

Marwadi (Marwari), Step by Step, Sign by Sign

A gentle writing-first curriculum, one usable greeting at a time

How to use this starter edition

Begin with no assumed Marwadi and no assumed Devanagari. Each section lasts at most five minutes. The first section gives the hand one sign to copy; later sections move through guided copy, delayed copy, and independent recall. The writing ramp never waits for an alphabet chapter and never asks for a sign that has not already been isolated.

The name in the title is deliberately double. Official and linguistic sources often use Marwari; many speakers and learners use Marwadi. This book uses Marwadi as its short name and keeps Marwari visible for discoverability.

Chapter 1 makes one narrow promise: you will be able to read, say, and write the respectful greeting राम-राम सा, and answer it. Chapter 2 adds one formal gratitude response, आभार, through two new signs. Chapter 3 isolates two more signs before adding respectful affirmative हां सा. Chapter 4 first teaches pāṇī, “water,” by ear, then isolates each new sign before the learner reads and writes पाणी. Chapter 5 builds the name answer म्हारो नाम राम है; Chapter 6 adds the question थारो नाम काई है?. Chapter 7 asks आप कैसो हो? entirely with known signs. Chapter 8 answers हूँ ठीक हूँ, adding only two new signs after meaning and sound are secure. These are real pre-A1 steps, not a claim that the level is complete.

Chapter 1

Ram-Ram Sa: A Greeting the Hand Can Make

Modes: ⇌ voice (2) ✍ pen (5) ⇌ Hands-free start: none of the 7 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, read, say, copy, and write the respectful Marwadi greeting राम-राम सा, and answer it with the same greeting.

A two-line authentic greeting exchange followed by independent written recall, using only signs and language taught in the chapter.

1.1 र — one sign, and the beginning of a greeting

You do not need an alphabet first. Today your eye and hand need one sign.

Script — notice the sign

र — ra

Devanagari consonants carry a short a by default, so this is ra, not a bare r. The r is a quick tongue-tip tap.

Writing — guided copy

Put a finger over र and follow the printed shape. Then copy it three times, large and slow. Say ra each time your pen stops.

This lesson asks you to copy the shape you can see. It does not invent one universal stroke order where school traditions differ.

Before you move on

Cover the model. Point to the one you copied most clearly and say its sound.

1.2 ा — make ra into rā

Read र. (ra.) Copy it once.

Script — add one mark

The mark ा sits on the right of a consonant and lengthens its vowel:

र ra + ा ā = रा rā

Hold ā steady; do not turn it into English ray.

Writing — guided copy

- copy र
- add ा on its right
- read the result: रा rā

Do that three times. On the last copy, wait five seconds after looking at the model before you write.

Before you move on

Which is ra: र or रा? Which is rā?

1.3 म — your first whole written word

Write रा after looking away from the model. Check it, then begin.

Script — add म

म — ma

Join it to the piece you know:

रा $rā$ + म ma = राम $rām$

At the end of this word, the built-in vowel of म is not pronounced in ordinary speech. Read the whole word $rām$. राम is the name Ram. The Marwadi greeting you are building will repeat this name. Today you only need the one word राम; the complete greeting still comes later.

Writing — from copy to memory

1. copy म twice
2. copy राम once while looking
3. hide the model for ten seconds
4. write राम from memory, then compare

If the memory copy stalls, return only to the missing sign.

Before you move on

Read राम without using the romanization, say that it is the name Ram, then write it once more.

1.4 स — a second consonant

Read राम, say what it means, then write it from memory. Check that your last sign is म.

Script — notice and copy

स — sa

Like र, this consonant carries a short a . Do not confuse the two:

र ra · स sa

Finger-trace स, then copy it three times. Say sa as each copy finishes.

Before you move on

Cover the large model and write स once from the copy you remember.

1.5 सा — reuse a mark instead of learning a new rule

What did ा do to र? Apply the same change to स.

Script — assemble

स sa + ा $\bar{a}$ = सा $s\bar{a}$

The writing rule is old; only the combination is new. In the greeting you are building, सा is a respectful form of address.

Writing — delayed copy

Copy सा once. Look away for ten seconds, say $s\bar{a}$, and write it again. Then retrieve the two known pieces separately rather than using them as a phrase before the next lesson teaches the greeting:

राम

सा

Before you move on

Read राम, then सा. Circle the copy of ा in each separate word.

1.6 राम-राम सा — your first complete Marwadi greeting

Read राम and सा separately. You already own every sign in today's line.

The exchange — meet the greeting

राम-राम सा। — Rām-rām sā. — a respectful greeting

Repeat राम, then add respectful सा. Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi's Jāgtī Jot prints this exchange:

A: राम-राम सा।

B: राम-राम सा, राम-राम।

That attestation is why this track begins here rather than substituting a Hindi greeting merely because the scripts are shared.

Your turn — use and write it

- Hear: rām-rām sā] [YOU ANSWER: राम-राम सा
- Read it: राम-राम सा] [YOU SAY: the line without romanization
- Copy: राम-राम सा once, keeping the hyphen and space

Before you move on

Hide the line. Say the greeting once; then write as much as you can remember.

Source: Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtī Jot, August–September 2018.

1.7 Practice — hear it, answer it, write it

With the page covered, write राम and सा separately. Check only after both are down.

The exchange

B: राम-राम सा, राम-राम।

Run both voices once. Then cover B and answer A aloud. Switch roles.

Your turn — four-skill checkpoint

1. Listen: ask someone or a screen reader to say rām-rām sā without showing the text; identify it as a greeting.
2. Speak: give the greeting without reading.
3. Read: read राम-राम सा without romanization.
4. Write: close the book for fifteen seconds, then write राम-राम सा from memory. Check the repeated word, hyphen, space, and final सा.

Writing counts only if the model was hidden. Copying was the ramp; this is recall.

Before you move on

If one sign stalled, mark that sign and repeat only its short lesson tomorrow.

Chapter 2

Aabhaar: Formal Thanks, Two New Signs

Modes:  voice (1)  pen (3)  Hands-free start: none of the 4 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, hear, say, copy, and independently write आभार as a short formal gratitude response.

A source-attested formal gratitude word built from two new signs and two signs already taught, followed by independent four-skill retrieval.

2.1 आ — long ā at the beginning

With the page covered, write राम and give the greeting reply you learnt in Chapter 1. Uncover. Point to the vowel mark in रा: you know ी when long ā follows a consonant.

Script — one new sign

When long ā begins a word, it stands by itself:

आ — ā

Notice the upright line at the right. Say one steady ā while your finger follows the sign.

Writing — observe, trace, copy

1. look at आ for three seconds
2. finger-trace it once
3. copy it twice
4. compare only the upright line and the top bar

Do not add a word yet. This session belongs to one sign.

Before you move on

Cover the models. Write आ once, then uncover and compare.

2.2 भ — bha, with a small breath

Write स, then आ, from memory. Check both before moving on.

Script — one new sign and sound

भ — bha

Begin like English b, then let a small puff of air follow. Hold a hand near your mouth: bha. The breath is part of the sound.

Writing — observe, trace, copy

1. look at भ
2. finger-trace its lower shape, then the upright line
3. copy भ twice
4. say bha after each copy

Stop there. The next lesson will join this sign to signs already in your hand.

Before you move on

Cover the model for five seconds. Write भ, uncover, and compare.

2.3 आभार — formal thanks, built from known signs

Write सा from memory. Then read these four pieces: आ • भ • ा • र.

Script — build the word

Join only signs you already know:

आ + भ + ा + र = आभार

ābhār — formal thanks; gratitude

Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi's Jāgtī Jot uses आभार when expressing gratitude in Rajasthani prose. It is a formal, Sanskrit-derived word. This lesson keeps that register visible rather than pretending every kind of thanks sounds the same.

Writing — from guided to delayed copy

1. copy आभार once while looking
2. point to भा and say bhā
3. hide the word for ten seconds
4. write आभार from memory
5. compare one sign at a time

If one sign stalls, practise only that sign before trying the word again.

Before you move on

Read आभार, say its meaning, then write it once with the model covered.

Source: Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtī Jot, April 2004.

2.4 Practice — receive a kindness, offer formal thanks

Give the respectful Chapter 1 greeting from memory. Then, with the new word covered, write आ, then भ. Uncover and check.

The exchange — one courtesy move

Someone helps you or gives you something. Offer formal thanks:

आभार। — Ābhār. — Thank you. / My gratitude.

Use it here as a complete short response. A later chapter can add a more casual Marwadi gratitude form; do not make this one word carry every register.

Your turn — four tiny skills

1. Listen: ask someone or a screen reader to say ābhār; identify it as formal gratitude.
2. Speak: imagine receiving help and say आभार without reading.
3. Read: choose the thanks word from राम • आभार • सा.
4. Write: close the book for fifteen seconds, then write आभार from memory.

The written response counts only with the model hidden.

Before you move on

If आ or भ stalled, return to that sign's two-minute practice before repeating the whole word.

Chapter 3

Haan Sa: A Respectful Yes, Sign by Sign

Modes: ⇄ voice (2) ✍ pen (3) ⇄ Hands-free start: none of the 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, hear, say, copy, and independently write हां सा as a respectful affirmative answer.

A source-attested polite affirmative built from two tiny script steps and the already-known respect word सा, followed by independently scored four-skill retrieval.

3.1 ह — ha, one new sign

Give the Chapter 1 greeting reply from memory. Then, with आभार covered, say it as formal thanks and write it once. Uncover only long enough to check each sign.

Script — one sign and one sound

ह — ha

Let the air pass freely as you say ha. Do not add the rest of the coming word yet; today the eye, ear, voice, and hand meet only ह.

Writing — observe, trace, copy

1. look at ह for three seconds
2. finger-trace its lower curve and upright line

3. copy ह twice
4. say ha after each copy

Before you move on

Cover the model for five seconds. Write ह, uncover, and compare.

3.2 ँ — a small dot for the nasal ending

Write ह, then भ, from memory. Add the familiar long-ā mark to ह: हा. Read it once.

Script — one small new mark

ँ — a dot above

In the source spelling हँ, this dot cues the nasal ending. Say hā(n) slowly: the vowel is long and the ending resonates through the nose. Speakers vary, so listen for the whole word rather than forcing one exaggerated sound.

Writing — add only the mark

1. copy हा once
2. look at हँ
3. add ँ above the end of your copy
4. compare the dot's position, then say hā(n)

Before you move on

Hide हँ for five seconds. Write it once, then uncover and compare.

3.3 हाँ सा — a respectful yes

Say the Chapter 1 greeting from memory. Write हँ, then सा, as two separate known pieces.

The exchange — join the two pieces

हां सा। — $Hā(n) sā$. — Yes, respectfully.

The first word answers yes. Familiar सा keeps the answer respectful. A scholarly Marwari text edition identifies $hā(n)-sā$ as the polite affirmative, and a Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi dialogue writes हां सा in context.

Writing — guided, then delayed

1. copy हां सा once while looking
2. point to the space between the answer and the respect word
3. hide the phrase for ten seconds
4. write हां सा from memory
5. compare हां, the space, and सा separately

Before you move on

Say हां सा once without looking, then write it once with the model covered.

Sources: Hess, Texts and Translations and Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtī Jot, April–May 2019.

3.4 Listen and answer — yes without the page

Write the first sign of आभार, then the first sign of हां सा. Say which belongs to formal thanks and which begins a yes answer.

You'll want to know: answer by ear

Have someone or a screen reader say these in either order: $ābhār$ and $hā(n)sā$. Without looking, point left for formal thanks and right for respectful yes. Then say हां सा as the answer to a question you accept.

Your turn — four tiny skills

1. Listen: identify $hā(n)$ $sā$ without seeing it.
2. Speak: answer yes respectfully without reading.
3. Read: choose हां सा from आभार • हां सा • राम.
4. Write: cover all models and write only हां.

Before you move on

Close the page. Say हां सा, then write हां from memory.

3.5 Practice — hear a yes, give a yes

With the page covered, write भ, then हां. Say आभार for formal thanks; say हां सा for a respectful yes.

Your turn — independent four-skill check

1. Listen: hear $hā(n)$ $sā$ and identify an affirmative answer, without text.
2. Speak: hear “Will you come?” and answer yes respectfully, without notes.
3. Read: cover the English and explain हां सा.
4. Write: hear $hā(n)$ $sā$, wait fifteen seconds, then write the complete phrase.

Score each line separately. A missed line is the one to repeat; three stronger skills do not erase a writing or listening miss.

What you’ve built — and what remains

You can now give one respectful affirmative. You have not yet learnt the Marwadi responses for no or okay, and you have not completed a yes/no exchange. Those remain separate tiny steps.

Before you move on

If the dot or ङ stalled, return only to its two-minute sign lesson before trying the complete dictation again.

Chapter 4

Paani: Hear Water, Then Write It Sign by Sign

Modes: ⇄ voice (2) ✍ pen (4) ⇄ Hands-free start: first 1 of 6 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, hear, say, read, and independently write पाणी as the Marwadi word for water.

A source-attested everyday noun secured by ear before three new signs are isolated, assembled, and retrieved independently in all four skills.

4.1 Hear pāṇī — meaning before spelling

Give the Chapter 3 four-skill response once: hear hā(n) sā and identify a respectful yes; say it; read हँ सा; then cover and write it. Say ābhār for formal thanks. Now set writing aside: today's new word begins with the ear and voice.

You'll want to know — one useful word

pāṇī — water

Listen for two long vowels: pā-ṇī. The middle sound is made with the tongue curled back a little. Hear the whole word twice, then say it once. Do not try to spell it yet; the next three tiny lessons will give the hand one piece at a time.

Your turn — meaning without letters

Imagine two cups: one holds water, one holds tea. Hear pāṇī and point to the water. Change the order and do it again. Then say pāṇī while imagining water.

Before you move on

Close the page. Say pāṇī once, then give its meaning.

Source: SIL International, Marwari–English Dictionary (2015).

4.2 प — pa, the first sign

Write हं from memory, checking the first sign and the dot. With no new spelling in view, say the Marwadi word for water. Then write the familiar long-ā mark ः once.

Script — one new consonant

प — pa

Close the lips, release them without a strong puff, and say pa. Today the hand meets only प; the complete word stays hidden.

Writing — observe, trace, copy

1. look at प for three seconds
2. finger-trace its left stem, bowl, and headline
3. copy प twice
4. say pa after each copy

Before you move on

Hide the model for five seconds. Write प, then add ः to make पः.

4.3 ण — curled-back ṇa

Write हं as one complete known word. Say pāṇī without looking at its spelling, then write ण from memory.

𑖦 — ṇa

Curl the tongue tip slightly back for ṇ. Do not replace it with the dental n heard in the Hindi cognate. The Marwadi dictionary spelling in this chapter uses 𑖦, so the eye, voice, and hand keep that contrast clear from the beginning.

Writing — observe, trace, copy

1. look at 𑖦 for three seconds
2. finger-trace the lower loop, upright, and headline
3. copy 𑖦 twice
4. say ṇa after each copy

Before you move on

Cover both models. Write 𑖦, then 𑖦, with a clear space between them.

4.4 ी — the long-i mark

Hear “Will you come?” and answer yes respectfully. Then say pāṇī. Write 𑖦, then ी, from memory and name the curled-back sound.

Script — one new vowel mark

ी — long i

Like familiar ी, this mark cannot stand alone in a word. It attaches to a consonant. Add it to 𑖦 and read 𑖦ी, ṇī.

Writing — attach only the mark

1. copy 𑖦 once
2. look at 𑖦ी

3. add ि on the right of your copy
4. compare the joined form, then say $n̄$

Before you move on

Hide णी for five seconds. Write it once, then uncover and compare.

4.5 पाणी — join the word you already know by ear

Write the first sign of राम from memory. Then say the Marwadi word for water and write पा, then णी, as two separate pieces. Check each piece before going on.

The exchange — two familiar pieces

पा + णी → पाणी — $pān̄$ — water

Join the pieces without adding or changing a sign. Keep ण, the curled-back sound that distinguishes this source-attested Marwadi spelling from its Hindi cognate.

The word, taken apart

The word belongs to an old Indo-Aryan family. Sanskrit pānīya meant something for drinking; related regional forms travelled through Middle Indo-Aryan into modern Marwadi पाणी. The history is a memory hook, not a new spelling task.

Writing — guided, then delayed

1. copy पाणी once while saying $pā-n̄$
2. point to पा, then णी
3. hide the model for ten seconds
4. write the complete word from memory
5. uncover and compare प, ा, ण, and ि separately

Before you move on

Say पाणी once without looking, then write it once with the model covered.

Sources: SIL International, Marwari-English Dictionary (2015) and Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages, entry 8082.

4.6 Practice — hear, say, read, and write water

Give the older respectful yes in four quick steps: hear it and name its meaning; say it; read हां सा; then cover and write it. Now say the three meanings in English as you hear ābhār, hā(n) sā, and pāñī. Write पा, then ण and ी separately from memory.

Your turn — four independent checks

1. Listen: hear pāñī and identify water, without text.
2. Speak: see a picture or imagine a glass of water and say pāñī, without notes.
3. Read: choose पाणी from आभार • हां • पाणी and give its meaning.
4. Write: hear pāñī, wait fifteen seconds, then write पाणी with no model.

Score each line separately. Repeat only the missed line; strong speaking does not compensate for a missing ण or ी in writing.

What you've built — and what remains

You can retrieve one useful word in all four skills. You cannot yet request water in a complete Marwadi sentence; that needs pronouns, a request form, and register choices taught in later small steps.

Before you move on

If one sign stalled, return only to its two-minute sign lesson before repeating the complete dictation.

Chapter 5

Mharo Naam: Give One Name

Modes:  voice (6)  pen (4)  Hands-free start: first 1 of 10 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can hear, say, read, and independently write म्हारो नाम राम है, then substitute a chosen name in speech.

A source-attested name statement built by ear before four new signs are isolated and the complete line is retrieved from dictation.

5.1 Hear mhāro — one small word for “my”

Hear pāṇī, say water, say the Marwadi word back, then write its first sign प once. Set writing aside. The next chapter begins with the ear.

What to know first

mhāro — my, before a masculine singular noun

Listen twice: mhā-ro. Say it once. The breath after m belongs to the word; do not insert a full vowel between m and h. You do not need to spell it today.

Your turn

Point to yourself when you hear mhāro. Point away when you hear pāṇī. Change the order and do it once more.

Before you move on

Say mhāro once, then stop.

Sources: SIL International, Marwari-English Dictionary (2015) and Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtī Jot, November 2007.

5.2 ् — stop the built-in vowel

Write known म once, then read म as ma. Hear mhāro once. Today one tiny mark lets म close onto the next consonant without a between them.

Script

This is the virāma. Under म, it removes the built-in a: म् is m, not ma. Keep the model visible; no joined form is required yet.

Your turn

Finger-trace ् once beneath a printed म, then trace one pencil model. Say “vowel off” as your hand stops.

Before you move on

Cover the mark and draw it once beneath म.

5.3 ो — turn ra into ro

Write known सा once and point to ी in पाणी. Write र once, then draw yesterday’s vowel-off mark beneath a spare म. Today adds one sign to the right of र.

Script

र + ो → रो

Attached ो replaces the built-in a. Read रो as ro. It is one sign, even though it reaches above and to the right.

Your turn

Keep रो visible and copy it once. Point to र, then ो, and read ro.

Before you move on

Cover the model, wait three seconds, and write रो once.

5.4 म्हारो — the heard word becomes readable

Say the Marwadi word for my and recall what respectful सा does. From the heard cue pāṇī, write पाणी. Then write the vowel-off mark and रो from memory.

What to know first

म् + हा + रो → म्हारो — mhāro — my

Every piece is known. The virāma removes the vowel from म so म्ह begins mh, not maha.

Your turn

Look for five seconds, cover म्हारो, wait five seconds, then write it. Uncover and compare म्ह, ा, and रो separately. Repair only the piece that differs.

Before you move on

Read your repaired word once without romanization.

Sources: SIL International, Marwari–English Dictionary (2015) and Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtī Jot, November 2007.

5.5 Hear nām — name

Hear राम-राम सा and answer it. Retrieve पाणी once by ear, voice, eye, and writing. Then hear mhāro, say my, and read म्हारो once.

What to know first

nām — name

Listen twice, then say it once. Marwadi nām, Sanskrit nāman, and English name are distant members of the same old word family. That history is a memory hook; today's task is only sound and meaning.

Your turn

Touch your name on a card when you hear nām. Touch yourself when you hear mhāro. Change the order once.

Before you move on

Say mhāro nām and give the two-word meaning: my name.

Sources: SIL International, Marwari-English Dictionary (2015) and Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages.

5.6 न — a front-of-the-mouth n

Write independent न once. Say nām and its meaning. Read known न with the tongue curled back. Today the tongue moves forward.

Script

न

Read न as na, with the tongue near the teeth. Do not replace it with retroflex न from पाणी.

Your turn

Keep न visible. Finger-trace it once, then trace one pencil model. Point to न when you hear na and न when you hear retroflex ṇa.

Before you move on

Cover the model and write न once.

5.7 नाम — name, with no new sign

Write known न and the vowel-off mark ् once each. Say nām and its meaning, then write न once.

What to know first

न + ा + म → नाम — nām — name

Nothing new is hiding here: dental न, known long ा, and known म.

Your turn

Look for five seconds, cover नाम, wait five seconds, and write it once. Uncover, compare one piece at a time, and repair only a differing piece.

Before you move on

Read म्हारो नाम and say my name.

5.8 Hear hai — the small closing word

Read and write आभार once. Hear mhāro and nām in either order, then give each meaning.

What to know first

hai — is

Listen twice, then say it once. This tiny copula closes the name statement. Do not spell it yet; one vowel sign is still missing from your hand.

Your turn

Hear mhāro nām rām hai. Tap four beats: my | name | Ram | is. English changes the order in translation: My name is Ram.

Before you move on

Say the four-beat line once from sound: mhāro nām rām hai.

Sources: Ek Bharat Shreshtha Bharat language report and Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgti Jot, November 2007.

5.9 ੈ — turn ha into hai

Say आभार for formal thanks. Say the closing word hai, then write known ह once.

Script

ह + ੈ → है

Attached ੈ replaces the built-in a. Read the whole word है as hai. Do not confuse ੈ with the taller ੋ in रो.

Your turn

Keep है visible and copy it once. Point to ह, then ੈ, and read hai.

Before you move on

Cover the model, wait three seconds, and write है once.

5.10 म्हारो नाम राम है। — say one name

Hear mhāro, nām, rām, hai in mixed order. Give each meaning.

What to know first

म्हारो | नाम | राम | है।

mhāro nām rām hai — My name is Ram.

The written line adds no new sign. है is known ह plus ੈ. Replace राम with your chosen name when speaking; keep Ram for the first writing attempt because every sign is already yours.

Your turn

1. hear the line and point to the person naming themselves
2. say the line once with rām
3. read the four groups without romanization

Before you move on

Cover every written model. Hear the line once and write it. Then uncover and repair one group, not the whole sentence.

Sources: Ek Bharat Shreshtha Bharat language report and Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtī Jot, November 2007.

Chapter 6

Tharo Naam: Ask One Name

Modes: 🗣️ voice (5) ✍️ pen (3) 🗣️ Hands-free start: first 1 of 8 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can ask थारो नाम काँई है and answer with a chosen name in four separately scored skills.

The question half of the name exchange, built by ear before three new signs are isolated and joined to the already-secure answer.

6.1 Hear thāro — turn from my to your

Say mhāro nām rām hai once. Write न, then है, from memory. Point to yourself on mhāro.

What to know first

thāro — your, before a masculine singular noun

Listen twice: thā-ro. Let a small breath follow t. Point to another person when you hear it. Spelling waits for the next lesson.

Your turn

Hear mhāro and point to yourself. Hear thāro and point gently away. Change the order twice.

Before you move on

Say the pair once: mhāro — my; thāro — your.

Sources: SIL International, Marwari-English Dictionary (2015) and Ek Bharat Shreshtha Bharat language report.

6.2 थ — one breathed consonant

Read हॉ, say yes, then hear thāro, point away, and say your.

Script

थ

Read थ as tha: the tongue begins near the teeth and a small breath follows. It is one new shape. The remaining signs in thāro are already known.

Your turn

Keep थ visible. Finger-trace it once, then trace one printed model once. Say tha after your hand stops.

Before you move on

Cover the model and write थ once.

6.3 थारो — your

Say thāro and its meaning. Read म्हारो and give the opposite direction: my.

What to know first

थ + ा + रो → थारो — thāro — your

Only थ was new. The rest comes from राम and म्हारो.

Your turn

Look for five seconds, cover थारो, wait five seconds, then write it. Uncover and compare थ, ा, and रो separately.

Before you move on

Read the two words once without romanization.

6.4 Hear kāĩ — what

Retrieve हाँ सा once by ear, voice, eye, and writing; point to ै in है. Then read थारो, hear thāro nām, and give its meaning: your name.

What to know first

kāĩ — what

Listen for one long, lightly nasal middle and a final long ĩ. Say the whole word once rather than exaggerating the nasal sound. Its old interrogative root belongs to the same deep family as Sanskrit kim and English what.

Your turn

Hear thāro nām kāĩ hai? Point to the question mark and say What is your name? No spelling yet.

Before you move on

Say the four-beat question once from sound.

Sources: SIL International, Marwari-English Dictionary (2015), Turner, A Comparative Dictionary of the Indo-Aryan Languages, and Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtĩ Jot, September 1999.

6.5 क — the first sign in kāĩ

Hear kāĩ and say what.

Script

क

Read क as ka. Keep the sound short and unaspirated. Only this one shape is new today.

Your turn

Keep क visible. Finger-trace it once, then trace one printed model once. Say ka after your hand stops.

Before you move on

Cover the model and write क once.

6.6 ई — long $\bar{i}$ standing alone

Write ष, then क, once each. Point to attached ी in पाणी and say its long vowel.

Script

ई

Read ई as long $\bar{i}$. Use this independent form when the vowel stands on its own. Attached ी still belongs after a consonant.

Your turn

Keep ई visible and copy it once. Then point: ई stands alone; ी attaches.

Before you move on

Cover the model, wait three seconds, and write ई once.

6.7 कांई — what, with no new sign

Write known ण and new थ once each. Say kāĩ and its meaning, then write क and independent ई. Point to the known nasal dot in हां.

What to know first

क + ा + ं + ई → कांई — kāĩ — what

No shape is new. Read the whole word smoothly; the dot lightly nasalizes the long middle rather than creating an extra beat.

Your turn

Look for five seconds, cover कांई, wait five seconds, and write it. Uncover and compare क, ा, ं, and ई separately.

Before you move on

Read थारो नाम कांई है? once without romanization.

6.8 Practice — ask one name and give one name

Say the four older meanings as you hear rām-rām sā, ābhār, hā(n) sā, and pāñĩ. Write only पाणी from the last cue.

थारो नाम कांई है?

म्हारो नाम राम है।

The question asks What is your name? The answer says My name is Ram. In speech, replace rām with the name the speaker chooses. This book teaches one documented central-Marwari form; regional speakers may use another possessive or copula, and that variation is not an error.

Your turn

1. Listen: hear one of the two lines and identify question or answer.
2. Speak: hear the question and answer with a chosen name, without notes.
3. Read: match the printed question to the printed answer.

4. Write: hear the question, wait ten seconds, and write it with no model.

Score each line separately. Speaking cannot cover a missing word in writing; reading cannot cover an unanswered spoken question.

Before you move on

Stop after one complete exchange. Accuracy comes before speed.

Sources: Ek Bharat Shreshtha Bharat language report, SIL International, Marwari–English Dictionary (2015), and Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi, Jāgtī Jot, September 1999.

Chapter 7

Kaiso Ho: Ask How Someone Is

Modes: 🗣️ voice (1) 👁️ eyes (1) 🖱️ Hands-free start: all 2 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, say, read, and write the polite wellbeing question आप कैसे हो?.

A source-attested formal wellbeing question heard first and then written entirely with signs from earlier chapters.

7.1 Hear āp kaiso ho? — ask about someone, politely

Write पाणी, ask the name question once, and answer it once. Recall that kãĩ asks what, then put the page out of sight. The next question has a different social job.

What to know first

āp kaiso ho? — How are you?, polite/formal

Hear three groups: āp / kai-so / ho? The first addresses the other person respectfully; kaiso asks how; rising ho? keeps the line a question. Listen twice, then say the three groups once. Do not spell them yet.

Your turn

Choose the right situation: asking a respected person how they are, or asking their name. Say āp kaiso ho? only for the first situation.

Before you move on

Say the three sound groups once, then stop.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 2.

7.2 आप कैसो हो? — the question your hand already knows

Write पाणी from memory, then write क. Hear āp kaiso ho?, give its meaning, and say the three groups back.

Script — three known groups

आप | कैसो | हो?

No new sign appears. Read slowly: आ + प, then क + ै + स + ो, then ह + ो. The question mark preserves the rising social cue you heard first.

Your turn

Read the line once. Cover it for ten seconds, then write the three groups. Open the model and repair only the group that changed.

Before you move on

Read what you wrote once. Stop before learning the answer.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 2.

Chapter 8

Thik Hoon: Answer in Two New Signs

Modes:  voice (2)  eyes (1)  pen (2)  Hands-free start: first 1 of 5 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can answer हूँ ठीक हूँ, then complete a polite wellbeing exchange in separately scored listening, speaking, reading, and writing tasks.

A source-attested wellbeing answer whose only new written shapes are isolated before the complete four-skill exchange.

8.1 Hear hũ ʈhĩk hũ — I am fine

Write independent ई, say that mhāro means my, then ask āp kaiso ho? once from memory. Keep the page closed.

What to know first

hũ ʈhĩk hũ — I am fine

Hear three groups: hũ / ʈhĩk / hũ. The first and last groups match. Hold the ũ and let the ending nasal colour it; do not add a separate final syllable. The middle begins with a curled-back, breathed ʈh. Say the line once. Its two unfamiliar written shapes come later.

Your turn

Hear the question, then answer hũ thĩk hũ. Switch roles once. Keep this an ear-and-voice exercise.

Before you move on

Say the answer once without looking at any spelling.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 2.

8.2 ँ — hold the vowel below a known sign

Write काई, then write म्हारो and point to the virāma. Say hũ thĩk hũ, then write known ह once.

Script — one vowel mark

This is the dependent long-ū sign. It hangs below and to the right of a consonant. Add it to known ह: ह + ँ = हूँ. Hold the vowel for one beat longer than a short u.

Your turn

Keep ँ visible. Finger-trace the mark once, copy it once, then add it to ह twice. Say hũ after the hand stops.

Before you move on

Cover the model and write हूँ once.
Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

8.3 ॠ — curl back, then release breath

Write रो and point to ो. Write हूँ, then say the middle sound group thĩk without spelling it.

Script — one consonant

ठ

Read ठ as ṭha. Curl the tongue tip back, release it, and let a small breath follow. Keep it distinct from dental थ, which your hand already knows.

Your turn

Keep ठ visible. Finger-trace once, copy once, then alternate ठ | थ while saying ṭha / ṭha.

Before you move on

Cover the model and write ठ once.
Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

8.4 हूं ठीक हूं. — two new signs complete the answer

Write म्हारो from memory. Say hũ ṭhīk hũ, write ू, and write ठ.

Script — build three heard groups

हूं | ठीक | हूं.

Build हूं as ह + ू + ं. Build ठीक as ठ + ी + क. Every sign except the two from the last lessons was already secure. The repeated first and last group make the line easier to hold in memory.

Your turn

1. Read हूं | ठीक | हूं once.
2. Cover it for ten seconds.
3. Write all three groups, then say the answer.

Before you move on

Read the answer once from your own handwriting.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 2.

8.5 Practice — ask how someone is and answer

Ask and answer one name. Then change the topic: ask how the other person is.

The exchange

आप कैसो हो?

हूं ठीक हूं.

The first line is polite/formal. The reply reports being fine. Other regions and relationships may choose another pronoun or question form; this chapter assesses the source-attested pair it has taught.

Your turn

1. Listen: hear one line and identify question or answer.
2. Speak: hear the question and answer without notes.
3. Read: match the printed question to its answer.
4. Write: hear the answer, wait ten seconds, and write it with no model.

Score all four separately. A correct reading does not replace missing writing; a correct written line does not replace the spoken reply.

Before you move on

Stop after one accurate exchange. Speed can wait.

Chapter 9

Pachhe Milsu: See You Later

Modes: 🗣️ voice (2) ✍️ pen (5) 🗣️ Hands-free start: first 1 of 7 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can hear and say pāchhe mīlsū, write its four new units, and distinguish it from the common farewell राम राम सा in all four skills.

A source-attested see-you-later line taught sound-first, written through four isolated units, and scored separately in all four skills.

9.1 Hear pāchhe mīlsū — see you later

Ask how someone is, answer hū thīk hū, then say राम राम सा once. Close the text before the new parting line begins.

What to know first

pāchhe mīlsū — see you later

Hear two groups: pā-chhe / mīl-sū. The first points later/back; the second carries meeting again. Listen twice, tap the two groups, and say them once. Do not spell the line yet.

Your turn

Choose the cue that promises another meeting, not the cue that starts a conversation. Answer it with pāchhe mīlsū.

Before you move on

Say the two sound groups once, then stop.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 2.

9.2 छ — one aspirated consonant

Write नाम, say pāchhe once, then write known छ. The new sign carries a different consonant and keeps the released breath.

Script — one sign

छ — chha

Keep the sign visible. Finger-trace the main body first and add the headline last. Say chha with a small breath after the consonant.

Your turn

Trace छ once, copy it once, then cover the model and write it once.

Before you move on

Write छ once from memory.
Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

9.3 े — attach e to a consonant

Complete mhāro nām Rām hai, write छ, then write known े. Today's mark attaches above a consonant instead.

छ + े = छे — chhe

The mark cannot stand as the word's consonant. Add it above and to the right of छ; read the result chhe.

Your turn

Copy छे twice. Point to the consonant, then to the vowel mark.

Before you move on

Cover the model and write छे once.
Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

9.4 ि — written before, heard after

Write है, then known म and the long- $\bar{i}$ mark from णी. The new mark is short i and has a placement rule worth noticing.

Script — one vowel mark

ि — dependent short i

म + ि = मि — mi

The visible mark sits to the left of म, but the sound follows the consonant: read मि as mi , never im .

Your turn

Build मि twice. Each time, point left-to-right on the page, then say the sounds in their spoken order: $m-i$.

Before you move on

Write मि once from memory.
Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

9.5 ल — the last new consonant

Write the full my-name statement, then ask and answer wellbeing once. Write मि and known न. Today adds only ल.

Script — one signल — la

Keep the sign visible. Trace the open lower body before adding the headline. Say la once the hand stops.

Your turn

Copy ल once beside the model. Cover it, wait five seconds, and write it once.

Before you move on

Read ल once, then stop.

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

9.6 पाछे मिलसू — assemble the two sound groups

Say thāro, then write हूँ ठीक हूँ and circle ठ. Say pāchhe / mīlsū, then write छे, मि, and ल separately.

Script — join only known units

पा | छे मि | ल | सू

पाछे मिलसू

Nothing new hides in the join. Read the two groups, then write them with one space between.

Your turn

Cover the romanization. Read पाछे मिलसू, cover the line, wait ten seconds, and write it once.

Before you move on

Point to the short-i mark and say why it appears before म on the page.

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 2.

9.7 Practice — goodbye, with or without “later”

Write थ, then say राम राम सा once as the common farewell.

What to know first

राम राम सा. — goodbye / farewell

पाछे मिलसू. — see you later

The second line explicitly points to meeting later. Other regions and relationships may choose another parting line; this payoff scores only the two source-attested choices it taught.

Your turn

1. Listen: hear one line and identify common farewell or see-you-later.
2. Speak: answer a later-meeting cue with pāchhe mīlsū.
3. Read: match both printed lines to their meanings.
4. Write: hear pāchhe mīlsū, wait ten seconds, and write it without a model.

Score all four separately. A spoken line does not replace missing writing.

Before you move on

Stop after one accurate four-skill pass.

Chapter 10

Four Family Words: Meaning First, One New Sign

Modes: 🗣️ voice (7) 👁️ eyes (2) ✍️ pen (1) 🗣️ Hands-free start: first 1 of 10 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, say, read, and independently write four source-attested close-family labels after learning only one new Devanagari sign.

Four close-family labels secured by ear before writing, with only ब added and every skill scored separately.

10.1 Hear mā — mother

Say the line that promises another meeting and give its two meaning parts. Then write मै and the known word थारो once.

What to know first

mā — mother

Listen twice. The vowel is long and the ending is nasal. Say the whole word once; do not spell it yet. Families and the names people use for relatives vary, so this lesson teaches one source-attested everyday label, not one family model.

Your turn

Point to the mother cue when you hear mā, then say the word once from the meaning alone.

Before you move on

Say mā once, then stop.

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4 and Society for Endangered Languages, Marwari Swadesh list.

10.2 माँ — a new word from known signs

Say mā from its meaning. Write म, ा, and ं; then write ि and say the known question word kāĩ.

What to know first

म + ा + ं → माँ — mā — mother

Nothing on the page is new. Join three earned units and read the complete word.

Your turn

Look at माँ for five seconds. Cover it, wait five seconds, then write the word once. Uncover and compare the long-vowel sign and nasal mark separately.

Before you move on

Read and write माँ once without romanization.

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

10.3 Hear bāp — father

Say and write mother, then say water. Write familiar ल and क once each.

What to know first

bāp — father

Hear one long middle vowel: bāp. Say the word once without looking for its spelling. A respectful form such as bāpūjī can come later; this step keeps one meaning and one sound small.

Your turn

Hear mā and bāp in either order. Point to mother or father, then say only the word you heard.

Before you move on

Say mā and bāp once each, then stop.

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4 and SIL International, Marwari–English Dictionary archive.

10.4 ब — one new consonant

Say father and mother from meaning cues. Write पाछे मिलसू once, then familiar प; today’s voiced sound gets a different sign.

Script — one sign

ब — ba

Keep the model visible. Trace the lower turn, rise to the upright, and add the headline. Say ba after the hand stops.

Your turn

Copy ब once. Cover it, wait five seconds, and write it once. Then say the family word bāp that this sign will begin.

Before you move on

Read ब once, then stop.

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

10.5 बाप — father on the page

Write ब, ा, and प separately. Say mother and father, write काई, then give the earlier see-you-later four-skill response once.

What to know first

ब + ा + प → बाप — bāp — father

Only the first sign is newly learned. Read the whole word without romanization.

Your turn

Look for five seconds, cover बाप, wait five seconds, and write it. Check that ब did not turn into प.

Before you move on

Read मां — बाप once, then stop.

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

10.6 Hear bhāī — brother

Say mother and write father. Ask and answer the known name exchange, then recall the formal gratitude word that begins with breathy bh.

What to know first

bhāī — brother

Hear two long vowel parts: bhā-ī. Say them smoothly once. The first consonant matches the familiar start of ābhār; spelling waits for the next step.

Your turn

Distinguish bāp from bhāī by meaning and by the breath after bh. Answer a brother cue with bhāī once.

Before you move on

Say bhāī once, then stop.

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

10.7 भाई — brother from familiar units

Write भ, ा, and independent ई. Say mother, then ask the known polite wellbeing question with āp and kaiso.

What to know first

भ + ा + ई → भाई — bhāī — brother

The written pieces are old; only their family meaning is new.

Your turn

Look at भाई, cover it, wait five seconds, and write it once. Read the word without romanization and give its meaning.

Before you move on

Read भाई once, then stop.

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

10.8 Hear bahan — sister

Say father and brother. Write the known wellbeing question once, then ब; keep the next new word oral for now.

What to know first

bahan — sister

Hear two small parts: ba-han. Say the whole word once. A familiar alternative such as dīdī may be used in some relationships; this lesson scores only the source form bahan.

Your turn

Hear bhāī or bahan. Point to brother or sister, then repeat the heard word.

Before you move on

Say bhāī — bahan once, then stop.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

10.9 बहन — sister on the page

Write ब, ह, and न separately. Say brother, then give the heard wellbeing answer with hū and thīk.

What to know first

ब + ह + न → बहन — bahan — sister

All three signs are earned. Read the word as two sound groups: ba-han.

Your turn

Hear bahan, wait five seconds, and write बहन without a visible model. Check the middle ह rather than guessing from the meaning.

Before you move on

Read बहन — भाई once, then stop.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

10.10 Checkpoint — four close-family words

Write ू once and say its long vowel. Then close the earlier page.

What to know first

मां — बाप — भाई — बहन

The four labels name relationships; they do not prescribe one family structure.

Your turn

1. Listen: identify all four heard labels.
2. Speak: produce two different labels from meanings.
3. Read: match all four printed words.
4. Write: write two heard labels without a model.

Score each skill separately.

Before you move on

Stop after one independently accurate pass.

Chapter 11

Grandparents and Family: Two New Signs

Modes:  voice (8)  eyes (2)  pen (2)  Hands-free start: first 1 of 12 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can add paternal grandfather, paternal grandmother, and family to the earlier four-word map while keeping regional and household variation explicit.

Three more family labels secured by ear before writing, with only  and  added one sign at a time before the seven-word map.

11.1 Hear dādā — paternal grandfather

Recall the four-word family checkpoint, say the known word for name, then write familiar  once.

What to know first

dādā — paternal grandfather

Hear the same long beat twice: dā-dā. Say it once. This chapter follows the source's dādā form; other documented Marwari materials also record dādo. That variation is real and is not an error to erase. Writing waits one step.

Your turn

Choose among brother, sister, and paternal grandfather from three heard words. Repeat only dādā.

Before you move on

Say dā-dā once, then stop.

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4 and Marwari Pathshala, D glossary.

11.2 द — one sign for both beats

Write brother, then the known wellbeing answer. Say paternal grandfather and sister; keep dādā oral until the new sign appears.

Script — one sign

द — da

Keep the model visible. Trace the curved lower body, return to the upright, and add the headline. Say da after the pen stops.

Your turn

Copy द once. Cover it, wait five seconds, and write it twice with a small space: द द. Say dā-dā without assembling the word yet.

Before you move on

Read द once, then stop.

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

11.3 दादा — the repeated word

Ask and answer wellbeing once. Write द and familiar ाI, then say sister from memory.

What to know first

दा + दा → दादा — dādā — paternal grandfather

The spelling repeats exactly what the ear heard: two matching long beats.

Your turn

Look at दादा, cover it, wait five seconds, and write it once. Point to both copies of दा before reading the whole word.

Before you move on

Read दादा once, then stop.

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4 and Marwari Pathshala, D glossary.

11.4 Hear dādī — paternal grandmother

Say and write paternal grandfather and sister, then give the known see-you-later line and its two meaning parts.

What to know first

dādī — paternal grandmother

The first beat matches dādā. The last vowel changes: dā-dī. Hear the pair dādā — dādī, then say only dādī.

Your turn

Hear either dādā or dādī. Identify paternal grandfather or paternal grandmother before repeating the word.

Before you move on

Say dādā — dādī once, then stop.

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4 and Marwari Pathshala, D glossary.

11.5 दादी — change the final vowel

Recall the four-word family checkpoint, write छ, then write दा and दी. Say sister once.

What to know first

दा + दी → दादी — dādī — paternal grandmother

Compare दादा and दादी. Only the final vowel sign changes.

Your turn

Hear dādā or dādī. Write the matching word without a model, then check the final vowel sign.

Before you move on

Read दादा — दादी once, then stop.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

11.6 Hear parivār — family

Say paternal grandfather and sister, write paternal grandmother, then write े once.

What to know first

parivār — family

Hear three small groups: pa-ri-vār. Say them smoothly once. The word names a family group; it does not require every family to have the same members.

Your turn

Hear one group word and two relation words. Identify parivār as family, then say it once from the meaning alone.

Before you move on

Say parivār once, then stop.

11.7 व — the middle of family

Say family and paternal grandmother. Write व and ि once.

Script — one sign

व — va

Keep the model visible. Trace the rounded lower body, rise to the upright, and finish with the headline. Say va after the hand stops.

Your turn

Copy व once. Cover it, wait five seconds, and write it once. Say the middle sound group vār from parivār.

Before you move on

Read व once, then stop.

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

11.8 परिवार — family on the page

Write प, रि, व, and ार as four small units. Write paternal grandfather and ल, then say paternal grandmother.

What to know first

प + रि + वा + र → परिवार — parivār — family

Remember that ि is written before र but read after it: ri.

Your turn

Look at परिवार, cover it, wait eight seconds, and write the four chunks. Uncover and check रि and व separately.

Before you move on

Read परिवार once without romanization.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

11.9 Retrieve three family words

Say and write family, then write ब and the known पाछे मिलसू once.

Your turn

1. Listen: identify mā, bāp, or dādī from sound alone.
2. Speak: say the word from one relation cue.
3. Read: match मां, बाप, and दादी to their meanings.
4. Write: write one heard word without a model.

Before you move on

Stop after one accurate pass.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

11.10 Build the seven-word family map

Say and write paternal grandmother, then complete the earlier four-skill see-you-later response once.

Your turn

Place four cards under the correct cues: भाई, बहन, दादा, and परिवार. Read each card, turn it over, and write only the one named aloud.

Before you move on

Stop after one accurate map.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

11.11 Payoff — seven family labels in four skills

Read the seven-word line once. Cover it before the scored pass.

What to know first

मां — बाप — भाई — बहन — दादा — दादी — परिवार

These are labels for understanding and describing relationships, not a required family structure. Regional and household choices remain valid when documented.

Your turn

1. Listen: identify four randomly heard labels.
2. Speak: produce four different labels from relation cues.
3. Read: match all seven printed words to meanings.
4. Write: write three heard labels without a model.

Score all four skills separately. A perfect spoken map does not replace missing reading or writing.

Before you move on

Stop after one independently accurate pass.
Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4, Marwari Pathshala, D glossary, and SIL International, Marwari–English Dictionary archive.

11.12 Close the chapter — three new signs

Name the family group, write मां, and recall one successful part of the four-skill family check.

Your turn

Write ब, द, and व from spoken sign names. Circle only the sign that stalled, reopen its one-sign lesson, then try that sign once more.

Before you move on

Stop after the three signs are accurate.

Chapter 12

Maternal Grandparents and Husband: One New Sign

Modes:  voice (7)  pen (1)  Hands-free start: first 5 of 8 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can add maternal grandfather, maternal grandmother, and husband to the family map after learning only one new Devanagari sign.

Three source-attested relationship labels begin by ear, reuse the established script except for ऋ, and finish in four separately scored skills.

12.1 Hear nānā — maternal grandfather

Say the paternal-grandfather word, write परिवार, then recall the seven-word family map. Today one matching two-beat word changes only the family side.

What to know first

nā-nā — maternal grandfather

Listen twice. Say it once. Keep dādā and nānā tied to their meanings before writing enters.

Before you move on

Say nānā once without seeing its spelling.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

12.2 नाना — one known unit twice

Say nānā, then write familiar न and ा.

What to know first

ना + ना → नाना — nānā — maternal grandfather

Your turn

Look for five seconds, cover the word, and write it. Then label दादा and नाना orally without ranking either side of the family.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

12.3 Hear nānī — maternal grandmother

Say nānā, write बाप, and say the known paternal-grandmother word. Listen for the final long ī in the new word.

What to know first

nānī — maternal grandmother

Before you move on

Say nānī once. Writing waits for the next step.
Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

12.4 नानी — change only the final vowel

Write नाना, write familiar ा separately, then recall the seven-label four-skill payoff.

What to know first

ना + नी → नानी — nānī — maternal grandmother

Your turn

Cover नानी, wait five seconds, write it, and circle only the final ी.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

12.5 Hear pati — husband

Say the two maternal-grandparent labels, write नानी, then write familiar र and भाई from sound cues.

What to know first

pati — husband

This is a relationship label, not a required household pattern. Say the two short beats. The spelling waits until its new consonant has its own lesson.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

12.6 त — a quiet dental stop

Say pati. Write known ठ and थ once; today's unaspirated dental sound gets its own sign.

Script — one sign

त — ta

Your turn

Trace once with the model visible, copy once, cover it, and write it once.

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

12.7 पति — husband on the page

Say husband and maternal grandfather. Write प, त, ि, राम, and बहन; point to म inside राम.

What to know first

प + ति → पति — pati — husband

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write पति. Check that ि appears before त on the page but is read after it.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

12.8 Checkpoint — three more relationship labels

Say and write mother and father, write स, and recall the earlier four-label payoff before extending the map.

Your turn

1. Hear and identify all three labels.
2. Produce each from a meaning cue.
3. Read नाना — नानी — पति.
4. Cover the line and write all three.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

Chapter 13

Wife and Child: One New Sign

Modes:  voice (7)  pen (1)  Hands-free start: first 3 of 8 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can add wife and child to a twelve-label family map while recognizing that the source records an alternative wife label.

Wife and child begin by ear, add only च, and join the earlier labels in a non-compensatory four-skill payoff.

13.1 Hear patnī — wife

Say husband and maternal grandmother, write सा, then recall the last three-word four-skill checkpoint.

What to know first

patnī — wife

The same source also gives bāī sā. That documented alternative is not an error; this step secures one form at a time. Writing still waits.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

13.2 पत्नी — known signs, one careful join

Say patnī. Write पति, ्र, न, and ी separately; write नानी, then say the respectful राम राम सा greeting.

What to know first

प + त् + नी → पत्नी — patnī — wife

Your turn

Copy once. Cover it, wait five seconds, then write it. Check the virama join before checking the final long-ī sign.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

13.3 Hear bachchā — child

Say wife, husband, and maternal grandfather, complete the familiar greeting exchange, then write दादा.

What to know first

bachchā — child

Hear the held middle consonant. The label does not specify a child's gender; writing waits until the new consonant has a separate, small step.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

13.4 च — unaspirated beside familiar छ

Say child and wife. Write familiar छ and independent आ; today's sound has no following breath.

Script — one sign

च — cha

Your turn

Trace once, copy once, cover the model, and write it once from sound.

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

13.5 बच्चा — child on the page

Say child and wife. Write ब, च, ्, ा, familiar भ, then write पत्नी and दादी from memory.

What to know first

ब + च् + चा → बच्चा — bachchā — child

Your turn

Copy once. Cover it, wait five seconds, and write it. Check the doubled middle before checking the final vowel mark.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

13.6 Retrieve the five new relationship labels

Write त, च, and आभार, give the gratitude meaning, then recall the earlier three-word payoff.

Your turn

Hear all five in a mixed order, say each from meaning, read the five cards, then write the two cards named aloud. Repair only a missed card.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

13.7 Payoff — a twelve-label family map

Recall the seven-label and three-label checkpoints, then give the formal gratitude response. These are vocabulary options, not a prescribed family structure.

Your turn

1. Listen: identify six randomly heard labels.
2. Speak: produce six different labels from relationship cues.
3. Read: match all twelve printed labels to meanings.
4. Write: write four heard labels without a model.

Score each skill separately. A strong spoken score cannot compensate for a missed reading or writing score.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 4.

13.8 Close the chapter — two signs, two words

Write earlier द, व, ह, and परिवार, then name the four skills in the twelve-label payoff.

Your turn

From sound alone, write त, च, पत्नी, and बच्चा. Check each new sign before checking the complete word.

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

Chapter 14

Three Useful Places: Two New Signs

Modes: 🗣️ voice (7) ✍️ pen (2) 🗣️ Hands-free start: first 1 of 9 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, say, read, and write market, home, and temple after learning only ज and घ.

Three source-attested destinations begin by ear, add two signs separately, and finish in four scored skills without pretending the location question is taught.

14.1 Hear bājār — market

Recall the twelve-label payoff and say family once.

What to know first

bājār — market

Hear the two long vowels and say the destination. Its new middle consonant stays off the page until the next lesson.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

14.2 ज — the middle of market

Say market and polite yes, write हाँ, बच्चा, and familiar च once.

Script — one signज — *jaYour turn

Trace once, copy once, cover the model, and write ज from sound.

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

14.3 बाजार — market on the page

Say market and child. Give polite yes, recall the seven-label payoff, then write ब, ज, ा, and र.

What to know first

बा + जार → बाजार — bājār — market

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write the word. Check both long-vowel marks.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

14.4 Hear ghar — home

Say and write market, then recall the polite-yes and twelve-label four-skill payoffs.

What to know first

ghar — home; house

Say the single beat with breath after the first sound. Writing waits one step.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

14.5 घ — home begins here

Say home, water, and maternal grandfather, then write familiar ह and new-earlier ज.

Script — one sign

घ — gha

Your turn

Trace once, copy once, cover the model, and write घ from sound.

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

14.6 घर — home on the page

Say home and market. Write घ, र, बाजार, and नाना.

What to know first

घ + र → घर — ghar — home; house

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write the one-beat word.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

14.7 Hear mandir — temple

Say home, market, and maternal grandmother, then write ज and retroflex ञ.

What to know first

mandir — temple

Say the three short sound groups. The complete spelling uses only earned signs, but meaning stays first.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

14.8 मंदिर — a new place from known signs

Say temple, write म, ँ, द, ि, र, ी, then write घर and नानी.

What to know first

मं + दि + र → मंदिर — mandir — temple

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write the word. Check the nasal mark and the short-i position separately.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

14.9 Checkpoint — three useful places

Say wife, child, and husband, then write पाणी before changing domains.

Your turn

Hear and identify all three places, say each from a cue, read the three cards, then cover them and write all three. Score each skill separately.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

Chapter 15

Hand and Money: No New Signs

Modes: 🗣️ voice (7) 🖐️ Hands-free start: all 7 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can add hand and money to the three-place map in listening, speaking, reading, and writing without learning another sign.

Hand and money arrive by ear, reuse the complete script inventory, and join the three places in a non-compensatory four-skill payoff.

15.1 Hear hāth — hand

Recall the three-place and water four-skill payoffs, then say home.

What to know first

hāth — hand

The source uses this word in right-hand and left-hand direction cues. Say the one long beat. Writing waits even though every sign is familiar.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

15.2 हाथ — hand on the page

Say hand and my, write ह, ा, थ, घर, and पति.

What to know first

हा + थ → हाथ — hāth — hand

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write the word.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

15.3 Hear paisā — money

Say hand and market, write virama ँ, then recall the ten-label four-skill checkpoint.

What to know first

paisā — money

The source uses this word when asking travel cost. Hear the opening pai and say the whole word. Writing waits until the next step.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

15.4 पैसा — money on the page

Say money, hand, and wife. Write प, ै, स, ा, ी, then हाथ.

What to know first

पै + सा → पैसा — paisā — money

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write the word. Check ै before ा.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

15.5 Retrieve five direction and travel words

Write ज, घ, म्हारी, and पत्नी, then recall the three-place payoff.

Your turn

Hear all five in mixed order, say each from meaning, read the five cards, then write the two named aloud.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

15.6 Payoff — five travel words in four skills

Recall the three-place checkpoint, then say name and child before adding hand and money.

Your turn

1. Identify five heard words.
2. Produce five words from meaning cues.
3. Match five printed cards to meanings.
4. Write three heard words without a model.

Pass each skill separately.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 5.

15.7 Close the chapter — two new signs

Write earlier त, च, न, and हाथ, then name the four scored skills.

Your turn

From sound alone, write ज, घ, बाजार, and घर.

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

Chapter 16

Wind, Cloud, and Rain: No New Signs

Modes: 🗣️ voice (9) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 9 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, say, read, and write wind, cloud, and rain using only signs already secured in earlier chapters.

Three source-attested weather nouns begin by ear, reuse the established script inventory, and finish in four separately scored skills without claiming a weather conversation is complete.

16.1 Hear havā — wind

Recall the five-word travel payoff, say home, then write नाम, पत्नी, and बाजार.

What to know first

havā — wind

Listen once, then say the two light beats. Keep the meaning in your ear; the spelling waits for the next lesson even though every sign is already familiar.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

16.2 हवा — wind on the page

Say wind and money, write घर, then form ह, व, and ा once.

What to know first

ह + वा → हवा — havā — wind

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write हवा. No new sign has been added.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

16.3 Hear bādal — cloud

Say and write wind, then recall temple, hand, maternal grandmother, and the ै mark in है.

What to know first

bādal — cloud; clouds

Hear the long first vowel. Say the sky word once without looking at any script.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

16.4 बादल — cloud on the page

Say cloud, wind, and market. Write नाना and the known my-name line ending in है, then recall ब, ा, द, and ल.

What to know first

बा + दल → बादल — bādal — cloud

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write the two chunks. Check that only the first syllable carries ाI.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

16.5 Hear barsāt — rain

Say and write cloud and wind, contrast thāro with mhāro, then recall husband and write money.

What to know first

barsāt — rain; rainfall

Listen for the long final vowel. Say the weather word once from a rain cue.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

16.6 बरसात — rain on the page

Say rain and wind, recall the travel payoff, write थ, then form ब, र, स, ाI, and त.

What to know first

बर + सात → बरसात — barsāt — rain

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write बरसात. Check that ाI sits only in the final chunk.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

16.7 Retrieve wind, cloud, and rain

Write घ, ज, बच्चा, and थारो, then say wife.

Your turn

Hear the three words in mixed order, say each from its meaning, match three printed cards, then write all three from sound.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

16.8 Payoff — three weather words in four skills

Say and write market and home, recall the twelve-label family payoff, then give the meanings of kāī and hai from the known name exchange.

Your turn

1. Identify three heard words.
2. Produce three words from meaning cues.
3. Match three printed cards to meanings.
4. Write all three heard words without a model.

Pass each skill separately.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

16.9 Close the weather loop

Write घ, ज, थ, and क, then name the four weather-payoff skills you just passed.

Your turn

Without a model, hear one word, say its meaning, read the other two in mixed order, then write all three from meaning cues.

Before you move on

Chapter 17

Weather, Heat, and Cold: Three New Signs

Modes: 🗣️ voice (10) ✍️ pen (3) 🗣️ Hands-free start: first 1 of 13 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can add weather, heat, and cold to the earlier wind-cloud-rain map after learning only the au mark, ण, and ञ.

Three more source-attested weather words begin by ear, add three signs one at a time, and join the earlier map in four separately scored skills without claiming a complete weather exchange.

17.1 Hear mausam — weather

Recall wind, cloud, and rain in four skills, then write ई, काई, and घर.

What to know first

mausam — weather

Listen for the au sound. Say the general word once; its new vowel mark stays off the page until the next lesson.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

17.2 ौ — the au mark in weather

Say weather and temple, write म, बरसात, and कांई, then contrast familiar ै and े.

Script — one sign

ौ — au after a consonant

Your turn

Trace ौ on म once, copy मौ once, cover it, and write मौ from sound.

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

17.3 मौसम — weather on the page

Ask and answer the known name exchange, say weather and wind, write मंदिर, बादल, and थारो, then form मौ and स.

What to know first

मौ + सम → मौसम — mausam — weather

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write मौसम. Check the first-syllable vowel mark.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

17.4 Hear garmī — heat

Say and write weather, recall rain and the three-place payoff, ask āp kaiso ho?, then write the है ending from the known name line.

What to know first

garmī — heat; hot weather

The source also groups this word with summer. Keep the narrow heat meaning for now; the season contrast comes later.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

17.5 ग — the start of heat

Say heat, weather, and hand; write आप कैसो हो?, घ, मौ, and म्हारो.

Script — one sign

ग — ga

Compare ग with aspirated घ; this word begins with the unaspirated sign.

Your turn

Trace once, copy once, cover the model, and write ग from sound.

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

17.6 गर्मी — heat on the page

Say heat, weather, wind, and the known fine answer; write हाथ and मौसम, then form ग, र, म, and ी.

What to know first

गर् + मी → गर्मी — garmī — heat

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write गर्मी. Check the virama under र and long ी after म.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

17.7 Retrieve weather and heat

Say money, then write मौ, ग, बादल, है, and ू.

Your turn

Hear the two words in mixed order, give each meaning, read both cards, then write both from sound.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7; Unicode Devanagari chart.

17.8 Hear ṭhaṇḍī — cold

Say and write weather and heat, recall cloud, then write rain and money.

What to know first

ṭhaṇḍī — cold; cold weather

The source also groups this form with winter. Keep the narrow cold meaning for now and contrast it with heat.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

17.9 ङ — the middle of cold

Say cold, heat, and the known wellbeing answer; write हूँ ठीक हूँ, then द, ठ, ग, and हवा.

Script — one sign

ङ — ḍa, with the tongue curled back

Keep ङ distinct from dental द.

Your turn

Trace once, copy once, cover the model, and write ङ from sound.

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

17.10 ठंडी — cold on the page

Perform the known wellbeing exchange and travel payoff, say cold, heat, and weather, write गर्मी, then form ठ, ं, ड, and ी.

What to know first

ठ + डी → ठंडी — ṭhaṇḍī — cold

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write ठंडी. Check the nasal mark and keep ङ distinct from द.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

17.11 Retrieve weather, heat, and cold

Say the known see-you-later line, then write मौ, ग, ड, and बरसात.

Your turn

Hear the three words in mixed order, give each meaning, read three cards, then write all three from sound.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7; Unicode Devanagari chart.

17.12 Payoff — six weather words in four skills

Write छ, then recall the earlier wind-cloud-rain payoff before adding three words.

Your turn

1. Identify six heard words.
2. Produce six words from meaning cues.
3. Match six printed cards to meanings.
4. Write three heard words from each half without a model.

Pass each skill separately.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

17.13 Close the chapter — three new signs

Write ज, घ, े, and हवा, then name the four weather-payoff skills.

Your turn

From sound alone, write मौ, ग, ड, then मौसम, गर्मी, and ठंडी. Give each word's meaning.

Before you move on

Sources: Unicode Devanagari chart; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 7.

Chapter 18

Shop, Item, and Price: One New Vowel Mark

Modes:  voice (9)  pen (1)  Hands-free start: first 1 of 10 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, say, read, and write shop, item, and price after learning only the short-u vowel mark.

Three source-attested shopping words begin by ear, add one vowel mark, and finish in four separately scored skills without claiming a complete buying exchange.

18.1 Hear dukān — shop

Recall the six-word weather payoff, say market, then write मौसम, गर्मी, and ठंडी, then form ि once.

What to know first

dukān — shop

Hear the two beats and say the word once from a shop cue. Keep the sound and meaning together; the unfamiliar vowel mark waits for the next lesson.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

18.2 ँ — short u after a consonant

Say shop, write द, ँ, ौ, ड, ल, and पत्नी.

Script — one mark

ँ — short u after a consonant

Your turn

Trace ँ below द once, copy दु once, cover it, and write दु from sound. Keep it shorter than familiar दू.

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

18.3 दुकान — shop on the page

Say shop and market, write बाजार, बरसात, and कांई, then write पाछे मिलसू, then form दु, का, and न.

What to know first

दु + कान → दुकान — dukān — shop

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write दुकान. Check short ँ below the first sign and long ा in the second chunk.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

18.4 Hear vastu — item

Say and write shop, form short ँ, then recall money, temple, and cold, then retrieve the see-you-later line from its cue.

What to know first*vastu* — item; thing

Say the two beats once from an item cue. The word can name the thing being bought; no buying sentence is claimed yet.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

18.5 वस्तु — item on the page

Say item and shop, write दुकान, गर्मी, and हाथ, then say mother, then form short ु and the familiar vowel-off mark ्.

What to know firstवस् + तु → वस्तु — vastu — itemYour turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write वस्तु. Check the middle consonant join and the final short ु.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

18.6 Hear bhāv — price

Say and write item and shop, then recall market and write money and cloud, then write मां.

What to know first*bhāv* — price

Say the single long beat from a price-tag cue. This lesson teaches the noun; asking the final price remains later phrase work.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

18.7 भाव — price on the page

Say price, item, shop, and father. Write वस्तु, बाप, and हवा, then form familiar भ, ा, and व.

What to know first

भा + व → भाव — bhāv — price

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write भाव. Hold the long vowel in speech and keep ा after भ in writing.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

18.8 Retrieve shop, item, and price

Write ु, ौ, ग, ड, and ब, then recall the six-word weather payoff.

Your turn

Hear the three words in mixed order, say each from its meaning, match three printed cards, then write all three from sound.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

18.9 Payoff — three shopping words in four skills

Say market, write money, recall the weather payoff, then ask and answer the known wellbeing exchange, then write बाप.

Your turn

1. Identify three heard words.
2. Produce three words from meaning cues.
3. Match three printed cards to meanings.
4. Write all three heard words without a model.

Pass each skill separately.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

18.10 Close the first shopping loop

Write ु, घ, ज, and त; say brother; retrieve cloud, rain, weather, heat, and cold; write ड, गर्मी, and ठंडी; then recall the three-word weather payoff and name the four shopping-payoff skills.

Your turn

Without a model, hear one word, say its meaning, read the other two in mixed order, then write all three from meaning cues.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Unicode Devanagari chart.

Chapter 19

Cheap and Goods: No New Signs

Modes: 🗣️ voice (7) 🖱️ Hands-free start: all 7 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can add cheap and goods to the shop-item-price map in listening, speaking, reading, and writing without learning another sign.

Two more source-attested shopping words reuse the secure script inventory and join the earlier three in a non-compensatory four-skill payoff.

19.1 Hear sastā — cheap

Recall the three-word shopping payoff, say price, write ॐ, दुकान, वस्तु, भाव, and भाई, then say heat.

What to know first

sastā — cheap; inexpensive

Say the two beats once from a low-price cue. This is the source's dictionary form; full bargaining phrases remain later work.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

19.2 सस्ता — cheap on the page

Say cheap and price. Write भाव, वस्तु, बरसात, and पति, say sister, then recall स् and त.

What to know first

सस् + ता → सस्ता — sastā — cheap

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write सस्ता. Check the middle consonant join and final long ा.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

19.3 Hear sāmān — goods

Say and write cheap and shop, recall item and price, then write home, sister, and गर्मी.

What to know first

sāmān — goods; merchandise

Hear the two long-vowel beats and say the word once from a group-of-items cue.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

19.4 सामान — goods on the page

Say goods and cheap. Write सस्ता, दुकान, वस्तु, मौसम, and नाम, retrieve the four-word family payoff, then form ा once.

What to know first

सा + मान → सामान — sāmān — goods

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write सामान. Check both long ा marks and the final न.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

19.5 Retrieve cheap and goods

Recall the three-word shopping payoff, then write ु, ौ, ग, and ड, then say paternal grandfather and cold.

Your turn

Hear the two words in both orders, give each meaning, read two cards, then write both from sound.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Unicode Devanagari chart.

19.6 Payoff — five shopping words in four skills

Recall the earlier shopping and weather payoffs, say money, then write द and ड.

Your turn

1. Identify five heard words.
2. Produce five words from meaning cues.
3. Match five printed cards to meanings.
4. Write all five heard words without a model.

Pass each skill separately; a strong word cannot compensate for a missed one.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

19.7 Close the five-word shopping loop

Write short ङ, then ask and answer the known name and well-being exchanges, then write दादा and ठंडी.

Your turn

Without a model, hear two words, say two from meaning cues, read the fifth, then write all five in a fresh mixed order.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Unicode Devanagari chart.

Chapter 20

Clothes and Expensive: One Dot Below

Modes: ⇄ voice (7) ✍ pen (1) ⇄ Hands-free start: first 1 of 8 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can add clothes and expensive to the shopping map after learning only the nukta that changes ङ to ञ.

Two source-attested shopping words begin by ear, add one dotted consonant, and join the earlier five words in four separately scored skills.

20.1 Hear kaṛā — clothes

Recall the five-word shopping map.

What to know first

kaṛā — clothes; cloth

Listen for the quick curled sound in the middle. Say the word once from a clothes cue. Keep the written form covered for now.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

20.2 ङ — one dot under familiar ड

Say clothes, then write familiar ड, paternal grandmother, and goods.

Script — one mark

ड + ङ → ङ

The dot below is called a nukta. Here it marks the quick curled sound in kaṇṛā.

Your turn

Trace ङ once. Copy it once. Cover it, wait five seconds, and write ङ from the sound cue.

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

20.3 कपड़ा — clothes on the page

Say clothes and family, then write ङ.

What to know first

कप + ङ → कपड़ा — kaṇṛā — clothes

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write कपड़ा. Check the dot below ड.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

20.4 Hear mahaṅgo — expensive

Say cheap and clothes, then write व.

What to know first*mahaṅgo* — expensive

Hear the price contrast: sastā is cheap; mahaṅgo is expensive. Say only the word that matches a high-price cue.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

20.5 महंगो — expensive on the page

Say expensive, write cheap and family, then write short ु.

What to know firstमहं + गो → महंगो — mahaṅgo — expensiveYour turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write महंगो. Check ँ above and ो around the final ग.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

20.6 Retrieve clothes and expensive

Recall the six-word weather payoff, write shop, then write ड़.

Your turn

Hear both words in both orders, give each meaning, read two cards, then write both from sound.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

20.7 Payoff — seven shopping words in four skills

Recall the earlier five-word shopping payoff, then write the nukta.

Your turn

1. Identify seven heard words.
2. Produce seven words from meaning cues.
3. Match seven printed cards to meanings.
4. Write all seven heard words without a model.

Pass each skill separately. This is a vocabulary map, not yet a bargaining conversation.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

20.8 Close the seven-word shopping loop

Recall the seven-label family payoff, write item, then write ङ.

Your turn

With every model hidden, retrieve the seven meanings by ear, say them from meaning cues, read a shuffled set, and write all seven from dictation.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

Chapter 21

Bus, Vehicle, and Cart: No New Signs

Modes: 🗣️ voice (9) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 9 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can recognise, say, read, and write bus, vehicle, and cart using only signs already secured in earlier chapters.

Three source-attested transport words begin by ear, reuse the established script inventory, and finish in four separately scored skills without claiming a ticket or timetable exchange.

21.1 Hear bas — bus

Recall the seven-word shopping payoff, then say expensive and price.

What to know first

bas — bus

Hear it twice, point to a bus picture, and say it once. Keep the spelling covered until the sound and meaning are easy.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

21.2 बस — bus on the page

Say bus and maternal grandfather, then write expensive and price.

What to know first

ब + स → बस — bas — bus

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write बस.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

21.3 Hear gārī — vehicle

Say bus and clothes, write bus and maternal grandfather, then write इ.

What to know first

gārī — vehicle

Use vehicle as the broad meaning here. Hear the curled middle sound, then say the word once from a vehicle picture.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

21.4 गाड़ी — vehicle on the page

Say vehicle and maternal grandmother, write clothes, then recall the three-word shopping payoff.

What to know first

गा + डी → गाड़ी — gārī — vehicle

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write गाड़ी. Keep the dot below ड and the long-ī mark after it.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

21.5 Hear thelā — cart

Say vehicle and bus, then write ठ and maternal grandmother.

What to know first

thelā — cart; handcart

Hear the strong first sound, point to a handcart, and say the word once.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

21.6 ठेला — cart on the page

Say cart, husband, and cheap, then write vehicle.

What to know first

ठे + ला → ठेला — thelā — cart

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write ठेला.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

21.7 Retrieve three transport words

Recall the seven-word shopping payoff, then write ढ, cheap, and ड़.

Your turn

Hear the three words in a mixed order, give each meaning, read three shuffled cards, then write all three from sound.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

21.8 Payoff — three transport words in four skills

Write husband, then say goods.

Your turn

1. Identify three heard words.
2. Produce three words from meaning cues.
3. Match three printed cards to meanings.
4. Write all three heard words without a model.

Pass each skill separately. Timetables, tickets, and location phrases remain later work.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

21.9 Close the first transport loop

Recall the ten-label family payoff, then write goods.

Your turn

With every model hidden, identify, say, read, and write बस, गाड़ी, and ठेला in a shuffled order.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

Chapter 22

Rickshaw and Horse: One New Consonant

Modes: ⇄ voice (7) ✍ pen (1) ⇄ Hands-free start: first 1 of 8 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can add rickshaw and horse to the transport map after learning only ॠ and reusing the dotted consonant from clothes.

Two more source-attested transport words begin by ear, add only ॠ, and join the earlier three in a non-compensatory four-skill payoff.

22.1 Hear rikśā — rickshaw

Recall the three-word transport payoff, say wife, then write goods.

What to know first

rikśā — rickshaw

Hear the three beats, point to a rickshaw picture, and say the word once. Keep the written cluster covered for now.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

22.2 श — the sh in rickshaw

Recall the five-word shopping payoff, say rickshaw, then write wife and familiar स.

Script — one sign

श — sha

Notice the vertical stem and the looped left side. Keep it distinct from familiar स.

Your turn

Trace श once. Copy it once. Cover it, wait five seconds, and write it from the sh sound cue.

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

22.3 रिक्शा — rickshaw on the page

Say rickshaw and child, then write श and ्.

What to know first

रि + क् + शा → रिक्शा — rikśā — rickshaw

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write रिक्शा. Check that ि appears before र but is read after it, and that ् joins क to श.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

22.4 Hear ghoro — horse

Say rickshaw, vehicle, and clothes, then write च and ड़.

What to know first*ghoro* — horse

Hear the breathy first sound and curled middle sound. Point to a horse and say the word once.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

22.5 घोड़ो — horse on the page

Say horse, then write vehicle and child.

What to know firstघो + डो → घोड़ो — ghoro — horseYour turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write घोड़ो. Check both long-o marks and the dot below ड.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

22.6 Retrieve rickshaw and horse

Write श and ड़ from sound.

Your turn

Hear both words in both orders, give each meaning, read two cards, then write both from sound.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

22.7 Payoff — five transport words in four skills

Recall the earlier three-word transport payoff and the twelve-label family payoff, then say expensive.

Your turn

1. Identify five heard words.
2. Produce five words from meaning cues.
3. Match five printed cards to meanings.
4. Write all five heard words without a model.

Pass each skill separately. This vocabulary foundation does not yet claim a ticket purchase, timetable question, or problem report.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

22.8 Close the writing loop for ङ and श

Recall the five-word transport payoff, then write expensive.

Your turn

Without a model, write ङ and श from sound cues. Then write कपड़ा, गाड़ी, रिक्षा, and घोड़ा from dictation. Repair only the missed unit and repeat that word once.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10; Unicode Devanagari chart.

Chapter 23

First Food Words: No New Signs

Modes: 🗣️ voice (9) 🖐️ Hands-free start: all 9 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can retrieve lentils, clarified butter, and vegetables in listening, speaking, reading, and writing using only previously taught Devanagari signs.*

Three source-attested food words begin by ear, add no new sign at all, and close in a non-compensatory four-skill payoff.

23.1 Hear dāl — lentils

Recall the five-word transport payoff, then say horse and market.

What to know first

dāl — lentils

Two beats, and the second one is long. Hear it twice, point to a bowl of cooked lentils, and say it once. The spelling stays covered until the sound and the meaning are comfortable.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

23.2 दाल — lentils on the page

Say lentils, then write horse and ज.

What to know first

दा + ल → दाल — dāl — lentils

Three units, all of them met before: द, the long ा, and ल.

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write दाल. Check that the ा sits after द and not after ल.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

23.3 Hear ghī — clarified butter

Recall the seven-word shopping payoff, then write lentils and market.

What to know first

ghī — clarified butter

One beat, opening with the same breathy sound heard at the start of ghar and ghoro. Hear it twice and say it once.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

23.4 घी — clarified butter on the page

Say clarified butter, recall the five-word transport payoff, then say bus.

What to know first

घ + ी → घी — ghī — clarified butter

The same घ that opens घर and घोड़ो, carrying the long ी met in पाणी.

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write घी. Keep the ी stroke tall enough to reach the headline.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

23.5 Hear sabjī — vegetables

Write clarified butter, bus, and घ.

What to know first

sabjī — vegetables

Three beats, ending long. Hear it twice, point to a vegetable dish, and say it once.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

23.6 सबजी — vegetables on the page

Say vegetables and vehicle, then write home.

What to know first

स + ब + जी → सबजी — sabjī — vegetables

Four units, every one of them already in the hand. The source spells it with a full ब between स and जी; other Rajasthani writing prints a clustered spelling for the same word, so treat this form as the one attested here rather than as the only one anybody uses.

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write सबजी. Check that ब keeps its own short vowel and carries no vowel-killer.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

23.7 Retrieve three food words

Write vehicle, then say temple and home.

Your turn

Hear the three words in a mixed order, give each meaning, read three shuffled cards, then write all three from sound.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

23.8 Payoff — three food words in four skills

Say cart, then write temple.

Your turn

1. Identify three heard words.
2. Produce three words from meaning cues.
3. Match three printed cards to meanings.
4. Write all three heard words without a model.

Pass each skill separately. Three food names are a vocabulary foundation, not an order placed in a kitchen or a shop.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

23.9 Close the first food loop

Recall the three-place payoff, then write cart.

Your turn

With every model hidden, identify, say, read, and write दाल, घी, and सबजी in a shuffled order.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

Chapter 24

Bread and Rolls: One New Consonant

Modes: ⇄ voice (7) ✍ pen (1) ⇄ Hands-free start: first 1 of 8 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can add flatbread and hard wheat rolls to the food map after learning only 𑖅 and reusing every other sign.

Two more source-attested food words begin by ear, add only 𑖅, and join the earlier three in a non-compensatory four-skill payoff.

24.1 Hear roṭī — flatbread

Recall the three-word food payoff, then say hand and lentils.

What to know first

roṭī — flatbread

The middle consonant is made with the tongue tip curled back, further back than the d of dāl. Hear it twice and say it once. The spelling waits for the next lesson, because one sign in it has not been taught yet.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

24.2 ट — the curled t in flatbread

Say flatbread, recall the three-word transport payoff, then write hand.

Script — one sign

ट — ṭa

A single closed loop hanging under the headline. Set it beside the ठ of ठेला: ठ carries a second inner ring and a puff of breath, ट has neither.

Your turn

Trace ट once. Copy it once. Write ठ beside it and say which one has the extra ring. Cover both, wait five seconds, and write ट from the curled sound cue.

Before you move on

24.3 रोटी — flatbread on the page

Say flatbread and money, then write र.

What to know first

रो + टी → रोटी — rotī — flatbread

The ी on र and the ी on ट are both long vowels met earlier.

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write रोटी. Check that the second consonant has no inner ring.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

24.4 Hear bāṭī — hard wheat rolls

Write flatbread and money, then say rickshaw.

What to know first

bāṭī — hard wheat rolls

Two beats, both long, with the same curled middle consonant heard in roṭī. These are baked hard rather than soft, which is why they take a different name from ordinary flatbread. Hear it twice and say it once.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

24.5 बाटी — hard wheat rolls on the page

Say hard wheat rolls, then write flatbread and श.

What to know first

बा + टी → बाटी — bāṭī — hard wheat rolls

Compare रोटी and बाटी on one line: the last two units are identical and only the opening syllable differs.

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write बाटी. Then write रोटी beneath it and check that only the first syllable changed.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

24.6 Retrieve flatbread and hard wheat rolls

Recall the five-word travel payoff, then write र and rickshaw.

Your turn

Hear both words in both orders, give each meaning, read two cards, then write both from sound.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

24.7 Payoff — five food words in four skills

Recall the earlier three-word food payoff, then say horse.

Your turn

1. Identify five heard words.
2. Produce five words from meaning cues.
3. Match five printed cards to meanings.
4. Write all five heard words without a model.

Pass each skill separately. This vocabulary foundation does not yet claim an order in a kitchen, a request at a table, or a description of a meal.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

24.8 Close the writing loop for ढ

Recall the five-word food payoff, say wind, then write horse.

Your turn

Without a model, write ढ and ढ from sound cues. Then write रोटी, बाटी, and ठेला from dictation. Repair only the missed unit and repeat that word once.

Before you move on

Chapter 25

The Sweet and the Tea: One New Consonant

Modes: ⇄ voice (7) ✎ pen (1) ⇄ Hands-free start: first 3 of 8 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can add the sweet crumbled wheat dessert and tea to the food map after learning only ञ.

The last two source-attested food words begin by ear, add only ञ, and complete a seven-word non-compensatory four-skill payoff.

25.1 Hear chūrmā — sweet crumbled wheat

Recall the five-word food payoff, say hard wheat rolls, then write wind.

What to know first

chūrmā — sweet crumbled wheat dessert

Three beats, the middle one long. Hear it twice and say it once. The source names it beside dāl and bāṭi; the three are often served together, and this lesson teaches the word rather than the custom.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

25.2 चूरमा — the sweet on the page

Recall the five-word transport payoff, then say the sweet crumbled wheat dessert and cloud.

What to know first

चू + र + मा → चूरमा — chūrmā — sweet crumbled wheat dessert

The ू under च is the long ū met in मिल्सू, and मा closes with the long ा used since the first greeting.

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write चूरमा. Check that the ू hangs below च and not below र.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

25.3 Hear chāy — tea

Say lentils, then write the sweet crumbled wheat dessert and cloud.

What to know first

chāy — tea

One long beat closing on a glide. It opens with the same consonant as chūrmā. Hear it twice and say it once. The spelling waits one lesson, because its final consonant has not been taught yet.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

25.4 य — the glide at the end of tea

Say tea and rain, then write hard wheat rolls.

Script — one signय — ya

A left loop, a short arm, and a vertical stem on the right. Set it beside भ of भाई: भ opens its left side into a hook that reaches the stem, while य closes its left side into a loop.

Your turn

Trace य once. Copy it once. Write भ beside it and say which one closes its left side. Cover both, wait five seconds, and write य from the glide sound cue.

Before you move on

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

25.5 चाय — tea on the page

Say tea, then write य and rain.

What to know firstचा + य → चाय — chāy — tea

The य carries no vowel mark of its own here and closes the word.

Your turn

Look, cover, wait five seconds, and write चाय. Check that the ा sits after च and that य ends the word bare.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

25.6 Retrieve the sweet and the tea

Write य, then say rain and write it.

Your turn

Hear both words in both orders, give each meaning, read two cards, then write both from sound.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

25.7 Payoff — seven food words in four skills

Recall the earlier five-word food payoff and the three-word weather payoff.

Your turn

1. Identify seven heard words.
2. Produce seven words from meaning cues.
3. Match seven printed cards to meanings.
4. Write all seven heard words without a model.

Pass each skill separately. Seven food names are a vocabulary map; offering food, accepting it, asking for more, and refusing politely are all still untaught.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

25.8 Close the writing loop for य

Recall the seven-word food payoff, then say vegetables and tea.

Your turn

Without a model, write य and ट from sound cues. Then write चाय, रोटी, बाटी, चूरमा, and सबजी from dictation. Repair only the missed unit and repeat that word once.

Before you move on

Chapter 26

Show It To Me: The First Transaction

Modes:  voice (8)  eyes (1)  pen (1)  Hands-free start: first 1 of 10 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can point at one thing and ask a shopkeeper, a food seller, or a driver to show it to me, after learning only य.

A pointing word and an asking word join one already-taught noun, and the resulting request is then run unchanged over a shopping word, a food word, and a transport word in four separately scored skills.

26.1 Hear ye — this one

Recall the seven-word food payoff, write य, then say tea and clothes.

What to know first

ye — this

One beat. It points at the single thing in front of you and at nothing else. The source prints it in front of an ordinary noun, exactly the way the next chapters will use it: ye vastu, this item.

Every word this book has taught so far names a thing. ye does not name anything. It is the first Marwadi word here whose whole job is to pick one out.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

26.2 ये — this, on the page

Say this, then write tea.

What to know first

य + े → ये — ye — this

In चाय the glide य closed a word and carried no vowel mark. Here the same sign opens a word and carries े above the headstroke. One sign, two jobs, and nothing new to learn.

Your turn

Look at ये, cover it, wait five seconds, and write it. Check that े sits on top of the headstroke and not beside the stem.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

26.3 Hear dikhāvo — show it

Write ये, then say shop and item and write shop.

What to know first

dikhāvo — show it

Three beats: di-khā-vo, the middle one long. The middle beat carries a breath after the k that the k of kapṛā does not have. Hear both, then say both: ka — khā.

The source prints this form twice, once for a menu and once for another colour. It is the asking form used to one person across a counter, not a command shouted at anyone, and this lesson teaches the printed form rather than the whole system of asking forms behind it.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

26.4 ख — the breathed partner of क

Say show it, then write कपड़ा and point to its dotted इ.

Script — one sign

ख — kha

The sound first, because it is the part a reader can check without a model. Say क of कपड़ा, then say it again with a puff of breath released on the release: that puff is the whole difference, and it is the difference ख records.

The sign is built under the headstroke like every sign so far, with two parts side by side and the vertical stem closing it on the right.

Your turn

Trace ख once and copy it once. Write क beside it. Say the pair aloud with a hand in front of your mouth: the breath moves your hand on ख and not on क. Cover both, wait five seconds, and write ख from that breath cue.

Before you move on

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

26.5 दिखावो — the asking word on the page

Say show it, write ख, then write wind.

What to know first

दि + खा + वो → दिखावो — dikhāvo — show it

Three groups, one for each beat you already hear. ि is written before द and read after it, the order you first met in मंदिर. वो is the व of हवा with the ो of घोड़ो.

Your turn

Read the three groups once. Cover the word, wait five seconds, and write it. Check the ि stands to the left of द and that ख carries ा.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

26.6 Retrieve this and show it

Recall the seven-word food payoff, then write tea and य.

Your turn

Hear both words in both orders and give each meaning. Read two cards. Write both from sound, then circle the one sign in them that is new this chapter.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

26.7 Hear ye kapṛā dikhāvo — show me this cloth

Say clothes and goods, then write both.

What to know first

ye kapṛā dikhāvo — show me this cloth

Three words, and you already own all three. Point first, name the thing second, ask last: that order does not change when the noun changes.

Hear the line twice. Say it once with your hand out, as if the cloth were on the counter in front of you.

The source prints dikhāvo with its own objects. Here it takes a noun this book has already taught, so nothing in the line is unfamiliar except the joining.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

26.8 ये कपड़ा दिखावो। — a whole line, no new sign

Say show me this cloth, then write expensive.

What to know first

ये | कपड़ा | दिखावो।

Three written words, each one already written on its own in an earlier lesson. The full stop is the । you first met in पाछे मिलसू. Nothing here is new but the joining, which is the point of the chapter.

Your turn

Read the line once. Cover it for ten seconds and write all three words. Open the model and repair only the word that changed, then rewrite that word alone.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

26.9 Payoff — one request, three counters

Recall the seven-word shopping payoff, the five-word transport payoff, and the seven-word food payoff.

Your turn

The middle word is the only one that changes.

1. Identify which of the three lines you heard.
2. Produce all three from meaning cues alone.
3. Read three printed lines and say which counter each belongs at.

4. Write all three from dictation, without a model.

Pass each skill separately. Asking to see something is one move; asking what it costs, saying it is too dear, and settling on a price are still untaught.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

26.10 Close the writing loop for ख

Recall the three-counter request payoff, then say rickshaw and flatbread.

Your turn

Without a model, write four single signs from sound cues: ख, य, श, ट. Three of those four have been on the page for chapters without being asked for on their own, which is why they are here.

Then write दिखावो, ये, रिक्शा, रोटी, and चाय from dictation. Repair only the missed unit and rewrite its word once.

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Unicode Devanagari chart.

Chapter 27

How Much Is This? No New Signs

Modes: 🗣️ voice (8) 👁️ eyes (1) 🖱️ Hands-free start: first 1 of 9 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can ask the price of one named thing and ask for the total at the end, at a shop counter, a food stall, or a rickshaw, using no Devanagari sign I have not already written.

The asking word arrives by ear, joins two source-printed price questions that add no new sign, and the first of them is then run unchanged over a shopping word, a food word, and a transport word in four separately scored skills.

27.1 Hear kitṇo — how much

Recall the three-counter request payoff. Say price and weather, then write both and point to the ँ inside one of them.

What to know first

kitṇo — how much

Three beats: ki-tṇo, said as two in ordinary speech. The ण is the retroflex n already heard inside pāṇī, made with the tongue curled back.

You have known bhāv, price, since Chapter 18. kitṇo is what you say when you want somebody to tell you one.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

27.2 कितणो — the question word on the page

Say how much, write ग, then write heat.

What to know first

कि + त + णो → कितणो — kitno — how much

Every unit is old. The ण is the same retroflex sign that sits in the middle of पाणी, and it is what makes this word Marwadi rather than the Hindi form a reader may expect. Write पाणी and कितणो one under the other and check that the ण is drawn the same way in both.

Your turn

Look at कितणो, cover it, wait five seconds, and write it. Check the ण sits before क and that the last sign carries ो.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

27.3 Hear ye kitne kū hai? — how much is this?

Say item and cold and write both, then write ड and है on their own.

What to know first

ye kitne kū hai? — how much is this?

Four words, three of which you own: ye points, kitne is the asking word from the last lesson, and hai is the is you have said since Chapter 5. Between them sits kū, one short beat that does the work English does with for.

The asking word arrives as kitne, not kitno. Marwadi bends the ending of that word before kū, exactly as the source prints it; learn the whole line as one heard shape now and the bending will be taught on its own later.

Hear it twice. Say it once with your hand on the thing you are asking about.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

27.4 ये कितने कू है? — the price question on the page

Say how much is this, write shop, then write ू on its own.

What to know first

ये | कितने | कू | है?

Four written words. ये and है you have written before; कितने is last lesson's कितनी with े where ो stood; कू is क carrying the long ू you first drew for मिलसू.

Your turn

Read the line once. Cover it for ten seconds and write all four words. Open the model and repair only the word that changed, then rewrite that word alone.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

27.5 Retrieve the asking word and its question

Recall the three-word food payoff, write ट, then write hard wheat rolls.

Your turn

Hear the word alone and the whole question, in both orders, and give each meaning. Read two cards. Write both from sound. Then say the request from the last chapter and this question one after the other, in that order, as they would actually fall at a counter.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

27.6 Hear ye kitṇo huā? — how much altogether?

Recall the five-word shopping payoff, then say money and goods and write both.

What to know first

ye kitṇo huā? — how much is that altogether?

The same three-word shape, with huā where kū hai stood. The asking word keeps its own ending here: kitṇo, not kitṇe.

The two questions do different jobs. ye kitṇe kū hai? asks the price of one thing while you are still deciding. ye kitṇo huā? asks for the total once you have stopped choosing. Hear both, one after the other, and say which one comes last.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

27.7 ये कित्णो हुआ? — the total question on the page

Write आ on its own, then write formal thanks, then write the price question from the last lesson.

What to know first

ये | कित्णो | हुआ?

Three written words, all made of old parts. हुआ is ह carrying the short ु of दुकान, followed by the standing आ you wrote for आभार. This is the first word in the track where a full independent vowel stands inside a word rather than starting one.

Your turn

Read the line once. Cover it for ten seconds and write the three words. Check that हुआ keeps its ु below the first sign and its आ at full height.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

27.8 Payoff — one price question, three counters

Recall the three-word shopping payoff, the three-word transport payoff, and the five-word food payoff.

Your turn

Only the second word changes.

1. Identify which of the three counters you heard the question asked at.
2. Produce all three from meaning cues alone.
3. Read three printed lines and match each to its counter.
4. Write all three from dictation, then write the total question once.

Pass each skill separately. You can now ask to see a thing and ask what it costs. Understanding the answer, saying it is too dear, and settling on a price are still untaught.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

27.9 Close the writing loop for ू, ण and आ

Recall the three-counter price payoff, say water, then write ख.

Your turn

Without a model, write four single signs from sound cues: ू, ण, आ, ई. This chapter added no sign of its own, so the four it borrowed most are the four it has to prove.

Then write कितणो, पाणी, पाछे मिलसू, and both price questions from dictation. Repair only the missed unit and rewrite its word once.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Unicode Devanagari chart.

Chapter 28

Too Dear: The Answer and the Counter

Modes: 🗣️ voice (11) 👁️ eyes (3) 🖱️ Hands-free start: first 1 of 14 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can say that something is very expensive and ask for it a little cheaper, completing a three-turn bargaining exchange without learning a single new Devanagari sign.

A strengthener, a softener, and a second asking word each arrive by ear before their spelling, join two source-printed lines, and close as a three-turn exchange scored separately in listening, speaking, reading, and writing.

28.1 Hear ghaṇo — very

Recall the price payoff, the request payoff, and the six-word weather payoff, then say expensive and cheap.

What to know first

ghaṇo — very

Two beats. The first carries the breathed gh of ghar; the second carries the same retroflex ṇ as kitṇo and pāṇī.

The source prints it in front of a description, where English puts very: the food is ghaṇo tasty. Put it in front of mahaṇigo and you have said more than that a thing costs money: you have said it costs too much, which is the whole reason a bargain begins.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

28.2 घणो — very, on the page

Say very, then write home and clarified butter.

What to know first

घ + णो → घणो — ghaṇo — very

Three signs, none of them new. Write घर, घी, and घणो one under the other: the same घ opens all three. Then write कितणो beside घणो and check the णो at the end is drawn the same way in both.

Your turn

Look at घणो, cover it, wait five seconds, and write it from the sound.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

28.3 Hear ye ghaṇo mahaṅgo hai — this is very expensive

Say the price question, write very and expensive, then say and write the sweet crumbled wheat dessert.

What to know first

ye ghaṇo mahaṅgo hai — this is very expensive

Four words, every one of them already yours. ye points, ghaṇo strengthens, mahaṅgo describes, hai closes. The order is fixed: the strengthener always comes before the word it strengthens.

Say it once flat, as a fact, and once slowly, the way you would actually say it across a counter when you mean to keep talking. The words do not change; the pace does, and the pace is what tells a seller a bargain has begun.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

28.4 ये घणो महंगो है। — the reply on the page

Say this is very expensive, write temple, then write ख.

What to know first

ये | घणो | महंगो | है।

Four written words, each written before. The dot above महंगो is the same ं that sits in मंदिर; it is the only mark in the line that is easy to drop, so check for it last.

Your turn

Read the line once. Cover it for ten seconds and write all four words. Open the model, check the dot first, and repair only the word that changed.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

28.5 Retrieve the question and the reply

Recall the seven-word food payoff, write य, write lentils, then write the total question from the last chapter.

Your turn

Hear the two lines in the wrong order and say which one has to come first. Give both meanings. Read two cards. Write both from sound, one under the other, and read the pair aloud as a single exchange.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

28.6 Hear thorū — a little

Recall the three-word transport payoff, then say cart and bus and write both.

What to know first

thorū — a little

Two beats. The first is the breathed th of thelā; the middle carries the flapped r you already say inside kaprā and ghorō.

Hold it against ghaṇo, which you learned four lessons ago. ghaṇo makes a word bigger; thorū makes an amount smaller. A seller hears the difference at once, and it is the difference between complaining about a price and offering to meet it.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

28.7 थोड़ु — a little, on the page

Say a little, then write clothes and horse.

What to know first

थो + ड़ु → थोड़ु — thorū — a little

Three of this track's most easily confused marks meet in four signs. ड़ is ड़ with the nukta under it, exactly as in कपड़ा and घोड़ा; the short ु hangs beneath it. Write कपड़ा, घोड़ा, and थोड़ु in a column and check that all three dots sit at the same height.

Your turn

Look at थोड़ु, cover it, wait five seconds, and write it. Check the dot, then the ु below it.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

28.8 Hear karo — make it

Recall the seven-word shopping payoff, then write a little and cheap.

What to know first

karo — make it; do it

Two beats, and the ending is one you have already heard. Say dikhāvo and karo one after the other: both close on the same -o, because both are the same kind of asking word, said to one person across a counter.

dikhāvo asks somebody to show you a thing. karo asks them to make something so — and what they are to make it, you say in front of the word.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

28.9 करो — make it, on the page

Say make it, write राम, write ख, then write how much and very.

What to know first

क + रो → करो — karo — make it

Three signs, and the middle one is र, the very first sign this book taught. Set करो beside ख and say both: क and ख differ only by breath, and only one of them belongs in this word.

Your turn

Look at करो, cover it, wait five seconds, and write it from the sound. Check that you wrote क and not ख.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

28.10 Hear thorū sasto karo — make it a little cheaper

Say this is very expensive, then say item and cheap and write both.

What to know first

thorū sasto karo — make it a little cheaper

Three words, all yours: thorū shrinks the amount, sasto is the sastā you learned in Chapter 19, and karo asks.

The source prints sasto here, with -o rather than the -ā the earlier lesson taught. Both forms are used; the ending shifts with what the word is describing. Learn the printed line as it stands, and treat sastā and sasto as the same word wearing two endings rather than two different words.

Say the whole exchange in order: ask the price, say it is too much, then this.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

28.11 थोड़ु सस्तो करो। — the counter-offer on the page

Write ू on its own, then write wife and item, and point to the vowel-killer in each.

What to know first

थोड़ु | सस्तो | करो।

Three written words. सस्तो is the सस्ता of Chapter 19 with ो where ा stood; its vowel-killer between the two स does not move. The stop at the end is the ल you have written since Chapter 9.

Your turn

Read the line once. Cover it for ten seconds and write all three words. Open the model and check two marks first: the dot under ड़ and the vowel-killer inside सस्तो. Repair only the word that changed.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

28.12 Retrieve a little and make it

Recall the five-word transport payoff, then write vehicle and very.

Your turn

Hear each word alone, out of its line, and give its meaning. Read two cards. Write both from sound. Then rebuild the whole counter-offer from those two words plus the one you already had, and say it once at speaking pace.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

28.13 Payoff — ask, react, counter

Recall the price payoff and the seven-word shopping payoff, then write clothes.

Your turn

Three turns, in this order and no other.

1. Hear the three lines shuffled and put them back in order.
2. Produce all three from meaning cues, as one continuous exchange.
3. Read the three printed lines and say who speaks which.
4. Write all three from dictation, without a model.

Pass each skill separately. You can now open a price, react to it, and make one counter-offer. Hearing a number in reply, agreeing a final price, and paying are still untaught.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

28.14 Close the writing loop for ङ, ्ञ and ं

Recall the three-turn bargaining payoff, say expensive, then write ख.

Your turn

Three marks change a word without adding a letter, and all three are easy to lose. Write each on its own from a spoken cue: the dot under a letter, the vowel-killer, the dot above the headstroke.

Then write थोड़, कपड़ा, पत्नी, बच्चा, and महंगो from dictation and mark which of the three you used in each. Finish with both lines of this chapter. Repair only the missed mark and rewrite its word once.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Unicode Devanagari chart.

Chapter 29

Take the Money: Closing the Bargain

Modes:  voice (11)  eyes (3)  Hands-free start: first 1 of 14 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can ask for a final price and hand over the money, so that a purchase runs from asking to see a thing all the way to paying for it, without learning a new Devanagari sign.

Take and give arrive as a one-beat pair, the word for final joins them, and the two closing lines of a purchase are scored separately in listening, speaking, reading, and writing.

29.1 Hear lo — take it

Recall the bargaining payoff and the three-word shopping payoff, then write price and make it.

What to know first

lo — take it

One beat, and the third asking word in this track. Say dikhāvo, karo, lo in a row: all three end on the same -o, and that ending is your signal that a word is asking somebody to do something.

lo is the word that closes a deal rather than opening one. It is what the person handing something over says, and what you say when you accept.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.2 लो — take it, on the page

Say take it, then write cloud and cart.

What to know first

ल + ो → लो — lo — take it

Two signs. The ल ends बादल and opens ठेला; here it stands alone with the ो you put on the end of करो.

Your turn

Look at लो, cover it, wait five seconds, and write it from the sound. Write करो beneath it and check that both end with the same mark.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.3 Hear paisā le lo — take the money

Recall the five-word shopping payoff, say the counter-offer, then write goods, money, and take it.

What to know first

paisā le lo — take the money

paisā has been yours since Chapter 14 and has had nothing to do until now. Here it is what you are handing over, and le lo is the taking, said as two short beats that run together in ordinary speech.

Say the three turns you already have, then this one. That is a whole purchase, from asking to see a thing to paying for it, and every word in it was taught before this chapter except lo.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.4 पैसा ले लो। — the payment line on the page

Write ै on its own, then write what and this.

What to know first

पैसा | ले | लो।

The same ल stands twice in a row, once with ै and once with ो. Read the pair slowly and watch only the mark: it is the mark, not the letter, that tells the two words apart.

Your turn

Read the line once. Cover it for ten seconds and write all three words. Open the model and check the two marks on the two ल before anything else.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.5 Retrieve take it and the payment line

Recall the three-counter request payoff. Write the request itself, then write how much and clarified butter.

Your turn

Hear the word alone and the whole line, in both orders, and give each meaning. Read two cards. Write both from sound, then say the line at speaking pace with your hand out as if the money were in it.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.6 Hear do — give

Recall the seven-word shopping payoff, write shop, then write take it.

What to know first

do — give

One beat, like lo, and the same -o ending as every asking word so far. The two are a pair worth holding together: lo asks somebody to take, do asks them to give.

Say them alternately, four times, with the matching gesture each time. If the gesture stops matching the word, slow down until it does.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.7 दो — give, on the page

Say give, then write lentils and paternal grandfather.

What to know first

द + ो → दो — do — give

Two signs, and the द is the one that opens दाल and दादा. Write दो and लो side by side: same mark, different letter, opposite meanings. That pair is worth keeping on one line in your notes.

Your turn

Look at the pair, cover it, wait five seconds, and write both words from their meanings rather than their sounds: first give, then take it.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.8 Hear ākhrī — final

Write the counter-offer, then write ख, horse, and give.

What to know first

ākhrī — final; last

Three beats. The second carries the breathed kh you first met inside dikhāvo; say both words in a row and check that the breath falls in the same place.

A counter-offer can be answered with another counter-offer forever. ākhrī is the word that says this one is the end of it, and it is why the question in the next lesson gets a different kind of answer from the first price question.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.9 आखरी — final, on the page

Say final, then write formal thanks and heat.

What to know first

आ + ख + री → आखरी — ākhrī — final

Four signs, all secure. The word opens on the standing आ of आभार, and its second sign is the ख you traced for दिखावो. Write दिखावो and आखरी one under the other and check that the ख is drawn the same way in both.

Your turn

Look at आखरी, cover it, wait five seconds, and write it from the sound. Check the standing आ is at full height and the ी reaches above the headstroke.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.10 Hear kitṇo ākhrī bhāv doge? — what final price?

Say the first price question, then write how much, price, final, and give.

What to know first

kitṇo ākhrī bhāv doge? — what final price will you give?

Four words, four of them yours in some form. kitṇo asks, ākhrī closes, bhāv is the price you have been able to name since Chapter 18, and doge is the do of the last lesson with an ending that puts it in the future: not give, but will you give.

Learn the line as one heard shape. The ending on doge is real Marwadi machinery and it gets its own lesson later; taking it whole now costs nothing, because do has already been taught on its own.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.11 कितणो आखरी भाव दोगे? — the closing question on the page

Write भ and ग on their own, then write brother.

What to know first

कितणो | आखरी | भाव | दोगे?

Four written words. Three you have written alone; the fourth, दोगे, is the दो of two lessons ago with गे added. Write दो and दोगे one above the other so the added part is the only difference on the page.

Your turn

Read the line once. Cover it for ten seconds and write all four words. Open the model and repair only the word that changed, then rewrite that word alone.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.12 Retrieve give and final

Recall the five-word shopping payoff, write cheap, then write the total question.

Your turn

Hear each word out of its line and give its meaning. Read three cards: दो, लो, आखरी. Write all three from sound. Then rebuild the closing question from them and say it once at speaking pace.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.13 Payoff — close the bargain and pay

Recall the three-turn bargaining payoff, then write money, price, and goods.

Your turn

Two turns, and they only work in this order.

1. Hear both lines and say which one the buyer says and which one ends the exchange.
2. Produce both from meaning cues, straight after the three turns of Chapter 28.
3. Read both printed lines and point to the two words that mean give and take.
4. Write both from dictation, without a model.

Pass each skill separately. A five-turn purchase now runs end to end. Nothing here understands a number: the amount a seller actually names is still untaught, and so is refusing the final price and walking away.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

29.14 Close the writing loop for े, ो and ी

Recall the closing payoff, then write paternal grandmother, maternal grandmother, and cart.

Your turn

Write the three marks on their own from spoken cues: above the headstroke, after the stem, and reaching above the line. Add ख from its breath cue.

Then write लो, दो, ले, आखरी, and both lines of this chapter from dictation. In this chapter a mark rather than a letter often carries the meaning, so check every mark before you check any letter.

Chapter 30

Bring It Over: The Food Counter's Own Word

Modes: 🗣️ voice (6) 👁️ eyes (1) 🖱️ Hands-free start: first 1 of 7 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can order any of the seven food words this book has taught, and tell the five asking words apart by the job each one does.

The asking word a food counter needs arrives by ear, joins a food noun in the shortest complete sentence this track writes, and the five asking words taught so far are then separated by job in four separately scored skills.

30.1 Hear lāvo — bring it

Recall the closing payoff and the three-word transport payoff, then write bus and make it.

What to know first

lāvo — bring it

Two beats, and the fourth asking word in this track. Say them in the order you met them: dikhāvo, karo, lo, do, lāvo. Every one ends the same way.

lāvo is the one a food counter needs. You do not ask for tea to be shown to you; you ask for it to be brought. The source prints it with a food word, which is exactly where the next lesson puts it.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

30.2 लावो — bring it, on the page

Say bring it, then write wind and show it.

What to know first

ला + वो → लावो — lāvo — bring it

Three signs, none new. Its ending वो is the same one that closes दिखावो. Write लो and लावो one under the other: same first letter, and everything after it is what separates taking from bringing.

Your turn

Look at the pair, cover it, wait five seconds, and write both from their meanings: first take it, then bring it.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

30.3 Hear chāy lāvo — bring tea

Recall the seven-word food payoff, say the request from Chapter 26, then write the sweet crumbled wheat dessert, tea, and bring it.

What to know first

chāy lāvo — bring tea

Two words. The food comes first and the asking word last, the same order you already use in ye kappā dikhāvo, with the pointing word left out because you are not choosing between cups in front of you.

Any of the seven food words fits the first slot. Say the line three times, with chāy, then roṭī, then dāl, and notice that nothing else in it moves.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

30.4 चाय लावो। — the order on the page

Write ट, then write flatbread and hard wheat rolls.

What to know first

चाय | लावो।

Two written words and a stop. Now write the same line twice more, replacing चाय with रोटी and then with बाटी. Only the first word changes, and you have written all three of those words before.

Your turn

Read the line once. Cover it for ten seconds and write it. Then write the two variants from memory and check that लावो is identical in all three.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

30.5 Retrieve bring it against the other four

Write very and a little, then say which one makes a description stronger.

Your turn

Five asking words are now in play. Hear them shuffled and give each meaning. Read five cards: दिखावो, करो, लो, दो, लावो. Write all five from sound, then write the tea order and say which of the five it uses.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

30.6 Payoff — five asking words, five jobs

Recall the three-counter request payoff and write the request itself.

Your turn

All five end in the same sound and none of them is interchangeable.

1. Hear all five shuffled and name each one's job.
2. Produce all five from their jobs alone, without the sounds.
3. Read five cards and match each to one line you already know.
4. Write all five from dictation, then write the tea order, the counter-offer, and the closing question that asks for a final price.

Pass each skill separately. Five ways to ask is not five ways to be understood: refusing, thanking somebody for doing it, and asking again more softly are all still untaught.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

30.7 Close the writing loop for ल, व and च

Recall the five-word asking payoff, then write child and wind.

Your turn

Write five single signs from sound cues: ल, व, च, छ, ख. Two of those five are breathed partners of the two before them; say all five and mark which two carry the breath.

Then write लावो, लो, दिखावो, चाय लावो, and पाछे मिलसू from dictation. Repair only the missed sign and rewrite its word once.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6; Unicode Devanagari chart.

Chapter 31

One Exchange, Three Counters

Modes: 🗣️ voice (6) 🗣️ Hands-free start: all 6 lessons.

By the end of this chapter: I can run one five-turn counter exchange over the shopping, transport, and food words this book has already taught, changing nothing but the noun.

Each of the three noun sets is run through the exchange in turn, the five least-drilled signs are retrieved alone, and the whole five-turn exchange then passes separately in listening, speaking, reading, and writing.

31.1 The shopping map, inside the exchange

Recall all three shopping payoffs in the order they were earned: three words, five words, seven words.

Your turn

Take the seven shopping words one at a time. For each one, say its meaning, then put it into the request from Chapter 26 and the price question from Chapter 27. Two of the seven do not fit a request slot at all: name them and say why.

Then write all seven from dictation, and write the two lines you built with the word that fits them best.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

31.2 The transport map, inside the exchange

Recall both transport payoffs, say lentils, then write the total question.

Your turn

Take the five transport words one at a time. Say each meaning, then price it with the question from Chapter 27 and answer with the counter-offer from Chapter 28. A fare is bargained exactly like a price, which is why no new line is needed here.

Then write all five from dictation, and write the price question with the word you would actually use standing at a roadside.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9.

31.3 The food map, inside the ordering line

Recall all three food payoffs in the order they were earned, then write ढ and ढ.

Your turn

Take the seven food words one at a time. Say each meaning, then order it with the line from Chapter 30 and price it with the question from Chapter 27. Only the first word of the order changes; the asking word never does.

Then write all seven from dictation, and write three complete orders: the one you would ask for first, the one you would ask for last, and the drink.

Before you move on

Source: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6.

31.4 Five signs, on their own

Recall the six-word weather payoff, then write weather, heat, and cold.

Your turn

Some signs in this track have been read a hundred times inside words and asked for on their own only once. This lesson asks for them alone, which is the only way to know whether they were learned.

Write each from a spoken cue, with nothing else on the line: ख, ट, श, ड, ौ, ग, ड, ु, ई. Then write one word that carries each: आखरी, रोटी, रिव्शा, थोडु, मौसम, गर्मी, ठंडी, दुकान, घी. Repair only the missed sign and rewrite its word once.

Before you move on

Source: Unicode Devanagari chart.

31.5 Payoff — one exchange, three counters

Recall the five payoffs of this slice in order, then write clarified butter.

Your turn

Five turns, and the only thing that changes between counters is the noun.

1. Hear the five turns shuffled and put them in order, twice: once with a shopping noun, once with a transport noun.
2. Produce the whole exchange from meaning cues at a food stall, using the ordering line in place of the first turn.
3. Read all five printed turns and say who speaks each.
4. Write the whole exchange from dictation, without a model.

Pass each skill separately. This is one function taught once and reused over three noun sets, not three exchanges learned three times. It still stops where numbers begin: no amount a seller names can yet be understood, and refusing the final price and leaving is untaught.

Before you move on

Sources: Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 9; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 6; Marwari Pathshala, Lesson 10.

31.6 Close the writing loop for ख

Recall the five-turn exchange payoff, then write vegetables and clarified butter.

Your turn

Write ख and क from breath cues alone, with nothing else on the line. Then write four words from dictation and mark which of the two each one uses: दिखावो, आखरी, करो, कितणो. Two take the breath and two do not.

Finish by writing every word this slice added, from meaning cues rather than sounds: ये, लो, दो, लावो, घणो, थोड़, and the five turns of the exchange. Repair only what was missed and rewrite that alone.

Before you move on

Pronunciation & Writing

Reference

This is a lookup page, never a prerequisite gate.

The sounds in Chapter 1

- r in rām is a brief tongue-tip tap, not the English bunched or retroflex r. Say a quick Spanish-style single r if that is familiar.
- ā is a steady open vowel held longer than short a. The macron in transliteration marks length; Devanagari writes it with ा after a consonant.
- m and s are close to English m and s.

The writing rule you need first

Devanagari consonants carry a built-in short a. Thus र is ra and स is sa. The right-side mark ा changes that vowel to long ā: रा rā, सा sā. The chapter teaches only those signs and combines them as राम-राम सा.

The lessons ask learners to copy visible forms before they claim a stroke order. Handwriting conventions vary across schools, so a directional stroke sequence will be added only with a specific source. For Marwari-specific Devanagari history and characters, see the Unicode proposal on Devanagari letters for Marwari.

Review Questions

Try these without looking ahead. Every prompt comes from the same canonical lesson data as its chapter. Answers begin in the next section.

Chapter 1

1.1 र — one sign, and the beginning of a greeting

What sound does र carry?

1.2 ा — make ra into rā

What does ा do to the built-in vowel of a consonant?

1.3 राम — your first whole written word

Build and name the written word rām from its three visible pieces.

1.4 स — a second consonant

Which sign is sa: र or स?

1.5 सा — reuse a mark instead of learning a new rule

Write sā by adding the long-vowel mark to स.

1.6 राम-राम सा — your first complete Marwadi greeting

Give the respectful Marwadi greeting taught in this lesson.

1.7 Practice — hear it, answer it, write it

You hear rām-rām sā. Write the respectful reply from memory.

Chapter 2

2.1 आ — long ā at the beginning

Which sign writes long ā at the beginning of a word?

2.2 भ — bha, with a small breath

Read the new sign भ and name its sound.

2.3 आभार — formal thanks, built from known signs

Build the formal Marwadi/Rajasthani word for thanks from आ + भ + ा + र.

2.4 Practice — receive a kindness, offer formal thanks

You receive formal help. Write the one-word thanks response from memory.

Chapter 33.1 ह — ha, one new sign

Read the one new sign ह and name its sound.

3.2 ः — a small dot for the nasal ending

Which small mark completes the attested spelling हं?

3.3 हां सा — a respectful yes

Write the respectful Marwadi yes from ह + ा + ः, followed by the respect word सा.

3.4 Listen and answer — yes without the page

You hear hā(n) sā. What social move did the speaker make?

3.5 Practice — hear a yes, give a yes

From the spoken cue hā(n) sā alone, write the respectful affirmative.

Chapter 44.1 Hear pāṇī — meaning before spelling

You hear pāṇī with no written cue. What does it mean?

4.2 प — pa, the first sign

Write pa, then add the familiar long-ā mark to make pā.

4.3 ण — curled-back ṇa

Write the sign that carries the curled-back ṇ sound in this Marwadi word.

4.4 ी — the long-ī mark

Add the long-ī mark to ण and write the result.

4.5 पाणी — join the word you already know by ear

Join पा and णी, then give the word's meaning.

4.6 Practice — hear, say, read, and write water

From the spoken cue pāṇī alone, write the Marwadi word and give its meaning.

Chapter 5

5.1 Hear mhāro — one small word for “my”

You hear mhāro with no text. What small English word does it supply before a masculine noun?

5.2 ् — stop the built-in vowel

What does ् do under म्?

5.3 ो — turn ra into ro

Add the visible o sign to र and read the result.

5.4 म्हारी — the heard word becomes readable

After hiding the model, write mhāro and give its meaning.

5.5 Hear nām — name

You hear nām. What does it mean?

5.6 न — a front-of-the-mouth n

Write the sign that begins nām, name.

5.7 नाम — name, with no new sign

After hiding the model, write nām and give its meaning.

5.8 Hear hai — the small closing word

What job does heard hai do at the end of the name statement?

5.9 ै — turn ha into hai

Add the new sign to ह and read the result.

5.10 म्हारी नाम राम है। — say one name

From the heard cue mhāro nām rām hai alone, write the complete Marwadi statement.

Chapter 6

6.1 Hear thāro — turn from my to your

Sources for this starter edition

The opening exchange is attested in Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi's Jāgtī Jot, August–September 2018. Its April 2004 issue uses आभार while expressing gratitude in Rajasthani prose. Rajasthan Foundation's official language page places Marwari among the major forms of Rajasthani. The lesson files carry the direct links. Chapters 1 and 2 are generated from those canonical files. Chapter 3 adds a scholarly Marwari text edition that identifies hā(n)-sā as the polite affirmative and an April–May 2019 Jāgtī Jot dialogue that uses हाँ सा in context. Chapter 4 uses SIL International's 2015 Marwari–English Dictionary for पाणी, “water,” and Turner's comparative dictionary for its Indo-Aryan history. Chapters 5 and 6 use the Ek Bharat Shreshtha Bharat language report for the exact name-question and name-answer pair, cross-checked against SIL's dictionary and Rajasthan Sahitya Akademi prose for the component forms. Chapters 7 and 8 use Marwari Pathshala's explicitly polite/formal wellbeing question and its documented reply, with SIL's dictionary archive as the variety and orthography reference. Chapters 10–13 use Marwari Pathshala Lesson 4 for the family and relationship labels, while retaining the source's documented alternatives instead of presenting one household vocabulary as universal. Chapters 14–15 use Marwari Pathshala Lesson 5 for the direction and travel vocabulary; they teach words only and leave the still-untaught location question explicit in the planning ledger. Chapter 16 uses Marwari Pathshala Lesson 7 for three weather nouns. It reuses the established script inventory and does not claim that a weather question or complete weather exchange has been taught. Chapter 17 uses the same source for weather, heat, and cold. It isolates the au mark, ग, and ङ before independent decoding, while retaining the source's broad heat/summer and cold/winter glosses as labelled scope notes. Chapters 18–19 use Marwari Pathshala Lesson 9 for shop, item, price, cheap, and goods. They isolate short ु before the two words that need it and leave the source's longer price questions and bargaining phrases for later chapters. Chapter 20 uses the same source for clothes and expensive. It isolates the nukta before कपड़ा and reuses familiar signs for महंगो. Chapters 21–22 use Marwari Pathshala Lesson 10 for bus, vehicle, cart, rickshaw, and horse. They isolate only श, reuse ड़, and leave ticket, timetable, location, and transport problem-report exchanges for later work.
