

Marwadi (Marwari), Step by Step, Sign by Sign

A gentle writing-first curriculum, one usable greeting at a time

Adhithya Rajasekaran

Starter edition — twenty-two lessons, each no longer than five minutes.

Copyright © Adhithya Rajasekaran. Licensed under Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike 4.0 International (CC BY-SA 4.0). Devanagari is set in Noto Sans Devanagari (SIL Open Font License).

How to use this starter edition

Begin with no assumed Marwadi and no assumed Devanagari. Each section lasts at most five minutes. The first section gives the hand one sign to copy; later sections move through guided copy, delayed copy, and independent recall. The writing ramp never waits for an alphabet chapter and never asks for a sign that has not already been isolated.

The name in the title is deliberately double. Official and linguistic sources often use Marwari; many speakers and learners use Marwadi. This book uses Marwadi as its short name and keeps Marwari visible for discoverability.

Chapter 1 makes one narrow promise: you will be able to read, say, and write the respectful greeting राम-राम सा, and answer it. Chapter 2 adds one formal gratitude response, आभार, through two new signs. Chapter 3 isolates two more signs before adding respectful affirmative हां सा. Chapter 4 first teaches pāṇī, “water,” by ear, then isolates each new sign before the learner reads and writes पाणी. These are real pre-A1 steps, not a claim that the level is complete.

Contents

How to use this starter edition	iii
1 Ram-Ram Sa: A Greeting the Hand Can Make	1
1.1 ra	1
1.2 ā	2
1.3 rām	2
1.4 sa	3
1.5 sā	3
1.6 rām-rām sā	4
1.7 Practice	5
2 Aabhaar: Formal Thanks, Two New Signs	7
2.1 ā	7
2.2 bha	8
2.3 ābhār	8
2.4 Practice	9
3 Haan Sa: A Respectful Yes, Sign by Sign	11
3.1 ha	11
3.2 nasal mark	12
3.3 hā(n) sā	12
3.4 hā(n) sā	13
3.5 Practice	13
4 Paani: Hear Water, Then Write It Sign by Sign	15
4.1 pāṇī	15
4.2 pa	16
4.3 ṇa	16
4.4 long ī mark	17
4.5 pāṇī	18

4.6 Practice	18
Pronunciation & Writing Reference	21
Glossary	23
Review Questions	25
Answer Key	27
Sources for this starter edition	31
Index	33

Chapter 1

Ram-Ram Sa: A Greeting the Hand Can Make

Modes: ⇌ voice (2) ✍ pen (5) ⇌ Hands-free start: none of the 7 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, read, say, copy, and write the respectful Marwadi greeting राम-राम सा, and answer it with the same greeting.

A two-line authentic greeting exchange followed by independent written recall, using only signs and language taught in the chapter.

1.1 र — one sign, and the beginning of a greeting

You do not need an alphabet first. Today your eye and hand need one sign.

Script — notice the sign

र — ra

Devanagari consonants carry a short a by default, so this is ra, not a bare r. The r is a quick tongue-tip tap.

Writing — guided copy

Put a finger over र and follow the printed shape. Then copy it three times, large and slow. Say ra each time your pen stops.

This lesson asks you to copy the shape you can see. It does not invent one universal stroke order where school traditions differ.

Before you move on

Cover the model. Point to the one you copied most clearly and say its sound.

1.2 ा — make ra into rā

Read र. (ra.) Copy it once.

Script — add one mark

The mark ा sits on the right of a consonant and lengthens its vowel:

र ra + ा ā = रा rā

Hold ā steady; do not turn it into English ray.

Writing — guided copy

- copy र
- add ा on its right
- read the result: रा rā

Do that three times. On the last copy, wait five seconds after looking at the model before you write.

Before you move on

Which is ra: र or रा? Which is rā?

1.3 म — your first whole written word

Write रा after looking away from the model. Check it, then begin.

Script — add म

म — ma

Join it to the piece you know:

रा $rā$ + म ma = राम $rām$

At the end of this word, the built-in vowel of म is not pronounced in ordinary speech. Read the whole word $rām$. राम is the name Ram. The Marwadi greeting you are building will repeat this name. Today you only need the one word राम; the complete greeting still comes later.

Writing — from copy to memory

1. copy म twice
2. copy राम once while looking
3. hide the model for ten seconds
4. write राम from memory, then compare

If the memory copy stalls, return only to the missing sign.

Before you move on

Read राम without using the romanization, say that it is the name Ram, then write it once more.

1.4 स — a second consonant

Read राम, say what it means, then write it from memory. Check that your last sign is म.

Script — notice and copy

स — sa

Like र, this consonant carries a short a . Do not confuse the two:

र ra · स sa

Finger-trace स, then copy it three times. Say sa as each copy finishes.

Before you move on

Cover the large model and write स once from the copy you remember.

1.5 सा — reuse a mark instead of learning a new rule

What did ा do to र? Apply the same change to स.

Script — assemble

स sa + ा ā = सा sā

The writing rule is old; only the combination is new. In the greeting you are building, सा is a respectful form of address.

Writing — delayed copy

Copy सा once. Look away for ten seconds, say sā, and write it again. Then retrieve the two known pieces separately rather than using them as a phrase before the next lesson teaches the greeting:

राम

>

सा

Before you move on

Read राम, then सा. Circle the copy of ा in each separate word.

1.6 राम-राम सा — your first complete Marwadi greeting

Read राम and सा separately. You already own every sign in to-day's line.

The exchange — meet the greeting

राम-राम सा। — Rām-rām sā. — a respectful greeting

Repeat राम, then add respectful सा. Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi's Jāgtī Jot prints this exchange:

A: राम-राम सा।

>

B: राम-राम सा, राम-राम।

That attestation is why this track begins here rather than substituting a Hindi greeting merely because the scripts are shared.

Your turn — use and write it

- Hear: rām-rām sā [YOU ANSWER: राम-राम सा]
- Read it: राम-राम सा [YOU SAY: the line without romanization]
- Copy: राम-राम सा once, keeping the hyphen and space

Before you move on

Hide the line. Say the greeting once; then write as much as you can remember.

Source: Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtī Jot, August–September 2018.

1.7 Practice — hear it, answer it, write it

With the page covered, write राम and सा separately. Check only after both are down.

The exchange

A: राम-राम सा।

>

B: राम-राम सा, राम-राम।

Run both voices once. Then cover B and answer A aloud. Switch roles.

Your turn — four-skill checkpoint

1. Listen: ask someone or a screen reader to say rām-rām sā without showing the text; identify it as a greeting. 2. Speak: give the greeting without reading. 3. Read: read राम-राम सा without romanization. 4. Write: close the book for fifteen seconds, then write राम-राम सा from memory. Check the repeated word, hyphen, space, and final सा.

Writing counts only if the model was hidden. Copying was the ramp; this is recall.

Before you move on

If one sign stalled, mark that sign and repeat only its short lesson tomorrow.

Chapter 2

Aabhaar: Formal Thanks, Two New Signs

Modes: ⇄ voice (1) ✍ pen (3) ⇄ Hands-free start: none of the 4 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, hear, say, copy, and independently write आभार as a short formal gratitude response.

A source-attested formal gratitude word built from two new signs and two signs already taught, followed by independent four-skill retrieval.

2.1 आ — long ā at the beginning

With the page covered, write राम and give the greeting reply you learnt in Chapter 1. Uncover. Point to the vowel mark in रा: you know ी when long ā follows a consonant.

Script — one new sign

When long ā begins a word, it stands by itself:

आ — ā

Notice the upright line at the right. Say one steady ā while your finger follows the sign.

Writing — observe, trace, copy

1. look at आ for three seconds
2. finger-trace it once
3. copy it twice
4. compare only the upright line and the top bar

Do not add a word yet. This session belongs to one sign.

Before you move on

Cover the models. Write आ once, then uncover and compare.

2.2 भ — bha, with a small breath

Write स, then आ, from memory. Check both before moving on.

Script — one new sign and sound

भ — bha

Begin like English b, then let a small puff of air follow. Hold a hand near your mouth: bha. The breath is part of the sound.

Writing — observe, trace, copy

1. look at भ
2. finger-trace its lower shape, then the upright line
3. copy भ twice
4. say bha after each copy

Stop there. The next lesson will join this sign to signs already in your hand.

Before you move on

Cover the model for five seconds. Write भ, uncover, and compare.

2.3 आभार — formal thanks, built from known signs

Write सा from memory. Then read these four pieces: आ • भ • ा • र.

Script — build the word

Join only signs you already know:

आ + भ + ा + र = आभार

>

ābhār — formal thanks; gratitude

Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi's Jāgtī Jot uses आभार when expressing gratitude in Rajasthani prose. It is a formal, Sanskrit-derived word. This lesson keeps that register visible rather than pretending every kind of thanks sounds the same.

Writing — from guided to delayed copy

1. copy आभार once while looking
2. point to भा and say bhā
3. hide the word for ten seconds
4. write आभार from memory
5. compare one sign at a time

If one sign stalls, practise only that sign before trying the word again.

Before you move on

Read आभार, say its meaning, then write it once with the model covered.

Source: Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtī Jot, April 2004.

2.4 Practice — receive a kindness, offer formal thanks

Give the respectful Chapter 1 greeting from memory. Then, with the new word covered, write आ, then भ. Uncover and check.

The exchange — one courtesy move

Someone helps you or gives you something. Offer formal thanks:

आभार। — Ābhār. — Thank you. / My gratitude.

Use it here as a complete short response. A later chapter can add a more casual Marwadi gratitude form; do not make this one word carry every register.

Your turn — four tiny skills

1. Listen: ask someone or a screen reader to say ābhār; identify it as formal gratitude.
2. Speak: imagine receiving help and say आभार without reading.
3. Read: choose the thanks word from राम · आभार · सा.
4. Write: close the book for fifteen seconds, then write आभार from memory.

The written response counts only with the model hidden.

Before you move on

If आ or भ stalled, return to that sign's two-minute practice before repeating the whole word.

Chapter 3

Haan Sa: A Respectful Yes, Sign by Sign

Modes: ⇄ voice (2) ✍ pen (3) ⇄ Hands-free start: none of the 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, hear, say, copy, and independently write हाँ सा as a respectful affirmative answer.

A source-attested polite affirmative built from two tiny script steps and the already-known respect word सा, followed by independently scored four-skill retrieval.

3.1 ह — ha, one new sign

Give the Chapter 1 greeting reply from memory. Then, with आभार covered, say it as formal thanks and write it once. Uncover only long enough to check each sign.

Script — one sign and one sound

ह — ha

Let the air pass freely as you say ha. Do not add the rest of the coming word yet; today the eye, ear, voice, and hand meet only ह.

Writing — observe, trace, copy

1. look at ह for three seconds
2. finger-trace its lower curve and upright line
3. copy ह twice
4. say ha after each copy

Before you move on

Cover the model for five seconds. Write ह, uncover, and compare.

3.2 ः — a small dot for the nasal ending

Write ह, then भ, from memory. Add the familiar long-ā mark to ह: हा. Read it once.

Script — one small new mark

ँ — a dot above

In the source spelling हँ, this dot cues the nasal ending. Say hā(n) slowly: the vowel is long and the ending resonates through the nose. Speakers vary, so listen for the whole word rather than forcing one exaggerated sound.

Writing — add only the mark

1. copy हा once 2. look at हँ 3. add ँ above the end of your copy 4. compare the dot's position, then say hā(n)

Before you move on

Hide हँ for five seconds. Write it once, then uncover and compare.

3.3 हां सा — a respectful yes

Say the Chapter 1 greeting from memory. Write हां, then सा, as two separate known pieces.

The exchange — join the two pieces

हां सा। — Hā(n) sā. — Yes, respectfully.

The first word answers yes. Familiar सा keeps the answer respectful. A scholarly Marwari text edition identifies hā(n)-sā as the polite affirmative, and a Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi dialogue writes हां सा in context.

Writing — guided, then delayed

1. copy हां सा once while looking
2. point to the space between the answer and the respect word
3. hide the phrase for ten seconds
4. write हां सा from memory
5. compare हां, the space, and सा separately

Before you move on

Say हां सा once without looking, then write it once with the model covered.

Sources: Hess, Texts and Translations and Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtī Jot, April–May 2019.

3.4 Listen and answer — yes without the page

Write the first sign of आभार, then the first sign of हां सा. Say which belongs to formal thanks and which begins a yes answer.

You'll want to know: answer by ear

Have someone or a screen reader say these in either order: ābhār and hā(n)sā. Without looking, point left for formal thanks and right for respectful yes. Then say हां सा as the answer to a question you accept.

Your turn — four tiny skills

1. Listen: identify hā(n)sā without seeing it.
2. Speak: answer yes respectfully without reading.
3. Read: choose हां सा from आभार · हां सा · राम.
4. Write: cover all models and write only हां.

Before you move on

Close the page. Say हां सा, then write हां from memory.

3.5 Practice — hear a yes, give a yes

With the page covered, write भ, then हां. Say आभार for formal thanks; say हां सा for a respectful yes.

Your turn — independent four-skill check

1. Listen: hear $hā(n) sā$ and identify an affirmative answer, without text.
2. Speak: hear “Will you come?” and answer yes respectfully, without notes.
3. Read: cover the English and explain हँ सा.
4. Write: hear $hā(n) sā$, wait fifteen seconds, then write the complete phrase.

Score each line separately. A missed line is the one to repeat; three stronger skills do not erase a writing or listening miss.

What you’ve built — and what remains

You can now give one respectful affirmative. You have not yet learnt the Marwadi responses for no or okay, and you have not completed a yes/no exchange. Those remain separate tiny steps.

Before you move on

If the dot or हँ stalled, return only to its two-minute sign lesson before trying the complete dictation again.

Chapter 4

Paani: Hear Water, Then Write It Sign by Sign

Modes: ⇄ voice (2) ✍ pen (4) ⇄ Hands-free start: first 1 of 6 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, hear, say, read, and independently write पाणी as the Marwadi word for water.

A source-attested everyday noun secured by ear before three new signs are isolated, assembled, and retrieved independently in all four skills.

4.1 Hear pāṇī — meaning before spelling

Give the Chapter 3 four-skill response once: hear hā(n) sā and identify a respectful yes; say it; read हँ स; then cover and write it. Say ābhār for formal thanks. Now set writing aside: today's new word begins with the ear and voice.

You'll want to know — one useful word

pāṇī — water

Listen for two long vowels: pā-ṇī. The middle sound is made with the tongue curled back a little. Hear the whole word twice, then say it once. Do not try to spell it yet; the next three tiny lessons will give the hand one piece at a time.

Your turn — meaning without letters

Imagine two cups: one holds water, one holds tea. Hear pāṇī and point to the water. Change the order and do it again. Then say pāṇī while imagining water.

Before you move on

Close the page. Say pāṇī once, then give its meaning.

Source: SIL International, Marwari–English Dictionary (2015).

4.2 प — pa, the first sign

Write हँ from memory, checking the first sign and the dot. With no new spelling in view, say the Marwadi word for water. Then write the familiar long-ā mark ा once.

Script — one new consonant

प — pa

Close the lips, release them without a strong puff, and say pa. Today the hand meets only प; the complete word stays hidden.

Writing — observe, trace, copy

1. look at प for three seconds
2. finger-trace its left stem, bowl, and headline
3. copy प twice
4. say pa after each copy

Before you move on

Hide the model for five seconds. Write प, then add ा to make पा.

4.3 ण — curled-back ṇa

Write हँ as one complete known word. Say pāṇī without looking at its spelling, then write ण from memory.

Script — one new consonant

𑖦 — ṇa

Curl the tongue tip slightly back for ṇ. Do not replace it with the dental n heard in the Hindi cognate. The Marwadi dictionary spelling in this chapter uses 𑖦, so the eye, voice, and hand keep that contrast clear from the beginning.

Writing — observe, trace, copy

1. look at 𑖦 for three seconds
2. finger-trace the lower loop, upright, and headline
3. copy 𑖦 twice
4. say ṇa after each copy

Before you move on

Cover both models. Write 𑖦, then 𑖦, with a clear space between them.

4.4 ी — the long-ī mark

Hear “Will you come?” and answer yes respectfully. Then say pāṇī. Write 𑖦, then 𑖦, from memory and name the curled-back sound.

Script — one new vowel mark

ी — long ī

Like familiar ी, this mark cannot stand alone in a word. It attaches to a consonant. Add it to 𑖦 and read 𑖦ी, ṇī.

Writing — attach only the mark

1. copy 𑖦 once
2. look at 𑖦ी
3. add ी on the right of your copy
4. compare the joined form, then say ṇī

Before you move on

Hide 𑖦ी for five seconds. Write it once, then uncover and compare.

4.5 पाणी — join the word you already know by ear

Write the first sign of राम from memory. Then say the Marwadi word for water and write पा, then णी, as two separate pieces. Check each piece before going on.

The exchange — two familiar pieces

पा + णी → पाणी — pāṇī — water

Join the pieces without adding or changing a sign. Keep ण, the curled-back sound that distinguishes this source-attested Marwadi spelling from its Hindi cognate.

The word, taken apart

The word belongs to an old Indo-Aryan family. Sanskrit pānīya meant something for drinking; related regional forms travelled through Middle Indo-Aryan into modern Marwadi पाणी. The history is a memory hook, not a new spelling task.

Writing — guided, then delayed

1. copy पाणी once while saying pā-ṇī
2. point to पा, then णी
3. hide the model for ten seconds
4. write the complete word from memory
5. uncover and compare प, ण, and ी separately

Before you move on

Say पाणी once without looking, then write it once with the model covered.

Sources: SIL International, Marwari-English Dictionary (2015) and Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages, entry 8082.

4.6 Practice — hear, say, read, and write water

Give the older respectful yes in four quick steps: hear it and name its meaning; say it; read हॉ सा; then cover and write it. Now say the three meanings in English as you hear ābhār, hā(n) sā, and pāṇī. Write पा, then ण and ी separately from memory.

Your turn — four independent checks

1. Listen: hear pāṇī and identify water, without text. 2. Speak: see a picture or imagine a glass of water and say pāṇī, without notes. 3. Read: choose पाणी from आभार • हां • पाणी and give its meaning. 4. Write: hear pāṇī, wait fifteen seconds, then write पाणी with no model.

Score each line separately. Repeat only the missed line; strong speaking does not compensate for a missing ण or ी in writing.

What you've built — and what remains

You can retrieve one useful word in all four skills. You cannot yet request water in a complete Marwadi sentence; that needs pronouns, a request form, and register choices taught in later small steps.

Before you move on

If one sign stalled, return only to its two-minute sign lesson before repeating the complete dictation.

Pronunciation & Writing Reference

This is a lookup page, never a prerequisite gate.

The sounds in Chapter 1

- r in rām is a brief tongue-tip tap, not the English bunched or retroflex r. Say a quick Spanish-style single r if that is familiar.
- ā is a steady open vowel held longer than short a. The macron in transliteration marks length; Devanagari writes it with ा after a consonant.
- m and s are close to English m and s.

The writing rule you need first

Devanagari consonants carry a built-in short a. Thus र is ra and स is sa. The right-side mark ा changes that vowel to long ā: रा rā, सा sā. The chapter teaches only those signs and combines them as राम-राम सा.

The lessons ask learners to copy visible forms before they claim a stroke order. Handwriting conventions vary across schools, so a directional stroke sequence will be added only with a specific source. For Marwari-specific Devanagari history and characters, see the Unicode proposal on Devanagari letters for Marwari.

Glossary

This glossary collects every word and phrase taught in the book. Pronunciation appears when it differs from the written form; chapter numbers show where each entry is introduced.

आभार ābhār

formal thanks; gratitude

Introduced in Chapter 2.

हां सा hā(n) sā

yes, respectfully

Introduced in Chapter 3.

राम rām

Ram, the name repeated in the greeting राम-राम सा, built and written from र + ा + म

Introduced in Chapter 1.

राम-राम सा rām-rām sā

a respectful Marwadi greeting

Introduced in Chapter 1.

Review Questions

Try these without looking ahead. Every prompt comes from the same canonical lesson data as its chapter. Answers begin in the next section.

Chapter 1

1.1 र — one sign, and the beginning of a greeting

What sound does र carry?

1.2 ा — make ra into rā

What does ा do to the built-in vowel of a consonant?

1.3 राम — your first whole written word

Build and name the written word rām from its three visible pieces.

1.4 स — a second consonant

Which sign is sa: र or स?

1.5 सा — reuse a mark instead of learning a new rule

Write sā by adding the long-vowel mark to स.

1.6 राम-राम सा — your first complete Marwadi greeting

Give the respectful Marwadi greeting taught in this lesson.

1.7 Practice — hear it, answer it, write it

You hear rām-rām sā. Write the respectful reply from memory.

Chapter 2

2.1 आ — long ā at the beginning

Which sign writes long ā at the beginning of a word?

2.2 भ — bha, with a small breath

Read the new sign भ and name its sound.

2.3 आभार — formal thanks, built from known signs

Build the formal Marwadi/Rajasthani word for thanks from आ + भ + ा + र.

2.4 Practice — receive a kindness, offer formal thanks

You receive formal help. Write the one-word thanks response from memory.

Chapter 33.1 ह — ha, one new sign

Read the one new sign ह and name its sound.

3.2 ः — a small dot for the nasal ending

Which small mark completes the attested spelling हं?

3.3 हां सा — a respectful yes

Write the respectful Marwadi yes from ह + ा + ः, followed by the respect word सा.

3.4 Listen and answer — yes without the page

You hear hā(n) sā. What social move did the speaker make?

3.5 Practice — hear a yes, give a yes

From the spoken cue hā(n) sā alone, write the respectful affirmative.

Chapter 44.1 Hear pāṇī — meaning before spelling

You hear pāṇī with no written cue. What does it mean?

4.2 प — pa, the first sign

Write pa, then add the familiar long-ā mark to make pā.

4.3 ण — curled-back ṇa

Write the sign that carries the curled-back ṇ sound in this Marwadi word.

4.4 ी — the long-ī mark

Add the long-ī mark to ण and write the result.

4.5 पाणी — join the word you already know by ear

Join पा and णी, then give the word's meaning.

4.6 Practice — hear, say, read, and write water

From the spoken cue pāṇī alone, write the Marwadi word and give its meaning.

Answer Key

The first response is the canonical display answer. When a question accepts other authored forms, they appear underneath.

Chapter 1

1.1 र — one sign, and the beginning of a greeting

Answer: रा

Also accepted: र a; र

1.2 ा — make ra into rā

Answer: It changes short a to long ā.

Also accepted: makes it aa; lengthens a; long a

1.3 राम — your first whole written word

Answer: राम — Ram

Also accepted: राम; र + ा + म; रा + म

1.4 स — a second consonant

Answer: स

Also accepted: the second sign; sa is स

1.5 सा — reuse a mark instead of learning a new rule

Answer: सा

Also accepted: स + ा; saa

1.6 राम-राम सा — your first complete Marwadi greeting

Answer: राम-राम सा

Also accepted: राम राम सा; rām-rām sā; ram-ram sa

1.7 Practice — hear it, answer it, write it

Answer: राम-राम सा

Also accepted: राम राम सा; rām-rām sā; ram-ram sa

Chapter 2

2.1 आ — long ā at the beginning

Answer: आ

Also accepted: aa independent; independent aa

2.2 भ — bha, with a small breath

Answer: bha

Also accepted: भ

2.3 आभार — formal thanks, built from known signs

Answer: आभार — formal thanks

Also accepted: आभार; aabhaar; ābhār

2.4 Practice — receive a kindness, offer formal thanks

Answer: आभार

Also accepted: ābhār; aabhaar

Chapter 3

3.1 ह — ha, one new sign

Answer: ha

Also accepted: ह

3.2 ः — a small dot for the nasal ending

Answer: ः

Also accepted: anusvara; dot above; nasal mark

3.3 हाँ सा — a respectful yes

Answer: हाँ सा

Also accepted: हाँ साँ; haan sa; hā(n) sā

3.4 Listen and answer — yes without the page

Answer: They answered yes respectfully.

Also accepted: respectful yes; yes politely; yes

3.5 Practice — hear a yes, give a yes

Answer: हाँ सा

Also accepted: हाँ साँ; haan sa; hā(n) sā

Chapter 4

4.1 Hear पानि — meaning before spelling

Answer: water

Also accepted: drinking water

4.2 प — pa, the first sign

Answer: प

Also accepted: प + ं; paa; pā

4.3 ण — curled-back ण

Answer: ण

Also accepted: nna; retroflex n

4.4 ी — the long-ī mark

Answer: णी

Also accepted: ण + ी; nnee; ṇī

4.5 पाणी — join the word you already know by ear

Answer: पाणी — water

Also accepted: पाणी; paani — water; pāṇī — water

4.6 Practice — hear, say, read, and write water

Answer: पाणी — water

Also accepted: पाणी; पाणी water; pāṇī — water

Sources for this starter edition

The opening exchange is attested in Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi's Jāgtī Jot, August–September 2018. Its April 2004 issue uses आभार while expressing gratitude in Rajasthani prose. Rajasthan Foundation's official language page places Marwari among the major forms of Rajasthani. The lesson files carry the direct links. Chapters 1 and 2 are generated from those canonical files. Chapter 3 adds a scholarly Marwari text edition that identifies hā(n)-sā as the polite affirmative and an April–May 2019 Jāgtī Jot dialogue that uses हाँ सा in context. Chapter 4 uses SIL International's 2015 Marwari–English Dictionary for पाणी, “water,” and Turner's comparative dictionary for its Indo-Aryan history.

Index

Look up an English meaning, a dedicated language topic, or a chapter topic. Each linked reference opens the chapter where the material is introduced; the focus labels name only explicitly typed lesson sections.

A

a respectful Marwadi greeting राम-राम सा (rām-rām sā)

Chapter 1, p. 1

◌ं — a small dot for the nasal ending

script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 3, p. 11

Aabhaar: Formal Thanks, Two New Signs

chapter topic; Chapter 2, p. 7

F

formal thanks; gratitude आभार (ābhār)

explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 2, p. 7

H

Haan Sa: A Respectful Yes, Sign by Sign

chapter topic; Chapter 3, p. 11

M

◌ी — make ra into *rā

script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 1, p. 1

P

Paani: Hear Water, Then Write It Sign by Sign

chapter topic; Chapter 4, p. 15

R

Ram-Ram Sa: A Greeting the Hand Can Make

chapter topic; Chapter 1, p. 1

Ram, the name repeated in the greeting राम-राम सा, built and written from र + ा + म राम (rām)

explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 1, p. 1

T

ी — the long- $\bar{i}$ mark

script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 4, p. 15

Y

yes, respectfully हाँ सा (hā(n) sā)

explicit focus: writing; Chapter 3, p. 11

Other

आ — long $\bar{a}$ at the beginning

script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 2, p. 7

ण — curled-back $\bar{n}a$

script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 4, p. 15

प — pa , the first sign

script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 4, p. 15

भ — bha , with a small breath

script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 2, p. 7

र — one sign, and the beginning of a greeting

script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 1, p. 1

स — a second consonant

script and writing topic; explicit focus: script; Chapter 1, p. 1

सा — reuse a mark instead of learning a new rule

script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 1, p. 1

ह — ha , one new sign

script and writing topic; explicit focus: script, writing; Chapter 3, p. 11