’ll want to know: سال

سال — sâl — “a year”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: sâl
- Say it: sâl, once more
- Say it: say sâl
- Recall: say the Persian for white, then the Persian for a week, then say sâl again

Before you move on

What does سال mean? (“A year”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 65

Minute, Today, Yesterday, Tomorrow, Now

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a minute, today, yesterday, tomorrow and now.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 65: i can say a minute, today, yesterday, tomorrow and now.

65.1 دقیقه (daghighhe) — a minute

Before the new one: say the Persian for a week, then the Persian for a year.

You'll want to know: دقیقه

دقیقه — daghighhe — “a minute”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: daghighhe
- Say it: daghighhe, once more

- Say it: say daghighē
- Recall: say the Persian for a week, then the Persian for a year, then say daghighē again

Before you move on

What does دقیقه mean? (“A minute”.) Say it once more.

65.2 امروز (emruz) — today

Before the new one: say the Persian for a year, then the Persian for a minute.

You’ll want to know: امروز

امروز — emruz — “today”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: emruz
- Say it: emruz, once more
- Say it: say emruz
- Recall: say the Persian for a year, then the Persian for a minute, then say emruz again

Before you move on

What does امروز mean? (“Today”.) Say it once more.

65.3 دیروز (diruz) — yesterday

Before the new one: say the Persian for a minute, then the Persian for today.

You'll want to know: دیروز

دیروز — diruz — “yesterday”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: diruz
- Say it: diruz, once more
- Say it: say diruz
- Recall: say the Persian for a minute, then the Persian for today, then say diruz again

Before you move on

What does دیروز mean? (“Yesterday”.) Say it once more.

65.4 فردا (fardâ) — tomorrow

Before the new one: say the Persian for today, then the Persian for yesterday.

You'll want to know: فردا

فردا — fardâ — “tomorrow”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: fardâ
- Say it: fardâ, once more
- Say it: say fardâ

- Recall: say the Persian for today, then the Persian for yesterday, then say fardâ again

Before you move on

What does فردا mean? (“Tomorrow”.) Say it once more.

65.5 حالا (hâlâ) — now

Before the new one: say the Persian for yesterday, then the Persian for tomorrow.

You’ll want to know: حالا

حالا — hâlâ — “now”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: hâlâ
- Say it: hâlâ, once more
- Say it: say hâlâ
- Recall: say the Persian for yesterday, then the Persian for tomorrow, then say hâlâ again

Before you move on

What does حالا mean? (“Now”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 66

Always, Sometimes, Early, Late, Before

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say always, sometimes, early, late and before.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 66: i can say always, sometimes, early, late and before.

66.1 همیشه (hamishe) — always

Before the new one: say the Persian for tomorrow, then the Persian for now.

You'll want to know: همیشه

همیشه — hamishe — “always”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: hamishe
- Say it: hamishe, once more

- Say it: say hamishe
- Recall: say the Persian for tomorrow, then the Persian for now, then say hamishe again

Before you move on

What does همیشه mean? (“Always”.) Say it once more.

66.2 گاهی (gâhi) — sometimes

Before the new one: say the Persian for now, then the Persian for always.

You’ll want to know: گاهی

گاهی — gâhi — “sometimes”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: gâhi
- Say it: gâhi, once more
- Say it: say gâhi
- Recall: say the Persian for now, then the Persian for always, then say gâhi again

Before you move on

What does گاهی mean? (“Sometimes”.) Say it once more.

66.3 زود (zud) — early

Before the new one: say the Persian for always, then the Persian for sometimes.

You'll want to know: زود

زود — zud — “early”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: zud
- Say it: zud, once more
- Say it: say zud
- Recall: say the Persian for always, then the Persian for sometimes, then say zud again

Before you move on

What does زود mean? (“Early.”) Say it once more.

66.4 دیر (dir) — late

Before the new one: say the Persian for sometimes, then the Persian for early.

You'll want to know: دیر

دیر — dir — “late”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: dir
- Say it: dir, once more
- Say it: say dir

- Recall: say the Persian for sometimes, then the Persian for early, then say dir again

Before you move on

What does دیر mean? (“Late”.) Say it once more.

66.5 قبل (ghabl) — before

Before the new one: say the Persian for early, then the Persian for late.

You’ll want to know: قبل

قبل — ghabl — “before”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: ghabl
- Say it: ghabl, once more
- Say it: say ghabl
- Recall: say the Persian for early, then the Persian for late, then say ghabl again

Before you move on

What does قبل mean? (“Before”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 67

Morning, Night, Day, Far, Near

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say morning, night, a day, far and near.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 67: i can say morning, night, a day, far and near.

67.1 صبح (sobh) — morning

Before the new one: say the Persian for late, then the Persian for before.

You'll want to know: صبح

صبح — sobh — “morning”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: sobh
- Say it: sobh, once more
- Say it: say sobh

- Recall: say the Persian for late, then the Persian for before, then say sobh again

Before you move on

What does صبح mean? (“Morning”.) Say it once more.

67.2 شب (shab) — night

Before the new one: say the Persian for before, then the Persian for morning.

You’ll want to know: شب

شب — shab — “night”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: shab
- Say it: shab, once more
- Say it: say shab
- Recall: say the Persian for before, then the Persian for morning, then say shab again

Before you move on

What does شب mean? (“Night”.) Say it once more.

67.3 روز (ruz) — a day

Before the new one: say the Persian for morning, then the Persian for night.

You'll want to know: روز

روز — ruz — “a day”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: ruz
- Say it: ruz, once more
- Say it: say ruz
- Recall: say the Persian for morning, then the Persian for night, then say ruz again

Before you move on

What does روز mean? (“A day”.) Say it once more.

67.4 دور (dur) — far

Before the new one: say the Persian for night, then the Persian for a day.

You'll want to know: دور

دور — dur — “far”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: dur
- Say it: dur, once more
- Say it: say dur

- Recall: say the Persian for night, then the Persian for a day, then say dur again

Before you move on

What does دور mean? (“Far”.) Say it once more.

67.5 نزدیک (nazdik) — near

Before the new one: say the Persian for a day, then the Persian for far.

You’ll want to know: نزدیک

دیک — nazdik — “near”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: nazdik
- Say it: nazdik, once more
- Say it: say nazdik
- Recall: say the Persian for a day, then the Persian for far, then say nazdik again

Before you move on

What does نزدیک mean? (“Near”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 68

Inside, Outside, Up, Down, In front

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🖐️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say inside, outside, up, above, down, below and in front.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 68: i can say inside, outside, up, above, down, below and in front.

68.1 داخل (dâkhel) — inside

Before the new one: say the Persian for far, then the Persian for near.

You'll want to know: داخل

داخل — dâkhel — “inside”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: dâkhel
- Say it: dâkhel, once more

- Say it: say dâkhel
- Recall: say the Persian for far, then the Persian for near, then say dâkhel again

Before you move on

What does داخل mean? (“Inside.”) Say it once more.

68.2 بیرون (birun) — outside

Before the new one: say the Persian for near, then the Persian for inside.

You’ll want to know: بیرون

بیرون — birun — “outside”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: birun
- Say it: birun, once more
- Say it: say birun
- Recall: say the Persian for near, then the Persian for inside, then say birun again

Before you move on

What does بیرون mean? (“Outside.”) Say it once more.

68.3 بالا (bâlâ) — up, above

Before the new one: say the Persian for inside, then the Persian for outside.

You'll want to know: بالا

بالا — bâlâ — “up, above”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: bâlâ
- Say it: bâlâ, once more
- Say it: say bâlâ
- Recall: say the Persian for inside, then the Persian for outside, then say bâlâ again

Before you move on

What does بالا mean? (“Up, above”.) Say it once more.

68.4 پایین (pâyin) — down, below

Before the new one: say the Persian for outside, then the Persian for up.

You'll want to know: پایین

پایین — pâyin — “down, below”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: pâyin
- Say it: pâyin, once more
- Say it: say pâyin

- Recall: say the Persian for outside, then the Persian for up, then say pâyin again

Before you move on

What does پایین mean? (“Down, below”.) Say it once more.

68.5 جلو (jelow) — in front

Before the new one: say the Persian for up, then the Persian for down.

You’ll want to know: جلو

جلو — jelow — “in front”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: jelow
- Say it: jelow, once more
- Say it: say jelow
- Recall: say the Persian for up, then the Persian for down, then say jelow again

Before you move on

What does جلو mean? (“In front”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 69

Here, There, Right, Left, Street

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say here, there, right, left and a street.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 69: i can say here, there, right, left and a street.

69.1 اینجا (injâ) — here

Before the new one: say the Persian for down, then the Persian for in front.

You'll want to know: اینجا

اینجا — injâ — “here”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: injâ
- Say it: injâ, once more
- Say it: say injâ

- Recall: say the Persian for down, then the Persian for in front, then say injâ again

Before you move on

What does اینجا mean? (“Here”.) Say it once more.

69.2 آنجا (ânjâ) — there

Before the new one: say the Persian for in front, then the Persian for here.

You’ll want to know: آنجا

آنجا — ânjâ — “there”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: ânjâ
- Say it: ânjâ, once more
- Say it: say ânjâ
- Recall: say the Persian for in front, then the Persian for here, then say ânjâ again

Before you move on

What does آنجا mean? (“There”.) Say it once more.

69.3 راست (râst) — right; true

Before the new one: say the Persian for here, then the Persian for there.

You'll want to know: راست

راست — râst — “right; true”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: râst
- Say it: râst, once more
- Say it: say râst
- Recall: say the Persian for here, then the Persian for there, then say râst again

Before you move on

What does راست mean? (“Right; true”.) Say it once more.

69.4 چپ (chap) — left

Before the new one: say the Persian for there, then the Persian for right; true.

You'll want to know: چپ

چپ — chap — “left”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: chap
- Say it: chap, once more
- Say it: say chap

- Recall: say the Persian for there, then the Persian for right; true, then say chap again

Before you move on

What does چپ mean? (“Left”). Say it once more.

69.5 خیابان (khiyâbân) — a street

Before the new one: say the Persian for right; true, then the Persian for left.

You’ll want to know: خیابان

خیابان — khiyâbân — “a street”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: khiyâbân
- Say it: khiyâbân, once more
- Say it: say khiyâbân
- Recall: say the Persian for right; true, then the Persian for left, then say khiyâbân again

Before you move on

What does خیابان mean? (“A street”). Say it once more.

Chapter 70

Bank, Station, Car, Bus, Train

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a bank, a station, a stop, a car, a bus and a train.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 70: i can say a bank, a station, a stop, a car, a bus and a train.

70.1 بانک (bânk) — a bank

Before the new one: say the Persian for left, then the Persian for a street.

You'll want to know: بانک

بانک — bânk — “a bank”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: bânk
- Say it: bânk, once more
- Say it: say bânk

- Recall: say the Persian for left, then the Persian for a street, then say bânk again

Before you move on

What does بانک mean? (“A bank”.) Say it once more.

70.2 ایستگاه (istgâh) — a station, a stop

Before the new one: say the Persian for a street, then the Persian for a bank.

You’ll want to know: ایستگاه

ایستگاه — istgâh — “a station, a stop”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: istgâh
- Say it: istgâh, once more
- Say it: say istgâh
- Recall: say the Persian for a street, then the Persian for a bank, then say istgâh again

Before you move on

What does ایستگاه mean? (“A station, a stop”.) Say it once more.

70.3 ماشین (mâshin) — a car

Before the new one: say the Persian for a bank, then the Persian for a station.

You'll want to know: ماشین

ماشین — mâshin — “a car”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: mâshin
- Say it: mâshin, once more
- Say it: say mâshin
- Recall: say the Persian for a bank, then the Persian for a station, then say mâshin again

Before you move on

What does ماشین mean? (“A car”.) Say it once more.

70.4 اتوبوس (otobus) — a bus

Before the new one: say the Persian for a station, then the Persian for a car.

You'll want to know: اتوبوس

اتوبوس — otobus — “a bus”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: otobus
- Say it: otobus, once more
- Say it: say otobus

- Recall: say the Persian for a station, then the Persian for a car, then say otobus again

Before you move on

What does اتوبوس mean? (“A bus”.) Say it once more.

70.5 قطار (ghatâr) — a train

Before the new one: say the Persian for a car, then the Persian for a bus.

You’ll want to know: قطار

قطار — ghatâr — “a train”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: ghatâr
- Say it: ghatâr, once more
- Say it: say ghatâr
- Recall: say the Persian for a car, then the Persian for a bus, then say ghatâr again

Before you move on

What does قطار mean? (“A train”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 71

Bridge, Mosque, Hotel, Office, Police

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a bridge, a mosque, a hotel, an office and the police.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 71: i can say a bridge, a mosque, a hotel, an office and the police.

71.1 پل (pol) — a bridge

Before the new one: say the Persian for a bus, then the Persian for a train.

You'll want to know: پل

پل — pol — “a bridge”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: pol
- Say it: pol, once more

- Say it: say pol
- Recall: say the Persian for a bus, then the Persian for a train, then say pol again

Before you move on

What does پل mean? (“A bridge”.) Say it once more.

71.2 مسجد (masjed) — a mosque

Before the new one: say the Persian for a train, then the Persian for a bridge.

You’ll want to know: مسجد

مسجد — masjed — “a mosque”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: masjed
- Say it: masjed, once more
- Say it: say masjed
- Recall: say the Persian for a train, then the Persian for a bridge, then say masjed again

Before you move on

What does مسجد mean? (“A mosque”.) Say it once more.

71.3 هتل (hotel) — a hotel

Before the new one: say the Persian for a bridge, then the Persian for a mosque.

You'll want to know: هتل

هتل — hotel — “a hotel”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: hotel
- Say it: hotel, once more
- Say it: say hotel
- Recall: say the Persian for a bridge, then the Persian for a mosque, then say hotel again

Before you move on

What does هتل mean? (“A hotel”.) Say it once more.

71.4 اداره (edâre) — an office

Before the new one: say the Persian for a mosque, then the Persian for a hotel.

You'll want to know: اداره

اداره — edâre — “an office”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: edâre
- Say it: edâre, once more
- Say it: say edâre

- Recall: say the Persian for a mosque, then the Persian for a hotel, then say edâre again

Before you move on

What does اداره mean? (“An office”.) Say it once more.

71.5 پلیس (polis) — the police

Before the new one: say the Persian for a hotel, then the Persian for an office.

You’ll want to know: پلیس

پلیس — polis — “the police”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: polis
- Say it: polis, once more
- Say it: say polis
- Recall: say the Persian for a hotel, then the Persian for an office, then say polis again

Before you move on

What does پلیس mean? (“The police”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 72

Boat, Bicycle, Bazaar, Village, City

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a boat, a bicycle, a bazaar, a village and a city.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 72: i can say a boat, a bicycle, a bazaar, a village and a city.

72.1 قايق (ghâyegh) — a boat

Before the new one: say the Persian for an office, then the Persian for the police.

You'll want to know: قايق

قايق — ghâyegh — “a boat”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: ghâyegh
- Say it: ghâyegh, once more

- Say it: say ghâyegh
- Recall: say the Persian for an office, then the Persian for the police, then say ghâyegh again

Before you move on

What does قایق mean? (“A boat”.) Say it once more.

72.2 دوچرخه (docharkhe) — a bicycle

Before the new one: say the Persian for the police, then the Persian for a boat.

You’ll want to know: دوچرخه

دوچرخه — docharkhe — “a bicycle”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: docharkhe
- Say it: docharkhe, once more
- Say it: say docharkhe
- Recall: say the Persian for the police, then the Persian for a boat, then say docharkhe again

Before you move on

What does دوچرخه mean? (“A bicycle”.) Say it once more.

72.3 بازار (bâzâr) — a bazaar

Before the new one: say the Persian for a boat, then the Persian for a bicycle.

You'll want to know: بازار

بازار — bâzâr — “a bazaar”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: bâzâr
- Say it: bâzâr, once more
- Say it: say bâzâr
- Recall: say the Persian for a boat, then the Persian for a bicycle, then say bâzâr again

Before you move on

What does بازار mean? (“A bazaar”.) Say it once more.

72.4 روستا (rustâ) — a village

Before the new one: say the Persian for a bicycle, then the Persian for a bazaar.

You'll want to know: روستا

روستا — rustâ — “a village”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: rustâ
- Say it: rustâ, once more
- Say it: say rustâ

- Recall: say the Persian for a bicycle, then the Persian for a bazaar, then say rustâ again

Before you move on

What does روستا mean? (“A village”.) Say it once more.

72.5 شهر (shahr) — a city

Before the new one: say the Persian for a bazaar, then the Persian for a village.

You’ll want to know: شهر

شهر — shahr — “a city”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: shahr
- Say it: shahr, once more
- Say it: say shahr
- Recall: say the Persian for a bazaar, then the Persian for a village, then say shahr again

Before you move on

What does شهر mean? (“A city”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 73

Airport, Restaurant, Clothes, Shirt, Trousers

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say an airport, a restaurant, clothes, a shirt and trousers.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 73: i can say an airport, a restaurant, clothes, a shirt and trousers.

73.1 فرودگاه (forudgâh) — an airport

Before the new one: say the Persian for a village, then the Persian for a city.

You'll want to know: فرودگاه

فرودگاه — forudgâh — “an airport”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: forudgâh
- Say it: forudgâh, once more

- Say it: say forudgâh
- Recall: say the Persian for a village, then the Persian for a city, then say forudgâh again

Before you move on

What does فرودگاه mean? (“An airport”.) Say it once more.

73.2 رستوران (resturân) — a restaurant

Before the new one: say the Persian for a city, then the Persian for an airport.

You’ll want to know: رستوران

رستوران — resturân — “a restaurant”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: resturân
- Say it: resturân, once more
- Say it: say resturân
- Recall: say the Persian for a city, then the Persian for an airport, then say resturân again

Before you move on

What does رستوران mean? (“A restaurant”.) Say it once more.

73.3 لباس (lebâs) — clothes

Before the new one: say the Persian for an airport, then the Persian for a restaurant.

You'll want to know: لباس

لباس — lebâs — “clothes”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: lebâs
- Say it: lebâs, once more
- Say it: say lebâs
- Recall: say the Persian for an airport, then the Persian for a restaurant, then say lebâs again

Before you move on

What does لباس mean? (“Clothes”.) Say it once more.

73.4 پیراهن (pirâhan) — a shirt

Before the new one: say the Persian for a restaurant, then the Persian for clothes.

You'll want to know: پیراهن

پیراهن — pirâhan — “a shirt”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: pirâhan
- Say it: pirâhan, once more
- Say it: say pirâhan

- Recall: say the Persian for a restaurant, then the Persian for clothes, then say pirâhan again

Before you move on

What does پیراهن mean? (“A shirt.”) Say it once more.

73.5 شلوار (shalvâr) — trousers

Before the new one: say the Persian for clothes, then the Persian for a shirt.

You’ll want to know: شلوار

شلوار — shalvâr — “trousers”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: shalvâr
- Say it: shalvâr, once more
- Say it: say shalvâr
- Recall: say the Persian for clothes, then the Persian for a shirt, then say shalvâr again

Before you move on

What does شلوار mean? (“Trousers.”) Say it once more.

Chapter 74

Sock, Pocket, Ring, Hat, Shoe

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a sock, a pocket, a ring, a hat and a shoe.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 74: i can say a sock, a pocket, a ring, a hat and a shoe.

74.1 جوراب (jurâb) — a sock

Before the new one: say the Persian for a shirt, then the Persian for trousers.

You'll want to know: جوراب

جوراب — jurâb — “a sock”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: jurâb
- Say it: jurâb, once more
- Say it: say jurâb

- Recall: say the Persian for a shirt, then the Persian for trousers, then say jurâb again

Before you move on

What does جوراب mean? (“A sock”.) Say it once more.

74.2 جیب (jib) — a pocket

Before the new one: say the Persian for trousers, then the Persian for a sock.

You’ll want to know: جیب

جیب — jib — “a pocket”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: jib
- Say it: jib, once more
- Say it: say jib
- Recall: say the Persian for trousers, then the Persian for a sock, then say jib again

Before you move on

What does جیب mean? (“A pocket”.) Say it once more.

74.3 انگشتر (angoshtar) — a ring

Before the new one: say the Persian for a sock, then the Persian for a pocket.

You'll want to know: انگشتر

انگشتر — angoshtar — “a ring”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: angoshtar
- Say it: angoshtar, once more
- Say it: say angoshtar
- Recall: say the Persian for a sock, then the Persian for a pocket, then say angoshtar again

Before you move on

What does انگشتر mean? (“A ring”.) Say it once more.

74.4 کلاه (kolâh) — a hat

Before the new one: say the Persian for a pocket, then the Persian for a ring.

You'll want to know: کلاه

کلاه — kolâh — “a hat”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: kolâh
- Say it: kolâh, once more
- Say it: say kolâh

- Recall: say the Persian for a pocket, then the Persian for a ring, then say kolâh again

Before you move on

What does کلاه mean? (“A hat”.) Say it once more.

74.5 کفش (kafsh) — a shoe

Before the new one: say the Persian for a ring, then the Persian for a hat.

You’ll want to know: کفش

کفش — kafsh — “a shoe”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: kafsh
- Say it: kafsh, once more
- Say it: say kafsh
- Recall: say the Persian for a ring, then the Persian for a hat, then say kafsh again

Before you move on

What does کفش mean? (“A shoe”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 75

Jacket, Belt, Twelve, Fourteen, Sixteen

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a jacket, a belt, twelve, fourteen and sixteen.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 75: i can say a jacket, a belt, twelve, fourteen and sixteen.

75.1 کت (kot) — a jacket

Before the new one: say the Persian for a hat, then the Persian for a shoe.

You'll want to know: کت

کت — kot — “a jacket”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: kot
- Say it: kot, once more

- Say it: say kot
- Recall: say the Persian for a hat, then the Persian for a shoe, then say kot again

Before you move on

What does کت mean? (“A jacket”.) Say it once more.

75.2 کمر بند (kamarband) — a belt

Before the new one: say the Persian for a shoe, then the Persian for a jacket.

You’ll want to know: کمر بند

کمر بند — kamarband — “a belt”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: kamarband
- Say it: kamarband, once more
- Say it: say kamarband
- Recall: say the Persian for a shoe, then the Persian for a jacket, then say kamarband again

Before you move on

What does کمر بند mean? (“A belt”.) Say it once more.

75.3 دوازده (davâzdah) — twelve

Before the new one: say the Persian for a jacket, then the Persian for a belt.

You'll want to know: دوازده

دوازده — davâzdah — “twelve”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: davâzdah
- Say it: davâzdah, once more
- Say it: say davâzdah
- Recall: say the Persian for a jacket, then the Persian for a belt, then say davâzdah again

Before you move on

What does دوازده mean? (“Twelve”.) Say it once more.

75.4 چهارده (chahârdah) — fourteen

Before the new one: say the Persian for a belt, then the Persian for twelve.

You'll want to know: چهارده

چهارده — chahârdah — “fourteen”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: chahârdah
- Say it: chahârdah, once more
- Say it: say chahârdah

- Recall: say the Persian for a belt, then the Persian for twelve, then say chahârdah again

Before you move on

What does چهارده mean? (“Fourteen”.) Say it once more.

75.5 شانزده (shânzdah) — sixteen

Before the new one: say the Persian for twelve, then the Persian for fourteen.

You’ll want to know: شانزده

شانزده — shânzdah — “sixteen”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: shânzdah
- Say it: shânzdah, once more
- Say it: say shânzdah
- Recall: say the Persian for twelve, then the Persian for fourteen, then say shânzdah again

Before you move on

What does شانزده mean? (“Sixteen”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 76

Seventeen, Eighteen, Nineteen, Thirty, Forty

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say seventeen, eighteen, nineteen, thirty and forty.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 76: i can say seventeen, eighteen, nineteen, thirty and forty.

76.1 هفده (hefdah) — seventeen

Before the new one: say the Persian for fourteen, then the Persian for sixteen.

You'll want to know: هفده

هفده — hefdah — “seventeen”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: hefdah
- Say it: hefdah, once more

- Say it: say hefdah
- Recall: say the Persian for fourteen, then the Persian for sixteen, then say hefdah again

Before you move on

What does هفده mean? (“Seventeen”.) Say it once more.

76.2 هجده (hejdah) — eighteen

Before the new one: say the Persian for sixteen, then the Persian for seventeen.

You’ll want to know: هجده

هجده — hejdah — “eighteen”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: hejdah
- Say it: hejdah, once more
- Say it: say hejdah
- Recall: say the Persian for sixteen, then the Persian for seventeen, then say hejdah again

Before you move on

What does هجده mean? (“Eighteen”.) Say it once more.

76.3 نوزده (nuzdah) — nineteen

Before the new one: say the Persian for seventeen, then the Persian for eighteen.

You'll want to know: نوزده

نوزده — nuzdah — “nineteen”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: nuzdah
- Say it: nuzdah, once more
- Say it: say nuzdah
- Recall: say the Persian for seventeen, then the Persian for eighteen, then say nuzdah again

Before you move on

What does نوزده mean? (“Nineteen”.) Say it once more.

76.4 سی (si) — thirty

Before the new one: say the Persian for eighteen, then the Persian for nineteen.

You'll want to know: سی

سی — si — “thirty”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: si
- Say it: si, once more
- Say it: say si

- Recall: say the Persian for eighteen, then the Persian for nineteen, then say si again

Before you move on

What does سی mean? (“Thirty”.) Say it once more.

76.5 چهل (chehel) — forty

Before the new one: say the Persian for nineteen, then the Persian for thirty.

You’ll want to know: چهل

چهل — chehel — “forty”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: chehel
- Say it: chehel, once more
- Say it: say chehel
- Recall: say the Persian for nineteen, then the Persian for thirty, then say chehel again

Before you move on

What does چهل mean? (“Forty”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 77

Fifty, Thousand, World, Colour, Song

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) 🗋️ Hands-free start: all 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say fifty, a thousand, the world, a colour and a song, a tune.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 77: i can say fifty, a thousand, the world, a colour and a song, a tune.

77.1 پنجاه (panjâh) — fifty

Before the new one: say the Persian for thirty, then the Persian for forty.

You'll want to know: پنجاه

پنجاه — panjâh — “fifty”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: panjâh
- Say it: panjâh, once more

- Say it: say panjâh
- Recall: say the Persian for thirty, then the Persian for forty, then say panjâh again

Before you move on

What does پنجاه mean? (“Fifty”.) Say it once more.

77.2 هزار (hezâr) — a thousand

Before the new one: say the Persian for forty, then the Persian for fifty.

You’ll want to know: هزار

هزار — hezâr — “a thousand”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: hezâr
- Say it: hezâr, once more
- Say it: say hezâr
- Recall: say the Persian for forty, then the Persian for fifty, then say hezâr again

Before you move on

What does هزار mean? (“A thousand”.) Say it once more.

77.3 دنیا (donyâ) — the world

Before the new one: say the Persian for fifty, then the Persian for a thousand.

You'll want to know: دنیا

دنیا — donyâ — “the world”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: donyâ
- Say it: donyâ, once more
- Say it: say donyâ
- Recall: say the Persian for fifty, then the Persian for a thousand, then say donyâ again

Before you move on

What does دنیا mean? (“The world”.) Say it once more.

77.4 رنگ (rang) — a colour

Before the new one: say the Persian for a thousand, then the Persian for the world.

You'll want to know: رنگ

رنگ — rang — “a colour”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: rang
- Say it: rang, once more
- Say it: say rang

- Recall: say the Persian for a thousand, then the Persian for the world, then say rang again

Before you move on

What does رنگ mean? (“A colour”.) Say it once more.

77.5 آهنگ (âhang) — a song, a tune

Before the new one: say the Persian for the world, then the Persian for a colour.

You’ll want to know: آهنگ

آهنگ — âhang — “a song, a tune”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: âhang
- Say it: âhang, once more
- Say it: say âhang
- Recall: say the Persian for the world, then the Persian for a colour, then say âhang again

Before you move on

What does آهنگ mean? (“A song, a tune”.) Say it once more.

Chapter 78

Journey, Music, News, Country, Story

Modes: 🗣️ voice (7) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 7 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say a journey, music, news, a country and a story.

Complete the last lesson of chapter 78: i can say a journey, music, news, a country and a story.

78.1 سفر (safir) — a journey

Before the new one: say the Persian for a colour, then the Persian for a song.

You'll want to know: سفر

سفر — safir — “a journey”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: safir
- Say it: safir, once more

- Say it: say safar
- Recall: say the Persian for a colour, then the Persian for a song, then say safar again

Before you move on

What does سفر mean? (“A journey”.) Say it once more.

78.2 موسیقی (musighi) — music

Before the new one: say the Persian for a song, then the Persian for a journey.

You’ll want to know: موسیقی

موسیقی — musighi — “music”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: musighi
- Say it: musighi, once more
- Say it: say musighi
- Recall: say the Persian for a song, then the Persian for a journey, then say musighi again

Before you move on

What does موسیقی mean? (“Music”.) Say it once more.

78.3 خبر (khabar) — news

Before the new one: say the Persian for a journey, then the Persian for music.

You'll want to know: خبر

خبر — khavar — “news”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: khavar
- Say it: khavar, once more
- Say it: say khavar
- Recall: say the Persian for a journey, then the Persian for music, then say khavar again

Before you move on

What does خبر mean? (“News”.) Say it once more.

78.4 کشور (keshvar) — a country

Before the new one: say the Persian for music, then the Persian for news.

You'll want to know: کشور

کشور — keshvar — “a country”.

What you've built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: keshvar
- Say it: keshvar, once more
- Say it: say keshvar

- Recall: say the Persian for music, then the Persian for news, then say keshvar again

Before you move on

What does کشور mean? (“A country”.) Say it once more.

78.5 داستان (dâstân) — a story

Before the new one: say the Persian for news, then the Persian for a country.

You’ll want to know: داستان

داستان — dâstân — “a story”.

What you’ve built

One more word for this chapter.

Your turn

- Say it: dâstân
- Say it: dâstân, once more
- Say it: say dâstân
- Recall: say the Persian for news, then the Persian for a country, then say dâstân again

Before you move on

What does داستان mean? (“A story”.) Say it once more.

78.6 Describing words and time — a first pass

Say the words for a country and a story.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- sweet, fat, light, heavy, right
- important, beautiful, green, yellow, red
- blue, black, white, a week, a year
- a minute, today, yesterday, tomorrow, now
- always, sometimes, early, late, before
- morning, night, a day, far, near
- inside, outside, up, down, in front
- here, there, right; true, left, a street

Before you move on

Sweet? (شیرین, shirin.) Fat? (چاق, châgh.) Light? (سبک, sabok.)
 Heavy? (سنگین, sangin.) Right? (درست, dorost.) Important? (مهم, mohem.)
 Beautiful? (زیبا, zibâ.) Green? (سبز, sabz.) Yellow? (زرد, zard.)
 Red? (قرمز, ghermmez.) Blue? (آبی, âbi.) Black? (سیاه, siyâh.)
 White? (سفید, sefid.) A week? (هفته, hafte.) A year? (سال, sâl.) A minute? (دقیقه, daghighe.) Today? (امروز, emruz.) Yesterday? (دیروز, diruz.)
 Tomorrow? (فردا, fardâ.) Now? (حالا, hâlâ.) Always? (همیشه, hamishe.)
 Sometimes? (گاهی, gâhi.) Early? (زود, zud.) Late? (دیر, dir.)
 Before? (قبل, ghabl.) Morning? (صبح, sobh.) Night? (شب, shab.)
 A day? (روز, ruz.) Far? (دور, dur.) Near? (نزدیک, nazdik.)
 Inside? (داخل, dâkhel.) Outside? (بیرون, birun.) Up? (بالا, bâlâ.)
 Down? (پایین, pâyîn.) In front? (جلو, jolow.) Here? (اینجا, injâ.)
 There? (آنجا, ânjâ.) Right; true? (راست, râst.) Left? (چپ, chap.) A street? (خیابان, khiyâbân.)

78.7 Places, the town, clothes and numbers — a second pass

Say the words for a bank and a station.

Your turn

Say these aloud:

- a bank, a station, a car, a bus, a train
- a bridge, a mosque, a hotel, an office, the police
- a boat, a bicycle, a bazaar, a village, a city
- an airport, a restaurant, clothes, a shirt, trousers
- a sock, a pocket, a ring, a hat, a shoe
- a jacket, a belt, twelve, fourteen, sixteen
- seventeen, eighteen, nineteen, thirty, forty
- fifty, a thousand, the world, a colour, a song
- a journey, music, news, a country, a story

Before you move on

A bank? (بانک, bânk.) A station? (ایستگاه, istgâh.) A car? (ماشین, mâshîn.) A bus? (اتوبوس, otobus.) A train? (قطار, ghatâr.) A bridge? (پل, pol.) A mosque? (مسجد, masjed.) A hotel? (هتل, hotel.) An office? (اداره, edâre.) The police? (پلیس, polis.) A boat? (قایق, ghâyegh.) A bicycle? (دوچرخه, docharkhe.) A bazaar? (بازار, bâzâr.) A village? (روستا, rustâ.) A city? (شهر, shahr.) An airport? (فرودگاه, forudgâh.) A restaurant? (رستوران, resturân.) Clothes? (لباس, lebâs.) A shirt? (پیراهن, pirâhan.) Trousers? (شلوار, shalvâr.) A sock? (جوراب, jurâb.) A pocket? (جیب, jib.) A ring? (انگشتر, angoshtar.) A hat? (کلاه, kolâh.) A shoe? (کفش, kafsh.) A jacket? (کت, kot.) A belt? (کمر بند, kamarband.) Twelve? (دوازده, davâzdah.) Fourteen? (چهارده, chahârdah.) Sixteen? (شانزده, shânzdah.) Seventeen? (هفده, hefdah.) Eighteen? (هجده, hejdah.) Nineteen? (نوزده, nuzdah.) Thirty? (سی, si.) Forty? (چهل, chehel.) Fifty? (پنجاه, panjâh.) A thousand? (هزار, hezâr.) The world? (دنیا, donyâ.) A colour? (رنگ, rang.) A song? (آهنگ, âhang.) A journey? (سفر, safar.) Music? (موسیقی, musighi.) News? (خبر, khabar.) A country? (کشور, keshvar.) A story? (داستان, dâstân.)

Pronunciation & Script Reference

A reference, not a chapter. Look up a sound when a lesson names it; do not memorize this page first. The lessons introduce Persian script inside language the learner can already understand, one word-sized pattern at a time.

This track uses a learner romanization: â marks long a; u marks the long vowel in mamnun. Romanization is temporary scaffolding. Train your eye on the Persian form and gradually cover the Latin line.

The script in three facts

1. Read right to left (rtl). Words and sentences begin at the right edge.
2. Most letters join, and their shape responds to position. Some letters do not connect leftward to the next letter. In سلام, ل creates the visible break before final م.
3. Short vowels are normally unwritten (short-vowels-unwritten). Learn the vowel pattern with the word. The long vowels are represented with ا â, و u, and ی i.

Persian has no uppercase/lowercase distinction. Its alphabet adds پ p, چ ch, ژ zh, and گ g to the inherited Arabic inventory; the lessons will introduce them only when a useful word needs them.

Sound ids used by the starter lessons

- Sound id: rtl
What to do: start at the right edge and follow the word leftward
First anchor: سلام salâm

- Sound id: long-a
What to do: hold ا as a steady â, near the vowel in “father”
First anchor: سلام salâm
- Sound id: long-u
What to do: hold و as u, near “oo” in “food,” without an English off-glide
First anchor: ممنون mamnun
- Sound id: long-i
What to do: hold ی as long i in the learned word
First anchor: چیست chist
- Sound id: short-vowels-unwritten
What to do: supply learned a, e, or o even when no separate vowel letter appears
First anchor: به bale, نه na
- Sound id: ezafe-e
What to do: say a light linking -e after a noun before its owner or description; ordinary text often leaves it unmarked
First anchor: من اسم esm-e man
- Sound id: sh
What to do: read three-dotted ش as sh
First anchor: شما shomâ
- Sound id: persian-che
What to do: read Persian چ as ch
First anchor: چیست chist
- Sound id: kh
What to do: make خ farther back than English h; a gentle approximation is acceptable first
First anchor: خوب khub
- Sound id: gh
What to do: use the modern Iranian Persian voiced back-of-the-mouth sound for غ
First anchor: خوشوقتم khoshvaghtam
- Sound id: vav-o
What to do: let و carry the learned o value in this word
First anchor: چطور chetor

- Sound id: persian-question-mark
What to do: recognize ؟ at the left end of a right-to-left question
First anchor: چیست؟ شما اسم
- Sound id: alef-madde
What to do: read آ — alef under a wavy madde — as a word-initial long â
First anchor: آمدن âmadan
- Sound id: persian-gaf
What to do: read گ gâf as English g in “go”; it is a Persian addition to the Arabic set
First anchor: گفتن goftan
- Sound id: persian-pe
What to do: read پ pe as English p; a ب shape with three dots beneath, and the third of Persian’s four additions
First anchor: پرسیدن porsidan
- Sound id: silent-vav
What to do: after خ and before ل, leave و unpronounced — it is written, never said
First anchor: خواندن khândan
- Sound id: ze
What to do: read ز as English z; an ordinary letter from the inherited Arabic set
First anchor: زبان zabân
- Sound id: heh-e
What to do: read a word-final ه as the vowel -e, not as a consonant
First anchor: ستاره setâre

Read the current word before the whole alphabet

- سلام gives م ا ل س, right-to-left direction, joining, and long â.
- ممنون reuses م, adds و ن, and assigns و its long-u job in this word.
- به and نه make the missing short vowels visible by contrast: the spelling supplies a consonantal frame; the learned word supplies a/e.
- من اسم است ... recombines familiar letters and adds one spoken grammar cue, ezafe -e. The cue is often heard but not printed.

- شما, چیست, and خوشوقتم add sh, Persian چ, and the back sounds in خ/غ only inside the name exchange.
- چطور است؟ چطور شما حال reuses ezafe and the Persian question mark; چطور gives و its learned o value, while خوبم returns to long-u.
- خدا reuses خ and long-â ا; حافظ adds a clear initial h and a final ظ pronounced z in modern Persian. The complete farewell is normally joined in Persian as خداحافظ.
- رفتن, بودن, and دانستن need no new letters at all; the verb chapter adds only آ (alef wearing a madde, for a word opening on long â) inside آمدن, and گ gâf inside گفتن — the second of the four Persian additions گ ژ چ پ the learner has now met.
- The requests, family, and body chapters need only one new letter across all twelve words: ز ze, an ordinary member of the inherited Arabic set, inside زبان zabân. Every other word in those three chapters — آب, نان, آب, چای, نان, کلید, مادر, پدر, برادر, دختر, چشم, دست, پا — reuses letters already met.
- The next fourteen words — نام, دل, در, کتاب, آسمان, خورشید, ماه, ستاره, ستاره, ماه, خورشید, آسمان, کتاب, در, دل, نام — need no new letters at all, only one new habit: ستاره's final ه carries the vowel -e rather than a consonant, the sound id heh-e.

One spelling symbol can do more than one job in later words—especially و and ی—so read from the word and context rather than assigning each shape one English value forever.

Sources

- Persian Online: The Writing System
- Persian Online: Connecting Characters
- Persian Online: Vowels

Glossary

This glossary collects every word and phrase taught in the book. Pronunciation appears when it differs from the written form; chapter numbers show where each entry is introduced.

آب âb

water — and Persian's first "please"

Introduced in Chapter 9.

آبی âbi

blue

Introduced in Chapter 64.

آبمیوه âbmive

juice

Introduced in Chapter 44.

ابر abr

a cloud

Introduced in Chapter 53.

آقا âghâ

a gentleman; Mr

Introduced in Chapter 34.

آهنگ âhang

a song, a tune

Introduced in Chapter 77.

آهسته âheste

slow, slowly

Introduced in Chapter 59.

آمدن âmadan

to come — with the hat-wearing alef and a root English kept as come

Introduced in Chapter 6.

انگشت angosht

a finger

Introduced in Chapter 28.

انگشتر angoshtar

a ring

Introduced in Chapter 74.

انگور angur

grapes

Introduced in Chapter 42.

آنجا anjâ

there

Introduced in Chapter 69.

ارزان arzân

cheap

Introduced in Chapter 60.

آسان âsân

easy

Introduced in Chapter 60.

اسب asb

a horse

Introduced in Chapter 55.

آسمان âsemân

sky

Introduced in Chapter 13.

آشپزخانه âshpazkhâne

a kitchen

Introduced in Chapter 48.

آتش âtach

fire

Introduced in Chapter 53.

آوردن âvardan

to bring

Introduced in Chapter 38.

اول avval

first — an Arabic word standing in front of a Persian series

Introduced in Chapter 20.

آینه âyene

a mirror

Introduced in Chapter 46.

بچه bachche

a child

Introduced in Chapter 33.

باد bâd

wind

Introduced in Chapter 54.

بالا bâlâ

up, above

Introduced in Chapter 68.

بله bale

yes

Introduced in Chapter 1.

بانک bânk

a bank

Introduced in Chapter 70.

برادر barâdar

brother — the third of Chapter 6's promised cousins

Introduced in Chapter 10.

باران bârân

rain — the chapter's payoff, and a sky word with no English cousin

Introduced in Chapter 13.

برف barf

snow

Introduced in Chapter 53.

برگ barg

a leaf

Introduced in Chapter 51.

برگشتن bargashtan

to come back

Introduced in Chapter 39.

بستن bastan

to close

Introduced in Chapter 37.

بازار bâzâr

a bazaar

Introduced in Chapter 72.

بازی bâzi

a game

Introduced in Chapter 50.

بازو bâzu

an arm

Introduced in Chapter 30.

ببر bebar

a tiger

Introduced in Chapter 56.

برنج berenj

rice

Introduced in Chapter 40.

بیمار bimâr

ill, sick

Introduced in Chapter 30.

بیمارستان bimârestân

a hospital

Introduced in Chapter 30.

بینی bini

a nose

Introduced in Chapter 27.

بیرون birun

outside

Introduced in Chapter 68.

صد بیست bist sad

twenty and a hundred — the two amounts a price actually names

Introduced in Chapter 18.

بیابان biyâbân

a desert

Introduced in Chapter 54.

بلند boland

long, tall; loud

Introduced in Chapter 59.

بردن bordan

to take away; to win

Introduced in Chapter 39.

بریدن boridan

to cut

Introduced in Chapter 39.

بشقاب boshghâb

a plate

Introduced in Chapter 47.

بطری bottri

a bottle

Introduced in Chapter 48.

بز boz

a goat

Introduced in Chapter 55.

بزرگ bozorg

big

Introduced in Chapter 58.

بودن budan

to be — and the ending every Persian verb wears

Introduced in Chapter 6.

چاق châgh

fat

Introduced in Chapter 62.

چاقو châghu

a knife

Introduced in Chapter 47.

چهار chahâr

four — where a kw became a ch, and English kept the k

Introduced in Chapter 16.

چهارده chahârdah

fourteen

Introduced in Chapter 75.

چهارم chahârom

fourth — the rule applied with nothing bending at all

Introduced in Chapter 20.

چنگال chângâl

a fork

Introduced in Chapter 47.

چپ chap

left

Introduced in Chapter 69.

چای chây

tea — Persian's own leg of the overland road from Chinese

Introduced in Chapter 9.

چهل chehel

forty

Introduced in Chapter 76.

چشم cheshm

eye — the body part behind the family a doctor's question would ask about

Introduced in Chapter 11.

چطور chetor

how; in what manner

Introduced in Chapter 4.

چیست chist

what is?

Introduced in Chapter 3.

دادن dâdan

to give

Introduced in Chapter 37.

دفتر daftar

a notebook

Introduced in Chapter 48.

دقیقه daghighē

a minute

Introduced in Chapter 65.

ده dah

ten — and the piece every number from eleven to nineteen is built on

Introduced in Chapter 17.

دهان dahân

a mouth

Introduced in Chapter 27.

داخل dâkhel

inside

Introduced in Chapter 68.

دندان dandân

a tooth

Introduced in Chapter 27.

دانشجو dâneshju

a university student

Introduced in Chapter 34.

دانستن dânestan

to know — the chapter's clearest cousin, and the place all five pairs come back

Introduced in Chapter 6.

در dar

door

Introduced in Chapter 12.

درد dard

pain

Introduced in Chapter 31.

درس dars

a lesson

Introduced in Chapter 50.

دارو dâru

medicine

Introduced in Chapter 31.

دریا daryâ

the sea

Introduced in Chapter 53.

دریاچه daryâche

a lake

Introduced in Chapter 52.

دست dast

hand — a regular sound law hiding behind three different-looking Indo-Iranian words

Introduced in Chapter 11.

داستان dâstân

a story

Introduced in Chapter 78.

دوازده davâzdah

twelve

Introduced in Chapter 75.

دویدن davidan

to run

Introduced in Chapter 36.

دایی dâyi

an uncle (mother's brother)

Introduced in Chapter 32.

دل del

heart

Introduced in Chapter 12.

درخت derakht

a tree

Introduced in Chapter 51.

دیدن didan

to see

Introduced in Chapter 35.

دیر dir

late

Introduced in Chapter 66.

دیروز diruz

yesterday

Introduced in Chapter 65.

دیوار divâr

a wall

Introduced in Chapter 46.

دو do

two — two letters, and the same word as English two

Introduced in Chapter 16.

دوچرخه docharkhe

a bicycle

Introduced in Chapter 72.

دختر dokhtar

daughter — Chapter 6's last promised cousin, and the family closes

Introduced in Chapter 10.

دنیا donyâ

the world

Introduced in Chapter 77.

درست dorost

right, correct

Introduced in Chapter 62.

سوم دوم dovvom sevvom

second and third — the ending that turns any number into an order

Introduced in Chapter 20.

دور dur

far

Introduced in Chapter 67.

دوست dust

friend — the standalone noun, and the closing word of this whole tranche

Introduced in Chapter 14.

داشتن دوست dust dâshtan

to like, to love — “to have as friend,” and the place all thirteen verbs run together

Introduced in Chapter 8.

اداره edâre

an office

Introduced in Chapter 71.

امروز emruz

today

Introduced in Chapter 65.

من اسم است ... esm-e man ... ast my name is ...

Introduced in Chapter 2.

چیست؟ شما اسم esm-e shomâ chist?

What is your name? (respectful)

Introduced in Chapter 3.

فقیر faghîr

poor

Introduced in Chapter 61.

فهمیدن fahmidan

to understand — and the one Persian verb class whose stem you can predict

Introduced in Chapter 7.

فردا fardâ

tomorrow

Introduced in Chapter 65.

کردن فکر fekr kardan

to think — two words bolted into one verb, and the pattern that builds hundreds more

Introduced in Chapter 7.

فرستادن ferestâdan

to send

Introduced in Chapter 38.

فیل fil

an elephant

Introduced in Chapter 56.

فرودگاه forudgâh

an airport

Introduced in Chapter 73.

فروختن forukhtan

to sell

Introduced in Chapter 36.

گاهی gâhi

sometimes

Introduced in Chapter 66.

گردن gardan

the neck

Introduced in Chapter 28.

گرم garm

warm, hot

Introduced in Chapter 59.

گشتن gashtan

to look for; to wander

Introduced in Chapter 39.

گاو gâv

a cow

Introduced in Chapter 55.

گران gerân expensive

Introduced in Chapter 60.

گرفتن gereftan

to take — and the clearest English cousin in this book

Introduced in Chapter 8.

قبل ghabl

before

Introduced in Chapter 66.

قدیمی ghadimi

old

Introduced in Chapter 58.

قلب ghalb

the heart

Introduced in Chapter 30.

قاشق ghâshogh

a spoon

Introduced in Chapter 47.

قطار ghatâr

a train

Introduced in Chapter 70.

قایق ghâyegh

a boat

Introduced in Chapter 72.

قرمز ghermez

red

Introduced in Chapter 63.

قفل ghofl

a lock

Introduced in Chapter 47.

گفتن goftan

to say — and the Persian-only letter گ that starts it

Introduced in Chapter 6.

گل gol

a flower

Introduced in Chapter 51.

گربه gorbe

a cat

Introduced in Chapter 54.

گرگ gorg

a wolf

Introduced in Chapter 58.

گرسنه gorosne

hungry

Introduced in Chapter 31.

گوجه gowje

a tomato

Introduced in Chapter 41.

گوسفند gusfand

a sheep

Introduced in Chapter 55.

گوش gush

an ear

Introduced in Chapter 27.

گوشت gusht

meat

Introduced in Chapter 40.

حافظ hâfez

guardian, protector — the Arabic-rooted half of the farewell

Introduced in Chapter 5.

هفت haft

seven — and the one sound change that unlocks half of Persian
Introduced in Chapter 17.

هفته hafte

a week

Introduced in Chapter 64.

حال hâl

state, condition — the state in “How are you?”

Introduced in Chapter 4.

چطور شما حال است؟ hâl-e shomâ chetor ast?

How are you? (careful, respectful)

Introduced in Chapter 4.

حالا hâlâ

now

Introduced in Chapter 65.

همیشه hamishe

always

Introduced in Chapter 66.

حمام hammâm

a bathroom

Introduced in Chapter 48.

همسر hamsar

a spouse

Introduced in Chapter 33.

همسایه hamsâye

a neighbour

Introduced in Chapter 34.

هشت hasht

eight — an h that the rule does not explain

Introduced in Chapter 17.

هویج haviĵ

a carrot

Introduced in Chapter 41.

هفده hefdah

seventeen

Introduced in Chapter 76.

هجده hejdah

eighteen

Introduced in Chapter 76.

هزار hezâr

a thousand

Introduced in Chapter 77.

هتل hotel

a hotel

Introduced in Chapter 71.

اینجا injâ

here

Introduced in Chapter 69.

ایستادن istâdan

to stand

Introduced in Chapter 36.

ایستگاه istgâh

a station, a stop

Introduced in Chapter 70.

جنگل jangal

a forest

Introduced in Chapter 52.

جواب javâb

an answer

Introduced in Chapter 50.

جیب jib

a pocket

Introduced in Chapter 74.

جلو jolow

in front

Introduced in Chapter 68.

جوراب jurâb

a sock

Introduced in Chapter 74.

کفش kafsh

a shoe

Introduced in Chapter 74.

کلمه kalame

a word

Introduced in Chapter 50.

کمربند kamarband

a belt

Introduced in Chapter 75.

کره kare

butter

Introduced in Chapter 42.

کلید kelid

key — a Greek word Persian has held since Alexander, and the chapter's payoff

Introduced in Chapter 9.

کشور keshvar

a country

Introduced in Chapter 78.

کتاب ketâb

book — an Arabic loan, and the chapter's payoff

Introduced in Chapter 12.

کیک keyk

a cake

Introduced in Chapter 44.

خبر khavar

news

Introduced in Chapter 78.

خوابیدن khâbidan

to sleep

Introduced in Chapter 36.

خواهر khâhar

sister — the family word the earlier family tranche left out

Introduced in Chapter 14.

خاک khâk

soil

Introduced in Chapter 54.

خاله khâle

an aunt (mother's sister)

Introduced in Chapter 33.

خالی khâli

empty

Introduced in Chapter 61.

خواندن khândan

to read — and to recite, and to sing, because all three are sounding

Introduced in Chapter 7.

خندیدن khandidan

to laugh

Introduced in Chapter 37.

خانه khâne

a house, home

Introduced in Chapter 45.

خانواده khânevâde

a family

Introduced in Chapter 33.

خانم khânom

a lady; Mrs

Introduced in Chapter 34.

خر khar

a donkey

Introduced in Chapter 57.

خریدن kharidan

to buy

Introduced in Chapter 36.

خواستن khâstan

to want

Introduced in Chapter 38.

خرس khers

a bear

Introduced in Chapter 57.

خیابان khiyâbân

a street

Introduced in Chapter 69.

خدا khodâ

God — the inherited Persian half of the standard farewell

Introduced in Chapter 5.

خداحافظ khodâ hâfez

goodbye — the standard Persian farewell

Introduced in Chapter 5.

خودکار khodkâr

a pen

Introduced in Chapter 49.

خوردن khordan

to eat

Introduced in Chapter 35.

خورشید khorshid

sun — one root and a second, unrelated one, fused into a single word

Introduced in Chapter 13.

خوشحال khoshhâl

happy

Introduced in Chapter 31.

خوشوقتم khoshvaghtam

pleased to meet you

Introduced in Chapter 3.

خوب khub

good, well

Introduced in Chapter 4.

ممنون خوبم, khubam, mamnun

I am well, thank you

Introduced in Chapter 4.

خون khun

blood

Introduced in Chapter 29.

کیف kif

a bag

Introduced in Chapter 49.

کلاه kolâh

a hat

Introduced in Chapter 74.

کردن کمک komak kardan

to help — the compound pattern proving itself, and a third layer in the vocabulary

Introduced in Chapter 8.

کمد komod

a cupboard

Introduced in Chapter 46.

کت kot

a jacket

Introduced in Chapter 75.

کوچک kuchek

small

Introduced in Chapter 58.

کوه kuh

a mountain

Introduced in Chapter 52.

کوتاه kutâh

short

Introduced in Chapter 59.

لب lab

a lip

Introduced in Chapter 29.

لباس lebâs

clothes

Introduced in Chapter 73.

لیمو limu

a lemon

Introduced in Chapter 43.

لیوان livân

a glass

Introduced in Chapter 48.

مادر mâdar

mother — a word Chapter 6 already named as an English cousin, now taught in full

Introduced in Chapter 10.

مادر بزرگ mâdarbozorg

a grandmother

Introduced in Chapter 32.

مدرسه madrese

a school

Introduced in Chapter 49.

ماه mâh

moon, and month — one old word doing two jobs, like زبان before it

Introduced in Chapter 13.

ماهی mâhi

a fish

Introduced in Chapter 40.

ممنون mamnun

thank you / grateful

Introduced in Chapter 1.

مار mâr

a snake

Introduced in Chapter 56.

مرد mard

man — not English “man,” but “mortal”

Introduced in Chapter 14.

ماسه mâse

sand

Introduced in Chapter 53.

ماشین mâshin

a car

Introduced in Chapter 70.

مسجد masjed

a mosque

Introduced in Chapter 71.

ماست mâst

yoghurt

Introduced in Chapter 43.

مداد medâd

a pencil

Introduced in Chapter 49.

مهمان mehmân

a guest

Introduced in Chapter 34.

میمون meymun

a monkey

Introduced in Chapter 56.

میوه miveh

fruit

Introduced in Chapter 41.

میز miz

a table

Introduced in Chapter 45.

مهم mohem

important

Introduced in Chapter 63.

موز moz

a banana

Introduced in Chapter 41.

مو mu

hair

Introduced in Chapter 28.

مورچه murche

an ant

Introduced in Chapter 57.

موش mush

a mouse

Introduced in Chapter 56.

موسیقی musighi

music

Introduced in Chapter 78.

نه na

no

Introduced in Chapter 1.

نقشه naghshe

a map

Introduced in Chapter 50.

ناهار nâhâr

lunch

Introduced in Chapter 43.

نام nâm

name — Persian's own inherited word, beside the Arabic اسم already learned

Introduced in Chapter 12.

نمک namak

salt

Introduced in Chapter 42.

نامه nâme

a letter (post)

Introduced in Chapter 51.

نان nân

bread — a word this track cannot trace, and English quietly borrowed anyway

Introduced in Chapter 9.

ناراحت nârâhat

upset, sad

Introduced in Chapter 32.

نزدیک nazdik

near

Introduced in Chapter 67.

نشستن neshastan

to sit

Introduced in Chapter 35.

نوشتن neveshtan

to write — the chapter's last pair, and the place all four run together

Introduced in Chapter 7.

نه noh

nine — the second number the hand can already make, and a warning

Introduced in Chapter 17.

نوشیدن nushidan

to drink

Introduced in Chapter 35.

نوزده nuzdah

nineteen

Introduced in Chapter 76.

اتاق otâgh

a room

Introduced in Chapter 45.

اتوبوس otobus

a bus

Introduced in Chapter 70.

پا pâ

foot — the corpus's most secure cognate, unmarked by any sound-law puzzle

Introduced in Chapter 11.

پنیر panîr

cheese

Introduced in Chapter 44.

پنج panj

five — the number hiding inside Punjab and inside a fruit drink

Introduced in Chapter 16.

پنجاه panjâh

fifty

Introduced in Chapter 77.

پنجره panjere

a window

Introduced in Chapter 45.

پانزده pânzdah

fifteen — a nasal that appears out of nowhere, twice

Introduced in Chapter 18.

پرندہ parande

a bird

Introduced in Chapter 55.

پروانه parvâne

a butterfly

Introduced in Chapter 57.

پایین pâyin

down, below

Introduced in Chapter 68.

پدر pedar

father — the second cousin Chapter 6 named in passing

Introduced in Chapter 10.

پدربزرگ pedarbozorg

a grandfather

Introduced in Chapter 32.

پسر pesar

son — دختر's counterpart, an Indo-Iranian cousin with no English relative

Introduced in Chapter 14.

پزشک pezeshk

a doctor

Introduced in Chapter 32.

پیراهن pirâhan

a shirt

Introduced in Chapter 73.

پیاز piyâz

an onion

Introduced in Chapter 43.

پختن pokhtan

to cook

Introduced in Chapter 37.

پل pol

a bridge

Introduced in Chapter 71.

پلیس polis

the police

Introduced in Chapter 71.

پر por

full

Introduced in Chapter 61.

پرسیدن porsidan

to ask — the verb behind a question you have been asking since Chapter 3

Introduced in Chapter 8.

پرتقال porteghâl

an orange

Introduced in Chapter 42.

پشت posht

the back

Introduced in Chapter 29.

پول pul

money

Introduced in Chapter 49.

پولدار puldâr

rich

Introduced in Chapter 61.

پوشیدن pushidan

to wear

Introduced in Chapter 39.

رفتن raftan

to go — the verb that shows why every Persian verb comes in two pieces

Introduced in Chapter 6.

رقصیدن raghsidan

to dance

Introduced in Chapter 38.

رنگ rang

a colour

Introduced in Chapter 77.

راست râst

right; true

Introduced in Chapter 69.

رستوران resturân

a restaurant

Introduced in Chapter 73.

رودخانه rudkhâne

a river

Introduced in Chapter 52.

روستا rustâ

a village

Introduced in Chapter 72.

روز ruz

a day

Introduced in Chapter 67.

روزنامه ruznâme

a newspaper

Introduced in Chapter 51.

سبک sabok

light (in weight)

Introduced in Chapter 62.

سبز sabz

green

Introduced in Chapter 63.

سفر safar

a journey

Introduced in Chapter 78.

سگ sag

a dog

Introduced in Chapter 54.

سخت sakht

hard, difficult

Introduced in Chapter 60.

ساختن sâkhtan

to build, to make

Introduced in Chapter 40.

سال sâl

a year

Introduced in Chapter 64.

سلام salâm

hello / peace

Introduced in Chapter 1.

صندلی sandali

a chair

Introduced in Chapter 45.

سنگ sang

a stone

Introduced in Chapter 52.

سنگین sangin

heavy

Introduced in Chapter 62.

سر sar

the head

Introduced in Chapter 27.

سرد sard

cold

Introduced in Chapter 59.

سه se

three — the first number this book can already write

Introduced in Chapter 16.

سفید sefid

white

Introduced in Chapter 64.

ستاره setâre

star

Introduced in Chapter 13.

شب shab

night

Introduced in Chapter 67.

شهر shahr

a city

Introduced in Chapter 72.

شلوار shalvâr

trousers

Introduced in Chapter 73.

شام shâm

dinner

Introduced in Chapter 44.

شانه shâne

a shoulder; a comb

Introduced in Chapter 28.

شانزده shânzdah

sixteen

Introduced in Chapter 75.

شکم shekam

the belly

Introduced in Chapter 29.

شکر shekar

sugar

Introduced in Chapter 42.

شمردن shemordan

to count

Introduced in Chapter 38.

شنیدن shenidan

to hear

Introduced in Chapter 35.

شش shesh

six — one letter written twice

Introduced in Chapter 17.

شیر shir

milk; a lion

Introduced in Chapter 44.

شیرین shirin

sweet

Introduced in Chapter 62.

شدن shodan

to become

Introduced in Chapter 40.

شوهر shohar

a husband

Introduced in Chapter 33.

شما / تو shomâ / to you — respectful or plural / familiar singular

Introduced in Chapter 3.

شستن shostan

to wash

Introduced in Chapter 37.

شتر shotor

a camel

Introduced in Chapter 57.

سی si

thirty

Introduced in Chapter 76.

سیب sib

an apple

Introduced in Chapter 41.

سیاه siyâh

black

Introduced in Chapter 64.

سیزده sizdah

thirteen — the unit wears down, and the rule still holds

Introduced in Chapter 18.

صبح sobh

morning

Introduced in Chapter 67.

صبحانه sobhâne

breakfast

Introduced in Chapter 43.

صورت surat

the face

Introduced in Chapter 28.

تب tab

a fever

Introduced in Chapter 30.

تخت takht

a bed

Introduced in Chapter 46.

تمیز tamîz

clean

Introduced in Chapter 61.

تازه tâze

fresh, new

Introduced in Chapter 58.

تشنه teshne

thirsty

Introduced in Chapter 31.

تند tond

fast

Introduced in Chapter 60.

یازده yâzdah

eleven — and the rule that hands you eight more numbers with it

Introduced in Chapter 18.

یک yek

one — and the Indo-European word English still says as one

Introduced in Chapter 16.

زبان zabân

tongue, and language — the word for the thing you are learning, and the tranche's closing review

Introduced in Chapter 11.

زمین zamin

the ground; the earth

Introduced in Chapter 46.

زن zan

woman — a root English kept behind a royal title

Introduced in Chapter 14.

زانو zânu

a knee

Introduced in Chapter 29.

زرد zard

yellow

Introduced in Chapter 63.

زیبا zibâ

beautiful

Introduced in Chapter 63.

زود zud

early

Introduced in Chapter 66.

Review Questions

Try these without looking ahead. Every prompt comes from the same canonical lesson data as its chapter. Answers begin in the next section.

Chapter 2

2.1 من اسم ... است — my name is ...

Type the careful Persian sentence 'My name is Sara.'

Chapter 3

3.1 تو / شما — two relationships inside "you"

Type the Persian 'you' safest in a first meeting.

3.2 تو / شما, continued — The word, taken apart

Which old English word for 'you' is a relative of Persian to?

3.3 چیست — "what is?" in one joined word

Join Persian chi + ast into the careful form 'what is?'

3.4 شما اسم چیست؟ — ask a name respectfully

Type the respectful Persian question 'What is your name?'

3.5 خوشوقتم — pleased to meet you

Type the Persian response 'Pleased to meet you.'

3.6 Practice — a complete Persian name exchange

After someone asks شما اسم چیست؟, type the careful Persian answer using Sara.

Chapter 4

4.1 حال — the "state" in a wellbeing question

Type the Persian word meaning 'state' or 'condition'.

4.2 چطور — “how?” one layer at a time

Type the Persian question word meaning ‘how?’.

4.3 است؟ چطور شما حال — ask “How are you?” respectfully

Type the careful respectful Persian question ‘How are you?’.

4.4 خوب — “good” and “well”

Type the Persian word meaning ‘good’ or ‘well’.

4.5 ممنون خوبم، — “I am well, thank you”

Reply in Persian: ‘I am well, thank you.’

4.6 Practice — a Persian wellbeing exchange

After است؟ چطور شما حال, type the polite Persian reply.

Chapter 5

5.1 خدا — the Persian half of a farewell

Type the Persian word khodâ, meaning ‘God’.

5.2 حافظ — “guardian” or “protector”

Type the Persian word hâfez, meaning ‘guardian’ or ‘protector’.

5.3 خداحافظ — goodbye

Type the standard Persian expression for ‘goodbye’.

5.4 (خداحافظ, continued) — Grammar Lens — a complete wish without a full sentence

Type the everyday Persian way to say goodbye.

5.5 Practice — open, check, and close

The short Persian interaction is ending. Type the final expression.

Chapter 6

6.1 بودن — “to be,” and the ending every Persian verb wears

Type the Persian verb meaning ‘to be’.

6.2 رفتن — “to go,” and the second form that travels with it

Give the present stem that goes with رفتن (raftan).

6.3 آمدن — “to come,” and an alef that wears a hat

Type the Persian verb meaning ‘to come’.

6.4 گفتن — “to say,” written with a letter Arabic does not have

Give the present stem that goes with گفتن (goftan).

6.5 دانستن — “to know,” and five pairs held together

Give the present stem that goes with دانستن (dânestan).

Chapter 7

7.1 کردن فکر — “to think,” written as two words

Type the two Persian words that together mean ‘to think’.

7.2 فهمیدن — “to understand,” and the class that gives its stem away

Give the present stem that goes with فهمیدن (fahmidan).

7.3 خواندن — “to read,” and a letter that is written but not said

In خواندن, which written letter is not pronounced?

7.4 نوشتن — “to write,” and four verbs of the mind held together

Give the present stem that goes with نوشتن (neveshtan).

Chapter 8

8.1 گرفتن — “to take,” and a cousin you can hear

Give the present stem that goes with گرفتن (gereftan).

8.2 پرسیدن — “to ask,” and the questions you could already ask

Give the present stem that goes with پرسیدن (porsidan).

8.3 کردن کمک — “to help,” and the machine on its second run

Type the two Persian words that together mean ‘to help’.

8.4 داشتن دوست — “to love,” which Persian says as “to have as friend”

Type the two Persian words that together mean ‘to love’.

Chapter 9

9.1 آب — water, and Persian’s first “please”

Type the Persian for ‘water, please’.

9.2 نان — bread, and a root this track cannot trace

Type the Persian word for ‘bread’.

9.3 چای — tea, and the road that gave everyone but Europe the same word

Type the Persian word for ‘tea’.

9.4 کلید — key, a Greek word Persian has held for two thousand years

Type the Persian word for ‘key’.

Chapter 10

10.1 مادر — mother, a word this track already promised you

Type the Persian word for 'mother'.

10.2 پدر — father, mādār's oldest partner

Type the Persian word for 'father'.

10.3 برادر — brother, the cousin that never drifted

Type the Persian word for 'brother'.

10.4 دختر — daughter, and the family the بودن lesson promised is complete

Type the Persian word for 'daughter'.

Chapter 11

11.1 چشم — eye, and what "how are you" was really pointing at

Type the Persian word for 'eye'.

11.2 دست — hand, and a sound law that hides a cousin in plain sight

Type the Persian word for 'hand'.

11.3 پا — foot, the plainest cousin in the whole track

Type the Persian word for 'foot'.

11.4 زبان — tongue, and language, and everything this track has built

Type the Persian word that means both 'tongue' and 'language'.

Chapter 12

12.1 نام — name, the word Persian never borrowed

Type the Persian word for 'name' that is NOT the Arabic loan اسم.

12.2 دل — heart

Type the Persian word for 'heart'.

12.3 در — door

Type the Persian word for 'door'.

12.4 کتاب — book, and the name exchange this chapter reopens

Type the Persian word for 'book'.

Chapter 13

13.1 آسمان — sky

Type the Persian word for 'sky'.

13.2 خورشید — sun, a word built from two old pieces

Type the Persian word for 'sun'.

13.3 ماه — moon, and month

Type the Persian word that means both 'moon' and 'month'.

13.4 ستاره — star

Type the Persian word for 'star'.

13.5 باران — rain, and the wellbeing question this chapter answers differently

Type the Persian word for 'rain'.

Chapter 14

14.1 خواهر — sister, the family word the earlier tranche skipped

Type the Persian word for 'sister'.

14.2 پسر — son, دختر's missing counterpart

Type the Persian word for 'son'.

14.3 مرد — man, but its root says "mortal"

Type the Persian word for 'man'.

14.4 زن — woman, a root hiding behind a royal title

Type the Persian word for 'woman'.

14.5 دوست — friend, and everything this tranche has built

Type the Persian word for 'friend'.

Chapter 15

15.1 | — one stroke, and the direction of the page

In a Persian word, which letter do you read first — the leftmost or the rightmost?

15.2 ل — alef, with a bowl at its foot

What is the difference between the letters alef and lâm?

15.3 س — three teeth, then a bowl

How many teeth does the letter sin have before its bowl?

15.4 م — a loop, and a tail below the line

What part of mim drops below the writing line?

15.5 Letters that hold hands, and two that will not

You see a gap in the middle of a Persian word. What is the likeliest reason?

15.6 ب — a bowl, and one dot underneath

Where does the dot of be sit — above the bowl or below it?

15.7 ت and ن — the same bowl, dotted differently

A bowl with two dots above it — which letter is that?

15.8 ه — the letter with four costumes

What does the letter he usually sound like at the END of a Persian word?

15.9 و — one shape, three jobs, and no hand offered to the left

Which other letter in this chapter behaves like vâv, joining on the right but never on the left?

15.10 Practice — seven words you already knew, now read

Persian writes its long vowels but usually leaves out the short ones. What does that mean for reading a word you have never heard?

Chapter 16

16.1 یک — one, and the first number this book has ever taught

Type the Persian word for 'one'.

16.2 دو — two, and a letter doing its third job

Type the Persian word for 'two'.

16.3 سه — three, and the first number the hand can make

Write the Persian word for 'three', using the two letters the script chapter taught.

16.4 چهار — four, and one consonant taking three different paths

Type the Persian word for 'four'.

16.5 پنج — five, and the word you have already met on a map

Count aloud from one to five in Persian.

16.6 Payoff — one to five, out of order

Count backwards from five to one in Persian.

Chapter 17

17.1 شش — six, and the short vowel you cannot see

How many letters are in شش, and how many sounds?

17.2 هفت — seven, and the rule behind it

Latin has septem and Persian has haft. What happened to the s?

17.3 هشت — eight, and a rule that does not apply

Why does hasht begin with h, when octo and eight do not?

17.4 نه — nine, and the word it is spelled exactly like

نه can be read two ways. Give both.

17.5 ده — ten, and the building block for nine more numbers

Type the Persian word for 'ten'.

17.6 Payoff — one to ten

Count aloud from one to ten in Persian.

Chapter 18

18.1 یازده — eleven, and one rule for nine numbers

Build fourteen from chahâr and dah.

18.2 سیزده — thirteen, and how far a unit can bend

Which part of sizdah never changes across the teens?

18.3 پانزده — fifteen, and the one irregularity worth naming

Which other teen bends the same way as pânzdah?

18.4 بیست and صد — twenty and a hundred

Say ten, twenty and a hundred in Persian.

18.5 Payoff — one to twenty, and the hundred above it

Build seventeen and nineteen from haft, noh and dah.

Chapter 19

19.1 ۰ ۱ — two digits, and a direction that reverses

A Persian line runs right to left. Which way do the digits inside it run?

19.2 ۲ ۳ — one tooth apart

Write the Persian digit for three, then the digit for two.

19.3 ۴ ۵ ۶ — the three Persian keeps for itself

Write the three Persian digits that Arabic draws differently.

19.4 ۷ ۸ ۹ — a mirror pair, and the ring

Which two Persian digits are mirror images of each other?

19.5 Payoff — reading the figures

Write a hundred in Persian figures.

Chapter 20

20.1 اول — first, and the one ordinal Persian did not build

Is avval built from the Persian word for one?

20.2 دوم and سوم — second, third, and one ending

What ending turns a Persian cardinal into an ordinal?

20.3 چهارم — fourth, with nothing bending

Build tenth and twentieth from dah and bist.

20.4 Payoff — which one

Say first, second, third, fourth in Persian.

Chapter 21

21.1 (reading) — six words, nothing said first

Which word is bread?

21.2 (reading) — the answers, on the page

Which line would be on the first floor?

21.3 (reading) — the figures

What number is on the last line?

Answer Key

The first response is the canonical display answer. When a question accepts other authored forms, they appear underneath.

Chapter 2

2.1 من اسم است ... — my name is ...

Answer: است سارا من اسم

Also accepted: esm-e man Sara ast; esm-e man Sârâ ast

Chapter 3

3.1 تو / شما — two relationships inside “you”

Answer: شما

Also accepted: shoma; shomâ; shomā

3.2 (تو / شما, continued) — The word, taken apart

Answer: thou

Also accepted: thee

3.3 چیست — “what is?” in one joined word

Answer: چیست

Also accepted: chist; chīst

3.4 شما اسم چیست؟ — ask a name respectfully

Answer: چیست؟ شما اسم

Also accepted: چیست شما اسم; esm-e shoma chist; esm-e shomâ chist

3.5 خوشوقتم — pleased to meet you

Answer: خوشوقتم

Also accepted: khoshvaghtam; khoshvaqtam

3.6 Practice — a complete Persian name exchange

Answer: است سارا من اسم

Also accepted: esm-e man Sara ast; esm-e man Sârâ ast

Chapter 4

4.1 حال — the “state” in a wellbeing question

Answer: حال

Also accepted: hal; hâl; hāl

4.2 چطور — “how?” one layer at a time

Answer: چطور

Also accepted: chetor; chetowr

4.3 است؟ چطور شما حال — ask “How are you?” respectfully

Answer: است؟ چطور شما حال

Also accepted: است؟ چطور شما حال; hal-e shoma chetor ast; hâl-e shomâ chetor ast

4.4 خوب — “good” and “well”

Answer: خوب

Also accepted: khub; khûb; khoob

4.5 ممنون خوبم، — “I am well, thank you”

Answer: ممنون خوبم،

Also accepted: ممنون خوبم; khubam mamnun; khûbam mamnûn

4.6 Practice — a Persian wellbeing exchange

Answer: ممنون خوبم،

Also accepted: ممنون خوبم; khubam mamnun; khûbam mamnûn

Chapter 5

5.1 خدا — the Persian half of a farewell

Answer: خدا

Also accepted: khoda; khodâ; xodâ; xoda

5.2 حافظ — “guardian” or “protector”

Answer: حافظ

Also accepted: hafez; hâfez; hâfez; hafiz

5.3 خدا حافظ — goodbye

Answer: خدا حافظ

Also accepted: khodahafez; khoda hafez; khodâ hâfez; khodâ hâfez; xodâhâfez

5.4 (خدا حافظ, continued) — Grammar Lens — a complete wish without a full sentence

Answer: خدا حافظ

Also accepted: khodâ hâfez; khodahafez

5.5 Practice — open, check, and close

Answer: خدا حافظ

Also accepted: khodahafez; khoda hafez; khodâ hâfez; khodâ hâfez

Chapter 6

6.1 بودن — “to be,” and the ending every Persian verb wears

Answer: بودن

Also accepted: budan; būdan

6.2 رفتن — “to go,” and the second form that travels with it

Answer: رو

Also accepted: rav; raw; rav-; ro

6.3 آمدن — “to come,” and an alef that wears a hat

Answer: آمدن

Also accepted: amadan; âmadan; āmadan

6.4 گفتن — “to say,” written with a letter Arabic does not have

Answer: گو

Also accepted: gu; gu-; gū; goo

6.5 دانستن — “to know,” and five pairs held together

Answer: دان

Also accepted: dan; dân; dān; dan-

Chapter 7

7.1 کردن فکر — “to think,” written as two words

Answer: کردن فکر

Also accepted: fekr kardan; fikr kardan; fekr-kardan

7.2 فهمیدن — “to understand,” and the class that gives its stem away

Answer: فهم

Also accepted: fahm; fahm-; fehmi

7.3 خواندن — “to read,” and a letter that is written but not said

Answer: و

Also accepted: vav; waw; v; the vav

7.4 نوشتن — “to write,” and four verbs of the mind held together

Answer: نویس

Also accepted: nevis; nevis-; nivis; navis

Chapter 8

8.1 گرفتن — “to take,” and a cousin you can hear

Answer: گیر

Also accepted: gir; gir-; gīr; geer

8.2 پرسیدن — “to ask,” and the questions you could already ask

Answer: پرس

Also accepted: pors; pors-; purs; pursh

8.3 کردن کمک — “to help,” and the machine on its second run

Answer: کردن کمک

Also accepted: komak kardan; komak-kardan; kumak kardan

8.4 داشتن دوست — “to love,” which Persian says as “to have as friend”

Answer: داشتن دوست

Also accepted: dust dashtan; dust dâshtan; dost dashtan; doost dashtan; dūst dāštan

Chapter 9

9.1 آب — water, and Persian’s first “please”

Answer: لطفاً آب،

Also accepted: ab lotfan; âb, lotfan; ab, lotfan; âb lotfan

9.2 نان — bread, and a root this track cannot trace

Answer: نان

Also accepted: nan; nân; nān

9.3 چای — tea, and the road that gave everyone but Europe the same word

Answer: چای

Also accepted: chay; chây; chai

9.4 کلید — key, a Greek word Persian has held for two thousand years

Answer: کلید

Also accepted: kelid; kalid; kelīd

Chapter 10

10.1 مادر — mother, a word this track already promised you

Answer: مادر

Also accepted: madar; mādār; mādār

10.2 پدر — father, mādār’s oldest partner

Answer: پدر

Also accepted: pedar; pidar

10.3 برادر — brother, the cousin that never drifted

Answer: برادر

Also accepted: baradar; barâdar; barādar

10.4 دختر — daughter, and the family the lesson promised is complete

Answer: دختر

Also accepted: dokhtar; dukhtar; duxtar

Chapter 11

11.1 چشم — eye, and what “how are you” was really pointing at

Answer: چشم

Also accepted: cheshm; chashm

11.2 دست — hand, and a sound law that hides a cousin in plain sight

Answer: دست

Also accepted: dast

11.3 پا — foot, the plainest cousin in the whole track

Answer: پا

Also accepted: pa; pâ; pā

11.4 زبان — tongue, and language, and everything this track has built

Answer: زبان

Also accepted: zaban; zabân; zabān

Chapter 12

12.1 نام — name, the word Persian never borrowed

Answer: نام

Also accepted: nam; nām; nān

12.2 دل — heart

Answer: دل

Also accepted: del; dil

12.3 در — door

Answer: در

Also accepted: dar

12.4 کتاب — book, and the name exchange this chapter reopens

Answer: کتاب

Also accepted: ketab; ketâb; kitab

Chapter 13

13.1 آسمان — sky

Answer: آسمان

Also accepted: aseman; âsemân; asman

13.2 خورشید — sun, a word built from two old pieces

Answer: خورشید

Also accepted: khorshid; xorshid

13.3 ماه — moon, and month

Answer: ماه

Also accepted: mah; mâh; mäh

13.4 ستاره — *starAnswer: ستارهAlso accepted: setare; setâre; sitare13.5 باران — *rain, and the wellbeing question this chapter answers differentlyAnswer: بارانAlso accepted: baran; bârân

Chapter 14

14.1 خواهر — *sister, the family word the earlier tranche skippedAnswer: خواهرAlso accepted: khahar; khâhar; xahar14.2 پسر — *son, دختر's missing counterpartAnswer: پسرAlso accepted: pesar14.3 مرد — *man, but its root says "mortal"Answer: مردAlso accepted: mard14.4 زن — *woman, a root hiding behind a royal titleAnswer: زنAlso accepted: zan14.5 دوست — *friend, and everything this tranche has builtAnswer: دوستAlso accepted: dust; dost; doost

Chapter 15

15.1 | — *one stroke, and the direction of the pageAnswer: the rightmostAlso accepted: rightmost; the right one; the one on the right; right15.2 ل — *alef, with a bowl at its footAnswer: lam has a bowl at the footAlso accepted: the bowl at the bottom; lam curves at the foot; a curve at the bottom; lam has a curve15.3 س — *three teeth, then a bowlAnswer: 3Also accepted: three; 3 teeth; three teeth15.4 م — *a loop, and a tail below the lineAnswer: the tailAlso accepted: its tail; the tail below the loop; the descender

15.5 *Letters that hold hands, and two that will notAnswer: a letter that does not join to the leftAlso accepted: a non-joining letter; a letter that refuses to join; alef or another non-joiner; a letter that only joins on the right15.6 *ب — a bowl, and one dot underneathAnswer: belowAlso accepted: below it; underneath; beneath the bowl; under15.7 *ت and ن — the same bowl, dotted differentlyAnswer: teAlso accepted: ت; t; the letter te15.8 *ه — the letter with four costumesAnswer: a final eAlso accepted: an e; the e sound; e; a soft e vowel15.9 *و — one shape, three jobs, and no hand offered to the leftAnswer: alefAlso accepted: ا; the letter alef; alif15.10 *Practice — seven words you already knew, now readAnswer: you cannot reliably sound it outAlso accepted: you cannot sound it out; you have to know the word already; you cannot be sure of the vowels; reading and listening must grow together

Chapter 16

16.1 *یک — one, and the first number this book has ever taughtAnswer: یکAlso accepted: yek; yak16.2 *دو — two, and a letter doing its third jobAnswer: دوAlso accepted: do; dō16.3 *سه — three, and the first number the hand can makeAnswer: سهAlso accepted: se; sē16.4 *چهار — four, and one consonant taking three different pathsAnswer: چهارAlso accepted: chahar; chahâr16.5 *پنج — five, and the word you have already met on a mapAnswer: yek do se chahâr panjAlso accepted: yek, do, se, chahâr, panj; yek do se chahar panj; yek, do, se, chahar, panj16.6 *Payoff — one to five, out of orderAnswer: panj chahâr se do yekAlso accepted: panj, chahâr, se, do, yek; panj chahar se do yek; panj, chahar, se, do, yek

Chapter 17

17.1 شش — six, and the short vowel you cannot see

Answer: two letters, three sounds

Also accepted: 2 letters 3 sounds; two letters and three sounds

17.2 هفت — seven, and the rule behind it

Answer: it became h

Also accepted: s became h; it became an h; s > h

17.3 هشت — eight, and a rule that does not apply

Answer: it copied haft

Also accepted: from haft next to it; haft spread its h; because of haft

17.4 نه — nine, and the word it is spelled exactly like

Answer: noh, nine; na, no

Also accepted: noh nine and na no; nine and no; na = no, noh = nine

17.5 ده — ten, and the building block for nine more numbers

Answer: ده

Also accepted: dah

17.6 Payoff — one to ten

Answer: yek do se chahâr panj shesh haft hasht noh dah

Also accepted: yek, do, se, chahâr, panj, shesh, haft, hasht, noh, dah; yek do se chahar panj shesh haft hasht noh dah

Chapter 18

18.1 یازده — eleven, and one rule for nine numbers

Answer: chahârdah

Also accepted: chahardah; chahâr dah; chahârdah — fourteen

18.2 سیزده — thirteen, and how far a unit can bend

Answer: dah

Also accepted: -dah; the dah; the ten

18.3 پانزده — fifteen, and the one irregularity worth naming

Answer: shânzdah

Also accepted: shanzdah; sixteen; shânzdah, sixteen

18.4 بیست and صد — twenty and a hundred

Answer: dah bist sad

Also accepted: dah, bist, sad

18.5 Payoff — one to twenty, and the hundred above it

Answer: hifdah nuzdah

Also accepted: hifdah, nuzdah; haftdah nohdah; hifdah and nuzdah

Chapter 19

19.1 • ١ — two digits, and a direction that reverses

Answer: left to right

Also accepted: left-to-right; the other way, left to right

19.2 ۲ ۳ — one tooth apart

Answer: ۲ ۲

Also accepted: ۳ ۲; ۳۲

19.3 ۴ ۵ ۶ — the three Persian keeps for itself

Answer: ۴ ۵ ۶

Also accepted: ۴ ۵ ۶; ۴۵۶; four five six

19.4 ۷ ۸ ۹ — a mirror pair, and the ring

Answer: ۷ and ۸

Also accepted: seven and eight; ۷ ۸; haft and hasht

19.5 Payoff — reading the figures

Answer: ۱۰۰

Also accepted: ۱۰۰ sad; ۱۰۰۰ sad

Chapter 20

20.1 اول — first, and the one ordinal Persian did not build

Answer: no

Also accepted: no, it is Arabic; no — it is borrowed from Arabic; it is Arabic

20.2 دوم and سوم — second, third, and one ending

Answer: -om

Also accepted: om; the suffix -om; م, -om

20.3 چهارم — fourth, with nothing bending

Answer: dahom bistom

Also accepted: dahom, bistom; dahom and bistom

20.4 Payoff — which one

Answer: avval dovvom sevvom chahârom

Also accepted: avval, dovvom, sevvom, chahârom; avval dovvom sevvom chaharom; avval, dovvom, sevvom, chaharom

Chapter 21

21.1 (reading) — six words, nothing said first

Answer: nan

Also accepted: نان; nān

21.2 (reading) — the answers, on the page

Answer: avval

Also accepted: اول; first

21.3 (reading) — the figures

Answer: 100

Also accepted: ۱۰۰; hundred; sad

A note on sources

Script descriptions follow the University of Texas at Austin Persian Online writing-system materials; its open greetings vocabulary grounds the Chapter 4 wellbeing forms and the Chapter 5 farewell.

Index

Look up an English meaning, a dedicated language topic, or a chapter topic. Each linked reference opens the chapter where the material is introduced; the focus labels name only explicitly typed lesson sections.

A

a bag کیف (kif)

Chapter 49, p. 275

a banana موز (moz)

Chapter 41, p. 239

a bank بانک (bânk)

Chapter 70, p. 361

a bathroom حمام (hammâm)

Chapter 48, p. 271

a bazaar بازار (bâzâr)

Chapter 72, p. 369

a bear خرس (khers)

Chapter 57, p. 307

a bed تخت (takht)

Chapter 46, p. 263

a belt کمربند (kamarband)

Chapter 75, p. 381

a bicycle دوچرخه (docharkhe)

Chapter 72, p. 369

a bird پرنده (parande)

Chapter 55, p. 299

a boat قایق (ghâyegh)

Chapter 72, p. 369

a bottle بطری (bottri)

Chapter 48, p. 271

a bridge پل (pol)

Chapter 71, p. 365

- a bus اتوبوس (otobus)
Chapter 70, p. 361
- a butterfly پروانه (parvâne)
Chapter 57, p. 307
- a cake کیک (keyk)
Chapter 44, p. 251
- a camel شتر (shotor)
Chapter 57, p. 307
- a car ماشین (mâshin)
Chapter 70, p. 361
- a carrot هویج (havij)
Chapter 41, p. 239
- a cat گربه (gorbe)
Chapter 54, p. 295
- a chair صندلی (sandali)
Chapter 45, p. 259
- a child بچه (bachche)
Chapter 33, p. 207
- a city شهر (shahr)
Chapter 72, p. 369
- a cloud ابر (abr)
Chapter 53, p. 291
- a colour رنگ (rang)
Chapter 77, p. 389
- a country کشور (keshvar)
Chapter 78, p. 393
- a cow گاو (gâv)
Chapter 55, p. 299
- a cupboard کمد (komod)
Chapter 46, p. 263
- a day روز (ruz)
Chapter 67, p. 349
- a desert بیابان (biyâbân)
Chapter 54, p. 295
- a doctor پزشک (pezeshk)
Chapter 32, p. 203
- a dog سگ (sag)
Chapter 54, p. 295
- a donkey خر (khar)
Chapter 57, p. 307
- a family خانواده (khânevâde)
Chapter 33, p. 207
- a fever تب (tab)
Chapter 30, p. 195

- a finger انگشت (angosht)
Chapter 28, p. 187
- a fish ماهی (mâhi)
Chapter 40, p. 235
- a flower گل (gol)
Chapter 51, p. 283
- a forest جنگل (jangal)
Chapter 52, p. 287
- a fork چنگال (chângâl)
Chapter 47, p. 267
- a game بازی (bâzi)
Chapter 50, p. 279
- a gentleman; Mr آقا (âghâ)
Chapter 34, p. 211
- a glass لیوان (livân)
Chapter 48, p. 271
- a goat بز (boz)
Chapter 55, p. 299
- a grandfather پدربزرگ (pedarbozorg)
Chapter 32, p. 203
- a grandmother مادربزرگ (mâdarbozorg)
Chapter 32, p. 203
- a guest مهمان (mehmân)
Chapter 34, p. 211
- a hat کلاه (kolâh)
Chapter 74, p. 377
- a horse اسب (asb)
Chapter 55, p. 299
- a hospital بیمارستان (bimârestân)
Chapter 30, p. 195
- a hotel هتل (hotel)
Chapter 71, p. 365
- a house, home خانه (khâne)
Chapter 45, p. 259
- a husband شوهر (shohar)
Chapter 33, p. 207
- a jacket کت (kot)
Chapter 75, p. 381
- a journey سفر (safar)
Chapter 78, p. 393
- a kitchen آشپزخانه (âshpazkhâne)
Chapter 48, p. 271
- a knee زانو (zânu)
Chapter 29, p. 191

- a knife چاقو (châghu)
Chapter 47, p. 267
- a lady; Mrs خانم (khânom)
Chapter 34, p. 211
- a lake دریاچه (daryâche)
Chapter 52, p. 287
- a leaf برگ (barg)
Chapter 51, p. 283
- a lemon لیمو (limu)
Chapter 43, p. 247
- a lesson درس (dars)
Chapter 50, p. 279
- a letter (post) نامه (nâme)
Chapter 51, p. 283
- a lip لب (lab)
Chapter 29, p. 191
- a lock قفل (ghoff)
Chapter 47, p. 267
- a map نقشه (naghshe)
Chapter 50, p. 279
- a minute دقیقه (daghighhe)
Chapter 65, p. 341
- a mirror آینه (âyene)
Chapter 46, p. 263
- a monkey میمون (meymun)
Chapter 56, p. 303
- a mosque مسجد (masjed)
Chapter 71, p. 365
- a mountain کوه (kuh)
Chapter 52, p. 287
- a mouse موش (mush)
Chapter 56, p. 303
- a mouth دهان (dahân)
Chapter 27, p. 183
- a neighbour همسایه (hamsâye)
Chapter 34, p. 211
- a newspaper روزنامه (ruznâme)
Chapter 51, p. 283
- a nose بینی (bini)
Chapter 27, p. 183
- a notebook دفتر (daftar)
Chapter 48, p. 271
- a pen خودکار (khodkâr)
Chapter 49, p. 275

- a pencil مداد (medâd)
Chapter 49, p. 275
- a plate بشقاب (boshghâb)
Chapter 47, p. 267
- a pocket جیب (jib)
Chapter 74, p. 377
- a restaurant رستوران (resturân)
Chapter 73, p. 373
- a ring انگشتر (angoshtar)
Chapter 74, p. 377
- a river رودخانه (rudkhâne)
Chapter 52, p. 287
- a room اتاق (otâgh)
Chapter 45, p. 259
- a school مدرسه (madrese)
Chapter 49, p. 275
- a sheep گوسفند (gusfand)
Chapter 55, p. 299
- a shirt پیراهن (pirâhan)
Chapter 73, p. 373
- a shoe کفش (kafsh)
Chapter 74, p. 377
- a shoulder; a comb شانه (shâne)
Chapter 28, p. 187
- a snake مار (mâr)
Chapter 56, p. 303
- a sock جوراب (jurâb)
Chapter 74, p. 377
- a song, a tune آهنگ (âhang)
Chapter 77, p. 389
- a spoon قاشق (ghâshogh)
Chapter 47, p. 267
- a spouse همسر (hamsar)
Chapter 33, p. 207
- a station, a stop ایستگاه (istgâh)
Chapter 70, p. 361
- a stone سنگ (sang)
Chapter 52, p. 287
- a story داستان (dâstân)
Chapter 78, p. 393
- a street خیابان (khiyâbân)
Chapter 69, p. 357
- a table میز (miz)
Chapter 45, p. 259

- a thousand هزار (hezâr)
Chapter 77, p. 389
- a tiger ببر (bebar)
Chapter 56, p. 303
- a tomato گوجه (gowje)
Chapter 41, p. 239
- a tooth دندان (dandân)
Chapter 27, p. 183
- a train قطار (ghatâr)
Chapter 70, p. 361
- a tree درخت (derakht)
Chapter 51, p. 283
- a university student دانشجو (dâneshju)
Chapter 34, p. 211
- a village روستا (rustâ)
Chapter 72, p. 369
- a wall دیوار (divâr)
Chapter 46, p. 263
- a week هفته (hafte)
Chapter 64, p. 337
- a window پنجره (panjere)
Chapter 45, p. 259
- a wolf گرگ (gorg)
Chapter 58, p. 311
- a word کلمه (kalame)
Chapter 50, p. 279
- a year سال (sâl)
Chapter 64, p. 337
- Airport, Restaurant, Clothes, Shirt, Trousers
chapter topic; Chapter 73, p. 373
- always همیشه (hamishe)
Chapter 66, p. 345
- Always, Sometimes, Early, Late, Before
chapter topic; Chapter 66, p. 345
- an airport فرودگاه (forudgâh)
Chapter 73, p. 373
- an answer جواب (javâb)
Chapter 50, p. 279
- an ant مورچه (murche)
Chapter 57, p. 307
- an apple سیب (sib)
Chapter 41, p. 239
- an arm بازو (bâzu)
Chapter 30, p. 195

an aunt (mother's sister) خاله (khâle)

Chapter 33, p. 207

an ear گوش (gush)

Chapter 27, p. 183

an elephant فیل (fil)

Chapter 56, p. 303

an office اداره (edâre)

Chapter 71, p. 365

an onion پیاز (piyâz)

Chapter 43, p. 247

an orange پرتقال (porteghâl)

Chapter 42, p. 243

an uncle (mother's brother) دایی (dâyi)

Chapter 32, p. 203

Ask and Answer Names

chapter topic; Chapter 3, p. 13

Aunt, Husband, Spouse, Child, Family

chapter topic; Chapter 33, p. 207

B

Bank, Station, Car, Bus, Train

chapter topic; Chapter 70, p. 361

Bear, Camel, Donkey, Butterfly, Ant

chapter topic; Chapter 57, p. 307

beautiful زیبا (zibâ)

Chapter 63, p. 333

before قبل (ghabl)

Chapter 66, p. 345

big بزرگ (bozorg)

Chapter 58, p. 311

black سیاه (siyâh)

Chapter 64, p. 337

blood خون (khun)

Chapter 29, p. 191

Blood, Knee, Back, Belly, Lip

chapter topic; Chapter 29, p. 191

blue آبی (âbi)

Chapter 64, p. 337

Blue, Black, White, Week, Year

chapter topic; Chapter 64, p. 337

Boat, Bicycle, Bazaar, Village, City

chapter topic; Chapter 72, p. 369

book — an Arabic loan, and the chapter's payoff کتاب (ketâb)

explicit focus: grammar, etymology; Chapter 12, p. 73

Bottle, Kitchen, Bathroom, Glass, Notebook

chapter topic; Chapter 48, p. 271

bread — a word this track cannot trace, and English quietly borrowed anyway نان (nân)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 9, p. 55

breakfast صبحانه (sobhâne)

Chapter 43, p. 247

Bridge, Mosque, Hotel, Office, Police

chapter topic; Chapter 71, p. 365

brother — the third of Chapter 6's promised cousins برادر (barâdar)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 10, p. 61

butter کره (kare)

Chapter 42, p. 243

C

cheap ارزان (arzân)

Chapter 60, p. 319

cheese پنیر (panir)

Chapter 44, p. 251

clean تمیز (tamiz)

Chapter 61, p. 323

clothes لباس (lebâs)

Chapter 73, p. 373

cold سرد (sard)

Chapter 59, p. 315

D

daughter — Chapter 6's last promised cousin, and the family

closes دختر (dokhtar)

explicit focus: grammar, etymology; Chapter 10, p. 61

dinner شام (shâm)

Chapter 44, p. 251

Dinner, Juice, Cake, Cheese, Milk

chapter topic; Chapter 44, p. 251

door در (dar)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 12, p. 73

down, below پایین (pâyin)

Chapter 68, p. 353

E

early زود (zud)

Chapter 66, p. 345

easy آسان (âsân)

Chapter 60, p. 319

eight — an h that the rule does not explain هشت (hasht)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 17, p. 119

eighteen هجده (hejdah)

Chapter 76, p. 385

eleven — and the rule that hands you eight more numbers with it یازده (yâzdah)

Chapter 18, p. 125

empty خالی (khâli)

Chapter 61, p. 323

expensive گران (gerân)

Chapter 60, p. 319

Eye, Hand, Foot, Tongue

chapter topic; Chapter 11, p. 67

eye — the body part behind the family a doctor's question would ask about چشم (cheshm)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 11, p. 67

F

far دور (dur)

Chapter 67, p. 349

fast تند (tond)

Chapter 60, p. 319

Fast, Easy, Hard, Expensive, Cheap

chapter topic; Chapter 60, p. 319

fat چاق (châgh)

Chapter 62, p. 329

father — the second cousin Chapter 6 named in passing پدر (pedar)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 10, p. 61

fifteen — a nasal that appears out of nowhere,

twice پانزده (pânzdah)

Chapter 18, p. 125

fifty پنجاه (panjâh)

Chapter 77, p. 389

Fifty, Thousand, World, Colour, Song

chapter topic; Chapter 77, p. 389

fire آتش (âdash)

Chapter 53, p. 291

first — an Arabic word standing in front of a Persian series اول (avval)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 20, p. 135

five — the number hiding inside Punjab and inside a fruit drink پنج (panj)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 16, p. 111

foot — the corpus's most secure cognate, unmarked by any sound-law puzzle پا (pâ)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 11, p. 67

forty چهل (chehel)

Chapter 76, p. 385

Four Verbs of the Mind

chapter topic; Chapter 7, p. 39

four — where a kw became a ch, and English kept the k چهار (chahâr)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 16, p. 111

fourteen چهارده (chahârdah)

Chapter 75, p. 381

fourth — the rule applied with nothing bending at all چهارم (chahârom)

Chapter 20, p. 135

fresh, new تازه (tâze)

Chapter 58, p. 311

friend — the standalone noun, and the closing word of this whole

tranche دوست (dust)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 14, p. 85

fruit میوه (miveh)

Chapter 41, p. 239

Fruit, Apple, Banana, Tomato, Carrot

chapter topic; Chapter 41, p. 239

full پر (por)

Chapter 61, p. 323

Full, Empty, Rich, Poor, Clean

chapter topic; Chapter 61, p. 323

G

Give your name

chapter topic; Chapter 2, p. 11

God — the inherited Persian half of the standard

farewell خدا (khodâ)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 5, p. 25

good, well خوب (khub)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 4, p. 19

goodbye — the standard Persian farewell خداحافظ (khodâ hâfez)

Chapter 5, p. 25

grapes انگور (angur)

Chapter 42, p. 243

green سبز (sabz)

Chapter 63, p. 333

Greetings and responses

chapter topic; Chapter 1, p. 1

guardian, protector — the Arabic-rooted half of the farewell حافظ (hâfez)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 5, p. 25

H

hair مو (mu)

Chapter 28, p. 187

Hair, Finger, Shoulder, Neck, Face

chapter topic; Chapter 28, p. 187

hand — a regular sound law hiding behind three different-looking Indo-Iranian words دست (dast)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 11, p. 67

happy خوشحال (khoshhâl)

Chapter 31, p. 199

hard, difficult سخت (sakht)

Chapter 60, p. 319

Head, Ear, Nose, Mouth, Tooth

chapter topic; Chapter 27, p. 183

heart دل (del)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 12, p. 73

Heart, Arm, Fever, Hospital, Ill

chapter topic; Chapter 30, p. 195

heavy سنگین (sangin)

Chapter 62, p. 329

hello / peace سلام (salâm)

explicit focus: writing, etymology, usage and culture; Chapter 1, p. 1

here اینجا (injâ)

Chapter 69, p. 357

Here, There, Right, Left, Street

chapter topic; Chapter 69, p. 357

Horse, Cow, Goat, Sheep, Bird

chapter topic; Chapter 55, p. 299

House, Room, Window, Chair, Table

chapter topic; Chapter 45, p. 259

How Are You?

chapter topic; Chapter 4, p. 19

How are you? (careful, respectful) است؟ چطور شما حال (hâl-e shomâ chetor ast?)

explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 4, p. 19

how; in what manner چطور (chetor)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 4, p. 19

hungry گرسنه (gorosne)

Chapter 31, p. 199

II am well, thank you ممنون خوبم (khubam, mamnun)

explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 4, p. 19

ill, sick بیمار (bimâr)

Chapter 30, p. 195

important مهم (mohem)

Chapter 63, p. 333

Important, Beautiful, Green, Yellow, Red

chapter topic; Chapter 63, p. 333

in front جلو (jelow)

Chapter 68, p. 353

inside داخل (dâkhel)

Chapter 68, p. 353

Inside, Outside, Up, Down, In front

chapter topic; Chapter 68, p. 353

JJacket, Belt, Twelve, Fourteen, Sixteen

chapter topic; Chapter 75, p. 381

Journey, Music, News, Country, Story

chapter topic; Chapter 78, p. 393

juice آبمیوه (âbmive)

Chapter 44, p. 251

K

key — a Greek word Persian has held since Alexander, and the chapter's payoff کلید (kelid)

explicit focus: grammar, etymology; Chapter 9, p. 55

L

late دیر (dir)

Chapter 66, p. 345

left چپ (chap)

Chapter 69, p. 357

Lemon, Yoghurt, Onion, Breakfast, Lunch

chapter topic; Chapter 43, p. 247

Letter, Newspaper, Tree, Flower, Leaf

chapter topic; Chapter 51, p. 283

Letters From Asking and Saying

chapter topic; Chapter 24, p. 159

Letters From Thinking and Coming

chapter topic; Chapter 26, p. 175

Letters that hold hands, and two that will not

script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 15, p. 93

Letters That Never Join Forward

chapter topic; Chapter 22, p. 143

Letters That Share a Sound

chapter topic; Chapter 25, p. 167

light (in weight) سبک (sabok)

Chapter 62, p. 329

Lock, Plate, Knife, Fork, Spoon

chapter topic; Chapter 47, p. 267

Long, Short, Warm, Cold, Slow

chapter topic; Chapter 59, p. 315

long, tall; loud بلند (boland)

Chapter 59, p. 315

lunch ناهار (nâhâr)

Chapter 43, p. 247

M

man — not English “man,” but “mortal” مرد (mard)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 14, p. 85

Map, Lesson, Answer, Word, Game

chapter topic; Chapter 50, p. 279

meat گوشت (gusht)

Chapter 40, p. 235

medicine دارو (dâru)

Chapter 31, p. 199

milk; a lion شیر (shir)

Chapter 44, p. 251

Minute, Today, Yesterday, Tomorrow, Now

chapter topic; Chapter 65, p. 341

money پول (pul)

Chapter 49, p. 275

moon, and month — one old word doing two jobs, like زبان before it ماه (mâh)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 13, p. 79

morning صبح (sobh)

Chapter 67, p. 349

Morning, Night, Day, Far, Near

chapter topic; Chapter 67, p. 349

mother — a word Chapter 6 already named as an English cousin, now taught in full مادر (mâdar)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 10, p. 61

Mother, Father, Brother, Daughter

chapter topic; Chapter 10, p. 61

Mountain, Forest, River, Lake, Stone

chapter topic; Chapter 52, p. 287

Mouse, Tiger, Elephant, Monkey, Snake

chapter topic; Chapter 56, p. 303

music موسیقی (musighi)

Chapter 78, p. 393

my name is ... من اسم است (esm-e man ... ast)

explicit focus: grammar, etymology; Chapter 2, p. 11

N

Name a Verb, Find Its Stem

chapter topic; Chapter 6, p. 31

Name, Heart, Door, Book

chapter topic; Chapter 12, p. 73

name — Persian's own inherited word, beside the Arabic اسم already learned نام (nâm)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 12, p. 73

near نزدیک (nazdik)

Chapter 67, p. 349

Neighbour, Guest, University student, Gentleman, Lady

chapter topic; Chapter 34, p. 211

news خبر (khabar)

Chapter 78, p. 393

night شب (shab)

Chapter 67, p. 349

Nine Letters, and the Words You Already Knew

chapter topic; Chapter 15, p. 93

nine — the second number the hand can already make, and a warning نه (noh)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 17, p. 119

nineteen نوزده (nuzdah)

Chapter 76, p. 385

no نه (na)

explicit focus: script, etymology, usage and culture; Chapter 1, p. 1

now حالا (hâlâ)

Chapter 65, p. 341

O

old قدیمی (ghadimi)

Chapter 58, p. 311

one — and the Indo-European word English still says as one یک (yek)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 16, p. 111

One to Five, and the Words English Already Says

chapter topic; Chapter 16, p. 111

outside بیرون (birun)

Chapter 68, p. 353

P

pain درد (dard)

Chapter 31, p. 199

Pain, Medicine, Thirsty, Hungry, Happy

chapter topic; Chapter 31, p. 199

Pencil, Pen, School, Bag, Money

chapter topic; Chapter 49, p. 275

Please: Water, Bread, Tea, Key

chapter topic; Chapter 9, p. 55

pleased to meet you خوشوقتم (khoshvaghtam)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 3, p. 13

poor فقیر (faghir)

Chapter 61, p. 323

R

rain — the chapter's payoff, and a sky word with no English cousin باران (bârân)

explicit focus: grammar, etymology; Chapter 13, p. 79

Reading — Words, Answers, and the Figures

chapter topic; Chapter 21, p. 139

red قرمز (ghermez)

Chapter 63, p. 333

rice برنج (berenj)

Chapter 40, p. 235

rich پولدار (puldâr)

Chapter 61, p. 323

right, correct درست (dorost)

Chapter 62, p. 329

right; true راست (râst)

Chapter 69, p. 357

S

salt نمک (namak)

Chapter 42, p. 243

sand ماسه (mâse)

Chapter 53, p. 291

Sand, Cloud, Sea, Fire, Snow

chapter topic; Chapter 53, p. 291

second and third — the ending that turns any number into an order سوم دوم (dovvom sevvom)

Chapter 20, p. 135

seven — and the one sound change that unlocks half of

Persian هفت (haft)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 17, p. 119

seventeen هفده (hefdah)

Chapter 76, p. 385

Seventeen, Eighteen, Nineteen, Thirty, Forty

chapter topic; Chapter 76, p. 385

short کوتاه (kutâh)

Chapter 59, p. 315

Sister, Son, Man, Woman, Friend

chapter topic; Chapter 14, p. 85

sister — the family word the earlier family tranche left out خواهر (khâhar)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 14, p. 85

- six — one letter written twice شش (shesh)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 17, p. 119
- Six to Ten, and One Sound Law
chapter topic; Chapter 17, p. 119
- sixteen شانزده (shânzdah)
Chapter 75, p. 381
- sky آسمان (âsemân)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 13, p. 79
- Sky, Sun, Moon, Star, Rain
chapter topic; Chapter 13, p. 79
- slow, slowly آهسته (âheste)
Chapter 59, p. 315
- small کوچک (kuchek)
Chapter 58, p. 311
- snow برف (barf)
Chapter 53, p. 291
- Sock, Pocket, Ring, Hat, Shoe
chapter topic; Chapter 74, p. 377
- soil خاک (khâk)
Chapter 54, p. 295
- Soil, Wind, Desert, Dog, Cat
chapter topic; Chapter 54, p. 295
- sometimes گاهی (gâhi)
Chapter 66, p. 345
- son — دختر's counterpart, an Indo-Iranian cousin with no English relative پسر (pesar)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 14, p. 85
- star ستاره (setâre)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 13, p. 79
- state, condition — the state in “How are you?” حال (hâl)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 4, p. 19
- sugar شکر (shekar)
Chapter 42, p. 243
- Sugar, Salt, Butter, Grapes, Orange
chapter topic; Chapter 42, p. 243
- sun — one root and a second, unrelated one, fused into a single word خورشید (khorshid)
explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 13, p. 79
- sweet شیرین (shirin)
Chapter 62, p. 329
- Sweet, Fat, Light, Heavy, Right
chapter topic; Chapter 62, p. 329

T

Take Leave

chapter topic; Chapter 5, p. 25

Taking, Asking, Helping, Loving

chapter topic; Chapter 8, p. 47

tea — Persian's own leg of the overland road from Chinese چای (chây)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 9, p. 55

ten — and the piece every number from eleven to nineteen is built on ده (dah)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 17, p. 119

thank you / grateful ممنون (mamnun)

explicit focus: script, etymology, usage and culture; Chapter 1, p. 1

the back پشت (posht)

Chapter 29, p. 191

the belly شکم (shekam)

Chapter 29, p. 191

the face صورت (surat)

Chapter 28, p. 187

the ground; the earth زمین (zamin)

Chapter 46, p. 263

the head سر (sar)

Chapter 27, p. 183

the heart قلب (ghalb)

Chapter 30, p. 195

The Hook Family

chapter topic; Chapter 23, p. 151

the neck گردن (gardan)

Chapter 28, p. 187

the police پلیس (polis)

Chapter 71, p. 365

the sea دریا (daryâ)

Chapter 53, p. 291

The Teens Are a Rule, Not Nine Words

chapter topic; Chapter 18, p. 125

The Ten Persian Digits

chapter topic; Chapter 19, p. 131

the world دنیا (donyâ)

Chapter 77, p. 389

there آنجا (ânjâ)

Chapter 69, p. 357

thirsty تشنه (teshne)

Chapter 31, p. 199

thirteen — the unit wears down, and the rule still holds سیزده (sizdah)

Chapter 18, p. 125

thirty سی (si)

Chapter 76, p. 385

three — the first number this book can already write سه (se)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 16, p. 111

to ask — the verb behind a question you have been asking since

Chapter 3 پرسیدن (porsidan)

explicit focus: grammar, etymology; Chapter 8, p. 47

to be — and the ending every Persian verb wears بودن (budan)

explicit focus: grammar, etymology; Chapter 6, p. 31

to become شدن (shodan)

Chapter 40, p. 235

To become, To build, Fish, Rice, Meat

chapter topic; Chapter 40, p. 235

to bring آوردن (âvardan)

Chapter 38, p. 227

to build, to make ساختن (sâkhtan)

Chapter 40, p. 235

to buy خریدن (kharidan)

Chapter 36, p. 219

to close بستن (bastan)

Chapter 37, p. 223

to come back برگشتن (bargashtan)

Chapter 39, p. 231

to come — with the hat-wearing alef and a root English kept as come آمدن (âmadan)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 6, p. 31

to cook پختن (pokhtan)

Chapter 37, p. 223

to count شمردن (shemordan)

Chapter 38, p. 227

to cut بریدن (boridan)

Chapter 39, p. 231

To cut, To look for, To wear, To come back, To take away

chapter topic; Chapter 39, p. 231

to dance رقصیدن (raghsidan)

Chapter 38, p. 227

To dance, To want, To bring, To send, To count

chapter topic; Chapter 38, p. 227

to drink نوشیدن (nushidan)

Chapter 35, p. 215

to eat خوردن (khordan)

Chapter 35, p. 215

To eat, To drink, To see, To hear, To sit

chapter topic; Chapter 35, p. 215

to give دادن (dâdan)

Chapter 37, p. 223

To give, To close, To cook, To wash, To laugh

chapter topic; Chapter 37, p. 223

to go — the verb that shows why every Persian verb comes in two pieces رفتن (raftan)

explicit focus: grammar, etymology; Chapter 6, p. 31

to hear شنیدن (shenidan)

Chapter 35, p. 215

to help — the compound pattern proving itself, and a third layer in the vocabulary کردن کمک (komak kardan)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 8, p. 47

to know — the chapter's clearest cousin, and the place all five pairs come back دانستن (dânestan)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 6, p. 31

to laugh خندیدن (khandidan)

Chapter 37, p. 223

to like, to love — “to have as friend,” and the place all thirteen verbs run together داشتن دوست (dust dâshtan)

explicit focus: grammar, etymology; Chapter 8, p. 47

to look for; to wander گشتن (gashtan)

Chapter 39, p. 231

to read — and to recite, and to sing, because all three are sounding خواندن (khândan)

explicit focus: grammar, etymology; Chapter 7, p. 39

to run دویدن (davidan)

Chapter 36, p. 219

to say — and the Persian-only letter گ that starts it گفتن (goftan)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 6, p. 31

to see دیدن (didan)

Chapter 35, p. 215

to sell فروختن (forukhtan)

Chapter 36, p. 219

to send فرستادن (ferestâdan)

Chapter 38, p. 227

to sit نشستن (neshtan)

Chapter 35, p. 215

to sleep خوابیدن (khâbidan)

Chapter 36, p. 219

To sleep, To stand, To run, To buy, To sell

chapter topic; Chapter 36, p. 219

to stand ایستادن (istâdan)

Chapter 36, p. 219

to take — and the clearest English cousin in thisbook گرفتن (gereftan)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 8, p. 47

to take away; to win بردن (bordan)

Chapter 39, p. 231

to think — two words bolted into one verb, and the pattern thatbuilds hundreds more کردن فکر (fekr kardan)

explicit focus: grammar, etymology; Chapter 7, p. 39

to understand — and the one Persian verb class whose stem youcan predict فهمیدن (fahmidan)

explicit focus: grammar, etymology; Chapter 7, p. 39

to want خواستن (khâstan)

Chapter 38, p. 227

to wash شستن (shostan)

Chapter 37, p. 223

to wear پوشیدن (pushidan)

Chapter 39, p. 231

to write — the chapter's last pair, and the place all four runtogether نوشتن (neveshtan)

explicit focus: grammar, etymology; Chapter 7, p. 39

today امروز (emruz)

Chapter 65, p. 341

tomorrow فردا (fardâ)

Chapter 65, p. 341

tongue, and language — the word for the thing you are learning,and the tranche's closing review زبان (zabân)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 11, p. 67

trousers شلوار (shalvâr)

Chapter 73, p. 373

twelve دوازده (davâzdah)

Chapter 75, p. 381

twenty and a hundred — the two amounts a price actuallynames صد بیست (bist sad)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 18, p. 125

two — two letters, and the same word as English two دو (do)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 16, p. 111

U

up, above بالا (bâlâ)

Chapter 68, p. 353

Upset, Doctor, Grandfather, Grandmother, Uncle

chapter topic; Chapter 32, p. 203

upset, sad ناراحت (nârâhat)

Chapter 32, p. 203

W

Wall, Bed, Cupboard, Ground, Mirror

chapter topic; Chapter 46, p. 263

warm, hot گرم (garm)

Chapter 59, p. 315

water — and Persian's first "please" آب (âb)

explicit focus: grammar, etymology; Chapter 9, p. 55

what is? چیست (chist)

explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 3, p. 13

What is your name? (respectful) چیست؟ شما اسم (esm-e shomâ chist?)

explicit focus: script; Chapter 3, p. 13

Which One: the Ordinals

chapter topic; Chapter 20, p. 135

white سفید (sefid)

Chapter 64, p. 337

wind باد (bâd)

Chapter 54, p. 295

Wolf, Big, Small, Fresh, Old

chapter topic; Chapter 58, p. 311

woman — a root English kept behind a royal title زن (zan)

explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 14, p. 85

Y

yellow زرد (zard)

Chapter 63, p. 333

yes بله (bale)

explicit focus: script, usage and culture; Chapter 1, p. 1

yesterday دیروز (diruz)

Chapter 65, p. 341

yoghurt ماست (mâst)

Chapter 43, p. 247

you — respectful or plural / familiar singular شما / تو (shomâ / to) explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 3, p. 13

Other

- آ (alef-e madd) — the alef that opens آمدن
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 26, p. 175
- ا — one stroke, and the direction of the page
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 15, p. 93
- ا — one stroke with the model covered script and writing topic; explicit focus: writing; Chapter 1, p. 1
- ا — one stroke with the model present
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 1, p. 1
- ا — the stroke from the sound
script and writing topic; explicit focus: writing; Chapter 1, p. 1
- ب — a bowl, and one dot underneath
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 15, p. 93
- ت and ن — the same bowl, dotted differently
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 15, p. 93
- ج (jim) — the letter that ends پنج
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 23, p. 151
- ح (he-ye jimi) — the letter that opens حال
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 23, p. 151
- خ (khe) — the letter that opens خدا
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 23, p. 151
- (خداحافظ, continued) — Grammar Lens — a complete wish without a full sentence
grammar topic; explicit focus: grammar; Chapter 5, p. 25
- د (dâl) — the letter inside خدا
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 22, p. 143
- ر (re) — the letter that ends چطور
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 22, p. 143
- ز (ze) — the letter that opens زیان
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 22, p. 143
- س — three teeth, then a bowl
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 15, p. 93
- ش (shin) — the letter that opens شما
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 25, p. 167
- (شما / تو, continued) — The word, taken apart
etymology topic; explicit focus: etymology; Chapter 3, p. 13
- ص (sâd) — the letter that opens صد
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 25, p. 167

- ط (tâ) — the letter inside چطور
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 25, p. 167
- ظ (zâ) — the letter that ends حافظ
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 25, p. 167
- ف (fe) — the letter that opens فکر
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 26, p. 175
- ق (ghâf) — the letter inside خوشوقت
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 26, p. 175
- ل — alef, with a bowl at its foot
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 15, p. 93
- م — a loop, and a tail below the line
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 15, p. 93
- ه — the letter with four costumes
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 15, p. 93
- و — one shape, three jobs, and no hand offered to the left
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 15, p. 93
- پ (pe) — the letter that opens پرسیدن
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 24, p. 159
- چ (che) — the letter that opens چیست
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 23, p. 151
- ک (kâf) — the letter inside کردن فکر
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 24, p. 159
- گ (gâf) — the letter that opens گفتن
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 24, p. 159
- ی (ye) — the letter inside چیست
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 24, p. 159
- ۰ ۱ — two digits, and a direction that reverses
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 19, p. 131
- ۲ ۳ — one tooth apart
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 19, p. 131
- ۴ ۵ ۶ — the three Persian keeps for itself
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 19, p. 131
- ۷ ۸ ۹ — a mirror pair, and the ring
script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 19, p. 131